Annual event

VOLUNTEERS WERE KEPT busy for quite awhile Friday night, serving up 1,600 lbs of beef and pork during the annual barbecue at the Wayne County Fair. Along with the meat, about 110 lbs of potato chips were expected to be served and 100 gallons of beans. A cooler then expected evening helped bring out a good crowd for the barbecue and the special events that evening.

ESU discusses computer costs

Computers, and providing the hardware and instructions were a major item of discussion during the Educational Service Unit One's meeting in Laurel on Aug. 3.

The ESU has been approached by Phil McMillan, of Computers West of Omaha, to provide up to 12 Apple II brand computers for use within the ESU.

A van, loaded with the equipment and an instructor would travel within the ESU, supplying instruction, mainly to faculty members, on the use of Apple II's.

Cost for the service would be $350 per day for the van and computer plus $35 per hour for the instructor.

Present during the meeting were several area school superintendents. When asked about the necessity of computers, one replied "We have five. We probably can't afford them, but we really can't afford to be without them."

Board member Randy Shaw told the board that Wayne State College currently has three people doing extension computer inservice work. Teacher's in the ESU area might possibly be able to take the inservice training for about $24 per credit hour.

Most board members agreed that one of the problems with computer instruction deals with the number of people that would have to learn on the same unit.

Shaw was directed by the board to provide information for the next meeting concerning WSC's inservice program. ESU administrator Harry Miles, will continue to explore other routes for providing computer training for faculty members within the ESU.

The board also reviewed again the line of authority, which they had approved during their June meeting.

The chart calls for the hiring of an assistant administrator who would be responsible for several areas within the ESU.

Superintendents present during the meeting wondered whether the hiring of an additional administrator would mean the loss of a coordinator's position for the level 3 TMH classes.

Following some discussion, Shaw, who was on the committee that recommended the line of authority chart and changes, said no. The board did not intend to drop a position at this time, rather to superimpose an additional administrative position.

Funding for the position, this year, will probably come from the ESU's reserve fund and it is hoped that next year, other funding avenues may be found.

A spin off item of the line of authority chart deals with the making of board policy. Questions arose following the approval of the chart in June, as to whether it represents a board policy.

After some discussion it was decided that it was not a board policy, that it could be changed at any time.

Suggestions were also made that when the board does intend to make a decision into a board policy, that several meetings be held concerning the matter and not just one.

The board also discussed whether to continue to go ahead with their suit against the Crofton school district for failure to live up to the terms of a contract the district had signed with the ESU for TMH classes.

Although they are unsure as to the outcome of the case, the board voted to continue with the court suit. The suit involves about $9,000 plus court costs if the court finds in favor of Crofton.

In other action during the meeting the board:

- Set Aug. 24 as a public hearing date for the 1982-83 ESU budget. The meeting will be held in Laurel at 9 p.m.
- Voted to continue with the present delivery service used in the ESU for educational materials.
- Discussed nursing services and reviewed funding and travel problems. The board also voted to provide South Sioux with $12,000 in additional funding for nursing services if the district completes several necessary repairs to the nursing service area.
- Held a closed session meeting concerning contract negotiations dealing with ESU employees.

State approves beer license for Bill's GW

The Nebraska State Liquor Commission voted to grant an off sale retail basis only class B (beer only) liquor permit to Lueder's Inc. (Bill's GW) of Wayne during their public hearings on Aug. 6.

According to commission staff members, a hearing on the application request was made on Aug. 5. The Wayne city council had voted on May 25, not to recommend approval for the application. No reason was given by the commission's staff for the approval.

A separate case this summer has resulted in the filing in Lancaster County District Court by David Domina, Norfolk, representing Wymodak, inc., owners of the 7-11 store in Wayne.

Earlier the state commission had voted not to grant an off sale retail basis only class

B (beer only) permit to Wymodak. The application is the same type as approved for Lueder's Inc. for the sale of beer only on a retail basis, not for consumption on the premises.

