Super Sausage

Johnson's summer sausage rated high by Nebraska Meat Processors

By LaVon Anderson

A bit more salt, perhaps? More beef and less pork? Or more pork and less beef? Let's see — maybe a few more sprinkles of pepper

FOR OVER a year, Larry Johnson mixed and measured until he came up with his award-winning summer sausage.

It's a blend of minced beef and pork with just the right amount of added ingredients and seasonings.

Larry, owner and operator of Johnson's Frozen Foods in Wayne, offered his new summer sausage to his customers for the first time last January.

The customers loved it, and so did the judges of the Nebraska Association of Meat Processors.

the annual Nebraska meat processors convention.

The trophy Larry received is prominently displayed in the front of his store at 116 West Third St.

Although he's especially proud of this year's trophy, Larry has been a Nebraska award winner before.

In the five years that he has entered the state competition, he has received third and fourth place ribbons for another one of his specialties — dried beef.

EVEN THOUGH Larry's summer sausage was judged second best in the state, he says the recipe is still something he's working on.

"It takes years to perfect a recipe," says Larry, adding that he's not sure he'll make many changes with this particular recipe.

Larry, worked on his prize-winning recipe for over a year — ever since he purchased his new smokehouse at 913 West Third St.

"The sausage requires a starter culture to produce the tangy flavor," explains Larry. "That's why the smokehouse is so effective — because of the exact temperature control."

THE NEW SMOKEHOUSE is just one of many modern pieces of equipment Larry has acquired to up-date the business he and his wife purchased from his father in 1977.

Larry, 47, wasn't a newcomer to the business when he and Lorraine purchased it five years ago.

He began working for his father in 1958 following a two-year stint in the Army.

JOHNSON'S FROZEN Foods opened its doors in May of 1941 when Larry's father, Clifford A. Johnson, began the custom slaughtering and processing business.

The product Clifford manufactured was and continues to be packaged under the Wilfitt label — a name derived by combining the names of Clifford and his wife, Wilma.

Since retiring in 1977, Clifford and Wilma continue to live on the street that

Senatorial candidate stresses Nebraska's agricultural worries

Republican Senatorial candidate Jim Keck sympathized with farmers in remarks delivered to a breakfast meeting in Wayne Monday.

Addressing his listeners, the Omaha quoted Teddy Roosevelt by saying, "The farmer has not received the attention the city dweller has received...our whole national economy rests upon the well-being of the farmers." Keck added, "Our farmers must prosper if our nation is to prosper."

BECAUSE NEBRASKA is a strong Republican state, both in terms of voter registration and support of President Reagan, Keck said he feels he can defeat Democratic Senator Edward Zorinsky in the general election.

Keck said he favors lower interest rates for farmers, expanded world markets and higher incomes. "The farmer has been an inflation fighter for years. He is one of the most productive members of our society but it is unfair to expect the American farmer to produce his products for less than his cost of production," Keck said.

"In the past, Washington has had its priorities mixed up," Keck said. "While they've been spending vast sums of money on often nonproductive foreign aid to countries like Nicaragua, and wasteful social programs, the world's most efficient food producer, the American farmer, is left out in the cold on commodity programs."

Keck noted Zorinsky led the fight and supported $75 million in foreign aid for Nicaragua but had been ineffective in securing favorable price supports for Nebraska farmers.

CLAIMING THAT the voice of the Nebraska farmers is not being heard on the Senate Agriculture Committee, Keck likened the situation to a Nebraska quarterback who had been sacked three times in the first quarter, whereas Tom Osborne might be heard to say, "Somebody is not doing his job." The candidate said, "Nebraska needs a Republican Senator on the Agriculture Committee who can produce favorable results for the farmer, not one who sits back and criticizes the farm bill he helped create."

"What Nebraska needs in the Senate and especially on the Senate Agriculture Committee is representation as effective as we have in the Third District House of Representatives with Congresswoman Virginia Smith," Keck said. "If elected, Keck says he will seek a seat on the Senate Agriculture Committee."

The Republican pledged that he would assign a high priority to enlisting the support of the Reagan administration and other members of the congress to develop an understanding of the importance of agriculture to the economic well-being of the nation.

"AGRICULTURE IS the nation's largest industry. It has assets of more than a trillion dollars and spends about $86 billion each year for goods and services. The nation cannot afford to pursue any course that does not maintain and strengthen its agricultural economy."

Keck said inflation has resulted in a dramatic increase in the cost of production for farmers. He added that he opposes accelerated decontrol of natural gas because it probably would increase the cost of fertilizer.

Regarding embargoes, Keck said they place an unfair burden on the farmer and added that he does not favor embargoes.

When asked about the role of the United States in the Argentina-Great Britain conflict, Keck said he feels the U.S. is taking the right approach as a mediator. He said he hoped the two nations haven't gone beyond the point of return in the conflict.

THE COST FACTOR should be an important consideration in the handling of the Nordan Dam Project near O'Neill, Keck replied when asked his position on the issue.

"I'm definitely in favor of water conservation. However, I have great reservations of the cost of the project," he replied. The Omaha said the project is likely to get even more expensive during litigation. He said he feels strongly about a balanced budget and stated, "We may not be able to afford it (the O'Neill Project)."

On the subject of the economy, Keck advocates reducing excessive government spending. "You can't spend more than you take in. We must balance the budget and get inflation under control, so that interest rates will come down."

Keck stressed that many years of fiscal mismanagement and excessive spending have produced inflation, high interest rates and our current economic situation. He said that the United States Senate needs a leader who can be "decisive and who can influence and persuade others to make the tough, politically unpopular decisions required to reduce deficit spending."

"WE'VE GOT to give Reagan's programs a chance to take effect," Keck said. He added that he thought the 1982 deficit was too large.

Keck said he supports a strong national defense and believes that successful arms reduction negotiations with the Soviets can be conducted only from a position of strength. While supporting improving the nation's military capabilities, Keck, the former vice-commander of the Strategic Air Command, said the proposed giving the defense program a blank check.

"We can't solve the defense problems with a blank check. We need to subject the Defense Department to the same close scrutiny and belt-tightening that we give budgets of other federal departments," he

Behind the candidate

Ward 3 Council hopefuls have support of spouses

In the third of a series of articles focusing on spouses of candidates for the Wayne City Council and Mayor's office, The Wayne Herald introduces Esther Hansen and Sheryl Marra, spouses of Ward 3 city council hopefuls Leo Hansen and Ken Marra. The Herald will continue each Thursday to spotlight spouses of candidates in each of the four wards. The series ends May 6 with an interview of the spouses of the three men seeking the Mayor's title.

"I'll be right behind him," says Esther Hansen in support of her husband, Leo, who is seeking re-election to the Wayne City Council in Ward 3. "I think he uses good judgment," says Esther. "He may be slow about making a decision, but it's because he gives every issue a lot of thought."

ESTHER WAS born south of Randolph in Wayne County, the oldest of three children. Brother Raymond resides at Fremont. Another brother, Virgil, lives in San Jose, Calif. She was married to Henry Gerleman of Wayne in 1943 and they were the parents of one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Joann Redel of Bennington. Joann and her husband have two children, Terry, 12, and Tami, 8. Gerleman died in 1961.

IN 1964, Esther married Leo Hansen, 45, who farms cropland southwest of Wayne. Although the couple lives in the city, Leo continues to farm south of town. He is seeking his third term on the Council. Leo grew up northeast of Wayne and joined his father, Henry, on the family farm after completing the eighth grade. He worked on several farms in the Wayne area and bought his own farm operation in 1960. He has served on the Wayne County Fair board, the Farmers Home Administration board and the local Soil Conservation Service board.

ESTHER, a homemaker today, worked at the Wayne Hospital from 1961 to about 1967. After that she worked part time at the Wayne County Assessor's office. She and Leo are members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winslow, where Esther also is a member of the Ladies Aid. She is a member of the Merry Mixers Club and has served as county chairman for home extension clubs. For about the past 11 years she has been chairman of the domestic produce and arts exhibit division at the Wayne County Fair.

ESTHER'S HOBBIES include tending her flowers, especially African violets, knitting and quilting. She has completed three quilts which were presented to nieces and nephews when they were married. "I have many more to go," she laughs. Esther also enjoys bowling and is a member of the Go Go league which bowls every Monday afternoon.

