ONE-HUNDRED FIFTH YEAR NUMBER FORTY

A Look At the Wild Side

(Editor's Note: The following story was provided to The Wayne Herald by former Wayne-Carroll High graduate Marjlie Lundstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lundstrom.

She currently is assistant editor of The Denver Monthly Magazine and was sent to Wiesbaden, West Germany, to cover the release of the U.S. hostages from Iran. As a sidelight, Lundstrom provided The Herald with some insight into what transpired among the journalists during her stay in West Germany.

by Margie Lundstrom
I learned to say "excuse me" with my elbows.
I realized how much damage the heel of a cowboy boot can inflict on a human instep.
I discovered the importance of brushing no one, at any time, for any reason.

THIS, AFTER all, was Wiesbaden, West Germany, where some 1,500 newsmen from 25 countries were scrambling against almost impossible odds to compile the sketchy information of the year's biggest story and send it to a news-hungry public at home. The scene was the long-awaited release of the 52 American hostages held captive in Iran, an ordeal that held the nation and world in breathless suspense.

By now, you probably have read about the sticky negotiations, the release and all the joyous reunions. You undoubtedly have memorized the ABC "hostage theme", and you have seen at least a million miles of yellow ribbon. But another story evolved that you probably aren't familiar with: the mad-crash media corps.

IN WIESBADEN, everyone was after one thing — a story. Not just any story, but THE story — one that was bigger, better and brighter than any one else's — in short, the orders for all were to get the facts, get them right, and above all, get it first.
As assistant editor for Denver Monthly Magazine, I was dispatched to Wiesbaden to pursue the Colorado hostage, Marine Sgt. Billy Gallegos of Pueblo. As a reporter, I was thrilled at the prospect of going on one of the major news events of my lifetime.

But as a human being, I was saddened at the thought of hounding a man whose only wish was to go home and resume his normal life. I realize now that this 22-year-old former hostage — as well as his colleagues — have gone home to greet a new brand of captor: journalists!

WHO WERE these journalists? You name it, you got it. The television news "celebrities" flowed in and out, popping up occasionally for a standup routine. (By the way, they look a lot better on the tube . . . must be the makeup.)

For one week, the scenic city of Wiesbaden became the site of a media olympics, with teams representing such formidable competitors as ABC, NBC, CBS, New York Times, Washington Post, Los Angeles Times, Newsweek and Time. With this menagerie of media types came an endless procession of trench coats and wrinkled shirts as well as the unceasing sounds of clicking cameras, motor-driven cameras and the most creative of obscenities.

IT WAS NOT easy gathering this story. After the release, the former hostages were whisked to the military hospital in Wiesbaden for rest. But like an oversized Barnum and Bailey Circus parade, we journalists followed. And followed. And followed.

In numbing 15 degree air, we conducted our all-night hospital stake-outs, pressing against the fence and praying that a returnee would saunter up and present that cherished exclusive. Photographers took their positions behind a row of delicate machinery that, silhouetted against the night sky, looked ominously like bazookas aimed at the designated building.

And, as in all great competitions, this was open season on the game of dirty tricks. Not sneaky. I mean down right dirty!

ONE NETWORK photographer booked an intervening print journalist over the head with his heavy gear while he tried to glean some prime footage.

Frustrated photographers, armed with 2,000 millimeter lenses and unable to get a shot, bartered with hospital patients who had opened a black market on Instamatic photos taken inside the hospital. Several reporters walked over the theft of exclusive interview notes and film.

Getting away with a story was not inexpensive. One reporter ran up a $15,000 Telex and telephone tab in two weeks while some conservative estimates placed each network's expenses at more than $50,000 a day. A lot of money exchanged hands, but no one used the term "bribe": these folks call it "greasing the wheel."

I DIDN'T HAVE $50,000. I didn't even have a Minicam. But I waded into the platoons of professionals and got a story. I followed all the rules, showing my camera in the right faces and elbowing my way to the front of the pack.

But as the last hostage stepped aboard the military jetliner of Rheinmain Air Base, bound for home, I wondered about this whole affair: this thing some like to call a "media event." Have the newspapers, television stations and radio talk shows created undue national hysteria? Did media "hyping" nourish the fanatics and thus prolong the ordeal? Will the hostages and their families ever be able to pick up their lives again?

The answers are difficult. But if I didn't ask the questions, I suppose I wouldn't be a good journalist. And if I turned down the opportunity to do this again, I'd be crazy!

(Lundstrom graduated from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln in 1970 with a major in Journalism. She has won third prize in nationwide Hearst competition for feature writing and was chosen outstanding Journalism graduate at UNL in 1970.)

Police Morale Low Despite Sharp Drop in Crime Rate

In his annual report to the City Council, Police Chief Vern Fairchild says he is concerned about "the ever increasing lack of employee morale" in his department.

ALTHOUGH HE lauded the "sharp drop in every major area" of police operations, Fairchild said "without a doubt, the greatest disappointment" to me this past year, and the one lending itself to an ever-increasing lack of employee moral, has been the budget restrictions placed on our department."

The budget cutbacks referred to by Chief Fairchild are a result of the 7 percent lid bill, he says. After several budget cutting sessions with former City Administrator Darrell Brewington, Fairchild says his department's budget ended with an actual decrease of 6.6 percent from the previous year.

"The only possible way to make that cut was to lay off an officer which we did effective July 31," his letter states. "The loss of that officer, although probably not yet noticed by the general public, has certainly been felt in the department, resulting in increased work loads and tighter scheduling.

"PATROL effectiveness has certainly suffered on both the day and night shifts. As the city continues to expand in both area and population, this loss will become even more apparent," he told the Council.

Fairchild stated that a year-end survey by the Lexington Police Department found that Wayne is more than $100 per month lower in salary than the average of 19 other cities of comparable size.

"Department morale has dropped to an all-time low," he said, adding that "I'm very proud of the fact that we have such dedicated employees, but dedication does not put food on the table," the letter stated. "I've heard the argument many times that there are a lot of people in Wayne that would like to earn as much as the Police Department. That may be true, but I have not seen them standing in line to apply whenever we have an opening," his letter explained to the Council.

"IF WE ARE to maintain a well-trained, dedicated and efficient department, steps must be taken in the very near future to correct these problem areas over which the Police Department has no actual control.

"Good law enforcement and the administration of criminal justice are social problems and must be the concern of the entire community," he said. "While the police represent the most visible arm of criminal justice, we are only a small part of the program and cannot operate effectively without the support and involvement of every member of the community."

Fairchild said when he was asked to hold the department's budget requests under the 7 percent lid limit, he submitted the budget asking for only a 6 1/2 percent hike. After even further cuts at the recommendation of the city administrator, Fairchild explained, a decrease in the budget of 1 1/2 percent resulted. Finally, as noted earlier, the budget was cut even further, resulting in the decrease of 6 1/2 percent.

"I pledge the Police Department to meet and handle any and all demands placed on us in 1981 in an efficient and professional manner," Chief Fairchild concluded.

IN DISCUSSING the decline in police operations, Fairchild noted that "this has been the first overall reduction since before 1963. I suppose there are many reasons for the decline, but would hope that the major factor would be an ever increasing citizen awareness and involvement."

A crime survey conducted by his office revealed the following statistics: There were no reported rapes, robberies or felony assaults in either 1979 or 1980, nor were there any assaults on an officer in

First $1,000 Winner of 1981

FINALLY, THERE WAS a winner in the most recent edition of the Grand Give-A-Way. Geary and Julie Crom (right), Wayne, were at Rich's Super Foods when their name was announced at 8 p.m. Thursday and were the first winners of the new year. Because they were in one of the many participating stores, the Croms received $1,000 in bonus bucks that can be spent in any of the stores that sponsor the giveaway. In the first half of the giveaway — which ended Dec. 31 — more than $10,000 were given away to area residents. Persons who are subscribers of The Wayne Herald, who received The Marketer or who have registered are eligible to win. For more information and a list of sponsoring merchants, see story in Thursday's Wayne Herald. Presenting the money is Rich Anderson (left), owner of Rich's.

City Opts for Administrator

Unless an amicable agreement cannot be reached, it appears Philip A. Kloster, 36, Forest City, Iowa, will be Wayne's next city administrator.

MEETING IN special session Friday afternoon, the Council approved by a 6-1 vote a motion to begin negotiations with Kloster for the position which was vacated last year when Darrell Brewington resigned.

Voting against the motion was Councilman Gary Vopalensky who has opposed the position of city administrator for some time. As part of his General Election campaign platform in November, the Councilman said there was not a need for the position. Vopalensky has argued that the city administrator position should be combined with the city clerk position. Councilman Darrel Heter left after the closed session and was not present for the vote on negotiating with Kloster.

