Up in smoke

AFTER SEVERAL YEARS the Wayne fire department, along with departments from Osmond and Wakefield, were finally able to get in some practice fighting a fire in Wayne on Sunday afternoon. Although wind and rain threatened to postpone the practice, by afternoon the wind had quiet and crews went to work under the direction of the Nebraska Fire Service and State Fire Marshalls office. Time and time again a fire was started in the structure and fire fighters sent in to put the blaze out. Drills also included the use of air packs. Finally the entire house was set on fire and, though practice continued, it was allowed to burn freely.

Valuations are up county wide

Wayne County's 1982 actual valuations show an increase of over $4.5 million when compared with the actual valuations of 1981. This year's valuation for the county as a whole totals $244,015,440. Compared to last year's figure of $239,482,150, there was a $4,533,290 increase in the actual valuation. Since legislation passed in 1979, the county has been computing the tax rate with a formula that utilizes actual value. The system replaced the old mill levy and produces a tax rate expressed in dollars and cents per $100 of actual value.

In addition, the 1982 tax statements, according to County Assessor Doris Stipp, will be something different this year.

Personal and real estate statements will show the total tax along with the break down of the amount going to each tax supported subdivision. Beginning Jan. 1, 1983, motor vehicle tax will also show those breakdowns.

Break downs of the 1982 actual valuation show that the valuation for the city of Wayne increased $1,555,910 over the 1981 figure.

This year, the actual valuation for the city is $62,408,805. The 1981 valuation was $60,850,895.

Winside shows an increase of $123,445 in valuation. The 1981 valuation was $4,721,995. This year's figure is $4,845,440.

Carroll's actual valuation for 1982 is $2,249,325. Last year's valuation was $2,212,335.

Hoskins valuation increased $13,690 over the 1981 actual valuation of $3,224,955. This year's valuation for Hoskins is $3,238,645.

Wakefield's 1982 valuation is $1,423,330 for an increase over the 1981 valuation of $14,735.

Sholes recorded a slight increase of $9,705 over last year's valuation. This year's valuation for Sholes is $329,085.

Schools
School districts in the county show gains ranging from around $250,000 to over $2.5

million for Wayne 17.

As has been previously reported, due to an error in the 1981 valuation figure, Wayne 17's valuation was incorrectly recorded as $120,069,785. Actual valuation in 1981 for the district was $91,147,220.

The 1982 actual valuation for the district is $93,900,450 for a $2,753,230 increase over the corrected 1981 actual valuation.

At Winside 95R, valuations increased by $421,870 over the 1981 valuation of $40,054,185. This year's valuation is $40,476,055.

Hoskins 9 school district has increased $336,865 over the 1981 valuation of $12,707,365. This year's valuation is $13,044,230.

Wakefield 60R's 1982 valuation is $11,639,995 for a $254,615 increase over the 1981 valuation.
Sholes 74 valuation for 1982 is $4,475,660 for a $36,135 increase from 1981.

Under law, the County Board of Commissioners has until Sept. 15 to set the tax rate for the county.

The actual valuation comes from four primary categories — real estate, personal property, motor vehicles and special schedules which includes telephone, telegraph and pipe line values.

Total real estate actual valuation for Wayne County in 1982 is $221,732,010. Compared with the 1981 figure of $218,072,720, there was an increase of $3,659,290. In 1980, actual valuation was $216,090,450.

Actual valuation for personal property in the county this year is $4,561,100, compared to the 1981 valuation of $4,280,190 and the 1980 valuation of $3,849,120.

Motor vehicles were tagged at $12,367,975 this year. Last year's valuation was $12,218,720.

Special schedules total $5,354,355 this year, up $443,795 over the 1981 valuation of $4,910,560.

New telephone system installed

Northwestern Bell will complete a telephone central office project in Allen and Waterbury on September 2, with coveer of a new electronic switching system. The electro-mechanical equipment in service since 1957 will be replaced by a computerized telephone switcher. The two communities are served by a single central office, located in Allen.

Ken Berglund, Northwestern Bell manager, said new dialing instructions for some calls within Allen and Waterbury will apply following conversion to the new system. Some of the changes involve dialing more digits, but once the call is dialed, it will go through more rapidly, according to Berglund. Listed below are the dialing changes effective when conversion to the new system takes place September 2nd:

All local calls will require dialing a seven-digit number. This means that customers can no longer dial five digits to reach another Allen or Waterbury customer.

Customers with a two-party line who wish to reach the other party on their line will dial the party's seven digit number. The dial and hang-up technique will still apply, but the dialing code currently used will no longer function.

All coin telephones in Allen and Waterbury will be converted to Dial-Tone-First. This means a coin deposit will no longer be required to place calls to the operator ("O").

The new system involves application of a Bell System innovation called remote switching. The switching unit installed in Allen is linked to a larger electronic switcher located in Norfolk, allowing the remote unit to provide the same features and services as the host system.

Remote switching was designed to bring the benefits of electronic switching to telephone exchanges where large, individual electronic switchers are economically impractical. A special feature of the remote unit is the continuation of local telephone service in the event data links to the host office are broken.

Berglund said the new system, installed at a cost of around $250,000, provides faster, more efficient dialing and several new convenience features. Concurrent with conversion, he said Allen and Waterbury will be put on the Automatic Number Identification system, which allows customers to dial their long distance calls straight through, without waiting for an operator.

Berglund said Northwestern Bell will also extend the Zero-Plus Calling system to Allen and Waterbury customers on September 2. Zero-Plus Calling allows customers to direct-dial person-to-person, collect and Calling Card calls.

Northwestern Bell customers in Allen and Waterbury will soon be able to order Custom Calling Features and Touch Tone dialing, thanks to the new switching equipment. These optional convenience features can be added to current telephone service, and carry a monthly charge.

In addition to these improvements, a new service called International Direct Distance Dialing will be available, whereby customers can direct-dial calls to more than 80 overseas locations.

The Allen/Waterbury exchange is the third telephone central office served by Northwestern Bell in Nebraska to be equipped with a remote switching system. Berglund said remote switching technology is the most efficient, economical method of expanding central office capacity in areas like Allen and Waterbury, while providing customers with modern communications services.

Northwestern Bell has installed remote switching systems in the Humphrey/Creston and Laurel exchanges.

Storm sewer project gets final approval

The Wayne city council Tuesday night approved the plans, specifications and bid publishing requirements for a $50,000 storm sewer project which has been pending throughout most of the summer.

City engineer Dennis Hirschbrunner of Bruce Gilmore and associates from Columbus, reviewed with council the work that would be necessary to eliminate the storm water backup problem in the central part of the city.

Plans still call for the placement of a system which would run parallel to the storm sewer line on 3rd Street from Logan to Nebraska streets, then South over the old railroad right-of-way to tie into a 72 inch storm sewer line.

Hirschbrunner said it would be necessary to install two additional storm sewer junction boxes which would tie into existing boxes at 3rd and Logan and 2nd and Nebraska.

Hirschbrunner said that the work would not cure the problem completely but "it will eliminate the problem of backup," he said.

According to city administrator Phillip Kloster, in all probability the city will not issue revenue bonds for the project. "It's not really a good time for the city to be bonding," Kloster said.

Rather, the city will end up digging deep into their budget and pay for the project with city revenues.

Council has been moving quickly on the project in hopes of completion before winter. Hirschbrunner said that with the motion Tuesday night, there should be enough time for bid letting and project completion before bad weather hits the area. He's estimated the project will take about 3 weeks.

until Aug. 1, 1989 rather than Aug. 1, 1993, the city will be setting aside $10,000 as originally planned rather than $7,000 and a paragraph will be added which will allow either party to cancel the agreement with 12 months notice.

Fund Changes
Also during the meeting, Kloster brought up the question of changing the retirement fund for city employees.

Currently the fund is set up with employees and the city contributing on a 50-50 basis, about nine-percent of employee wages on both sides.

Kloster said the money is turned over to the Traveler's Insurance Company who handle the investments for the program.

An Omaha firm recently approached the city with a different offer. They told Kloster that they would invest the funds at 15 1/2 percent interest guaranteed for five years. Currently the city's share is about $2,500 per year. The Omaha firm said with their plan the city's share would be about $1,000 per year.

