City Council Firm on Drainage, Pavement

Hunters Knoll Development Still Uncertain

After months spent staking answers to drainage and roadway questions on the proposed Hunters Knoll Subdivision, the Wayne developer has come across tracks that could force him to kill the project as it is currently designed.

The tracks — city regulations regarding the development of new subdivisions — are imbedded in municipal ordinances. And, though city businessman and property owner Roy Coryell has asked for time to study them, the developer's reaction Tuesday night to the city's drainage and roadway requests was less than enthusiastic.

"I UNDERSTAND to a degree, anyway," Coryell said, after thanking the Wayne City Council for a detailed report outlining staff recommendations for the development of Hunters Knoll.

The proposed subdivision, which is west of the city's western boundary and east of the graveled county road that leads to the Wayne County Fairgrounds, would be earmarked for eventual annexation by the city should Coryell develop the land.

However, Coryell indicated that "on the surface" the city's recommendations may postpone the development of the land, which is just south of State Highway 35.

City Administrator Phil Kloster told Coryell that the recommendations were based on the project as it is currently designed.

He said that any change in the subdivision's design "would have to be looked at separately."

CORYELL ALSO had appeared at the Council's last August meeting in search of answers to drainage and roadway questions that have stalled the project for months.

"Our staff has reviewed this problem (drainage) in depth with the (Wayne) County Board of Supervisors, the adjacent property owners, our city engineers and in respect to the city subdivision regulations," Kloster said in a prepared statement.

"The adjacent property owners feel that they would be harmed by the out-fall of water from this subdivision and hence the water should be contained in some fashion," he continued.

Indicating that the county commissioners concurred, Kloster said the city "will be opening itself to liable if we do not provide some type of storm drainage containment."

KLOSTER SAID the city had reviewed the types of containment available — a concrete spillway and underground tubing.

He said underground tubing, according to the city's subdivision specifications, meant reinforced concrete pipe.

Kloster noted that the concrete pipe was more economical than the building of a concrete spillway.

It is staff's recommendation that we require the drainage along the county road be handled with underground reinforced concrete pipe from the point of the first access road out of the development to the county road and through the first east-west county road south of the development," Kloster said.

According to Kloster, the city "would be content with" an open grassed spillway from there to Logan Creek.

CORYELL SAID that kind of drainage would cost at least $100,000.

"A development of this kind has a lot of magnitude to it," he said. "And, it would enhance your city."

Coryell suggested that the county might share in the paving of the north-south county road that runs along the western edge of the proposed subdivision.

That road would be annexed along with the subdivision under state law. It would become part of the city's street system.

"Our subdivision regulations require the paving of streets with Portland cement concrete before the subdivision can be accepted by the city," Kloster continued.

He cited Grainland Road as an example of a sub-standard street that was allowed to come into the city without being paved.

"Not only is it a nuisance, it is also expensive to maintain," he added.

"IT IS THE staff's recommendation that the city require the subdivider to pave the portion of the north-south county road that runs along the west side of Hunters Knoll Subdivision with a combination urban-rural

ESU One Tax Levy 2.5 Cents For 81-82

The Educational Service Unit One tax levy for the 1981-82 fiscal year is expected to be about 2.5 cents per $100 of actual valuation in the six county area the system serves.

ESU administrator Harry Mills, Wakefield, has told the board of directors that the levy would generate about $369,788 of the $1.5 million budget adopted in mid August.

Mills said that figure, in addition to funds generated by a collection fee of 1 percent and some $6,488 in delinquent taxes, put ESU over the 7 percent lid.

HOWEVER, MILLS explained that no exemptions allowed under the lid mandate were used in the preparation of the 1981-82 budget.

The administrator said that recalculations, using the exemptions, would bring the budget figure in line.

Mills presented the information to the board during a regular meeting in Laurel last week. ESU One serves Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne counties. The budget figure put against the property tax reflects only a portion of the $1.5 million budget.

Most of the other budget items represent flow-through funds for programs contracted and paid for by participating school districts, according to Mills.

MILLS ALSO presented the board with the latest county-for-county actual valuation figures.

Total actual valuation, according to Mills' figures, is $1.5 billion. The figure includes property in 10 counties because several school district boundaries in ESU One overlap into Antelope, Pierce, Cuming and Stanton.

Actual valuation figures presented to the board include: Cedar County, $399.2 million; Dakota County, $308.2 million; Dixon County, $190.8 million; Knox County, $263 million; Thurston County, $136.9 million; and Wayne County, $265.8 million.

Also, Antelope County, $14.9 million; Pierce County, $21.6 million; Cuming County, $618,195; and Stanton County, $1.6 million.

MILLS ALSO reported that ESU One exceeded its 1980-81 budget by $42,267.32, largely because of overruns in special education costs.

As required by law, the board held an August hearing in Crofton on the budget overrun.

The budget estimate for last year was $1,048,510, but costs by the end of the fiscal year closed out the 1980-81 budget at $1,090,777.32, according to Mills.

Fourteen days later, the board held a public hearing in Laurel on the proposed budget for 1981-82 and subsequently adopted the $1,503,422 financial plan.

The current-year budget reflects a $402,660 increase with nearly $100,000 of that attributed to the Wayne Profoundly Handicapped program.

IN OTHER action, the board approved a contract with Region IV Services in Wayne. See ESU, Page 14A

Wayne-O'Neill Guard Units Can Mobilize Massive Fire Power

By Randall Howell

They've been called Sunday Soldiers for years, but the National Guardsmen in Wayne and O'Neill are capable of mobilizing a million-dollar war machine any day of the week.

With nearly 130 men under the command of Capt. Stanley Burst of Wayne, the Wayne-O'Neill National Guard, completely outfitted, moves with a mechanized weapons arsenal (including carriers) worth about $1 million.

"That's the whole shootin' match," said Burst, who has been in command of the mechanized infantry unit since a year ago last April.

THE EQUIPMENT, in addition to uniforms and other personal gear, includes track vehicles, jeeps, trucks, mortar and personnel carriers, rifles, machine guns, mortars, anti-tank missiles and radio sets, plus riot and chemical control gear.

That listing just scratches the surface of the thousands of pieces of miscellaneous military equipment, including replacement parts, needed to keep a mechanized infantry unit rolling.

And, a sampling of the cost tags mortar carriers alone at about $91,000 apiece. Personnel carriers price out at about $27,000. And, the company's 50-caliber machine guns rat-a-tat-tat at about $8,000 each.

There's a smaller machine gun that hits the target at a cost of about $1,400. And, then there's the infantry workhorse — the M-16 rifle. It hits the guardsman's shoulder at $180.

THE UNIT'S new TOW (tubular launch- ed, optical sighted, wire-guided) missile system zeroes in on a target at a total cost of about $140,000.

That's about $55,000 for the missile system and about $85,000 for the carrier. The deadly anti-tank missile is capable of 100 percent accuracy up to 3,600 meters.

"You can't get away from it," said Sgt. Dennis Spangler, Burst's right-hand man.

"Your only hope is that there's a big rock between you and the guy who has you in his sights," Spangler said.

The missile uses attached wires as a post-launch guidance system completely controlled by continuous optical in-flight sighting.

As long as he can keep you in the sights, he can hit you," Spangler said. "We have a guy who hit a tank at 3,200 meters...at that distance the tank is no bigger than your thumbnail."

THAT KIND of gear and the prospect of new war-systems technology, keeps the local National Guard units training near the threshold of combat readiness.

When better equipment is combined with enlistment incentives, upgraded pay and an attitude change across the country regarding the military, it adds up to a fighting chance for recruitment and soldier retention, according to Burst.

Burst, a native Nebraskan and former Marine Corps officer, said the attitude change has been coming on for a couple of years.

But, even then, facilities and equipment have to be up to par for the units to retain new guardsmen, he explained.

"THAT ATTITUDE change helps," he said. "The whole country is becoming more pro-military and these kids (new recruits) are proud to wear the uniform again."

He said he remembered his early days in the military when "if you walked through campus in uniform, people thought you were crazy or had the plague."

Burst said the young men who are being signed up, largely through the efforts of a more attractive and more aggressive recruitment program in the Wayne-O'Neill areas, seem to like the challenge of training.

"If you can challenge them...then they like it," he said.

Old Wayne High School Band Uniforms Star in 'Rainbow'

Area movie-goers — those who watch closely, anyway — soon will see Wayne High School's old band uniforms on the silver screen.

The uniforms are in a scene of a movie, "Under the Rainbow," which begins at the Gay Theatre Friday, Sept. 11, according to Jack March, Wayne theater owner.

Purchased from the Wayne-Carroll School District by Wayne's Carolyn Fitter, the uniforms were shipped to a California costume designer last year.

The costume designer, Mike Butler, who is Fitter's brother-in-law, used the uniforms as part of film wardrobe in "Under the Rainbow."

ORIGINALLY scheduled for a much bigger part in the movie, the uniforms now appear in a toward-the-end scene that depicts a chase through a Hollywood backlot film set.

The uniforms, topped with a military cap, are royal blue and white. They are trimmed with light blue and gray that's offset with silver buttons.

Originally purchased by the high school, the uniforms were handed down to the Wayne Middle School where they were being used until Fitter bought them last year.

The Butler family visited Wayne in April, before the film had been released. "Under the Rainbow" will be playing at the Gay Theatre from Friday through Thursday, Sept. 17.

police report

Wayne's three day Labor Day weekend passed without a motor vehicle accident reported to the city Police Department. Except for some minor vandalism, police reported a quiet holiday.

