Low flying job

A HELICOPTER WITH SPECIAL spraying attachments was doing dips and turns West of Wayne last week, completing spray applications on a few fields in the area before harvest time rolls around in the next few weeks. With just a slight breeze blowing, it was perfect weather for the applications which were completed by the helicopter's pilot in almost no time at all.

Bats plague area homes

This summer there have been numerous complaints filed with area law enforcement authorities by people needing help to get bats out of their house.

Farm and hardware stores also report they have received numerous inquiries about chemicals to spray or spread in an area to get rid of the pests.

County agent Don Spitzle said that the most effective way of getting rid of bats is really very easy.

"What we advise as the most effective measure doesn't involve chemicals," Spitzle said. "What you do is, just about sundown, get a few people together and post them around the structure and watch where the bats come out."

In the warmer months, the bats come out to feed in the very early morning and early evening," Spitzle said. "By watching where they come out, the holes can then be plugged."

The problem is, some species of bats can get into and out of openings as small as three eighths of an inch. Spitzle advises that by watching for several evenings, most if not all of the openings can be located and plugged. He also advises screens for windows in attics that are left open during the warm months.

"Normally bats will all leave a structure within 15 to 20 minutes after the first one has left," he said. So the bat vigil does not have to last a long period of time each evening but "It must go on for several days to make sure all of the openings have been spotted and corrected," he explained.

Although extension specialists do not really recommend repellents for bats, Spitzle said two chemicals may aid in getting bats to leave a structure. Both are similar to moth ball crystals. They are naphthalene and paradichlorobenzene.

"You have to use three to five pounds of the repellent in roosting areas such as attics," he said. "Spread it liberally around the area. The bats object to the odor and will leave within a short time, even in broad daylight."

The problem is that bats seem to have a strong attraction for their home and roosting areas. "When the smell goes away, they will probably be back so you end up closing those ways of entrance to the structure anyway," Spitzle said.

According to Spitzle and extension specialists, myths have long circulated about bats which include attacking people. "Actually they are a very shy mammal," Spitzle said, "and don't attack people."

Bats are also:

- The only mammal capable of true flight
- Roost in dark places, upside down, because they must drop in order to fly. They are unable to take off from a horizontal flat surface.
- Tend to group together
- Feed mainly on night insects
- Range from three to five inches in length
- Can transmit rabies. If they are seen acting strangely or fluttering on the ground, precautions should be taken.

So if you're looking for a quick cure, you might try the chemical application, but to drive them from a structure for good, the only alternative seems to be closing up the avenues of entrance and exit.

Damage reported

Mother Nature has struck again. Last Wednesday's hail storm wiped out some good crops in several areas of Wayne County. The spotted strip of damaged crops ranged from fields near Winslow to others near Wakefield.

The Wayne County Emergency Board, composed of county agent Don Spitzle and representatives from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Soil Conservation Service and Farmers Home Administration, inspected the damage Wednesday afternoon.

Ray Butts of the ASCS office reported the board's findings. It was estimated that some 44,566 acres of farmland in Wayne County were affected by the hail.

Figures show that 20,200 acres of corn for grain were damaged and the percentage of yield loss is estimated at 25 percent. Approximately 10,800 acres of soybeans were hit by hail and damage was figured at 50 percent loss. Alfalfa damage was estimated at 15 percent loss over 5,042 acres.

About 2,800 acres of corn for silage received hail and damages are set at 40 percent loss. Other crops that were damaged include 400 acres of grain sorghum at 25 percent and 200 acres of sorghum silage at 40 percent.

According to the board, 25 percent of the total agricultural values were covered by insurance.

ESU will go to district court to resolve contract question

The board members of Educational Service Unit One were informed Tuesday night that they will be going to court against the Crofton School district for breach of contract.

In a letter to ESU administrator Harry Mills, the unit's attorney, David Domina, Norfolk, said he has filed a petition with the District Court of Knox County, seeking a judgment of approximately $8,000 against the district.

Earlier this summer, the board voted to continue with legal action against the Crofton School District, if Domina believed they had legal grounds.

In the letter, Domina said the petition includes "allegations that make the litigation a simple contract action by the ESU against the school district."

The petition filed in District Court, is the result of a problem that arose during the last school year for contracted services.

The ESU and school district entered into a contract for a set level of services to be provided throughout the year by the ESU. The services are for three levels of TMR classes. The district has paid for services involving two of the levels, which it contracted for but, early in the year, dropped one section of the services.

While dropping the service they had contracted for, the district also withheld payment for that service to the ESU yet continued paying for the two remaining sections of TMR services they choose to continue using.

The ESU suit alleges that the ESU tried to fulfill their part of the contract but were unable to do so due to the actions of the school district. They therefore seek $8,054 because "Defendant has breached its obligations to plaintiff in that defendant has failed, neglected and refused to permit plaintiff to fulfill its contract. Defendant has further failed, neglected and refused to make payment to plaintiff for all or any portion of the contracted for services, in the amounts and in the terms required by" the contract.

Domina indicated in his letter to Mills that the school district will have 30 days to respond to the petition. Following that, the court will enter the discovery phase of the litigation.

A point that the school district will get probably bring up will involve paying for the services that they have used. They have paid for two sections of the TMR services and, in addition, paid for the third section for as long as they used it.

The question before the court will be whether or not the contract was breached or whether the district has the right to withdraw from all or part of the contracted services during the school year.

Earlier this summer, the ESU board decided that the contract questions should come before the courts in the event that a similar matter should arise in the future with other districts.

Nursing Services
With several administrators present from school districts within the ESU One area, the question of funding for increased nursing services came up.

The funding relates back also to a second matter of hiring an additional administrator for the ESU and how the person will be paid. Last month, the board went on record as favoring an increase in the amount of nursing services provided to districts. However, they approved the 1982-83 budget without an increase, in order to gain more information before deciding how much of an increase will be possible.

The board did however, earmark about $50,000 of funds for increased nursing services.

Currently the ESU is negotiating salaries with the nursing staff. Part of that $50,000 will have to be used to fund the expected increase in salaries for current nursing service employees. The remainder will be used for additional nursing service time for the district's.

Mills told the board Tuesday night he would like to increase the nursing services by 2 1/2 positions worth of time, more if possible.

Problems arose during the meeting in the clarification of funding for nursing services and for a new administrative position.

The board will be hiring a second administrator for the ESU under the guidelines of a new line of authority chart approved by the board.

The problem is where to find sufficient funding for the position.

School administrators Tuesday night feared the board would reduce the $50,000 set aside for nursing services in order to fund the future administrator's position.

After an explanation by Mills and clarification of the two areas by board members, it appears funding for the administrative position may come, in part, from several areas, including those funded through the levy. However, it is doubtful, since the nursing services have such a high priority with the district and several board members, that the nursing service area will be reduced in order to help fund the new administrative position.

In dealing with the nursing services, the board approved a budget amendment motion by Randy Shaw which will increase nursing services funding by $50,000. Mills will be able to hire additional nurses, subject to the $50,000 limit and depending on how current staff negotiations turn out.

Regarding the selection of a new administrator, also on a motion by Shaw, the board voted to have board president Bill Wiese select three board members to serve on a committee. The committee will aid Mills in coming up with ways to fund the position; develop a list of qualifications necessary for the position and aid in the screening process of applicants.

The board also voted to inform their attorney about recent actions concerning the loss in funding due to a clerical error in the Wayne County assessors office.

Through the error, the ESU's funding was reduced by about $7,000 over the expected revenues.

Recently, it has come to light that the county has an errors and omissions insurance policy written to cover up to $1 million for each claim submitted.

Mills told the board he has been in contact with Wayne-Carroll superintendent, Dr. Francis Haun, who said the district will be discussing the matter with the insurance carrier. The Natural Resource District is also investigating the possibility of receiving the lost revenue back through a claim against the county. Reportedly both the school district and the NRD have filed a demand with the insurance carrier.

Tuesday night, the board decided they should also file a demand with the carrier.

The question arose as to whether Haun had suggested a type of class action, for when all parties involved with the loss in revenues, Mills said he was not sure if that is what Haun proposed.

Board member Kenneth Olds, who is the attorney for the Wayne-Carroll school district, told the board a problem may arise dealing with the timing of the clerical error and the time the insurance policy was taken out.

Olds reported the policy was taken out sometime in March of this year and as yet, it has not been determined when the error was committed.

In other action Tuesday night, the board approved the monthly bills, which totalled $25,040, minus the cost of a Visualtek unit. The Visualtek is a machine that aids sight impaired students.

Currently the ESU has one such machine and has received the second but has not paid for the unit.

The question arose as to whether or not the Visualtek will be used by a student. It was ordered for use by a district for a student that has since enrolled in a special school. Administrators report however that the child is unhappy at the school and may return to the district.

With only a possibility to go on, the board voted not to pay the cost of the second unit, $2,200 and wait and see if the child returns to the school district.

