First Baby To Juncks

Adam Casey Junck, and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Ray Junck of Carroll, is this year's first-baby-of-the-year winner.

Adam was born about 4:10 p.m. Friday at Providence Medical Center. He weighed 7 lbs., 10 ounces.

Because he was the first born this year, he and his parents will receive several gifts from local merchants. More details and a picture of the newborn will be in Thursday's Wayne Herald.

More Water By Summer

Council Takes Steps to Improve Water

Meeting in special session Thursday night, the City Council put wheels in motion for numerous improvements in the city's water system by summertime.

APPROVED WAS a motion authorizing the city clerk and city attorney to begin negotiations for acquisition of options on land for a new well, test wells and a storage tank, and to acquire the related easements.

The Council made the first of several decisions it will have to make in order to revamp the city's water system, according to Dennis Hirschbrunner, engineer for Bruce Gilmore & Associates. Hirschbrunner provided the Council with about an hour of information and recommendations.

It has been little secret that the city's water system — its sources and its distribution system — is substandard in some areas for fire prevention. Several parts of the city experience water pressure problems, and new housing construction in the east half of the city will add to that problem, Hirschbrunner explained.

THE INITIAL steps taken Thursday night are the first in a series of projects or phases that Hirschbrunner has suggested are needed to bring the local water system into the modern world. Despite an apparent drop in population, the city is expanding its housing numbers and more and better water is needed.

Hirschbrunner said that depending upon what improvements the Council wants, the final price tag could reach as high as $400,000. However, the Council's bonding expert from First Mid America of Omaha has said the city does have the solvency to handle the cost.

As Hirschbrunner pointed out, the city plans to run the improvements on a revenue basis so the city does not have to dip into its general fund for subsidy.

SHORT-RANGE plans that Hirschbrunner has recommended include construction of a new well, the drilling of additional test wells, improvements in the control and monitoring system and numerous improvements in the actual water distribution system.

The well will be in the corner of Hank Overin's property about a half mile east of the Municipal Golf Course. The test wells will be drilled in a variety of locations to determine the deepest part of the aquifer so the city will have the benefit of the most water.

Improvements in the control and monitoring systems will provide an alarm system and fail safe instruments that tell if the wells are running and how much water is being pumped. Currently, the control system now tells personnel only if the green light is working, and not if the pump is working.

THE GILMORE engineer told the Council that all pump modifications ordered by the Council several weeks ago have been accomplished. Pumps in all wells are as deep as possible.

Late last summer, he reminded Council members, the extended hot and dry weather resulted in several of the city's wells pumping air rather than water. The level of water in the aquifer is, in fact, not being replenished as quickly as in wetter years. Therefore, there was a water deficiency until the wells were lowered.

Wells Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7 were not providing enough water to keep a static level of water in the city's only storage tank. By the end of the summer, wells Nos. 6 and 7 were supporting virtually the entire water system of the city after the other wells became inefficient. Now that the modifications have been made, the city has returned to its early summer capacity of about 1,900 gallons per minute, the engineer explained.

HOWEVER, DURING peak demands in the summer, the fire flow demands can not be met, Hirschbrunner said, unless several of the short-range projects are completed by hot weather.

By adding a new well, the system would be able to maintain 1,925 gallons per minute and would provide the needed pressure for fire flow demands. However, the problems of water pressure in areas a great distance away from the storage tank (located on the northwest edge of Greenwood Cemetery) would still exist.

The addition of a storage tank in the northeast part of the city, and subsequent improvements in the distribution system in that area, would improve water pressure in the southern parts of the city, he continued.

Water pressure is provided only because of the storage tank near the cemetery.

HIRSCHBRUNNER said Layne Western Drilling Co. recently completed a pair of test wells, and found one of them to be "super." The well on Overin's property will provide from 500 to 550 gallons per minute of high-quality water. The other — west of the drive-in theater — turned out to be of poor quality and was abandoned.

From a philosophical standpoint, the Council needs to consider the acquisition of land for construction of wells over the deepest part of the aquifer. By doing that, the city will guarantee that it has a lock on the deepest wells for the longest period of time, Hirschbrunner said.

The Council is expected to choose which projects it wants to pursue in the short-range program. The engineer said bids should be let in the next 30 to 60 days for the projects to be completed by hot weather.

ALL ACTIONS were unanimous, and all Council members were present.

4th Arrest Involving Drug Case

Another Winside resident has been charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana with the intent to deliver.

DIANE COYLE, 24, Winside, was arrested Thursday morning by an investigator with the Division of Drug Control, Nebraska State Patrol, and charged with three drug counts.

This brings the number of persons arrested recently on drug charges to four. All are alleged to be involved in the same drug scheme. Dale Busskohl, Vernon Sarha and Charles Weible were arrested in December and charged with drug related crimes.

Coyle was arrested as a result of information obtained from the arrest of the three men Dec. 19.

