Nebraska 15 Detour

CONSTRUCTION ON Nebraska 15 from 14th Street north to past the Concord intersection is expected to begin in the next couple of weeks, weather permitting. As a result, the State Highway Department has rerouted traffic on a detour that goes west on U.S. 35 at Seventh and Main Streets. The schematic drawing provided by the local Highway Department shows clearly where the detour will be. The resurfacing is expected to be finished by fall when the road is reopened.

Council Rezones Lots, Reviews Bids

Meeting in regular session Tuesday night, the City Council opened bids on a new front-end loader, held a public hearing on rezoning, approved applications for street construction funds and heard a problem relating to street assessments.

For more information on the street assessment protest, see story elsewhere on this page.

BIDS FROM SIX machinery firms offering a front-end loader were opened. Although the apparent low bidder was Case Power and Equipment Co. in Omaha, the bids were deferred to Public Works Director Vern Schultz for review.

The Case Power bid, after trade-in, was $25,050. Other bids, after trade-in, were as follows:

Mid Continent Equip. Co., Sioux City, a John Deere for $34,889; Buffalo Machinery Co., Omaha, a Clark for $33,067; Nebraska Tractor and Equipment, Omaha, an International for $29,900; Rose Equipment Co., Lincoln, a Clark for $36,517; and Missouri Valley Machinery Co., Omaha, a Caterpillar for $25,050 or a Cat demonstrator for $26,500.

There were no written or oral objections at a public hearing on rezoning of Block 6 in Sunnyview Subdivision from residential to commercial.

JOHN VAKOC, developer of Sunnyview, spoke on behalf of the rezoning. He said he plans to build a neighborhood shopping facility for the residents of Sunnyview.

The Planning Commission recommended the zoning change, and the Council also gave it an affirmative nod.

The Council was informed that reconstruction of Nebraska 15 north from Wayne to north of the Concord intersection will begin next month, weather permitting.

Much of the engineering work and staking has been completed and crews will begin moving equipment in by March 2. Once construction has begun, thru traffic will be rerouted west of Wayne on U.S. 35 then north through Carroll to near Belden on Nebraska 15.

NEBRASKA 15 will be closed except to local traffic and should be completed by fall, again weather permitting. Total project cost, including culverts, a bridge, grading and resurfacing, will be more than $2 million. Most of the cost will be paid by the federal government with the city's share expected to be about $20,000.

The Council approved three resolutions applying for Federal Aid to Urban Road System (FAUS) funds which would be applied to improvements on three local streets.

The city has applied for FAUS funds only once, but that project was not eligible for the federal money.

The FAUS funds may not be available until 1982, '83 or '84, Public Works Director Vern Schultz noted, but application is being made now "to get our name on the list."

PEARL AND LOGAN Streets and a one-block section of Fairgrounds Avenue are eligible for the funds. Several blocks of Pearl and Logan would be widened to provide a continuous and uniform width, while the block of Fairgrounds would be paved.

Estimated total project cost for Pearl Street is $50,000; for Logan Street is $60,000; and for Fairgrounds is $45,000.

The Council accepted work completed on Thorman Street, accepted the engineer's proposed plat and schedule of assessments for the street and set 8:15 p.m. March 10 as date for public hearing on the levy of special assessments.

In action regarding improvements in the city's water system, the Council approved a motion authorizing engineers Bruce Gilmore & Associates to research the possibility of drilling additional test wells in areas not previously considered.

FRED SALMON of Salmon Well Co. in Wakefield has indicated his test drilling records are available to the Council at a minimal cost. This information will provide the city with a vast array of data on potential test well sites and will save considerable money.

The Council agreed to pay Gilmore & Associates $16,000 for engineering work involving construction of a new well, design of water lines from the well to the distribution system and for water system improvements in Roosevelt Park.

The Council delayed a decision on paying the engineers $3,000 for on-the-job inspection of the project. Action on that will be taken at a later meeting.

THE COUNCIL also was informed that a Step II grant for designing a new wastewater treatment plant has been approved for the city.

The grant totals $64,650 and is 75 percent of the total design phase cost. The city will provide $10,775 of the cost and the state an identical amount, with the federal government picking up the rest of the cost.

All Council members were present except Leo Hansen and all actions were unanimous.

Assessments Protested

A contingency of church members Tuesday night at the City Council meeting belatedly protested the amount their church was being assessed for construction of Hillside Drive.

CHUCK CARHART, speaking on behalf of the Church of Christ on U.S. 35 East, said "we weren't prepared for the amount of the assessment" and that "it will throw us into financial problems."

Carhart was speaking of a $28,000 assessment for half of the project cost of constructing Hillside Drive from U.S. 35 into Sunnyview Subdivision. Included in the project was construction of a box culvert for which Carhart says the church should not be assessed.

The remainder of the assessment will be charged to Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities, lessee of a building on property which also abuts the street. Valario Wagner, speaking on behalf of Region IV, said the amount of the assessment came as a shock to her as well.

THOSE ARE THE only two properties involved in the assessment. However, Carhart and Wagner argued that the project — including the box culvert — benefits the entire Sunnyview Subdivision and the assessments should be adjusted accordingly.

Carhart said that in discussing the project several months ago with former City Administrator Darrell Brewington, he was assured that the assessment cost would be approximately $10,000. The entire project cost, he said, he was told, would be about $20,000. "We just frankly don't understand how it could have gotten so costly," Carhart told the Council.

Had his church been aware that the costs had become so inflated, a protest would have been made earlier. However, Carhart said his church never received notice that a public hearing had been set on the assessment schedule.

"WE NEVER received notice until we received the first assessment notice. We had no idea."

City Clerk Norm Melton assured the Council that proper notification procedures had been completed to inform adjacent property owners that a hearing would be held. Melton noted, however, that the notice of public hearing does not include the amount of the assessments. The church members would have had no idea that the assessment figures had jumped from $10,000 to $28,000.

When asked about the problem, Dennis Hirschbrunner, representative of Bruce Gilmore & Associates, contractor for the project, said the project originally was set up for assessing half of the total cost to each of the property owners. "But my own opinion is that they probably do have some legitimate claim" regarding the inclusion of the box culvert in the assessment.

CARHART SAID "believe me, if we had received a letter, we would have been at the hearing. But we had no reason to doubt the information (given by Brewington) and we were never given any indication of a box culvert."

City Attorney Kom Swarts said the legal question is whether or not the assessment can be revised since the 30-day appeal time has expired. The first assessment payment was due several days ago, he noted, and the adjacent property owners are now paying a penalty for late payment.

One of the central questions, Swarts said, is if part of the project — the box culvert — should be assessed by general obligation (taxpayers) or if the entire project should be assessed to the property owners.

REGION IV representative Wagner said her problem was similar to the church's in that Region IV did not receive notification of the assessment schedule hearing. Under the lease agreement with property owner Wacker, the lessee (in this case Region IV) is to pay all assessments.

However, Wagner explained, the notice of public hearing on the assessments was sent to property owner Wacker who, she said, failed to notify Region IV.

Her first knowledge that an assessment was pending was when Wacker delivered the first assessment payment notice, she said.

AS A RESULT of the discussion, the Council approved a motion instructing the city attorney to provide a legal opinion regarding the possible revision of the assessment schedule.

"This is not a good situation," Mayor Wayne Marsh said. "But the city did carry out its part of the law."

For further City Council meeting details, see story elsewhere on this page.

Campus School History Retold

(This is a brief history of the Campus School as written by current Supt. of Schools Francis Haun.

Histories of Wayne Public Schools, also prepared by Superintendent Haun, were printed in recent editions of The Herald. Haun has prepared these histories for the Wayne County History Book.

History of the Campus School by Supt. Francis Haun

The origins of the Campus School go back to at least 1914.

In that year, the Wayne State Normal College catalog states that "In the second year of the course (teaching), one-fourth of the student's time is given to teaching in the Training School." Another reference is made to a laboratory school by the late Dorothy Hughes Nyberg in a 1932 letter written to President John D. Rice.

MRS. NYBERG writes that "Deen Hahn was virtually the founder of the campus school. He was the person who, in the early years of the college, determined the philosophy of the education department and developed the kind of laboratory school needed to provide the best training for teachers."

It would appear that these earliest "training" schools were for elementary grades. A 1926 college catalog states that "A new school is being built on the block west of Science Hall. This will be ready for occupancy when school opens in September. K-9 will be accommodated."

The 1927 catalog lists "new training school K-10," the 1928 catalog lists "new training school K-11," and the 1929-30 catalog lists "new training school K-12." These documents would indicate that the year of the first high school graduating class was 1930.

DOROTHY NYBERG noted in her "Wayne County History" that the 1925 Nebraska State Legislature authorized the construction of a teacher training school on the campus of Wayne State College. The structure was to be 66 feet x 155 feet with four stories and a basement. The building was completed in 1926 at a cost of $130,000.

The building was, in 1952, named after H.M. Hahn who served as college dean and chairman of the school of education from 1910 to 1945. The last high school classes were offered at the Campus School in 1962.

The elementary school was closed in 1964 but the building was used by the Wayne Public Schools as an East Elementary School until the spring of 1966.

Records show that the campus school participated in the state basketball tournament in 1944, 1946, 1951 and 1962. Jerry Hueser was basketball coach in 1962 which was the last year that Hahn High operated. The football team played eight-man ball.

