Gubernatorial candidate calls for competency — not loyalty

Bob Kerrey, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor made a brief stop in Wayne late Thursday morning, expressing his dissatisfaction with the way state government is being administered.

"We can have an efficient government based on competency instead of loyalty," said Kerrey.

Kerrey made his remarks during an hour-long stop at the Windmill Restaurant, where he introduced himself to local townspeople and supporters.

"THERE IS a serious threat to the openness of our society as a result of some of our failures in the past," stated Kerrey.

"Although a lot of people are willing to abandon their dreams, it's important to recognize we're strong," he added.

Kerrey said his biggest complaint is government inefficiency. "An awful lot of taxpayers are angry because they see a lot of waste," he said.

When Americans become so dissatisfied there is always the danger they'll throw out government entirely," said Kerrey.

The 38 year old Democratic gubernatorial hopeful said he believes government can be a source of strength when it is administered efficiently.

DURING A tour of western Nebraska Kerrey called for a total rewrite of the 1981 Farm Bill passed by Congress.

"The present national farm program was not drafted by farmers for farmers," said Kerrey.

"It was drafted by Washington bureaucrats trying to cut the national budget, who have totally overlooked the real farm crisis and the long term effects a poor farm program will have on our national economy."

"As Nebraska farmers go into their fields they are faced with a no-win situation," stated Kerrey.

"Disastrous farm prices will not cover production costs and the national farm program offers totally inadequate relief. Farmers can only hope to minimize their losses."

"IT IS NOT too late to be heard in Washington so as to reverse this disastrous policy," said Kerrey.

"All the evidence tells us what we must do. We cannot wait until the November elections for relief. We must act now."

KERREY, A lifelong Lincoln resident said the ravaged economy is the number one problem facing Nebraska, and he offered four suggestions to stimulate the state's economy.

"First," said Kerrey, "our governor must lead us in the revival of the spirit that we can and will recover."

Second, the governor must actively assert himself to encourage businesses and workers to invest in Nebraska.

Kerrey said Nebraska's governor must also take an assertive and active role in identifying and attracting industry that can grow and prosper.

And, fourth, the governor must run the business of state government in a fiscally prudent fashion.

CALLING FOR a policy that will insure a plentiful water supply for residents throughout Nebraska, Kerrey said the state's action on passing a water policy has been piecemeal.

A unified approach that will take local needs into consideration is needed," he said.

"It is clear that the water needs in Omaha are different from the water needs of rural Scottsbluff County."

Kerrey said if elected Governor he personally will convene and preside over a Nebraska Water Independence Congress.

The Congress, according to Kerrey, will represent all water interests — urban, rural, agricultural, business, labor, developers, and conservationists.

SAYING THAT 95 cents of every dollar Nebraskans spend on energy leaves the state, Kerrey said it is critical for Nebraska to address its energy needs now.

"One-third of the Nebraska tax base is used to pay energy bills," said Kerrey, adding that energy costs drain the Nebraska economy of $3.5 billion a year.

Saying that cutting energy costs is one key way for homeowners, businesses, farmers and governments to financially survive, Kerrey said priority needs to be given to developing strategies for effectively resolving Nebraska's energy problems.

KERREY PRAISED Nebraska's educational system and said it is well respected throughout the country and the world.

"We must be prepared to pay the price for good education," he stated, adding that Nebraskans must adjust the way education is financed so that education does not suffer while government works out the appropriate taxing and budgeting mechanisms.

"State education is heavily funded by property taxes. We should acknowledge the weight of this burden and strive to provide more general fund support," Kerrey said.

"DESPITE THE cautions given by people who care for me when I announced my candidacy for governor, I'm charged up," said Kerrey.

"I think the people will make the government as good as they are. I think we have potential to prosper in the 1980's."

Cameron visits Wayne

'Get out of U.N.' says candidate

Ken Cameron, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, told a group of Wayne State students and Wayne businessmen Wednesday afternoon that the United States should get out of the United Nations.

