Senior Senator Stalks 1982

Zorinsky Polishes Image As Washington Maverick

By Randall Howell

Nebraska's election bound senior senator doesn't refer to himself as a maverick — not directly, anyway.

He doesn't duck the dubbing, either. Instead, Sen. Edward Zorinsky, Omaha's former mayor, carefully weaves Washington yarn after Washington yarn in to a political cloth only a maverick would wear.

When the re-election suit finally fits, he wears it with the modesty of a prairie plowboy headed for his first barn dance.

SOUNDING MORE like a new beginning Republican than a maverick Democrat, the 52-year old senator Wednesday told more than 75 Wayne State College students, faculty members and town taxpayers that he "probably will seek re-election" in 1982.

Applause filled the north dining room of the WSC Student Center Wednesday afternoon when he made the carefully worded statement.

It came — as no surprise — toward the conclusion of an hour long talk that was punctuated by questions from his audience. Zorinsky, who was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1976, already faces announced opposition from Republican Jim Keck, 59 of Omaha, a former Air Force lieutenant general. Keck announced his candidacy in late July.

BEFORE FACING a large student audience, Zorinsky told The Wayne Herald that "being labeled by some as a maverick I feel, cuts both ways."

"It can be an advantage for the Nebraskans that feel they don't want a rubber stamp as their Washington D.C. representative and who want someone who approaches each issue on its own merit rather than on political partisanship."

While searching through his briefcase for thank you letters from members of the Reagan administration, Zorinsky said, "However, there are those who do say one must be a member of the majority party to be effective."

Later on in response to a question, the Democratic Party senator said he had no plans to switch his party affiliation something that has kept off election year politics lively at the Nebraska state level.

WHILE WAITING for an introduction from WSC President Lyle Seymour, Zorinsky said "In my opinion, I feel the people of Nebraska have the best of both worlds, inasmuch as I have a good following of Democratic and Republican colleagues who seek out my advice and counsel."

Displaying letter after letter signed by such GOP leaders as Sen. Howard Baker, Senate Majority Leader, and Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, former Republican Party vice presidential candidate, Zorinsky seemed most proud of three thank you notes from President Reagan.

Edward Zorinsky

In addition, the president himself recognizes my achievements on behalf of his programs," Zorinsky said.

He sent him a note soon after he was shot," Zorinsky added.

THE 47TH ranking member of the Senate, Zorinsky said he felt he was much more valuable to the people of Nebraska with a six year investment in Washington D.C.

The senator, who is the third ranking minority member on the Senate Agriculture Committee, has served five years in Washington and will complete his first term in November of 1982, when he faces re-election.

"The bottom line will be how the people judge my performance," he added, before taking the podium in a session sponsored by the WSC Public Affairs Institute.

And, opening his remarks with a story about his freshman year battles with the congressional seniority system, Zorinsky reminded his audience that he now is the fifth ranking minority member on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"WHEN I GOT to Washington, the Senate's system of seniority was incomprehensible to me," he said, explaining that he was troubled by how much more effective the ranking members were.

"Now that I have it (seniority), I don't think it's half bad," he said, while laughter raced across the room.

He told the group that at $60,000 a year, Nebraskans had sent him to school for six years at a cost of $360,000 over his six year term.

And, as if to counter the cost of that kind of tuition, Zorinsky quickly told his audience that by the end of his term, he will have turned back more than $2 million in tax dollars — unused dollars earmarked for staff and administrative costs for his Senate office.

"I don't need much money, but they give it to me anyway," he said. "And they give it ($680,000 per year) plus a cost of living increase."

BEFORE EXPLAINING his tax dollar turnback, Zorinsky said he refused diamond studded pins for his lapel during his first days as one of Nebraska's two senators.

He said he turned them down after learning that they were paid for with taxpayer dollars.

"I didn't think the taxpayers of Nebraska needed anyone wearing diamond studded pins," he said, acknowledging that his refusal went against the grain in the Senate.

"That makes you a maverick back there because you don't conform to the system," he continued. "I owe my best judgement to the people of Nebraska with respect to each issue, not on party lines, not on contributions to my campaign and certainly not on diamond studded pins."

TURNING TO the Reagan administration's budget cuts and tax cut program, Zorinsky said, "This nation, and the people were cognizant of this, was headed in the wrong direction."

He said that direction was exacerbating an already bad inflationary economy.

"I hope it (Reagan's plan) succeeds," he said. "I think it has many opportunities for industry to modernize and business to expand."

Zorinsky also said he felt Reagan's plan provided incentive, once again, to save money and increase productivity.

Explaining that a 1 percent unemployment reduction in this country represents $26 billion for the U.S. Treasury, Zorinsky said that expanding industry and business creates jobs.

"That's the key to the success of Reagan's tax cut package — whether it will succeed is in the hands of the private sector," he said.

CITING REAGAN'S cuts in estate taxes, Zorinsky said they made sense.

"To me, it's not the American way of life to have people work hard all their lives, and when they pass away, the children have to sell the farm to satisfy the estate taxes," he said.

"I don't think that was the intent on which this country was founded," he continued. "I

Vienna Opera Singer Visits Wayne

By LaVon Beckman

Some years ago, Sally Arneson won a Fulbright scholarship for a year's study in Paris and while there was asked to jump in as Olympia, a mechanical doll, in Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" at the Vienna State Opera.

That was in 1976, and up until that time the 32-year-old opera singer thought she only wanted to teach opera.

She was born in Red Cloud, an old Indian town in western Nebraska, the daughter of Norwegian settlers.

Red Cloud also happens to be the home of Sally's favorite author, Willa Cather.

SHE STUDIED organ and piano before going to Michigan University where she studied voice with the Czech teacher Eva Likova and stage with Ralph Herbert in Vienna.

Sally's first roll at the University of Michigan also happened to be Olympia.

"MY DECISION to become an opera singer, wasn't made until after I was given the chance to perform in Vienna," says Sally.

"I thought I was successful. I should have been scared, but I wasn't. I got scared later," she smiles.

"You have to be ready when the opportunity comes along. You have to be able to back up that first performance."

RECENTLY SALLY returned to the United States with her fiancé, who also happens to be her stage manager.

Although her mother is deceased, Sally spent several days with her father, who still resides in Red Cloud, and with a brother and family, the Marion Arnesons of Wayne.

Marion is married to the former Pat Ewing. They have made their home in Wayne the past four years.

Seated in the living room of her brother's home, Sally talks about her family and her life as a professional opera singer.

"All of my family can sing," smiles Sally. "Marion has a very nice voice, but we can't convince him to use it."

SALLY'S LIFE as a young girl growing up in Red Cloud and as an opera singer is strangely similar to that of a young girl written about in a book by Willa Cather, entitled "Song of the Lark."

"Willa Cather loved music," says Sally, "and she loved opera."

Both Sally and the young girl Willa Cather wrote about in "Song of the Lark" were born of Norwegian parents, grew up in the Red Cloud area, studied piano and gave piano lessons, sang in the church choir, studied voice, and traveled to Germany.

Both married German businessmen (Sally plans to be married in the spring) and made careers in opera.

SALLY WAS on the roster of the Vienna State Opera as a coloratura soprano until last September when she joined the ensemble of the Theater am Gartnerplatz in Munich.

While in Vienna her major roles included the Queen of the Night, Blodeluche, the Fickermill in Strauss' "Arabella," and Ida in the Viennese premiere of Henze's "Der Junge Lord."

Soil, Water Program Set

The Nebraska Educational Television Network will air a 30-minute documentary Wednesday on soil and water resources.

The program, to be broadcast over Channel 11 at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 2, will feature Gene Sullivan, Soil Conservation Service conservationist, Bill Steinkruger, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service program specialist, Lee Orton, executive director of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, Dayle Williamson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission, and Dick Beran, manager of the Lower Loup Natural Resources District.

The program will be repeated at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 19.

Board Meets with Principal

Over the weekend, the Wayne Carroll School District Board of Education was expected to continue preparing and reviewing a statement regarding charges filed against Wayne High School Principal Donald Zeiss.

The board reconvened its special session at 1 p.m. Wednesday. Dr. Zeiss attended the session.

Late Friday, Dr. Francis Haun, district superintendent, said board members were meeting again to continue work on the statement.

He said he expected the process to continue over the weekend.

Resource Appraisal Available

The most comprehensive appraisal ever conducted of the country's soil and water resources will be available for reference Tuesday, Sept. 1, at the Wayne Soil Conservation Service and the Wayne Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service offices.

Public comments are being solicited on the two-volume appraisal, which will be the springboard for a national conservation program to be issued by Secretary of Agriculture John Black this fall.

Seaman Completes Training

Navy seaman recruit David D. Reynolds, son of Martin Reynolds, Laurel and Barbara Hanson, Fremont has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

A 1981 graduate of Laurel High School, Reynolds joined the Navy in April. The recruit training involved eight weeks of study in seamanship, close order drill, Navy history and first aid.

