Board extends administrator's contract

ESU eyes offering superintendent services

In what could signal a reversal of long standing policy, Educational Service Unit One board members have agreed to explore providing county superintendent services on contract.

On a 4-2 vote split Tuesday night, the ESU board approved a resolution to negotiate with Dixon County on the possibility of providing that service.

Dixon County officials had contacted ESU with the request.

IT WAS BOARD consensus that ESU administrator Harry Mills also should contact Cedar County officials.

Cedar County has made the same request in years past, but the ESU board rejected the county Superintendency program.

Tuesday night, Mills told board members to expect similar requests from other counties in the unit during the coming years.

"The office of county superintendent is hard to fill because the people qualified for the job either are serving as superintendents of schools or do not want to take a job such as this after retirement," Mills said.

Mills explained that the job requires a person with a master's degree and an endorsement in school administration.

MEETING IN LAUREL, the board also extended, for one year, its contract with Mills as administrator.

Bill Norvell, board secretary and a member of last year's negotiating committee, was asked to work out some tentative terms with Mills for his new contract with the board.

Bill Wiese, board chairman, said the board could act on the terms of the contract during the February ESU meeting.

Also postponed for action in February was the appointment of board committees.

However, Tuesday night, the board did elect officers for the coming year.

WIESE WAS re-elected chairman during the opening minutes of the meeting.

Randy Shaw, a board member, acted as temporary chairman of the meeting until a new slate of officers was elected.

The board re-elected Darrell Merry as vice chairman, Norvell was re-elected secretary, and John Portwood was elected treasurer.

Portwood, a Wakefield banker, was appointed treasurer last spring. He is not a board member.

Board members also agreed to continue paying the treasurer $75 per month and the secretary $50 per month.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, members received, for review, a board policy booklet that has been under study and revision by the ESU's policy committee for more than a month.

Board members are expected to set a special meeting for final revision and consideration of policies.

Board members also received copies of a proposed reduction-in-force (RIF) policy and grievance procedure.

Also, board members Merry and Berneal Gustafson were selected to attend the National School Boards Convention, which is scheduled for Atlanta in April.

Kenneth Olds, board member and Wayne attorney, informed the board that a potential conflict of interest exists if his law firm continues to represent ESU as legal counsel.

OLDS SAID that he had contacted the advisory committee of the Nebraska Bar Association for an opinion on the matter.

"They are...of the opinion that the ESU board will have to seek other legal counsel to represent the unit," Olds said.

The board took the matter under advisement. No action was taken.

In other action, Mills informed the board that both Laurel and Wayne school systems were concerned about the unit's new film delivery system.

He said that while both districts reported

Planners stall on sorority rezoning

Action on a Wayne State College sorority's rezoning request has been postponed until next month.

Kappa Delta Gamma, which recently purchased property at 1202 Main Street for a sorority house, has requested a spot-zoning change from neighborhood commercial (B-3) to multiple family (R-3) in an effort to comply with the city's zoning regulations.

The City Planning Commission, which conducted a public hearing on the rezoning request Monday night, tabled action on the matter.

WITH NO sorority or campus representative at the meeting to speak to — or elaborate on — the organization's request, the hearing was closed and action postponed to the commission's Feb. 1 meeting.

Before the unanimous vote to table the request, commissioners heard from several neighborhood residents seeking information on the rezoning request.

Stan Johnson, 1212 Main Street, asked commissioners about the purpose of the rezoning.

Glen Ellingson, commission chairman, explained that the use of the sorority house did not conform to the neighborhood commercial zone for that area of the city.

DICK KEIDEL, a commission member, told Johnson that Kappa Delta Gamma

One cooked goose

ALTHOUGH THE CHRISTMAS goose has been cooked, Wayne's Grand Give-A-Way contest resumes this week with $1,000 in bonus bucks available for a lucky winner who shops participating merchants. The first weekly drawing of the new year will be at 8 p.m. Thursday. The winner must identify himself in a participating store within one minute after the name is announced. Wayne stores will remain open until 9 p.m. Thursdays for an hour of shopping after each bonus bucks drawing. By the way, it's only a holiday street decoration awaiting the city pick-up crew.

Two county officials file for GOP primary election

Two veteran Wayne County officials have filed for a place on the Republican Party ballot in the May 11 primary election.

Oregretta Morris, Wayne County Clerk, and Doris Stipp, Wayne County Assessor, filed for GOP renomination to seek re-election on Nov. 2 — the date of this year's general election.

Morris, a Hoskins native and lifelong Wayne County resident, is seeking election to her second four-year term as Wayne County Clerk.

Stipp, a Wayne native and lifelong resident of the county, is seeking her third four-year term as Wayne County Assessor.

Stipp, a 1939 Wayne High School graduate, filled out two years of the unexpired term of Henry Arp. She started working in the County Assessor's office in 1963 as a clerk. Three years later she became deputy assessor before moving into the assessor's post.

Morris, a 1960 graduate of Hoskins High School, started working in the County Clerk's office in 1961 as a bookkeeper. She was appointed deputy clerk in 1970.

Other offices up for primary election and the general election this year include two seats on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Sheriff, Treasurer, Clerk of District Court, County Attorney and two urban seats on the County Nuisance Weed Board (non-partisan).

Filing deadline for the primary election is March 17.

Keisha Rees is year's first baby

JUST A LITTLE OVER AN hour into the New Year, Keisha Kathleen Rose Rees made her appearance at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. Keisha, daughter of Tammy and Jim Rees of Wayne, was born at 1:17 a.m. on New Year's Day, entitling her to a variety of free gifts offered by 10 Wayne merchants to the first baby of the year born in Wayne. Keisha weighed 7 lbs. 2 oz., and joins a brother, Koinn, who was the winner of the First Baby Contest two years ago. Koinn was born on Jan. 5, 1980. Among the gifts Keisha will receive as the first baby of the year are an engraved pewter baby cup from The Diamond Center, a full color portrait from Blake Studio, a solid wood baby's rocker from Timberline Wood Products, three boxes of Pampers from Griess Rexall, a $15 Savings Account from the State National Bank and Trust Co., a dozen roses from Wayne Greenhouse, a $7.50 credit to be applied to a sleepwear set at Sav-Mor Drug, a $15 Savings Account from First National Bank, a zipper quilt from Kuhn's, and a music box from Joanie Designs.

Perry Johnsons mark golden year at reception in Carroll auditorium

An open house reception was held Sunday, Dec. 27, at the Carroll city auditorium to honor the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson of Carroll.

Hosts were their sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Johnson of Snoqualmie, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Johnson of Plainview. There are four grandchildren. Duane and Dennis presented their parents with a corsage and boutonniere.

PERRY JOHNSON of Wakefield and Anna Knudsen of Wayne were married Christmas Day 1931 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Their attendants, who were present for the anniversary celebration, were Perry's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs.

Kenneth Packer of Wakefield. The couple farmed near Wakefield before he became associated with the Mobil Oil Co. in Carroll in 1936, remaining in business there until 1971.

They are members of the United Methodist Church in Carroll.

GUESTS ATTENDING the couple's anniversary observance came from Sioux City, Iowa; Snoqualmie, Wash.; Madison, S. D.; Phillipsburg, Kan.; Lees Summit, Mo.; South Sioux City, Omaha, Lincoln, Laurel, Wayne, Allen, Wakefield, Plainview and Carroll.

Granddaughters Wendy and Cristen Johnson were in charge of registering the 150 guests, and grandsons Scott and Jeff Johnson were in charge of gifts and cards.

THE COUPLE'S sons were masters of ceremonies for the afternoon program and introduced their families.

Brad Johnson of South Sioux City, nephew of the honored couple, sang "Let the Rest of the World Go By." Wendy and Cristen Johnson sang "Go Tell It on the Mountain," and they were joined by Scott and Jeff Johnson in singing "Jingle Bells" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

The Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Edmonds sang "Love." They were all accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wayne Hankins.

The program also included a poem composed and read by Mrs. Elna Fisher, entitled "The Life Story of Perry and Anna." Pastor Edmonds closed with prayer.

MRS. HERB Niemann of Wayne catered the reception and also prepared an evening meal that was served to 50 relatives and those who assisted at the reception.

Mrs. Walt Johnson of South Sioux City and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Madison, S. D. cut and served the anniversary cake.

Mrs. Ivan Johnson and Mrs. Kenneth Packer, both of Wakefield, poured. Punch was served by Mrs. Robert Johnson of Carroll.

Waitresses were Mrs. Dale Erwin of Sioux City, and Mrs. Lowell Olson and Jodi, and Rhonda Dahlkoetter, all of Carroll.

