$1.9 Million School Budget Proposed

Property owners within the Wayne Carroll School District could face a public education tax bill of $39.69 per $1,000 of assessed valuation under the proposed 1981-82 budget.

That means an owner with a $70,000 home assessed at about 35 percent of actual value — could be billed for about $972.40 in school taxes next year. If the school board adopts the proposed $1.9 million budget.

The $972.40 tax bill, however, is based on last year's district valuation of $30,839,350, since current valuation figures are incomplete, according to Superintendent Francis Haun, who presented the proposed budget during Monday night's board meeting.

Board members set a public hearing on the proposed budget, which calls for a local property tax increase of 6.95 percent for $73.691 over last year, for 8:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 10 at Wayne High School.

THE PROPOSED budget represents a $2.30 per $1,000 (assessed value) increase over last year's $37.39 tax rate, based on last year's valuation, according to Haun.

Haun explained in his budget presentation to the board that in 1982 the concept of mill levy tax rates will no longer be used.

Under the old system, a tax rate of $39.69 per $1,000 of assessed valuation translates into a 39.69 mill levy.

In letter to the board and patrons of the school district, Haun said the proposed budget complies with the legislative mandates on 7 percent lids and special education programs.

"It also reflects anticipated cuts in federal funding for school lunches, vocational education and Title I programs," Haun said.

HAUN SAID the proposed $1,976,669 budget for 1981-82 "probably represents the last year we can go without cutting programs under the 7 percent lid."

"For 1981-82, the district has been able to continue to offer a curriculum which emphasizes basic skills, gives a variety of advanced offerings for the college bound student and provides a number of curriculum choices for the student interested in vocational education," Haun explained.

Since the contract negotiations between the board and the Wayne Education Association are at impasse and headed for fact-finding, Haun said the projected costs for salary increases for the instructional staff "are not precise."

Depending on the placement of teachers on the district's current salary schedule, Haun said instructional salaries have been estimated to increase from 9.5 percent to 14 percent.

TEACHERS' salaries, not including benefits, represent nearly half the total proposed budget package at $852,900.

That figure represents a $487,600 budget proposal for elementary teachers salaries and a $365,300 proposal for secondary teachers salaries.

Some $7,600 has been budgeted for substitute teachers under the 1981-82 proposal. And, a total of $24,700 has been proposed for clerical and teacher aide salaries.

Under last year's budget, teachers' salaries totaled $791,700 plus $6,800 for substitute teachers. Some $18,300 was earmarked for clerical and teacher aide salaries.

Last year's total budget came in at $1,820,355, including federal programs.

ENERGY COSTS in the 1981-82 budget proposal have been estimated to increase about 14 percent over last year's figure.

The budget increases in energy costs are exempt from the 7 percent lid mandate on tax revenue, according to Haun.

In addition, the school budget earmarks $30,000 for the purchase of a new school bus.

The budget proposal does not allow for any new teaching positions, according to Haun, who explained that the only new expenditure the board had approved was that for the school's baseball program.

Haun said taxes for bond retirement and interest on the high school building total $57,200 for the coming fiscal year. Translated into tax terms, he said, the total is less than 2 mills.

The levy is expected to remain "relatively constant" until the bond issue is retired in 1985, according to Haun. No bonded indebtedness exists on other school buildings.

HAUN SAID there are some "significant" curriculum changes for the 1981-82 school year.

One change moves all Typing I classes to the high school level, rather than at the Wayne Middle School.

"This change will allow time for seventh-grade and eighth-grade science courses to be offered for four semesters rather than

High Wind Collapses Barn Wall

By Randall Howell

If bad luck runs in threes, rural Carroll's Carl Paustian feels he's finally in the clear.

Last Friday's western Wayne County wind storm leveled a just finished 100 foot concrete block wall on his new milking barn, which has been under construction for two weeks.

The 15 block high east wall of the barn being built just south of the Paustian house went down about 9 p.m. just three weeks after a late June tornado ripped through the dairy farmstead, destroying the old wood frame milking barn.

In 1975, a violent wind storm destroyed one grain bin and damaged other buildings, including garage tool shed on the Paustian farm, 2 miles east and 1 1/2 miles south of Carroll.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S east wind, estimated by Paustian and his sons to be in excess of 80 mph, and rain dropped the block and mortar wall onto the barn's new concrete floor, but left the rest of the under construction structure standing.

No one was injured in the collapse of the wall, which had been finished about 3 p.m. Friday afternoon.

Livestock had been penned away from the construction site and the building crew, Ludwig & Co. of Wayne, had gone for the day.

Continued wind and rain over last weekend prevented the contractor from cleaning the broken blocks and twisted steel from the center of the new 100 foot by 18 foot milking barn.

The barn's new milking parlor, on the north end of the structure, withstood the force of the Friday night wind, as did the west wall. All walls were braced for wind by the contractor's crew, but the force of the wind ripped the braces from their anchors and tore the structural steel anchors from concrete footings.

PAUSTIAN, WHO declined to estimate the damage, said the $75,000 building was in

Kansas City Tragedy Wilts Wayne Florists

By Randall Howell

When Wayne's Joanie Burst and two friends headed for Kansas City Friday afternoon, she was looking forward to a three day florists' convention.

Her stopover in Wymore, where her parents live, changed all that.

When five Wayne Greenhouse staffers, including Lois Hall, left the city at 6 a.m. Saturday, they, too, were geared for an extravaganza that had been months in the planning.

They were unsure, because of incomplete news reports, just what to expect at Kansas City's Hyatt Regency — the scene of one of America's worst hotel disasters. Friday night when 111 persons were killed and 183 injured as skywalks collapsed just after 7 p.m. during a tea dance

THE 10TH annual NEMOKAN Floral Convention had been scheduled to open early Saturday morning on the Hyatt Regency's third floor — the floor between the two walkways that collapsed dropping tea-dance onlookers onto the hotel lobby floor and crushing others beneath concrete and debris.

Burst, owner operator of Joanie Designs, a dried flowers and giftware boutique on Lincoln Street, Wayne, first heard about the tragedy at her parents' home.

She and her two riders, Ardath and Karla Otte of Wayne, were excited about the convention and had much to talk about during the trip to Wymore, where they had planned to stay the night before driving on to Kansas City Saturday morning.

"We didn't know until we got to Wymore," Burst said. "We talked so much that we didn't even turn on the radio. But, when we got to my parents' house, the television was on and that's all that was on — reports of the disaster."

HALL, WHO — along with her husband, Kent — owns and operates Wayne Greenhouse on 10th Street, Wayne, had heard sketchy television news reports of the hotel tragedy Friday night.

Unable to determine the extent of the disaster, she and her convention goers — Joann Proett, Linda Penierick, Karen Nolte and Lou Wittse (Lois and Kent's daughter) — left Wayne for Kansas City at 6 a.m. with expectations of arriving for Saturday afternoon's floral convention activities.

While they were en route, Kent, who stayed home to mind the store, received a call informing him that the convention had been cancelled. "The call didn't come until about 11 a.m.," he said. "I knew by that time they were within an hour or so of Kansas City and there was no way I could reach them."

He didn't hear from the greenhouse crew, including his wife, until about 5:30 p.m., when Lois called from Kansas City. They had checked into the Crown Center, a nearby hotel owned by Don Hall of Hallmark Cards, the same man who owns the Hyatt Regency in the city's downtown district.

"WE LISTENED to the radio on the way down," Hall said. "But that complex is so big, we had no idea whether or not the collapse would affect the convention."

Lois and her employees, who had reserved a room at the Hyatt Regency for the three-day, three-state (Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas) convention, found they could not get to the hotel.

When they inquired at the Crown Center Hotel, they were told a room would be available for them there at the same convention rate — a rate extended to all those who were arriving with Hyatt Regency reservations.

Hall said that most convention guests evacuated after the disaster were accepted at the nearby Crown Center.

Those left at the Hyatt Regency were those tea-dance guests who were too injured to be moved, and the bodies of those being dug from the hotel lobby rubble.

BURST, WHO also had reservations for herself and the Ottes at the Hyatt Regency, said she spent some time Friday night trying to reach information telephone operators for Kansas City from her parents' Wymore home.

Unsuccessful, she finally found a telephone number — in a newspaper advertisement her mother had saved — for a Howard Johnson's Motel in Kansas City. She called and got room.

The trio left Wymore for Kansas City at 6 a.m. Saturday, deciding to go to a giftware market across town from the Hyatt Regency.

Laurel Bank Celebrates Opening

Security National Bank in Laurel will celebrate its grand opening tonight, Thursday.

A 5 p.m. ribbon-cutting ceremony will start the celebration. State senator Elroy Hefner will speak briefly at a flag-raising ceremony, and tours of the bank will be given.

A country-style picnic will follow the tours. It will be at the City Auditorium and is free and open to the public; however, tickets can be obtained only by touring the bank.

Various prizes donated by Laurel merchants, including two $100 bills, will be drawn for at 8 p.m.

Wakefield Firemen's Dance

Wakefield Firemen will hold their annual dance on Saturday, Aug. 8, at the Legion Hall. Music will be furnished by Arlie Schmidt.

Tickets and a newsletter were mailed last week to all residents within the Wakefield Fire District. Anyone not receiving a letter may contact any fireman.

Door prizes will be given away during the evening. To be eligible for the free door prizes individuals are asked to sign and return the stubs of their tickets.

Koch Announces Cleanup Dates

Marilyn Koch, Wayne County Fair superintendent, has announced dates for cleanup of the fairgrounds.

To prepare for the fair, which is scheduled Aug. 6-9, cleanup will be held Monday, Aug. 3. Cleanup after the fair is planned Monday, Aug. 10.

Koch said anyone who wishes to lend a hand is welcome. Mowers and other trimming equipment would also be appreciated.

Payments Distributed in State

Over $1,000,000 in payments resulting from the legislature's sharing of state sales and income tax revenue was distributed throughout Nebraska last week.

State Treasurer Kay Orr announced:

Wayne County received $2,549 to be put in the general fund, and $4,185 to be divided among the county municipalities. Cedar County received $2,988 for the county and $4,608 for municipalities, while Dixon County received $1,957 for the county and $3,030 for the municipalities.

Apartment Complex Loan Approved

A $210,000 Federal Housing Authority loan has been approved to finance a rural rental housing project in Carroll, according to First District Congressman Doug Bereuter.

The 50 year FHA loan, which will be made at 13.25 percent interest, will finance the Carroll Housing Authority's planned eight unit apartment complex, according to Bereuter.

The apartment complex will feature one bedroom units designed for occupancy by the elderly, Bereuter said.

Radios Can Be Used For Speakers

Drive-in movie goers will now be able to use their radios for speakers. The Dude Ranch Drive-in Theater in Wayne has installed Radio-Cine Sound.

To use the system, pull up to a post and park, turn the ignition to the accessory position and tune the radio to 530 AM.

Radios on all cars manufactured since 1963 are solid state and using them for Radio-Cine Sound will not drain the car's battery.

Riders Win in 4-H Competition

Three area riders won blue ribbons in pole bending competition at the state 4-H Horse Exposition.

Jana Cunningham of Laurel, Scott Mann of Hoskins and Curt Nelson of Carroll were among winners July 16 in Grand Island.

Nelson also won a blue ribbon in the senior boys barrel racing competition. Brad Lund of Wakefield won a blue ribbon in the junior division.

In the senior boys reining competition, Mann won a purple ribbon, while Scott Cunningham of Dixon won a blue ribbon.

SS Representative Coming

Bill Howes of the Norfolk Social Security office will be at the Wayne Senior Citizens Center on Monday, July 27, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Persons who have questions regarding Social Security are invited to visit Howes between those hours.

Dale Branch, district manager, reminds the public that current maximum payment for persons receiving Supplemental Security Income payments is $264.70 for an individual and $397 for a married couple in their own households.

Allen Krazy Daze

Allen merchants will mark down prices for sidewalk sales during Krazy Daze in Allen this Saturday, beginning about 8:30 a.m.

Local senior citizens will serve pie, coffee and rolls during a rummage sale at the Senior Citizens Center throughout the day. A local church is planning a booth of baked items and produce.

Activities also will include a pedal tractor pull at 1:30 p.m. for local youngsters four to seven years of age. The tractor pull is sponsored by the Allen Co-Op.

Firemen are sponsoring a "corn boil" at the fire hall, where Krazy Daze shoppers can have all the sweet corn they can eat. There also will be a horseshoe pitching contest sponsored by the Security State Bank. Participants are asked to register in advance.

Shelia Schroeder is general chairman for Krazy Daze. Allen merchants and other Krazy Daze participants invite all area residents to join in the fun.

police report

Rick Kay and Paul Henderson, both of Wakefield, were uninjured when they were thrown from their vehicles after a rear-end collision on Highway 35 Sunday night.

Henderson was driving east in his 1969 Buick and hit the back of Kay's 1953 Oliver tractor. The tractor had no tail or headlights or slow moving vehicle signs, according to police reports.

Police also investigated an accident at Sixth and Windom Streets Monday.

Thomas Stargess, Jr. of Allen was eastbound in his 1971 AMC and struck a 1974 Ford driven by Willie Kay of rural Wayne.

John Violette of Wayne backed into a 1974 Ford registered to Janie S. Nossol of Wisner Saturday afternoon, according to police reports.

The accident occurred in the 100 block of West Third Street.

IN OTHER action, police investigated the theft of a chain saw and five automobile rims from 208 S. Nebraska Sunday evening.

Charges are pending after the theft of a gas can from the Brown residence at 521 W. First Street.

Mrs. Dick Brown reported to police that two subjects with long hair and driving a brown Kawasaki motorcycle stole the can. Police contacted them and returned the can.

Police also aided when Mrs. Max Cattle called and asked for assistance in rounding up her cattle.

The livestock — not her children — were on Main Street north of Rice Auditorium. Police put the cattle back in their yard after the roundup.

Deanna Manz Weds Jon Erwin

The United Methodist Church in Laurel was the setting for the July 11 wedding of Deanna Kay Manz and Jon Kevin Erwin. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Manz of Laurel-Concord Public School in 1979 and from Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk, as an LPN in February of 1981. She is employed at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Erwin of Wakefield, is a 1976 graduate of Laurel-Concord Public School. He attended Northeast Technical Community College and Wayne State College, and is presently engaged in farming.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Wisconsin and are now at home at rural Wakefield.

