Home Satellite Receiving Station Dishes Rural Family Some Top TV

By Randall Howell

Television repeats
Tom Prenger hates them.
Three weeks ago he did something about it.

He and his wife, Linda, bought a home television satellite receiving station — a huge fiberglass parabolic dish — that gives the rural Wayne family access to anywhere from 80 to 120 stations.

Purchased from Soo Satellite Systems of Sioux City, Iowa, the off-white, 10-foot dish can be locked onto any one of 11 hovering communications satellites 23,500 miles above the earth's equator.

WHEN IT'S locked onto Satcom II, the most widely used for home television programming, Prenger merely turns his television channel selector to a blank station. Then, at the touch of a dial, the family can view programs here to fore — unseen and unheard in rural America — the country without cable television.

"It's super," Prenger said, touching the dial of the receiver, which is portable for use on any television set in the house.

The receiver boosts a 5-watt signal (a signal no stronger than that from a citizens band radio) several hundred thousand times and sends it onto the television screen. From satellite to screen display takes less than half a second (4 seconds, to be exact).

Satcom II, a sister to the dying satellite Satcom I, gives the Prengers a selection of from 40 to 50 stations. If they don't like any of the selections, they change satellites.

THAT HAS to be done by hand crank behind the parabolic dish, which is anchored in a concrete slab at the southeast corner of their two-year-old rural Wayne home.

Prenger, 39, former owner of Wayne Cold Storage, is looking forward to the day when he can change satellites by remote control, rather than hand-cranking the parabolic dish to a new position.

He's got a remote control unit — an accessory that will cost him about $1,000 — coming soon. Until then, Prenger and his wife, both South Sioux City natives, will hand crank the dish to get the programming, which ranges from 24-hour sports stations to Mexican movies, available on 10 other satellites.

The walk to the outdoor dish next to his house doesn't seem difficult, nor is the cranking hard work. But right now it's painful for Prenger, who is still recovering from a split pelvis suffered when he was thrown from a horse more than a month ago.

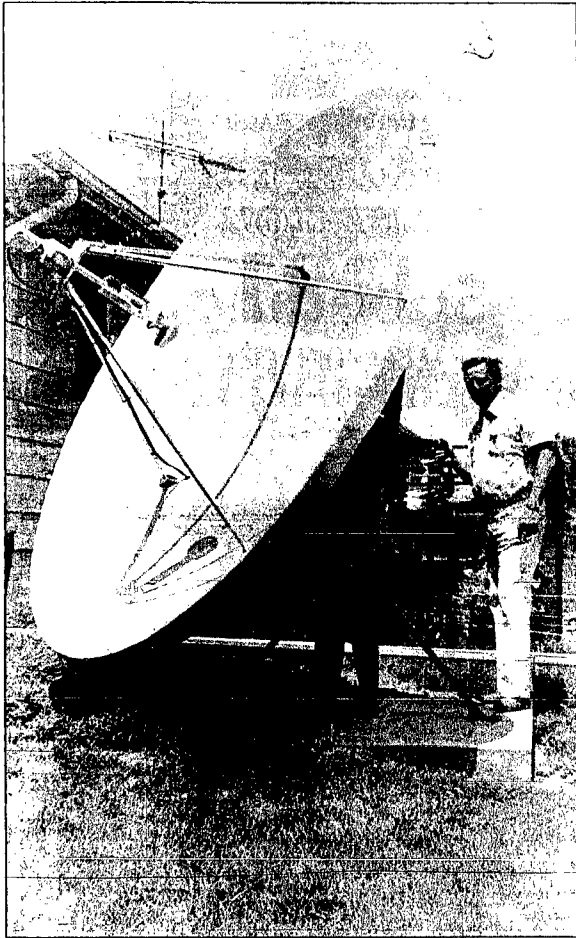

THE ACCIDENT put Prenger in the hospital for 12 days, and that's what got him started on his home television satellite receiving station.

"He was in the hospital for 12 days and on TV saw one program that wasn't a repeat," Linda explained.

Prenger decided right then and there that he didn't have to put up with that. "I'd read about the home satellite stations before, but I'd never seen one operate," he said.

So, after his release and while still on crutches, Prenger and his wife drove to Sioux City in search of a satellite receiving station for their split-level home five miles west and one mile south of Wayne.

"We ran into this guy we knew, Garland Carmichael, and he had just gone into the business," explained Prenger. Carmichael, a Wayne native and the son of Genevieve and the late Gerald Carmichael, had just formed a partnership with Rick Mathieson of Sioux City to sell and install the units.

THE PRENGERS wanted to see one work, but the business was so new that Carmichael hadn't even installed his own station at his Sioux City home.

The Prengers agreed to come back in a few days. They did. They watched. They were impressed. They bought one for $5,000, including installation.

It was installed three weeks ago — the first such station in northeast Nebraska for Soo Satellite Systems and the first of its kind in the Wayne area.

Carmichael and Mathieson delivered and installed the station at the Prenger farmstead in less than one working day, including the small, square concrete slab that forms a base for the station.

The Prenger family has had more access to television programming than is available on any cable-television circuit in the country. They went from the rags of rural television reception to the riches of programming from Los Angeles to New York and from Canada to Mexico.

THE SYSTEM has three basic components — the parabolic dish, the low noise amplifier and the receiving unit.

Steeple Silhouette

PAINTING A church is no easy task, especially when the church steeple is nearly 70 feet above the ground. That's why Gerald Botenkamp of Gerald's Decorating called upon Tuffy Hartmann, Winside, for some help. With the use of Hartmann's boom truck, Botenkamp and his paint crew had no trouble reaching the steeple. Gerald and son Mark (pictured) had the honors of painting the high areas of the United Presbyterian Church of Wayne.

Concord Cafe Cooks on Front Burner After Starting Business at a Simmer

By Theresa Wulf

"Their chicken is out of this world," according to Gail Martindale.

"People come from Laurel, Wayne, Sioux City, Concord — all over — to eat here," she adds.

Most of the time when area people boast about the Concord Cafe's good food, they're right. But it's taken some time for operators Naomi Peterson, Fern Erickson and Ina Reith to develop into the well-seasoned cooks they are.

When the ladies had just taken over the cafe they tried to repeat a successful special.

Martyn Dahlquist had been "bragging up" their food. When he found out about the repeat special he brought some of his friends in to try the Cafe's food for the first time.

DAHLQUIST'S FRIENDS must have thought he was crazy when they fasted the ribs. "They weren't quite done. The ribs we used the second time had bigger bones than the first. We found out we should have cooked them overnight," Fern said.

"We were a little green back then." They haven't had that special for quite awhile, Naomi added.

Now — nearly three years later — the Cafe does "pretty good business," according to Concord mayor Jerry Martindale.

The ladies guess they serve between 50-60 customers a day at the village-owned restaurant.

"THE GIRLS lease it by the year, and if they need anything we get it for them," Martindale said.

The cafe started out as the telephone company and was located across the street. It was later changed to a post office.

E.J. Hughes bought the old bank building and moved the post office there. A drug store then took over the building — now the Concord Senior Citizens Center — for 38 years.

"Everything you could think of or get" filled the 25-foot by 30-foot store, Martindale said. Hughes' brother-in-law who ran the store "never was a pharmacist. He used all patent medicine and gave out home remedies," the mayor noted.

The cafe moved in September, 1978 to its present location. "This building was empty and belonged to the city. It also had more room and was nicer," he explained.

BETWEEN $8-9,000 was spent remodeling the building before the cafe moved in.

Final Swimming Lessons

Registration for the final session of swimming lessons begins at 1 p.m. today (Monday) at the Wayne city pool. Lessons will begin Monday, July 27, and run for two weeks.

Pool manager Julie Overin said senior life saving will be offered for those interested. For more information contact the pool.

