Roller Rink Skates Past City Planners

After more than three years of waiting, Angie Karel's dream is finally coming true. The 15-year old Wayne skater plans to try out her dream, a brand new roller rink, as soon as Wayne area farmer Herman Luschen opens the front door. That's expected to be by mid November.

LUSCHEN, WHO is constructing the new roller skating rink in Wayne's old International Harvester building on Main Street south, has received unanimous City Planning and Zoning Commission approval for a conditional use permit. Approval came Monday night, after a public hearing on the roller rink during the commission's October meeting.

Angie, a sophomore at Wayne High School, wasn't at the meeting, but she remembers one conducted by the City Council just over three years ago.

She remembers it because she was there with a petition — a petition asking the city to build a roller skating rink for the youngsters in Wayne.

"I WAS SO nervous," Angie said, recalling the night she attended the City Council meeting with the Wayne Middle School petition in her hand.

"We had about 200 signatures from all the kids at the school," she recalled.

Angie and her friends circulated the petition at the middle school and when they had the signatures they felt they needed, she approached Gary Van Meter, then manager of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

"They wanted me to present it to the Council," Van Meter, now owner and manager of Mines Jewelry, "I told her that I thought they should present it to them (the Council)."

AND, THAT they did Angie's classmates selected her for the job.

She went alone. Van Meter was there for moral support.

Angie presented the petition to then Mayor Freeman Decker.

"He asked me if I had any ideas about where the city could build it," she recalled.

"We plain didn't have the money," recalled Decker. "It would have had to have come out of the recreation department budget or the general fund, but there was no money there for it. And, we didn't have any facilities, no place to build one. We were sympathetic to her idea, though."

ANGIE, WHO was a sixth grader at the time, said she never heard from the Council again.

But, recently she heard that Wayne was about to get a roller skating rink.

"It's just great," the brown-eyed sophomore said. "Lots of people are pretty happy about it. We usually go to Sioux City or Wakefield, but now I'll be right here."

Angie, the daughter of Terry and Ronnie Karel, Wayne, said her classmates are talking about it and "excited" by the prospect.

"Will you just tell those guys thank you for getting it going," said the tall, brunette skater.

Entomologist Uses 4-H Years As a Springboard for Career

By Randall Howell

Like any normal farm boy, Mike Rethwisch grew up catching butterflies and bugs.

His first catches went into jars, cans and pockets.

Later, they became award-winning 4-H Club exhibits, garnering ribbons at the Wayne County Fair and the Nebraska State Fair.

TODAY, THE 22-year-old Wayne County man still catches butterflies and bugs.

An entomologist with the University of Nebraska's Northeast Station, Concord, Rethwisch studies the specimens for agriculture pest control.

The 1981 University of Nebraska-Lincoln graduate has been at it for two consecutive summers, after a dozen years of 4-H entomology projects.

Combining his 12 years of 4-H insect projects with a double major — entomology and agronomy — and a minor in life sciences, Rethwisch has parlayed the experience into a career.

Last week, while working on soybean insect pests at his Northeast Station desk, Rethwisch took time to recall his experiences as part of a salute to area youngsters marking National 4-H Week, Oct. 4-10. The theme is "4-H Pathways to the Future."

THE SON of Dwaine and Carol Rethwisch, Mike grew up on a farm about three miles west of Wayne.

The oldest of four children, he remains on that farm today, commuting to the Northeast Station until his summer job ends "in a few weeks."

Rethwisch plans to help his father with the corn harvest after his work at the Northeast Station is finished.

"Then, I'll probably go to graduate school at UNL in January," the lanky scientist explained, acknowledging that he's uncertain just where he'll end up in the field of entomology — the branch of zoology that deals with insects.

THAT UNCERTAINTY doesn't keep him from crediting his involvement with 4-H for education, experience and guidance in his chosen field, and beyond.

"I definitely think if (4-H) is worth it," he said, "in 4-H, it's not someone else doing it for you. And, you get exposed to a lot of

Dear Readers,

Thanksgiving Day is only a few short weeks away. It's a day we set aside each year to be thankful for the many good things in our lives.

If you are like me, some very special "good things" have happened to you over the years because someone took the time to care, or to help.

And, if you are like me, there is no way you could possibly repay that special someone for that good deed, that act of kindness.

Maybe you got the chance to quietly thank them, vowing to seek a more suitable way to show your gratitude.

Or, maybe you didn't get the chance to thank them at all. Well, The Wayne Herald staff is willing and ready to help you with that. All you have to do is take a few moments during the next few weeks to tell us about it in your own words.

So, get a pencil or pen and a piece of paper. Write us — in 500 words or less — about that good turn, that special person. Please pick a "special someone" who is alive and in our circulation area, so they can read about your thankfulness.

You see, if you drop your personal story in the mail to us by Tuesday, Nov. 10, we'll publish it. We'll publish it — just as you wrote it with your name on it — in a special Thanksgiving Day section of the newspaper, entitled: "Why I'm Thankful."

That section will be published on Wednesday, Nov. 25 — the day before Thanksgiving Day.

Maybe you'll write about Aunt Kate, who helped out last winter when mother was ill. Or, maybe you'll write about grandma and the special tea-cakes she used to make for you. Or, maybe you'll write about your neighbor, who is always walking that extra mile to give you a helping hand.

Whoever it is, tell us your story. Sign your name, include your address and telephone number. Then, drop it in the mail to:

Why I'm Thankful
The Wayne Herald
P.O. Box 71
Wayne, NE 68787

Our panel of judges will select the best "Why I'm Thankful" story in four categories — kindergarten through fourth grade, fifth grade through eighth grade, ninth grade through 12th grade, and adult (out of high school).

The Wayne Herald will accept drawings from those kindergartners and first-graders who would rather show, than tell, their thankfulness.

Four Wayne merchants — Bill's GW, Wellman's IGA, Rich's Super Foods and Johnson's Frozen Foods, will provide the winning writers with a free Thanksgiving Day Turkey. And, Bill's GW will provide a free tub of broasted chicken to the "special people" the winners write about.

So, write on.

Candy Bars and Quarters Stolen During 2 Weekend Break-Ins

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is searching for someone with a sweet tooth and pockets bulging with quarters and candy bars.

According to Acting Sheriff Scotty Thompson, that's what thieves stole during a weekend break in at the Dude Ranch Drive-In Theatre snack bar and projection building, just north of Wayne on State Highway 15.

Thieves also broke into the Wayne County Club clubhouse over the weekend and left with change from unlocked cash registers, according to the Wayne Police Department.

Acting Sheriff Thompson said the outdoor theatre break in occurred between 11 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday.

BREAKING into the building through the west door, the thieves also broke into two game machines — a pinball machine and a video machine — taking about $150 in quarters, Thompson said.

In addition, they grabbed $6 in pennies and nickels from a cash drawer in the snack bar's popcorn machine, Thompson added.

Then, they snatched 50 Whatchamacallit candy bars and 50 small bags of M&M candies (plain), worth a total of $40.

Thompson said the case is still under investigation.

THEIVES gained entry to the Country Club clubhouse by smashing a window out of a door on the west side of the building, according to Wayne Police, who investigated that incident.

Rudy Froeschle, golf pro, reported that a drawer in a clubhouse office desk was bent by the thieves, apparently in an unsuccessful attempt to open it.

Froeschle reported the break in after discovering it at 6:02 a.m. Sunday, according to police.

Former Astronaut To Speak Tuesday On WSC Campus

Former NASA astronaut Captain James Lovell will be on the Wayne State College campus Tuesday, Oct. 13, to give an 8 p.m. address in Rice Auditorium. The free program is open to everyone. High school science classes and clubs may find the program particularly interesting.

LOVELL, who retired from the United States Navy in 1975 after over 20 years of service, has logged over 715 hours in space on a variety of flights.

His first assignment for NASA came in December of 1965 when Lovell and Frank Borman were launched into space on Gemini 7, the mission that featured the first rendezvous of two manned maneuverable spacecraft.

Lovell commended the Gemini 12 mission in which he and pilot Edwin Aldrin orbited the earth for four days. Gemini 12 brought the Gemini program to a successful close in late 1966.

The next mission was the epic Apollo 8, man's first voyage to the moon in December of 1968. On that flight, Lovell along with Borman and William Anders became the first humans to leave the earth's gravitational force. Lovell served as Command Module Pilot and Navigator on the six-day adventure.

PERHAPS the most exciting mission for Lovell was his last, Apollo 13. Lovell served as spacecraft commander for the six-day trek in April of 1970 that was shortened from its original 10-day flight plan due to a malfunction in their oxygen system.

Lovell and fellow crewman John Swigert and Fred Haise, working closely with NASA ground controllers in Houston, converted their lunar module "Aquarius" into an effective "lifeboat" that assured their safe return to earth. Despite the problems, the mission earned Lovell the distinction of being the first human to journey to the moon twice.

