Senior's Parents File Complaint Over Incident

School Board Investigating Alleged Assault

The Wayne Carroll School Board has agreed to conduct a "full investigation" into an incident involving an alleged assault on a 17-year-old youth by the Wayne High School principal.

During Monday night's meeting, board members and Superintendent Francis Haun expressed "deep concern" over allegations presented to the board regarding the incident and unanimously passed a resolution that called for the investigation.

The resolution said the board will "take the matter under serious consideration, conduct a full investigation and take appropriate action."

THE INVESTIGATION was prompted by a personal appeal from Darrell and Wilma Moore of Wayne, during the monthly meeting.

The appeal was accompanied by a letter which the Moores read, that asked for a meeting on the matter with representatives from the board, the school district administration and the Wayne Police Department.

Superintendent Haun scheduled the meeting for 9 a.m. Tuesday.

The meeting was to focus on the details of an alleged encounter between the Moores' son, Jeff, and Zeiss, on July 25 at 602 Sherman Street.

No charges have been filed against Zeiss in connection with the alleged incident. However, the Moores said they have filed a complaint with the Wayne County Attorney, Budd Bornhoff.

THE MOORES said the Wayne County Sheriff's Department was investigating the incident.

Wayne County Sheriff Don "Butch" Weible was unavailable for comment on the case Tuesday afternoon.

Deputy Sheriff Scotty Thompson refused to confirm that the department was investigating the matter and said "The newspaper will never get that kind of information from this office."

A spokesman in Bornhoff's downtown Wayne office said the county attorney would be out of town until Thursday.

And, Zeiss was out of town attending a baseball tournament. He was not expected to return to Wayne until Thursday morning.

Despite the fact that the incident occurred more than two weeks ago, a check with the Wayne County Judge's office showed no charges had been filed.

ACCORDING TO the Moores' account, their son was with two other young men at the time of the alleged incident.

Jeff's mother, Wilma, told The Wayne Herald that the file was returning from an out-of-town baseball game on that Saturday night.

She said they were dropping off one of the young men at his Sherman Street home and had parked the car to look for baseball gear and athletic equipment.

In the Moores' letter to Superintendent Haun and school board members, the parents allege that it was where Zeiss "physically assaulted and verbally threatened our son's life."

"They said a call to admit 'mistaken identity' was made to their son on Sunday morning, July 26 — the morning after the alleged incident."

"WE ARE NOT going to be satisfied until school board action is taken on this matter," the Moores' letter stated.

Board President Neil Sandahl said "As far as taking any legal action, it would simply things a lot if there were charges filed."

After an explanation from Dr. Haun on the legal implications of the board taking any action without an investigation, the superintendent said: "We are very sympathetic with your problem and it has not gone unnoticed."

He told the Moores that the board's options involved a full investigation of the matter before any decision could be reached.

"Wilma and I are going to do everything we can legally," Moore, who is president of Marra Home Improvement Co., told the board.

TUESDAY, Wilma Moore told The Wayne Herald that they were somewhat concerned that charges had not been filed on the basis of their complaint.

She said that, if the county attorney did not bring charges in the alleged incident, they would explore civil action against the principal through their own attorney.

During Monday night's meeting, board member Dale Stollenberg told the Moores: "I can relate to your situation. My wife and I were in the same position last year."

He said the matter was brought to the attention of the school administration.

Discussion ensued about the board's legal situation — one that prohibits any action without due process.

"We don't want the board to do anything to jeopardize legal action," Moore told board members, indicating he understood the board's position.

BOARD MEMBER Wilbur Giese introduced the motion to initiate the investigation. It passed unanimously.

Before the Moores left the meeting, several board members complimented the couple for coming forward to present their case.

"It takes courage to say something like this," Giese said. "In this day and age, a lot of people wouldn't do it. You should be complimented for that courage."

Board member Milton Owens thanked the Moores for the "thoroughness" with which they presented their case.

The Moores expressed concern about their son returning to school this fall.

Wilma Moore said: "I'm asking you to not make my son go back to school this fall without some assurance..."

City Pool Chlorine Gas Leak Hurts 14

Twelve children and two adults were taken to Providence Medical Center Sunday afternoon after being exposed to chlorine fumes at the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool.

Eric Rasmussen, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Rasmussen of Wayne, was released Tuesday from the hospital after treatment.

Scot Sipes, assistant manager, was released Sunday night after observation. He was trying to fix a leak in the chlorine tank — a result from a vandalism incident early Sunday morning.

Eleven children were treated as outpatients at Providence and released Sunday. In accordance with hospital policy, the outpatients' names were not released.

ACCORDING TO the Wayne city police, unknown subjects flipped over the bleachers outside of the pool area and tipped the lower diving boards back until they reached the fence.

The vandals also removed the life rope from the pool and hung it on the high diving board, and tipped the bike rack up to lean on the fence, the report stated.

"We feel the party(s) involved entered the filter and chlorinating room and some of the valves were tampered with," said City Administrator Phil Kloster.

Police noticed that the valves had been tampered with when they first came to investigate the obvious vandalism. Sipes had been trying to put the pool back into operation, there was a malfunction, and the chlorine escaped, he explained.

Roosevelt Park Area Water District Proposal Dead

Once again, Wayne's Roosevelt Park area property owners have pulled the plug on water district improvements.

And, as the city's water improvement plans for the neighborhood drained away, self-appointed Roosevelt Park water district spokesman Vern Russell again argued with the City Council over funding the project.

His charges and contentions drew sporadic fire from City Administrator Phil Kloster, who told the former city councilman at one point: "You have yet to make a point."

AT ONE POINT during the discussion, after several City Council members had explained the city's position, Russell said:

"I think you are trying to cloud the issue as much as I am."

And, though Russell continued to urge the Council to consider funding the proposed water district improvements with general obligation funds, his name was among those of property owners who signed a petition dated Aug. 7 to kill the project.

A major landowner in the Roosevelt Park area, Russell chided the Council over a citywide water study done by Bruce Gilmore & Associates.

Citing paragraph after paragraph out of context, the owner-operator of Wayne Refuse Service attempted to establish that the proposed improvements in Roosevelt were primarily for fire protection and should be general obligation funded.

AGAIN USING city consultants as a target of his criticism, Russell's voice was heavy with sarcasm as he made several references to Wayne's "$40,000 water study done by engineers."

The water study was done for the city free of charge by the engineering consultants on the Roosevelt Park project. The city spent $2,000 for a computer analysis of the study. Russell also steered the running debate away from the water improvement plan and began challenging the city on street repairs and resurfacing in the Roosevelt Park area.

His voice rising to a shout that prompted Mayor Wayne Marsh to bring the debate to an end, Russell questioned the Council on what he referred to as the lack of street repairs in the Roosevelt Park area.

AFTER RUSSELL related a conversation he'd had with Vern Schulz, public works superintendent, regarding street repair, Kloster told the Council that the same situation existed on streets.

"The area tried to avoid payment for a first-class job (of street paving), and then — with a second-class job — has wanted the city to maintain it," Kloster said.

Kloster also told Russell that heavy truck traffic in that area tended to destroy the road surface quicker.

Russell countered by saying the truck traffic wasn't on the streets where the potholes existed. He contended it was a first-rate paving job and referred to it as an oil matt surface.

Schulz explained that it was not an oil-matt surface at all. "That's an armour coat down there and it's the first one ever in the city. It's nothing more than spraying oil on gravel," he said.

Schulz said that oil matt surfaces are blacktop, not oil sprayed on gravel.

"I CANNOT understand why, other than personal animosity, we can't get the streets repaired in Roosevelt Park," Russell shouted.

Mayor Marsh, shutting off the shouting, said it was the opinion of the Council that "we should not go down there and pay for water and maintain the streets on a general obligation basis."

Kloster told Russell: "You are trying to nit pick on the benefits of a system to get GO-(general obligation funding) for a system that will give you benefits."

Councilman Larry Johnson jumped in the fray, telling Russell: "You've made no mention of personal domestic water system benefits."

Johnson pursued the point by telling Russell he, and other Roosevelt Park area residents, had come before the Council contending there was no water pressure there.

"NOW EVERYTHING is fine," Johnson said, making a reference to the late July informal hearing on the proposed project where a number of property owners contended they had no problem with water pressure.

Sheriff Weible May Resign Post

Co-Defendant: Bar Owner Avoided Drug Deal

A co-defendant in the felony drug case of Charles Weible contends that the Winside tavern owner did not participate in the deal that went down with undercover narcotics agents on Dec. 18, 1980.

Diane Coyle, 25, who did not testify during the five-day, late-June Weible trial, claims the tavern owner entered the Dale Busskohl home after the cocaine and marijuana were delivered to State Patrol undercover investigators.

And, Coyle contends Weible, who is serving 8 to 16 years in the Nebraska State Penal Complex, Lincoln, on three felony drug counts, spent his time in the living room of the Busskohl home making "small talk" with her while the deal was being made.

IN A SWORN affidavit filed in Ninth District Court at the Wayne County Courthouse by Weible's attorney, Vince Kirby of Norfolk, Coyle contends the Winside tavern owner did not carry a scale into the Busskohl home the night of the drug raid.

Those statements, and others in the sworn affidavit, conflict with testimony given by several undercover narcotics agents who took the stand during Weible's jury trial, which began June 22.

Kirby filed Coyle's sworn statement on Tuesday as part of an amendment to his early July motion for a new trial for Weible, who was sentenced on July 30 to hard labor at the state penitentiary by District Court Judge Richard P. Garden.