IMMEDIATELY after the regular session began Friday, the Council voted 7-1 to enter closed session to discuss the three finalists for the city administrator position. Councilman Vopalensky voted against going into closed session.

When asked later for his reasons, Vopalensky said he did not feel City Attorney Ken Swarts had given just cause for the closed session. He added, however, that he felt there was, in fact, just cause, but that the wrong reasons had been cited by the attorney.

Attorney Swarts cited the collective bargaining section of the closed meeting law since salaries, fringe benefits, etc., were to be discussed.

AFTER A 45-minute closed meeting, the Council re-entered the regular session and voted to begin negotiations.

Kloster was one of three finalists for the position. A committee of Council members has held numerous meetings over the past several weeks, reducing the number of finalists from the original 37 applicants.

Other finalists were Bob Blair of Kearney, the assistant city administrator there and former city administrator at Grand Island; and John Krueger of Edgemont, S.D., the city planner there. Both were in their early 30's.

WSC Business Courses Reflect National Trend

Increase in Number of Students Over Years

Business had emerged a clear leader among popular courses of study at colleges and universities across the nation, according to a report put out by the U.S. Department of Education.

ONLY SLIGHTLY ahead of other popular fields of study in the early 70's, business had gained a clear lead by the time the decade drew to a close, the report says. The Jan. 19 issue of the Chronical of Higher Education reports that business students account for about 18 percent of all undergraduates and 16 percent of masters degree enrollment.

That trend is apparent at Wayne State College which has seen a 58 percent increase in business students over the past several years, according to Dr. Neil Swanson, head of the Division of Business at WSC.

"Business is popular because we have an increase in demand for well trained, professional business graduates," Dr. Swanson said.

percent increase and computer science (data processing), the fastest growing field, will see a 30 percent increase in demand. Business administration will see a modest increase while economics and finance will experience a slight drop in demand.

"The future is bright for business graduates," said Swanson. "Business firms have recognized the quality training students have received through business programs such as ours, and their demand for business graduates has correspondingly increased."

USUALLY students at Wayne State College major in business administration with a concentration in one of several fields: accounting, marketing, finance or data processing. Students can also major in business education or industrial management which is a joint effort of the WSC business and applied science divisions.

Data processing popular
There are a variety of positions available to a business graduate," Swanson explained. "Students with a concentration in accounting start careers in public accounting or as accountants in business firms or the government. Those in marketing get in-involved in market research, sales, retail store management or sales promotion (advertising)."

A concentration in finance, according to the WSC division head, will lead to a job in the finance department of a private company, at a bank or at a savings and loan company. Students with data processing training are in great demand which has resulted in growing popularity of that program at colleges and universities nation wide.

BUSINESS WEEK reported in its Jan. 12 issue that the information processing industry is experiencing enormous growth, in some areas as high as 40 percent. Swanson said most are initially employed as programmers and programmer analysts and later advance into systems analysis and design.

Besides data processing graduates being in great demand, they are also receiving the highest salaries. People working in data processing are receiving $1,700 a month as the average starting salary, according to U.S. News. This compares with $1,400 for accounting, finance, sales and marketing graduates and $1,300 for business administration graduates.

"DATA PROCESSING has become increasingly popular at Wayne State College," Swanson said. "The combination of a broad background in business, plus the opportunity to specialize in one certain field like data processing gives Wayne State College graduates an advantage in the job market. The student's training is very broad so that they can adapt to whatever position they might be offered after graduation."

Extras at WSC
According to Swanson, Wayne State's business programs are comparable to those of many colleges and universities across the country. Programs are kept up to date, he said, by the program review and evaluation process at WSC. In the design and development of the various programs, the business division follows the guidelines of various accrediting agencies and professional groups such as the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and the American Marketing Association.

"OUR GRADUATES are able to compete with their counterparts from other universities and colleges initially, and also when it comes to promotions," Swanson said. "We know from feedback that those who have chosen to go on to graduate school have been able to enter, compete and complete the graduate program."

In addition to the academic curriculum, Wayne State College offers several extras. One of these is a one semester or summer internship. Students can earn 12 hours credit and are paid by the company they work for, Swanson explained.

Another extra is the Small Business Institute program, coordinated by Jim Rucker, WSC assistant professor of business. The program is designed to provide management assistance to small businesses in northeast Nebraska, Swanson explained. The institute completes approximately 10-15 cases a year. A team of two or three students and a faculty advisor are assigned to each case to solve the problem presented. For instance, a business might want to know how it can expand its market for a certain product, and the WSC Small Business Institute comes up with an alternative.

WAYNE STATE College business division also coordinates an international business program with the Danish International Studies (DIS) in business administration. It is designed for American students who wish to study through DIS at the University of Copenhagen. Last year, the first year WSC participated in the program, one business student went to Denmark, this year four students are participating.

The WSC business faculty are also involved in the Nebraska Business Development Center which provides management assistance to area businesses. Coordinated by Joan Glise, the center offers professional consultation, workshops and seminars to a 22 county region in Northeast Nebraska.

Individual attention
Merrill Hale and Steve Brandt, recent graduates of Wayne State College, both completed degrees in business administration with a concentration in finance. They are working as loan officers at Wayne banks. Hale at State National Bank and Trust Company and Brandt at First National Bank.

BOTH SAID the major strength of the WSC business program is the individual, personalized attention that one can only experience at a small college.

Hale commented. "It gave me a competitive edge. I feel the teachers give excellent instruction. Wayne's business program is as good if not better than other schools."

"The business department at Wayne State is real strong," Brandt said. "The instructors do a good job of giving an overall picture. I think Wayne's biggest strength is its small size. I liked the individual attention and being able to deal with people on a personal level. That's why I feel Wayne State's program is stronger than at other colleges."

Internships available
Hale said an important factor in getting his job was the internship program. "I interned at State National Bank, and there was a job waiting for me after graduation."

"The internship gave me insight into the operations of a bank," Hale continues. "I was able to relate what I learned in classes to the actual job experience. It also led me to take other classes I would need."

HALE HAD a message for business students: "Get involved with the people in the business department. I gives you valuable insights and contacts," he said. "And don't be afraid to get involved with business fraternities and other organizations. Delta Sigma Pi provided me with a contact with this bank for my first job. One of the members knew about the opening and I was one of the first people to apply."

Both Wayne State College graduates said they would eventually like to become president of a bank. Meanwhile, they are on their way up in one of the most popular careers of the 80's.

IDS Growth Fund and IDS New Dimensions Fund were among the industry leaders in 1980 for increases in net asset value per share, according to Lipper Analytical Services, a trade evaluator of mutual funds.

IDS Growth Fund was rated best when compared with other growth funds of similar size and IDS New Dimensions Fund was rated fourth when compared with similar growth funds.

George Phelps, CFP, Wayne, is the local sales representative for IDS Growth Fund, IDS New Dimensions Fund and the other financial services for individuals and businesses, offered by Investors Diversified Services (IDS), the nationwide financial services firm. Prospectuses are available from Phelps.

In an overall ranking of 506 funds by Lipper, IDS Growth had the fourth best performance in 1980 and IDS New Dimensions had the 31st best.

IDS Growth Funds was up 77.3 percent in net asset value per share in 1980, which was more than twice the average gain of 35.9 percent listed for all growth funds in the Lipper Report. Over a five-year period, IDS Growth Fund's net asset value per share has increased 278.9 percent, compared to a 161.9 percent increase registered by the average growth fund. Over five years, the Dow Jones Average increased 48.9 percent and Standard and Poor's 500 increased 92.4 percent.

OBITUARIES

Ida Koepke

Services were held Tuesday at Zion Lutheran Church in Hoskins for Ida Koepke, 84, with the Rev. Robin Fisk officiating. Mrs. Koepke was born Jan. 12, 1897, in Stanton County to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grimm and died Jan. 23 at the Pierce Manor Nursing Home where she had been a resident since 1975. She was baptized and confirmed at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Norfolk and married Otto Koepke on May 9, 1915, in Norfolk. After their marriage they farmed north of Hoskins until moving to Norfolk in 1958. She was a member of the Zion Lutheran Church in Hoskins.

Mrs. Koepke was preceded in death by her husband, Otto, in 1965; three brothers and three sisters. Survivors include three sons, Clarence and Elmer of Norfolk and Lester of Hoskins; two sisters, Mrs. Margaretha Kleinsang of Pierce and Mrs. George (Ruth) Holtz of Paola, Kan.; five grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren. Pallbearers were Gerhard Grimm, Gilbert Grimm, Victor Grimm, Hugo Warneke, Herbert Holtz and Raymond Lehmann. Burial was at Hillcrest Memorial Park Cemetery in Norfolk with the Norfolk Home for Funerals in charge of the arrangements.

