250 trees planted at Wayne nursery

Trees
What would we do without them?
Nearly 250 tree seedlings of different varieties were planted Thursday afternoon during an Arbor Day tree planting session at the Wayne State College Arboretum.

YOUNGSTERS, teachers and residents from the Wayne area made the annual event extremely successful according to acting curator Dr. Charles Maier, professor of biology at Wayne State.

Busloads of students from Wayne elementary schools and surrounding country schools attended the Arbor Day ceremony to help plant trees.

The youngsters covered areas of the country side where new rows of trees were planted among the rows of trees planted in past years.

"There was a little confusion when the first busload of kids came early. We didn't have the holes dug yet," said Maier. "But, the college kids who helped and other people got things going. We had a real fine turnout and I was real pleased with the kids. They were well behaved."

TWO WAYNE STATE plant science classes helped prepare for the planting and Wayne County Extension Agent Don Spitzer volunteered his time to assist the workers. Maier said that 250 trees were planted in Wayne State's nursery area and 230 more were given out to individuals. Some of the types of trees were Scotch, Ponderosa and Austrian Pines, Calonia Aster, Nanking Cherry and Tartarian Honeysuckle.

Throughout the session, approximately 200 individuals were in attendance. Wayne State now has 500 trees in its nursery located west of the WSC practice football field, and approximately 4,000 in the entire area.

The Arboretum was patterned to observe Gov. Charles Thone's "Plant Two Trees" program. Each participant was given one seedling to plant at the arboretum and another to plant at a site of his choosing.

A WORKSHOP on the planting and pruning of planting stock was conducted Saturday morning on the Wayne State campus. Dr. George Briggs, director of the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum, conducted the workshop.

It involved the planting of several trees and shrubs at various sites around campus as well as a demonstration on planting.

4 dates planned

Frosh registration program set May 1

The first of four registration programs for students who plan to enroll at Wayne State College next fall will take place Saturday, May 1, according to Dr. Max Lundstrom, dean of students at WSC.

"It's an opportunity for students and advisors to get acquainted as the students proceed through the registration process, and we are always pleased to visit with parents," Dr. Lundstrom said. He said the program is designed to give both students and parents an idea of the "how to's and where to's" of college life at Wayne State.

ANY STUDENT who is planning to begin his or her college education next fall at Wayne State is urged to sign up for one of the programs through the Admissions Office at WSC. "We will take walk-ons," Dr. Lundstrom said, "but computerized registration does require some advanced planning."

Those who are unable to attend the registration program on May 1 will have opportunities to attend similar sessions on June 4, June 25 or July 23.

Participants should plan to arrive between 9:30 a.m. in the lobby of the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center on campus. The group will then move into Ramsey Theatre, where they will be welcomed by WSC President Dr. Lyle Seymour. Next, Dr. Lundstrom and Steve Oelken, president of the WSC Student Senate, will discuss student life at Wayne State College. Ms. Linn Brumme, academic advisor, will coordinate the advising/registration process.

A presentation on academic life at Wayne State College will follow. Clifton Ginn, head of the social sciences division, will discuss general education, the academic structure at WSC, pre-professional programs and other information. Ms. Pat Coward, interim director of the teaching-learning center, will then talk about academic assistance available at WSC.

THE GROUP will then split up — students will move to assigned buildings and classrooms to meet with faculty advisors and tour guides, while parents will remain in Ramsey. The parents will hear talks about housing (by Dr. Bob Lohrberg, director of housing and placement); food service, intramurals and student activities (by Frank Teach, director of student activities and intramurals); health services (by Florence Pankratz, college nurse); and counseling services (by Donna Bliss, director of counseling). Lunch will follow from noon to 1 p.m. in the south dining room of the WSC Student Center.

At the same time, students will be undergoing group advising, including orientation to divisions and majors and schedule planning. Students will also have lunch in the South Dining Room.

Following lunch, from 1:30 p.m., parents can listen to a presentation on financial aids (by Chuck Kay, director of financial aids), on college relations (by Adrie Nab, director of college relations), or embark on a tour of the campus.