"I'm totally unsatisfied with the U.N. It's time we say 'Hey, it's not working,'" Cameron said in the Menagerie Room of the Wayne State Student Union. "Let's get out of the U.N. tomorrow."

CAMERON ANSWERED questions fired to him by the group, expressed his opinions on various subjects and condemned his Republican primary opponent Jim Keck, who visited Wayne last week.

He told the WSC students that Keck will not debate him because he "can't relate and can't get the facts straight."

"My Republican opponent for the Senate race, General Keck, is panicking these final days before the election because his campaign manager has discovered he can't relate to the people and that he's on Zorin's side on several issues," said Cameron.

"There are former Keck supporters coming to me now, saying he doesn't answer their questions, collapses when he gets off his prepared script and leans too close to Zorin's sky."

Cameron told his audience he is concerned with the current "squeeze" private industry is going through. "We must produce better, we must think better. We need pride in workmanship — there must be pride," he stated. "If we don't have producers then we don't have taxes and we're really in trouble."

TEARING A DOLLAR bill in two pieces Cameron said, "I believe in the gold standard. We have printed, printed, printed and it has to stop."

Stating that Reagan's budget plan is six months behind schedule, Cameron explained that interest rates "are the killer." He told his listeners that high interest rates are caused by government spending and added that he is in favor of tax cuts to get incentive back into our system.

Giving his views on Reagan's proposal to abolish the cabinet level Department of Education, the candidate said he feels we should get Uncle Sam out of the classroom.

Let the states and local school boards decide what their educational systems need," he said. "A national school system is what Hitler had and look at his results. Let's get back to reading, writing, arithmetic, history and throw in a little orthography."

ONE MEMBER of the audience asked Cameron for his views on the right to life. "I believe in the right to life," he said. "If my mother would have had the preventative measures we have available today, I wouldn't be here. My mother was 16 and unmarried."

Cameron turned to the subject of welfare at one time during the discussion and stated, "We have to stop helping people who don't want to be helped. People want to make it on their own. We throw money at our problems but money doesn't stop the problems."

The Republican said he believes in solving more problems at the state level instead of the federal level. He said he supports only 95 percent of the Reagan administration.

"Haig scores me half to death," he explained. "He's always reviewing the troops."

About the only question to which Cameron didn't have a strong opinion was a question concerning the United States' policy with Red China and Taiwan. "We have a hot potato there," he responded.

Lacey and Raggedy

LITTLE LACEY BEBEE of Laurel can match Raggedy Ann's smile any day. Lacey, who is the three-year-old daughter of Mike and Lorie Bebee, chatted with Raggedy Ann during the Dixon County "LAMP" program held Thursday afternoon at the Northeast Station, Concord. Nearly 100 guests attended the program which was sponsored by Dixon County Home Extension Clubs. Each of the 11 clubs sponsored a display of exhibits depicting personality development of individuals. Exhibits included paintings by local artists, needlework arts, including the Raggedy Ann which Lacey holds, crafts, and rock collections by club members. For another picture, see page 4.

Broncos, Seahawks sign Wayne State stars to pro contracts

Ed Blackburn

By Randy Hascall
Ed Blackburn has come a long way since his freshman year in high school when he used his 5-8, 135-pound frame to run over people.

As a freshman, Ed played linebacker and running back. He said he suffered excessive bruises and cuts but said he felt that gave him the necessary experience to become a good ball player.

"I learned to put my head down and dish it out. That might have made the difference. I liked being a running back in high school because I could run over people."

Now, at age 22, Blackburn hopes to run past people. The Wayne State College light end, although overlooked in the National Football League draft, signed a free agent contract Thursday with the Denver Broncos.

BLACKBURN SAID he was disappointed that he wasn't drafted but said he preferred to go the free agent route rather than be drafted in the late rounds.

As a free agent he had the advantage of making his own choice on which team to sign with. He also was in a position to negotiate on salaries.

