

Art Contest Set Saturday

Wakefield Centennial Celebration Soon to Kickoff

The community of Wakefield invites all area artists to display their works in a Centennial Art Show and Contest at the Wakefield Community School on Saturday, March 21.

The art show is among a variety of special activities planned throughout the year to honor the community's 100th birthday. The show is being held in conjunction with a concert by the Midlands Woodwind Quintet that evening at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

THE PUBLIC is invited to eat supper at the school prior to the performance by the Midlands Woodwind Quintet.

Members of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) chapter at Wakefield High School are planning to serve a supper of barbecued beef sandwiches, potato chips, carrots and celery sticks, dill pickles, bars and beverages from 5 to 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room.

Advance tickets for the meal may be purchased from any FHA member and also will be available at the door. Cost is $1.50 for a one sandwich meal, or $2 for a two sandwich meal.

JACKIE DITMAN, art instructor at Wakefield Public School, is chairman of the Art Show.

"Any appropriate subject matter will be accepted for the show," said Mrs. Ditman, adding that the entry deadline is March 20 and all entries should be taken or sent to her at the school.

Entries should be matted or framed and ready for display. Any medium will be accepted. All entries will be on display in the hallways of the school during the Wood-winds Quintet and following the FHA supper.

There will be four divisions in the show, including an adult division (amateur or professional artists from the Wakefield community); senior division (grades 9-12); junior section (grades 5-8); and primary section (grades K-4).

Ribbon prizes for the first three winners in each division and 10 special prizes will be awarded. The winning art works will be displayed in various Wakefield stores following the show.

OTHER events planned by the community during the upcoming months in celebration of its founding 100 years ago include an "Our Food Heritage" bazaar presented by the Hospital Auxiliary at the Legion Hall on April 4; a Community Cantata in the school auditorium on April 26; a King and Queen of the Grand Generation program on May 10; a bike-a-thon on June 6; an old-fashioned ice cream social and coed softball tournament on June 14; and a Community Church Service on June 21.

THE GRAND Celebration is slated to take place June 25-28 and will include two giant parades.

The first parade will be held Friday, June 26, at 6 p.m., with the second parade scheduled at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 27.

Bernard Gustafson and Don Rouse are co-chairmen of the parade committee. There will be a special division for antique automobiles, with an additional antique display on Sunday, June 28. Dale Anderson is chairman of the display. Rouse said individuals or organizations who would like information concerning floats for the parades should contact him or Gustafson.

A representative from KVAM Displays in Sioux City will come to Wakefield if enough interest is shown to explain float construction and what materials are available.

MRS. TERRY Potter, a member of the talent committee, also has announced that an Arts and Crafts Festival will be held June 28. Those living within a 20-mile radius of Wakefield are eligible to enter.

The committee would like to have exhibits consisting of quilts, weaving, needlepoint, wicker works, ceramics, furniture building or refinishing, flower arrangements (artificial, silk or real), spinning, rug making (hook, loom, woven, etc.), crocheting, or other types of crafts.

ONE-HUNDRED FIFTH YEAR NUMBER FIFTY-TWO

Continued Widespread Dry Spell Has Farmers Hoping for Rain

After suffering through one dry year, many area farmers are hoping and praying for sufficient precipitation this year to help them overcome a below-average season.

WHEN NEBRASKA farmers speak of a "million dollar rain," they've hit the nail on the head, a University of Nebraska weather expert says. And if that moisture comes before planting time, it's like money in the bank—up to $12 million or more per inch.

Ralph Neild, extension climatologist in the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said this year the Nebraska farmer's moisture savings account is about 50 percent below normal and prospects do not look good for large additional deposits before planting time.

"We normally receive an average of 11 inches of precipitation over Nebraska between Sept. 1 when last year's crops started to mature and May 15 when the next year's crops are planted," he said. This is about half of the total annual moisture received.

"WE EXPECTED SIX inches of this moisture by March 1 but we have received only three inches so far. So we need an additional eight inches if we are to have normal soil moisture at planting time. Unfortunately, there is only a 10 percent probability that we will get another eight inches of rain by May 15."

Stored soil moisture is needed to help crops in midseason, he explained. "Rains following planting usually are sufficient for growing a corn plant up to the time of tasseling when the grain begins to fill."

This time, about July 15, unfortunately coincides with the hottest time of the year when the fully grown corn plant reaches its greatest demand for moisture.

CORN ROOTS can extract moisture to a depth of five feet. Most Nebraska soils can store two inches of water per foot or 10 inches of moisture in the root zone, he said, although sandy soils will hold less.

So, if there is adequate subsoil moisture in the root zone savings account from pre-season precipitation, "the roots will be able to extract it and grow deeper and with the help of any current rainfall will be able to meet the need of the developing grain."

Above normal pre-season precipitation is more likely to result in above normal yields and below normal pre-season moisture usually indicates below normal yields, he said.

IN THE CASE of corn, studies of weather and yields between 1950 and 1974 show that yield of dryland corn increased or decreased 1.1 bushels per acre for each inch that pre-season precipitation was above or below average.

With about two million Nebraska acres planted to dryland corn and a price of $3 per bushel, each inch of pre-season precipitation over the state has a value of $6,600,000, Neild said.

In addition, each pre-season inch of moisture means savings in energy for irrigated corn fields. With the current cost of $1.50 in fuel to apply one inch of water per acre and about 4,500,000 acres of irrigated corn, a one-inch rainfall takes on an additional value of at least $6,700,000 to Nebraska farmers.

"COMMENTS ABOUT million dollar rains" are not exaggerations. One inch of precipitation even when no crops are growing is worth more than $12 million to corn production alone," said Neild.