THE STUDENTS will spend their time touring the campus, listening to Kay's financial aids talk, and officially registering for the fall 1982 semester. Kay and Nab will be speaking in the WSC Student Center, while registration will be held in the Assembly Room of the Hahn Administration Building.

The day's registration program is scheduled to conclude at approximately 3 p.m.

"We believe that a student's first semester of attendance is very important, and that it is our responsibility to assist the students through information and services so that they can become successful students," Dr. Lundstrom said.

For more information about the 1982 registration programs, contact Jim Hummel, director of admissions at WSC, by calling (402) 375-2200, ext. 234.

Commencement is May 2

Nebraska Governor Charles Thone will be the guest speaker at spring commencement exercises at Wayne State College. The ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 2, in the Willow Bowl. In the event of bad weather, graduation will be held in Rice Auditorium.

The Rev. Edward A. Carter of the First Baptist Church in Wayne, will give the invocation, to be followed by greetings from Keith Kemper, chairman of the Nebraska State College Board of Trustees.

Dr. Lyle Seymour, president of Wayne State, will confer the various undergraduate and graduate degrees to the approximately 190 students scheduled to graduate.

The Wayne State Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Ray Kelton, will provide music throughout the ceremony.

A special awards presentation sponsored by the Blue Key scholastic honorary is also on the program.

There will be a reception following the graduation ceremony in the Birch Room of the Student Center for the seniors, their family and friends.

Wayne's Daylight Donuts opens its doors

Donut dunkers gathered in downtown Wayne Thursday morning as Daylight Donuts opened its doors for business.

There were glazed donuts, filled donuts, cake donuts, frosted donuts and an assortment of other sweet rolls available for various dunkers' preferences.

The new Wayne business at 212 Main Street is part of a franchised doughnut and coffee shop operation Bill and Christy Wright, who own Daylight Donuts shops in Yankton and Vermillion, S.D., purchased the Jeff's Cafe building from Willard and Irene Jeffrey of Wayne.

THE NEW OWNERS said they were swamped with customers on Thursday with more than 200 transactions and many more customers. On Friday, a typically busy day, business was even more hectic they noted.

"We've had a lot of nice comments from people," said Mrs. Wright. "We've been so busy."

The doughnut shop, which will open from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, offers nearly 30 varieties of doughnuts and sweet rolls, coffee, juices, milk and soft drinks. Some 65 customers can be seated in the facility.

Wright, a native of Gordon, remodeled the building and installed new equipment and fixtures. Remodeling work consisted of general cleanup, a new kitchen floor, new carpet, new paneling and some changes in the wiring and plumbing of the building.

"WE FEEL welcome. Everyone seems friendly and happy to see us come to town," said Wright, who has been in the Daylight Donuts business for five years. "If anyone has any complaints, come for us."

The Wrights, now operating three Daylight Donuts shops, are looking for a cook to join their staff. They said there are between 20 and 25 Daylight Donuts shops in Nebraska.

The building, located on the west side of Main Street, has housed a hardware store, cafe and theater over the years.

JODY MILLER, daughter of Randy and Diane Miller, makes an art out of eating a doughnut. And like most children, Jody decided the chocolate frosting was the best part.

Barbecue at Wakefield

The Wakefield park improvement committee is planning a pork barbecue on Saturday, May 8. Wakefield firefighters will contribute beans for the meal and will assist in the cooking and serving. Two large hogs have been donated for the event by Willard Barrels and Morris and Kenneth Thomson. Processing of the animals will be done courtesy of the Wakefield Locker Service. A consignment auction is planned in conjunction with the barbecue. Items can either be donated or consigned by calling Nixon Auctioneers or by contacting Jim Clark. Proceeds from the auction will also go to the park fund.

Choral class conducting choir

Members of the Wayne State College choral conducting class will have an opportunity to apply their knowledge at a concert free and open to the public on Wednesday, April 28. The choral conducting class will direct the Wayne State College Choir at a noon performance in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building on campus. The concert is given by the student conductors for a final grade in the choral conducting class, under the direction of Dr. Cornell Runestad, professor of music at Wayne State. The public is invited to attend the concert free.

