Council Splits on Several Actions

Meeting in regular session Tuesday night, the City Council approved several actions on split votes and heard several legal arguments involving a subdivision.

THE COUNCIL voted 4-1, with Councilman Darrel Heier voting no, to approve a Class C liquor license for Windmill Restaurant, 117 W. Third St. The Windmill currently has a Class J beer license and indicated it wished to begin serving liquor.

Preston Olson, representing the Windmill Corporation, said his group is asking for the liquor license "to help our evening business." In addition, he said, the liquor license would allow the Windmill to be more competitive with area steakhouses for banquets, parties, etc.

Frank Woehler, owner of The Gem Cafe, was the only person to openly object to the Class C liquor application. He said, "I don't mind the competition, but I think the town is saturated (with liquor outlets)." The Gem also sells carryout liquor.

COUNCILMAN Heier, in questioning the need for a liquor license, said it was his understanding that the Windmill originally was to be a family restaurant.

It was pointed out that even with Council approval, the State Liquor Commission has the right to reject the liquor application. In fact, City Clerk Norm Melton noted, the commission denied a liquor permit for The Windmill in 1978 after the Council had given its approval. Later that same year, the Council and commission both approved a Class J license for the sale of beer.

In a related item, the Council approved the application of Lamar Olson to be manager of The Windmill. That vote was unanimous.

tions at a public hearing on the city's one- and six-year street plan. Public Works Director Vern Schulz briefed the Council on the plan which was then adopted. See story elsewhere on this page for more details.

After considerable legal haggling, the Council approved the preliminary plat for the Papenberg Second Subdivision despite the recommendation of its attorney to decline approval.

The vote to approve was 4-1, with Council member Gary Vopalensky voting against.

This was the second meeting at which Council members reviewed the Papenberg Second Subdivision. It was rejected at a previous meeting for not meeting subdivision ordinance regulations. Based on further discrepancies found Tuesday night, City Attorney Ken Swartz again recommended that either the Council reject the plat or that the plat's attorney withdraw it for further modifications.

SWARTZ SAID that in his opinion there were two discrepancies in the Papenberg plat.

According to state definition, Papenberg would have a public water supply. Swartz said his interpretation indicated that public water supplies fall under the city's regulations on water supplies. As a result, the subdivision should be required to have fire hydrants and eight-inch water mains to accommodate the fire hydrants.

Swartz also said that Lot 1 of the subdivision was not a full acre as required by the subdivision ordinance.

The attorney for the plat, Duane Schroeder, argued that the Council has never before required such specific details on the preliminary plat even though the specific regulations have existed.

THE COUNCIL was informed that the lot size was 82 hundredths of an acre, but still did not meet the subdivision regulations. Attorney Schroeder, speaking on behalf of subdivision developer Ludwig Thos, said Thos could shift lot lines of other lots within the subdivision, thus providing Lot 1 with the minimum one acre requirement.

"Several previous subdivisions have not been in compliance with the subdivision ordinance, and this one can be corrected on the final plat," Schroeder explained.

Councilman Vopalensky then asked what the need was for a preliminary plat if the regulations are being ignored and if the corrections can be made on the final plat.

CITY ATTORNEY Swartz said it was his obligation to point out the discrepancies. The Council could deny the plat or it could make exceptions to the existing ordinance, Swartz explained.

The Council, with Vopalensky voting no, decided to forgo the city attorney's recommendation and approved the preliminary plat with the hope that the corrections are made on the final plat which also must meet Council approval.

After the meeting, Vopalensky said he voted against the plat because "there has to be some form of consistency" in meeting subdivision regulations. In other words, if a plat does not meet the rules, then it should be rejected until it does comply.

After the plat was approved, City Clerk Melton lauded the Council for its concern that each of the subdivisions meet the existing regulations. In the past, he noted, Councils have "zipped through these too fast." The regulations exist to be followed and until they are changed the Council should require developers to adhere to them, the clerk said.

THERE WERE no written or oral objections.

The lots were rezoned from residential to business to provide for a beauty/barber shop north of The Cupboard on the east side of Pearl Street. The Planning Commission recommended the rezoning based on the feeling that they did not want spot zoning.

THE LOW BID of Chrysler Center — $7,434 — was accepted on a police cruiser. The Council at its last meeting reviewed the Chrysler bid and the only other bid, that of Mike Perry Chevrolet. Voting no was Councilman Jim Craun who wanted a smaller, more economical model.

After some discussion, the Council approved a notice to bidders for a new front-end loader for the city. Public Works Director Schulz noted the loader has been budgeted, but the purchase was delayed because of the uncertainty of revenue sharing funds. The funds have been approved and money is available for the machinery.

In other action, the Council approved a request by the county for right of way and easement rights on the old railroad right of way that crosses old U.S. 35. The county plans to make repairs on a bridge and needs the city's permission.

THE COUNCIL — acting as a board of equalization — set assessments for a water extension district for the apartment complex behind El Toro. Total project cost was

THE SHAPES OF THE bottles are as unique as the types of wine that Harvey Brasch makes in his basement. Brasch, who owns Wayne Monument Works, says he makes wine in his spare time and stores the varied fruits in his freezer. His equipment, simply enough, is a wastebasket, plastic tube and homemade siphon.

There's Good Wine With the Wild Grape

There is wild grape wine and tame grape wine. Wild grape wine is better, it is said, but wild grapes are a rarity.

THEN THERE is choke cherry, elderberry, apple, cherry, peach, plum and beet wine. As Harvey Brasch puts it, "you name it, I've made it."

To him, it's a hobby; nothing more than an opportunity to wile away the time. It isn't an expensive hobby, but it's a past-time that keeps him in grace with his neighbors and friends.

Brasch has been processing homemade wine since he was a youngster, he recalls. His father and his grandfather were winemakers as well, and many of the recipes are "family secrets." As every family has its own concoctions for foods, candies, cakes, etc., Brasch has his favorites for wine.

AS A YOUNGSTER living in Bloomfield, Brasch picked wild grapes near Devil's Nest near Santee. Before Gavlin's Point Dam was built, the area was known for its wild grapes. But over the years, the grapes have disappeared and he has had to resort to commercial (or domesticated) varieties.

Wild grapes have better flavor, are smaller and have better juice, he explains. The last wild ones he found were near Wisner last year. Now, "I just buy them at the store. I look for the ones that are more juicy, the ones that were picked too ripe," he said. The best wild grapes — now quite difficult to locate — are those that have suffered a light frost: those that have slightly wrinkled skin.

THE FRUITS HE uses for his other varieties of wine are either bought locally, sent by friends or picked around town. "Elderberry can be picked around town. Choke cherry, you don't have to buy and plums, either," he said.

"I don't get into dandelion wine. You've got to be retired to do something like that, because it takes six cups of dandelion leaves — not the heads, but the leaves — to make a gallon of wine," he explained.

tion. Brasch has little equipment that is not homemade. He uses a large wastebasket to mix his wine in, then strains it through a plastic tube into whiskey bottles, cider jugs, old wine bottles, etc.

USING commercialized wine kits "takes all the fun out of it," he said. His grandfather used more primitive methods for straining such as towels and sieves. "But, I've improved on his methods," Brasch explained.

"I've always been raised that if I didn't make it myself, then I didn't have it," he philosophized.

From start to finish, it takes the first batch of wine about three months. Then you bottle it and wait at least a year, he said. "Two years is better, though," he added. He has some in a homemade wine rack that has aged 14 years.

"It's kind of hard to keep around, though," he said. "The first thing you know you have friends in and it's gone." Having his friends and neighbors sample and enjoy his wines is a large part of his hobby. Brasch said he has friends who prefer one variety of wine over another, and some that like the wines that he does not.

HE AND HIS wife joined the Northeast Vinters Club about a year ago, and travel each month to different homes for the meetings. After sharing ideas, problems and recipes, the group has its own wine judging sessions. By this manner, each club member is able to improve his wines.

In fact, the Braschs entered some of their wines for the first time last year at the State Fair, but did not bring home any ribbons. The vinters from the club — who live in Norfolk, Wayne, Wisner and Tilden — brought home five ribbons from the fair, however.

Brasch says he makes from 10 to 12 gallons of wine a year. "It's just kind of a hobby I got in to," he says modestly. His favorite wine is wild red grape, but the wild ones are few and far between.

"I'M ALWAYS looking for someone who has wild grapes," he said with a gleam of hope in his eyes.

$1,000 Give-A-Way Needing A Winner

The latest edition of the Grand Give-A-Way enters its fourth week and still is looking for the first winner of the year. The giveaway of $1,000 in bonus bucks is slated for 8 p.m. Thursday (today).

THE GIVEAWAY of $1,000 every Thursday night at 8 will continue indefinitely. A total of more than $10,400 was won from July through December, with the winnings spent at any of the 59 participating businesses which sponsored the giveaways. Last Thursday's winner — Sylvia Beeks of Wayne — was not in any of the participating stores when her name was announced.

The rules will continue to be the same as before. Names will be drawn shortly before 8 p.m. each Thursday from an estimated 8,000 names contained in a wire cage at The Herald. The name will be announced in the participating stores at 8 p.m. and the person whose name is drawn or his or her spouse must be in the store when the name is drawn.

The money will be delivered that night and can be spent immediately if desired.

THE FOLLOWING is a list of the participating stores:

Store, The Morning Star, McDonald's, Merchant Oil, Pamida, Wayne Grain and Feed, Associated Insurance, TP Lounge, Three-Brothers, King's Carpets, Melinda Larkin and Lagan Valley Implement.

1- and 6-Year Road Plans Announced

About the City

The City Council Tuesday night approved its annual one- and six-year street plan which calls for a variety of projects.

PUBLIC WORKS Department Director Vern Schulz said none of the projects is locked into that particular year. "None of it is binding," he told the Council.

Rather, projects planned for this year are the ones that are in the works. These are more likely to be completed unless a project of higher priority is moved ahead.

The plan for the next six years is as follows:

1981 —
A full depth of asphalt overlay and storm sewer improvements on three blocks of East 10th Street from Main Street to Windom Street. Total project cost is estimated at $56,000.

The city will share in the cost of reconstructing Nebraska 15 from about 14th Street to the north edge of the city limits near the Municipal Golf Course. The city's share will be about $15,000.

