Carroll's Cowboy

Rural Mail Carrier Trains Horses, Riders at His Flying 'D' Stables

By Randall Howell

The license plate holder on his pickup reads my second car is a horse.

And to Gordon Davis, Carroll's rural mail carrier, that means just what it says. The owner of Flying 'D' Stables just north of Carroll, Davis has built a family business around horse flesh on the place he called home as a boy in the 1930s.

A tall, muscular man who wears a Stetson like he was born under it, the Carroll native grew up with horses and so are his children.

"IT'S MY hobby," the 48 year old trainer said of a business that includes stables and a large indoor riding and training arena, where he works with clients and their horses.

"It's been a super good business for us, and we've loved every minute of it," he explained, while seated on a western style sofa in the family trophy room.

The trophy room, an enclosed porch like addition to the Davis home, is lined with hundreds of statuettes, ribbons, plaques and framed photographs. Most of them belong to the Davis children.

He points to them, explaining the work behind the winning of them, with the pride of a father whose students learned and performed.

DAVIS, AND his wife, Norma, have dedicated most of their lives to horses and children. The combination has been a rewarding one, according to Davis, who smiles when he tells of a 90 year old man who recently stopped by to inquire about getting his horse trained.

Davis, who does not limit his work with horses and riders to any specific age group, said the man told him: "It might be a while before I get back to you, but I'll be back."

So far, Davis, who's clients are mostly youngsters and their horses, hasn't heard from the senior cowboy.

"We hope if (the business) continues as it has been," Davis adds, "we've met so many fine people."

Davis said he enjoys every aspect of the business. "I like starting horses," he explained. "And, I really like working with kids."

BORN IN Carroll, Davis -- the second son of Earl and Mary Davis, grew up on his parents' farm, where he and his family live today. His older brother, Don, lives on an acreage just outside Carroll.

After elementary school in Carroll, Davis joined his father on the family farm. "We farmed right here and were always associated with horses," he explained. "My father trained horses as a hobby, but never made a business of it."

He joined the Army in 1953 and spent 18 months in Korea with an artillery unit. Dur-

Veteran Horseman Starts Working With Mounts from the Ground Up

When Carroll's Gordon Davis begins training a young horse, he starts from the ground up.

"You've got to start easy with colts," he said. "You've got to find out their disposition, lead them back and forth to water, and get them used to their surroundings." Davis works the colts on a lounge line for two or three days. That involves the use of a 20 to 25 foot rope that allows the horse to work in a circle around the trainer. "It helps takes the edge off them," Davis said.

ON THE THIRD or fourth day, Davis saddles his charge and repeats the lounge line work. "Then we start driving the horse from the ground with a saddle on him," he said.

The horse begins to learn to flex his neck, to turn, and picks up lessons on backing up and stopping before he ever has a rider on his back.

About the fifth day, according to Davis, "when you're ready to get on the horse, you don't have to fight him."

Davis works the horse through two weeks at his indoor arena, then it's outdoors. "You can do so much more inside," he said, explaining there are fewer distractions. "You don't have to be mean to a horse, you just have to convince them -- you have to show them."

DAVIS, WHO works mainly with quarterhorse stock, said that most horses are easy to train "once you show them what to do."

But horses aren't the only ones who have to be shown what to do. The riders often need lessons, too.

And Davis runs a riding school.

"Students usually need to take a minimum of 10 lessons," he said. "Then it depends on the child, their attitude and how much they practice and how well they do their homework."

Davis frequently will "tune up" horses and riders that he's trained. "Sometimes they come back when they are getting ready for shows," he said.

And, the training itself varies. He may be training a show horse one day, then work with a cattle horse the next. In the schedule somewhere comes training for a riding horse.

DAVIS, WHO says show horses take the most training, works on a 10 acre ranch he calls Flying 'D' Stables.

The white fences, sheds and horse barns are offset by an antique gold house and garage at the end of long driveway loop.

The stables, on the rise of a hill just northeast of Carroll, gleam in the afternoon sun. Well-groomed horses poke their heads from clean-swept stalls along the west side of the barn that shelters a huge, dirt-floor indoor arena and an office laden with ribbons and trophies.

Looking like the set for a ranch in a Western movie, the Davis farmstead is home for a dream realized by a Carroll cowboy.

ing his June, 1953 leave (before going to Korea), he married Norma Drake, the adopted daughter of Jay and Mary Drake, Carroll. Norma's natural parents died when she was 9 years old.

Gordon and Norma have four children, Cyndee, 27, Kevin, 22, Shelly, 19 and Kelli, 8. Cyndee, a handicapped child, is at the Wayne Care Center. Kevin, who's around the home place, is getting married next month.