Domina said according to the records of the hearing the commission voted not to approve the application for Wymodak because the local body (city council) did not recommend for approval and that the majority of the council members did not favor the application's approval.

Domina said the appeal he has filed alleges that the commission's decision was contrary to evidence presented and the law. A hearing date on the matter has yet to be set in Lancaster District Court on the filed appeal petition.

Degrees conferred on 77 summer graduates

Dr. Richard Bringelson, executive officer of the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, delivered the commencement address to a group of 77 Wayne State College graduates Friday morning.

Extending greetings from the Board was J. Alan Cramer, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Ed Elliott, college president, conferred degrees to 49 students earning bachelor's degrees and 28 students completing work on a master's program.

Graduating Summa Cum Laude was Lori Jo Martenson of Norfolk. Magna Cum Laude honors went to Lori Renee Lessmann of Wayne. Sally Diane Taylor of Bellevue was graduated Cum Laude.

Honorable mention academic honors went to Beverly Jo Bruckner of McLean, Julie Diane Goff Homel of Silver Creek, Kathleen Jones Jacobs of Verdigris, Steven Sutticola of Crofton, and Mary Sue Konz Wiebehaus of Hartington.

College registrar Virginia Wright presented the baccalaureate candidates and Dr. Bartholomew Brady Clampa presented the master's candidates to President Elliott.

Providing music for the ceremony in the college Willow Bowl were Wayne State faculty members Anthony Garlick and Connie Webber.

The invocation and benediction were delivered by the Rev. Robert Haas of the United Presbyterian Church of Wayne.

In his speech, Dr. Bringelson warned of difficult times facing Americans right now and told the graduates they are not alone in this situation.

Bringelson praised the graduates for the goals they have met. "However," he said, "your families and friends have also established goals for you and for themselves regarding your achievements."

"I remember participating in commencement exercises of my own," Bringelson continued.

"In all honesty, I have to admit that the degree might well have gone to the faculty, family and friends who were so supportive of me during the period when I was working towards that goal."

Bringelson said commencement is more than a completion. It is the signal of a beginning.

Referring to John Neihard's book, entitled "All is But a Beginning," Bringelson told the graduates he proposed this day for them was as Neihard saw things — all is but a beginning.

Although Bringelson said we all have high respect for self reliance and individual accomplishment, there is more interdependence, more sense of community, more concern for helping our neighbors than most generally realize.

"Just let a catastrophe or some major problem fall on a family and see the kind of response that is made by the neighbors. Most invariably there is a maior turn-out of assistance," said Bringelson.

"By and large, I think people particularly in Nebraska communities really understand what it means to help each other in the context of community. We do this even though we support individual responsibility and independence."

Praising Wayne State's faculty and staff, Bringelson said the institution is significant and important, not as an end in itself, but within the context of all the other services and programs needed by people in this part of the state.

"As Wayne State College deals with the challenges facing it in the months and years ahead, they do not and will not function in isolation."

In closing, Bringelson advised the graduates to be "conscious" of the communities they choose to live in, "decide their relationship to that community, and "do something" about it.

"Put in as much as you take out," said Bringelson.

Following is a list of area graduates Bachelor of Science — Jeffrey Edmonds, Wayne; Jeremy Edmonds, Wayne; Mona Johnson, Laurel; Bradley Jones, Wakefield; Lori Renee Lessmann, Wayne; Mary Lundin, Allen; Ann Wickett, Laurel.

Master of Science in Education — Mary Shufelt Carstens, Wayne; Beth Schram Fouks, Ponca; Diane McDowell-Trullinger, Wakefield.

Correction

An error was made in a story in the Monday, Aug. 2, edition of The Wayne Herald concerning Christian Behmer who recently joined Elanco Products Co. as an agricultural chemicals sales trainer working out of the Sioux City area. Behmer's mother, Donna Behmer, is of Fremont, not Winslow as originally reported. His father is Dale Behmer of Little Rock, Ark. Christian is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Behmer of Hoskins. The error is regretted.