Go East Young Woman, Go East

Richard L. Leshar, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

"It is time for us to realize that we are too great a nation to limit ourselves to small dreams. We're not, as some would have us believe, doomed to an inevitable decline. I do not believe in a fate that will fall on us no matter what we do. I do believe in a fate that will fall on us if we do nothing. . . . So with all the creative energy of our command, let us begin an era of national renewal."

Recognize those words? They were spoken by President Reagan during his inaugural address and they rebut the pessimistic notion, prevalent throughout our history, that America's best days are over whether we like it or not. Way back in 1899, for example, before the advent of automobiles, oceanliners, airplanes, moonshots, pacemakers or ballpoint pens, the director of the U.S. Patent Office urged President McKinley to close that office, because "everything that can be invented has been invented."

And on many occasions during the 19th and 20th centuries, economic "experts" warned we would soon run out of food, oil, natural gas, coal, tin, nickel, zinc and other vital commodities. None of this ever happened of course. On the contrary, in the United States today, a relative handful of farmers produce enough food to feed all Americans and much of the rest of the world as well. What's more, recent estimates suggest America's untapped reserves of coal, natural gas, oil and oil shale are so huge that supplies could last for hundreds of years, even at increased rates of production and without harming our environment.

What we need is a system that encourages, to borrow the President's own words, the heroes of our society, . . . entrepreneurs with faith in themselves and an idea who create new jobs, new wealth and new opportunity. Consider the case of Wells College, a small women's school on the edge of Lake Cayuga, in Aurora, New York.

When the current president of Wells, Dr.

Patti McGill Peterson, assumed her position in August, 1980, she had an important decision to make. The college was in good shape financially, but like so many other northeastern schools, it faced punitive increases in its fuel oil bills as long as OPEC controlled the price of oil.

Wells, however, had a way out. The college is situated right in the Appalachian basin which geologists believe is one of the largest unexplored sources of oil and gas in the lower 48 states. So while people ten years ago might have laughed at the idea of drilling for oil or gas in New York, Wells had already gone ahead and conducted a feasibility study. It indicated there was at least a 50-50 chance of not coming up with a dry hole. What to do?

Peterson, with the concurrence of the Board of Trustees, decided this particular venture made good business sense. She raised almost $100,000 from alumnae and others, and contracted with the Aurelius Gas Co. to drill a well on campus. In mid-September, the company went to work and the students could hear the faint rhythmic noise of the drilling day and night. Nearly nine weeks later, and 2,600 feet into the ground, the driller struck natural gas. Immediately, the college's tower bells began pealing, and the students decided this momentous occasion deserved a truly proper celebration — one that obviously required calling off all classes.

As a result of the strike, Wells could achieve a nearly 20 percent reduction in its fuel bill, and that savings could increase if the college opts to expand production. Also, both the college and the townspeople have watched the drilling take place without any adverse impact on the environment. Now that it has been completed and the underground pipes have been laid, the original well site is almost invisible.

Most important, perhaps, is the example set by Dr. Peterson. Through her unique success in maximizing Wells' revenues while minimizing its costs, she joins that new breed of entrepreneurial college presidents whose abilities to go well beyond quiet scholarship: in so doing, she also demonstrates to the women of Wells that if prepared to take on all kinds of challenges, they can go forward and really make a difference. The college offers a course in petroleum engineering and has even secured funds from an energy company to sponsor student scholarships.

So while I would not advise every college to invest in the stock market, or drill for oil and gas, there is still something terribly exciting and wonderful about people willing to take intelligent risks when they know they might lose everything.

It reminds us that we still live in a system that can pay great gains to those with courage. It also reminds us, as President Reagan himself said, that "we are too great a nation to limit ourselves to small dreams." Finally, it reminds us that the pessimists are usually wrong, for as Shakespeare's Hamlet remarked to his cynical friend Horatio: "There are more things in heaven and earth . . . than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

At this writing, there is what the mass media likes to call a "winter storm watch" threatening the Midwest. Radio broadcasters and television people have been bleating — almost joyously — the coming of winter's first blizzard.

This is their chance to do their thing. The weather, from a news viewpoint, has been rather dull this winter and the thought of some "real news" has their juices flowing.

The only real advantage of radio is its ability to provide news immediately after it has happened or, in this case, in advance of the event. Radio and TV people seem to sense that a kill is imminent and announce, and reannounce and reannounce, the impending weather.

We in the printing business have always been amused at the theater-like atmosphere that radio and television allow to enter their type of journalism. There is potential for a big story, and they don't want anyone to forget about it.

The philosophy of their intent is commendable — to warn the public of impending unhealthy weather. But by and large, the electronic media more often than not raise the public's knowledge of the storm to a panic level rather than report the news responsibly.

The interesting point is this. They really don't have much more idea than you and I if a storm is upon us. They have their theories, their symbols, their training (some of them are trained, some of them are just news readers), their instincts, etc., but they don't know if it really is going to snow two inches here or 12 inches.

I find myself trusting pressman Ray Murray's lame knee. Is it a coincidence that just a day or two ago he was suffering something awful? Those that have arthritic joints or joints that have been damaged could put their talents to financial success.

I have this theory about the American response to the release of the former hostages from Iran.

I think the American public has a guilt complex about the whole affair. Why else would there be such an overwhelming reaction?

I am as grateful as the next guy that the hostages are home. But is the "media hype" and the ticker-tape parades and the almost embarrassing public reaction justified?

Marjorie Lundstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lundstrom of Wayne, has provided The Herald with an article (on page one) about the media's actions in Wiesbaden, West Germany, when the '52 Americans were released.

Her comments tend to confirm my suspicions that the media have been more interested in competing with one another than with the privacy and respect of the hostages. Methinks the scene must have been like a bunch of underfed animals scrapping for the same piece of meat.

Personally, I find myself embarrassed about the entire hostage affair. And I think the majority of the public does, too. My theory is that the public is telling the former hostages that gee, we're really sorry our former President didn't get you home and that our once-mighty country can't even step to the front of its pants against pips-queek Iran.

I'm convinced that the public response is more one of guilt than of pride. What is there for the American public to be proud of? We're proud that the hostages were able — apparently — to withstand the pressures and tortures of the lunatic Iranians. That truly is in the American spirit!

But as a resident of this nation, I find it difficult to be proud that those poor and innocent servants of the government were captives of Iran for more than 400 days. I would have been embarrassed to face the hostages after their release, knowing that my nation failed to uphold its traditions of strength, integrity and boldness.

And Jimmy Carter. In his heart, he felt he was doing the right thing by not exerting some serious pressure on the Iranians to release the hostages. Why not negotiate, why not ply on their respect for human rights, why not just ask politely and maybe they will say "Okay, Mr. Carter, here are your Americans, and gee, we truly are sorry."

The Iranians who were responsible for the fate of the hostages were mental midgets. As one hostage put it, the Iranians had just climbed down out of the trees. They were not civilized, intelligent persons, but were barbarians. Yet our nation's leaders assumed the Iranians were rational, intelligent beings much like ourselves.

My theory is this. When you deal with someone who thinks like an ape, they must be treated like an ape. It's kind of like the old 2 x 4-across-the-side-of-the-head-to-get-their-attention approach.

We would have been acting as barbarians as they, but we would have gotten their attention.

With all my criticism of the big-city media, it appears they are acting responsibly in raising some interesting questions about America's response to the beleaguered Vietnam veterans.

Americans were embarrassed then, too, but the mood of the country was nasty. Vietnam was an embarrassment for the United States, but the Vietnam vet went unheard despite giving much more for his country than the hostages.

Political Climate and Hunger

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Much of the problem of hunger in so-called "underdeveloped" nations of the world is related to the political systems which hamstring food production, transportation and distribution.

The combination of over-population with systems that actually discourage food production are at the root of food problems that the world's famens but does little to correct. The United States has been blessed with some of this earth's most productive agricultural areas, coupled with an incentive system which has rewarded those who are most productive and efficient.

Those who clamor for more government intervention, restrictions and support in the name of helping save the small farmer, though well-intentioned, may be striking at the very things that have made the system work. America is not the only country in the world with productive land. There are areas of Asia, Africa, Central and South America where people are going hungry while mismanaging what is potentially highly productive agricultural land. Mexico, where the land is owned by the government, finds its rural people migrating to live in the slums surrounding the large cities or trying to cross the border to work and live in the United States. Over-population and food shortages are a plague upon our neighbors to the south.

An American familiar with conditions in Mexico recently reported that about five years ago, a group of U.S. farmers discovered the rich plateaus of the State of Jalisco, one of Mexico's interior states seldom visited by tourists. The growing conditions are ideal with plenty of rainfall and cool nights plus lots of sun. The Americans with typical Yankee know-how prevailed on the state for a lease, fully capitalized 2,500 acres, and began to produce melons and berries. North American markets responded quickly to the quality produce.

