5 students guilty in Christmas tree caper

Five Wayne State College students have been placed on probation and ordered to pay restitution of $505 for a Christmas tree caper that led to the chopping of a homeowner's backyard Black Hills spruce.

Wayne County Court Judge James Duggan Thursday assessed each of the five women — two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior living at WSC's Anderson Hall — $101 in restitution and placed each on probation until June 1.

Duggan ordered the restitution and probation after Christine H. Penne, 19, Belgrade; Lori J. Ganseboom, 18, Osmond; Sharon L. Kratochvil, 20, Osmond; Sandra K. Kratochvil, 18, Osmond; and Janet M. Peters, 19, Bellwood, each pleaded guilty to violation of a city ordinance, injury to trees, a misdemeanor.

The WSC women were charged with the misdemeanor Wednesday by city attorney Robert Enns, after a weekend investigation of the Dec. 3 incident by campus and city police.

The Anderson Hall residents were arraigned before Judge Duggan Thursday morning in the second floor courtroom of the Wayne County Courthouse.

The restitution, ordered by Duggan, included replacement of the tree, which was owned by Richard and Becky Keidel of 1108 Douglas, with another of the same size, its transportation to Wayne from Norfolk and the removal of the 18-year-old tree's stump. Restitution payments will be scheduled by the probation officer in charge of the case but must be paid by April 1, Duggan said.

DUGGAN ALSO ordered, as part of the probation, the women to attend classes regularly. He said skipping classes would constitute a violation of probation.

Any law violation, drinking of alcoholic beverages and/or possessing or taking controlled substances would constitute a violation of probation, according to the judge.

The five also were ordered to pay $12 in court costs.

Police reports indicate the women chopped the 18-foot tree — measuring about 4 1/2 inches at the base — down and took it to the dormitory about 5:30 p.m. Thursday Dec. 3.

ON SUNDAY, police notified the dorm's resident director that they were searching for the missing tree.

The women, under questioning from the director, admitted taking the tree. All five turned themselves in to police.

They remained free on their own recognizance while awaiting Thursday's court session.

Judge sets February jury trial in slaying

The second-degree murder jury trial of Dennis V. Thorne, 36, rural Winside, has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 22, in Ninth District Court, Wayne County District Court Judge Richard P. Garden set the trial date Thursday after Thorne, accused in the October shooting death of Marlen Kleinschmidt, 40, also of rural Winside, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The jury trial, which is expected to take place in the second floor courtroom at the Wayne County Courthouse, was scheduled for February to allow time for depositions from witnesses.

THORNE WAS arraigned after Judge Garden Thursday denied a plea in abatement motion, including a bill of exceptions, filed just a week ago by the defendant's court-appointed attorney, Terry Dougherty of Norfolk.

Thursday, Dougherty again sought a reduction in Thorne's 10-percent bond, which has been set at $50,000.

Judge Garden also denied the defense attorney's request to have the bond reduced to 10 percent of $25,000.

Thorne was remanded to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of the bond to await the jury trial.

Golden Gloves gave him a gash

BLOOD RUNS down the cheek of Crofton heavyweight boxer Brian Eckman as Wayne Dr. Robert Benthack inspects the gash and referee Bill Engle, South Sioux City, stands by. Eckman was allowed to continue the fight but the bout was stopped by Engle in the third round when opponent Tony Smith of Fort Dodge, Iowa, connected with some hard punches to Eckman's face. The bout was one of 14 matches in a Golden Gloves boxing exhibition held Friday night at the Wayne city auditorium. See story and photos on Page 6.

Energy Task Force

Wayne group develops 3-point residential priority plan

After several organizational meetings, Wayne's Energy Task Force has developed a three-point plan that may target an area of the city as a springboard for community wide conservation projects.

Already underway, the plan is being coordinated by the task force's technical advisory, civic coordination and publicity committees.

According to task force chairman John Vakoc, the plan developed out of the newly formed group's consideration of five sectors for a concentrated effort on energy conservation.

"WE FEEL WE can accomplish the most in the residential area," Vakoc explained, noting that the task force's general goal is "to promote and encourage the prudent use and conservation of existing and alternative energy resources in the Wayne community."

The residential plan was selected as a task force priority after consideration that included commercial, government, public facilities, transportation and agriculture sectors, according to Vakoc.

The group, which was formed under the auspices of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce in late October, has organized the residential plan into three major tasks that include the gathering of energy use data, promoting conservation awareness and implementation of the plan in a selected residential area of the city, according to Vakoc.

"Our intent is to be able to measure conservation, so we knew we'd have to have some statistics on energy use in the past," the chairman explained.

"WE CAN THEN apply that data to figures that we'll have a year from now; for instance," Vakoc continued. Energy use data is being gathered by the task force's four member technical advisory committee.

Data being collected is being classified according to the type of fuel and energy usage, such as space heating, water heating, space cooling, lighting and appliances.

"What we are finding is that there is more of an even split between residential usage and commercial energy use in Wayne than we would have imagined," Vakoc said. Simultaneously, two task force committees — civic coordination and publicity are working on the energy awareness promotions.

Woman joins eight-man board

A woman has been appointed to the Wayne Energy Task Force. Margaret Hansen, applied sciences instructor at Wayne State College, has joined eight male members of the recently formed task force.

Other members include chairman John Vakoc of Vakoc Construction, Dean Metz, associate professor of physics at WSC, Phil Kloster, city administrator, Gary Vopalensky, city councilman, and Dale Stoltenberg, Wayne realtor and Wayne-Carroll School Board member.

Also, Ken Marra, part owner and officer of Marra Home Improvement Co., Roger Boyce, cashier at State National Bank and Trust Co., and Sam Schroeder, manager of Wayne County Public Power District.

Kloster, Marra, Metz and Schroeder serve on the task force's technical advisory committee.

Stoltenberg, Vopalensky and Hansen serve on the civic coordination committee. Vakoc and Boyce are members of the publicity committee.

Trustees approve Wayne State budget cuts

Operating fund cuts, a hiring freeze and a rollback in summer-session programs totaling $152,007 has been approved for Wayne State College by the Nebraska State Colleges Board of Trustees.

Approval came Thursday, according to Dr. Lyle Seymour, WSC president, who said the college proposed cuts followed the board's request that any budget rollback plan protect the integrity of instructional and student programs.

The cutback, which was sparked by the Legislature's recent special-session approval of Gov. Charles Thorne's 3 percent special reduction in state expenditures to meet a budget shortfall.

"WE HAVEN'T CUT any classes" in the regular sessions, Seymour said Friday.

"And, we haven't terminated anyone," he added. "We're not going to, either."

Seymour, who has been working on the mandated cutback for weeks with college vice president Ed Elliott and financial officer John Struve, said the board-approved plan "cuts a little out of everyone's budget."

He explained that cutbacks were made in the three general areas, with specific budget-line cuts becoming the responsibility of department heads.

The board approved proposal slices $108,875 from the WSC operating fund, $15,767 from money earmarked for personnel replacement, and $23,365 from the college's post session and first summer session programs, according to Seymour.

SEYMOUR SAID the operating fund cutback will affect utilities, administration of placement services, transportation, special programs, equipment, athletics, student government and the student newspaper.

He said other administrative budgets also feel the impact of the cuts, but that the rollback has been designed to minimize the impact on instruction and student services.

According to Seymour, the regular college sessions will not be shortened.

He said the college calendar for the second semester will continue as planned.

(Registration for the second semester is scheduled for Jan. 4. Classes begin on Jan. 5.)

Essentially, it will be "business as usual" at the college, Seymour said, acknowledging that more evidence of the cutback would appear as department heads apply the mandate.

THE HIRING FREEZE eliminates the college's program of personnel replacement in service-related areas, such as the copy center and the college relations office, according to Seymour.