SHERYL MARRA, a native of Lincoln, graduated from Lincoln Northeast High School. She and Ken met while both were attending the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Following Ken's graduation in 1970 with a degree in mechanical engineering, he and Sheryl moved to Iowa City,

Sheryl Marra

Iowa, where he was hired into manufacturing management with Procter and Gamble. During the next few years, Procter and Gamble transferred the Marras to Jackson, Tenn., Greenville, N.C., and San Francisco, Calif.

"THESE FREQUENT moves were a big factor in our decision to make one more move to Wayne in 1978 and join a growing family business, Marra Home Improvement Co.," says Sheryl. "We both were interested in becoming more involved in our community. Moving so often didn't provide the time or that feeling of loyalty needed to become active in a city," she adds.

SHERYL WHO is involved in several Wayne organizations, is past president of Wayne County Club and current president of the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary. She also is active in state wide politics and is presently working on the steering committee for the incumbent Lt. Gov. Roland Luedtke.

BESIDES BEING busy as a homemaker with two sons, Steven, age 11, and Paul, 7, Sheryl's interests include painting, drawing, calligraphy, writing and interior design. She has taught interior decorating through adult education classes sponsored by Northeast Technical Community College.

"I THINK KEN would be an asset to the city council," says Sheryl. He has integrity, an analytical mind, and his engineering and management skills would be an advantage in the types of decisions made by the council.

Play opens April 30

Community Theatre rehearsing

'Last of the Red Hot Lovers'

Neil Simon's highly acclaimed comedy, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," is slated to open Friday, April 30, with a second performance on Saturday, May 1.

Curtain time for both performances is 8 p.m.

THE PLAY, produced by the Wayne Community Theatre and under the direction of Ron Whitt, will be staged three-quarter arena style. Also known as in-the-round staging, arena style allows the audience to be seated close to and around the acting area.

Dr. Helen Russell, a member of the Wayne Community Theatre, said arena staging has become very popular on both the east and west coasts, possibly because the audience can become more involved with the lives and events being enacted.

"LAST OF THE Red Hot Lovers," received joyous applause and enthusiastic reviews when it opened on Broadway in December 1969, starring James Coco as Barney Cashman.

Clive Barnes, drama critic of The New York Times, wrote: "Extrordinarily funny and yet also endearing. It is as well crafted as anything the dazzling Mr. Simon has given us in the past... For my money it is his most considerable achievement to date. He is as witty as ever — perhaps wittier. This is a comedy that will linger with you. There is a dimension of humanity to its humor so that you can love it as well as laugh at it."

RICHARD WATTS JR. of the New York Post said: "Neil Simon emphatically lives up to his position as the most brilliant writer of comedies in America. 'Last of the Red Hot Lovers' is delightfully hilarious and witty, as well as filled with the wisdom about human nature... He has a mellow and compassionate understanding of how weak and essentially well-meaning mankind behaves and it gives his comedies a warm tenderness to mix with the constant fun."

"LAST OF THE Red Hot Lovers" will be presented in the North Dining room in the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus.

Admission is $3 or free with a Wayne Community Theatre patron ticket. Tickets may be purchased at the door prior to each performance.

THE SPRING Dance, a fund raising project for the softball complex, was held March 27 and was attended by 130 persons.

'Uninspirational' Trojans earn split with Bancroft

The Wakefield Trojans, playing what coach Joe Coble termed "uninspirational baseball," racked up an easy win in the first game of a double header but suffered their first loss in the nightcap to split a pair of games at Bancroft Tuesday.

Wakefield won the first game 10-0 as Bancroft conceded the game at the end of four innings. The second game went the other way. The Trojans took a slim 6-5 win.

THE PITCHING of Mark Starzl dominated the first game. The Trojan senior threw all four innings and gave up only one hit—an infield pop-up which fell to the ground unhit. He walked only one runner while striking out 10 of a possible 12.

IN THE SECOND game, Bancroft struck for three runs in the first inning and three in the third. Wakefield scored two in the third and three in the fourth. The loss dropped the Trojans to a 1-1 overall but didn't affect their 3-0 league record, since the second contest was a non-league game.

"I don't know if I've ever seen a team of mine that uninspired," said coach Coble. "The team wasn't mentally ready to play and especially not ready to win in either game."

Fourteen Trojan runners were stranded on base in the second game. Wakefield committed two errors but Coble said it was the timeliness of the errors rather than the number that hurt the Trojans.

with Laurel is tentatively scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday, March 30.

Lady Wildcats win half of Western Tourney games

Late inning scoring by the opponent was the downfall for the Wayne State College (WSC) Lady Wildcats as they spill their four game road trip to the Missouri Western Tournament held last weekend in St. Joseph, Mo.

Deb Weaver's Lady Cats, 8-4, now face a test of strength as they enter a week of stiff competition, including doubleheaders against Kearney and Peru State that were scheduled for Monday and Tuesday. They will resume action at home on Friday with a twin bill against the University of Nebraska-Omaha beginning at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday in a doubleheader at Creighton University.

THE FIRST GAME, a 4-0 loss to the University of Northern Iowa, was a tough pitching duel until the bottom of the seventh inning when Northern Iowa scored their four runs. The win also saw Northern's pitcher toss a no-hitter.

Veteran pitcher Cindy Stella went the distance for the Lady Wildcats, and moved her record to 2-2 with the loss. Offensively, the Lady Cats were unable to get things rolling, as they were struck out at the batter's box a total of 18 times.

Johnson and Lynn Brandt completed the scoring for the women. Northwestern scored a run in the fourth and again in the fifth inning, but never came any closer.

Pitcher Laurie Owens upped her record to 3-1 with the win, receiving relief from teammate Stella in the sixth inning. Johnson led the batting for the Lady Wildcats, belting out a single and a triple. Brandt followed in a similar style, with a single and a triple. Designated hitter Deb Janssen pushed in two RBI's.

THE LADY CATS made it two in a row when they downed Pittsburg State University in the third contest, 2-1, in a game that was delayed until Saturday morning due to problems with the field lights.

Janssen scored a run early in the second inning and teammate Tammy Blackburn came across to plate in the bottom of the sixth inning to score the runs. Pitt State threatened in the top of the seventh, scoring one run before going down. Stella earned the victory, putting her record at 3-2.

In the fourth and final game, the late-inning come more proved to be the worst enemy of the Lady Cats, as they were defeated 3-2 by Missouri Southern State College.

THE GAME was scoreless until the third inning, when Johnson popped a single and later took advantage of errors by the center fielder to cross home plate. In the fifth inning, Maggie Alberts scored a run to give Wayne their second and final score.

Missouri Southern scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning to take the lead, and the Lady Cats were unable to come back in the bottom of the seventh for the win. Stella, pitching her third game in two days, took the loss for the Cats. Southwick posted two hits and one RBI in her three trips to the plate, while Johnson and Blackburn each earned one hit in three attempts.

Playoff game today

Wayne State bounces back to split with Bellevue

Bellevue College took advantage of a poor Wayne State start to claim a 7-4 baseball victory in Millard last Saturday, but the Cats rebounded for a 12-2 win in the second game.

Wayne State was scheduled to play a doubleheader against the University of Nebraska in Lincoln on Wednesday, April 21, and a playoff game with Kearney State in Columbus the following day. The winner of the Wayne-Kearney battle will represent Nebraska in the Central State Intercollegiate Conference playoffs on April 30-May 1.

COACH RON JONES' squad now stands at 10-12. Wayne State will next see home action, weather permitting, on Saturday, April 24 at 1 p.m. against Bellevue.

A nightmarish first inning by Wayne State allowed Bellevue to jump to a 5-0 lead in the opener. Wildcat pitcher Rick Guy gave up five hits, threw two wild pitches, and committed a balk to give Bellevue the momentum.

The Cats scored three in the second and one in the third to close to within 5-4, but the Bruins added two insurance runs in the fifth to take the 7-4 win. Guy went the distance to take the loss and drop his record to 1-3 on the season. Craig Ladwig went 2-for-4 with a pair of RBIs while junior infielder Randy Heying was 2-for-3 to lead the offense.

Wildcat pitchers Grady Hansen and Dan Hilgenkamp limited Bellevue to just five hits in the Cats 12-2 second-game whipping. Hansen earned the win to boost his mark to 3-1.

WAYNE STATE slowly pulled away from the hosts, moving from a 4-0 lead going into the sixth to the 12-2 win, thanks in a large part to a six-run seventh inning.

Ladwig once again topped the Wildcat batting attack as he went 3-for-4. Outfielder Ken Murcek and third baseman Dale Hensley both went 2-for-3 including a double by Murcek and a triple by Hensley. Chico Mason also garnered two hits, in four at-bats. Bill Schwartz went hitless but had two RBIs on sacrifices.