MR. AND MRS. JON ERWIN

The REV. David Newman of Concord officiated at the 6:30 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Bev Christensen of Okoboji, Iowa and Julie Crisp of Laurel registered the guests, who were ushered into the church by the bride's brother, Doug Manz of Laurel, and Todd Cunningham and Doug Thompson, both of Laurel. Steve Anderson of Wayne and Brad Erwin of Concord.

Decorations included spiral candelabras and pew candles. Wedding music included "Through the Eyes of Love," "Linger," "The Lord Shall Be as One" and "Wedding Song," sung by Susie Erwin of Concord and Steve Linn of Laurel. Organist was Mary Newton of Laurel and pianist was Susie Wacker.

The BRIDE appeared at her father's side in a white satinstyle gown designed with a Queen Anne neckline and basque bodice adorned with handclipped, re-embroidered Alençon lace and seed pearls. Her long, narrow sleeves were enhanced with imported lace and cut outs defined with lulle netting.

The back bodice was dramatized with a sheer yoke of French tulle and Watteau train accented with self covered buttons. Her circular skirt flowed from an empire waistline and draped to form a chapel train.

A bridal illusion mantilla with garlands of venise lace and seed pearls completed her ensemble, and she carried a cascade of white, yellow and apricot roses with white stephanotis, lily of the valley and baby's breath trimmed with green and yellow satin tufts.

The bride's diamond necklace and matching earrings were a gift from the bridegroom.

DIXIE Manz of LeMars, Iowa was her sister's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Sheila Kalin of Coleridge, Jean Suehl of Winslow, sister of the bridegroom, and Annette Fritsch of Lincoln.

Their floor-length apricot frocks were of sophisticated jacquard polyester. The gored skirts were stitched to a princess-seamed bodice at the normal waistline.

The gowns, designed with self-shoulder ties with white collars and bodice bands, were trimmed with white pearl buttons and a fabric rose at the waistline.

They carried apricot ruffled parasols trimmed with daisies and wore hair combs with green, yellow and apricot roses and baby's breath.

The bride's mother made the dresses for the bridesmaids, flower girls and candlelighter.

FLOWER GIRLS were Wendy Miller of Wayne and Tara Erwin of Laurel, and ring bearer was Colby Kruse of Charleston. Ill Candles were lighted by Kim Barilling of Coleridge and Steve Anderson of Wayne.

BRIAN Johnson of Concord served as best man. Groomsman were Scott Hueflig of Concord and Greg Pippliff and Cleve Stolpe, both of Laurel.

The men in the wedding party were attired in honey beige laces trimmed in beige satin, with cut wing collar shirts and band bow ties.

The bridegroom's boutonniere was a white rose, yellow and apricot tinted stephanotis, baby's breath and lily of the valley. His attendants wore apricot rose boutonnières with white stephanotis and baby's breath.

THE BRIDE'S mother designed her aqua satin crepe dress.

The sleeveless princess fashion was designed with a V-neckline. A front extension formed the neck band, back zipper and front gathered with a gold button front tab trim. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue polyester knit fashioned with a floor-length skirt and sleeveless bodice. The matching accordin pleated jacket featured a sash tie at the waistline.

Both mothers wore corsages of three white roses and stephanotis, and green and yellow tinted baby's breath with dark green leaves and yellow ribbon.

Roxann Gade of Laurel and Lois Brockman of Battle Creek pinned on flowers.

MR. AND Mrs. Edgar Travers of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dobralz of Minneapolis greeted the guests who attended a reception in the church parlors following the wedding ceremony.

Gifts were arranged by Jodi Fleer of Wayne. Gift carriers were Krissy Manz of Elkhorn, Tanya Dobrotz of Minneapolis and Shari Brockman of Battle Creek.

BEV Christensen of Okoboji, Roxann Gade of Laurel, Val Tuttle of Lincoln and Jodi Fleer of Wayne cut and served the cake. Norma Backstrom and Lila Swanson of Wayne poured, and Janell Barilling of Coleridge, and Deanna Thompson and Marion Moore, both of Laurel, served punch.

Waitresses were Carmen Barilling of Coleridge, Renea Gadenek, Larae Nelson and Anne Schultz, all of Laurel, and Kay Anderson of Wayne.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area. We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication. Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

Allen Springbank Church Marks 100th Anniversary

One hundred years ago, when early settlers suffered under hardships and anyone within 50 miles was a neighbor, Quakerism was introduced into northeastern Nebraska.

The Friends Church, known in its early history as the Society of Friends, commonly called Quakers, was introduced into northeastern Nebraska in 1867.

In October of 1881 the Springbank Friends Church, the second Friends church in Nebraska during pioneer settlements, was founded east of Allen.

Over 300 members, former members and other friends of the church gathered during the weekend to celebrate the church's founding.

AMONG THOSE present for the celebration was 90 year old Alma Roberts Mendenhall of Hastings.

Mrs. Mendenhall who has several relatives in the Allen area arrived with a friend in a motor home Saturday evening and returned to her home Monday morning.

Mrs. Mendenhall, the only surviving child of Samuel Roberts, the very first settler in the Springbank area was recognized during worship services Sunday morning at the church and spoke briefly in appreciation for being there.

Her father filed on a homestead in the eastern part of Dixon County in 1867 and brought his family by covered wagon from Jefferson County, Iowa the next spring.

In the fall of 1869 two of his brothers, Aaron and Elijah Roberts, came and settled near him.

THE ANNIVERSARY observation got underway with a gospel concert at the church Saturday evening, featuring music by HIS Simple Truth. Over 150 persons attended.

Activities Sunday, which were attended by about 300 persons, began with a morning worship service and special music. Delivering the sermon was the Rev. Phyllis Hickman, a former pastor at Springbank Friends Church.

Following the service there was a noon picnic dinner.

A DEDICATION service in the afternoon was led by the Rev. Olin Ellis, Rocky Mountain Yearly Meeting Superintendent, of Colorado Springs, Colo.

The afternoon program included special music by a men's quartet arranged by Herbert Ellis and former church members. The quartet was comprised of Herb Ellis, Gene Smith, Clair Smith and Dwayne Ellis.

A reception followed in the church basement.

RECEIVING a boutonniere was Cloyd Smith, 97, of Greenleaf, Idaho, the oldest person attending the anniversary observance.

Smith was a member of the Allen Springbank Friends Church before moving to Idaho with his family

His six children, who were all present in Allen this weekend to mark the church's centennial, are LaVell Fitch of Kansas, and Margaret Snyder, Maxine Ankeny, Clair, Gene and Darwin Smith, all of Greenleaf, Idaho.

MEMBERS and former members were given an opportunity to reminisce during the afternoon program.

States represented at the celebration were Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Kansas, California, Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Arizona and Wisconsin.

The congregation of Springbank Friends Church and Pastors Galan and Mary Burnett wish to thank those who helped make the observance a special occasion.

Floral bouquets were received from the Security State Bank, Tri County Insurance, First Lutheran Church, Allen United Methodist Church, Allen Friends Church in Omaha, the Ira Puckett family and the Henry Trube family.

Volunteers Recognized

Senior Citizens Say 'Thanks'

"Thank you." That's what the local Senior Citizens Center said to several dozen Wayne citizens and organizations for their volunteer assistance.

The volunteers were recognized at the second annual anniversary dinner last Thursday celebrating the 12th anniversary of the center's existence.

JOCIELL Bull, Senior Citizens director, thanked each guest with presentations of Volunteer Award certificates.

The City Council also received the Volunteer Award, with several councilmen present. Unable to attend was Mayor Wayne Marsh, who was hospitalized in Omaha.

OTHERS CITED included City Administrator Phil Kloster; State Senator Merle Von Minden; the Wayne Community Chest, which provides a portion of Senior Citizens Center funding; the Jaycees; the State National and First National Banks; Wayne Greenhouse; the Wayne State College recreation class; Gay Theater; Chrysler Center; Wayne Music Store; ministers of Wayne churches; the Nebraska Commission on Aging; Northeast Nebraska Agency on Aging; KTCH radio station; and The Wayne Herald.

Others receiving "thanks" included numerous citizens who deliver daily Meals on Wheels; Virgil and Cordelia Chambers for planting and tending flowers around City Hall; extension home economist Linda Hunker; and Larry Osnower, Harry and Lucille Wert, Shirley Wagner, Mary Miller, John Heit, Rose Helthold, Gladys Petersen, Orville Sherry, Marilyn Carhart and Dick Manley for their assistance to the center's activities.

FOLLOWING the presentations, City Administrator Kloster showed a film about hydrogen as a new source of energy — already being used to limited extent in running cars and trucks, and likely to become a major fuel of the future.

Hosting the event are the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Michael (Valerie) Voigt, and David, Daniel and Valisa Schumacher, all of Norfolk.

New Film Featuring Joni Eareckson Will Be Shown in Wayne

"Reflections of His Love," a new film highlighting the life and ministry of Joni Eareckson, will be shown on Sunday, Aug. 2, at the First Baptist Church, 400 Main St., in Wayne.

The color feature, produced by World Wide Pictures, the film ministry of the Billy Graham Association, will be shown once, beginning at 8 p.m.

MISS EARECKSON is the star of a recent theatrical motion picture, "Joni," which relates the story of her diving accident as a young girl, which left her paralyzed from the neck down.

In "Reflections of His Love," Miss Eareckson, who also is the author of two best-selling books, "Joni" and "A Step Further," tells of the great transformations that have taken place in her life because of her willingness to accept all that has happened to her.

ACCORDING to the Rev. "Eddie" Carter, pastor of First Baptist Church, "Reflections of His Love" introduces the viewer to "the real Joni Eareckson."

Viewers of the film will meet her parents, her sisters, and her friends, and gain insight into the thoughts of the actors who played major roles in the movie "Joni."

Pastor Carter has extended an open invitation to the community to attend this special screening. There is no admission charge.

"We feel everyone who attends will be touched by the remarkable life and witness of Joni Eareckson. It's really an unforgettable experience," he concluded.

Golden Anniversary

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon (Doc) Ellis of Allen are invited to attend an open house reception in honor of their golden wedding anniversary.

The event, which is being hosted by the couple's children, will be held Saturday, Aug. 1, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Springbank Friends Church, Allen.

The couple requests no gifts.

Historical Society Meeting

The Wayne County Historical Society will meet at the county museum in Wayne at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 28. Eleanor Edwards has submitted family histories to be printed in the all-new History of Wayne County. They will be returned for proofreading. Marian Jordan is making final solicitations for business pages, memorials and tributes. Deadline is July 30. The Wayne County Historical Museum, located at 7th and Lincoln Sts., is open to the public each Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. throughout the end of the year.

Bishop Coming to Wayne

Bishop Gutenberg Regis from Coari, Brazil, will be at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne this weekend. He will speak during a 6 p.m. Mass Saturday evening, and at the 8 and 10 a.m. Masses Sunday.

Bishop Regis is Father Joe Dorsey's bishop in the Amazon Valley city of Coari.

Father Dorsey, a native of the Wayne parish, was instrumental in gaining support from the newly formed St. Mary's Mission Club in Wayne to help operate a Rural Education Radio in Coari, a missionary-sponsored broadcast outlet.

The club in Wayne was organized to help meet mission needs.

Mental Health Workshop

The public is invited to attend a Mental Health Workshop on Aug. 7 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Kings Ballroom in Norfolk.

The workshop will focus on civil commitment laws and definitions. The latest bills also will be discussed. For details call 1-800-672-8323.

Miss Voss Feted

Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Merlin Kenny of Carroll hosted a brunch and bridal shower Saturday morning in the Johnson home.

Guest of honor was Brenda Voss of Winslow, who will be married Aug. 1 to Mitchell Hokamp at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winslow.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hokamp and Mr. and Mrs. George Voss.

Guests attending the bridal fete included Mrs. Steve Hokamp of Randolph, Mrs. Earl Anderson of Norfolk, Mrs. Esther Benschoff and Mrs. George Voss and Brenda of Winslow, and Mrs. Wayne Tietgen of Wayne.

Otte Reunion in Carroll

About eighty-five persons attended an Otte family reunion Sunday at Ron's Steakhouse in Carroll.

The relatives came from San Diego, Calif.; Rudd and Wellman, Iowa; Wayne, Wakefield, Wausa, Neligh, Ames, Norfolk, Hastings, Lincoln and Carroll.

Among those attending were four sisters who had not seen each other in some time. They were Irene Harmer of Carroll, Eleanor Sellon of Randolph, Johanna Evans of Neligh and Meta Francis of Rudd, Iowa.

Next year's reunion will be Aug. 1 at Ron's Steakhouse.

Lessman Reunion Slated

Lessman relatives will gather for a reunion on Saturday, Aug. 1. The event will be held at the Wayne Country Club.

Allen Classmates Gather

The 1931 graduating class of Allen High School gathered for a 50-year reunion July 15 at the Normandy in Sioux City.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie L. Roberts of Greenleaf, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford (Sadie Ellis) Clem of Tigard, Ore.; Mrs. Hazel Prouse Dimick of Richardson, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fegley of Concord; Preston Ward of Allen; and Mr. and Mrs. Neal (Hallis Munson) Puckett, Mrs. Laura Ewing Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Anvey (Zeta Puckett) Swanson and Mrs. Walter (Esther Clem) Miller, all of Sioux City.

Classmates were guests later in the evening in the home of Mrs. Miller.

First Birthday Observed

The first birthday of Dustin Allemann was observed July 16 with a supper.

Later ice cream and cake were served. The birthday cake was baked by Dustin's great grandfather, Ed Knapp.

Guests included grandfathers Les Allemann and Ed Carroll, and great grandfathers Mr. and Mrs. John Asmus of Hoskins and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Knapp of Madison. Other guests were Doug, Dean and Dennis Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Allemann and Ryan, Brian Allemann, Gwen Victor, Margaret Nuss and Peg Pinkelman.

Dustin is the son of Rodger and Deb Allemann of Wayne.

WSC Alumni Reunion

Gals who attended Wayne State College during 1969-70 and 1970-71 and lived on the third floor at Berry Hall will hold a reunion in Bressler Park on Sunday, Aug. 2, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Elaime Beck of Ajnsworth is one of those serving on the reunion committee.