Coyle's statement was filed 10 days after Weible began serving his three (all terms — two consecutive and one concurrent term on the three drug convictions).

THE AMENDMENT to the new trial motion comes on the heels of reports regarding the expected resignation of Wayne County Sheriff Don "Butch" Weible, who accepted the responsibility of delivering his 28-year-old son to the state penitentiary on Aug. 1.

Weible has reportedly been considering resigning his elected position. However, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners had not received official notice of the expected resignation by late Tuesday.

Sources close to Weible indicate the long-time county sheriff has made tentative plans to resign effective Sept. 1.

He and his wife, Mary, who is managing Charlie's Bar in Winside, have neither confirmed nor denied reports of the expected resignation.

The couple, however, has purchased the late Louis Waide's home in Winside.

The hearing, scheduled for the Winside auditorium, is expected to focus on the propriety of operating Charlie's Bar on a liquor license being held by a convicted felon.

Weible's license recently was renewed. And, a ruling on his mother's application for a license has been postponed indefinitely.

The sheriff is unable to obtain a license without first resigning his post as chief law enforcement officer for the county.

During the tavern owner's sentencing, defense attorney Kirby told Judge Garden that Weible had financial obligations to his parents that would total some $60,000.

AND, ALTHOUGH Kirby insisted he was not getting a fee for Weible's defense, costs to the county for the trial for attorney fees and expenses total $21,282.70, according to figures on file in the District Court clerk's office.

The figure has already exceeded the county's new budget, according to commissioners. Some $18,000 was earmarked for the entire year. During this week's county budget meeting, commissioners were paring funds from the roads department and shifting them to not only pay for the Weible trial expenses, but also to provide a fund for prosecution of other cases during the coming year.

Special prosecutor Thomas DeLay has submitted fee bills and expense accounts totaling $13,908.99 for prosecuting Weible.

DeLay also has submitted a $144 bill for the Coyle case. He also has submitted a $436 bill for the case of Vernon Sarha, a co-defendant who turned state's witness and is now serving 300 days in the Pierce County Jail.

IN ADDITION, DeLay has submitted a bill for $584 in the case of Dale Busskohl, a co-defendant who is serving 2 to 5 years at hard labor in the State Penal Complex.

DeLay was appointed to the case when County Attorney Budd Bornhoft, the county's chief prosecutor, disqualified himself from the case.

Court appointed attorney Robert Ensz, who represented Busskohl, has billed the county for $4,099.16. And court-appointed Norfolk attorney David Domina, who represented Coyle, billed the county for $959.55.

Those bills represent prosecuting attorney fees and expenses, and court-appointed defense counsel fees and expenses for the four co-defendants.

They do not represent compensation for expert witnesses, law enforcement officers, officers of the court, the jury, and the judge.

Dixon County Fair Opens

Volunteers Raze Old Barn, Build New One

Those showing breeding stock in open class competition at the Dixon County Fair this weekend will have a brand-new building to do it in, thanks to several volunteers.

Under the leadership of Eidon Sperry and Dennis Mitchell, the old, rotting building was torn down "all in one day — unbelievably," according to fair secretary Paul Fischer of Wakefield.

Sixteen volunteers went out a couple of days later and put the new one up — again, in one day.

"I think they did real well," Sperry said. He only had a couple of items to finish Monday morning.

FISCHER, ALONG with the Fair Board, got the volunteer-help together.

Sperry described the building as a pole-type shed with a tin roof, 72 feet long by 31 feet wide.

A $1,000 Ak-Sar-Ben grant was combined with fair monies to fund the building. Sperry estimated the final cost at $2,500.

He and Mitchell did get paid for their efforts, but Sperry said he will probably donate part of his pay to the Fair Board.

"They did a fabulous job of lining it up," Fischer said. "We're very grateful to them."

AMONG THOSE who helped with the building were Lloyd Roebber, Glen Magnuson, Clinton Erwin, Verdel Erwin, Brad Erwin, Wilits Kahl, Mark Borg, Don Curry, Orville Curry, Marlin Johnson, Mrs. Francis Pfluger, Duke Johnson, Pete Brown, Craig Hansen, Stan Stirling, Paul Fischer, Veri Carlson, Dirk Carlson, Dick Schweers, and "four or five 4-H kids who helped paint," Sperry said.

Fairgoers got their first glimpse of the new building at Vesper services Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

Two families — the John Jordans of Allen and the Harders from Ponca — were honored at the service by Ak-Sar-Ben for having land owned by the same Nebraska family for 100 years.

Activities were scheduled to begin today, Thursday, with 4-H food, home and garden judging at 10:30 a.m. Dairy showmanship and judging begins at 3 p.m.

Evening festivities begin at 5 p.m. with the tree barbecue. At 6:30 Duane Yoder of Newton, Iowa and the Erwin sisters of Concord will present a contemporary Gospel and variety show.

Open class horse playdays start at 7:30, and everyone will swing their partners at the free square dance at 8.

4-H BEEF showmanship and judging will run all morning, 8 a.m. to noon, on Friday.

Micro-mini tractors will pull their weight at 1 p.m. The large tractor pull begins at 2:30.

Trophies will be presented after the horse and dairy parade at 6 p.m. Antique autos will be paraded at 7.

The Eagleette Strutters from Allen will perform at 7:30, and the Northeast Nebraska Feeders Queen will be crowned at 7:45.

Then, at 8 p.m., the California Zephyr will perform country/western, bluegrass and original music for fairgoers.

4-H SWINE showmanship and judging open Saturday's activities at 8 a.m. Open class and 4-H sheep judging starts at 10:30.

The 4-H fashion and music review and presentation of trophies will start at 2:30. The afternoon closes at 3:30 with the kiddie pedal tractor pull.

Activities for the final evening begin at 6 p.m. with the parade of 4-H livestock and a presentation of trophies.

The Wakefield Fire Department will demonstrate its "Jaws of Life" at 7:45, and the Demolition Derby begins at 8.

School Board Adopts Budget as Teachers Select Factfinder

The Wayne-Carroll Schools board of education has unanimously adopted a $1.9 million 1981-82 budget without a contract with the district's teaching staff.

With two out of three factfinders selected for the district's second consecutive contract negotiations impasse, the certified staff heads into an Aug. 31 school start uncertain that a settlement will be reached in time for September's payroll.

The Wayne Education Association's selection for a factfinder is Robert Den Hartung, business manager of the Lincoln School System.

GENE LAVENDER, superintendent of school in Norfolk, is the board's selection for the factfinding panel.

According to Superintendent Francis Haun, those two factfinders will select a third member, subject to approval by both parties to the contract, to complete the panel.

During Monday night's regular meeting, Haun expressed some optimism to the board regarding a settlement of the contract before school starts.

However, Haun said the district was prepared to pay the teaching staff on the basis of last year's salary schedule, should a settlement roadblock carry the impasse beyond the start of school.

The board also discussed limiting health insurance benefits as part of contract negotiations.

BOARD MEMBERS adopted the budget after an 8:30 p.m. public hearing that drew no audience.

During the public hearing, Haun explained to the board that budget figures had not changed from the July meeting when he presented the proposed financial package.

Haun did recommend, however, that some funds remaining in the 1980-81 budget be transferred to the new budget.

The end-of-the-year transfers included funding shifts on unemployment insurance, a special payroll account, the lunch fund, a depreciation account and an athletic account.

Haun also reviewed the budget message with board members.

The end-of-the-year transfers included funding shifts on unemployment insurance, a special payroll account, the lunch fund, a depreciation account and an athletic account.

Haun also reviewed the budget message with board members.

THE SUPERINTENDENT asked for and got board approval to transfer $6,000 into a special unemployment insurance account.

Haun said only $856 remained in the account as of Aug. 10.

Several years ago, at Haun's recommendation, the board decided to handle its own unemployment insurance claims rather than pay a percentage of the annual payroll to the State Unemployment Fund.

Haun told the board that last year, the district paid $4,400 in unemployment benefits. He explained that any termination of employment, whether voluntary or involuntary, qualified the former employee for unemployment funds.

That prompted board member Becky Keidel to say: "Somebody's going to scream long and loud. In Iowa, they don't allow it anymore. If you don't want to work, you don't get paid."

Haun said there were no claims on the account during the first two years it was established.

HAUN ASKED the board to transfer $3,500 into the special payroll account established three years ago.

The account was established to set aside funds for a possible judgment from the U.S. District Court on equal pay litigation.

Factfinder fees in negotiations were also paid out of the fund, according to Haun.

"If it is not needed, it can be transferred back to the general fund at a later date," Haun said in his statement to the board.

He reminded the board that there may be attorney fees for negotiations. The board approved the transfer.

On the lunch program transfer, Haun asked for $5,000 — the same amount as last year. He said that he felt extra money would be needed for the lunch program expenses this year.

THE DISTRICT, like thousands across the country, faces a cutback in federal support for the lunch program.

The board already has acted to increase meal tickets for the program in an effort to close the gap expected under the federal cutback.

The board approved that transfer and the shift of $24,000 to the depreciation fund for the purchase of a new school bus.

A discussion ensued regarding the costs of busing students compared to the price tag on reimbursing parents for transporting their own children to school.

The school district is obligated to either bus or reimburse parents on transportation for students who live beyond four miles from school, according to Haun.

BEFORE ENDING the budget hearing, the board approved a recommendation to place $4,500 into the athletic account to pay for programs that have no gate receipts.

The transfers, according to Haun, left a balance of $72 out of a $1.8 million budget.

In other action, the board awarded a contract for school lunch milk to Gillette Dairy Inc. of Norfolk.