Clubwomen to learn assertiveness skills

Do you say "yes" when you really want to say "no"? Are you afraid to express your opinion? Can you defend yourself when treated unfairly? Assertive behavior allows you to express yourself in a positive, confident, straight forward manner," says Mrs. White.

DURING February, Home Extension Clubs in Dixon and Wayne Counties will focus on how to be more assertive without being "pushy" or "silent" and withdrawn.

The lesson clubs will be presenting is entitled "How to Say Yes - How to Say No." Anna Marie White, area home extension agent, says many people confuse assertive behavior with aggressive behavior.

Open house at Hoskins honors Mrs. Anna Falk

Mrs. Anna Falk of Hoskins was honored for her 89th birthday Sunday, Dec. 27, with an open house reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Falk and Harold Falk greeted the 85 guests who attended from Moorehead, Minn.; Odessa, Texas; Bellevue, Lincoln, O'Neill, Scottsbluff, Meadow Grove, Norfolk, Stanton and Hoskins.

GRANDDAUGHTER Mrs. Derald Larson poured, and great granddaughter Lori Boldt of Stanton served punch.

Waitresses were great granddaughters Kathy and Betty Boldt of Stanton.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Harold Falk, Mrs. LaVERN Walker and Mrs. Erwin Ulrich. The birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Edwin Brogie of Hoskins.

MRS. FALK received birthday greetings via telephone from a granddaughter, Mrs. Roger Roberts of Central Point, Ore., who was unable to attend the celebration.

The event was hosted by her children and families: Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Falk of Moorhead, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Falk of Norfolk, and Mrs. LaVERN Walker of Hoskins.

MRS. FALK is a lifelong resident of Hoskins.

She is an active member of the Westridge United Methodist Church in Norfolk, the Hoskins Homemakers Home Extension Club, the Hoskins Garden Club, the Immanuel Woman's Missionary Society, and the Hoskins Birthday Club.

New racquetball and fitness center is being built at PMC

Some unused space in the basement of Providence Medical Center is soon to be the site of a new physical fitness center. The space will accommodate a handball-racquetball court, dry-heat sauna, whirlpool, aerobic exercise room, motorized treadmill, exercise bicycle, complete Universal gym for muscle exercises, free weights and various other pieces of exercise equipment. According to Wayne physician Dr. Willis Wiseman, who is one of the originators of the plan, the facility is designed to provide for complete physical fitness training.

After many months of planning, a non-profit corporation, Providence Fitness Center Inc., was formed in August for the purpose of promoting physical fitness and helping to develop more facilities which would enable persons in the Wayne area to become more physically fit. Wiseman said that considerable attention had been given to the type of facilities and equipment needed in this area for year-round physical fitness training. Providence Fitness Center has selected as its first project the renovation of the lower level of PMC. Some classes will be offered for specific exercises which may be done effectively in a group setting. Plans are to have the facility open for use sometime this month. The finishing and equipment will be paid for by the non-profit corporation through contributions and donations. For details to become a member of this corporation, contact any of the following board members: Willis Wiseman M.D., Pat Craun, Larry Magnuson, Dan Rose, Shane Giese, Brad Fluieger, Dee Pflanz.

Trojans' accurate shooting leads to close victory over Allen boys

Good shooting, both from the field and from the free throw line, led Wakefield's boys to a 52-41 victory over Allen in an area basketball matchup Tuesday night. The game was closer than indicated by the final score in a game dictated by Wakefield holding leads of 12-11 after one period and 22-18 at the half. By the end of the third quarter, Allen had gained a 33-32 edge. "It was a real good ball game by both teams. We got behind, had to foul and they made 10 of 12 free throws. They went into their stall," said Allen coach Dan Looft. "It was a tremendous ball game."

The Eagles led by five points with six minutes remaining but the Trojans regained the lead and eventually forced Allen to foul. Jeff Coble was 6-for-6 at the free throw line in the fourth quarter. He finished with 14 points along with teammate Mike Clay. Mark Starzl added 10 for the Trojans. Allen was led by Robb Linafelter with 19 points and Troy Harder with 10. In the rebounding department, Dennis Smith had 10 and Troy Harder 6 for Allen. For Wakefield, Nixon had eight and Starzl seven. The Trojans shot 52 percent from the field and 75 percent from the line while the Eagles hit 40 percent from the floor. Allen committed 14 turnovers compared to 7 for the Trojans. Looft said about five of his team's turnovers came within a one-minute period. "Free throws are the difference in any close game and we hit them. We didn't rebound too well but we did hit our free throws," said Wakefield coach Scott Miller. "Allen played a pretty good game. If they play like that, they'll win some games." Wakefield is scheduled to play Homer at 8 p.m. Friday in first round action of the Wakefield Tournament. Allen will compete in the Ponca Tourney.

Free throws key

Winside's challenge falls short

The one thing that stood between Winside and an upset of Walthill Tuesday night was a 15-4 scoring edge by the hosts in the third quarter. The Wildcats stayed with Walthill throughout most of the game but couldn't hang on tight enough. Jim Krajicek hit 21 points and pulled down 11 rebounds for the Cats. Jon Meierhenry and John Hawkins scored 12 points apiece. Walthill was led by Jay Jackson with 26 points and Brian Samson with 10.

The game was actually decided at the free throw line where Walthill hit 14 of 25 shots compared to only 3 of 11 for Winside. "We let them run in the third quarter. We were playing pretty tough and then we just ran out of gas," said Winside coach Dennis Gonnerman. "Walthill has a good ball club. They have a talented bunch of guys." Gonnerman said he thought his team played pretty well but added that it needs to cut down on turnovers and improve its free throw shooting. The Cats committed 20 turnovers which resulted in 22 Walthill points and Walthill committed 23 turnovers for 18 Winside points. Winside held an advantage of 39 to 36 on the boards. The Wildcats were within six points with 1:30 remaining in the game but Walthill held on. The Bluejays also won the reserve game. Last week, Winside lost 55-44 to Coleridge. Jon Meierhenry scored 24 points in that game. Next action is scheduled tonight (Thursday) in a girls' boys doubleheader on Winside's home court against Beemer.

Jonas' clutch free throw gives Laurel girls a one-point win

Cyndi Jonas hit a clutch free throw with no time on the clock to give the Laurel girls a 41-40 win over Ponca Tuesday night. Jonas was fouled in the act of shooting as time expired. Her first shot missed its target but the second one dropped through to give the hosts the victory. "This time we beat the clock. We came after them tough and got a big win," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson. Jonas wasn't the only hero on the team though. Kim Sherry took charge late in the game, drawing a charging foul, hitting a basket and sinking a free throw with four seconds left to tie the game. Her second free throw was off mark but Renee Gadeken grabbed the rebound. Her shot missed but Jonas rebounded the miss. She was fouled and the two-shot foul resulted in a Laurel triumph. Anne Schultz led all scorers with 14 points and Sherry scored 10. The Bears hit 34 percent from the field. Schultz had 10 rebounds and five steals and Gadeken had 8 rebounds. Ponca was led by Wendy Harder with 11 points and Janell Peters with 10. Next action for the Laurel varsity is scheduled at 6:30 tonight (Thursday) against Allen in the first round of the Ponca Tournament. Ponca and Newcastle meet at 8 p.m. in the other first round game. In junior varsity action, Laurel dropped Ponca 38-15. Kelli Johnson scored 10 points and Wendy Robson hit 9 as the Bears upped their record to 5-0.

Win over Sterling

Wildcats 3rd in tourney

The Wayne State Wildcat basketball team brought home the consolation trophy from the Hastings Holiday Tourney at Hastings College last Wednesday and Thursday. The Marymount (Kan.) Spartans coasted to the championship by pounding Wayne State 103-67 on the first night and Hastings College in the finale. Wayne State took third on the strength of an 87-81 win over a tough Sterling (Kan.) club, losers in their opener against Hastings. Team effort by the Cats overcame some hot shooting early by Sterling, which led 40-24 at halftime. Wayne State finished in double figures as Wayne State improved to 7-5. Junior forward Brian Platt and senior guard Jay Bellar led the second-half attack and the pair finished with 18 points each. Junior guard Brad Edwards netted 16 and four assists. Freshman forward Lonell Greene came off the bench to score 12 points and grab nine rebounds. Junior forward Grady Russ Uhing played a good trade game, registering 11 points and a game-high 11 rebounds. Senior Norm Barin, center, had 16 points, nine rebounds and three assists. Ron Raglin's 20 points was tops for 5-5 Sterling.

