Fine Arts Festival—

Students Top Districts

Wayne and Winside students displayed their talents and were well rewarded during the District III Federated Women's Club Fine Arts Festival Saturday in Schuyler.

Dawn Droeoscher, a sophomore at Wayne Carroll High School, and Steve Morse, a senior at Winside, took top honors in the musical division of the contest.

Dawn played French horn to win the instrumental portion of the contest and Steve competed with 10 vocalists from throughout the district to win the vocal division.

IN THE art division, Mike Schock of Wayne won the best overall award for his pencil drawing. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Schock of Wayne and is a senior at Wayne High.

His picture, which depicted an old car with two people in it, will be taken to the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs state convention next month in Grand Island. He also received a cash award from the district.

DAWN AND Steve were awarded full scholarships from the district to attend All State Fine Arts Festival this summer at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

They were both eligible to compete in the district contest at Schuyler after winning locally in contests sponsored by the Wayne and Winside Federated Women's Clubs.

DAWN, WHO is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Droeoscher of Wayne, competed with 11 other instrumentalists in the district to win the full scholarship. Her selection was entitled "Morceau de Concert" by Saint Saens.

She was accompanied at the piano by Marcia Rethwisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Rethwisch and a senior at Wayne High.

Dawn has played the French horn for the past five years and is a member of the Wayne High School concert band, under the direction of Ron Dalton, and the Wayne State College orchestra. She studied for one year with Dr. Michael Berger, principal horn player with the Sioux City symphony orchestra.

STEVE HAS been singing for the past six years and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Morse of Winside.

He is a member of the Winside High School concert and swing choirs, boys quartet and boys glee, and is accompanist for the girls glee. He also sings in the church choir and for weddings and other special occasions. He was selected to attend the Nebraska All State Music Festival last November in Grand Island.

He chose the song "The Trumpeter" by J. Arline Dix, to sing for the judges at Schuyler.

OTHER ART students from Wayne whose drawings were taken to the district contest, and the ribbons they received, were:

Blues — Randy Gilliland, seventh grade, chalk drawing; Kim Blecke, 12th grade, oil painting.

Red — Jessica Wilson, St. Mary's

kindergartener.

White — Lori Bahns, 10th grade, crayon drawing.

Mrs. Fred Reeg of Wayne received a blue ribbon for her lap robe in the adult division.

Monthly Siren Test Tomorrow

The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of Civil Defense sirens at 1 p.m. tomorrow (Friday).

SIRENS WILL be allowed to run only one minute with a three minute pause between each siren test. Sirens will be tested in the following sequence:

Alert (used for tornado or other natural disaster warning) — both high and low siren on for one minute.

Pause — three minutes.

Attack — both high and low on for ten seconds, off for ten seconds, continuing for one minute.

NORMAL TIME sequence for each of the sirens would be a full three minutes. Since this is for testing purposes only, we will shut them off after one minute each so that the public can quickly determine the difference between test and an actual warning.

If this were not a test, the public should immediately take shelter upon hearing either the Alert or the Attack signals given.

Jury Trial for Sarha Set May 18

Arraignment for the last of four persons arrested in a drug raid last December 19 was held Monday in District Court at the Wayne County Courthouse.

VERNON SARHA, 31, of Menominee, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver and was ordered by Judge Richard Garden of Norfolk to stand trial on Monday, May 18.

That is the same day that trial by jury is set for Dale Busskohl, 27, Winside; Diane Coyle, 24, Winside; and Charles Welble, 27, Winside.

Judge Garden continued Sarha's bond of $7,500. Order for trial of the four individuals is scheduled as follows: Welble first, Busskohl second, Sarha third, Coyle fourth. The Welble trial is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m.

THE CHARGE of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver is a Class III felony and carries a maximum penalty of 20 years or $25,000 or both. Minimum sentence is one year imprisonment.

In earlier arraignment proceedings, Welble, Busskohl and Coyle all pleaded not guilty to separate charges.

Welble is charged with possession of cocaine with intent to deliver, possession of marijuana with intent to deliver and possession of cocaine.

Busskohl is charged with possession of cocaine with intent to deliver and possession of marijuana with intent to deliver. Coyle is charged with possession of marijuana with intent to deliver and possession of marijuana weighing one ounce or less.

IN OTHER ACTION Monday, Garden denied a motion by attorney Robert Enz to reconsider bond for Busskohl. Enz asked that bond be reduced but Garden ruled that $50,000 is a reasonable amount and denied the motion.

Sarha's arraignment was delayed approximately 40 minutes as the defendant arrived late. The arraignment lasted only about 15 minutes.

Wakefield Housing Project Completed

A new rental housing project in Wakefield, Pleasant Manor Apartments, answers a need for housing for senior citizens with modest incomes.

OPEN HOUSE was held recently and over 600 persons took the opportunity to tour the apartments. Owner of the project is Virgil Ekberg.

The new facility is comprised of 10 one-bedroom apartments, each 620 square feet, complete with electric heat, air conditioning, stoves and refrigerators. They are carpeted throughout and draped with fire-proof products.

The complex has a centrally located community and family room with facilities to seat 50 persons at special gatherings. The room is free of charge for the tenants' celebrations and holiday activities.

DORIS EKBERG was the organizer of the project. She said it was her wish to provide more good rental housing in Wakefield for senior citizens with modest incomes who often live in substandard houses that are cold in the winter and hot in the summer.

Mrs. Ekberg said she feels that by reducing the rental housing shortage more suitable homes will be for sale in the community, thereby eliminating the need for many workers in the community to commute.

A unique feature of the units is that Ekberg applied for rental assistance for the new tenants and was granted the use of those allowance rates.

He said it will be their policy to abide by fair housing practices, with senior citizens coming first. Rental assistance will only be available for those renters who are eligible and apply for it.

THE NEW COMPLEX is a family project with Dwain and Lyle Ekberg assisting their father with caretaker responsibilities. Barb Sampson is helping with management.

Mrs. Sampson said two of the apartments are occupied and the others have tentatively been filled. She said applications are taken year round and interested persons should contact her.

Easter Seal Fund-Raiser

Approximately 30,000 kits will be distributed throughout Nebraska during the annual Easter Seal Society fund-raiser.

Volunteers are asked to pass the kits to their next door neighbor, who in turn passes the kit on to another neighbor. This gives everyone an opportunity to make a contribution to the Easter Seal Society. If the volunteer prefers, he or she can "walk" the kit around.

