Blizzard of '82 blasts northeast Nebraska; Wind-whipped snowfall shuts down Wayne

A record-setting midwinter snowstorm moving through the Upper Plains states dumped as much as 16 inches of snow in northeast Nebraska by Saturday afternoon. Whipped by winds gusting to 55 miles per hour, the two-day blast had mounted into a full-scale prairie blizzard by early Friday. The storm, which started out with freezing rain late Thursday, virtually shut down Wayne and area towns. Area schools, businesses and government offices closed.

WHILE THE NATIONAL Weather Service in Norfolk forecast clearing skies by late Saturday and sunshine by Sunday, wind-driven snow continued to pelt the county side well into the day Saturday.

A blizzard baby

Two emergency medical technicians and members of the Allen Waterbury Rescue Unit helped deliver a healthy blizzard baby at the Allen Firehall Saturday morning.

The baby girl, born at 5 a.m. to Jerry and Lori Schwartz of Allen, was awaiting transfer to the hospital in Wakefield late Saturday morning.

Rescue squad members got the call about 1 a.m. and attempted to make the Wakefield hospital. The blizzard forced two maintainers and two 4-wheel driver vehicles as well as the rescue unit back to the firehall, where the baby was born (inside the rescue unit in the firehall) several hours later.

Dr. Max Coe assisted in the delivery by telephone from Wakefield. The EMT's assisting in the delivery were Pearl Snyder and Carol Chase.

The parents named the "6 to 7 pound" baby girl Katrina Lee. She joins an 18-month-old sister, Corie Jo.

Both mother and baby are doing fine.

Though the storm began in moderate winter temperatures, thermometers in the Wayne area had dipped to 6 degrees below zero by early Saturday morning. Wind chill factors of 60 to 80 degrees below zero made frostbite an immediate danger to those out doors.

Two WSC students hurt in accident

Two Wayne College students were listed in satisfactory condition Saturday at Providence Medical Center following an early Friday morning snowmobile accident.

Michael J. Lighthart, 22, of Omaha, and Beth A. Mason, 18, of rural Omaha, were rushed to Providence Medical Center by ambulance after the 2:15 a.m. Friday accident on the Wayne Country Club golf course, according to the Wayne Police Department. Lighthart, a Bowen Hall resident, is under treatment at the hospital for a concussion, contusions, chin lacerations and a broken collarbone.

MASON, AN ANDERSON Hall resident, is being treated for a concussion, contusions and face and teeth injuries.

Patrolman Keith Adams, who investigated the accident, said Lighthart was driving a Kawasaki 440 Invader on the south end of the golf course near the WSC practice field when the accident happened.

Mason was a passenger on the snowmobile.

Neither Lighthart nor Mason remember the details of what happened, according to Adams.

"Lighthart doesn't even remember being on a snowmobile," the patrolman said. "Mason remembers being on the snowmobile, but doesn't remember what happened."

Carroll weatherman forecasts ample rain for the plain

By Randall Howell

An ample supply of rain should fall on the northeast Nebraska plain in 1982.

And, July is going to be the wettest month of the year. March, the month of the prairie lion, should be the driest 31 days of the year.

That's the weather, according to Wilbur Hefti, Carroll forecaster and farmer.

HEFTI, WHO HAS BEEN predicting the weather since the early 1940s with a ritual involving onions, says that on balance 1982's moisture outlook is going to be similar to that of 1981.

Based on his Christmas Eve forecasting ritual, Hefti predicted that this month (January) would have "good moisture."

February, he says, will have "some moisture," but not the amount that area residents have experienced in January.

"March will be the driest of all," he said. "There was very little moisture in the onion. You could tip it over and the salt would come out. Just a few flakes stuck to the onion."

HEFTI, WHO IS soon to be 64 (Feb. 19, 1918), uses a weather predicting method handed down through the Swedish family for generations.

It involves the use of six onions (halved to represent the 12 months of the year), salt (non-iodized) and the recitation of the holy names (Father, Son and Holy Ghost), and an overnight wait for the results on Christmas Eve.

The ritual must be performed between 11 p.m. and midnight on Christmas Eve. That's the hour — centuries of Swiss faith holds — Christ was born.

Hefti, a horseman who also raises cattle and hogs on his farm five miles west and three miles north of Wayne, learned the weather predicting ritual from his father — a full-blooded Swiss.

OF SWISS AND German blood himself, Hefti has continued the annual weather predicting ritual.

He shared his 1982 predictions with The Wayne Herald during a session at his farm home Friday morning, while Mother Nature was dumping over a foot of her "good moisture" for January.

After the dry weather window due in March, the next three months — April, May and June — should arrive with "some moisture," according to Hefti.

His weather predictions deal with month to month moisture only. He is quick to point out, however, that moisture predicts nearly everything in the nation's farm belt.

AFTER THE 1982 spring's field work is done, July should come bouncing back with a Hefti moisture prediction that should make the month the wettest of the entire year.

"This year and last year should be similar except for July," Hefti says. "There will be a lot more moisture in July. July was wet last year, but it'll be wetter this year."

Hefti, who farms with his wife Doris, on the family's home place, predicts August will show "some moisture," followed by an average September.

October is going to start getting wet again, according to Hefti, who warns that farmers should plan to get their corn out of the field before November.

BOTH NOVEMBER and December are down in Hefti's weather book as wet months.

When Hefti says wet, that's what he means. He'll give you no percentages. He's a man who prefers to let the words he uses stand without qualification.

Still active in planting the spring crops, Hefti said March's dryness may not appear to be correct because of the melting of January's and February's snowfall.

Nevertheless, the amount of moisture expected to fall during the month is going to be the least of the entire year, according to Hefti.

"It doesn't make all that much difference," he explained. "In this country, we never lost a crop in March anyway."

WAYNE AREA farmers often get early oats planted from late March to early April.

Corn planting usually doesn't begin until May, but some early birds plant in late April.

And, of course, the soybeans are sown after the corn — usually from mid-May on through the rest of the month.

