Three Bound Over On Drug Charges

Other Hearing Reset

Three of four area persons arrested in Winside over the past six weeks on drug-related charges were bound over Thursday at the conclusion of their preliminary hearings by County Judge James Duggan to District Court for arraignment.

THE FOURTH — Charlie Weible, 27, Winside — will face preliminary hearing at 11 a.m. Thursday (Feb. 12) on amended charges. He was arraigned on those complaints Thursday after his attorney declined to waive the arraignment in favor of the preliminary hearing.

Attorneys for two other defendants present waived their clients' arraignments so preliminary hearing proceedings could be held as scheduled. Other defendants include Dale Busskohl, 27, Winside, and Vernon Sahra, 30, Laurel. The other defendant, 24-year-old Dilano Coyle, was bound over on original charges. One of the three was dismissed by Judge Duggan.

The complaint charging her with possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver was dismissed by the judge because state's attorney Thomas DeLay of Norfolk failed to produce evidence to that effect. She was bound over on a felony charge of possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver and a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana of less than one ounce.

AMENDED CHARGES against Sahra, Busskohl and Weible were filed Jan. 12 by prosecuting attorney DeLay after reviewing the original charges and after reviewing additional information made available to him. The trio was arrested early morning Dec. 19 at the Busskohl home in Winside by state and federal drug agents who had been investigating the case since at least Dec. 1.

Now bound over to the higher court, the defendants face arraignments on the following charges:

Busskohl — four counts of possession of cocaine and marijuana and possession with the intent to deliver; Count I — possession of marijuana of more than one pound; Count II — possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver; Count III — possession of cocaine; and Count IV — possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver.

SAHRA — two counts of possession of marijuana of more than one pound with the intent to deliver; Count I — possession of marijuana of more than one pound; and Count II — possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver.

Weible — four counts of possession of cocaine and marijuana with the intent to deliver; Count I — possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver; Count II — possession of marijuana with the intent to deliver; Count III — possession of cocaine; and Count IV — possession of marijuana.

The hearings, which lasted from about 10:30 a.m. to 6:15 p.m., were held to determine if there was probable cause that the crimes had been committed and if there was probable cause that those persons charged did commit the crimes. The judge determined there was probable cause for all counts except the one he dismissed against Coyle.

ARRAIGNMENTS FOR Coyle, Busskohl and Sahra will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, March 4, in District Court. Once the defendants are arraigned, their cases will be set for either jury or court trial. Attorneys for each defendant have the option of which type of trial they want.

Arraignment in District Court for Weible will not be set until if and when he is bound over to the higher court from his preliminary hearing.

Randy Brunckhorst, Omaha, a drug investigator for the Nebraska State Patrol, was called as the first witness.

The eight-year veteran of the State Patrol revealed that he and other undercover agents were attempting to purchase three ounces (original but unconfirmed reports said four ounces) of what was believed to be cocaine for $2,400 an ounce. Also, he said they were negotiating with the defendants for purchase of some 50 pounds of what was believed to be marijuana at $325 per pound.

ACCORDING to Brunckhorst, he and other agents made contact with Busskohl at the Roll-A-Wheel Truck Stop & Cafe in Norfolk Dec. 1 to discuss the possible purchase of drugs. The investigator said Busskohl identified himself then only as "Grasshopper". It was later in the investigation that Brunckhorst learned "Grasshopper's" real name.

On Dec. 18, the investigator said he and the agents made additional contact with Busskohl at the truck stop. The defendants and officers went to the Busskohl residence later that night and early into the morning of Dec. 19 for the remainder of the alleged drug buy.

It was at the Busskohl home, which he shared with Coyle, a child of his and two children of hers, that contact was made with Sahra and Weible. Brunckhorst testified that Sahra and Busskohl entered the home carrying two large stereo boxes which contained the alleged marijuana. Weible was close behind carrying a large weight scale.

THE SUBSTANCE suspected to be cocaine was field tested by Brunckhorst in the kitchen of the Busskohl home and one of five pressed blocks of the alleged marijuana was examined. Brunckhorst said he was assured the green leafy substance was not the marijuana "ditch" that had been purchased by the agents about a month before but was instead "good weed."

Brunckhorst said he was told the total price for all the substances would be $23,640. However, he said he informed the defendants that he only had $16,000 in his possession. It was during the discussion on price, the investigator said, when Weible was asked by the other defendants if the figure of $2,400 per ounce for the alleged cocaine stood. Brunckhorst said Weible nodded his head "yes."

AFTER THE final deal was made, Brunckhorst said he made an excuse of moving his car to go outside. It was then that the other officers, located in a van in the Winside Cemetery, were notified that the arrest "was going down."

During testimony, the officer revealed that he was wired with a transmitter which was being monitored in the van. Brunckhorst also testified that he was carrying a handgun then, too.

As Brunckhorst was entering the house, the other agents already in the house were arresting Busskohl and Sahra. Weible, standing to the side through most of the discussions, bolted out the door when he realized the arrests were being made, trying to escape. However, he was captured by other officers outside the house and arrested, according to Brunckhorst.

They all were taken to Pierce County Jail.

THE HEARING for Sahra was the next held followed by Weible and then Coyle. Brunckhorst testified for the state in these cases as well, providing much the same information as during Busskohl's hearing.

During his testimony, it was revealed that Sahra was responsible for flaking some of the alleged marijuana from one of the blocks which was packaged in garbage bags.

Robert Wilbur, Omaha, an agent with the U.S. Treasury Department, Division of Tobacco, Firearms and Drugs, testified in the Sahra case that he (Wilbur) was in the Busskohl kitchen when Sahra, Weible and Busskohl entered the house.

IT WAS DURING Wilbur's testimony that the possible purchase of additional drugs was revealed. He said Sahra told him the 50 pounds of marijuana had been weighed heavy to ensure the buyers a good deal. Sahra and his friends wanted to do additional business, Wilbur said, because "they said they had access to 650 pounds more of marijuana."

Testimony of Brunckhorst, Wilbur and other special agents for Coyle was similar to that for Busskohl and Sahra. There was no testimony for Weible since Judge Duggan allowed a motion by Weible's attorney Vince Kirby of Norfolk that Weible be arraigned on the amended charges.

Unless Weible is granted additional continuances by Judge Duggan, testimony on his involvement in the alleged drug sale will be revealed Thursday.

