Annual salute is clucking along

Feathers will fly in Wayne Saturday morning as early birds rise to kick-off a day-long salute to the chicken.

The Chicken Show, sponsored for the second year by the Wayne Regional Arts Council, has once again captured national attention including inquiries from CBS television news.

Jane O'Leary, a spokesman for the Arts Council, said some changes have been made in the day's schedule of activities to accommodate several late developments.

Activities will begin at 7 a.m. with a Fun Run beginning at the Wakefield National Bank and proceeding to the Wayne city auditorium, where most of the day's activities will take place.

Spectators are encouraged to be on hand in Wayne about 8 a.m. to greet the finishers.

WINNERS OF such contests as the National Omelet Cook-Off, the Chicken Hat Show and Contest, the Song Contest, the Chicken Calling Contest and the Cluck-Off, will be invited to participate in KMEG-TV's Noon Show from Sioux City on July 14.

The parade, featuring the Kentucky Fried Chicken-Cadillac, Shriner's, The Chik Filet, costumed individuals and floats, will assemble at Godfather's Pizza at 9 a.m. and proceed up Main Street to Wellman's IGA and Griss Rexall Drug.

A reviewing stand will be set up for judges, and winners of the children's best entries and prizes will be awarded outside the City Hall following the parade.

Mrs. O'Leary said entries for the parade are still being accepted. Chairman's Wayne Kiwanis President Dr. Don Koerber, State Senator Merle Van Minden and Nebraska Lieutenant Governor Roland Luedtke will be in the parade and will be on hand for the greater part of the Chicken Show.

AMONG ACTIVITIES scheduled during the Chicken Show is the first national Omelet Cook-Off, which will get underway late in the morning at Wayne Fire Hall.

Final competition in the cook-off is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. at the Fire Hall. There will be a $100 Grand Champion prize, and $25, $15 and $10 prizes in each of the four age divisions.

A few days grace period has been extended on the deadline for entering the cook-off. Interested persons should send their name, address, telephone number and age, plus a $5 entry fee, to Omelet Cook-Off, Box 165, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Eggs and a propane burner will be provided, however contestants are asked to furnish their own pan and enhancement ingredients.

CHICKEN ESSAY and poetry entries are being received, and more entries are encouraged. Chairman Sheryl Marra said two prizes of $10 each will be awarded.

Individuals should send their original poetry or essay on a chicken or egg theme to Wayne Regional Arts Council, 908 Circle Dr., Wayne.

The Bon-Ami Pane-Ting Contest also is open to more entries, and will feature $250 in cash prizes, including a $50 Grand Prize, and $25, $15 and $10 in each of four age divisions. Chairman is Joyce Reeg.

A Chicken Song Contest, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m., will have more divisions this year, and entrants will face competition within groups of equal performance experience. Mike Carney is chairman.

A Cluck-Off, a tournament in the ability to sound like a chicken, is slated at 2:45 p.m. Rooster and hen winners will be selected in the 14 and under age groups, and in the 15 and over age groups.

Chairmen for the Cluck-Off are Sam and Suzy Schroeder.

Anyone with chicken items they would like displayed during the Arts and Crafts Show are asked to bring them to the city auditorium before 10 a.m. Persons with items they would like in a protected area are asked to call Mail Korn, 375-3615.

Cross country skater makes stop at Laurel

Leslie Hellman's set of wheels is more efficient than the ones used by most vacationers to see the United States. He's touring the country on a pair of roller skates.

Making a stop in Laurel Thursday, Leslie explained that it has been a dream of his to skate across the U.S. Leslie, 22, and his twin sister Lisa, paid a visit at the Rich and Ellen Erwin farm, one mile north of Laurel. While Leslie skates, Lisa drives along in a car.

On vacation last week, Ellen coincidentally met Lisa at Fort Robinson near Chadron. That meeting set up this week's visit.

When Ellen learned that the Hellmans were travelling along Highway 20, she circled Laurel on the map and invited the pair to stop by for lunch on their way East. The twins took her up on her offer last Thursday.

The Hellmans toured Erwin's farm and were treated to lunch at the Dairy Barn in Laurel. After lunch, Leslie helped with work in the hog house during a "rest break."

THE NATIVES of Worcester, Mass. flew out to Portland, Ore. to visit some friends before they began their trek. They left Portland on June 3—Leslie on his skates, Lisa via automobile—enroute home.

By the time the two reached Laurel they had travelled nearly 1,600 miles. The trip is called the "Great Skate of Massachusetts" and is raising money for the American Cancer Society.