Wayne golfers place second in triangular

The wind and cold hampered most of the scores Monday as the Wayne High golf team took second place in a home course triangular.

West Point's Martin Prazak didn't seem to notice the weather as he breezed through Wayne's front nine with a two-under par 35. He sank a 12-foot birdie putt on the ninth hole to cap his excellent round.

WEST POINT won the three-team competition with a total of 174 strokes. Wayne was second at 182 and Wausa finished third with a total of 205. The top four scores of each team were counted in the team standings.

Although Prazak ran away with medalist honors, Wayne's Cole Eroeschle and Wausa's David Jindra were tied for second low score at 41. Brad Moore of Wayne was fourth with a 43.

Cedric Ellingson and Layne Marsh both turned in scores of 49 to round out Wayne's scoring. A 50 shot by John Carhart was not counted.

West Point golfers had rounds of 35, 41, 47 and 52. Wayne's scores were 41, 43, 49 and 49. Wausa golfers compiled 46, 49, 53 and 56.

IN RESERVE ACTION, Wayne also finished second to West Point. The winners had scores of 50, 50, 52 and 55 for a 207 while Wayne's scores were 47, 51, 54 and 58 for a 210 total. Wausa's scores of 63, 67, 68 and 68 were only good for third place at 266.

Wayne's reserve scores: Perry Benshoof 47, Dave Remer 51, Larry Luders 54, Carl Ufwer 58, Cory Leneberg 63, Bob Shierman 68.

The Blue Devils varsity team was scheduled to compete in the O'Neill Invitational Wednesday and will play in the Oakland Invitational Monday.

WILL IT or won't it drop is the question as Wayne High golfer John Carhart strokes this putt.

Blue Devils led by Kubik, Hummel

Two individuals earned place points for the Wayne Blue Devils in Tuesday's Randolph Invitational.

The defending champions were led by Mark Kubik's second place finish in the pole vault and Mark Hummel's fourth place finish in the 880-yard run. Kubik cleared 11-6 and Hummel ran the 880 in 2:12.

The invitational was won by Bafile Creek with 98 points. Norfolk Catholic scored 88 points and Pierce followed with 82 to finish second and third respectively.

Wayne hurdler Eric Brink and sprinter Al Lindsay did not participate in the meet.

Wayne's rec schedule planned for next month

A Wayne recreation baseball and softball practice schedule has been set up for the last week in April and the month of May. A summer schedule will be published at a later date.

The practice schedule
Mondays and Thursdays from 4 to 5, 45—7th and 8th grade boys not out for track.
Tuesdays and Fridays from 4 to 5, 45—5th and 6th grade boys
Wednesdays—rain dates
Saturdays—3rd and 4th grade boys from 10 a.m. to noon, 5th and 6th grade girls from 1:30 to 3 p.m., 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

Practice sessions during the week will be held at Hank Overin's farm. Hank will pick players up at the southeast corner of the Wayne Middle School at 4 p.m. and will return to town by 6 p.m. There will be various drop points along the return route.

Saturday practice sessions will be held at the Wayne city ball park.

Fearless foursome leads Wayne to fourth place

Four girls accounted for 60 of Wayne's 61 points as the Blue Devils finished fourth in the Tekamah Invitational Tuesday.

Jill Zeiss, Missy Stoltenberg, Jill Mosley and Fran Gross scored all but one of Wayne's points. Team Standings: South Sioux 86, Tekamah Herman 66, North Bend 66, Wayne 61, West Point 32, Hartington CC 32, Logan View 26, Wisner Pilger 25, Ponca 17, Oakland Craig 3, Zeiss won the 100 meter hurdles with a time of 18.4. Stoltenberg, one of the state's leading sprinters, was a double winner in the 100 meter dash (12.8) and the 200 (27.3).

Mosley placed third in the long jump with a mark of 16.4, fourth in the 200 with a time of 28.5 and fifth in the 400 meter dash with a time of 57.2. Gross placed second in the 400 in 64.7. Those four individuals teamed up to win the 400 meter relay with a time of 5:32.

The other team point was scored by Kelly Buehler, who finished sixth in the 400 with a time of 32.1. Wayne coach Mavis Dalton said her team needs to work on its depth.

Next action is scheduled Monday with a triangular between Hartington CC, Emerson, Hubbard and Wayne on the Blue Devils track. Next Friday, April 30, the West Husker Track Meet will be held at Wisnor.

One win, one loss

Lady Cats up and down

The good crowd on hand to watch Wayne State's 1982 home softball opener Wednesday was treated to a pair of vastly different games, as the Lady Wildcats earned a split with the College of St. Mary.

The Lady Cats, now 6-2 under the direction of first year Coach Deb Weaver, participated in the 14 team Missouri Western tournament in St. Joseph on Friday and Saturday, then travelled to Kearney State on Monday for a twinbill. Peru State comes to town Tuesday at 3 p.m. for a pair of games, and the Cats are set to host the University of Nebraska Omaha Friday (April 23) at 1:30 p.m.

In the second contest, the teams scored 22 runs, registered 14 hits and committed a dozen errors in a 16-6 Lady Cat victory in just six innings.

St. Mary's scored the lone run in the first game in the top of the sixth inning after a pair of WSC throwing errors. The Flames managed only two hits off Lady Cat pitcher Cindy Stella who took the loss. Stella also spoiled CSM pitcher Nancy Lehr's no hitter with a single late in the game.

Sue Plumb and Tammy Blackburn were the only others to get base hits in the contest.

In the second game, WSC posted five runs before notching their first base hit on their way to the ten-run rule, shortened 16-6 whitewash. After playing errorless ball in the first games, CSM committed eight costly errors and went through three pitchers in the nightcap. CSM pitcher Nancy Lehr, who effectively silenced the Wayne State bats in the opener, surrendered seven runs in an inning of play to earn the loss in relief.

MEANWHILE, WSC freshman pitcher Laurie Owens limited St. Mary's to eight singles. The Cats scored their 16 runs on six hits, including a triple by Deb Janssen, a double by Sue Plumb, and a three-run double by Lynn Brandt in the bottom of the fourth.

College of St. Mary stood at 3-5 after the doubleheader.

Johnson

was named after them, Wilcliff Drive.

LARRY WAS born in 1936 northwest of Carroll, the only son of the four children born to Clifford and Wilma.

Larry's sisters are Mrs. Donald (Barbara Jo) Pedersen and Mrs. Ivan (Hettie) Freese, both of Wayne, and Mrs. Duane (Cheryl) Luff of Dayton, Wyo.

When the drought and grasshoppers dried out the Johnson farm in the late 1930's, Clifford and Wilma moved their family to Valentine, where Clifford worked two and a half years at Tobin's Meat Market.

THE FAMILY moved from Valentine to Wayne following the death of Larry's grandfather.

"We moved into my grandfather's house," recalls Larry, "and now that is where half of the business is located."

The half of the business Larry refers to is the company's slaughter house and smokehouse at 913 West Third St.

LARRY WASN'T always interested in the custom slaughtering and processing business.

Following graduation from high school, he worked for the State of Nebraska one summer before enrolling at Wayne State College.

"I enrolled in the animal husbandry program at Wayne State," says Larry, wiping his hands on his apron. "Then the college dropped the program, and I dropped out of college."

Larry enlisted in the Army in 1956—the same year he and Lorraine were married at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

LORRAINE, WHO serves as Wayne County Deputy Treasurer, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Saut of Wayne.

She was born south of Wayne on the farm where her brother, Merlin, still resides.

Larry and Lorraine are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Brooks (Jennifer) Widner of Wayne, and Mrs. Monte (Lori) Lowe of Sioux City.

"We're also very proud grandparents," smiles Larry. Monte and Lori's son, Nolan, is 11 months old. Jennifer and Brooks are expecting their first child.

LARRY'S OPPORTUNITY to begin working with his father came in 1958 following his discharge from the Army.

"I saw an opportunity to work into the business," reflects Larry. "Dad needed help, and I needed a job."

Larry had some previous experience in slaughtering. When he was 13 he worked at Jack Denbeck's Meat Market, which was located where The Shepherds is today, at 210 Main.

AS A SECOND generation businessman, Larry is adamant about maintaining the same high quality operation his father began over 40 years ago.

Although the main business remains custom slaughtering and processing, there also is a retail counter where customers can purchase Larry's specialties along with wholesale products.