Council discussed the merits of the plan and also opening it up for bids. A question arose as to whether they would be penalized by the Travelers company for withdrawing from the present plan.

City attorney Ken Swarts told the council that if Travelers conforms to the federal employee retirement income security act, there will be no penalty. In all probability though, the city will wait to change companies when the anniversary date of the current agreement with Travelers comes around.

The city's main concerns with the program are for a lower cost to the city yet, at the same time, providing for a solid and safe retirement fund for city employees.

In their action Tuesday night the council:

- Approved having the firm of Olds, Swarts and Enz begin work on zoning regulation changes and having the book bound in a loose leaf fashion as is the city code.
- Approved a request from Wayne-Carroll high school cheerleaders for a pep rally downtown Thursday night.
- Approved the appointment of Felix Dorcy to the city's board of adjustment.
- Approved a volunteer firefighter application for Jeff Triggs.
- Voted to take Arline Ulrich to court on a nuisance complaint due to a complaint filed against Ulrich with the city.

Closed for Labor Day

In order that employees may observe the Labor Day holiday, the Wayne-Herald will not be published on Sept. 6. The newspaper office will also be closed on Saturday, Sept. 4 and Labor Day, Sept. 6.

The newspaper will resume regular publishing schedules with the Thursday, Sept. 9 paper. Normal office hours will resume on Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Wayne county commissioners vote to challenge state aid law

On Aug. 16, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution which called for a challenge to Legislative Bill 816.

According to opponents of the bill, the local aid distribution formula provided for in the bill gives an unfair tilt to urban areas and significantly penalizes rural counties.

One opponent, Senator John DeCamp of Neligh, has been corresponding with county commissioners across the state, urging them to join in a challenge of the new formula.

According to information compiled by DeCamp, the new bill not only reduces the amount of money returned to counties and governmental subdivisions, since it is based on population, but also payments will no longer flow through the county to be made directly to the individual governmental subdivisions.

Figures compiled by and for the senator show that Wayne County alone will lose about $21,059 in cities will about $1,149 and school districts in Wayne county about $157,549 over the 1981-82 fiscal year aid level.

Fiscal year 1982-83 estimated figures are Wayne County $104,516 cities, $96,134 and school districts $642,886.

According to Senator Merle Von Minden (District 17), it had been told on April 16 that the bill would provide about $165,000 additional funds for Wayne County's total UP until that time, it had been against the proposed bill because it appeared we would lose revenues.

What happened was that we were given incorrect figures on April 16 so, I voted for the bill, thinking it would be a good deal for us. When it came out that rural districts would lose, urban senators indicated that population shifts were blamed as the reason. In other words, we voted for it under false pretenses.

The bill gained 29 votes in favor of passage and, on a ruling from the speaker of the house, that was enough.

According to Von Minden however, "All bills that come through committee need 30 votes to gain passage, this one only had 29."

Up until April 16, urban senators had been threatening that the city of Omaha would go to court immediately to block the implementation of any rural weighted formula that the legislature might decide to pass.

With the threat of litigation, a possible special session and, apparently the belief that the bill was a good compromise piece of legislation, it gained 29 votes, the last day of the session, and was approved.

Douglas County, which Omaha is a part of, under the new bill, will receive $694,958 more this year than last year. School districts in the county will receive $3,574,727 more and cities will receive $563,000 in additional revenues.

Urban senators say that the bill should not be seen as a windfall but more as an adjustment of a previously unfair formula.

A couple years ago, a second formula was approved by the legislature. In the course of the writing of the legislation the idea of reimbursement to local governments instead became financial aid to the local level and, once again the legislation was struck down by the Supreme Court.

In their ruling, the court indicated that population would be a much better guideline than the valuation of a county, as has been used under the old formulas.

Thus the Unicameral went to work trying to devise a new formula for what is now seen more as an aid package rather than as reimbursement, as the program had originally intended it to be.

Whether or not the Supreme Court decides to review the technical question of the number of votes required for passage or not, DeCamp says he probably has enough votes for a different bill when the legislature next meets.

Seven percent raise is no sure thing

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

State employees, who emerged fairly bloody and bruised on their salary fight during the 1st session of the legislature, would do much better next year if the numbers used in current state budget planning are actualized.

Gov. Charles Thone told a meeting of his agency directors recently that his budget of 1983 will plug in a 7 percent pay raise effective next July 1 in planning the fiscal year 1983-84 budget.

State employees are already scheduled to receive a 5 percent raise on Jan. 1. That raise was deferred by the Legislature six months from the date originally planned at Thone's insistence.

One of the constituencies with whom Thone has had the most political difficulty is state employees. Despite a healthy raise in mid-1981, they were mad at the politics surrounding their raise during the last session of the Legislature. Particularly offensive to them was "like-it-or-quit" comment Thone made at a press conference.

The 7 percent planning figure could moderate some of the state employees' displeasure with Thone, and may be enough to get him a few votes. When counted with their families, state workers represented a chunk of votes numbering in the tens of thousands.

Such a raise would probably offset inflation, but isn't so extravagant that it would offend those Nebraskans whose voting decisions are made on the basis of government spending.

Thone has stressed the 7 percent raise is no sure thing. If re-elected, he'll make his official salary recommendation to the Legislature next January. That recommendation, which Thone says will be determined on the economy and state tax collections, could be far lower than the planning figure.

FUNERAL EXPENSES
Remember Mattie Dudley?
She's the elderly Virginia woman who lost her Medicaid benefits because a burial insurance policy put her over the limit on assets. She earns $5 a week selling newspapers.

Such a conflict shouldn't happen in Nebraska. The 1982 Legislature, with a minimum of debate, enacted a law which exempts "irrevocable funeral agreements" from the Medicaid eligibility test.

The Nebraska law, which took effect in July, allows up to $3,000 in funeral assets before they apply to the $1,500 limit for Medicaid eligibility.

Like Virginia and 13 other states, Nebraska sets its own eligibility standards for Medicaid. Other states in the program follow federal standards.

The Dudley case has set the wheels in motion for a change in federal standards. Health and Human Services Secretary

Richard Schweiker has proposed a change in regulations which would liberalize eligibility for the program.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL
Campaign season is truly here. It's arrival has been signaled by the roster of big names who have recently visited the state or are scheduled to visit in the near future.

Recent commitments for Nebraska fundraising activities have come from Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown and his wife, television personality Phyllis George. They'll be in Nebraska on Sept. 2 on behalf of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Bob Kerrey.

Republican Senate candidate Jim Keck said last week that his campaign has received a commitment from Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the Senate majority leader, to visit in mid-October.

U.S. Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., appeared at an Aug. 28 fundraiser in Hastings for U.S. Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Nebr., and former President Gerald Ford appeared Aug. 20 on behalf of Gov. Charles Thone and Keck.

In July, Thone had the premier GOP fundraiser, Vice President George Bush, at an Omaha luncheon.

Former Republican National Committee Chairman Bill Brock will be in Lincoln for Keck on Sept. 8. Recently, Democratic National Chairman Chuck Manatt raised money for Kerrey in Omaha.

viewpoint

Good job

The past two months, the Wayne city council has been studying remedies to the problem of water backing up during and after storms in the central part of the city.

Water damage has been reported by businesses and the pressure in storm sewers has been so severe that manhole covers have been blown.

Through the quick, decisive action of the council, a work project will begin this fall to alleviate the problem. Estimated costs for the project have been set at $50,000 which, in a case like this, is a more than a fair price to pay for the amount of work that will be done.

We applaud the actions of the council for acting quickly in order that the project be completed before the next spring's rains and protecting the prosperity of downtown merchants.

We also congratulate the city's administration for being able to find the necessary funding within the city's budget without having to rely on revenue bonding procedures which put an added burden on cities.