MILDRED JONES, teacher at the campus school from 1953 until 1962, reports that students who wanted to attend the school made application for acceptance. School officials would accept the number adequate to make one section of each grade level.

Mrs. Jones recalls that students in high school moved to different buildings for various classes in much the same manner as college students. Students were not charged tuition and in fact were furnished all books, paper, pencils and other supplies free of charge.

MRS. JONES recalls that there was a different principal or sometimes chairperson of the college education department almost every year.

It Was Like This,
You See

WESLEY IVAN HUNT, who plays the part of Swee'pea in the motion picture "Popeye", drew a respectable crowd to the Gay Theatre Saturday in one of his few personal appearances in the Midwest.

Theater owner Jack March of Wayne invited Wesley and his family to appear on stage at the theater. Chamber President Pat Gross presented the youngster with an engraved key to the City of Wayne and Wesley talked to youngsters at the theater. Wesley's mother, Christine, is the daughter of movie director Robert Altman. The Hunts live in Fremont. The youth was paid the same as the film's other minor actors and is a card-carrying Screen Actors Guild member.

Normal time sequence for each of the sirens would be a full three minutes. Since this is for testing purposes only, the sirens will be shut off after one minute each so the public can quickly determine the difference between test and an actual warning. If this were not a test, the public should immediately take shelter upon hearing either the alert or attack signals given.

There Are Some Tax Changes

This year taxpayers may find that a few changes in the federal tax law will affect how they file their federal tax forms, the Internal Revenue Service said. For most taxpayers, however, the tax forms should offer few surprises from last year. For taxpayers interested in claiming the residential energy credit, there is an increase in the amount which can be claimed. The energy credit is actually made up of two separate credits. The credit for renewable energy source costs is 40 percent of the first $10,000 (or a maximum credit of $4,000) spent on solar, geothermal or windpower energy equipment. This credit is based on the cost of the items installed after April 9, 1977, and before 1986. Previously, the credit for renewable energy source costs was 30 percent of the first $2,000 plus 20 percent of the next $8,000 (or a maximum credit of $2,200). The credit for energy conservation costs is 15 percent of the first $2,000 (or maximum credit of $300) a taxpayer spends on items to save energy, such as insulation and storm windows. More information concerning the energy credits is available in the free IRS Publication 903, "Energy Credits for Individuals." Another important change focuses on the social security tax. The wages subject to the social security tax were increased from $22,900 to $25,000 for 1980. The rate of the tax was 6.13 percent. Therefore, for 1980, the maximum social security tax for an individual was $1,587.67 ($25,000 x 6.13 percent). Taxpayers should note that the amount of wages subject to social security tax increased again for 1981. If a taxpayer worked for only one employer in 1980 and more than $1,587.67 of social security tax was withheld, the taxpayer should ask the employer to refund the excess tax withheld. If a taxpayer worked for two or more employers, and more than $1,587.67 was withheld, the excess may be claimed as a credit against the income tax owed on Form 1040 or Form 1040A. The standard mileage rate for business use of a car has increased from 18 1/2 to 20 cents for the first 15,000 miles and from 10 cents to 11 cents for each additional mile. The rate for medical, moving, expense and charitable uses has increased from eight to nine cents a mile. More information about changes in the tax law can be found in the free IRS Publication 552, "Highlights of 1980 Tax Changes," available by using the order form in the tax package or by calling the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory.

Why Serve Breakfast at School??

"It's just as important to serve breakfast as it is to serve lunch, and it can be a lot easier," according to Brian Allison, special nutrition programs director of the Mountain Plains Region for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS).

Although 3.8 million children nationally eat breakfast at school, Allison is concerned that many children start their day hungry because many schools still do not offer the program.

Allison said that FNS especially wants schools that serve needy children to participate. But poverty is only one reason why many children go to school hungry. Other reasons cited by Allison include the lack of time to prepare and eat breakfast when both parents work or when school is a long bus ride away.

"Most parents and educators agree that a good breakfast means children are more alert and energetic. We have even heard numerous reports that absenteeism has dropped considerably after schools initiated breakfast programs," he said.

"Obstacles to growth of the breakfast program center around questions of cost and convenience to the schools, as well as parental responsibility," he said. "But the department's concern is not children who regularly eat at home. Rather, we are concerned that every child has an opportunity to eat breakfast — at home or at school."

To qualify for reimbursement under the breakfast program, schools must provide all children with a breakfast of a fruit or vegetable or juice, milk, bread or cereal, and when possible, meat or a meat alternate, such as eggs or cheese. Current reimbursement rates vary from 14.75 to 37.25 cents for each breakfast, depending on whether the student pays a full or a reduced price, or is given the meal free. For schools in "severe need," the cash reimbursement may be as high as 62.75 cents for each breakfast.

Schools may also get state and federal technical assistance and may qualify for food service equipment funding.

If a school does not have a breakfast program, Allison advises parents to let their school principal or local PTA organization know about their interest and support, and help them to get the program started. For more information on what you can do, write to the Food and Nutrition Service, Mountain Plains Region, 2420 West 24th Ave., Denver, Colo., 80211.

Bereuter Gives Economic Statement

Congressman Doug Bereuter has issued a major economic policy statement outlining his personal approach to fiscal responsibility.

The statement in full: "The President's economic package attempts a fundamental change in our national direction. The spending reductions he proposes will touch every American and affect how our government operates and how it relates to the citizens — as usual are to be abandoned."

"I have said on many occasions that I believe Nebraskans are willing to accept budget cuts as long as sacrifices are equitably shared. I believe the Reagan Administration has been very sensitive to criticism that budget cuts do not fall fairly on those who are disadvantaged or lack political clout. President Reagan has said no one segment of society, except the truly needy, should go untouched. The wealthy, too, will lose certain advantages that have for far too long been financed by the average citizen.

The President's economic package has not been fashioned merely by cutting program funds. Rather, the fundamental structure of certain programs will be reshaped in order to reduce their costs. One way this will be done is by changing program eligibility standards to weed out unintended beneficiaries. In other instances, savings will be achieved by consolidating funds for a myriad of categorical programs into a single block grant program. These changes are also aimed at reducing and streamlining the bureaucracy.

"Congress now has the task of scrutinizing the proposed budget. During these next few months, the Reagan economic package will be subjected to attack by virtually every special and sectional interest. If those special interests and their allies in Congress succeed in dismantling the economic package piece by piece, then a fundamental change in the direction of our economy and society will be impossible. The economic package and tax package that follows must be considered and acted upon as a whole, recognizing the fact every element will be distasteful to some group. But, to be very direct, we are all on this ship of state together.

"Voters last fall clearly rejected the status quo. Now the test is at hand. Americans face a period of adjustment, with the realization that Federal funds will no longer be so readily available, even for the most worthy purposes.

"This leads to my main point: From this day forward, I will not initiate or cosponsor any request for 'FY1982 project' or program money above the Administration's budget.

"After weighing alternatives, I decided that this approach of financial restraint is the most responsible course at this time, although not necessarily the most popular — I hope my colleagues will follow suit.

"However, I want to make clear that I intend to do everything I can to insure that Nebraskans receive their fair share of whatever money is made available. I also intend to lay the legislative history and foundation for future worthy projects and programs. We have some good projects and programs in various stages of development in Nebraska and in my Congressional District. We may have to postpone work on some of our worthy projects not included in the President's budget. No one regrets this more than I.

"As we tighten our belts, let's not lose sight of the future. There is always a need for new ideas and innovative approaches. When the economy gets back on track, I will be ready and out in front fighting for programs important to my constituents. By no means do I intend to shut the door on legitimate funding programs in the future, when a healthy economy permits.

"Above all, it is important to keep a national perspective. When we unduly emphasize special or parochial interest, the national interest is sacrificed. I believe the only way to revitalize the nation's economy at this time is to set aside narrow or selfish interests and once again focus our attention on the national good."

Home Food Preservation Course Officially, It's Been Warm, Dry

Payment of $1.95 per person must accompany registration. Make checks payable to Dixon County Home Economics Fund. Lesson packets will be mailed to participants in late March. Registrations for the course are requested before March 17. For further information contact Anna Marie White, Dixon County Extension Home Economist at the Northeast Station, Concord.

It does not come as much of a surprise to anyone, but officially the weather has been warm and dry. According to the University of Nebraska at Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, January was a warm, dry month over most of the state, with many days of sunshine. In Wakefield, the closest reporting station to Wayne, precipitation was down by nearly an inch for the month — .60 of an inch behind normal. The only precipitation recorded was .04 of an inch in the form of snow. All other reporting stations in the Northeast Division were deficient in moisture as well. Again in Wakefield, temperatures averaged 7.3 degrees above normal for the first month of the year. The average daily maximum was 40 degrees and the average daily minimum was 12.5 degrees. Average temperature for the month was 26.3 degrees. High temperature of the month was 71 degrees recorded on Jan. 24 and lowest was -4 recorded on Jan. 10 and 17, according to the monthly survey.