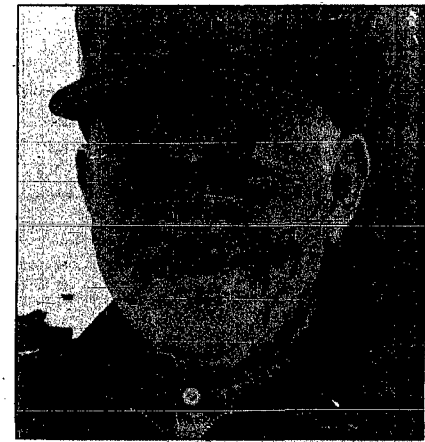

Hefti says he sees no trouble with area farmer's having adequate time for spring's fieldwork. The moisture expected in April, May and June should not be a planting problem, according to the veteran forecaster.

The Carroll weatherman said he's received some calls from area farmers "wanting to know about 1982."

HEFTI SAYS that "one fellow wanted to know about the weather because he was trying to decide whether to rent more land this year."

And, the Carroll farmer-weatherman had a call from a Winside man who tried the forecasting ritual.

"His was similar to mine, except he had moisture for March," Hefti says. "I told him that it would be easy for him to pick up an inch or two of moisture that we wouldn't get up here."

Feeders membership drive rooted in Nebraska soil

When the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association launches its two-day membership drive this week, nearly 20 years of area leadership in agricultural policy making and promotion goes on the line.

The NNLFA, which was formed from four northeast Nebraska county associations in 1963, is on a rebuilding campaign that is expected to boost membership from 155 to more than 230 feeders.

That goal has been set by NNLFA directors who have organized the two-day membership blitz for Wayne, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota counties, according to Darrel Rahn, a NNLFA director from Wayne County and a rural Wayne cattleman.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When northeast Nebraska's livestock feeders first organized they formed a foundation that launched a national association. This week, the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, launches an all-out, two-day membership drive to strengthen its influence on the livestock industry and American farm policy. This article, the last of two, is an review of NNLFA history.

KICKOFF BREAKFASTS are scheduled for 9 a.m. Jan. 27 at The Windmill Restaurant in Wayne and Harry's in Emerson, according to Gerald Muller of Concord, NNLFA president.

The four-county area has been divided into two territories for the membership drive. Wayne and Dixon County will serve as one membership drive area. Thurston County and Dakota County represent the other area.

In addition to the simultaneous kick-off breakfasts, the NNLFA's auxiliary members will be recruiting new members during the two-day farm-door to farm-door campaign.

THE FEEDERS will be calling on feeders throughout northeast Nebraska, to join the association through a plan that not only gives them membership in the NNLFA, but also in the Nebraska State Livestock Feeders Association and the National Cattlemen's Association.

"This three-way combination gives us the representation we need at the local, state and national level," explained Muller.

Stockmen and feeders formed a national group, the National Cattlemen's Association, in 1917.

And though NNLFA history dates to 1963, the feeders trace their beginnings to Dixon County in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

"In fact, the entire structure from here to the state and on to the national level got started right in northeast Nebraska," explained Norman Meyer of Wakefield, NNLFA secretary.

FOUNDED TO focus an organized effort on the livestock industry, agricultural research, farm policy and product promotion, the first organization soon spawned other associations elsewhere in the state and a Nebraska State Livestock Feeders Association.

In the 1950s, the organizational activity of Nebraska's livestock feeders, provided the launching pad for the birth of the National Livestock Feeders Association.

On Feb. 22, 1963, the four counties in northeast Nebraska merged their individual groups to form the NNLFA. On Jan. 28, 1964, 47 members attended the NNLFA's first annual meeting at the Wagon Wheel in Laurel.

THE FIRST DIRECTORS were Wilbur Habrock of Emerson, Bob Backowles of Emerson, Don Mayberry of Pender, Bob Shulties of Wayne, Marvin Dunklau of Wayne, Werner Janke of Winside, Harry Denker of Emerson, Elmer Denker of Emerson and Lester Albrecht of Hubbard.

The NNLFA's first annual banquet was held on April 3, 1964, at Pender with more than 500 feeders fed.

Boreuter schedules office hours

A schedule of office hours in four Northeast Nebraska communities during January has been announced by First District Congressman Doug Boreuter.

Dan Vodvarka, a member of the congressman's district staff, will be in Fremont, Norfolk, Wayne and South Sioux City on Jan. 27 and 28.

He will be in Room 201 on the second floor of the Wayne City Hall, 305 Pearl St., on Thursday, Jan. 28, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Vodvarka will be available to help persons who have questions about legislation or problems with federal agencies.

NCIP program set in Wayne

A regional workshop on the Nebraska Community Improvement Program will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Columbus Federal Savings & Loan Association, Wayne.

The workshop, one of several being held throughout the state, are being presented to allow community input in NCIP, according to Allison Meyer, program coordinator with the state Department of Economic Development.

City Council meets Tuesday

The Wayne City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall.

On the agenda is the Wayne County Jaycees proposed softball complex, discussion on the resurfacing and widening of Seventh Street and an appointment to the City Planning Commission.

Seminar slated at WSC

An Information Processing Seminar will be held at Wayne State College on Tuesday, Jan. 26.

The seminar, which begins at 12:30 p.m. in the Peterson Fine Arts building, is sponsored by the WSC chapters of Pi Omega Pi and Phi Beta Lambda. The program is free of charge.

Recital scheduled Tuesday

Wayne State College music faculty Dr. Jay O'Leary and Dr. Mike Palumbo will present a recital on Tuesday, Jan. 26 at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre of the Peterson Fine Arts buildings. Admission is free.

Blizzard

Both rural and city schools remained closed Friday morning as the overnight freezing rain and sleet turned to snow. It fell at a rate of 2 inches per hour until midmorning.

Classes continued at Wayne State College throughout the day Friday, but many headed for home before the predicted winds began drifting city streets and country roads closed.

AREA LAW ENFORCEMENT agencies were continuing to advise against travel Saturday as city and state snowplow crews waited for the winds to subside.

With more than 14 inches of snow on the ground at Wayne by nightfall, the National Weather Service at Norfolk was predicting another 4 to 8 inches before Saturday afternoon. It did not materialize, but several more inches had fallen by daybreak Saturday.

Snow was falling at a rate of an inch per hour throughout Saturday evening as drifting snow made city streets and roads impassable. Intermittent power outages flickered lights in Wayne Saturday night.

Vern Schultz, city public works superintendent, said snow removal crews were standing by Saturday for the first break in wind velocity.

Crews were out at 4 a.m. Friday to clear city streets for morning business traffic. However, snow removal operations were halted at noon, except for emergency equipment, because of drifting snow.