Coverage scheduled

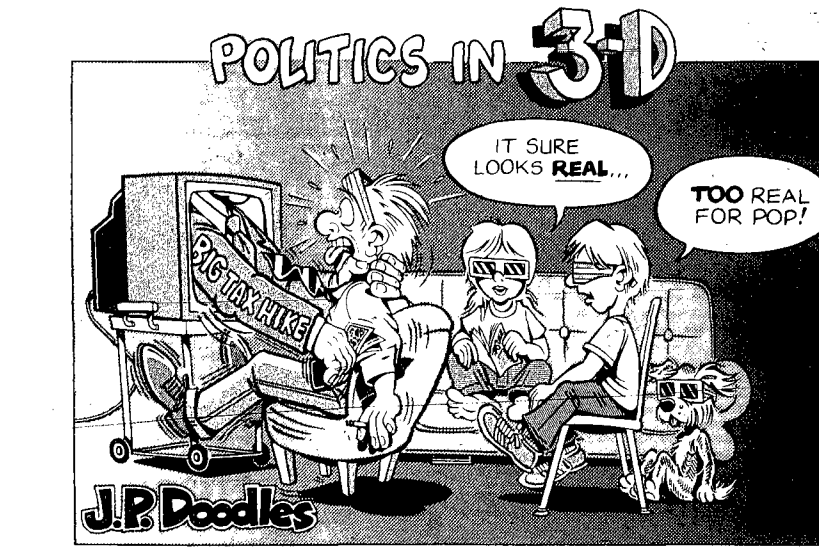

The debate between gubernatorial candidates incumbent Charles Thone (R) and Bob Kerrey (D) which is scheduled to take place at the Nebraska State Fair on Thursday, Sept. 9, at 1 p.m., will be carried live over all stations of the statewide Nebraska Educational Television Network.

The debate, being covered by the Network's public affairs unit, will be repeated at 7 p.m. the same evening. The ETV Network will permit Nebraska radio and television stations to rebroadcast the coverage, on a live or delayed basis if they wish.

The Thone-Kerrey debate, which is to focus on agricultural issues, is being sponsored by the Nebraska State Fair Board and the League of Women Voters. Questions will be offered by a panel of journalists, but there will be no questions permitted from the audience. Mimi Waldbaum of the League of Women Voters will serve as the moderator.

The Nebraska ETV Network will also be presenting a series of Election '82 Specials on the Thursday evening Nebraska Journal series. Incumbent Senator Edward Zorinsky (D), will appear in a five inter-view/viewer phone-in program on Thursday, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m. Zorinsky's Republican opponent, Jim Keck, is the guest for the Sept. 16 program, telecast at 8 p.m., and the Independent candidate Virginia Walsh will be interviewed on Sept. 30, at 8 p.m.

Beware of the promises

BY M.M. VAN KIRK
NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU

The nation's farmers and ranchers are not very happy with the Reagan Administration that they strongly supported at the election of 1980 but they can't be too excited about the alternatives.

Opposition party candidates here in Nebraska and across the nation in recent weeks have been seeking to make "political hay" of the economic situation which in terms of unemployment and bankruptcy statistics is the most discouraging that Americans have experienced since the great Depression of the 1930s. But as an editorial in a recent issue of The Drovers Journal livestock publication points out, farmers can't be too thrilled and eager at handing the power back to the party that gave them the Carter Administration with its Soviet grain embargo, an interest rate that reached 21 percent and an annual inflation rate that averaged around 15 percent for back-to-back years. The editorial noted that waiting in the wings and eager to take center stage once more are people like Walter Mondale, Ted Kennedy and Carol Foreman.

For those who would like to see a quick turn-around in the nation's farm economy, a dilemma exists. It has to be pointed out that the first embargoes of agricultural exports occurred in 1973 during a Republican Administration, and interference occurred again in 1975. The temptation to tinker with the nation's agricultural productivity assets and to try to use them for political and international diplomatic advantage has not been limited to one party.

It is something to remember that an unsuccessful candidate for President in the 1970s gave silent credence to reports that if he were elected, he would consider appointing Cesar Chavez as Secretary of Agriculture, the United Farm Workers leader well-known for the nationwide boycotts of California farm products and for promoting violence in the fields.

And the silliness of many of the OSHA regulations as they were applied to both industry and agriculture have left bad memories about what happens when people who insist that government must try to correct every ill are actually placed in positions of power and influence.

Farm and ranch people battling the effects of both inflation and high interest rates just are not going to jump and cheer when every politician tells them that he has some great new remedies. They have heard it all before and have had ample opportunity to judge past performances. They should be aware that no political party and no politician has a corner on intelligence or stupidity, corruption or integrity, spending or conserving.

Farm and feedlot operators know that a decline of 2 or 4 percentage points in the interest rates they are paying represents far more to their profit and loss statement than any goodies that a political candidate can provide, even if he could deliver. And control of inflation to a point where a farmer's costs of production for fuel, fertilizer, feeds, parts and repairs remain stable for a year would provide a substantial way to put profits back into the farm economy.

From now to Nov. 2, it's one reason for "political promises; so beware."

Emerging from recession?

Labor Day arrives this weekend to signal again the end of the summer and the time for the students in our population to return to work.

It also is traditionally a time for Nebraskans to attend the Nebraska State Fair to look at the fruits of their labors in both agricultural and commercial exhibits. I used to exhibit poultry at the Fair and it is a fresh memory that recalls the thrill of judges' awards.

But in 1982, Labor Day may signify a more important event—a time when this nation began emerging from the economic problems of recession and inflation. After a week long rally on Wall Street, some economists are predicting that the economy is beginning to show signs of the recovery we have all hoped to achieve.

Passage of the tax equity act shortly before the current Congressional recess has been a major factor in triggering a drop in interest rates and keeping the inflation rate below six percent. Among other things, the favorable vote on the tax equity act congressman doug bereuter

demonstrated that Congress is doing more than giving lip service to the need for the federal government to live within its means.

Hopefully, the encouraging signs of an economic turnaround will translate into an improved employment picture. By national averages, Nebraska still ranks low in unemployment. A 5.9 percent unemployment rate places Nebraska 44th and the state has traditionally been one of the lowest states on an annual basis.

Nebraska's chief economic problem that still needs to be resolved, however, is in the agricultural sector. Farmers are suffering from high interest rates and from selling prices that rise more slowly than costs. But the troubles of agriculture won't end when interest rates go down. We must deal with high production levels, export barriers, weather damage and low commodity prices.

In my contacts with industrial leaders from other parts of the country, one aspect of Nebraska labor stands out — the work ethic. Nebraskans and other Midwesterners have a reputation for a work ethic that makes the area a prime reservoir of employment talent.

All these factors make this Labor Day a special holiday for Nebraskans. I will be celebrating the occasion in Schuyler, the Colfax County seat, where a Labor Day observance has become a tradition. Across the state, however, farmers, laborers, students, and indeed all persons may take a bow in recognition of the efforts that have been made to put this nation back to work.

UN-L's obligation

The University of Nebraska Lincoln has an obligation to provide students who live in its dormitories with an atmosphere conducive to study, according to Margaret Robinson, Norfolk, nominee for university regent from the 3rd District.

Robinson praised Douglas Zatechka, director of the UNL housing office, for introducing a student bill of rights that ensures a student's primary rights to read, study and sleep—free from undue interference.

"The university must provide enough regulation in dormitories so that those who want to study or sleep can do so," said Mrs. Robinson, who is a member of the Norfolk school board and a former board member of Norfolk Junior College, now Northeast Community Technical College.

Low income loans

By the end of 1982, the state will have brought into Nebraska about $348 million in capital to aid low and moderate income citizens in obtaining housing.

The Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, which began operations in 1980, is chartered by the state. The fund issues tax free bonds which are not supported by the state but by repayment of loans made by the fund.

By year's end, about 8,000 loans will have been made to enable low and moderate income households to purchase homes. About 3,000 of those loans will be made between now and the end of the year. In 1982, it is anticipated that more than a fourth of these loans will be for new construction. With the homebuilding industry being so depressed nationally, the fund has become the largest single factor in new housing construction in Nebraska.

Of the $348 million in financing approved, about $277 million will be used for loans so individuals can purchase new or existing housing. About $12 million will be loaned to developers who will build multi-unit housing for the elderly. Approximately $9 million will be loaned to families to make improvements on homes they own or are purchasing.

The average homeowner takes more pride in his dwelling, is more concerned about the welfare of his neighborhood and is a more active citizen than the average renter. The Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund is making it possible for more citizens to realize the dreams of homeownership.

Readers survey results released

U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The response to my recent readers' survey on critical national issues has been outstanding. To date, I have received well over 4,000 replies from every corner of the nation, and they are still pouring in.