Donations in the name of the "Great Skates" may be made by contacting a Cancer Society state office. The Hellmans also accept checks along the route and mail them once a week to the Massachusetts office. Nearly $2,000 has been raised already, Leslie said.

and the wheels last longer. The support and protection offered by the molded boot is unbelievable. I've been skating more than three years on this kind of skate.

Leslie changed one set of wheels in Casper, Wyo. and expects to use two or three more sets. He is experimenting with different types of wheels and bearings.

HELLMAN'S SKATE across the U.S. required a month of training which included weight lifting, running and skating as far as 35 miles with a 35-pound back pack.

Leslie, a hotel-restaurant management major who expects to graduate from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in December, skates back and forth from his daily classes.

"It seemed like we spent months in Oregon but Eastern Oregon was beautiful," Leslie said. "Nebraska has been super to us. We loved every minute of it. The hills and trees were a welcome sight after the sagebrush in Wyoming. The ranchers, farmers and everyone have been hospitable."

The skater said his biggest thrill was in Wyoming going over Teton Pass and looking over the Tetons. "It was just beautiful—like being in your own dreamland."

"Just seeing the state signs has been exciting," said Lisa, who drives either ahead or behind Leslie and stops in communities for rest stops and to generate publicity on the trip. The pair also telephones WORC Radio in Worcester, Mass. with daily reports. The station is helping sponsor the journey.

The entire trip across the country should take 75 days with the Hellmans returning to Worcester by Aug. 14. Lisa is keeping a journal of names of people they meet on the trip and plans to send cards to each of them. The list had reached more than 70 by Thursday.

WHEN LESLIE first decided to attempt the nationwide journey, he said his disapproving father "went wild" and his mother was "very resistant at first."

She had graduated from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst business college and was worried about the job market. She considered looking for a job and bypassing the trip.

Along the route, the Hellmans have done a lot of camping and also have stayed overnight at homes of people who had offered.

Leslie said that the twins get into occasional arguments but added that she sometimes reminds her brother that the trip is a team effort. "We've gotten along pretty well," she said.

After having skated 1,600 miles, Leslie said he is now "doing really well" physically. It was quite an adjustment for his body during the first month. "Mentally, at times it's been really tough. Now, I get lost in my thoughts a lot and I don't think about the long trip ahead anymore. It helps when people honk and wave."

Leslie said when she follows Leslie she sometimes sees him waving to cattle along the route. The 22-year-old said he drinks a gallon and a half of water a day and eats about 6,000 calories.

LESLIE SAID he is skating for the American Cancer Society because cancer victims have a hard fight ahead of them. I wanted to get the fight, the spirit that I'd lost, back in me, he explained.

"I wish the American people would become more aware and volunteer a little more. If each person would give an hour a week or an hour a month toward a charity and give 10 percent effort, the world would be a lot better off," he said.

"Out East the people are lazy. They take so much and give back so little. We need to bring back the pride in America that is lost. I think it's time America goes back to what it was—mighty America," Leslie said. "People have dreams and they let a lot of them go by. I decided to complete my dream to skate across the country. I must put a lot of effort into it and people are helping me along the way," he said.

TOURING THE U.S. on a pair of roller skates, Leslie Hellman (right) and his twin sister Lisa (far right) stopped at the Rich Erwin farm Thursday. On vacation two weeks ago, Ellen (Mrs. Rich) Erwin met Lisa near Chadron and invited her and her brother to stop by on their trip East. The twins, running a day or two ahead of schedule, spent several hours on the Erwin farm and in Laurel. That night they reached Sioux City — their halfway mark. While Leslie helped work in the pig shed, Lisa visited with Ellen and six-year-old daughter Fern (far left). The "Great Skates of Massachusetts" is raising money for the American Cancer Society.

Increased fiber may boost production

Oats and ground corn cobs may be an inexpensive way to increase the fiber content of dairy cattle rations, improve milk fat, and not affect intake or milk yields.

Results of two similar studies involving ground corn cobs and oats as sources of fiber in dairy cattle rations were presented in papers at the 77th annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association June 29 by University of Nebraska graduate students Elizabeth E. Hawkins and Joyce E. Header. Co-authors of the two papers were NU professor of animal science Dr. Foster Owen, Dr. Larry Larson, associate professor of animal science, and Dr. Steve Lowry, associate professor of biometrics.

In one study, different levels of untreated ground corn cobs up to 30 percent were added to the rations. As the amount of cobs was increased over 20 percent, the milk production gradually went down, while at the same time the amount of milk fat increased.

This indicated that an addition of up to 20 percent ground cobs has no significant effect on the fat corrected milk, milk protein or the percent total solids, while it did prevent an abnormally low milk fat test.