Many rural residents have indicated they would rather make a larger contribution than to incur fuel costs. This year some rural residents will receive an individual appeal rather than a kit to pass.

Of the funds raised in Nebraska, 96 percent remain in the state to provide essential services to disabled Nebraskans. These services include sessions at Camp Kiwanis, physical therapy, and purchase or loan of equipment such as wheelchairs and orthopedic braces.

State qualifier Tod Heier and Doug Proett will lead the team in its season opener today (Thursday) at the Lakeview Invitational in Columbus.

Heier will compete in the 400 and 800 meter runs and was a member of last year's state qualifying one-mile and two mile relay teams. Proett, another member of those two teams, will compete in the 1,600 and 3,200 meter runs after a successful year of cross country participation.

Three of last year's top individuals Kurt Powers, Rick Johnson and Paul Sultherland graduated last spring.

Other top lettermen are seniors Jeff Allen and Jeff Baier, juniors Eric Brink and Alan Lindsay and sophomore Kurt Janke.

"We have more balance this year. We have good individuals in every event," Hansen said. "We have three good individuals in the mile and two mile, three half-milers and one tough runner in the quarter and half."

Allen will run the 100 and 200 meter sprints, Baier will compete in the 400 and 800. Brink will run the 110 meter high hurdles and 300 meter intermediate hurdles. Lindsay will compete in the 100 and 200 and Janke will run the 100 and 200.

In addition to his returning lettermen, Hansen has promising material in several other team members.

Steve Monson, a transfer from Wahoo, qualified for state in the 3,200 meter run last year and should be as asset to the Wayne team.

Henric Olsson, a foreign exchange student, had a fine cross country season and is expected to do well in long distance races.

Steve Koll is the leading candidate in the shot put and discus and should continue to help the Blue Devils. Monson, Olsson and Koll have all performed well in early practices.

Pat McCright has looked good in the high jump and sprints this spring and is expected to break the Wayne High School high jump record.

Joel Mosley will participate in the long jump as well as the 400 and 800 meter runs. Dana Tompkins will polevault. All of those six individuals are seniors.

Juniors are Mark Hummel in the 400 and 800, Jeff Loberg in the shot and discus and Steve Stadek in the shot and discus.

Sophomores are Danny Frevert in the sprints, Terry Gilliland in the middle distance races, Mark Kubik in the polevault, Lowell Myers in the sprints, Don Robertson in the shot and discus and John Wayne in the polevault.

Freshmen are Ted DeTurk and Blaine Johs in middle distance events and Brian Loberg and Scott Tuller in the shot and discus.

Pointing out his team's balance, Hansen said that Allen and Lindsay have done well in the sprints. Heier is doing well in the quarter and half and that three runners are doing a good job in the mile and two mile. Brink will be tough in the hurdles and Mosley is improving and looking good in the 400. All of the field events are improved this year, the veteran coach added.

Season schedule: March 26—Lakeview Invitational; April 3—Plainview Invitational; April 7—Pender at Wayne; April 10—Wayne State Invitational; April 13—Triangular at Wisner; April 21—Randolph Invitational; April 27—Triangular at Wayne; May 1—West Husker Meet; May 7—Wisner Invitational; May 14—Districts at Columbus; May 22—State at Omaha Burke.

With state qualifiers returning in five events, Wayne coach Mavis Dalton is expecting good things from her 1981 spring track squad.

Wayne is scheduled to open its season today (Thursday) in the Lakeview Invitational.

The two bright spots are Lisa Peters and Missy Stoltenberg. Senior Peters qualified for state in the 400 and 800 meter runs. Stoltenberg, who is only a sophomore, qualified in the 100 and 200 meter sprints last year.

Junior Kris Proett and sophomore Julie Wiener return after helping Wayne qualify for state in the 3,200 meter relay. Peters ran the anchor of that event.

The one disappointment for coach Dalton is that Lynn Surber doesn't plan to compete this year because she has problems with her legs after running. Surber often scored 30 or 40 points in an invitational for the Blue Devils last year.

Other leading candidates on the Wayne team this year are junior Jill Zeiss in the hurdles and sprints, senior Tracy Stoltenberg in the hurdles and high jump, senior Michelle Kubik in distance runs, sophomore Jill Mosley in the long jump, freshman Fran Gross in the sprints and middle distance races, senior Kathy Sekinger in distance races, sophomore Jo Carlson in the shot put and discus and sophomore Kelly Bartholomew in the shot.

"We have an exceptional bunch of girls out who are hard-working and determined to prove they are winners," coach Dalton said. "They enjoyed a great season last year and hope to improve on it this year by shooting for the district championship and a strong representation at state."

Other girls who are out for track for the first time are juniors Becky Otto and Sue Lindner, sophomores Kris Baier and Lori Bakens, and freshmen Sarah Bilven, Janina-Baier, Holly Franzen, Jill Tompkins, Julie Anderson, Laura Victor, Lisa Baker and Shelly Wieseler.

"We should be strong in the sprints and middle distances but must rebuild the distance events," Dalton stated. "Each of our field events is covered with at least one strong possibility."

Season schedule: March 26—Lakeview Invitational; April 10—West Point Invitational; April 13—Triangular at Pierce; April 21—Tekamah Invitational; April 27—Triangular at Wayne; May 1—West Husker Meet; May 7—Wisner Invitational; May 14—Districts at Columbus; May 22—State at Omaha Burke.

WAYNE GIRLS continued track workouts this past week in hopes of high achievements at today's Lakeview Invitational.

offenses. Team Seven led 49-46 at the half and 73-65 after three quarters.

The game was tied 91 all at the end of regulation play. Both teams managed four points in the first overtime, before Team Seven wrapped up the Triumph with two field goals and three free throws in the second overtime.

Meadowlark Claims Bucketeers Will Be Well Worth the Money

Meadowlark Lemon, who was the star of the Harlem Globetrotters for more than 20 years, has since left that team and formed his own team "the Bucketeers."

Area residents will get an opportunity to see how the Bucketeers compare to the Globetrotters as Meadowlark brings his troops into Wayne tonight (Thursday). The Bucketeers will play two games at 6 p.m. and 8:30 in Rice Auditorium at Wayne State College.

In a telephone interview with The Wayne Herald Monday, Lemon said that his team is hoping to someday become as famous as the Globetrotters.