The president said several other areas exist where the workload will be absorbed by existing employees should someone in that department resign.

On the summer session rollback, Seymour said about 16 courses would be cut from the college's post-session and first summer session.

The post session is a concentrated three-week program that immediately follows the end of the spring semester.

The first summer session, a five-week program, usually begins in early June and finishes before the college's fiscal year ends on July 31.

"LOW-ENROLLMENT courses will go," Seymour explained in regard to the post-session and summer-session cuts.

"We've asked the division heads to be very select with the programs," he added. "However, we are very much aware of the students' needs and we'll make arrangements where we have to, so it's not going to affect the student programs."

WSC's budget rollback ($152,007) represents a 3 percent reduction in keeping with the state mandate for the college, which has an enrollment of 2,223 students — second highest of the state colleges.

Kearney State College, with 7,004 students, has cut its budget by $275,161. Chadron State College, with 1,909 students, has cut its budget by $152,021. And, Peru State College, with 818 students, has cut its budget by $86,507.

NEXT YEAR'S BUDGET proposal, which was submitted to the governor in September, reflects an overall 10.4 percent increase, according to Seymour.

"The board's position, at least for now, is to continue to support the request of the college," Seymour said.

"I believe it is still the intention of the board to defend that budget (proposal), recognizing that some of the cuts become the base for next year's budgeting," Seymour continued.

energy conservation, according to Vokoc.

The group also is working on the establishment of an energy programs bureau.

The bureau is being designed to prepare and publicize energy conservation information through the use of such things as films and speakers for schools, clubs and organizations.

"I think that, if we get some funding, we'll probably screen films and prepare two or three for schools and public organizations," the chairman said.

In addition, the second task of the residential plan involves the creation of a community energy conservation catalog, according to Vokoc.

He said the catalog is being designed to contain a "parade of ideas" about energy conservation.

ALSO, HE SAID, the catalog will offer an idea exchange on energy conservation installing tips.

"For instance, it will be set up so that a Wayne resident who's thinking about installing some energy saving device can call a neighbor or a resident in another part of town who already has accomplished the project," Vokoc explained.

Neighbors can share information on cost, installation techniques, and pay back rates with a simple telephone call, he said.

Also, the catalog will deal with the problem of energy audits.

country boy...

Howdy.
Do you believe in Santa Claus?
I do.
It's not easy to believe in Santa Claus. I think that's why a lot of people don't believe in him. It's easier not to believe.
Believing is hard work.
And, believing in Santa Claus takes a lot of extra effort these days.

FOR SOME strange reason, most everyone seems so caught up in the hardware of Christmas, that there's little room left in their lives for the spirit of Santa Claus.

In fact, I've noticed that children who "know about Santa Claus" take particular delight in crushing the beliefs of their playmates.

It's always seemed strange to me that those who think they "know about Santa Claus" will go so far out of their way to tell others there is no Santa Claus.

No Santa Claus? How absurd. It just cannot be. Yet, there are those who spend most of the holiday season turning believers into non-believers.

Those new non-believers join an ever-increasing group of faithless individuals — those who insist that what you cannot see, touch or taste does not exist.

I DON'T KNOW about you, but I certainly don't need to get my hands on the jolly old elf to know he's around.

Ever since I was knee high to a prairie grasshopper, I've seen all kinds of evidence that there is a Santa Claus.

I've counted a number of Christmases. And, I cannot remember getting something for Christmas I didn't want.

Often, I've received special Christmas gifts I didn't dare ask for because they were terribly difficult to obtain.

No matter what the weather was like, gifts always appeared overnight around the base of the Christmas tree in our South Dakota farmstead home.

AND, MOTHER'S sugar cookies — the one's we left on a plate at the kitchen table — were always gone except for a few crumbs, on Christmas morn. In fact, as I remember it, the glass of milk was always empty, too.

I've read countless notes thanking me and my brothers and sisters for being good boys and girls, and for leaving a Christmas Eve snack. They were always signed Santa Claus.

I've seen large footprints, obviously made by a heavy-set man, in fresh-fallen South Dakota snow. Those footprints never matched any boot I ever found on the farm.

I'VE FOUND Christmas candy canes at the bottom of an empty bucket. The bucket had been filled with oats for a mid-night reindeer snack.

I've seen a tremendous amount of deep snow trampled by what had to be tiny, pointed hooves. And, I've seen sleigh tracks across a snow-covered farmyard on Christmas morn.

I've slept on the stairway in a determined effort to watch for Christmas Eve visitors and found myself tucked safely and soundly in bed when morning arrived.

I've heard the sounds of late-night laughter, the crisp crinkling of wrapping paper and the creak of the front door. And, I've tiptoed downstairs for a look, finding only the peace and quiet of a home filled with happiness on a Christmas night.

I'VE SEEN my mother's heart smile with joy as her little one's danced and sang around a Christmas tree decorated with love.

I've shared the excitement of baking cookies, making fudge and stringing popcorn, while the north wind howled and Jack Frost painted winter pictures on old farmhouse windows.

I've felt the warm hand of my father close around my cold fingers as we scurried about town on a last minute shopping trip.

I've seen the twinkle grow in the eyes of a grandmother and grandfather when their children and grandchildren asked them to share Christmas dinner.

I'VE WATCHED sisters and brothers keep secrets and swap knowing glances as they surreptitiously sidestep 20 sibling questions.

I've felt the closeness of a family filled with Christmas cheer, experiencing Christmas together without a penny to pinch.

I've caught the trail of a fear down my father's cheek as he listened to the squeals of delight from his children on Christmas morn.

And, I've laughed with the gladness of giving so little that only the thought could count, and cried with the happiness of hope that Christmas would stay all year.

And, I've laughed with the gladness of giving so little that only the thought could count, and cried with the happiness of hope that Christmas would stay all year.

YOU SEE, he's so real in the heart of this country boy that I can't imagine going through a Christmas without him.

It would be something of a spiritless Christmas, indeed, for me were it not for Santa Claus.

He symbolizes so much that we have abandoned, all for the convenience of commercialism.

If you remember, Santa Claus is a doer. He does not spend his time at the North Pole buying gifts for the children of the world.

No, I should say not. He has continued to capture the spirit of Christmas by doing.

Need I remind you that he and his helpers make the gifts they deliver at Christmas?

There's something to that, I think. That something has always kept me at odds with the commercialization of Christmas that sweeps over this land once a year.

IN FACT, I often wonder if we shop for — and give — Christmas gifts because we don't want to give of ourselves — our time, our energy, our love.

To give of ourselves, we must be doers, too. We must find the time, the energy, the love. We must do something with that time, that energy, that love.

I worry that we don't do that today because we don't believe in it anymore.

And, that's another reason that Santa Claus is so important. It's important to believe.

To me he symbolizes a kind of faith — a faith that seems to be slipping from us.

It's a faith in ourselves that should spit in the eye of cynicism. Yet, it's almost become unfashionable to believe.

WHEN WE CAN'T find it in ourselves to believe in Santa Claus, our imaginations are in danger of becoming bankrupt.

That is when we deal with only those things that come to us through our senses. It creates a world without a sense of adventure.

And, it prevents us from venturing into the wonderful world beyond what we see.

We quickly lose sight of the intangible, grasping only for those tangible symbols of security — the merchandise that's made brighter with the help of Christmas wrapping paper.

As I look back on years and years of Christmases, I remember few gifts — gifts as we have come to know them, anyway.

The real gifts I remember are the those that came from believers who gave of themselves.

I OFTEN wonder if we will ever get back to the spirit of Christmas.

My heart aches for the little boys and little girls who are growing up with packages as a Christmas substitute for believing and doing.

And, my heart sings whenever I find the true spirit of Christmas growing in the minds and imaginations of children.