About 200 local farmworkers earned more than they thought they ever could. But success in Mexico has a way of breeding failure. There were local farmers who complained they couldn't compete for labor — and that is understandable. And there were bureaucrats who complained that Yankee production ran counter to Mexico's revolution, a continuing social saga that must ever apportion the land to the pattern of the state.

And so the lease to the Americans was terminated. The land soon was overrun with weeds. The 200 workers are back working for much less pay for what jobs are available.

Poland was once one of Europe's most productive agricultural nations. Poland's famed hams and bacon, once exported in great quantities for hard currencies, have largely disappeared. There are about 4 million in the Polish agricultural work force, slightly more than the number of farm and ranch workers in American agriculture. Denied the inputs needed from the Communist Government, they are unable to produce enough to feed Poland's 35 million people. By contrast, American farmers and farm workers produce enough to feed 220 million in their own country plus enough for export to feed millions in the rest of the world.

The American farmer on average produces enough to feed 46 of his fellow Americans and 19 people in other parts of the world. Those who constantly criticize and complain about the U.S. food production and distribution system and demand new changes and intervention by government regulatory agencies simply ignore the wonders that the American agricultural system has produced in spite of some of its imperfections.

State of the State Is Better Than Most

"Just as the president of the United States annually delivers a state of the union address, the governor of Nebraska each year gives a state of the state message."

"The state of the state is good, I told the legislature when I delivered my message on January 14, 1981. Nebraska's state government is in much better financial condition than most of the other 49 states."

"Other states — including our neighbors in Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota — have come up short of revenue and are having to make drastic cuts in funds that had already been appropriated by their legislatures and approved by their governors."

"In contrast, the state of Nebraska not only has been able to keep all of its financial commitments but also has sharply cut income taxes."

"Such actions are possible only when state government is very prudent. My 1981 budget is an austere one, yet it permits continuation of all essential services and improvements in a few areas of high priority."

"My state of the state message to the legislature suggested their cautious appraisal of all proposals for new or expanded programs. I urged that the unicameral insist upon making as certain as possible the full annual costs — not only in the first but also in succeeding years — of any new or expanded programs before approving them."

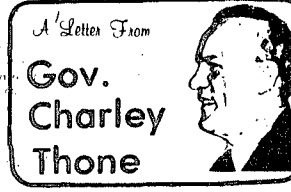

"I am hopeful that the 1981 legislature will be even more cooperative in working with me to hold down state spending."

Who's who, what's what?

1. WHO'S making homemade wine in his basement?
2. WHO received the "1980 Outstanding Service Award" in recognition of outstanding service to the company?
3. WHAT town may be getting a new Senior Citizens Center?
4. HOW much money did U.S. farmers spend to produce crops, livestock and poultry in 1980?
5. WHO retired after 32 years of service with the Post Office?
6. WHY did the community join together for a silent prayer of Thanksgiving?
7. WHERE were the Wayne Fire Dept. and one of its female members featured last week?
8. WHAT is being distributed to the Northeast Nebraska communities?

"When I became governor the state personal income tax rate was 18 percent of the federal income tax liability. In November, 1979, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, which I serve as chairman, reduced the rate for 1980 to 17 percent. When the board met in November, 1980 we were able to reduce the 1980 rate retroactively to 15 percent. Business income taxes were also reduced proportionately.

"My message to the 1981 legislature was that I anticipated that the same low rate can be maintained throughout this year if the unicameral adopts the budget I have recommended.

"Through cutting state income taxes, Nebraska citizens and businesses will in a year have more than $100 million left in their hands that otherwise would have been taken by state government. At the same time we were cutting taxes, the legislature and the governor provided $70 million additional state funds to permit local property tax relief.

Manley Appearing In UN-L Production

Joseph Manley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Manley of Wayne and a graduate student in voice at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been selected to appear as Belmonte in the UN-L Opera Theatre's production of Mozart's "The Abduction From the Seraglio."

Belmonte is the tenor lead in "Abduction" and Manley will be appearing in that role Friday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 8, at 3 p.m. at Kimball Hall on 11th and R Streets.

Manley also appeared as Ralph Racksraw in the UN-L's fall operetta, "HMS Pinafore."

"The Abduction From the Seraglio" was Mozart's first opera, designed in the manner of a German singsplele, which is similar in characteristics to a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. The opera takes place at the seraglio (or harem) of the mighty Pasha Selim in Turkey. The production is being directed by Gregg Tallman, UN-L's new opera director, and the orchestra will be conducted by Robert Emile. Tickets are $3 for students, children and senior citizens, and $4 for all others. For tickets call 472-3375.

Running the Cold Course

The hard cold facts about colds are hard to take, especially if you're entertaining one right now.

Doctors say that Americans will suffer through 70 million colds this year. I guess this means we'll be missing work, falling behind in school, spending a lot of money on over-the-counter drugs, and a lot of time feeling miserable.

CONTRARY to popular belief, colds are usually caused by viruses, not exposure to rain, drafts, or cold weather. Viruses are highly contagious and they spread more rapidly in the winter when people are in close contact indoors.

It is also during the winter that many people let their resistance to viruses get lowered. We become more susceptible when we don't get enough exercise, fresh air, sleep, and good food.

THE COLD facts about colds are that they have to run their course once they're caught and no cold medicine can cure them. The Food and Drug Administration reports that cold medicines may temporarily relieve the symptoms of a cold, but none can cure it.

Even vitamin C has yet to be proven effective in preventing or curing colds. Doubling the recommended dose of vitamin C has been reported by some to reduce slightly the severity of colds, however, larger doses have no added benefit and do not prevent colds.

VITAMINS are needed in the diet in rather small amounts. The only diseases they treat, as a rule, are the disorders that result from deficient intake or absorption of that particular vitamin. When vitamins are taken in doses 100 to 1,000 times the usual level, they must be regarded as drugs, with the potential for toxicity and complications that any drug presents.

Vitamin C and vitamin B are water soluble vitamins, which means they dissolve and can be excreted in water from the body. Be assured if you want to spend the money taking megadoses of these two vitamins, that you won't become ill.

because what your body doesn't need will be eliminated.

DO NOT, however, take megadoses of vitamins A, D and E, without your doctor's recommendation. Excesses are not so easily eliminated from the body and over-doses could prove to be toxic.

So once you get a cold, save your money and forget about extra vitamins and cold remedies. The best advice is that of a familiar television commercial — take aspirin, get extra amounts of rest and drink plenty of liquids.

BE GOOD to yourself. A cold must run its seven to 10 day course, and if you ignore it, you'll wear down your strength and prolong the infection. Spend as much time as you can in bed with a warm blanket, a good book and a cup of tea. Resting and relaxing will give your body a chance to fight the cold without everyday stress weakening those efforts.

To prevent catching viruses, stay away from people who have them. If a member of your family is sick, let him use disposable glasses and utensils to prevent the spread of the infection.

DON'T ALLOW the air in your home to become excessively dry. A humidity level of 35 to 40 percent will keep the mucous membranes of the nose and throat moist and more effective in trapping germs before they can infect the body.

Historical Society Meets To Discuss Publication

The Wayne County Historical Society met with 20 members Tuesday evening at the museum.

The history book committee reports that orders for the all new Wayne County History Book have increased since the holidays, with some families requesting two or more books.

It also was announced that several family histories have been received.

Mrs. Lucile Larson, a member of the committee, said there is some confusion concerning material to be submitted for publication in the book.

The committee requests separate stories of great grand parents, grandparents (on both sides of the family) parents, and present generations. Mrs. Larson pointed out that families with married children may have several stories to tell.

The committee also would like a picture to accompany each story, preferably a copy of the original photo. Snapshots also can be used. Persons who would a photograph duplicated for publication in the book are invited to call Mrs. Larson, 375 1861, for the name of a studio which will provide this service at a reasonable cost.

In an effort to promote interest in the history book, the Historical Society is sponsoring a poster contest. Sixth grades students throughout the county are participating in the contest, which will award cash prizes for the best posters.

Deadline for submitting posters for judging is Feb. 10. Eleanor Edwards is chairman of the event.

The history book committee is planning to meet at the museum at 1 p.m. Feb. 16.

Policy on Weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Merchants Plan First Annual Bridal Show

Couples planning a wedding in the near future are encouraged to attend a Bridal Show Sunday, Feb. 8, at the city auditorium in Wayne.

Nine local and area merchants have spent the past several weeks planning the first annual event, which is designed to help couples plan for a wedding day they can draw on later in their married lives.

Joanie Burst, owner and operator of Joanie Designs, is coordinating the event. Other sponsors include The Headquarters, Blake Studio, Evelyn Rubeck, Country Girl Bridal Salon, The Cupboard, Inc., The Rusty Nail, The Silver Image and The Diamond Center.