SKELETON CREWS continued to plow snow for Friday, after noon business traffic, Schultz said.

However, Schultz said, full scale snow removal operations would not resume until the snowfall and wind subsided.

"There's no point in clearing streets for anything but emergency vehicles," Schultz said, explaining that crews kept the hospital and ambulance routes cleared Friday afternoon.

Schultz said the state Department of Roads called in all its snowplows Friday for the same reasons.

Although no snow emergency was declared in Wayne, Schultz warned motorists to "stay at home and keep motor vehicles off the streets" until crews removed the snow Saturday.

"THERE'S NO PLACE to go and the vehicles are just in the way of snow removal crews," Schultz added.

Schultz also urged residents to avoid cleaning private driveways until the city crews had cleaned the streets to the full width.

He reminded residents that throwing sidewalk or driveway snow onto the public streets was violation of city ordinances.

"We'll open the streets with one pass as soon as we can get going Saturday," Schultz said. "After the single pass to open traffic lanes, crews will clear snow to the curbs."

Schultz said several 4 wheel drive units were smashing through snow piled for city crew pickup Friday making removal "even more difficult."

FEW VEHICLES WERE moving in the city Friday night and Saturday. And, highway travel was all but impossible.

Snowmobiling and walking appeared to be the most popular means of travel for those out and about during Friday's increasingly strong winds. Drifting snow buried cars and, at times, limited visibility to a few hundred feet.

Grocery stores, service stations and bars remained open throughout most of the day Friday, but downtown Wayne was virtually deserted by mid-day as merchants and bankers alike locked up and sent employees home.

THOUGH TEMPERATURES remained in the high teens and low 20s Thursday night and throughout the day Friday, the mercury had dropped to near zero by sundown.

The Weather Service had predicted 10 below by Saturday morning. Only few businesses opened doors Saturday morning.

Virtually all weekend civic, business and social activities were cancelled or postponed as residents headed home to weather the storm.

Friday afternoon business at the city's grocery stores was brisk as residents stocked up on last minute supplies in the face of what was already being called the worst northeast Nebraska blizzard in a decade.

THOSE MOTORISTS traveling in the city Friday often found themselves blocked by drifts, stranded cars and pickups, and fellow motorists stuck in snow that already was bumper high by noon.

City police, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the State Patrol reported few accidents during the blizzard as most residents remained at home until the storm blew itself out Saturday afternoon.

Friday night's freezing rain was delivered with thunder and lightning that began booming about 10 p.m. The thunder rattled windows on homes as the lightning lit up the winter's night sky over Wayne.

The high Saturday was expected to be just above zero with below zero temperatures expected overnight and Sunday night.

Temperatures for the rest of the week were expected to be in the high 20s and low 30s.

police report

The Wayne Police Department has investigated three motor vehicle accidents over Saturday, Jan. 16.

On Friday, police were called to the scene of an accident in the parking lot of the Ames Inn on State Highway 35 east.

According to accident reports, a 1979 Oldsmobile, driven by Ronald M. Christo of Allison had backed into and broken off a post in the motel's parking lot after an unsuccessful attempt to enter the highway in heavy snow.

ON TUESDAY, police were called to the scene of a two-vehicle accident on the 600 Block of Lincoln Street.

According to police, a 1966 Mercury, driven by Kelly R. Barthelemy of Wayne, struck a parked car owned by the Legal Aid Society.

The Legal Aid Society car, a 1978 Datsun, was struck by the southbound Barthelemy car when the driver lost control on the icy street, police according to police.

Police also investigated an accident between Dennis Forsberg of Laurel and Jesse Milligan of Carroll on Friday, Jan. 16.

No details were available. The automobiles had been moved when police arrived at the scene.

ON TUESDAY, police investigated a complaint of criminal mischief at Melrose Commons.

Wesley Gail of Wayne reported that unknown subjects had thrown paint remover on the driver's side of his automobile.

Accident

BOTH SNOWMOBILERS showed up dazed and injured at their respective dormitories after the accident, Adams said.

Lighthart apparently walked to Bowen Hall where campus Security Police called an ambulance.

Mason showed up moments later at Anderson Hall, according to Adams, but not before about 25 to 30 college students donned winter gear and flashlights and headed for the golf course to search for her.

Jerome L. Pribil of O'Neill, also a WSC student and owner of the snowmobile, told police there was about $100 worth of damage to the Kawasaki's left ski, ski spring and shock.

Pribil told police he suspected the snowmobile struck something, though there was no obstacle except nearby trees.

The snowmobilers were without helmets.

Feeders

In 1966, the NNLFA started its Feedlot Tours and a year later the Northeast Feeders and Curing County Feeders held a joint field day at the Northeast Station in Concord.

NNLFA's Stockman's Award was started in 1968 and the group sponsored a Beef Feeders Day in Wayne.

Wayne State College's student center hosted the annual banquet in 1969.

BY 1972, THE Feeders began to get more involved in farm policy and legislative matters as members participated in the debate on personal property taxes.

And, that year, the NNLFA hosted the State Feeders Convention in South Sioux City.

Bumper stickers promoting red meat became highly visible in 1973. Feeders cosponsored a drought-silage meeting at the Northeast Station in 1974.

Also, that year, the Feeders pushed for government action on the beef import problem. Feeder lobbying help shape and put into federal law the counter cyclical import law.

Two cars collide on Hwy 15 north

Two area motorists escaped injury Friday morning when their cars collided on state Highway 15 about 7 miles north of Wayne.

According to State Trooper David Headley, cars driven by David E. Pankaskie of Wayne and Russell R. Loberg of Laurel collided corner to corner about 8:30 a.m.

The Pankaskie vehicle was southbound. The Loberg vehicle was northbound. Moderate damage was reported on both vehicles.

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons.

So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.

Valley dominates the field.

...by randall howell

country boy. . .

Howdy. About this time every year, I get a hankerin' to be out and about along the snow-packed banks of a wandering country river.

There's something about the peaceful path a river cuts across the prairie that lures me to follow it around every bend — always wondering what's around the next one.

I've been known to walk the banks of a country river from early-morning until well after dark, just going nowhere and having all day to get there.

AS A KID growing up along the Elm River of Brown County, South Dakota, I dedicated most every winter Sunday to that kind of a hike — often with a .22-calibre rifle at my side for protection against vicious cottontail rabbits.