License suspended

On Aug. 6, the Nebraska State Liquor Commission voted to suspend the liquor permit for the Stratton House in Wayne for a seven day period yet to be determined.

According to commission officials, the Stratton House entered a no contest plea to a charge of allowing a minor to be in possession while on the premises during the Aug. 6 session.

Commission officials stressed the charge was not for selling to a minor. The commission's order on Aug. 6 was forwarded to staff members for action, however, it is not known when the seven day suspension order will go into effect.

police report

Accidents were a problem this week for local police. On Tuesday, a car driven by Ruth L. Korfh of Wayne was backing from a private drive when she struck a car owned by Floyd Andrews of Wayne, which was parked on Nebraska Street.

On Wednesday, a car-bicycle accident occurred in the Pamela parking lot when a car driven by Katherine Boekenhauer of Emerson turned into the lot. She did not see Heidi Wreidt who was going North on her bicycle in the parking lot. The rider said she knew the car was going to hit her, so she jumped off the bike. The vehicle ran over the bike and it was lodged underneath the car.

A third accident occurred late Thursday night, when a car driven by John H. Rebensdorf was Northbound on Main Street and a car driven by Renee A. Otto was Eastbound on West 3rd Street. Otto stopped at the intersection of Main Street for a flashing red light and then entered the intersection as Rebensdorf, attempting to make a left-hand turn, did the same. Both vehicles collided in the intersection. Otto said that she did not know Rebensdorf was going to make a left-hand turn.

A dog was impounded on Wednesday when the pastor of Grace Lutheran Church reported a stray in the building. A second dog was impounded on Windom Street and a third was captured behind the book store. A German shepherd puppy, which was lost on East 4th Street, was found one half hour later in the neighborhood.

A girl was reported as "not walking so well" on 14th Street, from Rice Auditorium to the hospital. Police were unable to locate the girl. Police also investigated a report of a drunk in the park and found the subject asleep. There was no problem with the incident.

A man hole cover was replaced on 5th and Logan Street when it was reported missing.

Discussion needed

Recent criticism has been directed by law enforcement authorities, judicial authorities and political officials and observers concerning the new Nebraska driving while intoxicated law.

Under the old law, the maximum penalty for third offense DWI had been five years in prison. Under the new law, the maximum became six months in the county jail. This was done to make the jail time for third offenses more realistic.

The new law also increases the non-jail penalty for third offense DWI by providing for permanent suspension of a convict's drivers license.

Although the intent of the legislature was to toughen the DWI laws, several observers feel that with the reduced jail time for third offense, the new DWI law has been significantly watered down.

With problems surfacing from the courts and law enforcement authorities alike, we call on the state legislature to review these problems during the coming legislative session. We feel certain that these problems can be worked out in order that the DWI laws be strengthened to the social degree that the Unicameral had originally intended.

Positive attitudes

The headline read: "Small Towns Face Blurred Future." The story told the rest.

"There will be a continued move to the small town from the cities, but the destination of those leaving the larger communities will not be the Norman Rockwell idea of a small city. Today's migrants to the small city frequently arrive with a negative value."

While we hoped to get an optimistic outlook from that headline and story, we found ourselves questioning the growth of our own community.

Can Aurora afford to have an increase in population, a population that has a negative attitude?

No, Aurora cannot afford to have people with a negative outlook. It has been difficult enough in recent years to maintain community loyalty even from some longtime residents, let alone new citizenry that would hold negative views.

Our community has remained positive and has continued to look ahead to the future with an optimistic viewpoint. We have visioned growth, not only in population, but in homes, businesses and re-investment in the community. The degree of that optimism has varied; however, it has never died.

Even today, with tight money, poor ag markets, we are still seeing some re-investment in our community. Some businesses have closed but others are opening. It is not on the grand scale of the late 1960's or early 1970's, but it's better than many communities.

We have seen community support in fund drives and what we term "Community pride projects." We have also noted some complacency too. But, again, that complacency is not on the scale of other communities.