Average monthly temperatures ranged 3 to 8 degrees above normal. On many days, daily temperatures averaged 10 to 20 degrees above normal. Extreme maximum temperatures ranged from the low 60's to the extreme high of 75 degrees on Jan. 24 at Clarkson, Loup City and North Loup. Nearly all sites recorded the extreme maximum on Jan. 23 and 24. Readings at numerous sites set new daily or monthly maximum temperature records during the month. Extreme minimum temperatures ranged from a few degrees above zero to the extreme low of nine degrees below zero on Jan. 17 at Curlls and Mullen. Most of the extreme low temperatures occurred on Jan. 16 and 17. Valentine received 73 percent of the possible amount of sunshine; Lincoln, 75 percent; Omaha, 64 percent; and North Platte, 65 percent. These percentages show more sunshine than can normally be expected in January. January precipitation was far below normal in all divisions. The Northeast Division and the East Central Division averaged the least amount of precipitation for any January in the last 51 years. The cumulative precipitation for the period October, 1980, through January, 1981, also was below normal in all divisions. The Southwest Division averaged only .70 of an inch for the period —

1, 2, 3 Finish Leads Winside to Third Place

BRIAN FOOTE won his second consecutive individual state championship by decisioning Terry Berry of Elwood 4-0 in Class D's 126-pound finals. Foote won the 119-pound title last year.

The Winside wrestling team, ranked no higher than ninth all season, put together its finest performance of the year to grasp a third place finish in the Class D division of the state wrestling tournament.

A one-two-three finish by three Winside wrestlers propelled the Wildcats to the third place position.

Hyannis ran away with the team title by racking up 119 points. Defending champion Elm Creek finished second with 86½ points and Winside finished third with 72 points. Clarks and Weeping Water were fourth and fifth respectively.

Top 20 Teams: 1. Hyannis 119; 2. Elm Creek 86½; 3. Winside 72; 4. Clarks 66; 5. Weeping Water 64; 6. Amherst 60½; 7. Dorchester 57½; 8. Bertrand 57; 9. Kearney Catholic 45½; 10. Adams 45; 12. Elwood 44; 13. Elgin 42½; 14. Clay Center 39; 15. Arnold 37; 16. Meridian 36; 17. Harrison 27½; 18. Sargent 27; 19. Alma 27; 20. Scribner 26.

Foote, ranked first at 126 pounds all season, ran his perfect record to 26-0 by decisioning Terry Berry (22-4) of Elwood 4-0 in the Class D finals. Foote scored on a takedown in the first period and a reversal in the second and used his strength to ride Berry for the remainder of the match.

"I'm glad it's over. It was better than last year," Foote said about his second state title. The 126-pound senior is probably the strongest wrestler pound for pound on the Winside squad. He has bench pressed 230 pounds.

Mark Koch (24-7), a junior, took second place at 119 pounds losing a 4-0 decision to Steve Strobel (29-2) of Clarks in the finals. Strobel scored on a takedown, a stalling point and a penalty point for an illegal scissors hold.

Another junior Barry Bowers racked up some points for the Wildcats by defeating Gregg Thomas of Adams 10-4 to place third at 167 pounds.

The three medal winners were aided by the other four qualifiers in leading Winside to the third place team finish.

Foote and the other two medal winners had nothing but praise for coach Paul Sok who is in his first year at Winside.

"Mr. Sok is the best coach I've ever had," said Foote. "He will be a good friend for the rest of my life. The coach changed the team around. He helped the wrestlers have good attitudes and taught us new moves. He was especially helpful to Glassmeyer (heavyweight Kent).

The three individuals expressed opinions that the small number of wrestlers (nine) on the Winside team worked as both a disadvantage and an advantage.

"The small number works two ways," they stated. "We are short in several weight classes but Mr. Sok can work individually with each wrestler. We were kind of skeptical about having a good season because of our small numbers."

When Bowers and Koch were asked what their goals are for next year, the two replied that they have high hopes.

"I'll be satisfied with my third place finish until next year," Bowers said. "I would like to win a gold medal next season."

Koch, whose goal was to reach the state finals this year, added that he too would like to win a gold medal. "I'll shoot for first next year," he said.

Foote quickly added, "I think they'll do it."

Bowers and Koch added that they hope some freshmen will join the team next year to add strength and depth to the returning nucleus.

Foote pointed out that the success of Winside's football team probably hurt the drive of the wrestling team more than it helped. "When the football team had a mediocre season in the past we could always look forward to wrestling. This year, we had a good season and didn't have as much to look forward to in wrestling."

The three medal-winners expressed their appreciation to the rest of the team which scored enough points at state to lift Winside into the top three spots.

"I was especially proud of Curt Rohde. He has to be the most improved wrestler on the team," the threesome stated. "Kent Glassmeyer turned it on. John Thies is out for the first time and had some tough matches. Doug Jaeger had a tough bracket. We couldn't have done it without those guys."

Foote said that the high team finish took "guts and determination" and added that the wrestlers wanted to do well since the Winside basketball team struggled this season.

Brian Foote
Foote (26-0) claimed his second state title by winning four matches in the 126-pound class.

He pinned Mike Schnakenberg (16-14) of Deshler in 4:40, decisioned Ed Reynolds (16-6) of Mullen 7-4, pinned Tom Wipf (23-5) in 2:29 and decisioned Terry Berry (22-3) 4-0 in the finals. Foote's championship was the 11th in Winside history.

Mark Koch
Koch finished his year at 24-7 as he placed second at 119 pounds. He decisioned Doug Schelling (19-4) of Oxford 7-2, decisioned Rod Sheets (16-7) of Eustis 8-4, decisioned Mark Engle (21-4) of Bertrand 1-0 and lost 4-0 to Steve Strobel (29-2) of Clarks in the finals.

Barry Bowers
Bowers placed third at 167 pounds to run his record to 25-8. He pinned Dan White (14-15) of Kearney Catholic in 3:21, decisioned Dave Hertel (23-5) of Clay Center 5-3, lost 4-1 to Matt Meier (29-0-1) of Elm Creek, decisioned Jim Jetyensky (19-12) of Elgin 6-2 and Gregg Thomas (24-5) of Adams 10-4 for third place.

Thies (10-15) lost a 7-0 decision to Peter Mapes (18-8) of Hay Springs and was pinned in 2:31 by Brad Hollen (28-2) of Bertrand.

Wayne, Wakefield Performances

Jon Jacobmeier
Sophomore Jon Jacobmeier made his second consecutive appearance at state and put up a good fight before losing 6-0 to senior John Yeakley of Seward. Yeakley entered the Class B 105 pound competition with a 27-1 record, the third best mark among the 16 state qualifiers.

Yeakley lost a 3-2 decision to Rodney Hoy of Mitchell in the semifinals thus eliminating Jacobmeier. Jacobmeier finished the year with a 21-4 record. Twelve wrestlers in this weight class had lost six or less matches entering the state competition.

Mike Luff
Making his first appearance at state, Wayne senior Mike Luff drew highly rated Doug Connor of Ord in his first round match.

Luff stayed close with Connor through the first period but was pinned by the Ord junior in 2:36. Connor lost 4-0 decision to Tim Deaver of Sidney and the loss dropped Luff from the competition.

The first round loss ended Luff's career with a 15-10 record his senior year. Connor entered the tourney with a 22-2 record.

Brett Frevert
Brett Frevert, who qualified for state at 145 pounds last year, made his second appearance as he stepped up to 167 pounds. The Wayne senior had to face powerful Brian Fitzgerald of Albion in his opening round match.

Frevert pressured Fitzgerald but couldn't keep up with the offensive standout and was pinned in 4:38. Fitzgerald, 22-2, won his second round match to keep Frevert alive in the competition.

Brett faced Mike Hutchinson (20-7) of Cozad in the consolation round and was pinned in 5:53. The second loss eliminated Frevert from the competition and ended his season at 17-11.

Aaron Schuett
After earning his second consecutive state berth by placing second at districts, Aaron Schuett appeared to have the best opportunity of any Wayne wrestler to win his first round match at 167 pounds.

Schuett, who finished the year with a 22-5 record, ran into fired up Lincoln Plus senior Dave Frieselman and suffered a 12-6 set back.

Frieselman, who entered the tourney with a 21-6 record, lost his quarterfinal round match 4-0 to Tom Wildy of Alliance and thus knocked Schuett from the competition.

David Stelling
Wakefield senior David Stelling saw his career come to a close as he lost a 13-1 decision to John Holsclaw of David City Aquinas at 105 pounds.

Stelling's record dropped to 15-9 with the loss and Holsclaw lost a 9-7 decision to Jim Kern of Gibbon in his next match to eliminate Stelling. Holsclaw entered the state competition with a 17-7 record.

Jon Stelling
The older Stelling brother Jon gave highly touted Todd Hart of Plainview all he could handle before falling 1-11 in the Class C 112 pound class.

Stelling, a sophomore, was eliminated when Hart (22-4) was edged 5-4 in quarter final action by Bob Taylor of Sandy Creek. Jon completed his season with a 10-10 record.

BARRY BOWERS claimed third place honors at Class D's 167-pound class by winning a 10-4 decision over Gregg Thomas of Adams. Here, Bowers uses a switch to gain a two-point reversal.

MARK KOCH of Winside puts up a good fight against Steve Strobel of Clarks in the 119 pound Class D finals. Strobel won the match 4-0. Both wrestlers are juniors.

Chadron Forces Playoff vs. Cats

The Wayne State Wildcats and Chadron State Eagles will square off tonight (Thursday) in a playoff game to decide the final spot in the NAIA District 11 basketball tournament.