Lady Cats turn tables to win WSC Tourney

A home court advantage is supposed to be worth four or five points. Never more than 10. But, try to tell that to the Wayne State women's basketball team. The Lady Wildcats were shelled 70-49 a couple of weeks ago by Buena Vista. So, when the Lady Cats faced BV in a rematch Tuesday night, there was no argument about which team was favored. WSC coach Jan Jirsak, after getting a good look at Buena Vista in the 21-point losing effort, knew what to look for this time around. The Cats were well-prepared this time and claimed championship honors in the Wayne State Women's Holiday Tournament with a 63-53 triumph over Buena Vista.

THE HOME crowd wasn't large or loud enough to do much damage and coach Jirsak said she doesn't really believe in a home court advantage. But, she did add that her players were psyched up to play on the home court and ready for another shot at Buena Vista. "The girls wanted to show that they could do well against Buena Vista and we improved in our second meeting," Jirsak said. The game was close in the early going. In fact, Buena Vista steaked an early lead. But, the hosts wanted the first place trophy and used an explosive scoring attack late in the second half to open up a big lead. The Cats ran a good fastbreak to force BV turnovers and pull in front 42-23 at the half. That surge was the turning point in the game.

JIRSAK SAID she was afraid her team might think the game was no longer in doubt with such a big lead. The Lady Wildcats did hit a slump in the second half but shook it off enough to coast to their seventh win in 10 games. "We were ahead by nearly 20 points at the half and I was afraid we might come out stale. Later in the second half, our game was off and I wasn't certain we had won the game. We didn't seem to get going on offense."

Three Wayne Staters scored in double figures. Sophomore Tammy Blackburn led all scorers with 14 points and led the hosts in their late first-half spree. Robbie Lehr, a 6-2 sophomore, scored 11 points and pulled down 14 rebounds; Freshman Marie Dunning hit 10 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Four other players scored and all four hit six or eight points. Janet Lee and Patty Carney each scored eight points and Jackie Schmonitz and Maggie Alberts each added six.

Wayne State hit 47.5 percent from the field. Both teams had 49 rebounds but the hosts committed 31 turnovers compared to 18 for Buena Vista. The losers were led by Lori Lane with 12 points.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

ANOTHER YEAR has come and gone and it's time to review 1981 in sports. Before I get to that however, I have a few bits and pieces of information which I uncovered on my messy desk throughout the past week.

Donald Wayne Meyer, son of Don and Edna Meyer of Wayne, is launching a successful coaching career at David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn. Perhaps I shouldn't use the term "launching" since Meyer is in his 10th year of coaching and has done quite well.

He's hoping that this year's team will be his best and would like to qualify for the national tournament. The Bisons, according to the most recent NAIA poll, were unbeaten and ranked fourth in the country. The team recently returned from games in Hawaii.

Former Wayne State and Emporia State baseball standout Brian Poldberg will be making an appearance in Nebraska to help younger baseball players.

Poldberg, a catcher with the New York Yankees organization, will direct the catcher's session at a Nebraska pro baseball camp scheduled later this month and next. More information on the camp is included in a separate article.

Many readers of the Omaha World-Herald probably read the article a couple weeks ago on Ron Gustafson of Lyons. Others saw the 6-2 sophomore in action at Rice Auditorium.

Gustafson is not an outstanding player but he's a starter and does a better job than many sophomores. What's special about Gustafson is the fact that he is handicapped. He lost his entire right arm in a tractor accident years ago and one leg is longer than the other due to surgery resulting from the accident. Many people with that type of handicap wouldn't even show up to watch a basketball game. But, Gustafson can palm the ball, block shots, fire passes and play a pretty fair game of roundball. That definitely takes a lot of guts and determination.

NOW, ONE LAST look at 1981. In 1981 high school basketball teams in northeast Nebraska brought some recognition to this part of the state.

Some athletes excelled in wrestling, track and field and swimming to name a few. There are far too many memories for us to explore them all but let's touch on some of the most important sports stories of the past year. Most are happy memories, some are sad. Events are listed in chronological order.

HEIDI REEG of Wayne set two state swim records, one in the 25-yard freestyle and the other in the 25-yard butterfly. In basketball action, the Allen boys won their own tournament early in January. The Allen girls won both the Lewis Division regular season competition and the Lewis Division Tournament.

The Wayne High boys claimed the West Husker Conference title with a win over Hartington CC. Wakefield boys tied with Hartington for the Clark Division title in the L & C Tourney.

Tragedy struck on Feb 7 as former Wayne State basketball star Connie Kunzmann was slain in Omaha. Her body was recovered on March 28. Kunzmann was a member of the Nebraska Wranglers professional basketball team.

This part of the state was well represented at the state wrestling championships. Four Wayne wrestlers (Jon Jacobmeier, Mike Luft, Brett Frevert and Aaron Schueff), two Wakefield wrestlers (David Stelling and Jon Stelling) and seven Winside grapplers (John Thies, Curt Rhode, Mark Koch, Brian Foote, Doug Jaeger, Barry Bowers, Kent Glassmeyer) made the trip to Lincoln.

BEHIND A 1-2-3 finish, Winside placed third in the Class D team race. Brian Foote won a state championship at 126 pounds. Mark Koch was second at 119 and Barry Bowers placed third at 167.

The Allen girls basketball team qualified for the Class D State Tournament in that event and busloads of Allen fans attended the game.

Wayne, with its best boys team in years, lost its state hopes to Columbus Scotts in the district championship to finish its year at 19-5.

Harold Maciejewski, athletic director at Wayne Carroll High School for decades, was presented an outstanding service award from the Nebraska Athletic Directors Association.

Seven swimmers qualified for the Great Plains Swim Meet. Heidi Reeg brought back high point trophy in her age division of the six state, 45 team meet.

JILL STENWALL of Winside added to her shot put honors by placing second in the Drake Relays with a mark of 50'7".

The Wayne State baseball team reached the District 11 playoffs, losing to Kearney State in the finals.

Wayne High sent 20 entries to the state combined boys girls track and field meet last spring. The boys placed 10th and the girls 8th in the team standings. Double medal winners for the Blue Devils were Doug Proffitt, Missy Stoltenberg and Lisa Peters.

Allen, Wakefield, Winside and Laurel all sent individuals to state. Brian Foote of Winside was top finisher with a first place finish in the Class D pole vault. Dawn Kluever of Allen placed fifth in the girls discus.

The Laurel High School baseball team won districts to qualify for the Class B state finals in Ralston. The Bears lost to Omaha Ryan and settled for the runner-up trophy.

The Wayne State College women's softball team qualified for the national tournament and one game before being eliminated from the competition.

IN THE SUMMER, Tim Marchese of Omaha won the Wayne Open golf tournament and Kent Lysgaard of Las Vegas won the Wayne Open tennis title.

A physical fitness trail, designed by Ralph Barclay, was built on the northern portion of land owned by the college.

Hank Overlin of Wayne was named one of the coaches and Mark Starzl of Wakefield was named one of the players for the All-Star baseball classic in June.

Jay Muller of Scribner won the Wayne CC Open Tournament in July.

Winside's 18 and under girls qualified for state in softball.

High school players named all state were Joe Olsen, Bryan Buss and Phil Martin. Barry Bowers of Winside was named first team in football (Class C). Many other individuals were listed as honorable mention.

WAYNE WON the state Class C Legion baseball championship with a win over Kimball and the Wayne Midgets settled for second place, losing to Superior. Wakefield's Midgets won the Ralph Bishop League title.

In slow pitch softball, Crow's Hybrid of Wayne placed in the Class B state softball tournament and Wood's Plumbing qualified in women's play.

The Wayne freshman football team finished its season undefeated.

Tom Roberts was ranked eighth in the state in men's 45 singles for tennis.

In volleyball, Laurel won the Clark Division title. Allen won the Lewis Division title and took the overall title by virtue of topping Laurel in a playoff. The Eagles won their districts but lost in regional play. Wayne won the West Husker title.

The Wakefield football team won its division and reached the Class C 1 playoffs where it lost to state champion Battle Creek.

Rev. Dan Cloeter of Norfolk repeated as champion of Wayne's fifth annual Turkey Trot.

Wayne State football star Ed Blackburn was named to the All America second team as a receiver.

Wayne High's boys repeated as champions of the Wayne State College Holiday Tournament held last week to end the old year.

Have a happy and prosperous New Year everyone!

Cats lose on the road

Migration night for the Wayne State basketball team had an unhappy ending as the Wildcats lost 76-66 to Morningside College Tuesday night in Sioux City.

The Cats trailed by only one point at the half but Morningside held its lead through the second half to turn back Wayne's challenge.

