Providence Medical Center Facilities First-Rate Hospital Staff Prescribes Health Education

By Theresa Wull

They emphasize education at Providence Medical Center for staff and patients alike.

Nearly all medical staffers there have completed an 84-hour Emergency Medical Technology course, and all registered nurses have completed an advanced cardiac life support course sponsored by the American Heart Association.

FOR INSTANCE, when a local girl's mother started having a heart attack recently, the daughter ran across the street to the Skelly station at Seventh and Main streets to see if anyone there knew cardio pulmonary resuscitation.

Luckily, Bob Schliecher — the attendant on duty — did know CPR.

And Gary West, a physician's assistant at the hospital, was also at the gas station.

WHEN THEY got to the girl's home, her mother was in coronary arrest — and "black dead," West said.

They started CPR. And when the ambulance arrived, the trained crew performed advanced life support measures.

That woman is still walking around Wayne today, thanks to the trained people who helped her.

Schliecher and West recently were honored for their services. Ron Carter, director of the Northern Nebraska Emergency Medical Service Council, presented them with certificates of merit for their work.

The trained personnel and advanced equipment are only two of the many things Providence Medical Center has to offer Wayne area residents.

WEST, WHO has a bachelor of science degree and received his medical training at the University of Nebraska-Omaha Medical Center, feels that the ambulance here "is a surprising machine."

"In my opinion, it's the best unit in the state. And if it's not the best, it's the second best."

Every time the ambulance rolls, he explained, a nurse is in it. And when it's an emergency run — such as the incident this summer at the Wayne Swimming Pool that nurse is a registered nurse. Furthermore, they've completed the courses which allow them to use advanced life support procedures for victims at the scene.

"The only unit that would be better would be at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Lincoln. They have a mobile heart support team, more advanced equipment, and a doctor goes on every run," West said.

IN ADDITION to the ambulance equipment, the hospital also has a treadmill and a machine that measures pulmonary function.

The treadmill provides stress testing for suspected heart disease, he explained. It is hooked up to an electrocardiogram, which provides a continuous monitor of the heart's beat and rate. The patient being tested is then exercised to his maximum capability.

The results give the doctors a better idea of a patient's heart disease and help prevent serious problems from developing. They are sent through a phone hookup to Saint Joseph's Hospital at Creighton University in Omaha and read by cardiologists there.

Results arrive later that day, or can be given immediately if requested, West said.

THE MACHINE for measuring pulmonary function was "just put in recently," he said.

The machine helps diagnose suspected lung disease (asthma and emphysema, for example), measure the seriousness of the problem and determine the best way to treat it. It, too, is tied by telephone to St. Joseph's in Omaha. A pulmonary specialist reads the results there and sends them back.

A Holter monitor is also a part of the cardio-pulmonary facilities at the hospital.

This machine is hooked up to a patient to detect a suspected arrhythmia. It provides a continuous, 24-hour recording of a patient's heartbeat.

These results are sent to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa. It takes about 1 1/2 hours to process, then will be sent back "in the same day if we need to know in a big hurry," West said.

SIoux CITY doctors also help in the laboratory, he continued. Three pathologists come weekly to oyersee and help with diagnosis.

State College Board Deadlock Kills Debate On Vacancy Savings

Vacancy savings — a budget windfall often generated by personnel turnover or consolidation — apparently won't be placed in the pockets of professional staffers at three of Nebraska's four state colleges.

That was the short-term upshot of Friday's three-to-three tie vote on the Nebraska State Colleges' Board of Trustees.

Meeting in the Birch Room of Wayne State College's Student Union, the trustees deadlocked during a procedural vote to reconsider an August resolution that set salaries at the four state colleges in Wayne, Chadron, Kearney and Peru.

INTRODUCED BY Vice Chairman Alan Cramer, publisher of The Wayne Herald, the motion to reconsider the previously approved salary resolution also drew support from board members David Martin of Kearney and Ward Reesman of Falls City. However, board members Carroll Thompson of Lincoln and George Rebersdorf of Omaha opposed reconsideration of the resolution, which features a 12 percent cap on salaries for professional staffers throughout the system.

Board Chairman Keith Kemper, a newspaper publisher from Alliance, joined Thompson and Rebersdorf.

The absence of board member Anne Campbell, Lincoln, prevented a tie-breaking vote, though no board member would speculate on whether she was for or against the motion to reconsider.

"I HAVE NO idea how Dr. Campbell would have voted," Cramer said after the three-hour morning meeting.

With the death of the motion to reconsider, discussion on the possibility of using vacancy savings for staff salary increases on three campuses also died — at least temporarily.

Previous board action has authorized Chadron State College to use vacancy savings funds to boost salaries of professional staffers.

"Three board members wanted to examine the action at Chadron State College on vacancy savings in light of some similar possibilities on other campuses," Cramer said, explaining that he felt the board "made a mistake" in not opening the matter to discussion.

VACANCY SAVINGS is a concept that refers to funds saved when a veteran instructor — a staffer with a doctorate and 10 years of experience, for instance — leaves the system and is replaced by another less-experienced instructor — a staffer with a masters degree and five years of experience, for example.

That salary differential is often referred to as vacancy savings. In addition, administrative streamlining, staff consolidation or the elimination of programs can create a similar situation — again, referred to as vacancy savings.

Chadron State College had its bid to use vacancy savings for upgrading professional staff salaries turned down several times before the board finally approved the plan.

Any short-term effort to take the plan system wide died with Friday's deadlock, leaving Wayne State College, Kearney State College and Peru State College without the option.

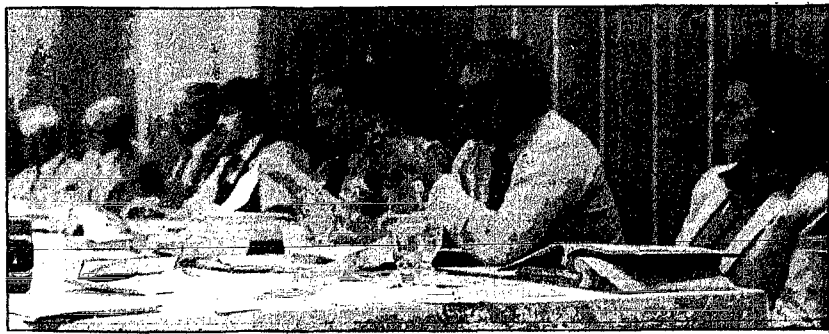

IN OTHER ACTION, the trustees conditionally approved a package of nine priority project proposals — proposals that will be submitted to Gov. Charles Thone and the state Legislature by Sept. 15.

Trustees directed the colleges to trim costs on the proposed priority projects to bring

Winside's New Well Proposal Gets Push

Winside's Board of Trustees has declared a water emergency in the village in an effort to speed the development of a new $200,000 well and water transmission lines.

The emergency declaration comes months after one of the village's two existing wells failed.

According to Lynne Wylie, village clerk, Winside's east well has been deteriorating for years.

As a result, she said, the well is seldom used — a factor that has forced the village to rely on a single-well water-delivery system. The working well is near the Winside schools.

AFTER MONTHS of plans and preparation for a proposed new well south of the village, the board has invoked an emergency clause by passing an ordinance during a late-August meeting.

Test drilling has been done at the proposed new well site, about a half-mile south of village center, and plans and specifications are expected to get State Health Department approval within the next few days.

Initial plans and specifications were returned to the village for minor changes and modifications, according to Wylie, who said the board is awaiting what it hopes is the final go-ahead on the project.

WYLIE SAID that once that approval is received, the project will be advertised for bids, though it is not necessary to do so under terms of the declared emergency.

Approval of the emergency ordinance authorizes the board to waive state-law requirements for cost estimates and bid advertising.

Wylie said that she was "reasonably sure" the village would advertise the well-drilling and water transmission line project, though there is no requirement to do so. The emergency ordinance authorizes the

Weible Case Appeal Filed

Norfolk attorney Vincent Kirby has filed an appeal to the Nebraska State Supreme Court on behalf of convicted Winside tavern owner Charles Weible, 28.