Wakefield Claims Midget League Title

Ralph Bishop Title Clinched by Wakefield; Teams Now Prepare for District Rematch

With high stakes on the line, Wakefield's Midgets drew an ace and Wayne folded as Wakefield clinched the Ralph Bishop League championship Monday night with an 8-1 win over Wayne.

The two teams entered the final week of the season with identical 12-1 league records and touted as two of the best teams in northeast Nebraska.

IT WAS THE pitching of Pony Leaguer Brian Soderberg that lifted Wakefield to the throne in the Midget race. Soderberg checked off power hitting Wayne on three hits and seven strikeouts.

Looking ahead to Wednesday's district opener, coach Hank Overin rested ace Todd Pfeiffer and went with Pony Leaguer Steve Overin on the mound. Overin pitched three innings and Todd Schwartz pitched the final two innings. The two pitchers did an adequate job, holding Wakefield to six hits.

But, it was Wayne's generosity that turned the championship game into a one-sided affair. The Midgets committed six errors which resulted in several unearned runs.

The hosts struck for their first run in the bottom of the first inning. Jeff Coble drew a walk and later scored on a wild pitch.

A STRING of runs in the second put Wakefield on top to stay. Troy Greve and Tom Quinn reached base on errors and Jeff Olson reached on a fielder's choice which put Greve out.

With two outs, Mike Clay drew a walk. Jeff Coble singled and Soderberg singled to bring home four runs for a 5-0 advantage. Wakefield had several Texas Leaguers to right field.

Wayne broke up the shutout in the top of the third with good, solid hitting. Todd Pfeiffer cracked a triple to deep left field and scored on a base hit by Jeff McCright.

The hosts put together a two-out rally in the third to take the driver's seat. With two outs, Quinn reached first base on an error and Olson singled. Kelly Kneiff drew a walk and Mike Clay rapped a base hit.

WAYNE FAILED to get any threats going in the final three innings and Wakefield added one final insurance run in the fourth. Soderberg reached base on an error. Then, two outs later, Greve reached on an error and Quinn singled to bring Soderberg home.

Wayne and Wakefield were scheduled to meet again last night (Wednesday) in Class C districts at Coleridge. Emerson, another Ralph Bishop team, will also play in the district tourney.

Legion Tops Wakefield To Salvage Third Place

Just when fans were set for a typical, exciting, nip-and-tuck Wayne-Wakefield finish, Wayne's Legion exploded for four runs in the top of the seventh inning to drop Wakefield 8-2 in the Ralph Bishop League finale, Monday.

The victory gave Wayne third place in the final league standings with a 9-5 league record. Bancroft and Wisner, both had 11-3 league records.

WAYNE BROKE away from a slim 3-2 lead by scoring one run in the top of the sixth inning. Pat McCright led-off with a base hit and Brian Fleming and Tod Heier drew walks. McCright scored from third on a passed ball.

Wakefield trailed by only one run and threatened in the sixth. Wayne Guy and Dale Phipps drew walks to start the possible rally. With two outs, Wayne first baseman Todd Skokan put an end to the threat by making a nice snag of a hard grounder to his right and throwing the ball to pitcher Tim Pfeiffer for the third out.

Then, the game slipped away from the hosts. Skokan drew a walk. Jere Morris singled and Jeff Allen walked. Two runs scored on Kevin Nissen's base hit. Allen and Nissen added two more runs bringing the final count to 8-2.

Pfeiffer pitched a two-hitter and recorded seven strikeouts to lead the winners. McCright was the leading batter with two hits and two runs. Morris, Allen, Nissen and Fleming had one hit each.

Mark Starzl pitched the first 2 1/2 innings for Wakefield, Phipps pitched 4 1/2 innings and Robb Lindtfeiler pitched the final 1/2 of an inning.

WAYNE SCORED its first two runs in the second inning. McCright singled, Fleming walked and Jim Sperry reached on an error. McCright scored on a passed ball and Fleming scored on an error.

In the third inning, Allen singled, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on a sacrifice bunt by Pfeiffer.

Wakefield cut Wayne's lead down to one run in the bottom of the fourth. Joedy Sherer and Bill Warren drew walks and scored. Mike Clay had a key single in the inning.

Both Legion teams are scheduled to open district action tomorrow. Wakefield plays Winside at 8 p.m. Friday in Coleridge while Wayne meets the Randolph-Emerson winner at 6 p.m. on the same field.

District finals are scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday and the winner will advance into area play at Wisner.

Grant Is Awarded For Laurel Field

Members of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Local Branch 1566, Laurel, have been awarded a $5,000 grant to build a softball field in the community.

The ballpark will be located on two acres of land directly east of the Laurel Sales Barn. The land is owned by an AAL member Ernie Fork and has been loaned to the city under a long term lease arrangement.

At least 25 volunteers from Branch 1566 and many others in the community will provide the labor to construct the facility. The area already has been leveled and workers now are waiting for materials so a fence can be constructed. A regulation backstop erected, bleachers built and lights installed.

The new ballpark will be used by a church softball league. A women's softball league, children enrolled in pee-wee baseball and many others.

The $5,000 grant was awarded to Laurel's volunteers through AAL's Community Action Benevolence Program which provides support for AAL members who give direct human services through volunteerism in their local communities.

AAL is the nation's largest fraternal benefit society, in terms of assets and life insurance in force. The 1.3 million members participate in the Association's insurance and fraternal programs, the latter often delivered through AAL's 5,600 local branches.

AAL's home office is located in Appleton, Wis. There are approximately 47,000 AAL members living in Nebraska.

All-State Teams Selected

Three players from Laurel were named to the coaches All State Class B baseball team, announced Sunday by the Omaha World-Herald.

Joe Olsen, Bryan Buss and Phil Martin join four players from state champion Omaha Roncalli, two players from Omaha Ryan, two players from Omaha Paul VI and one player from Bancroft on the first team.

Olsen batted .359 and had a 5-0 record as a pitcher for the state runner-up Bears. Martin, who pitched in the state finals, had a 5-1 record and 2.57 earned run average. Bryan Buss hit .366 and was named to the first team as a utility player.

Two Wayne players join one player each from Wakefield and Laurel and two from Bancroft on the honorable mention list. Tim Pfeiffer of Wayne and Mark Starzl of Wakefield were listed as third basemen and Kelly Robson of Laurel and Kevin Nissen of Wayne were named to the list as shortstops.

Bancroft was represented by catcher Mike Nottelman on the first team and outfielder Jeff Knuppel and pitcher Scott Wegner on the honorable mention list.

In Class A selections, state champion Omaha Creighton Prep dominated the balloting with five players on the first team.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

I'D LIKE to welcome to Wayne two newcomers at Wayne State College. Janice Jirsak, a native of Clarkson, has been named new women's basketball coach and Kent Probst, a native of Dakota, has been named news and sports information coordinator.

Jirsak, who has coached at Dakota Wesleyan since 1977, says she is excited to be back in Nebraska. She claims to be a firm believer in defense and likes a fast paced game when player personnel permits. While chatting with her, I learned that she believes northeast Nebraska produces some fine athletes and hopefully she can lure a few recruits in the next year or two.

Probst served as sports information director at Peru College for three years before coming to Wayne. His duties at Wayne State will include publicity of sports and general news.

We wish those two individuals the best of luck at WSC.

FUTURISTIC SPORTS may hold much in store for the participant as well as the fan. Most people have either read or heard about the "think tank" being used on an experimental basis by the Dallas Cowboys to relax their players and program them to be better athletes.

Just this week, I stumbled across some new innovations for the sport of baseball. The new, long-lasting soft leather glove which needs no breaking in is certainly an improvement. But, that's nothing. While reading this month's issue of "Omni," I ran across an article discussing the new products being manufactured by the famous Japanese company, Mizuno. Babe Ruth would go nuts if he could step on to a baseball diamond and use the modern innovations. Old products are taking a new look.

For instance, there is the new clear plastic catcher's mask which doesn't have to be flipped off when a catcher goes after a pop up. Or how about a six-fingered glove that fits on either hand?

Then, there is an electronic batter's helmet which broadcasts the manager's instructions directly into the batter's ear. That eliminates the occasional confusion between a coach and batter or the possibility of stealing a signal.

Of course, there is an automatic warning track which sets off an alarm when a fielder approaches the wall. It might take awhile to get used to the warning signal when the ball hits the glove.

Another style of glove which might become quite popular is a fielder's glove with polarized, see-through webbing to allow better viewing of fly balls. There are now bases that light up when a runner touches them.

All of these products are quite real. They were developed, improved and displayed to major league ball players during spring training this year. Another idea still on the drawing board is a strike zone sensor to distinguish automatically between a strike and a ball. That would ruin the game for many fans who sit behind the plate and complain about umpires' calls.

And of course, we can't forget the electronic foul line to tell a fair ball from a foul. All of these products are now either available or in the experimental stage. It's a good thing Alexander Doubleday is no longer around to see what he started.

CHIPS AHOY! I've heard of cow chip throwing contests and was in Chadron last summer about a week after the buffalo chip throwing contest at the annual Fur Trade Days, but I've never witnessed such an event (sport)?

Now, three former Wayne women are building names for themselves in the sport. Tracy Keating, Linda Anderson and Tamme Rose Schulz placed in the Chadron buffalo chip throwing contest this year. All three individuals either work or attend school in Chadron.

Now, if that doesn't beat all! It's amazing what people can do when the chips are down.

THE ANNUAL all-star baseball series between Omaha's All-Stars and the Nebraska All-Stars was played in Omaha this past weekend.

Unfortunately, most of us know that the Nebraskans got shelled in two of the three games. Mark Starzl of Wakefield played in the series and Hank Overin was one of three coaches.

The bright point is that the non-Omahans did win one game. After losing 19-0 and 10-1, the out-state team won Sunday's final game 7-3.

That was the game that Overin coached. The Nebraskans used some bunting and hit-and-run tactics and the pitching staff used a change-up and curveballs effectively.

The Omaha teams—particularly Creighton Prep—have some outstanding athletes and are well coached.

The out-state team also has fine athletes but unfortunately some good athletes are not selected because the coaches can't watch all of the best players across the state. And another disadvantage is the fact that some of the team members have never even seen or met other players on the team before the series.

If a few minor wrinkles can be ironed out, the series should grow to be an excellent one.

New Faces on WSC Campus Winside Girls Qualify for State

Basketball Position Is Filled by Jirsak

Dr. John Merriman, athletic director at Wayne State College, announced Tuesday at a press conference that WSC President Dr. Lyle Seymour has appointed Janice Jirsak as women's basketball coach.

Jirsak, a Clarkson native, comes to Wayne State from Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, S.D., where she coached basketball and softball and served as women's athletic coordinator. She has been at Dakota Wesleyan since 1977.

Jirsak, 28, was a member of the first ever NAIA national softball tournament committee in 1981. She also served on the NAIA District 12 basketball and volleyball playoff committees, and she chaired the South Dakota Intercollegiate Conference basketball committee from 1978-81.

Jirsak will replace Helen Carroll who accepted a similar job at the University of North Carolina Asheville.

She received her Bachelor's degree from Kearney State College in 1975 and her Master's from KSC in 1977. Jirsak played basketball at Kearney State from 1971-75, and was named the team's "Most Valuable Player" her senior year. She served as a graduate assistant and assistant women's basketball coach for the Antelopes from 1975-77.

Dr. Merriman said: "We are very pleased to hire a Nebraska native that has the amount of experience and professional ambition that Janice has. She'll be a valuable addition to the WSC staff, and women's basketball should do extremely well under her."

Jirsak is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jirsak of Clarkson. She is a graduate of Clarkson High School.

Janice Jirsak

Propst Hired as New Information Coordinator

Wayne State President Lyle Seymour announced Tuesday at a press conference that he has appointed Kent Propst as news and sports information coordinator.

Propst, a native of Seward, graduated this year from Peru State College with a major in journalism. Prior to his studies at PSC, Propst was a high school sports writer for two years, and editor of the Peru community newspaper "The Challenge," for one year.

While at PSC, Propst served as a copy writer in the college relations department for one year, was sports editor of the PSC campus newspaper "The Pedagogue" for three years and was the official PSC sports information director for three years. On two occasions Propst also was interim college relations director at PSC.

Propst, 24, has won numerous journalism and academic awards and scholarships while at PSC. He also won National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics publication awards, and was asked to serve as the NAIA game press box director for the 1980 national championship football playoffs. Mr. and Mrs. Max Propst of Seward are his parents.

This is the first time at WSC that a full-time professional has been hired in the college relations department to fill the position of news and sports information. "I am real pleased that President Seymour and Vice President Elliott have approved the position," said Adrienne Nab, WSC director of college relations. "Kent will be a very worthwhile addition to our department and will create a desired stability in our sports information program." Prior to this addition, the sports information at WSC was conducted by interns and graduate assistants.

It's on to state for the Winside 18 and under girls softball team.

Competing in the 12-team field at Class B districts in Emerson, Winside placed fourth and earned a berth in the State Class B Softball Tournament scheduled July 24-26 at North Platte.

In this past weekend's competition, Winside won one game and lost two. The locals had previously defeated Carroll and Newcas to reach the weekend's action.

Hubbard 13, Winside 3: Kelly Leighton took the pitching loss and Walsh was the winner.

Leading hitters for Winside were Robyn Winch, Laurie Gallop, June Topp and Missy Jensen with one hit each. Hassler led Hubbard with two hits.

Winside 7, Emerson 6: Robyn Winch ripped a bases loaded triple in the bottom of the seventh inning to lead Winside to the triumph. Winch had three hits and June Topp had two. Emerson was led by Henderson and Tullberg with two hits apiece.

Winning pitcher was Laurie Gallop who allowed five hits. Henderson, who was tagged for the loss, gave up nine Winside hits.

Walshville 26, Winside 16: Laurie Gallop collected three hits and Robyn Winch, Kelly Leighton, Darla Janke and Kerri Leighton all had two hits each to pace Winside.

However, 14 Winside errors combined with 15 Walthill hits killed the locals' hopes. Olson and Blackbird led the winners with three hits apiece. Gallop was the losing pitcher.

Lessmann Aces Number 17

Willie Lessmann of Wayne recorded his first hole-in-one around noon Sunday as heaced the par three 17th hole at Wayne Country Club.