The second study compared the effects of two different fiber sources to the level of fiber recommended by the National Research Council.

Fifty-four Holstein cows in early lactation were fed three different complete rations using ground cobs, oats and a control as the fiber sources. Results showed that the rations produced no difference in milk production, but there was an increase in the milk fat in rations where cobs and oats were fed.

4-H bike rodeo Tuesday

Thirty seven 4-H members have registered for the Dixon County 4-H Bicycle Rodeo to be held Tuesday, July 13 at the Concord Park, according to Brent Kahl, 4-H assistant. Competition will begin at 9 a.m.

Events included in the bicycle rodeo are a safety quiz, bike balance, bike slalom, fast time bicycle control and riding figure eights. There will be separate divisions for juniors (under age 12) and seniors (age 12 and over). Ribbons will be awarded to all those participating. Awards will also be given to those contestants showing the best sportsmanship. The bicycle rodeo places emphasis on bike safety, and fun is planned for everyone involved.

Feed grain stocks are up

Nebraska feed grain stocks (corn, grain sorghum, oats and barley) in all locations on June 1 totaled 16.1 million tons, according to the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This is 75 percent above a year earlier but six percent below the record of June 1, 1980.

Corn holdings totaled 476.4 million bushels on June 1, up 75 percent from last year but down 11 percent from the record high two years earlier. Corn on farms totaled 321.1 million bushels, 77 percent above a year earlier and off farm stocks equaled 155.3 million, up 70 percent.

Grain sorghum stocks totaled 94.9 million bushels, 85 percent more than a year ago. Farm stocks equaled 36.3 million bushels, 129 percent higher, and off farm stocks at 58.6 million bushels were up 68 percent.

Stocks of oats totaled 5.8 million bushels, 22 percent below last year. Farm stocks of 4.6 million bushels were 26 percent lower while off farm stocks at 1.2 million bushels were less than one percent lower.

Wheat stocks in Nebraska at 67.5 million bushels were 6 percent above June 1, 1981. Farm stocks of 26.6 million bushels were 23 percent higher and off farm stocks of 41.0 million bushels were up one percent.

Soybean stocks of 28.8 million bushels were the highest of record and six percent above a year earlier. Farm stocks of 15.7 million were down 1 percent while off farm stocks of 13.1 million bushels were up 15 percent.

Barley stocks in all positions totaled 480,000 bushels, down 35 percent from last year. Rye stocks of 58,000 bushels were 22 percent lower.

Olson attends Kent school

Tom Olson of Carroll Fertilizer, Inc., Carroll, recently attended a three-day school at the general offices of Kent Feeds, Inc., Muscatine, Iowa.

The school was for employees of businesses that carry Kent feeds and animal care products and was designed to help them better serve their livestock and poultry producer customers. One hundred dealer people attended sessions taught by members of the Kent nutrition, training, advertising, marketing, animal care and production departments. A wide variety of subjects were covered at the school, ranging from basic nutrition to methods of merchandising to grind-and-mix practices. There was also a tour of the company's 650-acre research farm, which is located near Muscatine.

Kent Feeds serves feed dealers and livestock and poultry producers in a 12-state area. Manufacturing and distribution facilities are located in, Marshall, Mo.; Logansport, Ind.; Rockford and Beardstown, Ill.; Columbus, Neb.; and Sioux City, Altona, Waterloo, Estherville and Muscatine, Iowa.

Demonstration in 4-H planned

The Dixon County 4-H Demonstration Contest is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, July 12, at the Northeast Station near Concord. The demonstrations teach by showing how and explaining why something is done. Learning comes easier and more quickly if the process being done is seen as it is explained.

4-H members may give demonstrations in any area regardless of 4-H project enrollment. Trophies will be awarded to top demonstrators and all demonstration contest participants will receive ribbons. The public is invited to attend.

Home ec judging planned

Wayne County 4-Hers will be testing their knowledge in the areas of foods, clothing, home environment and general home economics when they participate in the home economics judging contest Thursday, July 8. The annual event will begin at 9 a.m. in the North Dining Room of the Wayne State College Student Center. Participants should plan to come about 10 minutes early for registration.

All 4-Hers regardless of project enrollment are eligible to participate. They will be divided into two groups — junior division consisting of 4-Hers 11 years of age and younger and senior division consisting of 4-Hers 12 years of age and older. Farms will be the same as in the past few years with contestants answering 23 questions and giving answers to 2 of those questions orally to a judge.

Answers to judging class questions will be discussed around a table or within all judging is completed.