If only we could find the commitment this Christmas to gift each other with the time, energy and love that would help regenerate our dying desire to believe, once again.

If only we could find the resourcefulness this Christmas to gift each other with the time, energy and love that would help dedicate our dying desire to be doers, once again.

ALL I ASK is that you give it some thought this Christmas season.

Perhaps it is already too late to do it this year. Remember, Santa Claus works all year for his one trip across the land on Christmas Eve.

Maybe if we all started working on Dec. 26, and kept at it throughout the next year, we'd become doers and believers by the time the next holiday season arrives in 1982.

No matter what happens, though, I can tell you that I intend to keep on believing in Santa Claus.

And, I'm not about to let anyone get away with the kind of creeping cynicism that destroys the good deeds done by that old elf.

AND, IF YOU don't believe, start watching and listening very closely these next two weeks.

I'm willing to bet you a plate full of sugar cookies that Santa Claus is out there.

You might not see him right off. But, as the days grow closer to Christmas, the evidence becomes overwhelming for those willing to believe.

And, the more you are willing to give of yourself, the quicker you, too, will become a believer.

That might be the healthiest thing that could happen to you this Christmas.

If you find yourself starting to believe, that means it's time to find a friend and share it.

Santa Claus wouldn't have it any other way. Catch you next week.

To the editor:
Thank you for "all" the pictures that you have in "The Herald".

To the editor:
In reference to your story on the "Christmas tree caper," I would like to make the following corrections:
The ages of all the girls were stated incorrectly. The tree was not taken on a Friday. The diameter of the trunk was not a ghostly 4 1/2 feet. The girls were not arrested, but were cited for a misdemeanor after turning themselves in.

I don't know the reporter of this story or where he got his facts, but his inefficiency to report accurately is making The Wayne Herald appear to be a paper of low caliber. The story was obviously "hear say." I feel that you owe an apology to the girls, and this should be done on the front page in the same manner as the original story.

I hope that from now on your reports will check their facts so The Wayne Herald will not be caused further embarrassment.

To the editor:
In regard to the story of Wayne county's weather man, Wilbur Hefti, in today's issue (Monday, Dec. 7) of the Herald:

The story brings back pleasant memories to me, as told by Wilbur's Father, J. R. Hefti, who was my friend and customer.

From 1926 till 1931, inclusive, I maintained the tank wagon service out of Carroll for The Standard Oil Company of Nebraska, and Mr. John Rudolph Hefti was one of my customers and very good friend, he was also the Father of Wilbur Hefti.

Since Wilbur has related the story very much like his Father told it to me, it gives me great pleasure to read or hear it again.

For the few years that I was in contact with J. R. Hefti I followed his weather predictions as he told them to me and I found them to be extremely accurate, there were few slight exceptions.

He told me that the story was given to him by his Father, and that he could only relate it to his son, and that if he violated that trust, he could lose his power of prediction.

He told me that he made his predictions exactly as Wilbur says, on Christmas Eve between the hour of eleven o'clock and midnight and that he used a garden vegetable, but he would never tell me what the vegetable was.

Wilbur's Father was a grand old gentleman, he had a Haroon automobile (the only one I ever seen) and each time I filled his petroleum requirements, I also filled the gasoline tank on his automobile.

I extend my thanks to you and to Wilbur for bringing this story back to me, as I said before, it brings back pleasant memories.

Sincerely
Perry Jarvin

No respect

Respect for another man's property seems to be hard to come by these days. Perhaps it's the tenor of the times. If it is, something's gone awry that needs some immediate and long-range attention.

Take the recent Wayne Christmas-tree caper, for instance. Five college students — all adults by most standards — on a Christmas-tree hunting expedition cut down a live tree belonging to a city property owner.

They were charged with a misdemeanor. They pleaded guilty. And, they have been fined with the addition of probation restrictions.

However, the transgression goes beyond what can be restored. An 18-year-old tree is more than bark and limbs. It is the product of years of hard work and care.

Furthermore, it was not lost in the wilderness. It was an important part of a family's effort to keep Wayne attractive.

The arrogance and insensitivity that brought about the hatchet job on the tree is worrisome. It smacks of an attitude that not only flies in the face of Christmas, but also does deeply into the someone else's pursuit of happiness.

It strikes perilously close to a fallacious, but nonetheless growing, philosophy that seems to say: "You have, I don't. Therefore, I either take from you or destroy what you have." It's both dishonest and disgusting.

Another recent example of that same kind of attitude involves the vandalism of property in Wayne with the use of motor vehicles.

Several laws in the northwest corner of the city have been torn up by some twisted motorists who apparently feel the streets are no place for a car or pickup.

The result has been the wanton wandering of vehicles across frontyard lawns and backyard lawns. Yet another caper that destroys another man's property.

Perhaps it is time to warn these seven-day wonders that their rights end where another's nose begins.

The shameful display of insensitivity, for what ever reason, is not only against the law, but tarnishes the Golden Rule in an almost incomprehensible way.

What ever happened to that little Golden Rule, anyway? You know the one: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Maybe "an eye for an eye, an ear for an ear" approach is more workable. Perhaps those five college students each should be required to plant and care for a tree, at their own expense, on some public property in the city.

Perhaps the lawn-wreckers, if caught, should be required to plant and care for, at their own expense, an equal amount of grass on public property.

Appointed rounds

Another law aimed at stopping Postal Service letter carriers from crossing lawns has been moved down by a recent federal appeals court ruling.

In affirming a decision to disallow a 1976 ordinance in Pittsburg, Calif., the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals on Nov. 16 strongly supported the Postal Service's requirement that letter carriers can use short cuts when there are no safety hazards or objections from homeowners.

Although there are still cases pending in Ohio, Michigan and New York, two other federal district courts recently threw out other laws barring lawn-crossing even before the court of appeals decision.

In the earlier district court rulings, federal judges in Cleveland, Ohio, and South Ben. Ind., found that Youngstown, Ohio, and Mishawaka, Ind., ordinances were in conflict with federal law and unconstitutional under the supremacy clause of the Constitution.

In the Pittsburg case, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals determined that the regulation is designed to promote the efficiency of mail delivery by permitting postal carriers to take short cuts across lawns.

"The regulation's purpose and effect is consonant with the congressional mandate to the Postal Service to provide efficient mail delivery service," the appeals court said. "The local ordinance frustrates postal efficiency by forcing the Postal Service either to stop using short cuts across lawns or to undertake the nightmarish administrative burden of obtaining express consent from every Pittsburg property owner."

"It is therefore an unconstitutional obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full purposes and objectives of Congress."

In a footnote, the court pointed out that the ordinance had already allowed mail delivery to the California town and, because of overtime, led to higher costs.

Farm economy on the skids

Farm prices declined 0.8 percent in November because of problems in the economy and very high farm production, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In mid-month, its farm price index was 10 percent below its level in November 1980.

Compensation of workers in private industry rose 2 percent in the third quarter of this year. The Department of Labor's employment cost index for private, nonfarm workers was 10 percent higher at the end of September than it was a year earlier.

ENERGY CONSERVATION — January 11, 1982, is the comment deadline on a Department of Energy proposal to simplify its Residential Conservation Service regulations.

The program requires utility companies to tell their residential customers about the benefits of certain energy conservation and renewable resource measures, to offer their customers an energy audit of their homes, and to offer to arrange for the installation or financing of those measures.

Because of rising energy costs and tax incentives, the Department of Energy believes that there is sufficient incentive for these customer services and that mandatory provisions are not necessary.

Send comments to Office of Conservation and Renewable Energy, Office of Hearings and Dockets, Mail Station 4N-025, Department of Energy, Washington, D.C. 20580.

SOCIAL SECURITY REFORM — The Social Security Administration loses about 160 million each year in overpayments and related expenses when benefit checks are mailed to recipients who have died. I am cosponsoring a bill that would amend

congressman doug bereuter

the Social Security Act to require the states to semi-annually notify the Social Security Administration of the deaths that have occurred in the previous six months.

