Hartington seamstress delights area farm wives and women

By LaVon Anderson

She went to California in the '30's, worked for designer Edith Head in the Cecil B. DeMills Studio in Hollywood, and brushed the lives of stars such as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.

Today — she sews costumes in a chicken house near Hartington.

Mrs. Helen Hansen, a professional seamstress and farm wife, enchanted women attending Thursday's Farm Ladies Appreciation Luncheon in Wayne with stories of her life and the work she loves so much only to her family — sewing.

AN ESTIMATED 570 women attended the free luncheon, sponsored the past seven years by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce in appreciation of rural contributions to the area.

Following a meal of salads in the Wayne State College Student Union, women walked to Ramsey Theatre where Mrs. Hansen talked about her life and showed costumes she designs for many college and high school drama clubs within a 100 mile radius of her home.

Appearing slightly embarrassed by all the attention, Mrs. Hansen told the women they also must "toot their own horns" once in a while.

"I've always said, if you don't like the footlights and think you're the best there is, then you're in the wrong business."

MRS. HANSEN began her story in California in the 1930's when she traveled there with her two small children to be near her sister.

"I knew I had to make a living for myself and my children," she said.

One day, watching a little girl push a Singer sewing machine across the street, Helen approached her to ask what she was doing.

"I'm going to take this to the Goodwill," replied the young girl. "Honey, I am the Goodwill," answered Helen.

Using her newly acquired Singer, Helen began remaking clothes from the Salvation Army.

"I took the clothes home, ripped them up, and sewed them all over again," she said.

HELENO no longer looked for a job to support her family.

"I made clothes," smiled Helen, "and within three or four months I had a very good little business going."

Then came the war and Helen's family learned that her brother, a Navyman, was missing in action.

"My family and I tried in every way to find my brother. We didn't have any luck, and neither did the Navy."

Then, one day, Helen saw an advertisement in a local newspaper announcing that Cecil B. DeMills and Commander Goggin of the Navy ship her brother was stationed on, were making a movie entitled "The Story of Dr. Wassel."

"I wrote to Mr. DeMills," Helen told the women. "I thought he could get in touch with Commander Goggin to help locate my brother."

The next day a limousine appeared at Helen's home to take her to the Cecil B. DeMills Studio. "The next thing I knew I had a job sewing in wardrobe."

WHILE WORKING under world famous designer Edith Head at the Cecil B. DeMills Studio, Helen met many stars of the time, including Bing Crosby, who "almost ran over me with a bicycle," and Barbara Stanwick, who told Helen she made the most beautiful button holes in the world.

"I got to work in a lot of road pictures with Hope, Crosby and Dorothy Lamour," Helen told the women.

"Maybe I shouldn't tell this," she smiled, "but Dorothy Lamour's figure didn't look as good in wardrobe as it did on the screen. We had to build her up a bit."

Helen especially remembers the day Miss Head came to her sewing table and told her she spoke the language.

"She meant that I knew how to sew and what the studio was doing," smiled Helen. "I've never forgotten those words, and I decided right then and there what I was going to do the rest of my life. I was going to try to live up to what she thought I was."

Helen also is proud of the dress Loretta Young wore that took first place in national honors at a fashion show in New York City.

"I worked with Miss Head on that dress," recalls Helen, "and I was very, very proud."

AFTER WORKING at the Cecil B. DeMills Studio for some time, Helen decided to open her own shop in Santa Monica, Calif.

It was while she was operating the shop that she met and married her present husband, Henry.

"My husband had some more work, so I kept the house and raised the kids. But I still couldn't get away from my sewing."

When the family bought a farm and moved to Hartington, Helen continued to sew for local residents and organizations.

Soon she was sewing costumes for local high school plays and renting those costumes to other high schools in the area.

The business grew, and today Helen rents her costumes to college and high school drama clubs within a 100 mile radius of her home.

She sews in a chicken house her husband converted for her use.

"I have costumes from just about every play I know. I am a good seamstress, even at my age. I don't feel old unless I look in a mirror, and we don't have any of those in our house," she laughed.

"I'll keep working at it as long as I possibly can. God gives every one a gift, and I'm sure he gave me mine."

"I still go back to California every once in a while, and they still remember me. Isn't that nice?"

Before narrating a style show of costumes Helen has designed, she informed the women that her missing brother, a prisoner of war, returned home and continued to serve in the Navy.