Mighty hunter that I was, I still wasn't about to take on the bands of bloodthirsty cottontails that roamed the banks of the Elm River without a gun to back me up.

And, when the cottontails weren't a threat, the man-eating muskrats were.

I tangled with more than one of those varmints as a young hunter and trapper tramping through my own wild kingdom along the riverbanks.

Any trapper knows a muskrat will turn on you before you can get your own fingers out of a No. 2 Sear & Roebuck jumpspring.

I HAD AN experience like that the first winter I ran a trapline with a cousin of mine.

We'd gone together on a trapline partnership. With the help of my father and his, we'd managed to acquire about a dozen steel traps — special order from the Sears & Roebuck catalog.

After a week or so of snapped fingers and torn gloves, we figured we were ready to line the banks of the Elm River with hardware that'd trap anything with fur.

So, we set the line.

Not being experienced in the ways of furbearing animals, however, we burned a lot of energy checking empty traps for weeks on end.

We fidgeted with them, reset them, moved them, chopped them out of frozen river water, and lost a few of them before anything happened.

OUR ROUTINE was to check them once a day after school. After finding a couple of them empty, but sprung, we decided that the line needed checking more often. Actually, we were convinced that we'd caught quite a few furbearers, but had given them ample time to escape.

Well, one brainstorm brought on another. Those traps just had to be checked twice a day. There was no getting around it. We had chores to do in the morning before school, so that made things a bit complicated.

Determined, however, to make it as frontier trappers, we decided to check that line before chores. That meant getting up about 4 a.m. in January's cold-black cold.

MY COUSIN'S farm was too far away from the river for him to hike the distance without being forced to get up at 3 a.m. So, he bunked at our house, which was only about a quarter-mile from the river and the start of the trapline.

When the alarm rang that first morning, it must have been about 20 below zero.

Undaunted, we started our mission. Shivering into our clothes, we made it downstairs without waking up the entire household.

We didn't have the advantage of today's warm, light-weight winter clothing. So, it took an hour to get into several layers of overalls and shirts that severely restricted movement.

BARELY ABLE to walk from the weight and stiffness of the clothing, we headed out the door toward the river. Brave souls, we were. Or, so we thought.

Our fathers had set down some safety rules. No guns. Only knives and flashlights.

As the farmhouse kitchen lights disappeared over our shoulders, and the silence of a star-studded January night closed in around us, we began to shake.

It wasn't the cold that had our knees knocking and our teeth chattering.

We walked so close together that we frequently stumbled over each other. On one such fall, one of the flashlights quit.

IT WAS DOWN to two hunting knives and one flashlight and we hadn't even made it to the river yet.

The silence was so loud we could hear our hearts thumping in our throats. Near the river we surprised a pheasant, but not near as much as it surprised us.

We picked ourselves out of the snowbank with our knives drawn, ready to fight for our lives. When it didn't attack us, we giggled the giggle of two young boys who were too scared to tell each other how scared they were.

To turn back, however, was unthinkable.

We walked on, slipping and sliding along the icy, snow-packed riverbank.

I REMEMBER we ran into trees that had not been there in the daytime.

We fell into holes that we knew were 1,000 yards down the trail.

We had our cold cheeks snapped by a hundred willows that must have sprung up overnight — even though we knew nothing much grew in January.

And, we recognized dozens of places where we were sure our traps had been set, only to find no trace of the line.

Near a bend in the river, a cottontail jumped us. They move quickly and quietly in the night.

Since we hadn't sheathed our knives from the pheasant attack, we were more than ready, though.

ANYONE WHO HAS been stalked by a cottontail knows how stealthy and clever they can be, particularly in the dark.

Immediately it decoyed us. We recognized it as a trick because it follows an old pattern familiar to hunters.

The rabbit starts its prey (in this case us) by bounding ahead into the circle the flashlight beams bounce against the snow.

The reflection of the light off the snow makes the cottontail appear anywhere from five to 10 times its true size.

The hunter is frozen by fear over the size of the cottontail. That gives it the split second it needs to romp off into the blackness of nearby bushes.

THERE THE RABBIT waits for the hunters to move toward the spot where it sat in the snow.

While the hunters are doing that, it cleverly and quietly slips around behind them for the attack.

Knowing this, we avoided the spot.

Picking ourselves up out of the second snowbank, we half ran, half crawled our way up the riverbank in a frenzied effort to run all the way home.

However, about 1,000 yards later, it was apparent we had outfoxed the rabbit. Out of breath, we rested long enough to gather our frightened wits about us and continue searching for our traps.

BY THIS TIME, we were near a sand-bar point that jutted into the river, forcing the frozen waterway around a sharp turn in shallow water.

We knew we could find one of our traps there near a muskrat hut. But, when we arrived, there was no trap.

By this time, the flashlight beam was very, very weak. And, as wide-eyed as we were, we couldn't focus on some activity just beyond the light.

The water was open for a short stretch away from the river bank. We heard splashing and snoring.

In the dim light, we could see the outline of a dark ball of fur with gnashing teeth.

Both excited and scared to death that we'd caught something, we dropped the flashlight in the freezing river water.

FISHING IT out of the shallow water was easy. Working with a frozen glove was not.

Within seconds, two things happened. We decided we had trapped a man-eating muskrat and we discovered the stake anchoring the trap.

In a fit of backwoods wisdom, I grabbed the stake, which was linked to the trap by several feet of chain, and pulled it from the river mud.

As I stood there with the stake in my frozen glove, the man-eating muskrat turned on us.

It came charging out of the water at us. And, as we fell over each other backing away from the charge, I inadvertently gave the muskrat a jerk in our direction.

My white-knuckle grip on the stake brought that huge, chisel-toothed muskrat onto the riverbank in one easy falling-down motion.

AS WE UNTANGLED, I could see those gnashing teeth coming right for us.

As we scrambled away on all fours, that muskrat kept right on coming until it dawned on me that I was pulling him right in to our laps.

As I dropped the stake, my cousin hit the muskrat's nose with the butt of his hunting knife.

Stunned only for a second, the man-eater snarled like a wounded bear. Shaking off the nose-blow, he looked up just in time to see my boot coming as I kicked him back into the water.

It was then, that my cousin, in a surge of survival instinct, stepped on the chain forcing the man-eating muskrat under water.