The results reveal substantial agreement among readers — and pointed disagreement with many policy directions currently popular in Washington, D.C.

To summarize, you told me in no uncertain terms that deficits should be reduced by cutting spending, not by raising taxes, that business tax incentives are important to spur growth and jobs in the private sector, that environmental regulations can be streamlined without sacrificing health and safety, that Social Security should be reformed by including federal civilian employees in the system and by considering some curtailment in future cost of living increases, and that a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget should be passed.

Finally, if the nation responds to the availability of Individual Retirement Accounts the way readers say they have or will, when we are on the verge of an exciting savings revolution in this country.

By the way, we said at the outset it was not a "scientific" survey but why not have a survey based on the same rhetoric by which our laws are made?

I will be asking for your views on other issues periodically in the future. Thank you for taking the opportunity to talk back to me. In turn, I will pass your message along. Here are the complete results to date:

1. Which course should Congress pursue to reduce large budget deficits that have been projected for the next several years? 1.5% — raise taxes; 82.4% — cut federal spending; 13.7% — do both; 7% — do neither.
2. Which view best expresses your own: 3.8% — Congress has already cut spending as much as it can without hurting large numbers of Americans who depend on government assistance; 94.6% — The surface has barely been scratched. Many more billions in wasteful and unnecessary spending could be cut while still maintaining the social safety net.
3. Should Congress cancel or delay the 10 percent tax cut scheduled to take effect for all taxpayers in July 1983? 22.5% — yes; 75.4% — no.
4. Which view best expresses your own: 10.6% — The business tax incentives enacted last year amount to an unfair "giveaway" at the expense of the poor; 84.7% — These tax cuts are necessary to encourage business expansion, speed recovery from the recession and create jobs in the private sector.
5. Civilian federal employees, including members of Congress, are not now required to pay into the Social Security system. Should they be required to participate in Social Security along with the rest of the work force? 89.2% — yes; 8.5% — no.
6. Nearly all analysts agree that Social Security faces a serious financial crisis. Do you believe that slowing the growth of benefits by limiting future cost-of-living increases should be considered as one measure to prevent the system from possible bankruptcy? 74.4% — yes; 23.1% — no.
7. With which position do you most agree: 4.1% — Any attempt to remove the confuser and red tape from the current Clean Air Act amounts to an effort to weaken that law; 92.6% — Reasonable reforms can be made to reduce the regulatory burden on business and encourage the creation of jobs without sacrificing clean air standards.
8. Do you believe President Reagan is pursuing the right course by attempting to restore economic prosperity by cutting government spending, taxes and regulation? 94% — yes; 4.6% — no.
9. Do you support or oppose a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget? 84.4% — support; 12.3% — oppose.
10. On January 1, 1982 every American worker became eligible to deposit up to $2,000 per year ($2,250 if you have a non-working spouse) into a tax-deferred individual retirement account (IRA). Have you set up an IRA to provide for your retirement? If not, do you plan to? 38.7% — already have; 26% — plan to; 29.1% — don't plan to.

NOTE: Totals do not add up to 100% because some readers did not respond to every question.

The opinions expressed here are not necessarily those of The Wayne Herald editorial board.

AAUW Meeting again

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday, Sept. 9, in the Walnut room in the Wayne State College Student Union.

Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m., with the business meeting beginning at 7. Those wishing to make reservations are asked to call Jean Karlen, 375-2200, or Sheryl Lindau, 375-3333.

The program will be "The Working Woman and Family Life." Members are encouraged to bring guests.

AAUW is an international organization of women with college degrees advocating educational, economic and political opportunities for women.

Reunion at Ring farm

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ring hosted a reunion at their farm east of Wayne during the weekend for persons across the state who took part in a Farm Bureau bus trip to Washington, D.C. in 1975.

Helping host the event were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Noe of Dixon.

The weekend began with a noon luncheon at the Ring home on Saturday, followed with a tour of Big Red Farms at Wakefield. The group also was treated by Carl Rump to a special showing at the Wayne State College planetarium, followed with a tour of the campus.

Following dinner at the Black Knight, the group attended the Wayne Community Theatre's fall musical, "The Music Man."

The weekend concluded with a dinner and sing-a-long at the Ring home following worship services Sunday.

About 25 persons attended from across Nebraska.

Hospitalized in Omaha

Mrs. LeRoy Peterson of Winside, who observes her birthday today (Thursday), is a patient in the University Medical Center in Omaha.

Cards and letters will reach her if addressed to Mrs. LeRoy Peterson, University Medical Center, 7W Room 7436, Omaha, Neb. 68105.

Couple wed 60 years

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fredrickson of Wakefield observed their 60th wedding anniversary Thursday, Aug. 19.

Edith Evelyn Gunning and Alvin Fredrickson were married at noon on Aug. 19, 1922, in Sioux City. Their attendants were Bess Balbraith and Roy Fredrickson.

They have spent their entire married lives in the Wakefield and Allen area and are the parents of five children, including Iris Larson and David Fredrickson of Wakefield, Keith of Omaha, Don of Denver, Colo., and Robert of Sioux City.

There are 13 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. Two grandchildren are deceased.

82nd birthday observed

Friends and relatives gathered Sunday evening to observe the 82nd birthday of Mrs. Henry Woodward of Concord.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Neyron Woodward and Gaylen and Lorraine Woodward of Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Woodward, Keith and Kevin of Wakefield; the Harlan Woodward family and Mr. and Mrs. Thaine Woodward of Concord; the Richard Mulhair family and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hale of Allen; Evelyn Yusten of Ponca; and Nancy Kelly of Sioux City.

Cards were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Neyron Woodward and Jimmie Woodward, high, and Mrs. Walter Hale and Harlan Woodward, low.

A cooperative lunch was served.

Wayne bike-a-thon chairman

The Western Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announces the selection of Cinda Willers as chairperson of the "Wheels for Life" Bike-A-Thon in Wayne.

Funds raised in the Wayne bike-a-thon this fall will help St. Jude Hospital continue its life giving work. St. Jude is the largest research center in the world devoted to the treatment and cure of catastrophic childhood diseases such as leukemia.

The date and location of the bike-a-thon will be announced by Mrs. Willers in the near future.

Volunteer workers, riders and sponsors are needed to make the event a success. Those interested in helping or providing refreshments should contact Mrs. Willers at 375-4911.

Sodens home in Doniphan following August wedding

Making their first home in Doniphan are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Soden.

They were married Aug. 21 in 2 o'clock rites at St. Stephens Episcopal Church in Grand Island, with the Rev. James Roach officiating.

The bride is the former Debra Sherrill of Grand Island, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Loescher of Upland, Calif. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Soden of Winside.

Decorations for the double ring ceremony included two altar bouquets of white roses and blue and white lily of the valley.

The guests were registered by Terry Rathman of Cairo, and were ushered into the church by Mike Ziembra, of Hastings, and Terry Glover of Grand Island.

Soloist was Suzy Schultz and organist was Kathy Hornbacher, both of Grand Island.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal gown of dacrone and organza.

The bride wore a white formal gown of dacrone and organza. The bodice featured a high regency neckline with a sculptured lace bolero effect. Lace and seed pearls accented the full skirt which descended from the waistline. A wide band of Venice lace edged the hemline and chapel length train.

Her elbow length veil was attached to a Juliet cap and she carried a cascade of white and light blue carnations, with red roses, baby's breath and white streamers.

Matron of honor was Suzy Schultz, and bridesmaids were Pam Jones and Devra Weber, all are of Grand Island.

Their light blue polyester gowns were in floor length and were fashioned with spaghetti straps and high, sheer necklines.

Each carried a nosegay of blue carnations and white roses with baby's breath.

Flower girl was Jennifer Sherrill of Grand Island.

Don Bockhahn Jr. of Grand Island served as best man.

Groomsmen were Steve Tonniges and Larry Neujahr, both of Osceola.

The bridegroom was attired in an ivory tuxedo with an ivory ruffled shirt and red rose boutonniere, and his attendants wore ivory tuxedos with blue shirts.

Mrs. Loescher chose a blue floor-length dress with a sheer overlay bodice for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Soden selected a blue polyester gown.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the Interstate Holiday Inn in Grand Island following the wedding ceremony.