Wind Sock Marks County's Semi-Confinement System

When the strong north winds blow, the wind sock on the Mickey Topp farm can be seen whipping in the fresh farm air.

THE SOCK ISN'T an indicator used to guide local air traffic for landings but is a gag Christmas gift placed on the top of Topp's cattle semi-confinement.

While Topp was in the process of building the foundation for his confinement in late November, friends and neighbors kidded him that the structure looked like an airport hangar. Thus, Topp received a wind sock for Christmas and placed the gift at the eastern point of the building.

The semi-confinement is believed to be the first of its kind in Wayne County. Another local one is located at the Northeast Station near Concord. Topp started building the confinement in the last week of November and completed the project by Dec. 22.

ONE OF THE unusual characteristics about Topp's confinement is the fact that it was built on a downhill slope. From top to bottom, the confinement has a drop of 22 feet, Topp said. The slope figures to be two inches for every two feet.

The structure is 270 feet long, 37 feet wide and has 12 foot side walls. A feed bunk built within the confinement is 250 feet long and feeds the 150 to 200 cattle that Topp places in the lot.

The purpose of the confinement is to receive new cattle and keep them out of the weather for a month or two while they are feeding. After the cattle are bigger they are turned out into the feedlot. Topp has four lots located on his farm and said he transfers cattle from one lot to the next every three or four months.

The rotation system is really a one-man job with alleyways connecting the four lots.

TOPP SAID he had planned the confinement since his family moved five years ago to their present farm eight miles west and one-quarter mile south of Wayne.

"Sometimes, you have to take chances. If you don't you'll never know whether your plans will work out," Topp said. "We finished about Dec. 22 so it was a nice Christmas present."

Topp had plenty of help in construction from friends and neighbors. Some of the persons who had a hand in the work are Harlin and Merlin Brugger, Randy Ritze, Bobby Peterson, Albert Topp (father) and brothers Leroy and Merlin Topp.

THE MATERIALS for the confinement building were purchased from lumber yards in Wayne, Omaha, Laurel and Norfolk.

Some of the difficulties Topp and his crew encountered while constructing the building included cold weather, strong winds, mud and adjusting the foundation to the slope of the hill.

Topp said that they worked in the cold weather because they were afraid temperatures would drop even further if they waited any longer. So the crew relied on some "spirits to keep our blood warm," he jokingly added.

At one time when the weather was warmer, Topp said the ground was so muddy that the crew had to lay down lumber in order to work on the foundation.

When winds at Topp's hill-top farm were too strong to put up rafters, the workers found other work to keep themselves busy.

THERE ARE SOME ADVANTAGES to constructing his own confinement, Topp indicated. He pointed out that the span on the front of the building and the bays are bigger than on commercial buildings and make cleaning tasks easier.

All of Topp's four stockyards are pollution controlled to prevent contamination of a small nearby creek. Terraces and dikes hold back the solid waste.

The Topp's can see all four pens from their living room window and expect the confinement to save them money in the long-run. The north wall will protect the cattle from strong cold winds and snow, thus cutting down on feed costs.

The structure has a slight opening the length of the roof to prevent the roof from added wear and tear during storms.

"It was a lot of work but it was well worth it. Things have worked out well," Topp stated.

Bleckes Use Free Energy

By Marge Holland
Wisner

If you're looking for Pat and Gary Blecke's new house, you might miss it if you're going south on Nebraska 15. But if you're driving north, you will see it on the east side of the road, tucked into a mound of soil, six miles south of Wayne.

The earth house nestles into 11 acres of gently sloping land which the Bleckes bought a year and a half ago.

Last month they moved with their children, ages 17, 11 and 9, from their trailer home into the newly-completed house.

Three sides are covered with earth. The north-facing roof is overlaid with metal while the higher south roof, slanting into the sun, is covered with flint, a product designed to catch the sun's rays.

"Covering the entire roof with earth would have been financially prohibitive," Blecke said. "The side walls, made of cement blocks filled with cement and sand, would have had to be much more strongly reinforced to hold up such a heavy load."

"And we like the light that streams in from overhead through the skylights in each of the rooms," Mrs. Blecke added. "This way we don't feel like we are living in a cave."

"Planning and building this house was a new experience for us," Blecke said, "and we are still learning. We've made some mistakes, but all in all we are happy with the results so far."

A 48-by-7-foot-enclosed porch, which eventually will be the green house to hold and store the solar energy, fronts the 1,800-square foot living space. Holes in the house as it looks south toward the sun's rays of energy. The family is living in the earth home south of Wayne and finds the surroundings to be comfortable with use of solar heat. This is believed to be the second earth house in Wayne County, with the other owned by the Dave Andersons on the edge of Hoskins.

Flu Bug Releasing Its Grip

The flu bug — apparently now beginning to leave the area — has left its mark on area schools, particularly the Winside and Laurel schools.

A WAYNE Herald survey Friday indicated that the situation was improved somewhat from earlier in the week.

The school hit hardest was Winside which was forced to cancel elementary school classes Tuesday and Wednesday because of high absenteeism. The school also cancelled a wrestling meet Thursday night with Wakefield because several team members were out with the flu.

Winside Supt. Don Leighton said that Monday of last week was the worst day with 23 percent of the students absent. While a few were gone for other reasons, the majority were gone for illness. Leighton said 39 students were absent Friday, Jan. 30, and it was hoped the situation would improve by Monday.

SUCH WAS NOT the case and Leighton was forced to cancel the elementary classes. The younger students have been hit harder, Leighton noted, with 42 gone on Feb. 2 and 22 absent in the high school.

Laurel has had similar problems with the flu, but has escaped the bug better than Winside. A Laurel-Concord School spokesman said the highest absenteeism last week was between 40 and 45 students. By the end of the week, however, the number of ill students had declined somewhat.

The flu bug in Wayne, Allen and Wakefield schools appears to be on the wane. None of the schools reported serious absenteeism problems last week, but Wakefield and Allen had several students out the latter part of January.

WAYNE SEEMS to be the least-hardest hit of any of the districts. According to high school guidance counselor Kurt Frye, the situation is considered normal with only two or three students absent with the flu.

The elementary school has been harder hit, but absenteeism is only at four percent — about 12 to 15 students daily. The illness rate is somewhat above normal which is considered to be 6 to 9 students daily.

Dick Metteer, principal at the middle school, said the illness rate there is "nothing more than usual."