T and C Electronics of Wayne is providing the soundwork and speaker system, and Hospes's Mr. Music of Norfolk will furnish the organ music and organist.

Mrs. Burst said the public is invited to attend the show. Doors to the city auditorium will open at 1 p.m. Guests are welcome to browse the many displays and visit with the wedding consultants.

A style show is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and will feature bridal fashions for both men and women from The Country Girl Bridal Salon and The Rusty Nail. The show also will include diamonds and other jewelry from The Diamond Center and silk flowers from Joanie Designs.

The show will feature contemporary wedding designs as well as Victorian, traditional, southern, Spanish, western and the exotic look.

Dean Craun will be master of ceremonies. Ushers are Jim Lindau, Stan Burst, Jack Rubeck and Marlin Blohm. Narrators will be Clarice Blohm and Roger Nelson.

Modeling the fashions will be Jenette Shufelt, Glenda Gallisath, Sandy Blotchford, Karla Hix, Lisa Brandt, Lisa Streff, Shauna Jones, Darcy Thompson, Kathy Rubeck, Kandace Rahn, Donna Mallette, Bev Maben, Adeline Magnuson, Pat Craun, Delores Thies, Laura Schweers, Al Jones, Jim Streff, Mike Kai, Steve Brandt, Scott Bauserman, Jeff Carstens, Brent Pederson, Jeff Kersten, Dave Hansen and Cedric Edwards.

Flower girls will be Molly Burst and Brandy Blohm, and ring bearer will be Barry Smith. Melinda Burst will serve as candlelighter.

Mrs. Burst said there will be a reception catered by Evelyn Rubeck following the show and guests will have more time to visit the display booths.

Persons attending the show also are welcome to register for door prizes which will be given away throughout the afternoon by the sponsoring merchants.

Former Resident Chosen For 'Who's Who' Award

Renee Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gildersleeve of Wayne, is one of six outstanding students at the University of Missouri-Columbia, who have been tapped for membership in the 1980-81 "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" Honors Program.

Mrs. Gustafson was nominated for the award earlier this year by her school's nominating committee.

Over the past 46 years, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" has honored and rewarded the individual scholastic excellence of outstanding campus leaders. The award is one of the greatest honors annually conferred by the American academic community.

Mrs. Gustafson will receive a personalized certificate at her school in recognition of the national honor. Her complete biography, including her college record, will be presented in the 1981 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Woman Trucker Speaks at BPW

Berlene Kinslow of Wayne, who trucks with her husband, spoke to members of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Kinslow's topic, "Women in the Trucking Industry," included personal accounts of her work. She told about the states she and her husband have traveled in, cargo they have transported, and paper work involved.

Eighteen BPW members and two guests, Mrs. Kinslow and Nancy Ahlvers, attended the dinner meeting and program.

Lois Hall and Karen Roth were welcomed as new members. Other women who have recently joined the club include Patricia Ruther, Barbara Hascall, Cindy Wecker and Val Wagner.

President Roberta Welte opened the meeting with a tribute to the former hostages. The group voted to send $40 to the Foundation Fund to be used for scholarships to help women further their education.

Jocell Bull, Ruth Elofson and Eleanor Edwards were appointed to the nominating committee to select officers for the upcoming year.

Next dinner meeting will be Feb. 24 in the Walnut room of the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus. Afterward members will attend a planetarium show in the Carhart Science building.

OLGA LUCIA Rodriguez of Bogota, Colombia, South America, is attending classes at Wakefield High School during the second semester. Olga is attending school in Wakefield as part of the Youth for Understanding foreign exchange student program and is making her home with the Duane Tappe family.

Wakefield High Welcomes South American Student

A 16-year-old student from South America began classes at Wakefield High School last week as part of the Youth for Understanding exchange student program.

Olga Lucia Rodriguez of Bogota, Colombia is making her home with the Duane Tappe family while attending school in Wakefield. She arrived in the United States last weekend. It is her first trip outside her country.

Although the South American lass has completed high school in her country, she has enrolled as a junior at Wakefield and plans to enter the University when she returns home in July.

Her class load at Wakefield includes speech, family living, government, physical education, business, war history, sculpture and music.

Lucia, as her new American family has opted to call her because Mrs. Tappe's first name also is Olga, says she loves music, sings, plays the piano, and enjoys all types of sports activities.

Although Lucia has only been in Wakefield one week she says everyone is very friendly and she feels that is a good beginning. She also seems to enjoy the small town atmosphere even though the population of Bogota, which is the capital of Colombia, is nearly 6 million.

Her class load at Wakefield includes speech, family living, government, physical education, business, war history, sculpture and music.

Lucia says she kept up to date on news events in the United States before coming to the country. In Bogota, said Lucia, President Reagan is called "Ronaldo Reagan." She says she is interested in seeing if the changes promised during the new president's campaign actually come about.

Lucia is the second exchange student to stay with the Tappes. Her family includes her mother, who works at home, three brothers and two sisters, who are all older. Her father died three years ago.

Tappes family includes three children, Matt, 8, Marcus, 7, and Lucas, 4.

Blue Devils Defeat Wakefield in District Warmup

ACTION FROM this 138 pound match shows Wayne's Kevin Echtenkamp (top) trying to work for a pin while Wakefield's Joedy Sherer tries to switch his opponent for a reversal. Echtenkamp won the match 7-2.

District wrestling tournaments are little more than a week away and two area teams got a pre-tourney tuneup as Wayne defeated Wakefield 40-12 on the Wayne mat, Thursday night. It was Parents Night for the host Blue Devils.

Wayne won nine of the 12 matches including three by pins. The Trojans won the other three with two decisions and one pin. Although the dual was never really close, some of the individual matches were. Six of the decisions were won by five points or less.

In one of the most exciting matches of the evening, Doug Doescher won a 13-8 decision over Brian Obermeyer in a high scoring 98-pound match.

The 105-pound match paired the leading wrestlers from each team record-wise. Jon Jacobmeyer upped his record to 14-1 and strengthened his chances of a position in Class B's rankings by trimming Wakefield's David Stelling 5-1.

At 112 pounds, Jon Stelling of Wakefield dethroned Steve Pospishil 6-2. Wayne's Mike Luff earned a pin at 119 pounds.

In one of the closest individual matches of the dual, Mike Schock of Wayne nipped Wakefield's Dirk Carlson 6-4 at 126 pounds. Jon Pretzer won by pin at 132 pounds for the Trojans.

Wayne won the next two matches when Kevin Echtenkamp won by decision at 138 pounds and Nick Steler gained a pin the 145-pound class.

The Trojans scored their final three points when Doug Verplank held on to a 5-4 win in the 155-pound division. Wayne's Brett Frevert won by major decision at 167 pounds. Aaron Schuett won by pin at 185 and Steve Sladek was awarded six points for a forfeit in the heavyweight class.

Both teams will be in action one more time before competing in districts. Wayne participated in the Albion Invitational Saturday while the junior varsity team competed in the Pender Invitational. Class B-2 districts are scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 11 and 12 at Boys Town.

Ten Wayne wrestlers have won at least half of their individual matches. Wrestlers with .500 records or better: Jon Jacobmeyer 14-1; Mike Schock 13-2-1; Aaron Schuett 14-3; Brett Frevert 12-5; Nick Steler 11-7; Eric Brink 8-7; Mike Luff 7-6; Kevin Echtenkamp 6-5; Doug Doescher 5-4; Steve Pospishil 7-7.

Wakefield will compete in a dual at Win-side tonight (Monday) and will participate in Class C-2 districts Friday and Saturday, Feb. 12 and 13 at Lyons.

Wayne 40, Wakefield 12; 98 pounds: Doug Doescher of Wayne won a 13-8 decision over Brian Obermeyer of Wakefield.

105 pounds: Jon Jacobmeyer of Wayne won a 5-1 decision over David Stelling of Wakefield.

112 pounds: Jon Stelling of Wakefield won a 6-2 decision over Steve Pospishil of Wayne.

119 pounds: Mike Luff of Wayne pinned Mike Borg of Wakefield in 1:11.

126 pounds: Mike Schock of Wayne won a 6-4 decision over Dirk Carlson of Wakefield.

132 pounds: Jon Pretzer of Wakefield pinned Dan Waits of Wayne in 2:20.

138 pounds: Kevin Echtenkamp of Wayne won a 7-2 decision over Joedy Sherer of Wakefield.

145 pounds: Nick Steler of Wayne pinned Steve Warren of Wakefield in :50.

155 pounds: Doug Verplank of Wakefield won a 5-4 decision over John Anderson of Wayne.