Stamp Collectors to Meet

A philatelic (stamp collecting) club is being started for the Wayne area. There will be meeting for anyone interested in joining on Thursday, July 23, at 8 p.m. in the Anderson Hall main lobby on the Wayne State campus. For more information call Rick Eickhoff at 375-9961.

Lutherans Attend Convention

Charles Maier and Pastor John Halerman of Grace Lutheran Church recently attended the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod Convention at St. Louis, Mo. At the convention, held July 3-10, the delegates elected new officers and acted on 170 resolutions to usher in "a new era" for the Synod.

Stater Earns Five-Star Rating

Wayne State College's weekly newspaper, the Wayne Stater, earned a five star All American rating for the spring semester this year. The Stater received five out of five marks of distinction to earn the rating according to the Associated Collegiate Press. Co editors were Theresa Wulf of Fremont and LaVone Tienken of West Point. Other editors were Vern J. Kathol of Hartington, sports editor and Drew Kaplan of Elgin, Ill. photography editor.

CETA Hosts Public Forum

AS EXPECTED, Mother Nature again took her toll on Wisner Junior Livestock festivities last weekend. But most activities scheduled in conjunction with the sixth annual event went on as scheduled in spite of 105-degree temperatures. Attendance was again down at a number of activities, presumably because of the heat, but the sponsoring Wisner Jaycees termed the show an overall success. Brenda Leisy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Leisy of Wisner and a 1981 Wisner-Pilger High School graduate, was crowned 1981 Wisner Junior Livestock Show Queen.

ABOUT 100 people filled the Hartington Auditorium basement July 7 for a public hearing on the proposed MANDAN powerline project. The crowd, many of whom own land on the proposed route, first listened while Nebraska Public Power District officials described the project, then questioned officials concerning several aspects.

Dog Licenses Top Speeding On List of Police Warnings

Wayne City Police issued warnings in June to 34 dog owners for failure to license their pets. Failure to license dog warnings exceeded those issued for speeding, which often tops the monthly police report list. Speeding warnings issued during the month totaled six. Warnings to dog owners and speeders totaled more than 80 percent of the total warnings issued during June, according to the police department's monthly report.

Only four parking violation warnings were issued. Three warnings were issued for motor cyclists riding three abreast. Three reckless driving warnings were issued during June. Police also list two traffic signal violations and a warning for following too close. Total warnings issued in June reached 75 compared to 43 during the same month last year.

POLICE also made 25 arrests compared to 27 for June of 1980. Arrests included 12 for speeding with fines totaling $902. Three cases awaited disposition at the end of the month.

Three arrests were made for no operator's license and three for no valid registration for a total of $50 in fines.

Two arrests were made for no valid inspection sticker for $10 in fines. And, two arrests were made for failure to dispose of a parking ticket in 15 days.

Police also arrested two juveniles for making annoying phone calls. The youngsters were released to their parents.

One arrest was made for theft by deception. The youngster was referred to a juvenile program. The arrests resulted in total fines of $268. Four cases awaited disposition at the end of June.

PREVIOUS arrest cases disposed of in June included two for speeding, two for no valid registration, one for no valid inspection sticker.

Police also issued 35 parking tickets during the month — 25 of them for violation of the no on street parking from midnight to 5 a.m. Police issued a total of 65 parking tickets for June of 1980. Four parking violation warnings were issued during the month.

Police also issued 16 violation cards, including five for no license plate, three for no taillight, three for no headlight, three for no valid inspection sticker, one for no driver's license and one for no registration. Of the total issued, eight were returned corrected. That compares with 10 issued during the same month last year and eight returned corrected.

POLICE received 150 complaints or requests for service during the month, slightly more than the 144 during June 1980.

Radio messages totaled 1,749, just off the 1,842 pace set last year. Telephone messages totaled 630 with 23 calls coming in on the 911 emergency number. Of those 23 calls, only 19 were considered to be an emergency by police.

Police sent 202 teletype messages during the month and received 1,847.

Criminal complaints — 13 — were down three from last year's June total of 16. Two criminal cases were cleared as unfounded during the month, while two criminal arrests were made.

And, police impounded six animals, more than three times the number impounded during June 1980.

Only one vehicle was impounded during the month.

TRAFFIC accidents on public streets that were investigated by police officers totaled eight, one less than the nine during June 1980. Police also investigated five traffic accidents on private property, up three over last year.

Police cruisers totaled 2,741 miles during the month, compared to 3,362 during the same month last year. Gasoline consumption totaled 284.4 gallons, compared to 325 for June 1980.

Regular salaries paid during the month totaled $9,743, compared to $9,820 in during the same month last year.

Temporary salaries totaled $229.15. Last year's temporary help for June totaled $198.40.

Travel and conference expenses for last month were $165.56. The department's telephone bill for the month was $286.33, compared to a June 1980 bill of $330.27.

VEHICLE maintenance cost the department $44.39, compared to a $433.14 bill during June of last year.

Total expenses for the department hit the $13,190.19 mark, just slightly ahead of last June's budget of $12,696.78.

Total expenses to the end of the month were $156,989.64. Balance remaining for the fiscal year is $24,755.36.

64 Donate Blood at Hospital

Sixty-four persons donated blood at Providence Medical Center on July 9.

Mary Edmonds and Norman Maben of Wayne joined the Galton Donor Club in July. Larry Koehmoos of Pilger donated his second gallon pint.

The Siouxland Blood Bank, a member of the American Association, acknowledges the support of the community.

New Sign

THE K-D INN, located at Seventh and Nebraska Streets, Wayne, has been displaying a new sign this last week. Workmen took down the old one and installed the brand new one just over a week ago. The motel, a long-time stopping off place for travelers through Wayne County, is owned and operated by Dennis Otte.

Harry Granquist

Services are scheduled for today, Monday, for Harry Granquist, 72, of Wayne. The Rev. Doniver Peterson will officiate at 10:30 a.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Harry Gilbert Granquist, the son of Ole and Entger Paulson Granquist, was born Dec. 8, 1908 at Wayne. He died Thursday at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. He attended school in the Wayne community and married Vernice Witte on Nov. 21, 1931 in Omaha. The couple farmed for many years in the Wayne area before moving into Wayne several years ago. He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne.

He is preceded in death by his parents, one son, four brothers and three sisters.

Survivors include his wife, Vernice, of Wayne; three sons, Gilbert of Colorado Springs, Colo., Roland of Laurel and Jerry of Gillette, Wyo., one daughter, Mrs. Ray (Mary) Short of Evergreen, Colo.; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Surber of Wayne and Mrs. Annie Gamble of Wakefield; and ten grandchildren.

Palbearers are Bill Gamble, Terry Luff, Lyle and Wayne Gamble, Gene Granquist, Fred Gildersleeve and Steve Krmpotic.

Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery with Wittse Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Esther Converse

Funeral services were held Friday for Esther Josephine Converse, 65, of Wakefield. The Rev. E. Neil Peterson officiated at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Wakefield.

Esther Josephine Converse, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knute Danielson Reinhardt, was born Dec. 26, 1915 and died Tuesday in Lake DeLeon, Wis. She married Leonard Converse on March 12, 1939. He precedes her in death.

Survivors include one son, Leonard, Jr. of Hackensack, Minn.; three daughters, Mrs. Anthony (Joanne) Macedo of Swansea, Mass.; Mrs. Duane (Marlys) Bunting and Mrs. Robert (Sharon) Honeywell, both of Omaha; two brothers, Albert Reinhardt of Austin, Minn. and George Reinhardt of Stewartville, Minn.; one sister, Lillian Fredrickson of Wakefield; and eight grandchildren.

Palbearers were Ronald Holling, Berneal Gustafson, Elmer Carlson, Elvis Olson, Elwin Fredrickson and Paul Eaton.