Circle K to Paint Curbs

Members of the Wayne State College Circle K Club will once again canvas homeowners in Wayne with an offer to stencil house numbers on curbing.

On Monday, Circle K members will be knocking on doors with a fundraising offer to stencil house numbers on curbs with a black and white paint.

Cost to the homeowner is $1.

Wayne Yearbooks Available

The 1980 Wayne High School yearbooks have arrived. Last year's seniors may pick up the yearbooks at Robert Porter's home at 815 Lincoln or at the Wayne High School serving room before school today, Monday.

OAKLAND planned to show off its spacious new center for senior citizens... Golden Oaks... at an open house Sunday, Aug. 30. The center has been open to area senior citizens for about two months. A voluntary crew of senior citizens did much of the work in renovating the building. The $75,000 project began last year with an initial donation of $3,000 by the City of Oakland.

THE REV. Clarence J. Hansen, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Bloomfield for over 20 years, held his farewell service Sunday, Aug. 30. The effective date of his resignation and of his retirement from the active ministry is Aug. 31.

DIRECTORS of the Farmer's Co-op Association of South Sioux City broke ground Tuesday morning, Aug. 25, for their new facility in Ponca. The Co-op presently operates a large propane storage tank in Ponca. Their new building will be located just west of that tank, south of Highway 12. Included in the new facility will be a bulk fuel storage tank and a 40' x 60' steel building. The new facility also will offer a 24-hour card toll service on a limited basis to allow businesses or individuals who have need to purchase fuel at off hours to be able to do so. The Co-op also will offer feed, animal health care products, agricultural chemicals, oil tires and other accessories.

A LONGTIME Cuming County 4-H club leader was recognized recently as one of eight former 4-H members from around the U.S. selected as a national winner in the 4-H alumni recognition program. Mrs. Ottilie Verona Weichmann Schlueter was a 1980 Nebraska 4-H alumni winner, and was selected by the Cooperative Extension Service to be given the coveted national recognition. She will receive an expense-paid trip from the Friends of National 4-H Council to the 60th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 29 to Dec. 3 to receive a Gold Key Award.

INSULATION igniting over a recessed light fixture was the apparent cause of a blaze that did an estimated $60,000 damage to the Henry Goeller farm home and its contents south of Pilger last Monday. Firemen from Pilger, Stanton and Wisner responded to the blaze just after noon.

JOE Wördekemper was recuperating at home last week after he was charged and run over by a Holstein steer on his farm south of Beemer Tuesday evening, Aug. 18. He said he was sorting some cattle when the 700 to 800 pound steer charged and ran over the top of him.

police report

Wayne police are looking for a manhole cover.

Wednesday, Vern Schultz, city maintenance superintendent, reported one stolen from in front of the Gem Cafe on Main Street south.

Schultz reported the theft after discovering it at 10:04 a.m.

UNKNOWN vandals shattered the windshield on a car owned by Gary McInnis, Wayne, Thursday, night.

The vandals also dented the hood of the car in two places while it was parked in the 100 Block of Second Street west, near the Stratton House.

Police reports indicate the vandalism occurred between 9:15 and 11:11 p.m.

ALSO ON Thursday, an unknown motorist drove away from Bob's Derby, Wayne, without paying for gasoline.

And, police are searching for a car owned by Tom Lutz of Wayne.

California Congressman in Nebraska

Farm Tour Bridges Information Gap

A California Congressman's tour of a family farm near Wayne and the Milton G. Waldbaum Co. in Wakefield may help bridge an information gap on agricultural and rural affairs that exists within Congress.

Republican Dan Lungren of California's 14th District received an on-site look at Nebraska agriculture and agribusiness Wednesday.

His one-day tour of northeast Nebraska included a series of exchange visits of coastal congressmen to Nebraska's First District.

LUNGREN, who was joined on the tour by First District Congressman Doug Bereuter, visited the family farm at the home of Merle Ring east of Wayne.

Before visiting the Ring farm, the California Congressman was given a quick tour of Wayne State College, where his grandmother, a native of Norfolk, attended school.

Both congressmen were guests for lunch in the Ring home before traveling on to Wakefield to tour the Milton G. Waldbaum egg processing plant.

In the afternoon, Lungren toured Iowa Beef Processors in Dakota City before attending a reception at South Sioux City.

FOG EARLY Wednesday morning prevented the congressmen from landing at the airport in Norfolk, where they were scheduled to tour the Nucor Steel Plant.

The delay also caused cancellation of a visit to see the hog confinement operation at the Dick Sorensen farm just north of Wayne.

LUNGREN'S visit is the third of a series. Earlier this year, Congressman Bill Thomas, also of California, and Congressman Bill Carney of New York's First District, visited the First Congressional District of Nebraska.

Congressman Lungren represents a district centered on Long Beach. As is the case with Bereuter, Lungren is in his second term in the House of Representatives where he is a member of the Judiciary Committee and the Select Committee on Aging.

THE CALIFORNIA Congressman said Wednesday he was impressed with the friendly welcome he received in Nebraska.

Lungren, who took a day off from his vacation to join Bereuter in Nebraska, also spent four days recently on ranches in western Nebraska.

"I've enjoyed Nebraska," said Lungren, "all the way from the ranch out west to here. There's a lot of land here I didn't know existed."

"We in urban areas have a difficult time relating to agriculture," admitted the California Congressman.

Lungren said that in Nebraska, as well as throughout California, he has heard a continuing refrain about high interest rates.

IT IS A PROBLEM common in both urban and rural areas," he added.

THE PURPOSE of the exchange program is to bridge a gap that exists within Congress on agricultural and rural affairs, Bereuter said.

In Washington, conflicts often arise between rural and urban interests. Many times we find Easterners at odds with Westerners and Midwesterners.

Wayne Herald Want Ads

Country boy...

...by randall howell

Howdy. The weather's been weird. That's what I hear, wherever I go in Wayne County. Everyone, it seems, has a weather story. And, if you hang around long enough, they'll tell it to you — whether or not you want to hear it.

No one is complaining about the rain, but there's been some talk that the soakers could have arrived a month or two ago when the countryside was burning up with wind and heat.

IT IS SO unusual to get rain in this country without the attendant thunderstorms, wind, hail and twisters. The quiet soakers that have graced the country recently have been a pleasure to watch. That's not to say there hasn't been some storming.

Hoskins, for instance, got it Sunday night. In fact, for the first time in my life, I was able to see something that — until Thursday — I'd only read about. That something was a hole in the ground blown out by lightning.

Okay. Okay. I didn't believe it either when Richard (Hoodie) Krause started telling me this yarn about how this bolt of lightning blew a hole in the ground near a cemetery just outside Hoskins.

LOOKING UP, I saw that the lightning had hit at about the 30-foot mark and ripped a strip of bark and wood from the point of impact to the base.

As the force of the lightning gripped the tree, the bark and outside rings had exploded in a barber pole spiral that grounded the bolt at the base of the tree, but on the opposite side.

Wood, from sawdust to 8-foot 1x4s, was strewn everywhere. And, at the base of that tree on the west side of the trunk, there was a lightning hole.

Now, it wasn't a pit, but it was a hole. It measured the width of the tree at its base, which must have been over 2 feet wide and was just under that size going east to west.

The hole was over a foot deep and the tree's roots were exposed.

STRIPS OF splintered wood were hanging from the trunk and huge chunks of wood and bark were tossed into nearby trees and bushes.

There was no denying it. That was a lightning hole. And Hoodie hooted. I took a few pictures and we walked about a bit surveying the wood chips flung about on the meadow grass.

Both of us made a mental note to avoid sitting on the west side of tall trees during a thunderstorm.

And, as we trudged back to the truck, Hoodie explained that the cemetery was on his father's land. He and his father had helped take care of the country cemetery for years.

AS WE LEFT, Hoodie pointed to a grassy mound along the north side of the cemetery and asked me if I knew what it was.

I thought it looked like an unmarked grave and said as much.

He said it was, in fact, an unmarked grave and it had been there for years.

"No one knows who's buried there," he said. "At least no one I know knows — and there's no church record of who it was."

Hoodie's father has checked the records and searched for the identity of the body for years without success.

"There's just no record, and it's the only unmarked grave in the whole cemetery," he said.

It would be nice to find out who it is.

Hoodie said the grave had been like that since his 68 year old father was a kid.

Tombstones in the cemetery go back into the early 1800s.

ON QUITE another matter, I must redeem myself regarding a detail or two in the recent story about two Wayne State College artists who painted a tractor mural on a barn this summer.

First off, the tractor I mentioned in the story about Cindy Willers and Maria Mantey is a John Deere 4020. I knew that. And, you know that. But, that's not what I wrote. My country boy fingers got twisted up on the computer keyboard.

I could hear the snickering at Logan Valley Implement Co. from the confines of my own office, which is a good distance from John Deere Land.

My notes even show it clearly as a John Deere 4020, a tractor driven by Cindy's husband, Roger, at the Wayne County Fair's pulling contest.