167 pounds: Brett Frevert of Wayne won an 11-1 major decision over Paul Schopke of Wakefield.

185 pounds: Aaron Schuett of Wayne pinned Duane Witt of Wakefield in 1:58.

Heavyweight: Steve Sladek of Wayne won by forfeit.

Reserve matches: 132 pounds: David Wiener of Wayne won an 8-0 decision over Brent VanderVeen of Wakefield.

155 pounds: Gerald Monk of Wayne pinned Mike Muller of Wakefield in first period.

Chadron Here Tuesday

Cats Hold off Peru for Big Win

The Wayne State Wildcats traveled to Peru Wednesday to play Peru State College and downed the Bobcats 73-67 in an important Nebraska College Conference game.

Wayne State and Peru State entered the contest tied for second place in the NCC with Bellevue College and Chadron State. The win evened the Wildcat NCC record at 2-2 and set the stage for Tuesday night's NCC meeting with Chadron State at home.

WSC down 20-17 early in the game, turned things around with its man to man defense as the Bobcats were outscored 16-8 in the final 10 minutes of the first half for a 43-28 lead.

Peru closed the margin several times in the second half but never got closer than six points as the Wildcats improved their overall record to 9-12.

Leading scorers for WSC were Leon McRae and Grady Hansen. McRae hit 12 of 18 shots from the floor and was two of two at the line to total 26 points. Hansen added 17 points to the attack. Doug Hutchinson contributed a season high seven assists to the offense.

Wayne State was 30 for 63 (47.6 percent) from the floor and 13 of 17 (76 percent) at the line.

The Wayne State men's basketball squad will host Chadron State College in an important District 11 matchup at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) in Rice Auditorium. Both Wayne State and Chadron State are battling for a second district playoff position with Bellevue College. Wayne State is presently 2-2 and Chadron comes into Tuesday night's contest with a 1-2 NCC district record.

Chadron head coach Ed Sparling brings in a veteran squad with seven seniors seeing considerable playing time throughout the year. The Eagles stand 10-6 overall this season and are leading the district in defense, allowing just under 66 points per contest. Offensively 6-8 senior Mark Brown heads the Chadron attack averaging 14.3 points per game.

Wayne State will enter Tuesday night's game coming off a trip south, where they played Washburn University and Emporia State University in CSIC action.

This year's WSC squad has proven many times that they can play with a lot of finesse. "I'm really happy with our kids, they've really worked hard this season and with only one returning starter from last year's squad I really didn't know what to expect," stated head coach Rick Weaver.

The Wildcats are paced by their two forwards Grady Hansen and Leon McRae who are averaging 19 and 16 points per game respectively.

McRae also is the Cats' leading rebounder pulling down an average of 6.5 rebounds per game.

Prior to the varsity contest, the Wayne State JV's, 10-5 for the season, will play Sioux Empire Junior College with tipoff scheduled at 5:15 p.m.

Allen Girls Win Lewis Division; Set Sights on Tournament Title

The Allen Eagles, who earlier this season clinched the Lewis Division regular season title, also won the Lewis Division tournament title by downing Ponca 58-48, Friday night in Walthill.

The win pushed the Allen girls within one step of becoming Lewis and Clark Conference Tourney champions. The Eagles were scheduled to play Clark champion Wynot at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

The triumph over Ponca Friday was the third this season for Allen. The Eagles will have a chance to make it four when they compete in the Ponca Tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Allen and Ponca meet in first round play at 8 p.m. Thursday while Laurel and Wynot clash in the other brackets at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

"The Eagles were caught off guard early in Friday's Lewis Division finals as Ponca started uncharacteristically in a man-to-man defense.

Allen fell behind 10-4 at the end of the first quarter but regrouped and outscored Ponca 20-13 in the second period for a slim 24-23 half-time lead. An 18-9 advantage in the third quarter provided the scoring margin.

Four players scored in double figures for the Eagles. Des Williams dumped in 16 points, Lisa Erwin hit 15, Shelly Williams scored 14 and Beth Stalling made 11. Ponca was led by Deanna Herfoll with 19 points and Susan Armstrong with 10.

"The pressure had to be on us and we had to play a little cautiously. I was real pleased with everyone's performance," Allen coach Gary Troth said. "Ponca started in a man-to-man and it caught us a little off balance early in the game. We took some good shots in the first quarter but they didn't fall."

Troth had praise for each of his starting five players. Erwin pulled down 15 rebounds, Stalling had 10 rebounds and three steals and Peterson grabbed nine rebounds. The Eagles shot 40 percent from the field.

"Everyone played well. Janet Peterson was a little under the weather but still played well. She had a good defensive game. Lisa Erwin and Des Williams did a good job of handling the ball against the man-to-man and pressure defense," said Troth. "Beth Stalling had a real sound complete game and Shelly Williams did a good job of stopping Ponca."

Allen ruled the offensive boards with an advantage of 21 offensive rebounds compared to 11 for Ponca. The Eagles committed only 18 turnovers.

Troth termed Ponca a "good, tough team" and added that his team was very cool. "This win was more joyous than the other wins over Ponca. They brought out a lot of people but we adapted real well to their changes and had a total game," the coach stated. "I think we're an improved team from last year."

When asked how he felt about his team's number five ranking in Class D, Troth replied that if he were rating the Class D teams he would probably rank the Eagles in the fifth slot and added that he felt his team deserved it.

Allen's record entering Saturday night's tournament final was 13-0. Troth said that at the beginning of the year he would have been happy just splitting with Ponca.

Wayne Girls Play Cedar Close

The Wayne girls basketball team gained a little extra encouragement despite losing to Hartington Cedar Catholic 49-40, Thursday night.

The Blue Devils played Class B's ninth ranked ball club a close game proving that the game was no mismatch.

"The girls played a good game. It's encouraging to play them (Cedar) that close," Wayne coach Becky Kelley said. "We're looking forward to the West Husker Tournament. The team is fired up."

The Devils are scheduled to face Madison at 8 p.m. tonight (Monday) in West Husker opening round action at Wayne-Carroll High School. Added incentive for the hosts is the fact that Madison defeated Wayne 39-32 in overtime to open the season.

Wayne trailed Cedar by six points after the first quarter of Friday's game and stayed within seven (20-13) at the half. After giving up 21 points in the third period, the Blue Devils outscored Cedar 14-8 in the final quarter to pull back within nine points at the finish.

Jill Zeiss led all scorers with 13 points. Jenni DeTurk and Deb Prenger scored seven points each and Missy Stollenberg added five.

Leading rebounders were DeTurk with six and Lynn Surber, Prenger and Stollenberg with five apiece. The team pulled down 28 rebounds.

Wayne hit 33 percent of its shots from the field and 56 percent from the free throw line. Cedar was led by Joan Becker, Deb Leader and Cathy Schulte with 12 points each.

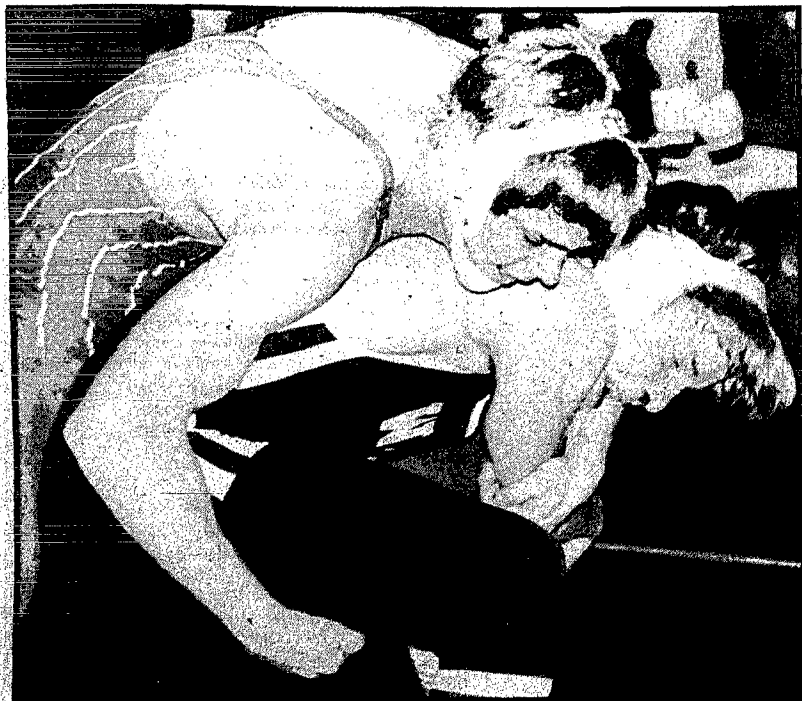

Coach Kelley pointed out that Stollenberg got in foul trouble so Prenger took over and did a "fantastic job". Wayne used a box-and-one on Becker. Zeiss also did a good job and scored several fastbreak baskets. Kelley added.