The 6-5, 217-pound speedster was contacted by four teams and offered free agent contracts after the draft. Denver, Pittsburgh, Tampa Bay and Cincinnati were the teams which expressed interest in him.

The industrial arts education major is an All-American light end and a two-time All-American sprinter. He also earned all-conference, all-state and all-district honors. Blackburn, who runs the 110-meter high hurdles in :14.0, runs the 40 in 4.5 seconds.

PRIOR TO the draft, Blackburn was contacted by Denver, Pittsburgh, New York Jets, New York Giants, San Francisco, Oakland, Dallas, Tampa Bay, Washington, Atlanta and Cincinnati.

Blackburn said he weighed the advantages and disadvantages of the four offers he received and finally decided on Denver. He explained that Tampa Bay and Cincinnati had drafted tight ends and Pittsburgh picked up a tight end later.

The Malvern, Iowa native also received some pressure from the Broncos' scout Bruce Barber. Barber was in Wayne Wednesday and made Blackburn an offer. On Thursday, he told Ed to "take it or leave it."

The sprinter took the offer. Terms of his contract are $35,000 for the first year if he makes the active roster at any time, $42,000 for the second year and $50,000 for the third year.

Also included is a $4,000 bonus for showing up at camp. Other possible bonuses include $5,000 if he is a member of the active list for the first ball game of 1982 and $5,000 if he participates on 50 or more offensive plays.

BLACKBURN SAID he was leaning toward Pittsburgh until they picked up a tight end. The Steelers also offered less money but that had little effect on Ed's decision.

"I laid awake in bed all night thinking about it. I tried not to look at the money difference," Blackburn said. "I thought I'd fit in better at Denver than out east—it's tough anywhere you go."

Steve Zelinsky cleaned house early last week, hoping and waiting for a possible phone call informing him he had been drafted into the National Football League.

The Wayne State offensive tackle continued to clean the apartment he shares with three other players until it was spotless. The phone call never came.

Disappointed, the 6-3, 255-pound Wheaton, Ill. product went to Rice Auditorium for a game of water basketball Wednesday night.

However, Zelinsky got his opportunity after the final round of the draft ended.

THE SEATTLE SEAHAWKS offered the WSC senior a three-year free agent contract late Wednesday night. Seattle scout Ed Brownder signed Zelinsky in Omaha Thursday afternoon. Brownder had intended to meet the Wayne State star in Sioux City but had troubles with his flight.

Zelinsky and Brownder negotiated at the airport in Omaha. Zelinsky was given a $2,500 signing bonus and signed a three-year contract valued at $145,000. If he makes the team, he will earn $35,000 the first year, $45,000 the second year and $60,000 the third year. Several incentive clauses and bonuses could money to that figure.

The marketing, business administration major was graduated from Wayne State Sunday afternoon. He then planned to go back to Wheaton for a week before packing his bags to fly out to next weekend's rookie camp in Seattle. Regular camp opens on July 25 in the desert near Spokane.

"I FELT THERE was a good possibility I would be drafted. But, it's a lot tougher than you expect," Zelinsky said. "I was a little nervous. I was hoping something would come up."

The 22-year-old Zelinsky, who bench presses 355 pounds and runs the 40 in 5.1 seconds, said he was contacted by eight clubs through letters or scouts prior to the draft. Three or four ball clubs were more seriously interested in him, he said.

The Seahawks said they plan to move Zelinsky from offensive tackle to offensive guard. The WSC grad said he needs to work off quickness but added that the transition shouldn't be too difficult.

"Quickness and determination are the major factors on making it in the pros."

When Zelinsky—nicknamed Z-man—heard the good news from Seattle, he informed his biggest fan—his father, Mike Zelinsky drove from Wheaton to watch every Wayne State game this past season. He usually brought along Steve's mother, Rita.