We must continue to support our organizations and unite toward common community goals. Don't turn an Aurora into what a visitor told us his community has fallen: "The people of our town couldn't care less if we had business houses or not... we can't even hold a meeting, let alone agree on anything."

Aurora will continue to grow, there's no question about that. It may not grow and prosper as fast as we would like, but it will prosper... as long as we hold a positive attitude and expend positive energy.

ASK A LAWYER

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEBRASKA STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Q. If my husband does not pay his child support, can I keep him from visiting our children (I have custody) until he has paid the support money that is due?

A. No. This is one of the most frequent questions submitted to "Ask a Lawyer" and it represents a common misunderstanding about the rights and obligations of parents after a divorce.

The non-custodial parent's responsibility to pay child support and the right to have reasonable visitation with one's children are usually both spelled out in the terms of the divorce decree. These are not offsetting rights and responsibilities. A parent who does not keep up child support payments cannot automatically be refused permission to see his or her children. By the same token, a parent who refuses to allow the non-custodial parent to have reasonable visitation as provided in the decree does not automatically forfeit his or her right to child support payments.

In instances where one parent refuses to abide by the terms of the decree — for example, by failing to pay ordered child support — it is possible that the court could find the individual in contempt of court and impose appropriate sanctions. However, this must be done through the court process. One parent cannot arbitrarily take action against the other.

Q. What types of actions can a creditor take against a person who owes him money? We feel we are being harassed unfairly, but the creditor says he is within his rights to try to collect his money. Please give us some guidelines.

A. There are both state and federal laws regulating the collection of debts by "debt collectors" or "licensees." (Debt collectors are individuals or another party; licensees are institutions licensed by the Department of Banking for the purpose of debt collection.)

Debt collectors and licensees have some general restrictions: they may not call you at unusual times or places (such as very late at night); they may not call you at work if your employer does not want you to receive such calls, and if you have notified the collector of this fact; they may not engage in conduct such as threatening violence or criminal charges, using obscene language, causing the telephone to ring continuously and other types of harassing conduct; they may not mislead you by sending you notices which appear to be legal documents but which in fact are not; and if you have a lawyer assisting you they must deal with your lawyer rather than calling you personally.

If the creditor himself is trying to collect the debt, rather than hiring a collection agency to collect it on his behalf, there do not appear to be any statutes directly governing such conduct. However, Nebraska law has indicated that a person may not use harassing or unreasonable tactics to collect a debt.

The creditor is within his legal rights to attempt collection within reason. The use of abusive language or conduct intended to damage the reputation of the debtor, or conduct intended to invade the right of privacy or social or family relationship or the property of the debtor, would be prohibited.

Talk to your lawyer for more specific guidance on whether your creditor's actions are within the law, and to determine how best to handle the situation.

If you have a legal question, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 3020, Lincoln, NE 68503. This column is intended to provide general legal information, and specific legal advice. "Ask a Lawyer" is a public service of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

diversions. . . by paul farmer

People look at me at little strange when I tell them I'm having a good time at the fair...well, they look at me a little strangely anyway, but what the heck; this is fun kind of work.

I really do like them. Of course they are sort of like birthdays, you can't have one more than once a year otherwise the enjoyment would be gone, but they're a good time.

When I was talking with people about the barbecue that is put on each year, I nodded my head and said yes, I can understand 'oh about 5,000 people being fed.'

Sure, I could understand it, until Friday evening when I went out to take photos and saw...5,000 people getting fed. There had to be, at the very least, that many.

Now that's what I call a barbecue!

From the report I got from people who enjoyed the meal in previous years, it was just as good with the meat cooked in the propane cookers this year, as it has been in previous years with the meat cooked in barbecue pits...not to mention the time and work it saved in preparation.

I had to chuckle at a remark Marlyn Koch made during the day. We were sitting together watching some of the 4-H judging and he turned and said, "You know, I think this is the first year I've been able to just sit for a few minutes and watch some of the judging?"