Hosts were the bridegroom's sister and her husband, Roger and Deb Anderson of Winside. The cake was cut and served by Lynne Gregg of Grand Island.

The newlyweds traveled to Colorado following their wedding ceremony.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Upland High School in Upland, Calif., is employed by the Legal Professional Corporation of Howard E. Tracy in Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Soden

The bridegroom was graduated from Winside High School in 1971 and from Doane College in Crete in 1975. He is employed by Ziembra Roofing and Insulation Specialists, Hastings.

Marking golden year

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Martinson of Ponca will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with an open house reception from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 12, at the Legion Hall in Ponca.

Belden alumni meet Saturday

The 23rd annual Belden High School alumni banquet was held Saturday evening at Ron's Steakhouse in Carroll.

The 144 graduates in attendance came from Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, Minnesota, Washington and California.

Master of ceremonies for the program was Willis McDonald of Randolph, a member of the class of 1932.

Herman Opler of Hoskins (class of 1930) welcomed the group, followed with a response by Richard Draper of Elgin (class of 1942).

Boutonnieres and a corsage were given to John Garwood of Hays, Kan., Willis McDonald of Randolph and Helen Oxley of San Diego, Calif., all members of the class of 1932.

Also receiving corsages were Angie Preston of Laurel and Edith Francis of Belden, who were graduated 71 years ago.

Betty Havorka of San Diego also received a corsage for being the woman to travel the furthest distance to attend the event.

Receiving a boutonniere for having attended the furthest distance of all the men was Herbert Childers of Washington.

All classes ending in two were recognized during the evening. Also recognized for their work on the Alumni Association were Gladys Pfanz, Mary Harper and Arland Harper.

Officers for the 1983 banquet, which will be held Aug. 27 at Ron's Steakhouse, are Don Oxley, president, Dick Slapelman, vice president, and Mary Harper, secretary-treasurer.

Families gather in August

Johnson reunion

The 54th annual Johnson reunion, attended by 53 relatives, was held Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Ponca Fire Hall.

Among those attending were Nellie Thomas of Plainview and Charles Johnson of Ponca, the only living children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Johnson of Ponca.

Also present were 17 cousins and their families, coming from Jefferson, S. D., Westfield, LeMars, Sioux City, Cushing and Correctionville, Iowa, Ponca, Carroll, South Sioux City, Omaha, Creighton, Newcastle, Allen and Jackson.

The group celebrated the birthdays of Charles Johnson and Don Gould.

This year's reunion was hosted by the Curry families. The Gould families will be hosts for the 1983 reunion.

Ross-Robson reunion

Ross-Robson families gathered for their 47th annual reunion on Sunday, Aug. 15, at the Senior Citizens Center in Laurel.

The 72 relatives came from St. Paul, Watertown, Rochert and Heron Lake, Minn., Detroit and Saginaw, Mich., Phoenix, Ariz., Sioux City and Odebolt, Iowa; Salt Lake City, Utah; Dallas and Celina, Texas; Illinois, Wayne, Winside, Omaha, Orchard, Dixon, Concord and Laurel.

Tentative plans were made for the 50th reunion to be held in 1985.

Newly elected officers are Marvin Thompson of St. Paul, Minn., president; Mrs. Marvin Hartman of Dixon, vice president; and Mrs. Persa Lawrence of Heron Lake, Minn., secretary-treasurer.

Two births and four deaths were recorded during the past year. The youngest attending was Keili Jo Huelig, six week old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Huelig of Concord.

The 1983 reunion will be held the first Sunday in August at the Laurel Senior Citizens Center.

Henschke reunion

A Henschke family reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 22, in the Wakefield park, with 43 relatives attending from Sioux City, Pierce, Wayne, South Sioux City, Dixon and Wakefield.

Attending from the furthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. George Finzen of Sioux City.

Adolph Henschke of Wakefield was the oldest in attendance. The youngest was Danny Nolte, four month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nolte of Wayne.

in Carroll, with 56 relatives attending from Glenwood, Iowa; Norfolk, Tekamah, Omaha, O'Neill, Hartington, Plattsmouth, Columbus, Wayne, Hoskins, Randolph and Carroll.

Everett Roberts of Wayne was the oldest family member attending. The youngest was Kirby Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Roberts of Carroll.

The 1983 reunion will be at Ron's Steakhouse on the last Sunday in August.

Heikes reunion

The annual Heikes family reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 15, at the Wakefield Senior Citizens Center with 80 attending.

Minnie Heikes of Blair was the oldest relative present, and Cale Heikes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Heikes of Omaha, was the youngest.

Relatives, who came from Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado, Missouri, Florida and South Dakota, included all of the families of Al Heikes and Mrs. Grace Paul.

Plans were made to hold the 1983 reunion the third Sunday in August at the same location.

Wakefield class of '47 has reunion in Omaha

The Wakefield High School graduating class of 1947 met recently in the Carroll Fredrickson home in Omaha for brunch and reminiscing.

From there the group attended the races at Ak Sar Ben, where the seventh race was dedicated to the class. Members presented a blanket to the owner of the winning horse.

Afterward, they returned to the Fredrickson home for a social hour followed with supper at Club 89.

Most of the class members stayed the night in Omaha and attended a breakfast in the home of Ruth Fischer Hammel.

Class members who attended with their husbands and wives were:

Carroll Fredrickson, Clarise Anderson Schlines, Lorraine Backstrom Mahler, Elaine Rokemper Hansen, Bob Hansen, Eugene Watson, Neil Sandahl, Ardith Victor Woolson, Allen Kruse, Beverly Ekberg Kai, Ruth Fischer Hammel, Clarence Boeckenhauer, Marvin Borg, Charles Van Valin, Regina Bjorklund Luhr, and Ronald Lueders.

Members came from Santa Ana, Calif.; Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Boulder, Colo.; Thurston, Pender; North Platte; Fremont; Omaha; Concord and Wakefield.

Season open

Area teams ready to go

The high school football season officially opens tomorrow (Friday) and all five area high school teams will be in action.

Area rivals Wakefield and Winside will clash on the Trojans' home turf. Allen will host Wynot. Laurel will play at Randolph and Wayne will travel to South Sioux. South Sioux will use a wing T on offense, switching from the veer which was used the past couple of years. The Cardinals will have 4-5 last season and coach Mike Barnes is adapting the offense to his personnel.

The Cards drop into Class B

this year and are paired with Wayne in districts to determine playoffs. Randolph, Laurel's foe, has 14 lettermen on a squad of 34 players. No information is available on Wynot.

Top picks

Ponca, Coleridge and Osmond are picked by the Sioux City Journal to win their respective divisions of the Lewis & Clark Conference in the upcoming football season.

Coaches consensus favorites listed in the Norfolk Daily News are Coleridge in the Central, Osmond in the West and a tie bet-ween Wakefield and Emerson Hubbard in the East.

Sioux City Journal pick East—1. Ponca, 2. Emerson Hubbard, 3. Wakefield, 4. Homer, 5. Laurel-Concord, Central—1. Coleridge, 2. Newcastle, 3. Walthill, 4. Beemer, 5. Allen, 6. Bancroft-Rosalie, West—1. Osmond, 2. Hartington, 3. Wausa, 4. Winside, 5. Wynot.

Coaches consensus favorites Central—Coleridge, East—(tie) Wakefield and Emerson Hubbard, West—Osmond. The Lewis & Clark Conference has expanded to 16 teams. Beemer moves into the Central Division and will switch from eight man to 11 man football.

Wakefield will try to defend its East Division title after going through last season undefeated and qualifying for the Class C-1 playoffs. The Trojans lost to champion Battle Creek in the first round.

Winside, which shared the West Division title with Osmond and Wausa, will shoot for a high finish in the West again. Laurel is now a member of the East Division and Allen is in the Central Division.

recreation sports

Women's volleyball Mondays

The annual Wayne couples adult recreation volleyball program will open Wednesday, Sept. 8 at the Wayne city auditorium. Two sessions are planned at 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

New couples should show up at 7 p.m. Anyone who has played in the league in past years and is not contacted by Hank Overin should come to the 8:30 session. College students are not eligible to play in the league but faculty members are eligible.