Meanwhile, farmers who have become impatient while waiting for rain in the past, will continue to play the waiting game for a badly needed rainfall.

Winside Girl Wins Dual Honor

Bauermeister
Named State
And District
Holstein Girl

A 16-year-old sophomore at Winside High School has been chosen to represent the state as Nebraska Holstein Girl.

Judy Bauermeister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bauermeister, was chosen for the honor March 7 during a meeting of the Nebraska Holstein-Friesian Association in Fremont.

Just one week earlier Judy also was selected by the Northern District Holstein-Friesian Association to represent them throughout the year as District Holstein Girl.

JUDY, who has completed six years of project work with Registered Holsteins, has been a junior member of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America for five years. In 1978 she showed the grand champion dairy animal of the 4-H Dairy show at the Wayne County Fair. She also received the trophy for the top registered Holstein and exhibited the best uddered cow.

The Winside lass is the proud owner of seven Registered Holsteins and is listed as a breeder of three of the animals. Judy is a member of the Teen Supremes 4-H Club and serves as secretary of the organization. A cheerleader at Winside High School, she also plays volleyball and is active in band and chorus.

IN LOOKING towards the decade of the 1980's, Judy said she feels more electronics will be introduced into the dairy industry. "With the growing of technology I expect to maybe see more computers used in milk evaluation as it is taken from the cow and being moved through the pipeline," she explained.

Judy said she also expects to see all weight measurements changed over to the metric system.

And instead of many farmers milking herds of less than 100, the Winside-teenager said she expects many dairy operations to join together to milk several herds. "I especially feel this way because of the increasing numbers of co-ownerships of cattle," she said.

"I think with the rising cost of living, coops will play a greater role in marketing our milk at an efficient price. Because of the high cost of gas and fuel they are especially needed for the distribution and hauling of milk."

"If any changes are made I'm sure they will be done for the betterment of milk production."

JUDY BAUERMEISTER DISPLAYS the trophy and plaque she received recently from the Nebraska Holstein-Friesian and Northern District Holstein-Friesian Associations. Judy was chosen to represent each group as Nebraska Holstein Girl and Northern District Holstein Girl. People See Green on Pat's Day

Green shirts, green pants, green ties, green socks and even green underwear.

Only on St. Patrick's Day, do people have the opportunity to dress and act like men from Mars or fans from Notre Dame and get by with it.

Although Wayne has no St. Pat's Day celebration, the Irish capitals of Winsor and O'Neill draw huge crowds to their towns for the annual celebration.

Heck, a couple from the Dating Game was once awarded a date to the O'Neill St. Patrick's Day celebration.

People in these towns eat green eggs and ham for breakfast, dress from head to toe in green clothes and sometimes even use green makeup on their faces and in their hair.

After watching a parade and eating a nice green chef's salad for lunch, the next event is often the most popular. People congregate to the local pubs where they indulge in kegs and kegs of green beer and begin speaking in a phony brogue. Polish and Bohemian jokes suddenly are adapted to include the Irish.

By the time these people are just feeling good, they attend the annual St. Patrick's Day dance. All in a day for a good Irishman.

Many legends about St. Patrick exist including the famous one about driving all the snakes from Ireland.

Scholars believe that Patricius Magnus Succadeus was born in Wales around 389. At age 16, he was captured by Irish raiders and taken slave for six years. He later escaped and fled to the southwestern section of Ireland and later to England.

He somehow ended up in France where he studied for the priesthood, was ordained a priest and later consecrated bishop. In 432, Pat returned to Ireland to begin work of converting people to Christianity and by 444 he had established a church government. Some time after his death in 461, St. Patrick's Day was originated.

SEAN MICHAEL NEAL of Allen plays the part of a leprechaun in true fashion as St. Patrick's Day (Tuesday) approaches. With an Irish name like Sean Neal, the 11-year-old may be seen looking for a Blarney Stone or his pot of gold. "Erin go braugh," he says.

Weible's Trial Set for May 18

Charles Weible, 27, Winside, Thursday pleaded not guilty to three drug charges resulting from a Dec. 19 raid on a Winside residence by state and federal authorities.

A TRIAL DATE of May 18 was set by presiding District Judge Richard Garden. Arraignment for Vernon Sarha, 30, Laurel was continued to March 23 because his court-appointed attorney was not present. He reportedly was in Jamaica and could not attend Thursday's proceedings.

Appearance bond for Weible was raised from $5,000 to $50,000 on request by prosecuting attorney Tom DeLay. Weible was placed in the custody of the Wayne County Sheriff's office but later was released when 10 percent bail was posted.

WEIBLE PLEADED not guilty to possession of cocaine with intent to deliver, possession of marijuana with intent to deliver and possession of cocaine.

The first count is a Class II felony which carries a maximum jail sentence of 50 years and minimum of one year. The second count is a Class III felony and carries a maximum penalty of 20 years or a fine of $25,000 or both. The minimum penalty is one year in jail.

Possession of cocaine is a Class IV felony and carries a maximum sentence of five years, a fine of $10,000 or both. There is no minimum sentence on that specific charge.

THREE MOTIONS by Weible's attorney Vincent Kirby were overruled by Judge Garden.

Kirby had moved to disqualify DeLay on grounds of conflict of interest, made a motion to quash and moved for a plea in abatement.

A transcript of previous court proceedings involving Weible was introduced as evidence and Kirby asked that the court read the transcript before arraignments begin. Garden replied that he already had reviewed the transcript and the procedure continued.

GARDEN ADVISED Weible of his rights and read the charges against him. Weible then entered a plea of not guilty to all three counts.