1982 —
Concrete paving, curb and gutter for 540 feet of Fairgrounds Avenue from South Nebraska Street to South Windom Street. Project cost, $40,000.

Concrete paving, curb and gutter of Walnut Street from 12th to 14th Streets. Project cost, $34,000.

Concrete paving with curb and gutter for 150 feet of East 13th Street between Walnut Street and Schriener Drive.

1983 —
Full depth asphalt overlay of the entire length of Seventh Street. Project estimated, $200,000.

Concrete paving, curb and gutter for 750 feet of South Windom Street from Fairgrounds Avenue to the Transfer Station. Project estimate, $45,000.

1984 —
Concrete paving, curb and gutter of 620 feet of West Third Street from Oak Drive to the County Fairgrounds. Project cost, $35,000.

1985 —
Widen Logan Street from Fourth to Seventh Streets. Project cost, $60,000.

Allen School Takes Honors

One hundred eighty five students from 15 area high schools were drawn to Northeast Technical Community College to compete in the District III Future Farmers of America Vo-Ag Contest Jan. 20.

In the soil and water conservation category, fifth place team trophy went to Allen. In the ag mechanics division, second place trophy went to Allen, which will go to state in this category. Capturing individual honors were Allen students Rick Hingst (fifth), Marty Mahler (sixth), Leonard Wood (seventh) and Devin Nice, (eighth).

Top arc welding individuals included Jody Mahler (sixth) of Allen. In the oxygen-acetylene welding, Keith Rhode of Allen tied for ninth.

Chris Bargholz Honored

Chris Bargholz, Wayne, recently was honored by Knapp King Size Corporation of Brockton, Mass.

Bargholz, local distributor of Knapp footwear, has satisfactorily served his customers in this area and in appreciation for his ability, cooperation, loyalty and friendship, he received a lapel pin signifying his membership in the 20 Years of Knapp Service Club.

Knapp is celebrating its 60th year as a manufacturer and distributor of footwear selling directly to wearers through local, independent salespersons.

Siren Test is Friday

The city of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of Civil Defense sirens at 1 p.m. Friday.

Sirens will be allowed to run only one minute with a three-minute pause between each siren test. Sirens will be tested in the following sequence:

Alert — (used for tornado or other natural disaster warning), both high and low siren on for one minute

Pause — three minutes

Attack — both high and low on for 10 seconds, off for 10 seconds and continuing for one minute

Normal time sequence for each of the sirens would be a full three minutes. Since this is for testing purposes only, the sirens will be shut off after one minute each so the public can quickly determine the difference between test and an actual warning.

If this were not a test, the public should immediately take shelter upon hearing either the alert or attack signals given.

Coffee at Ron's Radio

This week's Chamber of Commerce coffee will be held from 10 to 11 a.m. Friday at Ron's Radio, 517 E. Seventh St.

Ron's Radio is one of the newest members of the Chamber and will be honored as such.

All Chamber members are urged to attend.

Social Security Credit Measure Is Increased

The amount of annual earnings required for a person to earn social security credits has been increased for 1981, Dale Branch, social security district manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Social security credits are measured in units called "quarters of coverage." In 1981, a person earns one quarter of coverage for each $136 in annual earnings. A person will receive four quarters of coverage, the maximum for a year, if his or her annual earnings are $544 or more.

In 1980, a person earned one quarter of coverage for each $124 of annual earnings.

The amount of earnings required to earn quarters of coverage will increase automatically each year to keep pace with increases in average earnings covered by social security.

More information about social security credits can be obtained at the Norfolk social security office, located at 1379 Norfolk Ave., Norfolk. The telephone number is 305-441-8310.

Credit - A Four Letter Word

Too much month left at the end of the money seems to be a common problem these days.

January is particularly troublesome, because many of us are still paying the bills we charged in December. Why do we continue to use those plastic cards at Christmas every year? We all know that credit results in debt — and debt is a four letter word.

SURE, credit can be a wonderful tool when used wisely. However, when you stop "using" credit and "buying" credit to purchase needs and wants, you dig yourself into a hole.

So pull yourself out, brush yourself off, and start planning your new year before it gets any older. A spending plan for 1981 will help you live within your income, make you aware of where your money is going, and allow you to save for the things you want — thereby reducing the need for credit.

"A spending plan," you say. "That's like a budget. And budgets are restricting."

Then call it a spending "list" instead — and keep it as flexible as your grocery list!

EXPERIENCED grocery shoppers wouldn't think of entering the supermarket with their weekly food allotment in one hand without a shopping list in the other. They know that without a list, their cart would be full of "goodies" and their money gone before they arrived at the meat and dairy case. They also keep their lists flexible enough so if the pork roast costs more than expected, green beans can be purchased for tomorrow's dinner instead of fresh broccoli.

MAKING A list and estimating total costs before shopping allows one to set priorities on anticipated purchases. It may be obvious beforehand that money won't be left over to try that new ice cream pie seen advertised in the latest magazine.

While doing the shopping, a list gives one an overall picture of what still needs to be paid for, curtailing impulse buying.

After returning home, a list has insured that you didn't forget an item you couldn't have done without.

DON'T continue your trip into the new year any farther with your income in hand — without a spending plan in the other. Money is getting harder to manage all the time. Don't let your cart fill with "goodies" the first half of the year making you scrimp at the meat counter and dairy case. Don't let a necessary expenditure arise midyear and have to do without.

Begin your plan by determining your family goals. List what you hope to accomplish with your money. Do you simply want to meet living expenses without having to buy credit? Do you hope to tuck dollars away for retirement — or spend them on antiques?

SECONDLY, figure out exactly how much money you have to spend. Then decide what needs to be purchased this year. Don't forget to list insurance premiums, loan payments, health expenses, etc., along with the obvious — home, clothing, and food costs. Your worksheet should also include a savings and emergency fund column for the unexpected necessary purchases. The county extension office has pamphlets that can help you get organized.

Estimate what these expenses will be in each category each month by using whatever records you may have on hand. Always write in pencil because most spending plans need to be adjusted and rebalanced often.

IS YOUR income going to cover your planned expenses? Are you going to have to forget the ice cream pie to buy vegetables? Watch where your money actually goes each month. Record expenditures to see how close your estimates really were. You may have to do some creative juggling. Occasionally, check to see if you're really accomplishing your goals. If you're spending more on antiques than you're tucking away for retirement, you may want to change your goals — or change your spending.

A FRIEND once explained how she helped her young children budget money by taping pictures of their needs and wants on jars. She let them apportion their allowances into different jars each week, allowed them to change the pictures as their goals changed, and gave them the opportunity to rebalance the funds when they discovered the need to juggle.

Their income was small, but they learned to plan, revise, and balance their spending without using that four-letter word. One's financial stability is decided by the way he spends his money, not by the size of his income.

Policy on Weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Senior Citizens Meet For Monday Bible Study

The Rev. Larry Ostercamp of the Evangelical Free Church in Wayne conducted Bible study of Exodus 21 at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center Monday afternoon.

Twenty-two persons attended the Bible study, which opened and closed with prayer.

The next Bible study of Exodus 22 will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 9. Persons attending are asked to bring their favorite translation of the Bible.

There were 21 persons at the center Tuesday afternoon to view the White House welcoming ceremony for the former hostages of Iran.

A current event session followed, chaired by Gladys Petersen. Refreshments were furnished by Alma Splittgerber.

Leo Anne Coker, a Wayne State College practicum student, is spending seven hours each week at the center under the supervision of director Mrs. Joella Bull.

Miss Coker receives college credit plus on-the-job training. She will be at the center for the remainder of this semester.

Speaking of People

STUDENTS IN WAYNE'S ELEMENTARY School are engaged in a project to help them understand time sequences such as months of the year, days of the week and order of the seasons. The project was initiated by teachers Jean Hansen and Ginger Bygland and includes all students in grades kindergarten through four. Pictured using some of teachers' recommended techniques as part of the special learning process are: pictured from left, third graders Brian Lutt Tom Kramer and Wendy Trube.

Time Orientation Project Aimed At Helping Elementary Students

A project aimed at helping children who are not time oriented is being carried out by teachers in the Wayne Elementary School.

Jean Hansen and Ginger Bygland are engaged in the project for children who have little understanding of time, have difficulty with sequences like months of the year, days of the week, the order of seasons, and cannot fully comprehend expressions such as yesterday and tomorrow.

WHILE conducting summer school classes last year for children with learning disabilities, the two teachers learned by testing that "time and calendar" confusion existed to a great degree in the minds of their students.

They began to explore methods by which the concepts of time could be taught and to prepare programs using practical helps such as glue cards, flash cards, sand trays, clocks and calendars.

LATER, at an in-service meeting with other elementary teachers, they reported their findings and demonstrated how the concepts of time might be reinforced by special activities and by more direct teaching.

The techniques recommended are now being used throughout the four elementary grades.

MULTI-SENSORY techniques are the key to the special learning process, said the teachers.

For example, in learning the days of the week, the children see the names of the days written on a blackboard, they hear the teacher say the names, they feel the names of the days by sky writing or by writing on a sand tray.

Both teachers agree that repetition is an essential part of the process.

MRS. HANSEN and Mrs. Bygland have divided the concepts of time orientation into what they feel each grade level should know.

Starting in kindergarten with days of the week, the months and seasons of the year, the training in time orientation progresses through the four grades. At the fourth grade level, students understand the sequences of time (day, week, month, year, decade), the equinox, and are able to apply time in story problems.

The teachers emphasize that, because organization and memory are problems for the children, whatever is taught must be organized for them.

The child must see the whole concept before attempting to understand its various parts. For example, he must be introduced to the concept of a year before studying one month with its division into weeks and days.

ALL STUDENTS in the kindergarten through fourth grades are currently taking part

Wakefield May Get Senior Center

A standing room crowd of nearly 70 persons filled the Centennial Center in Wakefield last week to hear plans to organize a Senior Citizens Center in the community.

Dale Kindred, a representative of the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging, was on hand to explain the services of his organization and the operation of a community Senior Citizens Center.

Kindred outlined the five services a center must provide the community. A list of possible services includes transportation, adult education, arts and crafts, physical activity, volunteer service, nutrition programming, handyperson/chore service, homemaker/housekeeping services, friendly visitor, telephone insurance, health insurance and social inter-action activities.