Since leaving NASA, Lovell has had little spare time. He is involved in numerous organizations, and currently works for the Centel Business Systems of Chicago. He is a consultant on the President's Council of Physical Fitness and is affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America. He is also part owner of the aptly-named Houston "Astros" professional baseball team.

Lovell's talk at Wayne State College will deal primarily with the Apollo 13 flight. He will also show a film of that mission. Following his presentation, the WSC Student Senate will hold a reception for him.

First Production of Season

'All My Sons' Opens Sunday at WSC

Final preparations are underway for the Wayne State Theatre Department's fall production, "All My Sons," by Arthur Miller.

The drama, under the direction of Dr. Helen Russell, will be presented in Ramsey Theatre, which is located in the Fine Arts building on the Wayne State College campus.

Art Dirks is the set designer and technical supervisor for the production.

IN 1947, the year that "All My Sons" was originally produced, the critics praised the play and its author.

Critic Joseph Wood Krutch proclaimed, "All My Sons" strikes with real dramatic force."

The Saturday Review commented, "Long before his (Miller's) people explode, their inner tensions make themselves felt...So far as promising new dramatics are concerned, Miller gives us hope."

"And, according to Time magazine, "All My Sons" has a theatrical force...He (Miller) combines enough purposefulness with enough power to make him the most interesting of Broadway's new serious playwrights."

THE PLAY is a social criticism involving the interrelationships of the Joe Keller family with their feelings of responsibility toward society.

Wayne Lorenzen of Lyons is cast as Joe Keller in the Wayne State production.

Lorenzen is a senior majoring in music with concentration on voice. He has played roles as a lawyer in "West of the Pecos," as Valentine in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," and he recently played two roles in the Wayne Com-unity Theatre production of "My Fair Lady."

CAST AS Kate Keller is Jeannie Robinson, a senior majoring in theatre with a minor in business administration.

She has had major roles in "Little Foxes," "Alice in Wonderland," "An Enemy of the People" and "The Shadow Box."

Jeannie, who comes to Wayne State from Fort Calhoun, is president of Alpha Psi Omega, the honorary dramatics fraternity. She has served as crew head for properties, publicity and costumes.

THE ROLE of Chris Keller is being played by Tim Gall, a theatre major who comes to Wayne State from Madison.

His previous acting credits include

Jeannie Robinson

leads in "Once Upon a Mattress," "Blazing Guns at Roaring Gulch," "Death and Life of Sneaky Fitch,"

"Bye, Bye Birdie," "California Suite" and "Unknown Soldier."

Tim is minoring in music.

CORINNE GEORGE, who hails from Winside, has been cast as Ann Deever.

Corinne is a sophomore with a double major in theatre and home economics.

She has recently appeared in "Little Foxes" as Alexandria, and in "The Lion in Winter" as Alian. Previous plays she has appeared in are "Alice in Wonderland" and "You Can't Take It With You."

Corinne is pledged to Alpha Psi Omega, the honorary dramatics fraternity.

Tim Gall

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast include Brad Wignall as George Deever; Jed Friedrichsen as Dr. Jim Bayliss; Susan Buss as Sue Bayliss; James Fouk as Frank Luby; Michele Brockmoller as Lydia Luby; and Joy Hewitt as Beth.

THE PRODUCTION staff includes several specialized crews.

Chris Hennig is acting as assistant director/stage manager. On lights is Colleen Stehner, with Don Green as master electrician.

Properties crew is headed up by props master Pam Elbracht, with Rob Tiedgen and Sandy Enzlinger assisting. On costumes are wardrobe mistress Michele Brockmoller, and assistants Marisa Hall and Jean O'Neill.

Corinne George

Brinary. Scenery is being attended to by Susan Buss, James Fouk, Tim Gall, Jed Friedrichsen, Wayne Lorenzen, Jeannie Robinson and Zbawn Snyder.

The skirt fell in soft folds to form a chapel-length train.

To complete her ensemble the bride chose a hat turned up on the left side to add a touch of elegance. The hat was edged in silk Venice lace and accented with flowers. Veiling was draped around the top of the hat and swept down the back.

She carried a bouquet of natural dried flowers including German statice, wheat and baby's breath.

THE BRIDESMAIDS wore two-piece copper gowns. The crisscross draped bodices of Quiana were held by shoulder straps on circular skirts.

The gowns were accented with chiffon jackets designed with dyed to match Venice lace on the cap sleeves.

They wore wrist bouquets of natural dried flowers, with matching flowers in their hair.

THE BRIDEGROOM wore an ivory full dress tail coat tuxedo, and his attendants were attired in walnut Blake tuxedos with matching bow ties and ivory shirts.

The mother of the bride wore a long, teal green dress of poly magic knit, fashioned with a crystal pleated skirt enhanced with iridescent motifs at the empire waistline. A chiffon cape covered the halter-type bodice.

Wayne State Concert Choir

Performing With Robert Shaw

The Wayne State College Concert Choir, directed by Cornell Runestad, will perform in Lincoln next month with renowned choral director Robert Shaw.

Shaw, music director and conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, will be at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, Nov. 20 and 21, to conduct Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem."

The performances will be held at 8 p.m. in O'Donnell Auditorium in the Rogers Center for Fine Arts, on the Wesleyan Campus.

PERFORMING with Shaw in addition to the Wayne State Choir, will be the Nebraska Wesleyan University Concert Choir; the Union College Unionists; the University of Nebraska Singers; the First Plymouth Abendmusik Chorus; the Puerto Cantores; fifty yodanis boys, ages 9-13, representing some 20 schools across the city of Lincoln; the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra; a select 12 member chamber orchestra; and guests soloists Jean Herzberg, soprano; Edward Crafts, baritone; and Gene Tucker, tenor.

TICKETS for "War Requiem" will be $10, all seats reserved. Mail and phone reservations will be accepted at Nebraska Wesleyan University, 207 Smith/Curtis, 50th and St. Paul, Lincoln, Neb., 68504. Phone 462-466-2371, ext. 319.

No reservations will be accepted without check or credit card charge authorization (Master Charge or Visa).

BRITTEN wrote his Requiem to celebrate the restoration of St. Michael's cathedral in Coventry, England, a church that had suffered considerable damage during World War II.

The work combines the traditional form of the Latin Mass for the Dead with the poetry of young English soldier-poet, Wilfred Owen, killed in France just before the Armistice in 1918.

BRITTEN's "War Requiem" has been called one of the most significant compositions of this century.

SHAW, founder and conductor of the famed Robert Shaw Chorale, is Music Director and Conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra.

He is a regular guest of the nation's major orchestras.

His honors include five Grammy Awards, two ASCAP awards for service to contemporary music, honorary degrees and awards from 28 U.S. colleges, universities and foundations, including the first Guggenheim Fellowship, plus awards from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Alice M. Dixon (Columbia University) Award for Service to American Music.

JEAN BARRY, Multiple Sclerosis Mother of the Year in South Dakota, is pictured with her son, Mike, and daughter Kim. Jean's husband, Doug, is athletic director and head football coach at the University of South Dakota at Springfield (USD/S). A special award was presented to Jean on Thursday, Oct. 1.

Former Wayne Woman Is MS Mother of the Year

Jean Barry, a former resident of Wayne, recently was named South Dakota's "MS Mother of the Year."

Jean was a student at Wayne State College during 1966-67 and worked in the college library from January 1968 until March 1970. Her husband, Doug, a graduate assistant in physical education at Wayne State during the 1973 academic year, was named Director of Financial Aids and assistant football coach in 1974 and held that position until August of 1978.

He currently is athletic director and head football coach at the University of South Dakota at Springfield (USD/S).

AS SOUTH DAKOTA'S MS Mother of the Year, Jean was presented a special award last week at the USD/S Armory at a benefit MS carnival.

The fund raising carnival was sponsored by the Springfield Jaycettes to raise money for things Jean could use, for the state organization to distribute materials, and for national research.

CINDY TOLSMA, a member of the Springfield Jaycettes, said a conversation with Jean leaves one with jumbled feelings — surprise at her sincerity, warmth from her wit, guilt for one's own petty complaints, anger at a disease with no one to blame, and, above, all, a deep admiration for Jean's courage and strength.

Bill Clapper, state director, emphasizes that Jean is a "wonderful mother under very handicapping circumstances."

HAVING HAD multiple sclerosis for nine years, Jean is now in a wheelchair, but refuses to consider herself "confined."

As the wife of the USD/S Athletic Director, Jean is determined to never miss a game. At a recent Parents' Day football game she was seen on the sidelines trying out her new electric wheelchair, "Amigo," which, Jean boasts, "can reach speeds of up to three miles per hour."

JEAN'S FIRST symptoms of MS appeared while she was pregnant with their daughter Kim, now 10 years old. By the time the disease was diagnosed a year and a half later, she was experiencing double vision and had numbness in her hands.