The locals were led by Grady Hansen with 21 points, five rebounds and four assists. Al Jones had 13 points and six rebounds and Brad Edwards scored 10 points. The loss dropped Wayne to 7-6 and improved Morningside to 7-5.

Wayne State hopes to rebound from the loss on the road against Concordia College on Friday and Peru State on Saturday. Then, the Cats will be at home Tuesday in their conference home opener against Missouri Western. Western, which pounded Wayne in Missouri, will not bring key players Pete O'Neal or Tyrone Crawford along.

Against Morningside, WSC was outrebounded 39 to 34. The hosts broke the game open during the first 15 minutes of the second half as the Wildcats managed only nine points during that time. Dave Krantz came off the bench to lead the winners with 16 points. Morningside hit 54 percent from the floor.

All-Tourney players

Women's recreation volleyball

A schedule for the 1982 women's recreation volleyball season has been drawn up by Wayne Rec Director Hank Overin. Adult women will participate in the volleyball league on alternating Thursdays at the Wayne city auditorium.

The season will begin at 7 tonight (Thursday). If enough women are interested in participating, the league will be divided into two groups and play will be split from 7 to 10 p.m. Otherwise, all women will play in a single league from 7 to 9 p.m.

Women's volleyball will alternate Thursdays with junior-high recreation basketball. Dates for volleyball play are Jan. 7 and 21, Feb. 4 and 18, March 4 and 18, April 1 and 8. The league is strictly recreation volleyball designed for enjoyment and exercise. It is not a competition league.

Women who are interested in participating in the league are asked to show up ready to play at 7 p.m. tonight. All levels of players, regardless of experience, are invited to attend.

Omaha tennis tourney held

In the Omaha Holiday Tennis Tournament held last week, Tom Roberts of Wayne lost in the quarterfinals. The top-seeded player received a first round bye and then lost 4-6, 7-6 (7-4), 2-6 to Chuck Smith of Omaha in quarterfinal round play of the men's 45 singles competition.

Area wrestlers are ranked

The season's first wrestling ratings for Classes C and D were released this week and Winside is rated third in Class D behind number one Harvard and Clay Center.

Individually, five wrestlers from Winside are ranked in the top six positions of their weight classes and one Wakefield wrestler is listed among the leaders.

In Class D, Winside's Barry Bowers is rated first in the 185-pound class. Kent Glassmeyer is second in the heavyweight division. John Thies is third at 98 pounds. Mark Koch is fourth at 119 and Doug Jaeger is fourth at 132 pounds. In Class C, Wakefield's Jon Stelling is ranked fourth at 128 pounds.

Pro baseball camp set in January and February

Two Omaha High Schools are combining efforts to hold a Nebraska Professional Baseball Camp in January and February.

The baseball camp, sponsored by Omaha Paul VI and Omaha Ryan High Schools, is broken into three divisions: infielders, outfielders, and pitchers and catchers.

The infielders workshop is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays, Jan. 23 through Feb. 27. An outfielders workshop is planned from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Jan. 23 through Feb. 27. A workshop for pitchers and catchers is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. on Sundays, Jan. 24 through Feb. 27.

The staff includes experienced players and coaches. Director is Mark Wolever who was an outfielder in the Cincinnati Reds and Montreal Expos organizations. He is currently in his third year as the baseball coach of Omaha Paul VI High School and is a recommending scout for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Assistant camp directors include Rick Mathews, Brad Hansen and Brian Poldberg. Mathews is currently in his third season as a manager in the Kansas City Royals organization. Hansen is head baseball coach at Omaha Ryan High School.

Cost of the camp is $39 for two weeks (six hours instruction), $69 for four weeks (12 hours instruction) or $89 for six weeks (18 hours instruction). For more information on the camp including free brochure, contact Omaha Paul VI High School or Omaha Ryan High School.

Team 1 on top of A League

Team One held onto first place and Team Two grabbed second place after four weeks of A League basketball action. This past Monday, Team One defeated Team Seven, Team Five defeated Team Three and Team Six defeated Team Two.

Team Five 63, Team Three 61

The fourth week of A League action started off with an overtime thriller. Two baskets by Marly Hansen and one by Dave Hix gave Team Five the 6 to 4 advantage it needed in the overtime period.

The winners were led by Hansen with 22 points, Hix with 15 and Dean Carroll with 12. Team Three was paced by Tim Koll's 22 points, Mike Patton's 18 points and Duane Smith's 13.

Team Three 7 12 16 22 4-61
Team Five 10 16 10 21 6-63
Team Five (2-2): M. Hansen 22, D. Hix 15, De. Carroll 12, T. Christensen 6, C. Hoefs 4, D. Rose 4.

Team Three (1-2): T. Koll 22, M. Patton 18, D. Smith 13, J. Echtenkamp 6, M. Lewon 2.

Team Two 62, Team Six 59

Dave Schwartz and Brad Erwin combined for 48 points to lead Team Two to a narrow win. A 23-12 fourth quarter advantage sparked the winners' rally.

Schwartz and Erwin each scored 24 points for the winners. For Team Six, Steve Sorenson scored 18 points, Kevin Nissen scored 14, Tod Heiler scored 13 and Jeff Zeiss hit 10.

Team Six 15 15 12-59
Team Two 8 19 12 23-62

Team Two (3-1): D. Schwartz 24, B. Erwin 24, J. Davie 6, J. Goeden 6, K. Murray 1, J. Edmonds 1.

Rec boys, girls meet Gladiators

Wayne's recreation basketball teams finished 1981 on a winning note by taking a doubleheader from Dixon on Dec. 30. The Wayne seventh and eighth grade girls won their game 20-10 and the Wayne seventh grade boys won theirs 28-15.

In the girls game, Wayne held Dixon scoreless in the first quarter for an eight-point lead. Wayne was led by Laura Keating with nine points and Jennifer Moore, with five. Lesa McDermott, Shelly Pick and Cindy Brown each added a basket for the winners. Names of Dixon's leading scorers were not available.

A well-balanced scoring attack led Wayne's boys to a 28-15 win over neighboring Dixon. Five players, Bill Liska, Russ Lange, Jon Stoltenberg, Ted McGriff and Kevin Grless scored four points apiece. Ted Luaders, Tom Miller, Tim Grless and Bill Melena each scored two points.

Combat Gladiators

Some small town athletes got a taste of big town basketball in their first outing of 1982 and held their own ground.

Playing Jan. 2 in Omaha, the Wayne recreation eighth grade boys defeated the Omaha Gladiators. The Gladiators, a group of all-star players, won the seventh grade game and the girls game.

In the eighth grade contest, Wayne outscored Omaha 17 to 3 in the second quarter and held on through the second half for a 43-25 triumph. Don Larsen led all scorers with 18 points and Dan Gross hit 10. Other scorers for Wayne were Shannon Dorcay with six, Tom Perry with five and Brent Pick with four.

In the seventh grade boys' loss to the Gladiators B team, the outcome was decided at the free throw line. Omaha hit 10 of 24 free throws while Wayne shot only 12 free throws and made five. The locals led 25-15 after three quarters but Omaha's press resulted in turnovers and a 13-2 fourth quarter advantage.

Wayne, which committed 12 turnovers and missed numerous fourth period free throws, was led by Ted Luaders with 11 points.

Troy Wood, Russ Lange and Jason Jorgensen scored four points each and Bill Liska added two.

Wayne coach Hank Overin said his girls team played well for three quarters but ran out of energy in the final period on the 94-foot floor, which is longer than their practice court.

Laura Keating scored eight points to lead the girls and Lesa McDermott and Shelly Pick each scored two points. Wayne, which trailed only 8-9 at the half, was held scoreless in the final period.

Valley Squire land use questioned City's planners urge partners to review zoning regulations

Future use of the Valley Squire property remains uncertain.

However, a two-man partnership may change that by Feb. 1, when the City Planning Commission is expected to reconsider a rezoning request for the property.

Slightly less than an acre, the property was the subject of a rezoning request during Monday night's public hearing.

COMMISSIONERS tabled action on the request, which sought a change from agriculture (A-1) to highway business (B-1).

Glenn Ellingson, city administrator, and Phil Kloster, city administrator, led the partners, Mike Sievers of Wayne and Gerald Dolph of Wakefield, to meet with an attorney on the rezoning request.

The advice came after a prolonged Monday night discussion on zoning regulations and regulations.

In opening the public hearing, Ellingson said the rezoning request did not fit the kind of use was intended for the property, which is along State Highway 15 just east of the city limits.

PROPERTY WITHIN city limits is subject to zoning regulations, according to city officials.

