Initial planning begins for the 1983 chicken show

Plans are beginning for the 1983 Wayne Chicken Show. The Wayne Regional Arts Council has recently agreed to be the overall organization for the event along with a committee composed of interested individuals who will head separate committees for the day's events.

Chairing the Chicken Show Committee will be Dean Bilstein, with several other persons involved in various areas of the planning stages for the show. Included in the list are David Ley as treasurer, Phil Kloster as logistics chairman, Gail Korn as the recording secretary and Jane O'Leary as promotional chairman.

Other individuals will be adding their talents, as well as representatives from such organizations as the Kiwanis, the Eagles and Eagles Auxiliary. Details on the actual festival activities will begin to take shape with the next meeting of the committee. The date has been set for July 9, 1983.

WSC's planetarium sets schedules for year's events

Wayne State College's planetarium begins this academic year with a program "The Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico," which will open Oct. 24 at the Dale Planetarium at WSC, according to Director Carl Rump, associate professor of earth science.

The program will be shown every Sunday at 3:30 p.m. from Oct. 24 through Nov. 28. "Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico" is the story of the great civilizations built by the Olmecs, Mayas, Aztecs and other ancient tribes of Mexico and Central America. They watched the sun and Venus, and in the process developed a calendar more accurate than ours. They oriented their buildings and cities toward heavenly objects and compiled tables of eclipses, planetary motions and other astronomical events.

Other programs are planned throughout the year, according to Rump. They are scheduled for Sundays at 3:30, and are free and open to the public. Special showings for groups and organizations can be arranged by calling or writing the planetarium. This year's schedule is: Oct. 24-Nov. 28: "Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico," Dec. 5-Dec. 19: "Star of Christmas," Jan. 23-Feb. 27: "Science Fiction Special," March 27-May 1: "Stars of Spring."

This program was made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, which provided for its development and distribution to 600 planetariums throughout the world.

IRS continues search to deliver '81 refund checks

The Internal Revenue Service in Omaha is "beating the bushes" to get refunds into the hands of Nebraska taxpayers whose checks were returned undeliverable.

According to IRS officials, 237 taxpayers in Nebraska were entitled to over $61,000 in unclaimed refunds for 1980 and prior tax years. The IRS has reissued all but 29 refunds to these taxpayers. The remaining unclaimed refunds total $5,360.87. IRS officials said they will continue to beat the bushes for the remaining 29 taxpayers by contacting neighbors, employers of record, city and state records and postal officials. Every attempt will be made to see that these people get their money. IRS expects to receive additional listings of Nebraskans whose 1981 refunds were returned undeliverable. The IRS gives this listing to newspapers in October for publication. Last year, over 90 taxpayers claimed a refund as a result of seeing their names in the newspapers.

Loan question continues

Jack Hart of Governor Charles Thone's office reports he is still seeking more information from the Federal Secretary of Agriculture's office concerning the awarding of disaster aid loans to several Nebraska counties.

We were actually going for two programs, Hart said. We have just received word that the six counties have been turned down for special disaster emergency payments, which are cash payments to farmers who have received damage.

Hart added that, for the second program, only Cuming County has been made eligible for the disaster low interest loan money. "We are still trying to find out why the other five counties have not been made eligible immediately for the disaster loans," he said. "They still want to wait until after the harvest is in before making any decisions."

He said that following the harvest, officials from the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, in each county, will file updated damage assessment reports based on the actual yields versus the average yields.

Cuming County was the only county to receive the low loan disaster aid. It was also one of the areas Governor Thone toured shortly after the July hail storm.

Chainsaw accidents up with rise in woodburners

Americans in record numbers are turning to wood stoves as an alternative heating source in the home, but injuries suffered while cutting firewood with chain saws seem to be keeping pace.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, some 123,000 chain saw injuries occurred last year that required treatment in hospital emergency rooms or physicians' offices. A 2 month CPSC study of injuries treated in emergency rooms across the country showed that one-fourth of the injuries were associated with chain saw kickback. Kickback is the sudden and potentially violent rearward and/or upward movement of the chain saw that can be caused by interference with the movement of the chain and that can propel the moving saw chain into contact with the operator. Other injuries stemmed from a variety of hazard patterns such as loss of control or balance while using the saw, skidding and bouncing of the saw, and follow through after the cut.

The agency offered the following recommendations to minimize accidents when using the chain saw:

- Always operate the saw with hands gripping the machine.
- Avoid situations that can lead to chain saw kickback. Don't touch the tip of the bar to any object while using the chain saw. Hold the saw with both hands, and refer to the owner's manual for the proper grip, especially for the forward handle.