THAT WAS embarrassing for an old farm boy. But, unfortunately, it was not the only mistake in the story.

It seems that a third artist, Beth Czupryn, helped Cindy and Maria in the early stages of the project. Well, Beth is alive and well in Wayne and not in Indiana. She came here from there. I had her going there from here.

Beth, I apologize. Fortunately, some of your friends brought it to my attention almost immediately...after publication.

And, then there was the mistake my proofreader let me get away with. Maria, who's still arguing with me over whether or not she's a blonde or brunette, is 29. She liked the fact that, in one of the stories, I said she was 25. I've even gotten to the point where I hold my thumb over my name on my personal checks when I hand them to a cashier.

If I don't, they always manage to say: "Oh, it's you." I never know whether to admit it or plead guilty to forgery.

SOMETIMES, try as I might, things just don't go right, though.

The Indians have an old saying about that: "Some days, you eat the bear...and some days, the bear eats you."

It has always given me some consolation. Newspaper people are the only people I know who are crazy enough to print all their mistakes.

You just can't hide behind a by-line.

I've even gotten to the point where I hold my thumb over my name on my personal checks when I hand them to a cashier.

If I don't, they always manage to say: "Oh, it's you." I never know whether to admit it or plead guilty to forgery.

BEFORE I sign off this week, I must share a story with you about the new telephone books.

Oh, com'on, stay with me for another paragraph or two.

This story involves a banker in Carroll who delivers telephone books for Northwestern Bell, and gets paid for it.

At least, it has always been Northwestern Bell's practice to pay people who deliver their phone books once a year.

Well, as you know, the new Nebraska Regional Telephone Directory for 1981-82 has, for the most part, been delivered in this area.

Carroll residents got it, just as did those in Winside, Hoskins, Wayne etc.

HOWEVER, there's a strange marking in the upper right-hand corner of the books delivered in Carroll, which is not listed in the directory and never has been.

Closer scrutiny reveals the strange marking to be nothing less than a stamped (blue ink) advertisement for the Farmers State Bank of Carroll.

The stamp mark indicates that the Northwestern Bell telephone books are the "courtesy of" Farmers State Bank.

Well, everyone knows that they are paid for by telephone subscribers who use the system. It's all built into the rates — and published by Northwestern Bell as a courtesy to its customers.

And, if you look under banks in the yellow pages, you find that Farmers State Bank did not bother to buy a listing there...just took a free ride on the cover.

Catch you next week...

Save the Students

School's open. And, the students are on their way. They are on their way to and from school. Some walk, some run, some ride bikes, some ride buses and some get there in the family car.

So, it's time for motorists to be on the lookout for students in crosswalks, pedaling along the streets and getting in and out of vehicles.

It's time to remember that the law requires motorists to come to a complete stop when meeting or overtaking a school bus that has stopped to load or unload children. Look for the flashing red lights and the extended stop arm on the school bus — they always indicate the bus driver's intent to stop or warn motorists that the bus has already stopped. And, after months of driving by vacant school buildings and playgrounds, it is time to mind the posted speed limits, caution signs and signals of other motorists.

Students, particularly the younger children, easily forget the rules-of-the-road when carrying books and chatting with friends on the way to another day's work in the classroom. Fortunately, most of them receive instruction on traffic and pedestrian safety from both their parents and teachers.

Unfortunately, many will forget between leaving the house and reaching the school. Alert motorists offer the best defense against serious injury and the threat of death. And, though it begins to sound like a broken record, death is high price to pay for not remembering the rules of the road. It's a high price and a very real price.

The speeding motorist is perhaps the biggest threat to children in the Wayne area. Though Wayne's Police Department — and a number of other law enforcement agencies throughout the county — issues warning after warning and ticket after ticket, the speeders continue to race down the city streets, village streets and country roads unmindful of intersection traffic — pedestrian or otherwise.

Motorists who speed up and down hills of Wayne, for instance, can be upon a child walking across an intersection in seconds — even though the street was clear in both directions before the student began to cross.

In short, there is no guarantee that looking both ways will keep your child from being run down by speeders — they come too fast and stop too slow.

Let's give the children a chance to get an education without hurting, or killing, them on their way to school.

Injury and death are tough teachers. Lessons on safe driving need not be that hard.

Petroleum Recap

Last year was the largest year-to-year decline ever in our country's energy consumption, and Nebraskans contributed more than their fair share to this encouraging trend.

The Federal Highway Administration's preliminary recap of gasoline consumption shows the nation's cars, trucks, buses, motorcycles and other motor vehicles burned over 106 billion gallons of gasoline in 1980. This was a dramatic decline of 6.3 billion gallons, or when compared to 1979 data, total U.S. gasoline consumption dropped 5.6 percent.

Such a decline means that American motorists have effectively reduced gasoline consumption growth, using approximately the same amount of gasoline last year as they did 4 to 5 years earlier.

Here in Nebraska motorists have cut their gasoline use right along with the rest of the country. In fact, the state's gasoline consumption of approximately 816 million gallons in 1980 represented a decline of about 10 percent from 1979 — a much sharper drop than the U.S. average.

Ironically, the number of vehicles on the road increased last year, up 3.2 percent nationally and 1.3 percent in Nebraska. Historically any increase in the number of vehicles would have meant an appreciable increase in gasoline consumption. Instead, annual consumption was off 40 gallons per vehicle nationally and approximately 72 gallons per vehicle in Nebraska.

Recent data from the Nebraska State Energy Office shows the conservation trend continuing. During the first five months of 1981, Nebraska motorists used about 9 percent less gasoline than a year ago.

Rising pump prices, improved vehicle-fuel-economy ratings and new conservation concepts have all contributed to the sharp decline in gasoline use. Barring any dramatic change in consumption patterns, it would appear that gasoline use will have peaked in the country and in Nebraska about 1973.

Compromise Bills Big Budget Break

Congress took a second major step toward adoption of President Reagan's four point "economic recovery" program when both Houses adopted bills which reduce fiscal year 1982 federal spending by approximately $38 billion. Adoption of these bills enables Congress to get expected spending below the budget ceilings set earlier this spring.

These unprecedented spending cuts occurred as both Houses passed "reconciliation" bills. By changing eligibility requirements for certain programs, eliminating others, and consolidating several special purpose grants into "block grants," these bills cut spending not only for the coming fiscal year but for future years. Estimates of the savings which would result from these bills range upward of $145 billion for fiscal year 1984. Without adoption of these multi-year cuts, the President's goal of a balanced budget by 1984 would be unreachable.

As a result of these reductions, spending for fiscal year 1982 will be approximately $695 billion, a figure $45 billion below that recommended last January by outgoing President Carter, yet an amount roughly $40 billion above current year expenditures.

TAX CUTS — Major progress has also occurred on the second element of the "economic recovery" program: tax relief. The Senate Finance Committee recently approved a $37 billion tax cut measure for fiscal year 1982. Tax relief granted under this bill would top $100 billion in fiscal year 1985.

Included within the Committee's bill is a 25 percent individual income tax cut to be phased in over three years. A 5 percent cut is set to take effect on Oct. 1, 1981, with 10 percent reductions to follow on July 1, 1982 and 1983.

BUSINESSES would receive significant incentives to increase production by virtue of the bill, which accelerates depreciation of capital assets and provides other productivity-related incentives. Senate floor action on the entire package is scheduled to begin July 15.

House Ways and Means Committee preparation of a tax cut bill has lagged behind that of its Senate counterpart. Committee members are not expected to conclude deliberations until later this month, endangering the ability of the cuts to take effect this tax year. Unless Congress passes a tax cut measure before it recesses for the month of August, tax reductions cannot become effective because of the time needed to revise withholding tables. President Reagan has discussed the possibility of asking Congress to remain in session until the tax cut plan is approved.

Although the Ways and Means Committee has yet to make binding decisions, its tentative agreements call for only a 15 percent, however, tax reduction. A 5 percent individual income tax cut would take effect Oct. 1, 1981, followed by a 10 percent drop on July 1, 1982. Individuals would also benefit from an increase in the "zero bracket" amount from ($3400 to $3800) and from an expanded earned income credit.

Unprecedented tax reductions would be given to businesses under the Ways and Means Committee plan. Following a multi year phase-in period, all businesses would be allowed to write off assets completely in the year of purchase. Corporate income tax rates would also drop under the Committee's plan.

Social Security Myths Muddy the Water

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Some hard truths about Social Security face Americans of all ages.

Unless Congress takes corrective action sometime this year, the Old Age and Survivors Trust Fund — a key reserve that ensures payment of monthly checks to retirees, survivors and dependents — will run out of funds.

But the news is not all bad.

ACCORDING to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, whose tens of thousands of employer members pay a large share of the system's taxes, immediate and long-range financing problems can be met without raising payroll taxes or dipping into revenues collected for general purposes of government.