According to the information filed in Wayne County Court, Coyle is charged with possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver, possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver and possession of marijuana of less than one ounce.

BOND WAS SET at $5,000 and she was released after posting $500 (or 10 percent).

According to the affidavit, Coyle is alleged to have been seen Dec. 19 by an undercover agent possessing substances alleged to be marijuana. The affidavit charges that she aided Busskohl in the sale of cocaine and of about 50 pounds of marijuana, allowed the sale of the substances in the home occupied by her and Busskohl and aided in storage of the substances.

Preliminary hearing for all four defendants has been postponed indefinitely after a continuance was granted last week. The three men were to appear Friday, but the continuance was granted.

WEIBLE IS charged with possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver and Busskohl and Sarha with possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver.

All have been released after posting bond. Defending Coyle will be David Domina of Norfolk. Weible will be defended by Vince Kirby of Norfolk. Sarha by Kirk Naylor of Lincoln and Busskohl by Robert Enz of Wayne.

Winside's Water May Be Improved

Winside, which has suffered with poor quality water for scores of years, is in the running for a government loan to eliminate the problem.

THE VILLAGE board of trustees will meet at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday with Keith Koler, an engineer with Associated Engineers of Lincoln, and the board's attorney, Robert Enz of Wayne.

The board is expected to discuss the possibility of obtaining a loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) at 5 percent interest for possible improvements in the city's water system. Work could include construction of a water treatment plant, a new water tower and at least one new well.

WINSIDE officials met in Norfolk Wednesday with FmHA representatives to discuss the possibility of a loan.

Council Sets Tuesday Session

Only a few agenda items will be handled when the City Council meets in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the City Hall.

Topics will include discussion on proposed plan and schedule of assessments for Sunnyside Subdivision, a resolution involving water and sewer rates, consideration of the Pleasantburg Second Subdivision preliminary plan, bid opening on a new police cruiser and any other such business that may come before the Council.

Those Weeds and Cracks in Your Walks Could Cause Headaches

If the Wayne Planning Commission has its way, there will be a vast improvement in the condition of sidewalks in Wayne, and areas that are without sidewalks may find themselves with new ones.

CITING a survey completed 4 1/2 years ago, the commission is asking the City Council to review the condition of sidewalks and take the appropriate action.

Planning Commission Chairman Dan Sherry, a member of the planning commission when the survey was undertaken, says it is time something is done with the sorry state of Wayne's sidewalks. The former city clerk pointed out that more and more people are walking for exercise and the condition of many sidewalks could result in serious injury.

At best, there are blocks and blocks of sidewalks that merely are nuisances, the commission feels.

RECOMMENDATIONS of the study indicate there should be sidewalks on at least one side of the street in areas where there is now no sidewalks on either side. Also, construction of sidewalks directly adjacent to the street (west side of Sherman Street from Seventh Street north) should be prohibited, the survey recommendations assert.

When the survey was started on Aug. 1, 1975, the town was divided into four quadrants with Main Street the dividing line north and south and Seventh Street the dividing line east and west.

The eight commission members, who spent several days walking every foot of sidewalk in Wayne, calculated that the town consists of about 157 square blocks with 188,400 running feet of sidewalk or more than 35 miles of sidewalk area.

WAYNE STATE College was not included in the four year old survey, nor were hundreds of feet of walks that have been added since the survey was completed. Also, the city has added numerous subdivisions and new homes since the survey.

Other findings were as follows: In the northeast quadrant, bordered by Main Street to the west, Seventh Street to the south, there were 11,100 feet without sidewalks and 2,700 feet of sidewalk that should be replaced.

In the northwest quadrant, bordered by Main Street to the east and Seventh Street to the south, there were 19,800 feet without sidewalks and 3,300 feet of sidewalks that need repair.

IN THE SOUTHEAST quadrant, bordered by Main Street to the west and seventh street to the north, there were 10,500 feet without sidewalks and 5,400 sidewalks needing repair.

In the southwest quadrant, bordered by Main Street to the east and Seventh Street to the north, there were 44,700 feet with sidewalks and 2,700 walks in poor condition.

Overall, the study found there were 87,300 feet or 44.3 percent without walks and 14,700 feet or 13.9 percent of walks that needed replacing.

Besides a review of the survey, commission members are asking the Council to enforce numerous ordinances which regulate sidewalks. Some of these are as follows:

IT IS UNLAWFUL for anyone to obstruct sidewalks by fences, gates, buildings, or structures. This includes vehicles that might be parked across walks.

It is unlawful to allow trees, branches or limbs, hedge, shrubbery, bushes, etc., to obstruct passage on any sidewalks. This includes unmowed grass growing between cracks in the walks or between individual slabs in the walks.

It is unlawful for anyone to allow snow, sleet, mud, ice or other substances to remain on sidewalks for more than 24 hours. There have been several persons fined already this year for violating this section of the municipal code.