Kirby filed the expected appeal Tuesday, a week after Ninth District Court Judge Richard P. Garden denied the attorney's motion for a new trial on behalf of his client who has been convicted and sentenced to eight to 16 years in the Nebraska Penal Complex, Lincoln.

Weible was convicted on three felony drug counts in June as the result of a December 1980 raid by Nebraska State Patrol narcotics agents.

country boy...

...by randall howell

Howdy.
There's only a week of summer left, and I haven't even finished spring's work yet.
Autumn is coming — my favorite time of the year. Course, there's nothing wrong with winter, either.
But, fall's my favorite, hands down.
There's something about frost on the pumpkin that gets me going again. Cool nights, crisp mornings and a gentle autumn sun all day — now that's invigorating.

ONE OF THE nicest things about living in a place like Nebraska is watching the seasons change.
I've never ceased being fascinated by the change. In fact, I once wrote a little verse about it:

I, who times o'er have set the seed and nursed the seedling forth, find peace of mind in thought and deed
as autumn silently slips north.

It's not the best poetry, but I'm fond of it because it's short! Well, actually, I'm fond of it for a lot of reasons and short is only one of them.
Now that you've had to put up with my poetry, the least I can do is explain why I like it.
You see, it's a poem about a farmer. The farmer is my father. And, if you are a farm boy or a farm girl, the poem is about your father, too.

I'VE WRITTEN quite a bit of poetry, but have ended up throwing most of it out over the years.
Someone I never really said what I wanted to say. This one, short as it is, says too much. And, that's why I've kept it.

You are going to downright laugh when I tell you that I took me four or five years to write it. It started out with dozens of verses, page after page of rough drafts and crossed out words.
I revised and revised it, keeping all the old work sheets. Then, I'd have to leave it alone for months.
Slowly and painfully, I compressed it to four lines and left it for over a year. Then, one day, one fall day, the final version came to me.

WITH A SMILE on my face and laughter in my heart, I quickly wrote it down and memorized it. Later that day, I threw away the original and all the revisions, including the final one.
That's when I decided to abandon my childhood dream of being poet laureate of my home state, South Dakota.

I figured that anyone who spent that much time coming up with a four line verse just wasn't going to be in the running.
Furthermore, my father's lectures about how poets starve to death kept ringing in my ears.
But, that's another story — and, besides, we started out talking about the arrival of autumn.

So, let's continue down that country road for a little while longer.
THE COUNTRYSIDE is starting to show signs of the coming autumn. The corn is starting to turn, fall flowers are in full bloom and the trees are getting touches of yellow, oranges and browns.

That old sun is slower, popping over the horizon in the morning and that final stretch in the west gets earlier and earlier.
People are starting to talk about what kind of winter we can expect, once Indian summer is behind us.
And, no matter what the trees are doing, everywhere in Nebraska, fans are gearing up for football. Despite the yellows, oranges and browns, everyone is seeing red.

For the record, you can always tell it's fall in Nebraska when you see the chrome on bumpers turns bright red.
So, Go, Big Red.

IT'S BEEN SOME time since we've shared some thoughts from my friend Mike Ryzynski.
He's been writing right along. Most of you know that. But, with county fairs and school starting and Labor Day and... well, I just haven't gotten around to sharing it with you.
He has reminded me that he's still reading my "ramblings," and doesn't want me to get too comfortable as a country boy turned newspaperman.

"Gosh, it's been some time now since you started CBing it and you're still worth reading," Ryzynski quips, saying he likes my reflections and is looking forward to more.
He's careful to specify that the reflections he's talking about are on "how you spent your youth — or misspent it."

And, Ryzynski said he's just waiting to hear some of my fishing and hunting yarns. He won't tell me any of his, though.

MAYBE I should tell you a little bit more about Ryzynski.
In addition to being my chief critic and between-the-lines reader, he's a country boy, too.
That's what gives him the background to ride herd on my glibberish. He's got enough years on him to keep me on the straight and narrow when it comes to swapping yarns with you.

True, there was some difference in the way we both grew up. I'm a flatlander from eastern South Dakota. He, well, Ryzynski grew up on the Big Blue river — where there were some hills.

What that means is that he's not always on the level. "As kids, we'd ride down 'em (those hills) in wagons in the summer and on sleds in the winter," he recalls. "Thinkin' back on it, it's a wonder we didn't get killed sometimes, since we weren't too fussy about watchin' car traffic."

RYZYSKI'S ALSO an outdoorsman... or was, anyway. He tells of running a trap line when he was a kid.
"Did a little trappin', but I gave it up quick," he remembers. "One of the guys kept catchin' skunks and came to school reeking. I couldn't stand the smell and lived in mortal fear I'd catch one."

Remind me to tell you a story or two about my trapping days as a kid along the Elm River in northeastern South Dakota. We'll talk about that on some slow day, like Feb. 30.

Back to Ryzynski. He's no stranger to county fairs, for instance. He attended one as a kid, so when I write about them, he watches every word.
"The county fair was too far away for me to get there — except once, when I was a kid," he says.
"We did have a carnival come to town every year. People who owned it had a brother who lived in town. He was shirf tall relation of some kind. They also had a young filly my age, and for a couple of summers I managed to get some free rides. Nevermind how!"

WELL, THAT'S enough background on Ryzynski. Just wanted to establish his credentials.
He likes my tough stand against vandalism. I didn't think it that special. I guess I thought everyone was against vandalism, except vandals, of course.
"Keep up the efforts like the viewpoint on vandalism," he writes. "It's hard to imagine the acceptance of crime we've developed in this country."

"Makes a guy wonder where it will go or stop. Crime seems to be getting so bad that the possibility of vigilantes seems too real in some places. God help us if that would ever happen again."
Ryzynski, you're right again.

AND, THAT brings me to another matter that is of concern to me.
This last week, we had our country correspondents in for coffee and a morning chat about the newspaper. I hadn't had a chance to meet them all, so it was a fine opportunity to get acquainted with some very dedicated guys who write for us week in and week out. We had a lot of things to talk about regarding the newspaper — where it's going, where it's been and how we can make it better.

I'm impressed by their grasp of things and their determination to help us provide you with the best newspaper possible.
During our conversations, the serious matter of increased rural crime cropped up time and time again.

WE WEREN'T talking about murderers and train robbers. But, we didn't talk about shoplifters, either. We talked about crimes against property (vandalism) and theft, including burglary.
Right here in good ol' northeast Nebraska, folks are getting downright uneasy about leaving their home for any length of time.

It's getting to the point where anything that isn't nailed down gets taken — in town or out of town. And, if the lawbreakers don't steal it, they wreck it. These country correspondents know their stuff. They live in areas where it's happening.

And, when it dawned on me that they weren't talking about Sioux City, Omaha or Lincoln, we had an interesting discussion about rural crime.

WELL, WE didn't solve the problem, but we all came away from the Thursday meeting wondering what can be done to stop what seems to be a trend toward increased rural crime.

It's easy, sometimes, to have those kinds of discussions. Everyone can agree that it's a problem. And, everyone goes home and about their business, including me.

As I went about my business later that Thursday, I happened to introduce myself to a long-time Hoskins farmer.
We chatted a bit about farming and before I knew what was happening, we were deep in a discussion about rural crime. He brought it up.

I whistled through my teeth at some of the things that farmers and small town residents have been putting up with recently in the way of vandalism and theft.

THERE WAS at time in rural America when you could leave almost anything anywhere and it would be there when you got back, or wanted to use it.
Then, it got to the point that farmers stopped leaving machinery in the fields overnight because thieves and vandals would steal it or wreck it.

Now, farmers — and small town residents — don't feel safe leaving machinery and tools in their own yard or toolshed.
You add that to the three burglaries here in Wayne during the past month and that'll get you going good.

I'm not saying we're in a crime wave. But, I am saying, we've reached a point where there is so little respect for people or property that anything goes.
Rural crime is on the increase and not just in Iowa or Kansas or the Dakotas. Folks, it's becoming a real problem right here in northeast Nebraska.

ANOTHER PART of the problem came to me the other day in the form of a telephone call.
I was not in the office to take the call myself, but the message that was left hit home.