Before the weekend got started, however, Art Hagemann reported two storm windows were shot out on the west side of his house sometime Thursday night. Police received the report at 8:40 a.m. Friday.

AND, ON Sunday morning, police were called to the intersection of Fifth and Pearl streets where they found a dead squirrel hanging from a tree. The squirrel, which had been killed by a motor vehicle while crossing the street Saturday morning, was removed. Police called it the work of pranksters. Police also responded to a report of an oven fire at a house on Valley Drive Sunday afternoon.

The call came at 1:51 p.m. and the fire had been extinguished by 1:56 p.m. No injuries were reported in the trailer fire.

ON SUNDAY and Monday, police responded to complaints that cattle were out along Grainland Road. The first report came from neighbors about 6:24 p.m. Sunday. The cattle were repenned. At 8:06 p.m. Monday, the cattle were out again. Neighbors complained. Police responded. The cattle were repenned.

3 Wayne Break-Ins Under Investigation

Police Chief Urges Home Lockup

In the wake of three burglaries in four weeks, Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild is urging city residents to lock up before leaving their homes.

Chief Fairchild in a statement Tuesday, also asked residents to report any unusual activities around the homes of absent neighbors.

In what amounted to an appeal for Wayne residents to practice a "good neighbor" policy, Fairchild said city residents can help each other by taking notice of suspicious activity and reporting it to police at once.

THE CHIEF'S statement came while city policemen continue to investigate three burglaries — two in August and one last week. Last Wednesday, Fairchild said, the home of George Thorbeck was burglarized while the owner was out for the evening.

According to Fairchild, burglars gained entry to the home through an unlocked door in the garage. Among the items reported missing were silver and jewelry "worth several hundred dollars," Fairchild said.

He said a small amount of money was also reported missing from the home.

THAT THIRD burglary came on the heels of a mid-August break-in at the home of Doreen Bilbrey, according to Fairchild. The chief said burglars gained entry to the Bilbrey home on Aug. 15 through an unlocked door, while she was away for the evening.

Among the items reported taken in the burglary were small appliances, clocks and stereo equipment "worth several hundred dollars," according to Fairchild.

No damage was done to either the Thorbeck or Bilbrey homes "except for the ransacking," Fairchild said.

ON AUG. 5, according to Fairchild, James Paige returned from vacation to find his home had been burglarized.

Fairchild said burglars took silver, guns, a color television set and jewelry worth "several thousand dollars."

Burglars gained entry to the home by "kicking in the back door," the chief said. Fairchild said no suspects had been arrested in the three cases, but that police had obtained fingerprints from several items within the homes.

He said he "had no idea" whether the burglars were local or professional operators moving through small towns in northeastern Nebraska.

HOWEVER, Fairchild said city residents can do a number of things to avoid becoming burglary victims, particularly if they are going away for an extended period.

"Arrange for police to check your home regularly," he said. Wayne police offer that service throughout the year.

Fairchild asked residents to "double check" second floor and basement windows and to lock garage doors.

Making sure that the home doesn't give away the absence of the owner is another priority, he said.

Fairchild suggested that residents arrange to have mail and deliveries "either stopped or picked up by a neighbor."

Arrange to have mail held at the Post Office, he said.

LEAVING A car in the driveway will reduce the home's potential as a burglar target, he said.

In addition, timers should be used to turn outside lights on and off, he said, noting that residents gone for long periods of time should arrange to have lawns cut, bushes trimmed and snow shoveled.

Interior lights also can be hooked to automatic timer switches. Some automatic timers can be programmed to turn interior lights on and off at various times throughout the evening, Fairchild said.

Another deterrent, Fairchild said, is to hook television sets or radios to the automatic timers to "give homes an added sound element" to discourage burglars.

AND, OF course, the good neighbor policy works, the chief said.

"Ask neighbors to check your home regularly," Fairchild said. He suggested leaving a telephone number with neighbors so that owners could be contacted in an emergency.

Neighbors, when asked, will often pick up handbills and circulars, Fairchild said.

"Don't tell everyone about your absence," Fairchild said. "Notify the police and tell your neighbor, but don't leave notes on the door and keep your planned trip out of the newspaper until you return."

For added security, Fairchild suggested that residents keep an updated household inventory list — with serial numbers — of expensive items.

That list, he said, should be kept in a safe place outside the home. The list, when properly kept, can aid in the recovery of stolen items, according to Fairchild.

FAIRCHILD said that doors and windows should be equipped with dead bolt locks, rather than spring bolt locks.

Spring bolt locks are simple for burglars to open, he said. And simply putting valuables, such as coin collections or jewelry, in a safety deposit box reduces the risk of loss, the chief said.

If upon returning home, residents discover evidence of a break in, Fairchild urged them to call the police before entering the home.

"The burglar, possibly armed, could still be inside," he said.

DANNY FREVERT of Wayne bulldozes his way past a South Sioux City defender to score Wayne's lone touchdown in a 7-6 overtime loss, Friday. The Blue Devils travel to Schuyler tomorrow.

Allen Loses Overtime Bout

The Allen Eagles had only one major problem in their season opening football game Friday. They couldn't push the ball across the goal line.

The Eagles won the statistics battle but Dan Looft's debut as head football coach was spoiled when Wynot prevailed on the scoreboard 8-0 in overtime.

Allen's defense was solid throughout regulation play and the Eagles held the hosts to only 91 total yards. Wynot was able to gain only eight yards with its rushing attack.

IN THE FIRST QUARTER, Allen ground out eight first downs compared to only a pair for Wynot. Wynot didn't do any better offensively in the second half but the Blue Devil defense held Allen to only one first down in the final two periods.

Allen threatened in the first half but failed to push the ball across the goal. Penalties and interceptions proved costly to the Eagles at key points in the game.

Two dropped touchdown passes, one in regulation and one in overtime ended separate Allen drives. The Eagles spent much of the second half stranded deep in their own territory.

"I was well satisfied with our defense," coach Dan Looft said. "We moved the ball real well in the first half but couldn't get it in. Our offense let down in the second half and Wynot toughened up."

AFTER COMPLETING regulation play in a scoreless tie, Allen won the coin toss. Because of their strong defensive showing, the Eagles elected to give Wynot first possession in the overtime period. The Blue Devils, taking possession at the Allen 10 yard line according to playoff rules—were handcuffed on their first three plays.

Then on fourth down from the six yard line, Gary Stralman made a diving catch of a Jerry Stralman pass to score the go ahead touchdown. The same combination worked to add the two point conversion.

Allen had an opportunity to tie the game but failed to score on four possessions at the Wynot 10 yard line. One touchdown pass was dropped and then Wynot intercepted on third down to end the game.

LEADING RUSHER for Allen was Bruce Malrom with 73 yards. Robb Linafelter completed 5 of 11 passes for 72 yards and Tony Harder made four receptions for 55 yards. Leading tacklers were Kevin Anderson, Dan Nice, Dennis Smith and Marty Mahler. Anderson recovered Wynot's only fumble.

The Eagles will be back on the road again tomorrow (Friday) when they face Wakefield in an inter-division Lewis and Clark Conference matchup.

Laurel Bears' Season Debut Turns into Long Night at Home

The final three quarters of Laurel's season opening football game turned into a disaster as tough Randolph pounded the locals 32-6 Friday night.

Laurel managed only two first downs and nine yards total offense. Randolph racked up 340 yards offense.

The Bears were right in the game by the end of the first quarter but things fell apart in the next three periods as Laurel wore down.

Brian Marquardt grabbed a tipped option pass and rambled 75 yards for a touchdown to tie the game at 6-6 in the first quarter. Randolph came back with five touchdowns to pull away from the locals.

"THEY'RE A BIG, strong football team," said Laurel coach Lynn Schuett. "They out-sized us and beat us physically. They're just plain big."

One of the keys to Randolph's success was the rushing performance of Andy Green who ran for 170 yards in the game.

Schuett said his team needs to work on execution but added that he is more optimistic after watching the game film and picking out several areas of execution which need work.

The Bears will face another good-sized team tomorrow (Friday) as they travel to Homer.

First Overtime Game

South Sioux Spoils Blue Devils' Opener by Inches

That's how close the Wayne Blue Devils came to turning back South Sioux City's winning rally in overtime, Friday night. Instead, Wayne was handed a disappointing 7-6 overtime setback in its home opener.

The generous ovation given by the Wayne crowd at the conclusion of Friday's game did little to mend the 40 or more broken hearts on the field.

After all, they say close only counts in horse shoes.

BUT, REGARDLESS of the score and the hurt it seemed to be a mental victory for the Blue Devils. The locals, who were riding a season long losing streak, entered the game as a heavy underdog according to Sioux City and Omaha sportswriters and sportscasters.

The Cardinals escaped with their lives. It will go down in the record books as a South Sioux victory but the hundreds of fans who watched the game will remember the hair-raising finish.

Records will show that the winning point was scored on a PAT kick by Troy McCreary. What the records won't show is that the kick was partially blocked and flopped two or three feet over the crossbar like a wounded duck.

Freshman Kevin Koenig deflected the kick with two fingers of his right hand. He was only inches from a clean block which would have surely stilled the ball's flight.

IT WASN'T a masterfully played ball game but both defenses were predominant. Regulation play ended in a scoreless tie.

Wayne had first possession in overtime. According to tie breaker rules which were adopted last year, the Blue Devils had four plays to score from the South Sioux 10 yard line.

On second down, Danny Frevert broke through the left side of the line and darted eight yards for the touchdown. His point after attempt was wide to the right and the hosts held a 6-0 lead.