Burial was in the Wakefield Cemetery with Bressler Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

police report

It was a bad morning Wednesday for the Amber Inn. Police were called to the motel around three that morning to check out a fire in a trash container.

Then, at 8 a.m., a resident reported that her car had been broken into. A 35-mm camera worth $250, a $25 calculator and a briefcase full of sales records and business papers were stolen.

Vandals had also torn the rear floor cabinet and the carpet in the window. And the console was broken.

But that wasn't all. Not even an hour later, the same resident reported that 11 window screens had been damaged, and one window had been broken.

sheriff's log

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department investigated Tuesday when Ronald Hammer of Wisner lost control of his car nine miles south and 1.8 miles east of Wayne.

The car went out of control on the washboards and loose gravel and couldn't be steered back onto the road after going into the ditch. It continued going east and came to rest in a cornfield after flipping 1 1/2 times. The car landed on its top.

Country boy. . .

. . . by randall howell

Howdy. The sometimes deafening sound of the locust can be heard throughout the Wayne area. Like a country orchestra tuning up for the harvest, the locust (or cicada) song ralls across the sun parched prairie.

The migratory grasshoppers send shivers up and down my spine. Somehow, modern control methods notwithstanding, they manage to send shivers up and down my country-boy spine.

MAYBE IT'S because of the stories my father used to tell me about the 1930s when almost anything that survived the dust-bowl droughts was eaten by grasshoppers. I cannot remember whether he referred to them as locusts, which seem to run wild in the fields every seven years, or whether they were just plain old gobble everything grasshoppers.

At any rate, I've never liked grasshoppers. And that means I like the locusts variety less. My older cousins used to tease me to death with them come harvest time. No matter how busy the harvest was, somebody bigger and stronger would always find time to drop one down the back of my shirt.

I was a little feller then, and it was difficult enough to act the part of a man consumed by the demands of harvest. So, the ordeal of getting a jumping grasshopper per out of my shirt offered very little to my sense of dignity.

MY BROTHERS and I would sit for hours in the box of the grain truck catching the jumping critters only to pull their legs off in a kind of feignish elation. It was an outlet for our frustration and the anger over being embarrassed by the harvest crew. After all, jumping through your own shirt after a grasshopper is embarrassing.

It's not hard to catch a grasshopper in your shirt. No sir. You just take a big grab at it from the outside. Chances are you can catch one on the first grab, but then try to haul him out, particularly from the backside.

If you grab too hard you've got grasshopper juice and gets all over inside your shirt. That can get rough on a hot, sticky, harvest day.

But, just suppose you grab gently and get the critter. Then, you gotta get 'em out. So, you soon find there's no way you can reach in side your shirt and get that hopper without it taking another jump on you as you slowly release your through the shirt grip. And, of course, you have to release that grip to get the critter outright in your bare hand to haul it out.

I KNOW I'M going to get all kinds of letters about cruelty to grasshoppers. They'll probably far and leather me during "Be Kind to Bugs Week."

But, I don't know how you cut it, grasshoppers are gross. One of the nicest things they do is spit brown juice on you when you grab them.

I'm glad I had the chance, as a young man, to rip their legs off. But, even though all six of my brothers and I worked hard at it, we didn't seem to dent the population any.

Besides, you know there's not much to do in a hot grain truck while you wait for the combine to crawl around a mile long windrow.

We knew better than to play with matches, and chewing wheat-gum got old, too.

There's only so many times you can clean out the cab on the grain truck. And, eating too much green corn from nearby fields will give you the trots — the trots are worse than grasshoppers when you are out in the middle of nowhere with the harvest crew.

WE ALL HAD jackknives, too. And, we conducted a few biological experiments with grasshoppers while we waited for the combine hopper to fill.

While other kids played doctor, we dissected live grasshoppers, impaling our victims on wheat, barley, oat or rye stubble. They lived for a long time after feeling the dull blade of a country boy's jackknife.

And, by the way, crickets got much the same treatment. But, you had to handle them a bit more carefully. They are a lot squishier than grasshoppers. They're a little harder to catch, too.

You see, a cricket will run as well as jump. But, I've never seen a grasshopper run. Now, it's true that a grasshopper flies for short distance, but that always gives him away.

IF YOU KEEP your eyes peeled, you'll never lose a good sized grasshopper, because as you stalk him he'll either jump or fly away.

Crickets are sneaky little critters, though. They may jump, but they're just as apt to run for it — and they rarely run in the open.

What has always surprised me, though, is the amazing number of grasshoppers and crickets that survive the internal obstacle course of a combine.

Sure, that cylinder gets a few. And, no doubt the constantly moving grain sieves and hopper auger nail a few more. But, bunches of them get by without a scratch. And, bunches more ride out the back of a combine over the top sieves and the straw walkers.

Then, after another auger ride into a waiting truck box, they surface unscathed. A grasshopper or cricket, I'm convinced, can live almost indefinitely under tons of grain without being the worse for wear.

ANYWAY, back to the Wayne grasshopper problem. Those critters are everywhere. They've been going through area gardens at a pretty good clip and they even like flowers.

They'll snip the blooms off most anything — cutting them sick as a whistle. We've even got some marigolds that have been ravaged by the beasts. It didn't think anything would touch a marigold!

Of all the things that they eat, it irritates me that the little beggars won't eat the grass — at least not fast enough to save me the trouble of mowing it.

With the grasshopper joining the already in place bean leaf beetles and potato bugs, gardens are taking it on the nose. And, there's a limit to how much chemical anyone can put on a garden.

After all you know that — with some luck — you're going to be eating the stuff soon. Besides, the cost of chemicals gives you some diminished returns right away.

Somehow, it just doesn't seem fair to give up though. As 1981 goes down as the "Year of the Bugs," I really get the urge to get out my old jackknife and start tormenting grasshoppers again.

SPEAKING of bugs — have you been watching the street lights around town the last few nights? They are swarming with little green winged creatures that hang beneath the lights in a continuously moving mass that looks like fog — until you get close enough to realize it isn't.

I had to roll up the windows on my truck the other night when I stopped at the Pearl and Fourth streets intersection.

Even then, they pelted the windshield and side windows like steel for the few seconds it took for the light to change.

And, beyond that, the entire front on the State National Bank and Trust Co. has been crawling with inch long black beetles so thick that the Main Street wall appears to be a crawling mass.

Again, it's late at night and the beetles — those that don't die — seem to be gone by day.

They don't seem to be hurting the building, but the night site is enough to make you stop for a few moments and wonder where they all came from for the midnight rendezvous.

IF ALL THAT doesn't bug you enough, try the flies. I swear those things bite just before they land on you. They just don't stay around long enough to get a good swat, but they sure say "howdy" hard.

Caught "Doc" for a 100% downhill Friday and he said livestock on farms in the area is suffering from the mid summer heat and fly problem.

The veterinarian said he thought the fly population was unusually heavy this year. He said the hot, humid weather often irritates the problem.

So, if you think you're the only one getting bugged to death by insects this year, think again.

IT ALL REMINDS me of an advertisement I saw as a youngster. The ad, a small one you'd find in the back of a publication under the classified section, told of the wonders of a new fly killing device.

The price was right, and, as I remember it, all you had to do was send a couple of bucks off in the mail to get the item. It was guaranteed to kill flies or you'd get your money back.

Fortunately, I didn't bite. But, I did tell my father about it. He laughed.

Then, he explained that the device — nothing more than two small blocks of wood (cut from a 2x4) that could be hand held — would kill them if you were patient enough to wait for them to land on the "killing surface" and quick enough to slam the two blocks together before they flew away.

My father said he'd made one once. A somewhat cheapened, I'd estimate.

Catch you next week.

House Leaders Attempt To Divide and Conquer

Richard L. Leshar
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

After a stunning defeat in its drive to derail the Reagan budget cuts, the House leadership is now busy at work to thwart the Administration's tax proposals.