The bill would also amend the Freedom of Information Act to protect the confidentiality of this information.

INCOME LIMITATION — Recently the House of Representatives voted to defeat a resolution that would have raised the present limit on the amount of outside income that a member of Congress may earn in addition to his or her salary.

The resolution would have amended the rules of the House to raise the outside earned income limit for members from 15 to 40 percent of their salaries during the calendar years 1981-83. In addition, the proposed resolution raised the limit on a single honorarium from $1,000 to $2,000.

I can assure my constituents that I voted against raising these limits and was very pleased that the resolution was defeated. While there are legitimate reasons to raise the outside limitation for certain types of investment and family business income, the portion coming from honoraria for outside spending certainly should not be raised.

Conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest already raise questions in the minds of citizens. It would be better, in my judgment, to provide the same tax breaks to members of Congress than businessmen in similar circumstances now enjoy — and then forbid all honoraria and forbid proposals for immediate salary increases.

Domestic violence

Holiday tempers and tantrums take toll on families

The following article was written by Hallie Sherry, coordinator of Haven House Family Services Center in Wayne. The article deals with domestic violence, especially during this holiday season, and offers suggestions to aid in reducing stress and frustrations within the family.

Domestic violence escalates during holiday periods.

Overworking, overspending, over socializing and/or drinking, tax personal limitations and inducing fatigue.

Fatigue inflates stress, stress fosters frustrations, and frustrations foster foam and fuse full blown into personal hostilities.

Family fighting erupts to disrupt holiday happiness.

ADVICE FROM Haven House Family Services Center suggests that by reducing stress and frustrations, holiday temper tantrums can be controlled by the family taking time to plan a sensible expenditure of money, time and energy for this holiday season.

Together family members go through the process of planning and implementing, with complete honesty, an appropriate Christmas program.

It is essential for parents to level about their feelings and the condition of the family finances.

AT THE FAMILY meeting, make decisions by writing down what has to be accomplished, who will do what and when what will be done as well as the money to be spent.

Buy only the presents, the food, the decorations the budget can afford.

For any other boons, use some good old American ingenuity and creativity in gift giving for those you'd like to remember.

ADMIT THE family does not have the wherewithal to lavish on bought-in things for everybody.

When you make a gift or provide a service (babysitting, house-sitting, transportation housekeeping tasks), you give of yourself!

Isn't that what the spirit of Christmas is all about?

Children can be extremely innovative when challenged. Why not challenge them?

DON'T DELEGATE Mom to stage and produce the family Christmas celebration. Preparing Christmas cards can be, should be, a family endeavor from making to mailing.

This goes for the baking, decorating, entertaining and shopping. Try making this Christmas a family production.

PARENTS ARE urged to enjoy and withhold all blame, criticism and judgment.

Of course, some cards will be smudged, some cookies will be messy, some packages will be wrapped imperfectly; some Christmas decorations will perch precariously, glamorous entertaining will be diminished by amateur servants and the dips may be too salty, but humor and fun will more than compensate for cutting down on the "ultra" of entertaining.

If Christmas is for children, involve them as active participants in the entire festivities.

PLANNING, patience and perseverance will prevent the awful temper tantrum errors and reduce stress by combining and utilizing the time and energies of each family member to preserve the beauty and peace of this season.

The key is planning and recognition of money, energy and time limitations — then implementing family ideas.

The written plans will aid family members to keep on track and fulfill expectations while banishing the Scrooges of Domestic Violence to non-existence.

WAYS TO BRING the family closer together throughout the year include:

1) Parents set aside a special time each day for just talking with each child. Discover and talk about feelings in one-to-one relationships. Practice active listening.

2) Never ridicule your child.

3) Observe your child. Watch actions and reactions.

4) Family checks in on each other when someone leaves or comes home.

5) ALL CHILDREN do regular household chores.

6) Whole family strives to be together for dinner every night.

7) Parents and children enjoy togetherness sometime each week.

8) Family has certain "family responsibility time" each week when they do necessary things together at home or away. These could include grocery shopping, library time, shopping for special occasions, etc.

9) WORKING PARENTS take care of the children part of the time daily. Establish a routine.

10) Confront children when problems arise. Do not put off confrontations. Level about your feelings. This does not mean attack, blame, judge, criticize.

11) When teaching values, be consistent. Parental modeling is effective.

12) Parents have certain things they almost always do each time the children get out of line. Children know what to expect.

13) AT LEAST some of the family eats breakfast together almost every morning.

14) Children go to bed at the same time almost every night.

15) Each child has some private or free time each day.

16) Children do their homework at the same time each day or night during the week.

17) At least one parent contacts his or her parents regularly.

18) PARENTS AND children have certain things to do every morning to get ready to start the day (dress, groom, check schedule, feed pets, etc.).

19) Be patient. You are not perfect, nor were you a perfect child.

20) Develop a sense of humor. Encourage your children to do the same.

21) Do not do for your child what he/she can do for him/herself.

Christmas tree revives legends

Some of the Christmas plants displayed in homes during the holiday season are surrounded by mystery and legend.

Such stories not only add to the Christmas joy and goodwill, but also carry on age old traditions, said Donald Steinegger, extension horticulturist at the University of Nebraska Lincoln.

THE CHRISTMAS tree, more than any other plant, is synonymous with the joy and goodwill of this season.

In homes, churches and businesses, indoors and out, it symbolizes the spiritual — the Christ child — and the secular — Santa Claus.

One of the most popular Christmas plants, the Christmas tree can be traced to Martin Luther (1483-1546) and perhaps even earlier, according to some authorities, Steinegger said.

While walking through a starlit, snow covered forest in his homeland, Luther was deeply moved by the spiritual qualities of the scene.

HE TRIED to duplicate the winter scene in his home by bringing a small evergreen tree indoors. Lighted candles were attached to its boughs to simulate the reflection of the stars.

"This custom was limited to the Rhine River district in Germany until 1700," Steinegger added.

NOT UNTIL the American Revolution did Christmas trees appear in our country, when a Hessian soldier from Germany decorated one.

"However," their acceptance didn't occur until the 19th century when Cleveland, Ohio, adopted the custom.

Homemade tree decorations consisted of tufts of cotton, flowers, replicas of food stuffs, strips of popcorn, cranberries and paper ornaments, Steinegger said. These decorations symbolized gifts.

Probably, the first Christmas trees were balsam fir, whose twigs, more than any other evergreen, resemble crosses, Steinegger said.

Today however, the Scotch pine is the most popular Christmas tree," he said.

CHECK with US!

By Betty Addison

Q. I noticed there is a deadline on All-Savers Certificates of December, 1982. In your judgment, do you believe the deadline might eventually be extended?

A. It's quite possible. The deadline would have to be extended by Congress, and whether or not Congress decides on an extension would depend in great part upon the apparent popularity of the All-Savers Certificates. Since the All-Savers Certificate has just been made available, it is a little difficult to predict what may happen. However, judging from the initial reaction, many savings and loans have reported a large public demand for the new savings tool with the tax-free interest bonus (within limits). Therefore, it is quite possible the December, 1982 deadline may receive a Congressional extension. As with many things, we'll have to assume a "wait and see" attitude. An occasional check with your savings and loan officer will keep you updated on possible developments.

Wausa pulls away 50-39

by Kent Probst

Wayne State College Wakefield managed to control a tall and talented Wausa High team for two and a half quarters Friday night, but the visiting Vikings scored 28 points in the final 11 minutes to take a 50-39 Lewis and Clark Conference win.

Wausa was unable to get its fast break game going until a third quarter switch to a man-to-man defense was employed. They put it in to make us take the ball to the hole, and get moving. Wakefield coach Scott Miller said, "So we did."