The game will be played at Kearney. The winner will meet Hastings in Saturday's first-round game in the District 11 tourney. The playoff was set up when host Chadron defeated Wayne 55-49 Tuesday night and Peru State eliminated Bellevue College from the picture with a 76-72 win Tuesday.

Wayne State and Chadron State finished Nebraska College Conference regular season play with identical 4-4 records while Bellevue posted a 3-5 record and Peru finished at 2-6.

NCC champion Kearney State will play Doane College on Saturday in first round action of the District 11 tourney. The winner of the Kearney vs. Doane series will meet the winner of the Hastings vs. Wayne or Chadron series for the District 11 tourney championship.

Late Scoring Hurts Cats
Chadron scored eight of the final 10 points of the game to turn back Wayne State 55-49, Tuesday. All eight Eagle points were scored at the free throw line.

The Wildcats were tied 30-30 at the half and 47-47 with four minutes remaining in the game when Chadron put together its final surge.

Grady Hansen scored 15 points and Leon McRae scored 12 for the Wildcats. Cedric Edwards came through with 10 points, Al Jones hit eight and Jim Reinders added four.

The winners were led by Mark Brown with 19 points.

Weekend Wins

The Wayne State Wildcats are in the midst of a modest three game winning streak as they ended their CSIC season this past weekend with a pair of wins.

WSC upset Washburn University 68-66 Saturday, in front of 1,500 fans in Rice Auditorium. The Cats earlier defeated Emporia State 91-84 Friday.

The Wildcats, looking to avenge an early season loss to the Ichabods, led for most of the game as sophomore forward Grady Hansen led all scorers by pouring in 25 points for the evening.

Wayne State trailed only once in the first half as Washburn's Randy Dawson hit a jumper with three seconds to go to put the Ichabods up 36-35 at halftime.

Second half action saw the Wildcats regain the lead at the 18:23 mark 40-38 on a basket from the baseline by Leon McRae. Wayne State's biggest lead came with 1:26 to go in the game as Hansen scored to put the Cats up six points.

Leading scorers for the Wildcats were Hansen with 25, McRae with 14 and Shawn Kelley with 10. Al Jones led all rebounders with 11.

The win moved the Wildcats overall record to 14-17 and into sole possession of fifth place in the CSIC.

Wildcats Defeat Emporia

Wayne State, led by the scoring of their two forwards, Grady Hansen and Leon McRae, defeated CSIC opponent Emporia State 91-84 Friday in Rice Auditorium.

Hansen and McRae combined for 50 of the Wildcats' 91 points as Hansen totaled 26 points and McRae contributed 24.

Wayne State led by as many as 15 points in the first half and 22 points in the second half. Other Wildcats in double figures were Cedric Edwards with 17 points and Al Jones with 10. Jones also led all rebounders pulling down 14 rebounds and added 7 assists.

Bears Win Opener, Face Bloomfield

DAVID STELLING of Wakefield lost a 13-1 decision to John Holsclaw of David City Aquinas at state. Here, Stelling (top) tries to counter a move by Holsclaw in 105 pound action.

SOPHOMORE Jon Stelling stands up and attempts an escape against Todd Hart of Plainville in first round action at 112 pounds. Stelling lost a 3-1 decision in this opening round match.

Thirteen is the lucky number for the Laurel Bears.

The Bears won their 10th consecutive game in Class C-9 districts at Laurel Monday. In order to qualify for the state tournament the Bears must win three more for a string of 13 victories.

Laurel knocked out Hartington 40-38 before a home crowd in Monday's first round district action. Next on the list is Class C's third ranked Bloomfield which enters the game with a 16-1 record.

The shootout between the powerful Bees and the giant killer Bears is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

The Class C-9 certainly is no pushover for any team. Bloomfield entered the tourney with 15 wins. Wausa had 13 and three other teams (Laurel, Hartington and Ponca) had 12 wins entering the competition.

"We didn't play well offensively, but played with a lot of determination. Our defense was good or we would have been out of the game," Laurel coach Joel Parks said. "Both teams were very patient. We've outwaited people all year, this time Hartington outwaited us."

Laurel led 10-6 at the end of the first quarter but Hartington gained a slim 16-14 advantage at the half. The Wildcats then slowed the pace down considerably in the third period for a 3-2 scoring advantage.

With five minutes left in the game, Laurel trailed by eight points so Parks turned his team loose. The Bears ran a fastbreak offense and trapped defensively, Hartington missed several free throws down the stretch.

Laurel tied the game at 34-34 with 1:47 left and Kevin Erwin canned an 18 foot jumper from the corner to give the hosts a 36-34 lead just seconds later.

The Wildcats missed another free throw and Scott Norvell hit two free throws for Laurel to give the locals a four-point lead with less than a minute remaining.

Hartington's Mark Hansen closed the Laurel lead to two points with a layup and the Wildcats had a chance to tie the game, with 24 seconds left in regulation.

Good defensive play by the Bears made Hansen force up a shot in the final 10 seconds. The ball missed its target and Laurel grabbed the rebound. Jeff Anderson hit two free throws with one second left to wrap up the win.

In the final second, Hartington threw a pass the length of the court for a final basket at the buzzer and cut the final margin to 40-38.

"I can't single out anyone. Anything that anyone did added to the winning performance," Parks stated after his team improved its record to 13-7.

The winners were led by Kevin Erwin with 12 points and six rebounds. Joe Olsen and Scott Norvell scored eight points each for Laurel.

Bloomfield defeated Wynot 63-36 in Monday's opener.

Other scorers were Kelly Robson with six points, Kevin Erwin with five and Matt Johnson with four. Jeff Anderson came off the bench to grab seven rebounds.

Wildcats Challenge, Get Beat by Clock

In their best opportunity to win a game this season, the Winside Wildcats came up a spill second short.

Rosalie edged Winside 54-53 Monday night in preliminary round action at Class D-3 districts at Wakefield to end Winside's winless season.

The Wildcats nearly savored the sweet taste of victory as Byron Schellenberg put up a 10 foot shot as the buzzer sounded. The ball went through the hoop but the referee ruled that Schellenberg took the shot a fraction of a second too late.

John Hawkins and Jim Krajcick were leading scorers with 14 and 13 points respectively. Krajcick pulled down 19 rebounds and Hawkins had 10. Schellenberg and Joel Broekemeier each had eight rebounds. Assist leaders were Schellenberg and Jon Meierhenry with four each and Brad Roberts with three.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Hascall

PHEW! It was a hectic three days at the state wrestling tournament but it was a lot of fun. My thanks to Mark Reinders for helping the regular Wayne Herald staff fill in for me while I was away.

Reinders, a recent Wayne State graduate and present housing director at Nelhardt Hall, will soon be working as a reporter for the Cherokee, Iowa newspaper.

FROM THE STANDPOINT of a former wrestler and active sports writer, the state tournament is not only fun but a learning experience. This year, I took my little brother Brent along with me to Lincoln. He is a freshman at David City High School and wasn't fortunate enough to qualify for the tourney.

With over 700 high school wrestlers competing on eight mats, the action as seen from the top rows of the Bob Devaney Sports Complex, looks like spiders spinning webs and capturing flies below.

SEVERAL UNFORTUNATE wrestlers were unable to make weight at the state tournament. Watching wrestlers watch their weight brings back old memories.

I was one of the fortunate few who rarely had to watch my weight. I wish that were still the case. As a freshman in high school I was an 83 pound weakling and had to wrestle opponents who outweighed me by 15 pounds.

By the time I was a sophomore, I weighed 95 pounds and had a much easier time meeting competition my own size in the 98-pound class. I wrestled at 105 pounds my junior year and at 112 my senior season.

The only time I had trouble making weight was when I went down to 98 pounds for the final matches of my junior season.

HOWEVER, I REMEMBER well the days when five or six members of our team had to diet to make weight while I was able to indulge in a chocolate malt and French fries.

Some of the most popular (or unpopular) ways of losing weight quickly were: running, wearing a thermal sweat suit and steaming in the shower, performing general bathroom duties and even spitting into an empty paper cup while sitting next to the heater on the bus ride to another school.

Many people feel that losing weight to wrestle is crazy and think that the methods are either masochistic or gross. But, wrestlers are generally a dedicated bunch of athletes and take pride in their sport.

The real problem is when wrestlers attempt to lose too much weight. New rules set up by state and federal wrestling associations in recent years were made to protect grapplers from overdoing themselves.

WAYNE STATE ALUMNI were plentiful on the coaching staffs of many high school teams at the state championships.

I'm sure there are many WSC grads I don't know but I did recognize at least a handful who are either head coaches or assistants.

Wayne native and graduate of Wayne High and Wayne State Jim Meyer was a familiar face at the tourney. I wrestled against him a few times in practice during my brief career on the WSC wrestling team. Meyer is at Fort Calhoun.

Other alumni I saw were Steve Ellis, Kevin Regan and Jeff Bussey. Don't forget local coaches like Paul Sok, Don Koenig and Lonnie Ehrhardt.

NEBRASKA'S WRESTLING team, which is part of a successful athletic program being balanced and strengthened by athletic director Bob Devaney, faced Utah State in a dual Friday night.