MODELING SEVERAL of Helen's costumes from such shows as "My Fair Lady," "Oklahoma," "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Sound of Music," were:

Lu Ellingson, Beth Czupryn, Linda Carr, Lisa Brandt, Roseann Pedersen, Kathy Manske, Bill and Deb Dickey, Cynthia Jorgensen, Pal Craun, Brenda Dorsey, Joanie Bursi, Kathryn Ley, Steve Marra, Mary Pat Gross, Nanna Peterson and Martha Brodersen.

The program included a medley from "Oklahoma" by Deb and Bill Dickey, Pat Craun danced the Charleston, and Kathryn Ley sang "The Sound of Music."

Providing musical accompaniment were Bonnie Stiefken on piano and Kara Kugler on drums.

SERVING AS mistress of ceremonies at this year's luncheon was Becky Keidel.

"I really like this tradition," smiled Mrs. Keidel. "and I look forward to this each year."

"I'm not a farm girl, and I never have been," Mrs. Keidel told the nearly 600 women. "But I call Wayne my home, and that makes us neighbors."

Speaking on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce was Chamber President Bob Enz, who thanked the women for the patronage, participation and support they have given the community.

Responding on behalf of the farm women was Phyllis Rahn.

"I think it is great that our Wayne sisters think so much of us and take the time to show their gratitude," said Mrs. Rahn.

"Many farm wives were tested this spring waiting for the rain. Because we all survived and the show goes on, we have reason to celebrate today."

"May our relationship continue to bloom and grow," closed Mrs. Rahn.

The invocation was given by Sandy Ostercamp.

DOOR PRIZES during the afternoon went to Lois Henrickson, Helen Tiedtke, Janet Kriesche, Beverly Ruwe, Doris Meyer, Dorothy Meyer, Lila Kay, Marla Hewitt, Cindy Willers and Delores Helgren, all of Wayne.

and Pam McCall, Mrs. Art Rabe and Eleanor Fuoss of Winside, Margaret Test of Madison, Bernice Rees of Randolph, Malinda Rastede of Allen, Bernice Loetscher of Emerson, and Helen Domsch, Mae Greve, Ruth Fell and Margaret Turner of Wakefield.

Credit deserved

On Sunday, 16 softball teams, composed of people from Wayne and the surrounding area, will converge at a new softball complex in the city for a tournament.

The tournament will mark the first games played since the completion of the four diamond complex.

Last winter, the Jaycees of Wayne approached the city, wishing to work out some kind of an agreement for more diamond space.

It is a credit to the Jaycees and the city that they were able to reach an agreement for construction of such a complex.

With lots of room for parking, playing and a future concession stand, the new complex is a welcome addition to the city for serving the needs of an active public.

Not only should the Jaycees and city officials be congratulated for their efforts but the volunteers who have donated countless hours of work time to improve the area should be congratulated and thanked for their efforts.

Tournament organizers are confident of a good time for all the players. If you're not doing anything on Sunday, bring a blanket or lawn chair and come on out to the new complex. It promises to be a good time for spectators as well.

I should have worn a flack vest to work Wednesday morning. Talk about broadsides... I felt like a pirate in a clipper with a battleship along side. Now I know all those stories about judging contests are true... you can't please everyone.

What happened? How did Dean and I make our final choice for the high honor of "worst-dressed" employee during Moonlight Madness sales in Wayne? Well, we looked, we watched, almost (since neither of us are married) awarding two special awards for cute and cuddly, but finally reaching a decision because every time we looked at Barry we couldn't stop laughing.

For me it came down to a couple other people and Barry, but judges must compromise and I admit Barry came out tops for us both.

Unfortunately, the photo that ran of Barry last Thursday showed him at his best...not his worst. I guess you just had to be there.

In any case, next time, I propose a special merchants award... a lot of class stuff was on the streets and in the shops. It seems a shame not to award them something for their hard work at dressing up. Also next year I plan to delegate the duty.

If you were wondering (or even remember) why the paper last column line was a little "different" it was because I finally learned what all the golfers were telling me my first night in town was true. "Oh you're not really going to work for the paper are you? Oh, I'm so sorry you poor..."

Needless to say there were a few surprised faces when I came back...actually I had to make a wedding of a non-relative, a guy I went through high school with and have been living in the same area of the state with for several years.