"MY FAMILY was pretty excited. Dad drove about 1,000 miles to watch the Chadron game this fall and he's been a big supporter," Steve said. The Zelniskys also got to watch their youngest son Paul start for Wayne State this year. He has two years of eligibility remaining.

"My brother is a good supporter and I'm counting on him to help me work out. I attribute a lot of my success to him," said Steve, who has two older twin brothers living in Denver and Anaheim. The twins made it to one WSC game this past year.

Nationwide Swedish arts tour coming to Wakefield

Theater, Visafon och Bal, a nationwide tour of the traditional performing arts of Swedish America, will appear in Wakefield on Sunday, June 6, at 7 p.m. The performance will be in the Wakefield Community School auditorium.

THE NATIONAL Council for the Traditional Arts, a non-profit organization in its 44th year of public programming of the regional and ethnic arts of the United States, has assembled a representative group of the best performers of Swedish folk traditions, immigrant songs and Swedish-American dialect humor.

The group of 15 persons (13 performers, a director and sound technician) will visit communities from Chicago to Seattle between May 22 and June 13. The performance will be about two and a half hours in length.

HALE OF the presentation will be "Swedish Folk Traditions in America," under the supervision of Gordon Ekvall Tracie. Since 1948 his Skandia Folkdance Society in the Seattle area has encouraged the community to learn and practice the traditional dances of Sweden and the rest of Scandinavia. This community of dancers has in turn, made Seattle a stronghold of the instrumental popular road shows of Olle Skratthult and his company. A comedy in dialect, "The Man from Minnesota," will feature Steve Benson of Minneapolis as Charlie Lulefisk. Anne-Charlotte Hanes Harvey, now of San Diego, will be the leading lady. This part of the program will be further enhanced by Mrs. Harvey's spirited and sensitive performance of immigrant ballads in Swedish and English.

Dances will be demonstrated by members of the company under Tracie's direction.

TICKETS FOR the performance will soon be on sale in the area. Further inquiries or information should be directed to: Theater, Visafon och Bal, Box 69, Wakefield, Neb. 68784.

Wayne State wins CSIC opener; loses to Emporia in 2nd contest

By Randy Mascall

The Wayne State College Wildcats may not have resembled the Los Angeles Dodgers but they did look pretty sharp as they downed host Missouri Western 2-7 in opening round play of the Central States Intercollegiate Conference tournament.

Unfortunately, the Cats had a tough time in their second round game, losing 12-3 to perennial baseball power Emporia State.

WAYNE STATE was scheduled to play Emporia again Saturday afternoon in the double elimination tourney. A win would have forced another game with Emporia to decide the CSIC championship.

Missouri Western was eliminated from the tournament by virtue of Wayne's 3-2 win and Emporia's 10-3 victory over the Griffons.

Ken Murcek scored Wayne's winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning of the first game. He drew a walk to lead off that half of the inning and stole second base. Greg Cruickshank ripped a single to bring in the winning run.

Pitcher Grady Hansen went the distance for the Cats and threw a seven hitter with five walks and five strikeouts. He allowed one run in the first inning and another in the third. Western had runners on second base in all but one inning but only three of them ever reached third.

GREG CRUICKSHANK and Rich Murcek each pounded out two hits in the first game.

Cruickshank and Craig Ludwig scored Wayne's first two runs in the fourth inning.

Cruickshank walked, Ludwig doubled and Rich Murcek pounded a base hit to tie the game at 2-2. In the second game, the Wildcats played well in the early innings.

Starter Randy Frink held Emporia to two hits and one run through the first four innings. The Hornets scored 11 runs in the next four innings to blow open a close contest.

Many of runs were the result of errors. Trailing 1-0, Wayne scored the tying run in the top of the fifth. Mike Gertzler walked and designated runner Tim Gertzler replaced him at first base. Chico Mason singled and Tom Todd sacrificed Gertzler to third base.

Ken Murcek's two out single brought in the run.

