KLOSTER SAID the city was earlier looking at an 18 to 70 percent increase, but held it of 15 percent following several studies of city energy use. Kloster pointed out that the 15 percent icross the board hike is to maintain the nargin that the city is operating at now. "There are no additional costs," said (caster. VOTING AGAINST the electric rate in Councilmen Keith Mosley and James Craun were absent from the meeting Vopalensky said he voted no on the 15 per cent electric rate increase because he feels it is time that someone speak for the tax payers by questioning the continual passing along of rate increases by NPPD. "It seems that even though many in the city have really frited to conserve, we are now being fold by NPPD that because our consumption is lower they must raise rates to meet their financial obtigations. "When are they (NPPD) going to curtail their building and other programs to help keep rates equitable?"

Vopalensky said although the increase will be felt by every one, he is especially concerned about the elderly who may be on a fixed income. "They just may not have the extra 15 per cent," he stated council voted to shift the boundaries for Wayne's four city wards. The boundary shift will swing part of the Wayne State College campus into Ward 1 and add several city blocks to Ward 1. Norman Melton, city clerk freasurer, said the redistricting retains the north south and east west ward boundaries of Seventh Street and Main Street.

Ward 1 gains a four block area bounded by 10th Street on the north, Seventh Street on the south. Windom Street on the east and Main Street on the west.

England latest stop in Lupacks' travels

Dr. Bobbye Lupack, the Wayne State College professor who had been teaching English in Poland under a Fulbright grant, is temporarily stationed at a U.S. millitary base in England. The Wayne Herald learned Wednesday morning.

Bobbye and her husband Alan left Poland after eight days of martial law and arrived last Tuesday (Dec. 22) in Cologne, West Germany

REACHED BY TELEPHONE, Bobbye's

REACHED BY TELEPHONE. Bobbye's father. George Tepa told The Wayne Herald that his daughter and son-in-law had left Cologne Tuesday night and would stay at a U.S. base near London until Bobbye is relocated through the Fulbright program. Word on relocation is expected somewhere around Jan. 10.

Tepa said his daughter had told him that Cologne is a "very expensive city" and that the couple had received an invitation to stay at a U.S. base in England until the Fulbright personnel decide where to reassign the WSC assistant professor of English. He expects a phone call from the Lupacks on Jan. 14.

The Lupacks had spent several days observing martial law and talking to Polish people but decided it was time to leave Poland when the Polish ambassador to the United States detected.

The train trip across East Germany to Cologne, West Germany, took 30 hours including a 15 hour stop in Leipzig.

THE TEPAS had not heard from their daughfer for 25 days prior to a telephone conversation just more than a week ago. "This is the happiest Christmas ever." Tepa

University of Wroclaw in southern Poland and was scheduled to leach from September through next June.

"They left (Poland) for two reasons," Tepa explained. "First of all, they received an urgent call from the (U.S.) Embassy to leave Poland immediately. Also, they said the University was almost destroyed."

Bobbye reported "killing and maining" at the University of Wroclaw and termed it "a massacre." The destruction of the University was done by the Polish Zorno, or elite troops equipped to handle rlots, she told her faither.

THE LUPACK story has been making na-tional news and Bobbye has told reporters that the Solidarity union has not been broken but instead is still well-supported.

The WSC instructor said that many Polish people pleaded with her to take their story to the West. She said that at one institute in Wroclaw riot police bear striking students and professors with clubs.

The Lupacks themselves were not mistreafed by Polish authorities but they suspected their apartment was bugged and the telephone tapped.

Personal property tax schedules due soon

The coming of a new year means the arrival of assessing filme, again. Personal property tax schedules must be filed with the assessor's office between Jan. 1, 1982 and March 1, 1982. Those owning personal property such as mobile homes, airplanes, boats, motors, portable buildings, bosiness furniture. fixfures and equipment, and unlicensed cars must file 1982 schedules.

A CHANGE is being made this year, according to Doris Stipp, Wayne County assessor. In previous years, everyone had to come to the courthouse to be assessed. This year the assessor is mailing all schedules to taxpayers of personal property.