I'm glad it was him and not me, but anyway, the wedding (hic, hic) was great and the drive back (Oh my aching head and that hot sun) was a real bumper but your local chief snop is back on duty as of this week, continuing to improve etc. etc. Also we are all playing sports editor this week because of vacation time for Randy Hascall. I didn't hear from him all week wanting bail money so I guess he had a good time.

Do people around here plan it this way or does it just happen? There seems to be alot of stuff going on what with parades, softball tournaments, special celebrations etc. etc.

It's a good thing we have a summer intern (Michelle Kubik) to help pick-up on stuff, especially this week. I think we've seen the start of a sports editor not to mention half-a-dozen other things.

We haven't let Michelle drive the newspaper's van yet...at least I don't think so...but she's picked up her nickname from our unofficial office name (make me wonder about mine when or if...) and is a good worker. She'll probably look back in 10 years and still want to bomb her editor but hey, what the heck, she'll be thankful someday (Isn't that what people always say?)

ASK A LAWYER A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEBRASKA STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Q. About two years ago, I loaned my father some money (about $7,500) but we did not have any agreement about it in writing. He died recently and I am the personal representative of his estate. His will states that everything is to be divided equally between me and my brother and sister. Can I take out this $7,500 before dividing up the rest of the estate, or do I have to take just an equal share like my brother and sister?

A. Once an estate has been opened and probate begun, any creditor, including you, has an opportunity to file claims against your father's estate. Depending upon the factual circumstances surrounding your claim, and your proof of the loan, your claim may or may not be allowed by the court. You should not simply pay yourself first without making certain that your claim has been properly filed and your brother and sister have been given an opportunity to object to the payment if they wish to do so.

After all allowed claims have been paid, the remainder of the assets of the estate will be divided equally among the three of you. If your claim is allowed by the court, it will be paid before the division of the estate.

In light of the fact that you are both the personal representative and a "creditor" of the estate, you should consult with the attorney who is handling the estate to ensure that he or she is aware of this claim and that it is handled properly.

Q. My question deals with farm leases. Does a landlord or farm manager have a deadline date to notify a tenant that his lease will be continued for another year, and does it have to be registered mail?

A. The answer depends upon the type of lease arrangement you have and the terms of that lease.

If you have a written lease which states a specific date upon which the agreement will be terminated, and there is no clause in the lease for an automatic renewal of the agreement, the lease will expire on the date specified. To continue the tenancy for another year, a new lease would have to be signed by both parties.

It is more likely that you have an oral lease, or a year to year tenancy which automatically renews each year. Notice is required to terminate this type of lease, but notice is not required if you wish to continue the lease.

A tenancy from year to year can be terminated only by the agreement of both parties, or by notice of intent to terminate given at least six months prior to the renewal date of the lease. In Nebraska, most farm leases run from March 1 through the last day of February, so notice would have to be given by one of the parties no later than September 1 to be effective.

Notice does not have to be sent by registered mail, and in fact it does not have to be in writing, though it certainly is preferable to give written notice in case proof is later required that notice was actually given.

Unless a year to year tenancy is properly terminated, by notice or by agreement of the parties, the landlord and the tenant are both bound by the terms of the lease for another year. If the tenant gives notice on the day before the lease is to begin, he is in violation of this rule, and the landlord might want to present a claim against the tenant for any damages he might sustain because of the tenant failing to give proper notice.

Reducing government intrusion is good

Reducing the intrusion of government and increasing the role of volunteers in Nebraska are the purposes of a citizens' task force I have appointed.

Jerry Hargill, Omaha business executive, and I are serving as co-chairmen of the 44-person Private Section Initiative Task Force which held its first meeting in the state capitol on June 22.

The members I appointed are leaders from labor, government, educational institutions and volunteer organizations. They are serving without pay to help lift the heavy hand of government and to replace some federal or state programs with volunteer efforts.

FIVE GOALS for the task force have been established by me. They are:

- 1. Encouragement of partnerships among business, local government, schools and charitable organizations in meeting the most important needs of communities;
2. Identification of laws or government policies that impeded businesses in expanding their payrolls or in taking greater roles in solving community problems;
3. Determination of incentives that would cause businesses and other non-governmental parties to increase their community involvement;
4. Establishment of a program to provide statewide recognition to those businesses or organizations that do outstanding jobs in helping solve community problems; and governor charley thone

5. Development of a means to keep all Nebraska communities informed about the best and most innovative ideas being implemented in the state to solve local problems.