The board also:

- Decided to wait until next month concerning a change in the procedure for making board policy.
- Received a report on the final cost and income for special education for the past year. The ESU collected about 97 percent of the total cost for the special education program. This is the highest amount the unit has ever received.
- Received a brief report from Gary Vopelensky on the work out of his office in regard to speech and hearing, inservice and bus drivers training.
- Approved a request for renewal of certificates for three years of successful teaching by Diane Lundquist, Kim Calvino and Carol Clark.
- Voted to go into executive session to discuss employee negotiations with the negotiating committee this month was held in Wayne. Prior to the meeting, the negotiating committee held a meeting.

A theft of T tops from a car was also investigated by the department on Friday along with two dog at large complaints and one of a bat in a house. The bat was removed and one of the dogs found.

Gunshots were reported to the department on Sept. 2. Officers responded but could find no one in the area.

Officers responded to a complaint of a loud party and told them to quiet down; a car was unlocked and youths tearing around a parking lot were advised to stop.

A couple of thefts were investigated by the department on Sept. 1. The first involved the theft of two watches and a tennis racket; the second, a theft of a wall hanging from a local business.

Following a complaint of a missing child, officers responded on Sept. 1 and found the child near home.

State land holdings are at issue

BY MELVIN PAUL
STATEHOUSE CORRESPONDENT
THE NEBRASKA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Probably a minority of Nebraskans are aware of it, but by virtue of their residence in Cornhusker State, they share in an enormously valuable inheritance left to them by the founders of the state.

When Nebraska achieved statehood in 1867, the new Constitution set aside nearly 3 million acres of land across the state to be managed for the benefit of public education.

More than a million acres were sold off between 1890 and 1910, and smaller land sales since then have reduced common land holdings to about 1.5 million, mostly agricultural land in the western half of the state.

Proceeds from those sales went into a permanent trust, which still generates interest for the 1,100 school districts in the state.

The state Board of Educational Lands and Funds, a five member panel appointed by the governor, administers remaining lands. The board has about 3,700 lease agreements, mainly with Nebraska farmers and ranchers.

Proceeds from the leases and the interest from the permanent trust raised an estimated $21 million for education last year.

With farm land values hovering near all-time highs and available, interest rates on investments close to double digits, there has been increasing interest among state officials lately in the possibility of selling the land and maintaining a permanent trust through a diversified investment portfolio.

Among those advocating liquidation of the land holdings recently were Sens. Howard Lamb of Anselmo and Chris Beutler of Lincoln, members of the Legislature's Education Committee.

The agreement is noteworthy because Lamb and Beutler bridge the rural-urban gap which has long divided state lawmakers, particularly on the issue of school funding.

Beutler says the sale of the lands could increase the money available to schools. Lamb argues additionally that selling the land would quell resentment among westerners that their land is being used to benefit urban school districts in the east. In addition, Lamb says the competitive bidding procedures of the board have turned neighbor against neighbor in many cases.

Reports from the west suggest that Beutler and Lamb would have plenty of support for land sales from farmers and ranchers. Leaseholders are planning to organize statewide to address problems they've had with the land board. Their recommended solutions to their problems could involve land sales.

Any push for large-scale land sales would meet with considerable opposition.

Not the least of that opposition could come from board members themselves, who would have to approve the sales. The consensus on the board seems to be against the sales.

At a recent hearing of the Legislature's Education Committee, Herb Schimek of the Nebraska State Education Association promised "violent opposition" to large scale sales. Schimek's organization of teachers was joined in its opposition by representatives of the Nebraska State School Boards Association.

Opposition to the land sale proposal came also from the editorial page of the Lincoln Journal.

"Be polite to the nice senators," the journal advised lands board members, "but show them the door."

"Tell them that when they permanently stop making dollar bills and start making additional acres, only then might you be interested."

Opponents have a powerful precedent in their favor. When the board sold lands at the turn of the century, it received about $24 million for the permanent trust fund. Current market value of those lands today is conservatively estimated to be $1 billion.

Seeking an answer

Over the past few months, the Educational Service Unit One's board has been reviewing the problem of payment of contracted services provided to school districts within the area the ESU serves.

This last school year, at least one school district, Crofton, decided to drop part of their contracted services in favor of providing the necessary services themselves.

The result was that expected contracted revenues for the ESU dropped well over $8,000.

In planning for each year, the ESU reviews the services requested by the districts, signs contracts with the districts and then hires sufficient staff members and purchases the necessary equipment to carry out their part of the bargain. Purchases and hiring are thus based on the declared needs and level of services of the school districts.

When Crofton dropped a section of their agreement, not only were the revenues lost to the ESU through payment, but the unit also ended up with extra staff time and materials.

In view of this situation, board members have been reviewing whether or not to go to court and litigate the question of whether or not the districts have a right to withdraw from an agreement or whether they will be held accountable for breach of contract.

The answer to that question could have far reaching impact in the years to come, for both of the financially squeezed educational providers.

Although officials from the Crofton district may resent the petition filed in District Court of Knox County, it is also in their best interests, not only the ESU's, to have the matter litigated in order that an answer be found to the question so that both educational bodies can then get on with the business of educating the youth of Northeast Nebraska.

Farm safety is a continuing struggle

by M.M. Van Kirk
Nebraska Farm Bureau

It is a continuing struggle but farm accident statistics indicate that farm safety programs over the past 25 years have yielded great dividends in lives saved and prevention of crippling injuries.

National Farm Safety Week dates this year have been changed from their traditional 4th week in July to the third full week in September, with the 1982 observance scheduled for Sept. 19-25. Farm Safety Council members have pointed out that the accident potential during the fall harvest is greater than during the haying period which related to the July dates. Also that 4-H and vocational agriculture youth will have more input as a result of the September dates.

A recent release from Rollin Schnieder, University of Nebraska Extension Safety specialist who is widely known to farmers and ranchers throughout Nebraska for more than 20 years of traveling, demonstrating and dramatizing farm safety techniques and attitudes, noted that up to that time there had been only 8 farm-accident fatalities as compared to 23 by the same time in 1981. He pointed out that Nebraska has the basis for one of the lowest farm fatality rates in many years, dependent on how well farmers and ranchers protect themselves, their family members and employees during the fall harvest period.

University of Nebraska specialists like Schnieder have performed invaluable service in testing new equipment and investigating the contributing factors in hundreds of farm accidents which have produced fatalities and injuries. In turn they have provided information and warnings which have helped prevent repetitions of accident circumstances.

Protective caps and roll-over structures have performed wonders in reducing the number of lives lost in tractor overturns. Each new piece of equipment seems invariably to bring an increase in accidents and the need for instruction and counter measures. For example, the popularity of the new large round bale equipment for hay making saw a surge of accidents related to that equipment.

Schnieder has been warning farmers and ranchers about the number of accidents related to use of nylon rope for towing and other emergency purposes. It isn't that the rope breaks, but that it is so strong that hooks and attachments pull loose and release a killing backlash of compressed power that has taken many lives.

The change from cornpickers over to combines for the fall corn harvest has reduced what was once an annual fall carnage of deaths and dismemberments among cornpicker operators. Some of that high accident rate was attributable to equipment that was engineered with very little consideration for safety factors. The displays of some of the first cornpickers, that one can observe at Pioneer Village at Minden with their unshielded, open chains and sprockets on mountings just behind the tractor operator's seat will make one wonder how any of those cornpicker operators in the late 1940's and early 1950's ever got through a fall harvest season.

Schnieder points out that while great improvements are constantly being made in safety-engineered equipment, there remains the old problem of the operator who tries to unplug the equipment while it is running or takes a protective shield off and doesn't replace it. These are people problems and unfortunately fatalities have remained pretty constant in those areas.

Any time is a good time for each farm and ranch family to establish and enforce its own common sense safety program. Attention to the little things is what counts. Safe handling and storage of fuels and pesticides, keeping extra riders off tractors and implements, maintaining protective shields in place, and enforcing rules about keeping children from danger areas would do wonders as starters.

Back to school for youths

The return to school of Nebraska's youth serves as a reminder that a representative's constituency includes a sizeable segment of persons who are unable to vote because they are not yet 18 years old. In the First District alone, last year's school population in grades 10 through 12 was approximately 24,000.

These individuals, and those still younger, are just as much entitled to representation as persons who are qualified to vote. There is also an implied responsibility to encourage youth to take an active interest in government and become part of the democratic processes that are the foundations of our society.

To that end, I have committed myself and the resources of my office to three projects for high school-aged youth in the First Congressional District.

CLOSE UP
In a joint statement last Friday, Nebraska Commissioner of Education Dr. Anne Campbell and I announced a pilot program that will involve Nebraska in Close Up, an educational experience for students and teachers that annually provides a first-hand look at the federal government.

Twenty schools, 13 of them from the First District, will send approximately 100 students to Washington the week of April 24 for a series of seminars and workshops in association with members of Congress, representatives of the news media, Administration officials, and other policy and thought leaders.

Through my office, the impetus began to involve Nebraska in Close Up, the 43rd state to do so. The Nebraska Department of Education will coordinate and administer the state's participation.

It has been my good fortune to have been asked in previous years to conduct Close Up sessions for groups from other states and the experience I have had make me an enthusiastic supporter of this program.