If anyone didn't know him, that remark could be interpreted differently.

I've only recently met Marlyn but I know for a fact that that man never stops working. He must just be getting a few more tricks down each year on how to do things because it's certainly one of the very best county fairs I've ever went to or covered. I'm glad this year he got time to enjoy his handiwork.

I also got a chuckle out of some of the news coverage by other media at the fair.

I don't wear hats...well, very rarely anyway...but you know how to tell the photographers from newspapers at fairs? They all seem to wear their baseball caps backwards. At least that has been my experience. I wonder if it would improve my image to start wearing baseball caps backwards? Nay...then I'd feel like pulling on a face mask and a glove and I've had just about enough of diamond sports for one season.

Anyway, if you didn't get out to the fair this year it's your own fault, because it was a lot of fun.

Next year I think I'll talk to those in charge and volunteer my services as a wine tasting judge. Those gentleman really took their job seriously...pif

NEWS ITEM: THE NATION'S BANKS ARE RESEARCHING NEW WAYS TO PUT HIGH TECHNOLOGY TO WORK IN THE WAR AGAINST "BOUNCERS"...

Midwest states need to use more of their clout

Midwestern states need to use the clout that they can have if they are united in purpose.

As the newly installed chairman of the Midwest Governors' Association, my chief goal will be to get the 13 states in the association to act in concert to influence national policy, particularly in the field of agriculture.

Nebraska represents only six-tenths of one percent of the population of the United States. But the thirteen states in the Midwest Governors' Association — Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin — represent 27 1/2 percent of the nation's residents.

The most important work of my chairmanship will be to organize the association as a strong voice to persuade America to adopt a trade policy that emphasizes worldwide exports of agricultural products.

There are many other areas related to agriculture, however, where the association needs to work to change national policy. For example, we need to change the present federal policy that shortchanges the midwest on agricultural research.

All of the states in the association except Kentucky are in the northcentral region for research done by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

These 12 states provide 44 percent of all U.S. farm cash receipts, have 58 percent of the cropland acres, 45 percent of the farm population and 47 percent of the assets in vested in agricultural product. Yet the area receives only 22 percent of the USDA Agricultural Research Service funding.

governor charley thone

While these northcentral states produce 1 1/2 times more than the southeast states, the latter states get 1 1/2 times as much for ag research. As a matter of fact, about half of the total ARS research is done on crops such as tobacco, cotton, sugar cane and peanuts.

President Reagan has realized that increased agricultural efficiency is needed if America is to continue to feed our people and much of the rest of the world and if agriculture is to continue as the U.S.'s chief source of foreign income. Therefore, he has proposed a significant increase in agricultural research funds for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

What our association must do is to see to it that all or most of this additional money is allocated to the midwest.

Nebraska can work with other states in the midwest to be a giant force in national policy.

100 years of faith

Outdoor mass highlighting St. Mary's Parish centennial celebration

With the theme of "A Family of Faith, We Stand in One Spirit," St. Mary's Parish of Wayne will celebrate a year-long celebration of 100 years of faith on Sunday, Aug. 15.

The celebration will be highlighted by an outdoor Mass beginning at 4 p.m. with Archbishop Daniel E. Sheehan, celebrant, and Father James Buschelmann, pastor.

Also taking part in the outdoor Mass will be past pastors and visiting clergy as concelebrants.

Fr. James Buschelmann

The first Mass was said in the home of one of Wayne's earliest settlers in 1882 with Father Horn of West Point as celebrant. Twenty-five persons attended.

Father Horn was succeeded by Father Carney of Norfolk who served Wayne for nearly two years.

Places where Mass was celebrated in the early years included the homes of John B. Getzgen and M. P. Ahern, and the old courthouse.

Father Carney was succeeded by Father Moriarty in 1885. In addition to serving congregations at Emerson and Wayne, Father Moriarty attended missions near his home in Lyons.

The following year, in 1886, the first church was erected on a site in the north part of the city on Main Street.

To assist in covering the small debt on the church, a fair was held in the winter of 1886 which netted receipts of over $300.

