Truck causes heavy damage

Extensive damage was done to the self-service gasoline pumps at the Fredrickson Oil Company's service station North of Wayne Tuesday morning about 9:15 a.m. as the result of a truck accident.
A Northbound Supersweet Feeds truck, driven by Michael R. Funk, Fremont, blew the left front tire of the semi tractor, seconds before crossing the Dog Creek bridge on highway 15 North.
According to eye witnesses, the truck veered into the Southbound lane of the highway and continued off the road, riding the guard rail down into the ditch area. From there, the truck continued down to the Fredrickson service station area where it smashed over and careened off the self-service gasoline pumps before coming to rest in the ditch near the North approach apron of the service station.

According to the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, extensive damage was done to the semi tractor, to the State of Nebraska's guard rail and posts and to the self-service pumps and vent pipes of Fredrickson Oil. The truck is owned by International Multi Foods Corporation of Fremont.
The driver of the truck was treated and released from Providence Medical Center following the accident, according to the sheriff's department. No charges have been filed as a result of the incident.

City reviews pool closing date

The closing date for the city pool was discussed by councilors during the Wayne city council meeting Tuesday night with the result that, most probably, the pool will close on Aug. 22.
Since the item did not appear on the agenda, council could take no formal action, however, due to councilors questions, city manager Philip Kloster responded during the evening session.
"The closing date is generally before the last full week of August in order to allow for employees to completely clean the pool after the season," Kloster said.
According to Kloster, Norfolk's pool closes about Aug. 21, Sioux City closes Aug. 14 and Omaha's on Aug. 15.
With the poor weather during the beginning of the pool's season, councilor Gary Vopalevsky said, if at all possible, he would like to see the season extended for an additional week.
Kloster explained the problem with extending the season involves the people employed at the pool.
"Most of the employees are part-time college students. They are getting ready for school and will not be able to work the extra week. If the pool isn't cleaned by the pool employees, city crews from the public works department will have to find the time," he said.
Councilor Larry Johnson joined Vopalevsky in requesting, if a way can be found, to extend the season. It appears doubtful however that an extension of the season can be made unless an alternate cleaning arrangement can be found.
During the regular meeting period Tuesday night, the council approved an ordinance dealing with controlling the back siphoning of water in the city's water system.
The ordinance is primarily concerned with preventing the back flow of contaminated water into the system," Kloster explained. "It's aimed at such places as hospitals, funeral homes, radiator shops and other places where there is contaminated water."

Following a letter from the state, in which they informed Kloster of a requirement for such an ordinance, Kloster said he informed Wayne State College and Sherry Brothers fertilizer that they must be taken off the system in whole or part.
The ordinance also provides for enforcement by allowing the city to shut off water to a business who does not conform to the new requirements.
"I can tell you horror stories from across the country of city's water supplies being contaminated," Kloster said. "This ordinance is patterned after the State Department of Health's recommendations and I think it's a good one."
Councilors agreed and the ordinance was approved.
In other action during the meeting Tuesday night the council:
• By a 4 to 3 vote with councilor Darrell Heiser absent, voted to table enforcement of the city's nuisance ordinance against Arline Ulrich, until the next council meeting in September. Voting against the motion were councilors Darrell Fugelbert, Carolyn Filler and Keith Mosley. By failing the motion, council extended the time Ulrich will have to clean up his property before the city takes legal action.
• Approved a motion authorizing the city attorney's office to take action to remove the Keith Clark family from city owned land near the airport.
• Approved initial specifications for a 1/2 ton pick-up truck and a 2 1/2 ton dump truck with one change in the bid letting time which will allow dealers to submit bids for 1983 models.
• Accepted a check from Keith and Rick Zimmmer for $150, the proceeds from their tennis tournament, which will be used to pay for the recently installed benches in downtown Wayne.

Error results in lost revenues

A clerical error in the Wayne County assessors office has resulted in lost revenues to the Wayne Public School system of about $296,254 for the 1982-83 school year, according to local officials.
Wayne superintendent Dr. Francis Haun, said he was informed of the loss in funds to the school district on Aug. 2 during a meeting with the Wayne County Commissioners and an official of the Nebraska State Department of Revenue, property tax division.
Haun told the school board Monday night that state and county officials have no remedy for the problem other than for the district to hold an election, if necessary, to seek relief from the current 7 percent state budget lid.
County assessor Doris Stipp said that while reviewing records from rural district 17, she thought there was a discrepancy in the property tax rate. "I just knew it should have been higher for the year," she said.
After reviewing the records, Stipp said she discovered a clerical error.
"I just made me sick," she said. "After I got over the initial shock, I contacted the Nebraska Department of Revenue to seek some sort of a solution."

As yet, there appears no solution to the lost revenue.
The error not only affects the Wayne School district, although most prominently, it also affects the Educational Service Unit I, the Agricultural Society, the Natural Resource District, Northeast Technical College and two fire districts along with the county.
"County funds will be all right," Stipp said. "They can loan the fund sufficient financing from other funds to cover the unexpected drop, but the county is unable to lend money to other agencies."
Stipp said what the error means is that people did not pay the correct property tax levy. As an example, Stipp said for the city of Wayne, "the valuation on a $50,000 home brought in $1,010.96. It should have been $1,100.96," she said.
Stipp explained that the clerical error in figuring the valuations resulted in the loss of between $180 and $200 from property owners. "For the Wayne School district it means about $3.60 per $1,000 valuation more would have been brought in if the error had not been made."
By far, the worst agency affected is the Wayne School district.
Haun said he has been in touch with Ann

Campbell, state commissioner of education; Larry Vontz of the state financing department for education, the state auditors office and the state school board association. "No one has heard of such a problem and there are few ways available to make up the lost revenue," he said.
The result of the lower than expected property tax revenues will mean that the cash reserves of the district will drop down to almost nothing. Said Haun, "External forces have taken away any of our reserve money."
The district's cash reserve, from year to year, has generally been used to stabilize the cash flow for the district.
"We usually receive tax payments in September and around February," Haun explained. "In between times, we use the cash reserves to carry us through those periods when money is not coming into the district."
He indicated that the reserve fund is then brought back to normal when tax payments are made and the remaining money is used to operate the schools.
Without any cash reserves to draw on, Haun said the district will be forced to borrow money from local financial institutions,

"I've begun discussions with a banker who is aware of our problem," he said. "I just hate to see the district in this position. The only thing we are in debt on is the high school building, but we will have no other choice."
The only other choice, offered by state officials, is for a special election to be held in which the voters will be asked to allow the district to be relieved from the current 7 percent growth lid.
Board members also, during the district meeting Monday night, were searching for alternatives. After being informed about "having it dumped in our laps," as Becky Keidel said, they discussed with Haun alternatives to the situation.
"What it amounts to is that the taxpayers are going to have to pick up this interest tab," said Neil Sandahl.
Either way, it would appear taxpayers in the Wayne district will be making up the difference between expected and actual revenues, either through higher taxes or in payment of interest on loans through the year or both.
It is expected property taxes within the district will be forced to rise over a four year period to make up the difference. Other funding avenues are not available.

Board approves 82-83 budget

The Wayne-Carroll Board of Education Monday night voted unanimously to adopt a revised budget of $2,535,083 for the 1982-83 school year.
The budget includes $2,095,247 for total expenditures and $439,834 for a necessary cash reserve, bringing the total requirements for the upcoming school year to $2,535,083.
When contacted, Superintendent Francis Haun indicated that the previously proposed budget of $2,056,649 was revised upwards because of an increase in health insurance premiums by approximately $10,000 and because of an attempt to recoup some lost cash revenue.
"Basically what we've done in the revision of the budget is to lower the anticipated receipts from high school tuition back to where the court stipulation indicates they should be, and increase the local property tax requirement to offset the lower expected high school tuition receipts," said Haun.
Haun informed the board Monday night that the school district will be short $296,254 in property tax money for the 1982-83 school year as a result of a clerical error at the county assessor's office.
At a meeting Aug. 1, Haun said Wayne County Commissioners informed him of the error in School District 17 valuations for 1981. (See story elsewhere in today's paper).