YOUTH INSTITUTE
On Monday, November 8, I will again sponsor a youth institute for approximately 400 First District students and teachers at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The format will be much the same as last year's institute. That first institute featured a variety of speakers who discussed national issues in a pro-con format for 30 minutes and then interacted with student audience for the final half of each session.

Through the day, each student may attend as many as three of the one hour mini-sessions as well as two general sessions. Last year's student delegates from more than 90 of the district's 120-plus high schools were enthusiastic participants. Their enthusiasm was matched only by that of the speakers, who each donated their time and travel expenses to take part, a demonstration of their commitment to youth.

I hope that First District youth, by discussing issues, will become more aware of the complexities of the questions facing this nation, and that they will become enthusiastic participants in the world in which they live.

SCHOOL APPEARANCES
Since I took office in January, 1979, I have spoken to government classes and student assemblies in more than 40 of the district's high schools. Last week, I visited with students in a government class at Wilber High School.

Most of the visit is spent in a question and answer period. Students are encouraged to ask about subjects pertaining to the federal government and to comment on national issues. Student groups are not shy about asking questions.

Nebraskans may live a half continent away from the seat of their federal government. But through programs such as these, three, I hope to stimulate students to be active citizens, not bystanders to history.

To the Editor:

At the time of Alan's death, it was truly amazing how many friends, neighbors and relatives came to the aid of our family with visits, food, cards, flowers, calls, memorials and other acts of kindness.

It is ironic how others don't respect the dead and the feelings of the family.

The lovely heart floral arrangement the grandchildren had gotten for their grandpa Alan was broken off it's stand at the cemetery and run over with a car or vehicle the day after Alan was buried.

It is sad these acts, the stealing of grave flowers, the littering and vandalism that continues to grow in our cemeteries. These flowers are put on the graves as an act of love and respect by their families and friends.

Dear Editor:
I was privileged to see the play, "The Music Man" at Ramsey Theatre on Sunday afternoon. I had also seen "My Fair Lady" last year and was very impressed by both performances. I saw "Annie" in Omaha this summer and I enjoyed the "Music Man" much more. I could hear the children so much better in the "Music Man" than I could in "Annie". My sincere compliments to all of those that took part. Congratulations.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH, located northwest of Wakefield, will observe its centennial during a special morning worship service and afternoon program on Sunday, Sept. 12.

Immanuel Lutheran Church observing centennial Sunday

Members of Immanuel Lutheran Church, located northwest of Wakefield, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the church on Sunday, Sept. 12.

Festivities will begin with a 10:30 a.m. worship service.

Serving as liturgist for the service will be the Rev. Ronald Holling, pastor at St. John's Lutheran Church, Wakefield, and vacancy pastor at Immanuel.

The sermon will be delivered by Professor Roland Hopmann, Dean of Administration and Director of Placement for Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

Professor Hopmann is no stranger to the area. The son of the Rev. Herman and Selma Hopmann, he was born in Lovell, Wyo. in 1922.

At the age of three, he moved with his family to Wayne, where his father founded Grace Lutheran Church. The family resided in Wayne from 1925 to 1936.

In 1947, Roland was graduated from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis. He has taught at St. John's College, Winfield, Kan., and St. Paul's College, Concordia, Mo.

In addition to his teaching experience, he has served churches in South Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.

In 1974 he was called to Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, where he serves to the present time.

Following the centennial service, a noon meal will be catered by the Douglas K. of Norfolk. Afterward, members and friends of the congregation will share memories of the past 100 years.

Such reminiscing will be highlighted during a service at 2:30 p.m. During the informal afternoon service, Merle Roeder, congregation chairman, will read portions of "unforgettable moments at Immanuel," as written by members and former pastors.

Delivering the afternoon address will be Dr. Eldor Meyer, President of the Nebraska District of the Missouri Synod.

Immanuel Lutheran Church was founded by the Rev. W. G. Bullinger of Martinsburg, who happened upon some men working by the side of the road while he was traveling to Alfonsa.

Noticing that the men spoke German, he inquired about their religious affiliation. Most of them were Lutherans, having come from Washington County where they had been members of the Lutheran Church east of Hooper.

Before leaving the men, Pastor Bullinger arranged for services to be held on that very spot the following Sunday.

That designated spot is the present location of Immanuel.

Immanuel's oldest member, Christine Weiershauser, 97, recalls the times when lumber wagons traveled from place to place to gather members for the service.

"We sang songs and listened to God's word on that hill in the shade of the wagon used to pick us up," remembers Mrs. Weiershauser.

On Nov. 24, 1882, the congregation was organized and named. Church meetings took place in homes and school buildings where the weather would not permit an outside meeting.

In 1884, it was decided to construct a preper place of worship. That same year, the Rev. H. Wehking was called and installed as the first pastor.

Henry Hinnerichs, Karl Krakow and William Wolter served as first elders. Other charter members were Christoph Hinnerichs, William Hinnerichs, Henry Meyer Sr., John Luth and John Hirschert.

In 1886, the congregation joined the Missouri synod.

In 1898, the present house of worship was constructed while the original church was moved and converted to a parochial school.

The present parsonage was built in 1910, and in 1917 the present organ was installed at a cost of $2,900.

Pastors who have served Immanuel include the Rev. H. Wehking, C. A. Gutknecht, E. Gehrke, F. C. Doctor, T. H. Buehner and A. W. Gode.

During the history of Immanuel, Pastors Kruse, Samuel Meske and Ronald Holling have served in a vacancy capacity.

In 1979, the congregation began a vicarage program which continues to the present time.

Verl Gunter served during the 1979-80 school year; Mike Teuscher the 1980-81 school year; Lloyd Redhage the 1981-82 school year; and David Bowley at the present time.

During its 100 years of existence, Immanuel has recorded 754 baptisms, 602 confirmations, 189 marriages and laid 223 souls to rest.

ROD NIXON (40) of Wakefield sprints around the right end for a good gain as Winside's Scott Janke (75) chases. Other players are Brian Soderberg (12), Don Broekemeier (64) and Paul Schopke (70).

Trojans show last year's form in win over Cats

A few questions about the Wakefield football team were answered Friday night as the host Trojans rolled to an impressive 19-0 win over Winside.

lewis & clark

Wakefield had to replace the offensive line from last year's Lewis & Clark Conference East Division championship like veterans, leading the Trojans to 180 yards on the ground. The defensive line also played an excellent ball game, holding Winside to 42 yards rushing.

Sophomore quarterback Brian Soderberg did a good job of filling the shoes of graduate Mark Starzl. Soderberg looked smooth in his first outing, completing all four passes and adding 22 yards on the ground.

Trojan standout Rod Nixon played a typically fine ball game for Wakefield. The senior carried the ball 20 times for 124 yards, scored all three touchdowns, intercepted two passes and made five tackles.

Winside's first year coach Mark Freburg saw some good things in his team's first outing and also saw some problems that need to be ironed out.

"Our defense played well but our offense wasn't at full speed. They had a couple of big plays," Freburg said. "Our technique was poor and their defensive line beat our offensive line. Wakefield has a good team and Nixon is quick. We'll have to be more aggressive next week."

Other bad news for the Wildcats was the injury of Jeff Behmer. The senior wingback suffered a broken collarbone in Friday's game.

"I was scared coming into this game," said Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur. "Take away the interceptions and the ball game was pretty even. Our line blocked well. Winside gave us some problems but the line did a real good job. Our assistant coaches had the line prepared."

Wakefield breezed through Friday's win with no injuries. However, Wayne Guy is still recuperating from knee surgery and won't play football until a knee brace arrives from New York.

The first Trojan touchdown was scored on a quick pitch from Soderberg to Nixon with 36 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

Nixon swept around the right side on a 10 yard run and then added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

The second TD capped a 44 yard drive. Soderberg, Mike Clay and Nixon shared running duties on the drive. On a third and 10 play, Clay came up just an inch short of the first down. Soderberg sneaked the ball for a five yard gain to set up a first and goal at the Winside eight yard line.

Two plays later, Soderberg pitched to Nixon for a seven yard touchdown run. A hard rush by Scott Janke, Terry Haller and Kyle Miller resulted in a blocked PAT attempt holding Wakefield's lead to 13-0.

The lead held up until the third quarter when Nixon broke free on a draw play for a 51 yard touchdown run with 8:44 to play in the period. The play was set up on a 20 yard pass from Soderberg to Jeff Coble.

The Trojans finished the game deep in Winside territory. Troy Greve intercepted a pass at Winside's 27 yard line and a pass from Soderberg to Coble moved the ball to the 12. From there, Wakefield kept the ball on the ground until time ran out.

Winside's defense held on two other occasions deep in its own territory. One series earlier the Wildcats took over at their own 13. Wakefield had moved the ball behind a Coble reception and Nixon run. The defense stiffened and a motion penalty slowed the Trojans' offense some.

Brian Bowers and Janke put pressure on the Wakefield back and John Hawkins broke through the line on third down for a quarterback sack. The possession came to an end when Greve was stopped a foot short of the first down on a fourth down completion.

On the game's first series, Nixon intercepted a Winside pass. The Trojans behind a pass interference call, moved the ball to the Winside one-yard line. The Wildcats used a fine goal-line stance and then Janke blocked an attempted field goal to end Wakefield's scoring hopes.