South Sioux was then given its opportunity to tie the score or win the game according to the rules. The Cardinals ran two plays on the ground but couldn't penetrate Wayne's eight yard line.

Then on third down Troy McCreary broke free in the endzone and caught a touchdown pass to tie the score at 6-6. His deflected PAT gave South Sioux the win.

"WE PLAYED South Sioux to a standstill. We took the ball game to them," Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt said.

Ironically, South Sioux's only pass completion in the defensive battle was the touchdown pass in overtime.

Wayne rushed for 98 yards and passed for 21. South Sioux rushed for 167 yards and passed for 8. Wayne's defense seemed to get stronger late in the game and the offense collected four of its five first downs in the final two quarters.

The Cardinals were plagued by five fumbles and one interception. On the first South Sioux drive, Jim Sperry intercepted a pass in the endzone. On the next drive, Tim Heier recovered a fumble at the Wayne eight-yard line.

SOUTH SIOUX was again on the move when Dallas Hansen recovered a fumble at the Blue Devil 25 yard line. In the second quarter, Wayne's defense held South Sioux on downs at the 28. A Cardinal drive minutes later was stopped as Todd Schwartz recovered a fumble at the Wayne 26.

Schwartz recovered another fumble following a Wayne punt and the Devils gained good field position late in the first half. However, time ran out on the hosts.

In the second half, the Wayne defense took over where it left off. The Devils held on a fourth and five play at the Wayne 21 yard line. Minutes later, Wayne repeated its fourth down stand at the 41.

Shaun Niemann, who started at quarterback in the second half, passed to Terry Gilliland to move the hosts from the South Sioux 45 yard line down to the 27. Wayne's deepest drive was killed at the 10-yard line by an interception.

THE TWO TEAMS exchanged possession of the ball eight times in the final 10 minutes as neither team was able to sustain a threatening drive. Kevin Koenig recovered South Sioux's final fumble with 5'26 remaining.

The visitors regained the ball after blocking a Wayne punt but the hosts had the final opportunity of regulation when South Sioux was forced to punt. Jeff McCright rambled 27 yards late in the game but a South Sioux interception ran out the clock.

Niemann and Mark Hummel alternated at the quarterback position. Niemann completed 2 of 10 passes for 19 yards and had three passes picked off. He carried the ball five times for 24 yards. Hummel completed 1 of 3 passes for two yards with one interception. He carried the ball four times for 10 yards.

Gilliland had one reception for 18 yards and Frevert had two receptions. McCright was the team's leading rusher with 36 yards in three carries. Kurt Janke carried the ball nine times for 26 yards.

LEADING DEFENSIVE players were: Tim Heier with 10 solo tackles and seven assists; Eric Brink with six solos and nine assists; McCright with four solos and 10 assists; Koenig with five solos and seven assists; Mark Bofenkamp with 10 assists; Dallas Hansen with three solos and six assists; Mark Kubik with two solos and six assists; Hummel with two solos and five assists and Schwartz with seven assists.

Ehrhardt said that this year his defense changed its philosophy to an aggressive style of play from a reading-style of defense which was used last season. Offensively, the coach said the team made an adjustment at half time after running without much success in the first half.

When asked about Wayne's previously injured players, athletic trainer Jim Brown reported that Richard Poehman had broken his pinky finger, McCright had torn muscles. All three players were well on the road to recovery at the South Sioux game.

The schedule gets more difficult tomorrow (Friday) as the Blue Devils face Schuyler on the road. The Warriors are ranked ninth in Class B and are a member of Wayne's district. Ehrhardt said he feels his team is ready for the challenge.

Defensive Battle

Trojans Shutout Winside

Defense proved to be the deciding factor as the Wakefield Trojans topped rival Winside 14-0 in inter division play of the Lewis and Clark Conference Friday at Winside.

The Wakefield victory avenged a 1980 loss to last year's Class C2 third rated team. This year, Wakefield plays in the East Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference along with Laurel, Ponca, Emerson Hubbard and Homer while Winside plays in the West Division with Osmond, Wausa, Wynot and Hartington.

The Trojans scored one touchdown in each of the first two quarters and the defense didn't budge.

SOPHOMORE WAYNE GUY scored the first touchdown when he galloped 48 yards in the first quarter. Rod Nixon added the PAT. Guy, who racked up 76 yards in 7 carries, bruised his knee in the second period and sat out the second half.

The other Wakefield TD was scored in the second quarter when Mark Starzl completed a 40-yard pass play to Vaughn Nixon. Rod Nixon again added the PAT for a 14-0 halftime lead.

"We made a lot of mistakes but our defense did a good job. We had several opportunities to score but penalties hurt us and a pass interception in the end zone took away one opportunity," Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur said after the game. "Winside has some good kids and I think they will come along. They have a good group but just not enough."

Wilbur said that his offensive line blocked well at times but was given "fits" by Winside's defense at other times. "Defensively, I think we stopped them," said Wilbur.

THE WINNERS racked up 175 yards rushing and 67 yards through the air. Guy rushed for 76 yards and Jerry Roberts carried the ball 18 times for 75 yards. Starzl completed 3 of 11 passes for 67 yards. Receivers were Vaughn Nixon with two receptions for 50 yards and Jerry Roberts with one catch for 17 yards.

Winside managed 52 yards on the ground and only 14 yards through the air. John Hawkins led his team in rushing with 18 carries for 53 yards. Doug Jaeger was the leading receiver with one catch for 13 yards. Jim Krajcick had Winside's lone football recovery.

The Trojan defense held the hosts to only one yard rushing in the fourth quarter.

Leading tacklers were Starzl with seven solos, one assist and two tackles for 18 yards in losses; Jerry Roberts with four solos; Dirk Carlson and Doug Verplank with three tackles each; Vaughn Nixon with two tackles, one assist and two blocked passes; Roger Echtenkamp with two solos and one blocked pass; Rod Nison, Mark Borg and Dirk Carlson with one interception apiece and Dale Gray with a fumble recovery.

Leading defensive player for Winside was Barry Bowers with 18 tackles.

Wakefield is scheduled to host Allen tomorrow (Friday) while Winside travels to Osmond.

Experience Could Be a Factor As Wildcats Prepare for Chadron

By Kent Probst
Wayne State SID

Experience just may be the key to Saturday's Wayne State-Chadron State football game that opens the Wildcats' 1981 season. The "experience factor," however, gives a little advantage to both teams.

In terms of veterans, the Wildcats hold the edge. On the other hand, Chadron State's Eagles already have a game under their belts.

The Eagles dropped a 10-6 decision to South Dakota Tech, ranked 14th in pre-season NAIA Division II polls. Wayne State head coach Del Stollenberg was in attendance, and noted that "It was a hard game to evaluate."

THE CHADRON OFFENSE sputtered, netting just 172 yards total offense. However, as Stollenberg pointed out, "In the first game you expect a certain amount of mistakes, and you expect the defense to dominate." The Eagles were facing a Tech defense that had seven starters back from last year's fourth-best defense nationally (NAIA).

Chadron State was held to just 58 rushing yards on 36 carries, but that included four quarterback sacks for losses totalling 49 yards. Eagle fullback Willy Long, who gained more than 800 yards last season, was injured after carrying the ball five times for six yards, and is questionable for this Saturday's game. Tony Smith, who carried nine times for 43 yards against Tech, was also hurt and his playing status is questionable.

Chadron got a fine effort from its defensive unit despite the fact it spent much of the day on the field. End Dennis Hengen fopped the Eagle tackle charts with 16, while end Brad Voychek forced a Tech fumble that he recovered for Chadron's only touchdown. Voychek added 14 tackles.

Tech got 67 of its 283 total yards on the winning drive in the fourth quarter, climaxed by a nine-yard scoring pass.

WAYNE STATE, 14-9 winners last season, are "at the point where we need a game," Stollenberg said. He proclaimed the Wildcats in good shape in terms of injuries, with only center Keith Bryant expected to miss the game.

Bryant, a sophomore from Malvern, Iowa, suffered a broken leg in a recent scrimmage and is feared lost for the season. He will be replaced in the starting lineup by freshman Brian Wilson, a 6-3, 230-pounder from Bellevue.

The Wildcats will go with a starting backfield of Kelly Neustrom (Movilla, Iowa senior) at quarterback, Tony Marinelli (Medfield, Mass. junior) at fullback, and Jeff Sauter (Randolph sophomore) at fullback.

Veteran standouts Pat Maxwell (senior wingback from Tekamah) and Ed Blackburn (senior tightend from Malvern, Iowa) give Wayne State a pair of fast and durable receivers. Pender senior Steve Martin and Wakefield sophomore Scott Halstrom will alternate at split end.

Wilson Leads Trojans Past Winside Devils Place 2nd at Beemer

Senior spiker Rita Wilson put on a fine volleyball demonstration to lead the Wakefield Trojans to a 15-6, 15-4 opening season triumph over Winside, Thursday night.

Wilson was the sparkplug of the Wakefield team which had 36 good serves in 39 attempts for 92 percent efficiency.

"We played super. We didn't let anything hit the floor," Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder said following the game. "The girls served well and Rita did a good job."

Allen Eagles Claim Title In Play at Pender Tourney

If a season opening tournament is any indication of the forthcoming success of a volleyball team, 1981 could be a very good year for Allen.

The Eagles opened their season by winning the team championship of the Pender Invitational this past weekend.

Allen opened tourney play by defeating West Point Central Catholic 11-15, 15-6, 15-7. Leading server was Beth Stalling and leading spiker was Janet Peterson with eight aces.