The top six scorers in the senior division will be eligible to participate in the Home Economics Judging contest at the Nebraska State Fair on Sept. 6.

No fishing please

NO WELL is necessary to quench the thirst of these cattle. Heavy rain falls hit this portion of the state earlier this spring and hard, heavy rain Monday night added to the precipitation level. More erosion occurred, lightning and hail did some damage and hard rains flattened wheat and oat fields. Standing water like this is enough to warrant "no fishing" signs.

Great Plains wind erosion is down sharply from damage one year ago

Wind damaged less than half as much land in the Great Plains from November 1981 through May 1982 as it did during the same period a year earlier according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

Peter C. Myers, chief of the USDA's Soil Conservation Service, said reports from the 10-state area indicate wind damaged 5,107,985 acres (2,043,194 hectares), down sharply from 12,488,237 wind-damaged acres (4,955,295 hectares) for the same seven months a year earlier.

Myers attributed the drop in damaged acres to good snow cover and adequate soil moisture.

Of the total land reported damaged, 91 percent, 4,653,338 acres (1,861,335 hectares) was cropland; eight percent, 381,200 acres (152,480 hectares) was rangeland; and one percent, 73,447 acres (29,379 hectares) was other land.

Major decreases were recorded in Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Current wind erosion damages, compared with the same seven months a year earlier, show that in Nebraska, 21 counties reported 69,504 hectares. From November 1981 to May 1982 showed 246,355 acres, 98,542 hectares.

Acres of Land Damaged Annually in Great Plains

Seasons 1935-36 to 1981-82 Inclusive

Note: Data for period 1943-44 through 1952-53 was obtained from reports of the Great Plains Council. All other data was obtained from SCS reports. (The number of counties reporting may vary from year to year.)

From November 1980 to May 1981, figures were 173,760 acres, 69,504 hectares.

(211,834 hectares) of land not damaged. Of this, 72 percent, or 381,245 acres (152,378 hectares), was in the southern plains.

Each year, the Soil Conservation Service compiles wind erosion reports covering seven months — November through May — using data supplied by 541 counties in the Great Plains.

Like night and day

WALT FENSKE (left) of rural Hoskins takes a little time to rid his pasture of some musk thistles. Fenske, who picks the blossoms to prevent seeding, said he makes several checks of his pasture each summer in order to keep the situation under control. However, on a farm just a few miles from Fenske's property, thistles are a major problem and seem to have overrun the countryside.

Irrigation tour planned

The ninth annual Nebraska Irrigation Tour will journey to South Dakota Aug. 11-13 to visit with that state's governor about water development and observe a farm that operates 91 center pivots.

The tour is sponsored by the Nebraska Water Conference Council and the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Participants will travel by chartered buses to South Dakota, leaving from either Lincoln or Grand Island at 7 a.m. on Aug. 11. Several stops are scheduled to visit dams and irrigated farms before attending an Aug. 12 luncheon in Pierre with South Dakota Gov. William Janklow. Janklow will express his views of South Dakota's proposed sale of water to ETSI for a coal-slurry pipeline, the future of irrigation and other uses of water in South Dakota. He will also comment on South Dakota's opposition to the Mandan Power Line.

That afternoon, the buses will stop at J.E.S. Farms, which pumps 67,500 gallons of water per minute from Oahe Reservoir on the Missouri River near Pierre. The water travels through more than 12 miles of canals and 46 miles of underground pipe to 91 center-pivots.

The first day of the tour includes a stop at the Agrex Elevator at Enola, Neb. The Japanese conglomerate Mitsubishi Corp. owns the 850,000-bushel grain loading facility and ships corn by rail from it directly to Long Beach, Calif., for export overseas.

Gavins Point Dam on the Missouri River will be visited later that day.

Robert Neufeld, secretary of the South Dakota Department of Water and Natural Resources, will address the tour in Pierre at the start of the second day.

Tours of the Oahe Dam hydroelectric plant near Pierre, the Oahe Recreation Area and the Oahe Irrigation Pumping Plant have been scheduled for the remainder of the morning. The tour returns to Pierre for the luncheon with Gov. Janklow and a briefing on CENDAK, a proposed Central Dakota Irrigation Project.

The afternoon will be spent at J.E.S. Farms. On the last day of the Aug. 11-13 trip, the buses leave Pierre for Bower's Mint Farm, which operates 25 center-pivots in the Big Bend area of the Missouri River. The Verliak Ranch at Geddes, S.D., will also be visited.

ON THE RETURN TO Nebraska, the tour will drive through the O'Neill area where the Norden Dam has been proposed.