Haun said the 1982-83 budget has been designed to pick up about one third of this dollar loss by increasing the request, by the school district, for local property taxes.
Due to the cash flow situation, Haun informed the board that he has made immediate cancellations of orders for typewriters, mowers and a school bus.
Although there will be a substantial loss in property tax money due to the error in valuations for 1981, Haun said the school will try not to disrupt the educational process.
Haun reiterated that the budget is essentially a maintenance budget.
"There are no proposals for new programs and no proposals for the cutting of programs or pupil services," Haun said.
Haun pointed out that litigation over the high school tuition fund is still pending, with no indication as to the type or time of its resolution.
As of Aug. 1, the school district was short $102,000 for tuition due from Wayne County non-resident high school pupils.
Haun also pointed out that a reduction of $40,000 in State Aid will need to be made up by local property tax.
In 1981-82, State Aid was budgeted to be $224,200. The amount in State Aid allowed in 1982-83 for School District 17 will be $286,201.

In summary, Haun said the 1982-83 school district budget of receipts will be within its 7 percent limitation.
The property tax requirement for 1982-83 will be increased by $130,000 over previous estimates because of the unplanned shortfall in local tax money from Wayne County for 1981-82 and the decrease of $40,000 in State funding.
Anticipated receipts from non-resident tuition were decreased by $130,000 because of litigation.
A complete review of the 1982-83 school budget will appear in a later edition of The Wayne Herald.
In other action Monday night, the school board voted to table any action on consideration of the proposed high school vocational shop addition due to the loss in property tax money.
The board voted to defer action until next month to give the superintendent time to contact the school's attorney in regards to the error made by the county assessor in school valuations.
Bids for the proposed vocational education facilities were opened during a special meeting last month of the board of education.

The apparent low bidder was Risor, and Barney Inc. of Winier who submitted a base bid of $111,000.
Other companies submitting bids were Beckenhauer Construction, Norfolk, Faust Construction, Hooper, and Offie Construction, Wayne.
The board of education has 60 days from the date the bids were opened to decide whether or not to accept or reject bids.
In other action Monday the board:
— learned that an application for an energy grant to insulate the windows at the elementary school was not approved. The project ranked too low on the anticipated pay-book formula.
— reviewed the agenda for area school teachers workshop days, Aug. 26 and 27. Classes are scheduled to begin Monday, Aug. 30.
— heard a report from board member Neil Sandahl on the Task Force on Gifted Education. Sandahl will report back to the board next month on persons chosen to serve the task force.
— accepted the low bid of Robert Henry Co. to supply milk to the school for the 1982-83 school year.
— voted to accept the resignation of second grade teacher Lisa Strawn.

Fun at the fair

Wayne County Fair 1982 combines talent, hard work, and fun

There was cotton candy to be eaten, rides that whirled and twirled, livestock parades, horseshoe pitching, tractor pulls, pickup pulls, and grand stand shows to lure people out to the 1982 Wayne County Fair, which started Thursday and ended Sunday evening. Everything from rabbits to pigeons to cows were judged during the four-day event. Many took the opportunity to take their sweethearts for a ride on the ever popular ferris wheel, top photo. Others captured on film at the fair were, clockwise beginning with top center photo: Turena Walde, who brushes her beef animal in preparation for the judges' scrutiny; Kori Strate, daughter of Marilyn Strate, who holds on tightly to her colorful balloon; Gary Kavanaugh of Wahoo, who placed second and third in Saturday afternoon's tractor pull; six-year-old Tammy Sievers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sievers of Wayne, who naps near her mother's feet and out of the sun at the grand stand; and four-year-old David Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Evans of Wakefield, who can't wait until he's old enough for a tractor of his own.

Shorthanded Wayne passes its first playoff test

The Tri-County League baseball champions barely scraped up enough players to avoid a forfeit but then took it out on Creighton with a 9-2 victory Sunday night.

tri-county league

The win advanced Wayne through the first round of league playoffs and sent the locals into second round action scheduled at home last night (Wednesday) against fourth-seeded Norfolk, a 19-0 winner over Crofton.

Other first round winners in the double elimination playoffs were third-seeded Laurel 9-8 over Coleridge and second-seeded O'Neill 8-7 over Tilden. Laurel and O'Neill were scheduled to clash last night.

The Wayne-Norfolk winner will play the Laurel-O'Neill winner at 8:15 Sunday. The game will be in Wayne if the locals won over Norfolk. As long as Wayne keeps winning, all of its games will be at Hank Overin Field.

The team with the best record is awarded the home field advantage in all but one game. The team which wins the winners bracket will be at home to play the winner of the losers bracket on Wednesday, Aug. 18.

With some players on vacation and others out of town Sunday night, Wayne was shorthanded. Only eight players showed up for a pre-game practice session. Without nine players a team must forfeit.

Al Nissen, who left the town team several weeks ago, came to Wayne's rescue by rejoining the team Sunday. And he contributed heavily to the victory.

With the hosts holding a 2-0 lead, Nissen led off the second inning with a single. He moved to second base on a passed ball and scored on a base hit by Dave Schwartz.

Wayne's two first inning runs were scored by Jeff Zeiss and Neil Blohm.

Creighton closed within two runs again in the third inning when Craig Dohman scored on a double by Don Largent. Nissen's run really looked important when Mike Raiston homered in the top of the sixth.

The bottom of the inning turned the momentum back in Wayne's favor. Joel Ankeny, Dave Schwartz and Zeiss all walked to load up the bases. Neil Blohm brought in a run when he drew a walk and Bill Schwartz drove in two runs with a key double. Blohm scored on a Creighton error.

In the seventh inning, Tim Pfeiffer walked and scored. Wayne's final run came in the eighth inning when Mike Meyer walked and came home on a triple by Ankeny.

Ankeny pitched a five-hitter and scattered seven strikeouts through nine innings. Wayne had 11 walks, collected seven hits and took advantage of six Creighton errors. Leading hitter was Zeiss who was 2-for-2.

Laurel homers nip Coleridge

Laurel, the most explosive team in the Tri-County League, added to its league-leading home run total with six round trippers to drop Coleridge 9-8 in 10 innings Sunday.

The first round playoff game advanced the Falcons' into second round play last night (Wednesday) at O'Neill. A win there would pair Laurel up with last night's Wayne-Norfolk winner in a Sunday night game.

A Laurel loss would drop the Falcons into the losers bracket against either Creighton or Crofton Sunday. The team with the best record plays at home in the playoffs.

Things looked bleak for Laurel in the early going Sunday. Coleridge jumped out to a 6-0 lead after two innings. The other two runs came in the top of the ninth. Laurel patiently picked away at the lead, scoring one run in the second, one in the fifth, one in the seventh, two in the eighth, three in the ninth and the winning run in the 10th.

Brad Erwin capped his second homer of the game to lead off the 10th inning and give Laurel its winning run. Joe Brande smashed Laurel's first homer. John Manganaro homered in the fifth and Erwin homered in the seventh.

George Schroeder took his turn with a solo homer in the eighth inning and Cleve Stolpe drove in another run with a single. Manganaro's second homer, a three-run shot, led the game in the ninth. One of Coleridge's five homers was knocked over the fence by Brian Buss, a Laurel Concord graduate.

The Tri-County playoffs are scheduled to continue through Aug. 25.

Weisenberg resigns as Laurel coach

Bob Weisenberg, 33, submitted his resignation Monday night as coach and teacher at Laurel Concord High School. The resignation was made prior to a school board meeting.

Weisenberg became teacher and coach at Laurel in August of 1975. He was assistant basketball and football coach there from 1975 through the 1981-82 school year. He has been a physical education teacher throughout his career.

The 1974 Wayne State College graduate organized a high school baseball program for the 1976-77 season and has been head baseball coach since then.

The former professional baseball pitcher has given up teaching and coaching to become a State Farm-Insurance agent in Hooper. He and his wife Peggy have one daughter and one son.

McGath prevails in WCC tourney

Competition was keen in the annual Wayne Country Club Women's Open Tournament held Tuesday.

The first flight was won by Jan Clauson with a nine-hole score of 46. Dottie Wacker shot 51 to take runner-up honors.

In the second flight, Elaine Christensen claimed the top prize with a 50 and Bernice Peterson was second with a 54.