In second round action, the Eagles topped Laurel 15-6, 15-9. Carmin Lubberstedt and Beth Stalling led the winners in the serving department. Leading spikers were Janet Peterson with five aces and Nancy Olsufka

THE TROJANS were led in scoring by Christy Hingst with 11 points in the two games. Susan Baker scored five points and Trudy Hansen added four. Winside's leading scorer was Patti Langenberg with three points.

Winside coach Paul Sok was impressed with Wilson's performance but still pleased with his team. "We had a lot of good serves but Wilson picked them up. The girls played a good, balanced game but the score didn't show it. We had a few little mistakes," said Sok.

Wakefield played at Emerson Tuesday and Winside will play at Osmond tomorrow (Friday). Both Winside and Wakefield will compete in the Winside Tournament scheduled Monday and Tuesday.

In the B game, Wakefield prevailed 11-8 and 11-2. Lana Erb scored 11 points and Michele Meyer added five for the winners. Host Winside won the C match 12-10, 11-8 to complete the evening's competition. Leading scorers for the winners were Missy Jensen with 13 points, Tammy Brudigan with 7 and Susie Peterson with 4. Wakefield was led by Roni Starzl with 7 points and Tracy Swigart with 6.

A fine effort carried the Wayne volleyball team to a second place finish in the Beemer Invitational Tournament this past weekend.

The Blue Devils clubbed Macy 15-6, 15-2 and dropped host Beemer 15-5, 10-15, 15-8 before losing in the finals 15-6, 3-15, 15-17 to Fremont Bergan.

The locals led 8-4 and 14-10 in the final game of the championship match but couldn't score the winning point.

Against Bergan, Deb Prenger was the leading server with nine points and one ace. Missy Stoltenberg was the leader at the net with five spikes, three of which were aces. Jill Zeiss had 39 sets to lead in that department.

Wayne's downfall in the tournament was its serving efficiency of only 79 percent.

IN THE WIN over Beemer, Sandy Uecht scored 11 service points while hitting 100 percent of her serves. Three of her points were aces. Missy Stoltenberg had four spikes for aces and Tamie Murray had 18 sets.

The win over Macy was an easy one for the Devils. Tamie Murray scored 11 service points with 7 aces. Jill Zeiss served with 100 percent efficiency and was the team's leading setter. Missy Stoltenberg had three spikes and two were aces.

"I thought we played good ball," said Wayne coach Mavis Dalton. "We have a young team and I think Bergan was probably a more mature team."

Laurel Girls Third at Pender

Last year's record was already bettered as the Laurel volleyball squad placed third in the Pender Tournament this past weekend.

The Bears, who won only one match last season, defeated two of three opponents in the season opening tournament.

Laurel dumped Homer 15-7, 15-9 in the opening match. Jayne Reynolds led the team with seven service points. The winners hit 92 percent of their serves.

On Saturday, Laurel lost 7-15, 9-15 to eventual champion Allen. Cyndi Jonas scored five service points. "We were more or less intimidated by them," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said.

IN THE CONSOLATION finals, the Bears edged host Pender 15-10, 15-11. Jayne Reynolds led the winners with 10 service points.

"We played much better. We had better setting and came together as a team," Iverson stated. "We had about 90 percent efficiency in our serving and that was the key to our success. It was nice to win some matches early. I was pleased with our performance."

Iverson said he felt Allen was an "awfully good team that is a head above the others." "I was pleased with our serving and serve receptions. We need to work on a few other areas of our game."

Waasa Trips Laurel
Fresh off a third place finish in the Pender Tournament, Laurel ran into Waasa and came out on the short end of a 2-15, 15-8, 13-15 decision, Tuesday night.

Laurel led throughout most of the third set and the score was tied 13-13 but the Bears twice failed to score on their serve.

Cyndi Jonas scored 15 service points while playing an "excellent game" for Laurel. Renee Gadenken had a good spiking game and led the locals with six ace spikes.

"Waasa is much improved from last year. They have a real good team and they caught us off guard," Iverson said.

In-B team action, Laurel won 15-4, 15-13. Carol Osborne played a "real good game" according to Iverson. Jean Lute scored seven key points late in the match.

Laurel also won the C match, 15-10, 16-14. Lynn Malchow served 15 consecutive service points to mow down Waasa in the first game.

The Bears will host Wayne tonight (Thursday) and are then scheduled to compete in the Winside Tournament on Monday and Tuesday.

Wakefield Loses Match To Emerson

Some weak hitting led to Wakefield's downfall in a volleyball match with Emerson-Hubbard, Tuesday night. Emerson won the varsity match 15-10, 15-9.

Trudy Hansen made 12 good serves in 12 attempts and Renee Wondstrand was nine for nine to lead the Trojans. Rita Wilson had two ace spikes.

"We didn't hit well. We had a real off night but I think we'll be ready for the Winside Tournament (Monday and Tuesday). We learned a lot in the Emerson match. We learned that we must be ready," Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder said.

Emerson also won the B match 0-15, 15-5, 15-12. The highlight of the match was when Lana Erb served 14 consecutive points in the first game. She finished the match with 20 good serves in 20 attempts.

Wakefield lost the C match 14-16, 10-15. Next action for the Trojans is scheduled Monday and Tuesday in the Winside Tournament.

Schuyler Downs Devils

Hosting Schuyler in volleyball proved to be about as enjoyable as having a tooth pulled as far as the Wayne Blue Devils were concerned.

The visiting Warriors appeared greedy as they swept Wayne in the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen matches, Tuesday night in the Wayne High gym.

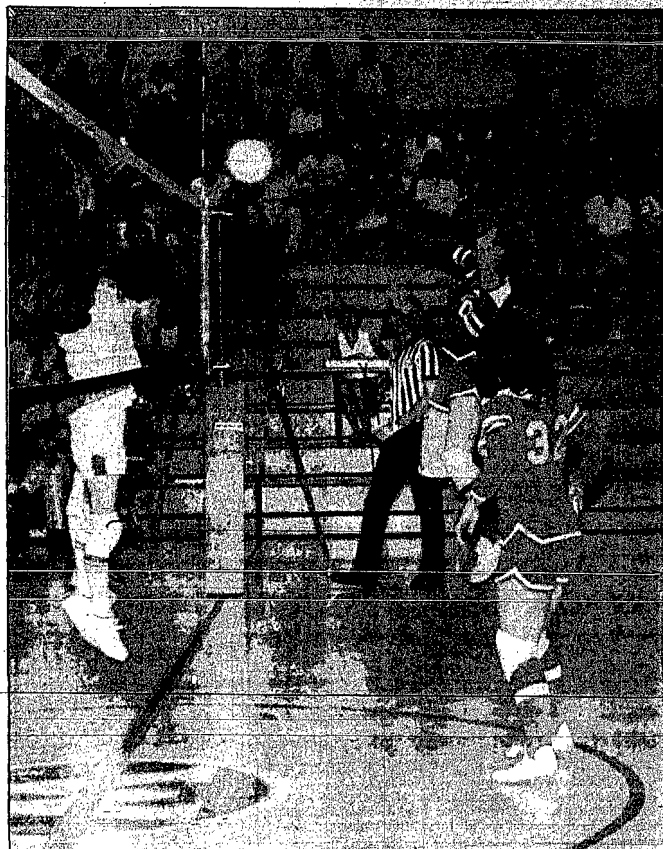

The invaders defeated Wayne 15-5, 15-7 in the varsity matchup. Missy Stoltenberg had a fine performance in the losing effort. She made 16 spikes including 8 aces and blocked two spikes to lead the Devils at the net.

Jill Zeiss was the leading scorer with five service points and led the team with 20 sets.

SERVING WAS again the team's downfall. The Blue Devils hit only 75 percent of their serves in the contest.

"We need to hit 90 percent of our serves or better. Our serving hurt a bunch," Wayne coach Mavis Dalton said after the game. "We play so well for spurts and then suddenly we die and can't get going again. Lack of experience may be the cause." A combination of Zeiss sets and Stoltenberg spikes in the second game against Schuyler kept the Blue Devils in the match. Stoltenberg put on a spiking demonstration at times by drilling set after set between Schuyler defenders.

However, Wayne had trouble getting its serves in and more trouble scoring on the good serves. The score was tied 11-6 for a long period of time and then at 11-7 before Schuyler strung together enough points to triumph.

THE VISITORS also won the junior varsity and freshmen matches in two games each. The reserve scores were 15-3 and 15-2. Schuyler's freshmen, after competing two years in a junior high program, outplayed Wayne 15-1 and 15-7. The hosts were led by the all-around effort of Kolette Frevert and the serving of Kathy Swanson who scored four points.

Next action for Wayne is scheduled tonight (Thursday) at Laurel.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

THE TIE-BREAKER RULE for tie football games was set up by the Nebraska School Activities Association last year. Yet, I witnessed my first high school overtime game Friday night when Wayne was nipped by South Sioux.

If I could have been in two places at one time, I would have seen two of the teams in our coverage area compete in overtime play. Unfortunately, both lost. The Allen Eagles were trimmed 8-0 by Wynot in another overtime contest Friday.

I happened to be familiar with the tie-breaker rule because I had read about it when it was first initiated. However, I learned at Friday's Wayne-South Sioux game that many of the fans were not familiar with the rule and how it works.

So, as soon as I get my hands on an actual copy of the rule, I plan to reprint it in the sports section for football fans to read.

I feel that the tie-breaker rule is a good one. In past years, games had ended in ties and the chances of one or both of those teams making the playoffs was hindered. High school football teams usually play only nine regular season games a year. Nothing is settled when two teams battle to a standstill. I think most coaches will agree.