Central to its strategy is an attempt to divide and conquer the business community by producing a package of tax goodies designed to lure small businesses away from their solid support of the president's economic recovery program.

Will it work? I am convinced that as the business community examines the two competing tax plans side-by-side, it will step solidly behind the Reagan program.

DESPITE SOME adjustments deemed necessary to win over conservative Democrats, the president hasn't budged on his commitment to reduce individual tax rates across-the-board over three years. A 25 percent cut would provide every American with greater incentive to work, save and invest.

It would also encourage some "underground" economic activity upon which he currently does not pay tax 10 come to the surface where it would be taxed. This proposal would improve the economic climate for business by increasing worker productivity and generating new savings which would then be available for business investments. More specifically, it would provide major relief to the nearly 90 percent of businesses, mainly small businesses, who pay their taxes at steeply graduated personal rates.

The president also proposes to accelerate and simplify depreciation schedules for plants and equipment in order to encourage new investment and greater productivity. While it has been charged that this proposal would not be of any great consequence to smaller businesses, the facts show otherwise. In 1975, the latest year for which such figures are available, small businesses with total assets of less than $5 million claimed 40 percent of the total depreciation for all businesses. Clearly, this proposal, along with vastly reduced estate and gift taxes, a new tax credit for research and development, and other measures would benefit the entire business community.

warrant it. To attract business support, this package includes an "expensing" provision which, after a 10 year phase in period, would allow businesses a one year write off of investments. The alternative plan also calls for a reduction in corporate tax rates from 46 to 34 percent to begin in 1984 and be completed by 1984.

But wait a minute. How can the same folks who insist that they can't foresee whether economic conditions in 1984 will justify a three year individual tax cut argue that the same time for a corporate tax cut that doesn't even take effect until 1984?

This built-in delay should sound alarm bells throughout the business community, as it did to Rep. Kent Hance, a Democrat who is co-author of the Reagan tax bill in the House. "Any corporation dumb enough to buy that idea is living in a dream world," he told a gathering of business representatives at the U.S. Chamber recently. If Congress finds itself in a budgetary pinch several years from now, he said, cancelling a business tax cut would be the quickest and, politically, the easiest way out.

ALL BUSINESS people, from the heads of giant corporations to the sole proprietors of small businesses, should view their allegiance to one of these two tax plans as the most important investment the business community will ever make — not just for ourselves but for the entire nation. As such, we would do well to consider not only the specific provisions of each package, but the depth of their proponents' commitment to the private enterprise system.

From the very first day of his presidential campaign, Ronald Reagan made a solemn pledge to provide every worker and business in America with substantial tax relief. The House leadership, which has supported and admired Sen. Edward Kennedy (who, during his campaign, promised wage and price controls, gasoline rationing, more regulation and higher taxes), only recently and very reluctantly began its flirtation with a tax cut.

The president has formulated his tax package in the context of a comprehensive, coherent economic program which addresses all the ills of our economy and all the excesses of our government. The House leadership's plan, however individually attractive some features may be, is the product of a philosophy which is gasping its last breaths, and like a drowning victim, grabbing on to anything to keep afloat.

Business, like all Americans, really have only one choice — the Reagan bipartisan tax relief package.

The Last Gulp

Wayne's business parking lots, sidestreets and roadways into town are strewn with empty beer bottles and cans.

For some reason, beer drinkers apparently feel they can abandon the empty containers wherever they happen to be when the swallow the last gulp.

It's rare to be able to pull into a parking lot in the city without dodging the abandoned bottles, which are particularly hazardous to vehicle tires and pedestrians.

Anyone with the time to listen to vehicles arriving and leaving city parking lots is likely to hear the sound of popping and shattering glass bottles.

The crushed glass that is left behind usually remains to chew up tires and cut the bare feet of summertime shoppers. Crushed cans do the same lots, evidence of a throw-away society's inability to clean up after itself.

And, of course, city merchants are often left with the mess — cleaning up the beer drinkers' garbage day after day after day.

Some artful litterers take the time to line them up in neat little rows along the curb, but apparently cannot find the time to take a trip to a trash can.

On the highways into town, however, they are just discarded along the shoulder of the road and the side of the handiest ditch.

Once there, they become a permanent part of the life found along Wayne's increasingly dirty ditches.

And, it's clear that no matter how many times responsible residents pick up after the irresponsible ones, the litterers will just continue to leave a trail of broken beer bottles and smashed cans throughout one of the prettiest cities in Nebraska.

Perhaps those people who find it so difficult to drive around town without drinking and tossing empty cans about should be collared and sentenced to a number of hours at hard labor with parking lot, sidewalk and road-ditch cleanup crews.

Littering of any kind is a crime, but law-enforcement officers have plenty to do without chasing down beer bottles and cans. However, if you live in or around Wayne, don't look the other way when beer drinkers dump all over your city — report them to the city police department or the county sheriff's department.

Anyone old enough to drink beer should be old enough to recognize a trash barrel and use it. Fortunately, most people do just that. But, there are those few who would spoil an entire countryside with their trashy habits. And, some of those would stand next to a trash barrel only to throw their rubbish on the ground next to it.

That's not only a crime, but also an outrageous display of disrespect for other people and for property.

No one should have to put up with that kind of garbage. It's about time the beer-bottle throwers and the beer can tossers cleaned up their own act.

Where There's Smoke

Legislation recently passed by the Nebraska State Legislature pertaining to residential smoke detectors has brought up questions as to the types of detectors the State Fire Marshal will require for residential dwellings.

Smoke detectors will be required to be approved by a recognized national testing laboratory. They may be of either the ionization or photoelectric type.

Expensive, complicated systems will not be required to provide adequate smoke detection protection for homes and dwelling units. Inexpensive house current or battery-powered smoke detectors can be purchased for very low cost.

When installed according to manufacturer's instructions, these detectors will provide a more than adequate degree of smoke detection protection for homes in the better interest of fire safety in the State of Nebraska.

There is no need to rush into complicated or expensive systems as some people are promoting. Look around, check prices and compare types before buying and remember — smoke detectors never sleep.

Farmers and Fires

A little extra caution could save farmers some big losses from farm equipment fires this season.

Last year, fires caused by farm equipment did more than $1 million worth of damage to crops, farm land and improvements in Nebraska. Common farm equipment such as tractors, combines, pickups and even cars are capable of starting fires, Westover said.

Fires occur most often during harvesting operations in July and October. These fires frequently destroy high value crops and often harvesting equipment as well. To help guard against these fires, here are some suggestions:

- Installing spark arrestors on exhaust systems.
- Keeping manifolds, belts and bearings clean from chaff and grass.
- Avoiding idling and parking vehicles in tall grass.
- Keeping a fire extinguisher in each piece of harvest equipment.

St. Agnes Church in Omaha Site Of Gries-Milow Wedding Rites

St. Agnes Catholic Church in Omaha was the scene of the wedding of Kay Jeanne Gries and Michael James Milow on July 3. The Rev. William Kieftman celebrated the nuptial mass double ring ceremony at 6 p.m. The bride, a graduate of Wayne State College, teaches at St. Agnes. The bridegroom attended the University of Nebraska Omaha and is employed at Texas Gulf in Weeping Water.

JOHN Groesser, soloist, and a choir composed of students of the bride sang "The Wedding Prayer," "The Wedding Song," "Let There Be Peace," and "On This Day."

Organist was Sister M. Fortis. Mass servers who lighted candles, were Peter Ramirez, Pat Vornacka, John Divoky and Joe Gannon students of the bride.