ALLEN REPORTED an increase of flu illnesses two weeks ago, but only a handful of high school students were out last week. Elementary absenteeism ran about 5 percent, only slightly above normal.

"We're sitting pretty good right now," a school secretary said.

And in Wakefield, nearly all is back to normal after some flu problems about two weeks ago. At one point recently, 29 students were absent, but that figure dropped to 17 the next day.

The types of flu have varied among the schools, with high fever, aches and pains the most common.

Fitness Program Planned

Complete physical fitness programs that are tailor made for each individual soon will be available to area residents through a program offered free at Wayne State College.

THE PROGRAM, directed by Dr. Ralph Barclay, professor of health and physical education at WSC, will include testing and evaluation of individuals. There will not be any organized exercise classes, but rather individuals will be encouraged to work on their own according to their particular test results.

Participants will be given tests of cardiorespiratory endurance to estimate maximal oxygen uptake, tests to measure strength and endurance, trunk flexibility tests, and measurements of body composition to compute ideal weight.

An informal meeting for males and females over 21 years of age is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the basement of Rice Auditorium.

RESULTS OF the tests will be used to assign participants to beginner, intermediate or advanced level exercise programs. Tests will be given to assess an individual's status, aid in prescribing or limiting activity of individuals and to evaluate an individual's progress.

An appropriate exercise program will be prescribed for each participant based on evaluation of the examinations. Participants will be asked to exercise regularly and to return later for testing of their progress.

Bleckes Build Earth Home

colling of the porch allow the heated air to rise into the roof collector.

A blower pumps the collected heat down into an 18 inch space under the house, which separates the wood floor from the cement cap on the ground. Registers in the floor channel the heat into the rooms.

"Sun shining in through the 14 floor to ceiling windows that line the south side of the house, warmed the spacious living-kitchen area to a cozy 76 degrees.

"We may have to open one of the windows on this winter day," Mrs. Blecke joked. "to make it more comfortable in here."

Three bedrooms and two baths are at the rear of the house and an attached area, which will be the utility room and Gary's office, complete the floor plan.

An 18 inch wooden overhang projects from the house on the south and Gary calculates it will prevent the summer sun from streaming in through the glassed area. He expects to reverse the blower in the summer and pump cool air from under the house into the living area.

"Sometime in the future," Blecke said, "I plan to coil copper tubing in the space above the ceiling where the water will be partially heated before it is piped in to the hot water heater. This should constitute an additional savings."

The earth house is protected on the north and west by evergreen trees, which the Bleckes planted as a part of their conservation plan.

The fuel savings and the challenge of utilizing nature's resources were prime reasons for constructing their innovative home, which has cost about $38,000.

An auxiliary four phase electric furnace comes on when the temperature in the house drops below the thermostat setting. "Last night," Mrs. Blecke said with a smile, "the furnace didn't kick in until 10 o'clock."

Blecke is the district representative for a seed corn company, and farms land north of Wayne.

With bills related to state water issues and problems introduced through the first 10 legislative days of the 1981 session of the Nebraska Legislature, the state senators have plenty of opportunity to pick and choose what they want to do to improve the state's water laws.

Since passage of the Ground Water Management Act of 1975, the senators have conducted interim studies each year and have proposed legislative changes aimed at strengthening that law and closing some of its loopholes. But somehow efforts to tighten up the legislation have bogged down each year under stress of strong opposition at the public hearings and at point of General File and Select File debate.

The summer of 1980 brought statewide drought and extreme heat and the serious lack of precipitation raises fears of a possible repeat of such conditions in 1981 although back-to-back drought years are uncommon in Nebraska. But the senators come into this session with fresh reports of lower water tables, depleted stream flows, higher nitrate levels in underground water supplies, and reports of livestock and domestic wells having to be deepened because of excessive water pumping for irrigation during the summer months.

For practical purposes, the bills sponsored by the Public Works Committee have the best chance for passage because the senators have considerable faith in Chairman Sen. Maurice Kremer, a farmer-irrigator who has been studying the state's water problems and legislative needs since the early 1960's. Following are Public Works Committee bills aimed at amending the 1975 Act:

LB 146 — Would amend the current law to recognize underground water pollution and potential conditions that might require controls. A control area could be designated, based on underground water pollution and a Natural Resources District (NRD) would be allowed to require metering devices on wells.

LB 147 — This bill would amend the act to include authorization of control areas based on current or potential water supply conditions. Currently, there is an interpretation that control areas cannot be approved by the director of Water Resources unless it is obvious that the underground water supply is already critical. It would also authorize the director of Water Resources to include an area in an NRD adjoining a control area in another NRD to be in the control area. Consent of the district with the area to be added would not be required.

LB 148 — This would authorize the State Natural Resources Commission to give strong consideration to projects providing the most soil and water benefits when financing projects. It would require the commission to set the state cost-share rate annually at the lowest possible percentage at which it was expected that all funds would be obligated.

LB 222 — This bill, which is supported by Gov. Thone, would allow an NRD to designate an area as an interim control area for up to 5 years. The NRD would be allowed to exercise irrigation controls during the period while it gathered data on the scope of the water problem. The bills also would take away current district authority to stop new drilling of wells in a control area.

LB 326 — This bill would put into statute form the ongoing State Water Planning and Review Process, coordinated by the State Natural Resources Commission.

LB 325 — Would require that well drillers who install wells in underground water control areas ensure that the landowner has obtained a permit to drill. Permits for wells under current law are required only in areas that have been designated as having critical underground water supplies.

Some other bills that would appear to have strong support include:

LB 375 — Introduced by Sen. Kremer and Sen. Loran Schmit, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, this bill would allow for some irrigation controls in an area, short of designating it an official "control area." NRD's could set management regulations to include an allocation system for irrigators and these would not have to be approved by the Department of Water Resources. Voters in the affected area would be allowed to petition for an election on the question of a management area.

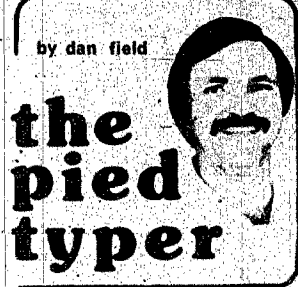

LB 527 — Introduced by Senators Schmit, Von Minden, Wagner and Peterson, this bill would take 4 cents of the state's 13-cent per pack cigarette tax for the Nebraska Resources Development Fund for the next four fiscal years, after which the amount would be 5 cents. Gov. Thone has asked for 2 cents in his budget message. The bill also calls for creation of an executive coordinator for Natural Resources as recommended by the governor. The program includes planning for a statewide network of water projects for water recharge, water storage, flood control and recreation.