Lisa McDermott won the third flight with a 58 and Lili Sahr was second with a 68.

The fourth flight was won by Shirley Fredrickson in a sudden death playoff over Ello Lott. Both golfers finished the 18 holes with scores of 68.

Pittsburg pre-season favorite in CSIC race

The football coaches of the eight Central States Intercollegiate Conference schools anticipate one of the closest races ever, according to the pre-season coaches' poll.

The poll was made public at the annual media luncheon held Monday in Topeka. Kan. Only one new coach was introduced to the approximately 70 media members in attendance. Bruce Polen at Pittsburg State.

However, Polen was put in the unenviable position of being the pre-season favorite to win the CSIC race and defend the conference crown. PSU reached the NAIA Division I finals before losing 30 to Elon (N.C.).

Pittsburg State received six of eight first place votes and 61 points. Five time conference champ Kearney State received the other two first place votes and notched 53 points to tie for second with Missouri Western.

Missouri Southern rounded out the upper division with 41 points and fourth place. Fort Hays State and Washburn tallied 23 points to tie for fifth, while Wayne State and Emporia State had 17 points each to tie for seventh.

Wildcat Coach Del Stollenberg, the longest-tenured coach of any CSIC school, termed the campaign "somewhat of a question mark," though he feels the Cats "have a good nucleus coming back." A traditional WSC strength, the defense, "will be our strength again," he noted.

Wayne State kicks off its 1982 campaign at home on Saturday, Sept. 11 against the always tough Eagles of Chadron State.

Women's B tourney Saturday

Pairings have been drawn up for the Wayne Women's Slow Pitch Softball League Tournament which is scheduled to begin Saturday.

Triangle Finance will receive a first round bye as the top-seeded team. The Windmill will play Pabst Blue Ribbon at 10 a.m. on Overin Field. Eagles-Baier Auction will meet the Jayceettes at 10 a.m. on the college field and Joynt-Taco will face the Care Center at 10 a.m. on Moore Field.

Second round games and losers bracket games will begin at 1 p.m. The last Saturday game is scheduled at 4 p.m. Play in the double elimination tourney will resume at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Men's softball league tourney nears an end

After several delays because of weather, the Wayne Men's League Slow Pitch Softball Tournament is finally nearing completion.

In action Tuesday night, foes in the championship games were determined. The 4th Jug avenged Sherman's Construction 3-1 and then eliminated Mitchell's Construction to win the losers bracket of the X division.

The Jug was scheduled to play unbeaten Crow's Hybrid last night (Wednesday). A Crow's victory would have determined the championship while a Jug victory would have forced a second game.

In the Y division, Godfathers defeated State National Bank and then dropped Greenview Farms 5-1 to reach the championship matchup against Western Auto. Both teams agreed to move that game back to Tuesday because of conflicts. Western can wrap up the title with a win while Godfathers must take two victories to win the championship.

The same two teams which met in first round play of the Z division were scheduled to clash last night for the championship. Tom's Body Shop, a first round winner over Lindner Construction, lost to Lindner's Tuesday night in the finals.

The victory gave Tom's its first tournament loss and set up last night's championship finale. To reach the finals, Tom's also defeated KTCH Radio and St. Mary's. Lindner battled through the losers bracket with wins over Bill's GW, KTCH and St. Mary's.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

A well-kept secret

As I stated in a previous column, the best kept secret in Wayne was the dedication of the city ball park as Hank Overlin Field.

The Overlins also can keep secrets. Their son Steve, who is the ace pitcher for Wayne's Midgets, has been suffering through some back ailments recently.

It was diagnosed last basketball season that Steve is missing a lower vertebra in his spine. The birth defect seems to cause problems when he does much running. It flared up at the area baseball tournament just more than a week ago.

The pain got worse during the week and bothered Overlin considerably at Friday's state tournament game in O'Neill. Hank said he considered holding Steve out of the game but let him pitch because he wanted to play.

Steve will see a specialist before beginning football practice. If the specialist says hard contact could cause permanent damage, Steve may not be playing football this fall.

Grandson to nationals

Jerry Meyer, grandson of Don and Edna Meyer of Wayne, will be playing baseball late into the summer. He pitched a two-hitter as his Nashville all-star team defeated Florida 5-1 to advance to the Babe Ruth World Series in Frederick, Maryland.

The national tourney is scheduled Friday and Saturday. Meyer's team defeated North Carolina 12-1, South Carolina 3-2, Virginia 5-1 and Florida twice to win the regional tournament.

Nashville also won state and district titles. Don and Edna plan to watch their grandson play in the nine-team, double-elimination tourney for 13 year-olds.

The Meyers will ride out to Chicago with Norris and Helen Weible and then fly from there to Maryland. The Weibles will visit relatives in Chicago.

Guidelines developed

The Nebraska School Activities Association recently developed guidelines regarding interscholastic athletic competition.

Wayne High School has added one of the guidelines because it is in need of better enforcement. The guideline states: "A student may be restricted from competition by the coach or suspended from school by administrative personnel (superintendent or principal) for unsportsmanlike conduct involving visiting school teams or delegation, his/her own school teams and representatives, or officials of such contests.

Head-to-head competition set

Nebraska's Class C and Class D high schools will decide their football playoff qualifiers through head-to-head competition in 1983 and 1984 according to the Nebraska School Activities Association.

Classes A and B will continue to be regulated by a point system which has been used since 1975. A point system will determine all playoff entries in all classes during the upcoming year.

Under the new plan classes involved in the switch from point system to round robin district play are C-1, C-2, D-1 and D-2. Each of eight districts will consist of two sub-districts. Schools in the subdistricts will be required to play each other.

The subdistrict winners will meet on the ninth week of the season to determine a district champion. District champions will advance into playoffs.

Because schools may still schedule games against opponents of their choosing, during the first half of the season, rivalries will continue.

In a vote, 56 percent of Class C-1 schools favored head-to-head play, 42 percent of C-2 schools preferred it, 61 percent in D-1 liked the idea and 64 percent in D-2 supported the plan.

Tri-County team competes

A team of Tri-County stars has been competing in the 46th annual Nebraska State Semi-Professional Baseball Tournament at Schuyler.

The team, called Laurel and made up of numerous Laurel players, also is composed of players from the Wayne team and a few players from one or two other teams.

Laurel had been doing fairly well in the semi-pro tourney and recently won a 1-0 game with Darrell Mueller pitching a one-hitter. However, the team had to forfeit when it was scheduled to play last Sunday afternoon — a Tri-County playoff day.

With 27 teams in the double elimination tournament, Wayne State players and graduates can be found on many rosters.

Some of the WSC players or former WSC players other than on Laurel's team are:

Dan Hilgenkamp for Arlington, Mark Citta for Omaha Kelley's North Bowl, Craig Ladwig for Omaha Art's Auto Supply, Clark Benne for Snyder, Greg Cruickshank for Columbus Merchants, Bart Emanuel for North Bend, Bob Cerv for Wahoo and Ralph Kleinsmith for Ralston Alarm Specialists.

The stands were filled for some of the entertainment. Here, a mini-rod tractor spins its wheels a little while pulling the weight in the tense competition.

Rotation period extended

Farmers who have corn or grain sorghum in the producer-owned grain reserve now may rotate these crops out of storage up to 60 days before replacing it with newly-harvested grain. The previous rotation period allowed only 30 days before harvest.

According to Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block, it is routine for farmers to remove old-crop reserve grain from storage and replace it with the new crop in order to maintain the quality of grain under loan.

Block said in many parts of the country, the 1982 crops of corn and grain sorghum were harvested during abnormally wet weather and stored at a higher moisture level than usual. In addition, excessive rains and high humidity and temperatures in many major grain-producing areas this year have led to a greater-than-usual possibility of stored grain going out of condition, he said.

Block said his decision to extend the rotation period was a one-time change made to cope with special weather conditions and would apply only to the replacement of 1982 crops for prior years' crops.

Producers wishing to take advantage of the extended rotation period should contact their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office prior to removing their crops from storage.

Congressional aides to visit

Tasty Nebraska BEEF, corn of the cob, and garden-fresh vegetables will be served along with a hefty helping of Nebraska hospitality as 14 congressional aides visit the Cornhusker State, Aug. 13 to 17.