In 1887, Father Moriarty was appointed resident pastor, remaining nearly a year after his appointment. He was succeeded by Father Mugan, who also remained about a year.

Father Wallace came in February 1890, staying until fall when he left for England.

Following Father Wallace was Father Barry, who remained in Wayne one year then moved to Emerson, having Wayne as a mission.

In 1896, Wayne and Dixon came under the charge of the same pastor, and Wayne again had a resident pastor, Father McGrath.

The following year, a house and three lots were purchased nearer the city, and the church was moved to East Fourth Street.

Father McGrath remained two years and was succeeded by Father James B. Fitzgerald, who remained for five years. During his pastorate, the church had a substantial growth in membership and all debts were paid.

Father Weber served the parish next, remaining for a short period of time.

Father T. P. Haley arrived in December of 1902. During his administration the church building was doubled in size, a tower was built, new altars, a bell, pews and confessionals were secured.

The original cost of the church was $2,000. The house and grounds cost $1,800 and the added improvements totaled $3,000.

Up until this time, persons from Carroll came to Wayne to attend Mass. Mass was said every second Sunday at Wayne and Dixon.

In 1903, a pastoral residence was purchased at Dixon. Plans were made to build a church in Carroll which later became a mission of Wayne.

Father Haley resigned to study in the Catholic University at Washington D. C. and was succeeded by Father Kearns who came to the parish in September of 1906 and remained for 44 years.

Father Kearns retired in 1950. During his stay, Carroll became a mission of Randolph.

Father Robert Hupp of Omaha became pastor of St. Mary's Parish in 1950 and served Wayne for two and a half years.

During this time, he organized St. Mary's Men's Club, St. Mary's C.Y.O., St. Peter's and St. Joseph's study clubs, and the senior and junior choirs.

The highlight of Father Hupp's years in Wayne was the building of a Catholic grade school on a six-acre tract of land located on East Seventh Street.

Father Hupp was transferred to Omaha in June of 1953 and was succeeded by Father William C. Kleffman, who completed the building of the school which opened on Sept. 8, 1953.

A convent was purchased on Walnut Drive in 1962 for the Missionary Benedictine Sisters staffing the school.

Father Kleffman served St. Mary's in 1953 until August of 1968. Before leaving he collaborated with an architectural firm to plan, design and draw up blue prints for a new church.

Four Masses each Sunday in the old church would not accommodate the parish members and the 900 or so Catholic students that enrolled each fall at Wayne State College.

Father Paul J. Begley was appointed the new pastor of St. Mary's in 1968. Shortly after his arrival, a new rectory was purchased on Walnut Drive.

In April of 1969, ground was broken for the new church with a seating capacity of 410 persons.

The church, located on East Eight Street, is a one-story building with a full basement. The main floor consists of a family room, baptismal room, a priest's sacristy and a boy's sacristy together with a 34-foot wide sanctuary.

The main body of the church is hexagonal in shape. A hard surfaced parking lot was completed in 1971.

Father Begley served St. Mary's Parish until June of 1974. Succeeding him was Father Thomas McDermott. During his seven year service, a bell tower was erected on the new church site.

The bell, which was removed from the old church, dates back to 1903.

The present pastor serving St. Mary's Parish is Father James Buschelmann.

who arrived in Wayne in June of 1981.

During the past two years, members of St. Mary's Mens Club have worked together on the church basement and are now completing the final touches.

Finalizing the Aug. 15 celebration will be a ceremony for the burning of the mortgage of the new church, and a barbecue along with entertainment games on the grounds with a carnival atmosphere.

The congregation invites the public to take part in any or all of the day's activities.