Son Michael, now eight, was born a short time later.

"What a coincidence," laughs Jean as she recalls her work as an MS chairman in Nebraska long before she knew she had the disease.

Jean has given numerous speeches on MS and is also a member of the Lutheran church, Faculty Dames, and the Yankton chapter of the MS Society.

SOUTH DAKOTA MS director Bill Clapper said South Dakota has more MS cases per capita than any other state in the union.

Clapper said there are seven and a half times more cases of MS in South Dakota than MD (muscular dystrophy), and there are triple the number of children affected by MS because it strikes young persons just beginning their adult lives.

IT WAS with these thoughts in mind that the Springfield Jaycettes decided to sponsor an MS Fund Raising Carnival last week.

During the event Jean received her award as South Dakota's "MS Mother of the Year." Her family was present for the occasion.

JEAN'S MOTHER, newspaper columnist and poet Addie Scheve of Battle Creek, describes her daughter in a special poem. Bits of the poem are as follows:

And the stalk didn't have the strength to support the huge blossom

This lovely lilly broken at the stem just in the prime of bloom

Like others, with handicaps, she seems doubly blessed. With courage, love and humor

Enough, in fact, to pass around to everyone she meets.

Reeg-Denklaue Say Vows

Sue Reeg and Wayne Denklaue Jr. exchanged marriage vows in Sept. 25 rites at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The bride is the daughter of Glenadine Barker of Wayne and Gene Barker of Wakefield. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Denklaue Sr., Winside.

The Rev. Doniver Peterson of Wayne officiated at the 4 o'clock double ring ceremony.

FOR HER wedding day, the bride chose an ivory street-length dress of polyester crepe, fashioned with a dyed-to-match lace collar and bodice front, long, banded sleeves and shirred skirt. The waistline featured a pearlized button closing and belt.

She carried ivory roses with yellow, pink, lavender and blue forget-me-nots, and blue and ivory ribbon.

MAID OF honor was Joyce Barker of Wayne, and best man was Bill Bernstrauch of Norfolk.

The bride's attendant wore a street-length polyester cotton multi-print on ivory. Her dress was designed with lace at the collar, a front tie at the neck, elbow-length elasticized sleeves, and a shirred skirt which fell from an elasticized waistline.

She carried an ivory rose with yellow, pink, lavender and blue forget-me-nots, and lavender and ivory ribbon.

THE BRIDE was attended by Sherri Barker of Norfolk and the bride's son, Jeremy Reeg of Wayne, and gifts were arranged by Cindy and Cathy Denklaue of Clinton, Iowa. Gift carriers were Kristi Reeg of Wayne, daughter of the bride, and Vickie Meier of Belden.

THE CAKE, baked by Judy Meier of Belden, was cut and served by Cindy Roland of Wayne and Cindy Meier of Norfolk. Jana Barker of Scottsbluff

A RECEPTION and dance were held at the Winside auditorium following the ceremony.

Guests were registered by Sherri Barker of Norfolk and the bride's son, Jeremy Reeg of Wayne, and gifts were arranged by Cindy and Cathy Denklaue of Clinton, Iowa. Gift carriers were Kristi Reeg of Wayne, daughter of the bride, and Vickie Meier of Belden.

Local Church Showing Film 'Ordinary Guy'

"Ordinary Guy," a new 70-minute motion picture, will be shown this Sunday at Christian Life Assembly, 901 Circle Dr., in Wayne.

The public is invited to view the film at 7:30 p.m., according to the Rev. A. R. Weiss.

ALTHOUGH THERE have been many films which have told the stories of "famous" Christian athletes, musicians and politicians, "Ordinary Guy" tells the story of a member of the Christian population's other 99 percent.

"ORDINARY GUY" is the last, paced, often funny story of an ordinary Christian guy, his lukewarm fiancée, her unbelieving sister, and their ultra-pragmatic father.

"It's message is for everyone," said Pastor Weiss.

Shy, Four-Legged Ball Retriever Guards the Greens at Wayne CC

By Randy Hascall

She loves candy bars, likes to play pranks and has a mind of her own. Often, she escorts her friends on 18 holes of golf.

Her name is Lady and the black and white dog has become the mascot of the Wayne Country Club. She adopted the golf course as her home and now she won't leave the premises of the course.

Lady must have a little bit of golfer's blood in her body. Once the stray dog ventured onto the golf course for the first time in early spring, she has never left.

THE TIMID DOG was first spotted in April by groundskeeper Jim Evans. Evans was mowing one day and saw a black object in a field just north of the golf course. He said he couldn't tell what the stationary object was for quite awhile.

Days later, the dog had built up enough courage to wander onto the course where people were. She began following Evans' mower but never got close to him or any other humans for quite some time.

Wayne Country Club pro Rudy Froeschle said that he saw the dog hanging around before the course opened last spring but pointed out that she was so shy she would stay about 50 feet away from anyone.

I was concerned she might have rabies so after about a week I called the police and they tried to coax the dog in but couldn't get close," Froeschle said. "I didn't feed her anything for two weeks. She was so skinny that I finally got some dog food and since then there was no keeping her away."

AFTER MAKING FRIENDS, the dog was given its name, Lady, by Jill Perry. Now, every local golfer knows Lady and most look for her when they go out to play 18 holes.

Lady seems to make her home base near the club house but can be found on any area of the golf course at any time. "She seems to patrol the perimeters of the course and tries to keep the course safe from jack rabbits," jokes Froeschle.

Most golfers swear that Lady never leaves the golf course at any time. She has truly adopted the course as her home.

Froeschle said that most golfers seem to like the dog. Many even chipped in money when a collection was taken up to pay for vaccination and various shots.

AFTER IT was apparent that Lady had found a home, Froeschle, Lyle Garvin and Don Echlenkamp decided to take the dog in for a rabies shot.

They found Lady out on the course and quickly learned that she refuses to ride a golf cart. The trio wrestled her down and carried the pooch up to the clubhouse.

"She has us all trained pretty well. She won't ride a cart," said Froeschle. "She won't do anything she doesn't want to do."

Froeschle said the dog was partial to children when it began to make friends. At first, Lady distrusted men, Froeschle said. The dog is still timid but has made many friends. According to Froeschle, Lady has a personality of her own and is popular with most of the golfers.

LADY LIKES to play pranks on the local golfers. Among her favorite tricks is to pick up a golf ball and carry it away. That happened once in men's league play and the golfer had to ask Froeschle for a ruling.

Fortunately, the rules (ball moved by an outside agency) allow the ball or a replacement to be played from where it originally was with no penalty.

Another prank could be painful to Lady if not properly executed. She likes to occasionally interrupt a golfer's swing by running through in front of the golfer as he begins his downswing.

Froeschle said that he has received a few complaints from golfers about shoes or candy missing from their golf carts. However, he added that all of the victims thought the incidents were funny. The dog has one dangerous habit—chasing cars.

THE ADOPTED DOG can be seen sneaking up on grasshoppers and birds and sometimes giving chase to a crafty jack rabbit, which seems to toy with the dog.

In sly manner of stalking has convinced Froeschle that the dog is a cross between a coyote and a collie. Local golfer Ray Murray said he thinks the critter may be part fox and part dog.

Evans said that when other dogs come near the golf course boundary fence, she chases them off like its her territory. He added that she acts "like a little fox" when she preys on grasshoppers and mice for snacks.

It's pretty unlikely that Lady is a cross between a dog and either a fox or coyote according to authorities at the Wayne Veterinary Clinic. They said that it is unlikely but has been known to happen in rare instances.

LADY PROBABLY is the most fad dog in Wayne County. In addition to her meals of dog food and snacks of grasshoppers and mice, Lady loves to eat candy bars. Golfers usually are willing to purchase a 25 cent candy bar in order to let the dog eat out of their hands. "She's fond of chocolate," said Froeschle.

A foursome of golfers feels honored if Lady follows the group for 18 holes of golf, Froeschle said. "Usually, she escorts the group for six or seven holes," he added.

When Lady feels ambitious, she will join a foursome for 18 holes of golf and then return to the clubhouse where she will pick up with someone else.

She generally tags along with a group of golfers, lies down while they putt and then follows them to the tee box.

FROESCHLE SAID he became a fan of the dog one night when he drove into the golf course parking lot at about 11:30.

Lady saw another car pull into the area and noticed someone sneaking to the drive-in theater on foot. The dog ran after the person, barking until he crossed the highway. "She's unpaid help as far as I'm concerned," Froeschle said referring to her watchdog-like actions.

Soon, golf course personnel will have to decide on a winter home for Lady. Don Sund has volunteered to take care of the dog this winter at his home in Wayne if no other home is found in the country or near the golf course.

Lady has grown accustomed to running wild and sleeping under a bush or in the open. Several golfers said they would like to see someone near the course or on a farm take the dog for the winter. One thing is certain—Lady will miss her golfing friends and most of the golfers will miss her.