Commissioner plans to quit

Sydney S. Hillier, a Wayne chiropractor, plans to resign from the City Planning Commission.

The 40-year-old Wayne Swim Team coach said his busy schedule did not offer enough time to devote to the work of the commission.

Hillier, who coaches Wayne swimmers four nights a week, was appointed to the commission last spring.

The Montana native said he informed Mayor Wayne Marsh Tuesday morning, but would submit a letter of resignation soon.

Commission members are appointed by the mayor with City Council approval.

Sievers and Dolph told the commission they were trying to buy the property to establish any one of a number of businesses there.

Sievers said he wants to open a radiator repair shop on the site. Dolph said he is interested in a meat locker operation.

Both explored several options with the commission in an attempt to fit their suggested uses with the zoning codes.

The partners, sometimes openly exasperated by the zoning regulations, also discovered the land may be included in the federal government's designated 100-year flood plain.

ELLINGSON AND Kloster urged the partners to review their plans for the land site and to determine the location of the property in relation to the flood plain, which would impose severe restrictions on usage.

Several business zoning classifications were discussed and considered by the commission for the agriculturally zoned property.

Kloster told the partners that tabling the request until the commission's Feb. 1 meeting would give them nearly 15 days to meet legal advertising requirements should the rezoning request change.

Sievers and Dolph were urged to explore other business zoning classifications that might offer the type of land usage they sought.

The change from agriculture to highway business, as requested by Sievers and Dolph, ruled out several uses suggested by the partners during the public hearing.

"Can't have a sorority house there as it is presently zoned."

Johnson, who was initially concerned about the rezoning breaking up the zoned continuity of the area, said he "wouldn't take issue with it."

He said the house has always been filled with college people in a reference to tenancy before the sorority purchase.

Johnson did express concern about snow removal and parking in the area. Ken Prokop, 120 Pearl, shared Johnson's concern.

Prokop also expressed concern over the purchasing procedure.

"WHY WOULD they (the sorority) purchase it first then try to rezone it?" Prokop asked.

It's like a contractor building a house and then asking for a building permit.

Feider agreed that a question to a lot of us, he responded.

Most commissioners expressed concern that the sorority was not represented before the commission.

Phil Kloster, city administrator, told commissioners he had been contacted by several nearby property owners.

He read notes from Bernice Fulton, 116 12th Street west, and Ida Munson, 112 12th Street west, that were supportive of the sorority's spot zoning request.

KLOSTER SAID Walt Pearson, 1208 Main Street, ask that his property be included in the rezoning request.

However, Dick Carman, who owns apartments near the sorority house site, opposed the rezoning because of parking problems, according to Kloster.

Ellingson told the commissioners that the request could be approved, disapproved or tabled until a sponsor for the sorority provided the panel with more information.

Keidel introduced a motion to table consideration of the rezoning request. Seconded by commissioner Gary Van Meter, the motion passed unanimously.

Kappa Delta Gamma recently moved to the Main Street property from a house at 1016 Walnut Street.

being pleased with keeping the educational film for longer periods of time, both also said teachers were complaining about only getting half the films ordered.

Mills suggested that next fall the board should consider putting two film delivery vans into operation to service the unit.

BOARD MEMBER David Hay presented a report on the unit's telephone usage and costs.

He said the study was done in light of the board's previous discussions regarding the installation of a Watts line.

Hay's report, which was based on service for the month of October, revealed ESU staff spent about 32 hours on the telephone.

He said 485 calls were handled during that month for a total bill of $778.40. Long distance calling totaled $486.15, Hay said.

Hay said that Northwestern Bell figures show a minimum $180 charge for 10 hours of outgoing Watts line service.

Outgoing Watts service costs $18 per hour after the 10-hour minimum, he said. An incoming Watts line would cost the unit $19 per hour after the $180 10-hour minimum, Hay said.

ACCORDING TO Hay, a combined incoming-outgoing Watts line fee is $20.50 per hour after the $180 10-hour minimum.

On the basis of October's long distance calls, Hay said the Watts line bill would have been $340.

That compares to the ESU's regular service long distance bill for October of $486.15.

Hay commended the staff for reducing the telephone bill since the October figures were selected for review.

According to Hay, the November ESU telephone bill dropped to $691.31 and the December bill dropped to $535.72.

Hay asked Mills for a month's worth of mileage bills so that he could begin similar study in that segment of the ESU operation.

Politicians may cash in on multibank controversy

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Did he or didn't he? Only his Supreme Court knows.

That play on words, of course, relates to Lt. Gov. Roland Luedtke's vote on the controversial multibank holding company bill during the 1981 legislative session.

The measure was the subject of debate before, during and after passage. Or, more correctly, after what was thought to be a final vote taken on the bill.

As you may remember, the Legislature deadlocked 24-24 on the final ballot. Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha had abstained, so Luedtke, who was presiding, cast the 25th vote and declared the bill passed.

GOV. CHARLES THONE, however, didn't agree, and sent the measure back to the Legislature without acting on it. So Luedtke walled until Thone was out of town and, as acting governor, signed the bill.

Then Secretary of State Allen Beermann, who certifies passed legislation, had to decide whether the bill should be certified. It was, and a court challenge followed.

By now the bill has been thoroughly debated by the private sector (the banking community), the legislative branch of government and the state's executives, namely Thone, Luedtke and Beermann.

To complete the circle, a circle that sends the issue back to the Legislature, the judiciary had to get involved. And that's just what the Supreme Court did.

The high court said the bill wasn't properly passed, and that Luedtke was not allowed to cast a vote on final passage. The ruling sent the multibank holding bill out the window, and opened the door for further legislative consideration.

THONE HAS recommended Nebraska bankers refrain from bringing the issue up during the 1982 legislative session, and some bankers have agreed. But there still are indications in some quarters the issue will be presented again in 1982.

If a multibank holding company bill is introduced this year, that doesn't guarantee action. Lawmakers could, perhaps at Thone's request, "bracket" or postpone action on such legislation until it would be too late to act.

Since 1982 is an election year, and since this year's session lasts only 60 working days, it will be interesting to see who gets his way on the long debated issue.

SENATORS WORTH MORE? — How much is it worth to you to have 49 people come to Lincoln each year to make the laws that govern our lives, promote our well being or, perhaps, just harass us?

Some people think the current $400 a month is sufficient. Others assert it's inadequate, and there are even those who think it's too much.

Nebraska voters this year will get a chance to voice their opinion on the issue. Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha has proposed that lawmakers be allowed to set their own salaries, up to one-third of the governor's. Johnson's proposal, placed on the spring ballot by action of the 1981 Legislature, is not unique. But he says it's necessary.

ALTHOUGH SENATORS now make, as required by the state Constitution, $400 a month, Johnson says that translates into only $149 a month in 1980 dollars.

The proponent of a salary increase for lawmakers has been voiced many times for more than a decade.

On the "pro" side, supporters say it takes more money to attract younger, more educated or more varied people to run for the Legislature. Now, some proponents say, only retired people with a lot of money stashed away or folks who have enough money and time to get away from their jobs and families can serve.

Plus, some proponents stress that lawmakers often spend more than 40-hour weeks during the session, which can run into April or May, researching legislation or handling other job-related matters.

ON THE "CON" side are the people who stress that the regular legislative session only lasts for 60 of 90 working days, and $400 a month certainly is adequate for that commitment.

Other opponents say they believe a public servant should not be doing what he does for money, but for the public.

Proponents are quick to add that a person who can't afford to keep a household going on $400 a month might make an excellent lawmaker, but must decline a bid for the office because of financial restraints.

to the end, it boils down to what the people — the taxpayers — say, because they are the ones who foot the bill and they are the ones who would have to amend the Constitution to provide for higher legislative salaries.

When Nebraskans go to the polls to decide the salary question, there's one point they should seriously ponder — and it can be expressed in a pro-con argument:

Con: The lawmakers, or at least some of them, aren't worth the $400 a month we pay them.

Pro: Nebraska would have, or could have, better quality lawmakers and laws if we paid them more than $400 a month.

viewpoint

Fancy footwork

The cost of energy continues to increase. And, the hike is racing far ahead of any corresponding increases in consumer purchasing power.

That puts nearly everyone's pocketbook in a pinch, particularly during the winter months when both heat and light are more essential.

Wayne's recently approved electric rate increase, expected to take effect in January, has been piled on top of other energy increases — most notably natural gas.

No one likes the hikes.

They do, however, represent a stiff dose of realism regarding the true cost of energy. Not only that, but the rates also reflect years of wasteful habits that have mortgaged our own energy future.