Three bids were received on the milk contract. Gillette's proposal, which included delivery four times per week, offered half-pints of milk at a base price of 11.3 cents per carton with a 2 percent discount for payment by the 10th of each month.

Half-Day Starts Set For School Districts

Bells will ring for most Wayne county rural schools on Aug. 31. And most are planning to start the year with a half-day.

District 9 in Hoskins and District 47 will start their days at 9 a.m. and end at noon, according to school officials.

The first full day at the Hoskins school will be Sept. 1 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., while students will be dismissed from their first full day at District 47 at 3:30 Sept. 1.

SEVERAL OTHER schools in the county will begin at 9 a.m. that Monday, but will dismiss at different times.

District 76, near Sholes, will dismiss at 11:30 a.m., District 68 at 11:45 a.m., District 77 at 1 p.m., and District 3 at 2 p.m.; school officials stated.

The first full day for District 76 students will be Sept. 1, 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Pupils at District 68 also have their first complete day on Sept. 1 and will be dismissed at 4 p.m.

Districts 22 and 48 will attend school for the entire day on Aug. 31, officials said.

Dismissal time for District 33 is set at 2:30 p.m., and District 45 students will be sent home at 4 p.m.

NO TIME has been set for students at District 51 to report for the first day of school on Aug. 31.

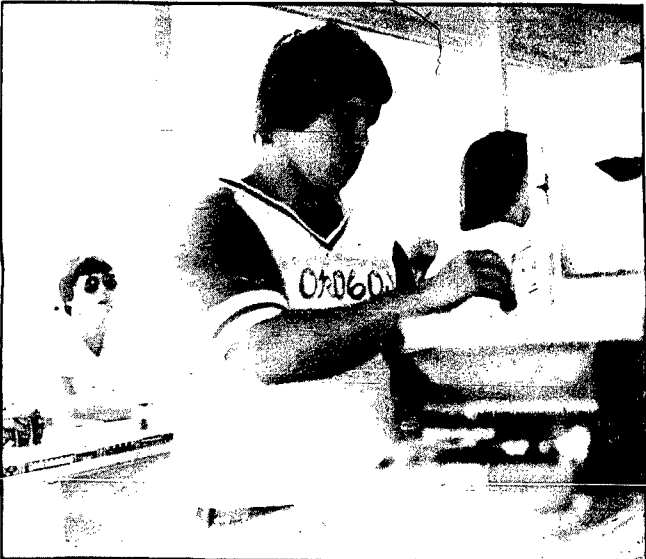

District 57 will start classes at 7 a.m. on Sept. 6. Their first full day will run from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on the 13th.

The fair is over. In just about a year's time, however, the men and women of St. Mary's Catholic Church will be dusting cobwebs from ceilings and corners, hosing down the cement floor, and bringing in another supply of hamburgers, hot dogs, ice cream and homemade pies — readying their lunch stand for another year of fairgoers.

For the past 29 years, St. Mary's Church has catered to the appetites of the hundreds of persons who visit the county fair. Their lunch stand has become a fixture at the Wayne County Fairgrounds — and it just plain feels friendly.

MENTION St. Mary's food stand to many longtime fairgoers and members of the church and their minds turn to what it was in the beginning — a simple tent for plain folk to grab a bite to eat and a cool drink in-between visiting the livestock barns, whirling on the ferris wheel, or looking over booths displaying the summer's biggest and best garden produce.

The idea to sponsor a food stand came in 1952 — just one year prior to the construction of St. Mary's Catholic School.

Members of St. Mary's Men's Club and Guild were looking for ways to help raise money for the new school and decided on a lunch stand at the fairgrounds.

FELIX DORCEY, president of St. Mary's Men's Club in 1952, recalls that first year the church rented a large tent for $25 and began serving sandwiches to Wayne County fairgoers.

"The tent was erected just north of the old grandstand," recalls Felix, "and the men carried in 16 foot bridge planks, borrowed from the county, to be used as a floor."

"We got the planks the day before the fair and returned them to the county the day after," says Felix, smiling as he recalls a few smashed fingers and bruised toes.

WHILE FAIRGOERS enjoyed stopping by the tent — where, when the sides were rolled up, they could catch a breath of cool air — it did pose a few problems. "First of all," smiles Felix, "they raised the rent of the tent about three years later to $40."

Felix recalls another year when a terrific storm blew the roof off the grandstand, sending a sheet through the sides of the tent. "Noone was injured," says Felix, "but Eddie Johnson had some great stories to tell." Johnson had been posted at the tent throughout the night to see that there were no intruders.

Felix mentions that in the nearly 30 years St. Mary's lunch stand has been at the fair there has never been any vandalism to the building or its contents.

MAJOR improvements to the lunch stand began in 1960 when one of St. Mary's parishioners donated concrete, and with the permission of the Fair Board, was allowed to pour it at the present site.

The church continued to rent a lunch tent until 1964 when, again with the cooperation of the Fair Board, they received a grant from Ak-Sar-Ben to erect the present wood-frame facility.

All the labor on the new building was donated by men of St. Mary's.

Members of the congregation continue to volunteer their labor on the upkeep of the building, including a coat of paint about every three years.

WITH THE coming of the wood building, water was piped in and a septic tank installed.

"Before then," recalls Felix, "runners carried water to wash dishes and make coffee from nearly 200 feet away in 10 gallon cans. Garbage was carried away just as far."

Felix says the stand was constantly upgraded under the watchful eyes of the Health Department.

ALTHOUGH the lunch stand was spearheaded by the Men's Club and Guild, it became a joint effort of the entire congregation the following year — in 1953 — and has continued throughout the years with the cooperation of all of St. Mary's parishioners.

Members of St. Mary's Guild, as well as the Men's Club, oversee the operation of the lunch stand with the assistance of other members of the church, who prepare food days in advance of the fair and donate hundreds of man hours — an estimated 3,000 hours, this year — working the four fair days.

"Some members," says Felix, "schedule their vacation days around the fair so they'll be available to work."

Felix, who continues to put in several hours each year behind the lunch counter, smiles as he recalls mothers with unborn babies working at the lunch stand during its early years. "Now," he says, "their children are working there."

BACK IN 1952 fairgoers purchased enough hot dogs, hamburgers, cold drinks and coffee to help the church raise $425.

Then a hamburger cost 15 cents, and fairgoers could dine on a hot dog for 10 cents. Coffee was a nickel a cup.

THIRTY YEARS later the cost of a hamburger or hot dog is still pretty reasonable.

This year's visitors to the fair could purchase a hamburger or hot dog from St. Mary's lunch stand for only 85 cents. Or if they preferred a heartier meal, they could get a hamburger or tavern plate, including homemade coleslaw and baked beans, for $1.85.

Then there's homemade pie — alamo de if you're not counting calories — root beer floats, ice cream cones, soda pop and candy bars.

And for earlybirds at the fair the church served a breakfast of eggs, bacon, pancakes, sweet rolls, toast and coffee.

THIS YEAR'S record-breaking proceeds will be divided equally between the Men's Club and Guild and used for work within the church.

SHIRLEY FLETCHER, president of St. Mary's Altar Guild and this year's chairman of the fair stand committee, credits members of the church for the stand's growing success.

"They're a great bunch of people," says Shirley, "Nobody griped and and everything went smoothly."

Shirley especially praises the men who fry the hamburgers. "It gets hot and they could easily let it bother them. But they don't," she smiles. "They're always clowning around."

THEN THERE'S the "behind-the-scenes" workers who kept the lunch stand stocked with 180 homemade pies, barbecue, coleslaw and baked beans.

This year there were 180 pies — baked by 60 women of the church — and fairgoers tasted the last crumbs early Sunday evening. "We'll have to increase the pies next year," smiles Shirley.

Another crew, comprised of Nicki DeTurk and daughters Peg Kemp and Jeni DeTurk, worked three days in advance of the fair cooking barbecue mix from 250 lbs. of ground beef, using a special recipe.

Clair Sullivan made all the coleslaw, using 60 lbs. of shredded cabbage, and Marie Lansing and Elizabeth Plinkelman were in charge of preparing the baked beans.

Fairgoers also went through 300 lbs. of hamburger patties all four fair days, and about 50 packages of hamburger buns and 15 packages of hotdog buns each day.

BOTH SHIRLEY and Felix agree that the social benefits of the lunch stand are of far greater importance than the money received.

"The monetary value is minimal compared to the social relations established between members of the parish and community," says Felix, who has served on the Wayne County Fair Board since 1953.

"You get to know people within your own church in a different way," adds Shirley. "Not only does it build relationships between persons in the parish, but it extends beyond that — to the people at the fairgrounds and others outside St. Mary's Church."

"It's probably one of the better things we've got going for us," echoes Felix. "The cooperation is unreal."

Felix is especially encouraged by the number of young persons — in many cases third generations of fair workers — who each year volunteer their time.

"There were years when we weren't sure there would be enough volunteers to carry on," says Felix. "But the members of the church always came through."

"The Lord loves a cheerful giver," smiles Felix, adding that members of St. Mary's Church have been exceedingly generous with their time, talent and treasures.

THIS YEAR the lunch stand was presided over by nearly 40 volunteers each day, from 6 a.m. to about midnight.

Other volunteers cleaned and stocked the stand the day before the fair, while still others returned the day after to clean-up and lock the doors for one more year.

"If I could award halos," says Shirley, "I'd give them to John Melena and Berneal Baker."

John and Berneal spent all four days at the lunch stand running back and forth with supplies of ice, pies, barbecue, baked beans, coleslaw, buns, hot dogs, and whatever else workers needed.