Mrs. Stipp said the reason for this is hat people seem to forget that there is some personal property still assessible. When a schedule comes in after March

"IF YOU DO not receive a schedule around the first of January, it probably means you have a new business since Jan. 1, 1981," said Mrs. Stipp.

Mrs. Stipp said it is then the property owner's obligation, to report to the assessor's office before March 1.

Any new construction also should be reported to the assessor, along with any remodeling, such as kitchens, adding baths, or finishing basements.

The assessor said there also is a penal-ty connected with not reporting these things.

FAILURE TO receive notice from the assessor does not exempt property owners from filling a personal property schedule if they have taxable personal property.

DURING TUESDAY night's night's presented the council with a 34,243.30 claim brought against the city by Curt and Dianne Frye, who reside at 704 Grainland Rd.

The claim is for damages as a result of the backing up of a city sewer in front of the Frye residence on Dec. 14.

This is the second incident in less than a month of the sewer backing up at that location. The first incident occured on Nov. 22

Kloster said the claim has been submitted to the city's insurance company. Mayor Wayne Marsh said a report will be made to the council when a decision comes back.

COUNCILMAN VOPALEN-SKY told the council Tuesday night he has received, several calls regarding the sanding of ci-ty streets, especially around the congested areas of West Elemen-tary and Wayne Middle Schools, VERN SCHULZ, public works superintendent, was present at the meeting and told the council that although city's street crews check sewer lines on a daily basis, the city has no control over what residents put into the sewer

Schulz said although the streets are sanded on an "as needed" basis, his crews will attempt to do a better job in the areas of the schools. Schulz said street crews have found such things as disposable diapers, towels and swimsuits in other plugged lines within the co

THE COUNCIL once again habled action on the proposed vacating of an altey south of block 16, between Douglas and Lincoln Streets south of First Street

Property owners in that area have reported having a great deal of trouble with traffic on the alley and want it vacated.

Kloster said more details have to be worked out and the entire situation reviewed before the council lakes action on the mat-ter.

THE COUNCIL passed a routine annual resolution that establishes the First National Bank as a depository for the city, and voted to once again participate in the 1982 All-Nebraska Community and 1982 Community Recognition Programs.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, the council discussed the proposed Wayne County Jaycee's Softball

The Jayce's have asked that 14.2 acres of city property be set aside east of Wayne's lagoon for a four field softball complex.

Kloster said atthough it would be a good program to get into, the city is still working out technical and legal details and hopes—to-reach a decision on the matter within the next month.

Kloster encouraged anyone with questions or suggestions regarding the proposal to voice their concerns to him.

Lawmakers prepare for 1982 session in January

New legislative proposals have been starfling to surface more frequently aslawmakers prepare for the 1982 session, which begins in January.

sponsor legislation that he hopes will reduce the number of traffic accidents. Hoagland said his bill would impose a mandatory 30-day rail sentence that would be served through work release for drunk drivers who caused an auto accident in which someone was hurt.

HABERMAN'S proposal would impose andatory sentences for anyone convicted of drunken driving.

Under Haberman's plan, a person convicted of driving while intoxicated would serve a sentence ranging from six days on the first conviction to one-year on the third. Hoad land's proposal, meanwhile, stipulates the mandatory sentence would be served on a work release basis unless a court decided otherwise. One important provision in his bith would prevent prosecutors from reducing the sentence through a plea bargaining arrangement. During the past four years in Nebraska-Hoagland said, alcohol related accidents have accounted for $53 deaths.

"A mandatory 30-day work release sentence may be the deterrent necessary to keep an intoxicated person from behind the wheel," Hoagland said.

RADIOACTIVE WASTE - Should

Nebraska consider serving several states in the region as a site for disposing of low level radioactive wastes?

State Environmental Control Director Dan Drain said such a possibility is being considered, and it has Its pluses But-Drain stresses that he's not out lobbying to have Nebraska selected.

stresses that he's not out lobbying to have Nebraska selected Drain in November spoke about the economic and employment benefits. That would fall to Nebraska if the state were selected for the disposal site. Those comments prompted some critical remarks from several state officials, and Drain recently lett obligated to respond. Drain told the state Environmental Control Council he wanted to make it absolutely clear he wasni. "going out begging that Nebraska be, chosen for the site." But even it Nebraska were chosen. Drain said it wouldn't be all bad.