Lessmann choked up on a four wood to card his eagle on the 182 yard hole. The ball landed on the front portion of the green and rolled into the cup. He was golfing with Grant Ellingson, Don Echtenkamp and Wayne Tietgen at the time.

Wakefield Physicals Scheduled

Physical examinations for volleyball and football players are scheduled to begin Saturday and continue through the weeks of Aug. 3 and Aug. 10.

All football players should call coach Dennis Wilbur to set up appointments for physicals. Volleyball players should call the school office to make their appointments.

Physicals must be taken by Aug. 17. If a player cannot attend one of the examination dates, he should make arrangements for a physical. All athletes should bring a urine specimen in a bottle marked with name and address.

Basketball Meeting Planned

A meeting for all boys basketball players and their parents is planned at 8 p.m. Saturday at Wakefield High School. Summer basketball workout schedules will be discussed at the meeting.

Winside Gals Defeat Carroll

Winside's 18 and under girls, fresh off a fourth place district finish, defeated Carroll 25-14 in five innings Tuesday. The win improved Winside's record to 5-0 in Ralph Bishop League play.

Winside held a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning but erupted for a 10-run pull away. The winners will now play Stanton and Laurel in Ralph Bishop League competition. One win would finish at least a tie for the league title.

Winside pounded out 17 hits. Robyn Winch, Laurie Gallop and Lisa Jensen collected three hits each to lead the attack. Winch had a triple, double and single.

Winning pitcher was Kelly Lighthouse who held Carroll to seven hits and no walks. Lori Burbach, who was the losing pitcher, had two hits.

Race Results at Huset's

Gene Brudigan of Hoskins placed fourth in the first heat and fourth in the A feature at the mid-season championship races held Sunday at Huset's Speedway in Sioux Falls.

Strong Legs Run Race

Strong Legs Run, a five kilometer (3.1 miles) run through central Lincoln will be held on Saturday, Aug. 8 beginning at 7 a.m.

Runners enter the race with an attitude of charity, since the major portion of the $5 entry fee is contributed to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children in Minneapolis, Minn. Therefore, the usual participation awards such as shirts and winners awards will not be available for this race. Runners will be presented with souvenir race numbers and certificates of completion.

The course begins on 9th Street between P and Q and proceeds south to Plum (a block north of South Street). Runners then head east on Plum to 10th Street and North on 10th Street toward downtown Lincoln and the finish line just before O Street.

Entry blanks are available at all sporting goods stores in the Lincoln area and at local YMCA's.

The Strong Legs Run is sponsored by the Shrine Bowl Committee and administered by the Lincoln YMCA.

Buffalo Chip Throwing Winners

Three former Wayne women who are either working or attending college in Chadron earned top honors in the buffalo chip throwing contest held at the annual Fur Trade Days Celebration. The festival was held July 10-12 in Chadron.

Pasture Patties won first place in the women's team competition with a total score of 355 feet. Team members are Linda Anderson and Tammie Rose Schulz. Second place went to Myer's Drug with a total of 282 feet. One of the team members is Tracy Kealing.

In singles competition, Linda Anderson placed second by throwing a chip 71-6.

Two-ball Foursome Planned

A couples two ball foursome is planned at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Wayne Country Club. Any interested couples can sign up at the clubhouse.

Junior Golfers Place at Blair

Three junior golfers from Wayne placed in the O'Hanlon Spide Junior Golf Tournament played Monday at Blair.

Rob Reeg placed third in the 11-12 age division with a score of 30 over six holes. Cole Froeschle placed second in the 13-15 age group by shooting a 40-38-78. Tom Perry finished fifth in the same division by recording a 37-46-83.

Other Wayne golfers who attended are Brad Moore, John Carhart, Tim Griess, Kevin Griess, Dan Gross and Jon Stollenberg.

Lessmann Boys Stars on Team

Corey Lessmann, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Lessmann of Sioux City, was selected to play in the 10 and 11 year old all star baseball tournament played Saturday and Sunday in Sioux City.

Playing on the Northwest All Star team, which was coached by his father, Corey had an impressive tourney. He hit a grand slam home run, four triples, six doubles and seven singles for a .621 batting average. He was the only 10 year old on the Northwest squad which played eight games to win the tourney.

Corey also won two games as pitcher and gave up only one hit in each game. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Merlound Lessmann of Wayne. They and daughter Cheryl attended some of the tournament games.

Moonlight Run in Norfolk

An 8.4 kilometer (5.2 mile) run is planned Saturday, Aug. 15 at the Norfolk YMCA facilities on Benjamin. The Elkhorn Valley Striders, YMCA Run Club, Norco and WJAG, KEXL will sponsor the event. The race will begin at 9:30 p.m.

Competition will be broken down into seven divisions for men and seven for women. They are: 10 and under, 11-15, 16-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50 and over.

Plaques will be awarded to the top male and female finishers and medals will be given out to the first three finishers in each age classification.

Entry fee for the event is $5 for all entries postmarked by Aug. 12. Entries after the 12th will not be accepted by mail, only entries the day of the race will be taken. Late entry fee will be $8. The first 200 runners will be guaranteed a racer's cap. Other special awards will be given.

For more information or for entry forms, contact Elkhorn Valley Striders, YMCA Run Club in care of Norfolk YMCA, Benjamin Avenue, Norfolk.

Newcastle Reds Nip Sherman's for Title

The Newcastle Reds scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning Sunday to defeat Sherman's. Construction of Wayne in the finals of the Smokey's Sharpening Men's Slow Pitch Softball Tournament.

In a low scoring contest, the Reds edged Sherman's 3-2 as a downpour drenched the players in the seventh inning at Hank Overin Field. A Sherman victory would have forced another game between the finalists in the double elimination tournament.

Three Wayne teams made the final five in the 12 team tournament but only Sherman's (4-2) came away with a trophy. Taco del Sol (3-2) and Mitchell Construction (2-2) both reached the semifinals of the losers' bracket. Sherman's defeated Taco and the Newcastle Whites defeated Mitchell's Newcastle Whites (3-2) earned third place.

On a hot, muggy, still day, the tournament turned into an endurance test. Sherman's played six games, Newcastle Reds played five, Taco played five, Newcastle Whites played five and Mitchell's played four.

Other Wayne teams which participated in the tourney were State National Bank and TP Lounge. Out of town teams in addition to the Newcastle teams were Fischer Brothers, Koempke Upholstery, Corral Bar, Dupuies and Survivors.

Sherman's defeated Dupuies, Survivors, Taco and Newcastle Whites and lost twice to the Newcastle Reds. Taco defeated Fischer Brothers, Survivors, Corral Bar and lost to the Survivors and Sherman's. Mitchell's defeated Fischer Brothers and TP Lounge and lost twice to the Newcastle Whites.

Results:
First round: Mitchell's over Fischer Brothers, Newcastle Whites over State Bank, Corral Bar over Koempke Upholstery, Newcastle Reds over TP Lounge, Sherman Construction over Dupuies, Survivors over Taco del Sol.

Second round: Newcastle Whites over Mitchell's, Newcastle Reds over Corral Bar, Sherman's over Survivors.

Losers' bracket: first round: Taco over Fischer Brothers, Dupuies over State Bank, TP Lounge over Koempke Upholstery. Losers' second round: Taco over Survivors, Corral over Dupuies, Mitchell's over TP. Winners bracket: Reds over Whites, Reds over Sherman's. Final rounds of losers bracket: Taco over Corral, Newcastle Whites over Mitchell's, Sherman's over Taco, Sherman's over Whites.

13 and under girls
Winside 17, Stanton 7: Ann Meierhenry collected four hits and Tricia Hartmann had three to lead Winside to a softball victory.

Winning pitcher was Christy Thies. She held Stanton to five hits.

15 and under girls
Stanton 11, Winside 2: Stanton's 15 and under girls proved too tough for Winside in Ralph Bishop League softball action played Tuesday. Winside collected only three hits off of winning pitcher Lori Bolt. Missy Leighton had two hits and Kerri Leighton had the other for the locals.

Stanton was led by Kathy Bolt with three hits and Jill West with two.

18 and under girls
Winside 21, Stanton: In a lopsided contest, Winside's girls clinched at least a share of the Ralph Bishop League title by defeating Stanton in five innings.

June Topp was the winning pitcher and Benson was the loser. Leading hitters were Laurel Gallop with a home run, triple and two singles; Kerri Leighton with a double and three singles and Robyn Winch with three hits.

Topp and relief pitcher Kelly Leighton limited Stanton to only two hits. Winside was scheduled to play Laurel Wednesday in the Ralph Bishop League finale. The Winside girls, who qualified for state, are scheduled to play the Scribner Orchard winner in first round action at 12 noon tomorrow (Friday).

Budget

the two semesters offered in the past," the superintendent said.

It also allows for the reduction of one part-time teaching position, he explained.

Hau's budget message to the board also stated that the fine arts curriculum in instrumental music, vocal music, orchestra, art, and speech will not be curtailed.

"School District 17 will continue to offer a comprehensive program for the learning disabled, educable mentally retarded, trainable and educationally handicapped student," Hau said.

He added that there also will be a special class at the middle school level for the academically talented.

The 1981-82 budget proposal earmarks $1,072,000 for regular instruction, compared to last year's $982,780.

Included in that budget category are teacher salaries and benefits, educational equipment and supplies.

The largest single budget category after regular instruction is plant operation at a proposed total of $177,136 for 1981-82, compared to last year's $163,574 figure.

When combined with the proposed budget for plant maintenance ($35,780), the plant operation and maintenance figure is $212,916. Last year's plant maintenance was budgeted at $33,065.

SOME $118,943 has been budgeted for office of the principal and $50,141 is earmarked for executive administration services. Combined, the two categories total $169,084.

Last year's office of the principal category totaled $103,632. Executive administration services for last year totaled $44,516. General business support is expected to cost about $37,637 during the coming school year. Last year's figure was $33,851.

The regular student transportation budget has been proposed at $90,002, compared to last year's $48,000 total. The $30,000 request for a new bus is reflected in the $90,002 total.

Library and audio-visual services are at $73,241, compared to $65,323 last year. And, other student support services at $40,990, compares to last year's figure of $36,622.

ONLY SOME $2,400 — up $100 from last year — is earmarked for staff training and curriculum development under the 1981-82 proposal.

And, board of education expenses are expected to jump $300 from last year's $10,700 to a proposed $11,000.

Summer school increases from last year's $2,187 to a $2,453 proposal. Adult education, however, remains at the $1,000 level.

Health services are expected to increase from $5,450 to $7,820 under the 1981-82 proposal.

Driver education drops $3 under the plan from $6,689 to $6,686.

AND, TWO categories of vocational education (secondary level) expenses are expected to decline.

In trades and industries, the figure proposed is $13,645 compared to last year's $16,731.

In business and office programs, the proposal is $8,361 compared to last year's $9,825.

Costs for student guidance services are expected to be $25,510 compared to last year's $23,726.

Under special education, program supervision has increased from $1,500 to $2,055 through contracts with Educations Service Unit 1.

ESU diagnostics are expected to cost the district $3,450 compared to $3,000 last year.

Speech therapy, also through ESU, jumps from $14,000 to $16,500.

The specific learning disabilities total is at $12,329 — off the $17,102 pace set last year.

However, the educable mentally handicapped section of the budget shows an increase in costs from $18,552 to $22,353.

In the trainable mentally retarded category, the budget total jumps from $25,311 to $29,169.

The budget line for the visually handicapped is up $500 from last year's $3,000 level, as is the budget category for the multi-handicapped.

THE PROPOSED budget reflects an expected drop in federal program (Title I, Title IVB and lunch) funds from $114,169 to $100,568.

Title I administration drops from $3,143 to $3,130. And, Title I reading drops from $38,474 to $32,719.04. Title I math is at $26,918.96 compared to last year's $33,277.

The total budget proposal, excluding federal programs, is $1,876,101. That compares to last year's figure of $1,706,186.

Before presenting the 1981-82 budget proposal, Hau told board members that the district would come in under budget by about $6 as the 1980-81 fiscal year was closed out.

The previous year's budget came in about $11 under budget. Several board members ribbed the superintendent for cutting the margin of error in half.

Hau said that some line items in the 1980-81 budget would be exceeded the limit, but that that the total budget would come in on the money.

Revenue generated for special education is estimated at $28,000 and state apportionment is set at $26,000.

Federal school lunch aid is expected to be in the neighborhood of $25,000.

OTHER SIGNIFICANT revenue categories include an insurance premium tax of $18,000, special education tuition fees at $12,000, county fines and license fees at $11,500, police court fines of $10,000 and local license fees of $7,500.

Funding for Title program is expected to total $72,568, down from last year's $78,969.

State School Aid Receipts at $237,000

$1 Million in Local Taxes Offset Budget

The Wayne-Carroll School District expects to receive revenue from local taxes to stack $1,090,290 against a proposed 1981-82 budget of $1.9 million.

That's the estimate included in the receipts side of the budget proposal Superintendent Francis Hau presented to school board Monday night.

State aid receipts are expected to total $237,000 for the coming fiscal year, according to Hau's budget proposal.

THE THIRD largest receipts category outlined in the proposed budget, which is set for a public hearing at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 10, at Wayne High School, is non-resident high school tuition.

That revenue figure has been estimated at $235,000 for 1981-82.

Personal property tax relief is expected to hit the $83,300 mark during the fiscal year, while some $30,000 is chalked up to earned interest.

Hau's budget proposal shows total receipts, including Title programs, at $1,906,558. The figure without Title program is expected to be $1,833,990.

Expecting a drop in federal support for school lunches, though specific information is not expected to be available until October, the board Monday night hiked prices 10 cents across the board.

UNDER THE newly adopted school lunch price list, the Wayne Middle School and Wayne High School weekly tickets climbed to $4.75 from $4.25.

The West Elementary School weekly lunch ticket was set at $4.25 from $3.75. And, the adult weekly ticket tops the price list at $6.00 up from $5.50.

The daily ticket at the middle school and high school level was set at $1.00 — 10 cents above last year's price.

Elementary students buying daily tickets will pay 90 cents, up from last year's 80-cent price. And, adult daily tickets will be $1.20, up from $1.10 last year.

BOARD MEMBERS discussed the school lunch program for several minutes before approving the ticket hikes.