"In order to gain popularity, the Bucketeers are currently on a tour from coast to coast. I'd like to try to make as many cities as possible before I give up. If you don't hit the smaller towns you might as well not hit the bigger ones," Lemon said. "I even moved to a small town. I bet that I could set my town in your town about six times. I don't know how many people you have there but I think we have about 15 hundred."

The veteran player is joined on the Bucketeers by numerous former Globetrotters. Among the team members is well known Marques Haynes.

"Marques started the trick dribbling behind the back and between the legs, the crawling around on the floor many, many years ago. He is the best in the world at what he does. I call him the ninth wonder of the world because I don't see how he does it."

"We are not patterning ourselves after the Globetrotters. In recent years, they have taken comedy and tried to add basketball. Here, with the Bucketeers, we take basketball and add the comedy," Meadowlark said.

In comparing the Bucketeers with the Globetrotters, Meadowlark stated, "Our style of play is just so much better. Our players are better."

When asked why he left the Globetrotters, Lemon replied, "It was time for Meadowlark Lemon to bloom. If I was going to continue to grow and they were basically stopping my growth, I couldn't go any farther with them. The work was tremendous. I was on call 12 months a year, 24 hours a day and I thought it was better to move on."

"The Globetrotters have their name going for them and they have a multi-million dollar company behind them. If the Bucketeers had that kind of a backing, I don't think the Globetrotters would be around much longer."

Jackie Jackson, Jerry Venable, Tommy "Cochise" Brown and Vince Humphrey are other former members of the Globetrotters who are now with the Bucketeers.

The Bucketeers are scheduled to play the California Coasters and a team of college intramural players in the Wayne State performance.

Meadowlark's team is in its first year of touring and plans to tour for 4½ months. The Midwest tour includes stops at Kearney, McCook, Wayne in Nebraska and Vermillion, Pierre and Aberdeen in South Dakota.

Lemon said he is looking forward to the Wayne performance and stated, "Everybody come out, we're going to pack that little gym and we're going to have a ball."

Tickets for both show are available to the public, WSC faculty and staff for $4. Special activities passes are not valid for either show.

The Bucketeers are a hand-picked team, selected from college and professional ranks. There are dribbling experts, slam dunk artists, high-speed playmakers and passers with pinpoint accuracy. The shows are sponsored by the WSC Student Activities Board.

Randy's Recap

According to Randy Huscoll

THE NCAA BASKETBALL Tournament has been full of surprises while reaching its final four. However, the final four teams are all strong and talented.

When the tourney opened I made my predictions on which teams would reach the final four. Of the four teams I picked only North Carolina made it that far. DePaul, Notre Dame and Iowa were all knocked out of contention.

The Big Eight teams Kansas and Kansas State made a fine showing before falling.

Odds makers make LSU a slight favorite among the final four. Indiana holds a slight edge above Virginia and North Carolina according to the odds makers.

Indiana has never played better basketball this year but neither has North Carolina. And Virginia and LSU have had two of the best seasons in the country this year. The final three games are bound to be exciting with well-known coaches, talented players and different styles of play.

I CAN SEE little comparison between the excitement of college basketball and that of professional ball.

To me, most pro basketball is boring. I can watch the last quarter of a pro game and feel as though I've seen the core of the game. Sometimes, that isn't even worth watching. The best reason to watch NBA basketball is to see individual superstars in action.

But, there is something about watching a talented, enthusiastic college team in action that gets the adrenaline flowing. The NCAA Tourney is the best time to get involved with basketball. Super players who aren't getting paid a million dollars a year to support cocaine habits are a lot of fun to watch.

ALL-STATE BASKETBALL teams were announced Sunday by the state's two largest daily papers.

Perry Nelson of Wayne was named to the Class B honorable mention list by The Omaha World-Herald and Lincoln Journal.

In Class C, Jeff Hallstrom of Wakefield was listed honorable mention in the Omaha paper and Joe Olsen of Laurel was a member of the list in the Lincoln paper.

Frank Lanser of Allen was named honorable mention in Class D by the World Herald.

In the girls division, Lisa Erwin of Allen was the top area player named. She was selected to the Class D first team by the Journal and to the second team by the Omaha paper.

Area girls who earned honorable mention honors by the World Herald are: Joan Miller of Wakefield and Kay Anderson of Laurel in Class C and Des Williams of Allen and Laurie Gallop of Winslow in Class D. Congratulations to all of those individuals on a fine achievement.

THE ANNUAL ALL-AREA selections are announced at this time in wrestling and will soon be announced in basketball. A team picture has to be set up and taken of the boys and girls All-Area basketball teams.

ALL-STAR WRESTLING fans had a good time the other night in Rice Auditorium. The four matches on the All-Star card drew a near full house in the auditorium.

Few crowds get as involved or engrossed in an athletic event as do "rasslin' fans. Some are extremely serious when they watch a match. Others are there simply for fun and entertainment.

The ring was placed on center-court in Rice and fans in the front row brought their own signs to heckle the "bad guys". Signs like "Jesse the Jerk", "Jesse Farms Pigs" and "Bobby the Weasel".

A COUPLE OF brief notes from Wayne State College, which arrived too late for a news story:

The track season is scheduled to open at home today (Thursday). The WSC men will host Westmar, Northwestern, USDS and Yankton. The women will host Westmar.

Track continues Monday when the women host Dana and the men host Morningside and Dana.

The annual Wayne State basketball camp is scheduled in June. The camp will be open to grades 10, 11 and 12 from June 15-19 and for grades 7, 8 and 9 from June 22-26. Cost for the camp is $95 if room is needed and $50 if no housing is necessary.

Wayne State Teams Win Laurel Benefit Bball

The Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 1566 of Laurel sponsored a benefit basketball tournament on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Sixteen teams from Northeast Nebraska and Sioux City competed for titles in A and B divisions. There were 28 games played over the three days and local basketball fans were treated to many thrilling games. Players included many top area college players and former college players.

The results from the two divisions are:

- A Division: Wayne State, 4-0; Valentinos (Norfolk), 3-2; Buffalo Alices (Sioux City), 3-2; Laurel Bears, 2-2; Laurel 76'rs, 1-2; Homer, 1-2; Walthill, 0-2; Wynot, 0-2.