Individual involvement is key to better government says Kerrey

Democrat Bob Kerrey, who is attempting to wrestle away control of the state from incumbent Republican Governor Charles Thone, paid another visit to Wayne on Friday.

Kerrey delivered an address to students at Wayne State College and answered questions before attending a luncheon at the Black Knight with local political supporters.

Kerrey told the students that the latest Republican commercials have portrayed him as "flip-flopping" on campaign issues. "We are dealing with tough, hard and emotional issues during the campaign," Kerrey said. "It's difficult to deal with these issues. It's also popular to chastise politicians for flip-flopping when they change their minds on an issue."

He indicated that he has changed his mind on issues since the campaign began but said, "What do we want politicians to do? Admit when they are wrong on an issue and change?"

"If I was not running for office," he told one student, "and we were in a discussion, with each of us on different sides, and during the course of the discussion I was swayed by your arguments and changed my mind, people would say Bob Kerrey knows when he is wrong and has the courage to change in the face of additional facts."

"But as a politician, when I change, it's seen as flip-flopping. It's an ironical problem," he said.

Kerrey said he has purposefully kept away from attacking the Governor during the campaign because "I really like Charlie Thone. He's an old friend of my family's and I have met him several times," he said. "I'm not running because I don't like Mr. Thone, but because I don't agree with his policies." "As I campaign and meet the people of Nebraska, I'm seeing a broad deterioration of support in government, people are losing confidence in government," he said.

"When I bring up problems to the Governor that need addressing and solutions, he says they are not the state's problems but national problems. When the national economy gets going, then these problems will be solved," he said.

"I don't believe that. This state has been built largely on progress made by individuals. Individuals who are ready to get up in the morning, roll up their sleeves and get to work solving the problems of Nebraska," he declared.

Kerrey admits that he doesn't have all the answers to all the problems but, as individuals working together, these problems can be solved.

Kerrey also dubbed the comments of U.S. Agriculture Secretary Brock as not legitimate in dealing with the agriculture problems of the state and the nation. "Agriculture will never be run as a business. It can't. It can't compete when it doesn't set its own price and the government should know this," he said.

Kerrey fielded a broad range of questions while in Wayne, at one point calling for the resignation of Jack Hart, an aide to Governor Thone for his alleged political comments. Kerrey said Hart is a state employee and if he intends to work for the reelection of Governor Thone, that he should take a leave of absence or resign.

On the question of the death penalty, Kerrey said, "Personally, I don't think it does any good. I think the people of Nebraska support it though and don't think much of the 30 years to life alternative."

Fielding a question on abortion, Kerrey said "It is an issue that has been badly overplayed during the campaign. I believe it is morally wrong and we have a legitimate right to control and restrict it. I don't believe in a constitutional amendment however. We have the means to control it and restrict it without an amendment."

"I have no problem with it," said Kerrey when asked about voluntary prayer in schools, although he does not want to see it mandated and, again, does not believe a constitutional amendment should be passed concerning voluntary prayer. "I believe in the separation of church and state as mandated by the constitution and I don't want school determining what prayers my children will offer."

A strong supporter of special education and aid for senior citizens, Kerrey said "However I don't believe the state will be able to provide near the services or the level of quality and control that we have previously had under the federal government."

With the shift from the federal level to the state with these programs, Kerrey said he does not know where the money can come from to maintain the programs at the current levels.

As far as the right-to-work law for Nebraska, Kerrey said he sees no reason to change it unless "that's what the people want."

Again and again during his visit to Wayne, that phrase seemed to be heard by the audiences: what the people want.

Rather than addressing certain issues specifically, Kerrey seems to speak in general terms about his political philosophy and would do "what the people would want."

He does attack the Republican economic trickle down policies as a failure but failed to offer an alternative to the audience. However he did indicate he will not be making political appointments of his friends. "As Mr. Thone has done, I don't think just because they have worked for the campaign, and are friends, that they should be appointed to key posts."

A surprise answer was given to a question of how to raise farm income.

"Consumers are going to have to realize that prices must rise for food," he said. "I'm a business man. I used to buy ribs for my restaurants at $1.79 a pound, then the price rose to $2.19. Sure, I'm happier to pay $1.79 but I understand prices must rise if farm incomes are to rise."

He also added that the federal government should have a strong grain set aside program through a stronger farm bill.