Fans who watched the state high school tourney were admitted to the dual free and were able to watch a nationally ranked team in action. The Cornhuskers are definitely not as talented as Iowa or Iowa State but are ranked and had no seniors on Friday's roster.

TWO OTHER TYPES of entirely different wrestling also deserve some publicity. First of all, an All-Star Wrestling exhibition (nothing like high school or college wrestling) is scheduled at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium in mid-March.

The event is scheduled at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 18 and is co-sponsored by the W Club and Young Republicans. Reserved ring-side tickets are available in advance for $7 each.

General admission tickets are $6 and tickets for children under 12 are $4. Contact Tom Burney at 375-9911 or Colleen Lipp at 375-9925 for more information.

ANOTHER TYPE of wrestling is the growing sport of arm wrestling. A local man recently made the national news for his accomplishments in this sport.

Steve Greve of Wakefield won the national championship in the National Monster Arm Wrestling Tournament held at Ames, Iowa more than a week ago.

Greve, who competed in the super heavyweight division, claimed honors among 14 entries in his division. He defeated two Iowans, two Missouri men and one man from Wyoming. Some 32 states were represented in the tournament.

The local champ had won the quad-state tournament earlier and the heavyweight division in the Nebraska State Fair last fall. Steve was one of 10 Wakefield residents who competed in the national tourney.

For his achievement, Greve was awarded a trophy as tall as he is.

Plains Writers Workshop To Include Poetry Readings

Wayne State College's Program for Arts in Communities and Education will present the Plains Writer's Workshop of 1981.

Poetry readings in conjunction with the workshop will be held in the KWSC-TV studio in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. These poetry readings are free and open to the public.

The third reading will be performed by Greg Kuzma on Thursday, March 5 at 7 p.m.

Kuzma's books include "Village Journal" from his own press, Best Cellar, and "Good News" from Viking. Bear Claw Press published his camping and fishing poems as "Adirondacks" in 1978. Sun Press is currently releasing a new book of long poems, "Of China and of Greece." Harry Duncan's Abator Editions will, in 1981, publish Kuzma's poems on the death of his brother, Jeff.

Reviewer Ed Hill says of his poetry, "Kuzma taps the way we live now, drawing our knowledge out and showing what can be made of it. Kuzma's poems represent the core of what is durable in modern poetry."

Kuzma has edited the poetry magazine, "Pebble," since 1968, and is the editor of Best Cellar Press books. The current issue of "Pebble" is a volume of Nebraska Poets.

Taxpayers Do Err

A common error of taxpayers claiming head of household filing status is not listing the name of a qualifying dependent or child, and this can lead to a refund delay, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Delays in processing of returns result when taxpayers do not list the names of dependents.

To file as a head of household, a taxpayer must be unmarried and provide more than half the cost of keeping up a home that is the main home for his or her dependent or child. A qualifying unmarried child must live with the taxpayer but need not be his or her dependent. Other qualifying persons must be the taxpayer's dependents. They generally must live with the taxpayer.

However, the taxpayer's dependent parents may qualify even though they live elsewhere, if the taxpayer paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home and is eligible to claim one or both parents as dependents. Unmarried includes single, legally separated, divorced and widowed persons.

Without a child or qualifying dependent, unmarried taxpayers are not eligible to file as heads of household and if they do not qualify as surviving widows or widowers, they must file under single status and use the corresponding tax table.

MANDAN Hearings Planned Next Week

Utilities cooperating in the MANDAN Project have scheduled public meetings March 4-5 at Crofton and Randolph to outline proposed routes within the six-mile corridor for the 500-kilovolt alternating current transmission line in Northeast Nebraska.

Meetings will be held at the Crofton school gymnasium March 4 and at the Randolph municipal auditorium on March 5. Meetings will be from 6:30-9:30 p.m. and will be on an informal "open house" basis. Visitors will be able to view displays devoted to various aspects of the Project, such as right-of-way, engineering, health and safety and construction.

Utility representatives involved in the planning will receive comments from landowners and others along the candidate routes within the corridor regarding present and planned land use, rural and urban development, and other factors affecting selection of the preferred route. The representatives will also be seeking landowner comments regarding a substation in the area of the existing Hoskins substation.

The corridor touches or crosses the counties of Knox, Cedar, Pierce, Wayne, Madison and Stanton. The preferred route, with a right-of-way of about 175 feet, is expected to be selected by this summer and will be chosen through a comparative analysis of the candidate routes. Considerations include rural residents, farmsteads and businesses; dryland and irrigated agriculture; water resources; shelter belts; wetlands and areas of ecological importance; urban development; recreational, historical, archaeological or other culturally significant areas; biological systems; and federal and state resource conservation and management areas. After a proposed route has been selected, public hearings will be held and an application will be filed with the Nebraska Public Service Commission for permission to construct the line.

The 600-mile-long MANDAN line is to run from near Winnipeg, Manitoba, to a terminal near Hoskins, with substations in North Dakota and South Dakota. A Missouri River crossing for the line is proposed at Gavins Point Dam near Yankton.

The project is designed to exchange power between Manitoba and the United States to meet seasonal energy demands. The utilities involved in the planning include Otter Tail Power Co., Minnesota Power Cooperative, Nebraska Public Power District and Manitoba Hydro Electric Board. Several other utilities have also expressed interest in the project.

The utilities say the power exchange concept is preferable to building additional power generating facilities to meet peak demands. The northern portion of the MANDAN Project area has peak demands in the winter while the southern area has peak demands in the summer. The line will also increase the region's power system reliability and provide additional opportunities for energy sales and service.

The project will utilize Manitoba's abundant hydro power which is generated by stations on the Nelson River, one of the largest watersheds in North America.

While there are no 500-kilovolt lines in Nebraska, there are more than 15,000 miles of similar lines in operation in the United States, primarily in the East, Southeast and on the West Coast.

One 500-kilovolt line can move as much electricity as two 345-kilovolt transmission lines or five 230-kilovolt lines, MANDAN engineers report.

Sen. Marle Van Minden of Allen has introduced LB 291 which would ban the retail sale of carbonated beverages and beer in cans that have disposable pull tab openers.

Van Minden said he introduced the bill "because recently it had been brought to his attention that a startling number of injuries can occur because of these pull tabs. In addition to a safety hazard, the tabs are an increasingly common litter problem."

The senator said "because of the current state of technology the can manufacturers have, we do not expect this bill to result in any substantial increase in cost to the consumer."

Youth Conservation Corps Offering Summer Jobs

Teenagers planning to apply for summer employment with the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) are reminded that their applications must be postmarked no later than March 15, according to YCC Program Recruiter Andy Nielsen.

The program is again being sponsored by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and offers youths between 15 and 16 years the opportunity to become involved in projects which will further the development and conservation of Nebraska's natural resources.

Open to youths of both sexes and all social, economic and racial classifications, the program is very popular and always interests more applicants than there are positions available. Applicants are chosen at random by a centralized computer system in Falls Church, Va., Nielsen said. The selection process will take place in early April and each applicant will be notified of his or her status shortly afterward.

Applications are available from all junior and senior high school guidance counselors, Nebraska Job Service and various private minority organizations across the state, as well as Commission headquarters in Lincoln.

To be eligible for employment, all applicants must be residents of the United States and the State of Nebraska, have no history of criminal or anti-social behavior; be able to provide a medical certificate; have a social security card; provide parental or guardian consent and be 15 years of age, but not yet 19 years.

For more information or additional forms, contact Nielsen at the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, P.O. Box 30370, Lincoln, Neb., 68503, or call (402) 464-0641, ext. 281.

4 Cities May Get Legislative Districts

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska's Republican Party has devised a legislative redistricting map that could mean some changes for at least four Nebraska communities.

The party has proposed giving Grand Island, Columbus, North Platte and Norfolk their own legislative districts. The legislative districts that cover those cities now also include some contiguous rural areas.

The Republican Party's map raises some interesting questions, not to mention some eyebrows. One key question is whether senators from those areas should serve a self-contained city district or whether representation would be better if they served a mixture of urban and rural areas.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, who would lose some of his district to Columbus Sen. Don Dworak under the party's plan, believes it's best to provide an urban-rural mixture whenever possible.

But Sen. Rex Haberman of Imperial, one of the lawmakers from Greater Nebraska who is involved, sees some pluses in the plan.

The Republican Party's plan is one of various options being considered by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Committee, which is supposed to thoroughly study the various approaches and put together a redistricting package for consideration by the full Legislature.

Committee Chairman Elroy Hefner of Coleridge considers the Republican Party's redistricting map to be only a suggestion, much like the proposal submitted by the South Platte United Chambers of Commerce.

Some Republicans have suggested the party's plan will survive legislative scrutiny this year, but Hefner has promised to keep partisanship to a minimum in redistricting considerations.

Hefner no doubt will do his best to follow through on that pledge. The Republican-strong nature of his committee and the full Legislature, however, point to the probability of partisan considerations to an extent that even a well-intentioned committee chairman cannot control.

Party politics is also surfacing in the debate over reapportionment of congressional districts.

State Democratic Chairwoman DIAnna Schimek concedes she has "some fear of partisan redistricting." If the Legislature in fact decides redistricting is necessary, if a redrawing of congressional boundaries is warranted after final census figures are out (they're due by April 1), Ms. Schimek said the Democrats likely will unveil their own redistricting plan.