IN ADDITION. Orain made a special point of explaining exactly what types of wastes would be left at the disposal site. It wouldn't be the type of waste associated with nuclear power plants, but rather would come from low-level radiation sources. For example, Drain said, medical equipment and protective coloning that have been exposed to X rays and chemotherapy would be among the types of wastes disposed of at the site.

Drain also mentioned the economic side of Drain also mentioned the economic side of the picture. Locating a disposal site in Nebraska could generate several million dollars-in-development money and create some 40 jobs, he said.

Despite Drain's attempt to clarity and expound on his earlier comments, some resistance can always be expected to at tempts to locate a radioactive disposal site in Nebraska.

Drain, however, doesn't seem to be in any rush to propose Nebraska be selected for-awaste disposal site. He indicated he wouldn't fake such a proposal to the Legislature in 1982, which means the issue probably wouldn't be considered in detail until the 1983 session.

BID RIGGING -- The state Road ment lets blus worth millions of dollar road projects each year, and up until n

But there apparently have been accusa-tions or allegations raised about how Nebraska contractors handle the bids

A federal grand jury has convened in Lin-coln—the first such panel in the capital city in more than 20 years—to investigate possi-ble bid rigging by Nebraska contractors on Roads Department projects

SINCE GRAND jury proceedings are secret, little is known about what is going on behind closed doors in Lincoln. What is known is that a federal judge has ordered two men employed by Peter Klewil Sons and a subsidiary to testify before the grand jury.

If the grand jury's investigation furns up anything that appears illegal or improper, indictments will be handed down. The case then would go to Irial, and the cloud of secrecy would be lifted.

Nebraskans probably won't know until that stage of the game, however, whether their highway dollars might have been spent on "dirty" bids brought about by improper bid rigging.

Resolutions in order

New Year's resolutions are in order. With 1981 stipping into history time is running out for reviewing the lessons of last year and resolving to do things better in 1982. When Father Time walks out of our lives at midnight on Dec. 31, the breath of a new born year begins.

It is important for us to be ready to take care of the year while it is in its infancy. Getting off to a good start is hair the patition many situation. But it takes a little extra effort to get off to a good start. It takes concentration and resolve. Maybe that siwhy we have New Year's resolutions. They may be joked about a parties or laughed about over coffee, but somehow they remomportant in the task of coping with a new year.

If makes I the id ifference if your resolution is a big one or a little one lif's the resolve that

Counts
There is something about the self discipline involved in making a commitment to yourself or others that in, good for the body and soul.
And, remember: New Year's resolutions should be shared. You might be surprised how eager others are to help you stick with your personal promise, if you are sincere enough to share if with family and friends.

Furthermore, almost everyone admires someone with commitment. It's a cat thing. Sharing your New Year's resolution is not only an open expression of faith in yourself, but it also encourages afners to help themselves. So, take a few moments during this holiday season, when you are with lamily and triends to set some personal goals. Be realistic about them and be open about them. Be ready to begin working toward those goals with the dawn of 1982's first day.

Refurn the end, ragement you receive. Chances are your friends and loved ones need it as such maybe more, than you do set an example. Acrest the responsibility. Make a New Year's resolution this year. Be elemented to keep it. And, help others keep theirs. We'll all be better persons for it. The coming year promises to be a rewarding one only it you promise to help make it so.

Here's an ageless liidian praver that may help you through the year May the Great Spirit Make your life a singing stream. Drinking and driving hat are the odds for the average party goer to be in an accident on his way home from a

What are the dods for the average party goer to be in an account of the bold as celebration?

The odds go up with the amount of alcohol consumed... chances for an accident increasing by as much as 35 times greater after eight drinks.

Some people think that it takes several drinks to affect their driving ability. Yet, for some drivers, even one drink can affect the ability to drive safety. For most people, it takes two or three drinks before their driving is impaired. At that point, they are twice as likely to be involved in an accident as the driver who abstains.