Unfortunately for the Cats, Emporia came back with three runs in the bottom of the fifth and two in the sixth to build a 4-1 advantage. Wayne State added one run in the seventh and another in the eighth but it wasn't enough.

IN THE SEVENTH, Tom Todd singled and stole second base to get into scoring position. Ken Murcek's RBI single resulted in the run. Greg Cruickshank led off with a base hit in the eighth and Craig Ludwig followed it up with a single. Cruickshank scored on a fielder's choice.

Jeff Clark pitched the final 2 2/3 innings for the Wildcats. Emporia's pitcher Improved his record to 8-1 with his only loss (7-5) coming against Texas University.

On a roll

Wayne golfers tackle 11 teams to win Hartington CC Invitational

Wayne golf coach Harold Maciejewski was wearing a smile on the way home from Hartington late Friday afternoon.

The veteran coach had just seen his young golf squad reach a season high point by winning the 12-team Hartington CC Invitational.

Led by medalist Cole Froeschle, three Blue Devils won medals. In addition to Froeschle's first place medal, Bill Vrtiska placed 11th and Brad Moore finished 12th.

"I THINK these kids are playing pretty serious golf and that has helped," Maciejewski said. "Froeschle has put his game together." Speaking about Froeschle, Moore and Vrtiska, Mac said three of his players are surfacing as "real strong golfers." He added that Wayne is finding consistency in the fourth and fifth positions.

Froeschle fired a 36-39-75 on the Hartington course. Vrtiska shot a 42-43-85 to tie for the 10th place spot but lost a playoff and had to settle for the 11th place medal. Moore's round of 46-40-86 was good for sole possession of 12th place.

The other score which counted on Wayne's total was a 46-48-94 by Perry Benschhof. John Carhart's round of 47-49-96 wasn't counted.

The Blue Devils had a combined score of 340 strokes to trim Wausa and Hartington CC by four. CC won a playoff for the second place trophy.

11. Emerson	429
12. Hartington	513

LOOKING AHEAD Maciejewski said he feels Wayne has a chance of qualifying for the Class B state tournament if the fourth and fifth golfers play consistently.

Of Friday's five varsity players, two are sophomores, one is a freshman, one is a junior and one is a senior. Three had never played on Hartington's course. "I think we have a lot of potential. I'm real happy with these people," Mac said.

The Blue Devils are scheduled to host Hartington CC and Hartington High in a triangular today (Monday) and play at Schuyler tomorrow.

Individual scores:

Cole Froeschle	36	39-75
Bill Vrtiska	42	43-85
Brad Moore	46	40-86
Perry Benschhof	46	48-94
John Carhart	47	49-96

Lady Cats compete in CSIC Tourney

Broncos

 "I laid awake in bed all night thinking about it. I tried not to look at the money difference," Blackburn said. "I thought I'd fit in better at Denver than out east—it's tough anywhere you go."
 The morning of the draft, Blackburn had cable television hooked up in his apartment so he could watch live coverage on the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network.
 The telephone rang several times during the draft and got Blackburn's hopes up. Each time, it was a friend or relative calling to learn if he had been drafted.

THE TIGHT END said he knew if he was going to be drafted it would happen on Wednesday. At 2:30, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers called Blackburn and told him they would like to pick him up if he wasn't chosen in the draft.

 Next Denver and Pittsburgh contacted him and final Cincinnati got hold of him. He had four free agent contract offers that evening.
 The Broncos plan to use Blackburn as tight end and on specialty teams. They told him to put on 15 to 20 pounds, practice blocking and work on catching the ball.

After committing to Denver, Ed phoned his father. "He was all excited," Ed recalled. "I said 'this is Ed, I'm heading for Denver.'" Blackburn's parents, Max and Zylpha, attended all of Wayne State's games except the Chadron State contest. Ed has four older sisters and a brother who is a junior in high school. He says his brother is bigger than he was as a senior.

