The Wisdom of Big Brother I

Richard L. Leshar, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

What with all the attention being given to the huge increases in Social Security taxes for 1981...

For example, did you know that the IRS has been waging a virtual mini-war on small business?

The committee's report observes: "These increases in enforcement activity are not correlated to any similar increase in the number of new tax delinquent accounts."

"It all makes me sympathize with that taxpayer who recently wrote the IRS asking them to delete the word 'please' from their forms."

Big apple or rotten apple? Ask yourself! Do you think a privately owned building in New York City would be justified in dumping raw sewage into the Hudson River for three years?

Ah yes, but when government is the culprit... what then? As a WNBC-TV editorial recently asked: "...How many New Yorkers, we wonder, are aware that when the big new convention center opens a couple of years from now, it will be spewing about a million gallons of raw sewage into the Hudson River for three years?"

Take a load off your shoulders The question is: With a federal budget described as "hemorrhaging," taxes climbing by record amounts, the national debt soaring toward a trillion dollars, inflation remaining in double digits, and now, interest rates seemingly leveling off at a mere 20 percent...

The news is the President has just signed the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, which could save $250 million by eliminating unnecessary government forms and streamlining information systems. That signing did not come a minute too soon for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company...

streamlining information systems. That signing did not come a minute too soon for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, which recently processed one-and-a-half tons of paper just to comply with one new OSHA regulation.

It should also please the small business community whose paperwork burden has been calculated by Senator William Roth of Delaware to be 850 million pages long. Incidentally, Roth also calculates that if those 850 million pages were laid end to end, they would stretch around the world nearly six times and, if stacked, would form a column 67 miles high.

Fellows, that's pretty poor The Department of Housing and Urban Development has come up with some intriguing statistics which reveal that 125 percent of all the people in Santee, South Carolina, and 115 percent of the people in Gay, Georgia are below the poverty line.

Thoughts for 1981 Do we still need to spend nearly half a million dollars a year for the National Board of the Promotion of Rifle Practice? And how about the continuation of the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines Helium Fund...

You won't hear many state Republicans complaining about the ratio of Republicans to Democrats in the Nebraska Legislature.

When maneuvering began immediately after the November election for positions of power, it became evident that the Republicans were going to exploit their favorable position as long as it brought them some reward. A power struggle developed that has continued to spread into the Legislature's leadership.

In an editorial earlier this month, The World Herald warned that Republican leaders were injecting partisanship into a non-partisan Legislature. The editorial pointed out that Sen. John DeCamp warned senators to avoid partisanship or "you will watch this place destroyed."

The World Herald quoted DeCamp as saying, "If senators want a partisan legislature, they should put a constitutional amendment before the voters and let them decide."

The organizational battles have subsided, but the threat of partisanship damage to the state's unique and respected Unicameral system continues. What has developed from the partisanship battles and the behind-the-scenes power struggles is a "New Guard, Old Guard" system of managing the power positions in the Legislature.

Regardless of the political process, a division of power is inevitable and is healthy. It would be a dull world if all of us were to think alike. The state's 49 senators should put partisan affiliations aside when they vote.

It is interesting to note the makeup of the Old Guard and the New Guard, as compiled by The World Herald.

During weeks of pre-legislative session maneuvering, some state senators divided into competing camps referred to as the Old Guard and the New Guard while other senators attempted to steer an independent course.

Although the outcome was decided by secret ballot under legislative rules, it appears the New Guard is composed of six senators representing urban areas and six representing the more rural areas. On the other hand, however, the Old Guard, which has been in control of legislative power for some time, is mostly rural oriented. For example, there are but two persons from the metropolitan areas of Omaha-Lincoln, while the others are from smaller, more rural communities and larger communities in outstate Nebraska.

We hope the shift of power is not significant in the traditional rural vs. urban split. If that is the case, then rural communities like Wayne will find it difficult to get adequate representation in matters affecting both the rural and urban areas.

Senator Von Minden has been the object of a good-natured barb or two. In this column since his defeat of Gerald Conway in November. Of course, we wanted our candidate to win, but bygones must be bygones. For this corner of the state to be properly represented, Von Minden will need all the support he can get.