Most of these influential people come from urban backgrounds and serve on the staffs of Congressmen who may be responsible for making decisions on agricultural legislation in the future, according to Roger Wehrbein, Plattsmouth, chairman of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association (NLFA) Government Affairs Committee which is sponsoring the project.

The aides will spend the weekend in Nebraska as guests of local livestock feeders associations, Wehrbein said.

The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association is sponsoring Nancy Ann Green of Alexandria, Vir. She is a congressional aide employed by Philip M. Crane of Chicago, Ill. Art and Mae Greve of Wakefield are hosting Nancy for the duration of her stay in Nebraska. The Greves have five children and run a hog and cattle operation.

They will arrive in Nebraska, Friday afternoon and return to Washington, DC, on Tuesday. They will be exposed to a broad segment of agriculture as well as to specific production operations in local areas, Wehrbein added.

The Local Feeders Association has arranged to pay the plane fare for the aide and will host that person in rural homes in their membership area.

Meat exposition planned

The 33rd annual meat animal exposition will be held on Sunday, Sept. 12 and Monday, Sept. 13, at the Norfolk Livestock Market in Norfolk, Nebraska.

The Ag Economics Council of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce sponsors this event each year. The judge for this year's show will be Harry Thomas of Harrold, S.D. A major rule change that was implemented last year is that the grand and reserve champion steer and heifer will be required to sell.

Show rules and regulations, as well as entry blanks will be available from county agents through vo-ag instructors or entry cards may be picked up from the Norfolk Livestock Market or the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce office. Rules and entry cards will not be sent out individually.

The judging of the market beef show will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, Sept. 13. The market beef show will be divided by weight rather than breed. An entry fee of $5 will be charged per entry. This fee is to cover cost of bedding, yardage, hay and show expenses and will be paid when checking in at the Norfolk Livestock Market on Sunday.

Crop maturity is uncertain

Crop development is eight calendar days behind normal in Nebraska because of late planting and cool spring weather, according to Kenneth Hubbard, University of Nebraska extension climate resource specialist.

"The crop was planted late and had cool weather after planting," Hubbard said. But the outcome of fall harvest still depends on upcoming weather.

"We might make some gains with warmer temperatures, particularly at night, during August," Hubbard said. A report by the Ag Climate Situation Committee of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service will examine the possible effects of weather on the upcoming harvest.

"We will look at where the crop is and where it should be at this time of year if it is to make it to maturity by the first frost," Hubbard said.

"What we have got going right now is all of the people who have irrigation systems in the state have started to use them." There is no emergency situation, but precipitation would help lessen crop stress, he added.

Corn borers laying eggs

European corn borer moths began emerging in the last half of July and will be active through August, laying eggs for the second generation of borers, according to Bob Roselle, University of Nebraska extension entomologist.

The moths lay most of their eggs during the first 10 to 14 days of August, Roselle said. Fields should be examined to determine if it would be profitable to use pesticides to control the borers.

"Farmers should look for egg masses and small borers in the leaf axils of the plant," Roselle said.

Control is profitable when 50 percent of the plants in the field have egg masses and/or small borers in leaf axils. This level of infestation is most likely during the first week or two of August, Roselle said.

Concord field day to draw 1,500

4-h news

University of Nebraska crop researchers will focus on cost saving and soil conservation during the NU Northeast Station's annual Field Day.

With 1,500 visitors expected on the Tuesday, Aug. 24 event near Concord, staff members will be busy explaining how their research can save farmers' money—in both the long and short term.

Dr. George Rehm, extension soils specialist, will bring farmers up to date on the latest results of the soil testing laboratory comparison study.

In its ninth year, the research is designed to evaluate fertilizer recommendations made by five soil testing labs—including NU's. Rehm also will conduct a tour in fields where he's taking a look at non-traditional soil additives and amendments. Their effectiveness will be compared to their stated claims, he said.

Extension agronomist Russell Moomaw has a four stop planned in fields where he's been investigating no-tillage soil conservation practices. He'll be on hand to discuss the method, and also a project he's begun on intercropping.

Extension irrigation specialist Thomas Dorn will discuss his research on the relationships between tillage, irrigation and soil conservation practices. Dorn said he'd like to help improve irrigation efficiency, especially in relation to soil conservation for farmers in northeast Nebraska. This area of steep, rolling hills poses tough irrigation problems. It's difficult to get enough water onto the fields and still avoid extensive run off problems.

Visitors to the Field Day, also a celebration of the Station's 25th anniversary, can come see if they find these projects useful.

While most farmers apply fertilizer, they often don't use other soil additives such as biological activators or surfactants, according to Rehm.

"They aren't commonly used," he said, "but there's lots of sales pressure to use them now. Rehm applied the chemicals to corn fields according to the directions of the company selling the product. Viewers can compare the claims and results.

Also, Rehm said the Station will demonstrate two minimum tillage planters. The equipment, for seeding grasses and legumes in pasture renovation, will be run on an existing sod.

Moomaw will be showing his no-till research with row crops. He has planted corn and soybeans into oat residue. Other test plots have the crops in tilled soil. He is taking a look at soil erosion under the two systems using a rainfall simulator.

The research showed a loss of 20 tons per acre for conventional tillage corn stubble, and 5 tons per acre on corn planted no-till into stubble.

Herbicides are needed to control weeds with the no-till method. It costs more for farmers to apply the herbicides than to till the soil, he said. This makes farmers hesitant to use no-till. Moomaw said he thinks more research is needed to measure soil erosion under different tillage systems. Knowing the value of soil lost to erosion could affect the decision of whether to pay the additional cost for herbicide and go no-till, or continue to till fields.

Dorn is investigating how much soil is lost under four different tillage systems—spring plow, fall-disk, spring-disk, spring double-disk, and no-till. Each method leaves a different amount of surface residue. Dorn will apply for different intensities of water spray from low-intensity sprinkler systems to each area.

THOMAS DORN, University of Nebraska Northeast Station extension irrigation and conservation specialist, works over a Station irrigation pump. Dorn has been investigating tillage, irrigation and soil conservation practice relationships. Visitors will be able to talk with Dorn about his work during the Station's annual Field Day on Tuesday, Aug. 24.

He'd like to find the best combination of tillage system and sprinkler intensity—the one having the best water retention and least run off.

He'll have the sprinkler system set up during the Field Day and be standing by prepared to answer questions.

In another project, Moomaw is looking at what kinds of problems occur when two crops are planted into the same fields. First oats were sown. Later soybeans and sorghum were planted into the oats. The oats will be harvested and the yield compared to that of an undisturbed field. Field Day visitors will be able to view the beans and sorghum. The oats will already have been harvested.

Moomaw wants to find out how badly the oats are hurt when the beans and sorghum are planted into them, and how badly those are damaged when the oats are harvested. He'd like to see how well intercropping works in northeast Nebraska.

"I think it has some potential," he said, "but there'll be a lot of problems to work out. Where it goes is for the future."

Other plans for the Field Day include stops at livestock, insect and other crop projects. Displays will be set up noticing the Station's accomplishments during its 25 year history. The Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association will sponsor a free barbecue lunch.

The tours will begin at 9:30 a.m. Laurel Brannen, NU extension foods and nutrition specialist, will give a presentation on food preservation and home canning at 10 a.m. at the headquarters building. The NU "Backyard Farmer" television show panel also will be at the Field Day to answer questions about lawn care.

DAD'S HELPERS
Dad's Helpers 4-H Club held a tour and picnic supper Monday, Aug. 2.

The tour began at the Harold George farm. From there the group proceeded to the Bob Dempster, Leonard Johnson, Leroy Balke, Arden Olson, Don Anderson, Don Mohr and Vern Kamrath farms to view projects.

A picnic supper for members and their families was held in the Laurel Lions Club Park. Arden Olson distributed livestock judging ribbons and fair passes.

CONCORDETTES
The ConcordeTTes 4-H Club sponsored their annual grandmothers tea on Tuesday, Aug. 3, at the Senior Citizens Center in Concord.

Each member introduced her guests, which included mothers, grandmothers and adopted grandmothers.

Members told about their projects and showed articles they plan to take to the fair.