But, first, says the business federation, the public must accept two truths. One, Social Security is not a system of private savings or retirement accounts set aside for workers who pay taxes into the system. Money is not accumulated and then paid out when the worker retires.

Two, if it was such a system, most retirees would run out of pension checks in a year or two.

In recent congressional testimony, Lowell M. Jones, director of employee benefits for the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron, and Michael J. Romig, director of Human Resources and Employee Benefits for the chamber, presented an analysis to demonstrate benefits are far more generous than workers' contributions to the system.

HERE IS what the present system will provide in maximum benefits for a worker retiring in 1982, when both the worker and spouse are 65:

Workers' monthly benefit	$753
Spouse's monthly benefit	$276
5 Percent cost of living adjustment	$477
Value of Medicare	$3,000
Total Annual	$17,223

If the worker's money had simply been placed in an account under his or her name, the worker would have run out of money before the first year was out. Over a 45-year period, this worker would have contributed only $14,706 in taxes. Even counting the employer's contribution, benefits would have run out in less than two years.

If not an individual retirement program, what is Social Security?

Everyone agrees: Social Security is a pay-as-you-go system, under which those working pay taxes to pay retirement benefits to those already retired — into perpetuity, you might say, as well as a host of other benefits: Disability insurance, hospital coverage, spouses' and children's benefits. Secondly, it is agreed that the system was never intended to be the sole financial mainstay of the retired populace. It was designed to augment personal savings or other pension income.

ONCE THESE truths are faced, then solutions proposed by the chamber and others make sense. Here are key chamber recommendations which will figure in the coming national debate over the future of Social Security:

- Universal coverage. This means extending Social Security to cover all federal workers — almost 2.9 million not now covered — and state and local government workers not already covered by the program. The chamber estimates that this would result in additional revenues of $100 billion in five years.
- Modify the cost-of-living adjustments in benefits. Each June, Social Security benefits are raised an amount equal to the increase on the Consumer Price Index (CPI). There is widespread agreement that the CPI exaggerates the cost-of-living increases. Moreover, experience has shown that retirees' benefits are going up faster than workers' wages. The more equitable system would be to index benefits to whichever is lower — the rise in prices (CPI) or the rise in wages.
- Revise the benefits structure: Gradually reduce future benefits for early retirement at 62 while gradually raising the retirement age from 65 to 68.

Horse and Buggy Ride Are Part Of 55th Anniversary Observance

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wingett of Carroll celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary Sunday, August 16, with a horse and buggy ride in Carroll.

The ride was a surprise planned by Mrs. Roger Schultz of Norfolk. The team and buggy were furnished by Ray Lund of Wakefield.

Mrs. Wingett, in bridal attire, and Glenn, wearing a tuxedo and top hat, rode up main street with a sign on the back of the buggy which read "Just Married 55 Years Ago."

Mrs. Wingett is noted for training horses and still rides in parades.

THE OBSERVANCE also included a dinner for about 45 relatives and friends and an open house reception in the afternoon at Ron's Steakhouse in Carroll. Hosts were Mr. Wingett's niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kruger of Pierce.

Harlan Brugger provided organ music for the event. Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Brugger registered the 200 guests and were in charge of cards and gifts. Mrs. Kruger baked and decorated the anniversary cake.

MRS. WINGETT announced for the afternoon program and Mrs. Thelma Hattig of Laurel sang "I Love You Truly" and "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" accompanying herself on the guitar.

Mrs. Vonda Dempster of Dixon read "Arlowyne and Her Horses," and Mrs. Ethel Pepper of Colorado read "How We Located Our Half Sister, Arlowyne."

The program also included a poem read by Roger Buchanan of Randolph. The poem was written by Glenn's uncle many years ago pertaining to "Life in General."

Mrs. Thelma Hattig accompanied for group singing of "Home on the Range."

MR. AND MRS. Paul Sellintine of Belden were attendants at the couple's wedding 55 years ago. Mrs. Sellintine was in attendance for the anniversary observance, however Paul is deceased.

Roger Buchanan was in charge of the benediction, and Mrs. Thelma Hattig had table prayer.

Guests were present from Michigan, Iowa, California, Colorado, Norfolk, Randolph, Plain view, Laurel, Carroll, Dixon, Belden, Wayne, Winside, Hoskins, Concord, Wakefield, Lincoln and Pierce.

ARLOWYNE Slater of Carroll and Glenn Wingett of Sholes were married Sept. 15, 1906 at Yankton and have lived all their married lives on the farm where Arlowyne was born two miles east and one and a half south of Carroll.

MR. AND MRS. GLENN WINGETT of Carroll celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary with a horse and buggy ride up main street in Carroll.

The engagement of Cheryl Abts to Steve Greve has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abts of Dixon.

Miss Abts, a 1978 graduate of Laurel-Concord High School, attended Wayne State College and is employed at the Wakefield Health Care Center.

Her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Greve of Wakefield, was graduated from Wakefield High School in 1976 and from the University of South Dakota at Springfield in 1978. He is engaged in farming.

An Oct. 3 wedding is planned at Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield.

Miller-Dowler Ceremony At Winside St. Paul's

Pew candles and altar bouquets of fall flowers decorated St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside for the August 22 wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Carla Lynn Miller and Jay Dowler.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Miller of Hoskins and Donald Dowler Sr. of Fairplay, Mo., and Mary Dowler of Sedalia, Mo.

The 6 p.m. double ring rites were performed by the Rev. John Haltermann of Winside.

FLOWER GIRL was Mindy Marolt of Hoskins, and ring bearers were Nicholas Cleveland of Norfolk and the bridegroom's son, Sean Dowler. Chad Miller of Norfolk and Matt Martindale of Wakefield lit candles.

Coleene and Kyle Miller of Hoskins sang "The Wedding Song," and the bride's father sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Melvin Meierhenry sang "The Wedding Prayer" and was piano accompanist. Organist was Mrs. LeRoy Damme of Winside.

FOR HER wedding day the bride chose a polyester organza gown trimmed in Chantilly lace. The bodice was fashioned with a V yoke of lace with a neckline trimmed with Chantilly ruffle, and the sleeves were of tapered Chantilly lace. Chantilly edged ruffles trimmed the face bodice and waistline. Deep ruffles of matching Chantilly edged the skirt and chapel train with a flowing drape of lace.

She wore an illusion and pout trimmed wide brimmed hat of Chantilly lace and seed pearls, and carried a cascade of fall flowers.

MRS. LARRY Cleveland of Norfolk served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Coleene Miller of Hoskins, also a sister of the bride, and Marci Howe of Kansas City, Kan., DeLana Marolt of Winside, and Mrs. LaVerle Miller of Norfolk.

Their floor length buttercup gowns were of lace knit design with scooped necklines with drapes across the back, shirred sleeves, blouson bodices, and accented pleated skirts. Self fabric string belts finished the waistlines. They wore flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of fall flowers.

BEST MAN was Jack Drahol of Yutan, and groomsmen were Larry Cleveland and Rick Berzina, both of Norfolk, Kyle Miller of Hoskins, brother of the bride, and Roger Gerber of Omaha.

THE GROOM is a 1981 graduate of Wayne State College and the bride is attending Wayne State.

The couple planned a wedding trip to Tennessee.

MR. AND MRS. JAY DOWLER

Guests were ushered into the church by Dan Federal, Dave Sukrop and LaVerle Miller, all of Norfolk, Dale Miller of Emporia, Kan., and Brent Miller of Hoskins.

THE MEN in the wedding party were attired in mint green tuxedos with dark green trim. The bride's mother chose a long tan chiffon gown with white accessories, and the bridegroom's mother selected a long, pink polyester dress with white accessories.

A RECEPTION for 250 guests was held in the church parlors following the wedding ceremony. Guests were registered by Mrs. Brian Hoffman of Winside, and gifts were arranged by Jean Wacker of Winside, Donna Marolt of Hoskins, and Pam Minds of Pilger.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martindale of Wakefield and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Howe of Kansas City, Kan.

CUTTING AND serving the cake were Delain Matthes of Winsor, Doris Marolt of Hoskins, and Kay Saul and LaVonne Reinhardt, both of Wayne.

Mylet Boyce of Wayne and LaJean Marolt of Winside poured, and Juleene Miller of Norfolk and Jennie Barnett of Lindon, Kan. served punch.

Waitresses were Jaelene Matthes of Winsor, Rhonda Howe of Kansas City, Kan., Kim Damme of Winside, and Pam Monk and Carmie Monk, both of Carroll.

A wedding dance was held at King's Ballroom in Norfolk following the reception at the church.

THE NEWLYWEDS are at home in Lincoln.

The bride, a 1976 graduate of Winside High School, was employed at Dale Electronics in Norfolk prior to her marriage.

The bridegroom, a 1970 high school graduate at Greenwood, Miss., attended Kearney State College, and was graduated from Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk. He is employed by Mapco Pipeline in Greenwood, Neb.