Customers also can rent frozen food lockers for various amounts of time.

"WE TRY to fill a lot of our needs from the local economy," says Larry, adding that he is able to do this because he is federally inspected.

The federal inspector visits every Tuesday, the official slaughter day, and is on a patrol basis the remainder of the time.

LARRY PURCHASES most of the cattle for his business from his brother-in-law, Ivan Freese.

He buys hogs from Dwayne Rehwisch and from Farmer's Livestock, Inc. in Wayne, and obtains sheep from local producers. Anything we can promote locally promotes ourselves as well as the local economy," says Larry.

Larry feels one of the biggest assets his business makes to the farming community is the recovery of maimed or crippled animals.

Our official slaughter days are Tuesdays and Thursdays."

explains Larry, adding that farm animals who have been maimed or crippled will be slaughtered anytime. "We're on call 24 hours," he smiles.

Larry says he is able to do this because of tight inspection procedures. "We have better control than a larger processing plant," explains Larry, adding animals his company slaughters are skinned on a bed-type operation by one or two men.

LARRY RUNS his operation with the help of three full-time persons and one part-time man.

Helen Erasm, who does the wrapping, has been with the firm about 11 years. Robert Lamb has worked for the firm five years and is in charge of processing, and Rod Bluck works at the slaughter house.

John Rebersdorf, a senior at Wayne High School, is employed part-time. "This is like every other business," says Larry. "Hopefully we can derive our support from the local community, and in return support the local community like we always have."

"If we can't, we'll probably distribute our products further."

THE BUSINESS has grown over the years, although Larry says less custom slaughtering is done because of the decrease in the number of area farmers.

"We do more slaughtering for retail," explains Larry. "Because we are small and we're not affiliated with any wholesale outfit, we're almost forced to diversify."

"Because Wimmer's cut back on the number of deliveries they made, we were forced to make more of our own wieners," Larry explains.

In all, Johnson's Frozen Foods manufactures about 28 products. In addition to the homemade wieners, other specialties include bologna, bacon, a beef stick, chicken roll luncheon loaf, and of course, summer sausage.

THE FIRM BEGAN making summer sausage about five years ago, and during that time Larry has attended three sausage schools.

Larry says that end of the operation continues to grow, largely because of the new stainless steel smokehouse.

"We're smoking a lot more, and we plan to start producing a beef jerky in the near future," says Larry.

Although the smokehouse was purchased about a year ago,

Larry says he's still learning. "It's pretty much of a total environment," he explains. "With varying controls for temperature, humidity, and hot and cold water showers. "It would make a terrific sauna," Larry laughs.

LARRY SAYS the biggest asset to the new smokehouse is the time factor.

In addition, it's easier to clean, produces a better color product in less time, and easier to operate.

It also meets all federal specifications. ALTHOUGH JOHNSON'S Frozen Foods has always had a smokehouse, Larry says the new facility is part of his constant attempt to update his business.

Part of that updating also includes a vacuum packaging machine to package his products.

"I don't think there is any other processing plant in the area that has a vacuum machine," says Larry, adding that it vacuum packs anything from cheeses to fish.

The firm's slaughter facility, which was built in 1947, is one of the finest in the area, feels Larry.

LARRY, WHO TWO years ago was elected to the board of directors of the Nebraska Association of Meat Processors, is quick to promote the locker business.

Although Johnson's Lockers quit processing gear eight years ago, Larry refers his hunters to area lockers to have their catches processed. "We quit processing gear because of federal separation of product restrictions and because it's the busiest time of year for us," explains Larry. "But," he adds, "I may get back into it."

IN ADDITION to his affiliation with the Nebraska Association of Meat Processors, Larry also is a member of the American Association of Meat Processors.

He also is active in the local community, serving as a city council member from Ward 4. He also is a member of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and serves as an elder in Grace Lutheran Church.

"I don't have time for much else," he laughs.

LARRY SAYS HE enjoys all aspects of the locker business.

"Basically, I enjoy working with the people and working with the product.

"We have the best product in this area and we have some of the latest and most up-to-date equipment."

JOHNSON'S FROZEN Foods has been rated very high for sanitation, says Larry, and is consistently in the top categories.

In addition, the firm has had a federal review three times and has received the highest ranking twice.

said. Also on the subject of defense Keck said he is opposed to using United States combat forces in Latin America. "It is basically an internal problem in El Salvador," Keck noted that El Salvador's problems stem from mistakes made in Nicaragua which were supported by Zornin and former President Jimmy Carter.

KECK SAID HE considers the 1982 elections crucial in determining the future of the country. "If the Senate Republican majority is maintained, continued progress can be made in reducing the size and scope of the federal government," he said, "but if we fail to maintain a Republican majority, it will mean a return to the Democrat philosophy of excessive spending and high taxes."

President Reagan would have a difficult time winning support for his programs, Keck said, if the Senate is controlled by Democrats and Ted Kennedy or some other liberal Democrat.

Keck emphasized that Nebraska needs at least one Republican Senator who would be part of the Republican majority who can "effectively communicate with the White House and be a part of the decisions that are being made there every day."

From Wayne, Keck and his wife Bobbie travelled to South Sioux City, Ponca, Hartington and Bloomfield.

SENATORIAL CANDIDATE Jim Keck meets a Wayne State College student in the Student Union cafeteria. Keck was in Wayne Monday and spoke at a breakfast meeting in the Wayne City Auditorium. The Republican candidate spoke on behalf of agriculture and Reagan's budget. He made stops at WSC President Lyle Seymour's office and the Student Union. After leaving Wayne, Keck made stops in South Sioux City, Ponca, Hartington and Bloomfield.

Chinch Bug Numbers Down

The number of chinch bugs that have survived the winter of 1981-82 is significantly below last year's level, a survey conducted by University of Nebraska extension personnel and the State Department of Agriculture has disclosed.

The survey included Buffalo County and all counties in Nebraska south of the Platte River from Phelps and Harlan Counties to the Iowa border, according to Bob Roselle, NU extension entomologist.

Roselle said Timothy Miller, extension entomology technician and Leroy Peters, NU extension entomologist at Clay Center, evaluated this year's population on the basis of the number of live chinch bugs found per square foot of bunchgrass.

"The highest count this spring was 2,901 per square foot, compared with more than 36,000 per square foot last year," Roselle said. Most samples were in the zero to 500 category — chinch bugs per square foot, he added. "This indicates a non-economic to only moderate potential for chinch bug damage to crops this year in southeast Nebraska," Roselle explained.

The highest numbers were found in Thayer, Jefferson, and Gage Counties, Roselle reported. "Farmers in these counties should be alert for possible injury to seedling milo and corn as well as migrations from wheat into adjacent feed grain fields, especially if May and June are dry months," the specialist advised.

Roselle said farmers can check on methods to cope with chinch bug infestations in a revised Neb Guide, "Chinch Bug Management," which is available at Cooperative Extension Service offices around the state.

Animal waste management discussed

Animal waste management systems for the 1980s are discussed in a new 40 page research report available from Gerald Bodman, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Nebraska.

Research Results in Manure Digestion, Runoff, Reforeeding, Odors expands and updates the technology of animal waste management, emphasizing livestock waste utilization as an economic resource. This technical report summarizes research of scientists in 14 states.

The report covers four areas. The first section discusses anaerobic processes for waste stabilization and gas production. Runoff control for livestock feedlots is the topic of the second section. Processing manures for feed components is covered in the third section and the report's last section looks at controlling odors from livestock production facilities.

Research Results in Manure Digestion, Runoff, Reforeeding, Odors, MWPS 25, is available from Bodman at 209 L.W. Chase Hall, Lincoln, Neb. 68583-0726. Cost is $4.

Proper tree planting vital

Hundreds of shade trees will be planted in Nebraska during the prime planting season beginning in April. And getting a tree planted properly is the critical first step toward its survival and normal growth and development, according to Dennis M. Adams, University of Nebraska district extension forester.

"There is a saying the 'if the tree planting budget is $20, $19 should be spent preparing the soil and $1 on the tree itself.' Although this is an oversatement, it underscores the importance of soil preparation at the planting site," Adams said.

He outlined the recommended tree planting procedure. Dig the planting hole substantially larger than the root system of the tree to be planted. The finished hole should have vertical sides, a flat bottom, and be at least one foot wider and 6 inches deeper than the mass of the root system. Increase hole dimensions and loosen the soil in the bottom of the hole when planting in heavy or hard soils.