THE QUALITY of baseball played in Nebraska was demonstrated by the Nebraska Federal Legion baseball team which competed in the national tournament last week.

The Omahans were one of the best teams in the country and possibly the best, despite losing twice in national play.

They were rarely challenged during regular season play in Nebraska but had to struggle a little to win the state Legion title. In fact, they had less trouble winning the regional tournament.

I have been following Legion baseball for a relatively short time in terms of the number of years it has been organized.

I saw Nebraska Federal play Wayne in the Chuck Ellis Memorial Tournament earlier this summer (a 15-1 decision) and had a chance to watch Omaha Creighton Prep (the same team during high school season) play in the state tournament each of the past two years.

They are, without a doubt, the best Legion baseball team I have ever seen. They have such balance and have no weaknesses that I can see.

Several players will be playing major college baseball including pitcher-outfielder Tim Danze who has a scholarship to Missouri University Jeff Koenigsman will be pitching for Nebraska. Other star players are Joe Evans, Ed Dineen, Chris Benak and Bill McGuire.

I MUST CONFESS that volleyball is one of my favorite sports. Sure, I like to watch just about any sport and some of my favorites are football, wrestling and baseball in which girls don't compete.

But girls are one up in volleyball. Boys don't have an opportunity to compete in the sport except in physical education classes, intramurals and recreation leagues. As far as I'm concerned, they're missing out on a fun and worthwhile sport.

It takes lots of skill to build a strong volleyball team. Players don't just tap the ball back and forth across the net until someone messes up. Good volleyball takes talent, teamwork and good timing.

It's fun to watch two good teams in action. In a matter of just seconds, a fan can see considerable action in a good ball game.

A defensive player dives to the floor to save a hard spike. Then, one of her five teammates takes over by setting the ball up in the air near the net. A front line spiker then takes a mighty jump and pounds the ball to the floor.

Watching an uneven match between a couple of weaker teams can be just as boring as watching your football team get pounded 56-0. But, watching a close, well-played match between two fine teams can be just as fun as watching your football team win 29-28.

THE SECOND GUESSERS Club is meeting again now that the school year has begun. Anyone who is interested in joining the Wayne State and Wayne High athletic booster group is invited to attend one of its weekly meetings at 12 noon any Thursday in the Black Knight.

The Second Guessers have a good time and each week listen to the latest coaches reports. Stop by some time.

Weekend's Race Results

The racing season came to a close Friday at Norfolk's Riveria Raceway with Mike Benson of Wakefield finishing 14th in the standings. He placed sixth in the season championship A feature. On Sunday night, Benson placed fifth in the A feature at Interstate Speedway in Jefferson, S.D. He ranks fourth in the season standings there. Benson finished fifth in his heat and third in the A feature at Monday's races in Jefferson.

Lady Wildcats Open Season with Win

The Wayne State College volleyball season opened in style as the Lady Wildcats defeated Northeast Tech 15-9, 15-7, 9-15, 16-14 in a best-of-seven match.

Tuesday night at Norfolk, the Lady Cats were led by 5-9 junior Lois Kaminski with 20 points including 8 aces. Mary Becker, a 5-8 freshman from Norfolk, led the spikers with six down spikes. Junior Annette Reiman, a 5-5 setter, had 18 assists and scored 10 points.

Wayne State won the first two sets handily but Northeast Tech rallied to win the third. In the fourth game, Wayne regained its momentum to take a 13-10 lead. Tech rallied for four straight points and a 14-13 advantage. However, the Lady Cats managed the next three points to claim the set and match.

Linda Prchal also played well for the Lady Cats. Numerous players, including several freshmen, saw action in the match.

Wayne State must now prepare to play major college opponents in the Kansas State Invitational tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday.

$1,000 Grand Give-A-Way Thursday

Wayne's Grand Give-A-Way contest returns to the $1,000 bonus bucks grand slam Thursday night after three area residents lost out on $350 each last week.

Stan Walde of Rural Winslow, Elden Lubberstedt of Rural Wayne and Deloy Benne of Wakefield failed to claim their $350 bonus bucks prizes last Thursday.

In this Thursday night's (Sept. 10) contest, however, only one name will be called in participating stores.

Both contests, the tripleheader and the grand slam alternate on Thursday nights.

The winners of this Thursday's grand slam must be in a participating store to claim the bonus bucks. All winners must claim the prize money within one minute after their name is announced.

AS BEFORE, spouses can claim the prize on behalf of the winner.

The new tripleheader twist alternates prizes, giving Wayne shoppers three chances at $350 each one week and a single shot at the $1,000 bonus bucks grand slam the next.

In the tripleheader, three names are announced at the 15-minute intervals regardless of a win or a loss on the first or second try. One name is announced in the grand slam.

OPEN HOUSE

SUNDAY 1 TO 5

YOU CAN EARN MORE THAN 15% on your money when you buy a home! It's true — homes have gone up an average of 15% per year in the last 5 years! And unlike interest, gains on real estate is deferred and taxed at the capital gains rate. And you can buy a Sunrise Townhouse Condo at last year's prices. But don't wait! Builders and developers must pay interest too, and the prices must go up! Yes, you can actually save by buying now when interest rates are high and construction costs are low. And you own a Sunrise Townhouse just like any home or real estate, except:

- You save on the purchase price because construction costs are lower.
- You don't worry about maintenance and insurance.
- You don't worry about snow and lawn service.
- The exterior real estate is owned jointly by all owners.
- You are always a member of the Homeowners' association.
- Condos have a better tax advantage for those that need every deduction you can get.

Each 1180 sq. foot Townhouse has oak cabinets and trim, dishwasher, main floor laundry, private patio, central air, gas heat, a complete energy efficient insulation package, and are situated on the highest hill in Wayne, next to the college and hospital. The Marywood subdivision is a prestigious place to live, and an "easy to sell someday" type of location that will protect your investment for years to come.

So don't put your money in the bank and pay taxes on the interest. You not only defer the tax on real estate appreciation, you only pay at the capital gains rates (about 30% of the regular rate).

PLUS, THERE'S a special bonus offer for those who buy a 190-year subscription or extend their current subscription for two years.

Those readers will have the same opportunity for the free 8x10 color photograph — to be taken by Blake Studios of Wayne — plus a $4.58 discount on the regular two-year subscription price of $25.58.

That means, during September, you can sign up for two years of The Wayne Herald — more than 200 issues — for $21. For a two-year subscriber, the type Portland cement paving," Kloster said.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS and those renewing their subscriptions will get a gift certificate at The Wayne Herald for a free 8x10 studio color photograph setting at Blake Studio.

He said, under the recommendation, the east side of the road would be urban with curb and gutter, while the west side could be the rural type without curb and gutter.

"Because of the current oil prices, the concrete paving would be just as cheap and a lot more economical to maintain," Kloster continued.

Before ending his report on the proposed subdivision, Kloster reminded the City Council that if it changed, modified or reduced the requirements "you may well be setting a new precedence" that would govern other new subdivisions.

"THESE RECOMMENDATIONS have been based on the current subdivision plan and could change with any appreciable change in the layout of this subdivision," Kloster said.

"Because this is all new, I'd like to study it," Corvett responded. "It's nice to have it all spelled out."

Councilman Gary Vopalensky said, "We need to nurture and atmosphere of growth but we have to be careful, any growth should be a good growth that we can support with our services."

Referring to the option of Corvett redesigning the proposed project, Vopalensky said the alternatives "should not be precedent setting."

CORYELL, obviously concerned by the city's response to his questions and the months of delay on the project, said, "Time has brought many changes (to the project requirements), we can give it more study. It seems to be getting worse all the time. These things were never mentioned by the (City) Planning Commission."

Corvett's proposal was before the Planning Commission during a late spring meeting. The drainage problem, but not the road paving, was discussed and the panel approved the plan.

However, approval was subject to a workable drainage proposal expected to be hammered out among the three parties involved: the city, the county and the developer.

Before leaving the meeting, Corvett asked if he could sit down with "a member or two" from the Council to discuss alternatives.

Mayor Wayne Marsh said he felt that was possible.

CITY ENGINEERS have asked for a 21 inch starter drainage pipe that would dump into an 18 inch carrier after the Hunters Knoll grade drops steeply near the fairgrounds.

After a discussion on whether or not to put the Council's stamp of approval on Kloster's staff report to Corvett, the vote showed a Vopalensky abstention.

Vopalensky had argued that, since the report only reflected city ordinances and subdivision regulations already on the books, the vote was unnecessary.

"It's a memo, an administrative report, and I see no reason to have a vote," he said.

However, Bob Enz, legal counsel for the city, said a vote would affirm the Council's answer to Corvett and "give him a direction."

IN OTHER action, the Council approved an ordinance that establishes a performance bond relationship with contractors doing excavation work within city limits.

The ordinance, patterned after a similar law adopted by the City of Seward, drops all other excavation fees.

Kloster said that the digging permits, issued by the city, would have to be modified to reflect the new excavation ordinance.

Before adjourning, the Council heard Vernon Russell, owner and operator of Wayne Refuse Service ask for "some assurance" that city transfer station rates would remain constant for the year.

Council members gave Russell verbal assurance that no arbitrary changes would be made in the fee schedule "unless something unforeseen" happens.

RUSSELL said that without a fixed yearly rate, he could not offer his customers a year-long contract for his services.

Russell's concern came during the last meeting in August, when Kloster reviewed the financial performance of the transfer station.

Vopalensky, at that time, asked that the transfer station report be placed on Tuesday night's agenda to give him time to study the figures.