"They kept check on everything," says Shirley, "and their help was invaluable."

SO NEXT year, when you're visiting the county fair, stop by St. Mary's lunch stand. Breathe in the nostalgia of homemade apple pie and coffee; taste the fair.

Wayne Juniors Bring Home State Title

Welcome home, Wayne Juniors! The tired Wayne Legion team returned Wednesday from its longest and most successful road trip of the year. The locals won the Class C state championship trophy Tuesday night by gunning down Kimball 8-2 in Tecumseh.

It was the second state championship in two years. Last year, Wayne's Juniors won the Class B title.

WAYNE'S THEME SONG this season should have been "On the Road Again" in reference to the 31 games the Juniors played on the visitor's field due to renovation work on their own ball park.

But, not a single player was complaining about all of the away games after Tuesday night's championship game.

The triumph advanced Wayne into Tuesday's Class C State Tournament championship at Tecumseh. Kimball dropped into the losers bracket of the double elimination tourney against Dwight. A 7-6 victory over Syracuse in 12 innings on Sunday.

The Dwight Syracuse delay of the Wayne Kimball game nearly two hours.

Wayne, the only unbeaten team in the double elimination tourney, was scheduled to face the winner of the Kimball Dwight matchup in the finals. Tuesday. A Wayne loss would have meant a rematch for the state title.

Wayne, the only unbeaten team in the double elimination tourney, was scheduled to face the winner of the Kimball Dwight matchup in the finals. Tuesday. A Wayne loss would have meant a rematch for the state title.

Midgets one mile south of Wayne and a reception was planned at the Wayne Vet's Club.

"This was a heck of a way for these guys to finish their careers. They have played together since they were 10 years old and were Ralph Bishop League champions in pee wees, pony league and Midgets," Wayne coach Hank Overin said.

Without playing in the Ralph Bishop League, we couldn't compete with the teams we faced at state. We were more relaxed because our league is so strong. We're happy to keep the Class C and B trophies in northeast Nebraska.

By breezing through the double elimination tourney without a loss, Wayne's Juniors were awarded the state championship jackets.

The locals took immediate control of the game and were only once threatened. The first run was scored in the first inning to set the tempo of the game.

Tim Pfeiffer reached base on a fielder's choice and scored when Kevin Nissen grounded a hit-and-run double to the outfield fence.

Three more runs in the bottom of the second made Kimball fans begin to panic. Jeff Allen drew a lead-off walk, stole second base and moved to third base on a wild pitch.

Heier moved to third on the play and Fleming moved to second on the throw. Todd Skokan drove home Heier with a sacrifice grounder. A sacrifice bunt by Jere Morris' squeezed in Fleming for the third and final run of the inning.

Just when Wayne threatened to run away with the game, Kimball rallied in the top of the third. A base hit, three walks and a fielder's choice resulted in one run with only one out.

Allen was walked and reached third on a base hit by Jeff Allen. Allen stole second and Nissen scored on a bunt-and-run as Todd Heier took over by tapping a bunt toward the first base line.

With Allen on third base, Todd Skokan drew a walk. Overin called for a balk steal and the play worked perfectly as Kimball's pitcher was called for a balk steal as he stopped in the middle of his delivery, hoping to throw out Skokan.

Allen was awarded home plate and Wayne's lead suddenly bloomed to 6-2. A pair of insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth put the finishing touches on Wayne's title win.

Morris drew a walk, stole second base and moved to third on the catcher's overthrow. He scurried home on a passed ball. Jim Sperry, who also had drawn a walk, moved to second on the passed ball and was advanced to third on Pfeiffer's sacrifice.

Nissen clubbed a base hit to score Sperry with Wayne's eighth run. The locals collected five hits and 10 walks in the game compared to six hits and five walks for Kimball.

The victory completed Wayne's season with a 23-8 record while Kimball fell to 31-9.

Wayne Turns Back Kimball

One big inning was the turning point in the Wayne Juniors' 6-1 win Sunday night over Kimball.

The triumph advanced Wayne into Tuesday's Class C State Tournament championship at Tecumseh. Kimball dropped into the losers bracket of the double elimination tourney against Dwight. A 7-6 victory over Syracuse in 12 innings on Sunday.

The Dwight Syracuse delay of the Wayne Kimball game nearly two hours.

Wayne, the only unbeaten team in the double elimination tourney, was scheduled to face the winner of the Kimball Dwight matchup in the finals. Tuesday. A Wayne loss would have meant a rematch for the state title.

Pfeiffer threw a two-hitter and Kelsey countered with a three-hitter. However, Pfeiffer walked only two batters while Kelsey walked 10. Five of those walks came in the fourth inning.

Both teams struggled offensively in the first three innings. Kimball failed to get a runner on base during that time and Wayne stranded three.

Kimball scored first in the fourth inning. John Solo reached second base on a fluke play as his high fly ball bounced off the forehead of Wayne center fielder Pat McCright and fell safely to the ground after bouncing about 30 feet into the air.

The locals added two runs in the bottom of the fifth to account for the 6-1 final. McCright drove the ball to the fence for a triple and Allen's sacrifice bunt brought him in.

Heier hammered a solo homer as a final insult as Wayne moved into the state finals.

Hard Hitting Midgets Reach Finals

A Saturday afternoon session of batting practice sure didn't hinder the performance of the Wayne Midgets on Sunday.

Wayne riddled Mead 18-5 to open Class C State Tournament action at Tecumseh. The win secured the locals no worse than second place in the four-team field.

A 14-HIT ATTACK and several Mead mistakes resulted in an average of three runs per inning. Mead, which had only four hits, took advantage of five Wayne errors to score five runs. Steve Overin was the winning pitcher.

The victory advanced Wayne (21-3) into Monday's 8 p.m. championship game against Superior (24-16). Superior dumped Gothenburg 10-2 in other first round action, Sunday.

Mead found itself in a hole early and Wayne scored five runs in the first inning to force a pitching change.

Overin walked, Jeff McCright singled and reached second base on an error. Todd Schwartz singled and Kevin Malty walked to load the bases. With no outs, Mead overthrew first base on Tim Heier's grounder and all three runners scored.

Neither team scored in the third but Wayne made up for it with four runs in the fourth.

Three straight walks to Heier, Niemann and Jorgensen loaded the bases. Chris Wieseler pounded a two-run double to the outfield fence and Overin drove in two more runs with a line single.

Two Wayne errors resulted in another Mead run in the bottom of the inning. Wayne countered with one in the top of the fifth as Schwartz scored and the locals were within three outs of a 10-run-rule victory.

However, Mead postponed the game, another inning with two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Finally, Wayne put the game away by pushing across four runs in the sixth inning off of Mead's fourth pitcher.

Jorgensen and Overin walked and were replaced by pinch runners Mark Kubik and Todd Dorsey respectively. McCright collected a sacrifice fly and Schwartz blasted a two-run triple.

Malty followed Schwartz with a run-scoring double and Heier drove in the final run with a line single.

Well Executed Effort Leads Legion to Win

One of the expected tournament favorites was handed an embarrassing loss as Wayne's Juniors drubbed Dwight 11-0 in Class C State Tournament action, Saturday in Tecumseh.

The locals pounded the ball for 11 base hits and Tim Pfeiffer fired a two-hit shutout with 10 strikeouts.

Pat McCright clubbed three hits and Jim Sperry, Tim Pfeiffer and Todd Skokan each collected two hits. Sperry scored three of Wayne's 11 runs.

Wayne scored a pair of runs in the first inning, playing before a Wayne following of 50 or 60 persons.

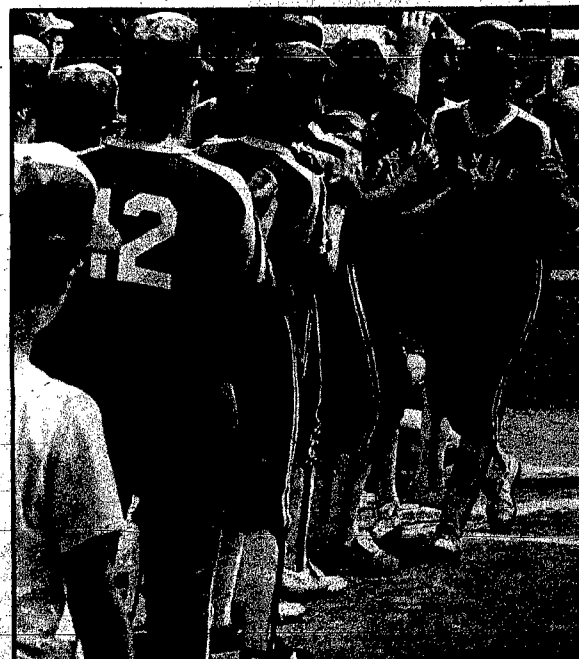

Jere Morris walked and Sperry reached base on a bunt which was bobbled. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch and Morris scored on a sacrifice fly by Pfeiffer. Kevin Nissen reached base on an error and McCright had a bunt single to bring home Sperry.

After two scoreless innings, Wayne exploded for six runs in the fourth inning to break the game open. Jeff Allen and Todd Heier got things started by drawing walks and forcing a pitching change.

Then, Brian Fleming ripped an RBI single. Skokan drove in another run with a base hit and Morris walked to load the bases. Sperry reached base on an error and Doug Proett, who pinch ran for Fleming, scored on the play.

Wayne's 21-4 Midgets 2nd in Class C

KEVIN MALY steals home against Superior as Shaun Niemann backs away.

A successful baseball season came to a close for the young Wayne Midgets with a second place finish in the 1981 Class C State Tournament at Tecumseh.