Antelopes Race Past WSC; Cats To Host Unbeaten Foe

By Kent Propst
Wayne State College

The Kearney State Antelopes combined a strong defense with a deadly kicking game to whip the Wayne State Wildcats, 23-0 at Kearney Saturday afternoon.

The Central States Conference opener dropped Wayne State to 0-1 in the league and 2-2 overall, while Kearney moved to 1-0 and 2-1 overall.

Wayne State will try to bounce back Saturday when it hosts CSC foe Missouri Western in a 1:30 game at Wayne's Memorial Stadium. The Griffons of Western are 4-0 and nationally ranked, and are coming off a 39-31 conference win over Fort Hays State that saw Western come back from a 31-7 halftime deficit for the victory.

NOT SINCE KEARNEY State blanked the Wildcats 39-0 in 1978 has a Wayne State squad been shut out. The Antelopes did it by controlling the ball offensively and keeping the Wildcats pinned deep in their own territory all afternoon. Wayne State crossed into Kearney territory only once, on the last play of the first half.

Meanwhile, Kearney started three of its four scoring drives in Wayne State territory. On the day, the Antelopes started seven drives inside the Wayne 50.

Probably the biggest weakness on the part of Wayne State was the lack of an accurate passing game. Quarterbacks Kelly Neustrom and Mike Warren completed just six of 20 passes with two interceptions for only 77 yards, 45 of which came on one play.

The Kearney offense, on the other hand, amassed 208 rushing yards including 107 by tailback Luke VanMaire. Antelope quarterback Mike Ralston hit on seven of 16 passes for 116 yards and a touchdown as the hosts amassed 332 total yards to 199 for Wayne State.

THE ANTELOPES, idle since Sept. 12, showed no signs of being rusty as they scored on their first possession. They were set up by a short Pat Maxwell punt that gave Kearney the ball on the Wayne 39. VanMaire scored on a four-yard run and Mark Pilkington hit the extra point to give Kearney a 7-0 lead less than four minutes into the ball game.

Pilkington added the next three points on a 22-yard field goal midway through the second quarter. The score was set up by a short Maxwell punt and a face mask violation on Wayne State on the punt return.

Moments later, following another Wayne punt, VanMaire took a handoff on a third-down-and-one play and raced 64 yards to the touchdown. Pilkington's kick was wide and KSC held a 16-0 lead.

Kearney threatened to blow the game wide open when Wayne's Randy Frink fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Kearney recovered on the Wayne 28, but the Wildcat defense stiffened and held on a fourth-and-one at the 20.

THE WILDCATS only scoring threat of the day came with just two seconds remaining in the third quarter. Neustrom lofted a long pass to Maxwell from his own 45, and Maxwell came down with the tipped pass at the KSC 10 as time ran out.

Neither team was able to mount an offensive drive in the third period, though Kearney had a 36-yard touchdown pass called back due to an illegal receiver downfield.

Another short punt into a stiff wind led to Kearney's final score, a 37-yard Ralston to Bill Hansen pass with 9:03 to play. Pilkington added the extra point to end scoring on the day.

The Antelope reserves threatened once more late in the game after a Warren interception gave them the ball on Wayne's 48. They moved the ball to the Wildcat nine, but a fourth-down pass was incomplete.

LINEBACKER RON GILBERTY was the top defender for Wayne State with 13 tackles and a quarterback sack. Tackled Ron Barrie had 10 tackles and two sacks. Maxwell paced the Wayne State offense with four pass receptions for 73 yards. Tony Marinella led the Wayne rushing game with 47 yards on 12 carries. Neustrom was held to just five completions in 15 passes for 70 yards and one interception. Warren hit one of five for seven yards with an interception.

Wayne 8th Grade Rally Ends in 16-8 Defeat

A two-touchdown deficit at half time was too much for the Wayne eighth grade football team to overcome as Schuyler trimmed the Blue Devils 16-8, Tuesday at Schuyler.

Wayne's offense had a tough time in the first half and the visitors found themselves 16 points behind at intermission as the Warriors added a late touchdown.

A second half rally came up eight points short.

Jon McCright was Wayne's leading rusher with nine carries for 89 yards. Dan Gross, who carried four times for 18 yards, scored the only TD on a three yard run. He also had seven yards in pass receiving.

Tom Perry had three carries for 15 yards and Andy Hillier carried five times for eight yards.

Leading receiver was Don Larsen with 25 yards in receptions. He scored the two point conversion.

Quarterback McCright completed five of nine passes for 38 yards.

Wayne is scheduled to play at West Point CC at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Frevert Leads JV In 3rd Win

Danny Frevert seemed unstoppable as he led the Wayne Junior varsity football team to a 19-9 win over Schuyler, Monday.

Frevert rushed for 180 yards, scored all three Wayne touchdowns. Kicked an extra point and was the team's second leading tackler.

Terry Gilliland was the leading tackler for the Blue Devils.

Wayne coach Ron Carnes reported that Gerald Monk, Steve Overin and Tim Corbit also played well for the winners. "We had some good blocking from our offensive line," Carnes said.

After a scoreless first quarter, Frevert scored two TD's in the second quarter and kicked his one extra point. An Insurance run in the third quarter, gave the visitors a 19-0 lead. Schuyler added its only TD late in the third period to cut the winning margin.

The Blue Devils will take a 3-1 record into action Monday when they host Norfolk at the Wayne High practice field.

All-Tourney Team Devils Are Downed

Competition in the South Sioux City Tournament proved to be outstanding and unfortunately detrimental to the Wayne volleyball team's record.

The Blue Devils lost three matches to three fine teams. In Monday's opening round action, Norfolk defeated Wayne 15-10, 15-5. West Husker rival Hartington CC topped the locals 15-10, 15-13 in the second round.

On Tuesday, Sloux City Heelan handed the Blue Devils their final loss 17-15, 15-7. The loss dropped Wayne's record to 4-7.

Wayne coach Mavis Dalton said her squad ran into stiff competition in the annual tournament. Norfolk and Sloux City North clashed in Tuesday's finals.

Wayne's biggest downfall was its serving with only 70 percent efficiency. The Devils hit 72 percent of their spikes. The bright spot was the setting of Tamie Murray and Jill Zeiss with 100 percent efficiency, keeping their statistics among the Class B leaders.

Missy Stoltenberg was named to the eight-player all-tourney team. She had 35 spikes with 14 aces in the tournament. Deb Prenger made 21 spikes including seven aces. Zeiss scored 14 service points and Sandy Utecht made 11 service points.

Next action is scheduled Tuesday night on the home court against Hartington CC. The West Husker match will be parents night and the final home game for the Blue Devils.

Eagles Win Another

Allen's undefeated streak was extended to 10 matches, Tuesday when the Eagles downed Bancroft 15-6, 15-10 in Lewis Division volleyball action.

Allen coach Gary Troth said Bancroft played his team "fairly tough" but added that Allen "did a pretty good job."

Nancy Olsufka scored six points in the first set and Beth Stalling scored eight in the second set to pace the Eagles in the small Bancroft gym. Des Williams was leading setter with 18 good sets in 18 tries and five sets for kills. Olsufka had four ace spikes and Janet Peterson and Loree Rastede each had three.

"Our team play was pretty good. We hit 90 percent of our serves or better," said Troth. "Our offense played real well and made good passes but our defense needs to improve yet."

Allen won the B match 15-5, 15-7. Shelly Williams was leading server with nine points. Leading setter was Julie Book who was nine for nine with three sets for kills.

Tami Jewell made nine good sets in 10 attempts, with three sets for kills. Troth said that Michelle Harder played pretty well and made a few ace spikes.

Allen is scheduled to host Newcastle Tuesday and Winside next Friday.

Laurel in Title Race

In their first year as a member of the Lewis and Clark Conference, the Laurel Bears have progressed into a team that has a good shot at the Clark Division volleyball title.

Laurel improved its conference record to 3-1 with a 15-5, 15-3 win over Hartington, Tuesday. Hartington had entered the contest with a 3-1 division record.

The Bears, who struggled after a strong showing in the season opening Pander Tournament, now have won their last three matches to even their overall record at 5-5.

"Serving is the only area of our game that needs work," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "The other three areas (bumping, setting, spiking) are real strong. We are beginning to peak and it's getting to be the thick of the conference race."

Cammie Crookshank led all Laurel scorers with 14 service points. She scored 11 points in the final set. Renee Gadeken had 14 spikes including seven for aces and Anne Schultz made 12 spikes, eight for aces. Leading setter was Carol Osborne with 25 good sets in 27 attempts.

Laurel also won the B match in two sets by scores of 15-7, 15-9. Jana Cunningham led the winners with 12 points and Patsy Thompson scored seven. Jean Lute had eight spikes to lead at the net.

