New postmaster appointed in Wayne

A 55-year-old, 16 year veteran of the U. S. Postal Service has been appointed postmaster at Wayne.

Thomas R. Jones, who calls Norfolk his adopted hometown, was officially installed during ceremonies in the postmaster's office at 2:25 p.m. Friday.

Jones was serving as foremost of mails at the North Platte Post Office before being tapped for the Wayne postmastership.

"I APPLIED FOR Wayne that was my choice," Thomas said Friday, only moments before his oath-of-office was administered by Edward Keonjian, acting manager, Sectional Center manager/postmaster at Norfolk.

"It's a homecoming for me," Thomas said, explaining that several "old friends" had already contacted him by telephone to welcome his return to northeast Nebraska.

Jones' appointment was announced Friday by the regional postmaster general, Paul N. Carlin of Chicago.

Postmasters are selected on merit, based on recommendations of a review committee, and appointed by the U.S. postmaster general.

JONES JOINED the Postal Service as a part time distribution clerk on Feb. 12, 1966, at Norfolk.

He was reassigned as a city letter carrier in May of that year.

A graduate of Stuart High School, Stuart, Fla., Jones attended Stanford College, Palo Alto, Calif., and spent four years with the Navy.

He moved to Norfolk in 1953, where he was in the insurance business before joining the Postal Service.

Jones served as a letter carrier in Norfolk from May of 1966 to January of 1978, when he was transferred to North Platte. In addition to his North Platte duties, Jones was officer in charge at the Alliance Post Office.

"WE NEVER expected I'd have the opportunity to come back to this area," he told The Wayne Herald Friday.

A reader and boating enthusiast, Jones said: "Now, it's back up to Gavin's Point (a reference to Lewis & Clark Lake formed by the Gavin's Point Dam at Yankton, S.D.)."

Familiar with Wayne and the Wayne area, Jones toured the city's Post Office facilities several months ago before deciding to apply for the job.

"My wife's a Wayne State College graduate," he said. "We're glad to be back in the Wayne area."

His wife, the former Winifred E. Raasch of Norfolk, is an elementary school teacher and the granddaughter of Norfolk's first postmaster.

The couple has a daughter, Judith, who is married and living with her family in Alexandria, Va.

JONES WILL BE working in an acting postmaster capacity at the Wayne Post Office until his appointment becomes effective on Saturday, Feb. 6, according to the Postal Service.

Jones replaces Wilbur Giese, who retired in January of 1981.

David E. Pillac, who has served as officer in charge at the Wayne Post Office, has returned to his position as manager of station operations in Omaha.

Jones, who will establish a permanent residence in Wayne, said his wife would be joining him in the community "in the next couple of months."

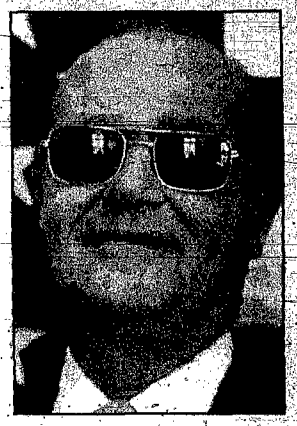

He explained she has a teaching contract and that they had a home in North Platte to sell.

"THE WAYNE POST office is a very fine operation," Jones said. "I'm really looking forward to working with the people here and I'm looking forward to meeting the people of the community."

Jones said he was eager to get involved in community organizations and noted he is a former deputy district director of the Lions Club.

The new postmaster will supervise a staff of 12 operating out of the Postal Service-owned building at the corner of Pearl and Second streets.

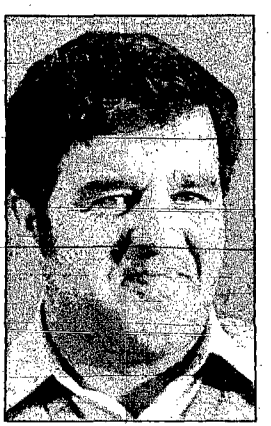

Dedicated in 1936, the building houses a postal operation that generates the third highest revenue — behind Norfolk and Columbus — in section that has 124 Post Offices.

Former trooper bids for county sheriff

A former member of the Nebraska State Patrol has filed for the office of Wayne County Sheriff in the May 11 Democratic Party primary.

William G. Watson Jr., 34, Wayne, filed for a spot on the Democratic Party ticket Friday.

Watson, a deputy with the Stanton County Sheriff's Department, is a Wayne businessman with 11 years on the State Patrol.

THE BELLEVUE native has lived in Wayne since September of 1970. He moved to Wayne after joining the State Patrol in May of that year.

Watson, a 1965 graduate of Bellevue Senior High School, left the State Patrol in May of 1981 to go into business.

He is owner and operator of Double Eagle Systems, a home and small business security venture, and Smokey's Saw Shop.

AN ARMY VETERAN with two tours of duty in Vietnam, Watson sought an appointment to the Sheriff's post in October after former Wayne County Sheriff Don "Butch" Weible resigned.

Watson was one of four candidates who sought the post. The Wayne County Board of Commissioners appointed Weible's chief deputy, Scotty Thompson to the post. Sheriff Thompson told the board he would not seek election to the office. He has not changed his mind.

WATSON IS the only announced candidate for Wayne County Sheriff in the upcoming primary election.

However, Sheriff Thompson's chief deputy, LeRoy Janssen, is expected to seek the Republican Party nomination by entering the May 11 primary.

Janssen also had applied for the appointment following Weible's resignation.

Sgt. Melvin Lamb of the Wayne Police Department also applied for the job that went to Thompson.

Watson, who joined the Stanton Sheriff's Department as a deputy a few weeks ago, and his wife, Sally, have three children.

IN ADDITION, Clyde Flowers of Wayne has filed as a Republican candidate for the position of Wayne County Surveyor.

Flowers, 39, a licensed surveyor, filed for the post Wednesday morning. The position is on the ballot for the first time this election year.

A Council Bluffs, Iowa, native, Flowers is a surveyor and office manager for Bruce Gintner & Associates in Wayne.

A 1961 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School in Council Bluffs, Flowers spent six years in the Marine Corps.

After his tour of duty, Flowers worked for an Omaha engineering firm for 10 years. The surveyor has lived in Wayne with his wife, Michele, and son, Shawn, for nearly four years.

ONCE UPON A TIME there were two little girls from Texas who had never seen snow. One day they came to Nebraska to visit relatives in Wayne. There they gleefully romped in piles of the white stuff from the Blizzard of '82. So it was that Julie and Kristie Liska built their first Texas-size snowman in front of the Herb Frevert home on Crescent Drive. The Texas Liskas were helped by Wayne's Kimberly Liska, Grant Elliott and Ervin Jerman. Julie and Kristie, not pictured, are Jerman's grandnieces — his nephew William Liska's daughters.