After a fourth drink the odds of an accident double again. After eight drinks, a person's chances of being involved in an accident, are 35 times greater than they would be if he remained sober.

It is important to realize that the capacity for alcohol varies from person to person. The same person's capacity can vary depending upon circumstances. How tast he drinks, his weight and body chemistry, how much and what kind of food he ate before drinking, his drinking history and experience, tolerance level, mood and aftitude all affect his capacity to drink. Arounce of hard liquor, four ounces of wine and a 12-ounce bottle of beer all contain about the same alcohol.

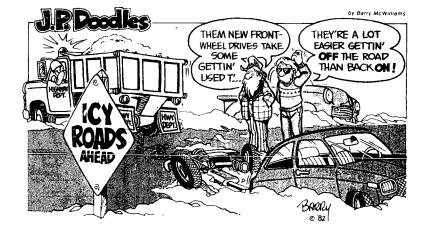

iconon. sit cases they body rids itself of one drink an hour, that means that the driver who cor three drinks in an hour has two drinks left in his system at the end of that hour.

List down on your alcohol consumption by requesting, or preparing your own, weak drinks, if you don't want to limit your drinking at a party, form a carpool for getting to your host's ad driving home. Drive one or imner persons to the party with the understanding that the roan designanted to drive home remains sober.

Farm bill passes by narrow vote

A formula for disaster

Recently the Congress passed by a very narrow vote 205.203 a new four year farm bill. I voted against that bill. I felt that the bill as reported back to the House by the Senate House Contrence did not ploude a reasonable and fair return on the investment and labor of our farm families and agribusiness in Nebraska.

The measuge is a formula for disaster on the farm, The loan rates for wheat and feed grains are a full dollar below the cost of production, with no real dollar justra as over the four year life of the bill.

We would be ensuring farm families and the related agribusiness ser for of continuing losses for the next four years. I cannot be part of this action. Therefore I felt the Nebraska farmer would be better off it Congress fried for a better bill in early 1982.

IT IS ESPECIALLY distressing to me to see the efforts of the past year result in this conference report. Before the Committee began work on the Farm Bill through agricultural advisory committee meetings and other methods, I consulted with farmers and ranchers from throughout my district to receive their views on what they wanted in the next four year bill. I met with representatives of the major commodity groups and the general farm organizations in Nebraska. I spoke with corn, wheat, sorghum, and soybean farmers, dairy, livestock, and poultry pro-

tarmers, dairy, livestock, and poultry producers, rural bankers, implement dealers seed and fertilizer suppliers, and other agribusiness men and women. I appeared before the Committee during the hearings which were held to convey those views and to express my support for strong farm legislation. The Committee, to its credit, ultimately came forth with a good bill, which would have served our agricultural producers well over the next four years.

dorrelative agricultural producers well over the House passed that measure generally intact, again to its credit. But the House conferees then succumbed to the pressure of the Senate and to threats of a veto trom the White House, and the resultant bill is not that we'd fike.

IT IS INTERESTING to note the support which the measure received from members representing the southeast section of the country an area which produces mainly cotton tobacco, peanuts, and rice. These commodities were treated more generously than the wheat and feed grain programs in the bit!

There has been some misunderstanding as to the consequences of failing to pass this Conterence Report which I believe must be clarified. If the bill had failed, technically, farm programs would have reverted to the permanent 1739 law.

However, efforts would surely have been made to introduce substitute legislation when Congress reconvenes so as to avoid reverting to permanent law. In that instance, farm state representatives may have been in a stronger position from which to negotiate with the Senate and the Administration for a fair and workable farm program.

By M.M. Van Kirk Nebraska Farm Bureau Americans, especially those oldtimers who can remember when they could buy two pounds of hamburger for 25 cents, have frouble accepting statements by competent economists that food is a much better bargain foday than it was 30, 40 or 50 years app bargain foday than it was 30, 40 or 50 years ago.

An article in the November issue of USDA's "Farmline" entitled "A Better Way to Measure Food Costs," points out that while retail food prices are more than four times higher than they were back in 1930, the average worker's paycheck is more than 11 times higher. USDA Economist Lloyd Teigen states that the typical wage earner worked only 61 minutes in 1980 to buy the same basket of foods that required almost two hours of work in 1929.