But Dave Heineman, executive director of the Nebraska Republican Party, isn't so sure the Legislature will need to haggle over reapportionment of congressional districts.

Heineman notes that preliminary 1980 census figures show relative uniformity in the state's three congressional districts: the 1st District has 525,090 people; the 2nd District 524,309; and the 3rd District 515,328.

If the final census figures approximate the preliminary tally, "It seems to me that the most reasonable conclusion would be to make no change at all," Heineman said. He adds that "most Nebraskans prefer no change in the districts."

But Heineman and Ms. Schimek disagree over what percentage difference there should be in populations between congressional districts.

During reapportionment in Nebraska in 1960, a federal judge panel accepted a population disparity of 3.53 percent. Heineman said the preliminary 1980 census figures place the disparity among districts within two percent.

Heineman considers the disparity indicated by the preliminary figures to be acceptable because it represents "fairly even distribution." Ms. Schimek believes states should strive for a population disparity of one percent or less.

The Legislature ultimately will decide what constitutes fair distribution of population among congressional districts, and that decision likely will be delayed until the final census figures are in.

Senators study speed

Nebraska lawmakers this year are taking a close look at various aspects of speed.

Bills are before the Legislature that deal with speed limits, speed detection and avoidance of speed detection. The issues are not new to the Legislature, but this year they are receiving a lot of attention.

A measure to raise the speed limit on interstate highways has already moved farther than a similar proposal before the previous Legislature. The movement through the legislative machinery of that speeding bill might signal the Legislature's willingness to act on the issue this year.

Also before the lawmakers this year are bills dealing with high-speed chases, controls on speed-detecting devices and bans on radar-detecting devices.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has presented to the Judiciary Committee a bill that would set stricter guidelines for use of radar devices. He claims the speed-detecting devices now used are unreliable and should be junked.

But the Nebraska State Patrol defends its use of radar, and believes the devices are reliable and used properly by trained operators.

"Our training now surpasses that recommended by the National Highway Safety Administration," said patrol superintendent Elmer Kohmeischer, who added he has confidence in radar now used by law enforcement.

The patrol also voices support for Farnam Sen. Tom Vickers' bill to prohibit citizen use of the so-called Buzz Busters, which are radar-detection devices.

Although it's too soon in the 1981 session to accurately predict the fate of the various speed-related bills before the lawmakers, indications are some speed legislation will at least make it to the final stages of debate this year.

Another Chain Letter

This is one for the legal experts to decide — a chain letter, sent through the mails not involving the exchange of money.

But the subject of the letter is one which should not be exploited in the name of "good luck."

The chain letter is being sent in the name of religion, hope, faith and prayer. The letter appears to be the innocence of many who believe that praying will answer all problems. By quoting Matt: 7:22 — "And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive" — the chain letter is claiming that failure to continue the chain will result in poor luck.

If 20 copies of the letter are sent, within four days "you will receive good luck. This is no joke." It adds "send no money for fate has no price on it. Do not keep this letter. It must leave your hands 96 hours after you receive it."

The letter continued by citing numerous examples of persons who did not break the chain and were rewarded. It also cited instances of persons having bad luck when the chain was broken.

For example, Carle Dadihl, an office employee somewhere, received the chain and forgot it. A few days later he lost his job. He found the chain and sent it out to people. Five days later he got an even better job. DeVon Fairchild, whoever that is, received the chain and not believing in it, threw it away. Nine days later he died.

Chain letters are useless tools of someone's boredom. They serve no purpose, whether they promise financial or spiritual success. The threat of physical harm if the letter is not passed along is cheap, of low moral and little.

We would hope that area residents are not duped by the letter. At 15 cents for each stamp, the cost of mailing the 20 letters becomes $3 — or roughly a little more than two pounds of hamburger.

Give that some thought! Dan Field, Editor

Is There No Labor at the Department of Labor???

Richard L. Lester, President
Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Work has been called the greatest thing in the world — which must be why so many people leave it for tomorrow. Nowhere is this more true, it would seem, than inside that very federal building charged with worrying about work, or the lack of it — the Department of Labor.

In a recent article, "The 10 to 3 Ethic" in The Washington Monthly, writer Barbara Palmer revealed what she discovered while venturing deep within the Department of Labor to investigate the provisions of a "progressive" new work contract between Labor and its employees, represented by the American Federation of Government Employees Union. I believe her disturbing expose contains an important lesson: the new administration should consider in its plan to weed out government waste.

The most innovative feature of Labor's contract involves a concept called "flexitime." This is a new program that allows employees to set, supposedly within limits, their own working hours. What Palmer found out, however, is that flexitime is very, very flexible, so flexible in fact, that the concept seems to work just as nicely on the job as off.

Arriving at DOL headquarters, Palmer asked two guards, who were busy chatting, for directions to "North 4408." Without interrupting his conversation, one of them thrust a directory at her and gestured toward a telephone. After finding her way into the upper corridors, she began following a robot mail cart, programmed to know its way around. When she finally encountered some humans, most were standing around, joking and exchanging pleasantries. At one desk, a woman was doing her knitting. In another office a secretary was engrossed in her novel. Further along she spied a woman padding about in a pair of bedroom slippers.

Wandering deeper into the maze, she passed an office in which all the desks had been left unoccupied. There was no one to answer the phone that rang, and rang and rang. Upon reaching the promised land of North 4408, and retrieving a 160-page copy of the contract, she tried for an interview with any one of its principal negotiators. The first nine calls produced virtually identical responses: "No, he's not in... No, I don't know whether she's in town... No, I don't know when he'll be back." Luckily, name number ten, a Mr. Paul Gifford, was in.

Gifford explained that the flexitime provisions of the contract guaranteed "alternative work schedules" for Labor employees. These ranged from a slight variation on the traditional work week to the most liberal plan called "maxiflex." Under maxiflex, an employee's 40 hours of work can be concentrated into four days between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m. as the employee sees fit — providing he is present during the "core hours" (10 a.m. to 3 p.m.) of the "core days" (usually Tuesday through Thursday). As Gifford noted: "Maxiflex means that if I get up on a Friday morning and it's an absolutely gorgeous day out, I can say, 'Gee, I'd rather go biking along the C & O Canal than go to work,' and I don't have to bother calling anyone to say I'm not coming in."

Thus, when an employee fails to show up, he cannot be branded a shirker, for he is merely assumed to be flexing his time. Surely he stayed late last night, or was it the night before, or last week. Dear me, it's so hard to keep track.

Flexitime is not the only new provision in the DOL contract. Henceforth, employees may play radios, cassettes, etc. (etc. means television, because, as Palmer was told, "a lot of clerical people are into soap operas"), so long as it does not disturb theirs or their co-workers' productivity. Productivity? Also, the child-care provision permits mothers, fathers, unwed fathers and unwed mothers to take up to two years of "child care leave" and be guaranteed their old job or a comparable one when they return.

If American management negotiated in this fashion, it would soon have nothing left to negotiate. But DOL, of course, need not concern itself with such trivial concerns as competition from the Japanese, and its employees' paychecks arrive rain or shine. Nevertheless, there is a lesson here for the Reagan administration: government waste cannot be eliminated by simply shaving off a layer of the bureaucracy. The real problem can be summed up by the last of a dozen unsuccessful telephone calls Barbara Palmer made over a two-week period to Robert Hastings, the director of the Office of Labor-Management Relations at DOL: "Mr. Hastings isn't in right now."

"Is Mr. Hastings over in?"
"I'm sorry, but he's always in a meeting or out of the office. That's what he does all day."

Dear Editor,
As regards to your Headliner Story, "Police Department Salaries Low," Phooie!
The paper indicates your belief that the police department is just in its request for higher salaries. I should like to offer several points in opposition to any move made towards meeting the demand of any segment of social service that promises, "before attrition strikes," if the public doesn't pay off.
Citing the statistics in your own news item I find it strange for our department to claim interlarity in compensation for job service performed based on averages from other cities. Rather than averages of unknown quantities let us see actual figures for actual cities. Let us see what benefits the high salaried departments are receiving. And, let us see what services are being performed by which departments with what manpower.
We, the people, are sick and tired of paying out more and more in tax dollars while hearing how things are getting better for us. If attrition is going to take place if we don't pay up, then let it do so, or give us some idea of just what great quality in personnel it is we are faced with losing. Perhaps it is time the homeowners, students and businessmen of Wayne threaten attrition if something isn't done about what we are being required to pay out.
The pay scale in Wayne is one of the lowest in the state for all areas of business and because of the labor pool created by the college students it isn't likely to change. Prices for goods, on the other hand, are higher in Wayne than in any other city within miles.
It is high time the people of Wayne, those of us who pay the high taxes, those of us who pay the inflated city prices, and those of us who receive the lower wages, stand up and demand that "the buck has stopped here." If our police men can't make a go of it here then let them do what any other wage earner must do, look elsewhere.
No business can survive operating on the principle of having irreplaceable personnel, just as no government agency need survive operating on a pay up or suffer attrition policy.
In conclusion I ask just how are we going to survive as a community if the federal government's efforts to curb inflation are replaced by state and city increased burdens.
Very truly yours,
Louis E. Ashker

10-Cent Memories Spur Farm Marketing: Thone

"Memories I have of my father receiving only 10 cents a bushel for the corn he produced during the depression on our Cedar County, Nebraska farm spur on my efforts to provide more and better markets for our state's farms and ranches.
"If there's anything I can do as governor to increase agricultural marketing opportunities either at home or abroad, I will do it.
"The legislature this year has been asked to support a new Nebraska agricultural development council. This council will draw upon the expertise of the University of Nebraska, the state departments of agriculture and economic development and a number of other state agencies and non-government organizations.
"Together, we will hammer out what we believe to be the best marketing plan for increasing sales opportunities for Nebraska crops and livestock.
"We will assist food processing firms located in the state in their marketing efforts, particularly overseas.
"State agencies will help new and growing businesses in training employees. We'll provide technical assistance to help solve production problems of Nebraska manufacturers.
"Proposed is a new program of research to find new uses for farm crops.