In arraignments March 4, Garden accepted pleas of not guilty to drug charges brought against Dale Busskohl, 27, Winside, and Diane Coyle, 25, Winside. Trials also were set for May 18. All three individuals will be given trial by jury.

Weible, Busskohl and Sarha were arrested at an early-morning drug raid in Winside which uncovered approximately three ounces of cocaine and nearly 80 pounds of marijuana. Coyle was arrested several weeks later in connection with the same drug seizure.

Thursday's arraignment was delayed 1½ hours awaiting delivery of Weible's transcript from Norfolk.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Farm Bureau office.

Survey on Employment Planned

The U.S. Bureau of Census will conduct a regular survey on employment and unemployment in this area during the week of March 16-20, 1981 according to William F. Adams, acting director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Denver.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the March survey will include others concerning the work experience and income of household members last year and whether they have moved since March 1980.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 78,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The January survey indicated that of the 105.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 97.7 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 7.4 percent, the same as in December and little different from the rates which have prevailed since May of last year.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Hansen Not in Wayne

Local businessmen are hoping for a winner this Thursday night when another name is called in the Grand Give-A-Way drawing.

Lester Hansen of rural Wayne was not in any of the participating stores last Thursday evening to claim the $1,000 in bonus bucks after his name was drawn. The last winner in the drawing was Geary Crom, whose name was drawn on Jan. 29.

Another name will be drawn this Thursday evening at 8 p.m. That person must be in a participating store when his name is called to claim the $1,000 prize.

Ninth Grade Orientation

Annual ninth grade orientation will be held April 9 at 7 p.m. at Wayne-Carroll High School. Students entering grade nine next year along with their parents are invited to attend.

The evening will begin with a general session in the lecture hall. Following the general session parents and students will follow a "mini schedule" to allow them to meet teachers and assist in selecting courses for next year.

Final registration for all ninth graders will take place on Tuesday, April 14. Rural students may register during the week of April 13-16, or at any time convenient to them after those dates.

Awards to Doeschers

TWO PROGRESS awards were presented at Friday's Chamber coffee at Doescher Appliance. One award was presented to Lee Doescher for his contribution to the community. Lee, who is retiring, is pictured at right with his wife, Darrell Doescher (left) was the recipient of the other award. He will be taking full control of the business.

Planetarium Show to Begin

Wayne State College's Fred G. Dale Planetarium will offer the presentation "Awakenings" from Sunday, March 22 through Sunday, April 26. All presentations are scheduled for Sunday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. The arrival of spring is celebrated in picture and song. This program reviews the basic of seasonal change, with special emphasis on the spring and summer constellations of the Northern Hemisphere. A preview of special astronomical events for the coming months is included in the presentation. The planetarium, with its dome-shaped screen, is the most dramatic of theaters. Its complex star projector, dozens of auxiliary and special effects projects, and unique sound system allow an exciting blend of art and science. Audiences are taken beyond the stars to experience the majestic beauty and unsolved mysteries of our vast universe.

The planetarium is located on the first floor of the Carhart Science Center, on the campus of Wayne State College.

In addition to the regularly scheduled public shows, special programs concerning a particular subject may be arranged by school groups and organizations. The planetarium will accept reservations anytime during the school year (September through May).

Opinion

Americans are Working Less but Enjoying it Less

Worker's benefits and productivity Americans are working less these days but enjoying it less.

According to a new study of employee benefits paid workers in 1979, almost half the benefits were paid out in wages or salaries for time not worked — vacations, holidays, rest periods, jury duty, etc. The study was made by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Time off cost employers approximately 13 percent of their payroll, or about $162 billion in 1979, and the figure keeps rising yearly. In all, employers paid out $390 billion — or 31.8 percent of payroll — for employee benefits programs.

The objective, of course, has universal support — to enhance workers' well-being. But these expenses — like any other cost of doing business — add to the price of goods and services, which eventually must be borne by consumers.

In normal times, the American economy has managed to absorb these additional costs. How? Through greater productivity. For two decades — from 1947 to 1967, the nation recorded a consistent growth in productivity. The amount of goods and services produced per unit of labor grew at an annual rate of 3.2 percent. Then a decisive decline started in 1967.

But inflation and exorbitant taxes — among other causes — have slowed productivity. Below is a table that shows the United States has lagged behind other industrial nations:

Country	Productivity growth (1970-79)
Netherlands	6.2
West Germany	5.3
France	5.1
Japan	4.8
Italy	4.5
Canada	3.8
United States	2.6
Great Britain	2.2

Together with inflation, this decline in productivity is part of a "chronic and debilitating economic illness," in the opinion of Dr. Richard W. Rahn, vice president and chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

He cites the continued loss in real spendable earnings — or what is left after Social Security and income taxes and inflation have taken their toll — as evidence that Americans are enjoying life less.

During October, 1980, the average married worker with three dependents had real spendable earnings of $62.92 a week in 1987 dollars. Over the last 12 months, real spendable earnings dropped by 6 percent — or to a level last experienced in 1960-61.

"The American people are aware of their worsening situation," Dr. Rahn observes. "The inability to 'get ahead' on just one income led millions of women into the labor force during the 1970's."

There is no single cause for the lagging U.S. productivity. But an important part of the problem is the rate of capital investment, which in turn depends on how much money both corporations and individuals have left after federal taxes. Capital investment is vital to creation of new jobs.

The Chamber plans to present a full-fledged set of legislative proposals to the new 97th Congress on how to deal with stagnant productivity.