The fligures don't mean that food is getting "cheaper" every year—even in terms of hours worked. The same food basket that took 61 minutes of work in 1980 required a minute lèss in 1987 and the reason for that is that grocery store prices rose 155 percent while hourly wages rose only 151 percent.

But economists say that food price rises while hourly wages rose only 151 percent.

- But economists say that food price rises have been relatively modest compared with other price increases in the economy. For example, food prices more than doubled during the 1970s while fuel prices more than fripled, based on consumer price index (CPI) figures. Most consumers can make their own individual comparisons as to what has happened during the last 10 years in such areas as hospital and medical costs and the local, state and federal fax burden.

Economist Teigen uses an index which not only adjusts for inflation but separates the family income from the trend in recent years of more family members going how. His index prices food in terms of a proportion of working: time required or leisure given up.

By this measure, food costs fell more than leisure given up.

By this measure, food costs fell more than 2.5 percent annually from 1947 to 1972, then shot up 11 percent from 1972 to 1974. Since then, the Index has stayed on a plateau which has seen year to-year variations of less than 3 percent.

Using the CPI's standard market basket of food and using Teigen's Index, some items loom as better bargains than others in real price terms. For example, by his figures, from 1940 to 1980, food costs fell:

—About 37.6 percent for all meats:

—Around 79.5 percent for poultry.

—55.5 percent for daily products.

—64.7 percent for margarine.

—55.8 percent for margarine.

—56.8 percent for processed fruits and vegetables.

—For cereals and baked goods, about 48 percent.

percent. —For sugar, 34,2 percent.

The food price surge of the early 1970s occurred mostly in the "middleman" segment after the products had teft the tarm. But still, Americans spend a far smaller portion of their personal income on food—16 percent last year—than any other people. The proportion varies considerably-worldwide: 27,5 percent in Britain, 62.5 percent in India; 59.3.

Such statistics have to be viewed in perspective it cost $1.10 to produce a bushel of corn in 1974 compared with $2.30 in 1980, according to the USDA's cost of production

Millions of dollars are misspent

Kathy Boudin of New York, a radical an tiwar activist in hiding for more than a decade, was one of the fugitives from justice captured recently following a series of violent and bizarre events which included the robbery of a Brink's armored car, a shoot out and the murder of two policemen and a guard. Upon investigation, it was found that she was receiving $335 a month in public welfare assistance.

round martishe was receiving $335 a month in public welfare assistance. How could such a thing happen? Easily All too often such examples of a fraud or waste in public welfare and social program tend to be glossed over and torgotten as isolated cases.

UNFORTUNATELY, there also is a tendency to gloss over the many broad studies and audits which periodically uncover evidence of widespread fraud, waste and mismanagement in government programs-tayolving millions of dollars. This is a serious mistaker-for-as pointed out by the U.S. Chamber-of Commerce; these misspent millions of dollars, if properly administered, would have been available to, offset reductions in social and welfare programs resulting from the Reagan Administration's determination to reduce excessive government spending.

thought it would not be "cost effective" to attempt to reduce the rate of erroneous payments. In another study involving unemployment insurance compensation, the Chamber found the rate of over payments "indetensible."

In New York City, where a state controller's audit revealed erroneous payments fo welfare recipients rain to percent, or more than twice the allowable federal rate of a percent, Mayor Edward Koch was compelled to rebuck a commissioner who took the attitude that thorough investigations to bring down the error rate would cost more than the potential penalties in loss of funds. Said the mayor:

"I AM OVERRULING him. I make the policy, not he. I do not believe that it could ever be accepted that we would have as our irreducible minimum an 8 or 9 percent over-clients between 1978 and 1980 and recovered only $20,000. The error rate was 11 percent or almost three times the rate allowed before the federal government, which pays half the cost of the program, cuts of funds—One official was quoted as saying that, although efforts would be made to reduce the error rate to 4 percent by next september; the city government would not afterny to recover funds when "right cost."

tive or prosecute potential fraud s in which the evidence is ambiguous or mount trivial."