Wayne won the junior varsity game 24-14. Pam Nissen scored 10 points and Jill Mosley pulled down 11 rebounds.

Grapplers in Action

Allen Girls Win Lewis Division; Set Sights on Tournament Title

The Allen Eagles, who earlier this season clinched the Lewis Division regular season title, also won the Lewis Division tournament title by downing Ponca 58-48, Friday night in Walthill.

The win pushed the Allen girls within one step of becoming Lewis and Clark Conference Tourney champions. The Eagles were scheduled to play Clark champion Wynot at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

The triumph over Ponca Friday was the third this season for Allen. The Eagles will have a chance to make it four when they compete in the Ponca Tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Allen and Ponca meet in first round play at 8 p.m. Thursday while Laurel and Wynot clash in the other brackets at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Eagles were caught off guard early in Friday's Lewis Division finals as Ponca started uncharacteristically in a man-to-man defense.

Allen fell behind 10-4 at the end of the first quarter but regrouped and outscored Ponca 20-13 in the second period for a slim 24-23 half-time lead. An 18-9 advantage in the third quarter provided the scoring margin.

Four players scored in double figures for the Eagles. Des Williams dumped in 16 points, Lisa Erwin hit 15. Shelly Williams scored 14 and Beth Stalling made 11. Ponca was led by Deanna Hertof with 19 points and Susan Armstrong with 10.

"The pressure had to be on us and we had to play a little cautiously. I was real pleased with everyone's performance," Allen coach Gary Troth said. "Ponca started in a man-to-man and it caught us a little off balance early in the game. We took some good shots in the first quarter but they didn't fall."

Troth had praise for each of his starting five players. Erwin pulled down 15 rebounds, Stalling had 10 rebounds and three steals and Peterson grabbed nine rebounds. The Eagles shot 40 percent from the field.

"Everyone played well. Janet Peterson was a little under the weather but still played well. She had a good defensive game. Lisa Erwin and Des Williams did a good job of handling the ball against the man-to-man and pressure defense," said Troth. "Beth Stalling had a real sound complete game and Shelly Williams did a good job of stopping Ponca."

Allen ruled the offensive boards with an advantage of 21 offensive rebounds compared to 11 for Ponca. The Eagles committed only 18 turnovers.

Troth termed Ponca a "good, tough team" and added that his team was very cool. "This win was more joyous than the other wins over Ponca. They brought out a lot of people but we adapted, real well to their changes and had a total game," the coach stated. "I think we're an improved team from last year."

When asked how he felt about his team's number five ranking in Class D, Troth replied that if he were rating the Class D teams he would probably rank the Eagles in the fifth slot and added that he felt his team deserved it.

Allen's record entering Saturday night's tournament final was 13-0. Troth said that at the beginning of the year he would have been happy just splitting with Ponca.

Cats Hold off Peru for Big Win

The Wayne State Wildcats traveled to Peru Wednesday to play Peru State College and downed the Bobcats 73-67 in an important Nebraska College Conference game.

Wayne State and Peru State entered the contest tied for second place in the NCC with Bellevue College and Chadron State. The win evened the Wildcat NCC record at 2-2 and set the stage for Tuesday night's NCC meeting with Chadron State at home.

WSC down 20-17 early in the game, turned things around with its man to man defense as the Bobcats were outscored 16-8 in the final 10 minutes of the first half for a 43-28 lead.

Peru closed the margin several times in the second half but never got closer than six points as the Wildcats improved their overall record to 9-12.

Leading scorers for WSC were Leon McRae and Grady Hansen. McRae hit 12 of 18 shots from the floor and was two of two at the line to total 26 points. Hansen added 17 points to the attack. Doug Hutchinson contributed a season high seven assists to the offense.

Wayne State was 30 for 63 (47.6 percent) from the floor and 13 of 17 (76 percent) at the line.

The Wayne State men's basketball squad will host Chadron State College in an important District 11 matchup at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) in Rice Auditorium. Both Wayne State and Chadron State are battling for a second district playoff position with Bellevue College. Wayne State is presently 2-2 and Chadron comes into Tuesday night's contest with a 1-2 NCC district record.

Chadron head coach Ed Sparling brings in a veteran squad with seven seniors seeing considerable playing time throughout the year. The Eagles stand 10-6 overall this season and are leading the district in defense, allowing just under 66 points per contest. Offensively 6-8 senior Mark Brown heads the Chadron attack averaging 14.3 points per game.

Wayne State will enter Tuesday night's game coming off a trip south, where they played Washburn University and Emporia State University in CSIC action.

This year's WSC squad has proven many times that they can play with a lot of finesse. "I'm really happy with our kids, they've really worked hard this season and with only one returning starter from last year's squad I really didn't know what to expect," stated head coach Rick Weaver.

The Wildcats are paced by their two forwards Grady Hansen and Leon McRae who are averaging 19 and 16 points per game respectively.

McRae also is the Cats' leading rebounder pulling down an average of 6.5 rebounds per game.

Prior to the varsity contest, the Wayne State JV's, 10-5 for the season, will play Sioux Empire Junior College with tipoff scheduled at 5:15 p.m.

Grapplers in Action

WAYNE AND WAKEFIELD engaged in a wrestling dual Thursday night in Wayne. The Blue Devils were the victors 40-12. At left, Wayne's Brett Frevert (top) and Wakefield's Paul Schopke tangle in the 167-pound class. Frevert won the match 11-1. At right, Wayne's Steve Pospishil (stripes) attempts an escape while Wakefield's Jon Stelling tries to throw him to the mat. Stelling won the 112-pound match 6-2. District tournament action for both teams is scheduled the week of Feb. 9-14. Individuals will qualify for the state tournament at district competition.

Blue Devils Turn Back Cadets for 12th Victory

Tardy Wayne basketball fans are finding it more and more difficult to find a parking place at each successive home game these days.

And the main reason is simple: the Wayne boys are winning and the fans are packing the gym.

Friday's 66-53 win over West Point High School was no exception. The parking lot was plumb full, cars were parked on the surrounding vacant lots, the exit drive and even in the entryway of the nearby cemetery.

The Blue Devils had some trouble at the free throw line but didn't have too much trouble putting away the spunky Cadets.

Three players scored in double figures for the hosts. Perry Nelson threw in 17 points, Kevrin Nissen scored 16 and Tod Heier hit 12. Mike Sladek and Tim Pfeiffer weren't far behind with nine and eight points respectively.

The Devils held a decisive 32-22 rebounding advantage and had a big edge on the offensive boards. Nelson pulled down 14 rebounds for the winners.

Wayne hit 50 percent of its shots from the field and West Point hit 43 percent. Wayne coach, Bill Sharpe, credited his team's accurate shooting and offensive rebounding control as key factors in the outcome of the game.

Each team committed 12 turnovers in the game according to Wayne statistics.

Wayne opened up a 14-6 lead by the end of the first quarter and appeared on its way to an easy win. However, West Point fought back within three points in the second and third quarters.

A last-second basket by Perry Nelson gave the Devils a 29-24 half-time advantage. While Wayne's two big men Nelson and Sladek were held scoreless in the third period, Nissen, Pfeiffer and Heier took over to combine for all 16 points. Nelson added eight points in the fourth quarter to ice the victory and make way for the substitutes.

West Point was led by Joe Hendricks with 12 points, Mark Ortmeier with 11 and Jim George with 10.

Wayne won the junior varsity game 46-41. Mark Bofenkamp scored 13 points and Shaun Niemann scored 11. Todd Schwartz and Tim Heier added nine points apiece. Jim Sperry and Todd Pfeiffer each made one basket.

The best of the West Husker Conference will compete for the conference title beginning tonight (Monday) in the Wayne-Carroll High School gym.

Wayne is scheduled to play Wisner-Pilger at 8 p.m. tonight. Other pairings in the boys and girls divisions are printed elsewhere in this sports section.

TODD SKOKAN (42) of Wayne awaits a rebound of a missed shot as teammates Tod Heier (partially hidden) and Kevrin Nissen (40) try to help out. West Point's Joe Hendricks (35) is hoping to get the ball before Skokan does. Wayne won the home game 66-53, Friday night.

'C' League Basketball Results

Standings in C League basketball are bunched up after the league's only undefeated team was knocked off Wednesday. Winners this week were Teams One, Four and Six.

League standings: Team One 3-1, Team Three 3-1, Team Six 3-2, Team Two 2-2, Team Four 2-2, Team Seven 1-3, Team Five 1-4.

Team One 73, Team Three 45

The evening's biggest matchup turned out to be a landslide victory for Team One which handed Team Three its first loss.