PNG home energy audit blueprint for conservation

By Randall Howell

Nine tubes of caulking, applied in the right places, could save the Randall Howell household as much as $245 on the heating bill during the first year.

If self-applied, rather than through the services of a contractor, those nine tubes could seal the cracks in the Howell house, at 421 Lincoln, for around $35.

That's as much as a $245 return on a $35 investment, or a net return of $210 during the first year. The cost/benefit ratio is 7 to 1, or $7 saved for every $1 spent.

IN FACT, data supplied by John Rusk, a certified energy auditor for Peoples Natural Gas, shows the caulking project would pay for itself (called payback) in about 36.5 days — or just over a month.

Rusk, who has been in Wayne for several weeks as part of company's home energy audit program, explained that even if the caulking were to be done by a contractor, the payback period would be less than five months — about the length of one heating season in northeast Nebraska.

The auditor estimated that, with the amount of caulking required, a contractor probably could do the job for about $120 — or about 3.4 times the cost incurred by a do-it-yourselfer.

Peoples Natural Gas engineer auditing homes in Wayne area

The Peoples Natural Gas home energy auditor is working in Wayne.

In fact, John Rusk, the company's energy conservationist consultant and certified auditor, has been working in the community for nearly a month.

According to Keith Mosley, manager of Peoples Natural Gas, the auditor will be in Wayne for at least five more weeks, and longer, if the requests continue.

"It's an ongoing process," Mosley said, stressing that the auditor would be called back, if necessary.

"Right now we have the highest percent of requests for energy audits of any Nebraska community served by Peoples," Mosley said.

All Wayne customers of Peoples Natural Gas received home energy audit request blanks in the mail some months back, according to Mosley.

He said anyone misplacing that request blank can obtain a new one by contacting his office in person or by telephone (375-1411).

"The requests were growing faster than we could get to them for awhile," Mosley said. "But, now we are making a dent in the audit list."

The federally mandated audit service costs the homeowner $15. The fee can be paid at the time of the audit or billed through Peoples monthly statements to customers, according to Mosley.

Though initial contact can be made by telephone, Mosley emphasized that the audit request must be made in writing before the homeowner's name goes on the list.

The auditor is working Mondays through Fridays in Wayne on a first-come, first-served basis.

country boy. . .

Howdy
Yipee! My favorite day of the year is just around the corner Groundhog Day, that one day a year when only the shadow knows, is Tuesday (for those of you who pretend that February doesn't exist).

I not only get excited about the prospect of six more weeks of winter, but I also gleefully turn my attention to gardening on that day.

MORE OFTEN than not, the groundhog (also known as the woodchuck) gives me six weeks of water to dream and plan for that wonderful spring day when I can get dirt under my finger nails once again.

Of course, I must inform you that it is highly unusual to find a true groundhog west of the Mississippi River Valley. Out here, where the West begins, weather watchers must rely on the groundhog's shirttail kin -- such as the prairie dog. Nonetheless, my fascination with the legendary groundhog, who is expected to emerge from hibernation on Feb. 7 of each year, continues.

For me, at least, groundhogs and gardening seem to go together. Not to the extent that I care to put up with a colony of groundhog cousins in my backyard, though.

GROUNDHOG DAY serves more as a signal to this country boy -- it's time to plan for planting.

In fact, my celebration of the day starts in early January. That's when I clip every coupon I can find for garden seed catalogs.

This year, for instance, I must have mailed out nearly 20 coupons for free garden seed catalogs.

I sit back and wait for the mailman to deliver the catalogs (in addition to the monthly bills).

The arrival of the free, and often colorful, seed catalogs with January's post Christmas bills cheers me up.

Unable to resist peeking at the dazzling array of green things, I thumb through them for a sneak preview as they arrive.

THEN, I PLACE them on a shelf to await closer scrutiny come Groundhog Day, and the days of February that follow the little fellow's forecast.

So, after Tuesday, much of my spare time will be spent studying those free seed catalogs and dreaming the dreams of a frustrated farm boy.

One of my sentimental favorites is "Gurney's Spring Catalog."

Northeast Nebraskans certainly would know that it comes from the Gurney Seed & Nursery Co. just a few miles up the pike at Yankton, S.D.

And, as an old South Dakota farm boy, I've never been able to shake my enthusiasm for the arrival of that colorful catalog.

WHEN THE RURAL mail carrier delivered that catalog to our farm house in northeastern South Dakota, it was like getting a new lease on life from Gurney's.

It was far more exciting than getting the new Sears & Roebuck catalog -- and that was pretty exciting stuff.

I don't recall that we ever ordered out of Gurney's seed catalog; but that didn't make it any less exciting.

Those were the days when you could still get garden seeds from the local grain elevator. And that's what my folks did.

You could buy the seeds from the grain elevator in bulk, saving some money and patronizing the local businesses in the process.

BUT, BACK TO the Gurney's catalog and the daydreams that make a farmer's garden grow.

Whether or not we ordered from it, the catalog provided hours and hours of entertainment.

The fine print under each picture of garden fruits and vegetables extolled the virtues of taste and tenderness found in a Gurney's garden.

Larger than life strawberries, butter melting sweet corn, blood-red tomatoes and plump pumpkins -- all captured my imagination and tickled my taste buds.

Always, there was some breakthrough in plant genetics that brought about the development of some wondrous new seeds -- hybrids that were supposed to laugh at South Dakota's perennial droughts.

ONE OF THE MOST exciting sections of the catalog featured novelty items.

A careful reader could find exotic seeds and plants that would produce purple potatoes or rainbow colored popcorn.

I remember that my father really enjoyed discussing that section of the catalog. He would always tease my mother about "getting some of that weird stuff."

Of course, February was always a time for Income taxes at our house, so money worries were at their peak.

My mother was never too excited about experimenting with any extra cash around the house, even if it was only 35 cents for a packet of Oriental bean sprouts.

NEVERTHELESS, TALK was cheap. And, talk we did about what those strange seeds would look like in the Howell garden.

Always included in the catalog was a section on gardening gadgets that would do everything but serve you coffee.

Again, we never bought them, but it didn't take much for a farm boy to sit back on a cold February day just long enough to picture himself putting an end to weeding with specially developed tools of the gardening trade.

We always ended up settling for last year's hoe, but my desire for garden gadgetry has endured over the years. (I still have little more than a spade and a hoe.)

ANOTHER INTRIGUING section in the Gurney's catalog was the one that listed all kinds of planting tips.

It always suggested the best kinds of soil and planting conditions for garden seed varieties from tubers to pole beans.