Water bills by other introducers include LB 152 (Hoagland) to reserve portions of the flows of streams for public use; LB 149 (Kahle) to require irrigators in marginal areas such as the Sand Hills to notify their NRD if they plan to remove an irrigation system;

LB 81 (Stleck) to extend the life of six underground water conservation districts until Jan. 1, 1987; LB 348 (Hoagland) to put into law the recognition of the relationship between underground and surface water; LB 332 (Schmit) to require that criteria for tax valuations include the availability and quantity of surface and underground water; LB 94 (Beutler) to allow one resource district to request that a control area be designated in an adjoining district; and LB 8 (Cullian) to merge what he has termed conflicting surface water management systems based on riparian and appropriative rights;

LB 401 (Lamb) would permit voters in an NRD to establish underground water control areas without requiring state approval.

As usual in a major criminal case, there is much conjecture among county residents about the "real" facts of the case. Not the facts as presented during the hearings, or as presented in the actual complaints, but the "good" stuff people pass along at coffees or social gatherings.

The cocaine and marijuana cases involving the Winside-area men and woman certainly are no exception. Rumors, particularly about one member, were being bantered around long before the arrests were made in December.

Rumor is defined as general talk not based on definite knowledge; hearsay. Unfortunately, when people pass these rumors along at their afternoon teas, or at the bars, they are taking the risk of prejudicing forthcoming proceedings on the cases.

The more unsubstantiated talk that circulates among area residents, the greater the chance that people are forming an opinion about the guilt or innocence of the defendants. A crafty attorney will research this problem of prejudice and will give it due consideration in a change of venue to another county.

Even the presentation of facts by the newspaper or other media can be considered by the attorneys as prejudicial. Depending on the extent of the information released by the media and the degree of "sensationalism" attached to the cases by the media, an attorney can move for a change of venue to a nearby county. He would claim that pre-trial publicity has prejudiced potential jurors.

The Wayne Herald is taking special precautions in these particular drug cases because we feel residents of Wayne County have a Constitutionally guaranteed access to the information. If the charges are true, the four defendants have touched the lives of many people in the county and probably the three-state area.

On the same hand, however, the defendants are guaranteed by the Constitution with the right to fair trial and an impartial jury.

There was a multitude of information revealed at the preliminary drug hearings Thursday that will not reach print until the trial has begun or until a jury is sequestered, is ordered not to read newspapers, or watch television or listen to the radio.

We will attempt to provide enough factual information so the reading public has a respectable idea of the circumstances of the arrests. We will not print incriminating material to satisfy someone's insatiable desire for more, more, more.

Dear Editor:
Is the Wayne City Council III advised in the manner in which it has recently invoked special privileges accorded them by the State's open meeting law?

At a regular meeting several weeks ago I approached the council during the "visitors" portion of the agenda to request a review of the rationals used in reaching a decision to spend $17,000 that they could have easily avoided.

Response to my request was not allowed by the City Attorney who informed the council that any such discussion would be in violation of the open meeting law since the particular subject was not part of the advertised agenda. When I restated that no formal action was expected but that I was only requesting information, the attorney held fast that no discussion should be entered into.

As there have been numerous previous discussions during which the attorney has allowed the council to respond to "visitors," I can only assume that the attorney wanted to avoid this particular issue.

While I will leave the question of the legality of such action to those better qualified to judge, I do feel that we need to consider whether the council's attitude is consistent in all similar situations.

Would discussion relevant to a "visitors" request, whether in regard to an agenda item or not, be any less appropriate than those discussions that took place at recent advertised meetings at which the selection of a new City Administrator was the topic?

The most recent questionable interpretation of the open meeting law occurred a week ago when, within seconds of convening an advertised special council meeting, the majority voted to enter into closed session. Their action was endorsed by the City Attorney who cited a clause from the law which permits closed sessions for the purpose of "strategy sessions with respect to collective bargaining."

For the next 45 minutes the public was excluded. When the public was finally readmitted a motion was immediately introduced and subsequently passed by the majority to offer the position of City Administrator to a Mr. Kloster of Forest City, Iowa.

There could be little doubt in the minds of those excluded from the meeting but that the discussion behind closed doors had exceeded the reason quoted in the original motion as justification for the closed session.

Is it unreasonable to assume that there was something relevant to the council's action that they felt should have been kept from the public? If it was, in fact, relating to salary, as suggested, was closed discussion really necessary when one considers that the salary must ultimately become public knowledge? To date, I have heard of no public discussion by the present council that has addressed the administrator issue and I feel that in light of the impact of that position upon the community more awareness of council attitudes is necessary.

Closed sessions, by nature, invite suspicion and conjecture on the part of the public. It would seem that the City Council would be well advised not to encourage those feelings but instead strive to promote greater confidence in their leadership through more interaction with the public.

The Two Most Political Numbers in America

Richard L. Leshner, President
of the United States

Virtually everyone agrees that for the new administration to succeed it must fashion policies that can win approval in Congress and then turn our economy around. What is less commonly understood, however, is that our current methods of measuring and reporting economic conditions are inadequate and in need of revision. To put it bluntly, these monthly statistics to which the media devote such attention are often so misleading they actually contribute to the very problems they are supposed to monitor.

A statistician, it has been said, is one who collects data and draws confusion. Admittedly, this characterization is often unfair; nevertheless, when relevant it only increases the potential for trouble that results whenever politicians try to use statistics as drunks use light posts — for support rather than illumination. Nowhere is this more true than in the monthly reports on unemployment and consumer prices.

There are several problems with the Consumer Price Index (CPI) that distort the picture of the rate of inflation. First, the housing component of the Index is determined by including the full purchase price of new homes and the total costs of new mortgages for that small percentage of American homeowners who move each year. As a result, rapid fluctuations in interest rates and home purchase costs distort the CPI. Thus, when the cost of new homes and mortgages are rising faster than other prices, as has recently been the case, the CPI has an upward bias. In periods of deflation, the opposite is true.