"I NEVER DREAMED" it would happen," Blackburn said of the contract. "Very few guys go on to play football after high school and I didn't ever expect to get a chance beyond high school until I was contacted."

Blackburn will report to camp July 23 at Denver. A mini camp for rookies is scheduled from May 12-14.

The two-sport standout said trying to concentrate on two sports and studies is difficult. He said he used to come home at 6:30 drained from football practice and have homework to do. He says he wasn't as burned out during track season but meals were held during the day and often interfered with classes.

"I had a sick feeling in my stomach wondering if I did the right thing," Blackburn said about signing with the Broncos. "As the days passed, I felt that I did. My main goal now is to make the team. From there, other opportunities can open up. But first you have to make the team."

Seahawks

 Throughout his career at Wayne State, Zelinsky earned first team all-conference honors three years and all-district honors this last year, as well as being named to all-state and other teams.

He was overlooked when the All-American team was announced and he said he feels he may have deserved an All-American honor. He explained that some conference players he played against made the All-American team and added that he may have been just as deserving as them.

WHEN ASKED how it felt to be an offensive lineman when running backs and defensive players often get most of the recognition, Zelinsky replied, "When you do your job you can smile."

"Offensive linemen work as hard as anyone or harder and they don't get much recognition. You can't expect glory," Zelinsky said. "It takes timing, practice and coordination to do the job right. I've been an offensive lineman for 10 years and lack of recognition is part of life. You know you contributed to the success of a running back when he breaks through a hole in the line. That's all that's important."

Zelinsky said Seattle is a young team which is rebuilding. They have 11 free agents on the roster and the Wayne State standout said he would like to become number 12.

"They have a good, young, growing ball club and I feel I can get a good chance there. I'm happy with Seattle," Steve said. "My ultimate goal is to make the team. If I make it, then I'll set other goals—but I'll take it one step at a time."

The free agent said it took a lot of hard work and good coaching for him to reach the pro ranks. "I want to thank all the coaches at the college, especially for the way they motivate players," Steve said. "I feel I was given a real good shot at Wayne State. They gave me a chance to start right away."

"IS YOUR IRA DOING ALL IT SHOULD BE DOING FOR YOU?"
All IRAs are not alike. In fact, there are as many different Individual Retirement Accounts as there are ways to invest your money in them.
Maybe your IRA isn't yielding its full earning potential. Or perhaps it should be providing you with stronger capital growth opportunities.
We can make sure your IDS investment is geared to your specific needs. You see, at IDS we offer a wider range of funding vehicles than you can get from a bank, a savings and loan association or an insurance company. We'll help you choose from an extensive list of mutual and money market funds, annuities, and investment certificates.
Now is the time to make sure your IRA investment pays off. And IDS is the place. Call today for more information.

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.

It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons.
So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.
A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.
And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.
Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.
Valley dominates the field.

Clean up, fix up, spruce up

The pride of a community shown through last Sunday afternoon as nearly 50 residents of Winside met in the city's park for an all out clean up effort. While the men began construction of new playground equipment, women and children went to work scraping off old paint for a new coat, trimming hedges and raking. Among those helping were several members of the Helping Hands 4 H Club, who scraped old paint from the bandstand and met again on Friday to give the bandstand a shiny new coat. Five year old Rachel Hafermann, top left photo, got in on the action too. Rachel combed the park for small debris which she collected in a paper sack to dispose of later. In the top right photo, from left, Darin Greunke, 13, Ryan Morse, 14, and Craig Evans, 12, scrape old paint while 11-year-old Doug Cherry, center photo at left, trims hedges around the bandstand in preparation for a new coat of paint. Helping scrape paint at the other end of the bandstand is 18-year-old Lisa Jensen, center photo at right. Curt Jeffries, in photo at left, drills holes for a redwood deck which will hold a variety of wooden playground apparatus. In the far left photo, Darren Wacker, 11, rakes leaves with a smile. Following the clean-up, workers were treated to a wiener roast in the park.