Winside's best drive came in the third quarter when the Wildcats decided to open up their passing game. A clipping penalty set the Cats back at their own six-yard line following a Wakefield kickoff.

Quarterback Jon Meierhenry passed to Bowers for a gain to the 37 yard line. Behmer then ran under a pass lofted by Meierhenry and moved the ball to the Trojan 33.

With Winside on the move, Soderberg nabbed a pass at the Wakefield 26 yard line to end the drive. The Wildcats nearly put some points on the board in the second quarter when Hawkins broke free for an 18 yard gain from scrimmage.

Bowers had returned Wakefield's kickoff 30 yards to the Winside 49. Then, Hawkins cut loose and had only two tacklers between him and a touchdown. A fine tackle stopped him and Winside's drive was stopped four plays later when a fourth down situation failed.

Overall, I was quite pleased. Winside has a good team and mistakes took them out of field position. We have quick kids back there on the defensive backfield," Wilbur said.

Coble and Greve made super catches and Soderberg did a super job of handling the quarterback job. He's a cool, talented sophomore. And Mark Borg, Jonathan Stelling and Kenneth Meyer gave them fits all night.

Offensively, Nixon rushed for 124 yards. Clay gained 36 and Soderberg added 22. Coble had three receptions for 46 yards and Greve had one for 70. For Winside, Hawkins carried the ball 12 times for 41 yards.

Leading tacklers for the Trojans were Soderberg with seven, Meyer and Clay with six each, Nixon and Stelling with five apiece and Borg and Mike Muller with four each.

Wakefield is scheduled to play at Allen tomorrow (Friday) and Winside will host Osmond.

Allen wins season opener

Rod Bubke's debut as head football coach at Allen High School was a happy one as the Eagles rode a strong first half showing to down Wynot 20-8 Friday night in Allen.

lewis & clark

Running back Jeff Chase, a 5-8, 135-pound senior, exploded for touchdown runs of 40 yards and 35 yards to lead Allen's offensive effort. He finished with 191 yards on 17 carries.

The other Eagle touchdown was scored on a four yard run by Kirk Hansen. Those three "Os" and a two point conversion by quarterback Shawn Mahler rounded out Allen's scoring.

The Eagles' 20-8 half-time lead held up until the final quarter when Wynot scored its only touchdown on a 33-yard pass from Bob Praman to Lindsay Brummer.

The hosts racked up 262 yards on the ground and added another 37 yards in the air to bring their total just shy of the 300-yard mark. The Eagles' defense allowed only 94 yards in the game.

We got off to a good start and executed real well in the first half. In the second half we had a little letdown and penalties cost us. Bubke said, "Our defense played well the whole game. We'll go after win number two against a tougher opponent," he added referring to Friday's home game against Wakefield.

Chase's outstanding performance was complemented by Hansen and Shawn Mahler. Hansen carried the ball 17 times for 56 yards and Mahler rushed 18 times for 49 yards.

The one area of play with which Bubke was not pleased was penalties. Allen committed 14 penalties resulting in a loss of 135 yards. The punting game also needs improvement. Wynot blocked one Allen punt and the other three lacked good distance.

Defensively, Hansen and Joey Mahler each intercepted one Wynot pass. Chase recovered the opponent's only fumble. Leading tacklers were Keith Karberg with eight, Dan Nice with seven, Robby Ridgeway with six and Mike Rhodman with six.

"Overall, I am pleased. It was a good start. We went out and got the win," said Bubke.

Early mistakes lead to Laurel's downfall

A few mistakes proved costly as the Laurel Bears spotted Randolph a 21-0 lead and couldn't regain the lost ground, Friday night. Randolph won the game 27-6.

Laurel attempted a bomb on its first play on the next play, the Bears turned the ball over. Randolph took advantage of the break and scored its first touchdown.

The Bears were forced to punt on their next possession and Randolph drove to a touchdown on that series for a 14-0 lead. Another TD in the second quarter gave the hosts a 21-0 lead at the half.

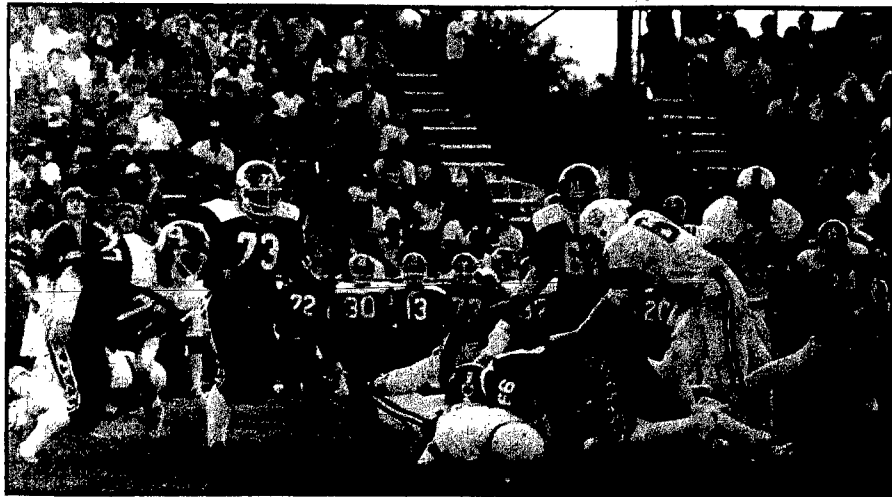

"You can't give a team 21 points in the first half and expect to win," Laurel coach Kurt Buckwalter said. "We had really good fan support and we'll win this week."

Laurel totaled 92 yards passing with 11 completions in 24 attempts. Two passes were intercepted. Leading rusher was Dennis Hart with 30 yards on only three carries. Buckwalter said Shane Heydon and Mike Detrich played outstanding games at the defensive end positions.

The Bears scored their only touchdown on a three-yard run by Mark Hermann in the final minute. After giving up the three first half TDs, Laurel held Randolph scoreless until the Cardinals scored in the final two minutes of the game.

THE BLUE DEVILS CRUNCH SOUTH SIOUX CITY ON THIS PLAY. Photograph: Bill Carlson

Blue Devils are downed in debut

Two long runs from scrimmage proved to be the decisive plays as Class B's largest school, South Sioux City, tripped Wayne 15-0 Friday in the season opener at South Sioux.

Cardinal fullback Derek Koster broke runs of 59 and 55 yards to give the hosts the edge in an otherwise hard-nosed defensive battle. He finished with 201 yards on 21 carries.

South Sioux scored one touchdown when Wayne's defender let down on a pass in a fourth down and 23 situation. The other TD came on an interception.

Take away those four big plays and the ball game was extremely close. At one time in the second quarter, the Blue Devils marched 79 yards in 19 plays before the drive was stopped at the Cardinals' one-yard line. Wayne's goal-line defense held up in a similar situation and the Blue Devils forced South Sioux to kick a second quarter field goal.

"It was a real close ball game. We have to keep our momentum going," said Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt looking toward tomorrow's (Friday's) home opener against Schuyler. "Schuyler isn't as big as South Sioux and we're looking forward to the game." The Warriors defeated Central City 20-14 last Friday.

South Sioux City led 3-0 at the half of Friday's Class B contest. The hosts scored one touchdown in the third period and another in the fourth. Both teams are paired in the same Class B district this year.

Wayne was held to 105 yards in 41 carries and added another 51 yards in the air while South Sioux had 188 yards on the ground and 39 yards passing. Team team made nine first downs.

Shaun Niemann started the game at quarterback and played throughout most of the contest. He finished with 27 yards rushing in seven carries and completed three of seven passes with two interceptions. Brad Moore was reserve quarterback.

Steve Overin, expected to be Wayne's starting quarterback, missed Friday's game when it was learned he had a ruptured vertebrae in his lower spine. Dennis Lebeck, another backup quarterback and receiver, missed the game with an injured knee. Both players are expected to return to the lineup next week.

Kurt Janke carried the ball 10 times for 30 yards and Niemann had seven carries for 27 yards to lead the Blue Devils. Dan Frevert, Kevin Koenig and Jeff McCright added 16 yards apiece.

Wayne's only receiver was Terry Gilliland with three catches for 51 yards.

The defensive charts showed Koenig with four solo tackles and 11 assists. Tim Heier had four solos and six assists, Bob Liska had three solos, seven assists and a fumble recovery. McCright had two solos and seven assists and Mark Kubik had one solo and eight assists.

The Blue Devils will open their home stand at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) at Wayne State Memorial Field against Central Ten foe Schuyler.

Wakefield tops Winside girls in final match

A strong serving game helped the Wakefield Trojans open their volleyball season with a 15-2, 15-5 triumph over Winside in Lewis & Clark Conference action Thursday night.

Renee Wenstrand served the first seven points of the game to give the hosts a big lead. After Patti Langenberg scored the next two service points for Winside, Wakefield's Michele Meyer continued Wenstrand's torrid pace to give the Trojans the decision in the first game.

Winside had trouble setting the ball up and let several serves fall to the floor untouched.