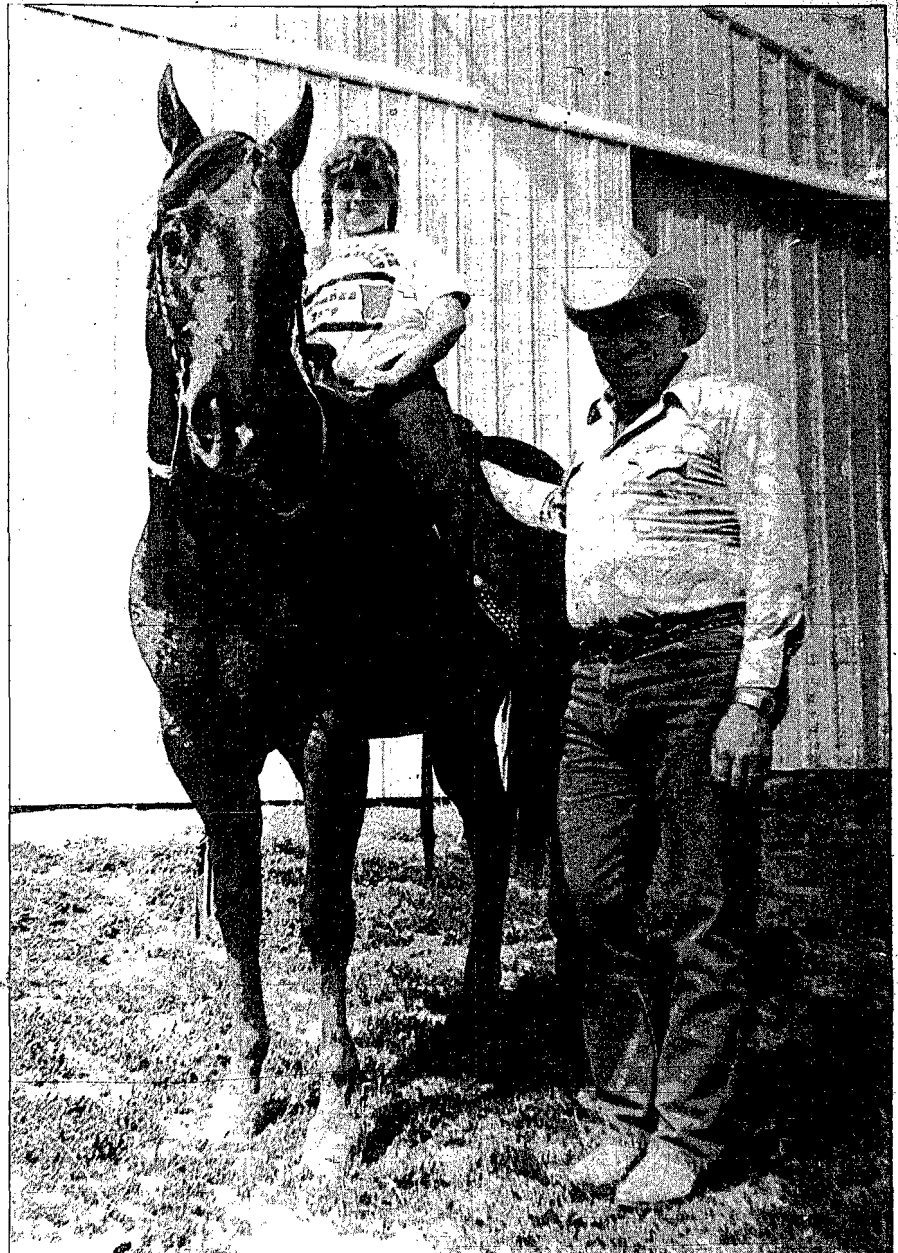

Shelly attends Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk. And, Kelli, who already is a horsewoman well versed in the fine points of horsemanship, attends Carroll Public School.

THE DAVIS families farmed together until his parents retired.

"My dad got interested in horses when he was going to country school," explained Davis, dressed in western shirt and jeans. "He broke work horses when he was young. The oldtimers around here used to say my

Family Bar and Grill Keeps Hoskins Couple Hopping

By Randall Howell

Last week, Bud and Dorothy Lederer made a mistake.

The Hoskins couple corrected it quickly, but -- in looking back on it -- it was a mistake, nonetheless.

It all started out innocently enough.

After a week of waiting on their own customers at Dort's Bar & Grill on Main Street in Hoskins, they decided it would be nice to have someone wait on them.

So, Saturday night they headed to Norfolk to dine out together at a nice restaurant.

THEY ARRIVED and, finding a place to eat, entered the restaurant.

Over half an hour later they still had not been waited on, according to Dorothy. And, three restaurants later they were still no closer to their end-of-the-week treat.

Exasperated, they left the third eatery and drove home -- home to Hoskins.

Bud pulled the car up in front of Dort's Bar & Grill. It was now Sunday morning. They got out, went inside, fired up the grill and cooked themselves breakfast.

"It turned out to be kinda fun," said Dorothy, a Spencer native.

They were both back at work later that Sunday morning serving breakfast to their steady weekend customers.

That's life for the owners of Dort's Bar & Grill (named after Dorothy by her husband), and both seem to enjoy every minute of it.

NEXT FRIDAY, May 29, the Hoskins couple celebrate their first anniversary as the new owners of Dort's Bar & Grill -- a bar, coffee shop, restaurant, grocery store and meeting place.

They bought the place from Wally and Elaine Unger of Hoskins. The Ungers ran it as Wally's Bar & Grill for several years before selling out to the Lederers last April.

For the Lederers, who were commuting from Hoskins to jobs in Norfolk, the pur-

Dort's Deep-Fried Doughnuts Build the Breakfast Crowd

Doughnuts made to order.

That's what keeps the coffee crowd coming to Dort's Bar & Grill morning after morning.

It's a tradition being kept by owners Bud and Dorothy Lederer, who are about to celebrate their first anniversary at the Hoskins bar, restaurant, coffee shop and meeting place.

Each morning, either Dorothy or Marcy Schellenberg, a full-time employee, can be found at the kitchen deep-fryers stretching and working thawed fresh-frozen doughnut dough, plopping it in the super-hot cooking oil and serving sugared and piping hot to eager customers.

USING A prepared dough, the doughnut duo has deepfried as many as 180 on a day when the mid-morning coffee traffic was heavy.