Laurel will be at home tonight (Thursday) when Wakefield visits in a Clark Division matchup.

WSC Drops 3 Matches

The Lady Wildcats of Wayne State played up and down in a Central States Intercollegiate Conference quadrangular in Topeka, Kan., last week, but were never "up" enough to win a set as they fell three times.

Coach Berniece Fulton's crew, 4-14-3 and 1-5 in the CSCIC, hoped to get back on the winning track in a pair of home matches against Missouri Western on Wednesday. They host Chadron State at 6 p.m. Friday, then take on Chadron and Bellevue beginning at 10 p.m. Saturday.

Poor ball handling played a major part in the losses at Topeka as the spikers had 31 more bad assists than good ones. Host Washburn took the opener by 15-13, 15-11 and 15-5 scores; Pittsburg State, the only CSCIC team to lose to the Lady Cats, gained revenge with 16-14, 15-6, and 15-5 wins; and Fort Hays State swept the Cats 15-7, 15-13, and 15-13.

Freshman Beth Erickson led the offensive attack with 20 points, followed by junior Lois Kaminski with 17.

Junior Annette Reiman had a good series, leading in assists with 28 and notching seven downed spikes. Plainview sophomore Diane Wachholtz and Fremont senior Deb Poehling topped the downed spikes chart with a dozen each. Senior Linda Prchal chipped in 26 assists.

New Convent Completed

CONSTRUCTION WAS recently completed on the Missionary Benedictine Sisters convent located east of Providence Medical Center (PMC) in Wayne. The convent will be the new residence of Sisters associated with PMC, who say they are hopeful that they can move into the new single-story, wood-frame structure this weekend. The convent is funded entirely by Missonary Benedictine Sisters of Norfolk and will make available four more hospital rooms at PMC, where the Sisters have resided. The convent is located in the Marywood Subdivision and contains a single-car garage, four main bedrooms, two extra bedrooms, a kitchen area, living room and chapel area. Contractor was Town and Country Builders of Wayne.

Career

things that you wouldn't normally get exposed to." Rethwisch, who continued his 4-H experiences well beyond his high school days, was a member of the UNL Collegiate 4-H Club. And, a prime mover in the organization and success of entomology as a 4-H project in the Wayne area. Rethwisch has conducted several summer camps on insect identification for youngsters in a 13 county northeast Nebraska area.

"THAT WAS always the hang up for me," he said, recalling his own 4-H entomology projects as a youngster.

Rethwisch's insect identification entomology camps have been held at the Northeast Station.

"The kids would come for the two-day event and stay overnight at the station," he explained.

"That was good, too, because they have a light trap here and we could do some extra work on insects," he added. "They learned about the different collection methods, for instance."

Rethwisch said about 10 kids from throughout northeast Nebraska would enroll in the weekend camps, which were geared to insect identification, pinning, labeling and mounting.

AT THE END of the two-day overnight camp, Rethwisch would present the students with a quiz.

"And, we'd have an insect identification contest for the kids," he said.

Rethwisch, a competent public speaker, said he still works with 4-H kids through his present involvement in the state insect identification contest.

"Of the last four winners, three have been from Wayne," he said.

"This year, Jonathon Stelling of Wakefield won it. He placed second last year."

"Those winners are Rethwisch's 4-H kids." They've worked with him on insect projects.

"(All) have been up to the (insect identification) camps at one time or another," he explained. "It's great to know they're the kids I know and have been with on insect projects."

RETHWISCH, who is quick to smile and gets teased mercilessly by his co-workers for being talkative, gives 4-H credit far beyond being a springboard for his career in entomology.

"I have found that the public speaking aspect of it has helped me more than any project other than entomology," he said.

He recalled having had to take a course in public speaking as an undergraduate at UNL. "That's when 4-H public speaking came in quite handy," he added.

Explaining that he's been involved in many workshops, seminars and situations where he has had to call on his speaking ability, Rethwisch said that the experience sparked his entry into some speech contests.

He said it also has given him the opportunity to judge speech contests, an involvement he enjoys.

"I NEVER would have been involved in speech if it hadn't been for 4-H," he said.

"And, I would never have had the opportunities to see so much of the United States," added Rethwisch, who is headed for Atlanta later this fall to help judge the national 4-H speech contest.

Rethwisch's travels with 4-H have taken him to such cities as Washington D.C., Chicago and Detroit.

With his 4-H background, and his bachelor of science degree in agriculture, Rethwisch said he feels confident he'll find his niche.

IT WASN'T always that way, though.

He remembers his first experiences with entomology as a young member of the Wayne Hi-Raters — the 4-H club he belonged to and the one his two younger brothers, Steven, 16, and Stuart, 12, have joined.

His parents, who got involved when he first joined, are 4-H leaders for the club. And his sister, Marcia, 18, who is now a freshman at UNL, also was a member.

"My mother pointed out a display at the state fair when I was pretty young," he said.

"I was always catching butterflies and bugs. She thought I could do just as well, so I thought I'd get into that, too," he said.

"I FOUND out it wasn't as easy as I had thought," he smiled, ready to tell a story on himself.

"Well, my first project was a disaster. We had to display about 25 insects in six different groupings," he explained.

"It was only a day or so before the county fair and I hadn't done much, so I started taking bugs off of car grills... anywhere I could find them," he laughed.

"Needless to say, they weren't in very good condition."

"I did enter my display, however, and I got a red ribbon that year. I was tempted to forget it all."

Rethwisch, who attended Wayne County District 51 rural school, remembers two boyhood friends who also were involved in entomology. That made it difficult to back out.

"I decided to give it another shot the next year," he said.

A 1977 graduate of Wayne High School, Rethwisch said the next year brought more requirements for more insects and more orders.

He went to work and earned a blue ribbon at the Wayne County Fair.

"From there, I sort of backslid again," he said. "My participation in the project went down, but in 1974 it picked up again."

That's when Rethwisch won the state insect identification contest at the Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln. He received a gold medal and a trophy.

"That fired me up," he grinned.

And, in 1975, his display at the Wayne County Fair finally won a purple ribbon. He was able to take his display to the state fair. There, he earned a blue ribbon.

RETHWISCH, who had been a junior 4-H leader since 1974, repeated the county and state fair performance in 1976. However, that year he also was named the state award winner in entomology — the top prize.

And, in 1977, his purple at the county level sent the insect display to the state fair for another purple ribbon. In addition, his special interest display pulled a purple at both levels.

Named again, Rethwisch was once state award winner in entomology. He went on to become a sectional winner — one of only four in this region.

That's when Rethwisch, during his final year, earned the trip to Chicago for the National 4-H Congress. There the high school senior placed ninth in the nation and was selected an alternate national winner.

"That isn't what convinced him to get into entomology, though."

"MY MIND was made up when I was named an award winner the first time," he said, another smile crossing his farm-boy face.

Rethwisch worked at home on the family farm during the summer of 1978, after spending his senior-year summer at the state 4-H camp in Halsey.

But, by 1979 the college student was working as an insect field scout for Union Oil Company in the Neligh and Elgin area.

"I checked fields regularly for insect problems and recommended treatment to farmers in that area," he said.

Two summers ago, he started his soybean insect studies at the Northeast Station. He has spent the past two summers there researching the life histories of soybean pests, such as the bean leaf beetle.

THE RESEARCH involves developing economic feasibility charts as guidelines for soybean producers. The data is designed to help farmers determine "when it is economically feasible to treat" the beans against insect pest infestations, he explained.

He also is conducting parasitic studies on such insects as the green clover worm.

Rethwisch admits it's a long way from his early 4-H days, when he was first exhibiting hogs at the county fair.

"At that time it was a livestock club, basically," he said. He continued the hog exhibiting throughout his 4-H career, despite the fact that entomology

Rink

THAT SEEMED to be the sentiments of the commission Monday night.

"We're darn glad to have it in town," said Van Meter, now a member of the commission.

"It looks like it's going to be a nice setup," said Glen Ellingson, commission chairman. Ellingson told the commissioners that he had visited the building, which is being renovated for the roller rink.

"I think it's something we need in this town and Mr. Luschen should be commended," Ellingson added.

"It's good to see," said Tony Netherda, a veteran member of the commission. "Wayne's needed something like that for a long time."

LUSCHEN'S initial opening date, which had been scheduled for Nov. 1, has been pushed back to mid-November because of a delay in pouring the roller rink floor.

"I'd say it won't be the first week in November... more like the second week," he said Monday night.

No one spoke in opposition to the conditional-use permit during Monday night's hearing.

Luschen explained the remodeling required to get the old machinery-dealer building in shape for the new rink.

And, Wayne Fire Chief Dick Korn attended the meeting along with the state fire marshal to assure the commission that fire regulations were being met.

THE RINK will feature about 4,000 square feet of skating area, a lounge, a game room, a sound system and a skate rental area, plus parking both south and north of the building.