Several noted that data from last year's program operation showed that free lunches and reduced cost lunches — both categories slated for cuts in the Reagan administration budgeting proposals — each amounted to about 10 percent of the lunches served for a total of about 20 percent of the program.

Milton Owens, a board member

He said he wanted more time to study the bids before making a recommendation to the board.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, board members adopted a policy on foreign exchange students.

The policy allows up to two American Field Service exchange students to attend Wayne High School free of tuition during one school year.

Under terms of the policy, permission for additional AFS students, or students sponsored by other organizations, to attend the high school must be obtained from the school board by the host family.

Within the policy is a clause requiring that the proposed foreign exchange student exhibit a 12 grade proficiency, particularly in English.

1978 Labor Dispute Settlement Near

Board, WEA Contract Impasse at Factfinding

With negotiations between the Wayne-Carroll School Board and the Wayne Education Association at impasse, both parties are moving toward factfinding.

School Board negotiating committee chairman Dale Stollenberg told board members Monday night that Gene Lavender, superintendent of schools at Norfolk, will serve as the district's factfinder.

Bob Baker, Norfolk's assistant superintendent, had been selected to represent the board as a factfinder in the contract dispute but was forced to decline the job due to illness.

teachers' September paychecks would be affected by the contract stalemate.

The board is presenting its 1981-82 budget proposal to the public in an 8:30 p.m. hearing Monday, Aug. 10, without a negotiated figure for instructional salaries.

Board members also accepted the resignation of Matt Smith, vocal instructor at the high school, with a dissenting vote from Milton Owens.

Smith has moved to Dallas, Tex., where he accepted a college teaching post. Owens objected to the late release.

Explaining that he understood the board had little choice but to accept the situation, Owens said he was merely trying to express disapproval of the late in the year resignation.

IN OTHER action, board members gave legal counsel Kenneth Olds, approval to settle a 1978 labor dispute before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission without going to court.

The dispute, according to Hau, involves a disagreement regarding work done between custodians and housekeepers working for the school district.

Olds, a Wayne attorney, and board members met in executive session Monday night to discuss approaches to settling the long standing dispute.

The board also hired recent South Dakota State University graduate Margo Olson to teach 11th and 12th grade English. Olson will replace Ann Meyer who recently left the district to return to a teaching position in Allen.

SHARYN PAIGE of Wayne was hired to teach business education. The 14 year veteran of Nebraska school systems had been teaching in Emerson for the last eight years.

Paige will replace Jean Swan son.

HAUN TOLD board members that he felt replacing Smith would be a difficult task. He said he had been advertising in several daily newspapers in an attempt to fill the post.

Owens' motion to reject approval of the resignation died for lack of a second. He then voted against a motion to accept Smith's resignation.

Board members also received a letter from the State Department of Education indicating that the school district's curriculum had no trouble meeting accreditation requirements.

And, the board postponed action on bids for milk to be used in the district's school lunch program. Hau, who opened the bids during Monday's meeting, said the pricing structure in the proposals was complicated.

Under terms of the policy, permission for additional AFS students, or students sponsored by other organizations, to attend the high school must be obtained from the school board by the host family.

STOLLENBERG said the WEA negotiating team had not informed the board regarding the teachers' selection of a factfinder.

Wayne-Carroll Schools Superintendent explained to board members that once the WEA selected its representative, the two parties would select a third member to sit on the factfinding panel.

During the discussion, Hau indicated that if the process was delayed much longer, the

Grand Give-A-Way's Triple Header Back On Thursday Night

It's tripleheader time again. Three names will be called this Thursday night, beginning at 7:45 p.m., for a bonus bucks prize of $350 per winner.

Clare Johnson of rural Wayne lost out on the $1,000 bonus bucks grand slam last Thursday. No one answered the 8 p.m. one shot game call at participating stores. The grand slam ($1,000) will be back at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 30.

Both contests, the tripleheader and the grand slam will be alternating on Thursday nights for the remainder of the summer.

THE WINNERS of this Thursday's tripleheader must be in a participating store to claim their $350 in bonus bucks. All winners must claim the prize money within one minute after their name is announced.

As before, spouses can claim the prize on behalf of the winner. One name will be called at 7:45 p.m., another at 8 p.m. and the third at 8:15 p.m.

The new tripleheader twist alternates prizes, giving Wayne shoppers three chances at $350 each one week and a single shot at the $1,000 bonus bucks grand slam the next.

In the tripleheader, three names will be announced at the 15 minute intervals regardless of a win or a loss on the first or second try. One name is announced in the grand slam.

TRIPLEHEADER bonus bucks drawings will alternate with the $1,000 Grand Give-A-Way. So, next week, at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 30, one name will be drawn. This Thursday's winning names in the tripleheader contest will be announced in all participating Grand Give-A-Way stores.

Again, the shopper must be present in a participating store to win. The winner or the winner's spouse may claim the prize within one minute of the announcement.

At 7:45 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 6, the triple header drawing will return for three $350 bonus bucks prizes. And at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 30, the $1,000 grand slam drawing will return.

PARTICIPATING stores include Arnie's Ford Mercury, Associated Insurance, Ben Franklin, Bill's G.W. Black Knight, Burger Barn, Carhart Lumber, Charlie's Refrigeration, Chrysler Center, Coryell Derby, Diamond Center, Discount Furniture, El Toro Lounge and Ellington Motors.

Also, The 4th Jug, First National Bank, Fredrickson Oil, Gress Rexall, Jeff's Cafe, KTCH Radio, Karell's Furniture, Kaup's TV, Kunh's Department Store, McDonald's, Merchant Oil, Mike Perry Chevrolet Oldsmobile, Morning Shopper and Pamida Inc.

And, Northeast Nebraska Insurance, Rich's Super Foods, Sav-Mor Drug, State National Bank and Trust Co., Surber's, Swans' Apparel for Women, T&C Electronics, TP Lounge, Rusty Nail, Triangle Finance, Wayne Book Store, Wayne Grain & Feed, Midwest Federal Savings & Loan Association, Wayne Shoe, Wayne Vet's Club, Wellman's IGA, and Logan Valley Implement.

Florists

At market, they learned the florist convention, a get-together that features a 64-page program covering three days of shows, seminars, design schools and supplier booths, had been cancelled.

Joanie, Ardath and Karla spent some time Sunday at the Crown Center. "We were going to go over there (to the Hyatt Regency), but decided not to do it," she said.

ONLY RESCUE workers and authorized emergency and medical personnel were allowed beyond the police barricades.

Neither the Joanie Design crew, nor the Wayne Greenhouse staff set foot inside the Hyatt Regency, but they did watch the cranes working through broken windows to remove the huge chunks of concrete debris.

The Wayne Greenhouse staff stayed at the Crown Center Saturday night, visited the gift ware market Sunday, and returned to Wayne — safe and sound, but depressed by the awesomeness of the tragedy.

The Joanie Design trio remained in Kansas City through Sunday night, returning Monday relieved that they had not been at the hotel that fateful Friday night.

Burst said she knew that several Nebraskans, key convention people and officers of the florists association, had arrived at the Hyatt Regency Thursday to help with final preparations for the event, which attracts florists from as far away as California and New York.

"THE PEOPLE were all in shock," Hall said of her abbreviated convention trip to Kansas City. "That's all that was on their minds."

Explaining that Kansas City, being well known nationally as a convention center, was "usually pretty wild," Lois said the mood was a dramatic change.

She said she was relieved to learn that all florists and floral suppliers had "checked in okay" after the skywalks collapsed.

At least two Nebraska convention goers who had been in the hotel lobby Friday night received facial cuts from broken glass. They had reportedly been treated, released and accounted for by Saturday.

Both Hall and Burst said that the hotel rooms reserved by conventioners were not in the vicinity of the fourth and second-floor skywalks that collapsed Friday night.

HOWEVER, third floor convention tables, many decorated with floral designs and exhibits for the Saturday morning opening, were used for the injured and the dead.

According to Burst, several floral suppliers who had been in the hotel late Friday and early Saturday said some display areas were used as temporary morgues.

Medical care, including on the scene emergency operations, was being administered on many of the florist convention display tables. Tables that were immediately cleared of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise and floral arrangements.

"If this had happened the second night (Saturday night), all the florists would have been in that area," said Hall, who shuddered at the thought because of the people she knows in the business. "A business that has been represented at the annual convention by Wayne Greenhouse staffers for years."

"WE ALMOST left Wayne for Kansas City the night before (Friday night)," explained Penlerick, who said the staffers called each other and agreed to depart Saturday morning in stead. "When we looked at the building from the outside, it didn't look damaged," said Proett, a 14-year employee with Wayne Greenhouse. The cranes were set up at broken windows.

The windows were broken to gain access to the hotel lobby with crane lifting equipment. Hall said the closest they could get to the lobby side of the hotel was the Mutual Benefit building across the street.

"I thought people were very calm," she said. There were hardly any sightseers (Saturday), said Proett. "I suppose there were some the night of the tragedy but not by the next day."

Hall, obviously still shaken from visiting the scene, said it makes me very thankful that we're home safe.

DISCUSSING the tragedy during a coffee break with fellow employees Monday morning, Proett said it really makes you think. "When you ride elevators and things like that, you really wonder is it safe?"

She said everyone was buying a newspaper, reading about it and talking about it. The Kansas City Star's Sunday edition published a 10-page special section complete with several color photographs on the tragedy, in addition to countless stories in the news sections of the paper.

Proett, who made a remark to a fellow staffer at the scene about the traumatic experience, was grabbed by an interviewer looking for an interview. She declined, explaining that she had not gone through the ordeal.

They, news media people, were talking to everyone," she said.

BURST SAID many of the conventioners were depressed. After seeing it, they didn't want anything to do with it," she said. "And, after seeing that many people dead and hurt, I wouldn't want anything to do with it either."

She said that, after listening to news casts and reading about the tragedy, she was impressed with the way Kansas Citians "opened their hearts" to the victims with emergency care and blood donations.

At the across town giftware market, the same one shopped by the Wayne Greenhouse staff, people only needed an opening to talk about the tragedy, said Burst. "The market features dozens and dozens of display areas for retail store shoppers. This weekend, the market was hosting druggists."

Burst remembers stopping at a gas station on the outskirts of Kansas City Saturday morning on her way into the city. She said she got gas and double checked the route that would take her downtown.

I mentioned the convention to the guy at the station and wondered aloud if it would be open," she said. He started laughing and said, "nothing will be going on down there."

BURST, who's husband Stanley is commander of the Wayne National Guard and northeast Nebraska district manager for NC Hybrid Seed Corn, said that Saturday was the opening extravaganza for the convention.

"I feel very sorry for the Kansas City florists," she said. "They worked for months and months planning, decorating and making floral arrangements for the convention."

Explaining that it is an expensive event, Burst said she didn't know if conventioners would ever get their money back.

The convention will be in Omaha next year.

Meanwhile, work continues on replacing the steel bin destroyed by the June twister. Three of five rings have been erected on the bin, which was not damaged in the weekend wind storms that cut through the farmstead.

"That's three times, now," Paustian said, watching Tuesday morning's rain roll over his land. "That ought to be it. It's got to end sometime."

Paustian said as he surveyed last weekend's damage, "We'll try one more time to make it and if that doesn't work, that's it."

He said the late Friday evening storm came out of the northwest then turned and came back across the farmstead out of the east. Paustian said with it came some light hail and about 1/2 inches of rain.

Corn just east of the farmstead was flattened and the force of the wind popped some cornstalks off at the base, he said.

Then, he said, Sunday night more wind and rain drove across the farmstead from the north, cracking and downing trees in a shelter belt that runs northward from the farm house.

"Sunday night's wind was so strong that it lifted the front of the car off the ground," Carl and his sons explained, pointing to the family auto parked facing north beside the three-story yellow home that was twisted during the June tornado.

Paustian's rebuilding plans, if the weather gives the family a break, will upgrade the dairy operation. A Grade B dairy producer for years, Paustian and his sons — Mike, Carl Jr., and Ernie — hope to be Grade A dairymen by late August.

sured. He said workmen were scheduled to put the wood rafters on the partially completed structure starting Monday morning.

The contractor's crew had returned Monday, but to begin rebuilding the wall, he said. Extra work involved in rebuilding the wall and cleaning up the construction site is expected to set the building timetable back at least a week.

Paustian, a Holstein dairy producer, had expected to be milking his cows in the new barn by Aug. 10. He said the loss would push that date into late August, barring any other weather-related problems with the structure, which will feature six stalls.

The Paustian family is milking 50 head of dairy cows at the Dale Claussen farm, just northeast of the dairy farmer's tornado-torn operation.

"IF IT WAS up to me, I'd just leave it lay there," Paustian said this week. "But, the boys want to try again. So, we'll try...one more time."

The late June twister — the one that destroyed the Paustian barn and dropped a loafing barn onto a number of cows — killed 10 of the Paustian's milking cows and five 3-month-old calves as it ripped through the farmstead on a Sunday evening.

Since then, 12 more cows have either died of storm-related injuries or have been sold for slaughter after injuries ended their ability to produce. Nine more calves have been lost from storm-related injuries, according to the Paustians.

They bring the total livestock loss to 22 cows and 14 calves. Some of the injured cows were carried away — calves that survived because of tornado injuries to the milk cows.

"IT'S GOT TO get better," Paustian said as he surveyed last weekend's damage. "We'll try one more time to make it and if that doesn't work, that's it."

State Courts Setting Nebraska Ground-Water Policy

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The question of whether Nebraska ground water can be transported across state lines by a farmer who has land in both states has been settled by the state Supreme Court.

Several months ago, the high court ruled that Delmer Moss and Joy Sporhase could not pump water from Nebraska to their Colorado land because they failed to get a state permit. Moss and Sporhase have adjacent land in southwest Nebraska and Colorado.

The Supreme Court was asked to reconsider its ruling, but the justices refused.

THE HIGH COURT'S ruling is important because it once and for all makes it clear that ground water is publicly owned, said Stephen Smith of Gering, a special assistant attorney general who handled the case for the state of Nebraska.

The Supreme Court, in reviewing state law, ruled that ground water, as public property, cannot be transported to another state without a permit from the state Water Resources Department.

The department, in determining whether to grant permission to transport the water to another state, must by law consider a number of things, including reciprocity. Moss and Sporhase did register their wells with the state of Nebraska, but they did not get permission to transfer the water to their Colorado land. Therefore, the court said, the requirements of the law had not been met and the transfer was improper.