On a report that Governor Thone has recently indicated that a five percent cut must be made, at least in education's budget, Kerrey said "these cuts, as well as any extra amounts, should be planned at the beginning of the year and spread out, not come out of nowhere."

He is also a strong supporter of a water plan for the state. "We have the necessary information, from farmers, conservationists, business and other concerns. This information must be brought together and a plan devised. It wouldn't be easy with so many groups but it must be done."

All in all, with recent reports that he is leading in the polls, Kerrey seems to be losing the confidence that he lacked in a previous visit to the community and has developed a stronger campaign platform.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE for Governor, Bob Kerrey, was in Wayne on Friday morning to address students at Wayne State College and answer questions. Kerrey also made an appearance at the Black Knight restaurant where he met with political supporters.

GI home loan rate goes down

The Veterans Administration has announced another decrease in its GI home loan interest rate—from 14 per cent to 13 1/2 per cent—making this the third rate decrease within the last month and a half.

The new 13 1/2 per cent interest rate was agreed upon jointly by VA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development and is in line with interest rate reductions in the private sector. It became effective September 24.

For a veteran buying a home with a 30-year, average GI loan of $7,000, the rate decrease will lower monthly payments by $22.23 over the previous 14 per cent rate and $90.43 over the 15 1/2 per cent rate.

The new GI home loan interest rate for mobile home loans is 15 1/2 per cent; 15 per cent for a mobile home and lot, or lot only.

The change, however, does not affect existing loans, whose interest rate remains the same for the life of the agreement.

GI home loans can be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and mobile homes, with or without a lot.

Details about the GI home loans program are available at any VA regional office, any veterans service organization or Veterans Service Officer. Toll-free telephone service is also available through your local phone directory under U.S. Government listings.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

October 10-16, 1982

A free press is a cornerstone of our democracy. In the First Amendment to the Constitution, our Founding Fathers affirmed their belief that competing ideas are fundamental to freedom. We Americans cherish our freedom of expression and our access to multiple sources of news and information.

But, as we know, there are other nations where the free flow of news is thwarted by governments fearful of letting people know the truth. In those countries, where censorship is a means of containing thought and action, newspapers are controlled by the government, and it follows that all human freedoms are limited.

The theme of this 1982 observance of National Newspaper Week, "A Free Press -- Your Key to Freedom," reflects a basic tenet of American life. A free press is, indeed, our key to freedom.

During National Newspaper Week, I join with my fellow Americans in celebrating our free press and in paying tribute to the responsible men and women of the newspaper industry whose dedication and commitment to independent and truthful news reporting and analysis are the foundation of our continued progress as a nation.

Wheat research

Don't ever say we don't bring you the good news when it happens? Researchers at Colorado State University have devoted nine years to the development of a hail-tolerant, hard red winter wheat.

Eureka! They've got it. They've name it (what else?) Hail. According to spokesman at CSU, under moderate hail conditions Hail will yield about 15 percent more than Vona, the highest yielding variety now available. Jim Quick, a CSU wheat specialist, says the new variety's yields are equal to Vona under dryland conditions but are slightly lower under irrigation.

Hail was developed by crossing Mexican spring wheats, U.S. winter wheats and the varieties of Trapper and Parker. The new variety has been tested in eastern Colorado and southern Great Plains states during the past two years. (If it has been found suitable to growing and weather conditions in eastern Colorado it should fit the western Nebraska picture as well).

Registered seed for the new hail-resistant wheat is expected to be available to growers next year.

The variety was developed with support from the Colorado Wheat Administrative Committee, the Colorado Seed Growers Assn. and private industry.

This really is good news. We are aware of the substantial contributions the University of Nebraska has made to the improvement of wheat varieties. Now we take off our hat and doff it to CSU. Progress is always exciting and welcome.

ASK A LAWYER

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEBRASKA STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Q. Is it legal under any circumstances for an employer to ask you, in a job interview, whether you are pregnant, or whether you are planning to have children in the near future? I have been told that this type of question is not legal. Doesn't the employer have some right to find out whether a person he is considering hiring will be likely to leave in a short time?

A. Your inquiry actually involved two questions. The first concerns whether it is legal under any circumstances for an employer to ask in a job interview whether an applicant is pregnant or planning to have children in the near future. The second concerns whether the employer has a right to determine whether an applicant will be likely to leave in a short time. The two inquiries are not necessarily related.