The deadline for registering for the ninth annual irrigation tour is Aug. 9.

4-h news

LESLIE LADS AND LASSIES
The sixth meeting of the Leslie Lads and Lassies 4-H Club was held June 14 in the Wakefield City Park.

Preceding the meeting, the group sang county contest songs at the Wakefield Health Care Center and gave residents favors for Flag Day.

Twelve members and five mothers were present. For roll call, members in sewing brought the pattern for the item they are making for the county fair. Members in cooking named an ingredient, and members in rocketry told how many rockets they plan to take to the fair.

The group discussed Ponca Day Camp, which was held June 29 and 30. One member will enter the judging contest at Wayne State College on July 8.

A demonstration contest is planned July 14 at Wayne State College, and the Wayne County Style Revue will be held July 23 at Wayne State.

Tiffany Nelson demonstrated how to tie a knot.

Following the meeting, a picnic supper was served by the mothers.

Next meeting is scheduled July 12 with Susie and Andy McQuistan.

Kodi Nelson, news reporter.

LESLIE LIVEWIRES
The sixth meeting of the Leslie Livewires 4-H Club was held June 21 in the Ivan Svoboda home.

Preceding the meeting, a demonstration on horses was given by Shelley Krusemark. Barb Svoboda demonstrated how to saddle and ride a horse.

Plans were discussed for a club tour on July 19. The tour will begin at the Art Greve home and will conclude with a picnic at the Alvin Svoboda home.

Kay and Trudy Hansen and Shelley and Valorie Krusemark are planning to exhibit livestock at Ak-Sar-Ben this year.

Borers may be midsummer pests

European corn borers are showing up in corn fields throughout the state. University of Nebraska Extension Entomologist Dave Keith said last Thursday.

Moths have been active and egg masses are common in some fields, even though the corn is much later than normal, Keith said. "Most late planted fields should not have much to worry about for this generation of corn borers, but they will be highly attractive in midsummer when eggs are laid for the second generation. Right now the fields of greatest concern are the few early planted fields, which are at a prime stage of development for borer establishment and survival."

When corn is small, it has a high concentration of a chemical resistance factor (called DIM-BOA) which kills the tiny first stage larvae when they attempt to feed in the whorls, Keith said.

As corn grows, this resistance factor gradually disappears, permitting borers to become established. DIMBOA is the basis for corn borer resistant plants, and some varieties of corn have higher concentrations of it and "hold onto" it longer than others.

"Over the next week or two, watch early planted, borer susceptible fields closely, especially if the corn is 30 inches or more in extended leaf height," Keith advised. Moths can be found in grassy margins around fields, and are readily distinguished by their shape and color. "Look for tan, triangular-shaped moths, about one half inch wide, with wave bands of lighter and darker tan across the wings, that fly when disturbed," he said.

Farmers should examine plants closely for egg masses and shot hole feeding damage in the whorls, Keith said, checking at least five scattered locations in each field, and examining about 10 plants carefully at each location.

"Pull and unroll several whorls to determine if borers are surviving or are being killed by the resistance factor. If live borers are present and plants in dryland fields have 50 percent shot hole damage, irrigated fields 35 percent, seed production fields 5 to 10 percent and popcorn 25 percent damage, then a treatment should be considered," he advised.

Chemical controls have been highly effective on first generation borers, he added. "The products of choice at this point include Furadan 10G, Dyfonate 20G and Lorsban 15G. Others registered include diazinon, Thimet 15G or 20G, EPN 4G and Sevin."

Farmers also should keep a close watch on fields in midsummer for the appearance of the second generation of European corn borers, Keith concluded.

Computer camps set

Horse camps, swine camps, dairy camps, sheep camps, bicycle camps, range camps, poultry camps, photography camps, what next? A computer camp, of course!

No, this won't be the kind of camp that has kids inputting data around the campfire. In fact, treks through the woods and sleeping under the stars will not be part of these campers' activities.

As a way of enhancing 4-H projects throughout the state have adopted the idea of the project camps to give 4-H'ers a broader knowledge in one area.

THE CAMPS, which first began at the NU Northeast Station near Concord during the early 1970s, offer a unique opportunity for a combination of work, recreation and learning in the forms of tours, guest speakers, quiz bowls and an opportunity for actual "hands on" work.

"The 4-H project camp was developed to give youth practical information beyond the typical club meeting," according to University of Nebraska Extension Swine Specialist Bob Fritschen, who pioneered one of the first swine camps in northeast Nebraska in 1972.

Since many projects are often carried within one club, it is often hard to thoroughly cover all areas during a typical club meeting, whereas the project camp offers one, two or even three days of intensive learning in one area, Fritschen explained.