Not only future benefits of workers but the American standard of living can be improved if the nation resumes its pre-1967 rate of growth in productivity. Already, the U.S. Chamber estimates, the lost productivity has cost us $348 billion, or $4,300 per household as of 1979. Productivity sounds like the best investment of all for the 1980's

David and the bureaucracy
Ferrol G. Barlow runs a small plumbing and electrical business in Pocatello, Idaho. Five years ago he defied the U.S. government by prohibiting a federal officer from inspecting his work premises without a search warrant. In a case that went to the U.S. Supreme Court, Barlow won.

"It's a bummer," he says, "when you win and you still have to pay the expense of your legal defense."

Barlow personally spent $15,000 — "a conservative figure," he explains — to fight his case, and estimates the court victory cost an additional $190,000 raised by conservative and business groups which joined his cause.

Few small businesses, of course, can afford to spend $15,000 or more to fight the federal government, let alone create a cause celebre and raise altogether more than $200,000 to fight a cause.

That is why a new law is likely to turn the bureaucracy and its legal eagles on its head. Thanks to a few hardy souls like Barlow and concerted efforts by groups led by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, small business people like Barlow — those with fewer than 500 employees and individuals with less than $1 million in assets — will be able to contest the government in the courts and before regulatory agencies with the assurance that, if they win, their legal expense will be reimbursed.

Known as the Equal Access to Justice Act, the legislation was passed in the final days of the 96th Congress. It goes into effect Oct. 1, 1981.

In brief, here is how it will work: If a private party is successful as a plaintiff or defendant in an administrative or judicial action against the federal government, it may apply for an award to cover lawyers' and other legal expense. In order to collect, it must win on the merits of the case. Secondly, the court must find that the government was not substantially justified in bringing the action or suit, in the first case.

Passed over objections of the White House and the Department of Justice, the legislation promises to eliminate "fifty" suits and actions by the government, which has more than 100,000 regulators and more than 15,000 lawyers on its payroll.

In the words of Sen. Jim Sasser (D-Tenn.): "This legislation strikes a careful balance between the individual and government regulation. It does not prevent the government from fulfilling its proper constitutional, enforcement of obligations. The burden is on the government, however, to justify its action in order to defeat the award of fees. It is strong enough, therefore, to encourage citizens to exercise their rights."

Goliath, watch out. Here comes a legion of Davids.

Sorghum Bill LB 11 Gets Shuffled

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Nebraska producers of corn, wheat and sorghum should be aware that a movement has emerged in the Legislature to remove a number of safeguards which have been built into several of the commodity checkoff programs, laws, safeguards which have apparently created no problems over a period of years.

When LB 11, Sen. Richard Maresh's bill to create a grain sorghum research and development program financed by a checkoff, came up for hearing before the Agriculture Committee, it was in the same form as the soybean checkoff program which has worked very satisfactorily for a number of years. Among its provisions was one permitting a producer referendum after a 3-year trial period and also a refund for producers who might request one.

In none of the checkoff programs has the refund provisions been a problem. Very few refunds have been asked through the years. Both the referendum and refund provisions have been written into the laws to insure that when producers ask questions of the program governing commission, the questions will be given attention and frank, honest answers. They are safety valves, just like the election process, which guarantee that the growers paying the checkoff bills, have some recourse if they become dissatisfied with the program results and the way they think the research and development program is being administered.

At the hearing on LB 11, representatives of the Wheat and Corn Growers Associations along with a few of the Grain Sorghum Association leaders introduced a substitute for LB 11, proposing many changes, including the following:

1. The amendment would establish as independent agencies, the grain sorghum program as proposed in LB 11 and would also change the existing wheat and corn commodity checkoff programs. Thus each program would be restructured into a separate agency, independent of the Agriculture Department, with the boards having authority to hire their own executive directors, arrange for separate office space and administrative budgets for employees, furniture, paper, etc. Currently all the programs are located at the State Agriculture Department and office space and personnel are shared.

2. Checkoff rates would be increased: for grain sorghum, from a maximum of 1 cent per cwt. to 2 cents per cwt.; for wheat, from a maximum of 5 mills per bushel to 10 mills per bushel. Also the refund provision would be deleted for the grain sorghum checkoff.

3. If a referendum is held, the amendment would require that 51 percent of all corn and sorghum growers subject to the act would have to reject the checkoff programs instead of a simple majority of those voting. The amendment also would delete the referendum on whether to have elective rather than appointive boards.

4. Board members would be appointed by the governor from a list supplied by the Growers Associations, rather than from those who have submitted petitions signed by at least 50 members of the public in the district.

5. The amendment would allow checkoff funds to be used for supporting or opposing legislation; contrary to the existing prohibition against such use of checkoff funds. In other words, checkoff funds could be used for political purposes.

6. After a 3-year trial period, the amendment would require 10 percent of the growers in each of the six districts to sign a petition to cause a referendum to be held on the continuation of the checkoff rather than 10 percent of the growers in the state.

Senator Maresh, recognizing that these proposed changes would radically alter the original bill, asked that the amendment proposals be submitted to another public hearing and the bill has remained in committee.

LB 11 as it was originally written would have breezed through without opposition because it was a known quantity.

ZZZZZ
Fire, what a tragedy! This has been an unusual year. The nation has been rocked by natural disasters such as volcanoes, hurricanes, tornadoes, droughts, earthquakes, tidal waves, floods and of course fires.

I swear there have been more fires this year than there have ever been in the past. Hotels, houses, barns, restaurants and forests have all bit the dust this year.

Many people have died tragically because of fire. And arson often has been a factor. We in the Wayne area have been fortunate. The closest fire that I can remember which actually took a life was in Sioux City. No lives have been lost in this area.