For this corner of the state to be properly represented, Von Minden will need all the support he can get. Our first interests are those of this community and this district and we thank our support behind our senator in hopes that he will not be swayed by the politics of his position as much as he is affected by the interests of the district.

Dear Editor: I've never written a letter to this paper or for that matter any other paper either, but I am so upset by this, that I decided to blow off some steam.

Why oh why is the news media making heroes out of the 52 American hostages. Let me say before I go any further that I'm glad they are back or at least on their way back. But are they heroes? Now come on, you gotta be kidding?

All of them knew that it wasn't the safest place in the world, but chose to ignore the warning so they were captured - yap - captured (which never would have happened in the first place if we had had a strong U.S. President with a little back bone.)

1981 Good Year for Paring Agencies: Thone

"It is my earnest hope that 1981 will be a good year for paring the number of state agencies.

"When we studied government in school, we learned about the judicial, the legislative and the executive branches of government. But in Nebraska, there is a lot of government that doesn't fall within these three branches.

"The governor, as chief executive officer of the state, could be expected — from a textbook viewpoint — to be in charge of day-to-day operations of executive functions.

"There are 71 state agencies in Nebraska that are executive in nature over which the governor has no, or only minimal, control.

"In January, 1980, I formed a small management team of state employees to do an 'in house' study of the need for reorganization of state agencies. Following receipt of that report, I appointed in May, 1980 a task force of 55 private citizens to study this subject.

"The task force members donated more than a quarter of a million dollars of their time and expenses and delivered their recommendations to me last September.

"I will make a major effort to persuade a majority of the members of the legislature to adopt a large portion of those recommendations in 1981.

"Some of the task force suggestions could be carried out just by action of the governor. I have moved already to initiate some of their proposals, and will act on others soon. A few of the recommendations would require a change in the constitution which would necessitate approval of the unicameral for placing a proposition on the ballot and then subsequent approval by the voters themselves.

A Letter From Gov. Charley Thone

"The greatest number of recommendations, however, can be implemented by legislative action. A surprising number of state senators have shown great enthusiasm for all or part of the task force recommendations. With their cooperation, we can make great progress in 1981 in reducing the number of state agencies with executive responsibility.

"Many years were required for the growth of the present thicket of state agencies. We may not be able to cut away all the uneeded branches in 1981 but may have to continue pruning efforts in 1982.

"The task force found that as presently structured state government 'violates the basic rules of good organization and sound management'. Within the next 12 months, I hope to see your state government restructured so that it becomes more responsible and responsive to its citizens."

Legislators May Make Water Law Progress

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION By M.M. Van Kirk, Director of Information

Members of the Nebraska Legislature will have opportunity again in the 1981 session to tighten up the Groundwater Management Act of 1975 and make it more effective.

Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo has stated that he plans to introduce a water bill aimed at both of these problems, and he has said he is primarily thinking of the particular needs of the people of the Nebraska Sand Hills.

Thus for example, ranch people who want to halt outside developers (or local developers for that matter) from moving in and developing 50 to 60 unit pivot concentrations on highly marginal land areas that they feel should be maintained in grass and hay meadows for traditional cattle production, can impose such restrictions if they muster the necessary votes.

Sen. Lamb's proposal when it comes, should be taken seriously because he understands the Sand Hills peculiarities from close association. Sand Hills ranchers feel they know their own needs and their part of the country better than anyone else and will readily say to an outsider, "We don't appreciate people from Eastern Nebraska telling us what we have to do with our land and water."

Weekly gleanings. . . News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

NEARLY 25 years of dedicated service in volunteer fire fighting has earned a Wisner man the coveted honor of being named "Fireman of the Year" by the Cumming County Firemen's Mutual Aid Association.

A NEW public library for West Point is a lot closer to reality following the announcement of a gift of property by a former resident, Erna Westoupal, now of Dallas, Texas.

PLANS to begin medical service in Madison were announced recently by Dr. Gordon Adams, representing the Norfolk Medical Group. A major goal for commencing the service is included in the plans, providing that the necessary equipment can be obtained by that time.