UNFORTUNATELY FOR Wakefield, the basketball fell into the hole, though the shorter Trojans were successful in getting the short range shot. Wausa took advantage of the change in tempo to get the fast break going and pulled away for the win.

"I thought if we could stop their break we would stay with them," Miller said. "But we got too far behind. They've got a good team — if they jump out to a third quarter lead, you're really got to scramble."

Wausa coach Stan Hageman agreed. "We love to get it up and down the floor. I was really pleased, we played well."

Behind the shooting of 6-3 Jeff Nelson, Wausa connected on a sizzling 40 percent of its shots, including 9 of 13 in the fourth quarter when Wakefield was forced to abandon the deliberate style of play. The Trojans, on the other hand, managed to drop just 36 percent from the floor on 19 of 57 shots.

Through the middle of the third period it appeared the game would go down to the wire. The lead changed hands nine times in the first half, with senior center Vaughn Nixon giving the Trojans their last advantage at 11-10 on a short jumper with 4:52 in the half.

THE TROJAN EFFORT was damaged when Nixon picked up his third foul with 2:12 remaining in the half. When the 6-3 center left the game, 6-0 junior Mike Clay was the tallest Trojan facing a Wausa lineup that measured 6-4, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1, and 5-9. Wausa scored seven points in those last two minutes to take an 18-15 halftime lead. Then came the third quarter, the period Miller calls "the most important of any game. The quarter started out the same as the first half. Wakefield playing a deliberate game, and Wausa unsuccessfully trying to run and shoot. Then came the Wausa switch from a zone to a man to man.

"I seriously doubt they were planning to play us man to man the rest of the way," Miller said. Instead it encouraged the Trojans to take more shots, which would not drop. The tall Vikings then seized upon the opportunity to employ the fast break.

At that point they pulled away from a 22-17 lead to their biggest bulge at 48-29 with 7:11 to play. Nelson was the biggest gun, totaling most of his 19 points, 16 rebounds, and five blocked shots in that span.

THE TROJANS FINALLY began to sink their shots in the last two minutes, when the game was already decided. Sophomore guard Jeff Coble flipped a perfect pass to Mike Clay for one basket and scored two himself, including a 40-foot bomb at the buzzer that brought the crowd to its feet.

Coble led the Trojans with 12 points and four assists. Clay added 10 points before fouling out. Mark Starzl had eight points and eight rebounds, while Vaughn Nixon added seven points and eight rebounds.

Behind Jeff Nelson's 19 points, guard Boyd Obers was in double figures for Wausa with 12 points. The Vikings managed to hit only 6 of 15 free throws, but Wakefield was sent to the line for only two free tosses all evening, with Nixon making one of his all attempts.

Wakefield fell to 2-1 with the loss. Wausa evened its record at 1-1.

In the junior varsity game, Wausa raced to a 32-4 halftime lead on its way to a 45-16 decision. Craig Denherder had seven points to lead Wakefield.

WSC women denied revenge

The Hastings College women's basketball team spoiled Wayne State Coach Jan Jirak's home debut with a 61-57 setback on Tuesday. It was the Lady Broncos second win of the year over Wayne State.

Wayne State ended the first semester of action with a game at Storm Lake, Iowa on Saturday against Buena Vista. The Lady Cats are idle until they host the four-team Wayne State College New Year's Tourney on Jan. 4.

Despite the fact that Hastings has been the only team to defeat Wayne State in a 5-2 season, things were a bit different this time around. Hastings destroyed the Lady Cats in the second game of the season, 95-60. This time, the Lady Broncos were fortunate to escape with the win.

Wayne State raced to a quick 22-8 advantage midway through the first half before Hastings whittled the lead down to 27-25 at halftime. The second half was hip-and-tuck all the way, with the lead changing hands almost with each score.

In the end, free throw shooting made the difference. Hastings was ice cold in the first half, hitting three of nine, but warmed up to hit six of 11 in the second half including four of four in the last minute and a half. Wayne State drilled 13 of 17 on the night, but missed the front end of three one-and-one opportunities in the last two minutes.

Tammy Blackburn took game scoring honors with 16 points for WSC. Sophomore center Sue Juhnlin played her best game to date with 12 points and 10 rebounds. Kristi Ficken led Hastings with 14 points and 15 rebounds. Hastings improved to 6-3 on the year.

Cards nip Wayne

South Sioux City came from behind Friday night to stop Wayne short in its search for its first win of the season. The Cardinals overcame a Wayne lead to nip the Blue Devils 42-41 in a game that was as even statistically as the final score indicates.

Wayne, which led 8-5 after the first quarter and 23-17 at the half, held onto its advantage until the final minute of the game. Todd Schwartz was in foul trouble through most of the game and fouled out weakening the Blue Devils.

The Devils hit 18 of 54 shots for slightly more than 33 percent while the Cards hit 19 of 55 for just more than 34 percent. Wayne committed 16 turnovers compared to 15 for South Sioux. The locals had 33 rebounds to 32 for the hosts.

"It was a close, sloppy game. Our kids played hard but a combination of turnovers and bad shots by us and good defense by South Sioux cost us our lead," said Wayne coach Bill Sharpe. "We led almost the whole game. It was close, but sloppy."

The Blue Devils led by as many as 10 points in the third quarter but South Sioux gained the advantage in the final minute and went up by three points. Wayne cut the lead to one point but time ran out on the locals. Shaun Niemann scored 12 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Mark Bofenkamp scored 12. Todd Schwartz scored 8 and Steve Overin pulled down 8 rebounds. The hosts were led by T. Anderson with 14 points.

The junior varsity game was nearly as close and had a similar ending. Wayne led most of the way but came out on the short end of a 33-31 decision. An attempted tying basket in the final seconds bounced off the rim.

Jim Boehman scored 10 points. Jeff Jorgensen scored 8. Bob Liska scored 4. Mark Kubik scored four. Randy Gamble scored three. Tim Corbit scored two and Layne Marsh added two.

Wayne, which played at Columbus Lakeview on Saturday, will host Laurel Tuesday and Wisner Pilger Friday.

Windside Newcastle was tied at the half and close until the final six minutes of the game.

The Wildcats, who committed 10 turnovers in the first half, made only four in the third quarter and one in the final period. "We played well and kept our composure. Newcastle is a pretty good ball club but we finally played some good ball," said Gonnerman.

There was no junior varsity game. Winside is scheduled to play at Coleridge Friday in a boys-girls doubleheader.

athlete of the week

New feature added

In addition to comprehensive sports coverage of all area schools this winter, The Wayne Herald is adding a new feature to the sports section of its Monday issues. Each week, one athlete will be recognized as the "athlete of the week" in The Wayne Herald coverage area. Athletes in Allen, Laurel, Wakefield, Wayne and Winside High Schools and Wayne State College are eligible for the honor.

Each coach of an area basketball or wrestling team is asked to nominate one of his or her athletes based on one week's athletic performance and accomplishment.

Two Wayne businesses, the Gay Theatre and Godfathers Pizza, have offered to donate prizes to the athlete of the week. Each and every individual who earns the honor will receive two theatre passes and a certificate for a small Godfathers Pizza.

Theatre tickets will be good to see a movie of the winner's choice and the pizza certificate can be redeemed at anytime. Final selection of the athlete of the week will be made by The Wayne Herald staff based on performances of an individual who is nominated by his own coach.

Brink wins 1st award

Nominations from coaches have been received for the first athlete of the week award. This award is given for an individual performance during the first week of December.

This week's winner is Eric Brink of Wayne who was nominated by his coach Don Koenig. The senior wrestler won all four of his matches by pins during the first week of December. The heavyweight captured first place in the Blair Invitational wrestling meet Saturday and led his team to a dual win over Schuyler last Thursday.