Sometimes the section would get involved in tree planting, particularly tips for growing and pruning fruit trees.

Trees were, and still are, a favorite thing on the Howell farmstead. My father is the most steadfast tree lover I have ever met.

So, it wasn't hard to get him involved in a conversation or two about planting trees in that dry South Dakota soil.

Again, the catalog served as a stimulus for the dreams that keep plains farmers alive during long winters.

AS I REMEMBER it, another exciting thing happened just about the time the seed catalog arrived each year.

Maybe it was all that excited talk about growing things again that prompted it. At any rate, my father would send me, or one of my brothers, out to the granary to get samples of oats and barley.

When we'd return with our tin cans or jars filled with the grains, he'd grab a couple of newspapers and spread them out on the kitchen table.

Then, while we watched like a bunch of barnyard pigeons around a corn spill, he'd spread the kernels of oats on one paper and the kernels of barley on another.

WITH A FLOURISH, he'd roll each of those kernel-covered papers into tubes, fastening them with string or rubber bands.

Then, he'd drop the end of each in a quart jar filled with water. The water would creep up the rolled newspapers, soaking it from the bottom to the very top.

Once they were thoroughly soaked, he'd set the jars on the top of the kitchen cabinet over the stove, where it was always quite warm.

There they would remain for several days while the moisture and warmth stirred the seeds to sprout.

That was the way he tested the germination potential of oats and barley in our bins. The test was a key factor in determining whether we'd plant our own seed that year, or be forced to buy seed.

I REMEMBER that the suspense he'd create while we waited for the seeds to germinate was incredible.

But, it was well worth the wait. On the day the jars came down from the cabinet top, we'd again gather about the kitchen table to examine the results.

Father would push a few sprouts with his thick farmer fingers and, drawing on years of experience, in that kind of thing, pronounce a bin fit for feed or fit for seed.

That was the signal... the February signal that often set the pace for spring's work.

From that point on, we knew another farming year had begun.

Happy Groundhog Day.
Catch you next week...

letters

To the editor:
We are writing in answer to the letter published in the Jan. 28 edition of the Wayne Herald. The letter was in regard to the need of public restrooms and bins in shopping areas around town.

There is such a place in Wayne where people can rest and have access to clean public restrooms, and many people don't even know it exists. It is The Mineshaft Mall. This enclosed shopping center, located just one half block east of Main Street, houses a variety of shops and services, but can also be a haven for the weary shopper in either hot or cold weather.

Many businesses downtown would probably like to give their patrons the convenience of public restrooms and rest areas, but may lack the space needed to accomplish this.

The mall has a common hallway which connects all of the businesses, and contains ample seating and public restrooms. The mall is open 7 days a week, so it's always available to the public.

It is unfortunate that there are people in this area who are unaware of these facilities. However, we would like to rectify this in part through this letter.

To the editor:
I wonder how many people in Wayne County have looked through the wonderful write up in the new Wayne County History Book that is being sent out to all those who have ordered it. You are missing a world of good reading if you don't have this book.

Just glancing through it for the first time makes one want to start reading the history of your own family and friends and the pictures are wonderful.

The outstanding work that was put into each family story and getting all the photos ready (some had been packed away for years) and had to be sent to a firm in Sioux City to be reproduced so they were clear enough to be used with the family stories.

What a lot of hard work must have been done by those who are responsible for such a tremendous undertaking in getting out this fine history of our great Wayne County.

Much credit is due all of the workers. One of them, Eleanor Edwards, made several trips up to the Care Centre to help me get my story organized and shortened besides sending in one photo to be reproduced for printing.

So, I realize now that a lot of credit is due all those fine people who are responsible for turning out such a remarkable history book.

Vehicle inspection question resurfaces Atokad bill gains support

More bills were introduced as the Legislature began its third week of the second session. As of Tuesday, Jan. 19, 64 new bills had been introduced.

The senators have made good use of the rule they adopted last year which eliminated the limit on the amount of bills a legislator could introduce. They must, however, introduce their bills by a specific date which, for this session, was Jan. 19.

Committees can continue to introduce bills with the consent of the Legislature so a few more bills are probably in store for us.

A PUBLIC hearing on LB 631, the Atokad bill which I introduced, was held last week. There was no opposition to the bill and it was unanimously advanced to the next stage of consideration.

This bill would provide tax relief to Atokad in order to give it a better chance of recovering from the devastating losses it suffered last year when the State Racing Commission changed Atokad's racing dates.

Not content to leave a dead issue alone, a few supporters of the motor vehicle inspection program testified last Wednesday in favor of a bill which would retain the inspection program. LB 35, which I co-sponsored last year, eliminates the program, effective June 30, 1982.

senator merle von minden

Opposition to the bill was also heard at the hearing. The Public Works Committee will consider the bill and testimony presented at the hearing and decide whether to advance the bill or kill it in committee.

AGAIN, I would like to point out that no evidence has been produced which shows that the motor vehicle inspection program saves lives, or that it insures that every inspected car we meet on the highway is a safe car. I feel that the committee should allow the inspection program to expire and not advance the bill.

I would like to invite all members of the clergy in District 17 to come and offer the morning prayer in the Legislature. If any of you are interested in doing this, please contact me at my office in Lincoln. I will arrange for your appearance with Rev. Robert E. Palmer, the legislative chaplain coordinator.

The Legislature is again providing a full free hotline from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, for those interested in information on bills. The number is 800-742-7456.

The "Unicameral Update" gives a condensed version of the bills and is mailed weekly. If you want to receive a weekly mailing, send your name and address to my office and I will see that you receive this publication. By the way, it is free.

Doggone dilemma

Sometimes, even in Wayne, it seems the world is going to the dogs. Despite a rather complete and uniform set of city codes and police regulations concerning the responsibilities of dog owners in the community, an unusual number of canines continue to roam unrestricted.

Wayne police acknowledge that the pursuit of roaming dogs consumes an inordinate number of hours the officers are on patrol.

And, if the police department's daily log is any indication, the officers have understated the problem.

Furthermore, the patrolmen frequently are involved with repeaters -- chasing the same dog and arresting the same dog owner -- who ignore the law and the rights of their neighbors.

Police regulations stipulate that all dogs found running at large on the streets and public property of the city are a public nuisance.

Running at large means the animal is off the property of the owner and not under control (voice command of the owner) or restrained (leash or in a motor vehicle).

The owner of a dog is responsible, in each and every case, for the actions of the animal on or off his or her property.

And, Wayne police have the authority to both impound dogs running at large and to arrest the animal's owner.

Many dog owners, according to police, seem to feel that the private property of others -- and the public streets -- represents a perfectly legitimate running ground for their pets.

However, that is simply not the case. Any kind of pet ownership involves a great deal of responsibility.