Coed volleyball Wednesdays

A women's recreation volleyball program is scheduled to begin on Monday (Sept. 6) at the Wayne city auditorium.

The first session will begin at 7 p.m. and the second session will start at 8:30 p.m. Women who did not play in last year's league should attend at 7 p.m. Women who did play last year should report at 8:30 unless contacted by Hank Overin.

Faculty members at Wayne State College are welcome to play but WSC students are not eligible.

Middle Center to open

The Wayne Middle Center will open next Thursday (Sept. 9) as a recreation area for boys and girls in grades five through eight. The center is located above the Fire Hall.

Hours of the center are from 7 to 10 p.m. on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Wayne Recreation Director Hank Overin is trying to set up hours for high school freshmen and sophomores. Any hour changes or additions will be listed in The Wayne Herald.

Season tickets at Wakefield

Season tickets for the 1982-83 Wakefield sports season are now available at the high school office. Tickets for each sport may be purchased in any combination.

Individual season ticket prices for adults are: football $8, volleyball $10, boys basketball $12, girls basketball $10. Student season tickets for those outside the school district are: football $4, volleyball $5, boys basketball $6, girls basketball $5. Students who are attending rural school and who will be attending Wakefield 6OR may buy a student season ticket.

Season tickets are good for regular season games only. This does not include conference and district tournaments or the holiday tournament.

All persons who live in the Wakefield Community School District who are 65 years of age or older may receive a free pass for all school athletic events that are regularly scheduled. Persons who already have such a pass need not apply for a new one, but new passes will be issued at the school office on request. The senior pass does not include any tournaments.

NU football preview on TV

The excitement of Nebraska football returns to the Nebraska Educational Television Network with a special season preview program of Cornhusker Football, Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. (6 MT).

The live program will offer Nebraska public television viewers the opportunity to call in questions about the upcoming Nebraska gridiron season to the program host, Lincoln sportscaster Don Gill, and University of Nebraska linebacker coach John Melton. Also appearing on the program to assist in answering viewer calls will be Frank Solich, Cornhusker freshman coach, and Steve Pederson, Nebraska's new recruiting coordinator.

Cornhusker Football begins its 22th season of broadcasting entire game tapes of the Nebraska gridiron clashes to NETV's viewers the following Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m. (6 MT) with a review of the Sept. 11 game with Iowa. Gill, now in his fourth season as program host, is joined each week by Melton, who is starting his second season of commentary. The programs will also include previews of upcoming games and interviews with coaches and players. The phone-in service is available only during the September 7 program.

Final work night at baseball park

A work night has been scheduled Tuesday at Hank Overin Field, formerly known as the Wayne city ball park. The work session, which will be the last of the fall if successful, is planned at 6:30 p.m. to finish general cleanup around the ball field. Everyone is welcome to help.

Help needed to seed JC fields

Fall seeding of the Wayne Jaycees Softball Complex is being planned by the Jaycees. A work night has been scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Friday to get the fields prepared for seeding.

Any helpers are welcome as seeding this fall is essential to the future use of the ball parks for softball next spring.

Racing continues at Riviera

At Saturday's late model stock car races at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway, Mike Benson of Wakefield placed fourth in his heat and fifth in the A/feature.

Area teams in Pender Tourney

Allen and Laurel will open their volleyball seasons tonight (Thursday) in the annual Pender Tournament.

Allen plays Emerson at 6 p.m. and Laurel plays Homer at 7 p.m. In other matches, West Point CC will play Bancroft at 5 p.m. and Pender will host Walthill at 8 p.m.

Losers of the 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. games will play in the consolation round at 1 p.m. Saturday. The winners will play at 5 p.m. Losers of the 7 and 8 p.m. games will clash at 2 p.m. Saturday with the winners playing at 6. The fifth place game is scheduled at 3 p.m., the consolation finals at 7 p.m. and the championship at 8 p.m.

Following the initial application period which ended Aug. 17, there were a total of 3,040 1982 fall shotgun turkey permits still available for the fall season. The second application period, open to all resident hunters, whether they had a fall shotgun turkey permit last year or not, began yesterday (Wednesday) and closes Sept. 14.

Fall shotgun turkey permit application must be mailed to Game and Parks Commission Headquarters, Box 30370, Lincoln, Nebr., 68503, and be accompanied by a $15 check.

The units and number of permits still available are: Niobrara (early season), 406; Niobrara (late season), 429; Round Top, 1550; Verdigris (early season), 50; Verdigris (late season), 269; and Wildcat, 36.

WSC athletic tickets available

Fans of Wayne State College athletics can gain considerable savings over the course of a year through the purchase of season sports tickets, according to WSC business manager Joe Parker.

The season tickets are being sold for $15 through the business office, and entitle its owner to admission to all five home Wildcat football games and all regular season home men's and women's basketball games—an 884 value during 1982-83. To purchase a ticket, send $15 payable to Wayne State College to: Season Tickets, Business Office, Wayne State College, Wayne, Nebraska 68177.

A mountain of cobs

IN ORDER to make room for the upcoming corn harvest, some area farmers need to empty their bins. This often means corn shelling. Here Vern Carlson, Denny Carlson, Jim Stout, Norman Haglund, Rodney Haglund, Deldean Bjorklund, Lawrence Carlson, Donavon Bjorklund and Don Kay shell corn in Vern Carlson's bin near Wakefield.

Pigs need care too

With feeder pigs at or near record high prices, producers purchasing pigs to feed out should pay special attention to the type of care these pigs receive when they arrive at the farm. This advice comes from Mike Brumm, extension swine specialist at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station, Concord.

Brumm recommends that to protect their investment in the pigs, producers should plan on treating new arrivals with TLC (Tender Loving Care). "Have clean, dry and disinfected pens with draft-free sleeping areas ready for the pigs. In cold weather, supplemental heat, hovers, bedding or a combination may be necessary," he notes. A specially formulated receiving diet fed for a minimum of two weeks after arrival may reduce death losses and aid in the control of scours. Brumm says. This diet, containing at least 20 percent ground whole oats, should provide 16 percent crude protein with adequate vitamin and mineral supplementation. "If oats are unavailable, consider alternative feedstuffs, including ground alfalfa hay, dehydrated alfalfa meal or wheat bran," he advises. Brumm further recommends the use of an antimicrobial feed additive in the receiving diet.

NU research has shown no benefit from the routine addition of medication to the water at arrival for pigs shipped long distances. But since there may be instances when a water medication will be beneficial, producers should have the capability to medicate the drinking water if necessary.

Major health problems affecting newly purchased feeder pigs are respiratory distress and scours. The majority of these health problems became evident 5 to 14 days after arrival.

Because of these potential problems, Brumm advises that the TLC treatment be completed by close and frequent observation of the newly purchased pigs. "Close scrutiny at least twice a day for the first few weeks may prevent a serious disease outbreak," he suggests.

Brumm concludes that floor feeding in the sleeping area for the first few days, in addition to promoting proper dunging habits, encourages frequent observation of the pigs.

Crop rotation improves the soil

Soil condition improves over the years with crop rotation and limited use of chemicals, according to Gary Lesoing, University of Nebraska administrative assistant at the NU Field Laboratory near Mead.

Improved soil contributes to increased yields—especially in stressful years, Lesoing added. Tests at the laboratory will continue indefinitely, he said. At least eight years of data are needed in order to check results.

For the past six years, field lab research compared continuous corn cropping to a rotation of oats, clover, corn, soybeans and corn on a four-year rotation. "The rotation has shown the highest yield over six years, from 1976 to 1981," Lesoing said.

Continuous corn yielded an average of 19 bushels per acre, while the rotation with limited use of chemicals yielded 74 bushels of corn per acre, he said.

Corn rootworm control was unnecessary with crop rotation. The life cycle of the pest was interrupted during non-corn years with the change in field environment. On the other hand, continuous corn cropping would fall without rootworm control, he said.

Weeds tended to be a problem with total organic farming—using no chemicals. Intermediate organic farming—using occasional chemical treatments—helped reduce the need to till or hand-weed fields, Lesoing said.

Alternate cropping will be featured on the Nebraska ETN Network program, Farm and Ranch Report, on Sept. 2 at 12:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. NU specialists will discuss methods, test results and commercial products for organic farming.