Sen. Lamb has said his bill will allow the Natural Resources Districts to institute irrigation controls aimed at reducing underground water pollution from nitrate sources and also would authorize the NRD's to adopt other irrigation controls after a vote of the people of the district. This is aimed at plugging the present loophole which permits the Department of Water Resources to reject a proposed water control area unless it had been demonstrated that there had been a permanent decline in the water level.

If and when Senator Lamb's bill comes up for public hearing, the people of the Sand Hills and their organizations should be on hand to voice their opinions and either support or oppose it. They may be sure that plenty of other interests (land developers, center pivot manufacturers, possibly some business and financial interests) will be there as they were last year, to resist any limitations on continued indiscriminate water and land use development throughout the state, marginal land or otherwise. Further progress can be made this year if the Legislature were to follow through on a proposed plan to use 2 cents of the present 13-cent per package tax on cigarettes to go into a long-range plan of building some 700 surface dams of medium size (600 acres or thereabouts) aimed primarily at retaining runoff water and replenishing underground water resources.

In a normal year there are some 86 million acre feet of water from rainfall that comes to Nebraska, the equivalent of 43 Lake McConeaugheys filled to the brim. The right conservation measures which would retain most of this water on the land where it falls, or retention of the runoff in dams which would help to replenish the underground resources, could go a long way to insure the state's water future.

This could be a year for productive water legislative action but the senators have to be aware that such proposals have public support and appreciation

Wakefield Youngsters to Be Named Centennial Prince and Princess

Parents of kindergarten or first grade youngsters in Wakefield have until Sunday, Feb. 1, to register their children in the Centennial Prince and Princess Contest.

The contest will be held on Saturday, Feb. 14 in the school gym.

ENTRIES should be mailed to Mrs. Dennis Fredrickson or left at the Wakefield Republican Office.

Mrs. Fredrickson said boys and girls entered in the contest must be in kindergarten or first grade during the 1980-81 school term and have resided in the Wakefield School District at least one year. Youngsters in rural school districts who eventually will be attending Wakefield Community School also are eligible to enter the contest.

CONTESTANTS for the princess contest may wear either an old-fashioned dress or other long dress and will be judged on poise and appearance. Boys, who will be attired in western garb, will be judged for the "Best Smile."

Mrs. Fredrickson said winners of both contests will receive a $50 savings bond and must be available for a variety of Centennial activities planned throughout 1981.

CENTENNIAL activities in February also will include a basketball game Feb. 7 between Wakefield businessmen and the Heavy Hoopers of Channel 9 TV, Sioux City. Norman Minola is coaching the Wakefield team and Barb Sampson is captain of the cheerleading squad. Two money-making projects were discussed during a recent meeting of the Sons of the Pioneers.

Chairman Gene Brown said a dance and coed softball tournament will be held during the upcoming months to raise money for various activities planned by the Pioneers. Dates for both events will be announced.

Brown also announced that shaving permits and Sons of the Pioneers badges have arrived and are selling for $4 and $2 respectively. Badges can be purchased at Ray's Boot 'N Barber Shop, Brass Key, RV's Stop, The Lounge, Sampson Oil and Feed, and the Farmer's Union.

RAE BROWN recently presented Walter Chinn a Centennial Plate from the committee. Chinn is a grandson of C. T. Bar to, one of the earliest settlers to arrive in the vicinity several years before the Wakefield community was founded.

The plate, designed by Mrs. Brown, is white glass with the art work in black. Encircling the Centennial logo are drawings of Graves Library, the old Wakefield High School, City Light Plant, Presbyterian Church, Railroad Depot and Wakefield Health Care Center.

Interspersed around the edges of the plate are leaves from trees in Wakefield. Mrs. Brown's name also appears on the edge of the plate. On the back is a brief history of the community.

THE PLATE will sell for $10.50 and may be purchased at the Centennial Center or from Mrs. Brown, Anne Kline or Mrs. Mert Nixon.

Centennial mugs also have arrived and sell for $3.50 each or three for $10.