A physical, hard hitting team from Superior ended Wayne's bid for the state title by edging the locals 7-6, Monday night. Wayne's season closed with a 21-4 record while Superior finished at 25-16 mainly against Kansas teams.

The short outfield fence seemed to benefit Superior. The winners ripped three home runs and two narrowly cleared the shallow 300 foot fence in left field.

"I'm very proud of the way the Midgets played considering their age. We were up against a much more mature team," coach Hank Overin said. "If we had played them in a different ball park, two of their homers might have been caught! Our outfielders were standing up against the fence and had to watch the balls sail over their heads."

SUPERIOR PITCHER Tom Sorensen blasted a solo home run on a 3-2 pitch in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Superior the state title. It was the second homer in the game for Sorensen, who learned his batting style from Nebraska coach John Sanders.

Todd Schwartz, making his first pitching start since injuring his elbow prior to district play, was effective against the state champs.

Schwartz pitched 6 1/3 innings with reliever Steve Overin collecting the other two outs in the fifth inning.

Superior recorded only four hits in the game but three were homers. Sorensen had solo and two run homers off of Schwartz and catcher Brian Miller had a three run shot off of Overin.

THE USUALLY powerful hitting Wayne team had a sub-par performance at the plate but scored six runs on five hits and eight walks. However, Wayne's batters struck out 14 times.

Wayne put the first run on the scoreboard in the top of the third inning. Jeff Jorgensen walked and stole second base. Then, pinch runner Mark Kubik scored on a base hit by Jeff McCright.

The fourth inning was a big one for the locals. Kevin Maly led-off with a triple which landed at the base of the outfield fence. Then, in one of the most exciting plays of the game, Maly stole home.

In an attempted suicide squeeze play, Maly sprinted toward home plate. Batter Shaun Niemann missed on the attempted bunt but the speedy Maly was safe at home as he slid under the catcher's tag.

TIM HEIER walked, stole second base and moved to third on the attempted bunt-and-run. Then, Niemann laid down a nice bunt single to score Heier. Niemann moved to second base on a passed ball and scored on a Texas League single by Overin.

In the bottom of the inning, Wayne's lead was cut in half as Sorensen's two-run homer brought the score to 4-2.

Superior stole the lead in the fifth inning on a walk, double, error and three-run homer.

Trailing 6-5, Wayne patiently fought back. In the sixth inning, Niemann walked, stole second base and scored when Randy Gamble's fly ball to left field was dropped.

IN THE SEVENTH, McCright led-off by ripping a double to the outfield fence. He stole third base as Superior's third baseman charged the plate expecting a bunt and scored when Superior's left fielder dropped Heier's fly ball.

Wayne stranded runners on second and third in the fifth inning and a runner on third in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

WSC Is Picked Sixth

The eight football coaches in the Central State Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) forecast a sixth-place finish for the 1981 Wayne State College football squad at their annual football media luncheon in Topeka, Kansas on Monday.

The WSC Wildcats, who earned a sixth-place CSIC finish in 1980, will open fall football camp on Sunday (Aug. 16). Coach Del Stollenberg is expecting a considerable number of newcomers to complement a strong core of veterans this fall.

Defending CSIC football champion Kearney State was picked to win its sixth consecutive CSIC title by seven of the eight coaches. Missouri Western was picked to finish first on one ballot and is the conference choice to finish in the runner-up spot.

Following Kearney and p.m.

Missouri Western were Pittsburg State (KS), Missouri Southern State (KS), Ft. Hays State (KS), Wayne State, Emporia State (KS) and Washburn (KS).

Coach Stollenberg told the record gathering at the media luncheon that "Our first-line players are as good as those of other colleges," but that depth at some positions may pose a problem. He noted that the Wildcat strength is in defense, with 10 returning starters, and said he is "looking forward to the season - it will be interesting."

Coach Stollenberg and the Wildcats will be seeking to improve on a 4-5 mark in 1980, including 3-4 in the CSIC. Wayne State College opens the 1981 season at Chadron State on Sept. 12, with kickoff time set for 1:30

JOHN TORCZON makes a call at first base.

To Veteran Torczon Umping Is Still Fun After 18 Years

No one umpires baseball for 18 years unless he is a true lover of the sport. Such is the case of John Torczon.

The Wakefield High School teacher and Wayne State College assistant football coach says he likes the game, likes the kids and has fun umpiring.

"I enjoy it. I meet many different people in different circumstances under stress," Torczon explained. "Umpiring is fun and I'll continue to umpire until it is no longer fun."

TORCZON HAS worked district, area and state games. He works a district tournament nearly every year and umpired at the Area A Tournament at Wisner just more than a week ago.

The Wakefield resident says he doesn't mind doing lots of games because it is a good form of exercise. And despite the fact that he spends many summer nights umpiring games, Torczon said his family is used to it. "Years ago, my wife said to quit playing or quit umpiring," he said. "I try to keep my mind and everything tuned to the game. Most of the time I don't hear the fans. Some times the fans are right when they complain but most of the time they're too far away to tell."

Torczon said he likes to umpire a good, well played ball game but doesn't like to work a sloppy game or a game decided by one run on the umpire's last call at the end of the game.

WHEN TORCZON began playing baseball in Columbus, there were 500 or 600 boys in his age group. By the time, he was old enough to play Legion ball that number had dwindled to 11 players.

Torczon's career as a player continued through his college days at Kearney State in the mid-60's. In the spring of 1966, he was a pitcher on the conference champion Kearney team.

"I've been involved in baseball every year since I was seven years old. When it gets hot, it's time for baseball - it's just that simple."

Comparing the calibre of baseball of 1981 to that of years ago, Torczon said he feels the talent has gone down in the past 20 years. "Compared to other sports, I don't feel the calibre of baseball is as high competitively as it was. Not enough towns play ball. I wish more town teams would get going."

COACHING IN THE Ralph Bishop League is "generally real good" according to Torczon who said he feels Wakefield's Paul Eaton and Laurel's Bob Weisenberg are two of the best Legion coaches in "taking the material they get and making something out of it."

Torczon said he feels that little league baseball is too competitive in many cases. "The game has to be fun. Dick Brownell's tee-ball league at Wakefield is super. The emphasis is not on winning."

Discussing fans' reaction to a ball game, Torczon stated, "we're not Major League umpires and too many people think we are. The more you leave officials alone, the better off you are," said Torczon. "If people have to take the game home with them and fret and stew, then maybe it's time to get out of the game and worry about what's really important in life."

Until the day comes when Torczon no longer enjoys working baseball games, he says he will be as serious as he can and do the best job possible. And the easiest baseball to work, he says, is college ball because it is the best played level of ball.

City to Fund Reseeding of Water District Pipe Cuts

It'll be seed, not sod, for homeowners. That's the decision of Wayne's City Council on reseeded right-of-way grass in the three water line projects under construction this summer.

And, since the price differential is so great, the city has agreed to seek informal bids from local companies on the reseeded projects.

As part of the construction contract, the water district contractor, Albanesi Contracting of Jackson, bid 10 cents per square foot for reseeding and 50 cents per square foot for reseeding the right-of-way.

THAT WAS an offer not binding on the Council, according to engineering consultant Dennis Hirschbruner of Bruce Gilmore & Associates.

He said estimates show the cost of reseeding the lawn behind the trenching equipment along Sherman Street, Ninth Street and Fairground Avenue would run about $49,000.

Reseeding the same ground for city homeowners would be about $9,800, based on the contractor's bid, he said.

However, Mayor Wayne Marsh told the Council he was sure the work could be done by a landscaping contractor for less than the reseeded price offered by Albanesi Contracting.

THE COUNCIL, which had the option of leaving the reseeded or reseeding as a homeowner responsibility, approved a resolution to assist taxpayers in the project.

After approving the resolution, the Council quickly opted for reseeded the right-of-way lawn destroyed during the construction of the water main lines.

And, upon learning that Marsh recently had some similar work done for 6 cents per square foot, Council members agreed to seek bids from landscape companies in the area for the replanting.

Hirschbruner estimated that the project involved about 8,140 linear feet in a 12-foot-wide path along the right-of-ways.

HE SAID THAT since the Council was not obligated to formally bid projects under $7,500, it would be worthwhile to pursue getting the job done on an informal bid basis from area seeding specialists.

A discussion ensued on the different types of grass seeding available, including hydroseeding. Mayor Marsh asked Vern Schulz, public works superintendent, to come up with some specifications on the type of grass that should be used.

Marsh indicated that if the informal bids came in at less than the Albanesi Contracting bid, he would recommend the Council go with an area grass-seeding contractor. Hirschbruner explained that the planting should be done between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15, but that grass planted correctly after the latter date "should do well, if the fall weather is not too severe."

THE ENGINEERING consultant said that the lines on Sherman Street were being pressure tested.

After that checks out, he said, the hooks will be underway. That involves redigging in a 4 to 6-foot area at each hook site, he explained, noting that grass could be replanted after the hooks without danger of the seeding being destroyed by contractor work.

In other action, the Council members continued to discuss a proposed ordinance to set up a fee and bond schedule for excavation on public and private property within the city limits.

Schulz presented survey results he had gathered from 11 Nebraska towns — some slightly larger and some slightly smaller than Wayne.

The survey was done in an effort to gather information regarding complaints from local contractors about red tape and excessive fees for that type of work.

IN ALL CASES, according to Schulz, the cities surveyed had excavation ordinances on the books.

And, all but one — Fairbury — required a permit before contractors could dig, he said. Furthermore, he said, in each case the contractor was responsible for making contacts with other utilities.