The woman, a farmer's wife, called to say she really enjoyed the photographs of old farm buildings.
Then, she asked that information under the photographs be written in such a way as to avoid disclosing the location of the buildings.
She said vandals hit them all too frequently the way it is. And, it's true.

Most of the old buildings I come across are suffering more at the hands of vandals than they ever have suffered exposed to the elements.

That saddens me and it also angers me. This newspaper will cooperate in any reasonable way to assist our residents in the battle against crime.
Catch you next week.

The Pendulum Swings

Forces working in a free society often push policy, to the extremes of the political and philosophical pendulum.
Those swings can carry a country over the cliff, when the intent was only to make a minor, albeit significant, change in a course of action.

Today, we are watching this country return to policies and philosophies that offer more constructive approaches to problems than most of us have seen since Roosevelt's New Deal.
And, of course, the changes could not take place without a fundamental attitude change in this country.

One significant attitude change has come in the area of national defense. The country rode a swing from the extreme and necessary militarism of World War II to the extreme, and perhaps necessary, anti-militarism of the Vietnam War.
Now, with the pendulum closer to the center of military posture, America can begin again rejuvenating and rebuilding a strong, cost-effective defense system.

That fundamental attitude change, which is the key in a participatory democracy, can be seen in northeast Nebraska.
In three years, the Wayne National Guard, for instance, has bounced back from one of its lowest points in terms of recruitment and retention.

Certainly, Capt. Stanley Burst, Wayne-O'Neill company commander, and his able aides deserve a salute for their part in bringing about the dramatic change.
However, that change would have been far less dramatic without a corresponding change in the attitude of northeast Nebraskans.

Burst and his aides openly acknowledge that there's a new mood afoot that's bringing some pride back to wearing a uniform.
For a number of years men and women in this country's military establishment has been defending themselves against their own countrymen.

Today, the tide is turning to allow a more rational look at the problems of defending this country and freedom throughout the world.
Somewhat, it seems to be a change that is healthier for Americans.
And, northeast Nebraska residents can be proud that Capt. Burst and his men are in the vanguard of that change.

They are intelligent, capable soldiers who have already responded, and are willing to continue responding, to the challenges of a new beginning.

American Nightmare

The American Dream. Say you're an energetic person with several years experience in construction and a respectable nest egg. Like everyone else, you'd like to be your own boss so you decide to incorporate and bid for a small government construction project.

Every year hundreds of thousands of Americans dream just that dream. Many of them enter the tough, competitive construction business and, while many fail, some succeed in a big way. Unfortunately, it's becoming tougher and tougher to realize that dream, and the biggest obstacle is the federal regulatory octopus.

President Reagan campaigned on the promise to get government off the backs of the American people and he is delivering on that promise. In 1980 the Associated General Contractors of America called for a "Return to Reason" in government's dealings with the private sector of the economy and the construction industry in particular. With care and all deliberate speed, the Reagan Administration is returning the government to reason.

While estimates of the cost of government regulation vary greatly, the consensus indicates the total is something in excess of $100 billion a year. This is a hidden tax government requires of taxpayers as the cost of efforts to achieve clean air, clean water and safe and equitable working conditions along with all the other regulatory goals. Some argue that this hidden tax is a small price to pay, that a monetary value can't be placed on such goals.

That's a straw man, a phoney argument. Business recognizes that most regulatory goals are important and worthy; business does not seek to measure health, safety and justice by the balance sheet alone. At the same time, the Joint Economic Committee of Congress has recognized that "Regulation cannot abide apart from all other considerations; it must be a part of the overall strategy to improve living standards. Left as a detached feature of government, the regulatory network smother's economic opportunity."

As high as the hidden regulatory tax may be, the worst effect of unreasonable regulation is one that cannot be quantified. What damage is done to the general quality of life by a regulatory network that smother's economic opportunity, a regulatory octopus that crushes the entrepreneurial spirit?

In part, the regulatory burden was allowed to grow to major proportions because the public has been terribly uninformed of regulatory news. "The Washington Reporters," a Brookings Institution study by Stephen Hess, reveals major shortcomings in the way the news media covers the regulatory process. Washington reporters admit that the regulatory beat is one of the least desirable. They consider it "dull," "boring," "drugstore," according to Hess. Moreover, the problem is compounded by the news organizations which assign the least well qualified reporters to cover the beat and then consign regulatory stories to the least prominent places in their newspapers and broadcasts.

The public has a right to know what's happening in the regulatory arena and should demand more substantial news coverage of this important facet of government. Better informed, the public will be better able to decide what regulation is reasonable and what is unreasonable.

That Persistent Little Medfly No Big Threat to Consumers

This summer's supplies of fresh produce are abundant, thanks to good growing conditions throughout most of the country, but a persistent little fly is causing a lot of concern.

How should I handle fresh produce I buy in the supermarket?
Just like you always handle it. Handle it as you would produce from your own fruit trees or garden. Food items that contain harmful residues or substances cannot be shipped in interstate commerce.

Alaiahthon, the pesticide being used in the medfly eradication program, is considered to be one of the safest on the market and has been widely used for a number of years by consumers in the home and by public health officials.

What is the "bottom line"? Can I buy and eat fresh fruits and vegetables with confidence?
Of course! Supplies and quality are good. Believe your own experienced eye as you buy. If it looks and feels good, it ought to be good. Look for the freshness of the fresh. Select produce that is of characteristic color, shape and size for the commodity. These are good guides for choosing quality produce.

Then why is the medfly a problem?
Once infested, fruits and vegetables spoil rapidly and become unmarketable.
Everybody is understandably concerned about controlling a potentially destructive pest. Fortunately, control measures, which are known and proven, are available and are being applied.

In addition, supplies of fresh produce from other producing areas throughout the country are good or better than average. Will prices go up?
Historically, prices remain reasonable.

Congress Alters Student-Loan Plans; Listening-Session Staff Knows State

One of the areas of this year's budget action by the Congress that affects families across the district, state, and nation relates to federally funded student aid programs.
There are three major aspects of student aid that were altered by the Congress and all three critical for many college students as they attempt to wrestle with the high costs of their education.
One is the Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSL). Previously, GSL loans were available at nine per cent interest to any student in an amount not to exceed the cost of attending school for one year.

NOW THE LAW applies a needs test for students whose parents earn $30,000 a year or more, effective October 1 of this year. Students whose families have incomes below this level may borrow up to $2,500 a year.
The definition of need will be determined by the Department of Education. The legislation provides for a minimum loan of $1,000 except for those students whose needs fall below $500 who can borrow only what they require.

In addition to the limitations, an origination fee of 3 per cent is charged against the value of the loan to help reduce federal costs incurred in paying the in-school interest subsidy. The interest rate on parent loans will rise to 14 per cent from the current nine per cent, but fall to 12 per cent if interest on Treasury bills is below 14 per cent.

For the National Direct Student Loan Program (NDSL) for needy students, the budget-provides $286 million to finance the revolving-loans. Interest rates on NDSL loans processed after Oct. 1 will increase from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

congressman doug bereuter

THE THIRD area affected by this year's legislation is the grant program, Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG). Congress authorized $2.65 billion for 1982 and a House of Representatives proposal to limit grants to $1,800 was deleted in conference committee.
Students who anticipate the need to apply for any or all of these programs should consult the financial aids office of the college they are attending or their high school guidance counselor so that adequate financial plans may be nurtured prior to the next school year.

THE DISTRICT STAFF — Through some 40 constituent listening sessions throughout the First District the past few weeks, I have been able to meet with many of you and hear your ideas and criticisms as well as respond to questions.
During the year, I have a six-member staff in Nebraska to serve the citizens of the First District on a daily, personal basis. In Washington, I also have staff members who assist me in working directly with constituents. But members of my Washington staff also have the responsibility to help keep current with the legislative activity of the Congress.

With the Congress in recess during August and with the passage of possibly some of the most critical legislation of our lifetimes, the president's tax '82 and budget bills, I felt it was important to bring some of the members of my Washington staff to Nebraska to help out with the work in the district this month.