B Division: Wayne State I, 4-0; Wayne State II, 3-2; Wakefield, 2-2; Dale Electronics (Norfolk), 2-2; Coleridge, 1-2; Winside, 1-2; Thompson Construction Laurel, 0-2; Emerson, 0-2.

The funds raised by the tournament will be used to put new lights on the Laurel baseball diamond. This is part of a co-op benevolence project sponsored by the local AAL branch. Every dollar raised by the local branch will be matched by the home office of AAL in Appleton, Wis.

If the local branch raises $5,000, the matching grant will be $5,000, making a total of $10,000 available for this project. The total now stands at about $3,000, so anyone wanting to contribute should contact the local branch president, George Schroeder, 256-3922, as soon as possible.

Learning Vocabulary

THE SIXTH GRADE reading class of Mrs. Denesia tests out some computers the students made to solve problems. ## Atokad Looks to Racing Atokad Park in South Sioux City has new dates for its 1981 horse-racing schedule; and it's getting a new "facelift" to please both racing fans and horse owners.

While plumbers and electricians go about their regular Spring task of turning on water and electricity for the track and adjacent trailer park, they find themselves working amidst heavy earth-moving equipment, painters, carpenters and even gardeners.

Some of the work is general maintenance begun last fall: fresh paint to brighten Grandstand and Club Room facilities, stall and barn refurbishment and an extensive grounds cleanup. Other improvements became necessary as a result of Atokad's race season being moved from late fall to a spring/summer meet, May 1-July 26.

Soil removed from the infield is being used in the barn areas to fill in low spots, and is being added to each stall. General repair work is nearing completion on the majority of Atokad's 800 stalls, with walls and doors being refurbished wherever needed.

Another major effort to begin the first of April, with assistance from the Dakota County extension agent and other conservation agencies, is the planting of hundreds of red cedar, Ponderosa pine and other shelter/conservation trees around the perimeter of the Atokad grounds.

Atokad's racing season runs from May 1-July 26, with post times of 4 p.m. Friday and Monday and 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Building Cabins

LOG CABINS were built as part of a class project in Mrs. Swarts' sixth grade Language Arts class at the Middle School. Here Jeff Simpson (left) and Brian Schmidt work on their cabins during class time. The students read "Huck Finn" and did live different projects pertaining to the theme of the late 1800's. The projects were: log cabins, fashion production, applehead dolls, cornhusk dolls, Indian beadwork. Jeff was the director of the log cabin group.

Neihardt Symposium Scheduled

Five famous scholars from across the nation will be participants in the John G. Neihardt Centenary Symposium to be held at the Neihardt Center (a branch museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society) in Bancroft, Neb. on Saturday, May 9, 1981. They will present their insights into the work of "Black Elk Speaks," a book written by John G. Neihardt, which has been translated into 14 languages.

Dr. Lucile Aly, Professor Emerita of English at the University of Oregon and Neihardt's official biographer, will focus her presentation on the rhetorical reasons for the appeal of "Black Elk Speaks."

Christopher Sergel, playwright and president of the Dramatic Publishing Company of West Port, Conn. has adapted "Black Elk Speaks" to theatre and film. He will discuss problems involved in adapting literary, Native American material to a mass culture format.

Paul A. Olson, Professor of English at the University of Nebraska, will examine Black Elk's use of ritual as a reaction to the social transformation of the Northern Plains at the end of the nineteenth century.

Vine Deloria, Jr. is Professor of Political Science at the University of Arizona. The religious and philosophical message of "Black Elk Speaks" and its implications for Native and all Americans will be the topic of his presentation.

Roger L. Welsch, Professor of English and Anthropology at the University of Nebraska, will serve as the moderator for the panel discussion. Guests will have time for a question and answer session.

The symposium is sponsored by the John G. Neihardt Foundation as a part of a year-long program commemorating the centennial of the poet-Laureate's birth. The symposium will provide a forum for a variety of perspectives of Neihardt and his work. Students and teachers of Plains Literature and Native American Culture as well as individuals with a specific interest in Neihardt will want to attend. Support from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities and the Nebraska State Historical Society makes it possible to offer this unique opportunity to the public free of charge. The day's activities will begin with forenoon registration and tours of the Neihardt Center. The symposium will be held in the Center Rotunda from 1 to 4:30 p.m. A chuckwagon dinner will be served at the Legion Hall at 5 p.m. Roger Welsch will entertain with Plains Pioneer Folk Music and Tales to conclude the day's activities. For registration or more information write or call the John G. Neihardt Center, Bancroft, Neb. 68004. Telephone 402 648 3388.

Lawmakers Can Debate Longer

CAPITOL NEWS
By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

This week in many respects marks an important turning point in the 1981 legislative session.

Up until now, organizational efforts, bill introductions and legislative hearings have for the most part dominated the lawmakers' activities. But all that is about to change.

Full-day floor sessions have returned to the legislative chambers, enabling senators to spend a full day debating issues before them instead of rushing off in the afternoon to attend a public hearing.

The afternoon committee hearings that have followed morning floor sessions since January generally are regarded as valuable aspects of the legislative process. And the hearings do, indeed, permit the public to speak out on issues that are of concern.

But session after session a problem arises when lawmakers spend the morning debating an issue then rush off for a public hearing in the afternoon. If an issue is left hanging at the noon adjournment, the senators often return to square one when they resume debate the next time the issue is scheduled. At times, it's like an instant replay.

With committee hearings behind them now, lawmakers can spend a full day debating legislation without watching the clock to make sure they get to their committee hearings on time.

There are, however, times when the full-day session itself becomes a liability. Without having a clock tick off the minutes before a public hearing, lawmakers are free to debate for hours on end. And on some issues, the debate stretches over several days.

Speaker Richard Marvel of Hastings usually raises a red flag when debate becomes prolonged, warning his colleagues that they're talking away valuable minutes and will feel the crunch in the waning days of the session.

Sometimes Marvel's "reminders" trigger lengthy debates over what can be done to speed up the process, limit debate and pass good legislation without acting too hastily.

But regardless of the senator's debating habits, the 1981 Legislature has now reached the stage where priority bills, controversial legislation, spending measures and the like will start moving across the legislative scoreboards.

Special interest groups, lobbyists, concerned citizens and others will have to work harder now because if their bills reach the full Legislature, they'll have to line up the votes that count. True, committee votes are important and they certainly count. But floor votes count more.