January's electric bill will represent the real cost of energy consumed for the previous month. In addition, the bill will represent costs incurred over past years by consumers who have placed an extraordinarily high peak demand on public utilities.

The buy now, pay-later philosophy that has plagued this nation's energy policy for decades is coming home to roost in every household across the land, including Wayne.

However, there are those who — unable to face the pay as you go reality of it all — would continue a policy that does little more than place a second mortgage on our energy future.

There's even been some local political rhetoric with regard to increased electric rates. Those responsible for the rhetoric offer no alternative beyond the smokescreen of protecting the taxpayers in general and those on a fixed income in particular.

With some well-timed political footwork, those responsible for the rhetoric would have us believe that those approving rate hikes are irresponsible and somehow delight in ripping off fixed income residents.

Nothing could be further from the truth. And those involved in that kind of political grandstanding may, indeed, be the ones who are shirking responsibility.

Shirking responsibility is not the road to any long lasting political popularity.

The soapbox rhetoric might be better left for political campaigns.

Sound reasoning and positive alternatives would offer more in the pursuit of a solution to our increasingly difficult dilemma over rising energy costs.

Would that the energy used to produce the rhetoric could be converted into a workable policy to reduce Wayne's peak demands on electricity consumption.

Actions still speak louder than words.

They're MADD

Most of 1981 was an especially bad year as far as traffic fatalities were concerned. For most of the year, traffic fatalities often outnumbered those for 1980 by 25 to 30 deaths. However, during the past two months, there was a turnaround.

Some of the safety countermeasures, such as Super Safety Week, may have contributed to a much improved safety record. For example, for the past number of weeks, the fatality count for 1981 was 10 to 15 deaths lower than for the same period during 1980.

Some major objectives of the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety (NOHS) safety program are to encourage Nebraskans to take an active part in their own safety when they drive and to emphasize that most traffic accidents are preventable.

The NOHS is interested in receiving information from people who have had traffic accidents which have affected their lives and who would like to become involved in developing counter measures to the traffic safety problem in this state.

Direct all questions and comments to Fred Zwonechek, NOHS.

MADD. The drinking driver is the most serious traffic problem we face in this state. Many Nebraskans have suffered both personal and economical losses because of drinking drivers. Every taxpayer bears a part of the financial burden caused by these drivers.

Nebraskans can do something to counter drinking drivers. Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) is a nonprofit organization made up of the victims and survivors of alcohol-related accidents and citizens who want to get drunk drivers off the road.

The organization is mainly responsible for the current increased national media attention and public awareness of this problem. The group's founders have been on the "Phil Donahue Show," "Today," and many local programs. Their stories have been printed in numerous national and local newspapers and magazines.

The Nebraska Office of Highway Safety wholeheartedly supports MADD and is interested in helping to organize chapters in Nebraska. Anyone interested in forming local MADD chapters or wishing more information about MADD, contact MADD, 5330 Primrose, Suite 146, Fair Oaks, California 95628 (916-966-MADD).

Foreign purchases hit $159 million

Ag exports value tripled

The value of international exports of farm products from our state reported to the Nebraska Department of Agriculture in 1981 was 3 1/3 times as large as in 1980.

This progress in developing new markets overseas for products of our state's farms and ranches is good news at a time when almost all other agricultural news is bad. Prices for both grain and livestock are at disastrously low levels. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that as 1982 began the ratio of farmers' debts to their assets was at a 10-year high.

THE TOTAL OF agricultural products from Nebraska sold abroad is a tough statistic to pin down. There are solid figures on total U.S. exports by product. From these, USDA makes farm export estimates for each state largely by dividing the total proportionately among the producing states. On this basis, Nebraska's agricultural exports amount to about $2 billion a year.

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture compiles statistics on the value of farm and ranch products sold abroad as reported by firms here in the state. Most shipments of wheat and corn would not be included in these totals since Nebraska grain is usually mixed with that from other states at port elevators.

governor charley thone

The value of farm products shipped from Nebraska to other countries as reported to the state was close to $159 million in 1981, compared to only $47 million in 1980.

Popcorn export value reported was twice as high in 1981 as 1980, while sorghum was up 78 percent, breeding swine increased 76 percent and cornmeal and byproducts went up 32 percent.

A shipment of 500 Nebraska dairy heifers left December 26 for Mexico. That nation wants to buy another 24,000 to 30,000 in 1982, and Nebraska can probably sell as many of them as it can provide.

Currently, state agricultural officials are working on a sale of corn that would be one of the largest export deals ever for that commodity.

MARKETING OFFICIALS of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture help the state's exporters to deal with the red tape of foreign governments and help the exporters over barriers of different languages and cultures. These marketing experts also help people from other nations to gain confidence in buying products from Nebraska.

State veterinarians provide certification of health on livestock shipped to other countries and the state entomologist provides certification that grain or plants are free of insects and disease.

Foreign buyers, in both the private and government sectors have learned that certification from Nebraska can be trusted completely, while that from some other states cannot. For example, Nebraska is one of only four states that provide documentation on dairy cattle that is satisfactory to the rural credit bank of Mexico.

Export sales of agricultural products are becoming more important to Nebraska farmers and ranchers with each passing year. The state will continue and expand on its efforts to develop these markets fully.

Diversity makes the farm plan difficult

By M.M. Van Kirk
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Sweeping generalizations based on agricultural statistical "averages" can be highly misleading and inaccurate when applied by the nation's policy makers in writing farm legislation and farm program regulations.

One of the great strengths of U.S. agriculture is its diversity, and the broad areas which it covers.

There have been notable exceptions such as 1934 and 1936, and to a degree, 1974 and 1980, but rarely has there been a year when drought conditions, covered such widespread areas that the nation's domestic food supplies were insufficient.

EVEN WHEN total production of wheat and feed grains has been reduced, the nation has had carryover supplies plentiful enough to take care of domestic and export needs.

One may search through American history and find no account of the famines and short rations that have plagued so many areas of the world.

The American system, with its faults, has proved itself vastly superior in providing for the needs of its people.

The Soviet Union and Poland are notable examples of developed nations with great land resource capabilities. However, they are unable to provide for their domestic food needs, mainly because of the basic flaws in their communistic system, which stifles incentive.

ONE OF THE great problems for the Congress in writing a helpful farm law is that it must apply the same standards to farmers and ranchers all across the land.

The needs of a Nebraska farmer or rancher may be very different from those of a Wisconsin dairy farmer, or Southern cotton or peanut grower.

What is best for a cattle-feeder who markets a couple of hundred head of slaughter cattle yearly may not necessarily be compatible with the needs of a feedlot operator who markets 30,000 head per year.

A wheat program that will best serve a producer who harvests 5,000 to 10,000 acres each year may not necessarily coincide with the needs of a small producer who harvests wheat from a couple of hundred acres.

SUGAR BEET producers seeking to keep their industry alive and desiring special provisions in a farm bill may be competing with corn producers whose product more and more is being used for production of high fructose sugar which supplies a greater and greater percentage of sweetener needs of the soft drink industry.

The history of 50 years of government farm laws says that such laws have consistently served the interests of the larger farmers, have done very little to benefit the smaller producers, and have seemingly contributed to the trend for farm and ranch units to grow larger and fewer in numbers.

Recently, results of a USDA Agricultural Research Service survey trumpeted the news that small farms, though headed for extinction in the 1950s and 1960s, are making a comeback and gaining an increasingly important role in the nation's agriculture.

BUT THE ARTICLE goes on to quote statistics indicating the survey was conducted in a 12-state area of Northeastern United States from West Virginia to Maine. A survey spokesman said the results held great implications for small farms in other sections of the country.

Such conclusions are unwarranted and an example of misleading application of statistical data. The agricultural capabilities of that area do not compare with the nation's prime agricultural areas of the West and Midwest which produce the greatest percentage of the U.S. food supply.

The area cited in the survey is highly industrialized, lending itself to those who hold off-farm jobs but have little for small crop, garden and livestock enterprises. Their place in U.S. food production is valuable but not representative of U.S. production agriculture.

County ASC convention held

Dean Owens and Melvin Wilson, Wayne County farmers, were named to the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee by delegates to the Wayne County ASC Convention held on Dec. 17.

The delegates also elected Alvin Sundell and George Jaeger as alternates to the committee.

Delegates also determined positions on the County ASC Committee for 1982. Erwin Morris was voted chairman, Dean Owens as vice chairman, and Melvin Wilson as regular member.

Morris is a carryover committee member who farms southwest of Carroll. Owens farms north of Carroll and recently moved from alternate to regular committee member due to the death of regular committee member Leo Voss. Wilson farms south of Wakefield and was a committee member.