Last year, farmers made $4 and $5 more per bushel for soybeans grown without chemicals for human consumption, Lesoing said. Livestock fed organically also bring higher prices, but marketing is important.

"A lot of it is marketing," Lesoing explained. "If takes top management for weed control."

Miller chosen as preservative dealer

Hyle L. Miller, Wayne, has been selected as a new dealer for Domain Inc. to locally market Crop Cure forage preservative. Domain Inc., a specialty product and livestock feed manufacturing company since 1899, is headquartered in New Richmond, Wisconsin. Nationally, Domain markets Crop Cure, Dobby milk replacers and calf feeds. In the north Central part of the country, it also markets the general line of Dobby livestock feeds.

Taiwanese to visit Nebraska

Governor Charles Thone, working with Bert J. Garvin, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, has announced that representatives from the Republic of China (Taiwan) have accepted an invitation to come to Nebraska. Governor Thone's invitation was extended in July when the Marketing Division of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture visited the Republic of China (Taiwan) on a marketing mission.

Accepting the Governor's invitation will be the Honorable Hsui-Shwen, Vice Minister of Economic Affairs, R.O.C. Honorable Chang will head a group of 40 government officials and leaders of prestigious public and private enterprises.

They will arrive Thursday. The mission is expected to purchase shipments of grain which will originate from Nebraska of approximately $4,000 metric tons of hard red winter wheat and 120,000 metric tons of yellow corn. On September 3, 1982, Governor Thone and the R.O.C. Mission will honor a contract to expand trade relations between Nebraska and the Republic of China.

Soybean loan date extended

Producers with 1981-crop soybeans under loan now have the option to extend their loans for an extra six months, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Rank said USDA is allowing extended loans so farmers will have the option of holding their soybeans for possibly higher prices later in the year. Without today's action, Rank said, farmers would be required to either sell their soybeans to repay their price support loans or would turn their crops over to USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation in lieu of repayment.

Most soybean loans are scheduled to mature during August, September and October. Producers who extend their loans for the additional six months will be charged interest at the rate applicable to the loan. This interest rate reflects the cost to CCC of borrowing from the U.S. Treasury.

All producers with 1981-crop loans in an outstanding status are eligible to extend their loans, Rank said. Producers who wish to extend loans should contact their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, Rank said.

Scholarships to ag students

Seventy-five students in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Agriculture will receive $575 scholarships from the knights of Ak-Sar-Ben for use during the 1982-83 school year. This is the 38th year for the Ak-Sar-Ben scholarship grants.

Twelve freshman, 19 sophomores, 20 juniors and 24 seniors were selected for the scholarships. Area recipients are:

Freshman Dallas Hansen, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hansen of Carroll, is majoring in agribusiness.

Sophomore Steven G. Stark, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glimmer Stark of Laurel, is majoring in animal science and agricultural education.

Senior Michael E. Gnirk, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gnirk of Hoskins, is majoring in agricultural honors.

Insecticide overuse can damage plants

Insect poisons are important to us for making food more abundant and life more comfortable. However, overuse can cause problems. When a little does some good, a lot may cause harm. Plant damage can occur from insecticide overuse, reports Stan Starling, Dixon County extension agent.

Sometimes the damage is not caused by the insecticide itself but by the solvent with which the insecticide is mixed. This occurs with many of the emulsifiable concentrates when applied in excess. Here are some of the chemicals and plants which may be injured, as listed by UNL entomologists:

Diazinon - Stephanotis, African violets, hydrangea, ferns, poinsettia, hibiscus, pilea, and gardenia.

Cygon - Some walnuts, peaches, tomatoes, beans, American elm. Cygon is labeled for use only on Azalea, birch, boxwood, camellias, euonymus, gladiolus, hemlock, juniper, pine, and roses.

Sevin - Boston Ivy (severe), watermelons. If applied during time of high humidity or immediately before or after rainfall, Sevin may damage tender foliage of many plants.

Orthene - American elm, red delicious apple, flowering crabapple, marigold, sugar maple, cottonwood, hackberry, red maple, redbud, verbena, weigella, hibiscus, gloxinia, philodendron, and salvia.

Malathion - Ferns, viburnum, lantana, crassula, canary juniper, perunia, small leaf spirea, white pine, maples, and elms under extreme heat.

Baygon - Chrysanthemums, carnations, hydrangeas.

Kelthane - Eggplant, pears and canary juniper, geraniums.

Dursban - Poinsettias, azaleas, camellias, roses, and variegated ivy.

This list focuses on ornamentals and is probably not complete, Starling said. This also emphasizes the importance of observing label directions to avoid problems when using pesticides. Anyone who has problems or further questions regarding insecticide use can contact a dealer or county extension agent.

LATE SEASON WEED CONTROL

Late season broadleaf weed control in corn is possible with 2,4-D. Such a treatment could make harvesting easier and reduce weed seed production. Corn can suffer yield reduction from 2,4-D applied during the flowering period. You can apply 2,4-D on corn as soon as the silk turns brown. These late 2,4-D treatments will not cause lodging or stalk brittleness in the crop.

A 1 lb./A application of 2,4-D will control many large broadleaf weeds including pigweed, sunflower and cocklebur but will be weak on velvetleaf. Adding crop oil to the 2,4-D may increase the control of velvetleaf.

The weeds become increasingly difficult to control as they mature. Ester formulations are likely to perform better than amines, especially under dry conditions. However, esters can produce vapors that damage sensitive plants.

HEMP DOGBANE CONTROL

Hemp Dogbane is approaching the correct stage for treatment with 2,4-D or a combination of 2,4-D + Banvel. Application should be made after corn is in the brown silk stage or milo is in the soft dough stage and hemp dogbane roots have swollen pink buds. Pod set on soybeans in the adjacent area should be complete.

The precautions for soybeans are less important where only 2,4-D is used. Treatments can be made until the dogbane leaves turn color. After the dogbane leaves turn color or a frost occurs, treatment will be of little value. Drought stress will reduce control.

Application rates for 2,4-D are 1.25 lb./A active ingredient on milo and 1.5 lb./A on corn. The 2,4-D + Banvel should be applied at 1 lb./A active ingredient 2,4-D + 1/2 pint Banvel. The Banvel combination is more effective than 2,4-D alone.

Leafy corn in 30" rows will intercept spray material and reduce control unless the application is made with a high clearance sprayer equipped with drop extensions. Plan to treat two or three years in a row.

Lots of French fries

IT WOULD take a lot of gravy to cover these potatoes if they were mashed. Kenneth Slutz of Wayne raised his potatoes in a 7 1/2 by 1 1/2 foot area in his back yard. He grew nearly 90 pounds of potatoes altogether and had 60 spuds which weighed more than half a pound each. One dozen of the largest potatoes tipped the scales at 14 pounds total.

Little change in specific pathogen free swine

The overall production of Nebraska SPF (specific pathogen free) swine has changed only slightly with most of the herds performing very similar to last year.

This was the topic of a report presented at the 23rd annual George A. Young SPF Conference here Tuesday (Aug. 10) by Dr. Thomas Socha, secretary-manager of the Nebraska SPF Swine Accrediting Agency.

"Herd participation during the past 12 months has remained about constant with 69 herds enrolled in the program as of June 1, 1982, compared to 71 at the same time last year," Socha reported.

"Four of the herds were lost to atrophic rhinitis, one to pseudorabies and seven were voluntarily dropped from the program," he said.

"None of the herds were lost to mange or to dysentery, which proves that the practices of the SPF producers have been effective in controlling these two diseases," Socha said.

Pigs born during 1981 totaled 65,222, which was 11,500 more than last year. This was an expected increase because the total number of herds increased last year, Socha explained.

The number of pigs per litter and the mortality rate remained about the same at 9.2 and 27.6 respectively. The backfat average of 82 inches was .01 inch less than last year, which showed SPF producers still place more emphasis on the leanness of their hogs, he said.

"There has been an increase in the number of herds that introduce all new herd additions via the laboratory, which should help in disease control in future years." Socha also noted there has been considerable emphasis on selection against genetic defects resulting in Nebraska SPF producers producing fewer litters with genetic defects.