Also shown were pictures taken of members with their adopted grandmothers.

A cooperative lunch was served. Dana Anderson, news reporter.

The makings of a winner

Some fairgoers walk through the livestock barns and glance at the animals in their pens with the ribbons hanging above. Some don't even bother to walk through the barns.

Very few see the hard work that goes into molding a ribbon winner. There's much more than meets the eye.

The long process of winning a ribbon starts with choosing the animal. Proper feeding is important. All animals must be properly trained and cows must be halter trained. Considerable time is taken to curry and brush the animals and close inspections make sure that hair and wool is properly trimmed.

Hooves of cows and horses often need to be trimmed and tails and fur need to be clipped and groomed. It takes lots of care for a full month prior to the fair in order to produce a prize winner.

The day of the show, cattle, swine, horses, sheep, goats and other animals all must be washed. They are usually dried by brushing, blow drying or covering with blankets.

Final touches include fluffing tails (often with hair spray), fluffing hair, brushing with hair dressings, cleaning ears, nose and eyes of an animal and putting on a halter.

The livestock also must be fed and watered during the day and kept clean. Dairy cows and goats are milked if necessary.

A bright purple ribbon means more than just an award for accomplishment. It shows hundreds of hours of hard work and care.

The final days of preparation are usually the most hectic. Various steps and odd jobs are required of entrant during the fair. It's lots of hard work but when the judge sees a purple ribbon winner and the ribbon is awarded, it makes it all worth while.

THERE IS A LOT MORE to showing livestock than meets the eye of the average spectator. Dennis Koepke (above) uses a blower to dry his steer's hair coat before the show. A group of six men (top photo) combine their strength to get one calf into a loading chute to check its weight for rate of gain. Keeping an animal clean can be a never-ending job and Valerie Krusemark (top center) tries her best to get her pigs spotless. Russell Puls (top right) uses a portable milking machine to do the twice-a-day chore while his cow is away from home. The finishing touches must be done before the animals enter the ring and Dale Droscher (right center) does some last-minute currying on his horse. The final reward is received by two dairy exhibitors (bottom right) who are presented their ribbons from Dairy Princess Jana Lienemann of Pierce. A good exhibitor always keeps the animals well-fed and Kolette Frevort (bottom center) is no exception.

Race and state tax collection spotlighted

Finger pointing

The Wayne School District, as the result of a recent error in the county assessors office, is entering one of the most difficult times that school administrators and board members may ever face. With reduced state funding, financial freezes, and now the funding road block of unexpectedly reduced property tax returns, the district is not in the best of financial conditions.

Start saving now for a worry-free retirement

Build a retirement fund with the money that used to go for taxes

An IRA account is the answer to saving money for a comfortable retirement. Deposit up to $2,000 a year and if you are a working couple, deposit up to $4,000. Couples with only one wage-earner can contribute $2,250. The money you save and the high earned interest are tax-deferred until you withdraw at retirement when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

Make periodic deposits or in a lump sum. And you can choose Midwest Federal's automatic monthly deposit plan, if you prefer.

Unlike some IRA plans, we charge no fees or commissions. And your money works right here in the community.

Come in soon for details. Then sign up for an IRA that will build a worry-free retirement for you.

It's great to be a Midwesterner!

Motion by Belermann and seconded by Pospisil that whereas the Clerk has prepared copies of the minutes of the last regular meeting for each Commissioner and that each Commissioner has had an opportunity to read and study same that the reading of the minutes be dispensed with and declared approved. Roll call vote: Belermann Aye, Pospisil Aye, Eddie Aye, No says.

The following officers reports of fees collected during the month of July and remitted to State and County Treasurers were approved as follows:

Joann Ostrander, CDC — $100.50
S. C. Thompson, Sheriff — $58.50

It was moved by Pospisil and seconded by Belermann that the following Resolution be adopted:
WHEREAS, it appears that the tax monies that have been collected by the Wayne County Treasurer, for the benefit of the Wayne County Road Fund, are not sufficient to cover the claims presented to that department; and
WHEREAS, it is obvious that it will be some time before tax money for that fund will be available; and
WHEREAS, there are monies available in the Inheritance Tax Fund.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Wayne County Treasurer is directed by the Board of County Commissioners to transfer $150,000.00 from the Inheritance Tax Fund to the County Road Fund.
Roll call vote: Belermann Aye, Pospisil Aye, Eddie Aye No Says
The 1982 inventories of all County Officers were examined and approved.
The decision to either support or challenge LB816 was tabled until a future meeting.

He also reported that the progress on the Washfield East Bridge Replacement Project has been impeded because of problems in obtaining an agreement with Federal Funding sources.

The list of delinquent Personal Taxes presented by the County Treasurer was examined and approved.
A Revenue Sharing Proposed Use Hearing was held at 10 a.m. No citizens or taxpayers attended. On motion by Pospisil, seconded by Belermann, a decision was made to apportion the major portion of anticipated funds for road maintenance, reserving $40,000.00 for miscellaneous purposes. Long time faculty member is new college vp

Ruby Pedersen

Ruby Pedersen, an associate professor of English at Wayne State College, has been appointed interim vice president of the college by the Board of Trustees of Nebraska State College, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, president of WSC.

The appointment was made during a Trustees conference call on Thursday, Aug. 12. It becomes effective Aug. 16 and will run through June 30, 1983, according to Elliott.

The Board of Trustees set her salary at $39,000 for the year, following a review of similar positions at the other state colleges.

"I'm pleased the board has approved her for the position," Elliott said. "Ruby has had a distinguished career at Wayne State College. She has served the institution in various roles and functions. She is well known in the community and has a good working relationship with all sectors of the campus. She'll do an excellent job for Wayne State College."

Pedersen, a native of Concord, earned both her Bachelor's and Master's degrees at WSC. Her undergraduate major was in music, with minors in English, history and political science. She earned her Master's in English.

She has been involved in education for over 40 years, beginning as a teacher in the Nebraska school system. She moved to the school system in Henry, Ill., and from there to Burlington, Ia. Her final high school teaching position was at Belden high school.

Pedersen returned to WSC as a graduate assistant during the 1960-61 academic year and has been with WSC ever since. In addition to her duties as an English professor, she has worked with WSC programs in extended campus and international education and served as an Associate Dean of Students.

She was named interim head of the division of humanities in August, 1981.

In addition to her studies at Wayne State, she has studied at Augustana College, Ill., the University of Minnesota and the University of Nebraska.

Elliott added that the humanities division is currently seeking a successor to Pedersen's division head. He anticipates a recommendation from the faculty of the division soon and added that the position will be filled from within the division.

District's budget maintains programs

A budget of $2,535,083 for the 1982-83 school year was approved by the Wayne-Carroll Board of Education at a budget hearing last Monday night.

The budget includes $2,095,249 for total expenditures and $439,834 for a necessary cash reserve.

The budget hearing followed the board's regular monthly meeting.

During the hearing, board members were informed by Superintendent Francis Haun that the school district will be short $296,254 in property tax revenue for the 1981-82 school year as a result of a clerical error made in the county assessor's office.

As yet, there appears no solution to the lost revenue.

According to Doris Stipp, county assessor, the clerical error means a loss of about $3.60 per $1,000 valuation for the Wayne School district.

Haun said cash reserves of the district for the 1982-83 school year will drop down, at times, to almost nothing as a result of the lower than expected property tax revenues.

Without any cash reserves to draw on, Haun said the district will be forced to borrow money from local financial institutions.

The 1982-83 school budget has been designed to pick up about one-third of the dollar loss by increasing the request, by the school district, for local property taxes.

One of the biggest items affecting this year's budget is instructional services, amounting to $1,335,358, or nearly 53 percent of the total approved budget.

Regular teachers salaries of $1,008,694 will account for the largest share of money budgeted for instructional services.

Other items budgeted under instructional services for 1982-83 include substitute or temporary salaries, $12,000; clerical and aides salaries, $35,220; the district's share of Social Security, $70,769; tuition paid to other agencies — special education, $36,893; teaching supplies, $39,175; and the district's share of health insurance, $60,770.

Board members were informed that health premiums will increase substantially during the next school year.