A site being considered for the proposed center is the lower level of the old high school building.

Kindred and Terry Baker of the Milton G. Waidbaum Co., owners of the building, said a long term lease would be available and renovation costs would be relatively inexpensive.

Persons attending the meeting reacted favorably to the proposal and will select a committee to proceed with plans.

Coffee and cookies following the meeting were provided by the Centennial Committee and Mr. and Mrs. Art Doescher.

St. Olaf Choir Singing At Morningside Church

The internationally renowned St. Olaf Choir, conducted by Kenneth Jennings, will be singing in concert at Morningside Lutheran Church in Sioux City on Friday, Feb. 13, at 8 p.m.

The St. Olaf Choir has long been an audience favorite on both its United States and European tours which have included performances in the nation's leading concert halls, in churches and auditoriums in small towns, and in some of the most majestic cathedrals in the world.

The Choir from St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., has made annual tours since 1912. The international reputation established during four European tours was enhanced most recently under Kenneth Jennings' leadership during a tour of Norway in 1980.

Tickets for the concert in Sioux City may be obtained by calling the church office (712) 276-2511, or writing Morningside Lutheran Church, 700 S. Martha St., Sioux City, Iowa, 51106. Cost of the tickets is $4 for adults and $2.50 for students.

99th Birthday Party For Matilda Nelson

Mrs. Charlie (Matilda) Nelson observed her 99th birthday Jan. 20 at the Wakefield Health Care Center, where she has resided since 1979. Members of her family, other relatives and friends spent the afternoon with her and enjoyed a lunch of cake and ice cream. Mrs. Nelson, known affectionately to her former Winside neighbors as "Grandma Nelson," was born in Sweden in 1882 and came to the United States at the age of 27.

She settled in Wayne County and was married to Charlie Nelson in 1908. The couple farmed in the Winside area until moving into town in the late 1940's. Her children are Gustav Nelson of Norfolk, Leonard Nelson of Tucson, Ariz., Raymond and Robert Nelson of Wayne, and Mrs. Lloyd (Alice) Surber of Jackson. Three children, Margaret, Harold and Segvard, are deceased. There are a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Mrs. Nelson, who is a member of the United Methodist Church in Winside, still enjoys reading her Swedish newspaper to which she subscribed many years ago.

Dates Set for WSC Play

"Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is the best bred in the company."
Jonathan Swift

The Wayne State College theater department will present the play "Lion in Winter" by James Goldman on Feb. 15, 16 and 17 in Ramsey Theater on the college campus.

The play deals with Henry II and Eleanor of Aquitaine. Henry has kept Eleanor in prison for leading a revolt against him, but has released her for the Christmas holidays. The focus of the play is the struggle between Henry and Eleanor as to which son will succeed Henry to the throne. Each has a favorite son and they play one against the other.

Members of the cast include Tim Edmisten as Henry II, Corinne George as Alais, Carl Johnson as John, Jeff Clem as Geoffrey.

Timothy Ryan as Richard Lionheart, Nancy Howell as Eleanor, and Don Green as Phillip. The play is being directed by Arthur L. Dirks.

Curtain time for the Sunday afternoon matinee is 2 p.m. Performances Monday and Tuesday are at 8 p.m. Admission to the performance is $3 for the general public and $2 for high school students. Group rates also are available, including admission of $2.50 for groups of 10 to 20 persons and $2 for over 20 persons.

For further information write to Dr. Helen Russell, Theater Department, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787 or telephone 1/5-2700, ext. 734.

Reception for Lueths

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lueth of Emerson will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Emerson on Sunday, Feb. 8, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Hosting the open house reception are their children, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lueth of Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Linda) Hale of South Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. Mark (Karen) Victor of Wayne, and Denise and Mark Lueth of Emerson. There is one granddaughter.

Alvin and Janice Lueth were married Feb. 4, 1956 at Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield.

Wayne State Basketball Teams are Keeping Busy

The Briar Cliff Chargers, ranked third in the NAIA national rankings, were too hot for the Rawhide Review to handle Tuesday night.

Briar Cliff defeated Wayne State's Wildcats 80-60 before a packed house in Rice Auditorium.

The WSC coaching staff expressed its appreciation of the generous support the Wildcats have received from the fans this season. Several area high schools were in attendance at the game by invitation from the Wayne State athletic department.

Rolando Frazer, the nation's third leading scorer with an average of 32.1 points per game, dumped in 26 points for the Chargers. Cliff hit 55.7 percent from the field while Wayne hit 40.9 percent.

The visitors led 44-32 at the half and outscored Wayne 36-28 in the second half.

Leon McCrae, third leading scorer in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference led WSC with 17 points. The CSC's leading scorer Grady Hansen was held to just three points.

At Jones scored 12 points for the Wildcats. Shaun Kelley scored eight, Cedric Edwards made six, Jim Reinders scored six, Tom Baumert hit four and Doug Lollman added four.

Wayne State won the junior varsity game over Briar Cliff 69-59. Laymon Carter scored 17 points, Doug Emanuel scored 14 and Brian Overby scored 13 for WSC. The JV will now take a 10-5 record into action Sunday in the Yankton Tournament.

Wayne State's varsity (8-12) will travel to Kansas this weekend for games against Washburn University and Emporia State. Washburn is 11-3 and Emporia is 9-11.

The Wildcats were scheduled to play an extremely important game against District 11 rival Peru State, yesterday (Wednesday). Entering that game, Wayne State, Peru State, Bellevue and Chadron State were all fighting for second place in the district standings. The top two finishers will advance to District 11 playoffs.

Peru, which upset Chadron State 56-55 last week, is paced by out-of-state products Tom Johnson and Tom Mackey. Mackey is leading the district with a 22 point average per game.

WSC defeated Peru 74-58 earlier this season.

On the Road, Again

The Wayne State College men's and women's basketball squads traveled this past weekend and played a pair of CSC basketball games on their southern swing through Kansas and Missouri.

Wildcat defense turns game around.

It is surprising what five minutes of hard nosed man to man defense can do to the outcome of a basketball game. That was evident when the Wayne State Wildcats played at Pittsburg State University Friday.

The Wildcats came out on top with a top sided win over the Gorillas by a score of 74-58. With 10 minutes to go in the game Wayne State's lead was only four points. The Wildcat defense shut off Pittsburg State's offense and out scored the Gorillas 16-7.

Leading the way for the Wildcats were Grady Hansen with 22 points followed by Cedric Edwards and Al Jones with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Southern downs Wildcats

Wayne State dropped a 77-56 decision to Missouri Southern Saturday. The Lions got off to an early lead and maintained it throughout the first half as the Wildcats were down 41-24 at halftime.

With the start of the second half, the Wildcats scored the first eight points to close the gap to nine points before Missouri Southern could manage a basket. Leading scorers for the Wildcats were Leon McCrae and Grady Hansen with 14 points each.

Lady Wildcats lose to Pittsburg State

The Wayne State Lady Wildcats dropped a disappointing 71-59 decision to the Gussies of Pittsburg State Friday. Even though the Lady Cats scored 25 of their 59 points at the foul line they could not put together a consistent enough attack to overcome their mistakes.

The Wayne State women kept the game close in the first half as they trailed by only four points 25-31 at halftime on the shooting of Lori Koester.

Second half action saw the Lady Cats close the Pittsburg lead several times.

The Wayne State Lady Cats placed three players in double figures as Lori Koester poured in 18 points and Julie Petronis and Lisa Draper followed with 14 and 13 points respectively.

The Wayne State women will next see action on Friday and Saturday as they travel to Washburn and Emporia.

Wayne State women lose a close road game

Wayne State lost a 61-58 decision to the Missouri Southern Lady Lions Saturday. The game was fast paced as both teams depended upon their fast break for early baskets. The first half saw the lead change hands numerous times as neither team could establish its dominance.

The second half mirrored the first as the score remained close throughout the contest. Free throws again were the culprit as the Lady Cats missed several key free throws in the latter part of the game.

Leading scorers for Wayne State were Lori Koester with 18 points and Lisa Draper with 13 points.

Allen Girls Reach Lewis Finals

It will be a meeting of familiar faces as Allen and Ponca square off in the Lewis Division girls finals of the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament tomorrow (Friday) night.

Allen and Ponca girls have met twice this season with Class D's fifth ranked Eagles winning both encounters 39-30 and 48-37. Both games were close until the fourth quarter.

Allen reached the Lewis finals by downing Homer 77-54 Tuesday night while Ponca upended Walthill 58-46 in the nightcap. Both games were played at Newcastle.

Allen Ponca matchup is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Friday in Walthill. The boys finals of the Lewis Division will follow at 8 p.m. "Ponca played as well against Walthill as I've seen them play. We've had two close games with them and expect another good one. Both teams are playing well. Allen coach Gary Troth said.

Allen controlled the tempo of the entire game Tuesday and outscored Homer in the first three quarters before letting reserve players take over.

Three girls scored in double figures and six other players scored at least two points. Lisa Erwin led the winners with 22 points, freshman Shelly Williams pumped in 16 and Des Williams scored a dozen.

Two other players were one basket shy of hitting double figures. Janet Peterson and Michelle Harder each scored eight points. Homer was led by Vic Donnelly with 30 points and Jo Tie with 10.

"We played real good basketball. Homer is a good club and I knew we'd have to score some points," said Troth. "Both teams pressed and it was a high scoring game. We moved the ball real well, worked to the open areas and hit our shots. We played consistently."

Allen scores: 15 12 14 13-54. Homer scores: 26 16 21 14-77.

Hartington Boys Win

The Winside Wildcats were eliminated from the Lewis and Clark Conference Basketball Tournament 70-41 Monday by a hot shooting Hartington team. The game was played in Wakefield.

Winside found itself down by nine points after the first quarter and by 16 at the half. A 20-8 advantage in the final period ran up the winning margin.

Brad Roberts led Winside with 12 points and four assists. Byron Schellenberg scored 10 points and Jim Krajicek scored 10 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

Hartington advances into the Clark Division semifinals against Wynot at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday) in Wakefield. Paul Heggart led Hartington with 16 points. The loss dropped Winside's record to 0-10. The Wildcats will complete their regular season on Tuesday, Feb. 10 when they host Hartington.