Another problem: By concentrating on the many abrupt, monthly changes in the CPI, we are sometimes led to believe inflation has begun to abate. Yet however it is measured, the underlying rate of inflation has increased steadily in recent years and will probably continue to increase in 1981. Also, thanks in part to all the attention devoted to these monthly reports, the media contribute to the misimpression that inflation is actually caused by changes in prices. In reality, the opposite is true — prices are the symptoms of inflation, which essentially results from the supply of money outpacing increases in the production of goods and services.

Finally, the way in which the CPI is used can exacerbate inflation, because many government spending programs are tied to the index, so as it increases, it automatically triggers higher and higher spending. What's more, the bulk of federal programs are indexed at the rate of 100 percent of CPI, and six federal civilian and military programs are now adjusted semi-annually, as well. It's worth noting that, on the average, private sector pensions rarely compensate for inflation at all, while industry cost of living clauses only compensate for about 57 percent of the rise in the CPI. Social Security, of course, is indexed to the CPI.

As for the monthly report on unemployment, these statistics are also distorted and misleading, and can have a pernicious impact on government policy. The figures are derived from a sample of households that approximates just one-tenth of one percent of the total; and, while the data collection process can imply a considerable error rate, even the slightest change in each month's figures is usually reported without qualification and with great fanfare.

The statistics do not reflect that with generous unemployment compensation, which is normally tax-free, some workers have little incentive to look for jobs. Similarly, the statistics ignore all those individuals who, having registered as unemployed because they are accepting welfare, have decided it is to their financial advantage to remain on welfare. Nor, finally, do the statistics reflect the impact of a steadily increasing minimum wage forcing some individuals — often black teenagers — out of the labor market entirely and onto unemployment rolls.

Little wonder that economist Peter Drucker has labeled the traditional unemployment index as "meaningless and misleading" and "an abomination, an Alice in Wonderland stew of apples, oranges and red herrings." Nevertheless, in recent years Congress has linked federal spending programs such as CETA to measured levels of unemployment. The resulting message to state and local officials is clear: Prove to us you have high levels of unemployment and you will be rewarded with more federal aid.

To succeed then, the new administration must do more than adopt radical changes in policy. It must also do away with the numbers racket presented each month under the guise of official government reports.

MRS. DWAINÉ BJORKLUND of rural Wakefield inspects her rare amaryllis plant, which has seven orange colored blossoms bearing from only one bulb.

An Unusual Amaryllis

Mrs. Dwaine Bjorklund has been growing a variety of plants for the past 25 years and had never seen an amaryllis sporting seven large blossoms on two stems growing from a single bulb.

Mrs. Bjorklund, who lives south of Wakefield, didn't believe such a thing could happen, that is until her own "ordinary" amaryllis recently did just that.

"I've heard of hybrid amaryllis plants having so many blossoms," said Mrs. Bjorklund "but never an ordinary variety."

Mrs. Bjorklund's amaryllis has two stems, one with four of the lilike blossoms and one with three. "This is very unusual," said the Wakefield woman, adding that most of her amaryllis plants have only two blossoms on one stem.

A few have had three blossoms and only once before has one had four blossoms," she said "but never two stems out of only one bulb."

Mrs. Bjorklund's plant is two feet tall and sits by a south window. "Its flowers are orange colored, as are the flowers on all her other amaryllis plants."

Epidemic of Obesity A 'Spreading' Problem

An epidemic is spreading throughout the United States and it seems the older we get, the more susceptible we are.

As I visited with the charming men and women having lunch at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center last week, we realized that the epidemic poses some serious threats to 60 percent of those in attendance.

PERSONS who contact the epidemic experience a greater risk from surgery, anesthesia, and accidents. They often have more aggravated conditions of arthritis, gout, back problems, and some forms of cancer.

Those afflicted by the epidemic have increased possibility of cardiovascular and gall bladder disease, hypertension, and diabetes if other risk factors are present.

In addition to these physical hazards, there also are social and psychological effects of the epidemic — of obesity.

from the fifth food group. (That's the new food group in the Daily Food Guide that includes all the high-calorie, low-nutritious foods that couldn't be categorized before. It's called the Fats, Sweets, and Alcohol Group).

BEGIN BY cutting down on foods like butter at 100 calories per tablespoon, mayonnaise at 110 calories per tablespoon, syrups and jellies at 55 calories per tablespoon, and sugar and frosting at 50 calories per tablespoon.

Beer at 220 calories per can, potato chips at 10 calories per chip, Twinkies at 185 calories a piece, and one candy bar at 130 calories are included in this food group also.

DON'T CUT down on foods in the nutritious four food groups until you've made a mighty effort on the non-nutritious part of your daily diet.

Then consider using dairy products that contain less fat. Save 70 calories for every cup of skim milk consumed instead of whole milk. Use one-fourth cup half and half over your oatmeal instead of all cream and save 120 calories. Substitute one cup yogurt for one cup sour cream whenever you can and save 32 calories.

Slice your bread half as thin and consume half the calories. Or serve your sandwiches open face. Use half the butter and mayonnaise usually spread on the sandwich — or eliminate them completely.

BRIL OR roast meat instead of frying and poach your eggs. Every tablespoon of fat eliminated saves 100 calories. Eat more poultry and fish, which contain fewer calories per serving than red meat providing the skin is removed and it's not dipped in butter! Avoid coating meats with a breading or serving them in rich sauces.

Serve vegetables with seasonings rather than with butter or cheese sauce at 60 calories per tablespoon. Avoid French frying vegetables or garnishing with buttered crumbs or greasy onion rings.

EAT MORE fresh fruit than canned fruit, especially when it's in syrup. One fresh peach is 35 calories while one-half cup canned-in-syrup peaches are 100 calories. Buy water-pack fruit and save 51 calories on one-half cup serving of pears. Purchase unsweetened fruit and sweeten it lightly yourself.

OBESITY IS caused by the troublesome bug of overeating. When one consumes more calories than are exercised off, the result is weight gain. As one becomes overweight, obesity becomes a real threat.

I don't mean to snitch on the 60 percent of the men and women who had their diets checked last week and were found to be overweight. I mention it because there's some good news with the bad news. Sixty-eight of those checked had consumed fewer total calories for the day than recommended to maintain their present weight. That means they're doing something about it.

MOST EVERYONE present agreed they are more susceptible to obesity the older they get because 1) they continually get less exercise yet 2) their eating habits change very little.

So what's the cure? Get more exercise and/or reduce calorie consumption 10 percent for each decade beyond age 40.