In a letter to Haun, United of Omaha, a Mutual of Omaha Company, informed the superintendent of the rate increase due to a loss ratio to the company of nearly 149 percent from September 1981 to July 1982.

Premium costs for an employee will jump from $30.19 to $42.87. Premiums for an employee and family will rise from $85.40 to $121.27, while single medicare premiums will go from $19.51 to $27.85.

Those figures represent a 42 percent increase.

Support services — operation of plant — amounts to nearly eight percent of the 1982-83 approved school budget expenditures, and includes $87,000 for custodial salaries, $52,000 for fuel, and $32,000 for electricity.

Other general fund expenditures in the 1982-83 budget include $131,771 for support services — school administration; $82,991 for support services — instructional staff; $81,510 for support services — pupil transportation; $77,726 for support services — pupils; $63,351 for support services — general administration; $40,642 for support services — business; $38,400 for transfers to other funds; $35,570 for support services — maintenance of plant; $3,533 for summer school; and $1,000 for adult education.

Haun said a reduction in State Aid for the 1982-83 of $40,099 will need to be made up by local property tax.

In 1981-82, State Aid was budgeted to be $326,300. The amount in State Aid allowed in 1982-83 for School District 17 will be $284,201.

Litigation over the high school tuition fund is still pending, and Haun said there is no indication as to the type or time of its resolution.

As of Aug. 1, the school district was short $103,000 for tuition due from Wayne County non-resident high school pupils.

Haun informed the board that the 1982-83 school district budget of receipts will be within its 7 percent limitation.

Anticipated receipts from non-resident tuition were decreased by $130,000 because of litigation.

Haun said the 1982-83 school budget is essentially a maintenance budget and that there are no proposals for new programs and no proposals for the cutting of programs or pupil services.

Trustees approve decisions for WSC

Ruby Pedersen's appointment as interim vice president of Wayne State College was approved by the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges during a special meeting Thursday (see separate story).

The meeting, which was conducted through the use of the conference call system, involved about 15 phone hook-ups and lasted about one hour. According to the board's office, the conference call cost approximately $70, a cost far less than if the meeting had been conducted with all board members present at one location in the state.

Cheap Power

During the meeting, the trustees reviewed a plan for Wayne State which would allow the college to purchase cheaper electrical power from the Western Area Power Administration (WAPA).

According to college officials, the trustees agreed, in principle, to an arrangement whereby the power would be transmitted from WAPA and picked up by the city of Wayne's system and transmitted to the college.

Contracts have yet to be signed, but according to college officials, the trustees agree in principle was needed in order for WAPA to begin their work on the project.

The wheeling agreement, as it has been termed for the transmission of the power by the Wayne system to WSC, is expected to be completed by Aug. 26, between the city and the college, when the college expects to start receiving the cheaper WAPA power.

Officials say that during the summer months, the college will save about $1,400 per month in power costs and during the winter months the savings will be higher.

WSC expects they will receive about 25 percent of their summer energy needs from WAPA and 35 percent of their electrical needs during the winter months.

WAPA has told the college that the power will be available until the year 2000.

Agreements are also being examined by the board of trustees for cheaper WAPA power to two other state colleges.

Cable System

The trustees also acted on two bids for equipment at WSC involving the colleges cable system.

Dr. Ed Elliott, president of WSC, told board members the college will be able to complete their internal system for transmission of educational programs with the approval of the two bids.

The trustees approved a bid of $16,889 to Video Services of Nebraska for the cost of the internal cable system.

They also approved a second bid of $17,101 for the purchase of video monitors from Video Midwest of Omaha.

Trustees were concerned mainly that the system would not be used for acceptance of outside signals or services.

Elliott explained that the programs would originate from the college's library and be transmitted to other areas of the college for educational instruction purposes.

Final Payment

In other WSC business, the trustees approved a final payment to Beckenhauer construction company of Norfolk for the completed work on the education and humanities building at the college.

The final payment is in the amount of $3,708. Due to a prior agreement with Wilsam, Mullins and Birge, Inc., architects for the project, the firm will pick up the interest costs on the project which amounted to about $408 for the final payment.

Reviewing solutions

The 1982 campaign is beginning to build up steam, most prominently with the governor's election, but several other races will have an effect on those within our coverage area.

At election time there will, no doubt, be those who vote the straight party ticket and along party lines. We ask those of an open mind, of whatever party, to very carefully review candidates and their statements before stepping into the voting booth this fall.

We are in the midst of great domestic problems dealing mainly with the economy, high interest rates and the national debt. Do not let campaign rhetoric obscure these issues, just because it sounds good. Political statements must be reviewed and analyzed by voters and not just tacitly accepted as correct.

Yes, there is much at stake and it is our heads on the chopping block if we choose wrong. As your newspaper, we will provide coverage on a space available basis for political commentary and coverage of the races that are of concern in our area. Generally, the coverage will be carried on the editorial page and will, on the average, represent a balanced, or near balanced view of the political scene this fall.

We have a duty to provide coverage to our subscribers and it is our intention, up to election time, to cover the major parties viewpoints on the issues without political rhetoric, rather reporting their solutions to the problems that concern us all.

ASK A LAWYER

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEBRASKA STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Q. Please explain what a "Wage Earner Plan" is in filing bankruptcy. A. A "Wage Earner Plan" was an arrangement made with creditors by wage-earning debtors under Chapter 13 of the Bankruptcy Act. This was modified in 1979 and under Chapter 13 of the new Bankruptcy Code, it is no longer necessary that the debtor be a "wage earner." It is only required that he or she have sufficiently stable and regular income to permit payments to creditors. For example, a person who receives alimony on a regular basis may file a Chapter 13 bankruptcy petition. This type of plan is now called "Adjustment of Debts of an Individual with Regular Income." It is also called a Chapter 13 bankruptcy. Basically, a Chapter 13 bankruptcy is a plan by which an individual who is in debt but who has some regular income can gradually, over a period of years (usually three years, unless extended to five years by the court), pay off all or part of his debts and preserve both his property and his credit rating. A payment plan must first be submitted to the Bankruptcy Court. Except in certain limited circumstances, the plan must be approved by all of the individual's secured creditors (a secured creditor is one whose loan was secured by some property, such as a car). Creditors must stand to receive at least as much repayment under the Chapter 13 plan as they would have had the individual filed a "straight" bankruptcy, or a Chapter 7 bankruptcy. If the plan is accepted, the debtor pays a specified amount each month to the Trustee in Bankruptcy, who then distributes it to the creditors according to the plan. (It is also required that the amount of this monthly payment be reasonable in terms of the debtor's income and monthly expenses.) If, during the repayment period, the debtor becomes unable to continue making the payments under the plan, it can be converted to a straight bankruptcy proceeding. Once the plan has been approved and the creditors notified, they can no longer contact the individual for repayment of the debt. The new Chapter 13 plan has many advantages for debtors, and many options for the debtor to consider. It is a complicated procedure however, and we strongly urge you to seek the advice of a lawyer who has experience with this type of legal matter before proceeding. Q. Does Nebraska have a residency requirement which must be met before you can file for divorce? A. Yes. One of the parties must have lived in the state for at least one year prior to filing the petition, unless the marriage was performed in Nebraska and either party has resided in Nebraska since the time of the marriage. Persons who do not meet the residency requirement may file for a legal separation, and then amend it to a divorce petition when the residency requirement has been met.

Henry Fonda, a living legend, has died. I grew up with him; watching his style in everything from westerns and war flicks to very touching love scenes.

A couple of crazy comedians claim that people go to movies for four reasons: to laugh, to cry, to be scared or for sex.

Hank Fonda was an actor of the first two reasons. Sure, you may have gotten scared when he, the hero, was in trouble or you may have been lightly thrilled by his acting in love scenes but, more or less, Hank was a good guy. I can't remember a movie that he was supposed to be the bad guy in, a little gruff sometimes, but never the guy in black.

His personal life must have been a mess until recent years. With five marriages and his very active children during the Viet Nam era and beyond, heartbreak must have become a part of his life for many years. But, you know, as children grow older, heartbreaks are mended, so at least when he died, he was close again to his family.

Publicly he was a very private person, with his friends tending to be like Jimmy Stewart — those of long standing.