Deb Stueve Weds Bill Gier In Ceremony at Wisner

Deb Stueve of Winsor and Bill Gier of Bloomfield were married in a 2 p.m. double ring ceremony Aug. 15. The Rev. Ristvedt officiated at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wisner.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kuzelka of Wisner. Parents of the groom are Mr. Dean Gier and the late Mrs. Gier of Bloomfield.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a sheer organza dress with a white lace. The sheer yoke on the bodice formed a mandarin collar, and the full sheer sleeves cuffed with a bridal point.

The skirt and chapel length train flowed from an empire waistline. The attached train was a cascade of sheer ruffles and pearls. The skirt and chapel length train flowed from an empire waistline. The attached train was a cascade of sheer ruffles.

HER CIRCLE illusion veil was held with a chantilly Juliet cap and ripple edged with chantilly. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, mini carnations, stephanotis and greenery, with blue silk flower accents.

Joan Stueve, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Pam Stueve of Wisner, Nancy Kay and Christie Rathke, both of Lincoln and Mary Gier of Lincoln were bridesmaids.

Their blue lustre glow gowns had Schifite embroidery on the yoke and cap sleeves. The circular cut floor length skirts flowed from an empire waistline. They carried a cluster of long stemmed garden type flowers in apricot tones.

SERVING AS his brother's best man was Robert Gier. Groomsmen were Kevin Barton of Columbus, Rod Turner of Wayne, Chris Jensen of Bloomfield and Kurt Stenzel of Perry, Iowa.

Dan Taage of Lincoln, Clayton Hoefs of Wayne, Keith Koertje and Dave Bolton, both of Bloomfield ushered the guests into the church.

Nancy Lambert of Lincoln sang "The Wedding Prayer," and Bob Wiles of Wayne sang "The Wedding Song." Duets included "God, a Woman and a Man" and "The Lord's Prayer." Lori Ayers of Norfolk accompanied them on the organ.

MR. AND MRS. Martin Hansen of Carroll were honored recently for their 35th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom (Janet) Brennan and Eric, Mr. and Mrs. Norm (Marjean) Sack and June Hansen, all of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Clint (Sandra) Van Winkle and family of Beatrice, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hansen and B. J. of Verdigre, and Dailas Hansen honored their parents during a dinner Aug. 22 at the Wagon

MR. AND MRS. BILL GIER

Michael Boyd and Lyhsey Mainelli were ring bearer and flower girl. Jackie Schultz and Linda Heller, both of Wisner, lit the candles.

SUSAN STUEVE of Great Bend, Kan. and Genny Straube of Lincoln registered the guests at the reception, held in the Wisner City Auditorium. Alisha Rosenberg of Great Bend and Michelle Bellar of Wisner carried gifts, and Mrs. Harlan Haltermann presided at the gift table.

Cindy and Julie Breikreutz, Susan Borgelt, Traci Roth, Beckie Rathke, Vicki Umland, Mrs. Ronnie Breikreutz, Mrs. Frank Umland, Mrs. Ken Stueve, Lori Johnson and Kim Werner also assisted at the reception. Mrs. Richard Breikreutz of Wisner and Mrs. Frank Umland of Eagel poured. Mrs. Robert Rowland of Great Bend and Mrs. Francis Breikreutz of Wisner cut and served the cake. Aunts assisting with serving were Mrs. Ronnie Breikreutz of Wisner, Mrs. Ken Stueve of Great Bend and Mrs. Jim Kuzelka of Fremont.

Bob Rabe provided music at the dance.

Community Presents 'My Fair Lady'

'MY FAIR LADY,' A FALL PRODUCTION of the Wayne Community Theatre, opened Friday evening in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College Campus. Other performances were scheduled Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Talented individuals, elaborate costumes, beautiful music and intricate stage settings combined to make this year's show delightfully entertaining to audiences of all ages. Among those pictured at the races is Eliza Doolittle (foreground), played by Margaret Schultz.

Dixon County Cemeteries Recorded in New Book

Marilyn Rice and Linda Baumgardner, who have spent months collecting and recording cemetery plots in Dixon County, announced last week that publication orders for the Dixon County Cemetery Records book are now being accepted.

The book consists of nearly 12,000 entries from some 22 cemeteries and several plots on outlying farms, and is indexed and alphabetically arranged in a soft cover approximately 8 1/2" x 11".

Every known tombstone in every cemetery in Dixon County was recorded as well as the remaining stones in the old LaPorte Cemetery in Wayne County.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Baumgardner and Mrs. Rice, the recording was undertaken in an effort to save for future generations material which often is lost because of vandalism, fires in places where records are stored, inaccessible courthouse files, years of weathering on the stones, and, in some cases, abandonment of old cemeteries.

Care was taken to clean and straighten stones that have spent many years hidden beneath lilac bushes and cedar trees, and have long been forgotten.

EARLIER THIS year, persons with families buried in the county were given the opportunity to contribute additional data. Mrs. Rice said the response and interest in the project added valuable information.

Obituary accounts in old local newspapers were gleaned for data, as were microfilmed census lists, and church and cemetery records.

PRE-PUBLICATION sales of the book were accepted at the recent Dixon County Fair.

Mrs. Rice said because of the interest in the project a decision was made to go ahead with the printing this fall.

"A renewed interest in preserving our heritage and facts about those who came before us has increased steadily since the Bicentennial," said Mrs. Rice. "Now that more and more towns in the area are celebrating the anniversary of their founding, records of our ancestors should be left for those who follow in our footsteps," she added.

DUE TO the financial costs involved with the publishing, Mrs. Rice said it is imperative that books be paid for prior to the printing to defray costs and to allow an accurate count in the number of copies needed.

Persons interested in ordering a copy should direct their requests to Mrs. Rice or Mrs. Baumgardner, both of Concord.

Pre-publication cost of the book is $10 plus $1.50 postage. Deadline for ordering copies is Sunday, Sept. 20. Orders received after that date will cost $12.50.

PERSONS with data on their families they would like to have included in the book may send the information immediately to Mrs. Rice or Mrs. Baumgardner.

The information will be added without charge as space permits until the printing deadline.

Children Host Reception For Dwaine Bjorklunds

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Bjorklund of Wakefield hosted an open house Sunday, Aug. 23, in honor of their parents' silver wedding anniversary.

Nearly 140 friends and relatives attended the afternoon reception at Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield.

The couple's children are Donavon and Deidean, both of Wakefield.

BOBBI ANN Welershauser and Lora Lee Welershauser registered the guests, and Mrs. LeRoy Slevens, Mrs. James Stout and Mrs. Robert Welershauser arranged gifts and cards. All are of Wakefield.

The guests came from Omaha, Norfolk, Oakland, Stanton, Leigh, Randolph, Laurel, Pilger, Bancroft, Beemer, Dixon, Emerson, Winslow, Concord, Wayne and Wakefield.

DONAVON Bjorklund was master of ceremonies for the program, which included devotions by the Rev. Robert V. Johnson. A record was played of the couple's wedding.

Poems were read by Deidean Bjorklund and Mrs. Charles Pierson, and music was furnished by Donavon and Deidean, Mrs. Roy Urwiler and Mrs. Milton Boysen. Cutting and serving the cake, which was baked by Mrs. Art Greve of Wakefield, were Mrs.

Mrs. Clarence Luhr and Mrs. Marvin Rewinkel, all of Wakefield.

Mrs. Norman Haglund and Mrs. Derwood Wriedt of Wakefield poured, and Laurie Johnson of Oakland, Laura and Karla Pearson of Leigh, and Carla Johnson of Norfolk served punch.

Members of the church committee of the church served as waitresses and assisted in the kitchen.

BJORKLUNDS were married at Stanton on Aug. 26, 1956, and have resided on a farm south of Wakefield since that time.

Kardells Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil O. Kardell were honored on their 40th wedding anniversary when their children hosted a surprise celebration for family and friends on Sunday evening, Aug. 23, at the Wayne Evangelical Free Church.

The anniversary cake, in the shape of a Bible, was baked by Mrs. Howard Stokes.

Verna Carlson of Wayne and Virgil Kardell of Laurel were married Aug. 23, 1941. They have farmed one mile east of Wayne since that time.

Their children are Terry of St. Paul, Minn., and Janet and Virg, both of Wayne. There are three grandchildren.

National Honor to Fleer

Captain Robert D. Fleer, grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fleer of Winside, has been awarded the distinctive honor of being selected as one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America for 1981."

Only 10 men a year are selected from all walks of life. Capt. Fleer joins an elite group of young men from the entire United States who have demonstrated their excellence in professional endeavors and civic activities. He is a member of the Air Force Thunderbirds, and the son of the late Lt. Col. Merlin H. Fleer and Mrs. Fleer of Fort Worth, Texas.

LWML Meets at Altona

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of First Trinity Lutheran Church, Altona, met Aug. 12 in the church school basement.

Clara Hejnemann presented the lesson, entitled "Evangelism."