Winside started out in a 2-2 deadlock in the second game but the hosts rallied to pull away. Shelley Krusemark scored five consecutive points as Wakefield opened up a 7-2 edge.

"I thought we played well for our first match. The girls showed a lot of poise," Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder said.

Winside coach Marie Dougherty felt lack of experience played a role in her team's loss. "Our lack of experience makes a difference. We picked up a little in the second game," she said. "I expected our serving to be strong but it wasn't too good. Wakefield has some strong spikers and is taller.

Langenberg, Lori Schrant and Missy Jensen each scored two points in the match for the Wildcats. Wenstrand, Meyer and Krusemark led the winners.

Wakefield hit 17 good spikes out of 21 attempts and connected on 35 of 37 serves for 94 percent success. Krusemark and Brenda Jones each had three spikes while Wenstrand and Kelly Greve added two apiece. Lana Erb had three ace sets and Cristy Hingst added two.

In B team action, Winside defeated Wakefield 6-11, 11-8, 11-6.

For the winners, Susie Peterson scored five points and Tammy Brudigan scored four in the second game. In the final game, Peterson scored four and Kerri Leighton added three.

Wakefield was led by Carl Johnson with five points in the first game and Kelly Barker with six in the second.

The freshman match was won 11-2, 8-11, 11-4 by Wakefield. The winners were paced by Susan Thompson with six points in the first game and Jodi Ellis with seven in the second. For Winside, Julie Warnemunde and Kerri Leighton each had three points.

Wakefield is scheduled to compete Monday and Tuesday in the Winside Invitational. Prior to hosting its tournament, Winside will entertain Osmond tomorrow (Friday) in a volleyball/football double header.

Chadron in town Saturday

The Wayne State College football players will finally get to hit someone other than each other this Saturday when they open their 1982 season in Memorial Stadium at 1:30 p.m. against cross-state rival, Chadron State.

The Eagles already have an advantage, having played one game already. Last Saturday, a strong aerial game carried them past highly-regarded South Dakota Tech, 21-0. Like Chadron, the Miners had received honorable mention recognition in the NAIA Division II pre-season poll.

Sophomore quarterback Todd Hedlund, making his first collegiate start, passed for 214 yards and one touchdown while completing 19 of 27 aerials to pace the Eagle offense. Hedlund will battle 1981 All-District II senior Scott Wickard for the starting assignment in Saturday's game.

Last year, Wickard led all state college quarterbacks by throwing for 1,958 yards and 13 touchdowns. Wickard was held out of last week's contest while recuperating from an injury.

The Eagles are being led by a new head coach in 1982. He's Gary Richardson, a former defensive line coach at Western State College in Gunnison, Colo. Prior to his stint at Western State, Richardson was a successful high school coach in Colorado. In 1978 he was named the Colorado AAA coach-of-the-year while leading Montross High School to the state championship game.

Wayne State head coach Del Stollenberg enters his 14th year at the helm of the Wildcat football fortunes. He brings a career record of 60-62-5 into Saturday's game. Chadron leads the series, having won 29 of the 55 meetings of the two schools, with one tie.

Blohm and Schwartz appointed Wayne State baseball coaches

A pair of former Wayne State College baseball stars, Neil Blohm and Bill Schwartz, have been appointed co-coaches for the 1982 Wildcat baseball team, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, WSC president.

Their appointments are effective immediately, and last through the end of baseball season. The new co-coaches began fall workouts for Wayne State baseball hopefuls just hours after their appointment.

The two have been playing baseball together for five years, one year as Wayne State teammates, and the last four years as members of town teams from Harlington to Wayne.

Blohm, 26, is a native of Allen now living in Concord. A 1980 WSC graduate in physical education, he and wife Diane have one son, Michael.

Blohm was a three-year letterman for the Cats as an outfielder and first baseman, earning honors from the NAIA District II his senior season. He was assistant coach at WSC during the 1979 season.

Schwartz, 26, is a Wayne native. He and wife Judy are expecting their first child soon. Bill plans to complete work on a degree in industrial technology in December.

The owner of numerous WSC baseball records, Schwartz earned all-conference, All-District II (NAIA) and NAIA All-American praise during his playing career, which ended just last spring.

Blohm said, "I look at this as a great opportunity for myself. I plan on going into coaching any time you are at the head of a good program like Wayne State's, it will make things that much easier."

Schwartz said of the opportunity to coach his former teammates, "They realize that for them to be a good team, they have to respect the people in charge. I will get a lot of help from the seniors, and they will in turn help the younger guys."

Ron Jones, Wayne State's athletic director and the man Schwartz and Blohm are succeeding, said, "I feel very fortunate to have two quality young men like this on our staff. One nice thing is that it's not a complete philosophical and theoretical change for the program. That is important — we won't have to learn a new system."

Emerson upset

Laurel wins tourney

The surprising Laurel Bears upset favored Emerson-Hubbard Saturday to win the Pender Tournament.

Laurel dropped Homer 15-1, 15-10 Thursday in first round action. The Bears then came back to defeat Pender 15-9, 9-15, 15-8 in Saturday's semifinals and Emerson 15-11, 15-11 to win the top trophy.

Spiker Renee Gadeken had other commitments on Saturday and missed those two matches. "I told everyone they had to work a little harder since Renee was gone," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson.

"I'm proud of our seniors. Everyone contributed a little and that's all it took. Jana Cunningham, Patsy Thompson, Kim Sherry and Sandy McCorkindale all played important roles," Iverson said.

Against Homer, Gadeken scored 10 points and Carol Osborne scored nine. Gadeken and Cam Crookshank each had four spikes.

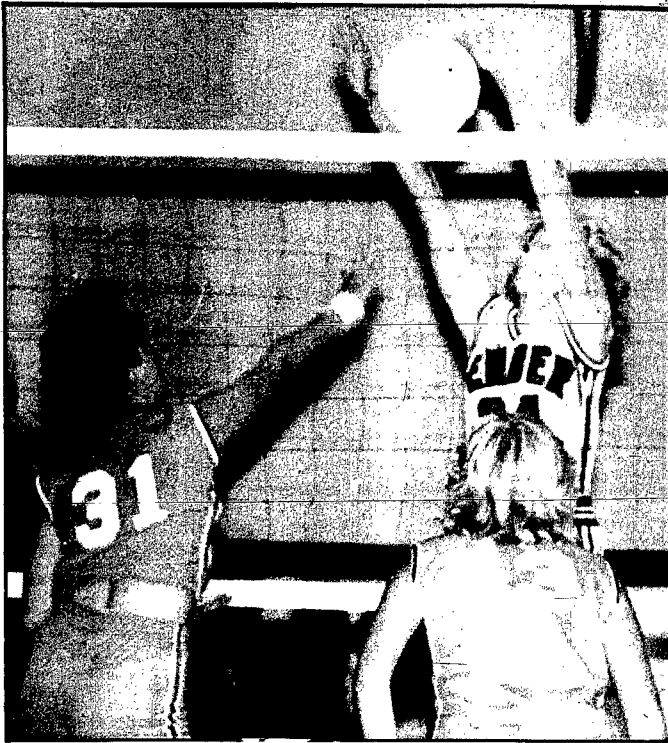

In the win over Pender, Laurel won the first game 15-9 and lost the second 9-15. The Bears jumped out in front 7-0 in the final set and held on for the win.

Leading scorers were Jean Lute with 15 points and Jana Cunningham with nine. Carol Osborne was top setter with 25 good sets in 25 tries. Lute led the spiking chart with 12 of 15 spikes.

"Jean was the key to the whole tourney. She played real well," said Iverson.

Lute scored seven points and Crookshank scored six in the win over Emerson. Osborne made 23 good sets in 23 attempts and Lute was 11-for-13 in spiking.

Laurel is scheduled to meet Wakefield at 8 p.m. Monday in the Winside Invitational.

Kovar names varsity

Kovar is pleased with the performance of his team in practice so far, noting that there have been a few surprises from several of the players. "Some of the younger players have been performing well so far, and they have to, because they will be seeing a lot of playing time due to the small number of upperclassmen on the team," Kovar said.

Wayne State will be hosting Midland, Briar Cliff and the College of St. Mary Friday (Sept. 10) with action set to begin at 5 p.m. Admission to all home WSC volleyball games is free.

WSC plans race, fun run

Wayne State College, in cooperation with the Wayne Distributing Co., has scheduled "The Extra Light Run," a 10-kilometer (6.2 mile) race and a two-mile fun run for Saturday, Oct. 2 in Wayne.

Kurt Czupryn, WSC athletic trainer and coordinator of the event, said the race and run will start and finish at the Wayne Distributing Co. on East Highway 35 in Wayne. The course includes three miles of country roads, two miles of highway, and a mile of Wayne streets.

Several awards will be given to participants. All will receive T-shirts which trophies will be awarded to first-place finishers in each of eight race divisions. The first-place men's and women's race finishers will receive duflle bags, while second and third place participants will receive medals.

All participants will be eligible for door prizes as well. Czupryn notes that no changing or shower facilities are available at Wayne Distributing, so competitors should arrive prepared to run. Out-of-town competitors may use Wayne State College facilities for post-race showers.