Kloster said the report was informational and that he had no recommendations for a fee adjustment.

Russell, acknowledging that the Council had to allow for the possibility of rate increase passed along to the city by contract haulers, said he was satisfied with the verbal assurance

College-Credit Test Wednesday

A program that enables people to earn college credits by examination will be offered Sept. 16 at Wayne State College.

The College Level Examination Program (CLEP) offers the opportunity to save time and money in pursuing a college education. Students wishing to participate must register on or before Sept. 14.

ANYONE can take CLEP exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions. To receive college credit at WSC, students must either by currently enrolled or have met WSC admission requirements.

Students can get a good overview of the areas they select to take a CLEP exam on by studying a related textbook, which can often be found in local public and college libraries.

Credit received for CLEP is entered on a student's record without a grade, thereby not affecting grade point averages. There is no official record entered if the CLEP exam is failed, and students can re-take the same exam again provided ap propriate fees are paid. Wayne State places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP and taken before the senior year.

EACH CLEP exam usually takes about 90 minutes to complete. The fee for general and subject examinations is $22 per exam. Scores are reported to the student and the college four to eight weeks after the test date.

For more information contact the WSC Student Services Office, (402) 375-2200 ext. 213.

for a cooperative effort to provide developmental and residential services.

However, the board's approval was conditional. The resolution approving the contract for day program services asked that the contract be renegotiated to include a termination, or renegotiation date.

Also, the board requested that a daily time schedule be included in the agreement with Region IV, since both parties are sharing responsibility for the program at the Region IV Services Center in Wayne.

The program started a week ago Tuesday morning after more than six months of negotiation with the Region IV staff, according to ESU's Duane Tappe, who presented a progress report to the board on the cooperative venture.

BOARD MEMBERS also discussed bid specification for ESU delivery services planned for the current school year.

The delivery service, which primarily involves educational films and equipment offered to participating school districts, is being bid.

Board members discussed redrafting the specifications on the delivery service so that they reflected the task rather than any specified route.

Several board members said they felt the bid specifications, which require the delivery contractor to begin two weekly routes through the district from Wakefield, unnecessarily limited the scope and increased the cost of the proposed program.

Mills was asked to redo the specifications. The routes, a western trip and an eastern trip through the ESU district, involve nearly 500 total miles and nearly 40 stops at schools throughout the district.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, the board denied a request from ESU staff members for financial assistance to attend both the state and national conventions.

After some discussion, the board voted to underwrite convention attendance costs for personnel — directors and board members — as earmarked in the current budget.

Mills also told the board that ESU would soon be billing the schools on a once a month basis for services provided under contract.

He said he might go to 2 month billing intervals. He said the more frequently billing schedule was necessary to maintain an adequate cash flow through the ESU system.

AND, AN end of the meeting request was made by board member Claire Hansen.

He asked Mills to present the board with a full report on an approved resolution that may contravene board policy.

Though it was not referred to publicly during the meeting, the possible conflict involves a board policy of employing relatives of ESU staff members.

Board treasurer John Portwood of Wakefield and his wife Marjorie, both work for ESU One.

Q. A friend just put a sizeable amount of money in a money market fund located in New York. Can you give me a good reason not to do the same?
A. Yes, I can give you one but several good reasons for investing your money here rather than with some company in New York. The first reason — when you put your money into a six-month certificate you are earning interest comparable to most money market funds. But, as important, you know the investment is secure. Both your principle and interest are insured through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Another reason — when your money is invested in savings here rather than in New York, it works not only for you but for the entire community. It may help a neighbor build an addition to his house to make room for the new baby. Part may help a new business in town get its doors open. A farmer may get the increased fertilizer application he needs for a critical growing time. All these examples are important to you since increased business activity by others helps increase everyone's business — including yours. It's being a good neighbor and a good businessman with an eye on the future.

Nebraska PSC Starts State's Rights Fight with FCC

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Sometimes taxpayers feel like they have little input into what happens to their state taxes, and even less input into what happens to their federal taxes.

People also feel detached when they are flooded with rules and regulations handed down from all levels of government. The dragon, they might argue, is just too big to slay, so why bother?

Well, the Nebraska Public Service Commission has decided to bother. In some respects, the PSC might be likened to the people in the movie "Network" who were "fed up to here" with it all and shouted out the window that they were madder than you know what and weren't going to take it any more.

SOME PSC members, especially Duane Gay of Columbus, are among those who are standing up to be counted. Gay is leading state resistance to the Federal Communications Commission's deregulation of the telephone industry.

Gay and his colleagues on the PSC recently stood up to the FCC in a rather big way. The PSC told Nebraska telephone companies to ignore an important FCC order. That order, which PSC members believe would lead to much higher telephone installation and interior wiring.

Gay is probably on target when he says a court test is likely. The PSC directive, after all, places telephone companies in the middle — between state and federal powers.

The PSC's bold stance raises some interesting questions about which agency — federal or state — can do what. The PSC believes its authority over intrastate rates is violated by the FCC order. Commissioners appear determined to preserve their authority and prevent the feds from sapping more of their strength and playing in their domain.

IT CAN ALSO be argued, and has been, that the federal agency's powers are superior to the state agency's authority.

Gay and similar-minded PSC members say they are most concerned about what will happen in the long run. Their crystal ball shows telephone connection might be too costly for some people.

Even if a court battle ensues to settle this conflict between state and federal regulation, it's probably a good thing somebody raised the issues and the concerns now being expressed by the PSC.

Whether the PSC is strong enough or convincing enough to stay the federal dragon is immaterial. But it is refreshing to see someone stand up and say they're not going to take it any more.

DUANE GAY and like minded commissioners at the PSC could have grumbled, complained and made some headlines. Instead, for better or worse, they decided to direct companies under their watchful eye to ignore the FCC order.

Even if the dragon is too big to slay, or if it deserves to live, at least Gay and company can say they didn't accept the FCC order without considering its ramifications and looking out for us little guys. No, they stood up and said they were madder than heck and weren't going to take it any more.

ODD JOBS—Although this is only September of 1981, election talk and campaign rhetoric are already getting thick in the smog-free Nebraska air.

Lincoln reporters, of course, usually hear first and most about age campaigns. But that doesn't prevent the public from finding out about races in other parts of the state.

What happened in Lincoln recently is a good example of what does and can happen statewide as an election approaches.

Take the case of Sen. Don Wesely of Lincoln who announced he would be working part-time at a bank, gas stations and a grocery store. His aim, he said, was to supplement his income (legislators make $400 a month) and find out what's on his constituents' minds. Insight into the professions he will be working with, also is one of his goals.

HE MADE a point of saying his new jobs, announced during a news conference, were not part of PR campaign. He also said he was undecided about seeking re-election in 1982.

Well, the co-chairman of the Lancaster County Republicans quickly jumped on the bandwagon, implying Wesely's job plans were purely political.

"Instead of play-acting at a series of jobs, Sen. Don Wesely should get the experience of holding a real full-time job for the first time in his life," said co-chairman Eleanor Gibson.

Okay. So maybe it was a campaign ploy.

Perhaps it's a move to gauge support for a possible 1982 re-election bid. Those issues are something Wesely, a Democrat, must discuss with his Republican critics.

BUT WESELY really shouldn't be criticized for not "holding a real full-time job for the first time in his life." He already has one, even if it pays $400 a month. He's a state senator, and a young one at that. He's 27, and should be commended for serving the public.

After all, people usually complain state senators are too old and serve only after they are wealthy enough to be a low-paid senator.

If the GOP wants to contend Wesely's jobs are only his way of rounding up support, that's fine. But to accuse him of play-acting and never holding a full-time job is a little off base. Lawmaking isn't easy, so Wesely works hard and seems to take his job seriously.

The House Next Door

Being a good neighbor means many different things to many different people. However, there is a seriousness to it that can carry well beyond the backyard barbecue get together.

That seriousness strikes a solid blow against crime, particularly as a deterrent to burglars. Unfortunately, recent burglaries at three Wayne homes offer a grim reminder of how quickly criminals can strike.

In two cases, the city residents whose homes were burglarized were only away for a few hours. The third victim was away on vacation when the burglars struck.

They all returned as the innocent, hapless victims of crimes committed in their absence. And, despite their losses, which were substantial, they were not the only residents affected by the crime.

The shock of a crime often sweeps through a neighborhood. And, that shock wave often snaps neighbors into realizing that they, too, could have been the innocent, hapless victims. And, in a small, rural town such as Wayne, that feeling — the helpless feeling of being a target for crime — soon comes over each and every resident.

That common feeling, though it stems from unfortunate circumstances, can be harnessed into a positive approach to a good neighbor policy that can work as a deterrent to crime.

The good neighbor policy, in practice, simply means residents need to secure their own homes — not only to protect themselves, but also to avoid turning a would-be burglar into any neighborhood.

Furthermore, as good neighbors, residents need to offer each other help. That help can come in the form of an extra check on the house next door when the owner or occupant is gone.

It also involves a willingness to call police when anything suspicious is afoot.

Now, no one is suggesting that a good neighbor policy is going to eliminate crime. Nor is anyone suggesting that the recent burglary victims were without good neighbors.

No, that's not true. Nor is that the point.

The point is that any increased attention given to the protection of life and property should help secure a neighborhood against burglars, or any other criminals.

And, that should not only be a welcome feeling among good neighbors, but also should stand as a neighborhood warning against any would be criminal.

It's a shared will protection that shakes criminals.