FOR MANY years, I have been a strong opponent of the philosophy that local problems can be solved through creation of more and more federal programs administered from Washington. President Reagan is trying to reverse the flow of power that has been ebbing to the federal government for about 50 years.

Nebraska must lead the way in this return of power into local levels. I'm confident that citizens of this state can provide better solutions to our problems than any that would be imposed upon us by the federal government.

To the Editor: Welcome to Wayne! I have had many inquiries concerning the grants that I wrote to provide programs, services and the administration of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center, during the 12 1/2 years that I was an employee of the City of Wayne, in the capacity of director of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center.

The first two grants, that were my privilege to write, were for funds to operate the Wayne Senior Citizens Center. The Nebraska Commission on Aging furnished funds with matching money coming from the City of Wayne.

The next grant was written to the Nebraska Commission on Aging to make city hall a barrier free building which houses the senior's center on the lower level. The ramp was rebuilt and the South exit was built on with these funds.

As far as I know, city hall is the only barrier free building in the city, outside of Wayne State College.

The next grant was written to the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging with which to purchase the present senior's mini-bus, with matching funds being provided by the city. Included in the bid that we let was the cost of the bus plus a two way radio system, snow tires and the whole bit.

Along came a past city administrator who took out the cost of the radios because he said that we didn't need them and the snow tires were taken out of the bid because he said they could be purchased elsewhere for less.

When it came time to put on the snow tires we didn't have any as nobody bothered to purchase them. By that time I had sent back close to $2,000 in unused grant money to the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging, therefore the cost of the snow tires come out of the city's general fund. You tax payers paid for them twice since you matched the grant with money from taxes the first time around. You paid for the radios twice because we had them in the original grant and the present city administrator applied a few months ago to buy them and our tax monies matched that grant again.

The next original grant was to fund the congregate meals program, the purchasing of equipment etc. At that time, our home delivered meals were not included in a grant, other than the monies received from the Golden Road Hills Community Action Agency, Inc., to supplement the cost of the meals for those who could not afford to pay the full cost, otherwise the Social Service unit out of Norfolk covered the cost.

Later the federal government passed a law to fund home delivered meals, letting the states handle the funds. I wrote up a grant for these funds. Each year you have to show need for these funds in order to receive them. The grant that I wrote fast started the first of October, 1981 and will end on September 30, 1982. The food contracts are with Providence Medical Center. The cost of the daily meal is $3 for congregate and $2.25 for the home delivered meals. Those 60 years of age and their spouses of any age may pay according to their ability to pay.

The grants pick up the difference between the monthly costs of the meals and the donations. The city pays Providence Medical Center. When the monthly reports are sent into the area agency on aging, the city is reimbursed for the same.

By the way, after we resolved our deal with Social Service unit 121 of Norfolk, we took the balance of the funds from Golden Road Hills, with which we purchased the nice micro-wave oven that is in use at the senior center now and some utensils that are in use serving the congregate meals at the center.

Through the years, the former director went before the board of directors of the Wayne United Way and received funds with which to buy the office equipment and to have the beautiful signs made and painted that let you know where the Wayne Senior Citizens Center is located.

We also purchased many articles with monies donated by business persons, friends and relatives of the seniors that attend the center. In appreciation of the programs and services that help them to remain in their homes in this community, where it is a proven fact that they are much happier!

The next grant was to build the rest-rooms that completed making city hall completely barrier free in all respects.

Going back to the mini-bus service: the first year of operation the original grant funded the cost of the operation of the bus minus the amount of donations from the senior citizens, riding the bus, etc. Thereafter I wrote grants for federal funds and state funds to the Nebraska Department of Roads, which handles the small transportation systems, for the operation of the mini-bus. The bus drivers salaries and the senior center coordinators salaries are not included in these grants. Their salaries come-out of the city's general fund, monies of we tax payers.