"When I took my trade trip to Europe in the fall of 1979, I was flabbergasted at how sophisticated other foreign nations were in their marketing of agricultural products to other countries. I'm convinced that Nebraska is going to have to establish its own representative in Europe and the Far East to make certain our food products get the consideration they deserve.

A Letter From
Gov. Charley Thone

"These proposed investments in agricultural marketing will in the years ahead pay rich dividends for all the people of Nebraska, I firmly believe."

Out Of Old Nebraska

Josef Francel, Pioneer Czech Musician in Saline County

"Ceska Hudba v Nebraska (Czech Music in Nebraska, 1880)," the most recent of Vladimir Kucera's books on aspects of Czech immigration to the Midwest, presents both the scholarly and folk aspects of music.

Dr. Kucera, a Czech newspaperman in Brno, emigrated to the U.S. in 1949 and was a member of the Nebraska State Historical Society staff in Lincoln from 1952 until his retirement in 1979. His wife-DeLores collaborated with him in writing the volume.

One chapter in the book is about a Czech pioneer musician who settled in Saline County.

"As far as we know, the first Czech to enter the Nebraska Territory, was Josef Francel, the vanguard of the Czech pioneers. He traveled over-land through Nebraska in 1854 on his way to the California gold fields. It is a very interesting coincidence and reality proof of the saying, that the Czech nation is a nation of musicians. And I may say he was the first outstanding Czech pioneer in Saline County.

"Our musician and goldminer was born in Bohemia, 1824. He studied music at the Prague Conservatory, and later he directed an orchestra, conducting many concert tours through Bohemia, Austria and Germany.

"In about 1851, he came to America, and in 1852 he married Antonia Prochaska in Watertown, Wisconsin.

"On April 18, 1854, Joseph Francel left Watertown and traveled in an oxen-drawn wagon with four companions, leaving his wife and a small son Fred, for he hoped to find fortune in the gold fields of California. Luckily for us, Francel wrote a diary during his trip to the west.

"When his group succeeded in crossing the Sierra Mountains, there his diary ends. From several letters, the last sent from California, we find that luck was against him, he didn't find gold. Therefore, Francel returned back to Watertown, where he taught piano and directed a singing society. "Years later, Francel returned to Nebraska in 1869 with his little family to homestead in Saline County one mile south of Crete, Saline County, Nebraska. Broken and bent with failure, he tried desperately to establish his roots here, building a trading-post of sorts for the other fellow emigrants on their own trip further west.

"He bade his Nebraska home farewell in 1874, and started his second trip to the California gold fields, but this time his trip was tragic.

"In the meantime his oldest son, Fred, had gone to Oregon, where he lived near Walla Walla with Theodore Daum, who occupied himself by making cord wood.

"In 1875, Francel set out afoot for Walla Walla arriving in Portland, Oregon, a distance of 600 miles. He found Fred in the mountains, and in November of that year all three set out on horseback for California. A few days later, Fred turned back, intending to take a boat. On Dec. 3, 1875, Francel and Daum camped near a large spring. Then, Daum walked out a short distance to look for the right direction and when he returned one hour later, Francel had vanished.

"And the human drama of the adventure of Francel's life finished in tragedy. For two days, Daum conducted a fruitless search for Francel. Finally he found his way to an Indian settlement, where he was directed to the Klamath Indian Agency. There he met people who accompanied him back to aid him in looking for Francel, whom they discovered dead.

"Francel's journey through deep snow had finished in the end of his colorful and dramatic life of the first Czech musician in Nebraska.

"In 1915, his sons, Ernest and Josef, searched for his grave in the Fort Klamath cemetery where Francel was buried, but in vain.

"There are some of Francel's descendants in Saline County, the late Czech pioneer musician Edward C. Bri of Crete, Saline County, Nebraska, who was acquainted with Francel's widow, sons and grandchildren, wrote in his memoirs.

Police Salaries: A Comparison

The following is a comparison of the Wayne Police Department salaries with 18 other Class A communities. The survey was compiled by the Lexington Police Department.

Citing low morale and the possibility of attrition within the local department, Police Chief Vern Fairchild says salaries here are low and need to be increased.

According to the survey, starting sergeants, patrolmen and dispatchers are paid about $100 less than the average of the other 18 departments. In fact, only Lexington has a lower starting wage for sergeants than Wayne. No one has a lower starting salary than Wayne for patrolmen or for starting dispatchers.

Holdrege, Fairbury, Chadron and Albion do not have starting sergeant positions.

Expert Presents Career Seminars

Work and life are the same thing — you are living while you work, and you are working while you live. My purpose is to help you expand who you are when you go into the job market.

More than 200 Wayne State students attended the seminars presented last Monday and Tuesday by Tom Jackson, these words will sound familiar.

Jackson, one of the nation's leading experts on manpower and employment, painted a vivid picture of the mechanics of the job market in a speech Monday night, and again Tuesday in three seminars broken down into major areas.

According to Jackson, the average worklife includes about 10,000 days. This is more time than will ever be spent in any other organized social activity. What you do in your own work and the way that you relate to it will define the quality of your life.

Jackson also stated, "Before you look outward, one has to look inward. Many people are afraid to look inside themselves because they fear there will be nothing there of value." After one has finished looking inside, the job search may begin.

Jackson's basic points for job hunting include looking into the section of the work world related to your job target. Then you should identify the needs of employers in the chosen field.

Next, find within yourself the abilities which will fill the needs of the employer. Finally, communicate to the employer your desire and ability to fill his needs.

Keep in mind Jackson's oft-quoted rule of universal hiring: Any employer will hire any individual so long as the employer is convinced that the candidate will produce more value than he/she costs.

Jackson urged students to break away from the image of only being a college student. "Be confident," he said. "Create more value for yourself. As a college student, you have been trained to learn, so learn more about yourself. Be outrageous! Be ready to take risks."

In closing his seminars, Jackson has often said "Learn to work harder, but also learn to have more fun!"

"Just go until they have to shoot you down."

Wakefield Man at Session

Winter Lawn Watering Helps

Nebraska lawns may need water, even though it's the middle of winter. Without a light watering, many turfs will suffer dehydration injury because of the open weather the state has been experiencing, a University of Nebraska turf specialist said recently.

"The crown of the turf plant is near the soil surface and it's losing moisture even though it's not actively growing," said Bob Shearman, associate professor of horticulture in the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The turf blades continue to transpire water and the problem is similar to that of the winter wheat crop.

Most people feel that if they had adequate moisture going into the late fall and early winter, there is no potential problem with desiccation injury, Shearman said. This is a fallacy, he said. There could be adequate soil moisture but if it's frozen or near the freezing level, it's not available to the plant. Absorption capacity of the roots also is reduced.

Homeowners should look at the turf surface and work down into it for about an inch, Shearman said. "If you can feel moisture, it's probably adequate and the potential for injury is minimal. However, if the soil is dry near the surface, homeowners definitely need to water," he said.

A light watering, about a quarter inch, should be applied every 20 to 30 days as long as the weather stays open, Shearman said.

In the western part of the state, more frequent watering, at least every 20 days is necessary because of sandy soils, he said.

Lawns that were seeded last fall will definitely need watering because of shallow rooting, he said.

Potential for winter desiccation injury is greater with tall fescue lawns and those which include perennial rye grass. Bluegrass lawns with a thick thatch layer or exposed lawns on slopes are especially susceptible to winter injury, he said, as are lawns that were mowed very low last fall.

Warm season grasses such as Zoysia also will benefit from light watering.

As a precaution, homeowners can water every 20 to 30 days from now through March as long as the temperature is above freezing.

A snowfall won't necessarily solve the problem, Shearman said. A light dry blowing snow

Ag Borrowing Slowed

Midwest farmers and ranchers curtailed the rise in agriculture's borrowing for short and intermediate term purposes during 1980, according to Don Hovendick, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha (FICB).

Loan volume of the Credit Bank at 1980 year-end was $2.125 billion, an annual increase of $148.1 million or 7.5 percent. This represents money channeled into agricultural lending in a four-state region, primarily through local Production Credit Associations (PCAs).

The 1980 pattern was in sharp contrast to 1979 lending operations of the Bank in which there was a 37 percent increase in loans to farmers and ranchers, Hovendick said.

Along with higher interest rates which had a discouraging effect on the demand for credit, farmers marketed a sizeable carry over of grain inventories from the previous year during the more favorable price period of the summer months, which reduced borrowings. Also, unfavorable economics in the cattle feeding business caused many feedlot operators to slow down livestock replacements, or to not replace them at all, he said.