Moments later, we fished a drowned, 2-pound rat from the river.

On the way home with our catch, we promised to keep our traps shut about the trap-checking chain of events.

Catch you next week...

Passing the torch

January's annual meetings of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries Inc are over.

And, the new business year has begun in earnest! That means the torches have been passed.

New leaders have been selected.

These leaders — the new officers of each organization — are facing an increasingly difficult challenge.

They not only face the challenge of continuing the tradition of effective leadership built by their predecessors, but they also must cope with the problems of a community's ever increasing demands.

Those demands, often the byproduct of progress, are growing during a decade that has promised to offer less in the way of financial resources.

That means each and every year of this decade is going to require more and more ingenuity, more and more volunteerism, and more and more creative approaches to problem solving.

It is a time that will try the minds and souls of community leaders increasingly, it is clear that dwindling financial resources have placed a severe limit on a community's ability to throw money at a problem.

Now, more than ever, is the time for community leaders to take stock of the human resources — rather than the financial resources — available to solve problems.

Wayne's new chamber leaders, having learned from the experience of the previous officers, must work hard to retain the gains made over the past year while reaching farther into the decade with a blueprint for business survival.

New Wayne Industries officers, gaining from the wisdom of the previous leaders, must use the present foundation for a better foothold on the future of industrial development.

Whether or not these new leaders can meet the test will become clear as the year unfolds.

However, it is already clear that they cannot be successful without the continued support and encouragement of a community determined to survive and grow against some of the toughest economic odds in this century.

Pass that bill

- 1. When a senator shows up to a hearing room and finds it so crowded that people are spilling out of the room, and then sits and listens to several hours worth of sincere, thoughtful testimony, he or she can't come away unaffected. In fact, you'd be surprised at how big an impact it makes.
- 2. Several hundred people at a hearing affects not only those committee members, but has a rippling effect on other senators and the press, as the story spreads that this is a big issue for people.
- 3. Getting a bill passed takes a lot more than just coming to a hearing, but the hearing is an absolutely crucial step in whether it passes or not.
- 4. Project: Energy Independence strongly urges all our friends to come to the hearing. When you come, bring a carload of friends with you — multiply your impact.
- 5. The hearing is Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 1:30 in the State Capitol, Room 2230.
- 6. What you can do to help the 1982 Energy Independence bill get passed:
 1. Write or call your senator's office urging their strong support of LB 738. State the reasons for supporting the bill that are most important to you. Keep letters brief and friendly.
 2. Write the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee urging them to put the bill to the floor and let all Nebraskans determine its fate.
 3. Get as many of your friends and associates as possible to write their Senator in support of the bill. Explain the bill to them briefly, give them the best arguments for its support, stress how important it is that they write. All it takes is a phone call.
 4. Give short talks on the bill at your church, club, civic group, business association, etc. Arrange to give talks at several groups around town.
 5. If you are a member of any organization which might be lobbying at the Capitol, contact them to urge their support of LB 738.
 6. Write a letter to your local editor as well as the Omaha World-Herald's Public Pulse.
 7. Make a personal appointment with your senator and/or their aide to explain your position on the bill.

Stay in touch

If you have a problem or a suggestion about state government, now's the time to contact your state senator.

Wayne area residents are represented by two legislators: Sen. Merle Von Minden of Allen and Sen. Elroy Hefner of Coleridge.

The toll-free Unicameral Hotline is 1-800-742-7455.

Von Minden's Lincoln telephone number is 471-2716.

Hefner's Lincoln telephone number is 471-2624.

Letters to the senators need only be addressed to them c/o the State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509.

Nation's best volunteer might be your neighbor

As one way of encouraging greater participation by private citizens and institutions in the solution of community problems, President Reagan has commissioned a Task Force on Private Sector Initiatives.

Many First District residents may be aware that Lincoln Mayor Helen Bossalis has been asked to serve on that task force.

One of the most important elements of the Task Force's work is to find outstanding examples of such private initiative — by citizen groups, religious organizations, philanthropic enterprises, unions, businesses and others — and to give these examples the national recognition they deserve.

MANY OF THESE examples could then serve as models for other cities throughout the nation.

A recognition program is being devised which may involve presidential citations for the most outstanding examples.

If you are aware of some private initiatives in community development — job training, education, health care, housing, etc. — that are worthy of attention and possible replication, bring them to the attention of the task force.

Requests for survey forms may be sent to the President's Task Force on Private Sector Initiatives, 734 Jackson Place, NW, Washington DC 20006.

TAX CREDITS — A revised set of building rehabilitation tax laws took effect on Jan. 1.

The laws, which are part of the tax law passed last summer, simplify and improve incentives for private rehabilitation of older buildings.

congressman doug bereuter

This new law divides buildings into three categories: 30-39 years old, 40 or more years old, and buildings certified historic by the Secretary of the Interior. The new tax credits for these categories are 15, 20 and 25 percent, respectively.

Also, the new tax law allows a faster depreciation schedule for buildings. Now all real property, and not just historical buildings, can depreciate in 15 years.

ANYONE WHO rehabilitates an income earning building can qualify for tax credits, whether the structure is for rental housing or an industrial or commercial facility.

A number of other criteria must be met, however.

- (1) The owner must spend more on rehabilitation than on buying the property.
 - (2) The structure must be certified as historic or must be in an historic district.
 - (3) The renovation must conform with the standards of the National Register of Historic Places.
- If you want to find out whether or not a building qualifies, the first place to check is with the State Historical Society.

'You and Your Aging Parent' topic of workshop at NTCC

"You and Your Aging Parent" is the subject of a four, two-hour session, workshop being offered at Northeast Technical Community College (NTCC), Norfolk. Sessions begin Tuesday, Feb. 2, from 7 to 9 p.m., and will continue through Feb. 23.

Each session will be held in the NTCC McClay Building, Room 100, 801 East Benjamin Ave., Norfolk.

THE WORKSHOP is a cooperative effort between Northeast Technical Community College and the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging and is free of charge to all interested persons. Discussions will be directed to family members caught between the responsibilities of caring for some member of the older generation, such as parents, and the activities and needs of a younger generation, such as children.

Community services and support systems are available to help relieve the act of juggling all the needs of family members.

THE FOLLOWING discussion topics will be led by local professionals. Feb. 2 — "Myths and Losses of Aging," Dale N. Kindred, Executive Director, Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging.