President Darlene Frevert called the meeting to order and the mite box collection was taken. Mrs. Frevert also read an article on giving, and the group sang "Take My Life and Let It Be." Roll call was answered by 10 members.

It was announced that LWML meetings will be held the first Wednesday of each month. This month's meeting closed with prayer. Hostess was Erna Greenwald.

Clara Hejnemann will be the Sept. 2 hostess at 1:30 p.m. in the church school basement.

Nancy Gallop August 15 Bride

Nancy Gallop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallop Sr. of Winside, was united in marriage August 15 to Wayne Schulz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schulz of Madison.

The 7 o'clock double ring ceremony took place at the United Methodist Church in Madison, the Rev. Harold Coates officiating.

Decorations included white candelabras with globes of pink candles, altar bouquets of white daisies and pink carnations, and pink pew bows.

USHERING GUESTS into the church were John Gallop Jr. of Norfolk, Vern Jones of Grant, and Larry Schulz of Grand Island.

Candles were lighted by Pamela Junck of Carroll. Flower girl was Tiffany Schulz of Battle Creek, and ring bearer was John Gallop III of Norfolk.

Becky Westerhaus of Winside sang "Sunrise, Sunset," "Longer" and "Through the Eyes of Love," accompanied by David Shipley of Norfolk.

MAID OF honor was Laurie Gallop of Winside, and bridesmaids were Barbara Junck of Carroll, Beverly Neel of Cameron, Mo., and Barbara Coble of Norfolk.

The bride's personal attendant was Jacque Withuhn of Fort Meade, Md.

Dan Schulz of Battle Creek served as best man. Groomsmen were Kevin Schulz of Madison, Bob Coble of Norfolk and Warren Gallop of Winside.

THE BRIDE appeared at her father's side in a long, white empire gown of crepe-backed satin fashioned with a lace yoke inset at the bodice, long sleeves, and a chapel-length detachable train.

The train and chapel-length lace veil were edged in lace and pearls, and the bride carried a cascade of pink roses and white baby's breath with white streamers.

Her attendants wore floor-length pink floral gowns of sheer polyester with long-sleeve, waistline jackets in deep pink. The sleeveless dresses were designed with blouson bodices, V-necklines, belted waistlines and gathered skirts.

They wore hairpieces of pink daisies and white baby's breath. The men in the wedding party were attired in beige Squire tuxedos.

MRS. GALLOP selected an aqua dress of crepe-backed satin

Respite Care Service Available

Newly Developed Program Gives Parents of Handicapped 'Time-Off'

All parents need to spend some time away from their children, yet parents of mentally retarded persons often have difficulty finding willing and competent people to care for their children.

A newly developed program in Wayne is designed to give parents of handicapped youngsters and adults this vital "time-off."

The program, called Repite Care, is jointly sponsored by the Wayne County Association for Retarded Citizens and Region IV

NANCY BEDNAR, Liaison Social Service Worker with Region IV Office of Developmental Disabilities, said the Respite — which means period of rest — program is temporary care provided to a family with a handicapped family member.

Respite Care, she added, is furnished by persons from the community who have expressed an interest in providing the service. All providers (persons providing care to the child) have made application, been interviewed, and completed a training program designed by respite care program representatives.

A MEETING to explain the program to families with handicapped persons is being held tonight (Monday) at 7:30 in the State National Bank and Trust Co. conference room.

Bednar said that although parents of handicapped children are especially encouraged to attend, all other interested persons of the community also are welcome.

Residents interested in becoming providers also are invited to attend the meeting.

BEDNAR SAID Respite can either be provided in the home of the provider or in the home of the person receiving the service.

In home respite care is a service provided by a specially trained provider, upon a request by and following an agreement with the parents, and in the home of the handicapped person. Out of home respite care is provided by a trained respite care provider, at the request of and in agreement with the handicapped individual's parents, and in the home of the respite care provider.

COST FOR respite is agreed upon by the family and the provider before the respite period begins.

The provider furnishes hourly, overnight, weekend or longer care for a handicapped individual.

They are expected to provide a warm, homelike environment, quality physical care and nutritious meals, opportunities for socialization and recreational activities, and guidance in self help or home management skills.

HOW IS Respite Care obtained?

Bednar said periodically a list of providers will be sent to families, which will include the names, phone numbers, addresses, and time available of those persons who have completed the training and are willing to provide respite care services.

Parents must contact their own provider from the list they receive, and must inform the provider of the specific needs and abilities of the child prior to the respite care service being provided.

Bednar said parents must also inform the provider as to the amount they will be paying for the service. Transportation, she said, should also be discussed.

Shortly before the respite period begins, parents are asked to go over with the provider an orientation packet they have previously completed on their child. The packet will include a phone number where parents can be reached.

BEDNAR SAID there currently are 12 trained respite care providers in Wayne who are willing to go into the home of a handicapped individual or temporarily share their home with a handicapped individual. "Respite providers offer an invaluable service to parents who need competent and concerned persons to care for their handicapped children," she added.

Bednar stressed that other persons interested in training to be providers are asked to attend Monday night's meeting. She said tentative plans call for training sessions about once every three months as new persons express interest in becoming providers.

"RESPIRE providers come from all walks of life," said Bednar. "They may be students or retired people, parents or single persons. They may be professionals or lay persons."

One thing they do have in common is a desire to share their time and energy with a person who is handicapped."

ON HAND to answer questions at tonight's meeting will be respite trainer Maggie Kenney of Meyers Childrens Rehabilitation Institute in Omaha.

Milligan-Mrsny Plan September Rites in Wayne

Edwin Milligan of Wayne and Donna Milligan of Sheridan, Wyo. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Michele Jean Milligan, to Jeffrey Jay Mrsny, son of Frank and Ailce Mrsny of Wayne. Jeff is employed in his father's business. Plans are underway for a Sept. 6 wedding at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Anderson-Sperry United

United in marriage Friday, August 14, in 7 p.m. double ring rites were Joan Anderson and Jeffrey Sperry.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry M. Sperry, all of Wayne.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a street length gown of candlelight, silver threaded polyester, fashioned with a V-neckline and sheer full-length sleeves.

She wore a small arrangement of candlelight star flowers and rust forget-me-nots in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of candlelight roses and carnations accented with rust forget me nots and candlelight star flowers with rust and candlelight streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Mark Lewon of Wayne. Her street-length floral print frock was of candlelight and peach voile. She carried a single long-stemmed candlelight Holland rose with rust streamers.

THE BRIDEGROOM was attired in a rust colored tuxedo. Serving his brother as best man was Jim Sperry, who was attired in a brown pin striped tailored suit.

A RECEPTION following the ceremony was held in St. Mary's School Hall in Wayne.

Jean Anderson and Jennifer Litz attended the guest book. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Don Polak of Coleridge and Mrs. Rich Jones of Carroll. Mrs. Rita Gubbles of Randolph served punch and Mrs. Leo Dietrich of Concord poured.

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY SPERRY

Opening gifts were Mrs. Jeff Frank Lansing. Waitresses were Harlung and Diane Jones. Gift carriers were Bill Sperry and Jon Moore.

Serving the lunch were Mrs. Bob Morris, Mrs. Verlin Glass, Mrs. Victor Haese and Mrs. home in Wayne.

Blue Catfish Being Stocked

By Larry W. Hesse
Aquatic Research Biologist
The blue catfish was never extremely abundant in the Missouri River. In fact its natural range included only the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers and their principal tributaries, and it always was less numerous than its relatives the channel (which it closely resembles) and flathead catfishes.

Within its natural range the most substantial populations are in the lower Mississippi, the upper Ozarks. This big river fish is principally an inhabitant of swift notices and deep pools with noticeable current. But the alterations that were made on both the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers has apparently affected their ability to reproduce effectively. We have sampled nearly 30,000 catfish from the Missouri River over the past 10 years and only one young blue was collected.

Large blues are still occasionally caught, especially from Lewis and Clark Lake. The reduced construction activities now and the very high quality of water between the tailwater of Fort Randall and Lewis and Clark have prompted us to attempt to re-establish the species. This relatively natural stretch of river has habitat suited to the blue although this far northerly site will probably provide a somewhat limited breeding season. Since Nebraska does not have a breeding population to obtain eggs or brood stock from, we cooperated with the states of Texas, Mississippi and Missouri to supply fertilized egg masses, which were hatched in our North Platte state hatchery and in Gavins Point national hatchery. In addition we obtained nearly 30 pair of brood fish from the state of Oklahoma. These are going to be housed at North Platte and will be the basis for future hatchery propagation.

The hatchery effort proved excellent this first year and we were able to stock out 300,000 blue catfish fingerlings of the 2 1/2 inch size. These were stocked directly into the Missouri River in Boyd County. We expect these fish will eventually populate the river between the Fort Randall and Gavins Point Dams.

Our plans include expanded production to 500,000 fingerlings each year for four more years. At that time we will evaluate the success of stockings and recommend a long term management scheme for the species.

