Water plans, petition lead to resignations

A stumbling block was thrown in the path of Winside's water distribution system plans Monday when a petition sparked the resignation of four trustees at a Winside Board of Trustees meeting.

The petition, which was signed by some 100 Winside residents, urged the board to postpone acceptance of bids on improvements to the water distribution system.

At the end of the meeting, board chairman Bruce Wylie and trustees Ray Jacobsen, Floyd Burt and Richard Schmidt resigned their positions. Signed resignation statements charged that Winside residents could not make up their minds.

Marvin Cherry, attending his first meeting as a board member, was the only trustee who did not resign. Cherry had replaced Kenneth Brockmoller who resigned last month over the water issue.

Secretary of State, according to Village Clerk Lynn Wylie.

Trustees who resigned said they had attempted to satisfy the needs of the community but noted that the public couldn't make up their minds.

"If the town board doesn't have the right to make a decision then we don't need a board. We are elected, don't get paid and put in a lot of time but don't get any thanks," said Jacobsen. "People don't come to the meetings but they think they can run the board. It's terrible."

Four bids were opened Oct. 12 and apparent low bid was $74,026. However, a proposed new water well, transmission line and electrical power were excluded from the bids. The trustees voted 3-2 to reject the bids.

INSTALLATION of a larger pump on Winside's one usable well was then recommended. It also was voted to drill a test hole west of the school and install a fire hydrant near the Richard Schmidt residence and near the Winside grain elevator.

The water is more than adequate in Winside's main well according to Cherry. However, the two backup wells do not have adequate water. He said that test results from samples of well water have not yet been returned.

Cherry took a different stand on the issue. "I differ with the other trustees. People do know what they want without a lot of money spent. Our present well is pumping 500 gallons a minute. We need a backup well but the general public couldn't see spending $200,000 for a backup well."

Associated Engineers of Lincoln were hired to study the water system and the engineer's report concluded the water system was deficient in several areas.

AN ENGINEERS report recommended that a new well be drilled in the southwest corner of town, that a water treatment plant be built to remove iron and manganese and to soften the untreated water and that a 150 foot tower be built to add another 100,000 gallons of storage and boost pressure.

Board members eliminated the treatment plant and new water tower and adopted an ordinance authorizing a $200,000 revenue-bond issue to finance construction of a new well, transmission line, distribution system and electricity to the well.

To compensate for the cost, water bills would have to be increased.

Petitioners opposed to the board's proposal said that $200,000 is too much to spend and advised that the board should have investigated other options.

"PEOPLE WANT water but they don't want to pay for it," said resigned trustee Floyd Burt. "Things were going good and then the petition scrapped our plans."

elevation differences. The majority of water mains have provided more than 50 years of service and are expected to be deteriorated inside and out, the report continued.

One of 20 fire hydrants that were tested showed "minimum pressure for efficient fire flow" the report stated. It explained that scales and mineral deposits cause tastes and odors and an increase in bacteria.

According to trustee Cherry, the proposed $200,000 project meant that water would have to be pumped a long ways. He stated that no test wells were drilled in town and explained that the public felt that some should be drilled. Cherry added that there are other alternatives and pointed out that a different proposal should be used.

JACOBSEN INDICATED that considerable work on plans for the water system had gone down the drain. "The board has been working over a year on water issues. We voted away a treatment plant and water tower and drew up another plan," said Jacobsen. "Then, the people hired a lawyer and told us if we didn't do what they wanted, they would fire us. I'm very upset."

Jacobsen said that $20,000 was wasted for engineers' fees and cannot be returned. "What they asked us to do, we did. Now, they've changed their minds."

Cherry said that the amount spent on engineers' fees may be closer to $16,000 and added that it is not necessarily lost. "Unless all projects are scrapped, the money is not lost. If all the projects are scrapped then the money is lost."

The lone trustee said he didn't feel that it would be a difficult task to fill the trustee positions once people were able to file. "It will take a few weeks...for a new board to organize and research other alternatives."

Future decisions will be left up to the new board members. However, it was decided on Monday to take a look at the possibility of a test well site within the city limits.

THE VACANT positions will be filled in a special election supervised by the Nebraska

It's some kind of contraption

TIME WAS WHEN CHICKENS were fed kernels of grain tucked deep inside grandma's apron, hay was pitched across the fence to the cattle, and hogs were slopped. Yep slopped. This old hog slopping cart was found standing on an abandoned farm northeast of Wayne. Local farmers can recall the time when grain, or what little food was tossed out the backdoor of the kitchen, was left to ripen in a barrel attached to the front of the cart. A pig's feast. The cart could also be used to tote water across the farm. It took local farmers longer to figure out what the attachment on top this cart is. They came to the conclusion that the cart is being used nowadays as a mount to hurl blue rocks into the air for target practice.

Public energy hearing Residential area first priority of task force

Wayne's new Energy Task Force has received notice of a public hearing concerning the problems people of Nebraska will face due to rising energy costs.

The hearing will take place at 9:30 a. m. Friday, Nov. 13, in Room 1520 in the State Capitol building.