"Particularly in livestock camps, which are among the most popular, 4-H'ers have a chance to actually learn by doing," he said. They practice fitting, showing, animal selection, giving oral reasons and, depending on the camp, may even cover animal health care and breeding, he said.

In addition to all of the usual camps scheduled and conducted by the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff members, a new computer camp is on tap for this year.

The camp, scheduled for July 29-31 at the Eastern Nebraska 4-H Center near Gretna, is designed to familiarize junior and senior high school students with the computer world, according to NU Extension 4-H Youth Specialist Dr. John Orr. "Instruction at this camp will be geared to the TRS-80 model III and the Apple II plus microcomputers or equivalent equipment, and will include an introduction to micro hardware, basic programming, computer applications an introduction to Agnet and other main frames," Orr said. The camp is open to any youth, with instruction being given for both first time users and for those who have had some experience with limited programming, he said.

Persons desiring additional information pertaining to the computer camp or others, should contact Cooperative Extension Service offices around Nebraska.

Grace Lutheran scene of Lubberstedt-Ellis wedding

Wendy Lubberstedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lubberstedt of Dixon, became the bride of Tod Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Ellis of Allen, in 7 p.m. rites June 26 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The Rev. Thomas Mendenhall of Wayne officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Decorations included white carnation altar bouquets, two spiral candelabras at the front of the church, and lantern candles at the pews accented with green fern and dusty rose bows.

Floral arrangements and decorations were done by the bride's sister, LeAnn Schroeder of Wakefield.

WEDDING MUSIC included "The Wedding Song," sung by LeAnn Schroeder, and "O Perfect Love" and "Wedding Prayer," sung by Larry Mackey of Wayne. Organist was Marian Mallat of Laurel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a tulle and organza gown styled with a scoop neckline, full double pointed esprit sleeves, and a bouffant skirt which fell from the basque bodice.

A wide chantlaine and organza tulle trimmed the skirt edge which draped to a full chapel train. A bridal illusion fingertip veil edged in Venice lace and a Juliet cap of handknit lace completed her ensemble.

The bride carried a nosegay of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy with ribbon accents. She also carried a handkerchief that belonged to her great grandmother, the late Sophia Mattes.

THE BRIDE'S honor attendant was her sister, LeAnn Schroeder of Wakefield. Bridesmaids were LaRave Alexander of Kansas City, Mo. and Carmin Lubberstedt of Dixon also sisters of the bride. And Sonya Ver Mulm of Sioux City, sister of the bridegroom.

Their floor-length polymeric knit gowns were in dusty rose designed with blouse bodices and white schiffli tulle yokes.

Each carried a basket containing a single cattleya orchid, greens and baby's breath.

Flower girl was Julie Schroeder of Wakefield, and candlelighters were the bride's brothers, Ryan Lubberstedt and Stuart Lubberstedt, both of Dixon.

Daniel Peters of Dixon was ring bearer.

MARK HANSON of Allen served as best man. Groomsmen were Matt Swanson of Omaha, Paul Snyder of Allen, and Scott Schlegelmick of Lincoln.

The bridegroom wore a gray cutaway tuxedo trimmed with braided edging, a matching vest, and coordinating gray-striped trousers. His white wing collar shirt featured a gray striped ascot tie.

His attendants were attired similar to the bridegroom, wearing complimenting gray stroller coats and identical trousers, vests, shirts and ties.

Guests were ushered into the church by Bart Gotch of Allen, Ronald Ver Mulm of Sioux City, and Ryan Lubberstedt and Stuart Lubberstedt, both of Dixon.

Mrs. Lubberstedt selected a mauve knit with a lace bodice and full, pleated floor-length skirt for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Ellis chose a light pink polyester satin dress in floor length with a chiffon overlay.

Both mothers wore a single cymbidium orchid corsage.

FOLLOWING THE ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Chase of Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lubberstedt of Dixon greeted the 350 guests. The guests were registered by Lisa Wood of Lincoln, and gifts were arranged by

Mr. and Mrs. Tod Ellis

Karma Rahn of Allen and Nadyne Zimmerman of Vermillion.

The cake was cut and served by Janet Ellis of Papillion and Joyce Zimmerman of Vermillion.

Joe Ann Meier of Sioux City and Phyllis Richardson of Omaha poured, and Peggy Ring of Yankton served punch. Waitresses were Karma Rahn and Nadyne Zimmerman.

Members of Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid assisted in the kitchen. Goblets used by the bride and bridegroom at the reception belonged to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Adolf Bruns of Wisner.