Roaming dogs present a potential threat to the property of others, frequently disturb the properly restrained pets of neighbors, and expose the children of the community (many have no experience with dogs) to the danger of being mauled or bitten by a panicked canine.

It boils down to the fact that all of Wayne's taxpayers are footing the bill for the flagrant and repeated violations of a few dog owners.

Perhaps the only thing these pet owners understand is a stiffer city dog ordinance with a bigger bite in the pocketbook.

It all seems so unnecessary. Because, if the present law were followed, Wayne's problem with roaming dogs would not exist.

That seems to be the American way, though -- allowing the irresponsibility of a few to penalize the law-abiding majority.

The ABCs of ADC

Supporters and opponents of LB 684 met last week, to argue their positions before the Legislature's Revenue Committee.

LB 684, introduced by me, would substantially alter Nebraska's Aid to Dependent Children program.

If passed, Nebraska would no longer provide ADC benefits to the pregnant women or for the unborn child until birth. Nebraska currently provides these benefits as soon as the applicant can medically verify that she is pregnant.

I testified that Nebraska is the only state in the area providing such extensive benefits. As a result, Nebraska taxpayers are providing ADC benefits to pregnant women from neighboring states who enter Nebraska for the sole purpose of collecting ADC.

By passing LB 684 this abuse would be curtailed. Also, eliminating these non-essential benefits would enable the state to more easily absorb the rising cost of ADC as the federal government gradually forces the states to fund a greater percentage of their ADC programs.

According to current Department of Welfare statistics, LB 684 would save the state $25,410 monthly or $1,144,920 a year.

I would like to thank everyone who took the time to drive to Lincoln and testify on behalf of LB 684. Their efforts were greatly appreciated.

In order to get some response from my constituents on LB 684, I ask that anyone interested in the ADC issue check the box at the end of this column, indicating support or opposition to LB 684. Add your name and address, drop in an envelope, and mail to Sen. Merle Von Minden, State Capitol, Lincoln, Neb. 68509.

'La Mandragola' 16th century farce

The Wayne State Theatre Department's February production of "La Mandragola" by Niccolo Machiavelli has been called an "irreverent, immoral classic farce for contemporary audiences."

Written 300 years before Shakespeare and a century before Moliere, "La Mandragola" occupies an important place in Italian dramatic literature.

It is considered the first real neoclassical farce.

Undefeated Wynot ends Laurel's quest

Laurel's girls, winners of the Clark Division volleyball title this fall, saw their hopes for a double disappear when undefeated Wynot defeated the Bears 45-37 Friday in Winslow.

The two clashed Friday in the championship game of the Clark Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament. Wynot advanced to play Ponca Saturday for the conference championship. Ponca was a 23-25 winner over Emerson-Hubbard in the Clark Division championship game.

AFTER SPOTTING unbeaten Wynot a 12-point lead, the Bears played pretty good basketball. But, it was too late by that time.

It took more than 20 minutes for either team to warm up enough to score. Then, it was Wynot which scored the first basket of the game. The Blue-Devis were out in front 6-2 before Laurel started to rebound.

Kim Sherry and Renee Gadeken kept the Bears within four points by the end of the first quarter. Although only being outscored 11-9 in the second quarter, it was that period that was critical to Laurel's chances.

Wynot warmed up its outside game and played solid defense to open up a 19-8 lead. Nearly four minutes elapsed before Cyndi Jonas scored Laurel's first basket of the quarter.

The Bears were troubled by turnovers in the second stanza. Several were committed as a result of Wynot's full court press but most were just bad passes, which seemed to be the result of nervousness and carelessness.

IN THE FINAL four minutes of the period, Laurel started to play better basketball. Free throws by Anne Schultz and a basket by Kelly Robson brought the locals within seven points by half-time.

The third quarter didn't provide much excitement for the fans as Laurel fell 12 points behind at one point. The Bears trailed by 14 points early in the final period but cut that margin with good basketball.

Using a half-court press and opening up on offense, Laurel rallied to within eight points, Wynot, which played only its top six girls until the final 13 seconds, took off its full court press in the fourth quarter and both teams broke loose on offense.

Once we decided to be intense, it was an even ball game. The girls were nervous in the first half," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson. "Wynot has a heck of a team. They have good shooters and stay calm. We can't take away both their inside and outside games."

LAUREL WAS led by Anne Schultz with 17 points, Renee Gadeken with 10 and Kim Sherry with 9. In the fourth quarter, Schultz and Gadeken each scored six points and Sherry scored five. Leading rebounders were Gadeken with 13 and Sherry with 9.

Wynot, which topped its record to 12-0 shot about 40 percent from the floor and Laurel hit 29 percent.

This team has battled back all year. I'm proud of their comeback," said Iverson. "We've battled great teams all year and played them pretty tough."

Laurel, 8-9, is scheduled to play at Randolph tonight (Monday) and will host Wakefield Thursday.

Coleridge falls victim to Bears

The Laurel girls advanced to the finals of their division by dumping improved Coleridge 36-21 in the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament played at Wynot Wednesday night.

The victory moved the Bears into the Clark Division championship game against unbeaten Wynot. The winner of the Clark Division was scheduled to play the Lewis Division winner on Saturday at Wayne State College.

Laurel took control of the game from the start and didn't give Coleridge an opportunity to earn another upset victory similar to the one over Hartington on Tuesday.

The Bears opened up a lead of 18-4 in the second quarter and coach Dwight Iverson inserted substitutes generously, hoping to keep his starters rested.

Coleridge pulled within 10 points 22-12 by half time and threatened to make a game out of the matchup. Laurel got back on the road to a triumph with a 10-4 advantage in the third quarter.

I wasn't pleased with our consistency. We played well at times but played poorly at other times. We wore them down," Iverson said. "Coleridge has improved."

Anne Schultz scored 12 points to lead the winners. Renee Gadeken scored seven and Kim Sherry and Dee Maxon each accounted for six points. Schultz made eight rebounds and Gadeken made six. Coleridge had no players in double figures.

Laurel lost to Wynot 57-41 in a previous meeting this season. Iverson said his team will take each game one at a time. He said he hoped to take away Wynot's fastbreak.

Packed house watches Cats upset Chargers

A win over Briar Cliff is meaningless as far as district playoffs are concerned. It doesn't mean a thing in conference standings.

But, to the packed house of nearly 1,500 fans who witnessed Wayne State's 80-74 upset win over 18th-ranked Briar Cliff, it was the biggest win of the year.

In fact, the only thing sweeter to Wayne State fans than a win over Briar Cliff is a win over Kearney State. And, fans will pack Rice Auditorium for the second time on Feb. 13 when the Antelopes invade WSC country.