MR. AND MRS. Howard Gries of Omaha are parents of the bride. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Milow of Denison, Iowa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace bouffant with a Queen Anne neckline of beaded chantilly and long, tapered lace sleeves. Each tier of the full tiered skirt was trimmed with a wide row of satin lace. The chapel length train was bordered with Chantilly lace and scattered with matching lace motifs encrested with pearls.

Her cap was designed with nylon sheer crystal pleating, and she carried a bouquet of red and white roses and stephanotis trimmed with white satin knotted ribbons with rosebuds attached.

MRS. RONA Todd of Waterloo, Iowa was the bride's personal attendant.

Mrs. Beverly Startzer of Springfield was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lori Milow, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Maxine Marshall.

Their floor length gowns were identically styled in red organza over tulle fitted at the waistline. The flounced hemline swept up at the waist. The matching red capes also were accented with the flounce.

They carried nosegays of red roses and white stephanotis trimmed with red and white ribbon. The flowers in their hair were red baby's breath and white daisies.

JUNIOR bridesmaids were Barbara Whitehead, Gayla Gries and Kady Gries. Their floor-length gowns were identically styled in red and white dotted swiss, accented with a white satin bow at the waistline. The ruffled necklines and skirts were trimmed in lace.

They carried nosegays of red roses and wore daisies and baby's breath in their hair.

Elizabeth Startzer of Springfield was flower girl.

THE BRIDEGROOM was attired in a long white tailcoat with a white shirt and tie. His lapel was accented with a red rosebud with white baby's breath.

Best man was Mark Milow of Tulsa, Okla. brother of the bridegroom. Groomsman were Brad Milow also a brother of the bridegroom, and Robert Startzer.

They wore white tuxedos with red ruffled shirts. Their boutonnières were red rosebuds.

Ushers were Roland Roberts, Doug Gries, Steven Mincer and Ken Aiken.

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a floor-length dress of red Quiana with a fitted waistline and V neckline. The full cape was of matching material.

The bridegroom's mother selected a red floor-length gown with a white lace cape.

Both wore corsages of red roses and white stephanotis trimmed with white ribbon.

A RECEPTION and dance followed in the church social hall. Guests were registered by Juliana Schellpeper and hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Gries.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. James Gries Sr. and Mrs. Dave Roberts.

Also assisting were Mrs. Irvin Latimore, Mrs. Ben Lentzen, Mrs. E. E. Roberts and Mrs. Larry Whitehead.

Programs were distributed by Mrs. James Gries Jr. and Mrs. Doug Gries. Flowers were pinned by Mrs. Bill Rotert and Mrs. Roland Roberts.

Arranging gifts were Pam Rotert Gift bearers were Jim Gries III, David Gries and Randy Gries.

Taxi-master was James Gries, and senior head waiter was John Rotert. Waitresses were students of the bride.

THE COUPLE was honored at a pre-nuptial dinner the evening before the ceremony hosted by the bridegroom's parents. About 40 guests attended.

Kristine Nedergaard Marries Breck Giese in Iowa Wedding

United in marriage July 11 in an 11 a.m. double ring ceremony at Trinity Lutheran Church, Sioux City, were Kristine Nedergaard and Breck Giese. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon M. Nedergaard and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Giese, all of Wayne.

The Rev. Frederick Lubs of Sioux City officiated at the ceremony.

SUE Owens of Lincoln accompanied herself on guitar as she sang "God, a Woman and a Man," "He Has Chosen You for Me" and "Hear Us Now, Our God and Father."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a loose-fitting ivory dress of candlelight satin polyester, fashioned with a bateau neckline, elasticized waistline, asymmetrical tulip hemline, and flutter sleeves with slit openings.

MATRON of honor was the bride's sister, Karen Lemmon of Whitney. Her street length, floral print frock was of peach voile. The straight A-line fashion featured a matching overlay.

Shane Giese of Wayne served his brother as best man.

Both the bridegroom and his attendant were attired in tailored suits.

FOLLOWING their marriage, the couple took a wedding trip to Kansas City and are at home on a farm northeast of Wayne.

The bride was graduated from Wayne Carroll High School and from Wayne State College with a medical technology degree. Prior to her marriage she was employed at St. Luke's Hospital

Pied Pipers Theatre To Perform in Pilger

Stanton County Extension Clubs announced last week that the Pied Pipers Family Comedy Theatre will be performing in Pilger on Saturday, July 25, at 6 p.m. in the Pilger park.

Their performance is being held in conjunction with the Pilger Firemen's barbecue. Admission will be free for the Pied Pipers performance.

THE hour plus show will be a review of comedy sketches, fairy tales, jokes and juggling, music and magic, and audience participation.

The fast-paced program is designed to appeal to all ages.

THE PIED Pipers are now in their 12th year of performing. Their appearance in Pilger is part of a 1981 tour that will take the group to 70 different towns in six states throughout the Midwest.

In addition to the Extension clubs sponsorship, financial support of the performance has been provided by the Nebraska Arts Council.

Contaminated Mushrooms May Be on Your Shelf!

To be on the safe side, take out all the caps of mushrooms you have stored away on your pantry shelf and check the code number.

Over 5,500 food and variety stores in the Midwest received mushrooms recently from Oxford Royal Mushroom Products, Inc., of Kellton, Penn., sold under a variety of brand names.

CONSUMERS can identify the mushrooms by the code number which consists of the second letter K on the top line over P1, P2, LP1, or LP2.

Examples of code numbers to be concerned about are DK 113 over P1 or DK 129 over LP2. If you find mushrooms with this coding, return them immediately to the store where purchased and advise the manager it is recalled merchandise to be removed from the shelf.

BOTULISM is a severe form of food poisoning, and certainly should not be dismissed lightly. There are other forms of food poisoning that happen all the time, especially during the summer, that people brush off as a "bug that's going around."

When picnicking this summer and brown bagging, make a special effort to keep hot foods HOT and cold foods COLD. Bacteria that cause food poisoning thrive at temperatures between 60 degrees and 125 degrees Fahrenheit.

Food should not be held in this temperature range for more than two hours, counting preparation time.

BE ESPECIALLY cautious with foods containing milk, mayonnaise, and meat. Make sure that foods to be held in this temperature range have been cooked thoroughly and prepared under very sanitary conditions.

Use your ice chest instead of a picnic basket for outings and carry a cold device in your lunch bag.

Midget Triumph Sets Up Showdown with Wakefield

Only one team stands in the way of Wayne's bid for a Ralph Bishop League Midget championship. The Midgets bulldozed another Ralph Bishop team underground Friday with a 10-3 victory over Wisner.

Now, the whole bag of marbles will be up for grabs as Wayne faces Wakefield tonight (Monday) in the regular season finale. Both teams will meet again in district play which opens Wednesday.

ONCE AGAIN, the Wayne team had plenty of ammunition. The locals collected 10 hits including two triples and two doubles. The visitors broke onto the scoreboard with a single run in the first inning. Steve Overin belted a triple and scored on a sacrifice by Jeff McCright. A double by Jeff Jorgensen and single by Tim Heier resulted in another two runs in the second as a fielding error and two walks helped the cause. Wisner got back two of its runs in the bottom of the inning.

It took a two out rally in the third inning to keep the scoring streak alive. Jorgensen drew a walk, Heier reached on a fielder's choice and Chad Dorcsey doubled. Then, Todd Pfeiffer lined a two run triple all the way to the outfield fence. Overin also added a hit.

BASE HITS by Schwartz and Jorgensen resulted in a run in the bottom of the fourth. Shaun Niemann and Tim Heier brought the score to 10-3 as both players scored in the sixth inning.

Pfeiffer, who pitched all six innings for the winners, gave up seven hits and struck out nine batters.

Wayne's Midgets are scheduled to open district play at Coleridge on Wednesday. The locals will face Wakefield at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Wayne's season record is 16-2 and league record is 12-1.