Relief payments in the mail

Nebraska State Treasurer Kay Orr last Friday certified distribution of $10 million in personal property tax relief payments to 93 counties. Wayne County received $73,177. The distribution of state funds to the counties is intended by the Legislature as replacement for personal property taxes lost because the unicameral in 1975 exempted agricultural animals and machinery and business inventories from personal property taxes. Each county treasurer is to distribute the state funds to the political subdivision in that county based on the proportion of property tax levied by each subdivision in that previous calendar year compared to the total levied in the county.

Lt. Governor to visit Wayne

Nebraska Lieutenant Governor Roland Luedtke will stop in Wayne Thursday and Friday as part of a 1,500-mile, one-week campaign through Nebraska. A reception in Luedtke's honor is scheduled from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Ken and Cheryl Marra home, 1008 Sherman Street. Mrs. Marra is a member of his steering committee. A private breakfast will be held Friday morning at Marras and Luedtke will attend the weekly Wayne Chamber of Commerce coffee at 10 a.m. in the City Council chambers. Luedtke was deputy secretary of the state for 10 years, served 12 years as state legislator and is currently serving in his fourth year as lieutenant governor.

More services mean greater taxpayer expense

Chamber of Commerce of the United States

For some time federal, state and local governments have been tripping over each other to provide more and more services for the public. At greater expense to taxpayers!

Often every level of government seems in charge of a specific project. But as most people know who work in an organization, when everybody is in charge, no one is in charge.

IN THE WORDS of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, government has grown too large, too distant and too complex. The federal government, in particular, is bogged down trying to handle 300 different special grant programs, and in the process has created a regulatory maze of some 1,200 different mandates imposed on state and local governments.

To sort out this mish-mash, a master plan advanced by President Reagan, called the "New Federalism," would systematically realign many government programs and assign them in large measure to states and local communities.

When the U.S. Chamber of Commerce recently queried some 600 local and state chambers of commerce for their reaction, the response, in effect, was: "We thought you would never ask."

Judging from replies to a detailed questionnaire, business leaders obviously have given great thought to the problem. Respondents, representing chambers in cities from under 50,000 to over 1 million people, indicated:

— 94 percent favor returning additional programs to states and localities.

— 70 percent favor the main "swap" proposed by President Reagan: The federal government to take over responsibility for Medicare and Medicaid, programs to aid the elderly ill, while states would take over full responsibility for welfare, including food stamps, and education.

— Only six percent believe the federal government can do a better job than state or local units in handling block grants, which are designed to turn over lump sums to local and state agencies to use at their discretion.

IF ENACTED by Congress, the "New Federalism" would take place in two major stages over the next decade. First, the federal government, starting in 1984, would take over Medicaid and Medicare, shifting welfare to the states and netting states some $2 billion in savings. Under the second part of Phase I, the federal government would turn back special programs in 40 areas of activity over an eight-year transition period. States would be free to shape programs to suit their needs, and the federal government would establish a trust fund to help the states accept the fiscal responsibilities that go with program responsibilities.

In the second phase, federal participation would come to an end. States and local communities by this time would have their own programs and financing.

The task, says the Chamber's William D. Kelleher, director of community and regional development, "will not be easy, quick or simple but it is a job that must be done."

Taxpayers should join the coming debate over "New Federalism." They not only pay the bill for too much government; they suffer the consequences as well.

consumers, alike, an increasing number of those buying cars, boats, home furnishings and other goods are not paying later. They file for bankruptcy in order to cancel out their debts.

From 179,223 cases in 1979, personal bankruptcies shot up to 515,355 in 1981, and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce cites a new bankruptcy law, in effect since Oct. 1, 1979, as the major cause.

"Under the new bankruptcy code, an individual's future income is not taken into consideration when determining ability to repay debts," says an article in the Chamber's "Washington Watch," monthly regulatory newsletter, by regulatory specialist, Anne H. LeClair. "The law looks only at his assets. Therefore, an individual may file for bankruptcy and discharge all of his debts, even though he has a steady income."