The winners placed four players in double figures led by Grant Ellingson with 19 points. Moe Boeckenhauer and Don Zeiss scored 14 points each and Ric Wilson followed with 13. Other scorers: Doescher, 6; Dickey, 5; Gull, 2.

A 22-11 advantage in the second quarter put the game out of reach.

Team Three was led by Bill Corbit with 15 points and John Dorcay with 12. Other scorers: Luft, 8; Kopperud, 5; Swartz, 3; Koeber, 2.

Team Four 48, Team Seven 47

In the evening's closest game, Team Four came from behind to edge Team Seven by one point.

The winners made five free throws in the fourth quarter to overcome a 42-37 deficit after three quarters of play. Team Four led 17-14 after one quarter but Team Seven led 30-29 at the half and 42-37 after three periods.

Team Four was led by Duane Blomkamp and Bill Blecke with 11 points each and Marlon Arneson with 10 points. Other scorers: Ditman, 8; Nichols, 4; Hammer, 4.

Team Seven was led by Don Sherman in the losing cause. Tom Roberts, Jack March and Terry Meyer scored eight points apiece. Other scorers: Miller, 7; Gross, 4; Overin, 2.

Team Six 69, Team Five 44

Hot shooting in the second and fourth quarters propelled Team Six to an easy win over Team Five in Wednesday's final game. Bob Nelson dumped in 24 points. Randy Shaw scored 17, Lee Remer scored 10 and Bill Carlson added eight. Other scorers: Ensz, 4; Dorcay, 4.

Team Five was led by Ron Wriedt with 13 points, Dick Sorensen with 12, Bill Woehler with eight and Sam Schroeder with eight. Other scorer: Don Sherman, 3.

Wednesday's schedule: 7 p.m.—6 vs. 4; 8 p.m.—7 vs. 3; 9:15—1 vs. 2.

'Hands-On' Solar Workshop Set

Participants will get "hands on" experience in building solar panels at a solar energy workshop to be offered at Wayne State College.

The three credit-hour course, being offered through the WSC Extended Campus, is scheduled to begin Feb. 13. Instructors for the course are Dennis Linster, assistant professor of industrial education and Dean Metz, associate professor of math and science at WSC.

THE COURSE will be held at Carhart Science Building on Friday through Sunday, Feb. 13-15.

Participants will get "hands on" experience in building solar panels at a solar energy workshop to be offered at Wayne State College.

The purpose of the solar energy workshop is to familiarize people with solar energy and show them ways to conserve energy in their own homes, according to Linster. He explained that workshop participants will calculate heat loss for their home or some other structure, and will build and test a solar panel suited for that structure.

METZ EXPLAINED that participants will "start at the bottom and work up." They will use the Apple II computer to apply a heat loss formula to their home. They will learn various ways to cut down on heat loss. There are various relatively cheap ways to decrease heat loss, Metz explained, such as caulking, proper curtains on windows, insulation, etc.

With that background, workshop participant will then calculate the "dimensions" of a solar panel to fit their home and will build and test "miniature" solar panels, Linster explained. "We hope they make all their mistakes on the scale models," Metz said. "At least all the major mistakes."

He added there are a lot of factors that affect how well a solar panel will work. These include the use of materials that can withstand high temperatures and proper installation of the solar panels.

THOSE WISHING to register for the solar energy workshop or wanting more information can phone or write the Wayne State College Extended Campus Division, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787, 375-2200.

Benefit for Andersons

A large crowd attended a benefit last Sunday evening for the Orville Anderson family who lost all their possessions in a recent fire.

The event, held at the Hoskins Public School, was sponsored by the local Branch 439 of the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL).

Entertainment included volleyball and basketball games and a bake and craft sale.

Funds raised during the event will be matched by the AAL home office.

Local AAL officers in charge of the event were Orville Brookemeyer, Howard Fuhrman and Mrs. Kennard Woodckman.

and card prizes were won by the Carl Hinzman, the Arthur Behmers, the Lyle Marozets and the Erwin Ufrichs. Fenskes received the guest prize.

The next meeting will be in the Carl Hinzman home with the date to be announced.

Garden Club

The Town and Country Garden Club met with Mrs. Emelia Walker for a 2 o'clock dessert luncheon last Monday.

Mrs. George Langenberg Sr. conducted the meeting and opened with two articles, "Happy New Year 1981" and "What is New Year's Day?"

Members responded to roll call with a household hint. Mrs. Arthur Behmer read a report of last month's meeting and the treasurer's report. Yearbooks for 1981 were distributed and reviewed.

Pinochle Club

The Walter Koehlers entertained the Circle Pinochle Club Wednesday evening.

Guests were the E. C. Fenskes.

The hostess gave the comprehensive study on Vermont and Mrs. Howard Fuhrman presented the lesson, "Peas - New and Old."

Mrs. Walter Koehler will be the Feb. 23 hostess and Mrs. Arthur Behmer will have the lesson.

Attend Services

Out-of-town relatives who came to attend funeral services for Mrs. Ida Koepke Tuesday included Victor Grimm of Cheyenne, Wyo., the Keith Benedicts of Pleasanton, Kan., the Raymond Lehmanns of Grand Island, the Herbert Holtzes of Seward, the Gary Grimms of Pilger, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Voeks of Fremont, and the Leonard Pojar family of Madison.

They all were guests in the Lester Koepke home Tuesday afternoon. Other guests were the Clarence Koepkes, the Elmer Koepkes, Sharon Koepke and Chad, the Elmer Uttechs, Mrs. Elizabeth Uttech and Esther Uttech, all of Norfolk, and the Herman Koepkes and the LeRoy Koepke and Larry Koepke families, all of Hoskins.

The Raymond Walkers returned home last Monday after spending several days visiting relatives in Illinois. They visited the Ben Walkers at Mt. Morris and with the Marvin Walkers at Elizabeth.

The Hoskins rescue unit took Mrs. Dorothy Walker to a Norfolk hospital Tuesday morning.

The Kevin Johnsons, Maelyn and Laura, Columbus, were Jan. 24 overnight guests of the Ward Johnsons. Joining them for dinner Sunday were the Gary Johnsons, Eric and Joel of Norfolk.

Winter Is Time to Finish Projects

Winter is a good time for finishing up earlier projects left undone and a good time for attending school.

County extension agents and district staff at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord are offering a series of educational programs throughout the district during February and March.

District Director Cal Ward said that while extension-type educational meetings have been scheduled over the years cooperatively by county agents and appropriate state and district specialists, the current "winter school" approach is innovative in systematically assuring a session for interested persons in each county in the district. Ward said five programs will be offered featuring six guest speakers. The programs are scheduled on different days in each county.

A program on feeder pig management will feature extension swine specialist Mike Brumm and will discuss feeder pigs, their nutrition and management.

Damage to grain by mold and insects and special management techniques in long-term grain storage will be presented by Dave Shelton, extension agricultural engineer and John Witkowski, extension entomologist.

George Rehm, extension agronomist in the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, will discuss getting more from the fertilizer applied and controlling fertilizer cost without hurting yields.

A program on conservation tillage and integrated pest management will be offered by Russell Moomaw, extension agronomist, and John Witkowski.

Paul Guyer, extension beef specialist, will offer a program on protein nutrition, the biggest out-of-pocket cost. Ward noted that some of the dates for the program were altered from the listings in the original brochures because Guyer will replace Vernon Krause in the program.

County agents can be contacted for more detailed information about the Winter Agricultural Schools.

Counties in the Northeast District include: Antelope, Boyd, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

Stress Is Topic of Annual Producers Association Meeting

More than 1,000 livestock producer-members of Producers Commission Association are expected at the 57th annual meeting Feb. 7 at the Marina Inn, South Sioux City.

David Mitchell, manager of Sioux City Producers, said the meeting will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a "Smoked Chop" dinner. Mitchell announced that this year's featured speaker will be Dr. Robert S. Elliot, M.D.

Dr. Elliot is a professor of medicine and director of the Cardiovascular Center and Division of Cardiovascular Medicine at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

Dr. Elliot is a widely published author and well known speaker on stress and how it affects our lives. He makes a strong point that eating meat does not increase a persons cholesterol level any more than eating fish, chicken or anything else. He says, there is no proven evidence to substantiate the notion that eating meat increases the cholesterol level. Dr. Elliot uses an abundance of humor to make his many points throughout his message.

Plans for the event are being finalized by the board of directors. Directors include Franz Schneider, LeMars, Iowa, president of the association. Sam Phillips, Akron, Iowa, Lester Anderson, Centerville, S.D., C.L. Beermann, Dakota City, Gayland Jackson, Allen, Tony Strouth, Ashton, Iowa, W.R. Ren sink, Sioux Center, Iowa, Steve Houston, Moorhead, Iowa, Howard Kennedy, Beresford, S.D.