Backfill soil should be well prepared. It should not be too wet or too dry and all large clods or stones should be removed. Do not replace poor backfill soil with good topsoil or add soil conditioners, such as peatmoss.

Backfill soil in which soil amendments are added encourages the tree's root system to remain within the planting hole rather than growing into surrounding soil. The result may be circling or girdling the roots and the tree may die in a few years from no apparent cause," Adams concluded.

4-H learning day Saturday

Wayne County 4-H Council is sponsoring a 4-H Fun & Learning Day Saturday (April 24) from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne for 4-Hers eight through 11 years of age.

The all-day program will include recreation, public speaking, demonstrations, how to conduct meetings, archery, aerobic dancing, new projects and they will even learn how to make their own lunch.

This program is designed to give the younger 4-Hers a chance to learn some leadership skills as well as have fun says Don C. Spitzer, county extension agent.

Losing less farmland

Economist claims that erosion more serious than urbanization

Nebraska is losing farmland to urban sprawl, roads projects and other non farm uses, but the percentage lost each year is apparently less alarming than some observers have thought.

Contrasting his figures with a national study that said that Nebraska lost 250,000 acres of farmland to non agricultural use between 1967 and 1977, a University of Nebraska ag economist countered with another estimate that during the 1970s, about 19,000 acres were lost.

IN ANOTHER estimate for a slightly different period, Dr. Paul Gessaman, NU extension natural resources economist, calculated that 65,514 acres of farmland were converted to non farm use between 1976 and 1981. In addition, 77,340 acres were converted to non-producing farm use, he said.

Gessaman reported his findings at a recent meeting of the Nebraska Planning and Zoning Association. He said the rate of conversion of producing farmland in Nebraska is a small percentage of total farmland, about .5 percent each year. In his first estimate, Gessaman used data for 1969 through 1979 derived from the publication, "Agricultural Statistics."

In the second estimate he based his findings on a 1981 survey by the Land Use Task Force of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development Committee. Totals from this study included about 20,000 acres in Loup, Garfield and Wheeler counties which were taken over by the Bureau of Reclamation's Calamus Dam project, Gessaman said. When land cost for the dam is removed from the total, he said, the land lost to non producing uses is about 9,000 acres per year.

GESSAMAN SAID he estimated that about two-thirds of Nebraska's counties will have the same rate of conversion over the next five years.

Two other types of ag land loss are probably more important than that lost to urban sprawl or roads projects, Gessaman said.

One is a by-product of land lost to development. Frequently, adjacent tracts of lands are also converted to non producing use, he said.

"The improvement of a road may take only a few acres," he said, "but (it) may open an area to urban housing development that takes many more acres. The building of a canal or road may disrupt farming operations, cause abandonment of small tracts and disproportionately reduce production."

The second major threat to farmland is soil erosion, Gessaman said. He called it a more serious threat to agricultural production than land lost to urbanization.

NEBRASKA SHOULD actively preserve every acre of agricultural land, Gessaman said.

"It would seem to me very ill advised to convert farmland unless it is absolutely necessary to do so," he said.

Display, program highlight extension spring event

The Dixon County Home Extension Clubs have chosen "Light Up Your Life" as the theme for their spring event which will focus on personal development. The 1982 program impact for all Nebraska Home Extension Clubs is centered on leadership skills, assertiveness techniques, membership recruitment and personal development. The thrust is referred to as "Impact '82 - LAMP."

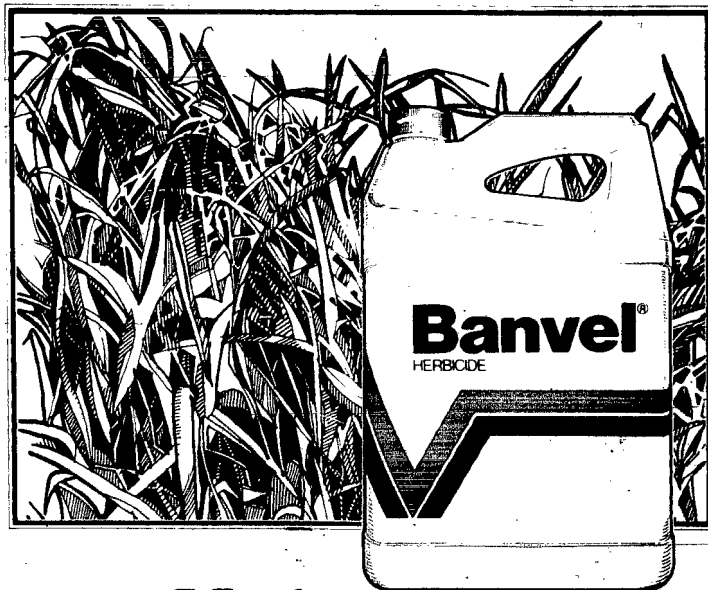

Each of the Home Extension Clubs will sponsor a display of arts, skills, or crafts which depict personal development of individuals. The public is invited to visit these displays between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 29 at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord.

A short program, featuring Merlin "Lefty" Olson as inspirational speaker, will begin at 2:15 p.m. Olson, a prominent Wakefield businessman, has served his community in a variety of leadership roles. He is known for his involvement with community projects and is presently mayor of Wakefield.

Door prizes will be given during the afternoon and refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission, however a silver offering will be accepted at the refreshment table. The offering will be given to the Wakefield City Park Fund.

Co-Chairman for this event are Mrs. Clarence Rastade, Allen, president of Artemis Extension Club and Mrs. Verdel Erwin, Concord, Dixon County "LAMP" leader. Extension Clubs hosting the afternoon include: Artemis, Elf, Sunshine, Allen Community and TNT.

Make every pasture acre count.

Banvel® Herbicide makes every pasture acre count.

Musk thistle can rapidly overrun pasture grasses. When weeds move in, pasture carrying capacity drops . . . cattle profits for your daily weight gains drop . . . compete fall. Your lush pastures turn into poor pastures.

You can break the broadleaf weed takeover with Banvel® Herbicide. It effectively controls dozens of broadleaf weeds like musk thistle — and many that 2,4-D alone often misses. Banvel Herbicide circulates throughout the weed to kill the entire plant, above and below ground — from leaf tip to root tip.

If you're using 2,4-D now, put the extra punch of Banvel Herbicide in a tank mix. You'll add an impressive hit list to your 2,4-D program — including dogfennel and Canada thistle.

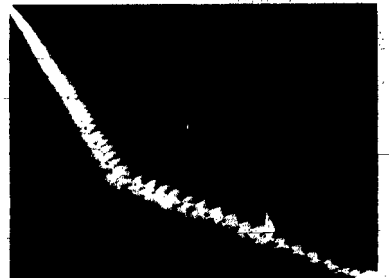

For added convenience and weed control, Banvel Herbicide can be applied with fluid fertilizers as part of a Weed and Feed program.

This spring, break the broadleaf hold on your beef-making potential. Ask your ag chem dealer about cleaning up your pastures with Banvel Herbicide.

More Valley Corner Systems every year,

because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons.

So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.

A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.

And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They've proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.

Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.

Fertilizer key to success of lawns, gardens, trees

By Don C. Spitzer,
Wayne County Extension Agent

The proper use of fertilizer is an important key to a successful home garden. Garden crops require three types of soil nutrients — nitrogen, phosphorous, and potash.

STATE LAW requires that all fertilizer sold must contain a guaranteed amount of the nutrients listed. This guaranteed analysis is referred to as fertilizer grade and must be shown on the label. Each fertilizer will have three sets of numbers for the percentage of the three nutrients.

The first set of numbers will indicate the percent of nitrogen, the second set of numbers the percent of phosphorous, and the third set of numbers the percent of potash in the bag. This means that if you have a bag of fertilizer with the numbers of 10-10-10 this will tell you that the fertilizer contains 10% of each of nitrogen, phosphorous, and potash.

It helps to remember when measuring fertilizer in small amounts that one pint equals two cups equals one pound.

Here are some recommendations for amounts of fertilizer to use in your garden. Roses can be fertilized with a half-cup of a fertilizer such as 10-10-10 around each rose as soon as possible. Repeat again in late June and July.

ASPARAGUS AND RHUBARB should be fertilized immediately with two pounds per 100 square feet of 10-20-10 or similar fertilizer.

It is wise to work fertilizer into your vegetable garden's soil before planting. Use two pounds of 10-20-10 per 100 square feet of garden area.