According to a study by Purdue University's Credit Research Center, 40 percent of those filing for complete bankruptcy (known as Chapter 7 proceedings) could afford to repay 50 percent of their non-mortgage debts over five years and 29 percent could repay 100 percent. Thus, of $6 billion in canceled debt in 1981, $1.5 billion could have been paid.

Who pays the huge tab for the difference? Actually, consumers who do pay their bills. As Chamber president Richard L. Leshner points out, the cost of debt collection and bankruptcies is figured in the cost of credit. "And the people taking out credit are the people who pay for it," he explains.

The Chamber supports legislation in Congress to extend the repayment period from three to five years and require debtors with future income to devote disposable income to repaying their debts.

Capitol is rededicated

viewpoint

When to contact

Nebraska has a reputation for its conservative attitude. That is, it is the Nebraska Capitol building, producing the state government building, that is the conservative. But that conservative attitude has not always been interpreted with the same attitude toward accomplishing these tasks that need to be done.

This past week, Nebraskans rededicated the Capitol building and it was fortunate to have a role in the ceremonies on the north steps. It was 50 years ago that the Capitol was completed after a 10-year construction span as the state's first new seat of government on a pay-as-you-go basis. But the structure that emerged was more than a building; it became a monument to the pioneer spirit that has made Nebraska unique.

People in the Northeast Nebraska area should be aware of the times they should contact Social Security. Dale Branch Social Security district manager, in Norfolk, said recently knowing when to contact Social Security is important. Not doing so could mean a permanent loss of benefits. Or, it could mean an unnecessary delay, Branch said.

The times to contact Social Security are:

- When a person needs a Social Security number, needs to replace a lost Social Security card, or report a change in name. Be sure to apply for a number in plenty of time, since it may take about six weeks to get a number after the necessary evidence has been supplied.
- Whenever a family member dies, to determine if survivor benefits are payable.
- If a person becomes disabled, to find out if disability benefits can be paid.
- At 62, or when a person plans to retire. Generally a person who applies between 62 and 65 cannot receive benefits before the month of application.
- Two or three months before 65 even if the person has no retirement plans, to arrange for Medicare health insurance protection.

The people at the Norfolk Social Security Office will be glad to answer any questions about Social Security or Medicare. The office is located at 1310 Norfolk Avenue, Norfolk, Neb. The telephone number is 1 800 642 8310.

AT THE REDEDICATION, I read a letter of greetings from the honorable Fred Schwegel, a former Congressman who is now president of the United States Capitol Historical Society. In his message, Schwegel said:

"Known nationwide for its beauty and architectural elegance, this 'Tower of the Plains,' symbolizes in its strong and unfettered lines the spirit of a people — you Nebraskans — who are yourselves strong and so fortunately unfettered by the hectic pace of urban living.

"The pioneer spirit that brought your grandparents and great-grandparents to the abundant piece of ground in the middle of the plains is still thriving. In your tenacious refusal to give up during times of economic hardship and in your determination to forge ahead.

"The statue of the Sower atop the Capitol symbolizes the quintessential Nebraskan, for nothing speaks your state and your citizens more than the self-sufficient toiler on the land. By the same token, the statue of freedom on the top of the United States Capitol reminds us all of our common national heritage of love of freedom and pride of individualism.

"Your Capitol is a building for all Nebraskans. It is a building to explore and admire. You can come to it to wander in your past, to think about your future, and to remind yourselves of who you are."

Poor dollar use

The University of Nebraska has made very poor use of dollars for computers.

The University entered into a seven-year lease-purchase agreement for a main frame computer. By the time the university owned the computer, it was obsolete. As an experienced businesswoman, I would work as a agent to prevent long term purchases or leases in fields such as computers where the whole technology may change in a couple of years.

The university still has an expensive central computer to staff and maintain but most of the departments are not using it but are getting their own mini-computers. As a matter of fact, the regents voted about a half-million dollars at their March 27 meeting to allow the College of Engineering to buy its own computer.

The university should seek outside expertise on how to solve its computer woes and to establish one policy on computers for all campuses.