Eric will receive a certificate for a free Godfathers pizza and will be given two passes to attend the movie of his choice at the Gay Theatre.

Congratulations!

Other nominations: Barry Bowers of Winside was nominated from wrestling coach Paul Sok. Barry pinned all three of his opponents in the 185-pound class at the Randolph Invitational on Saturday to win the championship and lead his team to a second place finish. The senior scored 24 of his team's 115 points.

Jim Krájček of Winside was nominated for his performance which led the Wildcat basketball team to a season opening win over Allen. The senior scored 17 points, putted down 20 rebounds, made two steals and blocked three shots.

Windside coach Dennis Gonnerman said Jim had one of his finest games in three years as a starter. His points were scored in key situations and he showed excellent leadership throughout the game.

Allen wins close area battle

Des Williams hit more free throws than the entire Laurel team and that proved to be a deciding factor as Allen's girls trimmed Laurel 55-47, Thursday night in Laurel.

Williams hit 10 of 14 free throws including a pair late in the game which put the finishing touches on Allen's victory.

Teamwise, the Bears hit 43 percent of their charity shots compared to 41.5 percent for the Eagles. But, the winners had 41 free throw opportunities compared to only 14 for the hosts.

THREE GIRLS scored in double figures for Allen. Des Williams led all scorers with 18. Shelly Williams scored 12 and Beth Stalling followed with 10. Sherry Williams and Michelle Harder each grabbed eight rebounds and Des Williams made four assists.

For Laurel, Kim Sherry and Anne Schultz each had 12 points and hit at least 50 percent from the line. Schultz pulled down 10 rebounds and Patsy Thompson made six steals. Laurel committed 11 turnovers compared to 19 for Allen.

The Eagles led by as many as 17 points at one time and held a 42-27 lead after three quarters on Lisa Hansen's basket at the buzzer. The Bears fought back, gained the momentum and pulled within five points with about a minute remaining.

Sherry's off balance jumper cut Allen's lead to 51-47 with nine seconds left in the game. The Bears were forced to foul the wrong player and Williams hit two free throws to clinch the game at 53-47. A basket as time ran out made the final score 55-47.

"WE PLAYED better ball overall. Having one game behind us showed. We looked a lot better than we did on Tuesday," said Allen coach Gary Troth referring to his team's loss to Ponca. "I anticipated a close game and it was. Des made some pressure free throws or it could have been closer. We got a few breaks early.

The Bears got into foul trouble early. Ronke Gadeken picked up two personal fouls in the first three minutes of the game, spent considerable time on the bench and fouled out with 5:42 left in the game. Patsy Thompson and Cyndi Jonas also fouled out and Schultz and Sherry finished the game with four fouls.

"Allen has a darn good team and they played like they're capable. We stopped the fastbreak pretty well," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson. "I got more satisfaction from this game than from our two wins. The girls could have easily given up but didn't."

Iverson said he felt his team did some good things offensively in the second-half and played more aggressive defense in the fourth quarter.

TROTH was happy to get the victory after opening the season Tuesday with a loss. "We needed this. It'll help us. We got a few things to fire us up early and got stronger. Laurel has a good team. We've been working a lot on our inside game. Now, we need to shoot more from the outside."

Both teams started out in zone defenses and Allen gained the early lead. The Eagles held on for a 12-10 advantage at the end of the first quarter. Gadeken's three point play gave Laurel its first lead of the game at 15-13.

The Bears opened up a six point lead at 19-13 on a field goal by Jonas. However, the Eagles took over the momentum from there. A full court press forced three turnovers and Des Williams, Shelly Williams and Janet Peterson hit baskets to give the Eagles a 20-19 edge halfway through the second period.

Allen scored 12 unanswered points in all for a 25-19 lead before LaRae Nelson canned two free throws late in the first half. Des Williams' two free throws with no time left in the second period gave Allen a 29-21 half-time lead.

Allen held its lead through the second half and held off a late rally by the Bears.

In junior varsity action, Laurel defeated Allen 35-30. The Bears were led by Keith Johnson with 15 points, Wendy Robson with 9, Jana Cunningham with 5, Jean Lue with 4 and Brenda Rees with 2. Allen was paced by Michelle Pettit with 10 points, Jeanne Warner with 5, Lisa Hansen and Julie Book with four each, Pam Kavanaugh, Michelle Harder and Tami Jewell with two apiece and Shelly Boyle with one.

Laurel will play at Wayne on Thursday and Allen will travel to Newcastle Tuesday.

Wildcats hold on for win

The Wayne State Wildcats gave up an 18 point lead late in the game, but held on to claim an 82-74 win over Midland in Wayne Thursday.

The Cats, 5-4, traveled to Blair to challenge Dana on Saturday. Coach Rick Weaver's squad will then get a Christmas break until resuming action on Dec. 29-30 at the Hastings Holiday Tournament.

The win over Midland gave Wayne State its first back-to-back wins of the season, including the previous 89-84 victory over Northwestern. But it didn't come easy against a scrappy bunch of Midland Warriors.

The first half was a tight battle, with neither team gaining a clear advantage. The Cats took a slim 41-38 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The margin stayed close until midway through the second half, when WSC charged to a 71-53 advantage with over six minutes remaining. But turnovers and some hot out side shooting by the guests allowed Midland to draw within 77-72 with less than two minutes to play. From that point the Warriors could manage just two more points, while free throws and a last second bomb by Wildcat guard Jay Bellar gave the Cats the decision.

Bellar turned in an outstanding performance on the night. His 14 points included six for seven field goal shooting and two for two free throw shooting. Bellar grabbed a game high 11 rebounds and notched five assists.

His backcourt mate, Brad Edwards led the Cats with 18 points and six assists. Junior forward Grady Hansen managed 15 points, seven below his average. Junior forward Brian Platte had 12 points and six rebounds.

Dale Blum paced 3-4 Midland with 22 points and eight rebounds. The Warriors hit two more buckets than WSC (30-28) but the Wildcats had a 26-14 edge in free throws made.

Hansen leads scoring

Wayne State College junior Grady Hansen is in a familiar place, according to the first statistical report released by the Central States Intercollegiate Conference.

Hansen, a 6-6 forward from Omaha, is once again the top scorer in the CSIC. He finished the 1980-81 season in that spot with a 19.3 average, and Hansen is averaging 22.9 points through the Wildcats' first eight games.

Junior guard Brad Edwards stands seventh in CSIC scoring with a 15.0 average. Edwards is second in assists in the conference, with an average of four-per-game.

Hansen also ranks high in conference shooting percentages. He is hitting 55 percent of his shots from the floor and rates fifth in rebounding, averaging 7.5 per game. Senior center Al Jones is in third place in conference rebounding, averaging 7.7 each outing.

Senior forward Jim Reinders is tied for ninth in free throw shooting, hitting on 80 percent after dropping 16 of 20 free throws to date.

On the women's side of the report, five Lady Wildcats are ranked in the first CSIC report. Sophomore guard and captain Tammy Blackburn is sixth in scoring with a 16.2 average, while sophomore guard Maggie Alberts is 14th with an 11.2 mark.

Blue Devils hurt by Norfolk press

Norfolk's girls basketball team continued its dominance over Wayne by racking up a 52-27 win Thursday night.

Wayne coach Becky Kelley said her team played pretty well on offense and defense but was bothered by Norfolk's press. The Blue Devils committed 38 turnovers in the game.

Tamie Murray led the locals in scoring with 10 points. Pam Nissen scored six and Missy Stoltenberg pulled down 12 rebounds. Wayne has never beaten Norfolk and turnovers resulted in about 20 points for the hosts.

"We couldn't handle their press. The second quarter really hurt us," said Kelley. "The Blue Devils fumbled the ball away and got caught dribbling into Norfolk's traps."