Fires are becoming so common in the past year or two that it's not unusual to hear the fire whistle sound five or six times a week. Just Thursday, the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department responded to three calls. Two were grass fires and one was a reported house fire. Fortunately, all three fires were reported in time and the WVFD was quick to respond.

Two of the fires could have been serious. The grass fire east of town nearly reached two homes. The reported fire in Wayne could have also been a bad one.

It was reported that someone apparently left something on the stove and forget to turn the burner off. I was told that no one was home. If the smoke had not been spotted in time it could have been a disaster.

Wayne firemen have been called to duty while eating lunch, sleeping, working and even taking showers. It's not an easy job and we're all grateful that the department is so conscientious unlike fire departments which go on strike in some large cities.

With the extremely dry weather, any kind of fire can be dangerous. The flames spread quickly and do considerable damage in little time. This is a time when people should take added precautions.

ZZZZZ
Someone stopped by the office this week and dropped off a news clipping from the Walnut Bureau of Walnut, Iowa.

The article is a reprint of a story written in 1981. It describes Wayne County, in reference to Walnut and may be of some interest to readers.

"Wayne county Nebraska is situated fifty miles due north of Walnut, and about 25 miles west of the Missouri river in about the same latitude as Monona and Crawford counties of this state.

"Land is worth from $3.00 to $10 per acre. Nice farming land can be got within three to five miles of the railroad at $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 per acre. Actual settlers many from southwestern Iowa, are rapidly taking up these lands. They find in its soil, climate and production almost an exact counterpart of that portion of our own state.

"The western tier of townships in this county is high, broken and somewhat rough. Here are the sources of the Logan. Little springs of pure, crystal water bubble out from the sides and draws of the abrupt slopes; and form the four principal branches into which the upper Logan is divided. Eastward the county becomes less broken, the streams deeper, the valleys gradually widen and slope up into gently undulating prairies and table lands, presenting a beautiful variety of landscapes.

"The eastern two-thirds of the county is composed of gently undulating prairies, table lands and broad dry valleys of unsurpassed fertility. Corn averages from 75 to 90 bushels to the acre.

"The western portion of the county is devoted to stock raising. Here in the sheltered valleys, besides streams of never-falling water are located stock ranches. Blue-joint grass grows abundantly in the valleys. The county is comparatively new, but with the prospects of a railroad a steady immigration began. In about 30 days a railroad connecting Norfolk on the Union Pacific to Sioux City, will be completed, running through this county.

"In the center of the finest portion of the county on the new railroad, and beautifully situated on the north bank of the Logan on a gentle southern slope, commanding a broad view of the valley on either side, is situated the new three-months old town of 'Wayne'.

"Loveliest village of plains: Its growth is remarkable. The entire 80 acre plot is taken up, and every owner bound to improve it within nine months from purchase.

"It has two banks, three general stores, two hardware stores, two drug stores, two livery stables, two lumber yards, two real estate firms, a newspaper, four lawyers. Before next fall it bids fair to have a population of 1,000.

"Its rival LaPorte, six miles southeast, and the county seat is almost deserted; although it has a court house which cost nearly $15,000. The railroad has sealed its fate and in another year the county seat will be at Wayne.

ZZZZZ
That's all.

Over 400 Families Write Histories

Over 400 family histories have been received to date for publication in the new Wayne County History Book, according to members of the committee.

Mrs. Leila Maynard, co-chairman, said more than 40 reports on topical subjects, such as schools, churches, cultural and service organizations, have been sent in.

Mrs. Maynard said many other histories are being written and will be submitted before the March 31 deadline.

The new history book will contain memorial pages. These will be priced at $180 for a full page, $90 for half a page, and $45 for a quarter page. Anyone wishing to remember a loved one may buy the space in their memory.

The same plan is open to anyone wishing to write a tribute to a minister, doctor, teacher, special friend, relatives, or someone still living. These will be the same price. A picture, poem, or complimentary testimonial may accompany the memorials or tributes.

Fifteen members of the Wayne County Historical Society book committee held a business meeting Wednesday morning at the museum. Committee chairmen from towns and precincts throughout the county reported on progress to date, future plans, and brought up for discussion questions or problems still unsolved.

Among those present for the meeting were Mrs. Maynard, John T. Bressler Jr., Wilma Johnson, Marlan Jordan, Eleanor Edwards, Donna Shufelt, Leon Meyer, Veryl Jackson, Edith Cook, Bill Burris, Correen Bard, Irene Diltman, Gail Korn, Rhonda Sebade, Flora Berg, Helen Stefken and Lucile Larson.

Donna Shufelt, book committee treasurer, reported that more than 200 orders for the history book have been received and paid for. The $6,000 received to date is drawing interest in a savings account.

Books are $30.90, plus $2.75 for mailing. Checks are to be made out to the Wayne County Historical Society. All stories, book orders and checks should be mailed to the Wayne County Historical Society, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

The Historical Society will have a display booth at the Wayne Home Show to be held March 20, 21 and 22 at the city auditorium. Persons at the booth will receive history material and take orders for the book.

Energy Saving Suggestions

March is Energy Conservation Month, and even though we all wish the spring weather was here to stay, we know cold weather is still a reality.

Weatherizing our home may be just the excuse you've been looking for to spend some time out doors in the nice weather before you can justify yardwork.

It's also not too soon to think about some changes that will conserve energy for summer cooling and vacation traveling.

I'd like to provide you with some suggestions this week and next that can help you curb energy waste and save yourself money as well.

By saving energy, we can protect jobs, the environment, and the basic American standard of living, not only for ourselves, but also for our children and grandchildren.