Party leads to destruction

Some people never cease to amaze me with their originality. Last Wednesday night, a group of individuals apparently decided to have a good time. Fortunately, their idea of a good time and a normal person's idea of a good time are two completely different things.

On Thursday, when Greenwood Cemetery sexton Al Wittig opened the gates to the cemetery, there were traces of a party. Evident traces. The smoke of a smoldering fire was an obvious sign that things weren't normal there. The fire had been built in the midst of numerous cedar trees on the north side of the cemetery.

Fortunately, the persons involved, while not possessing enough sense to know better than to light a fire next to trees, did have just enough sense to kick some dirt on the fire to prevent the flames from spreading after they left.

Tree branches apparently were broken off and used to keep the fire burning during the party. Sheets of plywood from a nearby shed were used to provide seating, keep the fire burning and probably to keep the flames from being seen.

Scattered near the smoldering pile of brush, were "Buckhorn" beer bottles, one whisky bottle and a plastic bag of what is believed to be marijuana.

Apparently that wasn't enough to keep the crew of partiers content. Stalwarts were torn off of a cemetery trailer and a tombstone—nearly four feet tall, three feet wide and 16 inches thick—was pushed over. The estimated weight of the tombstone is 2,500 pounds.

Governor Thone:

Tourism will be up in Nebraska in '82

More tourists are going to be staying in and traveling through Nebraska in 1982 than in 1981.

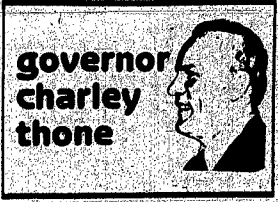

"That's really encouraging news when many other economic indicators in our state are down.

During February, 1982, the state of Nebraska received 5,599 requests for tourist information, 87 percent more than the 2,995 that came in during February, 1981.

Research by the state indicates that between 35 and 40 percent of those who asked for Nebraska tourist information early last year actually made a trip to Nebraska.

The Nebraska Department of Economic Development predicts that there will be at least 5 percent more tourists in the state this year than last year.

Last year was the first in which the travel business provided a billion dollars of income for Nebraska. National studies show that for each $1 spent by a tourist there is an additional $1.70 of business stimulated in a community. That would mean that the 1981 income in our state from the travel industry added $1.7 billion to our economy.

governor charley thone

We're stepping up our efforts to attract tourists. And the more visitors we gain the more we can promote since the increased promotion is being paid for by a tax on lodging.

Even so, we can't do everything that we'd like to do. But the state's efforts are being built upon by new local endeavors. The state provides guides at rest stops on Interstate 80 during June through August to persuade visitors to spend a little more time in Nebraska. This year, for the first time, six committees in the state will provide their own guides to work at the stops in May and September.

This month we're launching a new campaign to persuade more Nebraskans to vacation within the state and to give them more knowledge about Nebraska attractions that they can pass on to visitors or prospects. The campaign will feature a beautiful new song, "Nebraska, Discover the Difference."

Since each summer traveling party comes through our state, we can't afford to let more visitors go without knowing the difference that more visitors will mean to our economy.

37 youngsters confirmed

Bishop Milone comes home

St. Mary's Parish welcomed back an old friend last Tuesday night as the new Auxiliary Bishop of Omaha, Anthony Milone, confirmed 37 young people of the parish.

Bishop Milone conferred confirmation in several area parishes during the week — a visit that is made every three years in the small rural parishes. As the new Auxiliary Bishop, he is able to assist Archbishop Daniel Sheehan, who in the past, made the visits himself.

BISHOP MILONE was born in Omaha on Sept. 24, 1932, and graduated from Creighton Prep, Omaha in 1950.

He attended Conception Seminary, Conception, Mo., from 1950 to 1954, and Gregorian University (North American College) in Rome from 1954 to 1958.

He was ordained into the priesthood on Dec. 15, 1957 at North American College in Rome.

HE SERVED as assistant pastor at St. Mary's Parish in Bellevue from 1958-63, and as associate pastor at St. Patrick's Parish, O'Neill from 1963-65, and Our Lady of Lourdes Parish, Omaha from 1965-68.