4-H Officers Training Workshop at Auditorium

Does your club are interesting, more fun, more educational meetings?

The encourage club's new officers and all other members, leaders or parents who are interested, to attend the 1981 4-H Officers Training Workshop today (Monday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne city auditorium," suggests Linda Huinker, Wayne County Home Extension Agent.

"We'll be 'charging up' your 4-H club officers so they'll be anxious to provide you with better meetings this year."

Four-H meetings are an important part of the life of a club and its members, said Mrs. Huinker.

adding that they should give 4-Hers a chance to learn, make plans, and have fun.

When officers know what their responsibilities are and how to carry them out with enthusiasm, the meeting clicks, goals are achieved, and members are excited to continue their individual projects and cooperate in club activities.

"Being a good club officer is no easy task, and the skill does not come automatically. But when members vote for new officers, they're casting ballots for young men and women who are willing to learn the necessary skills so they can do their best—and then make the best better," says Mrs. Huinker.

All 4-H officers training club officers will learn the duties of their office, the basics of parliamentary procedure, how to lead a discussion, ideas for educational club programs, and appropriate recreational activities that are fun for all.

"Let the Teen Supremes" of officers, volunteer 4-H leaders, and county agents help you take the first step towards having better meetings this year by attending 4-H officer training," said Mrs. Huinker.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

Richard Alexander, Pilger; Thomas D. Anderson, Wakefield; Harlan Hamarik, Clarkson; Howard Hanson, Stanton; John Hansen, Newman Grove; Lowell Johnson, Wakefield; Marlon Kraemer, Laurel; Gerald Kratochvil, Clarkson; Dale Lingenfelter, Plainview; Melvin Melerhenry, Hoskins; Treasurer: William Meyer, Pierce; Wendell Newcomb, Norfolk, Vice-Chairman; Dennis Newland, Norfolk, Secretary; Glen Olson, Wakefield, Chairman; Bert Peterson, Lyons; Ray Vogel, Battle Creek; Clinton Van Seggern, Scribner; Melvin Van Seggern, Craig; Harold Wagner, Scribner.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

Three meetings sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and Lower Elkhorn NRD were considered successful, with 421 people attending. The meetings were held January 13 in Wisner, 14th in Clarkson, and 15th in Osmond. Speakers covered water and energy subjects which are affecting Nebraskans more than ever before.

LaVerne Stetson, Agricultural Engineer for UNL, spoke on the outlook for energy, availability and price. Stetson predicted another doubling of cost for virtually all current energy sources in the next ten years. Irrigation will revert almost totally to electricity, and nuclear power is the most promising source for keeping up with increasing demands.

Tom Dorn, Extension Irrigation Specialist at Northeast Station, told irrigators that on the average they can save 20% of their power costs by having pumping plants efficiency tests adjusted. Some systems waste up to 50% of the fuel they consume. Irrigation scheduling can give substantial savings by reducing the amount of water pumped while maintaining optimum yields.

Bruce Hanson, Hydrogeologist for Conservation and Survey in Norfolk, explained groundwater geology in Northeast Nebraska. At the Osmond meeting he reviewed the results of the recently completed Pierce County Groundwater Quality Study. The study sought to identify areas of high nitrate concentrations in groundwater. The study indicates the highest concentrations are in the Wee Town area east of Pierce.

Jim Gonsior, Colfax County SCS and Gene Willers, Colfax County ASCS presented a progress report on the Maple Creek Model Implementation Project (MIP). Gonsior showed slides of completed conservation practices, while Willers stated that landowners have utilized $329,858 of the $627,137 of ACP cost share money available to them since 1978. The most popular practices have been sediment control basins and terraces with tile outlets.

Dave Aiken, Water Law Specialist — UNL, spoke on current laws on surface and groundwater use and on legislation we can expect to see.

Steve Oltmans, General Manager — LENRD, spoke on NARD programs available to assist landowners to apply conservation practices, conserve energy, and make a place for wildlife. The NRD groundwater monitoring program gives background information on groundwater supplies, and will indicate areas of decline. The NRD also sponsors projects for flood control, water storage, and outdoor recreation. Oltmans also spoke on the makeup of the Unicameral and potential legislation.