A THREE-POINT play by Wayne's Lonell Greene was the final insult dealt to nationally rated Briar Cliff. The play gave WSC a 74-66 lead with 1:33 remaining. Briar Cliff fought back one last time but Greene's play seemed to be the one that smothered the Chargers' flame.

The Wildcats lost their lead earlier when Briar Cliff staged in front. But the hosts kept their composure and Brad Edwards made two free throws to take the lead for good at 64-62.

Briar Cliff had an opportunity to tie the game following a steal and foul in the act of shooting. However, neither free throw fell.

It was the Chargers' free throw shooting which hurt their chances of leaving Wayne with a victory. Briar Cliff hit only 12 of 23 free throws while Wayne State made 24 of its 35 attempts.

GRADY HANSEN, who battled Cliff's heralded Reggie Grenald for scoring honors, hit a layin with 2:20 remaining and 20 seconds later made a three-point play for a 71-64 lead.

Jim Reinders outmanned a Briar Cliff defender and slam dunked a basket in the final minute. He converted a free throw for a three-point play stretching Wayne's lead to 76-68.

Cliff demonstrated how it reached the ratings when Reggie Grenald hit two outside shots within 13 seconds to pull the Chargers within four points at 76-72 with 39 seconds to go.

The Chargers got the ball back seconds later but missed shot brought the crowd to its feet. Cedric Edwards drove in for a basket but was knocked to the floor on his way up. He made both free throws for a 78-72 lead.

GRENALD HIT another basket and a traveling call against WSC gave Briar Cliff another opportunity. However, Brad Edwards cleanly tapped the ball out of Grenald's hands as he tried to put up a shot and that play clinched the game.

Reinders added to the final margin with two free throws in the final seconds.

Although Grenald had a game high 33 points with 15 baskets in 27 attempts, Wayne's Hansen had a super night. He hit 14 of 20 shots for 70 percent accuracy and finished with 31 points and eight rebounds.

The Chargers have six players on the roster who are from Panama including leading player Reggie Grenald.

Completing his performance were Brad Edwards with 13 points, Reinders with 12 and Greene with 12. As a team, Wayne State shot 48 percent from the floor while Briar Cliff struggled at 38 percent.

Wayne's record improved to 10-10 with the big win.

Antelopes rip Wayne in CSIC game

A 17-6 scoring surge to open the second half led Kearney State past Wayne State 70-46 Friday night in Kearney.

Grady Hansen led Wayne with 19 points. Jay Bellar scored 12 and Brad Edwards scored 16. Kearney was led by Pete Anderson and Doug Hofmeister with 20 points apiece. Les Adelung added 12 points for the winners.

Wayne scoring: Grady Hansen 19, Jay Bellar 12, Brad Edwards 16, Al Jones 8, Brian Platt 4, Doug Hoffman 4, Lonell Greene 2, Charlie Pugh 2, Jim Reinders 2, Cedric Edwards 1.

WSC games rescheduled

Four Wayne State College basketball games, postponed due to the Jan. 22 blizzard, have been rescheduled according to WSC director of athletics Dr. John Marziman.

In men's action, the Wildcats will host Central States Intercollegiate Conference foe Washburn University Monday at 7 p.m. CSIC rival Emporia State will visit on Tuesday, Feb. 16, for another 7 p.m. effort.

The Wayne State Lady Wildcats will play host to Emporia State on Feb. 1 at 5 p.m., and will make up the game with Washburn on Feb. 16 at 5 p.m.

The postponements mean that the Wildcats men have played just five of their first 19 games at home in Rice Auditorium while the Lady Cats will have hosted five of their first 18.

Emerson edges Eagles in tournament action

A couple of late scoring opportunities fell and the Allen Eagles lost their second game of the season 46-45 to Emerson-Hubbard Wednesday night in Ponca.

The game was a semifinal round matchup in the Lewis Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament. The win advanced Emerson into Friday's final against Ponca.

The Allen-Emerson game was a shootout between two of the better teams in northeast Nebraska and both teams lived up to their reputations.

"BOTH TEAMS played well and shot well. It's too bad one team had to lose. This was one of the better games of the year," said Allen coach Gary Troth. "Emerson is the best team we've seen."

The Eagles were pretty much in control through the first half. Allen led by as many as seven points at one time and went into the locker room at intermission with a 30-24 lead.

Des Williams, who finished the game with 18 points, hit 8 of 10 shots in the first half. Most of those baskets were made from the 12 to 15 foot range. "Des had a tremendous first half. She had the hot hand so we let her shoot," Troth said.

The momentum shifted in the third quarter as Allen missed some shots and Emerson took advantage with a strong offensive surge. The Piratettes gained the lead with a 16-7 advantage in the third stanza.

OVERALL, NEITHER TEAM had trouble hitting its shots. The Eagles finished with 44 percent success from the field and Emerson hit 46 percent of its shots.

"We had good ball movement in the first half. But, the third quarter told the story. We missed some 8 to 10 foot shots and Emerson got the momentum," said Troth. "They had the hot hand in the third period and we got tense. We started holding the ball."

Allen actually hit two more baskets than Emerson but the game was decided at the free throw line. The Eagles had only four free-throw shots all night and hit three of those. Emerson, on the other hand, stepped to the line 16 times and hit half of those shots.

Emerson opened up a five-point lead at one time in the fourth quarter but Allen fought back within one point. The Eagles had several opportunities to take the lead late in the game but failed. On one occasion, an Allen basket was nullified because of a traveling call.

EMERSON HELD a one-point lead and had possession of the ball with 55 seconds remaining. The Eagles were called for a foul and an Emerson player missed both free throws.

Allen had a chance to go ahead but a traveling call turned the ball over to Emerson. Again, the Eagles fouled with eight seconds left and Emerson was awarded two shots on an intentional foul call. Both free throws were good giving the winners a three point edge.

The Eagles scored the final basket of the game and Troth said that some contact was made on the play but no foul was called. "Our half of the tournament (Lewis Division) is pretty tough. There are four good teams that could have won it," said Troth. "I felt this was the best game we've played. We moved better and passed the ball better."

IN ADDITION to Williams 18 points which were collected on nine field-goals, Bpht Stalling scored nine points and Shelly Williams scored eight.

Allen slowed down Emerson's inside game but the Piratettes picked up their play with good outside shooting. The winners were led by Pam Watkins and Mary Walsh with 14 points each and Linda Henderson with 12.

Troth pointed out the difficulty of preparing a team for a tough game when all preparation time was lost due to the recent blizzard. The coach said his team played smart basketball.

"We won three quarters but they won the other one big. Hopefully, the loss will make us a better team," Troth said. "We have two or three weeks before districts and we have to get in order to be ready."