From 1968 to 1973 he was pastor at St. Anne's Parish in Dixon and Immaculate Conception Parish in Waterbury. During that time he also served as Newman Club chaplain at Wayne State College.

He presently serves as pastor of St. Bernadette Parish, Omaha, and was appointed Auxiliary Bishop of Omaha on Nov. 11, 1981.

He was ordained a bishop on Jan. 6, 1982 at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

BISHOP MILONE remembers the "old days" when St. Mary's parish was housed in a much smaller building on East Fourth Street.

After offering Mass in Dixon and his mission church in Waterbury, he would drive to Wayne to offer the noon Mass, known as the "college Mass" for Wayne State students.

Q. Within the next month, I will leave my present employment to accept a new position in another state. I have worked for my present company for 18 years and will take with me a sizable retirement benefit fund, paid to me in cash. Can this be invested in my present IRA account, and is there any penalty?

A. When you leave your company and take your pension benefits with you, you may deposit all or part of those funds into your IRA, and may also be able to defer income tax payment on those funds. This is known as an IRA "rollover" contribution. There is no limit on the amount which you may contribute from your pension fund payment. However, in this instance, time is definitely of the essence. You must "roll over" or deposit your pension fund payment into your IRA within sixty days of the time you receive them. Otherwise, you will be liable for income tax payments on the funds.

Cats lose playoff to Kearney

By Kent Probst
Wayne State College

The baseball bats at Wayne State College picked a bad time to turn cold as the University of Nebraska swept a doubleheader in Lincoln Wednesday, followed by a playoff loss to Kearney State the following day.

After a scheduled doubleheader at home against Bellevue on Saturday, Wayne State travels to Briar Cliff on Monday, April 26 before hosting Doane the next day. Chadron State will be in town on April 30-May 1 for a dual double header.

The Cats, 10-15, managed a mere eight hits in the three games combined. UN-L won by 7-0 (nine innings) and had to come back for a 4-2 win, while Kearney State downed the Cats 5-2 in Columbus.

IN THE FIRST game against Nebraska, leadoff hitter Tom Todd pounded a ground rule double and the Cats appeared off and running. But Husker pitcher Bob Sebra limited the Cats to just two hits the rest of the way to earn the win and the shutout. Todd and designated hitter Greg Cruckshank both singled for the other two WSC hits.

Starting pitcher Rick Guy was not only tagged with the loss, he was tagged by a Husker line drive that sent him to the dugout with a deep thigh bruise in the fourth inning. Reliever Rocky Thompson came on and did a commendable job against UN-L's stable of hitters.

In the second game, Wayne State found itself leading by 2-1 heading into the bottom of the fifth. But a pair of throwing mistakes by the Wildcat catcher and a UN-L single allowed the hosts to register three runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 4-2 lead that never changed. Wayne State did have a pair of runners on base in the top of the seventh but were unable to score.

Randy Frink scattered just five hits but took the loss on the mound. Tom Todd had a triple and scored on a single by Chico Mason, while Ken Murcek had a single in the first inning to account for WSC's three hits.

SOLID HITTING and pitching by Kearney State proved too much for the Cats to overcome in the 5-2 loss on Thursday. The selback cost Wayne State a spot in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference baseball tournament set for April 30-May 1. Kearney State will go as the Nebraska representative.

Once again the Wildcat bats were silent. A second-inning bunt and a fourth inning home run by outfielder Craig Ludwig were the only base hits the Cats could manage. Tom Todd smacked a sacrifice fly to drive in the other WSC run, also in the fourth.

Kearney State pounded out 10 hits off Wildcat pitchers Grady Hansen and Dan Hilgenkamp, including four for extra bases. Both teams played error-free baseball.

In the nightcap, the Lady Lopers rallied to defeat the Wayne State squad 8-5. The game was even in every other department, with both teams being limited to four runs and committing three errors each.

The loss went to pitcher Laurie Owens and was only her second of the season. A triple by Susan Southwick and a double by Deb Janssen topped the hitting category for the Lady Cats.

In the double-header against Peru State Tuesday, the Wayne squad went on a scoring spree that saw them total 27 runs in the two games.