Barnyard manure gives excellent results on most garden soils when properly used. It is a good source of organic matter and plant nutrients. An annual application of barnyard manure of 400 to 600 pounds per 1000 square feet is recommended. Use half this amount of chicken or sheep manure.

Fall or winter is the best time to apply manure. If applying manure this spring be sure that it is well rotted. The use of manure will increase the supply of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash as well as make the soil easier to till and increase the water holding capacity of the soil.

THE ONE DISADVANTAGE of manure is that it may contain unwanted weed seeds.

For bluegrass lawns apply one pound of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet of lawn area late in April and repeat in mid June and again in September. In order to apply one pound of actual nitrogen you would need ten pounds of a fertilizer such as 10-10-10.

Deciduous shade trees and large evergreen trees also may need fertilizer for best growth. Apply an annual application of 6 pounds actual nitrogen per 1000 per square feet of soil surface under the crown of the tree.

At 3.5 year intervals, apply complete fertilizer such as 10-10-10, in two-inch diameter holes at a rate equal to six pounds actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet.

Fertilize small evergreen trees and small ornamental or fruit trees annually with 10-10-10 fertilizer in holes at a rate equal to three pounds actual nitrogen per 100 square feet.

Fertilizer, along with other good management practices, will greatly improve home gardens.

PLANTING TREES

Is the tree you are planning to plant a bareroot, container grown, or balled and burlapped stock?

Trees sold bareroot are generally planted in early spring. Roots of these plants should be kept in moist condition until planting time. If the plants must be stored until planting, hold them in a moist medium or heel them into a trench and keep them moist until planting. The tips of bareroot can be cut off. Then soak the root system in a bucket of water prior to planting.

Container grown trees can be planted all season. Their survival is usually high, although the cost is greater than bareroot trees.

Balled and burlapped trees are a good method of planting large shade trees and evergreens. Plant the tree as soon as possible. Storage without proper facilities usually reduces the survival rate of most trees.

WEEDS IN THE STRAWBERRIES

Mulches of straw or black plastic can help with the weed battle. Plastic works best when the strawberries are maintained as bushes in rows. Pinch off runners to develop large healthy bushes.

Dacthal does a good job of controlling annual grass weeds in strawberries. It can be used on established beds or new plantings. Make certain it is used before weed seed germinates. On medium textured soil, use one ounce of Dacthal 75W per 250 square feet.

On lighter soils or soils low in organic matter, apply 2/3 ounce or three level tablespoons of Dacthal 75W per 250 square feet.

CARE OF INDOOR PLANTS

While this is the time of year to turn your attention to annuals and perennials, don't forget to take care of your indoor foliage plants.

It is not unusual for dust to accumulate on the leaves of foliage plants. This not only cuts down on the intensity of light reaching the plant, it can also harbor insects and is unattractive. It is a good idea to wash the plants once a month with a very dilute detergent solution or commercial leaf cleaner.

The grower should make sure the plants have been watered well before using chemical cleaners because they may burn the leaves if they get into dry potting soil. Washing is also a good way to inspect for and remove insects.

Check periodically for insects, since they can multiply rapidly during the warm dry periods of winter.

Tests show drilled soybeans fare well

Drilled soybeans averaged four more bushels per acre than beans planted in 30-inch rows in two-year tests at two locations in Iowa, USDA researcher Tom S. Colvin reports.

Colvin and Donald C. Erbach, both agricultural engineers with USDA's Agricultural Research Service here, tested five solid seeding systems as well as a row-planter.

ALL FIVE systems outproduced the row-planter. The grain drill produced 52.0 bushels per acre. The four other solid seeding methods, broadcast, press drill, rowplanter, and a field cultivator with an air seeder attachment, all yielded more than 50 bushels per acre. The row-planter averaged 47.9 bushels.

Two tillage systems, reduced tillage and conventional tillage, were also evaluated. Corn residue from the previous crop varied from as little as 2 percent surface coverage on plowed ground to as much as 74 percent coverage on some reduced tillage plots, Colvin said. However, no significant relationship showed up between yields and residues. All the solid seeding systems developed a soil protecting canopy earlier than the row-planter system. The drill produced the quickest soil cover, achieving more than 30 percent coverage, about three times more canopy than the row-planter at four weeks after planting.

The Iowa State University experimental plots were near Boone in central Iowa and Nashua in northeastern Iowa. Corsoy beans were planted in late May in all tests. All plots received preplant-incorporated herbicide treatments and a post-emergence application which provided effective weed control, Colvin said. Row plots were cultivated to provide typical field conditions.

"Based on this study, solid seeding soybeans through corn residue on the surface after reduced tillage is an acceptable soybean production system. Since all the solid seeding methods tested produced better yields and canopy development, the selection the farmer makes among solid seeding methods is less important than making the decision to use solid seeding rather than row planting," Colvin said.

Agriculture is still the backbone of this country. Some people have forgotten that. But more and more of them are finding it out again. The television pictures of empty grocery shelves in Poland can't help but bring home to consumers how fortunate they are.

They may never realize the toil, the frustrations, the grief and sometimes the disappointments that go into making sure our citizens stay well-fed. But then, few of them will ever know the pride in a row of corn breaking through the soil, the pleasure in watching a new calf nurse for the first time. Or the satisfaction in seeing a youngster take the wheel of a tractor by himself. Despite today's trials, let us not forget the heritage that is American agriculture.

Overlay Early.

Up to a pint of Banvel® Herbicide over your grass herbicide knocks out broadleaf weeds before corn is 5 inches tall.

Broadleaf weeds are at their weakest as seedlings. That's the time to hit them with up to a pint of Banvel® Herbicide as part of a two-step overlay program in your corn.

First, apply your pre-plant or pre-emergence grass herbicide as usual. Then, lay down Banvel Herbicide when broadleaf weeds germinate — before corn is 5 inches tall. (The length of a ballpoint pen is a handy measure.)

By holding back until broadleaf weeds germinate, Banvel Herbicide is ready to work when it's needed most... and over a longer period of time.

Banvel Herbicide controls dozens of broadleaf weeds in corn — even tough customers like sunflower, cocklebur and velvetleaf (buttonweed). Compared to other broadleaf herbicides, Banvel Herbicide gives you cost-per-acre advantages, a wide spectrum of control, excellent crop tolerance and no worries about carryover.

Talk to your ag chem dealer. For broadleaf weed control in corn, overlay early with Banvel Herbicide.

Governor's campaign treasure chest far the fullest

CAPITOL NEWS

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Gov. Charles Thone's campaign treasure chest is by far the fullest of all gubernatorial candidates seeking the state's top job for the next four years.

Early campaign statements filed with the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Commission showed the governor collected $252,923 for his re-election bid.

In all, 3,524 contributors offered financial support, and 438 of those gave Thone $100 or more.

THONE'S MAIN GOP challenger for the May 11 primary — Stan DeBoer of Bertrand — had collected $32,334 Democratic candidate Bob Kerrey of Lincoln had raised $75,907, including a $50,000 loan, and Sen. George "Bill" Burrows of Adams had collected $4,204.

The disclosure of Thone's campaign receipts for the first reporting period raised some eyebrows in light of the state's current fiscal crisis and Thone's efforts to trim budgets at every opportunity.

In fairness, the amount Thone raises for his re-election bid shouldn't be associated with the state's economic situation. But, in light of all the attention the latter has received, it's not surprising the governor's quarter of a million dollar campaign chest has been at the brunt of some jokes and discussions.

For example, one Statehouse reporter recently was overheard musing about possible uses for the money in Thone's re-election fund. The reporter suggested, mostly in tongue-in-cheek, that Thone turn the money over to the state treasury to help with recent cash-flow problems.

MOST PEOPLE, especially Thone, probably wouldn't take that suggestion seriously. But the suggestion is amusing nonetheless.

Whether the hefty campaign fund is indicative of Thone's popular support and in turn a sign of his re-election chances is difficult to say. But, if the 1978 election is any indication, the amount of money a candidate raises doesn't directly reflect his or her chances at the polls.

If a parallel could be drawn between the size of campaign chests and voter support, it would appear the candidates for the Republican lieutenant governor's nomination are head-to-head.

Early campaign statements showed Lt

Gov. Roland Luedtke had raised $11,225, and Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo had collected $10,498.

But it's dangerous and inappropriate to make such a comparison. Incumbency and name recognition often are more reliable tests of ballot-box support. But even those sometime attributes can be fatal, a fact that has been clearly evident in recent elections.

The true test of a candidate's chances of success can be gauged only after the ballot boxes are locked at 8 p.m. on election night.