The City of Wayne has been in violation of the grant that I wrote that started on July 1, 1981 and ends on June 30, 1982. It includes federal funds, state funds, matched by the city in-kind, which is called soft match; as the coordinators salary, 40 percent of her monthly salary goes toward the city's matching of the grant. The reason that I say that the city is in violation of this year's grant is that in order to get federal funds, which is 50 percent, we had to start serving the general public on July 1, 1981. In the grant we promised to publish in the senior center newsletter that it was open to the general public and to publicize it in The Wayne Herald and KTCH radio which costs nothing as they have to provide so much free publicity to non-profit organizations anyway!

The last time that this was done was in the October, 1981 newsletter that I published. The city administrator of Wayne signed that agreement with the Nebraska Department of Roads and it is held responsible. If the Nebraska Department of Roads should see 70:30 to us, they could force the city of Wayne to pay back the difference of the costs of the mini-bus, minus the donations from the persons riding the bus, for the past eight months.

Yes, the city of Wayne has had public transportation since July 1, 1981, which means that those in the city that are 60 years of age and older, and younger if a spouse, and any age person that is physically or mentally handicapped, can ride the bus by dropping into the locked box aboard the bus any amount and none if they haven't the means. Also people any age can ride the bus for $2 one way to anywhere in Wayne including out to the airport. This also applies to the grant that the city has applied for that should start July 1, 1982 and will run through June 30, 1983, according to Mr. Delyce Rannau, assistant engineer of the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Any person that is concerned enough to want to verify the above statement may do so by writing Mr. Delyce Rannau, P.O. box 94759, Lincoln, Neb. 68509, or calling 477-6012.

By the way, these grant applications are on file under the Wayne Senior Citizens Center in the city clerk's office. As a city taxpayer, you may request to read them in the office.

Personally speaking, I hold no malice against anybody and my prayers are that the city will continue to fund the programs and services being provided through the senior's center, to help keep the senior citizens of Wayne, Nebraska in their own homes where we know they are much happier and much less expensive to the city tax payers of which many of them are or have been!

The senior citizens of Wayne and the Northeast Nebraska area benefited from the eight years that I served on the Nebraska Commission on Aging as during my time of serving I knew what the monies were available and knew how to go about getting them for Wayne and I kept bringing up the subject that the counties in Northeast Nebraska needed to be contacted and an area agency on aging be formed and out of my persistence Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging was formed back in 1976; otherwise there was only $25,000 available to communities such as ours to be put into programs and services for the senior citizens, as the rest went to the six area agencies on aging that were formed back in 1973, when the federal government demanded of the states that if they were to continue to receive aging funds, they were to provide funds, with which the cities or counties were to match to provide these programs and services to the senior citizens; there again so they could remain in their own homes. The area agencies were formed to put it in the hands of the local officials, etc. Thank you very much.

Sincerely, Jocell Bull, former director of Wayne Senior Citizens Center

DAN GROSS gives it his all as a Wisner pitch is thrown across the bag. The Wayne Midgets only achieved one hit in the six inning game and were unable to score.

Wayne drops to Wisner

Although Wayne scored the first run of the evening in the third inning of Junior Legion play, they were not able to match the three runs that host Wisner pounded back at them in the bottom of the third. Wisner defeated the Wayne Juniors 5-3 in a down to the last minute dual at Wisner on Friday.

The three runs scored by Wayne were credited to Mark Kubik, Todd Pfeiffer and Jeff McCright. All three got base hits and were successfully rallied home. Dennis Lebock, Tim Heier, Jim Sperry, Kubik and McCright all achieved one hit off Wisner's winning pitcher, Valmer.

Wayne's pitcher, Todd Pfeiffer, allowed only seven hits during the game and struck out five Wisner batters. Wayne was the victor of nine strike outs.

An out of baseline call in the fifth inning put a stop to Wayne's catch up attempt and Wisner found itself in the leading position. Wisner's final assurance of victory came in the sixth inning when Dragsch scored the fifth run.

The Wayne Juniors posted eight errors in the game which led to their eighth loss for the season.

Meet draws top athletes

The "I'm a Pepper" Track and Field Classic, scheduled for today (Saturday) and Sunday (June 26 and 27) at Wayne State College will feature many of the state's top athletes in various events.

Ten individual class winners in the boys' Nebraska State Track Meet will attend. Five from class D, one from class C and two each from both classes B and A. "It's possible that a state champ from Kansas might even attend," added tournament director Mike Meyer.