The blue catfish is legendary as a sport fish, their size and power beyond comprehension of most freshwater fishermen. Accounts of large blues exist such as the 242 pound fish caught by two fishermen in 1868 near Herman, Mo., according to David Dary of the Kansas City Star, and the 313 pound blue caught by a boy named Stephen at McGirk's Island near Morrison, Mo., in 1886. The according to Captain William L. Hickmann, a steam boat captain.

More recently (Sept. 16, 1959) Ed. Elight of Vermillion, S.D. caught the largest catfish taken on sport tackle in North America—a 97 pound, 4 feet 9 inch blue from the river below Gavins Point.

Our stocking effort is not aimed at the production of these large specimens since few of these exist even in a naturally reproducing population. We hope to see enough grow to provide a sport fishery for the 10 pound and larger sizes to supplement the existing fishing for larger channel and flathead catfish. And we hope the blue will live on in more than just memory in part of its historic range.

Rec Football, Coed Volleyball, Women's Volleyball Scheduled

Recreation schedules for boys football, couples volleyball and women's volleyball have been set up by Wayne recreation director Hank Overlin.

BOYS INTERESTED in playing football will checkout equipment at the Middle Center, above the Wayne fire hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 9, 10 and 11. Seventh grade boys will checkout equipment on Wednesday (Sept. 9), fifth and sixth graders will checkout on Thursday (Sept. 10) and third and fourth grade boys will checkout equipment on Friday (Sept. 11). Checkout times are from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. each day.

Anyone unable to checkout at those times should stop at the Middle Center between 1:30 and 3 p.m. Saturday (Sept. 12). Participants should have had a physical examination within the last year or arrange for one soon.

COUPLES VOLLEYBALL is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, Sept. 9. The recreation league is not open to college couples unless one player works off campus at least 30 hours a week. WSC faculty are welcome.

Three shifts are scheduled and newcomers should be at the first shift from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday to sign up and play for 45 to 60 minutes. Hank Overlin will phone all of last year's members and inform them which shift to attend. The program will be held at the Wayne city auditorium.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL will open its season on Monday, Sept. 14 at the city auditorium. Women will play from 7 to 10 p.m.

Anyone who did not play in the program last year should attend Monday's first session at 7 p.m. Anyone who played last year but is not contacted by Hank Overlin also should attend the 7 p.m. session.

About 20 other players will be phoned by Overlin and asked to play at 8:30 p.m. Because of college intramurals and facilities, Wayne State students are not eligible unless they work off campus at least 30 hours a week. WSC faculty members are welcome.

AREA HUNTERS will soon have to keep an eye open for signs like this one. Fall hunting seasons open tomorrow (Tuesday) in Nebraska.

Hunting Seasons To Open

Sept. 1 is fast approaching to the delight of Nebraska sportsmen who have been anxiously awaiting the opening of the 1981 cottontail rabbit, mourning dove, common snipe and rail seasons. Game and Parks Commission biologists say reports indicate this year's hunting seasons will be worth the wait because of increases in most game species populations.

Specialist Jim Mitchell has encouraging news for cottontail hunters. "Our rural mail carrier reports indicate sightings of cottontail rabbits up a whopping 59 percent over last year. That should mean an excellent season during 1981."

Hunters can look forward to a near all-time high in mourning dove numbers, Mitchell said, but a period of cool weather. Nebraskans experienced recent ly already started migration through the state. "I don't think there is any doubt that significant numbers of doves have already migrated out of the state," he continued, "but the dove population is so high there are still a large number of the birds left. The effect on the hunter is that he will have to look a little harder to find large concentrations, but there will still be exciting hunting in various areas."

Hunting Postponed On State Rec Areas

Squirrel hunting season is already open and mourning dove, cottontail rabbit, common snipe and rail seasons open Sept. 1, but sportsmen will have to wait until Sept. 8 to hunt on state recreation areas, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

area, including picnic areas, campgrounds, private cabin and concession areas, boat ramps and parking lots.

Common snipe and rail seasons also open Sept. 1. Snipe season continues through Dec. 15. The bag limit is 8 per day; the possession limit is 16. Rail season is open through Nov. 9, the daily bag limit is 10 and possession limit is 10 birds.

Early season hunters should look for cottontail rabbits in ungrazed timber, around old farmsteads and in areas of knee-high undergrowth. "Cottontails got a wide range of plant foods—grasses, shoots, fruits, branch tips and bark. Among the favorites are alfalfa, ragweed, apple bark, sumac and blackberry," Mitchell said.

Increase in Game

Good Hunting Year Is Predicted

Nebraska hunters can look forward to one of the best hunting seasons in several years during 1981, according to Game and Parks Commission biologists. The Commission's "rural mail carrier count" indicates a statewide increase in pheasant sightings of 26 percent; cottontail rabbit sightings up 59 percent; and jackrabbit sightings up 68 percent. The "whistle count" reports submitted by Commission biologists indicate an increase of 12 percent in quail numbers.

"The actual populations of these species may not have increased in the exact amount reflected by our surveys," Upland Game Specialist Jim Mitchell said, "but we do believe these figures represent significant population increases."

Big Game specialist Karl Menzel, of the Commission's Bassett Office, predicts "an excellent deer hunting season" this year. "We are looking for a total deer kill to top last year's total."

Record numbers of birds should make this year's turkey season one to remember. A total of 4,300 shotgun turkey permits have been issued for this year's fall shotgun season. Each permit allows the hunter to take one bird of either sex.

Later in the season, when much of the grass and cover is knocked down, brushpiles will be a good place to look for hiding buntings. "And," Mitchell pointed out, "cottontails have a small home range—probably less than one acre—so if you see a rabbit in one place and don't take him, you can probably return to the same place tomorrow and find him again."

Wayne State Opens Doors With About 2,400 Students

Wayne State College opened its doors for another fall term on Monday with about the same number of students on hand, according to WSC Vice President Dr. Ed Elliott.

Though numerous night classes and Extended Campus offerings have yet to meet, "total enrollment will be about the same as last year — around 2,400 students," Dr. Elliott said.

Final enrollment figures will be released at a later date after all classes have been figured into the total enrollment picture.

Though day classes were scheduled to begin on Tuesday, students can still register until Sept. 1. That is the last date to change (drop or add) regular day courses. A number of night and Extended Campus classes are offered also, and information on them is available by contacting Wayne State College.

Fee payments for day classes are set for Sept. 9-11. Late-payment charges will be assessed for unpaid bills after Sept. 11. These late charges are based on a percentage of balance due rather than a flat fee, as in the past.

The last day to withdraw from classes and not receive a failing grade is Wednesday, Oct. 28. Other dates of importance are winter commencement exercises, scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 13; and finals weeks, set for Dec. 14-17.

Sinfonia Musicians Sought

Musicians are being sought to participate in the reorganization of the Northeast Nebraska Sinfonia under the direction of Dr. Mike Palumbo, assistant professor of music at Wayne State College.

The Sinfonia will begin rehearsals Monday, Aug. 31 at 7 p.m. in the band room of the Val Peter son Fine Arts Center on the WSC campus.

Dr. Palumbo has been on leave from WSC while he received his Doctor of Arts degree from Ball

State University in Muncie, Ind. While in residence at Ball State, Palumbo was assistant conductor and administrative coordinator of orchestras. He was selected to direct the 1980 Indiana All-State College high school orchestra.

Any string players in the area are cordially invited to attend the rehearsal and the get acquainted party afterwards. For further information, contact Dr. Palumbo at Wayne State College, or phone (402) 375-2700, ext. 362.

Ma Bell Distributes Phone Books

Northwestern Bell has begun to distribute the 1981-82 Norfolk Regional telephone directory to Wayne and surrounding communities.

A total of 2,600 books will go out to homes and businesses in Wayne, and 15,325 to customers in seven regional communities served by Northwestern Bell.

Directories are also being bulk mailed to telephone offices in communities not served by Northwestern Bell.

Ken Berglund, Northwestern Bell manager in Wayne, said one directory will be distributed to each customer's home, unless prior requests have been made for additional books.

Customers may obtain extra copies of the directory through the telephone office nearest them.

Zorinsky

you work hard all your life for your farm or your business, you ought to be able to pass it along to your children."

Zorinsky said he had long been a supporter of that concept and that he knew Reagan hoped one day, to do away with estate taxes forever.

Zorinsky did quarrel with David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, over farm programs — more specifically those programs that offer a return on the taxpayers' investment.

"STOCKMAN SEES the food stamp program and farmer loan support programs as the same as non-recoverable funds," Zorinsky said, explaining the differences in some detail, particularly with regard to programs with interest bearing loans.

Zorinsky expressed a fear that though the new farm bill gives the Secretary of Agriculture "broad new powers," they will never be used.

He said Secretary of State Alexander Haig will dictate agriculture policy, the senior Nebraska senator said. He said the only reason the Soviet grain embargo lasted for six more months was because Haig wanted it to stay.

Zorinsky said that while there was an embargo on selling grain to the Soviets, there was no problem selling milled flour.