Norfolk Shelled

A baseball game against Norfolk's B' Midgets turned out to be a batting practice for the Wayne Midgets, Wednesday night.

The locals pounded the hosts for 11 hits in the pre-district warm up game. R. J. Metteer went the distance on the mound for Wayne and threw a seven hitter. Metteer helped his own cause by rapping three base hits and driving in five RBI's in three at bats.

WAYNE HOPPED out in front with six runs in the first inning off of Norfolk's starter, Jeff McCright and Todd Schwartz had run scoring doubles in the first inning and Metteer had a two run single.

Kevin Maly ripped a run scoring double in the third inning. Metteer drove him in with a base hit and McCright was responsible for driving two runs in as as Wayne added another five runs to its total.

In the fourth inning, a base hit by Todd Pfeiffer and a two run hit by Steve Overin accounted for three more runs. Wayne added five final runs in the top of the fifth with base hits by Chad Dorcsey and Metteer.

Metteer gave up one hit in the first, second and third innings, two in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Metteer and Overin had three base hits each, McCright had two and Maly, Todd Pfeiffer, Pat Meigna, Schwartz had one each.

District Baseball Pairings Are Set

Wayne and Wakefield's Midgets and Juniors and Winside's Juniors are scheduled to open district baseball action this week in Coleridge.

The Wayne Midgets will play Wakefield at 6 p.m. Wednesday (July 22). The winner of that game will meet Randolph at 6 p.m. Thursday (July 23). Coleridge and Emerson will play in the other bracket. Finals will match Thursday's winners at 6 p.m. Sunday (July 26).

In Legion action, Randolph and Emerson are scheduled to play each other at 8 p.m. on Wednesday (July 22). Wayne's Legion team will meet the winner at 6 p.m. Friday (July 24). At 8 p.m. on Friday, Winside and Wakefield will clash. Friday's winners are scheduled to meet at 8 p.m. on Sunday (July 26).

The winners of the Class C districts will advance to area playoffs. Area champions will in turn qualify for state. In other district action, Laurel's Legion team is scheduled to compete in the double elimination tournament at O'Neill. Laurel will play the South Sioux City-Ord winner at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 29.

Class C District at Coleridge

Legion: 8 p.m. Wednesday—Randolph vs. Emerson; 8 p.m. Friday—Wayne vs. Randolph Emerson winner; 8 p.m. Friday—Winside vs. Wakefield; 8 p.m. Sunday—Finals between Friday's winners.

Midgets: 6 p.m. Wednesday—Wayne vs. Wakefield; 6 p.m. Thursday—Randolph vs. Wayne-Wakefield winner; 8 p.m. Thursday—Coleridge vs. Emerson; 6 p.m. Sunday—Finals between Thursday's winners.

Wayne Legion Tripped Up In Shot at High Finish

Things got off to a rocky start and the rest of the game was like an avalanche as Wayne's Legion team was bombarded 12-2 by Wisner Friday night.

Wisner, shooting for at least a share of the Ralph Bishop League title, put Wayne away in five innings. The hosts took advantage of their opportunities to push a dozen runs across the plate.

THINGS LOOKED good for Wayne in the first inning as Jere Morris singled and Jeff Allen reached base on an error.

However, Morris was tagged out when he was caught in a rundown between third base and home plate and Allen was stranded as the next two batters grounded out.

After silencing Wisner in the bottom of the inning, Wayne struck for two runs in the top of the second. Pat McCright opened the inning with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Heier. Both runners scored and Jim Sperry nearly added a third run but was called out in a close play at the plate.

It turned out that those were the only two runs Wayne would score against Wisner. The locals struggled with only one base hit in the next three innings.

THE GAME TURNED around in the bottom of the second inning. Two base hits, a walk and a sacrifice resulted in a pair of runs.

Then, things fell apart for Wayne. Wisner scored three runs on three walks, one hit, two wild pitches and a passed ball in the third inning. Trailing 5-2, Wayne seemed to lack the intensity to put together a rally. With two outs in the fourth inning, the hosts strung together a triple, double, two singles and a Wayne error to get four more runners across the plate.

Wisner added some salt to Wayne's wounds by putting an end to the game because of the 10 run rule. A home run over the right field fence and two deep doubles supplied plenty of power as the hosts added a mark to their win column.

Tim Pfeiffer started the game and suffered the loss on the mound. Bill Vriska and Jim Sperry pitched in relief. Wayne is scheduled to finish up its season tonight (Monday) at Wakefield.

On Thursday, Class C districts will pair Wayne against the Randolph-Emerson winner at 6 p.m. Friday (July 24). Districts will be played at Coleridge.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

HERE IT IS mid-July and it seems to me like the summer is already over. But, we still have four or five weeks until school starts and at least six weeks before the first football game.

The week ahead is a big one as far as area baseball is concerned. Midget and Legion teams will be opening district action in hopes of earning a state tourney berth.

Laurel and Winside will not field Midget teams for districts. Wayne and Wakefield will. All four teams will have Legion teams competing in district.

Wayne, Wakefield and Winside will compete in Class C districts at Coleridge. Wakefield's Legion will play Winside and Wayne's Legion will meet the winner of the Randolph-Emerson game.

In the Midget division, the two area teams will play each other. Wayne and Wakefield will play a preliminary round competition at Coleridge. The winner of the game will play Winside in the district play.

the Ralph Bishop League championship tonight (Monday).

Another powerful R.B. League team, Emerson faces Coleridge in the next round. Emerson may be as strong as or stronger than Wayne or Wakefield but has two league losses. Nonetheless, the second place team is sitting in a good spot.

The Class C districts at Coleridge are single elimination. So, no team can afford a letdown. Meanwhile, Laurel will open district play at O'Neill on the following week. More on that district later.

SLOW PITCH SOFTBALL teams also will begin district play soon. I believe the last weekend in July and first weekend in August are the dates of districts in Norfolk. Local slow pitch teams are knocking the stuffing out of the ball in league games trying to prepare for district action.

WE BROKE our own season in Friday night by taking him to his first baseball game. However, we didn't pick a very good ball game.

The Midget game between Wayne and Wisner was pretty good—at least from Wayne's standpoint—but the Legion game was lousy. Wayne didn't play anywhere near its potential and a fine Wisner team got better as the game progressed.

Very few fans who attended the game expected to see a 10-run rule victory in five innings.

THE TOUGH COURSE used in the British Open golf tournament took its toll on the world's best golfers Thursday. Nobody broke par—and poor old Jack Nicklaus ballooned to a first round score of 83.

Second round scores were quite a bit better but still not as low as players would have liked. Ben Crenshaw is long overdue to win a big tournament so maybe this will be his big weekend.

sports briefs

Tennis Tourney Deadline Extended

The deadline for entry acceptance into the Wayne Community Tennis Open has been extended until tomorrow (Tuesday). The original entry deadline was Friday.

The tournament, which is scheduled Saturday and Sunday, July 25 and 26, consists of the following divisions: 14 and under boys singles, 14 and under girls singles, 18 and under boys singles and doubles, 18 and under girls singles and doubles, women's open singles and doubles, men's open singles and doubles and men's novice singles.

Entry forms may be picked up at The Wayne Herald. Entry fee is $4 per single event and $6 per team in doubles. Each player may enter no more than two events. Entry forms should be sent to tournament directors Nick and Keith Zimmer, 519 Crescent Drive, Wayne 68787. For more information call 375-1176.

Tennis balls for the tourney will be donated by the Wayne Lions Club and Jaycees.

Royals Camp Planned July 27

A Kansas City Royals baseball tryout camp is scheduled Monday, July 27 at the Wakefield city ball park. Boys, age 14 and older are welcome to attend the camp which begins at 1 p.m.

Following the camp, which is conducted by Kansas City Royals scout Carl Blando, players will be divided into teams and a game will be played. Anyone interested in the tryout should show up by 1 p.m. with regular baseball equipment.