Nebraska's Supreme Court in recent years has handed down several important water decisions, with the Moss and Sporhase case being among them. The court's rulings on water issues cannot be viewed as unexpected; lawmakers and agriculture leaders for years have said the Legislature's failure to address certain water issues leaves the door open for courts to decide state water policy.

PERHAPS the most memorable of the recent Supreme Court decisions involving water was the Little Blue Natural Resources District case, in which the court held that transbasin diversion of water is permissible in Nebraska, providing it's in the public interest.

Lawmakers, aware of the Little Blue's diversion plan, had toyed for several years with the idea of establishing transbasin diversion policy so the issue would not be left for the courts to decide.

But the Supreme Court did decide the issue, and the ruling prompted consideration of legislation to define public interest. That issue, however, is now before the Supreme Court, which will have the final say on what constitutes public interest when someone proposes the diversion of water from one river basin to another.

Lawmakers no doubt will tackle other key water issues during upcoming legislative sessions. But it's equally certain Nebraska courts, and the Supreme Court in particular, will be asked by one of the parties involved to be the final arbitrator on Nebraska water policy.

UNRULY INMATES — State Sen. Rex Haberman of Imperial probably isn't alone in wanting to do something about prison inmates who become abusive in the confines of the prison, especially when the victims are prison employees.

The recent stabbings and beatings at the state penitentiary in Lincoln of four corrections employees caused concern in many quarters, both inside the prison and out.

Haberman, reacting to one of the injured employee's call for stiff penalties when prison staff are assaulted, is contacting other states to see how they handle such abuses. Haberman is among those who believe stiff penalties should be handed out when prisoners attack prison staff.

To "help alleviate such vicious attacks,"

Haberman said he would work on legislation to deal with the problem. Haberman probably would receive considerable legislative and public support if he can devise legislation that would address the problem without infringing on prisoners' constitutional rights, especially those dealing with due process and cruel and unusual punishment.

But civil libertarians and others no doubt will be watching closely to make sure what is sometimes referred to as the heavy hand of the law doesn't come down too hard just because of public outcry about what happened at the prison June 26.

STATE WORKERS — When Gov. Charles Thone took office in 1979, he said some things that some people probably thought was campaign rhetoric or empty promises. All politicians do it, and it's something the public has come to expect.

But Thone said one thing that wasn't an empty promise: he said state government was too big, and he was determined to reduce its size and, in some cases, scope.

The Thone administration since early 1979 has taken several steps that, although they are not always popular, apparently have led to a reduction in the state's work force. Recent figures from the Department of Administrative Services that were published in the Sunday Journal and Star showed a 4.6 percent reduction in the work force. That translates into a 664-person reduction since Thone initiated a hiring freeze last year.

The figures represent a reduction in full-time equivalent staff, meaning the work force was reduced by the equivalent of 664 full-time employees.

If Thone seeks re-election in 1982, which he is expected to do, his success or accomplishments in the area of staff reductions no doubt will be among the things he talks about in his bid for another four-year term.

viewpoint

The Bottom Line

It's budget time. School districts, cities and villages, particularly, have been wrestling with the hard cold facts and figures of their financial plans for several weeks.

Most of those government entities — including volunteer fire departments — are holding public hearings on their 1981-82 proposals between now and mid August.

And, the various boards and councils responsible for the financial planning will present the proposals hoping for public comment — pro or con.

However, historically, few taxpayers take time to attend any public forum on how their tax dollars are spent. In fact, even those who would complain throughout the year about government spending are conspicuously absent during a public hearing on budgets.

Budgeting is the bottom line. The budgeting process has been set up with the taxpayer in mind. It gives those who pay the bills an opportunity to offer suggestions or alternatives.

Those who are willing to accept the duties and responsibilities of participating in the budgeting process can help direct, and redirect, the future of education and government at the grass roots level.

Even the best politicians, school board members and councilmen cannot read minds. So they must rely on the taxpayers' sense of responsibility and willingness to participate in the process.

Unfortunately, that rarely happens. It's easier for most to sit at home, complain to the neighbors, or ignore the situation completely.

Then, three or four months down the road — after the budget is locked into the funding process — some of these taxpayers show up to protest spending or cutting plans that are in place.

Certainly, they have the right to complain whenever they think government goes astray. But, it often leaves public officials wondering where the protestor was on budget hearing night.

With that in mind, it seems only fair to all parties involved that taxpayers make an effort to attend public hearings on budgets that affect their pocketbooks.

It's not good enough to let the other guy do it and then complain for 12 months about the job the other guy did.

So many of us complain that government doesn't pay any attention to the so-called "little guy." Perhaps it is because the "little guys" pay so little attention to government!

Only you can change that. It's your government. It's your school board. It's your board of trustees. It's your volunteer fire department.

If you don't like they way they're spending your money, go tell them. And if you like the way they are spending your money, tell them that, too.

This is supposed to be a participatory democracy. If it isn't, it just might be because you don't participate.

Sandy Forkeel

Public Partnerships

A new partnership must be formed by private enterprise and community groups to take the initiative in local social projects.

The federal government assumed a very large responsibility for social programs during the last several decades but times have changed. Economic recovery requires the federal government to limit the growth of some programs that were very generously funded in the past. Private enterprise and community groups have to join together and along with federal assistance pick up any slack caused by continuing inflation.

Business has already gone on record in support of this concept. One outstanding development has been the decision of the Ford Foundation to underwrite a new corporation called the Local Initiatives Support Corporation, with the goal of helping community groups obtain local corporate support.

As community development and social programs become more independent of government, the private sector should feel more comfortable about getting involved with community groups. Also, community groups themselves can become more creative about looking for support.

In Nebraska we have a tradition of this sort of self-sufficiency and initiative volunteerism. We may have to provide further incentive to business and charitable organizations to realize fully this new partnership in our own hometowns.

State Reaps Trade Harvest

"There is already evidence of the success of the trade mission to the Far East from which I returned on July 5."

"The mission to Japan, China and Hong Kong was sponsored by the Old West Regional Commission to encourage trade between the Orient and the five states that are members of the commission: Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana."

"HERE IS a nation by nation summary of developments related to our sales efforts."

"Japan is already America's best customer for agricultural products, buying $4 billion of those products in 1980. Nebraska is among the top 10 states in those sales."

"On Aug. 27-29 officials of the Japanese Ministry of Agriculture will be in Lincoln to discuss purchasing more Nebraska wheat."

"A Nebraska swine breeding expert may be invited to Japan to speak to their national pork producers convention. Some of their representatives have been invited to come to Nebraska to explore purchasing breeding stock."

"Nebraska food processors have been invited to exhibit their products without cost at a Japanese trade show in March, 1982."

"From Japan we went China which buys more U.S. wheat than any other nation. China is buying annually more than 2 billion bushels of wheat from other nations. America sold about 260 million of those bushels last year, but our total could greatly increase."

"CHINESE officials have shown an interest in coming to Nebraska to learn our methods for producing pork. Then, they would become better customers for our hog breeding stock."

"An exchange program for graduate students may be set up between Peking University and the University of Nebraska."

"The last stop on our journey was Hong Kong which is the fourth largest Asian market for U.S. products, and is often a go-between for trade between China and America."

"A representative of a Hong Kong trading company will be visiting five Nebraska beef packing plants in August."

"Hong Kong officials are also interested in buying cattle hides and breeding swine from Nebraska."

"To improve the economic status of all Nebraskans, we must greatly increase our sales of farm products abroad. I will continue to work hard to be a good salesman for Nebraska's agriculturally based economy."

Consumer Meat Menu Sets Fast Farm Pace

By M.M. Van Kirk
Nebraska Farm Bureau

There have been tremendous changes in food merchandising techniques in the last 30 years and those who have successfully anticipated and catered to consumer preferences and trends have profited.

Farmers and ranchers who produce the raw materials also have made progress in adapting their products to these changes but they still have a long way to go and often the signals are confusing and unclear. Hog raisers have made spectacular progress in producing a lean product that eliminated a great deal of waste fat and has improved its image.

Along with the breeding that produced a higher yield animal, hog raisers also improved their rate of gain and feed efficiency to greatly reduce the time in the marketing cycle.

CATTLE PRODUCERS too, have been caught up in the drive to market a leaner, more waste-free product. Today's more rangy, muscular beef animals are a far cry from the blocky "compact" that distinguished the straightbred beef cattle of the late 1940s and early 1950s. Cattlemen for a number of years have been striving to keep their product competitive and give consumers what they want as the best answer to the economic well being of the industry.

This is the day of the fast food chains and microwave ovens with emphasis on speed and convenience to meet the needs of working wives and mothers. Coping with time and the realities of inflation have changed eating habits, lifestyles and the food business.

Single working men and women were once inclined simply to rent a room and rely on general service restaurants for their meals. But since World War II, the trend, even among college students, has been toward apartment living with cooking facilities. Today's fast-food franchised establishments fill the needs of this group better, just as they are ready-made for the demands of a more affluent teenage crowd.

Housewives who once cooked and baked every day with carefully planned meal preparations for their families are now more likely to come home from a career job and do a quick microwave oven meal or send out for a ready-made "family pack" from the nearest fast-food place.

A PUBLICATION of the National Live Stock and Meat Board last year reported on key menu trends as a result of a survey of 4,000 food service operators.

At the top of "America's Top 50" best selling menu items, "French fries" was the overwhelming favorite. Meat dishes which made the "top 50" and the ranking of each were: hamburgers (2); cheeseburgers (4); roast beef (18); ham sandwich (19); spaghetti (28); baked ham (30); beef soup (31); steak (36); chopped steak (39); bacon (44); and hog chops (47).

Fast food service outlets in the survey reported some menu items had been removed due to price, including red meat, shrimp and lobster. Full-service restaurants removed steak, shrimp and lobster. Fast-food restaurants removed steak, shrimp and other beef. Schools removed roast beef, shrimp and steak.

Meat items removed due to lack of popularity in some aspects of food service included steak, hot dogs, liver, lamb, veal, stews, meat loaf and beef.

DR. W.T. BERRY, executive vice president of the National Cattlemen's Association, recently pointed out that for the past year, Choice beef has sold at retail for about $2.40 per pound, pork for about $1.40 and poultry for about 80 cents, representing the widest differentials in history.

He believes the price differential is the main reason that cattle prices have not rebounded as expected when cattle cycle numbers declined.

But he notes that despite price, beef has continued to be the consumer's top preference.

Wakefield Man Enters Contest

Robert D. Hansen, a spotted hog breeder from Wakefield, is included in the list of exhibitors who delivered hogs in the 1981 Production Tested Barrow Contest. His barrow is consigned to the New Ulm Test Station, New Ulm, Minn.

Barrows which complete the test will be slaughtered and appraised in a production-related Carcass Contest at Geo. A. Hormel & Company's Austin (Minn.) plant.

Exhibitors from 25 states delivered barrows to the test station and were entered in the contest which is part of the National Barrow Show. This year's event will once again be held at the Mower County Fairgrounds in Austin, Monday through Wednesday, Sept. 14-15-16.

More than 800 barrows met the weight and age requirements and were put on official test — far in excess of the 700 barrows that had originally been anticipated.

Wayne Student Wins Scholarship

Seven University of Nebraska College of Agriculture students — including one from Wayne — have been awarded $250 Charles Stuart Memorial scholarships for the 1981-82 academic year.

The recipients and their hometowns are: Glenn C. Hess, Alma; Craig Mesinger, McCook; Jeffrey Dean Meyer, Avoca; Dana Rathje, Rising City; Kip Saunders, Lincoln; Lon K. Swanson, Wayne; and Loran A. Wach, Hayes Center.

Swanson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swanson, is a sophomore majoring in general agriculture. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta freshman honoraries and received a Daniel S. Bestor scholarship last year at Laurel Concord High School. Swanson was co-valedictorian, sportsman of the year, vice president of his senior class and a member of 4-H.

Livestock Judging Guide Offered

A new livestock judging guide has been produced by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, according to Dr. Keith E. Gistler, extension livestock evaluation specialist at the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service publication was developed "to keep 4-H members up to date on methods and procedures for animal evaluation," said Gistler.

The guide includes photographs, methods for giving oral reasons, modern livestock terms, carcass data, and instructions for handling animals to help explain the process of live and carcass evaluation of livestock.

Individuals who would like more detailed information concerning the livestock judging guide or would like to order one should contact local county extension agent or Dr. Keith Gistler, 208 Marvel Baker Hall, East Campus, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, Neb. 68583. Single copies are $2.08, including mailing.

Feeder Cattle Numbers Climb

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1,410,000 cattle on feed on July 1, up 11 percent from last year and 2 percent above 1979.

The July 1 weight breakdown shows cattle on feed weighing 900 pounds or more totaled $22,000, up 32 percent from 1980. Those in the 700-899 pound group numbered 627,000, an increase of 11 percent from last year. The under 700 pound category totaled 157,000, down 32 percent from a year ago.

During the April-June quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 1,020,000 cattle for slaughter, 10 percent above the corresponding period last year. During the quarter, placements totaled 1,100,000, a 15 percent increase from last year.

Feeders intend to market 1,050,000 cattle for slaughter market during the July-September quarter. If these intentions are carried out, marketings for the third quarter of 1981 would be up 24 percent from the third quarter marketings last year.

State Seed Directory Available

No state or nation has a higher regard than Nebraska for quality in production, conditioning and marketing of seed, according to the associate manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association.

"Quality seed is one of the most important inputs in crop production," said Roger Hammons of NCI, the state's official seed certifying body, in announcing publication of the 1981 Summer Growers Directory for Fall Planting.

The free directory lists growers and seedsmen who are striving to meet the challenge of making quality seed available to farmers, Hammons said.

"The purpose of the booklet is to provide farmers and others interested in crop production with a handy reference of the winter wheat varieties and other fall-planted crops which will be sold as seed this fall," he explained.

The directory is available from county extension offices and NCI at 266 Plant Science, UNL East Campus, Lincoln, Neb. 68583.

Shrinkage Costs Cut Profits

Farmers and ranchers should take positive steps this summer to reduce shrinkage in livestock when transporting them to market, according to Al Wellman, University of Nebraska extension livestock marketing specialist.