The best place to start reducing calorie intake is to cut down on and/or eliminate eating foods

'Listen to Your Body' Says Platner

"Listen to your body" was the main message Dr. Marguerite Platner had to offer during her presentation at Columbus Federal Savings and Loan in Wayne.

Dr. Platner, coordinator of the community service counseling program at Wayne State College, presented her talk, entitled "Pulling It All Together," as part of the Spectrum lecture series being sponsored by the Wayne State College Extended Campus Division.

THE LECTURE series is being presented each Wednesday from noon to 1 p.m. in the community room of the Columbus Federal building and is designed to bring women together to share common problems, ideas and information.

Platner explained there are several factors that affect health and make the body resistant or susceptible to disease. "Stress is one of those factors," she said.

She pointed out that being healthy does not mean merely being free from disease.

"Don't consider yourself well just because you're symptom free," she stated. "You should feel good, full of energy, ready to get up in the morning and start a new day."

Platner concluded with the serenity prayer: "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference."

The last three lectures in the Spectrum series will be "Hey You're Kidding! I Really Do Have a Choice?" on Feb. 11; "Gray Hair and Pimples" on Feb. 18; and "Been There and Back" on Feb. 25.

All women of the community are invited to attend any or all of the sessions. Guests are to bring their own brown bag lunches.

Lutheran Churchwomen

Meeting at St. Paul's

St. Paul's Lutheran Churchwomen held their first meeting of 1981 on Jan. 26, with 26 members in attendance.

Mrs. Glenn Granquist presented the program, "God Bless Families." Hostesses were Mrs. Dale Thompson, Mrs. Darrell Moore and Mrs. John Dall.

It was announced that Naomi Circle will meet at 2 p.m. Feb. 19 with hostess Elaine Draghu. Esther Circle is scheduled to meet Feb. 20 at 2 p.m. in the home of Ruth Fleer, and Evening Circle will meet in the church lounge at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 23.

Next general meeting will be Feb. 25 at 2 p.m. The program, entitled "I'm Forgiven," will be given by Mrs. Norman Melton. Cleaning Day has been set for 9 a.m. on Tuesday, March 10. There will be a potluck luncheon.

Platner explained there are several factors that affect health and make the body resistant or susceptible to disease. "Stress is one of those factors," she said.

Platner said people should listen to the messages their bodies are giving them. If discomforts or disease occur, it is the body's way of saying that something is wrong, that a change in lifestyle is necessary. She outlined several factors that affect people's health and how these can be changed to increase

Husker Champs Draw 'Number One' Chants

The dazzling Blue Devils from Wayne High did their part to turn the Class B ratings into a jigsaw puzzle, Friday night. While the state's two prep raters from The Omaha World Herald and The Lincoln Journal watched, the seventh ranked Devils picked apart third rated Hartington Cedar Catholic, in the championship game of the West Husker Tournament.

Wayne dominated the game and retired with a 76-60 win. There was no sign of conservative play in the game as Wayne coach Bill Sharpe won this coaching duel.

The victory was especially sweet for Wayne for the following reasons:

- Three teams are dropping out of the West Husker Conference at the end of this school year, leaving only four teams in the conference. Thus, Wayne can boast of winning the final championship in a seven team field.
- The triumph avenges an earlier 48-47 loss to the Trojans and gives the Blue Devils added confidence.
- Class B 4 district seedings will be drawn within the next two weeks and are based on record alone. With Cedar Catholic, Columbus Scopus and West Point in the district, Wayne is fighting for a high seed.
- Knocking off the state's third ranked ball club means that Wayne should climb up the ratings ladder.

As Wayne fans chanted "We're number one!" late in the game, it was apparent that their claim was warranted. The Blue Devils had just put together their best performance of the season and had no letdowns. Few other schools in Class B have a better claim for the top spot.

Coach Sharpe couldn't have written a more perfect script or asked for a more balanced offensive attack. Four of Wayne's five starters scored in double figures and the fifth was right behind.

Perry Nelson scored 18 points, Tim Pfeiffer scored 16, Mike Sladek scored 15 and Tod Heier scored 14. Kevin Nissen had eight points. The score was Wayne's highest out put this season.

Pre-game Omen?

By the time Sharpe arrived for the basketball game, he said he was expecting "the works".

The veteran coach told the press that earlier in the day he had been driving up Seventh Street in his old car and was run in to by a salesman who was watching some kids throw snowballs.

Sharpe jokingly added that things got worse later that day when his mother-in-law dropped by for an unexpected visit.

However, Sharpe's luck changed when his talented club took the floor. "There aren't many things to be unhappy about," Sharpe said. "The last time we played Cedar, the kids were quiet from Wednesday on. This week, they were real loose. They showed a lot of determination and didn't let up."

Few things went wrong for the hosts. Wayne hit 50 percent of its shots from the field, dominated the boards in the first half and mixed inside scoring with outside scoring.

Nelson, Sladek and Pfeiffer did considerable damage inside 10 or 12 feet. Heier burned Cedar with hot shooting outside and Nissen added several key baskets early in the game to help establish the momentum.

Wayne held a rebounding edge of 20 to 9 in the first half and 37 to 28 in the game. Leading rebounders were Pfeiffer and Nelson with eight each and Sladek, Todd Skokan and Heier with six apiece.

25th Anniversary

This basketball season marks the 25th anniversary of a state basketball championship for Wayne High School. The Blue Devils won the Class B title in 1956.

The packed house was enthusiastic from the opening tip-off and Wayne fans became ecstatic when the Devils jumped out in front.

Baskets by Nissen, Heier, Nelson, Sladek and Pfeiffer opened up an 18-4 lead. The hosts held on for a commanding 22-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Cedar pulled back within 10 points in the second quarter but a three-point play by Nelson turned the visitors back. Wayne led 39-22 at the half. There was no letdown in the third period as Wayne again came out shooting. Heier put the hosts on top 47-25 and set the pace as the Devils kept the pressure on the top-seeded Trojans.

Even as the players became fired and weary in the fourth quarter, Wayne refused to ease up or relax. The Devils maintained a lead of 15 to 20 points throughout the final stanza.

Cedar was led by Glen Lammers with 14 points, Ken Neuhalfen with 13 points and Tom Fellmeier with 10 points.

Wayne improved its record to 14-3 while Cedar fell to 14-2. The Blue Devils have four regular season games remaining before opening district action. South Sioux and Elkhorn will play at Wayne Friday and Saturday respectively. The Devils will finish out on the road against Lyons Feb. 17 and against Pierce, Feb. 20.