Customers will be able to rent skates at the rink, or use their own skates for a rink fee.

Pop, candy and popcorn will be available, according to Luschen, who farms just east of Wayne. He has no immediate plans to serve lunches.

Tentatively being called Wayne Skate & Recreation, the new rink will be available for open skating and private parties, according to Luschen.

It's Up, Up & Away For Airport's Birthday

A weather window found Wayne's Municipal Airport golden jubilee celebration Sunday. Sandwiched between Saturday and Monday rain, the Sunday show, though threatened by inclement weather, finished with a flourish of sunshine and sky stunts. Despite some disappointment over a planned Air National Guard fighter jet flyover that didn't fly over, more than 1,000 visitors gaped skyward for an eyeful of stunt pilot aerobatics, skydiver maneuvers, helicopter hops and ultra light sport aircraft demonstrations.

KICKING OFF with a free fly-in breakfast that served more than 200 early birds, the day-long celebration marked 50 years of airport service to Wayne.

From the Norfolkian's radio controlled model airplane demonstration in the white gray of Sunday morning's cloudy sky to the late afternoon sunshine that graced the wings of planes in the spot landing contest, the show bustled with veteran and one-day aviation buffs. With popcorn popping and airplane engines roaring, the airport appreciation day kept heads tilted skyward, looking first for a break in the low ceiling and then for the stunts of Wakefield skydiver Dave Hitz and Iowa aerobatic pilot Olie Pash.

JUST AS Pash arrived with his Pitt Special, a plane the pilot and farm machinery dealer built for stunt flying, the ceiling lifted and a window formed over the airport. Within minutes Hitz rode a single engine plane to 2,000 feet and jumped for a crowd awaiting his colorful billowing parachute. Pash was off next. He pushed his red and white stunt plane to the limit for a stunt show that kept watchers' eyes wide and jaws slack for nearly 20 minutes. Twisting and turning, looping and diving through the early October sunshine, Pash worked the Pitt Special's stick while his son, Randy, worked the microphone for a maneuver-by-manuever commentary.

OLDSTERS AND youngsters alike craned their necks, gasped in unison and brought Pash back to the runway with cheers and applause that engulfed the airport grounds. During the pauses between events, a couple of Wisner men demonstrated The Eagle, an ultra light, power wing that features an open cockpit and hang glider maneuverability. And, many visitors wandered from airplane to airplane, while others waited in an unending line for a $3 per head airlift around Wayne in a busy single engine craft. While a Farmer's Co-op helicopter danced through a field spraying demonstration, visitors also toured the chug-a-chug displays of early steam engines and internal combustion engines.

CHRIS WISEMAN watches the spectacular aerial entertainment during the Wayne Municipal Airport's 50th anniversary celebration Sunday. Iowa stunt pilot Olie Pash and Wakefield skydiver Dave Hitz highlighted the day-long show. Doyle and Louise Free kicked it off with fresh and free omelets during the fly-in breakfast.

State Tax Commissioner Stepping Down, Not Out

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Nebraska's tax commissioner is going to be stepping down before the year is over.

Fred Herrington more than a month ago told the man who appointed him to the post — Gov. Charles Thone — he planned to retire by the end of the year. His decision became public only recently.

Herrington has twice served as Nebraska's tax commissioner. Thone appointed him in 1979, and he also served from 1955-60.

HERRINGTON, who came out of a brief retirement to work for Thone in 1979, once said the tax commissioner's job had changed considerably since the last time he served. But Herrington both times has served the office well.

But this low keyed man who hardly fits the mold of a stereotyped bureaucrat isn't retiring from public life completely.

Herrington, 71, said he plans to continue serving on the board of the Nebraska Public Power District. He was elected to the seat in 1978, and he says the job isn't very time consuming—only about five days a month.

It is unclear at this point who is the front runner to succeed Herrington. It's also unknown, for that matter, exactly when Herrington will retire. He said he'll stay on board at least until the process is completed for setting up a procedure that will occur in November.

AMONG THE people who apparently are under consideration to succeed Herrington are Deputy Tax Commissioner John Decker, a young, capable man who is very familiar with the state Revenue Department, and gubernatorial aide Don Stenberg, who once ran for lieutenant governor and who has worked for Thone in various capacities since 1979.

For his part, Thone said a successor probably wouldn't be named until closer to Herrington's actual retirement, which probably will be toward the end of November or in December.

AGENCY PROBE — A legislative committee has been asked to conduct a special review of the state auditor's and treasurer's offices.

The Nebraska Legislative Performance Review and Audit Committee, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly isn't so sure a special study is needed.

Warner notes that two other legislative committees have been directed by a legislative resolution to review the two offices.

The resolution, sponsored by Sen. Don Wesely of Lincoln, directs the committees to study the feasibility of a constitutional amendment that would abolish the state treasurer's office and put the auditor's office under the Legislature's control.

Wesely recently asked Warner's committee to conduct the special review, saying it would be wise to get the fiscal analyst's office involved in the review. That would happen, he said, if the special study were authorized. Since both agencies deal in fiscal matters, the fiscal analyst's office should be involved, Wesely reasoned.

BUT WARNER pointed out that the two committees already studying the offices have staffing assistance from the fiscal office available to them.

Still, Wesely has a point. The special review would be unlike the other studies because its scope would be different. The special study would not, for example, be geared to address the constitutional amendment proposals.

Wesely also has talked about a "peer" review of the auditor's office, saying some certified public accountants have questioned whether the office is really up to par.

Public auditors studying the auditor's office during a "peer" review would be the best way to find out, he said.

It's unclear at this writing whether Warner's committee will authorize the special review.

TAXES TO TRAIN — It seems like everybody these days has some use for the state cigarette tax. Hardly a legislative session goes by where someone doesn't come up with a new idea.

One of the most recent proposals to surface is Sen. Rex Haberman's suggestion to increase the cigarette tax by a penny to pay for the training of small town police.

The Imperial lawmaker said the extra tax would raise $1.7 million, and that money would really come in handy in small towns that lose their newly trained officers to larger cities where the pay is better.

Haberman says the rapid turnover forces many small towns to spend an inordinate amount of money on training. He says it's a serious problem where he comes from.

POLITICIANS understandably are often reluctant to raise a tax, whatever kind it may be. But it would seem like a more equitable solution to Haberman's problem should be found before the proposal goes too far.

If the higher tax is being imposed statewide, its benefit logically should also be felt statewide. Perhaps a better solution would be to divert any such money into a state training program that small towns could take advantage of, as well as the larger communities.

Haberman's concern, nonetheless, is real and should be examined. Lawmakers must be careful, however, to make sure the solution is equitable and also helps medium as well as large-sized towns.

Rampant Rural Crime

Rural crime
It's rampant across the country. And, it's rampant in rural Nebraska.

The farmers in this northeastern part of the state have been the victims many times over. Rural crime prevention programs are developing in the wake of the rural crime wave.

One such program is being developed in Wayne County by a 4-H Club members with the help of the Wayne County Extension Service.

Next month, senior 4-H leaders from throughout the county will meet at the Northeast Station in Concord for a workshop on rural crime prevention.

When they return to their respective clubs, many will begin 4-H projects on rural crime prevention. And, many will carry the rural crime prevention message to schools and community groups throughout the county.

It's all part of a Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service supported program to begin getting a handle on the rural crime problem.

The continuing efforts by 4-Hers in Wayne County will involve focusing more attention on the problem, property identification systems, cooperation with local law enforcement agencies and awareness of criminal habits.

Wayne County 4-Hers who will be working on the project are to be commended for taking up the cause of rural crime prevention.

It is costing their parents, and someday may cost them untold millions in production, livestock and equipment losses.

Furthermore, it's the kind of citizenship program that encourages the concept of respect for laws and broadens the concept of neighborhood responsibility.

Criminals working rural areas have the advantage of being where neighbors often are far enough apart to make the theft or act of vandalism much easier to accomplish.

It's somehow fitting that 4-Hers, those youngsters who are going to inherit a lawless or law abiding world, are involved in the project.

Let's hope the project takes root and that their efforts help throw the wave of rural crime back on the rocks, where it withers and dies.

Foreigners and Food

Foreign investors are buying into the American food system, not by purchasing vast farm acreage, but by obtaining control of certain U.S. grocery, hotel and restaurant chains as well as food processing plants, a recent survey shows.

A & P, Grand Union, Howard Johnson, Stouffers and the International House of Pancakes are among grocery and restaurant chains now foreign controlled, the study of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service disclosed.

Foreign companies own 14 U.S. foodstore chains outright and hold a partial share in 9 others as of April 1980, according to the study by USDA economists Naaman Seigle and Charles Handy. These firms in 1979 rang up combined sales of about $19 billion, nearly 11 percent of total U.S. grocery store sales.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A & P), had revenues of nearly $6.7 billion in 1979. A West German firm owns a 50 percent share of A & P. A British concern owns Grand Union Co., another food retail giant, with $3.9 billion in sales.