Age divisions for both men and women are 18 and under; 19-29; 30-39; and 40 and over.

Entry forms are available from Czupryn at Wayne State College, the Wayne Distributing Co., the Sioux City YMCA, the Norfolk YMCA and from the Elkhorn Valley Striders in Norfolk.

For further information, contact Czupryn at Wayne State by calling (402) 375-2200, ext. 310 or 301.

Blue Devils finish fourth

For the first time ever, the Wayne volleyball team failed to place second or third in the Beemer Invitational. The Blue Devils had to settle for fourth place Saturday with a couple of tough losses.

Wayne defeated Macy 15-2, 15-7 Thursday in first round action but ran into a buzz saw Saturday as host Beemer turned back the locals 13-15, 15-12, 15-12 in an extremely close match. In the consolation round, Wayne lost 8-15, 5-15 to Dodge.

"I think we had a good tournament in our first two matches. Beemer was a good team and we were deflated after the loss," coach Mavis Dalton said. "We seemed to lose some of our incentive and momentum."

Leading server for the Blue Devils in the tournament was Pam Nissen with 24 points and eight ace serves. Missy Stoltenberg scored 21 points. Tamie Murray was leading setter with 114 good sets. At the net, Stoltenberg had 37 spikes and 10 aces and Deb Prenger had 21 spikes with 11 aces.

The Blue Devils are scheduled to play Schuyler at 2 p.m. Saturday in the North Bend Invitational. The two teams met Tuesday night in Schuyler.

Laurel is upset by Wausa

After opening the season with a tournament championship, the Laurel volleyball team was shocked as Wausa upset the Bears 15-4, 15-10 Tuesday night in Laurel.

"We hadn't come down from the tournament yet," said Laurel coach Dwight Iverson. "We were overconfident and still riding high from the tourney."

Iverson said his team regained its form in the second set but suffered a mental lapse to start the third set. The Bears fell behind 2-12 in the final game but put together a strong rally. "The girls started to play real well and didn't quit. We just started the rally too late."

The Bears were led in scoring by Renee Gadeken with 10 service points and Jean Lute with nine. Carol Osborne had 30 good sets in 33 at temps. At the net, Gadeken was 13 of 16 and Lute was 15 of 20 in spiking.

Laurel won the junior varsity match 9-15, 15-11, 15-11. Renee Venderheiden scored 12 points to lead the winners. The Bears also won the freshman match 15-3, 15-12. Donna Sherry and Lynn Malchow each scored nine points.

Trojans surprise Emerson

Wakefield's volleyball team passed its second challenge of the season Tuesday night as the Trojans knocked off perennial power Emerson Hubbard 15-11, 15-12 in the Wakefield High School gym.

The winners held a 14-5 lead in the second game and held off an Emerson rally to post the victory. "Both teams were real tight in the first game. Neither team played as well as it could," said Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder.

As a team, the Trojans hit 49 of 54 serves for 91 percent. Renee Wenstrand was 11 for 11. Lana Erb was 10 for 10. Michele Meyer was 16 for 19 and Brenda Jones was 5 for 5.

In spiking, Shelly Krusemark was 7 for 9 with two aces, Kelly Greve was 4 for 10 with two aces, and Brenda Jones was 2 for 3 with one ace. Erb was leading setter with a 9 for 11 performance and four sets for aces. Crissy Hingsl was 6 for 6 with two sets for aces.

The Trojans are scheduled to face Laurel at 8 p.m. Monday in the Winside Invitational.

Wakefield lost the junior varsity match 4-11, 4-11 and the freshman match 11-3, 9-11, 8-11. "The young players are coming along," Schroeder said.

Allen loses in tourney

The Allen Eagles suffered losses in their first two volleyball outings in the Pender Invitational. On Thursday, Allen lost 6-15, 15-9, 0-15 to Emerson Hubbard in first round play. The second loss came 15-8, 10-15, 7-15 to Bancroft Rosalie in the consolation round on Saturday.

The Eagles had a serving percentage of only 75 percent good serves in the first match. At the net, Michelle Harder had five ace spikes. Machelle Petit was leading server with six points and Tami Jewell and Pam Kavanaugh each added four points.

Serving also was a downfall in the loss to Bancroft. Jewell led the team with 13 points and served pretty well. As a team however, the Eagles hit only 80 percent of their serves. The leader at the net was Harder with 13 good spikes and three aces.

"Serving is plaguing us. We're having trouble getting the ball into play," said Allen coach Gary Troth. "We set the ball real well and that's usually a harder part of the game. We need to improve our consistency. Sometimes we make good passes but the two aces which need the most work. Our floor play is good at times. Our people are young and still learning to play varsity ball. We're not too disappointed."

Allen is scheduled to play at Ponca Tuesday and host Emerson-Hubbard on Thursday.

Wayne rebounds with win

Tuesday's volleyball match between Wayne and Schuyler was a confidence builder for the Blue Devils. Wayne won the varsity match 15-13, 15-9.

"The varsity looked super," said Wayne coach Mavis Dalton. "I think we have our confidence back now. The girls believe in themselves."

Tamie Murray led the winners in serving with seven points. Leading spikers were Missy Stoltenberg with 11 spikes including seven aces and Deb Prenger with 11 spikes and five aces. Murray made 35 good sets for a 97 percent success rate.

Dalton also credited Pam Nissen with an "excellent floor game" in the center back position. The Blue Devils are scheduled to play Schuyler again at 2 p.m. Saturday in the North Bend Invitational.

In junior varsity action, Wayne lost 3-15, 2-15. Dalton said her players hadn't practiced as a team much and that hurt. She said she expects them to improve with experience. Paula Koplin was leading server with three points.

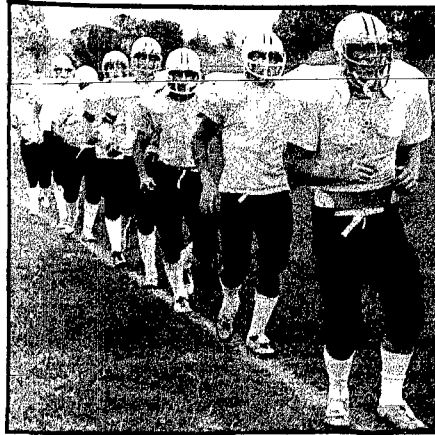

The freshman match was won 15-3, 13-15, 15-0 by Schuyler. Judy Brodersen led Wayne with seven points and Sonja Skokan had a good floor game.

Labor Day Texas scramble winners are announced

The team of Ron Dalton, Duane Blomkamp, Lee Remer and Cap Peterson won the four man Texas scramble Monday at the Wayne Country Club with a net score of 57.5.

Second place resulted in a tie at 58 between Jay O'Leary, Brad Weber, Scott Blaker and Chris Gahan and the team of Jay Stoltenberg, Si Prather, Bob Bornholt and John Melera.

In fourth place was Jim Lindau, Bob Reeg, Jim Marsh and Grant Ellington at 59. The team of Bill McQuistan, Marv Kubik, Harold Schroeder and Randy Simonsen was fifth with a 60.

THE WILDCATS work out. Wayne Herald Photography

Wildcats prepare for season opener

A healthy line-up and good ball control are two of the foremost concerns in the mind of Wayne State head football coach Del Stoltenberg as his team completed the final week of pre-season practice.

The Wildcats will square off against cross-state rival Chadron State in the season opener on Saturday (Sept. 11) at 1:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

"The success of our season will rely on our ability to stay healthy, controlling the number of turnovers on offense and forcing more turnovers on defense to give us more time with the ball," Stoltenberg said.

The Wildcats' practices are on schedule so far, according to Stoltenberg, and he and his coaching staff have been able to install both the offense and defense as planned. "We are at the same place as most teams are at this point," Stoltenberg said. "The offense still needs some time to polish up areas, get their timing down and go through the repetition of plays." He added that the same factors apply to the defensive unit, only to a lesser degree, because of the number of returning players.

There were a number of injuries which hampered the past week of practice, but the situation is not serious and no one is expected to miss the opener, according to athletic trainer Kurt Czupryn.

"The whole first unit really didn't get a chance to play together because of minor injuries," Czupryn said. "They should be healed up and ready to go" by next week.

Middle guard Mark Walker (Mouille, Iowa) is suffering from an ankle injury, while defensive back Kirk Neustram (Mouille) is hampered with a leg contusion. Kirk Schroeder (Wynot), defensive end, is nursing a sprained knee, and defensive back Kurt Brosamle (Mouille) suffered a sprained back during a practice session.

Defensive end Kevin McArdle (Omaha) suffered a strained thigh muscle and defensive back Greg Carr (Allen) strained a shoulder, but both are making steady improvement, Czupryn said.

Hailed out

HAIL LAST Wednesday morning did extensive damage to crops in certain areas of Wayne County. More than 20,000 acres of corn grain were hit and it suffered 25 percent damage. Nearly 11,000 acres of soybeans were struck by hail and suffered 50 percent damage. Corn silage received about 40 percent damage according to the Wayne County Emergency Board.