Froeschle Third in Tourney

Cole Froeschle of Wayne tied for third place in the Nebraska junior golf tournament played Wednesday at the Fremont Golf Club. Froeschle had 18-hole rounds of 76, 81 and 78 in the 54-hole tourney.

Competing in the boys 14 and 15 age division, Froeschle was tied at 235 with Jim Placke of Omaha. First place was won by Stacy Madsen of Omaha with a 233 and second place was captured by Mike Peterson of Oakland with a 234.

Froeschle also learned recently that he has qualified for the state Big 1 Junior Golf Tournament.

Park Entry Permits Needed

Game and Parks Commission officers have issued many citations this year to people who failed to purchase park entry permits before visiting areas where the permits are required.

The $3 park entry permit is required when entering all major parks, some 49 state recreation areas, and two state wayside areas. The permits can be purchased from all Game and Parks Commission offices; all named state parks areas; designated commission employees and all hunting and fishing permit vendors.

Lions Club Golf Tourney

The Wakefield Lions Club has scheduled its eighth annual Father-Son Golf Tournament for Sunday, Aug. 2 at the Logan Valley Golf Course.

Related individuals or pairs with at least one generation difference in age are eligible to participate. Entries are open to non-related pairs as long as there is a 20-year gap between the two golfers.

The first round of the 18-hole tourney will begin at 9 a.m. Three or more flights are planned. For an attached entry form, golfers should contact the Logan Valley Golf Course at 237-2243.

Cheerleaders Sparkle and Shine During Intense Week of Training

By Theresa Wulf

A note pinned on David Martin's door stated, "This week will be definitely intense, if not awesome."

Intense it was. More than 140 giggling, screaming and jumping girls filled Berry Hall, of which Martin is resident director. The girls trained for 11 hours daily last week at the International Cheerleading Foundation camp, held at the Wayne State College campus.

THE CAMP started late last Sunday afternoon with a demonstration. The girls also learned their first — and the most difficult — cheer that day.

Monday's session started at 8 a.m. with a half hour of warmups and chants, said instructor Tina Tapia.

For the next hour, the girls — divided into three groups — learned four cheers, rotating among the instructors.

After a half hour popcicle break, they learned fight song and dance routines.

Squad practice until noon followed a 15 minute water break.

THE AFTERNOON started off with a review of the morning's chants and cheers. Tina said from 1:30-2:30 p.m., the girls learned new stunts and mounts, followed by another half hour popcicle break.

Rap sessions on fund raising, pep rallies, leadership and spirit preceded a one hour and 15 minute required squad practice. "This is the time we give the girls personal help," Tina explained.

Dinner break was from 5-6 p.m. The fun part evaluations began at 6:30.

EACH SQUAD was evaluated nightly on a non competitive basis. Instructors rated them on everything they did from the moment their high school name was called until the time they set down.

They broke up into six skill groups while the instructors tallied their evaluations and decided on ribbons and spirit awards.

And they were still chanting and yelling at 8:30 p.m. when the teachers returned.

THE INSTRUCTORS shuffled through their cards. They explained each ribbon before awarding it.

With the girls rocking back and forth to the whispered chant "Sparkle and shine, sparkle and shine," those groups were honored who had sparkled and shined throughout the day.

Other ribbons were given out for cheering skills, creativity, originality and cheer execution.

The girls also could have earned ribbons for outstanding jumps, super spirit, giving 100 per cent, outstanding improvement and overall excellence.

THE TENSION reached its peak for the day when the spirit awards were handed out.

Those receiving spirit awards "have to be very impressive," according to instructor and camp director Keith Banks. "They have to work together, be constantly excited and work well with others."

Red and gold ICF Frisbees were tossed to runners-up for the Firecracker — the top squad spirit award. Wayne High School was among these winners Monday night.

Instructor Terry Hansford begged Tina and Keith not to fight that firecracker — that she'd "tell Mom" if they didn't put it out.

Keith and Tina decided, after all, that they didn't want it. So they tossed it to Terry, who tossed it to Tina, who tossed it to Keith, and so on, until they finally gave it to a squad from Parkville High School in Kansas City, Mo.

A SECOND firecracker was tossed, and then came the biggie — the "Coog" award.

This little bean-bag frog goes to the girl who shows spirit and stands out throughout the day.

"We watch everything from friendliness to arm motions," Keith said.

The cheerleaders hid their eyes and hummed the theme from the "Pink Panther." The instructors walked between the girls, clamping a hand over the mouth of each of the four nominees and bringing them to the front.

Eyes popped open to see four thrilled cheerleaders at the front. Then, the search for the Coog began.

The instructors went on a safari to find one of the leapers. They found it hidden between two stacked Frisbees.

WHEN THE instructor's hand clamped down on Monday Coog winner Sharyn Knutson's mouth, she said she "wanted to scream. But I couldn't." Her reward came after coming to camp for two years previous ly and seeing everyone else get it.

Sharyn was surrounded by the rest of the girls and congratulated. She immediately started crying.

"I spat out," she said.

With the day finally at an end, the girls chanted all the way back to the dorm, much as they had done between sessions the entire day.

THE ICF "filling station" was open for an hour for campers to purchase ICF t-shirts, patches and pins.

Before turning in at 10:30 p.m., Tina gathered all the girls living on first floor around the lobby pay phone. She wanted them to sing "Happy Birthday" to her boyfriend in Albuquerque.

He already had gone out to celebrate though, when she placed the call. But they sang it for his mother so she could tell him about it.

Tina hung up about 10 seconds before lights out, and the girls raced to their rooms.

THEIR CHARGES safe in bed, the instructors met in Martin's air conditioned apartment to relax and cool off.

The three are among 80 ICF instructors. These were chosen from a group of 300 "very thoroughly screened" applicants.

The petite blonde, an accounting major at Auburn University, added in a southern drawl that there is no set number of years experience necessary. "It just has to show."

About one-third of those who make it are men. Keith — a pre-physical therapy major at Kansas State — said he explained that when the instructors go through the camp themselves at the beginning of the summer "we have to go by the same rules as the girls do."

These rules tell campers to always wear shoes, don't practice in the buildings or around trees and shrubs, always use spotters and progress gradually when trying stunts, and no drugs or alcohol — a rule "strictly enforced," he noted.

TINA FANNED herself in the cool air and complained of the hot, humid weather, which the New Mexico native wasn't used to.

Keith, a member of the KSU cheerleading squad which placed second at the National Collegiate Cheerleading Championships, fanned himself and complained that the weather was "like a sauna." Terry, however,

"But you're always moving, and you're constantly up," so you don't think about the weather," Tina noted.

"You don't have time to," Terry added.

Winside Kids On Parade...

JOSHUA Jaeger, 3, top photo, and his sister Dannika, 22 months, won a first place in the Winside Old Settlers Reunion Kids Parade. The entered the wheel division dressed in western shirts, boots, a hat and a bonnet. The youngsters appeared to be headed to town on their buckboard for supplies. Their parents are Dave and Joni Jaeger of Winside. At left, Donnie and Denise Nelson, children of Don and Donna Nelson of Winside, pause with their winning entry in the pets and kids division of the parade, which opened the second day of festivities last week at the annual celebration. Donnie and Denise strolled down Main Street with their costumed dog in a baby carriage. Donnie wore boots, bibs and a straw hat. His sister dressed in a long, country-style dress, shawl and an old-fashioned hat. The dog wore a bonnet.

The dish, which is made of reflective fiberglass, is the most visible as it collects low-energy signals from hovering communications satellites that match the earth's rotation speed high above the equator.

Always facing south of southwest, the dish can be moved about 25 degrees by means of a hand crank mounted at the rear.