Hartington Winside scores: 17 15 18 20-70. Winside scores: 8 8 17 8-41.

Allen Boys are Dropped

A dismal third quarter led to Allen's downfall as Ponca's boys eliminated the Eagles from the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament 52-38 Monday night.

It was the third meeting between the two teams and third victory for the Indians. Ponca won the other two games by scores of 47-45 and 48-47.

Ponca advanced into second round action against Newcastle at 6:30 p.m. today (Thursday) in Walthill.

Allen had a cold night, hitting only 23 percent of its shots from the floor compared to 35 percent for Ponca. Frank Lanser scored 15 points and made 16 rebounds for the Eagles. Terry Brewer scored 14, Rick Gotch had nine rebounds and three steals and Robb Linafelter made six assists.

Allen coach Dan Looe stated that his team "couldn't hit anything". The Eagles led by five points midway through the second quarter but Ponca took the lead 23-22. Looe switched to a man-to-man defense in the second half but later admitted that may have been a mistake.

He pointed out that Ponca scored some easy baskets and after gaining a lead used a slowdown offense which forced Allen to continue its man-to-man play.

The winners were led by Keith Curry and Larry O'Neil with 13 points each.

Next action for Allen is scheduled at Wakefield Tuesday. The Eagles will then compete in the Ponca Tournament Feb. 5-7.

Trojan Girls are Ousted

Wakefield's challenge in the first round of the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament fell apart in the second half Saturday night as Hartington eliminated the Trojans 47-26.

The game was tied after one quarter and Wakefield was within two points 14-12 at the half. Hartington outscored the Trojans 33-14 in the second half.

"We played a very, very good first half. But we came out very cold in the second half," Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur said. "If we put two good halves together, we can play real well."

Wakefield hit 23 percent from the field and Hartington made 27 percent of its shots. Joan Miller scored nine points and pulled down 18 rebounds and Rita Wilson made six points and had six rebounds.

Leading scorers for Hartington were Sheila Juehlin with 15 points and Carla Waiz with 13. Trojan regular Connie Tuilberg sat out the journey game with torn ligaments in her ankle and may not be back for the next game. Wakefield, now 0-12, will seek its first win at Coleridge Tuesday and Wilbur said he expects a close game. The Trojans are scheduled to host Allen Feb. 10 and Laurel Feb. 12.

Hartington Wakefield scores: 4 10 11 22-47. Wakefield scores: 4 8 4 10-26.

Winside is Eliminated

Competition in the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament came to an early and disappointing end for the Winside girls.

Hartington overtopped Winside 49-46 Tuesday in double overtime. The second round game was played in Winside. Winside received a first round bye and Hartington eliminated Wakefield 47-26 in Saturday's first round competition.

Host Winside trailed 8-6 after one quarter and 18-11 at the half. A second-half rally led to a tie at the end of regulation.

The Wildcats outscored Hartington 12-8 in the third period and 17-14 in the fourth to send the game into overtime. Each team scored four points in the extra period to set up a second overtime.

Winside was led by a fine performance from Laurie Gallop. She scored 17 points and pulled down 19 rebounds in the losing effort. Robyn Winch scored 10 points and made five assists and Daria Janke scored nine points.

Leading scorer for Hartington was Carla Waiz with 23 points. The win advanced Hartington into the Clark Division finals against Wynot.

The hosts outrebounded the opponents 36 to 26. The two teams played earlier this month with Hartington taking a 36-25 win in that game.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Huscall

AFTER PLAYING Class B's third-ranked Hartington Cedar Catholic to the wire last Friday, the Wayne Blue Devils were rewarded with a climb on the ratings ladder.

Wayne entered Friday's game ranked 10th in The Omaha World Herald's Class B ratings and unranked among Class B's best by The Lincoln Journal and Star.

After nearly upsetting Hartington CC, Wayne moved up to seventh in the Omaha rankings and up to ninth in the Lincoln rankings.

Both Wayne and Cedar will get fested next week as West Husker Tournament action begins. Cedar will meet the West Point CC-Madison winner in the semifinal round.

After a strong start, West Point has been slipping in its last five or six games. Madison got blown out by Cedar earlier this year but would surely give the Trojans a closer game this time.

In the bottom bracket, Wayne meets Wisner-Pilger. If the Blue Devils win that game they will meet the Emerson-Lakeview winner in semifinal action. Emerson keeps getting better with each outing and has a pretty fine team. The Pirates are certainly no pushover.

Should Wayne and Cedar both pass their earlier tests, the two would meet in the tourney finals.

WRESTLING RATINGS for Classes C and D were released this past week and Winside is tabbed 10th in the Class D team rankings. Two Wildcats are ranked in their respective weight classes.

Defending 119 pound state champion undefeated Brian Foote is competing in the 126 pound class this year and is rated first in that division. Top challengers are Jay Dubs of Hyannis and Tom Wipt of Weeping Water. Both were medal winners in the 112 pound class last year.

Barry Bowers of Winside is the other ranked wrestler, listed fourth at 167 pounds. Two returning medal winners from this area are not presently rated this season.

Mark Koch of Winside placed fifth at 105 pounds and is competing at 119 pounds this year. Jon Stelling of Wakefield placed fourth at 105 pounds last season and is certified at 112 pounds this year. Wakefield is a Class C team.

THE ALLEN EAGLES ranked seventh in last week's Class D ratings, jumped to fifth in The Omaha World Herald rankings released Tuesday.

Allen will get a firm test this week in the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament. With Homer, Ponca, and Wakefield in the Lewis Division pairings, the finals of the Lewis Division should be interesting. The championship playoff between the Lewis and Clark Division champs will be held at 6:30 Saturday night.

THE HEAVY HOOPERS of Channel Nine (Sioux City) game will be competing in an exhibition game at Wakefield Saturday, Feb. 7.

The Wakefield basketball team which will face the Hoopers appears to be complete and ready to go but Barb Sampson says her cheerleading group is not yet complete.

She said that several ladies agreed to be cheerleaders but later turned down the jobs after having discussions with their spouses. Sampson added though that she isn't worried about being able to fill all the positions with "shapely dolls".

Discussing the team that will take the floor against Channel Nine, coach Norman Minola announced that his roster is complete with considerable talent at every position. He will not announce the identity of any player until proper nicknames are given.

Improved Performance Grasps Home Victory for Blue Devils

The Wayne girls gained a psychological lift as they broke a three-game losing streak with a 48-30 win over Pender Tuesday night in the Wayne-Carroll gym.

The Blue Devils put together a complete game against Pender, playing well on both ends of the court. The win improved their record to 3-7.

Jenni DeTurk and Jill Zeiss provided the one-two offensive punch for the hosts. DeTurk hit 16 points, mostly on good outside shooting and Zeiss scored 14 points often of fastbreak baskets.

"I'm happy with the team. We did things right and ran our kind of game. We scored a lot of points off of the fastbreak," Wayne coach Becky Kelley said.

The Blue Devils jumped out in front 12-2 at the end of the first quarter and pulled away later in the game. Wayne had the game under control with a 27-9 half-time advantage and ran away to a lead of 41-19 after three quarters.

Coach Kelley played her reserves for the entire fourth quarter letting them get some varsity experience. After the game, the Wayne coach said she wanted to let her reserves play even longer but pointed out that they had only one quarter of eligibility remaining after playing in the junior varsity game.

Wayne ran a quicker offense than usual and tried to pass the ball around more. With the changed style, Zeiss made five assists and Lynn Surber made four.

Missy Stollenberg grabbed nine rebounds and Deb Prenger came off the bench to pull down eight rebounds. Tamie Murray scored seven points and Surber added six. Leading scorer for Pender was Pam Harding with 12 points.

"We used a new offense that we introduced last week and the girls picked it up well. It was nice to win after losing three games by less than three points," Kelley stated. "Jill had a good game and she really hustled. Jenni had a good game and Tamie Murray did a good job in her first start."

Murray took over for Tammie Thomas, who missed the game due to illness. In junior varsity action, Pender nipped Wayne 19-18. Wayne was led in scoring by Pam Nissen with eight points. Shelly Emry with four points and Kris Baier with four.

Wayne is scheduled to play at Class B's ninth ranked Hartington Cedar Catholic tonight (Thursday) and then compete in the West Husker Conference Tournament next week.

The Blue Devils will play Madison at 8 p.m. Monday in the opening round of the conference tourney. Wayne lost its season opener to Madison 39-37 in overtime. All West Husker Tourney games are scheduled in the Wayne High gym.

"We're looking forward to avenging the two point loss against Madison. There is a lot of incentive and the girls are really fired up," Kelley said. "We're a lot different team now than we were in the first game."

Laurel Nips Randolph on Late Free Throw

In what Laurel coach Joel Parks termed the battle of the hard luck kids, the Laurel Bears overcame a poor offensive performance to slip past Randolph 31-30, Tuesday night.

With four seconds remaining in the game, Joe Olsen hit the front end of a one and one situation to give Laurel the one-point victory.

"We were very fortunate to win. We finally got one back and won a close one that we probably shouldn't have (won)," said coach Parks. "We didn't shoot well and stood around a lot. We started out cold and were unable to generate momentum."

Parks termed the two squads the hard luck kids referring to the fact that each team had lost four or five extremely close games.

The Bears started out unusually cold, hitting only two of their first 17 shots from the field for a miserable 12 percent accuracy in the first half. Randolph led 8-4 at the end of the first period and 14-10 at the half.

Laurel warmed up in the second half, connecting on 10 of 18 field goal attempts for 56 percent. The locals held a 16 to 11 advantage in rebounding.

"We were a long way from playing as well as we have before. We've played much better basketball this season," Parks stated. "We kind of lucked out. Kelly Robson came off the bench and did a good job. He scored six points for us."

Olsen led the winners with nine points while Robson, Matt Johnson and Scott Norvell added six points each. Randolph was led by Brad Johnson with 12 points.

The Bears will compete in the Ponca Invitational Feb. 5-7 and will then play at Osmond Tuesday, Feb. 10. Laurel won the junior varsity game over Randolph 55-50. Phil Martin scored 16 points and Kraig Loquist scored 14 to lead the winners. Other scorers: Brian Marquardt, 6; Dave Marquardt, 6; Tim Bloom, 4; Kelly Robson, 4; Tod Heitman, 4; Jerry Kastrop, 2.