OWNERS OF LOTS which include sidewalks are required to keep the sidewalks in good repair and in a condition reasonably safe for travel. Owners are liable for any damages or injury resulting to anyone or any object as a result of poorly kept sidewalks.

If the city deems a sidewalk to need repair, it has the authority to order the repairs made. The repairs must be made within 21 days after notice of the violation is received.

Persons wishing to construct a sidewalk are required to obtain a permit before doing so.

ALL NEW residential and business construction within most zoning districts must construct sidewalks in front of the property. If the owner fails to do so, the city may construct the sidewalk and assess the costs to the property owner.

Planning Commission members say they hope the Council will heed their requests and begin a campaign of improving local sidewalks.

SIDEWALKS SUCH AS this are the target of the Planning Commission, which hopes to have a citywide, massive program to make sidewalks safer and more easily passable. There are several city ordinances regulating sidewalks, and a survey prepared more than four years ago points to thousands of square feet of walks that need repair.

Local Economy Falls Backward

The Nebraska economy in September could perhaps best be categorized as sluggish, but the Wayne economy might best be described as slipping.

ACCORDING TO NET taxable retail sales figures released by the Bureau of Business Research, Wayne had the poorest economic showing of any of the reporting cities.

Wayne's economy in September was 37.2 percent behind the same month of a year ago. The next poorest showing was in Beatrice which recorded sales 18.1 percent behind a year ago.

On a statewide basis, real output declined 1.1 percent as measured by the University of Nebraska at Lincoln Bureau of Business Research's physical volume index. Nebraska's economy remained below peak 1979 levels but has now slipped somewhat from the July recovery level.

THE DECLINE in the state's economy was primarily attributable to a decrease in cash receipts flowing in to the agriculture sector. The ag sector recorded an August to September decrease of 5.6 percent.

The non-agriculture sector of Nebraska's economy declined by a scant .4 percent in September. Construction and manufacturing recorded increases with the distributive trade and government sector declining. Construction activity in September was 2.3 percent above the August level but remains below year-previous levels.

Since prices have increased more than 12 percent over the interval, real retail sales were down about 8 percent in September. This consumer price index on a September-to-September basis recorded a 13.8 percent increase, the commodity component of the index increasing 12.5 percent.

SOME NEBRASKA communities were able to post real gains in retail sales in September compared with year-previous levels. Nebraska City and Seward recorded the largest gains, 8.1 and 6.2 percent respectively.

Small gains in sales also were recorded in Blair, West Point, Grand Island, Ogallala and O'Neill. Real retail sales in McCook, Holdrege, York, Kimball and Scottsbluff/Gering nearly equaled year-previous levels, according to the report.

According to the bureau, non-motor vehicle sales in Wayne were $3,593,000 in September of 1979 compared to $2,758,000 in the same month of 1980. Motor vehicle sales for Wayne in September of 1979 were $778,000 and in September of 1980 were $348,000.

Retiring Postmaster Plans To Relax and Enjoy Life

When Carl Fischer retired Jan. 2 as postmaster of the Winside Post Office, he had 30 year's experience to his credit.

FISCHER STARTED at Niobrara in 1950 as clerk and clerk-in-charge, then moved to Winside where he became postmaster in August of 1972. During his tenure at Winside, he was elected to two terms as district director of the state postmasters' association.

A veteran of World War II, Fischer served in the Pacific and Korean theaters and is a charter member of the Veterans of Foreign War Post 4834 at Niobrara, American Legion Post No. 252 at Winside and the Wayne County Disabled American Veterans Chapter.

Named as a temporary replacement for Fischer at Winside is Chuck Thompson, an employee with the Wayne Post Office for 11 years.

FISCHER WILL be officer in charge at Winside for about 60 days before the district post office in Norfolk names a new postmaster.

Thompson is a 1979 graduate of Wayne State College and a grad of Wayne-Carroll High School.

Fischer says he plans to "retire and do what retirees do — enjoy life." His wife, Fern, is employed by the Winside Public Schools. His daughter, Carlyne, is a registered nurse and day supervisor in a Wyoming hospital and his son, Craig, and his wife live in Columbus.

Three Things to Remember in 1981

Richard L. Leshar, President
of the United States

We've reached that time again when the television airwaves seem to be filled with either one of two subjects: football, football and more football, or television specials describing and explaining everything of importance that occurred during the previous 12 months, and predicting what we should watch for in the months to come.

Without trying to compete with the blow-by-blow accounts of the former, or match the comprehensive commentaries of the latter, here is how I believe the highlights of 1980 may one day be described in American history books. It was the year when major forces came together and put an end to 50 years of liberalism, while placing us squarely on the road toward a new conservative age — an age that could lead to a new era of great economic progress synonymous with human progress.