So from this point on, each vote of the Legislature will bring a bill's prospects into sharper focus. And as the legislative clock continues to tick away, each ballot cast will grow in importance.

Death Penalty Debate

The recent execution in Indiana and the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union's (NCLU) statement that one of Nebraska's death row inmates is nearing execution brings to the forefront once again the issue of capital punishment in Nebraska.

And Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha once again has managed to get his death penalty bill out of committee and before the full Legislature.

Chambers for years has tried to repeal the death penalty, and he finally succeeded in 1979 when he agreed to replace it with a mandatory, minimum 30-year prison sentence.

But Gov. Charles Thone vetoed the measure, which was passed too late in the session to give lawmakers a chance to attempt an override. Thone recently said his position is unchanged.

So is Chambers' and the Omaha lawmaker can be expected to push hard for passage of his bill this year.

The composition of the Legislature has changed since 1979, and it's unclear whether the new collection of senators will vote like lawmakers did two years ago.

But if the NCLU is correct in saying one man on death row in Nebraska is nearing the end of the appeals process, it's a sure bet that Chambers and like-minded senators will push hard for passage of LB 202.

Uranium Money

The Legislature's budgeteers are putting together their budget recommendations for fiscal 1981-82, and before long senators will have a chance to scrutinize the committee's plan.

Among the Appropriations Committee's tentative proposals is $67,830 for the state Oil and Gas Commission, which says it needs authorization to spend more funds to cope with a growing workload.

The commission in the past primarily has been concerned with oil and natural gas drillers. But reports that potentially substantial uranium deposits are buried beneath portions of western Nebraska have brought explorers to the Panhandle to find out, and that means more work for the commission.

Commission Director Paul Roberts said the extra money would be used for an additional four-wheel drive vehicle, hiring a fifth petroleum engineer and other expenses.

If uranium miners find what they're looking for, and if there's as much uranium as some experts think, the commission's duties and responsibilities no doubt will increase even more.

That could send the commission back to the Legislature for authorization to spend more money. And, who knows, The Legislature might even be asked down the road to rename the agency the Nebraska Oil, Gas and Uranium Commission.

Thone: Elderly Owed Debt by Rest of Us

"Nebraska's elderly are owed a great debt by the rest of us.

"Nebraska's senior citizens are the people who, despite the depression and drought of the 1930's, held our state together. State government is endeavoring to make certain that senior citizens share in Nebraska — the good life."

"Inflation is the greatest enemy of the elderly. Nebraska cut back the rate of growth of state government and cut personal state income tax rates from 10 to 16 percent of the federal tax. This is a step against inflation. We are hoping that the federal government will take a similar step in 1981.

"In Nebraska, 77 percent of senior citizens live in homes that they own. This past year I signed into law a bill that increased the property tax forgiveness on a home owned by a person 65 or older from the first $25,000 of valuation to the first $35,000.

"The state, of course, doesn't collect any property taxes, but it reimburses local governments for the property taxes they would have collected from the elderly. It's estimated that this will cost the state $33.5 million this year, including $5.5 million from the increased exemption.

"The 1981 legislation has been asked by me to provide for interest-free bonds to be issued by the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund to aid local governments in providing low cost rental housing for senior citizens.

"Elderly in particular will be helped by the bill I signed into law last year increasing the Nebraska food sales tax credit by $8 per individual. This credit is expected to reduce personal income tax receipts by $12.1 million this year.

"Nebraska has the fourth highest percentage of elderly among all the states. We must be ever mindful of how many of today's benefits stem from yesterday's work and sacrifice by them."

Bake Sale Successful

Letter to the Editor:

The Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid Bake Sale held on March 21 was a big success. To those contributing as well as those purchasing the baked goods, we owe our thanks.

We really appreciated the Peoples Natural Gas Company letting us hold our sale there. It is extra effort on their part to set up the tables and even furnish clothes for them.

Also thanks to the First National Bank for advertising our sale on their marquee and to LaVon Beckman for doing an article in The Wayne Herald before our sale.

It was all greatly appreciated.

Arboretum is Explained

Letter to the Editor:

I was recently asked by a lady belonging to a local garden club if "there was an Arboretum around Wayne." She had received a questionnaire on this subject and was unsure of any.

I was surprised, because the garden clubs were involved through participation of the State President and Secretary of the Federated Garden Clubs of Nebraska when Wayne State College became an Arboretum site. The Wayne State College campus was dedicated as a Teaching and Community Arboretum in a ceremony on Oct. 20, 1977, joining a group of sites currently numbering 22, in the unique concept of the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum.

The development of Wayne State College's Arboretum has proceeded slowly since its dedication with the planting of landscape and ornamental trees and shrubs, labelling of plant specimens, the establishment of a Nature Center (for ecological study), and the development of self-guiding nature trails on the Arboretum grounds.

In the plans for future development are a wildflower garden, native grass plots, a wildlife "natural" area, and educational programs. The development of the Arboretum has proceeded according to a five year plan adopted in February, 1978, by the Wayne State College Campus Tree Committee. An Arboretum is defined as "an educational display of trees and shrubs," to which has been added, for the purpose of education in plant usage, forbs, herbs and grasses.

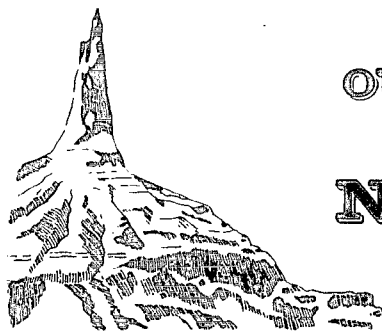

As far as the Wayne State Campus is concerned, the campus grounds is the Arboretum and the Arboretum is the campus. Any planting, vandalism, building, etc. on the Arboretum is also done on the campus. Beautifying the campus and making it useful to faculty and students, as well as the community at large, is the primary purpose of the Arboretum.

Any information about the Wayne State Arboretum or its needs can be obtained by contacting me, in my office in Carhart Science Hall, 219, or by phone, 375 2200, ext. 277.

Sincerely,
Dr. Charles R. Maier
Professor of Biology

North Platte Station.

Frontier Nebraska Military Post As the Union Pacific Railroad was being built across Nebraska and Wyoming, several military posts were established along its route for protection from hostile Indians. North Platte Station was one such post, and it had the distinction of being the smallest military post built in Nebraska during the post Civil War-Indian War period.