Mark Cramer Wins Big Fish Contest

A former Wayne man has won a "big fish" contest and along with it a $1,000 fishing trip.

Mark Cramer, Minneapolis, caught and released the largest arctic grayling entered at Morberg's camp at Black Lake in northern Saskatchewan last summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cramer. Wayne. He was fishing with his father at the time the prize fish was caught and released.

Each year, the camp sponsors a "Catch and Release" contest. The contest is to encourage fishermen not to keep larger fish unless they want to have the trophy mounted.

Contestants are required to have their guide weigh the fish, take a picture and then return the fish to the lake. Cramer's arctic grayling weighed three and one-half pounds. The world record grayling is just over five pounds. Last year's winner weighed two and one-half.

First prize in the contest is a $1,000 trip to any of the resorts operated by the sponsor, Grande Domain Retreats, Lincoln. The company operates fishing and hunting camps throughout North America, including several trout fishing, duck, goose, turkey and antelope hunting camps in Nebraska.

Arctic grayling and northern pike are the only fishing contests sponsored at the particular camp at which the Cramers were fishing. Top winner of the northern contest was 28 pounds. Alan Cramer had released a 19 1/2 pound northern.

The contest winners were announced Friday.

Laurel Defeated by Randolph

The Randolph girls, ranked seventh in Class C, improved their record to 15-0 with a 60-42 win over scrappy Laurel, Monday night in the Laurel-Concord gym.

The Bears stayed within four or five points in each quarter but let their undefeated opponents lead on for the win.

Laurel hit 38 percent of its shots from the field while failing to 5-8 for the season.

"The game really wasn't as bad as the score indicated. We played pretty well but had to rely on our outside shooting against their height," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "We would take away their inside game and they'd rely on their guards. Then we'd take away their outside shooting and they would work the ball inside. They are good in many facets of the game."

The Bears trailed 13-9 after the first quarter, 35-26 at the half and 44-31 after three periods. In an explosive second quarter, Randolph outscored Laurel 22-17.

The hosts were led by Kim Sherry and Kay Anderson with 11 and 10 points each. Anne Schull had five rebounds and Rene Gadeken scored six points. Iverson said he was pleased with the performance of Patsy Thompson who made four steals and grabbed four rebounds.

Two undefeated teams clashed in the junior varsity game with Randolph claiming a 31-23 win. Kelly Johnson scored 10 points and Jill Hansen added seven points for Laurel.

Wakefield Men Win Doubles Title

Lon Uman of Lyons, 671, edged Roger Johnson, 663, also of Lyons, to win the singles event in the seventh annual Wakefield Lions Club bowling tournament completed here last weekend. Third was Pat Bennett of Sioux City.

Doug and Rich Fischer of Wakefield, 1,377, easily led the men's double field. Second place went to Larry Landholm and Gary Peterson of Oakland, 1,319, and third was won by Nick Harris and Marvin Groh of South Sioux City.

Lyons and Wakefield bowlers also dominated the mixed doubles where the winners were Gary and Jo Slaughter of Lyons, 1,253. Gary Peterson of Oakland and Edith Taylor of Wakefield, 1,253, were second, six pins ahead of Rich and Lella Fischer of Wakefield.

In the team event, Don's Electric of Wakefield, 3,201, was first, followed by Mill's Bunch of Wakefield, 3,113, and Lou's Thriftway of Norfolk, 3,030.

Wayne Eighth Grade Splits Decisions

The Wayne eighth graders suffered their first loss of the season then rebounded for a win in boys basketball action in the last week.

The young Blue Devils were upset 29-26 by Schuyler last Thursday but defeated Wakefield 47-23 Monday.

Wayne scorers against Schuyler: Steve Overin, 7; Kevin Koenig, 4; Kevin Maly, 6; Brad Moore, 2; Chris Wieseler, 7.

In Monday's game, Wayne and Wakefield had a close game until the Devils outscored the Trojans 14-4 in the third quarter.

Coach Darrell Heier's team upped its record to 3-1 with Monday's win. Steve Overin and Kevin Maly scored 16 and 12 points respectively. Other scorers: Kevin Koenig, 6; Chris Wieseler, 4; Brad Moore, 2; Rick Nelson, 2.

Wakefield scoring: Brian Soderberg, 9; Jeff Olsen, 4; Mike Murphy, 4; Jeff Verplank, 2; Kraig Dolph, 2; Jason Erb, 2.

Wayne is scheduled to play at Norfolk Catholic next Saturday.

Stelling Leads Trojan Wrestlers

Jan Stelling won a gold medal and three other Wakefield wrestlers finished third in the Oakland-Craig Invitational held Saturday.

Stelling pinned Stuevan of South Sioux in the 112-pound-finals to claim his individual championship.

Dirk Carlson, Joedy Sherer, and Doug Verplank placed third in their respective weight classes.

Carlson pinned Lewis of Tekamah Herman in the 126-pound consolation finals. Sherer decisioned Gilliland of Lyons 4-1 at 138 pounds and Verplank decisioned Bacha of Howells 6-3 in the 155-pound class.

Next action for the Trojans is scheduled Thursday in a dual at Wayne.

Area Communities Chosen To Help Improve Tourism

Gov. Charles Thone announced this week that his office has been advised by the Old West Regional Commission that eight Nebraska cities have been selected to participate in a five-state program to boost tourism by attracting conventions.

Nebraska cities selected are Grand Island, Kearney, Lincoln, Norfolk, North Platte, Omaha, Scottsbluff and South Sioux City.

This effort is part of the Old West Regional Commission's project to assist the tourism sector which has been hard hit by rising gas prices and changing travel patterns," said Governor Thone. Work has been completed on the first phase of the project, which involved compiling information on 37 selected communities in the region and preparing an "Old West Meetings" packet which is being distributed to convention and participation at trade shows.

Governor Thone is the State Co-Chairman of the Old West Regional Commission. The Old West Regional Commission is made up of the Governors of Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota and North Dakota.

Food Security Reserve Set

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said four million tons of wheat owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation will be used to constitute the nation's first food security reserve.

"With this action, we have realized a goal set by the Carter Administration to create a reserve which would help guarantee that this country will be able to meet its priority food aid commitments to developing nations. It will help ensure that the United States is a dependable supplier of food aid even in years of short supply," Bergland said.

Legislation to create such a reserve was introduced in 1978; however, it was not until last December that authorizing legislation was passed by the Congress and signed by the President.

"Wheat from this reserve will be used only for food aid and then, only when the domestic supply of wheat is so limited that sufficient quantities of wheat cannot be made available for disposition under P.L. 480 programs," Bergland said. "This insulates the security reserve from the marketplace and prevents the stored wheat from depressing commercial grain prices when supplies are more readily available."

The United States has been a major source of food aid to developing countries during the past 25 years. During that time, the United States has provided more than $27 billion worth of commodities to help meet food needs of these countries.

Between 1973 and 1975, when world grain supplies were in short supply, the United States cut back on its food assistance to meet commercial demands just when the need for food aid was abnormally large. The food security reserve will help permit this nation to maintain food assistance programs when supplies are short, Bergland said.

"Maintaining a regular level of food aid is also important to the economic well-being of U.S.

agricultural producers and the economies of both the United States and recipient countries," Bergland said. "We know from past experience that many nations that have received significant quantities of food aid have become major commercial customers of U.S. agricultural products."

The CCC has already acquired the four million tons of wheat comprising the reserve as a result of assuming the contracts cancelled by the suspension of sales to the Soviet Union. A small portion of the reserve — 300,000 tons — can be used under Title II provisions without regard to domestic supply availabilities to meet urgent humanitarian relief in developing countries suffering a major disaster.

Vakoc Gets Solar Stipend

The Nebraska Solar Office has announced the awarding of contracts to four developers in the state for the purpose of planning subdivisions which provide for solar access and the building of homes that meet minimal standards of energy efficiency.

Among those receiving contracts was Vakoc Construction Company of Wayne. The contracts range from $4,900 to $6,000. The Nebraska Energy Extension Service has funded this program through the Nebraska Solar Office as part of its effort to provide financial assistance to residential developers, builders, engineers, architects, legal and marketing consultants to develop experience in the design and construction of solar subdivisions.

Jim Bowman, project manager, observed that "the quality of proposals submitted for funding indicates a high level of sophistication and awareness in Nebraska for subdivisions which promote solar access, energy conservation techniques, utilization of the best in solar technology."

Work on these projects will begin immediately and reaching completion in the fall of 1981. Open houses will be conducted at that time at each site making it possible for the general public to become aware of solar access techniques and solar technology applications.

Vakoc Construction Co. is developer of Sunnyview Subdivision east of Wayne and north of Amber Inn just off U.S. 35.

Winter Ag Schools Planned

Wayne County, along with 12 other Extension Services in Northeast Nebraska, are offering a series of Winter Agricultural Schools in February and March.
Monday, Feb. 2, from 10:30 to 3 p.m. at USDA Service Center in Wayne. Conservation Tillage and Integrated Pest Management: will be topic, with Russell Moomaw, Extension agronomist and John Witkowski, Extension entomologist, featured.
Farm operators are using many different tillage systems for seedbed preparation of row crops. Principles of fertilizer use, weed, disease and insect control in these conservation tillage crop production systems will be discussed. The benefit of conservation tillage systems in preventing soil erosion and maintaining productivity and dollar value will be emphasized.
A total insect management program will be discussed. Emphasis will be on field scouting, insect recognition and insecticide treatment timing and threshold guidelines. When applicable, other methods of reducing insect losses will be discussed including crop rotation, variety selection and protection of beneficial insects such as parasites and predators.
Pesticide recertification training is planned Thursday, Feb. 12, 1-3 p.m. All farmers who were certified in 1976 and 1977 must be recertified in 1981 by attending a two hour refresher session. The first of several such sessions will be held at Winside City Auditorium on Thursday, Feb. 12, from 1 to 3.
Other sessions in February and March are scheduled in Wayne (dates to be announced).
Tuesday, Feb. 17 1-3 p.m. USDA Service Center in Wayne. Feeder Pig Management featuring Mike Brumm, Extension Swine Specialist.
Feeder pig receiving programs and growing-finishing swine nutrition and management will be discussed. Topics covered on feeder pigs will include receiving ration, water medication and housing. Nutrition and management topics include premix vs. concentrates, high moisture grains, protein sources, energy sources and feed handling systems.
Friday, Feb. 27 1-3 p.m. USDA Service Center in Wayne. Proteins — Your Biggest Out-of-Pocket Cost, featuring Paul Guyer, Extension beef specialist.
The meeting will review concepts of protein nutrition plus introduce the bypass protein concept. Other areas covered include use of home grown proteins and where urea may be used in both feedlot and cow-calf nutrition.
Monday, March 2, 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m., USDA Service Center in Wayne. Getting More From The Fertilizer You Put On, featuring George Rehm, Extension agronomist.