Personally, I have no doubt that this has happened. As I have noted in prior columns, there is a newly found emphasis by Americans today on regaining physical fitness, restoring the importance of work, of family, of community and of renewing their faith in God — in essence, of seeking the best in themselves and in each other. What's more, this return to the so-called traditional values has been accompanied by the most sweeping upheaval in our political system in the last 50 years — one that augurs precisely that fundamental change in the direction of our government which I mentioned.

But while I am convinced we have embarked on a new course, I would be the first to admit one question remains in doubt: will the new conservative era continue to build and eventually succeed? I say this because I can already see it being threatened by three major risks.

First, an attitude of over-complacency by the public in general and the business community in particular. The attitude here is: "We won it all, so there is nothing left to do or worry about." I would argue just the opposite — never have we had a greater need for legislative and political activism originating at the grass roots.

There is all the difference in the world between enunciating legislative proposals and following through to ensure they are passed by Congress and fairly administered by the executive agencies. We would have never gotten trapped in the morass from which we are just now beginning to extricate ourselves if so many well-intentioned Americans had not simply sat back and allowed the liberals to take over the government. And no one should believe the big spenders, and environmental and regulatory extremists inside the Washington bureaucracy will now simply roll over and play dead because of the results of one election.

Second, an attitude of arrogance and extremism which makes demands that are unreasonable, unrealistic and unacceptable to the public at large. The mandate of Nov. 4 is for less government. It is for more private enterprise. However, in no way should this be interpreted as signifying less concern for a clean environment, for safety in the workplace or for honesty and reliability within the enterprise system. We are not entering an era where we virtually eliminate most government programs. Rather, the business community must take the lead in the reform of government.

Third, an attitude of over-expectation by the public at large. The election permits us to attempt a clean break with the past and to begin anew. It did not provide us with a magic wand which we can wave once to produce a painless panacea. It's been said before, but it cannot be over-emphasized that problems whose origins date more than 10 years will not be cured in one year's time. Nevertheless we can make steady progress if we get started right now and make up our minds to pursue our goals with determination.

If there is anyone who is a logical leader to accomplish this difficult but terribly important job, it is we the members of the business community. We have waited a long time for the opportunity to get America back on track, and now that we finally have it, we must not allow it to slip away. If we do, who knows how long it would be before we have another, and who can even imagine what kind of problems America would be facing then.

WELCOME

Letters from readers are welcome and encouraged. They should be timely, brief and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter on the basis of libelous material or personal vendetta.

Letters may be published with a pseudonym or with the author's name omitted if so desired. However, the writer's signature must be a part of the original letter. Unsigned letters will not be printed.

No one seems to make New Year's resolutions any more. Could it be that people are becoming more cynical and are losing their sense of humor? Or could it be that people see members of Congress breaking their resolutions and saying "what's the use?"

I carried a long list of New Year's Promises with me — and a string around my finger — right after 1980 was rung in, but couldn't bring myself to follow through.

For instance, I had resolved, once again, not to pick on those crybaby Nebraska fans who find every excuse in the book for losing just two games a season. I had resolved not to remind the Big Red they could be stuck with Chuck Fairbanks, or worse yet, Barry Switzer. Good ol' Ernie Chambers is keeping the Huskers fired up enough without my help, though.

I also had resolved not to raise the question of favoritism by the Wayne City Council involving subdivision assessment schedules. I gave serious thought to reminding them that what is good for the goose is good for the gander, and that all developers should be treated with equal fairness. What is good for Marywood Subdivision is good for Sunnyview. I was going to point out: But, alas...

A nice resolution involving the Wayne-Carroll School District board of education would have been nice, too, but finding something constructive to "resolve" would be as likely as the board taking action on any substantive issues.

Then there is the Wayne County Commissioners. I had resolved not to mention the rift going on between them and the Associate County Judge over whether or not her office should have a copying machine. She budgeted for it, they refused it. Her arguments were supported by at least one of the circuit County Judges, but the commissioners didn't budge. The County Clerk's office (that's where the commissioners meet) has a machine, and wouldn't it be interesting if the shoe was on the other foot? But no, mums the word. It is a problem they have to resolve.

Educational Service Unit No. 1, now located in downtown Wakefield, was another source for a New Year's Resolution. I had resolved this year not to pick at several items, but couldn't bring myself to it. There have been questions raised about who was responsible for not informing or misinforming board candidate Sharon Bogckenbauer that she had filed in the wrong county. She won the election but had to forfeit her victory because of the technical foul-up. Now, sources tell me, there are considerations among some board members not to appoint the runner-up in the election — Randy Shaw — but to reappoint the original board member from Wakefield, Gene Bigelow. Tsk, tsk, now, board members. Watch your step.

I had a resolution, as all of us do at one time or another, to go on a post-holiday diet. You know, eat just once each day instead of three or four times. Eat hardboiled eggs minus the salt for lunch (impossible, of course) instead of migrating to the taco or pizza joints. Cut out pop, chips, junk, junk, junk, and munch happily on rabbit food (lettuce, carrots, etc.). Then along comes a friend, hand outstretched with a box of candy left from Christmas. As all good friends, we silently oblige. I must admit, the pizza and taco places are now off limits; but, oh, those chocolates.