All four of my staffers who traveled to Nebraska this month have roots in this state. I feel it is very important to have Washington staff members who have close attachments and an understanding of this state. In the state this month have been two legislative staffers, Sharon Slepicka who is originally from Crete, and Tom Litjen, originally from David City. Also in Nebraska were my administrative assistant, Helen Sramek who hails from Omaha, and my Washington office manager, Nancy Ellsworth, a native of Kearney.

TOGETHER, this group was hopefully able to help answer some of the varied and complex questions posed by constituents concerning the budget reconciliation and tax cut bills. Both these bills are highly complex with many provisions that will have long term, positive effects on all our lives.
With the approach of Labor Day, my Washington staff members have returned to Capitol Hill as we prepare to accept the challenges of Congress when it reconvenes on September 9.

Their presence in the First District helped make it possible for me to stay almost constantly on the go for 18 days, conducting Hear-the-Citizen meetings in almost every county in the district. Future Hear-the-Citizen meetings are planned so that I have the chance to meet with constituents in all 27 counties of the District.

An Unusual Birthday Treat

A THIRD GRADE STUDENT AT WAYNE'S West Elementary School came up with an unusual idea last week to help celebrate his birthday with classmates. Instead of bringing treats to school the day of his birthday, young Scott Conner chose to donate two books to the school. The books, entitled "Star Wars: The Wookiee Storybook" and "Star Wars: The Empire Strikes Back Storybook," will be placed in the school library for students to enjoy throughout the year. Pictured accepting the books from Scott is Rodella Wacker, school librarian. Scott, who turned eight years old, is the son of Jack and Judy Conner of Wayne.

'Good Ole Days' at District 15 Remembered on 100th Birthday

Former teachers and students of School District 15 in Wayne County gathered at the rural schoolhouse Sunday Sept. 6 to celebrate the school's 100th birthday.

Approximately 150 persons attended an afternoon open house reception at the one room school four miles north and one west of Wayne.

School District 15 was organized in July 1880, however classes were not held until the summer months of 1881 Mrs. Wilbur was the first teacher.

MANY FORMER teachers and students gathered Sunday to recall the "good ole days," commenting that the schoolhouse seemed smaller.

It was a nostalgic day as both students and teachers remembered preparing for the annual Christmas programs, and carrying water to school.

RECEIVING plants were Florence Nelson Peterson, the oldest teacher present (1919), and Adolph H. Korn, the oldest student present (1905-1909).

Bess Baier also received a plant for having three generations graduate from the school. They include her father, Albert Watson, Mrs. Baier and her two daughters, Vickie and Ann Baier.

Plants also were given to Helen Hogelen of Wayne, who taught during 1937-38, and to Marilyn Wallin, also a former teacher. Also present was Bernice Kimball Lopacek, who taught at the school in 1936-37.

Also attending Sunday's reception were Edna Jeffrey Anderson and her daughter Beverly Anderson Eller. Both are District 15 graduates.

DURING the afternoon, Mervin Fuors gave rides in his Model T Torpedo. Old fashioned games were played by the youngsters.

Furnishing cake and refreshments for the lunch was Levi Thompson.

Towns represented were Aldef, Iowa; Independence, Mo.; Wayne, Winside, Wakefield, Norfolk, Carroll, Omaha, Lincoln, Stanton, Laurel, Papillion, Schuyler, Bennington and Page

Ponca is Next Test

Trojans Gallop to Impressive Victory over Allen

MIKE CLAY (17) of Wakefield runs down the sideline for a Trojan touchdown as Keith Rhode (71) and Derwin Roberts (68) of Allen give chase.

ALLEN'S TROY HARDER makes a diving catch of a Robb Linafelter pass as Dirk Carlson of Wakefield guards him closely.

Although the football season is still young, next Friday's Wakefield-Ponca matchup could prove to be an early division championship showdown.

Wakefield collected its second win of the young season Friday night by rolling over Allen 36-6. Meanwhile, Ponca defeated Emerson-Hubbard 27-6.

Ponca and Wakefield were picked as pre-season favorites in the East Division race of the Lewis & Clark Conference. With Emerson and Laurel struggling at 0-2, Homer (2-0) appears capable of making a run for the title.

THE TROJANS PASSED Friday's test with flying colors. Three touchdowns within a period of 3 1/2 minutes in the first quarter propelled Wakefield in its victory bid.

A 10-yard run by Mike Clay resulted in Wakefield's first touchdown with 6:52 remaining in the first quarter. The point-after kick by Rod Nixon gave the hosts a 7-0 advantage.

On the ensuing series, Allen coughed up the ball on a fumble and Roger Echtenkamp recovered at the Allen 34-yard line. Rod Nixon rambled 28 yards around the right end for Wakefield's second TD. With 5:26 left in the first quarter, the PAT was blocked and the Trojans led 13-0.

Following an Allen punt, Clay caught a Mark Starzl pass and romped 56 yards to the endzone. Jerry Roberts added the two-point conversion for a 21-0 lead at 3:39 in the first period.

WAKEFIELD VIRTUALLY put the game away with its fourth touchdown and first score of the second quarter. Rod Nixon carried the ball 31 yards up the middle on a draw play early in the second period. The PAT made the score 28-0.

It was a dreadful first half for Allen fans as the Eagles' defense failed to stop the Trojans and offensively, Allen had a tough time moving the ball.

Allen had one opportunity in the first half but Wakefield's defense stiffened under pressure. The Allen line partially blocked Wakefield's first punt and Kevin Anderson returned the ball to the Wakefield 35-yard line.

Shawn Mahler moved the ball deeper into Trojan territory with an eight-yard run but the threat came to a close as Wakefield held on the next series of downs.

Allen's only scoring drive came late in the third quarter. The Eagles moved the ball to the Trojan 26 on a pass from Robb Linafelter to Rick Boyle.

After losing ground back to the 35, the Eagles rallied as Troy Harder grabbed a Linafelter pass and scrambled to the five-yard line after the Wakefield defender fell down.

FROM THE THREE, Allen's Bruce Malcom broke up the shutout by breaking through for a TD with only three seconds left in the third period. The two-point conversion failed and the score remained at 28-6 as the third quarter came to a close.

The two teams alternated series in the fourth quarter with neither team establishing a real threat until late in the game.

Sophomore Jeff Coble, a 125 pound running back, darted through holes opened by his linemen and moved the ball well for the Trojans.

On fourth and goal from the Allen 10, Dirk Carlson swept the right side for the evening's final touchdown. Clay passed to Rod Nixon for the two-point conversion and a final score of 36-6.

WAKEFIELD COACH Dennis Wilbur, who substituted frequently since midway through the second quarter, said he was happy with his team's performance.

"I have to be a little pleased but I'm a little concerned about our injuries," Wilbur said. "We have some things to work on. We'll find out how good we are next week."

The injuries to which Wilbur referred included his backfield. Fullback Wayne Guy sat out the entire Allen game but is expected back Friday against Ponca.

Quarterback Starzl was pulled out of the game in the second quarter and taken to the hospital for tests after injuring a knee Jerry Roberts and Rod Nixon also were nursing injuries Friday.

EVERY TROJAN player who suited up played in Friday's game. Rod Nixon led the winners in rushing with seven carries for 91 yards. He had touchdowns runs of 29 and 31 yards.

Jeff Coble carried the ball 13 times for 47 yards. Jonathon Stelling had 19 yards in five carries and Starzl had two carries for 16 yards.

Defensive leaders for Wakefield were Roger Echtenkamp with three unassisted tackles, six assists and a fumble recovery. Vaughn Nixon with two tackles for losses of 13 yards, one solo tackle and two assists. Mike Muller with seven assists; Dirk Carlson with three solos and two assists; Jon Stelling with one solo and five assists.

For Allen, Malcom rushed for 31 yards to lead the team in that category. Troy Harder led the team in pass receiving. Malcom had nine tackles and Dennis Smith had six solos and seven assists. Derwin Roberts had the team's only fumble recovery.

STATISTICALLY, Wakefield rushed for 196 yards and passed for 94. Allen had 52 yards on the ground and 53 yards through the air.

Each team lost one fumble but neither was intercepted. The Trojans will travel to Ponca Friday to face the Indians while Allen will host Homer.