'The Music Man' author relives boyhood in Iowa

Rehearsals are well underway for this month's Wayne Community Theatre presentation, "The Music Man." Directed by Tad Blendenman, the play will be presented Aug. 27, 28 and 29 in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College Campus. Meredith Willson wrote the book, music and lyrics to "The Music Man" after reminiscing about his boyhood in Mason City, Iowa. The musical, considered to be Iowa's answer to "Oklahoma," is about a fascinating fraud, the glib-tongued, fast-footed, woman-chasing Professor Harold Hill, a traveling salesman from Gary, Ind. Hill bursts into colorless River City (population 2,312), alerting the frozen-faced parents to such corrupters of their youth as pool halls, dime novels, and exotic

East India spicy fruits. Hill then proceeds to charm the Iowa townfolk into digging into cookie jars and mattresses to buy uniforms and instruments for a boy's marching band that will be led by the Professor himself. The play ends with an shrewd-eyed townfolk who know the score and a mildly reformed Professor Hill who has scored with the pretty librarian. Professor Hill is played by Alan Cramer, who starred as Tevye in the Wayne Community Theatre production "Fiddler on the Roof." The plain-jane librarian who wins his heart is played by Deb Nicholson who was in last year's production of "My Fair Lady." Others in the cast are Frank Praher as Marcellus; Grace Melton as Mrs. Paroo; Bryan Schmoltd as Tommy; Brett Fuelberth as the red-haired lisping boy Winthrop. Wendy Erickson is Amaryllis, Pat Berg Wilcox is Mrs. Shinn, Katy Griess and Lesa McDermott play the daughters—Gracie and Janeta, Maurice Anderson is the salesman, Tim Brazalet is Charlie Cowell, Clyde Flowers is the Constable, Gwen Davis is Alma Hix, Joan West is Maud Dunlop, Frieda Brazalet is Ethyl Toffelmier, Mary Monson is Mrs. Squires, and Chuck Barnes is Mayor Shinn. There are 12 young persons in the play making for a lively production. They include Chris Hillier, David Melton, Mary Pat Dolala, Brian Melton, Sandy Blendenman, Kristy Craun, Gregg Elliott and Kristen Melton as the dancers. Others in the play as townspeople include Nancy Fuelberth, Hazel Engle, Ann O'Donnell, Laura Straight, Kate Butler, Deb Bollin, Roy Christiansen and Steve Schwlesow. The salesmen are Gary Troth, Clyde Flowers, John Addison, Rodney Porter and Dick Manley. The train conductor is played by Don Merriman, and the barbershop quartet is comprised of Bob Berg, Lyle Seymour, Dean Billstein and Dan Monson. Tickets for "The Music Man" will go on sale Aug. 14. Cost is $5 for adults, and $4 for senior citizens and children. There will be a dinner on Friday, with the cost of the meal $7.50. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Curtain time on Friday and Saturday is 8 p.m. The performance on Sunday will be a matinee starting at 2 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at Sav-Mor Drug, Blake Studio and Griess Rexall Store.

State title hopes are stranded in O'Neill

When it boils right down to it, Wayne's 9-5 loss to Plattsburgh in the Class B State Midget Tournament can be blamed on its inability to hit with runners on base.

The locals yielded 10 walks and five base hits in the seven-inning contest but they also collected seven hits and 13 walks of their own.

A comparison of runners left stranded on base explains Wayne's loss. Plattsburgh left only six runners on base while scoring nine runs. Meanwhile, Wayne scored only five runs and left 16 runners on base Sunday afternoon in O'Neill.

The fifth, sixth and seventh innings were ended with bases loaded by Wayne runners. Only one run was scored in those three innings.

A left handed pitcher by the name of Eddie Adams proved effective against Wayne in key situations. He walked 13 batters but matched that number in strikeouts. He closed the fourth inning with two strikeouts, the fifth with three and the seventh with one.

Wayne batters seemed to be swinging early against the southpaw and didn't hit the ball to right field all night. They often were troubled by his slow curve.

The first round state tourney loss completed Wayne's year with an 18-4 mark while Plattsburgh advanced into Saturday's second round game with Beatrice, a 16-7 winner over Ogfalla. Alliance played McCook and O'Neill met Lincoln Glass in Friday's other first round games.