"We average... what would you say, Marcy... about 80 doughnuts a day," Dorothy explained.

The doughnuts, like so much of the menu, are made to order. Sugarless doughnuts for a diabetic here, and a weight-watcher there. Half a dozen sugared doughnuts for the Post Office, hot and ready for the postmaster's daily trip to pick up his coffee-break treat.

"What, only eight this morning?" Dorothy questions a customer.

"Well, one guy is planting corn and the other fella is cleaning a rabbit," he responded with a grin.

No one gets them cold. They don't go into the cooking oil until they are about to be eaten. And, both Dorothy and Marcy seem to have a knack for knowing just when the steady customers are about to show up. There's no waiting.

THE STEAMING hot doughnuts are not the only special order things you can eat at Dort's Bar & Grill.

There's homemade pies, homemade bread and the Jerome Special, described by Dorothy as a scrambled omelet of eggs and hamburger ordered constantly by a customer whose namesake the menu item carries.

Of course, if you miss the special grilled hamburger buns or the garlic bread, it's your own fault. Both are available on request.

That's all in addition to a regular breakfast, lunch and dinner menu.

AND, IF you arrive on Sunday nights, you'll be right in the middle of kids night.

"That's when all the kids come back from roller skating in Norfolk," explained Marcy. "They come in for some fun and they're hungry."

The kids entertain themselves on the pinball machines, pool table and shuffleboard, eat on the honor system and "always pay their bills," she said.

And, during the school year, Dorothy said she runs a study hall.

"We've got a couple of commuting students who stop here all the time to relax and study," she said. "If it gets too noisy, they just move into the backroom and study back there."

New Center

With the expected completion in the fall of the Wayne State College renovation project of the Education and Humanities buildings, a new Life and Career Planning Center has been authorized by the WSC administration.

The new center will locate several important functions under one roof to provide better and additional service to students in areas of student life, student advisement and career planning.

THE ADDITION of the new center provides the opportunity for several administrative changes to bring certain functions within the college in line with respective responsibilities and to place common functions together where possible, in order to assure the continuous efforts of WSC to use tax dollars wisely and efficiently.

According to WSC president Dr. Lyle Seymour, an administrative structural change is necessary to keep abreast of changes in higher education, to adjust to changing enrollment patterns and funding patterns of the Nebraska State Legislature.

We have the opportunity to adjust our structure to better meet our needs for the 1980's," according to WSC vice president Ed Elliott. The changes will allow for financial support and additional personnel for programs in need in areas of budget development and preparation in the office of finance, and news and sports information in the office of college relations.

DONALD Lund has been named as manager of the new branch office of Norfolk First Federal Savings and Loan Association which will be opening in Plain view on June 1. He began working for Norfolk 1st Federal in the spring of 1977, serving as the loan officer in Norfolk for the past four years.

NEBRASKA Governor Charles Thone was in Hartington last Sunday to participate in a tree planting ceremony at the Cedar County Courthouse. The ceremony capped a joint tree planting effort by the Hartington Chamber of Commerce and the Cooperative Extension Service. The groups have adopted the governor's "Plant Two Trees" program as a special project.

THE Randolph Education Association's Teacher of the Year Award was presented to Shirley Jensen. She is a business teacher, yearbook sponsor and FBLA sponsor. The local association held its annual end of the year supper meeting May 19.

DENNY Koopman presented Randy Bowder with the Emerson chapter's Jaycee of the Year Award at their annual awards banquet recently. Diane Lamp was the recipient of the Jaycee of the Year Award, presented by Beth Rohde.

A teacher, who for the past 42 1/2 years has dedicated herself toward educating young people, was honored last Thursday evening at a retirement party given in her honor by the students, faculty and board of education of Wisner Pliger Public schools. In his opening remarks, principal Mike O'Connor said "Frances Magill exemplifies dedication to her occupation" and through her 42 1/2 years of experience has been a building block for the entire school. Miss Magill is retiring.

THROUGH local donations, cooperation and a lot of volunteer labor, the Newcastle ballpark is getting some improvements. A new batting cage and pitching machine have been installed beyond the outfield. The outfield was reseeded last fall. ## country boy . . .

. . . by randall howell

Howdy.
One of the greatest things about my job is the people I meet day to day.
Every one of them is a story or has a story to share. More often than not they share it willingly. And, when they don't, the reason often is that they tend to under value their own accomplishments.
They'll tell you how great their neighbor is, but they have an "awww, shucks 'ain't nothin'" attitude about their own successes, ideas and experiences.

YET, AFTER I've listened and learned, I'm often amazed at the things they've been able to do in their lives.

I've often been privileged to gain insights and information that have given me a school of hard knocks education in life and the people who live it.
And, I couldn't begin to count the number of people prairie people who will set aside hours of their valuable time to not only explain what it is they do, but demonstrate it so that I clearly understand.
It's been rare in my life that I've met someone who was unable to teach me something about life. From the youngster learning to ride a bike for the first time to the oldest who's experiences pour forth with a flood of history.

IT'S ALWAYS amazing to me, too, that often the most interesting have a sense of humor. They laugh about themselves and their own struggles.
They've learned to smile over things that once were heartaches. Their laughter has kindly healed their hearts and lifts the sometimes heavy hearts of those around them.

Growing older is not always a pleasant experience. For instance, And, some people just do not handle it very well. Others, however, adjust rather well to the inevitability of it all.