Late Touchdown Drive Hands Cats 2nd Loss

For more than three quarters, the Winside Wildcats held Osmond's explosive offense scoreless. Only a touchdown midway through the final quarter kept the game from going into overtime as the hosts pulled out a 7-0 victory.

Osmond, which last week bombed Triden Elkhorn Valley 48-0, this week relied on a one yard touchdown run by Karl Fugelberth. Winside's defense put on a good show but the offensive unit struggled. The Wildcats held Osmond to 10 yards passing and 177 yards rushing. Winside gained 61 yards through the air but only one through the running game.

"IF WE GET our offense together, we'll be good. We have our two toughies (Osmond and Wakefield) out of the way so I hope we can start to win some games," Winside coach Dennis Gonnerman said.

The ball seemed to bounce in Osmond's favor. The hosts made five fumbles which bounced back into the players' hands. The game was the West Division opener for the two Lewis and Clark Conference teams.

"Our defense played extremely well. Our offense needs a little work to get the kinks out. The game could have gone either way," said Gonnerman.

The Wildcats should have a somewhat easier test this Friday as they travel to Bancroft. Bancroft lost 40-8 to Ponca a week ago and 26-8 to Newcastle Friday night.

DEFENSIVELY, Winside was led by all state candidate Barry Bowers with 18 tackles and two fumble recoveries. Brian Bowers had 12 tackles and Jim Krajicek had 9 tackles.

Dan Broekemeier blocked a punt and Doug Jaeger and Mark Koch each made one pass interception. Gonnerman complimented Koch for his fine defensive performances while playing one on one against pass receivers in each Winside game.

The offensive charts show John Hawkins with 16 carries for 56 yards. Winside completed 6 of 11 passes for 61 yards and had no interceptions. Jon Meierhenry handed quarterbacking duties for the Cats.

Hawkins had two receptions for 22 yards and Koch made two catches for 14 yards. Krajicek had one snag of 18 yards and Jaeger had one catch for 7 yards.

Homer Edges Laurel In East Division

A sputtering offense proved to be a costly factor as the Laurel Bears played Homer a close game in Lewis and Clark East Division competition, Friday. Homer won the game 9-0.

The Bears improved defensively from their season opener last week. However, the team will be without the services of quarterback Brian Marquardt who broke a bone in the index finger of his passing hand. Marquardt is expected to miss six games but may do some punting later in the season.

Laurel's defense held Homer to 31 yards passing and 154 yards rushing. The Bears had trouble moving the ball on the ground but moved 44 yards on two pass completions.

HOMER SCORED a touchdown in the second quarter and took a 6-0 lead into the locker at half-time. Then, in the third quarter, the Knights kicked a field goal which resulted in the final 9-0 count.

Schuetz said his team had set a goal of holding Homer to 150 yards. The hosts had 185 total yards.

Phil Martin had the biggest play of the game for the Bears. He caught a pass for a 33-yard gain. Defensively, Dennis Martinson had an interception. Schuetz said that Dave Marquardt had a good defensive game and added that Phil Martin, Tim Bloom and transfer Scott Curry all played well defensively.

The schedule doesn't get any easier for Laurel. The Bears are scheduled to face Plainview on the road this Friday. Plainview defeated Randolph 6-0 Friday.

Rusher Leads 9th Ranked Team to Shutout of Wayne

The running of Schuyler's Mark Sloan seemed to be the difference as Class B's ninth ranked Warriors finally shook off a pesky Wayne defense and defended their state rating with an 18-0 win over the Blue Devils, Friday night.

Sloan carried the ball 23 times for 130 yards and scored all three Schuyler touchdowns. His first TD came on a 39-yard run in the first quarter, the second was a 23-yard run late in the third period and the final TD came on a seven-yard run in the fourth quarter.

The Blue Devil defense again did its job, holding the hosts to only one TD in nearly three quarters of play. Schuyler's potent offense had 211 total yards.

WAYNE HAD one good opportunity to score but failed. The Blue Devils moved the ball down to Schuyler's seven-yard line but couldn't push it over the goal-line.

"Schuyler played a good ball game and we helped them a little at times," Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt said. "We plan to make some offensive changes for the Randolph game."

Offensively, Wayne had some difficulty moving the ball. The Blue Devils rushed for 69 yards and passed for 7 yards with only one completion in 11 attempts. Schuyler intercepted three Wayne passes.

Leading ball carriers were Jeff McCright with 13 carries for 27 yards and Jim Poshman with four carries for 13 yards. Others with rushing yardage were Mark Hummel, Kurt Janke, Shaun Niemann and Danny Frevert.

THE HIGHLIGHT of Wayne's defensive performance was its ability to reach the quarterback. Schuyler's quarterback had seven carries totaling 46 yards in losses.

Kickoff returning was another bright point for the Devils. Janke had three returns for 54 yards.

Freshman Kevin Koenig led the tackle chart with 8 unassisted tackles and 11 assists. Other leading tacklers: McCright, 5 unassisted, 8 assisted; Mark Kubik, 4 unassisted, 7 assisted; Tim Heier, 3 unassisted, 9 assisted; Al Lindsay, 6 unassisted, 4 assisted; Eric Brink, 5 unassisted, 4 assisted; Dallas Hansen, 4 unassisted, 4 assisted; Todd Schwartz, 3 unassisted, 4 assisted.

Dallas Hansen and Mark Bofenkamp each recovered one fumble for Wayne.

The Blue Devils are scheduled to host Randolph on Friday.

Frosh Open Year with Easy Win

Last year, the Wayne eighth grade football team had an undefeated season while going unchallenged. This year, the players have moved up to ninth grade and they are continuing where they left off.

On Thursday, the Wayne freshmen opened their season with a convincing 24-0 whitewashing of Hartington Cedar. The hosts scored 20 points in the first quarter and added one touchdown in each of the next two periods.

The first touchdown capped a 53-yard drive. Kevin Maly darted 21 yards to score and Steve Overin added the two-point conversion.

ing Cedar to punt and on the first play from scrimmage, quarterback Overin rolled 24 yards for the second TD. The point-after attempt failed.

The third TD was scored when Overin passed to Rod Luit on a seven-yard play. Again, the PAT failed. In the second quarter, Chris Wieseler plunged in from the one-yard line. Overin's two-point conversion gave the locals a commanding 20-0 advantage.

The only score of the second half followed a blocked punt by Carl Urwiler. Wayne covered the ball at the 15 following the block and Maly ran the ball in from 10 yards out. The PAT failed.

Maly finished the game as Wayne's leading rusher with 68 yards. Overin completed two of three passes for 27 yards. The Blue Devils racked up 169 yards rushing and the defense gave up only one first down in the first half.

DEFENSIVE LEADERS were Overin with eight tackles and Urwiler and Maly with seven each. Todd Dorcay intercepted a pass and Pete Warno recovered a fumble.

Coach Duane Bofenkamp said he was pleased with his team's season opening performance. The Blue Devils are scheduled to play Thursday at Pierce.

Area Teams Clash

Blue Devils Rally To Defeat Laurel

After falling behind early and losing the first set, the Wayne Blue Devils rallied to defeat Laurel Thursday in a battle of area volleyball teams.

Host Laurel won the first set 15-11 but Wayne battled back to take the next two sets 15-6, 15-2.

In the opening game, Wayne jumped in front early behind the spiking of Missy Stollenberg and Deb Pronger. The Blue Devils led 4-1 and 6-2 before Laurel rallied behind the serving of Cammie Crookshank to tie the game at 8-8.

THE HOSTS gained the lead and pulled away as Anne Schultz served several key points. With Wayne trailing 12-8, Mandy Peterson hit a couple of good serves and brought her team back within two points.

However, Jayne Reynolds scored the final three service points to give Laurel a 15-11 win. The second set belonged to Wayne. The serving of Sandy Utecht got the Devils off to a 4-0 lead. Wayne kept the pressure on and increased its lead to 7-2 and 12-3.