Exercising routinely was another resolution I carried in my hip pocket, a pocket that seems to be getting tighter and tighter. Must be my clothes shrinking in the drier. A self-imposed and self-designed jogging program was started, but it's getting colder out now, and I sure hate to bundle up and then miss the re-runs of "MASH".

I prided myself in a resolution to watch closely those flaming liberals in Congress who have managed to spend the country into embarrassing deficit. But there aren't any liberals left, now, so I'll have to watch closely the Moral Majority which promises to lead us down the righteous path to salvation.

And speaking of politics, I had resolved not to make note of the great legislative accomplishments of our new District 17 State Senator — Merle Von Minden. He has been appointed to the powerful and influential Miscellaneous Subjects Committee. But as my dad always tells me, somebody has to do it. No, I'll be courteous and let the poor man have a chance. I'm sure he'll come through for the district.

As I say, though, nobody does resolutions any more. I won't be the exception, either, so these topics more than likely will not be dwelled upon in these spaces any more this year. But that isn't a promise.

Remember all of the news media that made so much fun of Gerald Ford for being what they said was clumsy and accident prone? Where were all of these funny people when President Carter tripped while giving and broke his collar bone? Can't you imagine the uproar in the media had Ford done something like that?

"WON'T SENDING ALL THAT MONEY JUST ENCOURAGE THEM TO COME OUT WITH MORE OF THAT DOUBLE-DIGIT INFLATION THING?"

Jan. 8, 1981

Dear Editor:
Some people just can't understand why I spend so much time at the Wayne Care Centre.

I think that the main reason is that when I meet my Lord as I think we all shall, I don't want to hear Him say: "I was a stranger and you took me not in; I was hungry and you fed me not; I was sick and you comforted me not; I was in prison and you visited me not; I was thirsty and you gave me no drink; I was at the Care Centre and you came not to shake my hand nor to comfort me!"

Another reason is that my family was quarantined for smallpox and no one could visit me. I was in the hospital wanting someone to come but no one came. It didn't help any either when I learned that no visitors were allowed.

A woman at the Care Centre said "you would think that we had smallpox up here the way they stay away!"

What about you?

whether they were dismantled or adapted to new uses intact after being closed.

I am familiar with the fact that Wayne is now without rail service since the C&NW abandoned its line to your town in 1977.

As last I knew, both of Wayne's former railroad depots are still standing. If I understand correctly, the original 1882 depot built by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad was later made into the freight house. It's now used by Carhart Lumber Co. The brick depot erected in about 1914 is now used for storage.

What I am needing to confirm is a report that the Wayne depot, (assumedly the older one), served as a prototype to a depot model kit that was put out by a company called Revell in the late 1950's or so. This kit allowed a person to assemble a miniature depot, supposedly modeled after the Wayne depot, for use on a model train layout. This Revell firm is now out of business.

Also, I have it reported that a tourist attraction railroad back East, perhaps in Ohio, may have used these plans from the model kit to construct a full-size depot that is again based on the Wayne depot.

I would ask then if anyone in the Wayne area would be familiar with any details regarding these situations. If so, I'd be most appreciative in hearing from them since I would like to include the depots at Wayne in this compilation.

If there is a response, I'd be most willing to write again and let your readership know what I have learned.

Recognize Potential Farm Hazards

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

As more farmers and ranchers experiment and install their own on the farm stills to produce alcohol for motor fuel purposes, the chances for serious explosions and fires become greater.

Those who have seen and inspected some of the homemade alcohol fuel producing plants know that some of them have been very primitive and have been built with little safety engineering in mind. Rollin Schnieder, safety specialist with the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, has noted that distilling plant safety is a new consideration for most farmers.

Schnieder reminds that the ignition range of ethanol is similar to that of gasoline and propane, so fire prevention is important. Most of the on-farm stills will be heated with an open flame and the possibility exists that the fumes can be ignited.

Schnieder points out that because boilers will be involved in some of the plants, producers must guard against pressure build-ups which can lead to explosions. He says that even though the steam pressures in the vessels are low, there is always the possibility of explosions if the boiler is corroded or if the safety valves do not operate properly. He says some type of testing system should be installed to check boiler systems before operation.

Special attention should be paid to the type of structure where the still is operated, he advises. The Midwest has frequent strong winds and builders of alcohol plants should consider wind direction and building type before installing a plant. A non-flammable building, for example, would be a much safer place to locate a plant than a dry wooden barn.

Schnieder says other production safety considerations should include exit routes, fire extinguishers, shielded shafts on the grain grinder, and good ventilation when the corn is being ground.

National Fire Protection and Nebraska Codes or combinations should be consulted before building a distillation plant, he recommends. These include the flammable liquids code, the lightning protection code, the electrical code and the life safety code. The codes are available from the State Fire Marshal's office or reputable design engineers.