America has only 6 percent of the world's population, but we use about one third of all the energy consumed on the globe. If all the oil the U.S. used in 34 days were put into oil drums, the stack of drums would reach the moon.

Transportation takes about 29 percent of our total energy, and residences account for 26 percent. (Industry and commerce uses another 47 percent.)

As your family plans a summer vacation, consider discovering nearby attractions. Choose a hotel or campground close by and get as pleasant a change from routine as traveling hundred of miles.

Plan to stay at your vacation site rather than "hopping around" and rediscover the pleasures of walking, hiking, backpacking and bicycling rather than looking out the car window. It's healthier and provides more family fun and togetherness than driving.

Cut down on small trips this spring, also. If every automobile took just two less five-mile trips a week, the nation would save 3 1/2 billion gallons of gas a year.

Walk to work if possible and use a bicycle or family moped for errands. When you do drive, observe the 55 mph speed limit. Twenty percent more miles per gallon can be obtained at 55 mph than at 70 mph.

If you're doing any landscaping this spring, remember to plant deciduous trees and vines on the south and west sides of the home to provide shade in the summer and sunshine in the winter.

Seventy percent of our residential energy goes to heating and cooling our homes. Costs can be cut by making our homes more energy efficient, even when we have to spend money to do it.

by Linda Huinker
Wayne County Home Extension Agent

Money spent now will be returned through lower utility bills month after month and are as good as a tax free raise in income.

Insulating, adding storm doors and windows, replacing weather stripping, and caulking cracks all will ease your energy bill considerably. For as much as you might spend on a color television, you could purchase insulation and reduce heating and cooling expenses by as much as 20 to 30 percent.

If doors and windows were made draft proof, savings in annual energy costs could amount to 15 percent or more. (How energy efficient a home is previous to improvement affects, of course, how large a saving will be experienced.)

If you use electric heating and cooling, consider a heat pump system. Heat pumps use outside air in both heating and cooling and can cut electric heating costs by as much as 50 percent.

Consider installing a clock thermostat which will automatically turn the heating or cooling down or up in the evening.

However, most energy saving suggestions are lower in cost and some free. Next week I'd like to remind you of a few of them that could put up to $500 a year back into your pocket for a typical home at current energy prices.

St. Pat's King and Queen Crowned at Senior Center

Larry Osnowor and Genevieve Craig were crowned King and Queen of the "Wearin of the Green" during a St. Patrick's Day party Tuesday afternoon for Wayne Senior Citizens.

Their crowns were designed and made by Mrs. Virgil Chambers.

Forty-three persons attended the event at the Senior Citizens Center. Those celebrating birthdays in March also were honored during the day and included Virgil Chambers, Genevieve Craig and Eldon Bull, by proxy.

Mrs. Virgil Chambers was chairman of the St. Patrick's Day party, assisted by Mrs. Florence Dolata. "Shamrock Day," a legend of St. Patrick and the shamrock, was read by Mrs. Dolata.

Several games were conducted by Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Dolata. Prize winners were Mrs. Mary Hansen and Shannon Fox.

Genevieve Craig accompanied for a sing-a-long of "Peggy O'Neil," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," "The Band Played On" and "The Senior Citizens Song."

The buffet lunch was served from a table centered with a birthday cake baked and decorated in the St. Patrick's Day theme by Mrs. Howard Stoakes.

The cake was courtesy of the birthday honorees. Others furnishing refreshments were Emma Soules, Gladys Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence May, Mary Tieg, Myrtle Spillinger, Mrs. Anton Pedersen, Rose Helthold, Alma Spillinger, Mrs. August Dorman, Mary Echtenkamp and Viola Lawrence.

The next monthly dance, sing-a-long, birthday and anniversary party will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 14.

There were 18 at the center Thursday afternoon for library hour conducted by assistant public librarian Judy Blenderman.

Alone," an autobiography of Art Linkletter; "A Family on Wheels" by Marla Augusta Trapp; "North Dakota" by Franck Berg; "Frog in the Throat" by E. X. Ferraris; and "Joseph" by Joyce Landorf.

Sessions Focusing on Dieting and Exercise

"Wouldn't it be nice if there really were machines that shook off fat or wraps that shrunk it away?" asks Linda Huinker, Wayne County Extension Agent-Home Economist.

"Advertisements lead us to believe it," said Mrs. Huinker, "but the truth is—they don't."

Anyone interested in the real facts about dieting and exercise is invited to attend a Lunch and Learn at 12:15 p.m. this Wednesday at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center or an afternoon Learn-shop the same day at 2 p.m. in the Woman's Club room of the Wayne city auditorium.

Mrs. Huinker will be presenting the program, entitled "Fat Chance You'll Get In Shape By Dieting Alone." She also will show a film, "What Makes Minnie Run."

Mrs. Huinker urges persons to attend and become motivated to begin or continue their own fitness programs.

WSC Closes Southern Trip with Pair of Wins

After tough going in its first eight games of a southern tour, the Wayne State baseball team put it all together to gain two big wins, Thursday afternoon.

The Wildcats swept a doubleheader, pounding Dallas University 14-0 in the first game and then coming back in eight-innings to edge the hosts 6-4.

Wayne's bats came alive to complement the fine pitching of Grady Hansen in the first game. Hansen, who pitched all five innings, fired a four-hit shutout.

The Wildcats return to Wayne and will host Jamestown College today (Monday). Wayne's record is 2-8.

In the second game, the Cats failed to score and Texas scored five in the first and four in the third.

Doug Carroll was the losing pitcher and received relief help from Jeff Croamer in the third inning.