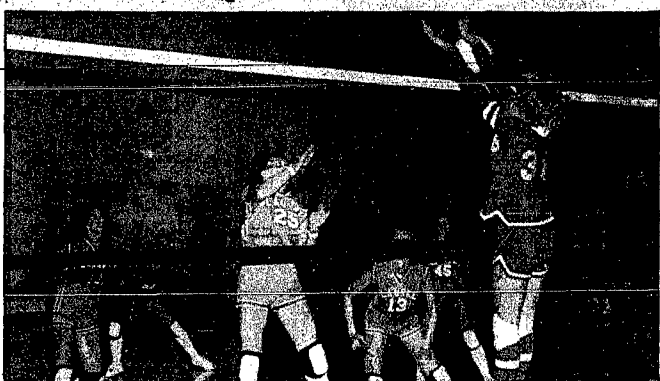

Substitute Kris Proeff broke a cold streak by scoring with her serves and bringing the score to 14-6. Peterson made the winning serve and Pronger spiked the ball for a 15-6 Wayne victory in the second set.

WAYNE'S MOMENTUM carried through the final set as the Blue Devils wrapped up the match. Despite some good defensive saves by Laurel's Anne Schultz, Wayne scored the first seven points.

The hosts finally put a point on the scoreboard at 7-1 but Wayne pulled away for a 15-2 triumph.

The winners were led in serving by Utecht with 21 service points and six aces. Stollenberg had 16 spikes and 13 kills and Pronger had 17 spikes and six kills at the net.

Wayne coach Mavis Dalton said she was pleased with the job Jill Zelas and Tammie Murray did of setting and bumping the ball.

Photograph: Randy Hascall

MANDY PETERSON (36) of Wayne blocks a spike of Laurel's Cyndia Jonas (25) as Laurel players Cammie Crookshank (13), Jayne Reynolds (45), Anne Schultz (33), and Renee Gadeken (51) prepare to return the ball.

She also said that Pronger's play was greatly improved. Peterson played well in the front row, she added.

THE BLUE DEVILS had set pre-game goals of 87 percent serving, 79 percent spiking and 11 kill spikes. They reached their goal of 79 percent efficiency in spiking but fell short in serving with a percentage of 77. However, the team had 25 kill spikes, more than double its goal.

"The big difference from Tuesday (loss to Schuyler) was that the girls kept the momentum going for themselves," coach Dalton said.

The Wayne coach said that she feels Laurel is a good team both offensively and defensively. "They're a hustling team. In the last game they lost the momentum," she added.

Renee Gadeken led the Bears at the net. She made 11 good spikes in 12 attempts and had seven ace spikes. Leading servers were Reynolds and Crookshank with seven points each.

LAUREL COACH Dwight Iverson was disappointed with his team's setting. "We only had about 15 good sets and our bumping was atrocious," Iverson said. "Wayne probably had five spikes for every one we had. We fell down early in the first set so we made some adjustments and came back," he continued. "I was impressed with Wayne. There are some good hitters there."

Laurel won the junior varsity match 15-5, 19-17. The winners were led by Carol Osborne with 14 points and Janet Cunningham with six ace dinks. Iverson complimented Renee Vanderheiden for a fine performance in that match.

Wayne's reserves were led by Fran Gross and Shelley Emry with eight points apiece. Reserve coach Dale Hochstein said that

Pam Nissen had an "outstanding all-around game" and added, "The team showed good movement. If we keep improving like that, we'll be a good team by mid-season."

IN THE FRESHMAN match, Laurel came out on top 15-5, 15-4. Lynn Malchow had 17 good serves in 17 attempts to extend her streak of good serves to 39 in two matches. She scored 14 points for the hosts.

Wayne's freshmen were led by Koleite Frevert with five points. Hochstein said the Wayne girls showed great improvement and had better movement and more control than in their previous outing.

Laurel is scheduled to compete in the Winside Tournament tonight (Monday) and tomorrow and will then host Plainview on Thursday. Wayne is scheduled to host West Point CC tomorrow (Tuesday).

Workers Needed at Ball Park

The Wayne ball park has seen considerable progress during the past two months. With a little help from local volunteers, the park will be nearly ready for organized baseball next spring.

A work session is scheduled at the ball park from 6 p.m. until dark tomorrow (Tuesday, Sept. 15). In kind labor is still needed to cover Wayne's portion of the cost of the project. Volunteers are asked to bring steel brushes to the field to help scrape the old paint off of the outfield fence. A chain saw also is needed to saw the tops off of the outfield posts.

The work crew will also clean up the grandstand to prepare for painting. Keith Kopperud has volunteered to paint the structure. Dirt was hauled and distributed on the ball field and grass was seeded on Friday and Saturday. Oite Construction erected chain link fence.

As soon as work on the outfield fence and grandstand is completed siding will be installed on the back of the grandstand. The siding was donated by Marra Home Improvement.

Then, later this fall, the remainder of the chain link fence will be erected, the outfield fence will be painted and an outfield gate will be installed.

Rec Football Practices Set.

The practice schedule for the Wayne Recreation football league was set up by Recreation Director Hank Overin.

Seventh grade boys will practice on Mondays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 p.m. Fifth and sixth graders will practice from 4 to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays. Third and fourth grade boys will practice from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

All practice sessions will be held at the National Guard Armory. When the monthly National Guard meetings interfere with Saturday practices, Overin will contact the players. Practice is scheduled to begin today (Monday).

Golfers Meet in League Finals

The top four golf teams will compete for honors as the Wayne Country Club league playoffs enter their final week.

Last Wednesday, Team 22 defeated Team 16 and Team 2 defeated Team 19. This week, Team 22 and Team 2 will clash in the championship match. Meanwhile, Team 16 will face Team 19 to decide third and fourth places.

Swimmers Wanted for Club

The Wayne Swim Club is looking for a few good swimmers. About to enter its winter season, the club is in need of some swimmers. Anyone who would like to join the team and can swim at least one length of the pool freestyle is invited to attend practice from 5:45 to 7 p.m. at the college pool any night this week (Monday through Friday).

Sid Hillier will again be coaching the Wayne team during the winter season. The first meet is scheduled Oct. 24 at South Sioux City. Assistant coaches are Darla (Shaw) Dagie and Dr. Richard DeNeeyer.

For more information about the Wayne Swim Club call Jan Liska at 375-1254 or Diana Runestad at 375-1968.

Hunting Seasons Are Set

The 1981 trapping, hunting and running seasons for six species were set at the Game and Parks Commission's meeting in Lincoln Aug. 28.

Trappers will have an addition 24 days to collect beaver pelts due to numerous damage complaints received this spring and summer. The high beaver population resulting from last year's low harvest was cited as the cause of the complaints following a sharp drop in the prices paid for beaver pelts last season and the reduction of the part of some buyers to purchase them. This year beaver may be trapped Nov. 25 through March 24, 1982. There is no limit on the number that may be taken.

The 1981 mink trapping season will be Nov. 5 through Jan. 31, 1982, and the muskrat season will be Nov. 5 through March 24, 1982. Raccoon and opossum may be hunted or trapped Nov. 5 through Jan. 7, 1982; and Bobcat may be hunted or trapped Dec. 15 through Jan. 15, 1982.

Which Way To Go?

WHICH WAY DO go when you can't find the street sign. Well, this Wayne youngster was lucky, she knew the neighborhood and took off for her destination after taking a second look at this Sherman and Tenth streets sign. The sign was pulled recently by crewmen working on Wayne's Sherman Street water-line project.

Though it remained like this for more than a week, neighbors managed to find their way around town anyway. The sign is on the southeast corner of the intersection. The house across the street is on the northwest corner of the intersection.

Thirteen Wayne State College coeds have been selected for the 1981 WSC Flag Squad which performs with the Wildcat Marching Band, according to Dr. Ray Kellon director of bands.

of Ullyses, sophomore music major; Kathy Masters of Wymore, sophomore business major; Min di Miles of Bennington, freshman business major.

Shay Muhle of Columbus, freshman elementary education major; Debbie Olsen of Bellevue, senior accounting major; Chris Penne of Belgrade, sophomore physical education major; and alternate Darcy Peterson of Schuyler, freshman elementary education major.

"The flag squad is not a separate group from the band," said Dr. Ray Kellon. "They work very closely with the band to put a good halftime show together, and I expect this year's squad to be nothing short of super."