Feb. 9 — "Parent Living in Own Home With/Without Spouse," (Benefits and services available presentations, social security, legal, home health, welfare, housing, transportation, social and recreational), Roberta M. Kaplan, Moderator, Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging.

Feb. 16 — "Parent(s) Living With Grown Children," (Emotions, pressure, sibling con-licts), Dr. Richard Sanders, Director, Northern Nebraska Comprehensive Mental Health.

Feb. 23 — "Parent(s) Living in Nursing Home," (Choosing nursing home, staffing, funding), presented by local nursing home administrators.

Rehearsals underway for 'The Mandragola' at Wayne State College

Rehearsals are underway for the Wayne State Theatre Department's spring production, "The Mandragola."

The Italian classic, written by Machiavelli, is a spoof on the social mores of lower-class people in 17th century Florence, Italy.

"THE MANDRAGOLA" is being directed by Arthur L. Dirks, who also is in charge of set design and construction.

The cast includes Linda Wilson as Lucrezia; Michele Brockmoller as Sostrata; Pam Elbracht as A Woman; Dan Greer as Callimaco; Mark

Ford as Ligurio; Tim Gall as Nicia; Ed Aken as Timofeo; and Ray Worden as Sirio.

THERE WILL be three performances, beginning Sunday, Feb. 14, at 2 p.m., followed by 8 p.m. performances on Feb. 15 and 16.

"The Mandragola" will be presented in Ramsey Theatre located in the Fine Arts Center on campus.

General admission is $3 for adults, and $2 for senior citizens and children under 12 years of age. Wayne State students and staff will be admitted free with identification.

engagements

Reed-Lewis

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Reed of Sierra Madre, Calif., former residents of Wayne, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cameron (Camee) Leigh, to Donald Wesley Bud Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Lewis of Glendale.

Miss Reed was born in Wayne and attended Wayne schools until the Reeds moved to Hawaii where she attended Punahou School for two years. Almost eight years ago the Reeds moved to San Marino, Calif., where Camee graduated from high school. She attended UCLA and is now employed at Security Pacific Bank.

Her fiancé was graduated from Hoover High School in Glendale, attended Glendale Junior College, and is now a partner in the family restaurant supply business.

The couple plans an April 17 wedding at Village Presbyterian Church in Arcadia.

Laaker-Milks

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Laaker of Nickerson announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Jean, to William Dean Milks, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Milks of Springfield.

The bride elect is a 1978 graduate of Arlington High School and a Dec. 13, 1981 graduate of Wayne State College with a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

Her fiancé also is a Dec. 13, 1981 graduate of Wayne State with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. He was graduated from Springfield Platteview High School in 1977.

Plans are underway for a March 6 wedding at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Arlington.

Delivery delayed on Dixon County cemetery records

Due to unexpected delays in the printing of the "Dixon County Cemeteries Record" book, delivery is now expected in late March.

The book, which contains data on every known tombstone (nearly 12,000 in all) in every cemetery in Dixon County will be 9 1/2 x 11 inches, soft cover, and fully indexed.

The book lists such valuable genealogical material as full names, dates of birth, marriage, death, immigration, parents' names, spouse, maiden names, military records, and other pertinent facts as were found on the stones.

THE BOOK is believed to be the first ever printed regarding persons who lived and died in Dixon County.

Every effort has been made to make the book as accurate as possible in hopes of saving future generations data which in some cases is lost forever to the elements, vandals, and memories.

PERSONS interested in purchasing a copy of the book may do so by sending a check for $14.50 to Marlys Rice or Linda Baumgardner, both of Concord.

Q. What is likely to be the effect of lowered interest rates on money market funds and money market certificates?
A. The best way to begin to answer your question is to explain the difference between a money market fund and a money market certificate. Money market funds are fluctuating, uninsured investment instruments. Money market certificates are guaranteed and insured, offered by your local savings and loan. If the performance of money market funds and money market certificates for the year 1980 were plotted indicating percentage of interest rate paid over each month, it would illustrate that money market certificates are guaranteed and inflexible as to yield, whereas money market funds tend to rise or plummet, with general interest rates. Since those interest rates are falling, it is quite likely yields on money market funds will do likewise.

Four foul out

Cats suffer another road loss

Early foul trouble by Wayne State College completely disrupted the Wildcat game as Doane cruised to an 89-77 non-conference win at Crete on Wednesday.

Wayne State hosts defending national NAIA champion Briar Cliff in Rice Auditorium Wednesday. The Cats then embark on a conference road swing to nationally-ranked Kearney State and Fort Hays State.

Four key Wayne State "big men"—center Al Jones and forwards Grady Hansen, Brian Platt and Jim Reinders—all got into early foul trouble and the Cats never recovered.

Jones, in fact, picked up his final two fouls in the first 37 of the second half. Platt fouled out later. On a night that saw both squads connect on 33 field goals, it was Doane's free throw shooting that provided the relatively easy win.

The Tigers hit 23 of 35 free tosses including 14 of 21 in the first half, when the Tigers opened a 44-34 halftime lead. In that opening 20 minutes, Wayne committed 13 of the first 15 fouls called.

Wayne State finished with 11 of 17 free throws. The Wildcats committed 31 personal fouls the night and were hampered by 27 turnovers.

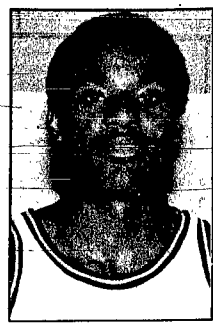

Wayne State, which slipped to 9-10 including three straight road losses, was led by freshman forward Lonell Greene with 18 points and eight rebounds. Jim Reinders added 12 points.

Steve Bartek led Doane with 23 while Doug Jesa added 20 and Russ Hansen 19. The Tigers improved to 9-8, with losses against NCAA teams.

UN-O rolls over Lady Wildcats

The University of Nebraska-Omaha had little difficulty sending the Wayne State Lady Wildcats to their fifth consecutive defeat, 83-45 on Tuesday.

The home loss left Coach Jan Jirsak's Lady Cats at 7-8 on the year. Powerful UN-O, tied for sixth in the NCAA Division II, improved to 11-3 with the win, which marked the return of Lady Mav coach Cheryl Frankenberg, a Wayne State alumna and the only woman in WSC's Hall of Fame.