Wakefield Fourth Graders Study Indian Culture in Nebraska

On February 27, the Fourth Grade students held an Indian Affair. All families of the fourth graders and all elementary classes were invited to share in the fair. A display of Indian culture in Nebraska was created by the entire class. The fourth graders also put on a play "Running Deer and Morning Star." Poems, dances, and special music were featured. The fourth grade teacher is Mrs. Kathy Johnson.

Recreate Civil War
The fifth grade students recreated the Civil War through a display of the war in the elementary library.

Small and large dolls were dressed as Civil War figures, Clara Barton and Mary Todd. Drawings of flags and soldiers, reports, replicas of battle scenes, and recruiting posters were some of the articles on display.

The fifth grade teacher is Mrs. Terri Samuelson.

Attend Fiesta
The Wakefield Spanish classes were invited to the Laurel schools to attend a "Fiesta" on Tuesday, March 3.

Our students presented some children's stories in skit form, following a dinner of tacos, refried beans and rice. Besides solving the atmosphere and preparing the meal, the students from Laurel sang a song and broke pinatas.

On Friday, March 13, the Spanish classes of Wakefield presented their plays to the elementary classes.

Collecting Seals
Students in the fourth grade at the elementary school are collecting Fun 'n Fitness Seals.

The seals may be found on the sides of Post Cereal boxes and Log Cabin Pancake Mix, on the back of Log Cabin Syrup labels, the bottom of Wonder Bread wrappers, and on tear strips of Orange Plus and Awake brand orange drinks.

The deadline for turning the labels into the school or with fourth grade students is May 20.

Last week was the deadline for collecting Campbell soup labels, beans, tomato juice, V-8, Swanson canned foods, and Franco-American products. Mrs. Alice Johnson, elementary teacher, and Mrs. Pat Murphy and her son, Mike, brought 1,010 labels to the school. This is a record number ever turned in by anyone since the school has participated in the program.

Mrs. Johnson said the students plan to participate again next year so they are urging everyone to continue to save the labels.

New volleyball equipment was purchased last year and this year's plans are to purchase a filmstrip projector.

The students express their appreciation to all for saving the labels.

Math Students Compete

Science Club Scoop
Laurel students are working on projects for the Wayne State Science Fair, which will be held Saturday, March 21. Many interesting projects will be exhibited, so come and see them.

On the following Saturday, March 28, students will be traveling to the Platte River for a field trip. They will be viewing the staging of the Sandhill Cranes. Joining them will be a group of students from Underwood, Iowa, led by Mrs. Charles Frisk. A group of students from Norfolk Senior High, led by Mr. Tom Ganon, will also be joining them. Mr. Ed Brogie, Laurel High School teacher, says that this will be an excellent opportunity for the Laurel students to meet with other students interested in ecology.

The group will be camping along the Platte River and will have a first-hand look at spring migration. They will also visit the Nature Conservancy and guest lecturer Mark Wilson from the Game and Parks Commission will speak to the students. The group will also tour Sturh Museum. Students Tour Orpheum Theater

By Lori Schrant, Reporter
On Wednesday, March 4, a group of English students sponsored by Mrs. Jons took a tour to the Orpheum Theater in Omaha to see the stage presentation of The Elephant Man.

John Merrick, the elephant man who, in real life, spent many years in a London hospital was grossly disfigured. Because of his deformity, John Merrick was never accepted by society as a person.

The Orpheum, in downtown Omaha, is a beautiful, old building which has been renovated to become a cultural center for the performing arts.

Poet in the Classroom
During the month of February, a poet, Ms. Kathleen West, helped the fifth, sixth, eighth and 10th grade students read and write poetry. Ms. West, a native Nebraskan, came to the Winside Schools from the Northeast Nebraska Program for Arts in Communities and Education.

The eighth grade prepared an anthology of their compositions which included poems titled "Ode to my Pencil," "Hog Terror," and many others.

The Chessman Cometh
What do students in study halls do to use their extra time? Talk? Pass notes? Aggravate the teacher? Some of the Winside students have been playing chess.

The study halls ring to the cries of "check" and "checkmate." Gary Anderson, Joel Broekemeier, Rod Doffin, Brian Foote and others have been observed testing their wits on the school's three chessboards.

The principal almost had to admit that he didn't know how to play when an eighth grader challenged him to a match. Chess, for the moment, has partially replaced the foosball table. Bobby Fischer, look out!

March is Mental Retardation Month

What you don't know can't hurt you. Ignorance is bliss. A little knowledge is a dangerous thing. That's nonsense!

Acting on this premise, the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) is recognizing March as Mental Retardation Month, conducting a national campaign to better acquaint people with the facts about mental retardation.

"The ARC is working hard to encourage society to think positively about mentally retarded people," said ARC National President H. Gilbert Johnson of Portland, Ore. "We want to overcome all the myths that still exist and replace them with the truth.

The truth is there are some six million mentally retarded people in the United States," he said. "Of that number, about 89 percent are mildly retarded, and most of them live independent, productive lives just like anyone else.

Another fact is that at least 50 percent of the causes of mental retardation can be prevented. That's why prevention is one of our priority areas.

Throughout Mental Retardation Month the ARC will be busy educating the public about mental retardation facts, working (with some help from a new friend) on increasing public recognition of the Association's new name and introducing its new National Honorary Chairman and his Co-chairman. Formerly the National Association for Retarded Citizens, the Association officially changed its name during its 1980 National Convention. Many of the ARC's 2,000 plus member units still are in the process of changing their names to incorporate the national identity elements.