The amount of stress directly affects shrinkage — the loss in body weight during the transportation process and one of the largest costs in selling livestock, Wellman explained.

"Because shrinkage occurs at a faster rate during the early part of the haul, even livestock owners living relatively close to markets should consider its economic effects," Wellman emphasized.

"Research has determined that shrinkage increases with distance and time, but not at a constant rate, although it is difficult to estimate precisely the amount of shrinkage which may occur with time or distance because of the many factors which affect shrink," he continued.

Dixon 4-H Team Takes Second

A DIXON COUNTY 4-H team scored 501 points to take second place among 16 teams in a judging contest held in conjunction with the National Duroc Congress at Lincoln July 15. The team was runner-up to a Kansas team which scored 546 of a possible 600 points. Members of the Dixon County team were Debi Meyer of Wakefield, Denise Dempster of Dixon, Doug Rickert of Ponca and Mike Muller of Wakefield. They received awards from Iowa Duroc Queen Mary Dignit, Altanlic, Iowa. Contestants were required to rank four hogs in each of four classes.

Rootworm Scouting Avoids Disaster, Stretches Dollar

There's no easy way to find out for sure whether your corn fields need to be treated with a rootworm insecticide.

But there is a hard way: ignore the rootworm situation and your corn could end up with chewed-up roots, lodged stalks and a disappointing yield.

Another option would be to automatically treat all continuous corn ground with an insecticide, but then you'll be treating unnecessarily — and uneconomically — at times.

ADULT rootworm scouting this summer, although it takes time, is the one way to avoid rootworm disasters and to stretch your insecticide dollar, according to Dr. David Keith, University of Nebraska Extension entomologist.

"It's important to know whether or not you are likely to need a rootworm insecticide treatment next spring," Keith said. "It reduces the guesswork and leads to wiser monetary decisions."

Scouting involves weekly counting or "sampling" of adult beetles, starting about 10 days after the first beetles emerge in several areas in each field. Then, the average number of beetles per plant is calculated.

If beetle counts average one or more per plant, especially if this occurs after mid-July, a treatment is probably needed the following year.

If the economic threshold is reached, then entomologists offer two choices: either rotate next year to a rootworm resistant crop, such as soybeans or grain sorghum, or use a soil insecticide on corn at planting or cultivation time.

FOR DETAILS on corn rootworm scouting procedure and insecticide application, contact your local extension agent.

"If the farmer chooses not to scout his continuous corn, then he should plan to apply a soil insecticide next spring, especially if the neighboring fields have high beetle counts," suggests Dr. Jerry Strong, Mobil Chemical Company's development manager.

Strong points out, however, if a farmer can't scout the fields himself, then he can hire a professional to scout for him.

Deadline for Crop Acreage Report Is August 17 at Wayne ASCS Office

The deadline to report acreages to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office is approaching fast, says Erwin Morris, chairman of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee. August 17 is the final day to certify program crop-planted acreages.

PRODUCERS who report their acreages accurately and timely will be eligible for applicable low yield disaster payments and deficiency payments. Morris explained, disaster payments are made when production is reduced below a specific level due to a disaster.

Morris reports that rainy days bring the farmers in by the dozens. Wet days when field work can't be done is when most farmers take time to come to town. They are the only days so far that result in a waiting period for some producers.

Corn, grain sorghum, barley and wheat are the program crops. June 15 was the deadline to report barley and wheat acreages and Aug. 17 is for the corn and sorghum growers.

There have been approximately 515 farms certified in Wayne County and there are about 585 farms left to certify.

Deficiency payments are made when the national average market price is below the target price during a certain time period.

We are expecting a lot of producers to wait for the last week before the deadline to come in.

A Home Away From Home

THESE MILK COWS, owned by Carl Pauslian of rural Carroll, have found a home away from home at the Dale Claussen farmstead southeast of Carroll. Pauslian's milking barn was destroyed in a late-June tornado. The Claussens offered their milking operation to Pauslian, who lost over 22 cows in the storm. Last weekend, a wind storm blew down a concrete wall on his new milking barn under construction on the old barn site. The damaged wall is expected to set the construction timetable back at least a week.

MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY — I've had several questions lately about the Mediterranean Fruit Fly. The following is information on this subject from the University of Nebraska Entomologist at Lincoln in its Agricultural Notebook Insect Letter.

"The controversy in California about spraying medflies with very low amounts of ULV malathion has given the national news media some exciting reports." We have had a few concerns expressed as a result.

The concerns raised here so far have been about receiving "wormy" fruit from California, the possibility of malathion residues on California produce, and establishing the Mediterranean fly in Nebraska agriculture. Let's consider each briefly.

WORMY FRUIT — The possibility of receiving wormy fruit from California is very remote for at least two reasons. 1) Known infested areas, in California are under federal quarantines, and 2) the infestations have not involved the main commercial production areas of California — most are limited to an area of home horticulture in the Palo Alto — San Francisco area.

MALATHION RESIDUES — The possibility of harmful residues of malathion on produce from California is so remote, that it should not even be an item of consideration — we are likely to be injured by a bicycle sidewalk crack or a slippery bath tub than malathion.

Malathion is commonly used in Nebraska on field crops, lawns and gardens and in households.

The amount intended to be used in California is only 2.5 ounces AI per acre, and with even higher amounts used by homeowners, the periods between application and harvest of garden produce usually ranges from 1 to 7 days.

Even if there was a speck of malathion at the time of harvest in California, it would be degraded long before reaching Nebraska markets. Malathion has been used extensively in area spray programs for mosquito control, grasshoppers and eradication of the Mediterranean Fruit Fly in Florida without any harmful effects. The safety record is unequalled and there is no reason for concern.

ESTABLISHMENT HERE — There is no need for concern about eventual establishment of the Mediterranean Fruit Fly in Nebraska. The climate here would be most disagreeable to them. They are tropical or semi-tropical insects and would not survive Nebraska winters.

Certainly if they did show up here however, it would be alarming to fruit producers in the south.

"The dependence upon California agricultural production is so great in the United States, we should give all the support we can to California farmers in the attempt to avert the spread of this important pest."

Lease-Financing Has Economic Attraction

Lease financing is an increasingly attractive way for agricultural producers to acquire assets without going further into debt, although statistics on the nation's farm sector do not currently reflect such data.

The authors of an article in the June issue of the Economic Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City point out that long-term leases are an alternative to debt financing when it comes to acquiring such equipment as tractors and harvesting and irrigation equipment, and even livestock.

SINCE financial leases offer benefits to both sides — the lessor often gets a higher rate of return, while the lessee can eliminate the need for a down payment, spread payments over a longer period and spread out sales tax liability — they are expected to become still more common as time goes by, according to Ann Laing Adair, research associate with the Kansas City Fed, John B. Penson Jr., visiting scholar on leave from Texas A&M University, and Marvin Duncan, assistant vice president and economist with the Reserve Bank.

The authors found $628 million in net agricultural lease receivables in 1980 among the 131 leasing firms responding to a nationwide survey, an increase of 141 percent over the previous year.

More than half of that increase came from captive lessors (wholly owned leasing subsidiaries of agricultural machinery and equipment manufacturers).

Independent lessors — those whose primary business is leasing — account for another 30 percent, with banks and bank-affiliated lessors accounting for the remaining 17 percent.

"WHILE THE results of the survey suggest that the magnitude of lease-financing to agriculture currently is not large, relative to total expenditures on equipment and machinery by farmers, firms in the industry predict that lease-financing will grow rapidly in the near future," the authors conclude.

"The survey results thus reinforce the importance of beginning efforts now to include information on lease-financing in the farm sector's financial statements to assure they accurately reflect the performance and structure of that sector."

If it has, then you haven't talked to us. We're the Production Credit Association—agricultural lenders whose only business is agriculture. Our funds are virtually unlimited when it comes to financing a sound production idea—even in times of tight money.

At PCA we bring in outside, privately invested money and then loan it out on a local basis, all on the best of terms. When it comes to agricultural credit, tight money doesn't put a squeeze on the confinement plans of a PCA borrower.

Fixing the Farmstead Pasture Fence

HERBERT NIEMANN of rural Wayne fixes the pasture fence north of his farm. Niemann, a Farm Bureau Insurance agent, recently lost his new center-pivot irrigation unit in a summer storm. Here, the Wayne County farmer was replacing wire near the soybean field where the irrigation unit was upended. Irrigation unit contractors had to cut the fence to get the new unit into the field. Only days later, the unit was wrecked by the storm. Niemann had the unit insured.

Crossbred Market Lamb Production

Columbia, Suffolk Rams Tested

Columbia rams may serve as an effective alternative to Suffolk rams for sireng market lambs. U.S. Department of Agriculture research indicates

The large mature size of the Columbia breed suggests its evaluation as a potential terminal sire source.

Columbians and Suffolks produced progeny of comparable lean growth rate and carcass quality in an evaluation by Kreg A. Leymaster and Gerald M. Smith at the Roman L. Hruska U.S. Meat Animal Research Center in Clay Center.

The utility of a terminal sire breed for producing crossbred lambs is measured indirectly, the geneticists point out, through the productivity of the ewe flock and the production efficiency of progeny.

THE SUFFOLK breed has consistently excelled in growth rate as a sire of purebred or crossbred lambs in many studies throughout the world, the geneticists say. Its advantage has generally increased when carcass composition is included in the comparison.

A second terminal sire breed of equal lean growth potential to the Suffolk would be useful to the sheep industry, Leymaster says. A second breed would offer an opportunity to exploit heterosis, or hybrid vigor, in crossbreds for such male reproduction traits as aggressiveness in mating and longevity.

Suffolk rams to 473 ewes ranging from 50 to 100 percent Finnsheep breeding and 1 to 7 years of age.

LEYMASTER and Smith single sire mated Columbia and

The two breeds had similar effects on numbers of lambs born, survival to weaning and number weaned. Leymaster and Smith found Columbia sired lambs were lighter at birth by an average of 0.4 of a pound, had slightly lower preweaning daily gains, and consequently were 1.7 pounds lighter at weaning.

RETAIL CUTS per day of age, the product of growth rate and carcass composition, slightly favored the Suffolk breed, but the difference was not statistically significant.

Sire breed effects on postweaning daily gain and 154 day weight again slightly favored the Suffolks.

The Columbia sired lambs grew slower but produced leaner carcasses.

Suffolk sired lambs excelled in carcass and leg conformation scores, but progeny of Columbia rams had less fat and a higher percentage of trimmed retail cuts.

The Columbia breed is being used in a composite paternal population being developed at the Meat Animal Research Center to sire crossbred market lambs. The population is half Columbia, 25 percent Suffolk and 25 percent Hampshire breeding.

Leymaster says composite populations offer advantages of increased genetic variation and selection intensity, resulting from maintenance of heterosis.

Summer Soil Samples Help Crop Plan

Soil samples for fields to be seeded in late summer or fall should be taken now through the end of August, a University of Nebraska extension soils specialist said recently.

"Most wheat fields can be sampled right after harvest or during the fallow period," said Del Knudsen. Fields to be seeded to alfalfa or grasses in late summer also should be sampled during July and August.

TOPSOIL samples for wheat are tested primarily for phosphorus, lime and potassium, Knudsen said. However, subsoil samples also should be taken to determine residual nitrate as a basis for nitrogen recommendations.

"You pay the same price for nitrate testing at the University of Nebraska lab for a topsoil and two subsoil samples as you do for a topsoil sample only," provided the samples are submitted at the same time, he said.

Phosphorus and lime are the primary concerns in sampling for late summer seedings of alfalfa or grasses and now is the ideal time to take samples, he said. Established stands of grasses or alfalfa also can be sampled now.

especially irrigated hay or pastures.

Taking soil samples in summer is pretty much the same as in fall or spring, Knudsen said, and farmers are fairly familiar with the procedure. If not, sampling instructions are included in the information sheet to be submitted with the samples.

HOWEVER, there is one additional consideration in no-till fields such as chemical fallow. "It's probably a good idea to sample the top one or two inches as well as taking a regular topsoil sample" to provide proper interpretation for recommendations.

"Residual phosphate fertilizer will tend to be at the surface and the top inch may rapidly become extremely acid," he explained. Sample boxes as well as a sampling instructions can be obtained from county extension offices.

Helping Hands
Several demo talks and demonstrations were the highlight of the Helping Hands 4-H Club meeting July 13 in the Keith McClary home.

Demo talks were given by Cindy Berg on energy and Kathy Leighton on the color scheme. Presenting demonstrations were Chad Longe and Craig Evans on woodworking, and Doug Cherry on measuring water.

THE Helping Hands Club has been involved in several activities.

Seven members attended Ponca Day Camp, and nine members attended the 4-H Judging Contest at Wayne State College. Two members participated in the county demonstration contest.

The club also entered a float in parades at Laurel, Wakefield and Winslow, receiving third prize in the Winslow parade.

Theme of the float was "Remember When," depicting a country store scene. Participants on the float were Darren Walker, Brian Morris, Darin Greunke, Craig Evans, Cindy Berg, Rhonda Suehl, Chad Longe, Doug Cherry, Brian Suehl and Letha DuBois.

THE 4-H Club was invited by the Walde family for a pizza supper in appreciation of the club's adopted grandparents program involving the late Louis Walde.

A BOOTH decorating committee was formed and includes Darin Greunke, Doug Cherry, Darin Walker and Cindy Berg. Chairman is Darin Greunke.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Keith McClary and Mrs. Adolph Meyer.

Twelve members attended the meeting, and guests were Mrs. Lon DuBois and Laurel, Mrs. Harry Suehl Jr. and Mrs. Dennis Evans.

NEXT meeting will be Appreciation Night, with the date to be announced.

nounced.

Hi-Raters Girls

Fair books, passes, and fair entry tags were handed out to members of the Hi-Raters Girls 4-H Club at a meeting July 9 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The Song Contest and Style Revue will be held at Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College campus at 7:30 p.m. July 23. Tanya Willers reported on Ponca Day Camp and Valerie Rahn reported on home economics judging.

Junior Leaders were assigned to help prepare exhibit and theme booths. Members were reminded to help with either the pre-fair or post-fair cleanup.

The Willers family served lunch and the Gilliland family had recreation.

The Hi-Raters Girls 4-H Club has tentatively scheduled a meeting Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church. The Genner family will be in charge of recreation and the Dorsey and Droscher families will be on the lunch committee.