Those attending water and energy issues meetings observed a large map showing locations of nearly 300 wells used in the NRD groundwater monitoring program.

New officers elected at the January 8, 1981, Lower Elkhorn NRD meeting were (left to right) Wendell Newcomb, Vice Chairman; Glen Olson, Chairman; Melvin Melerhenry, Treasurer; and Dennis Newland, Secretary.

SIGN UP NOW FOR WILDLIFE HABITAT

The sign up period is here for the Wildlife Habitat Program. January-March landowners may apply for one of five basic practices Lower Elkhorn NRD offers. These include:

Practice	Payment
I Protection of Existing Habitat (Land with grassy or woody cover already present)	$7.50/acre annually
II Oats and Sweetclover (Oat heads may be combined the first year)	$30/acre annually
III Grassland Habitat (Plant mixtures of grasses)	$30/acre annually
IVa Stripcropping with Oats & Sweetclover (Strips of oats and sweetclover between row crops)	$50/acre annually
IVc Stripcropping with Permanent Cover (Strips of grasses between row crops)	$50/acre annually

Practices III, IVa, IVb, and IVc must be on former crop ground. Besides these basic practices, the Habitat Program offers landowners opportunities for additional payments.

PUBLIC ACCESS OPTION

All applicants may use the Public Access option, in fact it could help get your contract approved. Applications which don't include this option will only be approved if funds are still available after the public access applications are approved. Landowners receive $250 per acre annually for public access under Practice II and $500 under the other practices. This option gives the public access to the area by foot traffic for hunting, fishing, hiking or trapping.

SEED & TREE PAYMENT

Landowners may qualify for reimbursement of the cost of seed and trees planted on their Habitat tracts.

GROUND PREPARATION PAYMENT

Landowners enrolling in practices IVa and IVc may also receive a $25/acre payment for ground preparation.

The Wildlife Habitat Program is cooperative between Lower Elkhorn NRD and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. It represents a part of your habitat stamp purchase and is supported 25% by local tax dollars.

For more information or to enroll in the program, contact your local SCS office.

WINDBREAK TREE SALES CONTINUE

Tree sales under the Clark McNary program have been in progress since November 1. Of the initial inventory of 3,830,000 seedlings, only 1,436,550 now remain available. Three species are entirely sold out and others are becoming low.

Any landowner who still wishes to order trees should contact the local SCS office soon. Soil Conservation Service personnel will assist with design, species selection and arrange for planting if desired. Order forms are also available at Extension, ASCS and NRD offices.

MAN MADE LAKES OFFER GOOD FISHING

The Nebraska Water Lottery, put out by Nebraska Water Resources Association reports that three state record fish were taken from man made lakes in 1980. A 4 lb. 1 oz. white croppie was taken from Red Willow Reservoir, an 18 lb. 9 oz. muskellunge from Merritt Reservoir, and a 9 lb. sucker from Pawnee Lake near Lincoln.

These and other man made lakes provide a big share of the fishing opportunities in Nebraska, especially for species such as bluegill and largemouth bass.

Congressman Doug Bereuter has announced his support for legislation to present Congressional gold medals to the Americans held hostage in Iran.

Bereuter said he will co-sponsor the legislation, to have been introduced Thursday, "as a tribute to 53 courageous men and women who deserve to be recognized as heroes."

The bill calls for striking of the gold medals for the 52 Americans released from Iran on Tuesday and for Richard Queen, who was released earlier after 250 days in captivity. Among the freed Americans are Marine Staff Sgt. Michael E. Moeller, born and raised in Loup City, and Air Force Capt. Paul M. Needham, originally from Bellevue.

The gold medals would be presented at a joint session of Congress.

"The courage and stability demonstrated by the families of the freed Americans has been an inspiration for all America."

Bereuter said in telegrams to Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Needham of Bellevue and to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Moeller of Loup City.

"Best wishes as the reunion with your son nears. The hearts of Americans are with you."