Allen, 9-2, is scheduled to host Coleridge tomorrow (Tuesday) and play at Emerson-Hubbard in a rematch Thursday.

The hosts held a 23-16 lead at the conclusion of the 138-pound match but Wayne outscored Wakefield 21 to 3 in the upper five weight classes. A pair of forfeits at 145 and 155 were beneficial to the Blue Devils.

Wakefield's Jeff Verplank gave Wakefield a temporary lead with a major decision (by eight points or more) in the 98-pound class.

West Point's boys edge Blue Devils in overtime

When it comes to close ball games, Wayne usually seems to find itself on the wrong side of the scoreboard. Friday night, host West Point nipped the Blue Devils 52-50 in overtime.

Wayne hit four more field goals than West Point but the hosts shot 18 more free throws. The Devils scored 44 points from the floor but only 6 at the free throw line. West Point scored 36 points with field goals and 16 on free throws.

With the score tied, the Blue Devils had possession of the ball with less than a minute to play in regulation and elected to go for the last shot. The locals turned the ball over with 18 seconds remaining. West Point missed its final shot and the game went into overtime.

The Cadets got the lead in the extra period and Wayne had to resort to fouling. Trailing by four points late in overtime, Wayne hit a basket but ran out of time.

Although Wayne lost, coach Bill Sharpe had praise for freshman Steve Overin. Overin scored 15 points and pulled down 13 rebounds in his best performance this season. Todd Schwartz had a game high 14 points and Mark Botenkamp grabbed eight rebounds.

"Steve had his best ball game. He played real well for us," Sharpe said. "The team played pretty hard but we couldn't quite get over the hump. It was a pretty interesting ball game. We just don't seem to have enough experience to win the close ones."

Offensively, neither team burned the nets. Wayne hit 22 of 67 shots for about 33 percent efficiency and West Point made 18 of 55 for nearly 33 percent. Rebounding and turnovers were nearly even with Wayne getting edged out 37 to 38 on the boards but committing only 11 turnovers to 13 for West Point.

The winners were paced by Jeff Sellenin with 14 points and 6-7 Dan Schroedter with 12. The 3-9 Blue Devils are scheduled to play rated Hartington CC at 6:30 in first round action of the West Husker Tournament tonight (Monday) at Wisner Pilger. Win or lose, Wayne will play again on Thursday.

In junior varsity play, West Point beat Wayne 56-44. Tim Corbit had his best performance with 15 points and Jim Poehman played well offensively with 10 points. Jeff Jorgensen scored seven points and R. J. Mettler and Pete Warne each hit six. Like the varsity game, free throws were the difference. Wayne made four of five charity shots while West Point hit 26 of 33 shots.

CHECK with US!

By Betty Addison

Q. I'm 17 years old and have just begun my first job. I want to open a checking account. However, I've never before written a check. I'd like to know if there are any tips or rules I should know to avoid mistakes or having other people change my checks?

A. A good way to begin anything new is correctly, with good habits. First, always use nonerasable ink when writing a check - never pencil. Make sure your check is dated correctly. To insure safety, write the dollar amount in figures as close to the printed dollar sign as possible. Don't leave gaps between the figures. Then, spell out the amount in words on the long line ending with the printed words "dollars". Begin writing as close to the left edge of the line as possible. Fill in any space left after writing with a line so the amount can't be changed. Get into the habit of recording your checks in your ledger as soon as the check is written. If you wait, you'll forget it. And, the last thing to do is sign your check after everything else is filled in. A signed blank check is an open invitation for trouble.

Wayne State Lady Cats back on track

With the poise of a veteran team, the young Wayne State Lady Wildcats held on for an 82-74 win over the College of St. Mary in Omaha on Tuesday, to snap a five-game losing streak.

Coach Jan Jirsak's squad of freshmen and sophomores evened its record to 8-8 heading into road games Friday and Saturday at Kearney State College and Fort Hays State (Kan.). The Lady Cats are at home tonight (Monday) against Emporia State in a 5 p.m. game rescheduled from Jan. 23, then to travel the next day to St. Joseph to face Missouri Western.

A balanced scoring attack down the second-half stretch carried WSC to the win over St. Mary's. Trailing 52-42 early in the half, the Cats reeled off 13 unanswered points to gain the 55-52 lead, then ran the offense to near perfection in the waning moments to preserve the victory.

A pair of season scoring bests were recorded on the night, as the 82 points marks the best offensive output of the season for WSC. Sophomore guard Tammy Blackburn hit for a season high 25 points including 12 of 21 field goals. Blackburn also logged seven rebounds and seven assists.

Her backcourt mate, sophomore Maggie Alberts, played a super game with 16 points and seven assists.

Sophomore forward Jackie Schimnitz contributed 10 points, a team-high 12 rebounds, and six assists, while sophomore center Robbie Lehr posted 15 points and 10 rebounds.

Annette Schrad led 38 St. Mary's with 20 points.

Pender tops Devils

Pender's Stacey Carsten did too much damage for the Blue Devils to recover as Wayne's girls lost 54-43 to Pender Tuesday night.

Carsten scored 22 points and her performance was complemented by Kris Smith with 13 points. Wayne fell behind by six points in the first quarter and never really recovered.

Missy Stollenberg led the Devils with 14 points and Tamie Murray scored 11. Jill Zeiss and Deb Prenger each added seven points.

The Blue Devils hit 35 percent of their shots, pulled down 38 rebounds and committed 15 turnovers. Leading rebounders were Stollenberg, Prenger and Zeiss.

athlete of the week

Freshman selected

Harsh winter weather caused postponements of numerous athletic events and left a void in the winter sports season. However, teams are back on schedule again with more hectic weeks ahead due to the bottleneck of rescheduled events.

Windside's highly ranked wrestling team has been back in action recently and this week's athlete of the week is a member of that team.

Freshman Jeff Thies, wrestling at 155 pounds, was selected as this week's recipient of the award.

Coach Paul Sak said he has seen considerable improvement in the freshman through the season. Jeff averaged an earlier 4.7 loss with a 2.0 win just more than a week ago. When wrestling an opponent who had pinned him early in the year, Thies gave him a good match, losing 72 his improvement and desire earned him this week's award.

High school athletes from Allen, Laurel, Wakefield, Wayne and Winside, High Schools and college athletes from Wayne State are eligible to be nominated.

Peaking Osmond overtowers Bears

Taking advantage of a height mismatch, the Osmond Bulldogs uprooted Laurel 52-36 Thursday in the semifinals of the Clark Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament played at Winside.

Osmond's startling lineup measured 6-4, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 and 6-0 while Laurel ranged from 6-1 to 5-8.