Wheat signup is scheduled Oct. 1

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said that because of legislation proposed by Congress in the Omnibus Reconciliation Act, he has rescheduled the signup period for the 1983 wheat program to begin Oct. 1 instead of Sept. 7. It will continue through March 31.

Spring and winter wheat producers must comply with the program provisions to be eligible for the wheat reserve program, loans, and purchases and payments for the 1983 wheat crop. The 1983 wheat loan rate will be $3.65 per bushel. The target price will be $4.30 per bushel.

Instead of the 20 percent acreage reduction program announced by the USDA on July 14, the reconciliation legislation provides for a combination 15 percent acreage reduction and five percent paid land diversion. The land diversion payment is based on $2.70 per bushel times the farm yield times the acres diverted.

Producers must limit the wheat acreage planted for harvest to no more than 80 percent of the farm's wheat base. They must also devote to conservation uses and acreage equal to both the acreage reduction and land diversion requirements.

Block noted that any changes in the program are contingent on President Reagan signing the reconciliation legislation.

Producers, at the time they sign up for the program, may request an advance of 50 percent of the diversion payment and of any projected deficiency payment. The projected deficiency payment rate will be announced before signup begins.

A producer accepting an advance payment, but who later does not comply with program provisions, must refund the amount of the advance payment with interest. Interest charged will be the rate in effect for commodity loans on the date of the advance payment, plus five percentage points.

The Omnibus Reconciliation Act requires the 1982 wheat acreage base to remain the same as the base established for the 1982 wheat crop.

Land designated for conservation use must have been devoted to row crops or small rains in two of the last three years. Land use for conservation use acreage in 1982 eligibility requirements for conservation use and was devoted to a permanent conservation practice.

There are two exceptions. The first is for a summer fallow farm for which the cropping requirement is for only one of the previous two years. Land use for conservation use acreage in 1982 will be regarded as having been cropped in meeting this requirement.

If the permanent conservation practice is maintained, such acreage will be eligible as conservation use acreage through the 1985 crop year. These conservation practices may be eligible for cost-share payment under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Neither cross compliance nor offsetting compliance will apply to the 1982 wheat program.

Block also said he will announce the 1983 feed grains program in Sept. with signup starting Oct. 1. Signup for 1982 upland cotton and rice programs will be announced later.

The 1983 wheat and feed grains crops will again be eligible for the farmer owned grain reserve program. However, new rotation provisions will be effective with grain reserve agreements on the 1983 crop. The rotation provisions will only be available to replace within 15 days, reserve grain that is going out of condition.

The replacement grain may be: (1) grain the producer has on hand, (2) grain which is purchased by the producer, or (3) grain which is from the producer's new crop.

Deficiency payments or 1982 crop wheat will be made to eligible producers as soon as practical after Oct. 1.

STORING WINTER VEGETABLES

Garden produce may be stored well into the winter if the storage of each vegetable are considered.

Start with well-matured, top quality vegetables, and keep in mind the three basic types of storage conditions needed for most vegetables: warm-dry, cool-dry, and cool-moist storage.

—Warm-dry storage: This is best for squash and pumpkins. The furnace room with temperatures between 40 degrees and 90 degrees F. works well. Remember to harvest pumpkins and squash with a portion of the stem attached.

—Cool-dry storage: (32-36 degrees F) This is necessary for onions, dried peas and dried beans. Onions need to be thoroughly mature. Remove tops, cure outdoors or in an airy shed for two to three weeks, then place in a storage room. Onions store well in shallow boxes or mesh bags hung from the ceiling.

—Cool-moist storage: (34-40 degrees F) this is needed for carrots, beets, parsnips, potatoes, cabbage, and rutabagas.

Most modern homes do not have a cool, moist basement storage room. Such a small room may be built in a corner of the basement including an outside window for ventilation. Carrots, beets, and parsnips store well in old-fashioned crocks, or similar containers. Cover the container with burlap sack to keep moisture in.

Carrots may be stored in damp (but not wet) sand. Rub off excess dirt from potatoes and discard all diseased tubers. Store cabbage off the floor on shelves or hang from the storage room ceiling.

Sort through vegetables in storage frequently. A few rotting vegetables will quickly cause others to spoil.

ADD ORGANIC MATTER

Give your garden a big boost for next spring by adding organic matter to garden soil this fall.

By adding organic materials in the fall and incorporating them with a rototiller or decompose and settle before spring planting.

The materials may be grass clippings, compost, or old hay. All of these can be applied at a rate of 60 pounds per 100 square feet. You can also use woodchips at the rate of 2 bushels per 100 square feet.

Roto-till or spade the materials down about 6 to 8 inches. It will improve the soil and boost garden produce and the tillage will lighten the work load for next spring.

Minimum tillage lauded

University of Nebraska agricultural engineers have further confirmed in an NU Water Resources Center study the soil conservation benefits of minimum tillage.

Elbert Dickey, associate professor and project leader, said the five conservation tillage systems investigated reduced soil losses from 50 to 90 percent during a 2 1/2 inch artificial rainstorm. The measurements were made on the 10 percent slopes at the NU Northeast Station near Concord.

Erosion also was reduced substantially on minimum tillage research plots on 50 percent slopes at the Rogers Memorial Farm near Lincoln, Dickey said.

The tillage systems were compared to moldboard plowing and included the chisel plow, disk, rotary tilling, fill plant and no-till methods. Unlike moldboard plowing, which buries the bulk of crop residues, these conservation tillage systems left 20 percent or more of the soil surface covered with residues, Dickey said.

Residues on the surface protect soil from the impact of falling rain and retard runoff, the agricultural engineer explained.

"The results from the study up to this point show that only a 20 percent cover is needed to reduce erosion by 50 percent from that which would occur from moldboard plowing or any clean-ly filled field," Dickey said. As much as 90 percent of the erosion from moldboard plowing can be eliminated with 75 percent or more of the soil covered with residues, he added.

In addition to saving soil, minimum tillage also saves fuel, Dickey said. Fuel requirements for moldboard plowing were about 5.3 gallons per acre. The no-till system used 1.7 gallons per acre.

The study will continue through September, 1983.

Charts show growth stages

A cautionary note about the '83 wheat crop joined growing concern about the corn and sorghum crops on the agenda of the Ag Climate Situation Committee of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service last Tuesday (Aug. 31).

Regardless of hybrid or planting date, corn and sorghum should have reached the stage of growth indicated on the accompanying map by Friday, Aug. 26 in order to reach physiological maturity before normal frost date for the area, the committee said.

Although looking toward harvest for the feed grains, the committee also considered planting of the winter wheat crop. Roger Hammons, associate manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association which certifies seed in Nebraska, told the University of Nebraska extension specialists that wheat needs a resting period after harvest to break dormancy. Normally this is not a problem, but with much seed wheat harvested in middle to late July, wheat growers who already have planted wheat may be anxious about germination, Hammons said.

The farmer's rag doll germination test may show a much higher percentage than is now occurring in the field, he said. Time and lower fall temperatures should take care of the problem, he said, adding "This is a situation where an early freeze would help the wheat to the detriment of corn and sorghum."

Hammons also warned the committee that non-certified bin run seed wheat from western Nebraska is being marketed in eastern Nebraska. Because of the wheat scab scare in eastern Nebraska earlier this summer, farmers are looking for other sources of seed wheat, he said. This year's certified seed wheat—which has been treated with a fungicide when necessary—is excellent, Hammons said, but he stressed that farmers in eastern Nebraska who buy non-certified bin run seed from the western part of the state are probably buying a long-term headache. Such seed is likely to contain jointed goategrass and wild buckwheat, two weeds rarely found in eastern Nebraska.

Jointed goategrass, a cool season annual, cannot be removed through cleaning, Hammons said, and a wheat field that contains this weed can not be certified. Jointed goategrass is difficult to detect and looks like the broken joint of a stem of wheat.

Wild buckwheat can be removed through a series of screens, he said, but he urged eastern Nebraska wheat growers not to introduce the two weeds into their part of the state.

The Ag Climate Committee urged growers to use certified seed, but also cautioned them to plant near the optimum planting date for their areas. In most of eastern Nebraska, moisture supplies are favorable and there is no reason to plant before the recommended dates in the last week of September, they said.

The recommended dates are after the Hessian Fly Free Date for the area, they noted. Farmers will reduce incidence of insects, diseases and weeds and the possible dormancy problem by delaying planting until the recommended time, the ag scientists said.

TROPHY WINNERS in the 4-H entomology contest Saturday at the 1982 Nebraska State Fair were (from left): second place, Jassi Johar, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jogindar Johar of Wayne; third place, Stuart Rethwisch, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Rethwisch of Wayne. Problems possible in flat grain storage

Nebraska grain producers con- sidering new and existing farm buildings to flat grain storage need to be aware that the potential for problems is greater than that expected with grain storage bins, a University of Nebraska extension agricultural engineer said.

Richard Pierce said that many multi-use buildings not intended for grain storage are being pressed into this use to alleviate the current and anticipated shortage of grain storage capacity.

"Chances of a problem are increased as storage periods are extended," Pierce explained. Farmers who have successfully used flat storage for temporarily holding grain may find that the same management practices are inadequate for long-term storage, he remarked.