(The Library and Archives of the Nebraska State Historical Society are repositories of information about this frontier post.)

Indian opposition to the construction of the railroad grew as the railroad entered western Nebraska, and Union Pacific officials were anxious for military protection for their employees and property.

On Jan. 29, 1867, three officers and 80 enlisted men of Company 1 of the 36th Infantry arrived at North Platte from Fort McPherson to "insure perfect security to the depot and bridge at that point." The commanding officer of the company was Capt. Arthur MacArthur, father of General Douglas MacArthur of World War I and I fame. For the next three months the soldiers of the company served as guards, to the railroad bridge crossing the North Platte River and to small nearby railroad stations. In May, Company 1 was removed from North Platte, but due to increased hostile activities, it was later determined to again station troops at North Platte.

On Aug. 24, 1867, North Platte Station became a permanent sub-post of Fort Sedgwick, some 60 miles farther southwest. The new post was built just west of the railroad shops in the western part of town. Small, portable buildings manufactured in Chicago were shipped to the site, and quarters for one company were soon completed.

The post consisted of two officers quarters, one company barracks, cavalry stable, quartermaster stable, guardhouse and two quarters for non-commissioned officers, all surrounded by a picketed fence enclosing an area of about eight acres. For the next several years the garrison provided guards for small stations at Maxwell and O'Fallons. In addition, they scouted, patrolled and occasionally pursued parties of hostile Indians.

The post soon became a permanent and accepted part of town, especially one of the buildings. During this period there was no jail in North Platte, and with the cooperation of the military, civilian culprits were locked in the post guardhouse. The guardhouse was small, with a capacity of only six prisoners, and it tended to become overcrowded with the addition of non-military offenders. As a result, the sheriff was greatly encouraged by the officers to have a jail built.

Due to difficulties arising when a scandal was exposed early in 1875, the military threatened to abandon the post and remove the garrison to Fort McPherson. It was the discovery that the post commissary sergeant was illegally selling government coal to civilians, that led to the difficulty. Realizing the economic importance of a military post, the local citizens passed a petition to retain the post and pledged cooperation with the Army. Shortly afterward, the guilty party was punished. Good feeling was further restored with the townspeople when North Platte Station was declared an independent post in March, 1875.

By the middle 1870's garrison life at the post was reduced to the daily routine typical of military life of the period, centering around fatigue duties and drill. On occasion, troops from North Platte were detailed to nearby posts such as Fort McPherson and Sidney Barracks, to serve as temporary guards when their garrisons were in the field. Several times the soldiers were called out to fight prairie fires that threatened the town. Fire was a constant danger to the post and town, and the burning of the post stable on Sept. 17, 1875, probably gave North Platte the most spectacular display of fireworks ever seen. The stable was also being used as a magazine at the time when it was hit by lightning and caught fire. As a result of the ensuing explosion, 80 12-pound howitzer shells and some 12,000 rifle cartridges exploded. Luckily no one was injured, but the buildings of the post were pelted with hundreds of bullets and cartridge fragments.

By 1877 the Indian problem had largely disappeared from the North Platte vicinity. With the large posts of Fort McPherson and Sidney Barracks located on or near the railroad, the necessity of keeping soldiers at North Platte no longer existed. The last troops stationed at North Platte Station left on Nov. 4, 1877, and the post was abandoned. Early in 1881 the buildings were sold at auction and removed; the town eventually built over the site. Troops from the post played a definite part in the course of Nebraska and western history, but like many other small military posts, they were abandoned and soon forgotten as the frontier moved west.

Approved Legislative Bill Will Strengthen Local Liquor Control

This week my first bill, LB 217, received final approval and hence will become a law after the session adjourns. I am very troubled by some misperceptions that have developed about this bill.

LB 217 is a bill to strengthen local control, not to liberalize the sale of liquor. LB 217 returns the actual question of the sale of liquor on election day to the local cities and villages.

Given the controversial nature of laws that regulate the sale of liquor, I feel that there should be a great degree of accountability by the local people. This is a concept that is entirely consistent with the political attitudes of Dakota, Wayne and Dixon counties. Nationally, we are hearing people pleading that government not interfere in their lives. That sentiment is very strong here in northeast Nebraska.

In some cases, it is a necessary function of government to regulate an industry. The liquor industry is one which has long been regulated. If this regulation really is necessary, then it is best to have the people in the Martingsburg, Winsides and South Sioux's of the state have as much input as possible.

It was these concerns that inspired me to introduce LB 217. If South Sioux is troubled about the loss of business to Iowa on election day (Iowa already permits sale of liquor on election day), then South Sioux City can permit sales. If any other city or village does not wish to permit sales on election day, they may prohibit them. There is nothing at all in the legislation that says liquor must be sold on election day.

In other legislative action, a bill to establish a veterinary college in the state, LB 245, was debated for two days before being narrowly advanced to the second stage of debate.

Senator Chambers introduced a motion to override Governor Thone's veto of LB 206, a bill that would permit legislators to be reimbursed for expenses during the legislative session. The motion passed narrowly by a vote of 31-12-6. Thirty votes were needed. I voted against the override. This now sets the stage for an interesting court case.

There has been an Attorney General's opinion handed down which says that it is unconstitutional for senators to receive such expenses. What could happen now, is when the bill goes into effect in September of 1981, a senator will file an expense report. If he is not paid, he/she will sue the State and doubtless the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court where a final determination of the constitutionality of the issue will be resolved.

You got a good thing going, America 'n that's natural gas.

C'mon America!
Install a new natural gas range and you can save up to 30% a year over the operation of an older model . . .
And since natural gas is the most efficient energy system, by starting with gas your savings could be even more.
Gas ranges include new pilotless ignitions and programmed cooking features.
And there's more.
Because natural gas is a product of the United States, by buying a gas appliance you'll be helping your country become less dependent on foreign energy sources. And since America has reserves well into the next century, natural gas makes sense in the future.
Whether the problem is saving money or helping solve America's energy problem, the solution becomes the same.

Sheep Producing Can be Profitable

Sheep producers who are good managers can have a profitable year, although sheep and lamb production nationwide is on the upswing, according to a University of Nebraska agricultural economist.

Lynn Lutgen, extension economist in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said the decline in sheep numbers had turned around. From 1970 to 1979, U.S. sheep numbers declined from 60 million head to around 12 million. But this Jan. 1, sheep and lambs on farms and ranches were estimated at 12.9 million head, up 2 percent over 1980. One year and older ewes were up three percent to 8.8 million.