A PAIR of triples and four RBIs by Southwick capped the first game, an 11-2 win over the Lady Bobcats. Wayne scored runs in every inning but the fourth, while Peru's only scoring came with two runs in the top of the fifth.

Owens went the distance for the Cats, allowing five hits. A triple by Janssen supplemented the strong performance of teammate Southwick, as did the hitting of

Lady Wildcats trip Kearney, Peru

The Wayne State College Lady Wildcat softball team upped its record to 11-5 by winning three of its last four games against Kearney State and Peru State on Monday and Tuesday.

Coach Deb Weaver's squad was slated for doubleheaders with the University of Nebraska-Omaha on Friday and Creighton University on Saturday. They will then begin a four game home stand against Concordia College and Morningside College on Tuesday and Wednesday.

IN THE FIRST game of the twin bill against Kearney, the Lady Wildcats won by the score of 7-5. The Lady Lopers led early in the game, 3-2, with a three run third inning, but Wayne came back to tie it in the fifth and go ahead for good with four runs in the seventh.

Senior pitcher Cindy Stella was credited with the win, upping her season record to 4-1. Strong hitting included a home run by Lynn Brandt and a triple by Tammy Blackburn.

chers Owens and Sherry Telschaw, who each pushed in two RBIs.

Southwick's hot hitting continued into the first inning of the second game, a game in which the Lady Cats scored 16 runs on their way to a 16-0 victory called in the third inning due to the 15-run rule.

Southwick came to the plate three times during the inning and knocked out a hit each time including two triples on her way to pushing in 5 RBIs. Pitcher Blackburn took the win, and was relieved by Telschaw in the top of the second.

Estimates, careful planning will help when weatherizing

CONSERVATION PAYBACK (Low Cost, No-Cost Home Energy-Savers Which Pay for Themselves).

By Roger Boyce
Many homeowners are worried about energy costs nowadays. There are some good reasons for this. The price of home heating fuel has doubled since 1977 and will probably go higher. With this in mind, many people are contemplating additional weatherization of their homes. As with any other investment, when someone invests in conservation, he wants a good return on his money.

When weatherizing, be money smart. Look first for conservation measures which will pay for themselves in a reasonable length of time through the energy they save. One way to tell how cost effective the conservation measure is by its payback.

To figure a simple payback, divide the cost of the contemplated conservation measure by the first year's energy savings. For example, installing a water heater insulation blanket might cost $25.

AVAILABLE estimates suggest that for electric water heaters, an insulation blanket can save about $20 to $25 a year. Dividing the cost of the blanket ($25) by the first year's savings ($20 to $25) shows that this measure should pay for itself in from one year to one year and three months — certainly a reasonable length of time for a payback.

Other inexpensive conservation measures that have relatively short payback include: installing a flow controller in the shower head that reduces the flow of water while the shower continues to give off a good spray (most families spend from 10 to 20 percent of their monthly utility bills on hot water); caulking and weather stripping around doors and windows and along sill-plates, through holes where telephone lines enter the house, and around dryer vents, and, insulating heating and air conditioning ducts in the basement.

People who carefully insulate the house itself and then forget to seal and insulate ducts in an unheated or air conditioned basement may be throwing away 20 to 40 percent of their furnace or air conditioner output. Caulking and weather stripping in our climate will usually pay for itself in from one to three years.

In addition to the energy savings these measures give, a person can get back 15 percent of the money spent on insulation, caulking and weather stripping, storm windows, certain furnace improvements and some other items — from $10 to $300 back — through tax credits. There are a few exceptions and tax laws do change, but this can be an excellent opportunity for extra savings. The local IRS Office can give fuller details.

EVEN WHEN planning to insulate, add storm windows, or make other major energy saving purchases, try these suggestions first. They are cost-effective. They offer quick payback, and in some cases, they will increase the savings you get when you install insulation later.

Other energy conservation ideas are in the Nebraska Energy Saving manual which is available at the Wayne Public Library and in a brochure entitled "Low Cost, No Cost" which is available from the Nebraska Energy Office, P.O. Box 95085, Lincoln, Neb 68509.