Fertilizer is a major investment for crop production in northeast Nebraska. How much do I need? When is the best time to apply? Are fertilizer sources different? These are some of the questions that will be answered. Controlling fertilizer costs without hurting yields will be emphasized at this meeting.

Workshop Planned

Wayne State College Extended Campus Division will offer a Gestalt Workshop which will be held on Friday, Feb. 6 from 8 to 10 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 7 and 8 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Birch Room of the Student Center.
The Friday seminar is free and open to the public. Cost for the entire weekend workshop is $22 for Nebraska residents and $37 for non-residents.
Gestalt is based on the premise that what persons need in order to grow to know themselves as more whole persons is an experience — not an explanation.
The introductory workshop is designed to be useful and valuable as a personal growth experience for anyone wishing to attend. The trainer for the workshop is Dr. Vincent Savage, counseling psychologist at the Gestalt Institute, in Denver. Dr. Savage has been involved in Gestalt Therapy for the past 10 years and has trained with well known gestalt therapists throughout the country.
For additional information concerning the workshop contact WSC Extended Campus Division 375-2200, ext. 232.

Tight House May Cause Health Problems: Mosley

Winterizing a home during cold weather will help save energy and provide additional warmth. However, according to Keith Mosley, district manager for Peoples Natural Gas Company in Wayne, several safety precautions should be followed during the winter heating season.

"The danger of carbon monoxide may occur in any home which has been tightly sealed or weatherstripped, limiting the fresh air flow," Mosley said, adding, "This is especially true when a fireplace is in use."

He explained that the flames consume air from inside the house, depleting the fresh air supply. "In a weatherized home, the fireplace then begins sucking air down through the chimney or furnace flue. And flue products, normally vented to the outside, are drawn into the living quarters." These problems could then begin to produce carbon monoxide if there is insufficient air in the home. The answer is not for people to stop weatherizing. "Rather, homeowners should crack open a window while using their fireplaces," Mosley said, noting, "Installation of a fresh air intake for the fireplace is a more permanent solution."

Proper venting, he said, is also very important in homes where woodburning stoves or kerosene heaters are used. Unless adequately vented, toxic gases, including kerosene fumes, will back up into the home.

Mosley also cautioned against connecting too many vents to one source. "Remember, one stove to a chimney. A wood stove, heater or fireplace should never share a chimney." He added that the chimney and venting system should be in good condition with no leaks. Although carbon monoxide is odorless and colorless, signs of carbon monoxide poisoning include headaches, nausea and burning eyes. A yellow, rather than blue burner flame in the furnace and cool furnace flue pipes may also indicate reverse exhaust flow.

"Homeowners experiencing these signs should immediately open a window for fresh air and then have their furnace and fireplace checked," Mosley said, indicating that Peoples provides customer inspection services for the presence of carbon monoxide and improper venting.

He noted that homeowners should also be familiar with the smell of natural gas. "The odor is put into natural gas as a safety precaution," Mosley said, "and customers should immediately contact Peoples for a free safety check whenever a strong smell of natural gas persists in the home."

Hospital Target of Cutters

Proposed regulations mandating a "costly, burdensome and unjustified accounting system" for hospitals nationwide have been targeted for review and possible elimination by the Reagan Administration, Congressman Doug Bereuter said recently.

"I am encouraged that those of us who are concerned about over regulation may finally be successful in our efforts to prevent a uniform accounting system being imposed on hospitals," Bereuter said. "This costly, burdensome and unjustified accounting system should be among the first regulations thrown out the window by the Reagan Administration."

Reagan officials have received a transition document recommending that the new administration promptly review 110 federal regulations to consider revising or eliminating them. Among the regulations singled out for early attention is the Annual Hospital Report (AHR) proposed last year by the Department of Health and Human Services. AHR is intended as a revision of the earlier proposed System for Hospital Uniform Reporting (SHUR), which was soundly rejected by Congress in 1979.

In a letter to David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), Bereuter said, "I believe OMB's close examination of the proposed regulations should be a high priority. Such an evaluation will lead, I believe, to a rejection of AHR and instructions to the Department of Health and Human Services for further, extensive revision."

Theophilus Ladies Meet in Ritze Home

Theophilus Ladies Aid met last Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harold Ritze.

Mrs. Duane Thompson was program leader and read a poem by Helen Steiner Rice, entitled "A Prayer for the New Year." She also read an article, "God's Guarantees in the Journey of Life" by Frank Gabelstein.

The program ended with the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Ritze conducted the business meeting. Several thank you notes were read and the birthday song was sung for Mrs. Otto Koch.

The next meeting will be Feb. 19 in the home of Mrs. Duane Thompson. Mildred Wacker will be in charge of the program.

Guest prizes were won by Mrs. Kant, high, and Mrs. Lage, second high. Receiving club prizes were Mrs. Ben Benschoff, high, and Mrs. Leo Jensen, second high.

Next meeting will be Feb. 5 with Mrs. Lloyd Behmer. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Ben Benschoff and Mrs. N. L. Diltman.

Housewarming Held

Members of the Theophilus Church northeast of Winside held a housewarming party Sunday for the Otto Kochs of Norfolk, who are members of the Theophilus Church.

Kochs recently retired from farming and are making their home in Norfolk. A plant was presented to the couple and a carry-in lunch was served.

Skating Party

The sixth grade students of Winside Elementary School enjoyed a roller skating party at Wakefield Sunday afternoon. Fifth grade students were guests.

Mrs. Alfred Miller is sixth grade teacher and Mrs. Betty Lawrence teaches fifth grade.

More Proof Is Needed In Seeking Food Stamps

Persons applying for food stamps will be asked for more proof of information provided on their applications under rules recently adopted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The new rules will give states added authority to require proof of household size from every applicant, as well as all shelter and child care expenses used to determine eligibility and benefits. The rule will allow states to require documentation of these factors, whether or not the information supplied by the applicant appears questionable, according to Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman.

The regulations will also put into effect a provision of food stamp legislation enacted in May that allows states to develop a profile of the types of food stamp cases and eligibility factors that are most subject to error. Foreman said. States would then be able to require verification of all information and food stamp cases that fit into these categories shown to be "error prone."

"The error prone profile can be an important management tool," Foreman said. "States should be able to use it to target their verification efforts on the information and cases most likely to cause errors. This can help to promote administrative efficiency while reducing errors at the same time."

Other rule changes require verification of household identity and residency in every case. The rule also clarifies the state's authority for securing verification of information provided by destitute households seeking emergency food stamps.

Currently, all persons applying for food stamps must document their income, social security number and certain medical and utility expenses. People who are not U.S. citizens must prove that they are legal aliens who have been admitted to this country for permanent residence.

States can also require all applicants to provide proof of their liquid assets. In addition, states must require proof of a number of other eligibility factors, such as rent or household composition, whenever the information provided by an applicant has been questionable.

"This rulemaking is the latest in a series of USDA and Congressional efforts to tighten food stamp management," Foreman said. Starting on June 1, 1980, USDA required states to obtain social security numbers from applicants to facilitate cross-checks of information about applicants. Other rules put into effect at that time required persons disqualified for food stamp fraud to arrange to pay back the value of the stamps they received before being allowed to rejoin the program. These changes were authorized by legislation passed by Congress last summer.

The new rules were published in the Jan. 13 Federal Register.

HORTICULTURE

Plan Your Garden Now for Quality Results Later

Whatever the temperature outside, it's time to begin planning gardens.

And according to a University of Nebraska extension horticulturist, there are no specifics and many generalities to consider when ordering from those enticing seed catalogs.

The 1981 catalogs, as always, are beautiful, but Don Steinegger, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist, has some advice for those who might order from them.

According to Steinegger and Katie Weiss, NU home gardening coordinator, nearly all garden items listed in reputable firms' seed catalogs are good varieties. However, a number of the catalogs come from the east or west coasts and varieties are tested there.

Weiss suggested looking for the All-American selections listed in the catalogs. These varieties are tested in 30 sites with a wide range of climatic conditions across the United States and are selected by judges. Although these All-American selections are considered good, they may not be the best variety for a given area, Weiss explained.

Some seed testing is done in Nebraska, but most information is based on feedback from growers across the state. Steinegger said Nebraska has a very diverse climate, and the resultant large number of seed varieties makes testing expensive.

"It is very difficult to test every variety that will do well or that all people like," Weiss added. The tremendous variation in climate from year to year in Nebraska causes some varieties to do well one year and poorly the next. However, she has put together an extension circular entitled "Selected Vegetable Varieties in Nebraska," which lists those varieties that generally do well in the state. Interested persons should contact their county extension office to obtain a copy.

The specialists noted that when selecting seeds, it's important to remember that even the proper variety doesn't always guarantee success. "The seed carries the potential, but you have to do the work yourself," Steinegger said. Gardening in Nebraska can be very discouraging at times, but it is a challenge. Steinegger said "better gardeners are found here because environmental stresses often are more severe here."

In addition to selecting All-American varieties, Steinegger and Weiss have other suggestions which may help your garden be a success.

By planting several different varieties of a crop, a green-thumber can determine which grows the best in a specific area. Some newer varieties listed in this year's catalogs include selections which are more disease-resistant and varieties of space-saving vegetables. The space-saving vegetables are more of a bush type rather than the vine type which allows more area in the garden. Usually the quality of the vine type vegetables is better, according to Steinegger. He suggested talking to the county extension agent about diseases in a particular area before ordering seeds, so you can look for the more disease-resistant varieties. Persons looking for something new and different will find seed companies are stressing novelty vegetables this year, such as purple cauliflower and ruby lettuce which provide added color.