In conjunction with Mental Retardation Month, the ARC is announcing its new National Chairman, singer/entertainer actor Wayne Newton. Newton will be assisted in his volunteer efforts by Co-chairman Glenn Smith.

"It's time for people everywhere to realize that mental retardation means slow learning, instead of no learning," said Newton. "If my singing is a part in the name of the ARC is what it takes to promote that belief then I'm ready."

Organized in 1950 by a small group of parents and friends of retarded persons, the association has grown to a membership of almost 300,000.

The ARC has three established national goals overall: improvement of the lives of mentally retarded children and adults, emphasis on prevention of mental retardation and promotion of the search for cures.

For assistance in locating an ARC local member unit, contact the ARC National Headquarters, P.O. Box 6109, Arlington, Texas, 76011.

Gold Mining Deals Cease

The Nebraska Department of Banking and Finance has issued a cease and desist order against Westminer, Inc. of Las Vegas, Nev., prohibiting them from the offer and sale of a gold mining investment program in the state of Nebraska until they register the gold investments as a security and the company becomes registered as a broker dealer with the department.

The promoters offer potential investors an interest in a mineral claim lease in the Springold Mining Properties in Mohave County, Ariz. Westminister also offers to act as agent for the investor and to secure a mining contract with Springold Mining and Milling Co., Inc., to develop and mine the investors' interest in the mineral claim lease.

Each investor is promised five ounces of gold for each $1,000 of participation, and each investor is paid on a first-come-first-serve basis as the gold is extracted. The department requests that any Nebraska residents who have been offered to invest with Westminister, Inc. contact the Department of Banking and Finance at 301 Centennial Mall South, P.O. Box 95006, Lincoln, Neb: 68509, 402-471-2171.

Don't Blame Your Age For Poor Hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 82913, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Farm Recommendations Given to Congress

In testimony recently before the House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Doug Bereuter presented recommendations made by his agricultural advisors regarding the nation's farm programs.

"The recommendations reflect the thoughts and efforts of more than 260 Nebraska farmers who volunteered to serve on my agriculture advisory committees. Since the first of the year, I've held five working advisory committee meetings throughout the First Congressional District and have come back to Washington with the farmers' suggestions to improve federal farm programs," Bereuter said.

"I hope the House Agriculture Committee gives these recommendations serious consideration with the idea of incorporating some of them into the 1981 farm bill now being drafted," he recommended.

According to Bereuter, the farmers he met with expressed concern that the emphasis of the grain reserve program seems to be directed primarily at stabilizing prices near or below the call level. Emphasis should be shifted more toward providing a supply of carryover grain behind that amount normally in the "pipeline", so as to avoid a potential grain shortage, he said.

"Although this shift could be achieved in a number of ways, one approach suggested was to drop the call provision entirely, leave the release price at the present relationship to the loan price and let market price essentially determine movement of grain out of the reserves," the Congressman said.

"The farmers generally agreed that the grain reserve program could be improved by calling reserve grain on a more gradual basis, rather than all at once. In addition, they recommended a wider spread between release and call levels for feed grain."

Bereuter said, "With respect to the price support program, the farmers by and large favored some sort of support. But they were divided on whether parity or cost of production should be the basis. Although most leaned toward cost of production as the basis, there was no consensus as to how to arrive at that figure."

He noted, "Incidentally, my farm advisors felt that USDA's cost of production figures are misleading since those figures do not reflect a fair return to labor and management of owner-operators and their families."

Bereuter said, "Most farmers favored higher loan prices to take into account rising production costs. For instance, four years ago, the loan price for corn was $2 per bushel. If annual adjustments had been made for inflation as reflected by the consumer price index, the loan rate on corn would now be $2.90 per bushel. The present $2.25 per bushel loan rate is farm from adequate."

Bereuter also noted, "One idea that surfaced again and again is that the government has attempted to legislate low prices for agricultural products, then tried to pacify farmers with low interest loans instead of a fair price for their products."

He said, "Every year farmers are sliding deeper and deeper into debt. Young farmers are having a very hard time getting started. The best solution is to get earned income back into the farm economy so more investment can be financed from retained earnings."

Tom Gustafson Attends Cattlemen's Meeting in DC

Tom Gustafson, Wakefield, returned recently from Washington, D.C., where he attended a meeting of the board of directors of the National Cattlemen's Association (NCA).

Gustafson, a member of the NCA board as well as vice president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, joined cattlemen from across the country in making contacts with members of Congress and administration officials.

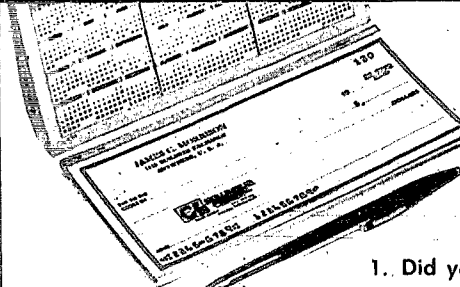

He explained that the NCA board meets annually in Washington in order to be updated on public issues of importance to cattlemen and also to inform government officials of cattlemen's positions on the issues.

A major purpose of the Congressional visits this year was to emphasize support of administration proposals for both budget and tax rate reductions, thereby helping to bring inflation under control. The cattlemen also voiced strong support of efforts to reduce excessive regulations and strengthen the free enterprise system.

Gustafson noted that inflation is the number one problem of cattlemen as well as other segments of the economy. Reducing the inflation rate can reduce beef production costs and also improve demand for beef. As it is now, cattlemen's production costs continue to rise faster than beef prices, resulting in a devastating cost-price squeeze.

Needed changes in tax laws and in other laws and regulations also were emphasized by the cattlemen.