Valerie Rahn, news reporter.

Carrolliners Girls

The Carrolliners Girls 4-H Club met July 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran fellowship hall. Mrs. Ron Magnuson and Karen Longe served lunch.

Lori Lee Jensen gave a craft demonstration. The group will have a theme booth at the Wayne County Fair.

Members also made plans to enter projects at the Randolph Fair on July 20.

Next meeting will be July 28 at 1:30 p.m. in the Lutheran Church basement.

The club plans to tour a furniture store, Just Sew and Bill's GW in Wayne at 9:30 a.m. on July 30. Afterward they will go to a park for a picnic dinner and swimming.

Amy Schluhs, news reporter.

WRANGLERS 4-H
The Wranglers 4-H Club met July 16 at the Northeast Station, near Concord, with 14 members and 12 guests.

It was decided to have song practices each Monday and Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Practices will continue until the Song Contest on Aug. 11.

Four-H'ers enrolled in beef projects will clip calves Aug. 7, beginning at 8 a.m. at the home of Ryan Creamer.

Lunch was served by Kelly Kragmer and David and Leslie Isom.

Next 4-H meeting will be held

Aug. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast Station.
Sheila Koch, news reporter.

HI-RATERS BOYS

Hi-Raters Boys 4-H Club met July 9. Roll call was answered with a favorite baseball team.

A demonstration was given by Dale Droscher on woodworking. Entry and exhibition tags were distributed for the fair.

Lunch was served by Larry Willers, and recreation was by Rodney and Terry Gilliland.

Next meeting will be in September.
Sean Nutzman, news reporter.

AIRPLANE RIDE

Colleen Weddingfeld, nine year old daughter of the Colin Weddingfelds, won an airplane ride which she took Tuesday at the Martin Airfield in South Sioux City. Following her ride she participated in a miniature golf tournament.

Colleen, a carrier for the Sioux City Journal, obtained three new subscribers to the Journal to qualify for the plane ride and tournament. She was sponsored by Myron Olson, area distributor.

TOURISTS RETURN

Hayley Greve, Teri Schwarten, Joan Miller and Dilyne Byers returned July 6 after touring Washington, D.C. and several European countries.

The girls were among a group of 20 students from Wayne, Pender, Emerson and Plager who participated in the People To People high school student ambassador program. Mike and Donna Mariette of Wayne were the teacher leaders for the program.

The students, flew to Washington, D.C. on June 9, where they attended orientation meetings, visited Capitol Hill and went sightseeing for two days.

From Washington the group flew to Greece and then to Italy, Germany and Austria. They spent one-half of the 28-day mission with homestay families in the first three countries.

In Athens, Greece they visited the National Archaeological Museum, Panathenian Stadium and the Acropolis and saw the Palace and House Parliament. After leaving their homestays they took a two-day journey to Rome by coach and steamer and had an overnight crossing of the Adriatic Sea.

Sites they visited in Rome included the Roman Forum and Colosseum, St. Peter's and St. Paul's, Borghese Gallery, Quirinale Palace, Janiculum Hill and the Tiber River. The group also met with Italian youth for a pizza party.

Visits in Florence included the Uffizi Gallery, the Cathedral, the Baptistery and the Medici Chapel, among other sites. The students rode through Bologna and Verona to Auer, Italy and crossed the Brenner Pass into Austria. A drive through the Bavarian Alps ended in Donaurnorth and Werfingen area to their German homestays.

After leaving their German homestays they drove to Munich and across the German-Austrian border to Austrian homestays in the Horn Area. After leaving the Austrian homestays and a drive to Vienna, a morning orientation was held which included the Hofburg, Opera House, Parliament, Belvedere Palace and Schoenbrunn Palace.

The group departed Vienna by air for their trip to New York and Chicago and arrived in Omaha July 6.

Susan Rouse had been selected to accompany the group but was unable to make the trip after undergoing surgery shortly before the departure date.

ATTEND WORKSHOPS

The three cheerleading groups from Wakefield High School recently attended cheerleading workshops.

Wrestling cheerleaders Kristi Carson, Lisa Meier, Karla Stelling and Marie Turner and junior varsity cheerleaders Kelly Greve, Keila Lund, Susan Rouse and Trisha Witters attended workshops in Grand Island.

Susan Baker, Kris Fredrickson, Kim Greve, Kristi Hingst, Renny Hingst and Renee Wenstrand, varsity cheerleaders, were in Lincoln for workshops.

Susan Baker also attended a volleyball camp at the University of South Dakota in Vermillion recently.

BEEF DRAFT

Mrs. Sam Utecht presented a beef draft for $10 to Doug Jensen the draft, a girl from the Northeast Nebraska Feeders Auxiliary, was given for the first Wakefield baby born at the Wakefield Health Care Center on or after Father's Day. Mrs. Utecht is a member of the Auxiliary board.

Lindsay Sue LaRay was born to Doug and Cindy Jensen July 7. She weighed 7 pounds, 1 ounce. This is the fourth year the auxiliary has given a beef draft and the third year it has been given at the Wakefield, Wayne and Pender hospitals.

SUGGESTIONS NEEDED

The American Legion Auxiliary has a time capsule as its contribution to Wakefield's Centennial observance. The capsule will be buried at the Graves Public Library.

Claudia Adams, chairman of the project, is seeking ideas on what should be placed in the capsule, how long it should be buried before it is opened and any other ideas that would pertain to the project.

All suggestions may be mailed to Time Capsule at the Wakefield Republican or to Claudia at 211 Sherman, Wayne, Nebr. 68787.

MAKE DONATIONS

The Wakefield Horse Pullers Association met July 10 at the Fire Hall. The group voted to give $250 to the Wakefield Community Schools for improvement of the track and field area, $50 to the Fire Department and $100 to the veterans groups to pay for five flag poles for the Avenue of Flags.

A discussion was also held on holding another pull next year and the association decided to hold a pull in August 1982 and to increase the prize money to $4,000. Committee chairmen for this year's event will hold over for next year, according to Merv Nixon, co-chairman of the pull.

FIREMAN'S AUXILIARY

Fifteen ladies of the Fireman's Auxiliary met July 14 at the Fire Hall. They addressed and sent out the tickets for the Fireman's dance, to be held Aug. 8 at the Legion Hall. They will serve lunch at the dance.

Everyone was reminded of the Northeast District Fireman's meeting, to be held at Snyder on Aug. 2.

Mrs. Art Doescher and Mrs. Lyle Ekberg served lunch. Their next meeting is Aug. 11 at 8 p.m. at the Firehall.

KING DAUGHTERS MEET

now Midwest Federal offers a new, high rate, short term investment

MIDWEST INVESTMENT FUND

Investment Amount	Annual Rate (Simple Interest)	Term
$1,000 to $4,999	12.000%	89 days
$5,000 or more	14.500%	89 days

The Midwest Investment Fund is a unique opportunity for individuals and businesses to earn high rates for short terms without normal risks. It's an "inflation fighter" investment designed to provide even the small investor with a high return for a short term.

Invest as little as $1,000 for a term of 89 days. Because your investment is not automatically renewable, at maturity we will transfer your original investment plus earned interest to any Midwest checking or savings account.

NO FEES OR SERVICE CHARGES
The Midwest Investment Fund is a "repurchase agreement," fully secured by a U.S. Government or U.S. Government Agency Security. Your investment is fully protected and at maturity you will receive all your principal and interest with no brokerage fees or service charges deducted.

RATES GUARANTEED FOR FULL TERM
While interest rates on some market-type investments may fluctuate, the rate on your Midwest Investment Fund is assured for the full 89 day term regardless of any declines in the market.

vestments may fluctuate, the rate on your Midwest Investment Fund is assured for the full 89 day term regardless of any declines in the market.

Your money is immediately available if you need it. Since interest is paid only at maturity, no interest will be paid if funds are withdrawn before the full 89 day term.

The rates on future offerings may vary, subject to market conditions. Offer may be withdrawn at any time.

A SIMPLE TRANSACTION
Stop in at any Midwest office. No complicated forms to fill out... as easy as opening any certificate or savings account. This investment is available to NEBRASKA RESIDENTS ONLY.

Because funds invested in the Midwest Investment Fund are not considered a savings deposit, they are not insured by the FDIC nor do they qualify for premium gifts.

CONCORDIA LUTHERAN CHURCH WOMEN

Concordia Lutheran Church Women met July 16. Tekia Johnson opened the meeting by reading Romans 13:10.

Minutes and the treasurer's report were read. It was voted to send a monetary donation for the Love Offering, to be received at the Annual Unit, Nebraska Lutheran Church Women convention, to be held at Midland Lutheran College in Fremont on Aug. 14-16.

September will be guests night and ladies from other churches will be invited. A retired missionary, Lillian Lundahl, has a birthday July 26.

Carol Erwin read a letter from the mailbox missionary in Japan. A former pastor, Ernest Nelson is planning to visit Aug. 2. A coffee will be held in his honor before morning worship at about 10:15 a.m.

Rebekah Circle gave the program on "Samaritan Woman" with Mrs. Winton Wallin as leader and other Circle members taking part. Mrs. Evert Johnson read John 4:7 "The Woman at the Well".

The program was closed by singing "Fill My Cup, Lord" and the benediction. Hannah Circle served refreshments.

Prices, Tenure, Equity Influence Farm Solvency

Prices for farm products are only one factor that influence a farm's solvency, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report. Two other factors, however, seem almost as important as prices in determining why some farms regularly fare better than others economically.

Tenure — owner-operated farms generally fare better than tenant farms and farms that are owned only partly by the operators because of the owner's potential for capital gains on landownership.

Equity — farms where the operators own the land and equipment debt free generally fare better than farms where the operator must make annual interest and principal payments on debts.

PESTS, disease, low prices, poor management and small size can hamper the productivity (and profitability) of individual farms. But tenure and equity seem to be factors that apply to farms in general.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture assessed the financial strength of 100 representative farms in 19 states for the following five combinations of ownership and equity (in order of greatest to least financial strength):

Full owners with 100 percent equity are in the best financial condition. They are usually long-established farmers who own all their land free of debt and all their machinery and livestock.

Part owners with 67 percent equity are also financially sound. They own half the land they operate and rent the rest. They own all their machinery and livestock, but have outstanding debt equal to one-third of the value of owned assets.

Tenants with 50 percent equity are likewise in good shape financially. They rent all the land they operate but own all their machinery and livestock. They have 50 percent indebtedness on their machinery and livestock.

Full owners with 50 percent equity are in a rather weak financial condition. They represent farmers who have recently expanded or are expanding aggressively. They own all their land, equipment and livestock, but with outstanding debts equal to half the total value of the farm. Their vulnerability is due to the large and stable cash flow they need to meet their debt repayments.

Tenants with 25-percent equity are in the weakest financial shape. They are usually beginning farmers who rent all the land they operate, own their livestock and machinery, and have debts that amount to three-fourths of the value of their livestock and machinery.

The financial strength of farms is based on their ability to generate farm cash receipts (cash flow) to meet all farm expenses, plus provide a $12,000 allowance for family living, plus set aside a depreciation fund to replace farm machinery and equipment.

Farms that cannot meet these cash flow requirements will be unable to continue in operation in the long run and will eventually either have to forsake farming or supplement their farm income with nonfarm employment. Most small farms (annual farm receipts less than $20,000) already receive more than half of their total income from nonfarm sources.

ALL BUT 30 representative farms were able to generate enough cash to cover all cash flow requirements. Of those, eight were able to meet their farm cash expenses and provide $12,000 for family living, but could not set aside money to meet their depreciation. Nineteen were able to meet farm cash expenses but could not provide $12,000 for family living. Three farms were unable even to meet their cash expenses. The farms that did not meet those cash flow requirements included all five categories of the South Carolina beef farm and four categories of each of the following farm types: Texas peanut farm, Ohio soybean and grain farm, Minnesota corn and beef farm and Colorado winter wheat farm.

Of the 30 farms that could not meet the cash flow requirements, only 1, the South Carolina beef farm, was a full owner with 100 percent equity. Six were part owners with 67 percent equity, 10 were full owners with 50 percent equity, 6 were tenants with 50 percent equity, and 7 were tenants with 25 percent equity.

Eight types of illustrative farms met the cash flow requirements over all five tenure and equity categories: Nebraska irrigated corn, Missouri beef and hog, Oklahoma cotton and beef, Kansas winter wheat, California rice, Mississippi cotton, Arkansas rice and soybeans, and Washington wheat.

THESE FINDINGS are based on USDA's "illustrative farms," computerized simulations of 100 crop and livestock farms based on real farms that produce the major commodities in the major producing states.

The 100 illustrative farms consist of 20 farm types in 19 states, each farm type represented by the five tenure and equity categories. The data for the analyses come from censuses, surveys and land grant colleges and universities. The data reflect the typical farm size and enter prize mix, yields, production costs, and returns prevailing in the States.

The specialization and commercialization (market orientation) of modern farms may make them vulnerable to a wide range of influences: export demand, input requirements and availabilities, credit availability and cost, and input and product prices.

Farm cash flow, therefore, has become more important now than in earlier times, because farmers now rely more on purchased inputs (seed, fertilizer, pesticides). As a result, modern farmers may be less able to endure periods of depressed prices and low cash flow than their predecessors. Farmers with high equity are in the best position to weather periods of adverse prices. TO ILLUSTRATE, changes in farm product prices drastically change the amount of equity needed to meet all cash flow requirements. For example, an owner-operated Illinois corn-soybean farm would need 66 percent equity to meet the cash flow requirements, including interest payments, with 1979 prices. With prices 10 percent lower, the operator would need 77 percent equity; with prices 10 percent higher, only 55 percent equity.

As another example, the Kansas winter wheat farm requires only 16 percent equity to meet all cash flow requirements with 1979 prices. With prices 10 percent lower, 34 percent equity would be required; with prices 10 percent higher, no equity would be required — the net cash flow would cover all cash flow requirements and all interest payments.

Many farmers have improved their incomes by expanding their operations, which can, up to a point, reduce a farm's cost per unit of production. Some farms have expanded beyond the point of (theoretical) maximum production efficiency because of the opportunity to increase income even more, to defer taxes, and to realize marketing economies (higher prices for their products and lower prices for their purchased inputs) because of the volume they deal in.