This past January, commercial slaughter was up 14 percent from 1980, the first time year earlier levels had been exceeded since 1971, Lutgen said. Nebraska now ranks fifth in the nation in total lambs and sheep on feed with 100,000 head, according to the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. For all sheep and lambs, the state is running 19 percent ahead of last year, with 250,000 head as of Jan. 1, the reporting service said.

Lutgen noted that much of Nebraska's sheep production is from farm flocks, rather than the open range as in much of the country. Stock ewes from farms are up 25 percent from 120,000 to 150,000 this year, and one-year-old ewes are up 28 percent, giving a suggestion of future production.

Rams and wethers are up 25 percent from a year ago, going from 4,000 to 5,000 head. Ewe lambs increased 10 percent from last year's 21,000 to 23,000 this year, and ram and wether lambs went from 5,000 to 7,000 head, up 4 percent from a year ago.

All this increased supply might suggest lower prices. Lutgen said, but the good producer can still come out ahead. "The producer who has a 150 percent lamb crop is looking fairly good, while the guy with just a 100 percent lamb crop is probably going to lose money," he predicted.

Lutgen sees a strengthening in lamb prices in the second and third quarters of 1981, with prime and choice shorn lambs bringing $55 to $65 per hundred weight.

However, "Prices will probably be less than earlier projected for the second and third quarters, but up from first quarter prices of $53 to $55. Slaughter numbers will be down in March and April from the higher January-February levels," he said. Slaughter the first two months of the year was 114,000 a week and is expected to be 100,000 or less in coming weeks.

Lutgen cautioned that prices will depend on where sheep are marketed. Omaha prices should approach the middle of the price range for medium weight lambs at 100 to 110 pounds, he said.

As in January and February, heavier weights could very easily realize a $5 to $10 discount per hundredweight from the medium weights indicating that "it wouldn't pay to push them into heavier weights and defer marketing."

At the same time, a premium of $5 to $10 could be offered for light weight lambs of 60 to 100 pounds, he said.

The economist suggested three reasons for the increase in Nebraska sheep numbers. "Our pasture and hay is probably in better shape than many other states after last year's drought," he said. Second, some producers may be using sheep to utilize the land that is not productive enough for cattle. Finally, income prospects are good for the good manager.

Hog Prices May Drop Below the $40 Mark

Hog prices, lower during the first two months of 1981 than generally expected, likely will drop below $40 per hundred weight sometime later in March or in April.

That's the prediction of Al Wellman, University of Nebraska extension livestock marketing specialist, who reported that hog prices at Omaha since the first of the year for 700,740 pound hogs have been in a $40-$44 range, about $4 to $6 a hundred pounds less than most forecasts.

Swine slaughter well above expected levels is one reason for the lower prices, Wellman explained. He speculated that the mild winter has improved weight gains and allowed many hogs to be marketed earlier than scheduled. However, Wellman said it's premature to attribute the large winter slaughter to a earlier marketing pattern or to a larger than estimated 1980 summer pig crop.

In any case, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agricultural economist said, developments so far this year make the level of April-June hog marketings very uncertain.

With hog slaughter this year through February about the same as a year earlier, slaughter for the January-March quarter looks to be down only 2-4 percent from the large 1980 volume.

Wellman analyzed "A 7.8 percent reduction had been expected. Wellman said, based on U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates, USDA's December 1980 estimate was for a June-August 1980 pig crop 10 percent below the previous year. Seven percent fewer 60-179 pound market hogs were projected on farms Dec. 1, 1980 than a year earlier.

A short term improvement in hog prices may occur anytime slaughter declines sharply, Wellman said. But he warned that seasonally larger slaughter in late March and April probably will mean lower prices. "It's a good bet that prices will drop below $40 during April," he said.

Wellman has slightly optimistic hopes for producers. "Prices should rebound during late May and June because of a seasonal decline in swine slaughter and somewhat smaller beef supplies." He sees prices possibly in the mid to upper $40 range in June.

Wellman said these projections are based on this estimate that April-June slaughter would be about 6 percent below last year and a little above first quarter volume.

Looking ahead, he said prices during the last of 1981 will depend heavily upon farrowings this winter.

USDA's December report estimated producers planned six percent fewer farrowings for the December-May period than a year earlier. Farrowing cutbacks in this range still seem realistic, he commented. If the six percent figure holds, Wellman predicted prices at Omaha for the July-September quarter to average somewhere between $47 to $51. For the October-December quarter, Wellman said "an average price between $45 and $49 appears realistic."

A better indication of likely prices during the last half of the year will be provided by the USDA's next quarterly report on hogs and pigs, released on March 20, Wellman concluded.

Cattle on Feed Up in Nebraska

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1,500,000 cattle on feed on March 1. This inventory was up two percent from last year but was down 10 percent from 1979.

Feed cattle marketings for the month of February totaled a record high 380,000, an increase of one percent from 1980 and 17 percent above February, 1979.

Placements of cattle into feedlots during February totaled a record 350,000 head. This was up six percent from last year and nine percent above February, 1979 placements.

Cattle and calves on feed March 1 for slaughter market in the seven states preparing monthly estimates totaled 17.3 million head, down four percent from a year ago and 13 percent less than March 1, 1979. This is the lowest March 1 number on feed since 1975.

Marketings of fed cattle during February, 1979 totaled 1.4 million, off nine percent from last year and 13 percent less than February, 1979. Both marketings and placements for February were the smallest since 1975.

Placements of cattle and calves on feed in the seven states during February were 1.19 million, down three percent from last year and off nine percent from two years ago. Net placements of 1.06 million were down slightly from last year and seven percent from 1979.

Other disappearance totaled 129 thousand compared with 155 thousand in February 1980 and 170 thousand in 1979.

Heifer Calving
We recently had an interesting Extension meeting on calving with Dr. J.J. Lisko and Extension Beef Specialist, Paul Guyer. Here is some additional information on calving heifers from Dr. Extension Veterinarian, Dr. Duane Rice.

Frequent check-up of all cows and heifers due to calf is necessary if one is to have a good calf crop.

Calving difficulty is more frequent in first-calf heifers, and the producer will reap valuable benefits by following a rigid routine of observation and examination of certain animals when necessary. The ability to determine early enough, when the cow is in trouble will provide a veterinarian opportunity to deliver a live calf.