Underground tanks are best for alcohol storage, Schnieder says, but if the producer chooses above ground storage, the tanks should be in shady, cool places away from direct sunlight to minimize evaporation losses. Light colored tanks of aluminum or white color also help in reflecting heat.

Aluminum in the tanks, lines and connectors should be avoided because alcohol picks up aluminum oxide and water to create a milky white sludge that could settle in the tank and cause fuel line clogging and other engine problems. Alcohol, being a good solvent, also can dissolve pipe-joint compound in storage tanks and cause a leak, Schnieder warns.

Because of increased pressure and volatility, gasoline has a tendency to erupt out of the fuel tank when the cap is removed, and this tendency is much more pronounced during warm or hot days and with tractors with mid or above engine mounted fuel tanks, Schnieder says that the potential pressure levels of gasoline make it mandatory that fuel tank caps fit perfectly and the vents be free and open.

Whether operating an on-farm alcohol producing still or using alcohol gasoline blends in their tractors and other engines, farmers and ranchers are urged to recognize new potential dangers to their lives and property and take precautions.

Art Cart Project at PMC Receives Community Support

An Art Cart Project recently approved by the Providence Medical Center Board of Directors is receiving community support.

"The project which was formed through the inspiration of Dorothy Ley is another way our community hospital provides excellent individual care," said Ann O'Donnell, publicity chairman.

THE PROJECT is modeled after a service provided at Methodist Hospital, Rochester, Minn., in which Mrs. Ley was a patient. The concept according to Mrs. Ley is to provide psychological support through art by bringing beauty and joy into the lives of those who are ill in the hospital.

Sandy Elliott of Wayne will be in charge of the volunteers who will take a cart with a variety of art prints into the patients' rooms where they can select a print to hang on their wall. Plans are to give the patients an opportunity to select prints twice weekly.

PRINTS will be in a variety of styles, periods and scenes.

Oscar Thun has volunteered to design and construct the cart. Prints will be selected by a committee which includes Ted Blendedman, chairman, Sister Cecilia, Chuck Carhart, Jesse Barr and Pearl Hansen.

SEVERAL persons have contributed to the fund which can now provide prints to approximately one-half of the 26 rooms at Providence Medical Center.

Mrs. O'Donnell said additional funds are needed before the prints can be purchased and the goal will be met.

CONTRIBUTIONS of $25, which entitle a person to become a patron of the Art Cart, can be sent to Ginny Otte, Art Cart Treasurer, 515 W. Second St., Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Each $25 donation will provide for an attractive art print and its framing.

Persons interested in volunteering to take the cart around to patients' rooms also can contact Mrs. Otte.

Planetarium to Host Universe of Einstein

Wayne State College's Fred G. Dale Planetarium will offer the presentation "The Universe of Dr. Einstein" from Sunday, Jan. 18 through Sunday, March 1.

All presentations are scheduled for Sunday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. What would the world look like if we rode on a beam of light? That is the simple question Albert Einstein asked. The answer he found changed the world. Einstein's discoveries penetrated to the hearts of stars and to the farthest reaches of the cosmos. This program honors Albert Einstein, the man and the scientist, and is made possible through a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The planetarium, with its dome-shaped screen, is the most dramatic of theaters. Its complex star projector, dozens of auxiliary and special effects projectors, and unique sound system allow an exciting blend of art and science. Audiences are taken beyond the stars to experience the majestic beauty and unsolved mysteries of our vast universe. The planetarium is located on the first floor of the Carhart Science Center, on the campus of Wayne State College.

In addition to the regularly scheduled public shows, special programs concerning a particular subject may be arranged by school groups and organizations. The planetarium will accept reservations anytime during the school year (September through May).

For reservations and program information, call 402-375-2200, or write Box 77, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

After Alaska and Hawaii became States, the geographic center of the United shifted from Kansas to South Dakota.

Hank Aaron at Wayne State College Wednesday

On April 8, 1974, Henry (Hank) Aaron hit his 715th home run, assuring himself a place in baseball history. With that hit, Aaron surpassed Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs, set in 1935.

Aaron will be recounting that and other memorable moments in his baseball career when he speaks at Wayne State College Wednesday (Jan. 14). Aaron is scheduled to speak in Rice Auditorium on the WSC campus at 8 p.m. He will talk about baseball and about motivation.

Tickets for the general public will be available for $2 at the door beginning at 7 p.m. Students, faculty and staff will be admitted free and must pick up their tickets in advance at the Student Senate office in the basement of the Student Center between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

The baseball great broke Babe Ruth's record amid a bit of controversy and a lot of ceremony. When he was close to breaking the Babe's record, Aaron's managers wanted to keep him on the bench until the team played in Atlanta so the home crowd could be a part of the record-breaking event.

The baseball commissioner insisted Aaron play at away games. The commissioner won out, but after Aaron tied Ruth's record, he put in a poor batting performance, so it was a home game for the Braves when he was one home run away from his moment in history.