Rulings of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, a federal agency, have held that an employer's request for information from applicants must be the same for female employees as for male employees. Further, those inquiries must seek information which is directly related to the qualifications for the job in question. Thus, an inquiry into whether an applicant is pregnant will be presumed to be unlawful unless it is proven to be directly related to a legitimate requirement of the job. If, for example, the job involved the handling of chemicals proven to be harmful to pregnant females, the inquiry may be appropriate. In almost all other circumstances, however, such an inquiry would be found to be unlawful since it implies that the employer is intending to disqualify pregnant females, which would be a violation of the Pregnancy Amendment to the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Women may not be discriminated against because of their pregnancy.

The second part of your question, concerning whether the employer has a right to find out whether an applicant will be likely to leave in a short time, assumes that pregnant females will be absent from the job because of their pregnancy. That may, in reality, not be the case. If an employer wishes to learn whether an applicant is likely to be absent from the job for extended periods of time, that specific neutral question should be posed to male and female applicants alike rather than phrased in terms which would imply a discrimination against members of one sex based upon their pregnancy, which is a status protected by federal and state law.

It should be added that the law requires that a disability due to pregnancy be treated the same as a disability for any other reason. In such areas as insurance coverage, the granting of leaves of absence, and holding open a job for employees on leave. Employees who believe they have been discriminated against because of their pregnancy may file charges with the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission as well as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Although legal representation is not required for filing charges, employees may wish to consult a lawyer to determine the best way to present the facts of their case.

If you have a legal question, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 3279, Lincoln 68501. This column is intended to provide general legal information, not specific legal advice. "Ask a Lawyer" is a public service of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

This week, Oct. 10-16 is National Newspaper week. I've never been much for blowing our own horn because that's not our job, nor the way we get things done.

Often we must stay in the background or in the rain, snow and sleet (where have I heard that before?), waiting for someone, an action or event. We work long hours and it's still not done, for after we've recorded the event, the mechanics of putting out a newspaper come into play...typesetters, layout artists, camera and plate making personnel, printers, circulation people and carriers.

Together we put out a newspaper. You may see us all at all hours of the day and night, but if you see one or two of us, you can bet there are probably 10 or 20 others waiting in the wings.

Whether we like it all the time or not, we play an important role in society, providing information, watching, reporting and, hopefully, entertaining too.

To work for a newspaper is not a glamorous job. Oh sure, at times editors and reporters are put in the limelight of society, treated well and courted, but it's generally not for the person but for the power we hold.

In times past that power has been abused; most power does from time to time, and we are far from perfect, although that's what we attempt with every issue.

We try, to be the voice of the community.

the outside observer looking in, the recorder and historical record of a community.

This week may seem trite to some...about as exciting as National Peanut Butter Week, but what would you do without your newspapers? Or rather, what would you do with a newspaper that was not independent but rather controlled? They are in most countries. So the next time you read about a challenge to the first amendment, about limiting the press in American society, make sure that is what you want, for rarely are freedoms once taken away ever given back. I'll put my soapbox away now.

There was a good crowd at both of the locations that Bob Kerrey stopped at, and some good questions from voters.

Somebody told me there were supposed to be some rabble-rousers attending, but I didn't see or hear any. What I did hear was some answers from the candidate, some basic philosophy about Nebraska.

At any rate, it is shaping up to be a pretty good governor's race as we head down to the wire. Don't expect me to call it.

Just a reminder, Congressman Doug Bereuter will be in town next Wednesday -- at 7:30 a.m. at Daylight Donuts and about 12:30 p.m. up at WSC in the Student Center for a coffee. If you have the time, come on down and see what is happening at the national level and why...pf

Wrong bill is approved

U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Speaker Tip O'Neill and company had a political field day recently when they won House passage of a billion program they say will create 200,000 temporary government jobs.

Unlike most legislation which takes months, if not years, of deliberate consideration in appropriate committees, this bill seemed to appear out of nowhere just in time for a vote before the fall election campaign swings into high gear.

Meanwhile, another piece of legislation languishes in a House Senate Conference -- one that, according to Chase Economics, could create 320,000 to 640,000 jobs in the private sector without costing the taxpayers a dime. The measure would promote the formation of export trading companies, which would greatly increase America's competitiveness overseas. It has been debated, studied and scrutinized for some four years. It has passed overwhelmingly in the Senate twice and was endorsed by the House recently in a vote vote.

If Tip and his cronies want to do the American worker and taxpayer a real favor, they would throw the full weight of their offices behind the effort to win final passage of this bill. By expanding our trade and through it our output, we can create permanent jobs in the private sector -- far preferable to Tip's jobs that would dry up in six months.