A majority required a permit fee and a bond, he said.

Schulz said his survey indicated that the cities without such permit fees are working on a schedule.

Councilman Keith Mosley said: "I think it (Wayne's permit system) has worked very well in other towns. I've been in, they fear up everything I hope we don't penalize someone to the point that they don't want to do it (the work) though."

COUNCILMAN Gary Vopalensky, who spearheaded the discussion of excavation fees and bond schedules during the last Council meeting, reiterated his concern.

He said local contractors were concerned about the bond requirements, the permit fee and the time factor in getting the permit.

Why is it more difficult and is it more trouble having it on the books? he said.

summarizing what he said he felt the contractors were asking.

"If you are any reputable contractor at all you wouldn't dig without one," Mosley said.

Schulz explained that he was impressed with the cooperation between contractor and city expressed in his survey.

"You've hit it on the head right there," Vopalensky said. "The answer being cooperation."

SCHULZ SAID he was expecting some information from one of the cities with a "good ordinance and their own bonding system."

He said the city officials told him company written bonding agreements won't stand up in court. "They wrote their own and it'll stand up in court, so I'm getting a copy," Schulz said.

Marsh asked that action be postponed until Council members had an opportunity to review that information.

Before adjourning, the Council adopted an ordinance requiring sidewalks in some zoning districts.

After discussion on the ordinance at the last Council meeting, the ordinance failed to survive the suspension of the statutory triple-read rule for passage.

Both Vopalensky and Councilman Darrell Heier voted no on the rule suspension forcing a reading of the ordinance at Tuesday's meeting.

HEIER WAS absent Tuesday night, so the ordinance survived the triple-rule reading suspension and was adopted.

Vopalensky was the only no vote.

Council members also approved a stop sign ordinance and an ordinance requiring a permit for parades within the city limits.

The Council was also informed of a 19-cent per cubic yard increase for refuse disposal. Kloster said efforts to put the transfer station on a "pay-as-you-go basis" were working out, particularly with the recent rate increase.

The city administrator was given approval to get plans and specifications ready for the purchase of three new Civil Defense sirens for the city this year.

MONEY HAS been earmarked in the 1981-82 budget for the purchase of the new sirens.

Also, Norm Brugger, a 50 year veteran of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, sent a thank you note to the City Council for a 600th meeting plaque presented to him by Mayor Marsh on behalf of the city.

Proposal

Several attempts by Kem Swarts, legal counsel for the city, to explain the philosophy behind special assessments for the Roosevelt Park area's proposed improvement did not dissuade Russell.

In fact, the former councilman contended the special assessments were for new sub divisions and that Roosevelt Park was entitled to a water system with general obligation funding.

Russell said the city did not have ordinances governing old subdivisions and old water districts, though he contended at one point that Roosevelt Park was not a water district.

He even went so far as to charge the city with playing favorites by doing the Sherman Street water line first, though he said the city's own water study showed the eastern half of the town "was in dire need of water line improvements for fire protection."

KLOSTER SAID the only reason Sherman Street "being done first among several summer water projects" was because of school starting.

Russell said "I don't like you picking on any one section of town."

Mayor Marsh said "What I don't like is your reference to the mayor and Council not treating the families in Roosevelt Park fairly. I personally don't like that I don't think anyone should get up here and say that the Council is looking out for the interests of the entire city and right now it is the Council's opinion that we should not go ahead (on the project)."

When 50 percent of the property owners in a proposed water improvement district protest the project under law the construction cannot continue.

Within the petition — the second protest petition submitted on the project, the Roosevelt Park area property owners contend the problems have been made worse by the city. Therefore, we hold the city responsible for lack of adequate water pressure for the purpose of domestic use and fire protection.

"WE ASK THAT the city upgrade the present system and loop the line from Folk Street north on South Nebraska to Fairgrounds Avenue," the petition states after protesting the establishment of the project.

Russell, one of only three or four Roosevelt Park area property owners at the meeting and the only one to address the Council on the water issue, began the debate after a presentation by Councilman Gary Vopalensky on the history of funding water projects in Wayne.

Kloster had informed the Council of the petition and said that because of the protest "it is our opinion that the project is dead."

Swarts confirmed that opinion. Vopalensky then handed out material he had researched with the help of City Clerk Norman Mellon and his staff, regarding Wayne water projects.

CITY RECORDS indicate that special assessments were used to help defray costs on water districts starting in 1968 with a Sixth Street and Cecil Wriedt project.

That project was 74 percent special assessment and 26 percent general obligation. From that date on — with projects in 1973, 1979, 1981 — special assessment responsibility grew while general obligation funding diminished according to city records.

The last two projects, which involved the Marywood Subdivision and the El Toro Apartments area had 100 percent special assessments for water projects.

However, the first three recorded water districts — one before 1891, one in 1911 and one in 1914 — showed 100 percent general obligation funding, the research indicated.

"We're all concerned that the water projects are' consistent," Vopalensky said. "Noting that the early one were completely general obligation, he said. Things had certainly changed by 1968."

He said the question was "Are the citizens of Roosevelt Park entitled to GO and if so, to what degree?" The Council's recent compromise, offering a combination of general obligation and special assessment financing would reverse the trend.

VOPALENSKY said an argument could be made for continuing the trend began in 1968 toward complete special assessment. And he said, another case could be made on the basis of information on water projects before 1968.

That introduced several questions on new subdivisions vs. old subdivisions with regard to water improvement districts.

And Vopalensky questioned whether Roosevelt Park ever existed as a water district. Unable to get a definitive answer, he said no records indicate the district has ever existed.

Several Council members, including Mayor Marsh, indicated that it was a district in place, if not on record.

Vopalensky reminded the Council that a property owner at the informal hearing a few weeks ago had said the lines were built by volunteer crews from the neighborhood.

BOTH MARSH and Kloster explained that, since the city provided the pipe and the residents provided the manpower to bury the water line, the project existed and, in fact represented a combination of general obligation and special assessment funding.

The furnished pipe represented a general obligation contribution from the city, Kloster said. "And the volunteer labor from the neighborhood was an in-kind special assessment," he explained.

Budget

The proposal brought the bid to 11.074 cents per carton for the low bid. Other bidders were Beatrice Foods and Blue Bunny.

HAUN ALSO reported that the lecture hall carpeting contract had been won by Carhart's Lumber of Wayne for a low bid of $11.60 per square yard.

A board committee had been given the authorization to select the low bid and carpet for the lecture hall.

Board members also approved the hiring of Robert Stuber of Leeds, N.D. as the new high school vocal music instructor.

Haun said Stuber, a graduate of Concordia State College, Moorhead, Minn., was selected after interviews with six candidates. Stuber has a music major and sociology minor.

The board also agreed to sponsor and schedule a "get acquainted dinner" for new staff members. The school district will pick up the tab for the dinner.

ALSO, THE superintendent has been authorized to handle the sale of 22 used IBM electric typewriters — all six to nine years old — no longer needed by the school.

Haun said the typewriters, which have 11 inch carriages, are surplus equipment and would be offered to resident taxpayers of the district on a one per family, no refund, no warranty basis.

According to Haun, the typewriters will be offered for sale for three days during the week of Aug. 17. He said the price range should be somewhere between $175 and $250 per typewriter.

And the board approved a consent decree that releases $5,545 in insurance funds in the settlement of a labor dispute. The decree releases the insurance company from further liability in the case.

Haun said the school district had to match the money as part of the settlement.

Chlorine

getting the call in," Kloster noted. "We got several commitments from the ambulance personnel, saying that the guards did a good job."

Those within a one block area of the pool were evacuated for about 45 minutes after the incident. The pool reopened Monday morning after the problem was corrected.

"There are still a lot of anglers to look at," he said about the incident. "It might be some time before we're able to put all the pieces together."

Kloster emphasized that "it's against the law to be there at the pool when it's closed. People risk their own lives and live as well as that of others."

KLOSTER REPORTED on the situation to the City Council at Tuesday night's meeting, saying it could have been a combination of vandalism and operator judgment problems.

"But we feel there was some fooling around from closing time (Saturday) and opening time (Sunday) and whether that was the final contributing action we don't know, we are continuing to examine the situation," he said.

Mayor Wayne Marsh expressed his concern about the vandalism, saying "there's sure been a lot of it."

Chief Vern Fairchild said in response to Marsh's question of how to prevent this kind of thing, "My answer is that you (the council) answered with what you pulled out of my budget request for fiscal year 1981-82, when you chopped off my two officers"

Weible

MEANWHILE, Coyle's sworn affidavit contends that Busskohl brought in a package of white powder and displayed it "to undercover narcotics officers at about 12:30 a.m. on the morning of Dec. 19."

She contends that Busskohl made a deal with the officers "to deliver the cocaine for $2,400 an ounce."

Later, according to Coyle's statement, Sarha and Busskohl "came into the house carrying two large boxes into the kitchen" out of her sight. Coyle sets the time at 1:30 or 1:45 a.m.

Coyle claims she heard a knock on the door of the Busskohl home "a few minutes later" and opened it to allow Weible to come in.

"He stood in the living room for a few minutes, walked over to the kitchen door and immediately returned to the living room," she contends in her statement.

"AT NO TIME did Charles Weible assume any control over any property brought in by Dale Busskohl and Vernon Sarha, including cocaine, that was in the house," her statement continues.

It further states that Weible "made no indication by action or word that he had any interest in control over property confiscated by officers."

Furthermore, Coyle contends that Weible "did not carry a scale or anything else into the house" and that he remained with her "at all times" for small talk with no mention of drugs.