"Many facility and management changes have also taken place in the past year," Socha said. "Double fencing was completed by several producers, in addition to increased visitor precautions and elimination of much of the pet population," he said. The threat of pseudorabies has prompted some changes Socha said, which have been aimed toward producer and program benefits.

Soybean hulls can substitute for cracked corn in feed

As a cost savings, soybean hulls can be substituted up to 50 percent of ration in place of cracked corn for growing steers, according to research by Mike McDonnell, University of Nebraska graduate student.

McDonnell presented his findings here August 11 at the joint meeting of the American and Canadian Societies of Animal Science.

He tested 168 steers weighing 450 to 600 pounds for 112 days. The steers were full-fed on a basal ration that was top-dressed with a daily ration of either 2.5 pounds per head or 5 pounds per head of ground soybean hulls, whole soybean hulls or cracked corn.

"Most of the time, soybean hulls are less expensive than corn, depending on market prices. Also, they are higher in protein than corn," McDonnell said.

In addition, steers are in no danger of developing acidosis or founder if they overeat soybean hulls, unlike the dangers of overeating corn, he added.

"Ground soybean hulls had the same average daily gain as cracked corn, but had a poorer feed efficiency," McDonnell said. "Whole soybean hulls and a slightly lower gain than cracked corn, but the same feed efficiency."

The 2.5 pound per head daily addition of supplemental energy regardless of whether it consisted of ground soybean hulls, whole soybean hulls or cracked corn, resulted in steers gaining an average of 1.6 pounds per day.

The 5 pound per head daily addition resulted in steers gaining an average of 2 pounds per day, McDonnell said.

The feed efficiency ratio was comparable in all three energy supplements for the 2.5-pound addition. Ground soybean hulls had a ratio of 9.31, whole soybean hulls had a ratio of 9.96 and cracked corn had a ratio of 9.30.

The feed efficiency ratio was also comparable for the 5-pound addition for whole soybeans at 8.34 and corn at 7.97, but ground soybeans had a poorer feed efficiency ratio of 9.56 at the 5-pound addition.

"Ground soybean hulls have a faster rate of passage. They are not used as well and do not remain in the animal as long," McDonnell said.

LORI BARNHILL

A sparkling new refrigerator is a marvelous addition to any kitchen. Perhaps you have chosen a different color—almond has become popular—or perhaps a textured finish.

Two door, frost free refrigerators do a better job of keeping frozen foods at zero degrees. The fresh food compartments have special zones for keeping meats, fresh produce and dairy products at optimum temperatures and humidity.

But you may notice some changes from the refrigerator just replaced. This column has pointed out in several articles that it is normal for new refrigerators to run more than older models. Smaller, more efficient compressors run more frequently. Some units run 75 percent 90 percent of the time. When you hear your refrigerator running, it is performing as it should.

Does this new appliance seem to make more noise? Many complex components in newer refrigerators make different sounds at different times. The compressor has a high speed motor that turns twice as fast as older models. A clock timer regulates the defrost cycle. You will hear a snap when this timer shuts off. When you open the freezer door you will hear the evaporator fan. This fan circulates air through ducts from the freezer section to the fresh food section. Avoid stacking food too close to the ducts restricting air flow.

You may hear a "gurgling" sound right after the refrigerator shuts off. This is the refrigerant flowing through the evaporator tubing.

Your new refrigerator may appear larger on the outside, but inside storage space may seem smaller. Thick foam wall insulation used by most manufacturers is effective, but for the same amount of refrigerators storage space, a larger cabinet is needed.

Average cost to operate a 16-18 cubic feet refrigerator-freezer in Nebraska is $8.25 per month. New refrigerators are efficient appliances. How they are used determine the amount of energy required. Watch number of door openings, keep foods covered to reduce moisture buildup inside and avoid overcrowding foods.

Take the bite out of hemp dogbane with Banvel® herbicide.

Hemp dogbane can frustrate your harvest plans. By choking combines. And biting into your harvest time.
A Banvel® herbicide plus 2,4-D tank mix bites back — controls dogbane so harvest is faster and easier. Just apply the Banvel herbicide tank mix shortly before harvest. When corn is in the brown silk stage — before the first killing frost. While dogbane is still green and growing.
Banvel herbicide immediately penetrates the dogbane leaves. Then translocates throughout the weeds to knock dogbane out of the combining zone.

Follow with another late fall application next year for most effective dogbane control. This two-year program pays off with cleaner, faster harvests.
Ask your ag chem dealer for Banvel herbicide. And take the bite out of dogbane.

THE WAYNE STATE FOUNDATION

WOULD LIKE YOUR HELP!

The Wayne State Foundation is conducting a fund raising drive in Wayne through the month of September. All businesses will be contacted to help support Wayne State College. Here are some questions and answers to help you gain more knowledge of how the Foundation works.

WHAT IS THE WAYNE STATE FOUNDATION?

The WSC Foundation is a non-profit corporation managed by a Board of Trustees elected by the members of the Foundation for a three year period. The Board of Trustees elects an Executive Committee each year which has authority to act on Foundation business. The Foundation and its Board meet once a year — the Executive Secretary, appointed by the Board, is responsible for the day by day operations of the Foundation.

WHAT DOES THE FOUNDATION DO?

- To operate as a charitable and educational foundation exclusively for the promotion of WSC.
- To aid, assist and promote the College's educational programs, faculty, employees and students, and to encourage attendance at Wayne State of worthy and deserving students and finally to grant scholarships and student loans to those who show academic promise.
- To solicit and accept gifts, grants, devises and bequests of real or personal property, or both, and to hold, administer and use, and dispose of the same, both principal and income, for the accomplishment and furtherance of any of the above mentioned purposes.
- To receive and hold in trust any property for the use or benefit of WSC or for any student, professor, or employee or for carrying on any research work or project which the grantor, donor or testator may designate, and to invest, disburse, lend or reinvest all moneys, securities or property of whatsoever nature received, and generally care for, manage, administer and control all of such properties so received and to carry out the specific uses and purposes designated by the donors or grantors or testators and, in case gift, devise or bequest is without restriction, to use such gift, grant, devise or bequest for the general purposes of the Foundation as may be agreed upon by the Foundation Board.

HOW IS THE MONEY DISTRIBUTED?

The funds of the corporation are invested by a special committee under the direction of the Board of Trustees. These investments may include real estate, mortgages, loans to needy students who wish to attend WSC, U.S. Securities, as well as state, city, county or school district securities or corporate stocks or bonds.

Lunch program changed

Elementary schools can now use a school lunch serving plan that reduces food waste, cuts costs and gives students a greater choice in school lunch meals, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary Jarratt.
The U.S. Department of Agriculture, USDA, officially extended an optional serving, five choice school menu plan, called "offer versus serve," to elementary schools under regulations published recently in the Federal Register. The rule implements without change a USDA proposal first issued in March.
Under "offer versus serve" children take at least three of the five foods that schools must offer in lunches to qualify for federal reimbursement: meat, milk, bread and two fruits and/or vegetables. Schools are permitted flexibility in further choices.

USDA has required "offer versus serve" in high schools since 1975 and has made it optional for middle schools and junior highs since 1977. Now it is optional for elementary schools as well.
The plan is intended to reduce the amount of food wasted in the national school lunch program, lower program costs and give local schools more flexibility in meeting minimum school lunch nutrition requirements. Jarratt said.

NPPD returns revenues

Over 200 Nebraska cities and towns are reviewing $3,812,480 as a result of agreements leasing their electrical distribution systems to the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), according to Wayne Boyd, a member of the NPPD board of directors from South Sioux City.
The money represents one half of the annual payments made by NPPD under terms of the lease agreements. The payments were made for the first half of 1982, Boyd said. The money may be used by the communities any way they determine.
Local communities receiving payments include: Hoskins, $5,382; Allen, $7,905; Concord, $2,316 and Dixon, $1,944.

NPPD operates the electrical system and makes all additions and improvements to the property to maintain efficient service. NPPD pays the community 10 percent of the adjusted gross revenues realized within the corporate limits.
The money, turned over to the cities and towns by NPPD at this time, does not include the annual five percent in lieu of tax payments required by Nebraska statutes.
In addition to the local payments, the lease agreements consumed by governmental agencies within the corporate limits.