When choosing a seed catalog, try to find one circulating in the immediate geographical region. However, some catalogs from the East have some good short season crop varieties," Steinegger said. Be realistic when you read about the seeds, as a lot of the vegetables are "hyped up," Weiss cautions.

Sources of information other than seed catalogs may help you plan your garden. Friends, county agents, reputable nurserymen and local garden clubs often can advise on seed selection and other garden matters.

Some varieties suggested by Steinegger that generally do well in Nebraska are Gypsy Hybrid Sweet Pepper Yella-Fleshed All American, Green Goliath Broccoli-Premium-Crop; (Flowers) Impatia "Blitz" (scarlet-orange large flowered), Elosia "apricot Brandy" (orange colored), French Marigold Colored Honeycomb, California Girl yellow petunia, Wizard Coleus Series, Golden Margarita Gazania, and Dwarf 'Pulcin' Zinnia.

"When you begin planning your garden, it's a good idea to ask yourself why you are gardening," the specialist recommended. Planning is more critical if the produce makes up a larger part of the diet. Start out small, said Steinegger. "If gets very hot in the summer and gardens require a lot of time and effort, including hand weeding." Sometimes the crops produce more than expected so don't plant too much if just starting out.

There are no clear cut rules in the business of home gardening, but "proper seed selection, hard work and experience may help provide the key to a successful garden," Steinegger concluded.

Wayne Wranglers
The Wayne Wranglers 4-H Club met Jan. 21 at Columbus Federal Savings and Loan meeting room in Wayne. Seven members were present.

Following the treasurer's report, Ann Liska gave a demonstration on diseases of horse's feet and legs. A test was given the members on defects of horse's feet and legs.

Three of the members will attend an Officer's Training Session to be held Jan. 26 at the city auditorium. Assignments were given each member for reports at future meetings on different breeds of horses.

Next meeting will be Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Columbus Federal Savings and Loan meeting room. John Etter, news reporter.

Barnyard manure for gardens
With the open, dry winter we have had so far, now would be an excellent time to apply some barnyard manure to your garden.

Barnyard manure gives excellent results on most garden soils when properly used. It is a very good source of organic matter and plant nutrients. An annual application of well rotted barnyard manure (400 to 600 pounds per 1,000 feet) is recommended. Use half this amount of chicken or sheep manure.

The use of manure will increase the supply of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium available to plants. It also supplies other essential elements to plants. In addition to the essential elements, barnyard manure increases water holding capacity and improves the physical condition of the soil.

Check livestock waterers.
Dry weather has lowered water tables, and reduced the effectiveness of electrical grounds. When the soil is wet around a waterer, it may present a path of lower resistance to current flow than the ground rod at the service entrance. If this situation exists, or if for any other reason, such as bad insulation on the wire, voltage builds up on the water and livestock will not drink.

Check animals and waterers. If the livestock are not drinking, current may be leaking into the water and the waterer. Check the water temperature and the thermostat. Repair frayed wires and replace wires which have old cracked insulation. It might be worthwhile to water around the ground to be sure it is making good contact with the soil.

Dry weather increases the hazard of loss either from reduced gains or from electrocution of animals.

Local Tree Planting Urged

Nebraska citizens agencies and groups are being urged to start a local tree planting program through their county extension agents.

Gov. Charles Thone has asked Nebraskans to get involved in the new "Plant Two Trees" plan, which he has endorsed and encouraged.

County agents have been sent an explanation of the program and a written appeal by Thone.

Thone issued a proclamation on Nov. 5 last year, encouraging farm, civic and governmental agencies and individual citizens to plant 2,000, 2,000 or 20,000 trees.

The loss of trees affects Nebraska's wildlife, beauty, soil protection, temperature, chill index, air purification crops and recreation activities, the proclamation states.

The Plant Two Trees program will continue indefinitely, according to Joe Range, extension forester at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Tree experts at NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources are planning weekly news releases on care and usefulness of trees, at least through May, he said.

The program's state steering committee members feel that most counties support the program by setting up local or county wide tree committees, said Range, steering committee chairman.

The number "two" is important in forestry tree planting, he said. Two hundred trees per street mile is considered ideal and 2,000 trees planted properly will make an excellent living rural wind and snow fence.

Different counties will have different goals to meet local needs such as planting in city parks, county roads, densely populated cities or isolated farms.

The program is important to Nebraskans, Range said, because the state is losing trees at an ever increasing rate.

Trees in rural areas help reduce erosion, protect livestock, farmsteads, crops and wildlife and bring greenery to the countryside, he said.

Trees in cities can reduce heating and cooling costs, provide recreation in parks, encourage urban wildlife and enhance the value and beauty of homes and businesses.

Christmas tree farms, firewood trees and nut and fruit orchards offer monetary benefits as well as beautifying the land, Range said.

Interested persons may obtain a brochure explaining the program from their county agents.

Ak-Sar-Ben to Continue Grants to County Fairs

During a report to the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers at their annual meeting Tuesday, Ak-Sar-Ben spokesman Harold F. Youngren announced that Ak-Sar-Ben would continue the organization's grants to Nebraska county fairs.

This will be the 28th consecutive year Ak-Sar-Ben has awarded these building grants for new improvements to the fairs. The grants are in the amount of $1,000 on a matching basis, and all counties not conducting pari-mutuel programs are eligible. In 1980, $80,000 was distributed to the fairs.

"The county fairs in Nebraska have received more than $4 million since we started this program in 1954," Youngren said.

"We are pleased to be able to make this money available to the fairs as a direct result of the Ak-Sar-Ben race meeting. Nebraska county fairs have the reputation as some of the nation's most successful, and we are confident that Ak-Sar-Ben's help over the years has contributed to that success. This is always one of our most rewarding undertakings."

During 1980, Ak-Sar-Ben hosted nearly two million members, patrons, and spectators for various activities, including the 60-day race meeting, which was attended by 889,637 persons. Ak-Sar-Ben collected and paid $225,041 to the State of Nebraska for a tax on admissions, plus fees for individual licenses and a daily licensing fee for the races. All of this money is earmarked for the county fairs.

"All progress is based upon a universal desire on the part of every organism to live beyond its income," Samuel Butler

1981 Expected As 'Hold the Line'

For many Nebraskans, 1981 will be another "hold in there" kind of year, but hopefully will show enough economic improvement to generate increased optimism.

That's the economic word from Dr. Glen Vollmar, head of the department of agricultural economics in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Limited improvement in the U.S. economy in 1981 will still not mean an encouraging picture, he said.

The U.S. economy is dynamic and is affected by events at home and also is influenced by those taking place elsewhere in the world. Vollmar said. He cited four factors that have contributed to the economic outlook for 1981.

"I don't think that anyone anticipated in 1979 that the U.S.R. would invade Afghanistan, we would have a grain embargo, tensions would reach a high in Poland and eastern Europe and the prime rate would exceed 20 percent in December 1980, he said.

A slight increase in economic growth is forecast for 1981. Real personal incomes are expected to increase only about one percent. The Gross National Product is expected to increase two percent or less as compared to 1980.

Vollmar said he believes the most important national problem is inflation, complicated by the dilemma that many of the actions taken to suppress inflation add to the unemployment problem. Additionally, efforts to reduce inflation by controlling the money supply and high interest rates add to the inflation problem in the short run. The modest economic growth anticipated in 1981 carries with it an expected inflation rate from 10 to 12 percent and an unemployment rate of eight to nine percent. He expects efforts will continue to move the inflation rate to below double-digit levels and the unemployment rate below five percent.

Basic contributors to the inflation rate are: relatively high deficit spending by government and consumers; high energy costs; and lagging productivity growth related in part to a reduced rate of business capital and spending during the 1970's.

Vollmar cited export demand as an important dimension in the analysis of the agricultural economy.

The trend in 1980 of economic slowness in several countries merits watching, Vollmar said. Increases in the cost of oil compete directly with food, feed grain and other imports. A strong demand for U.S. agricultural commodities requires that importers have the financial means to buy. Currently it is predicted that ag exports may climb to about $45 billion in 1981 and increase of $5 billion over 1980.

He said inflation and unemployment will have an adverse effect on the demand for farm products, particularly beef and pork. Levels of production in 1981, the export demand and costs of production also are major factors affecting farmers' net farm incomes.

Costs of Nebraska farmers' production will run high in 1981 but overall increases in gross farm incomes are expected to exceed increases in production expenses, Vollmar concluded.

Representatives from Aschwege's office will interview about 700 Nebraska farmers during February and March as part of this nationwide survey to determine 1980 farm production expenditures. Questions will concern outlays for equipment and services and other production needs.

Mr. Aschwege stated that farmers' responses will be confidential and only state, regional

Plan Your Garden Now for Quality Results Later

Whatever the temperature outside, it's time to begin planning gardens.

And according to a University of Nebraska extension horticulturist, there are no specifics and many generalities to consider when ordering from those enticing seed catalogs.

The 1981 catalogs, as always, are beautiful, but Don Steinegger, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist, has some advice for those who might order from them.

According to Steinegger and Katie Weiss, NU home gardening coordinator, nearly all garden items listed in reputable firms' seed catalogs are good varieties. However, a number of the catalogs come from the east or west coasts and varieties are tested there.

Weiss suggested looking for the All-American selections listed in the catalogs. These varieties are tested in 30 sites with a wide range of climatic conditions across the United States and are selected by judges. Although these All-American selections are considered good, they may not be the best variety for a given area, Weiss explained.

Some seed testing is done in Nebraska, but most information is based on feedback from growers across the state. Steinegger said Nebraska has a very diverse climate, and the resultant large number of seed varieties makes testing expensive.

"It is very difficult to test every variety that will do well or that all people like," Weiss added. The tremendous variation in climate from year to year in Nebraska causes some varieties to do well one year and poorly the next. However, she has put together an extension circular entitled "Selected Vegetable Varieties in Nebraska," which lists those varieties that generally do well in the state. Interested persons should contact their county extension office to obtain a copy.

"The specialists noted that when selecting seeds, it's important to remember that even the proper variety doesn't always guarantee success. The seed carries the potential, but you have to do the work yourself," Steinegger said. Gardening in Nebraska can be very discouraging at times, but it is a challenge. Steinegger said "better gardeners are found here because environmental stresses often are more severe here."