And, still others, poke fun at themselves about it. Sharing some of their foibles.
Carroll Postmaster Betty Kavanaugh not that she's very old at all. I shared something with me the other day about growing older.
Here it is:

GROWING OLDER is when
Everything hurts and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.
The gleam in your eyes is from the sun hitting your bifocals.
You feel like the night before and you haven't been anywhere.
Your little black book contains only names ending with MD.
You get winded playing bridge.

YOUR CHILDREN begin to look middle aged.
You finally reach the top of the ladder and find it leaning against the wrong wall.
You join a health club and don't go.
You begin to outlive enthusiasm.
You decide to procrastinate but then never get around to it.
You are still chasing women, but can't remember why.
Your mind makes contracts your body can't meet.

A DRIPPING faucet causes an uncontrollable bladder urge.
You look forward to a dull evening.
You walk with your head held high trying to get used to your bifocals.
Your favorite part of the newspaper is 25 years ago today.
You turn out the light for economic rather than romantic reasons.
You sit in a rocking chair and can't make it go.
Your knees buckle and your belt won't.
You regret all those mistakes resisting temptation.
You're 17 around the neck, 42 around the waist and 96 around the golf course.

YOU STOP looking forward to your next birthday.
After painting the town red, you have to take a long rest before applying a second coat.
Dialing long distance wears you out.
You're startled the first time you are addressed as an oldtimer.
You remember today that yesterday was your wedding anniversary.
You just can't stand people who are intolerant.
The best part of your day is over when your alarm clock goes off.
You burn the midnight oil after 9 p.m.

YOUR BACK goes out more than you do.
A fortune teller offers to read your face.
Your pacemaker makes the garage door go up when you watch a pretty girl go by.
The little gray haired lady you help across the road is your wife.
You get your exercise acting as a pallbearer for your friends who exercise.
You have too much room in the house and not enough in the medicine cabinet.
You sink your teeth into a good steak and they stay there.

WELL FOLKS, here's what you've been breathlessly waiting to hear for weeks. I've named my column. Okay, so you don't like it. I did the best I could.

I thank those of you who tried hard to come up with a suitable name. I also thank those of you who tried hard to come up with a printable name.
And, I thank Gary Vopalensky for his last minute, middle of the night, telephone call suggestion at 11:59 p.m. Friday, May 15.
As you can tell, I didn't select your suggestion. It's not that there weren't some good entries, for there were. It's just that well, folks...country boy is just me. What can I say.

ALLOW ME to share some of the entries with you, now that the contest is over.

Mrs. Paul Dangberg of rural Wayne suggested Randy howls.
Mrs. Virgil Pearson of rural Wayne had the same suggestion, but she wrote it like this: Randy Howls.
Chuck Carhart submitted Howell's Heartline, with the postscript: "I like mine medium well." (You remember, I offered a steak dinner for two as the prize for the winning name.)
Mrs. Myron Deck of Hoskins may have been thinking along the same lines when she offered Heartbeats and How-hell.
Keith Adams of Wayne had a nice touch with Rambling with Randy as his suggestion.

PEG HATTAWAY of Hoskins suggested Random Happenings, and added that she also liked Wayne County Rambblings.

Mrs. Leonard Schwanke of Wayne may have been thinking along those same lines when she offered Roving Randy and also suggested The Roving Reporter.
My neighbor and friend Ralph Eiler of Wayne got artsy with his suggestion. He offered Hoots by H (sketch of owl here).

Mrs. Evan Bennett of Wayne said: "Since you would like your spot to be a meeting place of editor and reader, may I suggest calling it Randall's Rendezvous."

WHEN I announced the contest, I promised that if I named it myself, I'd still give away the steak for two to the reader suggestion I like the best.
The envelope please, and the winner is Mrs. Evan Bennett, 1007 Douglas Street, Wayne, for Randall's Rendezvous.
A special honorable mention goes to my friend and neighbor Mike Ryzynsky. He asked that I not print his suggestion because he does contests and may have an opportunity to submit it again if I can't cut the mustard here.
You'll probably be hearing more from Mike in the months ahead. Mike and I go back a long way. He frequently amuses me with anecdotes and concerns that I may share with you from time to time.
Catch you next week.

Letters

To the editor:
Do you ever print fantasies in your paper? Here's one. It is said that once, long ago and far from Wayne, there was a policeman with average judgment. A certain citizen reported to him that two neighbors enjoyed discharging firearms within the city limits, which was forbidden by ordinance.
One shot at squirrels, and explained "I want to eat them," which sounded reasonable. The other, than whom there were fewer elite citizens, aimed his rifle upward into the old tall branches of trees on his property, to shoot blue jays whose not too melodious voices "annoy my dog." Also a reasonable reason.
So this policeman with his average judgment approached these two violators of city ordinance and then reported to the complaining neighbor "Both were firing 22 caliber bullets, yes, you are right, such bullets hit ground with the same velocity as their original muzzle velocity and have been known to hurt people. We cannot do anything with the old G, we have been trying for years to get him to stop, do you want to file a written complaint?"

Maybe the complainer should have done so, but didn't. The elite neighbor, being elite, agreed to stop breaking the law in that particular way, and his dog just had to learn to endure the hardship.
Of course, as any councilman will have no trouble understanding, endangering people with a discharge of 22 caliber bullets, is far less hazardous than feeding birds domesticated or wild. Wild birds do go from yard to yard and thus can carry pathogens, whereas those birds which stay at home do not, as any retired farmer can perhaps understand.