AN AVERAGE rate of 16 percent of error was found in the study covering Buffalo, New York (Queens), Oklahoma City, Phoenix, Piltsburgh, and Salt Lake City, Errors ranged from 4.3 percent fo 25 percent. Striking a possible 16 percent average for the nation; Eric J. Oxfeld, benefits aftorney for the U.S. Chamber, estimated the loss in public-funds at $1.2 billion a year, or as he put it — "larger than the combined savings in unemployment compensation mandated by the Omnibus Budget Reconclibration Act of 1981."

Congress, which has a hand in all these programs, must act and act swiftly, along with officials at all levels of government. The worst thing that can happen is mat public of licials don't give a damn.

The administration's decision to hold new credits for food to Poland in abeyance does not affect supplies already earmarked for delivery or those that could be sold on a cash basis by private parties, according to Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block. "It should be clearly understood that this action does not constitute an embargo." Block sald. "The suspended food package involved credit for emergency feed grain we had considered of fering to Poland last week. "It the Polish government has the cash, then they are free to buy farm products from us." Block said "Keeping frade chan nets open is a priority of this administration."

NOW IS THE time to plan windbreaks and order trees. On the farmstead, in addition to beautifying surroundings, windbreaks can reduce fuel requirements for home heating, reduce building maintenance costs, provide personal comfort in working areas, control snow drifting in work areas and driveways, protect livestock, protect sensitive garden and orchard crops and screen farmhouses from highway noise. op operators have two things in common.

First, top operators are good production managers—they know how to raise a good crop and get the most from livestock production. Secondly, and maybe more importantly, top operators are good financial managers. And wise use of credit is where a professional agricultural loan officer can really help.

Specialist recommends lighter market hoas

"Tow feed grain prices and low hog prices may be tempting pork producers to market hogs later at heavy weights." Bit if Ahischwede, University, of Nebraska extension swine-specialist, said this week However, Ahischwede suggested that holding pigs to speculate or increasing hog prices may be short sighted. "The market is currently signaling through low prices that there is more meat availabilithan consumers demand Holding pigs to heavier weights only adds to that supply," he explained. Market weights subaily movehigher in the fall of the year, bithis year, Ahischwede said, "the weights appear to be higher atmarket than in the last several years."

market than in the last several years. The higher market weights don't necessarily mean that producers are holding jugs oft this market hoping for an upturn in the market, the specialist analysed. If the pigs grew faster during the fall, they might/be larger than the producer thought Ahlschwede's solution? Simply, keep marketings current. Aim for the lighter end of your market's preferred weight and don't let them get over ihe 240 pound mark. Most packers who buy Nebraska hogs include weights of 220 pounds or less in the optimum weight range. No Nebraska packer prefers hogs over 240 pounds. Ahlschwede stressed. Reports from terminal and auction markets also in dicate a proference for pigs weighing less than 240 lbs. In addition to keeping the extra pounds of carcass weight off the market, lighter hogs will be more efficient. Ahlschwede stafed Pigs require more feed per pounds of gain at heavy weights than they are also fatter, the specialist pointed out. Ahlschwede suggested that a downward adjustment in market weights be considered a mid term adjustment. The unemployment and economic stress currently being suppressed by the American.

Estate planning offered throughout four states

More than 2,000 farmers and ranchers have taken advantage of the Federal Land Bank (FLB) Estate Planning Assistance Program in Iowa Nebraska South Dakota and Wyoming since it began three years ago.

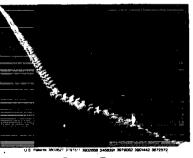

All 34 Land Bank Associations in the four states now offer the estate planning service according to Craig V McGarry director financially included services.

Only about one of three farmers and ranchers have done any serious estate planning according to McGarry Estate planning is a lipancially related service of the Land Bank which farmers and ranchers.

The need for farmers and ranchers to plan for the future goes hand in hand with the need for long term credit." McGarry said McGarry stressed that one of the biggest benefits from the program is the assurance that personal objectives can be met such as retirement planging, care for loved ones and tax savings.

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons.

So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize e potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating th a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a orner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.