Osmond took control of the game in the first half by outscoring the Bears 12-2 in the first quarter and 12-7 in the second. The second half was played evenly.

Mike Moritz did most of Osmond's damage with 25 points. Mike Kumm scored 10 and Jeff Gost added 8. Laurel was led by Dave Marquardt with 11 points and Brian Marquardt with 7. Paul Loquist added four points in the fourth quarter.

We appeared intimidated by their height Osmond took care of the ball. They got higher percent

Osmond hit 14 of 19 free throws while Laurel struggled by hitting only 4 of 12. The 5-8 Bears have a busy week ahead, scheduled to host Randolph tomorrow (Tuesday), host Wakefield on Friday and host Hartington on Saturday.

Cedar shells Wayne

Class B's ninth rated team did nothing to hurt its ranking Thursday night. Hartington CC rolled over Wayne's girls 58-25 in Wayne.

The score became lopsided in the fourth quarter when Cedar outscored the hosts 24 to 11.

We didn't handle the press in the whole game. This is the first time a press has bothered us. We haven't had 32 turnovers for four or five games," said Wayne coach Becky Kelley in reference to her team's inability to penetrate Cedar's press.

Turnovers weren't the Blue Devils' only problems. Wayne shot only 24 percent from the field and collected only 19 rebounds against the taller hosts.

Jill Zeiss led the troops with 13 points. Only three other players did any scoring. Deb Prenger had seven rebounds. Cedar was led by Kathy Schulte with 21 points and Joan McGregor with 10.

"We didn't play well. We didn't handle the pressure. We were probably psyched out," Kelley said.

The Devils have little time to regroup and prepare for a rematch with Hartington CC. West Husker Conference Tournament girls action opens Tuesday when top seeded Cedar plays Wayne at 6:30.

TAX SAVINGS AND RETIREMENT BENEFITS through IRA

It's as simple as ABC.

Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) are now for everyone with earned income. The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 made it so.

Even if you're already covered by a retirement plan at work, you can still invest up to $2,000 a year in retirement savings and deduct it from your adjusted gross income for federal income tax purposes. The amount is $2,250 if your spouse has no earned income.

A few minutes of your time is all that's needed to get full details. Give us a call.

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS-IRAs.

It's nice to have someone take care of you.

But it's even nicer to feel confident that you can take care of yourself. Especially when you retire.

To start building that confidence, talk to the professionals at the State National Bank about setting up a tax-deferred individual Retirement Account (IRA).

Starting in 1982, IRAs will be available to almost everyone (even individuals already covered by a company pension).

With the new IRAs, you as an individual may deposit up to $2,000 a year.

We'll even help you set up a convenient payment schedule.

Letting you make your deposits by the week, by the month, or whatever suits you best.

You then deduct the annual investment from your taxable income. And pay no federal taxes on the interest until you start withdrawing funds (minimum age: 59½).

Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket, able to hold on to the lion's share of your nest egg.

For complete details about the new IRAs, talk to the professionals at the State National Bank today. Then you won't have to worry about social insecurity tomorrow.

Energy audit

That's still a net energy savings of $125 during the first year, or the equivalent of December's natural gas heating bill.

AND, THAT'S only the beginning of the energy conservation priorities revealed during the certified Peoples Natural Gas energy audit performed on the aging, 3 1/2-story, wood-frame home at the corner of Lincoln and Fifth streets.

Rusk, who conducted the audit on the Thursday morning before the blizzard of '82, arrived at 8:30 a.m. with a portable computer in one hand and a briefcase full of charts, energy conservation materials and technical equipment in the other.

About two hours later, he began feeding all kinds of information—ranging from square footage to weatherstripping—into the pre-programmed portable computer.

After talking via telephone to another computer in Kansas City, Rusk's portable model spewed forth a cost/benefit blueprint for energy conservation that ranged from caulking the cracks around windows to heating systems replacement.

THE PRINTOUT, which not only listed suggested energy conservation projects but also provided up-to-date costs on installation, outlined eight measures that were specifically tailored to the needs of the Howell house.

Rusk, who will be conducting home energy audits in Wayne for up to five more weeks, emphasized that the audit report was based solely on data gathered for energy conservation at the Howell house.

"That doesn't mean nine tubes of caulking is going to give any other homeowner the same kind of savings," he explained. "Every house is different."

THE HOWELL house, which is double-plastered, has no exterior wall insulation—a factor that figured heavily in the computer's calculations on heat loss.

Furthermore, only a few inches of rock wool insulation exists in the ceiling between the third floor and the attic.

The audit gave the ceiling insulation there an R factor rating of 8—"better than nothing" but far shy of the auditor's R 38 recommendation, which meant an additional installation of insulation with a R 30 rating.

Before Rusk got to the attic, however, he examined dozens of construction features on the house, which once served as a church parsonage.

With tape measure in hand, the energy auditor calculated the square footage of "conditioned" (in this case, heated) space.

WITHOUT CALCULATING the unused attic and the unsealed (but used) attached garage, the house features about 2,200 square feet of living space, according to Rusk.

That figure includes a full basement (brick foundation) under the wood-frame structure, which contains some 28 windows.

A close visual examination showed little if any caulking around the perimeter of the house, where the wood frame (sill) meets the foundation. "That needs to be sealed with caulk around the entire house," Rusk said, pointing to the seam. "It's rarely done, even by those who caulk everything else imaginable."

RUSK ALSO suggested a bead of caulk be placed along the corners where the siding joints show cracks.

Then, after examining the windows, the energy engineer noted that "some caulking" had been done between the window frames and the jambs.

However, closer examination showed putty that holds and seats the panes of glass in the window frames was seriously deteriorated.

In fact, on window after window, no more than 20 to 40 percent of the putty remained. And, what was there was brittle and laced with huge cracks.

"You're lucky the glass doesn't fall out of these windows," Rusk said. "That's where you have a serious heat loss. Every one of these windows needs to be repointed."

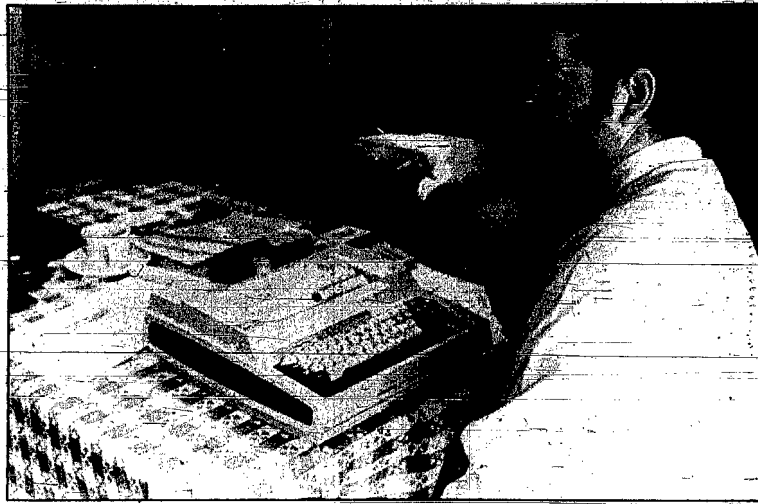

RUSK SURVEYED the entire exterior structure of the home before beginning an extensive interior audit.