The winners were led by Marsha Nelson with 12 points and Sue Walter with 8. Next action for Wayne is scheduled tonight (Monday) at Columbus Lakeview. The Blue Devils will host Laurel on Thursday.

In junior varsity action, Norfolk defeated Wayne 56-19. Karen Lone scored 10 points against the sophomore-laden Norfolk squad.

More Valley Corner Systems every year,

it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons. So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.

Wildcats open dual season with exciting mat win

The Winside wrestling team was five seconds from defeat Thursday when Kent Glassmeyer stuck his opponent's shoulders to the mat to give the Wildcats a 33-29 dual win over Pender.

With his team trailing 27-29, Glassmeyer found himself behind 10-2. With about a minute remaining in the heavyweight match, the Winside senior turned his attention on his back. With only five seconds left, the referee called a pin as the Winside home crowd went hysterical.

"Kent had a tougher time than I expected but he came through for us," said Winside coach Paul Sok. "Both teams wrestled aggressively and it was a very exciting dual. We're steadily improving and things are looking good right now."

After 185-pound senior Barry Bowers suffered a surprise loss Thursday, only one Winside wrestler remains undefeated. Mark Koch won an 8-0 major decision over Jay Kaser at 119 pounds to improve his record to 4-0.

Kurt Rohde and Glassmeyer are each 4-1. Doug Jaeger, John Thies and Barry Bowers are 3-1 and Brian Bowers is 2-2-1.

Winside built up a lead of 25-6 entering the 138 pound match. Pender used three pins, a draw and a decision to take a 29-25 advantage with only one match left.

The Wildcats racked up points on pins by Kurt Rohde, Kyle Miller and Glassmeyer. John Thies, who placed second in the Plain view Invitational last weekend, won by forfeit at 98 pounds. Koch and Doug Jaeger decided their opponents and Brian Bowers wrestled to a draw.

"We had some guys who wrestled exceptionally well and we had some surprises like Barry's loss," said Sok.

Winside is scheduled to host Osmond tonight (Monday).

CHRISTMAS CHOIR CONCERT

A magnificent display of talent will be enjoyed at the Christmas Vocal Concert in the Wayne High lecture hall on Tuesday, Dec. 22, at 7:30 p.m.

The middle school and high school varsity choirs will join forces to present traditional Christmas music with an interesting and pleasing effect.

The concert will be performed in three sections. The first section will be serious; the second section will consist primarily of traditional Christmas carols; and the third section will be light hearted with the swing choir giving their rendition of "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas" and "Jingle Bells."

There will be many extra special effects added to the atmosphere of the concert.

Four large and colorful murals are being painted to be hung on the stage. These are being prepared by Ted Blendenman's advanced painting class.

Lighting will play an important part for the over all production of the concert.

Trumpet players will add their touch to one of the pieces, and some narration will be given during the concert.

The choirs will walk through the audience for a few of the songs. Rounds and double choirs will be a change of pace for traditional Christmas music.

Selections by the varsity choir will include "Fanfare for Christmas," "Carol of the Bells," and special arrangements of "Silent Night" and "Go Tell it on the Mountain."

The middle school choir will join the varsity choir during a few selections and will be on their own for "Christmas Lullaby" and a humorous piece called "The Twelve Days After Christmas."

Much of the music will be sung from memory and four of the varsity pieces will be sung a cappella.

Robert Stuber, the director for both choirs, will be bringing the middle school choir students to the high school to practice next week.

The Christmas concert will be a joyful event to brighten the

Christmas season. Lisa Ciampa

CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES AT CARROLL

The Carroll Elementary School has been preparing for Christmas this past week.

The primary grades decorated their Christmas tree with baked bread dough ornaments. The third and fourth graders are making gingerbread boys for their tree decorations.

All grades are making Christmas gifts for their mothers.

At their Christmas party on Dec. 23, the students will see the film "The Boatniks."

FINANCIAL AID DEADLINES

Several Wayne Carroll High School seniors are making plans for attending college in different ways.

Curt Frye, guidance counselor at the high school, said that students wishing to get financial aid need to be aware of the deadlines for application.

For instance, seniors who plan to attend the University of Nebraska Lincoln must file their financial aid form by Feb. 1, 1982. Other deadlines are April 1 for the Northeast Technical College in Norfolk; April 15 for Kearney State in Kearney; and May 15 for Wayne State College.

These financial aid forms may be obtained after Jan. 1, 1982, from Frye, or from the school the student wishes to attend.

The forms may be turned in any time after Jan. 1, 1982, and before the deadline.

Criteria for receiving financial aid is rather complex, income, expenses in college and number of children in school are considered, as well as other circumstances.

"Each student is encouraged to apply for financial aid at the school of his or her choice," says Frye.

Anyone wishing to get more information on this topic may contact Frye.

FIRST SEMESTER STUDENT TEACHERS

Students of Wayne Carroll High School have been given the opportunity to learn "the three R's" from five Wayne State College student teachers.

These student teachers include Laura Hochstein, Elayne Hubel, Charles Johnson, Randy Nielsen and Brian Stanley.

Having begun their student teaching experience in October they taught for the last day on Dec. 11.

Laura Hochstein

Laura Hochstein is a student teacher in the Wayne school system. She has a very full schedule that keeps her busy.

Twice a week she is at the elementary school teaching first graders art for Mrs. Matlette and Mrs. Koenig. To the seventh graders in the Middle School, she is teaching sculpture and crafts, and an Art I class at the high school is learning to use charcoal successfully. She teaches these classes for Mr. Blendenman.

Mrs. Hochstein also is teaching some physical education classes for Mrs. Dalton.

She is teaching tumbling to the seventh and eighth graders and also to the ninth graders who will soon be changing to basketball.

Dec. 11 will be the last day of her 10 weeks of student teaching which started on Oct. 2. She is striving for two majors, one in art and the other in physical education. She will be qualified to teach all grades and has chosen to have no minors.

Mrs. Hochstein commented, "I first became interested in teaching in high school when I was a member of the FTA (Future Teachers of America)." She went to high school in O'Neill and was graduated in 1977.

She enjoys doing things with her hands such as art work (drawing and painting are her favorites) and sewing. She also likes running as a pastime.

Another time-consuming pleasure is her family. Dale, her husband, is on the faculty of the high school as a biology teacher, assistant girls basketball coach, and junior high track coach. Brian James, their son, will be one year old the end of December.

Mrs. Hochstein will graduate Dec. 13 and plans to substitute teach next year. If no substitute positions are available, she plans to babysit!

Pam Ruwe

Elayne Hubel

Elayne Hubel, a senior at Wayne State College, is student teaching at Wayne Carroll High School in English and library media.

Miss Hubel teaches two senior English classes, one junior English class and she works in the library for two hours at Wayne Carroll High School.

Elayne Hubel also is a student teacher at Wayne Carroll Elementary School. She teaches kindergarten, first and second grade students library skills.

Miss Hubel is from Clearwater High School in 1978. She has one sister, and lives on a farm with her parents when she is not at school. Her interests are music, playing the piano and reading.

Miss Hubel plans to get a teaching job in the second semester of the school year of 1981-82.

Cynthia Walde

Charles Johnson, a student teacher on block from Wayne State, has been at Wayne High School for about seven weeks.

He comes to Wayne from a small town in Iowa called Peterson, and decided to attend Wayne State because he liked the size of the college.

Johnson's education from Wayne State College includes a mathematics major, a science minor and a coaching endorsement.

He chose to major in math because he had always enjoyed it as a child. He also likes children so he decided to become a teacher.

Johnson said he likes teaching math as group work rather than lecturing to the students.

This method of teaching must be monitored very closely, and Johnson is not sure yet which methods will work best for him.

"The first year teacher is faced with the problem of trial-and-error. They must try different methods and decide what works best for them, the students and the school system," he said.