To the editor:
I want to say "thank you" to all the neighbors who refused to sign the petition when asked to do this. It is the only way I know how to reach you to say it.
From The Wayne Herald paper I learned the names of the two who did sign and then took it to their councilman. Who took it to the City Council to start the campaign lasting from March 26 to May 19, 1981 when we received the most recent letter and the fourth visit from the officers of the Law.
My husband is 77, I am 81 and at that age one is unable to care for things as one did when younger.
All we wanted was to live peacefully our few remaining years in our home and city we loved.
We have never knowingly hurt or bothered anyone and never intended to.
Again may I say "Thank You and God bless each and everyone of you." You know who you are, I do not, but I wanted you to know how I feel.
Helen M. Violette

To the editor:
Thank you for the excellent editorial dealing with the false fire alarms on the WSC campus.
This shows total disrespect on the part of the students for the local fire department and also for their superiors on the campus. It seems to me the proper word for it is harassment.
There is no reason these people should go unpunished. What would they do if they called "Wolf, Wolf" once too often and the firemen refused to answer a real fire call. I know they wouldn't really do this but just imagine what the consequences could be.
These students should be severely punished. There is no excuse for such stupidity. Let's get behind our local firemen.
Name withheld by request

To the editor:
Thanks a lot for the tour of The Wayne Herald and for the paper.
I really enjoyed the part of slicing the paper and film developing. I really loved it all. Thanks again.
Valorie Krusemark

To the editor:
I would like to comment on the letter to the editor which ran in the Monday, May 18, issue, concerning the umpires of the district ballgame between Wayne and Laurel.
The game was close and exciting, which the letter stated.
Both teams played a great ballgame, and it's a shame one team had to lose.
Not only did both teams do well but also both umpires.
An umpire has to make a call a second after the play. He doesn't have the time to go to the crowd and ask them if he made the right call.
And finally, about the statement, in which the person stated, in such an important game, I think this (neutral umpires) could have been thought of beforehand, but maybe it was. In case the person writing the letter didn't know, one of the umpires has to earn a living and live in Wayne.

To the editor:
Natasha was thrilled to see her picture in the Herald a couple of weeks ago. What a pleasant surprise!
Thanks for entering her photo in the competition.

4-H Service Salute

Often, any attempt to give credit where credit is due falls short of its intent. That, in part, is the case with a number of people who deserve a full salute for their efforts over the years to help rural children — primarily the sons and daughters of farmers — with constructive projects that range from homemaking to agriscience.
Volunteer 4-H leaders in northeast Nebraska are an active lot. And, they often are the unsung heroes of tomorrow's successful farmer.
Wakefield's Vera Olson, who recently marked 25 years as a volunteer leader, and rural Wayne's John R. Anderson, who — with 21 years of service — is approaching the quarter-century mark in 4-H, are examples of a kind of giving that makes you feel good about being a Nebraskan.
They deserve recognition for their unselfish efforts with 4-H kids over the many years. They deserve a salute, but so do their colleagues, the dozens and dozens of volunteer leaders in northeast Nebraska who share of their time and knowledge to upgrade the quality of life for those youngsters who work with them.
It is particularly important to offer the salute at this time because during May the organizational structure behind 4-H sets aside a week to honor volunteer leaders.
But, there's even a more compelling reason: 4-H is facing some tough times. Now, as much as some of the people in it don't like to admit it, there's competition out there.
Unfortunately, the competition makes it difficult for 4-H leaders to keep kids working hard on worthwhile projects. Done right, 4-H club membership is hard work.
And, like many things today, hard work is not always the most attractive thing in a society hooked on leisure living. Somewhere, we've lost track of the idea that hard work can be, and often is, fun.
No one can blame kids for wanting more and more recreational time. And, certainly, no one can blame farm kids for the opportunities that are now available to them through urban school districts and organized sports.
Somewhere there needs to be a balance — a balance in which the value of constructive work can be measured against the value of constructive play. Both have much to offer.
What is even sadder, is that choosing between the two is difficult enough without the addition of what seems to be a national addiction to the television set.

Social Security System

President Reagan's proposals to reform the Social Security System amount to an unprecedented move to save the ailing system.
Without the reforms, the system could collapse as early as fall, 1982, after a safe level of reserve is exhausted. The changes the president recommends would preserve the basic benefit structure, while reducing the tax burden on American workers and keeping the system solvent.
It must be stressed that the sole impact for people now receiving Social Security retirement benefits would be a three month delay in the automatic cost-of-living increase scheduled for July, 1982.
The traditional retirement age would remain at 65. However, the president does propose phasing out the retirement earnings test, thus ending the current penalty which discourages senior citizens from working to supplement their social security income.
To encourage people to work longer — and contribute to the system, thereby reducing costs — the administration proposes paying a person who retires in the future at 62 only 55 percent of what he would receive if he retired at age 65. Presently 70 percent of Americans reaching 62 are opting for retirement at that age; that factor accentuates current revenue problems.
The reform package would also reduce the opportunity for "windfall" benefits for "double dippers." The existing benefit formula now makes it possible for an individual, such as a retired federal employee, who enters Social Security covered employment for only a few years to receive disproportionate high benefits in addition to a regular pension.
The new formula would take pensions from non-covered employment into account, sharply lowering Social Security benefits as a result.