"Two major causes of problems in flat storages are inadequate aeration designs and the use of these systems to dry grain," the NU specialist said.

Since sidewall depths often do not exceed four feet and peak grain depths of 15 feet are common, it is difficult to provide uniform airflow distribution throughout the grain pile, Pierce stated. "Good airflow distribution can be achieved only by using a sufficient number of duct runs in the storage facility," he said. A basic design requirement is that the longest airflow path from a duct can be no more than 50 percent longer than the shortest airflow route from the duct to the grain surface.

When running ducts the length of a building, ducts should be spaced no more than 10 feet apart. This duct arrangement is a good compromise between airflow distribution, cost and leaving enough space between ducts to accommodate unloading equipment.

Approximately the same amount of duct will be required when aeration tubes run the width of the building, Pierce advised. "This type of duct arrangement is preferred if the storage is to be loaded or unloaded in stages. Grain over one duct can be removed without disturbing the rest of the aeration system," he said.

Fan sizes and duct diameter requirements are largely dependent upon the amount of air to be moved through the system. Fan horsepower requirements will be low—generally less than 9.2 horsepower per thousand bushels of grain—because of the relatively shallow grain depths. Friction losses in the ducts normally will be the factor limiting the amount of air which can be moved through individual ducts.

For example, it is recommended that an 18-inch duct handle no more than 2,600 cubic feet of air per minute. This airflow is sufficient to aerate 13,000 bushels or to dry 2,600 bushels of corn.

Because duct systems are rarely designed to handle drying airflow rates, it is recommended that corn not be placed in flat storages at moisture contents exceeding 14 percent, Pierce pointed out.

Non-uniform airflow distribution also may occur as air moves the length of the duct, he said. Duct lengths should be limited to 100 feet. "Preliminary research results indicate that pressure systems provide better airflow distribution along the duct than do suction systems," Pierce reported. With negative pressure systems, more air is pulled into the portion of the duct closest to the fan.

Because of possible poor air distribution patterns in flat storages, it is important that grain condition be monitored on a regular basis, Pierce concluded.

Some grain destined for silage

Much of the immature grain crop this season will have to be chopped for silage, according to University of Nebraska agricultural specialists.

Much corn and sorghum will not mature before frost this year due to delayed spring planting and cool summer temperatures," Bruce Anderson, NU extension forage specialist, said. Approximately one-third of the state corn crop will fail to mature, according to the Ag Climate Situation Committee of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service.

To salvage this crop, chopping for livestock feed will be necessary," Anderson added. Methods for preparing silage will be discussed on Nebraska ETV Network Farm and Ranch Report, today (Thursday) at 12:30 p.m., repeating at 9:30 p.m.

The immaturity will reduce yield, but food value of the silage will remain nearly the same, Anderson said.

On the other hand, forage sorghum has a higher nutritional value when harvested at the milk stage rather than later in maturity. Experiments at NU showed that milk yields of dairy cows, maintained equally well on immature forage sorghum, Owen said.

Early harvested corn and sorghum silage has high moisture content and ample carbohydrates to ferment," Owen said. This condition promotes rapid, extensive fermentation and effective preservation.

Additives may help boost protein value and reduce nutrient losses. Ammonia is probably the most practical additive, he said.

"The ammonia will partially substitute for protein in many rations," Owen explained. Ammonia is also known to reduce heating, molding and breakdown of plant proteins during fermentation. Thus, it will extend the storage life of the silage.

At least 60 percent moisture content is necessary for good retention of the added ammonia, Owen advised. However, excessive moisture will cause added nitrogen to leach and accumulate at lower levels in the silo, causing a possible toxic condition.

"The maximum (moisture content) for silage in upright structures is about 68 to 70 percent," Owen said, "where in shallow, 10 to 15-foot bunkers, stacks or trenches, levels up to 73 to 75 percent will likely cause no problem."

Excess moisture can be absorbed with beet pulp or, because of cost and availability, chopped alfalfa. The alfalfa adds nutrient value, also.

"The main drawback is the amount of dry forage needed and the complication this procedure adds to ensiling," Owen said. For example, it would require 36 tons of hay in 300 tons of forage to lower the moisture from 78 to 70 percent."

Awards planned at Ak-Sar-Ben

Clayton Yeutter (Y'tter), president and chief executive officer of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, will be the featured speaker at the 27th annual Pioneer Farm and Agricultural Achievement Awards Dinner on Sept. 23. The dinner, held in conjunction with the 4-H Livestock Exposition and River City Roundup activities, will be at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The Pioneer Farm and Agricultural Achievement Awards Dinner annually honors those farm families whose land has been owned by the same family for the last 100 years or more. This year a record number of families (222 families from 57 counties) will be recognized by Ak-Sar-Ben and the Nebraska Association of County Fair Managers.

Yeutter has been president and chief executive officer of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange since July 1, 1978. Prior to his present position, the Eustis, Nebraska native served for several years in a series of high level positions in the federal government. As assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing and consumer services, he was in charge of an array of regulatory programs, including the Commodity Exchange Authority. In that capacity, he and his staff did much of the background work for creation of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

River City Roundup will be held Sept. 22 through Oct. 3 in metropolitan Omaha and surrounding areas. The Ak-Sar-Ben Rodeo and Livestock Exhibition will headline Western-oriented activities. Major events include a South Omaha Parade, concerts by six major country/western entertainers, four public barbecues, a square dance festival, a free Omaha Symphony concert in Central Park Mall and an exhibition of Western art at the Joslyn Museum. River City Roundup is designed to recognize and celebrate the area's agricultural, and Western heritage.

New products to fight parasites

A new line of products studied at the University of Nebraska will help swine producers control both internal and external swine parasites with one treatment, a NU veterinary scientist said.

Dr. Donald Ferguson spoke to attendees at the 23rd annual George A. Young Conference for Advances in SPF Swine Production about parasite treatment. SPF stands for Specific Pathogen Free, and describes swine free of certain diseases causing microorganisms.

Ferguson said a new class of products, avermectins, have exhibited excellent one-treatment control of a wide range of worms, insects, mites and lice. A purified component of the class of products, ivermectin, has shown even greater success in parasite control, he said.

"Internal parasites continue to be one of the major problems confronting pork producers," he said, citing U.S. Department of Agriculture figures showing worms cost the nation's pork producers more than $65 million annually.

The worms usually infecting swine in Nebraska are ascarids, whipworms and lungworms, he said. Producers should become familiar with their areas' predominant worm species, he said, because the first order of business when designing worm control programs is finding out which parasites are present in the herd.

A veterinarian should perform the diagnosis, he said, and then help pick the dewormer which will kill the most possible worms out of the species present.

NU vet scientists are studying several new products which will soon be available to vets and producers, he said. Among them are an injectable form of Tramisol, and feed formulations of Albendazole and Fenbendazole. Also, NU has conducted a cattle scabies control trial with ivermectin.

Pigs should be treated for worms at weaning time, then again 40 to 50 days later, he said. Gilts and sows should be treated at farrowing time, he added.

Ferguson recommended alternating dewormers to prevent the development of resistant strains and to remove a broad spectrum of worms. He outlined the following steps to prevent and control losses to worms:

- Provide clean housing and feeder space
- Supply pigs with nutritious feed, safe drinking water and good bedding
- Scrub sows before farrowing to remove worm eggs, farrow in a recently cleaned house and keep baby pigs away from worm eggs

Be aware that recycled lagoon water in open flush gutters can pose a threat of worm egg buildup.

- Keep pastures and hogs lots well drained and watering and feed troughs raised above ground
- Eliminate manure piles, wet bedding and straw stacks from hog lots to avoid contact with lungworms infected earthworms
- Rotate hot lots and pastures
- Many worm eggs can survive on the ground for 4 to 7 years

Of all the energy used in the nation, 19 percent is used in the home. But if every household practices good energy management, the combined energy conservation will be considerable.

National patterns and levels of energy use are governed to some extent by the consumer both directly in the energy they use and indirectly in the energy used to produce food, goods and services for them.

Consumers have direct control over energy used for gasoline for food buying trips and electricity for refrigeration, cooking, water heating and dishwashing. Careful planning of shopping trips and food preparation results in energy saving.

Fern H. Hunt, Ohio State University, reports that studies show one homemaker cooking identical meals on an electric range can use 50% more energy than another. The range is efficient, but the way the cooking tasks are performed vary greatly.

Flat bottom utensils that fit the unit, tight fitting lids, a minimum amount of water and proper heat settings are major factors in efficient meal preparation. Nutrients and flavor are also conserved. Preheating the oven may increase energy usage by 25%. Most recipes will yield acceptable results in cold oven starts. Avoid frequent door openings during oven use. Planned oven meals take advantage of available heat.

Portable appliances usually are more efficient than the oven when baking a small mass of food. A microwave oven requires less energy for cooking or heating a small quantity of food than electric range. However, for cooking complete meals, the electric range is more energy efficient.

Did you have any idea you could cut your energy use for cooking meals by 50%? Take time to think through meal plans. Use your efficient electric range to your best advantage.