The featured race will be the 110-meter high hurdles with Scott Etherton of Lincoln Northeast, one of the participants. Etherton has posted a 14.01 time in the race and was the Junior Olympic state champion. Ted Murray of Nelson will also participate. Murray, a state champ, is a contender in the 300 intermediate hurdles. Kevin Cook, another athlete from Lincoln Northeast, will also run in the 110-meter high hurdle race.

"The race was originally scheduled for 8:30 a.m.," Meyer said, "but we're considering moving it to 11:30 so a bigger crowd will be there."

The girls division will also feature some outstanding athletes from Nebraska. Michelle Maxey of Lincoln, a Nebraska state champ in the 100 meter hurdles, will participate in the meet. Beth Stuart, also a state champ in class B, will run the hurdles. The Holdrege athlete was also a runner-up in the shot and discus events at state. A possible star for the future will be featured in the 3200 meter race. Ellie Runice, an 11-year old out of Fremont has clocked a time of 10:31 in the distance event and will participate in the meet.

"We're featuring a lot of top athletes in the area," Meyer said, "and we're hoping for a great turnout."

The meet of the best against the best is sponsored by the Mid-Continent Bottling Company and Dr. Pepper and sanctioned by the State Track and Field Association.

The classic is open to boys and girls age 18 and under and entry fees are $2 per individual event and $8 per relay.

"We want kids to know they can still sign up the day of the meet," Meyer emphasized.

Wayne girls victorious

Girls softball
15 and under
Wayne 30, Winside 8: Wayne's girls collected another win when they trounced Winside in a six inning game Wednesday.

Wayne started off with a six run lead in the first inning, collected one in the second, five in the third, two in the fourth, two in the fifth and a whopping fourteen in the final inning.

Donation to city

Nick and Keith Zimmer who are organizers of the Wayne Community Tennis Open, this week donated two benches to the city from their expected proceeds of the tourney. Accepting for the city was Mayor Wayne Marsh who said the donation points out the kind of things groups and people can do on their own to improve their city. Zimmer's last year had made donations to Wayne State College and this year decided the city should receive their donation. The tennis tournament is scheduled for July 24-25. Deadline for entering is July 20.

More Valley Corner Systems every year, because it's the least costly investment per acre.
It's going to be harder to make farming pay off in the years to come. Harder for many reasons. So if anything makes sense, it's to maximize the potential of the land you now farm. Irrigating with a center pivot is one way. Irrigating with a Corner System is even better.
A Corner System can irrigate 19 to 45 more acres than a regular pivot, producing extra income on acres already being farmed. That's why nearly one out of every six pivots sold today is a Corner System.
And when it comes to Corner Systems, nobody knows more than Valmont. They're proven reliable with nearly 3,000 systems in operation. That's at least 20 times more than any other brand.
Before you buy any center pivot, see us. We'll tell you how a Valley Corner System can add to your bottom line profits while being the least costly investment per acre.
Valley dominates the field.

Poison warning issued

As the temperature climbs, so do the number of picnics and campouts. However, along with outdoor activities come summer-time poisoning dangers, according to Richard Vomacka, director of the Marian Poison Center.

Carbon monoxide, a danger often associated with the colder months, can still create tragedies in summer, Vomacka said. Other potential hazards include the three B's - botulism, bugs and berries.

Normally, grills and hibachis present no poisoning danger if used properly. But, because mother nature does not always cooperate with the best laid barbecue plans, it is sometimes tempting to operate grills inside when the weather is poor.

Other summer hazards are bugs. Just as surely as ants come to a picnic, bugs and their bites plague those enjoying the outdoors. But, Vomacka said, people should avoid spraying insecticides near food, and children should not be allowed to handle any aerosol can.

People should be aware of the potential danger of berries, Vomacka said. "The principal danger lies with children," he said. "Because strawberries and other berries are edible, children think that all berries can be eaten. Unfortunately, they can often get hold of a poisonous berry that grows near their home."

ADULTS SHOULD caution children never to eat any berries until checked by an adult. If parents question whether certain berries are poisonous, the local county extension office can offer advice. And, if a child happens to swallow poisonous berries, call the Marian Poison Center immediately.

Help for summer poisonings or any other suspected poisoning is available 24 hours a day at the Marian Poison Center. The local number is 258-6424 or the Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska Toll Free Number is 1-800-843-0505. For information about poison prevention write to the Marian Poison Center, Marian Health Center, Sioux City, Iowa 51104.