After Aaron swatted the ball over the backfield fence, a mob of Braves' relief pitchers made a dash for the now-famous ball. As Aaron headed for home, one of the pitchers ran to meet him, holding the ball aloft. After the ball was delivered into his hands, Aaron's teammates carried the smiling batter on their shoulders and he was congratulated by his boss and a representative of the baseball commissioner.

Home run hitting is not the only area in which Hank Aaron holds records. He holds or shares in 21 major league records, including Most Games, Lifetime; Most Runs Batted In, Lifetime; and Most Long Hits, Lifetime.

Aaron retired from baseball in 1976 and in the same year accepted a position as Vice President of Player Development with the Braves. He is currently living in Atlanta, Ga. with his wife, Billye, and one of five children. Their other children are attending college.

Since his retirement, Aaron has done endorsements for several major corporations around the U.S. He appeared on television shows such as "Phil Donahue," "Dinah Shore" and "Happy Days" and has been involved with such organizations as the Boy Scouts and the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Aaron's program at WSC will be a lecture followed by a question and answer session, according to Rick Arbutnot, Student Senate programming coordinator. Arbutnot said Aaron, who is being brought to WSC by the lecture committee of the Student Activities Board, will not be signing autographs after his program.

Wildcats Trounce Western at Home

Not since the 1977-78 season has Wayne State defeated an opponent as badly as the Wildcats defeated Missouri Western, Friday night in Rice Auditorium.

WSC gained its third consecutive home court win in convincing fashion by pounding Western 85-58. Western won a previous meeting 84-80 in Missouri earlier this season.

The Wildcats have not beaten a team this badly since defeating Doane College 97-69 in the 1977-78 season.

Senior Leon McRae and sophomore Grady Hansen, Wayne's one-two punch, pumped in 21 and 18 points respectively to lead the hosts. McRae was nearly unstoppable as he hit 10 of 12 field goals for 83.3 percent success.

The win improved WSC's home record to 3-0 and overall record to 5-8. The Cats were scheduled to host Peru State on Saturday.

The Wildcats jumped out in front and never looked back. With 59 percent accuracy from the field and 76.4 percent shooting from the free throw line, the hosts were never challenged.

Doug Lottman, a freshman from Urbandale, Ia. contributed 12 points to the winning cause. Cedric Edwards scored eight, Jim Reinders seven and Doug Hutchinson six.

Defensively, Wayne State held Western's All American candidate Ken Brown to 10 points.

Wayne State committed 25 turnovers compared to 29 for Western. Al Jones had five assists to lead that category for the Cats.

Next action for the Wildcats is scheduled Friday and Saturday on the home court. On Friday, WSC will host Kearney and on Saturday will host Fort Hays. Fort Hays was undefeated and ranked second in the latest NAIA national basketball ratings. Kearney lost a two-point decision to Ft. Hays. Doane College will also invade WSC next Monday.

Wayne Escapes Challenge To Top Wisner on Mats

Two pins and a forfeit in the final four matches Tuesday enabled the Wayne Blue Devils to break a 21 21 deadlock and pull away from a scrappy Wisner Pilger team 39 25 in a wrestling dual.

Wisner gave Wayne a scare until Nick Sieler and Brett Frevert pinned their opponents in the 155 and 167 pound classes to clinch the victory.

The Gators won three matches by pins and another by decision to forge a tie after eight matches.

Sieler broke the deadlock by pinning Clay Dorenberger in 2:40. The Wayne wrestler led 6-1 at the time.

With six sure points yet to come due to a forfeit in the heavyweight class, Frevert went to work. The Wayne grappler, who is rated sixth in Class B, overcame a 2-1 deficit to gain a reversal and pin his opponent with only three seconds remaining in their match. That put the score out of reach.

A forfeit to Wayne's Eric Brink put the final score at 39 25 and improved Wayne's dual record to 4-0. The Blue Devils will face their toughest test on the road Friday against unbeaten and state rated Albion.

Other Wayne wrestlers who scored points for the Devils were Jon Jacobmeier, Mike Lutt, Mike Schock and Kevin Echtenkamp. Jacobmeier won by forfeit at 105 pounds, Lutt won by pin in the 119 pound class, Schock won by pin at 126 pounds and Echtenkamp won by decision at 138 pounds.

Wakefield Ousted in Tourney

A fine performance by Rita Wilson wasn't quite enough to lead Wakefield's girls to their first win and a third place finish in the Homer Tournament.

Instead, the Trojans were edged 34-30 by Pender in the consolation round of the tourney, Friday night.

Wilson, a 5-10 junior, had the best game of her career scoring 19 points and pulling down 13 rebounds. She hit eight of 14 shots from the field for 57 percent accuracy and was 3 for 4 at the free throw line.

Farm practically the whole farm.

Before you buy any center pivot, come talk to us about the Corner System Today, one out of every 10 center pivots sold is a Corner System Tomorrow, even more.