Once inside, he examined the windows and doors for weatherstripping. The old, rope-weighted, double-hung interior windows were weatherstripped. And, so were the doors. However, the weatherstripping on the doors had suffered from door jams, wear and tear and needed immediate attention, according to Rusk.

Many of the interior windows have storm blinds, which offer some protection, according to Rusk. He suggested that roller type shades installed between the blinds and the windows would conserve additional energy.

RUSK SAID THAT "a great deal of window energy conservation information" is available through most county extension offices.

While examining ground floor interior windows and window jambs, Rusk discovered an interior window missing. The interior window, a small one on the south side of the home was well above head height. The storm window was in place, but moisture (frost) appeared on the inside of glass.

"Whenever you see moisture on the inside of the storm window, you've got a caulking problem," Rusk said. Not only did the storm window lack the proper caulking, but there was no interior window to act as a barrier against heat loss.

DURING HIS EXAMINATION of the ground floor space, which includes the kitchen, living room, dining room, a bathroom, stairwell and alcove, Rusk took the covers off a couple of outside wall electrical outlets to check for heat loss.

While the older outlets were installed tightly, newer outlets showed excessive airspace for the outlet box.

With no wall insulation, and nothing around the outlet, the backside of the siding was visible from inside the house.

In addition to noting that wall insulation would make a big impact on the energy bill, Rusk said insulation plates for the outlets should not be ignored.

Generally, Rusk's audit of the second floor, which includes a hallway, four bedrooms and an unheated spare room, brought about similar energy conservation recommendations.

RUSK NOTED THAT the height of the house might make it worthwhile to explore a passive solar heating system. Once in the attic, with walk-up attic were ever to be finished for living quarters.

FINISHING THE attic would involve the installation of insulation between the rafters in the interests of energy conservation, according to Rusk.

One easy to handle energy conservation measure suggested by Rusk was to close the floor cover at the top of the attic stairwell.

Even though a second floor door closes access to the attic stairway, Rusk said the third floor trap door, which was weatherstripped, would form a sealed barrier to rising heat. Rusk also suggested the chimney liner be checked as a precaution against deterioration. While on his way to examine the basement, Rusk explained the costs and benefits of a clock thermostat, and noted that it would be one of the items on the computer printout.

EMPHASIZING THAT the audit recommendations presented no obligation on the part of the homeowner, Rusk said the report is "strictly information to let people know what they can do and the payback involved on a project by project basis."

The basement, which features a small, one bedroom apartment, a workroom and furnace area, has a separate, outside entrance.

Again, weatherstripping on the basement entry doors was recommended in addition. Rusk suggested the installation of a hot water heater blanket.

Later a temperature check on the hot water showed the heater was set at 120 degrees, a universal recommendation for those implementing household energy conservation measures.

Another recommendation involved the installation of insulation tape on the house's hot water lines.

AFTER EXAMINING the furnace, Rusk said the once a month filter change schedule was adequate.

However, he said the installation of a vent damper to keep warm air from escaping up the chimney probably would be worthwhile.

Rusk also recommended a once a year furnace tune up and mentioned that an electronic ignition system on the heating unit may show some energy conservation.

The furnace, an older Sears & Roebuck Monarch, cannot compete with the high efficiency rating of newer models, Rusk explained. He said some newer furnaces are being rated at 85 to 95 percent efficiency, far off the 40 to 60 percent efficiency rating of the unit in the Howell home.

IN ADDITION TO recommending insulation along the walls of the basement apartment, Rusk said the space between the floor joists along the sill be insulated throughout the interior perimeter of the house.

"Buy your insulation on the basis of R value, not on the basis of inches," warned Rusk. "For example, the R value on 6 inches of fiberglass is 13, but the R value on 4 inches of cellulose is 22. That can make quite a difference."

Before finishing the inspection portion of the audit, Rusk mentioned that the lifestyle of the inhabitants and the house's environment also contribute significantly to energy waste or conservation.

He rated the Howell household lifestyle, with three children (6 years old and under) and two adults, as average.

THE TERRAIN factor, however, is poor. That means the house stands "pretty much in the open" without significant environmental shelter from trees, hills or other buildings.

Rusk said a row of trees, particularly spruce, along the north and west sides of the house would afford much more protection for energy conservation.

The energy auditor stressed that energy conservation practices be implemented before major equipment or building materials projects are under taken.

Additional practices suggested by Rusk included turning off the furnace pilot light during the summer months and dropping the thermostat to 55 degrees during winter sleeping hours.

RUSK SUGGESTED that the maximum thermostat control setting for winter months should be 68 degrees.

He also recommended restricting the flow of water from faucets and shower heads to 3 gallons per minute with the help of flow restrictors.

And, he said energy can be saved by turning off the water heater when the house is unoccupied for two days or more.

The energy conservation measures (projects that involve equipment or building materials) that could be implemented ranged from the low cost caulking recommendation to the more expensive wall insulation and heating system replacement.

Within minutes after leading the Howell house's data into the computer, the printout presented eight recommendations, complete with a high and low first year savings estimate.

FOR INSTANCE, wall insulation at an estimated installed cost of $1,510—could save anywhere from $631 to $947 during the first year, according to the computer's calculations.

The estimated payback, listed on the computer printout, ranged from 1.5 years to 2.3 years.

And ceiling/attic insulation, at an estimated installed cost of some $391, could offer a first-year energy bill savings from $147 to $221. The estimated payback on the project ranged from 1.7 years to 2.6 years.

The clock thermostat (with a 10 degree setback), which could be installed at an estimated cost of $125, showed an estimated first-year savings range from $50 to $75. The estimated payback schedule ranged from 4 years to 2.5 years.

THE ENERGY AUDIT report, complete with dozens and dozens of cost/benefit details, became the property of the Howell household to be used as a conservation guide.

In addition, Rusk provided the household with a copy of the Nebraska Energy Saving Manual, a do it yourself, how to booklet for homeowners.

Also, Rusk provided energy tax credit information and several pamphlets containing a host of conservation tips and building materials suppliers.

"You have no obligation to do any of this," Rusk noted as he headed out the door for another scheduled audit in Wayne.

People want to know where to start and this should help you."

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons.

So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.