I've seen him perform in 'Mr. Roberts' a few times. It's an unforgettable film, yet he did not receive an Oscar for the role.

It's only my opinion but I liked 'On Golden Pond,' very much. It was one heck of a movie and a great gift from his daughter, who produced the movie. I don't think though that Hank earned his Oscar for that film. He was a much better actor than the film depicted. I, more or less, saw the awarding of the Oscar to him this year by the academy as a gesture, on their part, because he was getting on in years and had never been awarded one for a piece of work in all his years of acting.

I personally feel however that Henry Fonda, long, long ago, deserved an Oscar for several pieces of work, so I see the award as just being delayed a few years.

As I said, 'On Golden Pond' is an excellent movie — father and daughter both showing much of their personal struggles and, of course, one of my very favorite people, Kate Hepburn, turning out her usual excellence in the role of Fonda's wife.

Anyway, Hank's dead. So is a very close friend of mine, much younger than he. Life goes on; they've made their marks; I don't mourn for those out of sight, because they are not out of mind and, in Hank's case, he's been able to leave his work behind for us all to continue to enjoy...:pfl.

To the editor: If you can stand one more letter on this issue and I hope you can, I wish to clarify a few things to the irate person in last week's issue.

We, as an out-of-town team were expected to come in and get your field ready? Come on now.

Anyone who plays ball knows how important a district tourney is. It either signals the end of a terrific summer of playing your hardest or it gives you the dream of a state tournament. Should this really be a "learning experience" for organizers? I think not. In conclusion; next time, don't bite off more than you can chew.

Thank you An out of town player.

Computer saves money

Nebraska farmers are saving cash and precious natural resources through information gained through AGNET, a computer service that can be used by a person with no knowledge of computers.

AGNET was developed at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. It is now used in three foreign countries, by the federal government and by subscribers in most of the states in the nation.

Hundreds of Nebraska irrigators save fuel money and protect the state's groundwater by using AGNET to recommend when to put water on fields and exactly how much. Using AGNET to compare production costs and likely selling prices. Dan Dudden of Venango, Nebraska, learned in the spring of 1982 that he'd likely make $70 more per acre by planting pint beans instead of soybeans.

AGNET began in 1975, when a few programs were developed for solving farm problems and the Panhandle Experiment Station was connected by computer with the Lincoln campus. By 1976, most county governor charley thone

agents in Nebraska had terminals in their office.

While I was in Congress, I supported appropriations to the Old West Regional Commission that permitted it to put $2 million in to spreading the network across North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana as well as Nebraska.

In the four years before I became governor, about $306,000 of support for AGNET came from state appropriations. In the last four years, that support has grown to $454,000.

The big growth, however, has been in the amount of money generated from user fees. When I became governor, there was no income from users. The next year the users paid about $5,000. During the 1982-83 year, it's estimated that user fees will bring in $675,000.

A county agent uses the various programs to advise farmers. An agricultural loan officer of a bank may have a terminal in his office to help him in making loans that will be profitable both for the producer and for the financial institution. Now, thousands of farmers have their own terminals which they use for hundreds of agricultural decisions in a year.

AGNET is a cooperative venture also between state government and the university, since the computer used for AGNET's programs is not the university's but the one in the state capitol.

Since March of this year, we've been able to learn instantly through AGNET of foreign buyers approaching USDA for agricultural purchases. Our state agricultural marketing specialists pursue these leads.

A Nebraska development has swept across the nation and to foreign shores. I'll continue to support this tool to improve our state's agriculturally-based economy.

Meaning changes

Much has been written about "Bureaucratese," a deliberately obscure and complex terminology concocted by federal rule-writers to keep all of us who must deal with the government in a general state of confusion and dependency.

Yet there is another strange language in wide use here by members of Congress and other assorted politicians — one that is even trickier to comprehend, because the actual words used often appear to be clear and straightforward. But watch out! They usually mean something entirely different from what you learned in grammar school.

Here is a selective glossary of some of the more commonly used terms, phrases, and concepts in this current political season:

- unfair tax cut: One that reduces everyone's marginal bracket by the same percentage (as in the Reagan 5-10-10 tax cut).
-cutting a social program: to increase its budget by five percent instead of 10 percent
-raiding the Treasury: the act of stealing a portion of the government's hard earned money in order to provide handouts to selfish, lazy taxpayers.
-workfare: program that robs the poor of dignity by placing them in the same situation as approximately 100 million other Americans.
-contrrolling inflation: unfair act that penalizes senior citizens and other

Americans who are suffering under the burden of ever-rising cost of living adjustments.

-cutting fat from the Pentagon: achieved by closing the obsolete military establishment in your "esteemed colleague's" congressional district.
-strong national defense: achieved by keeping open the obsolete military establishment in your congressional district.

-profit: sum of money extracted unfairly or illegally by business from the hides of workers and consumers and used to purchase $10 cigars and other businesses; does not include sums extracted by news organizations or members of Congress.
-union-buster: name commonly applied to "President who upholds his oath of office by firing certain federal employees who broke theirs (e.g. Ronald Reagan and PATCO).

-new federalism: program that lets Mayor Smith get credit for new parking garage instead of Congressman Jones. Congressman Jones opposes on grounds that the poor would not be adequately protected.
-Democratic 1983 tax plan: attempts to narrow the deficit by raising taxes on working people.
-Republican 1983 tax plan: attempts to narrow the deficit by raising taxes on business.
-saving Social Security: Sorry, cannot be defined until after polls close on November 2, 1982.

Carroll Presbyterian Aid marks 65th anniversary

The Carroll United Presbyterian Ladies Aid, which was organized in 1917, observed its 65th anniversary Wednesday in the church fellowship hall.

United Presbyterian Women entertained guests from Theophilus Church, Winside, and the Carroll Congregational and Lutheran Churches.

The 50 guests, registered by Mrs. Enos Williams, also included women who at one time belonged to the United Presbyterian Women's organization or had been members of the Guild.

Mrs. Etta Fisher, society president, welcomed the group and drew attention to quilts on display that had been made by members throughout the years.

Also displayed on a bulletin board were articles of interest throughout the years.

Mrs. Esther Batten read a poem, entitled "A Recipe to the Bride From her Grandmother." Mrs. Don Frink read "The Ladies Aid."

Mrs. Milton Owens read a history of the society and reported that in 1917 a group of women met in the old church to form a Ladies Aid.

Members met in various homes during construction of the new church, which still stands on a site four miles west and one and a half south of Carroll.

A new society named the Westminister Guild was organized in 1930 because of the need for more mission study.

The Guild was in existence for 26 years, and in 1956 combined with the Ladies Aid to form the Presbyterian Women's Association, which is now called United Presbyterian Women.

Meetings of United Presbyterian Women are held the first and third Wednesday afternoons of each month.

During the winter months cooperative dinners precede each meeting with family and friends as guests.

Living charter members are Mrs. Lawrence (Fern) Jenkins of Norfolk and Mrs. E. A. (Anna Mae) Morris, a resident of Wayne Care Centre.

Mrs. Jenkins was present for the anniversary observance and received a corsage in recognition of her work in the church throughout the years.

The program included a skit by Mrs. Esther Batten and Mrs. Don Frink, entitled "Haves and Not Haves."

Mrs. Lem Jones accompanied group singing of "I'll Jesus, Goes With Me I'll Go Anywhere," and "The Doxology."

Mrs. Lem Jones and Mrs. Enos Williams poured at the afternoon tea.

Mrs. Etta Fisher is president of the organization. Other officers are Mrs. Keith Owens, vice president; Mrs. Lem Jones, secretary; and Mrs. Esther Batten, treasurer.

Chairmen are Mrs. Erwin Morris, local service; Mrs. O. J. Jones, sewing and supplies; Mrs. Milton Owens, program; and Mrs. Clifford Lindsay, cards.

Those on the nominating committee are Mrs. Clifford Lindsay, Mrs. Leonard Pritchard and Mrs. Enos Williams.

Carroll school alumni come home for reunion

The fourth reunion of Carroll High School alumni was held Saturday, Aug. 7, in the auditorium.