Things looked promising for Wayne in the early innings. The first six Plattsburgh batters went down in order and Wayne led 4-1 through the fourth inning.

A profitable first inning saw Kevin Maly lead-off with a walk. He moved to second base on a passed ball and scored on an RBI double by Steve Overin. Overin moved to third base on a wild pitch.

When Randy Gamble missed the ball on an attempted squeeze bunt, Overin was caught between third base and home. He got in a rundown and scored on a bad throw home.

Three walks and a passed ball led to Plattsburgh's first run in the third inning. Wayne countered with a run in the bottom of the inning.

Gamble walked. Rick Nelson slapped a hard grounder back to the pitcher for a single and then Jeff Sherer drove Gamble in with a base hit. Pete Warne also collected a pinch hit single to the third baseman but a double play ended Wayne's threat.

In the fourth inning, Maly reached first base on a fielding error, stole second base and moved to third when the throw from the catcher got past the second baseman. Overin drove him home with a base hit.

The turning point came in the fifth inning as Plattsburgh struck for seven runs on four hits and four walks. Another run in the top of the sixth made the score 9-4.

Nelson, Sherer and Jeff Jorgensen were stranded on base in the fifth inning as three batters struck out. Gamble scored Wayne's final run in the bottom of the sixth. He and Don Larsen drew walks and Nelson was hit by a pitch to load up the bases. Gamble came home when Sherer hit into a fielder's choice.

Larsen, Sherer and Todd Dorcay were stranded in the sixth. In the seventh, Overin, Gamble and Larsen were left on base.

Wayne reigns in Tri-County League

When the best of the East met the best of the West Thursday night it was expected to be a classic shootout for the Tri-County League championship.

Instead, East Division champion Wayne steamrolled West Division champ O'Neill 14-1 in a game which was shortened from nine innings to seven because of the 10-run rule.

The hosts dominated the game in the final four innings. Wayne also claimed a regular season 11-3 win over O'Neill in mid-June.

Joel Ankeny, who has assumed the role as Wayne's ace pitcher now that Darrell Mueller has moved to Yankton, was extremely effective against the Irish.

He threw a five-hitter, struck out six batters, walked only three and retired eight batters on fly balls and seven on grounders. O'Neill's only run was scored in the third inning by Wayne State graduate Steve Erwin on a single and an error. Only one other runner reached third base all night.

As it turned out, Wayne got all the runs it needed in the first-inning. Jeff Zeiss walked and stole second base to get into scoring position. Neil Blohm followed Zeiss by clubbing a two-run home run.

After giving up O'Neill's lone run, the hosts came back to score four runs in the bottom of the third. Bill Schwartz singled and Mike Meyer drove him home with a double. A single by Tim Pfeiffer scored pinch runner Kevin Nissen. Dave Schwartz also had a key single and Zeiss reached base on an error.

Erwin and Blohm, running for Ankeny, attempted to give Wayne a 6-5 edge. Three consecutive singles by Doug Starzi, Bill Schwartz and Mike Meyer enabled Starzi to add 2 runs in the fourth.

Ankeny led-off the fifth inning with a single and two long blasts knocked starting pitcher Dave Erwin out of the game. The first was a two-run homer by Jeff Zeiss. Blohm then cracked his second homer of the game with nobody on base.

Four more runs in the sixth inning secured a victory by the 10-run rule. Nissen was hit by a pitch and Dean Carroll drew a walk. Ankeny ripped a two-run double giving the hosts a 12-1 lead.

A single by Doug Carroll, an error and a run-scoring single by Blohm rounded out Wayne's attack.

For the game, Blohm finished 3-for-5 with two runs and four RBIs. Meyer was 2-for-2, Ankeny was 2-for-2, Schwartz was 2-for-3 and Starzi was 2-for-5.

The Tri-County League double elimination tournament is scheduled to open Sunday and the top five seeds in the playoffs are: 1. Wayne, 2. O'Neill, 3. Laurel, 4. Norfolk, 5. Crofton.