In the face of rising costs, all growers are looking for ways to get more out of the land they farm. More and more are looking at the Corner System because it irrigates 19 to 45 more acres than a regular center pivot. That's extra income without buying more land. Extra income that can keep you ahead on the balance sheet.

Nineteen out of every 20 Corner Systems sold is a Valley. We know more about Corner Systems than anybody. We have the Corner System with the proven reliability. Let us show you. Let us take you to a system. Get all the facts before you buy any center pivot.

A Three-Rick Night

A LOT OF TIME and hard work went into carefully sawing, cutting, splitting and stacking the wood behind Robert C. Jeffery's house at 620 W. Second St. All shapes, sizes and types of quality of wood are neatly placed behind his house, ready for use on those long and cold Nebraska nights that are predicted to come yet this winter. This is only part of his supply, which should last him through several subfreezing nights and days.

1981 Agriculture Should Improve

1981 could be a comparatively good year for agriculture, although the overall economy in the U.S. will make only a modest recovery from the recession, an economist for the national financial consulting firm told cattle feeders in Lincoln, Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Larry Jones of Chase Econometrics of Philadelphia, a subsidiary of Chase Manhattan Bank said there should be "some profits" for cattle feeders — despite high feed grain prices — because of anticipated high prices for fed cattle.

Speaking at a seminar sponsored by the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association and University of Nebraska animal science department, Jones said his firm predicts prices for choice market steers at Omaha to average in the low $70's (per hundredweight) in the first quarter of 1981, in the upper $70's in the second quarter and possibly reaching the low $80's in the last half of this year. Concurrently, he predicted prices for corn at Chicago would average $3.85 a bushel in 1981, reaching $4 and above at times.

While painting a more favorable picture for livestock prices and especially beef, Jones warned that the beef industry is not recession proof. He cited a direct relationship between a decline in gross national product (GNP) and a decrease in consumers' disposable income, and sagging live beef prices.

A 10 percent decline in the GNP will result in a 5 percent decline in beef consumption, he said. And a 10 percent decline in consumers' disposable income will cause an 18 percent decline in the price received for steers on the Omaha market.

Jones said cattle market prices did not drop as much during the 1979-80 recession because beef supplies were tight. He said the classic cattle cycle will tend to exaggerate or minimize the effects of concurrent economic conditions.

Jones warned of a long-range danger, possibly materializing in 1984, when cattle numbers are expected to again reach a high point. Some experts also feel another business slump could occur then, if recurring business cycle patterns hold true. This situation — an economic slump along with large supplies of beef — could have a dramatic effect on beef prices, he analyzed.

Jones predicted vacillating prices paid for slaughter beef this spring, because of a variety of weights of cattle placed in the feedlot this fall, causing erratic marketing patterns.

Noting that the 1979-80 recession was the shortest in the post-World War II era, but also has the steepest decline, Jones did not rule out the possibility of a new recession in 1981.

He pointed to several major factors which he said will hold down economic recovery this year, below the usual rate of recovery coming out of past recessions.

The rate of savings by consumers is at such a low level, he said, that "there is no fat left" in terms of using savings to make purchases and maintain standard of living. He predicted an average inflation rate of 12-13 percent in 1981. Increases in labor costs will exceed gains in productivity in the nonfarm sector, he said. Even with tax cuts proposed by the Reagan Administration, Jones said the "income tax bracket creep" partly caused by inflation, and increased social security taxes, will erode consumer incomes. The onset of a "world recession," just beginning in Common Market countries and Japan, and low rate of capital investments by business are other negative factors, he said.

"The economy is weak, and recovery will be weak," he said. Because the current recession is "different historically" than previous recessions, different remedies will be needed.

He predicted that short term interest rates will decline 3-4 points by spring, with long term rates dropping 1½ to 2 points.

Town Improvement Deadline Is February

Nebraska communities are reminded that the February deadline for entry in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program is fast approaching.

NCIP coordinator Donna diNatale said the nationally-recognized program, which is in its 18th year, offers communities and neighborhoods "encouragement and assistance in organizing local improvement efforts."

"Community improvement begins when citizens act to determine their own future and the future of their community. Every year citizen groups organize to take on the challenge of improving their community, and NCIP is here to help them," diNatale added.

Recognition and cash prizes are offered in three major areas for community improvement:

The Community Recognition Program is open to all communities under 30,000 population. Neighborhood organizations in communities over 30,000 population may enter the Neighborhood Recognition Program. All incorporated municipalities in the state are eligible for the All-Nebraska Community Program.

The NCIP program year concludes in the fall with a televised banquet and recognition ceremony honoring outstanding communities and neighborhoods. Over 700 persons from across the state gathered in Lincoln for the 1980 Recognition Day.

The NCIP is co-sponsored by the Division of Community Affairs — Nebraska Department of Economic Development and the Community Resource and Research Center — University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