It's Monetary Madness

Historically, lending money has been a money making proposition. True, inflation and high interest rates today have created special problems for thrift institutions. But they do not set out deliberately to lose money.

Only Uncle Sam starts with that premise — borrowing at high rates to lend out at lower rates to support a variety of social and other programs.

According to an analysis by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the proliferation of federal lending activities is costing taxpayers billions of dollars to subsidize loans and loan guarantees.

Recent news reports indicate that the federal government pays commercial banks and state lending agencies a record 17 percent in interest on loans to college students. The government pays the full interest while the students are in school. Afterward, the students repay loans at 7 percent or 3 percent, depending on the type.

Dr. Ronald D. Uhl, associate chief economist for the U.S. Chamber, points out these lending programs — involving $170.4 billion in new direct loans and guarantees in 1981 — have become a severe drain not only on our budget resources but also on the nation's credit markets, where consumers, homebuyers and businesses must compete with the federal government's borrowing activities.

To illustrate the scope of these lending activities, which the public really knows little about, Dr. Uhl points out: "Whereas budget outlays increased by 78 percent over the period 1975 to 1978, outstanding government direct loans and loan guarantees increased by 96 percent."

Rapid growth of these programs is easy to understand.

"During 1980, when most Americans were paying double digit interest rates on their borrowings and the prime interest rate averaged 17 percent, borrowers eligible for federal programs were paying rates as low as 2.8 percent," Dr. Uhl reported.

Fortunately, the Reagan administration has taken steps to effect a reduction in how fast these programs have been growing. But as the U.S. Chamber analysis suggests, the government's role as a lender requires definitive study. Not even the government can afford endlessly to engage in money losing ventures that compete with business and consumers for increasingly scarce credit.

More Local Control A Plus Nebraska's Teachers Tops

"As we start another school year, I'm convinced that Nebraska teachers are doing a better job than ever in stimulating young minds and making students eager for knowledge."

I'm in agreement with Dr. Anne Campbell, commissioner of the Nebraska Department of Education, who denies a national claim that there's been a long and continuing decline in the quality of American education.

governor charley thone

COMMISSIONER Campbell brings credit to Nebraska as one of 18 people chosen to serve on the National Commission on the Excellence of Education. She points out, quite correctly, I believe, that recent declines in elementary enrollment have ended the era when school boards' prime concern was whether they would have the staff, space and equipment to accommodate incoming students. Now, boards and administrators have more time and resources to use in trying to improve the quality of education.

The most important key to a well educated person is development of a thirst for knowledge. Our colleges are today graduating teachers who know more than their predecessors about how to stimulate curiosity and aid students in becoming motivated to learn.

Largely because of television, children are entering school with much more knowledge than older generations. Television, calculators and computers are proving to be tremendously powerful tools to aid good teachers in exciting youngsters about learning.

MANY OF the problems with schools in the past 20 years have been in the larger cities. In Nebraska's largest city, Omaha, there's good news in its school system. In each of the past three years, Omaha students have improved in comparison with those throughout America in scores testing skills in basics such as reading, spelling, language and mathematics.

To continue making improvements in the quality of education, we must make certain that we don't put so many demands on schools to carry out ancillary duties that they can't do well the task of providing a good basic education.

We are going to have fewer controls on education from the federal government. We're going to restore more responsibility to local school districts. Nebraskans realize that their people — and especially their minds and spirits — are the state's most valuable assets. Nebraskans will continue to regard a good education as an excellent investment."

Small-Unit Production Of Alcohol Costs High

By M. M. Van Kirk
Nebraska Farm Bureau

It is not yet economically feasible, with current technology, for farmers to produce alcohol fuel in small-scale distilleries on their farms. According to data from the operation of just such a distillery at the FS Livestock Feed Research Center at Lexington, Ill., since July 25, 1980.

GROWMARK, Inc. installed the unit to provide answers about on-farm production of alcohol for its farmer owners. Using a recipe which includes 14 bushels of ground corn, a 32-35 gallon batch of 180-proof alcohol can be produced daily. Each batch provides 3,300 pounds of wet stillage by-product in addition to the alcohol.

The alcohol must be used in vehicles modified to utilize 180 proof alcohol, since it is impractical to produce 200 proof alcohol for gasoline in a small-scale distillery. Alcohol from the GROWMARK unit is being used to power a pickup truck at the FS Research Center. It is also being used in Aquahol injectors on diesel tractors at the Center.

GRQWMARK research indicates the stillage by product can be used successfully to replace a portion of the supplemental protein in cattle feeding rations. Tests over a 140 day feeding period showed cattle receiving stillage containing stillage consumed 2 percent less feed per pound of gain than their counterparts on a traditional silage ration.

Although cattle do well on a diet including stillage, its physical handling characteristics (about 95 percent water) cause problems if comes out of the distillery at near the boiling point, and in the summer it can be stored for only a few days before it begins to spoil.

"When more efficient distilleries are developed and technology decreases problems in handling stillage, it may become economically feasible in the future to produce alcohol in small scale on-farm units," the report concludes in a printed form used to reply to the great number of requests for information about the test project.

The brochure includes a detailed breakdown of costs in operating the small unit distillery. These costs show an initial investment of $50,000 which includes a $17,000 building, $16,000 for distillery equipment (three tanks, columns and controls); an auger wagon for weighing and loading corn, $4,000; and processing equipment (includes storage tanks, plumbing, septic system) at $13,000.

COST INPUTS include labor at $5 per hour, seven hours per day, at four days per week; ground corn at $2.50 per bushel; depreciation costs figured at five years on the still and 10 years on the building; energy costs at $14.52 per bushel; and enzymes, yeast, lime and acid at $6.64 per bushel. The plant produces 2.3 gallons per bushel of ground corn or a total of 32 gallons per bushel.

On a production of 5,000 gallons per year, the cost per gallon, less credits was figured at $5.51 per gallon. On a production of 7,500 gallons per year, the cost per gallon was figured at $4.45.

The researchers figured the costs also without the building. In case a farmer used an existing building, and on only four hours labor per day, and got a reduced cost per gallon of $4.19 on 5,000 gallons of production and down to $3.42 per gallon on 7,500 gallons of production.

The test would appear to have been carefully and objectively conducted for the information of farmer members who are considering investment and operation of farm-size units.

Sheep Producers Meeting Scheduled

A program on practical crossbreeding systems for lamb production in Northeast Nebraska will be the highlight of the Northeast Nebraska Sheep Producers meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at Pierce in the 4-H building on the Fairgrounds at 8 p.m.

Larry Young, researcher from the Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center, has been doing research on the maternal lines of sheep production and will speak on current research projects, including increased lambing rates using the Finn sheep cross.

After the program, reports will be given on the telecast non-held from Sioux City and on the lamb merchandising seminar which promoted lamb to the food retailers and food processors. A short business meeting will be held and refreshments will be served. Any interested sheep producer or friend from Northeast Nebraska is invited to attend.

NPCA Stockholders Meet Sept. 17

The Norfolk Production Credit Association will hold its 47th Annual Stockholders meeting on Sept. 17th, at King's Ballroom, in Norfolk. The evening will start with a meal at 7:30 p.m., followed by the business meeting. During the business meeting the directors will report on the activities of the association during the past year. Two directors will be elected by the stockholders present, for three year terms. Eldon P. Peters, president, will then review the financial position of the association. Upon completion of the business meeting, a dance will follow.

Guest speaker will be Dr. John F. Marten of West Lafayette, Indiana, who is staff economist for Farm Journal magazine. His presentation will be "Farm Profit Picture in 1981-82." Dr. Marten attained his undergraduate degree in Agricultural Economics at Iowa State University, and his masters and doctorate degrees at Purdue University. He has been involved in fertilizer sales, farm management and as an economist for Purdue University.

Extension Clubs Set Health Lesson

Dixon County Home Extension Clubs have selected "Visiting Stroke Victims" as their health lesson topic for 1981. Leon H. Rottmann, extension human development specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will conduct training for this lesson at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14, at the Northeast Station near Concord.

Dr. Rottmann will also be including information about the "hospice concept," a relatively new idea for caring for the ill.

Although the lesson content is planned for Home Extension Club leaders, other interested persons are invited to attend. Anyone living with or caring for an elderly person or a chronically ill person would find this educational meeting of value. There is no charge and no pre registration is necessary.

4-H Exposition at Ak-Sar-Ben

Within a week, 2,500 4-H youngsters and 5,000 animals will descend upon Ak-Sar-Ben Field for the 54th Annual 4-H Livestock Exposition and Rodeo, Sept. 16-22.

The Ak-Sar-Ben show is the world's largest 4-H exposition and, according to assistant general manager Bob Volk, "Things are getting set and the indication is that this will be another great year for the Livestock Exposition."

Volk has announced some changes in the schedule of a year ago. Competition will begin on Wednesday evening, Sept. 16, with 4-H Horse judging, which will run all day Thursday and finish Friday morning. The feeder calves competition will start Friday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. The Grand Champion sale is Tuesday, Sept. 22 at 7 p.m.

Running in conjunction with the livestock show is the Ak-Sar-Ben World Championship Rodeo. The rodeo runs two weekends, Sept. 17-20 and again Sept. 25-27.

Farmers Observe Experiments at Mead Lab

Over 150 Take Organic Farming Tour

More than 150 farmers and others interested in organic agriculture turned out last week for the University of Nebraska's first Organic Farming Tour.

The large turnout was a surprise but a pleasant one for NU officials, according to Dr. Warren Sals, director of the NU Field Laboratory near Mead, where the day-long tour began.

Sals noted that the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources has been studying organic residues and by products in crop production with complex crop rotations at the lab since the early 1970s.