The effect of this unusual situation in the farm economy was an unprecedented swing in loan volume of the Credit Bank and PCA's in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. The extreme fluctuations in loan demand established two records in FICB monthly loan volume change. In January, the increase of $81.1 million was the largest ever for a single month. In October, the $52 million decline was a record drop in monthly volume.

The large January increase was attributed to a spillover effect from the sharp increase in farm borrowing during the last quarter of 1979, and then a holding of commodities in the early part of 1980. When farmers began selling their grain inventories and holding off livestock replacements, volume trended downward to the October low point.

Despite the slowed growth in lending, the Credit Bank and PCA's increased their share of the short term agricultural loan market from 20 percent in the fall of 1979 to more than 24 percent a year later. The decrease in loan demand was a general trend among most short term farm lenders.

The interest rate charged by the Credit Bank in 1980 was relatively stable. The FICB obtains its loan funds from the sale of bonds at the national level and its money cost is based on an average of all outstanding bond issues. This tends to flatten out fluctuations in interest rates. The Bank's lending rate peaked at 14.05 percent in May and was as low as 12.25 percent in January and again in October. Average lending rate for the year was 12.99 percent.

Solar Heat in Swine Buildings Effective

A comparison of two swine buildings with similar storage systems for solar heat has shown that solar heat can be used to maintain temperatures which encourage good animal performance.

A team of researchers from the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, presented this information here recently at the 1980 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Gerald R. Bodman, extension ag engineer, James DeShazer, professor of ag engineering, Michael F. Kocher, extension assistant and James A. Lamb, research assistant, compared the systems.

They used one system with an undefined underlying soil mass as a solar storage unit while the other had a storage mass defined by insulation.

The most appropriate combination of insulation level, storage mass and length of air passageway is dependent on operational parameters for the building. The researchers concluded that an underlying insulation layer is needed to define the storage system in order to maintain warmer floor temperatures and increase the utilization of stored solar heat.

Placing the storage mass between the distribution system and the floor allows moderation of floor temperatures and thus minimizes abrupt changes in pig zone temperatures and permits them to become accustomed to varying conditions.

They found that an insulation level of approximately R O 72 (4) is needed to define the storage in this type of system in order to keep heat losses to soil surrounding the storage at a reasonable level.

In systems where no supplemental heat is added to the floor, underfloor insulation should be placed beneath an added storage mass to provide storage of animal heat. This placement is in contrast to the usual procedure of placing the insulation directly below the concrete floor.

Why wood heat is a hazard

1. Wood burns at a higher temperature than gas or oil.
2. Firebox temperature can approach 2000°F.
3. Most wood stoves do not have automatic controls.
4. Wood requires a chimney that can resist the higher temperature and a possible chimney fire.
5. Wood stoves are very hot, children are exposed to hot surfaces (and so are nearby combustibles).
6. Wood produces creosote, which causes chimney fires.
7. Wood heat requires a lot of attention.
8. Wood ashes require safe handling and disposal.

the three or four weeks before calving to achieve a higher level of nutrition by the time the calf is born. The amount of total protein should be increased slowly so that at calving time the cow receives about two pounds per day from both feed and protein supplement, if one is fed.

Cows fed a corn stover and hay ration probably will need additional feed to meet their energy requirements. Cattlemen feeding corn stover on free-choice basis and 5-10 pounds of hay daily per cow should consider either increasing the amount of hay to 10-15 pounds daily or supplementing with three or four pounds of grain per head per day.

Equipment such as calf puller and chains for assisting cows with difficult births should be cleaned and placed in a convenient location. Where a calving barn is used, it should be cleaned and freshly bedded. If there have been scour problems in the past, washing and spraying with a cleaning or disinfectant compound and purchasing scour vaccines should be considered.

Feed beef cows

The nutritional requirements of cattle increase during lactation. Energy needs increase 50 percent after calving while calcium, phosphorus and vitamin A requirements double.

The cow's ration should gradually be increased during

Insects Affected Little By Mild Weather of Late

Weather is a major factor in an insect's life, but the mild winter days in December and January will have little effect on major crop pests, according to Bob Roselle, extension entomologist in the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Even though temperatures were above normal, it was still cool enough to keep the insects in hibernation, the specialist said. Major crop pests affected by weather include European cornborers, spider mites and grasshoppers, and chinch bugs.

European corn borers were near outbreak numbers in 1980,

Roselle said, and mostly due to the weather in their favor.

"Weather conditions at the moth flight and egg laying periods affects the borers population,"

Roselle said that if nights, especially from dusk to midnight, are mild, quiet and warm during the moth flight period of first and second generations, the moths are able to actively lay eggs for a long period of time.

The hatching eggs also are more likely to survive, he added.

Hot, dry conditions favor reproduction of spider mites which were severe on corn in many areas of the state last year.

Normal mite reproduction is through July and August, Roselle said.

Corn rootworms are not affected by weather as much since they spend nine or 10 months of their life cycle under the soil where they are protected to a greater degree from weather.

Extreme dry soil or moisture saturation in the soil does affect them, but they are more likely to survive in damaging numbers than insects subject to weather above soil.

"The 1981 outlook is impossible to forecast, Roselle said, but if the summer is dry, warm and lacking windy evenings in June and August, look out for corn borers and mites."

Rootworms will probably remain an important crop pest since there were enough beetles last summer to produce a good crop of worms this spring.

Grasshoppers and chinch bugs have always been dry-weather insects. If 1981, especially in the spring, remains dry, these pests are likely to be serious.

Fertilizer Meeting Set

A fertilizer meeting, "Getting More From the Fertilizer You Put On," will be presented by George Rehm, Extension agronomist, from 10:30 to 3 p.m. Monday, at the USDA Service Center in Wayne.

Rehm will be discussing cutting fertilizer cost and answering such questions as "how much do I need?", "when is the best time to apply?", "are fertilizer sources different?" and "what are some new and better ways of applying fertilizer?"

1941 Savings Bonds Stop Drawing Interest in May

The Treasury Department's U.S. Savings Bonds Division is receiving many inquiries from people who are uncertain as to whether their older Savings Bonds are still earning interest.

"Most bonds will earn interest for years to come," according to John F. O'Neill, volunteer state chairman for Nebraska.

There is an exception in that Series "E" Bonds dated between May 1941 and April 1952 will earn interest for a total of 40 years. For example, "E" Bonds dated May 1941 will earn interest up to May 1981, those dated October 1950 will earn interest to October 1990, etc.

Holders of older Series "E" Bonds should check the information below to determine exactly when their Bonds reach final maturity.

Date of Issue	Date of Maturity	Life of Bond
May 1941-April 1952	May 1981-April 1992	40 years
May 1952-Jan. 1957	Jan. 1992-Sept. 1996	39 years, 8 months
Feb. 1957-May 1959	Jan. 1996-April 1998	38 years, 11 months
June 1959-Nov. 1965	March 1997-Aug. 2003	37 years, 9 months
Dec. 1965-May 1969	Dec. 1992-May 1996	27 years
June 1969-Nov. 1973	April 1995-Sept. 1999	25 years, 10 months
Dec. 1973-June 1980	Dec. 1998-June 2005	25 yrs

Series "E" Bonds with issue dates of May 1941-April 1952 will reach final maturity and cease earning interest on their 40th anniversary.

"As "E" Bonds reach final maturity, their owners have two options, i.e., to redeem them for cash and pay income tax on the interest, or to exchange them for Series "HH" Bonds and continue to defer their Federal income tax liability. "HH" Bond interest is paid to the owner each six months by a U.S. Treasury check.

Owners of maturing "E" Bonds have up to one year after the final maturity date to exchange them for "HH" Bonds.

O'Neill also stressed that the interest rate on "all" outstanding Savings Bonds was increased effective Nov. 1, 1980.

For example, Series "EE" Bonds purchased after Nov. 1, 1980, earn a new higher interest, 8 percent compounded semi-annually, when held to a shortened maturity of nine years. In addition, all Series E, EE, H and HH Bonds, and Savings Notes have had their interim yields increased by one percent to their next maturity.

Sheep Days Set

For the first time in several years, the University of Nebraska animal science department and Cooperative Extension Service are conducting a series of Area Sheep Days educational programs for sheep producers around the state.

Dr. Ted Doane, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources' extension sheep specialist, said sheep numbers are increasing in Nebraska and new producers have a need to be informed of new techniques and sound management practices of the sheep industry.

A series of five Area Sheep Days in March will cover topics ranging from the checkoff program to wool grading and marketing, ewe nutrition and reproductive efficiency of the ram.

Dr. Frank Schwalst, sheep research leader, Kansas State University, Colby, Kan., will discuss the use of forage in a sheep operation at the last three meetings. Dr. Joe Ford, physiology research leader at the Roman L. Hruska U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, Clay Center, will update producers on new findings on improving rams' reproductive efficiency.

Other speakers from the NU animal science and veterinary science departments will handle other program topics.

The program topics are identical at the five sites, beginning at 10 a.m. and concluding at 3:30 p.m. A lamb luncheon will be available, courtesy of the Nebraska Sheep Council. There is no registration fee for the meetings, Doane said, although there will be a discounted charge for the luncheon.