Arts, Humanities Subsidies Require Careful Scrutiny

Richard L. Leshar, President
of the United States
President Reagan's proposal to reduce planned increases in federal spending for the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities has provoked a loud chorus of boos from the artistic community. Many artists fear that following these cuts the impressive public support for the arts in recent years will disappear as quickly as a one-night stand.
I disagree. To draw a parallel, it seems to me this is a perfect example of how you can be in favor of institutions like motherhood and church; however, just because they might be threatened does not mean you have to save them by allowing Uncle Sam to become a mother and a preacher.
By continually subsidizing one group of activities in our society (in this case, the arts), simply because certain individuals consider them essential to society as a whole, we are institutionalizing a kind of apple pie socialism.

generating enough additional voluntary support to keep these activities self-sustaining.
I believe there are four steps that could, and should, be taken to strengthen the viability of the arts while reducing federal subsidies. One, let's stop throwing money away on utterly silly projects, such as taking pictures to capture the artistic effect of colored toilet paper thrown out of airplanes.
Two, we must increase the market revenue of projects currently being or scheduled to be funded. Every small businessman in America understands that market promotion is one of his first responsibilities.

SEVERAL TIMES in recent years different franchises in the National Football League, the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League have run into financial difficulties. But does that mean we should subsidize professional football, basketball and hockey?
And once we do that, what's next? The point is we live in a market system and there is absolutely no justification for the federal government getting involved, except to provide seed money as a means of

THREE, AT THE same time, we must reduce wasteful costs and expenditures of funded projects by careful budgeting of fees to actors, actresses and musicians.
Finally, we must all help promote increased voluntary funding of the arts, which is in the best American tradition. Americans are the most charitable people on earth, and the President himself pointed out that we have supported with voluntary contributions "more musical groups, more orchestras, more ballet, more opera, more nonprofit theater, more cultural institutions like libraries than all the rest of the world put together."
Certainly this is a far more preferable way to go than having government arbitrarily subsidize this or that group with involuntary contributions extracted through the tax system. Art for art's sake, yes; art as a form of apple pie socialism, no.

Banking, Corporate Farm Bills Need Review

The 87th Legislature has less than 10 legislative days remaining in this session. Every year this produces a great flurry of final activity as each senator works even harder to ensure the consideration of his favorite bills.
Before this press of final business develops, I want to review with you what has already happened on several bills.
This last week, one of the most controversial bills was LB 376, called the multi-banking bill. This bill will allow a bank holding company to own up to 9 banks throughout the state.
I FEEL THAT at some point in the future, there may be a great need to examine and possibly change banking practices in the state, but LB 376 does not do this in a way that is sufficiently favorable to the financial community of the 17th Legislative District. For this reason, I chose to oppose the bill.
This week the Legislature sent to the governor for his signature, LB 245, the veterinary college bill. Governor Charles Thone, in noting the large margin by which this bill passed, called the bill "nearly veto proof."

In deciding whether to sign the bill, I'm sure the governor will carefully consider many of the generous pledges made by private industry to help support the establishment of a college of veterinary science in Nebraska.
A bill that was designed to protect Nebraska's family farms, offered by Sen.

George Burrows of Adams, advanced through the first stage of debate this week. LB 184 basically provides that no corporation other than a family farm or ranch corporation, or authorized farm business, may hold an interest in a Nebraska farm or ranch.
Sen. Burrows has tried to establish legislation like this on repeated occasions. Burrows will be working hard to see that this bill is passed, but there is some question as to the constitutionality of the bill.
THIS WEEK WAS marked by the long-awaited return of the controversial $70 million to local counties for distribution to political subdivisions. This $70 million football was a controversial issue throughout this session, but the checks were mailed last week and are now in the hands of the county treasurers.
LB 245, which would prevent natural resource districts from using eminent domain powers to acquire land for projects that have recreational benefits of 75 percent or more and fewer than 500 surface acres of water, fell two votes short of getting first-round approval the second time. If it falls on the third try, the bill will be indefinitely postponed.

One final thing I would like to discuss with you is the extent that a bill can change from the time of original introduction to the time it is presented to the governor for his signature. During this time there are several stages where amendments can be offered.
It is incredible the extent to which a bill may be altered by these amendments. Hence, as your senator, I must be very careful to review the full impact of each bill, with its amendments. If it is particularly helpful to me if you comment on a bill, you also give me your thoughts on the status of the bill as it has been amended.

Conscientious Parenting

Most Wayne County parents are concerned and conscientious and wish to do as good a job as possible at the task of rearing their children.

Sometimes, however, we're caught in the bind between "good intentions" and actually developing "responsible behavior."

This can be very frustrating for both the parent and the child.

WITH SUMMER vacation approaching, perhaps its time to think about what parents should and shouldn't do for their children, just to make life "easier."

While the following is not necessarily a prescription for "good parenting," it is thought-provoking material as we consider parenting strategies. The 10 steps to Raising a Juvenile Delinquent comes from a Texas police department but I think it applies to midwest parenting also.

- 1) BEGIN at infancy, to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.
- 2) When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think he is cute.
- 3) Don't expect much from your child. That way you won't be disappointed.
- 4) Pick up everything he leaves lying around—books, shoes, clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in relying on others.
- 5) QUARREL frequently in his presence. In this way he will not be too shocked when the home is broken later.
- 6) Give a child all the spending money he wants. Never make him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

by
Linda Huinker
Wayne County
Home Extension Agent

- 7) Satisfy his every craving for food, drink and comfort. Denial may lead to harmful frustration.
- 8) Take his part against neighbors, teachers and policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child, you know.
- 9) When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I am really sorry this happened. He's just a kid. It must be my fault!"
- 10) Complete projects for your child—so the family name goes un tarnished.