Johnson is endorsed for grades seven through 12. He doesn't really have a preference for a particular age group but likes teaching the high school and junior high age.

He has taken the place as teacher in the pre algebra and algebra 1 classes, regularly taught by Mr. Blomenkamp. He has Mr. Porter's senior math class and also helps out with freshman basketball.

Johnson graded the students for three weeks out of the first quarter and those grades were averaged in with the regular teachers for the students first quarter grade.

The second quarter grades will consist of six weeks of teaching from Johnson and three weeks from the regular teachers.

So far, he has really enjoyed teaching at Wayne High. "The students have been pleasant, helpful and respectful," he said.

Johnson will graduate from Wayne State College on Dec. 13.

Lisa Ciampa

Ran Nielsen

Ran Nielsen was raised in Plattsmouth, a town slightly larger than Wayne, where he attended Plattsmouth High School.

A senior at Wayne State College, Nielsen is currently teaching seventh and eighth grade physical education, high school biology, general biology, and is an aide for advanced biology.

Nielsen finds the faculty of Wayne-Carroll High "helpful" not only to himself, but to the students as well, and finds the students "very fun to teach."

He will receive his Bachelor of Arts and Sciences degree on Dec. 13. After his college education, Nielsen would like to go on to teach at the college level.

Linda Clerk and

Kris Loberg

Brian Stanley

Brian Stanley is a student teacher in physical education and U.S. history. His hometown is Glenwood, Iowa, where he was active in high school sports.

Presently he is a senior at Wayne State College with a physical education major. He participates in football at the college.

Stanley believes student teaching is good experience and is enjoying his teaching at Wayne High.

Traditional movie-going is rocked by flick's fanatics

By Randy Hascall

Movie theaters are supposed to be dark and quiet places where a movie goer can watch the flick or sit in the back row and neck with a date.

And movie goers are supposed to be quiet as they week of the movie or neck with their dates. That's the way it's supposed to be.

But, throw all that out the window if you ever plan to watch "The Rocky Horror Picture Show."

If YOU GO to the movie, for Pete's sake take along some supplies. A rain suit or umbrella might come in handy if you are the kind of person who doesn't like to get wet. Other supplies include a bag of rice, a newspaper, toast, a squirt gun and a lighter. Mainly out of curiosity, I attended Tuesday's showing of "Rocky Horror" at the Gay Theatre. Anyone who attended the movie without any idea of what was going to happen probably went into shock.

It was like being backstage at a high school play. There was a frantic feeling as costumed college and high school students added last minute touches of cosmetics to their faces. Then, gradually, the action started. While previews of up coming attractions were shown on the screen, "Rocky Horror" fans and curious first timers began throwing and shooting water around the theatre trying to douse every individual. And they did a pretty good job of that.

THERE WAS BOOING and chanting of "we want lips" referring to the opening of the movie where a giant pair of lips sings the theme song.

Finally, the audience participation movie started and the audience was more than ready. At the opening wedding scene, participants threw rice around the theater, pelting everyone. During a walk through a rainstorm, movie goers threw cups of water and fired their squirt guns.

Like the movie's characters, others played newspapers over their heads to keep from getting dopped.

I got the idea from watching the movie that nobody liked the

THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW

"THE ROCKY HORROR Picture Show" was released in 1975 and has packed theaters every night of the week for years in big cities such as New York and Los Angeles. Fans stand in lines blocks long to watch the movie and some avid movie goers have seen the flick two or three hundred times.

At some theaters, movie goers are frisked to prevent eggs, tomatoes and other items from being sneaked in. The movie is an assemblage of stereotyped science fiction movies, comics, Frankie Avalon-Annette Funicello outings and rock 'n' roll.

On the way to visit an old college professor, two clean cut kids run into car trouble and seek help at the site of a light down the road. It's coming from "the Frankenstein place" where Dr. Frank N Furter is in the midst of one of his maniacal experiments—he has created the perfect man.

Frank N Furter is an alien, a spy from another galaxy, and is shot down with a ray gun by his assistant Riff Raff.

narrator. But, I couldn't hear a word he said. Everytime he would begin to speak, members of the audience called him names at the top of their voices. Poor guy!

When characters Brad and Janet walked through the dark, people held up lighters, lit matches and flashlights to help them find their way.

THE AUDIENCE at "Rocky Horror" constantly talked to the characters, telling them what to do and warning them what not to do. When lead character Dr. Frank N Furter entered the scene, about 30 or 40 persons began dancing in the aisles.

At one time, the projectionist walked up to me and asked me if I would like some toast. I'd never heard of a concession stand that served toast but I was willing to try some whole wheat. Then, he informed me that it wasn't for digestive purposes.

What else do you do with toast? I asked him.

Watch the movie and you'll find out," he replied.

Sure enough, I found out alright. One of the characters proposed a toast and 30 pieces of toasted bread flew through the theater.

AS THE CHARACTER Dr. Everett V. Scott made his first appearance on the screen, one of the characters said "Great Scott" and six or seven rolls of toilet paper flew through the air. Other areas of audience participation included clapping, singing, reciting lines and yelling "That's no way to treat your friends" when Dr. Frank N Furter hacked up motorcyclist Eddie (alias Meatloaf) with a knife.

And when dinner was served (guess who?), the crowd shouted "not meatloaf again." Later in the movie, fans stood up and waved their jackets to blow away a dense fog. And when Dr. Frank N Furter started to smear his eye makeup, the audience yelled, "don't smear it!"

There is no movie to compare with "Rocky Horror." Fans seemed to have a great time while experiencing something completely different.

Wayne State sophomore takes his white tux to 25 film showings

In John Waddell's closet hangs a white tuxedo which he has worn only a couple of times. The tux is a casualty of one of his favorite pastimes, movie going.

Waddell isn't just your average American movie watcher. He is a true fan of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show." John's tux was stained while attending a showing of that movie in his home town of Omaha.

But, that's part of the risk involved with attending "The Rocky Horror Picture Show." John said he purchased the tuxedo especially to wear to the popular movie. Now it just hangs in the closet as a reminder of the movie he has seen 25 times.

"I like to watch people's first reactions," said the history major. "I think I'll end my string at 25."

When asked to compare the audience participation in Wayne with that at Omaha, Waddell said there was a considerable difference. Most movie goers in Omaha know all of the lines they are supposed to recite while viewers in Wayne would holler one thing and others would pick up in the middle.

"The Rocky Horror" fan said he feels the movie is humorous and contains lots of subtle comedy. He added that in Omaha a person must see it five or six times to catch the lines. He estimated that 30 percent of all "Rocky" fans dress up to attend the movie. Many dress as their favorite characters.

When John and his friends attended the movie in Omaha they always had a list of things to take to the movie. The list included rice, toast, bells, squirt guns, lighters, playing cards and newspapers.

Waddell feels a sequel will be made and probably will do well. Meanwhile, he feels that "Rocky Horror" will remain popular for many more years.

The WSC student, whose favorite character is Dr. Scott, takes credit for one line that is used during audience participation.

One night while watching a scene of the movie where a woman in an audience stands up, Waddell yelled, "Betty Ford" because he saw a resemblance. His line caught on and now, fans of the movie in Omaha and Norfolk yell "Betty Ford" at that specific scene.

Because Waddell is Wayne's "Rocky Horror" expert, he received several calls from people who wanted to attend last week's movie with him. "They wanted to come with me so they would know what to do," said Waddell. "I work at the Care Centre and they asked me what I did Friday night. When I told them I saw "Rocky Horror" they looked at me like I was nuts."

Anyone who may think that Waddell has gone overboard in his obsession with "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" should meet his friends.

According to John, one friend claims to have seen the flick 300 times and bought a 1964 Cadillac convertible to drive to the movie.