The County ASC Committee is responsible for local administration of government farm programs.

Delegates to the County Convention were the recently elected community committee persons.

Sheep Producers meeting

The Northeast Nebraska Sheep Producers are having a potluck lamb dinner meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 12, at the North Station, Concord, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

All Northeast Nebraska sheep producers are invited to join the group for the evening. Those without lamb, are asked to bring a vegetable or salad, and a dessert. Table service will be provided.

Alan Kjelgaard of Tekamah, a registered Suffolk sheep producer will present a program on record keeping.

Winter wheat seedings

Nebraska winter wheat seedings for the 1982 crop totaled 3.1 million acres, same as last year but 3 percent more than for 1980.

Topsoil moisture supplies were considered generally adequate at seeding time providing a good start for much of the 1982 crop.

However, short moisture supplies and limited early growth were reported in parts of the northern Panhandle and some areas of the southwest.

Damp, humid conditions coupled with temperatures well above normal during November boosted growth and development of the new crop. Good tillering was reported with very little insect activity statewide.

Based on the condition of seeded acreage as of Dec. 1, the 1982 production is forecast at 105 million bushels, down nearly 1 percent from the 1981 crop.

Wheat production down

The 1981 Nebraska wheat crop totaled 106.2 million bushels, down 2 percent from last year's revised production of 108.3 million bushels. This was still the third largest wheat crop of record.

Average yield for the 1981 crop was 36 bushels per acre, down 2 bushels from the previous year. Acreage harvested at 2,950,000 was 4 percent above the revised 2,850,000 for a year earlier.

Oat production down

Nebraska production of oats totaled 15.4 million bushels in 1981, down 1 percent from last year's revised 15.6 million. Average yield per acre was 39 bushels, down 2 from the previous year.

Harvested acreage at 395,000 was 4 percent above last year's revised 380,000 acres.

Ag College annual meeting

The fifth annual meeting of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. on Jan. 23 in the East Campus Union, Lincoln.

Dr. Wayne F. Keim, professor and head, department of agronomy, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, will address alumni at a noon luncheon.

During the morning, visitors will be conducted on tours through the newly remodeled ag engineering facilities (newly named L.W. Chase Hall), the plant sciences complex, animal science facilities and the home economics buildings.

A panel discussion on "Water Issues in Nebraska" will be moderated by Dr. Leslie F. Sheffield, assistant to the NU vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources.

Cedar County pork banquet

The Cedar County Pork Producers Association recognition and membership banquet will be held at the Coleridge Community Building on Sunday, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, however those wishing to attend must register at the Cedar County Extension Office by today (Thursday).

Trophy winners from the Cedar County Fair and Laurel Market Hog Show will be recognized.

Featured speaker will be Dave Nixon, Channel 4 anchor reporter from Sioux City. Nixon has worked in public television and radio news for more than 20 years.

Association members, fellow pork producers and friends are invited to attend the meeting.

Hog inventory is up

Nebraska pork producers had an estimated 4.1 million hogs and pigs on hand Dec. 1, up 5 percent from a year ago.

During the March-May quarter, they intend to have 220,000 sows farrow, down 6 percent from a year ago and 12 percent below two years ago.

For the next six-month period, intended farrowings are 1 percent lower than a year ago.

Pig crop of 1.7 million

During the September-November quarter, 230,000 sows produced a pig crop of 1.7 million pigs, up 6 percent from a year ago.

Nebraska pork producers plan to have 190,000 sows farrow during the December 1981-February 1982 quarter, up 6 percent from last year but 5 percent below two years ago.

During the March-May quarter, they intend to have 220,000 sows farrow, down 6 percent from a year ago and 12 percent below two years ago.

For the next six-month period, intended farrowings are 1 percent lower than a year ago.

A CHINESE Ringneck pheasant lands in wildlife habitat.

Good farmland management encourages growth of wildlife

During this time of year when many pheasants, ducks, turkeys, quail, deer and other wildlife are the subject of hunting stories, many hunters overlook the actions that were taken to make this wildlife available.

Many farmers and ranchers across Nebraska devote some of their land to wildlife, said Verline Francis, Soil Conservation Service at Wayne. In fact, just management of the crops in the fields often encourages wildlife.

CONTOUR strip cropping provides a diversity where food and cover are close together for upland game bird nesting. Grass meadows provide additional nesting, roosting and escape cover and are especially good for wildlife if mowing is not allowed until July 1.

Farm ponds, if properly designed and constructed, can produce 100 to 300 pounds of fish per surface acre each year through hook and line fishing. If the pond is fenced and the area planted to grasses, shrubs and trees, an excellent habitat is provided for wildlife.

Windbreaks provide food and cover for many kinds of wildlife besides protecting the land or rural home from the wind.

Proper grazing on rangelands provides an adequate cover for grouse, quail, pheasant, turkey, deer and antelope. Overgrazed ranges do not provide anything, including grass for livestock.

"JUST LEAVING a high stubble of corn, milo or wheat provides food and cover into the winter," said Francis. "If the stubble is cut low to the ground, winter cover is lacking so wildlife is forced to congregate near the farm ranch headquarters making them easy prey for predators."

For more information on how the land can be improved for wildlife, contact the local Soil Conservation Service or Natural Resources District office.

Volunteer leaders series

4-H training sessions set

Nebraska volunteer 4-H leaders will have an opportunity to attend one in a series of 11 training sessions in January and February focusing on the areas of clothing magic, the teen scene, animal science and exploring electricity.

Under the theme 4-H Pathways to Leadership, the day-long sessions also will assist leaders in using project selection and resource guides in 4-H clubs, help identify traits of the new junior leader in 4-H club work and view new project materials.

THREE OF the workshops to be presented will be on new projects.

The Teen Scene is a new consumer project to help teens in any 4-H club make better shopping decisions.

Exploring electricity is a new 4-part series ranging from basic principles to common uses of electricity and new county and state fair exhibits.

Clothing magic is a new 10-part clothing project for those who have already learned the basics of sewing, but need more projects.

The animal science update will discuss potential for increasing interest in animal science projects with emphasis on breeding heifers, market swine and market sheep.

Cattlemen with straw and chaff or other low quality roughage to feed to wintering beef cows should utilize such feeds early in the pregnancy period.

Straw or low quality roughage can meet energy requirements for maintenance. These feeds are useful for generating heat, but provide little else in the way of nutrients.

The best time to utilize straw and chaff for dry cows is during December and January. Low quality hay should also be fed first, saving the better quality roughage for later in the gestation period.

BY FEBRUARY, the spring cows calving should be getting a ration of good quality roughage. The tendency may be to save low quality roughage as a "last resort" feed, but it can be utilized to good advantage early in the wintering period.

Straw is useful only as an energy source, and is lacking in protein and minerals. Protein can be provided by feeding alfalfa hay or a commercial protein supplement.

Mineral deficiencies can be met by feeding a high phosphorus livestock mineral or a mixture of 50 percent steamed bonemeal or dicalcium phosphate and 50 percent trace mineral salt.

ICE FREE WATER - The livestock producer should plan to provide a continual supply of open water to his livestock.

In tests, dairy cows with ice free water gave 3 1/2 percent more milk than those with intermittent water; pigs with ice free water gained 1 pound more than litter mates and feeder cattle with water warmed to keep it from freezing gained more than sleepers on water not heated.

Water management should be designed to keep the water open at all times and to give the livestock quick and easy access to the water.

TO KEEP COSTS of providing winter water low, consider:

1. Continuous flow waterers to keep tanks open at minimal cost where ample water is available.
2. Small capacity waterers use less supplemental heat.
3. Heat to keep water open and available rather than completely ice free. (On most winter days livestock produce more body heat than needed so they can warm the water at no cost.)

What happens when adequate water is not available? Feed consumption drops, gains drop, the body dehydrates and in the case of steers, urinary calculi may cause water belly.

Q. I've often heard that a good way to save is to not necessarily save it to ask my employer to withhold more in income taxes so that I'll receive a larger refund. Is this basically true?

A. It is a way to save - but not necessarily a good one. You may receive a refund, but that money will not have worked for you at all. As a matter of fact, many financial analysts specializing in personal finance suggest you first make careful computations of your estimated tax liability. Then plan for enough withholding to meet that liability. If your estimate is less than the amount withheld, ask your employer to withhold less in taxes - enough to cover, as nearly as possible, your estimate. Then, take the surplus and put it to work for you, either in a passbook savings account or through investment in a certificate of deposit, an all savers certificate, a money market certificate or deposit into an Individual Retirement Account. Many financial planners and tax authorities believe excessive withholding is an easy way to save, but a costly one, too, but not having your money working for you as long as possible.