AFTER reading this material, there may be an inclination to think that harsh discipline is what is needed. But I think the author is suggesting that we do not try to be a "super mom" or "super dad" and do everything for our kids. If they are going to become responsible adults, we must allow them to try and to sometimes fail. We must allow them to make decisions—and experience their consequences.

FOR CHILDREN and teens, much learning comes from trial and error. But you can provide guidance. The best kind of guidance, however, comes through what you do, not what you say.

'Who's Who' Lists Haas

Kathy Haas of Wayne was among nine seniors named to "Who's Who" at Hastings College during the annual Honors Convocation at the college on May 15.

Membership in "Who's Who" is based on constructive college citizenship, student contribution to the overall college program and participation in extra-curricular activities.

MISS HAAS is a music education major who has been vice-president of the Hastings College Band, and president of the Music Educators National Conference, Hastings College chapter.

distributed nationwide, is printed at Valley Forge, Pa. Founded in 1803, it is the "oldest religious magazine with continuous publication in the western hemisphere."

Miss Ryan, who now resides in King of Prussia, a suburb of Philadelphia, is a native of Trinidad and Tobago in the West Indies. She has been a member of the editorial staff at TAB for about the past two years.

MISS RYAN spent about four days in the home of the local minister and his wife. While here she also visited with various members of the congregation concerning the church's role in the community.

Her drawing card, she said, was the fact that the First Baptist Church of Wayne is an all-white congregation with a black pastor.

"It seems," said Miss Ryan, "that the church has experienced a renewal since the arrival of the Carters, who have been very well received in the community."

MISS RYAN's story of the local church and its congregation is expected to appear in a fall edition of TAB magazine.

First State Appearance

Laurel's Martin Hits, Pitches Bears to District Title

Photography: Randy Hascall

CHEERFUL JOE Olsen is hoisted on the shoulders of one of his teammates after scoring the winning run in district finals.

By Randy Hascall
When Phil Martin starts to fire, look out! It was the 10th inning and the tiring right-handed pitcher decided it was up to him to put an end to a marathon baseball game. Martin cracked a two-out base hit to score Joe Olsen in the bottom of the 10th and give the Laurel Bears their first state baseball berth in the history of baseball at the school.

CLASS B-2 DISTRICT champion Laurel will now face the winner of the Class B-1 district championship game between Omaha Roncalli and Omaha Ryan. That game was scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Class B state championship will be played at 6 p.m. Wednesday at Orval Smith Field in Ralston. The Class B final will be followed by the Class A state championship.

This will be the first state appearance for the Bears in five years of organized high school baseball. Wayne, Wakefield and Bancroft have represented northeast Nebraska in past years.

SUPERSTITION PLAYED a role on a day when luck seemed to go against Laurel most of the time.

Dennis Martinson wore his orange jersey liner which teammates claim is a good luck charm. The only time Martinson failed to wear the liner, his team lost to Lincoln Plus 4-2 about three weeks ago.

This time, Martinson wore the liner and the Bears gained revenge.

Coach Bob Weisenberg had nothing but praise for both teams. "Plus played well today. I thought if we hit the ball like this we would beat them without too much trouble. But, they had four or five plays which saved runs. Their outfield played real well."

The Bears (10-1) were even more deserving of praise. They kept fighting until they finally scored the winning run in the third extra inning.

"WE DID a pretty good job of hitting and an excellent job of fielding," Weisenberg said. "Phil (Martin) did a real good job of pitching. We couldn't have asked for any better job than that. His control was a lot better than against Wayne (in district semifinals) and he had a good curveball in the game."

Martin salvaged Laurel's state hopes by playing the double role of a hero. The junior fired a four-hitter through 10 innings and kept the Lincoln Plus offense stymied.

In the dugout, halfway through the 10th inning, Martin jokingly remarked, "Three runs in 10 innings isn't asking too much is it?"

Martin knew his team had to come up with a quick run. Although he had complete control of the game, he had thrown 125 pitches over 10 innings and knew he couldn't pitch all night.

The Bears had no experienced pitchers to relieve Martin. Joe Olsen, the team's ace pitcher throughout most of the season was playing first base and suffering from an injured shoulder.

OLSEN OPENED the 10th by ripping a line shot to the left field fence for a stand up double. The Plus defense held Olsen on second as Bryan Buss grounded out to the third baseman. With one out, shortstop Kelly Robson hit another grounder to the third baseman. This time, Olsen advanced on the throw. With two outs, Martin came up to the plate and aided his own cause.

Martin's base hit drove Olsen in for the winning run and the Laurel players went wild.

The Bears had several opportunities to score earlier in the game but were stopped on fine defensive plays by the Lincoln team. In the ninth inning, Ron Hirschman led-off with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Dennis Martinson. Buss sacrificed Hirschman to third but a strikeout ended the threat.

In the eighth inning, Robson reached first base on a one-out single. He moved to second on an overthrow of a pickoff attempt. Following a strikeout, Scott Norvell ripped a base hit to left field. Robson tried for home but was tagged out in a close play at the plate.

IN THE SEVENTH INNING, Brian Marquardt singled with two outs and stole second base. Dave Marquardt walked but both runners were stranded as Plus fielded a fly ball for the third out.

The Bears had tied the score in the fifth inning. Hirschman opened the inning with a walk and moved to second on a nice bunt by Dennis Martinson. The bunt rolled along the third base line and stayed fair while Plus players watched, hoping it would roll foul.

Two outs later, Olsen threaded a base hit down the right field line to score Hirschman for the tying run. Martinson scored the Bears' first run in the third inning when the hosts loaded the bases. Plus scored its two runs in the first inning on a double by Sullivan and a home run by Morris.