NEBRASKA LAWMAKERS during the waning hours of the 1982 session made some bold attempts to deal with issues that had been ignored for much of the session or that had been stalled or doomed throughout late hour debate.

Although the last-minute attempts were made, most were unsuccessful. Such was the case with the studded snow tire bill.

Sen. Bernice Labez of Omaha asked her colleagues to suspend the legislative rules to add a studded snow tire provision to a bill that dealt with county jailer fees.

Her proposal would have kept studded snow tires on Nebraska roads between Nov. 1 and March 15. Lawmakers last year approved legislation that makes the studded tires illegal beginning next winter.

Mr. Labez' attempt to add the studded snow tire measure to LB 242 was defeated handily. That signaled lawmakers' refusal to remove the ban on studded snow tires that goes into effect this year.

ANOTHER MEASURE that appeared doomed as the Legislature wound down was the Christian school bill. Sen. John DeCamp of Neigh failed 23-16 on a motion to get a Christian school exemption tied to another bill dealing with child care. He needed 30 votes to succeed.

Sen. David Landis of Lincoln, author of the proposal offered by DeCamp, said the provision would have enabled bonafide religious groups to seek a waiver from state regulations. The groups would have had to show how state regulations conflicted with their religious beliefs.

DeCamp predicted after his defeat that affected groups now would be going to court. Specifically, he said, lawmakers indicated through their votes that "it's illegal to be Am or Mennonite."

Only time will tell whether DeCamp's prediction is on target. But, considering the state's obvious intent to enforce the law and church schools' attempts to operate in defiance of state control more litigation no doubt is inevitable.

Save tax records

Taxpayers who do not have copies of their previous years' tax returns and need to request them from the Internal Revenue Service, can expect a six week wait to receive a copy of the forms. This wait is due principally to the large number—approximately 1.8 million—of copy requests expected this year.

Some of the reasons why taxpayers may need to request copies of previous years' returns are for income averaging, student loans, and mortgage purposes. Taxpayers needing previous years' tax returns should prepare a Form 4506, "Request for Copy of Tax Form," for each return requested. The forms should be sent to the service center where the return was filed.

With the increasing demand for past tax records, the best way to avoid delays in the future is keep previous years' tax returns as part of permanent tax records. Good records show time and make filing current returns easier. More information on recordkeeping can be found in the free IRS Publication 552, "Recordkeeping Requirements and a List of Tax Publications," available from local IRS offices.

No need to limit

Subject: Reasons why I oppose restrictions on admission to the University of Nebraska 1. The University of Nebraska is supported by all the taxpayers. It's original intent, as it exists today, is to accommodate all high school graduates.

2. With current spending restrictions, all schools do not have an equal opportunity to provide for the broad basic program so that their students can enter a University that requires entrance exams. A danger of a test means that high schools will direct tremendous amounts of time and energy to prepare college-bound students to pass the test. Furthermore, I do not believe that the test has been invented that can accurately identify all the persons who will succeed in college.

3. The area of Nebraska which I wish to represent, is largely rural and has many small school systems. The students from this area are industrious and intelligent, and records show they compete well with other students at the University. It is not the intent of the State of Nebraska to provide a University which gives entrance advantage to the larger urban centers, which are able to provide many times the courses.

I feel a decision to limit enrollment at the University is not necessary at this time. Judy Larsen, Hooper Candidate for Board of Regents District 3 University of Nebraska former Wayne man, Bob Shively, has been named manager of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce. The annual District III music contest will bring close to 3,000 musicians from 39 high schools April 26-28.

15 YEARS AGO
April 29, 1967: Marvin Young was elected president of Wayne Jaycees at a meeting Tuesday night in the Fire Hall. Stan Smith was elected president of the Wayne Lions Club at the Tuesday night meeting in St. Mary's Hall. He succeeds Harold Maciejewski in the top post. Musicians from 33 high schools will compete in the major event of the year this weekend, the annual District II music contest on the Wayne State College campus Thursday through Saturday.

10 YEARS AGO
April 20, 1972: Charles Morris of Carroll will represent Wayne at Boys State at Lincoln this year, with Ron Magnuson, also of Carroll, as the alternate. The Wayne County Speech Contest for 4-H members will be held in the district courtroom at the Wayne County courtroom on Monday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Remodeling on the Concordia Lutheran Church at Concord began this week with the removal of the old pews and the painting of the sanctuary.

Tough decision

LB488 cancels pay raises

I commend Gov. Charles Thone for making a tough decision in dealing LB 488, thereby cancelling pay increases for judges and constitutional officers, including himself.

In the final hours of the legislative session, I attempted to kill the bill because I don't feel we can cut back state employees' wages asking Nebraska taxpayers to tighten their belts and take percentage increases in sales and income taxes without asking our higher paid state executives and judges to do the same.

With this veto, constitutional office holders will not receive pay raises for at least eight years—the past four and now the next four—since their salaries cannot increase while serving a term.

CONSIDERING THIS, I probably would have supported giving them a pay raise but could not justify increasing judges' salaries. Their salaries can be increased any year that the Legislature chooses to do so.

The mistake was made by amending the Judicial System Increases LB 403 to Constitutional Officers Increases LB 488 in the final days.

The Legislature passed the bill that was originally introduced to provide for an increase in the salaries of our constitutional officers such as the attorney general, secretary of state, and lieutenant governor. Last week, LB 603, the judges' salary increase bill, was also attached to the bill as an amendment.

The legislative process we have allows for too-much maneuvering in amending bills together in the final stages of debate. I objected to that because it changes the orderly process of legislation, confuses the public and at times radically changes the activity

senator merle von minden

of legislation itself. Such matters should be faced separately both by the Legislature and the governor.

The Second Session of the 87th Legislature came to an end last Friday as the Senators met one last time to consider the remaining bills on final reading and to examine the governor's vetoes to see if any overrides were warranted.

LB 404, the Nebraska Community Aging Services Act, passed on final reading and was sent to the governor for his signature. Appropriations for the bill were amended downward from around $2,500,000 to approximately $500,000 for the 82-83 fiscal year which aided the bill's passage and may keep it safe from the governor's veto. The bill provides for a general reorganization and funding of our senior citizens' programs throughout the State.

LB 799, which will provide a tax credit for those who install renewable energy source systems in their homes, also gained final approval.

Americans tell Congress

Don't raise taxes, cut spending!

Richard L. Leshier, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Judging by the pronouncements of certain politicians and various media pundits, you may have the impression that Ronald Reagan is the only soul in America who still believes that additional billions can and should be cut from the federal budget. You may also believe that legions of your fellow Americans are beating on the doors of Capitol Hill offices, begging their Congressmen to "Please raise my taxes!"

The results of a new Gallup survey commissioned by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce should put an end to this fantasy. Despite months of saturation media coverage about the devastating effects of projected budget deficits and the Reagan tax plan, the American people have held firm to the common sense belief that the only way to shrink those deficits and restore prosperity is to keep our tax cuts and reduce spending. The survey reveals that:

— 62 percent of the public oppose postponing the personal tax rate cuts already enacted, while 10 percent would favor speeding up their effective dates by six months. Just 21 percent advocate postponing them for six months.

When asked how the projected budget deficit should be reduced, 47 percent believe Congress should focus solely on the spending side of the equation, as opposed to just four percent who advocate tax increases alone. 20 percent say that Congress should both cut spending and raise taxes, while 19 percent would do neither—leaving the current deficit estimates intact for now.

— 56 percent of Americans favor keeping the business tax cuts enacted last summer, while 29 percent believe they should be raised.

When asked where federal spending cuts should be made, 30 percent say that such reductions should come in non-defense areas, while 37 percent believe the focus should be on the Pentagon. 36 percent want cuts in both areas.

THESE RESULTS indicate that a sizable majority of the public is wise to the fact that the current deficit problem is not caused by too many tax cuts but the same belief. A recent NBC News-Associated Press poll discovered that Americans, by an overwhelming majority of 77-13 percent, want the deficit reduced through cuts in spending rather than tax increases.

In fact unless Congress gets serious about the budget—and that means scrutinizing entitlements and defense—government spending over the next three years will more closely resemble the original blueprint of Jimmy Carter than that of Ronald Reagan.

So as the congressional budget brokers try different tax proposals on for size, let's remind them that as far as a majority of Americans is concerned they are in the wrong department. Spending is still growing out of control, and it's time to go on a crash diet.