A dominant inside game featuring UN-O's 6-6 Mary Henke, 6-1 Julie Hengemueller, 6-0 Lisa Lin Carol and 5-10 Kirsten Sullivan overpowered the shorter and younger Lady Wildcats. Henke topped all scorers with 14, while Sullivan added 13, Hengemueller 12, Linthum 11 and guard Mary Beaver 10, all in abbreviated play.

Eleven Wayne State cagers scored and all 14 suited up saw action. No Lady Cat managed to score in double figures, as sophomore guard Tammy Blackburn managed eight points to top the list. Sophomore center Robbie Lehr added seven points and 11 rebounds.

Wayne State shot a cold 31 percent on the night and committed 28 costly turnovers. UN-O hit nearly 50 percent in the first half but cooled in the second half to finish with 44 percent shooting. The Lady Mavs hammered Wayne State 55-39 on the boards.

Wayne State's game with Washburn on Friday was postponed to Sunday.

Trojans stay close to West Pt.

A pair of forfeits were decisive as northeast Nebraska wrestling power West Point topped Wakefield 35-22 Thursday night in Wakefield.

The Trojans opened up a 19-6 lead after six matches but two forfeits and West Point's strength in the upper weights were costly to the hosts.

West Point received forfeits at 145 pounds and 155. Paul Schopke scored Wakefield's last victory with a 6-2 decision at 167 pounds.

Two Trojans won by pin. Jeff Verplank won by pin in 1:36 at 98 pounds and Dirk Carlson won by pin in 3:47 at 132 pounds. Mark Borg edged Scott Kurz 3-2 at 119 pounds. Jon Stelling won an 11-0 major decision at 126 and Schopke won by decision in the 167 pound class.

Wakefield will wrestle at Wisner Pilger on Tuesday and host Wayne on Thursday.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

COLD WEATHER, snow and wind were responsible for the postponement of many activities over the past two weekends.

Hopefully, the cold and snow will soon get the heck out of here until next winter. I think we've had our share for one winter.

Included among the list of athletic events postponed Friday night (Jan. 15) were the following: Laurel boys vs. Wynot, Albion wrestling at Wayne, Wakefield boys at Winside and Wayne boys at Stanton.

In makeup games, Laurel played Wynot Monday and Wayne played Stanton Tuesday. The Albion Wayne wrestling dual has been rescheduled for tonight (Monday) and the Wakefield Winside basketball game is rescheduled Monday, Feb. 1.

On Saturday (Jan. 16), these events were postponed: Winside boys at Stanton, Wakefield boys at Walthill, Laurel boys at Ponca, Elkhorn Invitational wrestling, Pender 9-10 wrestling.

Winside will play at Stanton and Wakefield will play at Walthill on Saturday, Feb. 6.

Wayne will compete in a four team Elkhorn Tournament on Tuesday, Jan. 26 with Bennington, Raymond Central and Elkhorn. The Pender 9th and 10th Tourney was cancelled.

This past Friday and Saturday, the following athletic events were called off due to weather:

Wayne boys basketball at Hartington-CC, Wynot girls at Wakefield, Wynot boys at Wakefield, Hartington boys at Laurel, Allen girls at Walthill, Allen boys at Walthill, Winside girls at Wausa, Winside boys at Wausa, Washburn women at Wayne State, Washburn men at Wayne State, Oakland Invitational wrestling, Emporia State women at Wayne State, Emporia State men at Wayne State and the first round of the Lewis & Clark Conference basketball tournament.

HIGH SCHOOL wrestling statistics released from the state in early January show several local wrestlers who are doing well. The release was the most recent one and is still interesting although records have changed.

In Class B, 119-pound Jon Jacobmeyer of Wayne had one of the best records at 6-2. That's no surprise since he's rated number one in state. At 185 pounds, Wayne's Kevin Koeng led his class with a 9-1 record. Now recovering from an injury, Koeng is ranked third. In the heavyweight class, Eric Brink of Wayne had eight pins, third most among all Class B wrestlers.

In Class D, Winside's Mark Koch was tied for best record at 10-0. Surprisingly, Koch is rated only fourth. At 185 pounds, top-rated Barry Bowers was listed among the best records at 9-1. Winside heavyweight Kent Glassmeyer and Bowers were tied for second best in most pins with eight.

SPORTS NUT Galen Wiser, who is the only guy I know who can stand to watch NBA basketball every day, gave me some interesting information last week.

Brian Poldberg, who played baseball at Wayne State College and Emporia State, had a fair season for Nashville of the Double A Southern League.

Playing as a catcher, Poldberg batted .231 in 57 games. He had 32 hits and 22 RBI's for the New York Yankees farm club. Those stats are a far cry from his accomplishments at Wayne and Emporia but Poldberg is playing big-time ball now and was recovering from an injury.

Pender cuts Laurel's rally short

After pulling within two points late in the game, the Laurel girls saw their rally end and lost a 45-37 decision to Pender, Thursday night.

Before the Laurel team and coaching staff realized that leading scorer Anne Schultz was in foul trouble, the senior collected her fifth foul in the second quarter.

The Bears trailed by 10 points at the half but put together a valiant second comeback effort. Laurel cut the Pender lead to two points with only 1:30 remaining.

According to Laurel coach Dwight Iverson, a double dribble call should have been made against Pender, late in the game but was missed. That call could have been a crucial one.

"We were outrebounded and didn't shoot well," said Iverson. "Pender had some big girls."

The hosts started three girls who were 5-10 and two others who were approximately 5-7. Iverson said, Laurel's tallest starter is 5-8. The Bears hit only 24 percent of their shots.

Cyndi Jonas scored nine points and made six rebounds to lead Laurel. Renee Gadeken scored seven points and grabbed six rebounds. Anne Schultz had six points and Kim Sherry was leading rebounder with eight. Pender was led by Chris Smith with 12 points.

Laurel easily won the junior varsity game 54-28. The reserves led only 18-14 at the half but outscored Pender 36-14 in the second half.

Leading scorers for Laurel were Jana Cunningham and Wendy Robson with 12 points apiece. Kelli Johnson and Patsy Thompson with 10 points each and Renee Vanderhelen with eight. Cunningham had 10 rebounds. The locals shot 46 percent from the floor.