Coyle indicates she heard no reference to Weible as "our man," or "the man."

During Weible's trial, several narcotics agents testified that the tavern owner was with Busskohl and Sarha when they carried the marijuana and cocaine into the house.

Several also testified that Weible was carrying a scale at the time and that he stood in the kitchen doorway while the deal was going down.

WEIBLE DID not take the stand in his own defense. Nor did Coyle or Busskohl testify on Weible's behalf. Sarha testified for the prosecution.

Coyle, who was fined $100 and ordered to take a drug rehabilitation course after plea bargaining with the prosecutor, said that Delray "agreed to dismiss the charges" if she did not give testimony "damaging to the state."

In her affidavit, she contends that she was advised by her attorney (Domina) to "keep a low profile" during Weible's trial.

Coyle, who was living with Busskohl at the time of the drug bust, states that she was told that a conjugal visit had been approved by Judge Garden while her boyfriend was in the Wayne County Jail.

Busskohl was the only co-defendant unable to make bond.

He served 133 days in the Wayne County Jail before being escorted to Madison County to face similar felony drug charges.

COYLE STATES that the approval came from Judge Garden on Thursday, June 25 — the fourth day of the trial.

However, she contends that after the trial she was informed by Busskohl that the conjugal visit had been denied. Busskohl and Coyle were both sentenced by Garden on the afternoon of June 26 while the jury was deliberating the Weible case.

Weible, who was convicted on all three felony counts that Friday afternoon, did not face sentencing until July 30. He was free on $100,000 bond Judge Garden revoked the bond after sentencing Weible.

Weible's attorney filed the motion for a new trial 10 days after the conviction. Judge Garden expects to rule on the motion during the early part of September.

Wayne High School's Attendance Policy Starts on First Day

A new attendance policy will go into effect when classes begin at Wayne High School on Monday, Aug. 31 at 8:40 a.m.

Students are allowed 12 absences per class each semester without penalty. Valid absences include personal illness, medical or dental appointments, death in the immediate family or serious personal or family problems.

Notices will be sent to parents when a student has accumulated six and ten absences. Parents may schedule a conference with the principal or counselor concerning the issue.

If a student is absent from class 13 times within a semester, he will lose credit for that class. However, he may file an "appeal for credit" at the end of the semester.

THIS MAY be approved and credit granted if the student has made up all missed work and has not been a disciplinary problem or truant. The student holds complete responsibility for filing the appeal.

Students 16 years of age or older who exceed 12 absences in more than half of his classes will forfeit the right to remain school for the remainder of the semester.

Those who participate in school-sponsored activities will not be penalized for the absences those activities cause. But they will be required to make up all work missed.

Registration begins on Monday, Aug. 17 for those who have not registered or who want to change their schedules.

SOPHOMORES, juniors and seniors may pick up their class schedules in the gym, starting at 8:15 a.m. They are to report to classes at 8:40.

Freshmen should meet at the Lecture Hall at 8:40 for a brief orientation before being dismissed to class.

The first day — Aug. 31 — will be a full day. Lunch will be served and buses will run at 3:50 p.m.

Students may buy lunch tickets starting at 8 a.m. that day.

Fair Thee Well!

EVERYONE LOVES a good old-time country fair. It's full of tractor drivers and carnival riders, old folks and young folks, farm machinery and 4-H livestock, demolition derbies and pick-up pulls. And someone has to have the job of watching it all. That's what Henry Draef, a Win-side farmer was doing Saturday afternoon when dozens and dozens of tractors took a smoking shot down the track. However, little Tommy Wells, 3, of Omaha, found the driver's seat of a shiny red self-propelled windrower to be the most fascinating. Actually, he couldn't decide between that and a shiny new red tractor nearby. And, of course, when the going got tough, the tough old Oliver got going to haul "the sled" down the line. Jessica Mohr, 2, of Wayne, took a break from it all and settled in on her own pony at the beef barn. And, there was a 4-wheel-drive pickup pull Saturday night for those who get goose bumps at the sound of a straining engine. The crunch of metal and the cough of overheated car engines produced Sunday night's grand finale with a grandstand crowded that ducked fire-slung mud for hours to watch metal against metal. Yes, indeed, everyone loves a fair. See you next year.

Some Counties Ignore State Property Value Manual

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Recent action by the state Board of Equalization would indicate most of the state's 93 counties are doing a pretty good job of valuing property.
The board changed property values in only five counties and certified values in the other 88. That was in stark contrast to 1979, the board's first year with Gov. Charles Thone as chairman, when nearly every county had its values changed by the five-member equalization panel.
But even though equalization apparently has come a long way in three years, some officials indicate there's still reason for concern.

STATE TAX Commissioner Fred Herrington, for example, wants to know why a number of counties apparently are failing to use state mandated manuals in setting property values

Herrington, a board member, said several counties probably would be queried in an attempt to find out why the manual aren't being used.
The state has mandated use by counties of the Marshall-Swift manual for determining the values of buildings.
In addition, counties are supposed to use a state Revenue Department manual when they set agricultural land values.
The mandated Marshall-Swift manual probably was ignored by about half of the counties, while only a few failed to implement the state's farm land manual, Herrington said.

The board's goal has been statewide equalization of property values, and the required manuals are intended to bolster that effort through uniformity. Herrington, apparently working on the premise equalization and uniformity can be achieved if the manuals are used, wants to find out why they're being ignored.

THE FAILURE of some counties to follow the manuals not surprisingly is a point of concern for counties that have complied with the law.
During the board's recent meeting, a property tax consultant from Lyons said counties that now comply with the law might decide to no longer use the manuals unless all counties in the state use them. If that were to happen, it's possible the Board of Equalization could be back to square one.
Herrington, who concedes Nebraska's property values are still below the 100 percent of actual value required in the state Constitution, isn't going to give up in the equalization effort.
He said he'll join other state officials, including Thone and Attorney General Paul Douglas to figure out which of the affected counties are not going by the book.
Herrington also plans to examine the state's options under the law that required counties to use the specified manuals when they set property values.

ALTHOUGH THE state conceivably could come back before too long and announce it might take affected counties to court, the equalization effort still seems to have come a long way since 1979.
Major valuation changes were ordered in most of the state's 93 counties in 1979, while this year changes were ordered for only five of the 93 counties.
If Herrington's estimate is correct that as many as half of the counties are failing to use the Marshall-Swift manual, somebody must be doing something right somewhere along the line. Otherwise, a majority instead of a minority of counties might have faced state ordered valuation changes again this year.

senators on a tour of the west.
Two dozen lawmakers recently were in the Panhandle and Wyoming for two days to get a first hand look at western Nebraska agriculture, water and the country.
The association said it sponsored the trip with the North Platte Valley Irrigation Association and the Scottsbluff-Gering Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to give senators a chance to see and examine some projects and issues they deal with in Lincoln.
State Sen. Don Wesley of Lincoln, among the four participants, said he considered the trip especially beneficial. Wesley's comment was echoed by other urban lawmakers, as well as some from more rural areas.

Although participants had good things to say about the tour, it was not without its critics. Among them was Sen. Peter Hoagland of Omaha, who told a reporter recently he questioned the propriety of the tour. The mixture of education and entertainment concerned him, said Hoagland, who did not participate.
But Wesley, after returning to Lincoln from the tour, said he still believes the trip was beneficial and was sorry Hoagland felt the way he did. Among other things, Wesley said the tour helped him understand the importance of Wyoming water projects to Nebraska.
Whether any legislation will emerge from the tour either directly or indirectly, or whether participants remain under heat for taking the trip, many participants seemed content that the tour fulfilled its educational purpose. And the Nebraska Water Resources Association said education was one of its main reasons for sponsoring the tour.

WATER STUDY - The Nebraska Water Resources Association, saying it realizes lawmakers and bureaucrats in Lincoln sometimes ignore or are unaware of western Nebraska, has taken some city

LEGISLATIVE Speaker Richard Marvel of Hastings had kind words for the way in which the tour enabled participants to look at water problems in neighboring Wyoming and examine how they relate to Nebraska

Vicious Vandals

The near-tragedy last weekend at the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool has city officials rethinking security measures and procedures for handling chlorine.
That is a good start!
Everyone is thankful that the lifeguards and rescue squad members acted "in a very level headed way."
There is a sense of relief that comes with knowing that the trained rescue personnel perform well in emergency situations. In fact, hats off to them.
However, when the lives of 12 children and two adults were immediately threatened, not to mention the lives of nearby residents, it seems there's an even bigger problem to consider. Mayor Wayne Marsh voiced a concern about that problem at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.
The problem is vandalism. And, it's not the kind of vandalism that involves knocking over the neighbor's flower pot.
There's a form of vandalism that's growing at an alarming rate. It's a kind of vandalism that not only shows little, if any, respect for public property, but also completely disregards consequences that threaten the lives of others.
It's a careless, almost wanton, disregard for the other guy. And, though you hear some bleeding hearts talk about these acts as pranks, they are serious criminal acts that could easily destroy that which we should be treasuring most - life.
Furthermore, for whatever reasons, the public has begun to tolerate the criminal acts as part of the cost of living in a modern world.
Certainly one of the big reasons is that many fear possible retaliation if they report the criminal acts that they witness.
Another problem is that is smacks of Big Brother. The thought of neighbors watching neighbors, for whatever reason, has never been a popular thing in our free society.
There are many other reasons, but there also are compelling reasons for exercising responsibility and civic duty - not the least of which is making a conscious decision about the quality of life you want live.
And, perhaps it is time for some righteous indignation - and yes, even some anger - over the kinds of acts that threaten both life and property.
Today, maybe you feel lucky that your child was not at the swimming pool that day.
But, how about tomorrow. Maybe tomorrow you or your child will be the victim of someone who gets a kick out of trashing public or private property - property that's vandalized to the point that it becomes a hazard to your health, or your life.
Don't let that happen.