"THIS TEAM DESERVES an awful lot of credit. It was a three or four-year job for most of the players," Weisenberg said. "Olsen had a real big hit in the 10th. With a double we didn't need to spend a bunt to move him into scoring position. We gave Bryan (Buss) and Kelly (Robson) one shot for a base hit. Then we were going to bunt," the Laurel coach said.

as he explained his 10th-inning strategy. Now the Bears will prepare for Wednesday's big showdown with the Class B-1 champion.

According to Randy Hascall

THE USUAL TRANSITION between high school spring sports and summer sports is here already. Softball and baseball teams, golfers, tennis players and joggers are getting back into the summer routine.

This column was written before the state track meet opened at Omaha Burke Weathermen (although usually about as accurate as a warped yardstick) were predicting rain and wind all weekend. And Thursday evening I sure had to agree with their predictions.

After enjoying nice spring weather, I was hoping that Mother Nature would bring sun and calm winds two more days. The rain could come and come hard after that. With numerous outstanding athletes competing at state this year, it would be nice to have a couple of days similar to last Thursday.

WHILE THE STATE track meet was being held Friday and Saturday, another athletic event was taking place in Omaha.

Although not quite as popular or publicized as the high school track and field meet, the Nebraska State Special Olympics were scheduled at Creighton University this weekend. Several area individuals were supposed to compete in the event which draws participants from all across the state. Activities were scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday and area director Gertrude Vanh Kamp said her athletes were anxious to compete.

I WAS LOOKING for fox dens in the general area and received telephone calls from several individuals reporting such dens within brief driving distance from Wayne.

Thanks to everyone who contacted me regarding my desire to take pictures of some foxes.

I'M NOT WORLD famous for making correct predictions. In fact, it's so rare when I make a prediction that comes true that I have to brag a little when I hit one.

I had to dig back through some old copies of the Herald but finally found the copy of this column in which I correctly predicted that Boston would win the National Basketball Association world championship.

Last June following the NBA draft, I stated that with the addition of Robert Parish and Kevin McHale, the Celtics would be the team to beat. Chalk one up. Finally.

THE ONE TIME I played golf with Wayne Herald business manager Jim Marsh, the old man gave me a lesson by firing a 33 on the Wayne Country Club back nine. Fortunately, we weren't playing for a week's pay check.

So, I can't help but rub Marshmallow's nose in the rough a little by telling everyone how he did this past Wednesday in league play.

Jimbo shot a 49 and lost all nine holes in competition against John Fuelberth who fired a 37.

WEIGHT LIFTERS prepare! Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt is planning a weight lifting clinic this afternoon (Monday) at the Wayne High School weight room in the basement of the high school.

The clinic is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. and is open to anyone who is interested. Students in grades 7 through 12 are especially encouraged to attend, Ehrhardt said.

Lady Cats Win National Opener, Lose Second

The NAIA national softball tournament is turning into more than a vacation for the Wayne State Lady Wildcats.

IN OPENING ROUND action Thursday, Wayne State thumped Rockford, Ill. 13-3 in five innings to advance to second round competition. The Lady Cats out-hit Rockford 10-7 and took advantage of 10 errors to push 13 runs across the plate. The journey is being played in Houston, Texas.

Pitcher Cindy Stella (11-10) earned the win as Wayne State upped its record to 23-18. Rockford is 5-6.

DESIGNATED HITTER Kelly Murphy of Wakefield and Sue Plumb each had two hits in three plate appearances for WSC. Murphy scored two of Wayne's 13 runs. Six other girls had one hit apiece for the winners. The Lady Cats fell behind 1-0 in top of the first inning after giving up three hits but rallied for four runs in the bottom of the inning.

Two more runs in the second gave WSC a 6-1 lead. Both teams scored two runs in the third and Wayne State added five big runs in the fourth to open up a 13-3 lead. A good defensive performance in the top of the fifth held Rockford scoreless and preserved a victory by virtue of the 10-run rule. Catcher Dee Dee Reick injured her ankle in the game so Lori Johnson took over catching duties.

The win advanced the Lady Wildcats into second round action against Sam Houston State (28-10) Thursday night.

A LATE SCORE reported Thursday night from Houston had Wayne State losing 2-0 to Sam Houston.

The loss dropped the Lady Wildcats into the losers bracket against Central Methodist of Missouri. That game was scheduled at 12 noon Friday.

CHECK with US! By Betty Addison
I keep hearing more and more about the problem of productivity as the key to our economic problems. How can productivity help the average person?
A. In its simplest form, the advantages of increased productivity are easy to see. Let's create, for purposes of example, a widget factory. This factory has 200 employees and last year produced 300 new widgets every hour. That's 1.5 widgets per hour per person. In order for those employees to have a real increase in their standard of living, the production per person per hour must be above the 1.5 of the previous year. When this increase fails to occur, but wages nevertheless go up, therefore, the price of widgets goes up - we have inflation through increasing prices to offset increased wages with no increase in production. Although our example is greatly simplified, it illustrates the impossibility of having any real increase in wages without an increase in productivity. Unless more people understand the principles of productivity, we'll find widget prices higher than ever. FSLIC Midwest Federal SAVINGS AND LOAN

But, like many people, maybe you haven't learned that yet.

Our local stores and service shops knock themselves out to provide you with the best selection, the lowest prices, and the finest service anywhere. They're good friends to know.

Make it an important rule to try your home town store FIRST! You'll be glad you did.