In addition to selecting All-American varieties, Steinegger and Weiss have other suggestions which may help your garden be a success.

By planting several different varieties of a crop, a green-thumber can determine which grows the best in a specific area. Some newer varieties listed in this year's catalogs include selections which are more disease-resistant and varieties of space-saving vegetables. The space-saving vegetables are more of a bush type rather than the vine type which allows more area in the garden. Usually the quality of the vine type vegetables is better, according to Steinegger. He suggested talking to the county extension agent about diseases in a particular area before ordering seeds, so you can look for the more disease-resistant varieties. Persons looking for something new and different will find seed companies are stressing novelty vegetables this year, such as purple cauliflower and ruby lettuce which provide added color.

When choosing a seed catalog, try to find one circulating in the immediate geographical region. However, some catalogs from the East have some good short season crop varieties," Steinegger said. Be realistic when you read about the seeds, as a lot of life vegetables are "typed up," Weiss cautions.

Sources of information other than seed catalogs may help you plan your garden. Friends, county agents, reputable nurserymen and local garden clubs often can advise on seed selection and other garden matters.

Some varieties suggested by Steinegger that generally do well in Nebraska are Gypsy Hybrid Sweet Pepper Yella-Fleshed All American, Green Goliath Broccoli-Premium Crop; (Flowers) Impatiens "Blitz" (scarlet-orange large flowered), Elosia "apricot Brandy" (orange colored), French Marigold Colored Honeycomb, "California Girl" yellow petunia, Wizard Coleus Series, Golden Margarita Gazania, and Dwarf "Pulcin" Zinnia.

"When you begin planning your garden, it's a good idea to ask yourself why you are gardening," the specialist recommended. Planning is more critical if the produce makes up a larger part of the diet. Start out small, said Steinegger. "It gets very hot in the summer, and gardens require a lot of time and effort, including hand weeding." Sometimes the crops produce more than expected so don't plant too much if just starting out.

There are no clear-cut rules in the business of home gardening, but "proper seed selection, hard work and experience may help provide the key to a successful garden," Steinegger concluded.

Wayne Wranglers
The Wayne Wranglers 4-H Club met Jan. 21 at Columbus Federal Savings and Loan meeting room in Wayne. Seven members were present.

Following the treasurer's report, Ann Liska gave a demonstration on diseases of horse's feet and legs. A test was given the members on defects of horse's feet and legs.

Three of the members will attend an Officer's Training Session to be held Jan. 26 at the city auditorium. Assignments were given each member for reports at future meetings on different breeds of horses.

Next meeting will be Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Columbus Federal Savings and Loan meeting room. John Eiter, news reporter.

Barnyard manure for gardens

With the open, dry winter we have had so far, now would be an excellent time to apply some barnyard manure to your garden.

Barnyard manure gives excellent results on most garden soils when properly used. It is a very good source of organic matter and plant nutrients. An annual application of well rotted barnyard manure (400 to 600 pounds per 1,000 feet) is recommended. Use half this amount of chicken or sheep manure.

The use of manure will increase the supply of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium available to plants. It also supplies other essential elements to plants. In addition to the essential elements, barnyard manure increases water holding capacity and improves the physical condition of the soil.

Check livestock waterers. Dry weather has lowered water tables and reduced the effectiveness of electrical grounds

When the soil is wet around a waterer, it may present a path of lower resistance to current flow than the ground rod at the service entrance. If this situation exists — or if for any other reason, such as, bad insulation on the wire — voltage builds up on the water and livestock will not drink.

Check animals and waterers. If the livestock are not drinking, current may be leaking into the water and the waterer. Check the water temperature and the thermostat. Repair frayed wires and replace wires which have old cracked insulation. It might be worthwhile to water around the ground to be sure it is making good contact with the soil.

Dry weather increases the hazard of loss either from reduced gains or from electrocution of animals.

Local Tree Planting Urged

Nebraska citizens, agencies and groups are being urged to start a local tree planting program through their county extension agents.

Gov. Charles Thone has asked Nebraskans to get involved in the new "Plant Two — Trees" plan, which he has endorsed and encouraged.

County agents have been sent an explanation of the program and a written appeal by Thone.

Thone issued a proclamation on Nov. 5 last year encouraging farm, civic and governmental agencies and individual citizens to plant 2, 200, 2,000 or 20,000 trees.

"The loss of trees affects Nebraska's wildlife, beauty, soil protection, temperature, chill index, air purification, crops and recreation activities," the proclamation states.

The "Plant Two — Trees" program will continue indefinitely, according to Joe Range, extension forester at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Tree experts at NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources are planning weekly news releases on care and usefulness of trees, at least through May, he said.

The program's state steering committee members feel that most counties support the program by setting up local or county wide tree committees, said Range, steering committee chairman.

The number "two" is important in forestry tree planting, he said. Two hundred trees per street mile is considered ideal and 2,000 trees planted properly will make an excellent living rural wind and snow fence.

Different counties will have different goals to meet local needs such as planting in city parks, county roads, densely populated cities or isolated farms.

The program is important to Nebraskans, Range said, because the state is losing trees at an ever-increasing rate.

Trees in rural areas help reduce erosion, protect livestock, farmsteads, crops and wildlife and bring greenery to the countryside, he said.

Trees in cities can reduce heating and cooling costs, provide recreation in parks, encourage urban wildlife and enhance the value and beauty of homes and businesses.

Christmas tree farms, firewood trees and nut and fruit orchards offer monetary benefits as well as beautifying the land, Range said.

Interested persons may obtain a brochure explaining the program from their county agents.

Farmers Pay $135 Million To Produce Farm Goods

In 1979, U.S. farmers paid almost $135 billion to produce crops, livestock and poultry, topping the $114 billion outlay for 1978.

The report, issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, noted that the 1979 expenditure averaged more than $58,000 per farm, nationally and $150,550 per farm in Nebraska.

At the U.S. level, purchases of livestock and poultry at $21.5 billion, up 59 percent from 1978, were the major expenditures for farmers. Feed purchases followed at $18 billion, up 9 percent; farm machinery and equipment at $12.0 billion, up 11 percent; rent at $10.3 billion, up 11 percent; wages at $9.2 billion, down 8 percent and interest at $9.2 billion, up 23 percent.

Jack Aschwege of the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service points out that farm production expenditure information gathered in this survey is a major key in determining net farm income, establishing the farmers' position in the National economy and computing the parity index.

Representatives from Aschwege's office will interview about 700 Nebraska farmers during February and March as part of this nationwide survey to determine 1980 farm production expenditures. Questions will concern outlays for equipment and services and other production needs.

Mr. Aschwege stated that farmers' responses will be confidential and only state, regional and national summaries will be published.

1981 Expected As 'Hold the Line'

For many Nebraskans, 1981 will be another "hold in there kind of year, but hopefully will show enough economic improvement to generate increased optimism.

That's the economic word from Dr. Glen Vollmar, head of the department of agricultural economics in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Limited improvement in the U.S. economy in 1981, will still not mean an encouraging picture, he said.

The U.S. economy is dynamic and is affected by events at home and also is influenced by those taking place elsewhere in the world," Vollmar said. He cited four factors that have contributed to the economic outlook for 1981.

"I don't think that anyone anticipated in 1979 that the U.S.S.R. would invade Afghanistan, we would have a grain embargo, tensions would reach a high in Poland and eastern Europe and the prime rate would exceed 20 percent in December, 1980," he said.

A slight increase in economic growth is forecast for 1981. Real personal incomes are expected to increase only about one percent. The Gross National Product is expected to increase two percent or less as compared to 1980.

Vollmar said he believes the most important national problem is inflation, complicated by the dilemma that many of the actions taken to suppress inflation add to the unemployment problem. Additionally, efforts to reduce inflation by controlling the money supply and high interest rates add to the inflation problem in the short run. The modest economic growth anticipated in 1981 carries with it an expected inflation rate from 10 to 12 percent and an unemployment rate of eight to nine percent. He expects efforts will continue to move the inflation rate to below double-digit levels and the unemployment rate below five percent.

Basic contributors to the inflation rate are: relatively high deficit spending by government and consumers; high energy costs; and lagging productivity growth related in part to a reduced rate of business capital and spending during the 1970's.

Vollmar cited export demand as an important dimension in the analysis of the agricultural economy.

NEBRASKA PUBLIC POWER DISTRICT REGARDING COGENERATION AND SMALL POWER PRODUCTION FACILITIES
To the public and customers of Nebraska Public Power District:
In accordance with the requirements of Public Law 95-617, "Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978," Title II, Section 2101(f), a public hearing will be held at 2:00 p.m. on the 12th day of February, 1981, at the Nebraska Public Power District office in Columbus, Nebraska on Order 49, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Doc. RM79-55 entitled "Final Rule Regarding the Implementation of Section 210 of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978," effective March 20, 1980.
Cogeneration generally means the production of electric energy as well as steam or other forms of useful energy (such as heat) which are used for industrial, commercial, heating or cooling purposes.
Small Power Facility generally means a facility with up to 80 megawatts of total power production capacity which produces electricity from such primary sources as biomass, waste, renewable resources such as wind, solar, geothermal or hydroelectric energy, or a combination of them.
The hearing will provide the public and NPPD's customers with an opportunity to present ideas about cogeneration and small power production.
Information received will be considered by the NPPD Board of Directors in the development of implementation plans.

Plans Made for Band Trip

Allen band parents met last week to discuss plans for a band trip to Dakota Days in Rapid City, S. D. in May.

Miss Mogen, band director, reported 56 band members have signed up for the trip.

Money making projects include a pancake breakfast to be held Sunday, Feb. 8, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It was reported that the Dixon County Feedlot has donated a beef to be given away in four quarters in a drawing. An afghan made by Shirley Book also will be given away during a drawing.

Several other money making events were discussed, including a Gong Show in April.

Band members also are collecting aluminum cans and Snicker and Milky Way candy bar wrappers. Anyone wishing to donate these items is asked to bring them to the school music room.

Fruit ripens faster in plastic bags than in the air.

Cost of the trip is about $100 per band member. Miss Mogen said all donations are appreciated to help defray the cost for each member.