FHA home-loan rules revised

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has changed its regulations to make it possible for more people to get single-family home loans through USDA's Farmers Home Administration.

Charles W. Shuman, administrator of the USDA rural credit agency, said the revised rules change the income eligibility criteria, permit funds for approved solar heating, and make numerous changes to clarify and simplify operation of the agency's single-family housing programs.

THE FARMERS Home Administration has a wide range of housing programs, including mortgage loans for single-family homes, housing repair and rehabilitation loans, rural rental housing, farm labor housing and self-help housing loans.

Before the new regulations were implemented, they were reviewed and revised extensively, Shuman said.

One of the major changes is the elimination of a single, national-wide income-eligibility level. Previously, only families with incomes below $15,000 were considered eligible for Farmers Home housing loans, except in Alaska and Hawaii.

Income ceilings now vary by economic areas and are based on a percentage of the area median income. Low income is defined as 80 percent of the area median income.

APPLICANTS who qualify for moderate income loans will pay interest rates prevailing when the loan is closed. The current interest rate charged by Farmers Home is 13.25 percent.

For those with incomes at or below 80 percent of the area median income level, the agency provides interest credits, which reduce the amount of interest the borrower pays, sometimes to as low as one percent.

Using data developed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Farmers Home Administration now sets income eligibility limits in more than 500 economic areas throughout the nation.

Income eligibility ranges from $17,000 in some of the nation's poorer counties to $23,500 in the more affluent areas, and up to $33,000 in Alaska. Low income levels at which applicants become eligible for interest credits range from $11,500 to $18,000.

IN ADDITION, the new regulations identify very low income levels as 50 percent of the area median income and stipulate that 30 percent of housing loans be made to borrowers in their categories, to the extent practical.

Other changes include:

- simplified loan information, instructions and procedures to make it easier for eligible borrowers to understand FHA loan programs

- interest rates charged on loans to moderate income borrowers may be either Farmers Home's established rate or Housing and Urban Development's rate, depending on the borrower's ability to pay

- priority will be given to applications to refinance debts and subsequent loans necessary for servicing action. Generally, loans will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis, but priority will be given in cases that will prevent loss of a home.

- elimination of the five-year limitation before Farmers Home has authority to refinance home loans made by commercial lenders when eligible applicants are delinquent for reasons beyond their control and threatened by foreclosure.

- size of allowable living area in new homes reduced to 1,200 square feet from 1,300 square feet

- stipulates certain unusual, recurring expenses which may be deducted from income in determining eligibility

The regulations are being published as a final rule, Shuman said, but the agency is accepting comments and will consider them in making future revisions in the operation of the housing program.

The agency operates a nationwide program of housing, farm, and community facility loans through 2,000 county offices, 300 district offices, and a national headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Budget constraints blocking federal aid for vet school

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block contends that current budget constraints make it impossible for him to recommend federal assistance for the construction of a veterinary school at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The need for the proposed Old West Regional College of Veterinary Medicine was determined by a U.S. Department of Agriculture study team. USDA funding had been requested by the region under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 which permits federal assistance for the construction of veterinary schools providing states contribute matching funds.

"WE ALL have special projects that we would like to see funded," Block said. Many are valid requests, as this report clearly shows. But right now our top priority is the national economy.

The Old West region, which includes Nebraska, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming is a major livestock producing area. It contributes 72 percent of the nation's total cash receipts for livestock and related products.

It also has 14.8 percent of the cattle, 10 percent of the swine and 22.6 percent of the stock sheep.

National needs for large animal veterinarians appear to be met through the 80's, but the Old West region may continue to be underserved, according to the report.

THE REGION now has no complete program of veterinary medical education. A regional college would help assure sufficient large animal veterinarians because students tend to accept opportunities to practice in the state or region where they receive their training.

The study team, which included representatives of USDA and veterinary schools and associations, found the demand for veterinary education opportunities strong and competition keen.

For the 1980-81 school year, 7,286 qualified students applied for 2,296 openings in the 27 U.S. veterinary schools, the report said. In that year, 141 students from the Old West Region applied for admission to existing veterinary colleges and to were admitted.

The proposed program of the Old West Regional Veterinary School should be developed to enhance research, postdoctoral and graduate education, extension and diagnosis, and clinical services important to the region's livestock industries, the report said.

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons. So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 49 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They've proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.

Valley dominates the field.

COULD YOU USE AN EXTRA $540,585 WHEN YOU RETIRE?

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS—IRAs.

That's a ridiculous question, of course. Because everyone could use an extra $540,585 toward their retirement.

And now, with a tax-deferred Individual Retirement Account (IRA) from the State National Bank, almost everyone can have an extra $540,585. Even if you're already covered by a company pension plan.

To build such an impressive nest egg, you'll need to save away $2,000 a year — for 30 years — into your own high-yield retirement account.

Or, as demonstrated in the box at right, you can deposit less than $2,000 a year and still end up with a sizeable amount of cash

WHAT A TAX-DEFERRED IRA COULD MEAN TO YOU
(Based on 12% interest, compounded annually)

	$500 INVESTMENT at start of each year	$1,000 INVESTMENT at start of each year	$2,000 INVESTMENT at start of each year
Total Investment After 30 Years	$ 15,000	$ 30,000	$ 60,000
Total Value of Investment After 30 Years	$135,146	$270,292	$540,585

Note: This chart is intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. This is not a guarantee of interest rates or end financial results.

from your taxable income. So you'll pay no federal tax on an IRA until you start withdrawing funds (minimum age: 59½).

Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket, paying lower taxes.

If you're intrigued with the thought of reducing your tax load while increasing your security, call or visit the professionals at the State National Bank for all the details.

They could help make your retirement much more enjoyable. About $540,585 more enjoyable.

Now all wage earners qualify for . . .

IRA

(Individual Retirement Account)
a tax-deferred retirement plan that lets you keep more of your hard earned money.

Even if you are covered by a company pension plan—or Keogh, you can participate in the new version of IRA at Midwest Federal. With all the concern about Social Security, it may be a good time to start a plan that will build security for your retirement years.

Tax-deferred contributions

Deposit as much as $2,000 each year and deduct it from your Federal Income Tax Return. With a working spouse you can, together, deposit up to $4,000. Married couples with one employed worker can deposit up to $2,250.

The interest you earn as well as your contributions is tax deferred until you withdraw at retirement when you will probably be in a lower tax bracket—or as early as 59-1/2 whether you retire or not.

Start with a plan

Most people will choose to make regular, periodic deposits. If you wish, Midwest Federal will automatically transfer monthly deposits from your checking account. (IRA customers qualify for Free Checking). Or, you may choose to make regular deposits on your own. Another option is to make your total deposit in a lump sum: Whichever way you choose, you have until you file your income tax to complete your contribution. But don't delay—the earlier you deposit, the greater your tax-deferred earnings will be.

No fees or commissions

Unlike some IRA plans, there are no fees or commissions to pay in a Midwest Federal Individual Retirement Account. The full amount of your deposit is credited to your tax-deferred IRA account. It stays right here, promoting growth and prosperity in our community.

Insured-safe. Some IRAs are not!

An Individual Retirement account is a long term investment in your future. You want to be absolutely sure the principal and earned interest are there when you retire.

Retirement plans based on Money Market Funds and other speculative investments are not insured by U. S. Government agencies.

An IRA plan with Midwest Federal is insured safe by the FSLIC up to $100,000. That's something to think about.

Come in for details on how you can keep more of your hard earned money for a comfortable and secure retirement.

...it's great to be a Midwesterner!

Heating bill help is available here

The federal government has given funds to Nebraska that are to be used to help eligible low income families and individuals with their heating bills this winter. Applications are now being accepted by the Nebraska Low Income Energy Assistance Program through local county welfare offices. Additional information is available by calling the statewide tollfree number at 800 472 7200. Last year, approximately $10 million in federal funds were expended in assisting 30,000 Nebraska low income households with their heating bills. During this heating season, households with income (after adjustments) and resources at or below the program guidelines may qualify for this supplement to heating assistance. Payment is based on family size, household income, the area of the state in which the household resides, and the type of primary heating fuel used. Income guidelines are based on annualized income after all allowable adjustments are deducted. The annualized income maximums are $6,474 for a household of one person, $8,455 for two persons, $10,457 for three persons, $12,449 for four persons, and $14,441 for five persons. Applications for the program will be taken as long as federal funds are available or until April 15.