FLAG CAPTAIN Lisa Althoff is looking forward to a bright year with the 1981 squad. "This year's squad is made up of a good group of girls," Althoff said. "They are more willing to work than in years past and more of them have been in a flag squad before so they know what will be expected of them."

The WSC Flag Squad will perform with the Wildcat Marching Band at "Band Day" on Sept. 19 during the WSC-Midland football game, on Oct. 10 during the WSC-Missouri Western game, and at Homecoming on Oct. 17 during the WSC-Fort Hays State game. Art Exhibit Opens at WSC Monday

Ted Blenderman's first major art exhibit in over 10 years will go on display today (Monday) in the Nordstrand Art Gallery in the Wayne State College Fine Arts Center.

The display will be included in Tuesday's "Fine Arts Open House" and will run through Sept. 25. The paintings will include watercolors, acrylics, mixed media and oil paintings.

Blenderman, who teaches speech and drama as well as art at Wayne High School and serves as the middle school counselor, is a native of Sioux City and has been at Wayne High for 11 years. Before that he taught in a Las Vegas, Nev., high school.

HE HAS also served as a part-time art instructor at Wayne State where he received his bachelor's and master's degrees. He has also studied at the Minnesota State Art Institute and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

The WSC exhibit will include works completed in the last three years. Blenderman said that when he started out as an artist he felt he should paint what other people wanted to see. It was a very frustrating time and he even stopped painting for awhile.

"Now, I paint for me," he said. "When I painted what I like, it was much more enjoyable and I found I had more success."

Blenderman said that as an instructor his major emphasis is on teaching basic art skills.

A reception for Blenderman is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 15, from 6:30 to 7 p.m. His works can be viewed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays through Sept. 25.

Q. What will happen to Individual Retirement Accounts under the new economic measures? And, with the tax cut, will they still be an attractive shelter?

A. Both the Administration and Congress feel Individual Retirement Accounts should be expanded - both in the amount of allowed contributions and in the kinds of people able to participate. In the new bill, for the first time, people who are already in tax-qualified pension plans (for example - through their employer's pension plan) can have their own Individual Retirement Account to enable them to increase their retirement savings while at the same time receiving valuable tax deductions. Also, the new bill will increase the maximum allowance to be deducted from taxable income from $1,500 to $2,000. For persons with non-working spouses the limit has increased to $2,500. And, yes, Individual Retirement Accounts are as attractive, if not more so - both as savings instruments and as tax shelters.

Wayne Doctors Launch Active Recruitment Plan

Wayne doctors have launched an active recruitment program for new physicians. According to Dr. Willis Wiseman, one of Wayne's four general practitioners, the recruiters are looking for general practitioners who are well-trained and want to live in the Midwest.

"The people aren't hard to find, Wiseman said. But, convincing them that this is the place to settle is difficult.

MOST PEOPLE, wives in particular, want to leave their families accessible, Wiseman said. So the doctors have had very little success recruiting those who don't live in the Midwest.

"Primarily, we look for people who have finished family practice residencies in the Midwest. There is no shortage of people to pick from," he said.

But the recruiters have to convince those doctors to come to Wayne. And the hospital is one of their biggest selling points.

"The facilities here are tremendous — absolutely exceptional," he said. "It's one of the best in the state."

THE COLLEGE and the cultural and educational opportunities it (Wayne) offers also are big selling points, Wiseman added.

Wayne's doctors also rely on the city's Chamber of Commerce to provide information and literature about the community.

Among those things considered by most projects, according to Wiseman, are how the present practices are managed, the workload and responsibilities, time spent on call, time off, and backup arrangements at the hospital with area specialists.

In addition to seeking recruits who want to live in the Midwest, the recruiters also seek doctors who can take care of patients of all ages — "a well-rounded, evenly distributed person," Wiseman explained.

RECRUITING EFFORTS were successful two years ago when Dr. James Lindau moved to Wayne.

Both he and his wife, Cheryl, are from Wahoo. They have two children.

Wiseman said he did not know just how many more doctors the group needs to recruit.

"All of Northeast Nebraska is underdoctored. And the more doctors you have, the busier you get," he said.

Now, the doctors have a "very busy practice," probably as busy as we can be. We can't assume much more."

Despite the heavy workload, the doctors do not turn away new patients, said Wiseman, who has practiced medicine in Wayne for seven years.

Wiseman and his wife, Karen, a Wayne native, have four children.

VILLAGE TO "PROCEED IMMEDIATELY with improvements to the water works plant and water system, consisting of construction of a well, without advertising for bids."

STATING THAT ONE of the village's two wells has failed, the ordinance authorizes immediate action "to prevent serious loss of — or injury or damage to — health or property."

Without the new proposed well

"firefighting ability would be greatly hampered and the potable drinking supply of water in the village would be insufficient," according to the emergency ordinance.

The board has signed a contract with Robert E. Schweser Co. of Omaha, a bond company, as part of the financial plan to underwrite the cost of the new well.

According to Wylie, the village will use bond anticipation notes as an interim financing measure.

No completion target date has been set.

ING THE TOTAL ESTIMATES within the previously recommended $214,661 budget.

The projects are included in some $900,000 in discretionary funds the trustees will be seeking from the Legislature during the 1982-83 session.

According to Cramer, who is chairman of the board's Budget and Legislative Subcommittee, the $900,000 in discretionary funds would be used for salary upgrading, new programs and expanded services.

The priority list presented Friday showed a cumulative cost — in new general funds — of $226,900 for the nine projects. The figure is some $12,000 over the board's recommended ceiling.

SOME OF THE proposed projects will require a reallocation of existing funds in the budgets of the colleges seeking approval of the programs.

For instance, Chadron State College's proposal for a computer information system for its academic program, which is No. 3 of a system-wide priority list, is expected to be financed with $27,500 in new funds, plus $27,500 in reallocated funds.

However, a Wayne State College proposal, which would add two new associate professorships at a cost of $44,000, would be underwritten in new funds without any college budget reallocation.

Of course, the nine priority proposals are, at this stage, only recommendations to the governor and the Legislature.

Wayne State College's only proposal (the associate professorships) earned a No. 2 ranking on the system-wide priority list for 1982-83.

During the September meeting, which was interrupted by a

WSC Enrollment Holds

Enrollment at Wayne State College is holding. In fact, depending on the definition of a student, it may even be growing some.

"We have slightly fewer full-time students, but more part-time students and more extended-campus students," Dr. Lyle Seymour, WSC president, told the Nebraska State Colleges' Board of Trustees Friday as the campus hosted the group for its September meeting.

AND, WSC'S hometown representative on the board, Alan Cramer, publisher of The Wayne Herald, added that the news comes as a pleasant surprise to the trustees.

"There's been a lot in the media about how college enrollments are going to decline... that the baby boom is over and the colleges are feeling the impact," said Cramer, who is vice chairman of the board.

"We're surprised that it is not happening," he said. "Enrollments are holding steady. If not increasing a small amount."

Declining enrollments signal declining budgets in the four state colleges — Wayne, Kearney, Chadron and Peru — and the threat of diminished educational opportunity.

"I'M CONCERNED about the budgeting process," said Cramer, who is chairman of the board's Budget and Legislative Subcommittee.

"Nebraska's personal income tax is tied to the federal income tax... a straight percentage. So, when taxes are slashed at the national level, it affects the whole state, and certainly the state colleges," he said.

30-MINUTE executive session on salary negotiations, college presidents Lyle Seymour of Wayne, Larry Tangeman of Peru, Brendan McDonald of Kearney and Edwin Nelson of Chadron presented brief reports to the board.

McDonald, chairman of the Nebraska State Colleges' Council of Presidents, also presented that group's report, which outlined goals for the coming year.

The thrust of the council's goals emphasized academic evaluation, particularly in the area of communications skills at the baccalaureate degree level, and college relations.

AT ONE POINT, McDonald said the council had decided to explore the possibilities of using public service spots for the state

Hospital

The three-tab technicians in Wayne — available 24 hours a day for any kind of test — are "very good," West said.

They recently participated in a nationwide lab study in which they analyzed prepared slides, then sent them back for comparison with the results determined by other doctors. And the staffers "finished right at the top," he said.