Land value drop strikes warning bell

NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION
By M.M. Van Kirk,
Director of Information

Estimates that farm land values in Nebraska have dropped 10 to 15 percent in the last year strike a warning bell for older farmers and ranchers in Nebraska who can recall firsthand some of the patterns of land values dating back to the early 1920s.

With only a few exceptions such as the past year, the rise in land values in this state has been steadily higher since World War II and has been linked to inflation and grain and livestock prices. One must remember that the value of the dollar in terms of what it will buy has been shrinking for many years and one must make his own adjustments and allowances when considering comparisons.

A SURVEY by a land marketing company recently reported that in 1981, Nebraska land values ranged from about $230 an acre for nonirrigated grazing land to about $2,000 per acre for gravity irrigated cropland, with an average of about $750 an acre.

The report also stated that farmers and ranchers who are in the most financial trouble are those who entered into arrangements for land purchases or other expansion since 1977. And those best able to hang on are those who bought earlier and have their land mostly paid for and have fixed interest rate loans. Farmers can under stand such an assessment.

There is some argument at present as to whether current conditions qualify as a "recession" or "depression." If one is an unemployed auto worker in Detroit, a laid-off steel worker in Gary, Ind., or a Nebraska farmer selling out to satisfy mortgage holders, this is a "depression" no matter what the economists may say.

What finds it interesting to compare the history of an eastern Nebraska farm, its values through the years, and its economic conditions which accompanied them.

ONE DEED and abstract from the year 1894 showed that an Illinois farmer who left his rented high priced land, bought a half-section of excellent quality Nebraska land for $7.50 per acre. Half the acre was cropped and the other half native pasture. Somehow the family survived the drought year of 1904 and with hard work and good management prospered. One could make money on 40 cents per bushel corn and $4 to $5 per cwt. cattle and hogs. Farms were distinguished by a high degree of self sufficiency in manure, horsepower and limited equipment.

By the time of the faded 1912-14 period of which so-called "parity" figures are based as the ideal balance between farm production costs and farm income, that $7.50 land had gone up to $50 to $75 and families were building new homes, many of which are still well kept and in use.

The expansion and farm prices brought about by World War I became a landmark. For years farmers talked about the $2.50 per bushel wheat of 1917-18 and $1.25 to $1.50 corn. Good farmland prices shot up to $200 per acre and farmers bought and expanded as if commodity prices would never go down again.

But they did, sharply in the early 1920s, and land prices plunged along with commodity prices. A period of bank failures followed along with farm foreclosures. But the critical period was relatively short. Many economists seem to have forgotten that recovery did come and the mid-1920s to 1930 were relatively stable years for commodity prices, and farmland values showed marked recovery. In 1929, the last really good year of the recovery, that family farm land had climbed back up to $150 to $175 per acre.

THE STOCK MARKET crash of October, 1929 and the depression which struck first in the industrial areas with layoffs and unemployment in 1930 didn't really hit the Midland farm economy with full force for another year or two. The fall and winter of 1932-33 saw corn prices down to 10 to 13 cents per bushel, banks failing right and left and credit almost not available. That $7.50 land of 1894 was back down to $25 to $30 per acre if one could find a buyer. The first foreclosures were on farmers and ranchers who had mortgaged the home place a few years previously to buy that extra quarter or two. Sound familiar?

SCHOOL BOARD
At the regular meeting of the Wakefield Board of Education held April 12 at the school, several people appeared before the board in regard to the wrestling program. Those attending were Marvin Borg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stelling, Sam Utecht, Gordon Lundin, Lois Meyer, Leola Verplank, Mr. and Mrs. Yeri Carlsson, Pat Nicholson, Terry Borg and Lyle Trullinger. Marvin Borg, as spokesman for the group, visited with the board about the value of the wrestling program and encouraged the board to reinstate the wrestling program if possible.

Other members of the delegation made comments to the board relevant to the issue. The school board did not change their position on the discontinuance of the wrestling program.
The administration presented a cheerleader and transportation proposal for the 1982-83 school year. Details will now be worked out to set up a pool of cheerleaders for next year and also to set up a format for transporting students to away activities.
Maura McCune, Ellen Stender, Alice Swanson and Sandy Jones were invited to the meeting to discuss the value of a computer program in the public school system. After a discussion, the board tabled the matter until the May board meeting. Miss Jones uses the computer system in the Emerson Hubbard School where she teaches.

The school received notification April 7 that the school was not one of those chosen to receive an energy grant. The board decided to resubmit their grant application for the May 26 grant cycle.

The board approved a plan by the Centennial Tree Committee for planting 10 more trees on the school grounds this year.
Derwin Hartman, superintendent, was asked by the board to obtain cost estimates from several companies on repairing the gym roof and to report back at the May meeting.

The need for more freezer space for the lunch program was discussed and Superintendent Hartman will look into the cost of freezers.

During the meeting, the board verified the successful teaching of Elizabeth Heier and Jackie Diltman and offered a contract to Mrs. Sandra Remer for the coming year.
Maura McCune's resignation was accepted by the board and Mr. Hartman reported that all the other teachers have signed their contracts for the 1982-83 school year.

A request for supplemental service from the Education Service Unit 1 was approved by the board and signed a contract for special education services for the 1982-83 school year.

CONCERT HELD
The Wakefield High School music department, under the direction of Diane Trullinger, presented a pre-contest concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. It was held in the school auditorium.
Mrs. Trullinger said the concert gave a chance for the students to show the results of their hard work to a local audience before going to contest. The contest will be held in Wayne Friday and Saturday.

The girls glee sang "Velvet Shoes" and "Rejoice" and the boys glee presented "Good News," made popular by the Kingston Trio. "Blues in the Night" was sung by the triple trio and the girls trio sang "The Big Brown Bear."

The flags will be marked with the veterans name and kept in a case at the Legion Hall. Donations to this project will be accepted by the organizations which may be sent to Harold Fischer, chairman of the committee.

A Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Spring bike a thon will be held for all Wakefield area youngsters on Saturday, April 24. Mr. Dan Gardner will head the fund raising drive this year.

Entry blanks complete with instructions, pledge sheets and prize listings are available at the elementary school building.
Participation is open to anyone wishing to help children and young adults who suffer Cystic Fibrosis and other lung-damaging diseases.

Mrs. Gardner said that Wakefield youngsters did a bang-up job last year and with everyone's help it will be successful again this year.
Cystic Fibrosis is an incurable genetic disease that affects the lungs and digestive system of children. Since it is inherited, Cystic Fibrosis cannot be caught but people are born with the disease.
Cystic Fibrosis is the number one genetic killer in children. Every day, every five hours a child is born with Cystic Fibrosis and every day, every eight hours a child or young adult dies from Cystic Fibrosis.

IT'S HERE!

Worthy of the King.

Budweiser LIGHT

There's a tradition at Anheuser-Busch. A tradition that says never be satisfied until you've achieved the best.

Now, out of this tradition, comes a light beer worthy of the King of Beers. One with a clean, distinctive taste. Budweiser Light.

It took time. Patience. And a quest for quality that led to the proud list of ingredients and the Beechwood Aging process made famous by the King.

We know the best never comes easy. That's why there's nothing else like it.

Bring out your best.

FILM TO BE SHOWN

The film "Heavenly Deception" will be shown on Sunday, April 25, at 8 p.m. in the Laurel-Concord School Gym. This film is sponsored by the Lutheran Presbyterian Youth Group from Laurel.

This true story is about Chris Elkins and his journey from the college campus to the inner workings of the Unification Church. Evangelical Films, who produced the film, have never offered a film with more impact on parents and young people.

There is no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken to help defray expenses. The public is invited to attend.

CONTEMPORARIES

The Contemporaries Extension Club from Laurel met on April 14 at the Corner Cafe at Laurel for the Lunch & Learn lesson with Val Ebberson from the Cedar County Extension Service. The club members later visited in the home of Mrs. Craig Monson where they were shown many creative ideas, including "Cinderella's Castle".

The extension program was presented in the home of Mrs. Rich Adkins where Mrs. Rich Erwin portrayed "Fred, the Burglar" and demonstrated how easy some homes can be burglarized. The public should take extra precaution to keep their homes safe. Mrs. Fern Crookshank also helped give the lesson on "Preventing Home Burglaries".

The club will be going to Hillcrest Care Center on Thursday, May 6 at 2 p.m. to plant flowers in the window boxes.

Spring Salad Day will be Friday, April 30, beginning at 12:30 p.m. in the Coloridge Community Building. The club will help furnish four salads and a box of crackers.