Hot Shooting Bears Face Title Match

The Laurel Bears won a free throw shooting contest with the Allen Eagles to advance to Saturday's championship game of the Ponca Tournament. Laurel defeated Allen 73-43 Friday in opening round action.

Laurel was expected to face host Ponca for the title while Allen would probably meet Wynot in the consolation game.

A total of 51 fouls were committed in the game. Laurel sank 25 of 36 free throw attempts including 21 of 31 in the fourth quarter alone. Allen made 19 of 29 attempts at the line.

Eleven of Laurel's 12 players scored. The Bears were led by Joe Olsen with 15 points, Scott Norvell with 12, Matt Johnson with nine and Bryan Buss with nine. Kevin Erwin and Olsen led the rebounding department with 10 and seven caroms respectively.

Allen was led in scoring and rebounding by Frank Lanser who had 24 points. Terry Brewer scored nine points and Rick Gotch added seven.

Laurel made 9 of 12 shots in the second period to open up a half time lead of 30-16 and Allen resorted to fouls in the fourth quarter. In hopes of catching up on missed free throws, Laurel coach Joel Parks said it was a long fourth quarter.

The Bears hit 56 percent of their field goal attempts while Allen hit only 26 percent. Parks complimented Erwin for his rebounding and Buss for his performance off the bench. "We had a good solid team effort and didn't get upset with all the fouls in the fourth quarter," Parks stated.

Laurel's record is now 7-7 while Allen's record drops to 6-8.

Trojans Win Share of Clark Title

For the first time in history, the Wakefield Trojans have won a piece of the Clark Division boys basketball title.

The Trojans scored a 51-38 victory over Coleridge Friday night to tie the Hartington for the division title. Hartington defeated Osmond Friday to clinch its share of the championship.

Wakefield defeated Hartington earlier in the season but lost to Wausa. Wausa has two division losses.

Jeff Hallstrom and Brent Kahl scored 14 points each to pace Wakefield's offensive attack. The Trojans led by five or six points throughout most of the first three quarters and pulled away in the final stanza.

"It is a pretty nice deal to win the Clark title," Trojan coach Ernie Kovar said after the big win. "We played well at the right times and I feel we won the title legitimately."

The winners hit 40.4 percent from the field and were led in rebounding by Vaughn Nix on with 12. Coleridge was led in scoring by Byron Kaline with 14 points and Mike Hof fard with 13. The visitors won the junior varsity game but no score was available.

Wakefield will take a 9-6 record into competition at Homer Friday. Seedings for district tournament play are scheduled

Blue Devils Turn Back Emerson

The Wayne Blue Devils forced a rematch with Hartington Cedar Catholic by eliminating Emerson-Hubbard from the semifinals of the West Husker Tournament with a 60-53 win, Thursday night in Wayne.

After struggling for more than half of the game, the Devils finally opened up a sizeable lead in the third quarter but had a difficult time putting the Pirates away.

Leading scorers for Wayne were Perry Nelson with 16 points, Jere Morris with 11 and Tod Heier and Kevin Nissen with 10 each. Heier and Nissen each scored eight points in the second half.

The game opened in Wayne's favor as Emerson was whittled for the first six fouls and the hosts scored the first eight points. A late first quarter field goal by Mike Sladek upped Wayne's lead to 15-10 at the break.

Emerson's shooting warmed up in the second quarter and the Wayne lead was cut to 19-17 despite several blocked shots by Sladek and Perry Nelson. Wayne used a man-to-man defense in the first half and pressed throughout most of the game.

Jere Morris hit back-to-back baskets from 15 feet to put the Blue Devils back on top 28-23. However, the Pirates closed within three points 30-27 at the half when Wayne's attempt to score the last basket failed. A foul on a rebound in the final two seconds allowed Emerson to hit one free throw.

The Pirates erased the deficit early in the third quarter and grabbed a 31-30 lead only 48 seconds into the period. Kevin Nissen hit an 18-foot jump shot to regain the lead for good at 34-33 with 5:02 left in the third quarter.

Two more baskets by Nissen and one by Nelson put the hosts on top 42-35. Wayne's lead was upped to 46-37 as Tod Heier connected on a 16-foot shot at the buzzer.

The Devils kept control of the game throughout the final period leading by as much as 11 points at one time. Emerson's two 6-5 players Jim Heeney and Kevin Larkowski challenged Wayne by blocking several shots including those of 6-6 Nelson and 6-7 Sladek.

However, the play of Morris gave Wayne a big lift. Morris made three quick steals which led to baskets midway through the fourth quarter.

The win improved Wayne's record to 13-3 and dropped Emerson to 9-5.

Wayne coach Bill Sharpe was not pleased with his team's performance in the win. "It was a sloppy game. We would do a pretty good job for awhile but then make a bunch of mistakes," Sharpe said. "Both teams made dumb mistakes. Emerson has a good ball club. At least we were able to come back and get a three or four point lead after Emerson got ahead. That was the difference in the ball game."

Wayne had 29 total rebounds and hit 44 percent of its shots from the field. The Blue Devils improved their free throw shooting by hitting about 70 percent of their attempts. Emerson hit 38 percent from the floor.

The hosts attempted 23 free throws compared to only 10 for Emerson. The Pirates were led by the outside shooting of Jerry Asmussen and Don Irby. Asmussen scored 14 points and Irby scored 12.

Laurel Girls Lose Opener

Class C power Wynot knocked the Laurel Bears into the consolation game of the Ponca Tournament with a 49-31 win, Thursday night. The Bears were scheduled to play Allen Friday while Wynot was set to meet Ponca in the championship game.

Laurel got off to a slow start and was fighting an uphill battle for the final three quarters. Wynot opened up a 21-4 lead early in the second period.

"We had a really bad start but regrouped and battled them tough for three quarters," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "Wynot was just too tall and too quick. They worked the ball inside to their big girls."

The Bears scored nine unanswered points to pull within eight points at 21-13 by half-time. Iverson said he was real pleased with the play of Renee Gadeken.

Gadeken scored seven of Laurel's nine unanswered points and finished with 13 points and five rebounds to lead the locals. Kay Anderson scored 10 points, Anne Schultz scored six points and Cyndi Jonas and Patsy Thompson each pulled down five rebounds.