In heifers the pelvis frequently is too small to deliver a large calf. If this opening is too small the person attempting to deliver the calf should not spend more than 15 to 20 minutes attempting delivery. If it takes longer than that, contact a veterinarian. He will take proper measures to ensure safe delivery, which may include surgical techniques.

One reason many first-calf heifers encounter difficulty in calving is because they have been bred by bulls that are not screened for calving ease or these heifers were simply too light at breeding time. They should weigh somewhere in the range of 650 pounds before breeding. Excellent breeds should weigh 750-800 pounds when they are bred.

Heifers raising their first calf should be fed at a higher level following calving for the first few months, until going to grass, to increase conception. It is not uncommon for nearly 1/3 of the first calf heifers to fail to conceive while a calf is nursing.

Wayne Firemen Keep Busy

WAYNE FIREMEN kept busy again this past week fighting several grass fires and one chimney fire. The grass fires were at the Helthold farm north of Wayne and at the Dean Sorensen farm. The chimney fire occurred at the Dick Korn residence south of Wayne. The firemen were called out to the fire late Thursday night and then again early Friday morning when the fire started back up. In the above photo, fireman put out the final flames of Monday's grass fire about six miles north of Wayne.

Center Pivot Use Up in the Sandhills

Irrigation development, in the form of center pivot sprinkler installations, is not as great in the Sandhills area of Nebraska as the balance of the state. But whereas the rate of increase in wells and center pivots appears to be slowing down in other areas, it is continuing to pick up in the eastern Sandhills.

These were among trends cited by Dr. Ann Bleed, research assistant in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Engineering and Technology, in a report to the Nebraska Water Conference here March 10 on "Historical Growth of Irrigation in the Nebraska Sand Hills Region."

Citing 1979 actual data, Dr. Bleed said there are 34 center pivots per 100,000 acres in Nebraska, while in the Sandhills there are 19 per 100,000 acres. However, she said the number of center-pivots continued to increase at a more rapid rate in the Sandhills in 1980 than in the balance of the state.

For comparative statistical purposes, Dr. Bleed divided the area of Nebraska generally defined as the Sandhills into western, central and eastern Sandhills sub-areas.

Center-pivots are being installed at a heavy pace in the eastern Sandhills — which include Garfield, Valley, Wheeler, Rock, Brown and southern Holt Counties, Dr. Bleed said. This area of the state is characterized by the installation of center-pivots in "clusters" — a number of 160-acre or full-section pivots touching each other, she continued.

One of the state's highest density concentrations of center-pivots, northern Holt County, is classified out of the Sandhills area because of topography and soil type, Dr. Bleed pointed out, although many people commonly include the whole county in their perception of Sandhills.

Until 1977, contiguous clusters of 10 pivot systems were observed on six different occasions; since 1977, clusters of 13-19 pivots have been seen three times, with a cluster of 35 new pivots seen in 1979 and another cluster of 39 in 1979.

Satellite imagery and computerization are used to plot locations of center pivots on maps, Dr. Bleed explained.

Dr. Bleed said — the satellite methodology is fairly accurate in determining the number and location of center pivots. But she said several factors — moving of center-pivots, mowing alfalfa off a "circle," and systems which allow sprinkling the corners (causing a rounded-off square instead of a circle), pose difficulties in visually locating and identifying pivot locations.

While an attempt is made to keep a running total of center-pivots, aggregate figures are categorized when possible into active and cumulative total number of pivots, Dr. Bleed said, with the latter reflecting pivot sites that have been abandoned or temporarily out of use.

However, increasing numbers of full-section (640-acre) pivots cause some confusion, in instances where three 160-acre-size pivots are replaced but fall in the inactive column.

Project Plans Get Mixed Reaction

One preservation project in Nebraska is moving ahead while another is on hold, two speakers said in separate presentations Tuesday, March 10 at the 1981 Nebraska Water Conference in Lincoln.

A management plan for the 54,000-acre Niobrara Valley Preserve is being developed, according to John Flicker, director of the Nature Conservancy's Minneapolis office. But the Sandhills wetland easement program is on hold because of federal reassessment of priorities and the fact that "The duck stamp dollar doesn't buy what it used to," said James W. Salyer, of Pierre, S.D., area manager of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Nature Conservancy purchased 22 miles of Niobrara River frontage last year because the site is a unique ecological area, not because it wanted to fight the Norden Dam, Flicker said. He called the Niobrara Valley Preserve "the most unique in Nebraska and one of the most unique in the country" because six ecological systems meet in the area. Rocky Mountain pine forest, paper birch and eastern deciduous forest meet in the preserve, as well as mixed grass, tallgrass and Sandhills prairie, he said.

The area has tremendous scientific value because "Evolution occurs most rapidly with species on the edge of their ranges," he said.

Flicker said the private, non-profit Nature Conservancy is opposed to the Norden Dam like any of the private landowners from whom the land was purchased.

"We have a responsibility to our members to preserve the area they helped pay for," he said. The organization is not an advocacy or litigating agency he added, and is not "anti-growth or anti-water."

The preserve is open to the public with some of the acreage leased out for grazing. A management plan for the preserve is expected to be completed in two years.

In his discussion of wetlands acquisition in the Sandhills, Salyer used G. Tyler Miller Jr.'s analogy of Spaceship Earth to discuss limited resources, saying that "wetlands need someone concerned about their preservation."

Wetlands in Nebraska are 75 percent less today than they were in 1952, he said. Under the proposed Sandhills wetlands program, the Fish and Wildlife Service would acquire perpetual easements which would prevent conversion of wetlands to another purpose but would allow the landowner to retail, full use of the property.

A lump sum payment would be made to landowners, "properties would stay on the tax rolls, and the easement would be carried with the property perpetually, he said.

However, the project is on hold because "The duck stamp dollar doesn't go far any more and higher waterfowl habitat priorities in the prairie pothole region... the lower Mississippi River bottom lands and coastal zones do rank high," he said.

"The (Fish and Wildlife) Service is currently reevaluating its priorities and it appears the Sandhills wetland easement program will not rank very high. Further, we believe that President Reagan and Interior Secretary James Watt will want to have some input into the priorities of the Service," Salyer said.

Preparation of an Environmental Impact Statement for the program has been postponed indefinitely, he said.