Local task force chairman John Vakoc said the public is encouraged to add their comments to the public record either at the public hearing or by letter or telephone.

PUBLIC comments are requested concerning the existence of problems related to energy in Nebraska, and, specifically, comments pertaining to the affordability of energy resources and the reliability of supply of various energy commodities.

Public comments also are requested concerning the role the State should assume in addressing any identified energy problems.

Findings of the Legislative Resolution 96 Interim Study on Energy will be presented for the public record.

Anyone wanting more information regarding the public hearing is asked to call the Chamber of Commerce office or phone Don Macke in Lincoln at 402-471-2221.

WAYNE'S eight-man task force held its second meeting Thursday.

"We've decided that the thrust of the initial efforts of the force are definitely going to be towards the residential area," said chairman Vakoc.

Vakoc said ultimately the task force will be viewing Wayne's energy problems in five different sectors: residential, commercial, government and public facilities, transportation, and agriculture.

VAKOC SAID the task force feels it's important that the energy problem be made a personal problem.

"We want people to feel they might have a hand in finding solutions," said Vakoc, citing that as the reason for selecting the residential area to begin with.

Vakoc said the task force will be developing a plan to direct its efforts at the neighborhood level, and will have more information regarding the program in about a week.

AT THURSDAY'S meeting, the task force was divided into three committees.

Serving on the publicity committee are Vakoc and Roger Boyce.

A technical advisory committee, comprised of Phil Kloster, Dean Metz, Sam Schroeder and Ken Marra, will document historic data to determine what types of energy and amounts have been used in the city over a period of years.

Gary Vopalensky and Dale Stoltenberg are in charge of civic coordination.

ANOTHER MEETING of the energy task force will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 12, in the offices of Vakoc Construction Co.

The public is welcome to attend. The task force was initiated and formed last month by the local Chamber of Commerce to publicize, encourage, and work to promote methods of energy conservation, including energy audits.

Assault prevention

'Nobody has the right to rape another human being - for any reason'

By LaVon Beckman

damaging psychologically

"Sexual assault crimes happen everywhere, in every community," Tim Snyder told an audience of about 125 persons Wednesday night in Wayne State's Ramsey Theatre.

Snyder, a resident of Lincoln, was in Wayne to present a two-hour program on Rape and Assault Prevention.

He is the only teacher certified in Nebraska to teach self defense and rape and assault prevention.

"COMING FROM a small community, such as Wayne," said Snyder, "it's hard to believe that rape happens. We don't hear a lot about it."

Addressing an audience of mostly college students, Snyder said rape on small college campuses often goes unreported because victims don't want their parents to find out. "People will look at you — and they will know," said Snyder. "That can be very

SNYDER SAID there are many misconceptions surrounding rape, often resulting in the break up of families and in the break up of relationships between friends.

Too often society thinks of rape as a crime committed by the victim, not the attacker, said Snyder. The idea is formed that women who are raped ask for it.

"That's just not true," shouted Snyder. "Nobody has the right to rape another human being — for any reason."

MATERIAL distributed to the audience before the program cited FBI statistics in saying only 4 percent of reported rapes involve "provocative behavior."

"A woman has the right to choose her style of dress," said Snyder, "and that in no way gives a man the right to rape her."

National statistics also show that the ages of rape victims range from 6 months to 93 years of age.

"A victim of rape is a victim of violence," pointed out Snyder. "Sex and sexual attractiveness have little to do with how a rapist chooses his victim. Reported victims exist in every race, economic, and class background, and in every size and shape."

SNYDER ALSO told the audience that rape is not a sexual crime. More than 70 percent of all rapes and 90 percent of gang rapes were planned in advance.

"Rape is not a spontaneous act over which the assailant has no control," pointed out Snyder.

"Further, most rapists have normal, active sex lives with wives and friends. These men do not think of themselves as sexually frustrated. Their purpose is not sexual but violent. They are displaying their power by degrading and dominating another person."

ACCORDING TO the FBI, rape is the fastest growing violent crime in the nation.

The FBI also estimates that the actual incidence of sexual assault is anywhere from 3 to 10 times the number of reported sexual assaults.

In the Midwest, statistics indicate that one in every four women are victims of sexual assault.

National statistics indicate that in 75 to 80 percent of all sexual assaults, there is some degree of acquaintance between the victim and assailant; in 53 percent of the cases, the victim and assailant know each other; and in 14 percent of the cases, the assailant is a close personal friend or a member of the victim's family.

"THINK ABOUT IT," said Snyder. "FBI Crime Index statistics indicate that a sexual assault occurs in the United States once every three minutes, which means that one out of every four women will be a victim of sexual assault."

Snyder said that in 1979, the Lincoln Police Department received 52 reports of sexual assault; the Lincoln Rape/Spouse Abuse Crisis Center received between 250 and 300 reports of sexual assault during the same time.

SNYDER SAID that although we used to think of sexual assault as just rape, Nebraska now has three statutes regarding the crime.

Third degree sexual assault is the intentional touching of any intimate part of the body.

Second degree sexual assault, a felony, involves intentional intimate touching, with the added intent of physical harm.