Another top technician at the hospital is Sister M. Kevin Hermsen, a registered X-ray technician with training in nuclear medicine and ultra sound.

THE X-RAY machine she works with features a tomogram, which synchronizes everything on the machine and the photographic plate used.

This lets her focus on x-ray a specific axis and clarifies it tremendously, West said. "It's proven useful on several occasions involving head injuries, when fractures were not visible on plain film, and detected a couple of potentially serious injuries."

Sister Kevin also consults with three radiologists from Norfolk.

Strains and stresses detected by these x-rays are treated in physical therapy, West said.

Registered therapist Carol Sheldon of Wayne is at the hospital three days a week, and the aids are available seven days a week.

Aids include a whirlpool large enough for a person with a chair that lifts the patient up, turns him around and lets him crawl in.

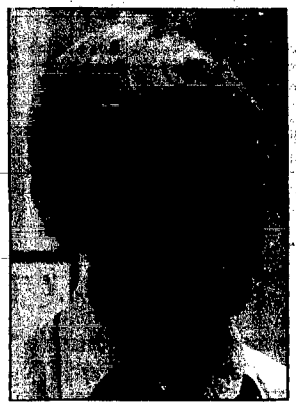

"This saves a lot of backs," he said. "Many patients can't crawl into the whirlpool."

There is also a whirlpool for use on arms and legs, he added.

THE EMERGENCY room is at the east end of the hospital.

Equipment for quick treatment lines the shelves. "It's not always calm in here," West said, pointing to a crack in the tile above the sink.

Student health services are next door. The room is a waiting room for ill visiting Wayne State College students and doubles as a classroom for CPR and LaMaze programs. Both classes are "very active" in Wayne, West said.

Wayne State students pay $8 per semester for health fees. In return, they may visit the center from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. daily for checkups and get any medication the college may buy — penicillin, cold medicines and two types of antibiotics — for free.

Emergency room visits are also free during these hours.

IF MORE URGENT procedures are necessary, the four Wayne general practitioners — Willis Wiseman, James Lindau, Robert Bentback and Walter Bentback — can perform surgery at the hospital.

Three out-of-town consultant surgeons also are available. They include urologist Dr. Cissel Bromfield of Lincoln, orthopedic surgeon Dr. Marcellus Golf of Norfolk and general surgeon Dr. Hal Danheim of Norfolk.

The facilities are equipped with Lifepak's for heart emergencies and a "crash cart" stocked with everything needed for other emergencies.

Patients' hearts are continuously monitored from the time they are put under anesthesia until they are awake, West said.

There's also a room available for dental surgery, he added. But dentists have to bring their own equipment to the hospital. And, patients can be referred to Dr. Robert Smith in Norfolk.

AFTER SURGERY, patients recover in one of 28 private rooms, or one of two Intensive Care Units.

Patients have their own telephones, televisions and bathtubs, West said.

The intensive-care rooms are right next to the nurses' station. The patient's heart activity is continuously monitored, and these monitors are linked to the desk.

Doubling as a second operating room if needed, the delivery room at Providence features a birthing chair for mothers in labor.

THE CHAIR makes "it more efficient for mothers to have a baby and easier for them to push. They can also change positions in the chair," West explained.

Obstetricians have had nothing but good to say about the chair. "It's a lot more comfortable and easier for the mothers to push," he said.

Since the hospital got the chair a few years ago, the delivery table has rarely been used.

A fetal monitor is available for babies in distress during the delivery. It monitors the baby's heartbeat and the mother's contractions while the baby is still in the uterus, and prints out the information.

The nursery can hold "however many babies there are" at a given time, West said. It features an incubator, Bilirubin lights for jaundiced babies and a big wooden rocking chair for fussy newborns.

OTHER ROOMS in the hospital include a chapel designed for all denominations, a family room for mourning, a visitor's solarium and a dining room that could be found in any Midwestern steakhouse.

The dining room offers a place for nurses to relax on their breaks, as it's completely away from the patients, West said.

All meals are planned by Tama Krause, a registered dietician. And the only consistent complaint about the food is that patients are served too much of it, he said.

The Meals-on-Wheels program also originates at the hospital kitchen.

The hospital's biggest benefit, though, is its personable and friendly nursing staff, West continued.

IN ADDITION, there are two registered nurses — Betty Reag and Ann Witkowski — who follow up on discharged patients through a home health care program.

After patients are referred to the nurses by doctors, they call on those who can't get to the clinics, West explained.

The nurses investigate the home situations and check to make sure patients are getting the proper nutrition, medication and therapy.

"For instance, some people recovering from congestive heart failure often follow a complicated medication program. And some people with diabetes, particularly those on insulin, have trouble seeing the lines on their medication bottles and can't gauge their dosages," he said.

When the doctor is satisfied the nurses are no longer needed, they are taken off the case, he said.

"I'M AMAZED at this place," West said. "It's very progressive in equipment and knowledge."

Staffers have transported critical-condition patients by helicopter to other hospitals. A helicopter landing pad behind the hospital facilitates 24-hour air ambulance service.

West said that equipment requests that show some cost-effectiveness are usually honored.

Some people feel that all of this advanced equipment isn't necessary and just raises the bills, West said.

"But there are pros and cons," he explained. "It takes a lot of gas to drive to Sioux City for the same care."

The well-equipped facilities offer patients hometown care, which also allows hospital bed visitation — often a key to patient recovery, according to West.

LOOKING AROUND at the "beautiful architecture" of the Chapin Room, West summed up his view of the hospital.

"It's a darn good medical facility for a town this size," he said.

police report

A bicycle owned by Bonnie Hintz of Wayne was severely damaged by vandals earlier this week, according to Wayne Police.

Hintz told police that someone slashed the bicycle's rear tire, deflated the front tire, bent the rear wheel fender and damaged more than 20 wheel spokes.

According to police reports, the bicycle was parked in the Hintz yard between two other bikes at the time of the vandalism, which Hintz said took place on Tuesday evening.

The other two bicycles were not damaged.

IN OTHER police action this week, an officer spent some time with a juvenile and his parents over a BB gun incident on Logan Street.

Police reports show that a juvenile was apprehended and taken to his parents after the 6:14 p.m. Thursday incident.

And, on Wednesday, police warned the drivers of two cars to stay away from Wayne High School unless they had business there.

The youths, one driving a Gold Chevrolet and the other driving a silver Trans Am, were causing trouble at the high school about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to school administrators and police.

AND, WITH the hunting seasons in the offing, local trappers apparently irritated neighbors during a meet at the Wayne County Fairgrounds Tuesday evening.

Police reports indicate there may have been some late-evening traphooting Tuesday. At 10:10 p.m., police responded to complaints and referred the matter to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

On Monday, Harold Murray, Wayne, reported that a battery had been stolen from his vehicle, which had been parked behind his house.

Murray reported the theft at 10:17 a.m. Monday.

YOU CAN EARN MORE THAN 15% ON YOUR MONEY when you buy a home! It's true — homes have gone up an average of 15% per year in the last 5 years! And unlike interest, gains on real estate is deferred and taxed at the capital gains rate. And you can buy a Sunrise Townhouse Condo at last year's price, but don't wait! Builders and developers must pay interest too, and the price must go up! Yes, you can actually save by buying now when interest rates are high and construction costs are low. And you own a Sunrise Townhouse just like any home or real estate, except:

1. You save on the purchase price because construction costs are lower.
2. You don't worry about maintenance and insurance.
3. You don't worry about snow and lawn service.
4. The exterior real estate is owned jointly by all owners.
5. You are always a member of the Homeowners' association.
6. Condos have a better tax advantage for those that need every deduction you can get. Each 1186 sq. foot Townhouse has oak cabinets and trim, dishwasher, main floor laundry, private patio, central air, gas heat, a complete energy efficient insulation package, and are situated on the highest hill in Wayne, next to the college and hospital. The Marywood subdivision is a prestigious place to live, and an "easy to sell someday" type of location that will protect your investment for years to come.

So don't put your money in the bank and pay taxes on the interest. You not only defer the tax on real estate appreciation, you only pay of the capital gains rate (about 30% of the regular rate).