Other American firms under foreign ownership include Keebler's crackers, Libby's, Peter Paul, Wishbone, Seagram, Good Humor and Tetley. The firms provide cookies, candy, sauces, tea, coffee and alcoholic beverages.

Foreign investment in U.S. food manufacturing firms reached $2.6 billion in 1979, the USDA survey showed.

The survey, published in the summer edition of the National Food Review and the September issue of Farmline, both USDA publications, found that the first significant foreign investment in the U.S. commercial food sector began with Benihana of Tokyo, a Japanese-style steakhouse in 1964. In 1975, 11 foreign-owned firms or franchises operated in the industry but by December, 1980, 44 foreign firms had franchisor or proprietary interest in 48 U.S. operations.

However, there are two sides to the foreign ownership question, according to USDA analysts. U.S. affiliates of foreign firms use American farm products, employ U.S. workers, invest in U.S. materials and technology and put a large share of their profits back into the U.S. economy. In the food manufacturing industry, for example, they have reinstated about 80 percent of their earnings in the United States in recent years. The remaining 20 percent was transferred abroad as dividends to their overseas owners.

Outside investors also provide a source of much-needed funds to finance growth, technology to modernize, and marketing skills to increase sales.

Although total direct foreign investment in the United States has doubled in the last five years, the stock of U.S. investment in foreign food firms is still over three times as great, USDA economists say.

U.S. food processors own affiliates and franchises in more than 140 countries. In Canada and Mexico, U.S. food firms account for more than half of all sales of processed foods. In Western European nations, U.S. firms hold 5 to 25 percent of the market. American restaurant and fast food franchisors have established nearly 1,000 outlets abroad.

Corn Belt Industry Building Back

Nebraska Beef Base Strong

Nebraska is the only major cattle feeding state to have more animals on feed Sept. 1 than on that date in 1980.

While the numbers in the seven leading beef states were down 11 percent from September 1, 1980, Nebraska's cattle on feed were up 3 percent.

CURRENTLY, high interest costs, relatively high feeding costs and a fall off in demand for beef are giving cattle producers nightmares. Nevertheless, the prospects are good for continuing growth of cattle production in Nebraska.

Ultimately, increased cattle feeding in our state will mean more meat packing and processing and the growth of businesses that supply cattle ranchers and feeders. That will mean more good jobs for Nebraskans.

Over the past several decades cattle feeding has moved away somewhat from the corn belt and has moved to the Southwest. Now lack of adequate water for raising feed is making the sun belt states less self sufficient in providing rations for animals. Certainly, rising energy costs will prevent economic shipping of feed from the Midwest to the Southwest.

STATES of the Southwest show the greatest losses in cattle on feed on September 1 of this year compared with last year. Arizona was down 21 percent and Texas 18 percent.

Lower numbers of cattle on feed national ly give promise of better prices for beef producers in the future.

Nebraska has the water and the feed to make cattle feeding possible. We now have, and I will seek to continue, a tax policy that makes our state attractive for feeders. This will lead to more and better paying jobs for Nebraskans in agriculture-related industry.

City Jobs Help Farms Stay Alive

By M.M. Van Kirk
Director of Information
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Income from off-farm jobs and ventures helps to keep a great many family farms in operation and helps many young part-time farm couples financially until they can make their farm and ranch enterprise full-time.

That is a conclusion one can draw from reports of a survey done by two University of Nebraska associate professors of economics and a former UN-L graduate student. The survey was done in early 1978 of 3,000 farm families in a 45-county eastern Nebraska area, with approximately 25 percent of the families responding to questionnaires.

FORTY-FIVE percent of the families replying said that either the farmer, the farm wife or both were employed off the farm. Average farm income for 1978 for all survey respondents was $20,500 with about one fourth coming from off-farm sources.

Smaller farming operations had higher off-farm income and larger ones had lower off-farm income and this income disparity among farm families was lessened. Actually the Nebraska study backs up what agricultural census reports and other USDA sources have indicated over a long period of years.

Since 1970, about 55 percent of the total income of farmers nationwide has come from off-farm sources, and the USDA expects 1981 will be a record year for off-farm earnings by farm families.

The university people making their report observed that Nebraska's lower proportion of off-farm employment may be attributed to the fact there are fewer opportunities for part-time employment. This is understandable because Nebraska does not have the industrial complexes that are common in such natural agricultural states as Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio and some of the heavily industrialized states such as Pennsylvania and New York which actually have some very productive farming areas.

HERE IN Nebraska one frequently finds successful young farmers and ranchers who have "graduated" to full-time farm and ranch operations after a number of years in which both husband and wife held outside jobs, particularly in the off-season. Among young couples honored for the quality and success of their farm and ranch achievements in recent years, one can find notable examples:

In one case, the young farmer, a graduate of a community technical college and special courses in diesel engine repair and maintenance, worked for implement firms in the off-season.

More recently he spends winter months in his own shop repairing and rebuilding his own equipment as well as doing extensive work for his neighbors. His wife, a registered nurse, worked full-time as a specialized nurse in an area hospital and continues that work now on a several days per week basis.

OTHERS HAVE worked for implement dealers, as truckers, as seed corn dealers, or as custom farm tillage and harvesting service operators to pay for their own equipment and to earn extra money. In one notable case, both husband and wife are graduates of the University of Nebraska agricultural technical school at Curtis with livestock treatment as a specialty.

While they were getting their farming and confined hog production unit into operation, she worked as a veterinarian's assistant. Both now devote their skills to their own livestock production unit.

Some farmers and ranchers scold that agriculture is in a bad way if such off-farm employment is necessary. Actually, it is healthy, as many successful operators who combine off-farm and on-farm income can attest. The only reason their fathers and grandfathers didn't do more of it was because the job opportunities in those days just didn't exist.

Farm Bureau Plans Meeting

Wayne County Farm Bureau members are planning their annual meeting, which is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19.

A potluck supper is scheduled for 7 p.m. with the meeting set to begin at 8 p.m.

Resolutions from the group's policy development committee are expected to be presented at the meeting. Farm Bureau members selected for the auditing committee are Bob Jones, chairman, and Leland Herman and Dean Sievers.

Mona Meyer is chairman of this year's nominating committee. Other members are Mel Magnuson and Fritz Tomme.

Bob Hansen is the new Husker Beef board member.

Pork Producers Banquet Set

Wayne County Pork Producers will hold their annual banquet on Sunday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m. at the Wayne State College cafeteria.

All members, associate members, future members and families are invited to attend. Tickets may be purchased at Farmer's State Bank, Carroll, Winside State Bank, and First and State National Banks in Wayne. Cost is $6.50 per plate.

Area Dairy Days Scheduled

Exhibits and presentations by major feed equipment companies will highlight the 1981 Nebraska Area Dairy Days, scheduled for Dec. 14, according to Foster Owen, University of Nebraska extension dairyman.

The theme of the 1981 meetings, to be held at different locations around the state, is "Feeding, Automated and Updated." Major equipment dealers will be exhibiting their automated feeding systems and will have top level technical personnel to answer questions regarding their use, Owen said.

Locations for the educational programs are: Dec. 1 - Beatrice; 2 - Fremont; 3 - Norfolk; and 4 - St. Paul. Owen said the sessions will emphasize modern feeding methods and equipment for feeding dairy herds of various sizes. Topics and exhibits will center on the latest computerized feeding equipment, complete feed rations, group feeding and special combinations of parlor and lot feeding. The economics of alternative forage handling systems also will be discussed.

Herbicide Application Accepted

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents has accepted the invention of a subsurface herbicide applicator developed by NU agricultural researchers. The board also authorized NU administration to proceed with negotiation of a licensing agreement for the invention.

The herbicide applicator was offered by John Solie, doctoral candidate in agricultural engineering, Dr. Howard Wittmuss, associate professor of agricultural engineering, and Dr. Orvin Burnside, professor of agronomy. In the new applicator, a high pressure herbicide injection system is installed behind the blades of a sweep plow to spray herbicides up into the soil as it breaks over the blades. The system is designed to control new weed germination and growth.

The method concentrates herbicide uniformly into the surface 3 inches of soil, requires less energy and will not incorporate plant residue, the researchers said.

Monster Combines are Coming

Although combines are both bigger and more efficient than 10 years ago, a University of Nebraska ag engineer agrees with others in the field that "we haven't seen anything yet."

Leonard Bashford, associate professor of ag engineering in the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, predicts giant combines with 40-foot grain platforms that will harvest wheat at 1,000 bushels per hour and corn at 2,000 bushels per hour.

Bashford supports the notion that these "monster" machines will be equipped with electronic meters to sense grain moisture content. Hooked to microprocessors, the machines will be regulated in all respects from cylinder speeds to forward speeds.