Officers in charge of this year's event were Mrs. Merlin Kenny, president; Mrs. Arthur Cook, vice president; Mrs. Harry Nelson, secretary; and Mrs. Marlene Dahlkoetter, treasurer. The reunion is held every three years.

The afternoon program began with registration at the fire hall.

Tours were given of TWJ Farm, Countryside Apartments, new housing, Flying D Stables, and the Carroll school, where arts and crafts, rock samples and jewelry, wood carvings, family histories and travel booklets were on display.

Approximately 280 persons were served an evening dinner at Ron's Steakhouse and Garage, followed with a program in the city auditorium.

Mrs. Merlin Kenny gave the welcome. Milton Owens led in the flag salute and gave the invocation.

Toastmaster was Bill Kenny of Norfolk, and speaker was Kurt Rethwisch of Murrysburg, Penn.

Special recognition was given to members of the classes of 1930, 1931 and 1932.

Mrs. Etta Fisher and Mrs. Esther Batten were in charge of memorials for deceased classmates.

Presenting a skit, entitled "Dancing Down the Decades," were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sals of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Ardale

Test of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fell of North Platte, Mrs. Leonard Townsend of San Bruno, Calif., Mrs. Herb Willis of Winside, and Mr. and Mrs. John Rees, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rethwisch, Mrs. Marlene Dahlkoetter, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Benschoff, Merlin Kenny and Mrs. Harry Nelson, all of Carroll.

4-Hers stitch way to State Fair

Weeks of planning, stitching and pressing were evident when Dixon County 4-H members modeled their garments for judging at the Northeast Station near Concord on Aug. 6.

In addition to being judged as a modeled garment, each exhibit also was judged for construction.

Modeling winners and placings were announced at the annual Public Fashion Revue held Aug. 14 during the Dixon County Fair.

Following is an account of the results of the construction of clothing exhibits.

The 4-Hers whose garments were selected for State Fair were:

Amy Sawtell, Newcastle, with her entry in Clothing Magic over 12, Jennifer Benstead, Allen, and Mary Lehman and Jill Hanson, Concord, all with entries in Fashion Fair, Mary Lehman and Jill Hanson, Concord, Kelli Thomas, Newcastle, and Susan Baker, Wakefield, all with entries in Clothing Unlimited.

Special awards for outstanding clothing construction were awarded in each of three clothing project units.

Amy Sawtell, Newcastle, was named champion in the Beginning Unit and received a trophy donated by Young's Service, Dixon.

Prusas home in Norfolk following Stanton wedding

Making their first home at Rt. 1, Country Village, Norfolk, are Mr. and Mrs. Longin Joseph Prusa.

They were married Aug. 6 in 6 o'clock rites at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Stanton. Mrs. Prusa, nee Julie Lynn Lanphear, is the daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Lanphear of Hoskins. The bridegroom was graduated from Stanton High School in 1974 and attended Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk. He is employed by Beckenhauer General Contractors, Norfolk.

The Rev. John Rizzo of Stanton officiated at the couple's double ring rites. Decorations included candelabras, altar flowers, banners, and a unity candle arrangement.

sweetheart neckline was outlined by mushroom pleating. Floral-venice lace motifs adorned the neckline and bodice.

The sheer bishop sleeves, trimmed by matching motifs, were caught at the wrists by a wide cuff of lace and pleating.

A high rise waistline highlighted the semi-full skirt hemmed by a double row of Chantilly lace and ending in a chapel train.

The bride's full-length illusion veil was held in place by an upswep side picture hat of Chantilly and venice lace with organza roses.

She carried open roses surrounded by sweetheart roses and ivy.

They wore sweetheart roses in their hair and carried fans with sweetheart roses and bride's ribbon.

The men in the wedding party were attired in rust-luxedoes and ivory shirts with rust and apricot trim.

The bride's mother selected a yellow polyester knit with an opal necklace, and the bridegroom's mother chose a light green polyester fashion with pearl earrings.

Jug, Tom's win championships

The 4th Jug rallied through the losers bracket and Tom's Body Shop held off a challenge to claim two of the three division titles in the Wayne Men's Slow Pitch Softball League tournament.

The Jug, after suffering a first round loss to Sherman's Construction, reached the finals with a 3-1 win over Mitchell's Construction and then swept a double header from Crow's Hybrid to claim the X division title Tuesday night.

Kim Baker's home run in the first game was the big blow as the 4th Jug won 5-4 and 8-0 over Crow's.

In the Z division finals, Lindner Construction came through the losers bracket and defeated Tom's Body Shop 17-7 on Monday to set up a rematch. In Tuesday's championship game, Tom's Body avenged Lindner's 15-8. The winners trailed 4-8 after two innings of play but scored nine runs in the fifth.

The Y division is scheduled to be completed tomorrow (Tuesday) when Western Auto and Godfathers clash for the championship.

Wayne rallies behind big inning to down Norfolk

Just when it looked like Wayne's plans to remain undefeated in Tri-County League playoffs were in jeopardy, the hosts erupted for six quick runs to hand Norfolk a 9-3 loss Wednesday night.

The victory set up another home game for Wayne which was scheduled to host O'Neill last night (Sunday) in a battle of the only two teams still unbeaten in the playoffs in the losers bracket. Laurel was scheduled to host Creighton and Coleridge was scheduled to play at Norfolk last night.

The locals trailed Norfolk through six innings Wednesday night and had only three opportunities to score same runs. They took advantage of the opportunity in the seventh inning and it seemed to knock the wind out of Norfolk's sails.

Wayne's bats came to life in the bottom of the seventh and four hits led to a six-run rally.

Jeff Dion came off the bench to start things off with a double. He stole second base and scored on a run scoring single by Dave Schwartz. Darrell Mueller reached base on a fielder's choice and Jeff Zeiss reached safely on an error.

A single by Neil Blohm drove in Dion and Schwartz to give Wayne a 4-3 lead. Then, Doug Starzl rocketed a three-run homer to make the score 8-3 and knock starting pitcher Kevin Metford out of the game. Reliever Bruce Shively retired the next three batters to get out of the inning.

The home team added its final run when Blohm drove in Dion in the eighth inning. Dion had led off with a single.

In the early innings, Norfolk scored one run in the second on one hit and two Wayne errors. The Royals upped their lead to 3-0 in the third with two runs on two hits and another Wayne error.

Darrell Mueller, who wasn't expected to play for Wayne in the Tri-County playoffs after moving to Yankton, returned to the lineup and threw a eight-hitter with eight strikeouts.

Wayne's first two runs came in the fourth inning and cut Norfolk's lead to 3-2. Starzl and Bill Schwartz both singled and Mike Meyer hit a sacrifice fly to bring in Starzl. Schwartz scored on a Norfolk error.

As long as Wayne keeps winning, it will play at home. A victory over O'Neill last night (Sunday) would mean that Wayne will host either the Laurel Creighton winner or Coleridge-Norfolk winner at 8:15 Wednesday.

Playoff records: Wayne 2-0, O'Neill 2-0, Laurel 1-1, Norfolk 1-1, Coleridge 1-1, Creighton 1-1. Tilden and Crofton lost both of their games and were eliminated.

Wayne's record entering last night's game was 19-3.

Laurel loses to O'Neill

It was a long drive home for the Laurel Falcons as they suffered a Tri-County League playoff game Wednesday at O'Neill.

Laurel, 15-6, was scheduled to host Creighton last night (Sunday) in the losers bracket.

Brad Erwin drove in two runs with a key single in the second inning and Bob Weisenberg blasted a two-run home run in the fifth.

The rest of the offense belonged to O'Neill, which totaled five homers in the game. Tony Loelsch, Dave Irwin, John Dulek, Steve Schmidt and Neil Ruzicka each had a home run for the winners.

What If All The Stores In Our Town Closed Up?

It could happen.

In some towns it already has happened... because local people did most of their shopping OUT of town. We all know of communities with lots of empty stores. And, empty stores mean less tax support... a lot less!

Did you ever stop to think about how much of our community's taxes are paid by our businesses? If they were no longer paying their share, think how much MORE your taxes would increase to pay for essential local services.

If they no longer made charitable donations to groups to which you belong, how much MORE would YOU have to pay?

A healthy business community benefits everyone. Shop here at home.

No need to roam... the best shopping's here at home!