Two-Trees Trend

Nebraskans have heard the call to plant trees during the first year of the intensive statewide Plant Two-Trees program.
Information provided by major sources involved in tree planting activities shows a healthy upswing in tree orders in 1981:
—A total of 3.08 million trees were distributed in Nebraska in the 1981 Clarke-McNary program, compared to 3.02 million in 1980.
—Nebraska Natural Resources Districts reported a 6 percent increase in rural plantings this year over a year ago, and a 102 percent increase in urban areas. Other organizations reported an increase of 25 percent in rural areas and a reduction of 3 percent in urban communities.
—The State Department of Roads, Department of Institutions, State Penitentiary and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission reported significant increases in plantings.
—Smaller cities reported significant increases in tree plantings but Nebraska's two largest cities reported fewer trees planted in 1981.
The trend in loss of trees which has resulted in a reduction of more than 20 percent of Nebraska's forest land in 20 years may reverse itself.
County and local tree planting committees established by extension agents organized projects that consolidated community tree orders for homeowners, developed arboretums, living snow fences, wildlife plantings, downtown beautification and school, cemetery, park, street trees, rest home, forest and windbreak plantings.
Many counties or communities which did not organize tree planting committees in 1981 are encouraged to do so and select and develop tree planting projects which meet the interest or need of the local community.
There is time to plant some fall, 1981 plantings and to map out spring, 1982 plantings.

Taxpayers Keep $100 Million

Nebraska First on Tax Cut

Nebraska taxpayers are keeping $100 million in their pockets that otherwise would have gone to state government if Nebraska hadn't preceded the federal government in reducing income taxes.
The $100 million is an estimate of the amount that Nebraska taxpayers got to keep in calendar 1980 combined with what they will retain in 1981 because the state income tax rate for last year and this year is 16.6 percent less than it was in 1979.

governor charley thone

THE FEDERAL income tax cut of 25 percent over the next three years has my wholehearted support. I was working for such cuts when I was in Congress. The first 5 percent of the federal income tax cut going into effect October 1, automatically means reduction in your state income tax. That's because Nebraska's income tax is a percentage of the federal income tax.
Nebraska's current income tax rate is 15 percent of the federal income tax liability. If a taxpayer were going to owe Uncle Same $100 income taxes on earnings in October through December based on present federal rates, that taxpayer will only owe $95 in federal income taxes for those three months under the new lower rates. Under the present federal rates, the same taxpayer would have paid the state $15, but will pay only $14.25 with the lowering of federal rates for the last three months of 1981.

An additional 10 percent cut in federal income tax rates will be in effect beginning July 1, 1982. That will mean that a taxpayer who would have paid $1,000 in federal income taxes during the last half of next year under current rates will then pay only $850. Nebraska's current income tax rate of 15 percent of the federal liability would mean that the state would get $150 when $1,000 is paid to the federal government. With the federal tax cut the state would get only $127.50 when $850 in taxes is paid to the federal government.

THE PROBLEM of reduced state revenue caused by federal income taxes is compounded by the fact that state collections under current rates are falling under estimates because of the recession.

The Nebraska legislature has already appropriated funds based on anticipated revenue for a fiscal year that ends June 30, 1982.

The people of Nebraska have my firm pledge to keep holding down state spending and to hold state taxes at the lowest possible level and I will carefully review revenue receipts and expenditures in the coming months.

Big Medfly Furor Shows How Scare Tactics Work

By M.M. Van Kirk
Nebraska Farm Bureau
The recent furor over the Mediterranean fruit fly in California demonstrated how much confusion and harm can be generated by lack of information and excessive fear in the use of pesticides.
What happened with the Med-fly can be repeated with other problems. Increasingly large areas of the nation's forest lands are being seriously endangered by the spread of the gypsy moth yet environmental concerns prevent the use of pesticides which would control the problem with no demonstrated harm to either people or wildlife.

ACCORDING TO the most objective reports, the following information applies to the Med fly incident in California. The Med fly infestation was originally limited to urban Santa Clara, San Mateo and Alameda counties and the objective was to keep the destructive fruit pests from spreading into commercial orchards which apparently have remained uncontaminated.

A $23 million program was begun in June 1980 which involved systematic stripping of fruit trees in yards of urban dwellers, ground spraying and the release of billions of sterile fruit flies. California state officials thought the battle had been won until the late June outbreak which is believed to have partly developed because some of the supposedly sterile fruit flies from Peru turned out not to be sterile.

California's Gov. Jerry Brown at first refused to permit aerial spraying with Malathion. This has political implications because Brown has regularly courted the environmental extremist vote, a factor in California which is a spawning ground for all kinds of extremists groups. He acceded only after Agriculture Secretary John Block advised him that it was a matter of aerial spraying or a statewide quarantine on California produce. The $14 billion California agricultural industry and its nationwide and foreign markets were at stake.

THE USDA said if the fly wasn't contained it could spread havoc through the nation's fruit and vegetable producing areas. Eight southern states put up highway blockades to prevent entry of California fruits and vegetables that were not certified as being from counties free of the fly or if from the three infested counties carried a certificate of fumigation.

Malathion, a common garden pesticide, is the least toxic of the organophosphate pesticides. It degrades and disappears rapidly after application. The National Cancer Institute has found Malathion to be non-carcinogenic and non-mutagenic. State and federal health officials assured the public that the Malathion dosage - 2.4 ounces per acre - pose no health hazards. Past aerial applications of Malathion in Texas and Florida had proven successful in the control of the Med-fly and caused no health problems. Some specialists declare that if aerial applications of Malathion had been made when the Med-fly was first discovered in the California counties, eradication of the pest could have been achieved for an estimated $128,000.

REP. WILLIAM Thomas (R-Calif.) has introduced a bill (H.R. 4108) that would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to control or eradicate, by appropriate means, plant pests whenever a state or jurisdiction fails to take needed action.

There were demonstrations against the aerial spraying when it took place and reports that the helicopters used were shot at from the ground.
The California Med-fly experience demonstrates several things: that officials shouldn't dictate environmental decisions; that biological pest control methods are frequently inadequate to the situation; and that obvious benefits should be balanced against known minimal risks in such situations.

4-Hers Win Top Honors At '81 Fair

SOME DAYS YOU get all your ducks in a row, and some days you get all your cattle in a row. These Herefords angle-parked at the Wayne County Fair's beef barn last week. The tin roof over the barn kept the heat off and the flies just weren't that bad since everyone knows 4-Hers keep livestock and pens clean. Some of the winners in this year's competition included Barry Bowers of Winside with his Grand Champion steer and Grand Champion heifer. Two winners in the 4-H horse class were Anne Liska of Wayne, who won the senior division showmanship trophy, and Joan Anderson of Wayne, who won the senior division showmanship trophy. And, Cynthia Walde of Winside won with her Grand Champion market lamb. Daren Splittgerber was the championship trophy winner in the showmanship class.

4-H Livestock Projects Produce Fair Winners

THE ONLY WAY TO judge a market hog is to get right in the pen with the pig. When they start to move around a good judge can tell the history of a pig from farrow to finish. When 4-Hers go to work, that finished hog goes to the Wayne County Fair before it goes to market. Senior swine showman this year was Shelley Krusemark of Wakefield with her belted black. And, the championship market hog was exhibited by Jane Gustafson of Wakefield. Kevin Marotz of Hoskins had the Grand Champion dairy cow and took the senior trophy in showmanship with his Holstein. And, Kim Backstrom of Wayne exhibited the Grand Champion dairy goat this year. Her brother, Mike, showed the Reserve Grand Champion and he won the junior showmanship trophy. Missing from the photographs is Shaun Niemann of Wayne. Niemann won the showmanship trophy in the senior beef division, but was out of town with the Wayne Midgets for a state baseball tournament. Due to the limited space, the winners on these two pages were selected to represent the achievements of 4-H Clubs for the 1981 Wayne County Fair.

HELPING TO BUILD LABORATORY

The Wakefield Lions Club is among other Nebraska Lions Clubs who are helping to raise $100,000 for the construction of a new laboratory at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. Wakefield's contribution to the project was approximately $200 according to Marland Schroeder, Lions Club treasurer.

The Bahr Laboratory, which will open in the fall, will evaluate sight and hearing problems that are difficult to diagnose by ordinary methods. The lab is named in memory of the late Elba L. Bahr, an Omaha woman who suffered from eye problems. Her bequest of $25,000 to the Lions to help others with eye problems was the initial donation to establish the laboratory.

David Fine, senior associate director of University of Nebraska Hospital, is most appreciative of the substantial gift from the Nebraska Lions. The Lions Clubs' generosity will provide a new and sophisticated service for the citizens of the state and region.

Architecture on the Prairie

THIS OLD FARMHOUSE shares its homesite with countless vines and bushes that have grown to form a protective barrier around its base. The house, with vines clinging to its canopied front door, is just off state Highway 98 about 13 miles west of Wayne. The features still show the telltale signs of a craftsman who built a prairie mansion.

Architecture on the Prairie
 THIS OLD FARMHOUSE shares its homesite with countless vines and bushes that have grown to form a protective barrier around its base. The house, with vines clinging to its canopied front door, is just off state Highway 98 about 13 miles west of Wayne. The features still show the telltale signs of a craftsman who built a prairie mansion.