First degree sexual assault is defined as the actual penetration of any part of the body by a sex organ or object.

SNYDER, a teacher of the marshall arts, said although marshall arts are a nice means of self defense, none training in the marshall arts can realistically be sure they can deal with any assault situation 100 percent of the time.

"Although the marshall arts are great for mental and physical discipline," said Snyder, "they are not realistically great for self-defense." Snyder also discouraged the use of

Seniors purchase flags for city

THE WAYNE SENIOR CITIZENS Center last week presented a new American flag and state flag to the City of Wayne. Nearly 30 persons attended the presentation ceremony Wednesday afternoon on the lawn of Wayne City Hall, where the two new flags will fly. Taking part in the ceremony were, from left, Anton Pedersen and Harry Wert, representing the senior citizens; Orville Sherry, president of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center; city administrator Philip Koster; Mayor Wayne Marsh; Chris Bargholz, representing the American Legion; and Gladys Petersen, who also represented senior citizens. Georgia Janssen, Senior Citizens Center director, said seniors held various activities throughout the year to raise money to purchase the new flags.

PEO is a philanthropic, educational organization dedicated to the higher education of women.

The four major philanthropies are the educational loan fund which provides low interest loans to qualified women college students; the International peace scholarships which are presented to foreign women earning graduate degrees in the United States and Canada; the continuing education grant fund with grants given to women who need additional training to re-enter the job market; and Cotley College.

LAST YEAR, Chapter AZ presented a $500 grant to Wayne State College student Mrs. Sus Saxton, who earned her master's degree in counseling.

She is presently employed as a counselor at the alcoholic rehabilitation center in O'Neill.

6 lettermen return

Cats hope to improve

Coach Rick Weaver's Wayne State College men's basketball team opened practice two weeks ago, and the prospects for an improved team appear good.

The Wildcats posted a 14-19 record last winter and earned a spot in the NAIA District 11 playoffs when they lost to Hastings 84-67.

With eight returning lettermen seeking spots on the varsity roster, Weaver is shooting for an upper-division finish in the eight-team CSIS.

LEADING THE LIST of returnees are junior forward Grady Hansen and senior Center Al Jones.

year who led the CSIC in scoring with a 19.3 scoring average. He snagged 5.2 rebounds per game also.

Two part-time starters return in addition to Jones and Hansen.

(Lincoln High) at guard (6.9 ppg, 1.7 rpg) give the Cats good starting experience to build from.

SEVERAL TRANSFERS and newcomers are hoping to challenge some of the eight returning letterwinners for playing time.

The Cats will see their first action on Nov. 14 during the annual varsity-alumni game.

Assisting second-year coach Weaver will be Clark Coco (who will also head the junior varsity program) and Doug Hutchinson.

New look for WSC Lady Wildcats under first year coach Jan Jirsak

Any resemblance between this year's women's basketball team at Wayne State College and last year's team is pretty much coincidental.

THE FRONT LINE is of greatest concern to Jirsak. The forward spots will most likely be taken by letterwinners Carol Durkee (sophomore, Papillion) and Patty Carney (sophomore, Norfolk).

and 5-9 newcomer Cindy Gessmann, (sophomore, Denton). It would be easy to look past the 1981-82 season with such a young squad on hand.

ANOTHER KEY to success for the new edition of the Lady Cats will be to play better defensively. Last year's squad had one of the top scoring averages in the conference (over 70 points per game), but were near the bottom defensively, surrendering just under 70 points each time out.

Star of the Week

The final week's selection as star of the week is Jeff McCright of Wayne. The junior turned in a gutsy performance both offensively and defensively as Wayne lost its final season game to O'Neill. McCright carried the ball 11 times for 60 yards and defensively made six unassisted tackles and seven assists. Among McCright's contributions was his excellent coverage on punt returns. Other players who were nominated: Mark Koch of Winside who rushed for 76 yards on 24 carries and made nine tackles. The offensive linemen, Vaughn Nixon, Keith and Kent Roberts, Roger Echtenkamp, Dale Gray and Doug Verplank of Wakarusa, who opened up holes which allowed the Trojans to rally to a victory over Emerson Hubbard last week. No game reports were received from Allen or Laurel so no player nominations were made from those two schools.

weapons in warding off sexual attacks. With keys, knives, mace or guns, said Snyder, you must be certain that you are being attacked before you can use them.

"You'll have no forewarning," he pointed out, "and the attacker is stupid. If he lets you know you're his victim."

SNYDER, WITH the help of Wayne State Chi Omega member Liz Yax, demonstrated several techniques to ward off possible attackers.

He stressed that striking vulnerable areas of the attacker is more important than the actual physical strength involved.

Snyder pointed out that poking eyes, striking glasses, and stomping on the instep were much more effective than the "knee in the groin" technique prescribed by many parents and friends.

SNYDER SAID his purpose in presenting Wednesday night's program was to encourage people to give rape some thought.

"It could happen to you. Think about what you would do."

Snyder encouraged women to be aware of rape. "Ideally speaking, prevention is where it's at."