Laurel shot 33.3 percent from the field while suffering its 10th loss in 15 games.

Wayne State Ladies Lose a Pair at Home

The Wayne State Lady Wildcats dropped a disappointing 75-69 decision to Missouri Western Wednesday night in Rice Auditorium.

The Lady Wildcats featured a one gal attack as Lori Koester hit on 9 of 13 shots and grabbed up six first half rebounds to give the Cats a 38-34 halftime lead.

The tide turned in the second half as Missouri Western came out in a full court zone press and the Lady Wildcats had trouble reacting to the pressure. Western forced numerous turnovers as they took the lead away from WSC midway through the second half.

The Lady Wildcats made several runs at the Griffons but were never able to regain the lead.

Koester ended the night with a game and yearly high of 30 points followed by Sue Weiger with 13.

The win for Western keeps them right behind league leading Emporia State and the Wildcats continue to look for their second CSIC win.

Hurt by Shooting

An ice-cold shooting performance was Wayne State's downfall as the Lady Wildcats were defeated 69-55 by Pittsburg, Friday.

The Lady Cats made only 25 percent of their shots while Pittsburg hit 43 percent from the field.

Wayne State's leading scorer Lori Koester was held scoreless in the game. Lisa Draper and Julie Petronis scored 18 and 17 points respectively for the hosts.

Other WSC scoring: Margaret Alberts, 3; Lynne Larsen, 3; Carol Durkee, 3; Sue Weiger, 6; Deb Emanuel, 5.

Wayne State outrebounded the visitors 45-43. Leading rebounders for the Lady Cats were Petronis with 10 and Koester with nine.

Cats Host Bellevue in Vital Game

The Wayne State College Wildcats will play host to the Bellevue College men and Brian Cliff women tomorrow (Tuesday) at 6 p.m. in Rice Auditorium in a district matchup for the men and a non-conference game for the women.

The Wayne State men will square off against Bellevue College in a supper-special as the key District 11 contest is scheduled to tip off at 6 p.m.

This game is important to both squads as they are presently battling for a district playoff berth at the end of the year. Wayne State stands 3-2 in district play while Bellevue is 2-2.

The two teams have already met twice this year with the Bruins winning the first game at home and Wayne State capturing the second game in their Christmas Holiday Tournament.

Bellevue features a well-disciplined offense that shows two of its players among the top shooters in the district stats. Freshman center Gary Blum and forward Bob Janousek are both hitting about 59 percent of their shots from the floor. Blum also carries into Tuesday night's game a 14 point per game average while at the same time grabbing up 7.8 rebounds per night.

"This definitely is a big game for us as after tonight's game our two remaining district contests are both on the road against Kearney State and Chadron. Bellevue is a scrappy bunch and they keep coming at you the entire game," stated WSC head coach Rick Weaver.

The Lady Wildcats play the second game of the night and will try to avenge an earlier 69-65 loss to the Brian Cliff Chargers in the finals of the Lady's Holiday Tournament.

The Lady Wildcats will be working to improve their overall record as they presently stand 7-10 before this weekend of play and prepare for a key district game Friday, Feb. 13, against Kearney State.

Ponca Tourney:

Allen Girls Nipped at Buzzer

A last second basket by Kim Buehl from 15 feet gave Ponca's girls a 50-48 win over Allen, Thursday in first round action of the Ponca Tournament.

It was the fourth meeting between the two teams. Allen won the first three games. The Eagles trailed 12-7 after the first quarter and 27-21 at the half. Allen outscored the hosts in the second half but the late basket by Buehl provided the winning margin.

Allen was hurt by Ponca's hot shooting. The Indians hit 59 percent from the field in the first half and 50 percent in the second half. Many of those baskets came on outside shots.

Allen made 43 percent of its shots from the field. Ponca overplayed Lisa Erwin's side defensively and ran a box-and-one on the senior scoring threat to hold her to six points.

However, Des Williams took over the offensive reins by putting in 22 points for the Eagles. Beth Stalling scored eight points. Ponca was led by Susan Armstrong with 15 points and Buehl with 14.

Allen coach Gary Troth wasn't too upset with the loss. "Ponca has a real good team and they shot well. That's hard to beat," Troth stated. "Overall, I don't feel we played that badly. They only missed 17 shots and we rebounded 13 of those misses. I don't feel too bad about the loss."

Troth complimented Des Williams and added that she got the open shots and hit them.

The Eagles were scheduled to play Laurel at 6 p.m. in Friday's consolation game. Ponca was scheduled to host Wynot at 7:30 Saturday in the girls finals.

Center Charges Large Hog Producers With Taking Control

Large scale producers continue to gain control of the hog industry, and are slowing recovery of hog prices received by farmers, according to the Center for Rural Affairs of Walthill.

Center analysis of the Department of Agriculture's latest report on hog numbers reveals that while smaller operations were cutting back in response to low hog prices, farm operations with more than 500 head of hogs on hand increased production as a group during 1980. While comprising only 4.2 percent of the nation's hog producers, this group produces over 42 percent of the nation's hogs more than any other group.

The Center for Rural Affairs has charged that federal tax rules are encouraging farm expansions and the development of large scale operations beyond what is economically justified. "Growth in large scale operations will continue to hold hog prices down and force smaller farmers out of hog production," says Center officials. "until farmers begin to actively oppose federal policies which subsidize the trend toward a large-scale agriculture of fewer farmers."

Leslie Livewires The first meeting of the Leslie Livewires 4-H Club was held Jan. 19 in the Lois Svoboda home. All 19 members attended. Newly elected officers for the coming year are Duane Svoboda, president, Wes Greve, vice president, Shelley Krusemark, secretary, treasurer, and Rita Wilson, news reporter. Norman Wichman was re-elected club leader. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Pesticide Meetings Set

Four restricted pesticide recertification meetings will be held in Wayne County. The first meeting will be at the Winside City Auditorium, Thursday, Feb. 12 from 1 to 3 p.m. announced Don C. Spitze, Wayne County Extension agent. Other meetings will be at the Wayne City Auditorium Friday, Feb. 20 and Tuesday, Feb. 24. The last meeting will be at the USDA Service Center in Wayne on March 6. All meetings are from 1 to 3 p.m. All farmers who in previous years received a certificate that enabled them to purchase restricted pesticides must attend a two-hour session this spring to be re-certified, explains Spitze. The only requirement for being re-certified is to attend the entire two hours as no tests are required.