Inside the dish, mounted on a tripod, is the low-noise amplifier (LNA) which catches the satellite signal on a bounce from the reflective concave surface of the dish. The LNA functions much like a rotor and can be repositioned to catch any number of programs available from one satellite.

The LNA sends the signal to a small electronic box at the rear of the dish. The box acts as a screening device, controlling the signal by allowing the one selected by a television viewer to be received and by blocking the other signals.

Once the control box selects the channel signal it is sent, via electrical wiring, to the in-house receiver—a unit that represents half the total package cost at $2,500. The receiver boosts the signal and converts it for screen presentation.

Though it can only serve one television set at a time, the receiver is portable. The Prengers plug their receiver into wall jacks that are similar to those used for telephones. The house is wired with receiver wall jacks on both floors.

Regular rural house mounted television antenna reception is not affected by the satellite station system according to Prenger.

That means any television set being used without the satellite station will continue to function normally, while only a few feet away the satellite setup is tapping into around-the-world programming made available through satellite networks.

SATCOM II offers the Prengers from 40 to 50 station selections. Its sister satellite, Satcom I, is slowly falling from orbit. However, the programming carried will be switched to other satellites for continued service.

Only a sampling of the dozens of stations available on Satcom II, which the Prengers are most often watching, includes several 24-hour, non-commercial movie stations, a 24-hour sports station on ESPN, Christian broadcasting on CBN, daily live coverage of Congress, a network from Madison Square Garden in New York City, a black entertainment network, an English channel, a showtime channel from the West Coast, and the national educational television network (AETN).

The names of the communications satellites read like a listing out of a Star Wars movie. In addition to Satcom I and Satcom II, there's Comstar I, Comstar II, Comstar III, Westar I and Westar II, to name just a few.

And, there's a series of three Canadian satellites.

The programming on each satellite varies, depending on who owns the satellite and the purpose it was launched to serve. For instance, General Electric owns one of the communications satellites.

One transmits a huge volume of American business transactions. Others have telephone and telegraph traffic. Of the 11 orbiting, only one is without some form of television programming, according to Mathieson, Carmichael's partner.

THE PRENGER'S also are awaiting the Satguide—a monthly satellite television programming guide—to help them sort through the more than 100 signals being offered through their new system, which also offers 24-hour news stations, 24-hour cartoon programs.

"We've gone from five to 120 stations," Prenger explained. "It's really the answer for rural people, who just cannot get access to cable, or those who cannot get a decent signal."

Married in 1961, the Prengers got into the beer distributing business in their hometown, South Sioux City. They came to Wayne from the Fremont area, where they were in the beer distributing business for about five years.

In the beer distributing business here and in O'Neill for about 16 years, the Prengers lived about a mile north of Wayne until two years ago.

That's when the family, which includes three daughters, Lori, 19, Deb 16, and Tracy 12, moved into the new home they built southwest of town.

They sold the business, now Wayne Distributing, to owner-operator Rod Huffman and his three North Dakota partners. The foursome also bought the Prenger's O'Neill operation.

THOUGH ONE daughter has graduated from Stewar's Beauty School and is working in Sioux City, the two youngest are at home. Deb is a sophomore at Wayne

High School and Tracy is a seventh-grader attending District 51 school.

When they aren't checking out the new system with their parents, the two youngest daughters are raising a dozen head of calves and taking care of three horses with the help of their father.

The family owns a quarter of land anchored by the Prenger farmstead. They lease it, preferring to have it farmed while they raise calves and horses.

And, they've had more than a few curious visitors to their farmstead during the last three weeks.

"We've had some people from town who are on cable," Linda said. "They said we were getting better reception," in addition to the vast selection of stations.

ANOTHER satellite is scheduled for launching this fall, according to Prenger.

He said the satellite is expected to carry stock market information and such things as grain futures.

Additional stations expected in the near future, according to Mathieson, include the BBC in America, TeleFrance and another sports network. Several others are in the works, too, he said.

And, the Prengers figure their unit will be around long enough to enjoy this fall's additional programming and that of many autumns to come.

"Bad weather...and we've had some bad winds out here...doesn't bother it a bit," Prenger said. "The signal just keeps coming in."

THIS PIE cupboard, above, was brought to Concord from Pender and has survived the Cafe's changes. The soda counter, below, was once part of the drugstore.

The cafe's past was not left behind with the move. Booths and a "pretty old" pie cupboard furnish the restaurant, along with several tables decked with checkered tablecloths in all colors.

A "probably 50 year old" cash register purchased from the Ben Franklin store in Wayne sits on the end of the counter. "It doesn't have a tape and 'taint electronic but it works," MarIndale reasoned.

Around the corner from the cash register is an old soda fountain counter, now covered with paneling.

A CHALKBOARD advertising the daily special hangs to the right of the counter. Below it, donuts and a 10 gallon coffee pot are spread out on a table for customers to help themselves. These refreshments are offered free to those celebrating anniversary or birthdays.

Naomi said the cafe is also the local farmers hangout where they congregate to drink coffee and solve their problems.

Actually, they lie to each other, MarIndale smiled.

Fern said that they don't solve anything this way, but "it makes them feel better."

Naomi added, "It's more fun to listen to them tell about old times, especially in the winter. You should have a tape recorder."

NINE OF Concord's senior citizens are fed through the Meals on Wheels Program, which is associated with the cafe.

The Cafe is open from 8 a.m. 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Although it's a small place in an even smaller town, customers remember it and keep coming back.

Some guys from York (96 miles south) eat here everytime they're in the area," the ladies said.

Weather Hot During June

Temperatures were 2.35 degrees above normal in Northeast Nebraska in June according to the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The highest temperature of 105 degrees was reported at McCook and Cambridge. Norfolk reported 100 degrees on June 23 and Wakefield recorded 97 degrees on June 13.

The low temp for Northeast Nebraska was 47 degrees on June 19.

While temperatures were above average, rainfall was below average across the state. Only three Junes in the East Central division have been drier than this one, the Institute reported.

Except for Wakefield and Oakland, all stations in Northeast Nebraska reported below average precipitation.

Q. Having just received a small inheritance, I would like to make some sort of a relatively safe, return investment. I'm currently undecided between a Certificate of Deposit and Money Market Funds. Are there advantages in a CD of which I should be aware?

A. The key word you mentioned was "safe". One of the most important advantages in a Certificate of Deposit is since you are purchasing the CD through a savings association, both your principle and interest are insured through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Association. Money market funds, not purchased through a savings association, cannot carry this protection for your investment. Certificates of Deposit will assure you a safe investment with a good, consistent return. Your association financial advisor is a good source of advice regarding present and future financial plans.

Has tight money put a squeeze on your confinement plans?

If it has, then you haven't talked to us. We're the Production Credit Association—agricultural lenders whose only business is agriculture. Our funds are virtually unlimited when it comes to financing a sound production idea—even in times of tight money.

At PCA we bring in outside, privately invested money and then loan it out on a local basis, all on the best of terms. When it comes to agricultural credit, tight money doesn't put a squeeze on the confinement plans of a PCA borrower.

We're agriculture's leading lending brand.

Let's talk!

There's No Place Like Home ...

... nobody loves you like your hometown merchant!

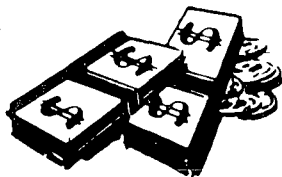

If we asked you, "to whom are you most important?", your answer would have to be... "Why, the people at home, of course!"

Have you shopped away from home recently? Did you feel like a stranger? Had to show 3 identifications before they'd cash your check? Gave your questions a brushoff, etc.?

Here at home, our businessmen are your neighbors and friends.

They're interested in your needs, work with you on local projects. You always come first with them because you're a home-town customer.

Why not shop at home more and, by adding to the trade volume, make our community stronger?