So, we sold grain to West Germany and they milled it into flour and sold it to the Soviets," the senator said.

CONTENDING THAT the government should "get the hell out of farming and let it flourish in the free marketplace," Zorinsky said he felt agriculture had been punished enough.

"If we have learned nothing else from OPEC, we should have learned that you don't punish another country by refusing to sell your products to them," Zorinsky continued. "That's because they just buy it from someone else."

If you want to hurt another country, you raise your price, you don't embargo it," he said.

Talking briefly about a number of government programs that he said wasted tax dollars, Zorinsky said "I'm serious about saving tax dollars. I'm taking on those programs myself."

And, tackling the high-interest-

Each summer she returned to Michigan to continue work on her doctorate. She explained her decision to change opera houses from Vienna to Munich in a letter to her Doctoral Committee.

SALLY STATED that her decision to leave the Vienna State Opera and move to a smaller house in Munich was made so she could enlarge her repertoire, perform more frequently, and be more thoroughly rehearsed than in Vienna.

"It really is very difficult to begin in a large house," says Sally. "Vienna is like the Metropolitan Opera in the United States. In Munich I can enlarge my repertoire and have as many as 10 roles in one year. That's wonderful experience for a young opera singer."

IN MUNICH, for the 1980-81 season she will perform such major roles as Constanze, Marie ("Daughter of the Regiment"), Gilda, Olympia, Violetta, Lucia and Fiordiligi.

In the Gartnerplatz Theater in Munich, as in opera houses throughout Europe, performances are in German, a language that Sally sings fluently, just as she does French and Italian.

Sally also speaks all three languages although she claims less fluently.

SALLY'S CAREER has also taken her on a recital tour of the States with the Boston Opera. She has also joined one of the biggest American agencies, Columbia Artists.

SALLY SAYS her career as an opera singer is demanding.

"A career in entertainment is difficult for anyone," says Sally, "whether you sing opera or pop, and especially if you're an independent artist."

"But I love it! If you enjoy what you're doing it's more fun, right? And creative work is the most satisfying

"THE MOST difficult part of my profession as an opera singer is rejection," explains Sally.

"You can audition and audition. You may sing beautifully, but the stage director may want someone five inches taller or with a different profile."

SALLY KEEPS her voice in condition by practicing vocal exercises at least one hour each day.

She also combines vocal exercises with exercises that help her breathe. "I do a lot of walking and swim a lot, under water," she smiles.

"It's very important to develop my breathing so the air comes out very slowly," explains Sally. "Tone is affected very much by how we breathe."

ALTHOUGH SALLY prepares for each performance vocally, she says she works harder on preparing herself psychologically.

"Opera involves a great deal of concentration. Once the performance begins I can't go back because the baton never stops."

The exhaustion following each performance is not so much physical as mental, says Sally. "It's that darn concentration that wears me down."

SALLY SAYS she tries to control her nerves before each performance by finding a balance between nervousness that detracts from the performance and nervousness that gives it an edge.

Her most embarrassing moment came when she was playing the Queen of the Night, entering in a satellite.

"The doors wouldn't open," laughs the pretty blue-eyed singer. "I had to kick them and I made so much noise that I couldn't hear the orchestra. When I finally did get out I had to improvise until I once again found myself with the orchestra."

THE YOUNG opera singer from Nebraska says her most difficult role and the one she performs most frequently, is the Queen of the Night in "Magic Flute" by Mozart.

"It calls for a fuller, more dramatic voice," says Sally. "It's a very, very demanding role and one for which I must stay in very good condition."

Her favorite is La Traviata. "She's a real person and easy to identify with."

BECAUSE SALLY'S operatic voice is very high, she always plays leading roles and gives about 35 performances each year.

"Some singers have as many as 100 performances each year," says Sally. "I can't do that. With my type of voice I must be rested before each performance."

The voices of operatic singers are very limited. Like athletes we can perform for so long before the vocal cords, like the rest of the body, start to sag," she explains.

SALLY SAYS opera began in Europe and is very much a party of European culture.

In Germany, says Sally, every city the size of Wayne has its own opera house and orchestra, and many Americans go there for the wonderful experience they can receive.

Sally notes that public interest in opera is growing in the United States.

"When I left in 1975 it was very difficult for anyone in opera to get experience in the United States," says Sally. "Today that has changed very much."

SALLY DREAMS of someday performing at the Metropolitan Opera in New York City.

If I can sing an outstanding Queen of the Night, I'll sing at the Met one day," says Sally.

There are a lot of people who can sing Queen of the Night," and I just have to be better rate issue, the senator said he'd talked with Paul Volcker, head of The Fed.

SALLY, WHO spoke at Wayne State College Friday afternoon before leaving Saturday for her home in Germany, is considered by her stage manager to be one of the three best coloratura sopranos in the world.

ZORINSKY SAID he asked Volcker about high interest rates, now that the administration was trying to prime the economy.

He said that Volcker reiterated the "tight money supply philosophy and said that a productivity increase was the only answer."

"Do you want me to go back to Nebraska and tell farmers to increase productivity when we're going to have the second biggest corn crop on record," Zorinsky said he told Volcker.

He said Volcker expressed faith that the rates would come down four or five points in October or November.

But, Zorinsky said he was still concerned. Describing himself as a businessman he said, "I know what a profit and loss statement looks like, and by the time they come down there won't be any farmers and small businessmen left."

ZORINSKY ALSO pledged his support for a strong military and criticized Reagan for "dragging his feet" on SALT treaty talks.

He expressed support for the neutron bomb, nerve gas and the MX missile system.

At one point he told the audience of his suggestion for the

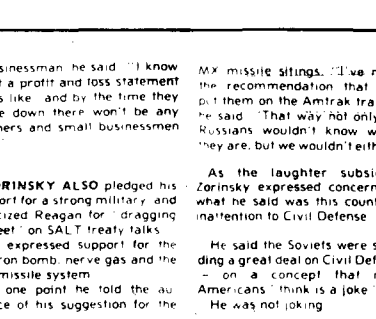

MX missile sitings. "I've made the recommendation that they put them on the Amtrak trains," he said. "That way not only the Russians wouldn't know where they are, but we wouldn't either."

As the laughter subsided, Zorinsky expressed concern for what he said was this country's inattention to Civil Defense.

He said the Soviets were spending a great deal on Civil Defense — on a concept that most Americans "think is a joke."

He was not joking.

Half a Tree is Better...

...THAN NO TREE at all. This tall cottonwood continues to stand erect near the roadside northeast of Wayne. A recent summer storm tore the north side of the tree from the main trunk, leaving only half the foliage that took years to grow. Locking a bit off balance, the old tree continues to tower over the countryside without a seedling in sight

Under the Weather

AFTER YEARS OF being out in the northeast Nebraska elements, this miniature weathervane no longer whips in the wind. Settling atop a fencepost in an abandoned farmstead, the wind gauge probably shared the post with a rain gauge years ago. Now rust and twisted tin hold the vane solid on an old nail.

Yes, State National will pay you 25% per annum until October 1, 1981, if you then transfer your money to a new

TAX-FREE ACCOUNT!

The President's Tax Bill, recently signed into law, allows us to offer a tax-free, one-year certificate. Reserve your certificate now and we'll pay you 25% interest until October 1, 1981 through a special repurchase agreement. Then on October 1, we'll automatically transfer your investment to a new Tax-Free Certificate! Interest up to $2,000 is tax-free if you're married filing jointly . . . up to $1,000 on an individual return.

With the low $500 minimum requirement, you can gain high yields without committing to a high investment. Rates paid on the Certificate will be the highest allowed by law.

Based on a Certificate rate of 11.62%

If your taxable family income is:	Your tax bracket will likely be:	Certificate rate of 11.62% is equal to this rate on a taxable basis:
$24,600-$29,900	32%	17.08%
$29,900-$35,200	37%	18.44%
$35,200-$45,800	43%	20.38%
$45,800-$60,000	49%	22.78%
$60,000-$85,600	54%	25.26%

Above figures are approximate and are based on 1980 tax tables. Interest rate of 11.62% is equal to 70% of a average investment yield on one-year U.S. Treasury Bills as of the most recent auction date. Tax exemption is lost if account is closed before one year. Your investment until October 1, 1981, is a repurchase agreement backed by U.S. Government Securities. It is not a savings account insured by FDIC. After October 1, 1981, your investment will be insured by the FDIC up to $100,000.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF WAYNE

August 31, 1981

To: All Wayne State College Students, Faculty, and Staff:

On behalf of the First National Bank, I would like to welcome all new and returning Wayne State College students, faculty, and staff. We are very proud of our association with Wayne State College and we continue to enjoy working with the college community. Wayne State College is a very important part of our town and its contribution to the success of our town has been tremendous.

We look forward to meeting you and invite you to stop in and get acquainted. If there is ever anything our bank can do for you or Wayne State College, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

Bob Reeg
President