THE PROJECTS are designed for dryland farming and compare manure vs. agricultural chemicals and continuous corn vs. a rotation of oats/clover, corn, soybeans and corn. Manure was applied to the test plots to supply 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre, Sals explain ed, and advised farmers to monitor salt content and phosphate particularly when using manure.

Because recent years have been droughty, he said, no significant yield differences were obtained until 1980. Last year, continuous corn yields were significantly less than yields from corn in rotation, and corn grown with organic practices yielded 74 bushels an acre, compared to 62 bushels on continuous corn grown with chemicals.

The organic plots were a little weeder, Sals said, adding that it is important to take care of weeds at the optimum time, when they are white rooted.

In a dry year, he said, legumes will compete with a cereal crop because legumes use up more subsoil moisture in a normal year there is no problem, however.

ALTERNATIVE cropping

systems were displayed at another stop and discussed by Dr. Dale Flowerday, NU professor of agronomy. "One of the easiest ways to get into organic farming is to use rotations. You begin almost immediately to reduce the need for herbicides and fertilizer," he said, although he pointed out that it takes about four years for organic fertilizer to build up in the soil.

An experiment recently begun by Flowerday and Charles Shapiro will include two non-traditional soil treatments: fish meal, manure and kelp (a seaweed), and a commercial soil treatment, manure and solution nitrogen. The experiment will continue for eight years and will include two full rotations of corn, sweetclover, sorghum and soybeans.

After seeing scientific experiments, the tour moved on to the Del Akertlund farm near Valley to view a working organic farm. Akertlund, one of the first Nebraska farmers to go totally organic, uses fish and kelp on some of his dryland acreage and purchases feeder cattle and feeds them out when profitable. He uses a variety of rotations and allows Omaha feedlots to dispose of their manure at his farm.

Because his farm products are organic, Akertlund said he can command a premium price for them and is involved in direct marketing of much of his production. The field is wide open for farmers who are willing to produce crops organically, he said.

ANOTHER dryland farmer said his farming operation is proof that the public will pay for a quality product. Richard Ruskamp of Dodge, an organic farmer since 1970, displayed his Prize vegetable soybeans. He needs no inoculum for the beans, he said, reducing production costs. He sold his 1980 Prize beans for $13.50 a bushel, he said, and today's going rate is about $9 a bushel for organically grown beans.

Persons who are willing to pay a premium price want a premium product, he emphasized. "The organic grain business is very strict. If they check your shipment in San Francisco and there's chemical residue in it, you pay the freight back when they return it to you."

Few buyers want split beans, Ruskamp noted, so he has his beans conditioned, and feeds the splits to his older hogs, mixed half and half with soybean meal. He told the group, "If you feed clean grain, you don't have to worry about cannibalism."

Clipping tails isn't necessary, he said, because organically grown feed is not deficient in cobalt. Chemical farming ties up cobalt in the soil, he said.

RUSKAMP also grows open pollinated corn organically, which yielded 60 bushels an acre last year. He said he could sell this year's crop on the day of the tour for $10.50 a bushel; if he wanted to sign a contract, he ships his corn to whatever market offers the best price, he said. He estimated his input cost at $18 plus seed per acre.

Ruskamp noted that the organic market especially wants open pollinated popcorn, millet and garbanzo beans. "They're hollering for it and you can make good money," he said, but warned that it will take three years for chemical farmers to detoxify their soil through organic methods.

The final stop of the day was the Bernard J. Kavan farm near Linwood. Kavan also grows Prize soybeans and does some direct marketing of produce from his 240 acres. His cows help to clean up volunteer corn, he said,

Farmers Asked to Check Bins

Meal Moths Foul Stored Grain

Farmers should check their stored grain for evidence of Indian meal moths before cool weather comes for good, a University of Nebraska extension entomologist said this week.

Robert E. Roselle said the moths, common pests in stored grain, build up rapidly in numbers during the summer.

VISUAL signs of the problem are webbing on the grain surface caused by the immature worm stage of the insect, Roselle said. Adults, small moths with a cream colored fore part of the front wing, and a bronze color on the back part also may be observed flying over the grain. Meal moths are surface feeders and can cause substantial damage to grain in the top 2 to 4 inches by feeding and fouling the grain with webs and excrement, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources insect specialist explained.

If grain is to be fed to livestock in a short time, skimming off the webs may be all that is required, he said. However, if grain is to be stored into the fall or winter, treatment should be considered.

Two treatments are safe, and effective if used properly, Roselle said.

One is mixing a bacterial insecticide, sold as Dipel or SOK BT with the grain on the surface to control the larvae as they eat the kernels.

THE OTHER method is suspending Vapona resin strips over the grain mass — one for each 1,000 cubic feet of air space over the grain to kill those in the adult or moth stage. Both methods could be used if infestations are severe, Roselle said.

"There are no restrictions on the use of grain when either Vapona or Dipel is used," he concluded.

Crop Specialist Says Soybean Growth Spurt Could Damage Yields

Despite predictions of a record soybean crop for 1981, many farmers' fields are experiencing a quirk of nature that could damage yields. Soybeans in Nebraska are growing taller than normal, said University of Nebraska extension crops specialist Don Hanway.

Reports of soybeans growing chest high — instead of the usual hip or waist high — are widespread across the state, Hanway said.

IF THE weather stays calm, yields should not be affected appreciably. But if winds begin to whip across the plains, as they often do, lodging could occur. Lodging refers to plant toppling over from wind stress, or because it has gotten too heavy.

Soybeans in the eastern part of the Midwest (Ohio, Indiana and Illinois) historically have grown taller than those in the Great Plains (Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and North and South Dakota). The greater moisture in these states, and its accompanying cloud cover, contribute to the taller beans.

The difference in this year's soybean growth and that of previous years, Hanway continued, is also the combination of rain at a crucial growth period and the lesser light of more overcast skies.

It's quite unusual for Nebraska to be in this position," he said.

GOOD general rains across the state met the water requirement this year, and the temperature dropped from heat stress levels to optimum conditions for growth. This and a peculiarity of soybean physiology created the overgrown plants, Hanway explained.

"It's not a simple kind of thing," Hanway said.

A plant growth hormone, gibberellin, is active in stimulating stem elongation in soybeans, he said. Added gibberellin increases the plasticity of cell walls. The more gibberellin, the more susceptible a plant is to stem growth through cell expansion.

The kicker is that more light reduces the amount of gibberellin produced, Hanway said. Conversely, less light means longer and thinner stems, less sturdy plants, and the problem of lodging.

Hanway pointed to a recent windstorm in the North Platte area. Following the storm, beans which had bent over began growing upward again, creating an S-shaped plant. Where the plant was bent, he added, no pod set had taken place. In severe cases, lodging means completely fallen plants.

EVEN though yield estimates for Nebraska project "an outstanding year," Hanway said, if lodging occurs late in the season, it can complicate harvesting. A common problem has been late blooming flowers which produce extra podding at the top of the plant, making it more vulnerable to lodging.

Soybeans will give you a second chance," Hanway explained, referring to the crop's potential for recovery from various forms of stress. This year, that same resiliency created the potential for reduced yields. The impact on yields will depend entirely on the severity of the hazard, Hanway said. But severely lodged stands may yield 25 to 30 percent less than normal, he added.

Other than urging farmers to take extra care in setting cutter bars, and to move down the field slowly to minimize losses, he said, there's not a thing they can do.

Fallen or bent beans may cause more shattering during harvest. Seed shattering occurs when the cutter bar goes through the pods instead of under them. A loss of four beans per square foot represents a loss of a bushel per acre, Hanway said.

"Each inch drop in the cutter bar will add 1 to 2 bushels per acre," he continued.

Unleash Banvel against tough Hemp Dogbane

Your "Dogbane" days are numbered when you unleash Banvel + 2,4-D against problem hemp dogbane. A late application of Banvel + 2,4-D can beat back hemp dogbane and other combine choking broadleaf weeds in corn and sorghum.

Apply Banvel this fall shortly before harvest — before the first killing frost. It will not only make harvest faster and easier with fewer slow downs caused by weed choke-ups, but will also give you a head start on dogbane control next year. Follow with another late fall application next year for effective hemp dogbane control.

The two year Banvel + 2,4-D Hemp Dogbane program will pay you back with better yields from weed-free rows and faster, cleaner harvests.

Grass Pasture or Weed Patch?

Banvel helps make every pasture acre count.

Stop problem thistle before it overruns your pasture.

Broadleaf weeds can rapidly overrun pasture grasses and turn lush pastures into weedy wastelands. Cattle refuse to graze near thorny problem weeds like thistle. The grazing area of your pasture gets smaller... cattle compete for forage... daily weight gains decline and profits fall.

Break the broadleaf hold with Banvel herbicide. Banvel effectively controls a whole label full of stubborn broadleaf weeds including thistles... field bindweed... leafy spurge... ragweed and many more.

Banvel can be used with fluid fertilizers as part of a Weed and Feed pasture program.

With the weeds out of the way, grasses have a chance to bounce back... opening the way for greater cattle weight gains and more profit.

Break the broadleaf hold on pasture profits. Let the Banvel pasture program help unlock your pasture's beef-making potential.

Make Room for the New

CORN HARVEST is just around the corner and some farmers have been busy clearing out the old corn from their bins and corn cribs to make room for the new. The Concord elevator received business on a rainy day from one area farmer who had a full truckload of corn. The corn crop is looking good in most areas due to plenty of rain this summer. However, farmers are hoping the rain will soon cease to make harvesting possible.