THE NEWLYWEDS traveled to Estes Park, Colo. following their wedding. They will make their home at 1100 Cambridge Court, No. 20, in Lincoln.

The bride, a 1980 graduate of Allen High School and a 1981 graduate of Western Iowa Tech in Sioux City, is employed at Brandeis in Lincoln.

The bridegroom was graduated from Allen High School in 1978 and from the University of Nebraska Lincoln in May 1982. He is employed with the Nebraska Water Conservation Council in Lincoln.

Bible school displays at Grace Ladies Aid

Projects made by vacation Bible school youngsters were displayed at the June meeting of Grace Lutheran Ladies-Aid.

Members of the aid served ice cream and drinks to the youngsters at a picnic on Friday, June 11.

Each member received a cookie savor made by the Bible school children.

FORTY-FIVE women hosted the June aid meeting. Hostesses were Florence Rethwisch, Susan Vogel and Ruth Victor. Devotions were given by Joann Temme and Betty Wittig of the Christian growth committee.

Following readings and prayer, the group sang "Just As I Am." It was reported that 30 quilts were made for World Relief.

Reports were given on the Methodist Guest Day breakfast and on the District LWML Convention held recently in South Sioux City. Ardene Nelson thanked women who helped with the convention.

Joann Temme was chairman of the group visiting Wayne Care Centre on June 23.

IRMA HINGST and Leora Austin read letters from Mark Jauss. Bonnell Koch will write the next letter.

The Jausses are planning to be in Wayne and will attend the August meeting of the aid. Seated at the birthday table were Irene Temme and Linda Grubb.

July 14 hostesses will be Betty Wittig, Leora Austin and Marion Baier.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of these businesses for helping make the Wayne County Old Settlers a success.

Mielke-Middleton repeat wedding vows in Norfolk

Janice Lynn Mielke and Mark Leroy Middleton were united in marriage June 26 at Saint John's Lutheran Church in Norfolk, with the Rev. Jack Nitz officiating at the 6 o'clock rites.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mielke of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Middleton of Wayne.

The bride chose a gown of white polyorganza over angel mist tulle. The re-embroidered English net yoke was outlined by a wide over-the-shoulder. Chantilly lace ruffie and regency neckline.

A Venice lace encircled, drop waistline highlighted the full skirt which featured Venice appliques and bow-topped scalloped ruffled lace, all ending in a chapel train.

The bride's illusion veil was held in place by a picture hat of lace ruffling and beaded Venice motifs. The hat featured an illusion pouf and satin streamers.

She carried a cascade of roses, daisies, forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

Doug Carroll and John Goeden, both of Wayne.

Junior groomsman was Jerry Mielke of Norfolk, also a brother of the bride.

The bridegroom was attired in a white tuxedo and wore a lavender rose and baby's breath boutonniere.

His attendants wore silver gray tuxedos and white ruffled shirts with pastel edging. Their boutonnieres corresponded in color with the bridesmaids' dresses.

Mothers of the couple were attired in dusty rose floor-length dresses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Middleton

MAID OF HONOR was Lori Gentler of Kearney.

Bridesmaids were Patricia Mielke, sister of the bride, Mrs. Julie Welch and Stacey McNally. All are of Norfolk.

Junior bridesmaid was Joyce Marie Mielke of Norfolk, also a sister of the bride.

They wore long-sleeved lace jackets over spaghetti straps. A line dresses with a side split in orchid, peach, blue, white and pink respectively.

Each carried a fan centered with flowers.

Best man was Kevin Marks of Evansville, Wyo., and groomsman were Kelly Mielke of Norfolk, brother of the bride, and FLOWER GIRLS were Crystal McCall of Phoenix, Ariz., and Jessica Jaeger of Winside, Cory Taylor of Norfolk was ring bearer.

Lighting candles were Bradley Stoll and Benji Richards, both of Norfolk.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Diane Mielke.

Wedding music included "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Song," sung by Emily Dopheide and accompanied by Eileen Weddingfeld.

Guests were registered by Rhonda Wohl of Yankton, S. D. and Mary Carlson of Norfolk, and ushered into the church by Dan Jaeger of Winside, Scott Tech of Norfolk, and Richard Mielke and Charles Mielke, both of Valley City, S. D.

A DINNER and dance reception was held at the Elks Lodge with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mielke and Mr. and Mrs. Burl Price greeting the guests.

Gail Jaeger of Winside and Pamela McCall of Phoenix, Ariz., sisters of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake.

Delores Hartman of Hoskins, and Mae Dennis and Mini Howell of Norfolk served punch. Deb Schwartz of Stanton was at the wine fountain.