High Energy Costs Spark Evaluation Of Storing, Feeding More Wet Grain

Conserving energy by harvesting, storing and feeding high moisture grain is a natural and excellent management tool, according to research conducted by University of Nebraska staff members.

Dr. Ernest R. Peo, professor of animal science, and Joe D. Green, research technologist, authored a paper on high moisture grain for growing finishing swine. Results were reported at the recent 22nd Annual George A. Young Conference for Advances in SPF Swine Production.

The recognition that energy may become extremely expensive and scarce has caused animal scientists to reevaluate the fuel energy economics associated with the production of food, Dr. Peo reported.

THE ENERGY crisis caused the cost of artificially drying grain to increase because fuel was in short supply. Faced with this shortage, the grain farmer suddenly became interested in other methods of safely storing harvested high moisture grain such as ensiling and preservation with organic acids or ensiling in oxygen limited silos, the NU staff members said.

Although a large share of the grain crop will continue to be naturally or artificially dried, it appears that an increasing proportion will be harvested and stored as high moisture grain for livestock feeding, they predicted.

Several swine feeding experiments have been conducted with high moisture grain either preserved with organic acids or stored in oxygen limiting structures to determine the feeding value. Studies indicate similar performances and feeding values are expected in swine fed ensiled, acid treated or reconstituted high moisture corn or milo when compared to a dry grain diet.

HOWEVER, factors such as mold damage and limited feed intake due to improper feed let down may influence performances of swine fed high moisture grain rations, Dr. Peo stated.

Research with swine fed high moisture corn or milo has shown trends for improved protein and phosphorus digestibility when compared to dry grain. Energy digestibilities appear about equal in both dry or high moisture grain, he said.

The results of research on the nutritional value of high moisture grain for swine are far from conclusive. However, high moisture grain is at least equal to the value of dry grain, the research indicated.

FERMENTATION of high moisture grains undergo during the ensiling process may make the grain more digestible.

The best estimate at this time, according to researchers, is that it will take 3 percent more dry matter to produce the same gain in swine with dry milo that will with high moisture milo.

Energy economics, convenience and compatibility with on-going programs may be the most important factors when considering whether or not a high moisture grain storage and feeding system is to be part of a swine production program, the researchers concluded.

PRUNING TECHNIQUES — The season is about right now for dormant pruning, which is fall to early spring. The dormant pruning applies to shrubs that bloom during the middle and late summer. Example of these are hydrangea, rose of Sharon, summer blooming spiraea and elderberry.

Spring pruning should be done as soon as the flowers fade. Examples of plants to be pruned in the spring are Forsythia, flowering quince, flowering almond, crabapple and redbud. Summer pruning is limited to trimming hedges, shaping evergreen ornaments or removing diseased, injured and dead branches.

When you are looking for what to prune, consider the following guidelines:

1. Prune dead, dying or unsightly parts of a tree.
2. Prune sprouts growing at or near the base of a tree trunk.
3. Prune overlapping branches.
4. Prune one of the branches forming a weak crotch. Weak crotches cause splitting.
5. When multiple leaders develop on a tree, cut out the rest and leave one stem.
6. Prune nuisance growth—those that will interfere with electric or telephone wires, etc.

In the actual pruning process be sure to train a tree or shrub by keeping its natural growth. You should control the direction of new growth by cutting back to a bud or stem that points in the direction where you want it to grow. Undercut the branch that is more than one inch in diameter to prevent splitting and treat the wound with asphalt varnish and other suitable painting material.

BOXELDER BUGS — It's boxelder bug time again. These insects rarely cause serious damage to trees.

They don't damage homes or furnishings (except some spotting of curtains) but are persistent in their attempts to spend the winters inside. They can be active all winter long during warm spells.

There is no sure-fire prevention of boxelder bug entry, but some sprays will kill them on contact if used during warm days. Diazinon, Sevin, or Orthene sprayed directly on the insects will kill many of them. Since these have little residual effects, respraying will be necessary as new congregations of the bugs arrive.

In the actual pruning process be sure to train a tree or shrub by keeping its natural growth. You should control the direction of new growth by cutting back to a bud or stem that points in the direction where you want it to grow. Undercut the branch that is more than one inch in diameter to prevent splitting and treat the wound with asphalt varnish and other suitable painting material.

Food Bill Bite Not As Large

The average American ate 1,402 pounds of food last year but paid proportionately less for it than in 1960, according to a recent U.S. Department of Agriculture study.

Consumer expenditures climbed 319 percent from 1960 to 1980 but, proportionately, food gained less than other items in the consumer's budget. In 1960, about 20 cents of each dollar of disposable income went for food. Last year, food took about 16 cents of the disposable dollar, the survey showed.

In the last 20 years, shifts in consumption patterns affected many products. Consumption of frozen orange juice, for example, increased 98 percent, from 4.6 pounds per capita in 1960 to 9.1 pounds last year.

BEEF consumption per capita was up 21 percent, from 64.3 to 78.1 pounds. Beef consumption has been dropping each year since 1976 when it hit a record 95.7 pounds per capita.

Chicken consumption also gained dramatically going from 27.8 pounds per person in 1960 to 51.2 pounds in 1980—an 84 percent increase. The biggest gainer was cheese, going from 8.3 pounds per capita to 17.9, an increase of 116 percent.

But some foods lost ground. Potatoes dropped from 80.4 pounds per person in 1960 to 44.4 in 1980, a loss of 45 percent. Egg consumption declined 17 percent.

Milo Harvest May Offer Savings On Feed Costs for Hog Producers

The new milo harvest may serve as an economic opportunity for Nebraska swine producers with large volume grain storage capacity, a University of Nebraska extension swine specialist said this week.

Dr. Donald S. Hudman, who serves extension districts including the Panhandle and north central Nebraska, said "milo prices at the combine may represent a savings in feed costs for many hogmen."

The grain has about 95 percent of the feeding value of corn if it contains 9 percent or more crude protein. "In order to feed milo intelligently, it is necessary to obtain a crude protein analysis and preferably a lysine analysis to determine its feeding value," Hudman said.

THE AMINO acid, lysine, is likely to be the first limiting nutrient in milo-soybean meal diets, he explained. "The lysine content of milo is slightly lower than corn. If the diets are balanced for lysine without using supplemental crystalline lysine, the crude protein content of the milo diets will have to exceed corn diets to have an equivalent level of lysine," Hudman stated.

The lysine content of milo can be fairly accurately estimated if the crude protein analysis is known. This estimate can be based on the assumption that lysine is 2.4 percent of the protein content of milo. With this assumption, the crude protein content can be multiplied times .024 and a lysine figure can be obtained (10 percent crude protein x .024 equals 0.24 percent lysine).

Hudman said other considerations in feeding milo to hogs are:

1. If the diet is formulated to the same level of crude protein as a corn diet, gains will be similar but more feed (about 5 percent) is required per unit of gain.
2. Comparable carcasses can be expected with either corn or milo diets.
3. The calcium and phosphorus content of corn and milo are similar and no change in mineral formulation is necessary.
4. Milo should be processed to a fine to medium grind for swine diets.
5. The metabolizable energy value for milo is slightly lower than for corn.

The lower metabolizable energy value for milo may create a need for more daily feed in gestation and lactation milo diets than for corn diets," Hudman said.

"MILO CAN be fed in the form of dry or high moisture grain with excellent results as long as the diets are corrected for moisture content and precautions are made to keep fresh, non-moldy feed available to swine."

Also, recent research indicates that dry reconstituted whole milo (to a moisture content of about 25 percent) can be utilized with an expected 3 percent improvement in feed conversion," the NU specialist pointed out.

"Milo is an excellent substitute for corn in all swine diets and should be utilized when it can be purchased at an economic advantage," he concluded.

EOT CLUB

Mrs. Adeline Sieger of Wayne and Mrs. Arthur Cook were guests Thursday when Mrs. Erna Saha entertained the EOT Club at her home, with Mrs. Harry Hofeldt assisting.

Fourteen members answered roll call with "something my mother kept that I wouldn't think of keeping."

Mrs. Larry Sievers conducted the meeting and Mrs. Cyril Hansen reported on the last meeting.

The group voted to make favors for the Wayne Providence Medical Center in January.

The group will have two auctions to raise funds for the club. Women having their names in the first half of the membership roll will bring articles to auction off in November and the second half on the list will bring things for the March auction.

The card party will be held Saturday at the Columbus Federal Building in Wayne with Mrs. Harry Hofeldt and Mrs. Erna Saha in charge.

Pitch furnished entertainment with prizes going to Mrs. Wilbur Heffl and Mrs. Larry Sievers.

The next meeting will be Nov 5.

DINNER SPONSORED

A large crowd attended the soup, sandwich and pig dinner at the auditorium Saturday which was sponsored by the Congregational Womens Fellowship.

The group also had a bazaar and articles that were not sold by the afternoon were auctioned off with Randy Gubbels as auctioneer.