ONE-ACT PLAY GOES TO STATE

The hard work of Ted Blenden and several speech students paid off Monday, Jan. 18. He has been directing 11 people for the past two months in preparation for the one-act play contests.

The cast presented the play at the Laurel-Concord High School for the District Contest. It was awarded a superior — the 30th consecutive superior.

That means they will go to the state contest on Saturday, Jan. 30, 1982, at Kearney. The cast will enter the West Husker Conference contest on Monday, Jan. 25 before going to state.

The leading cast consists of Gregg Elliott, David Remer, Laura Victor, Pam Maier, and Bryan Schmoldt. In the chorus are Pete March, Dave Melton, Christy Neilsen, Jill Tompkins, and Kim Weender, led by Steve Zahniser.

The play entered in the contest, as "Biedermaier and the Firebugs".

It is about a normal German household and firebugs. The play symbolizes the Nazi party during World War II in Germany. The firebugs represent Hitler and his men and the household represents the people who knew about the cruelty going on but did nothing about it. The chorus, then, is the conscience of the people.

Glenn Elliott runs the spotlight while Pan Ruwe does the stage lighting.

The judges of the District contest were Dr. Robert Johnson, Art Dirks, Dr. Helen Russell, and Ronald Will. There were 26 schools entered in the contest.

MUSICAL AUDITIONS
Preparation is now underway for "L'I Abner," the production that has been chosen for this year's Wayne High School Musical.

Drama and Vocal students began auditioning on Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Theatricals, under the direction of Ted Blenden and vocal director, Robert Stuber, are scheduled to begin by the end of January. The musical is destined for completion and performance by the end of March.

"L'I Abner" is a comical musical taken from the comic strip created by Al Capp. It has "hillbilly-type folk with such character names as: L'I Abner, Mommy and Pappy Yokum, Ear, Ike, Ike, Ike, Daisey Mae, and Romeo Scragg.

The characters involve themselves in the "Sadie Hawkins Day Race" and other exciting events. The romance between Daisey Mae and Abner is one of the main themes of the play.

One of the problems that the people of "Dog Patch" face, is the governmental pressure on them. The government is trying to seize their town to put the land to other use.

The music and singing throughout the play will be joyful and light-hearted while various groups join in on "A Typical Day in Dog Patch, U.S.A." "If I had my Druthers," "Jubilation T. Corpone," and "Unnecessary Town."

PHYSICS STUDENTS VISIT PLANETARIUM

The planetarium at Wayne State College has been visited several times within the past weeks by the Wayne High School physics students.

Robert Porter, the instructor at Wayne High, is now teaching a segment on planetary movement. On Jan. 8, 12, and 14, physics students, as well as other students who wished to attend, traveled to the planetarium during their seventh period class.

Accompanied by Porter, the students viewed three programs all dealing with interplanetary and solar movement. The physics class will continue with their planetary unit for the next several weeks.

CONCESSIONS

Did you know that there have been 2,173 boxes of popcorn sold at the Wayne High School concession stand so far this year?

This figure was obtained from Judy Zobel, who is in charge of keeping track of how much food is sold and how much profit is made.

The concession stand at Wayne High School is open at all home activities, making an average of 30 concession days a year.

The number of concession dates varies according to the number of tournament games hosted and how successful the teams' seasons are.

Working at the concession stand is on a voluntary basis. There are eight organizations signed up to work concessions this year. Four to six people from these organizations must prepare the food, sell the food, and clean up after the concession stand closes.

Pop, candy bars, hot dogs, and pickles are sold at the stand in addition to popcorn. The eight organizations receive total yearly profits that are evenly divided.

AN EMPLOYEE OWNED COMPANY

It's Our 1ST Anniversary

as an E.S.O.P (Employee Owned) company!

It was one year ago, we took over as owners of the new Pamida... we think that's cause for celebration... it's been our goal, as always, to bring our customers the very best values in town, we've dedicated ourselves to making Pamida the kind of store that's fun to shop by offering an improved service, helpful hints, and advice all wrapped up in a more smile-filled neighborly atmosphere. It is our hope that we've achieved these goals with each and everyone of you, our neighbors, friends and customers. Now, as in the past year, when you deal with Pamida employees, you can expect the attention you'd receive from the owner of the store, cause now WE ARE THE OWNERS!

We're Celebrating by Giving You

10% OFF*

Your Entire Purchase

ONE DAY ONLY!
Monday, January 25, 1982

BUILD A $270,292 NEST EGG FROM CHICKEN FEED.

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS—IRAs.

Contrary to popular belief, you don't need big bucks to build a retirement nest egg. At least not any more.

Because the new tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts at the State National Bank let you build a modest retirement fund from moderate annual investments.

As an example, deposit $1,000 at the start of each year for 30 years and your grand total, with earned interest, could be a whopping $270,292. (Based on 12% interest, compounded annually.)

That's worth repeating: $1,000 a year for 30 years, plus interest, could equal over a quarter of a million dollars.

Or, if you prefer, deposit the maximum amount for an individual, $2,000 a year. Which could make you a half of a millionaire in 30 years.

And because our IRA plans are tax-deferred, you deduct the annual investment from your yearly taxable income. So you'll pay no federal taxes on your IRA until you start withdrawing funds (minimum age 59½).

Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket, paying less taxes.

To get all the details about affordable IRAs, see the professionals at the State National Bank. They'll show you how a little chicken feed can help you hatch a golden egg for a golden retirement.

Note: The above calculations are intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. This is not a guarantee of interest rates or final financial results.

Stop In Today and Check Our Current Rates On IRA's.

card of thanks

I WISH TO THANK all my relatives and friends for cards, flowers, visits and phone calls while I was in the hospital and since I returned home. Thanks to Drs. Walter and Bob Benthack and Gary West, the hospital staff and Sister Gertrude for their wonderful care. Also, thanks to Pastor Peterson for all his calls. Henry Doring.

WE WISH TO EXPRESS our deepest gratitude to all our relatives and friends for the prayers, visits, flowers, cards of sympathy, all the food that was brought in and the memorials sent at the time of the loss of our husband, father and grandfather. It is such a comfort to know so many people share our loss. Our thanks also to Pastor Monson, Dr. Robert Benthack and the hospital staff. May God bless each one of you. Mrs. Alma Niemann, Mr. & Mrs. Frederick Niemann and family; Mr. & Mrs. Herbert Niemann and family; Edward Niemann Jr. & Family.