Waitresses and others assisting were Sharon Johnson, Barb Wohl, Judy Hartman, Carmella Kinkaid, Margaret Timmerman and Mary Houch.

If textbooks are required, they will be made available at the first meeting of the class.

The course is based on two research projects completed by Dr. Roemhildt at Wayne State and presented at the national convention of the Association of College Professors of Textiles and Clothing held in Dallas, Texas.

ANYONE NOT wishing to take the class for college credit can take the course under the "audit" system and thus avoid the examinations and paperwork.

Dr. Roemhildt pointed out.

The course is designed as a study of fitting and alteration problems based on two muslins with grainline variations. Some library readings will be required.

For further information or to register, contact the Wayne State College Extended Campus office, (402) 375-2200, ext. 217.

Susan Baker

Allen student selected national award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Tiffany Lee Harder has been named a 1982 United States National Award winner in science.

The Academy recognizes less than five percent of all American high school students.

Tiffany, who attends Allen

Consolidated School, was nominated for the national award by Gary Troth, science teacher at the school.

TIFFANNY WILL appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

Tiffany is the daughter of Lee and Audrey Harder.

Susan Baker is Miss Hospitality

Susan Baker of Wakefield was selected Miss Hospitality during the Miss Nebraska National Teen-Age Pageant held June 26 at Nebraska Wesleyan College in Lincoln.

As Miss Hospitality, Susan received a tiara, trophy, banner, watch, windbreaker and $100.

She also received a $100 cash scholarship as the winner of a written essay contest on "What's Right About America."

The girls were judged on scholastic, achievement, leadership, poise, personality and appearance. In addition, each contestant participated in the Volunteer Community Service Program of the pageant.

SUSAN AND her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Baker, will receive an all-expense-paid trip to the 1983 pageant where Susan will act as a hostess.

Jane Fluent of Newcastle also was a finalist in the pageant, and Tracy Wilbeck of Hartington won the talent division.

Marking 90th year

WS athletic program earns some NAIA sports

Both the men's and women's athletic programs at Wayne State earned points in the annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' (NAIA) All-Sports Championships, according to Steve Veal, NAIA assistant director for communications.

The Lady Cats tallied 21 points to tie for 44th place with Pittsburg State (Kan.), a fellow member of the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. The men accumulated 10 points to tie with a host of other schools for 148th place.

Initiated in 1969 for men and last year for women, the all-sports competition measures success of an institution's total athletic program by the accumulation of points on the district, area, and national level in the 23 sporting events sponsored by the NAIA.

Saginaw Valley (Miss.) won the men's divisions with 134 points, while Adams State (Col.) tallied 145 points to run away with the women's division.

Wildcat opponents in the state and in the CSIC fared well, tallying to the high level of competition enjoyed by the WSC athletic programs. Four men's CSIC programs finished in the Top 50, and seven of the eight conference schools scored in the all sports race, while five NAIA District 11 (Nebraska) schools scored.

The CSIC had four teams in the Top 12 nationally in the women's division, and seven of eight conference rivals scored. Five Nebraska schools were in the Top 50, including Wayne State, and seven state schools earned points.

CHATTER SEW
The Chatter Sew Club met Thursday for their annual club tour.
Eight members, Anita Rastede, Tillie Rastede, Marcia Rastede, Joyce Benstead, Phyllis Geiger, Marlene Swanson and Phyllis Swanson and Mary Johnson, driver, attended.
Dinner was served to the group at Randolph Cafe in Randolph.
Following dinner, they visited the former Belden High School building which now houses a display of antique furniture and many antique items.
Traveling north of Hartington, they stopped at a farm home where they toured two outdoor buildings. The first building housed the hunting trophies of Tony Uhing. The animals had been prepared by a taxidermist who had arranged the animals in the natural habitat. The other building was a museum of items past and present.
The final stop of the tour was a farm "sewing center" of a Hartington woman. She had sewn for Hollywood stars before her marriage and now sews costumes for high school and college musicals and plays. Club members modeled hats of the past and had their pictures taken.
BUILDING RESTROOMS
All 4th members of Dixon County or anyone else wanting to contribute to the building of new restrooms by the livestock barns at the fairgrounds are asked to bring items for the auction sale Saturday, July 10 to the Dixon County Fairgrounds at Concord sometime during the day before 6 p.m. The auction will begin at 6 p.m.

If you wish more information contact Jim Warner, Gary Hoffman, Ken Pettit, Court Roberts or Mike Isom, all of Allen.
If you have items too large to bring, contact one of these persons and they will see that the item is picked up.