Secretaries Speak Out
This year, the Department of Health and Human Services will spend $253 billion -- more than double the gross national product of oil rich Saudi Arabia. Perhaps it is easier to understand how this agency's budget soared to such stupendous levels when you consider a recent proposal issued by a bipartisan group of eight former department secretaries that would vastly expand the federal government's scope in welfare.

As one news account described it, "(Former cabinet Secretary Wilbur) Cohen said the group had not estimated the cost of the plan which, if recommended, should start in fiscal 1985. He added that he could provide no estimate on the number of recipients who would be added to the AFDC rolls."

This spend-now-ask-questions-later attitude may explain how expenditures for the department's programs rose from $10.6 billion when the first of these former officials served under President Eisenhower in 1958 to $253 today -- an increase of 2,391% in 24 years!

Pest On Pesticides
It's bad enough that a company must spend $35 million and eight years on tests and reports before the Environmental Protection Agency will approve a new pesticide. But imagine if the EPA then handed to your competitors the formula to one of your most popular products!

That nightmare became a reality for Monsanto recently when, according to the Washington Post, an EPA official turned over documents to a potential rival that contained information on its product. EPA admits it made a mistake, but the error is one more indication of the need for reform in the Freedom of Information Act, the law that required the release of the documents in the first place.

Missing Buses

The district that aspires to statehood -- has had some trouble ascertaining the whereabouts of 17 of its city buses, according to an internal audit revealed recently by the Washington Times. When first asked about the location of the 40-foot long vehicle, a district official said, "I wouldn't say we've lost them; we just don't know where they are." Then, after some further investigation, transportation officials declared that the buses had been sold. Sold to whom? Who knows, because the records documenting the sale are missing!

I have thanked everyone who has helped me since my John became so ill but I feel I want the City of Wayne to know what wonderful care it is providing for its Senior Citizens and I for one say thank you.

The Lifeline, the home nursing care, the people who came to help with the shopping and do things I am unable now to do. I could go on and on naming them.

We stayed in Wayne because we liked Wayne and now we know we did right. Wayne is a great little city.

Women express concerns, needs

By LaVon Anderson

Problems and issues facing women across the state of Nebraska were addressed during a meeting last Tuesday morning in Wayne.

As chairs quickly filled and seating room was made available on the floor, it became apparent that women in northeast Nebraska share the same personal crisis, employment and legal concerns as do women in other areas of the state.

Tuesday's meeting in the Columbus Federal Savings and Loan community room was sponsored by the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women (NCSW).

Similar meetings have been held in Norfolk, Takamah and Fremont.

Marilyn Robson of York, who chairs the commission, said the "women's forums" are designed to acquaint women of Nebraska with the services and activities of the NCSW and to learn what additional needs women in Nebraska may have.

Foremost on the minds of many women at Tuesday's forum in Wayne was the issue of property rights and how they affect women.

E. Shelton Burden, NCSW assistant director of programs, told the women that the law does not treat single women any differently than men.

"Only when you become married does that change."

"Historically, women have been protected under the law. That protective guise, however, has prevented women from many rights," said Burden.

"Marriage is a union of two people into one, and the one is the husband," Burden stressed. Speaking to full-time homemakers in the audience, Burden informed them that any property they have acquired during their marriage belongs to their husbands.

"If your name appears on the deed, your husband has given you a gift," Burden told the women.

Burden also warned women to establish credit in their own right.

"If you have a bank, charge or credit account listed in Mr. and Mrs., you do not have credit in your own right. Your husband does," Burden said.

Burden suggested that accounts be listed in the name of the husband and wife, thereby allowing the wife to establish credit in her own right.

Burden also stressed the need for wills, especially when minor children are involved. "You'd be surprised how many relatives will show up if you have money," she smiled.

"And," added Burden, "lawyers make a lot of money from persons who do not have wills."

Citing various statistics, Burden informed the women that child support collections in Nebraska continue to be a problem for custodial parents.

"Of the child support decreed in Nebraska, about 70 percent is never paid," said Burden.

Burden said a child support collection unit was formed in the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare to assist with collections, and a Nebraska Child Support Collection Task Force has been organized to advocate improvements in collections.

"Our law says when there is a dissolution of marriage, there shall be equitable distribution of property," said Burden, adding that, in fact, females in Nebraska usually get about one third of the property.

"Even if the property was passed down through the woman, and her husband's name is on the deed, he will most likely get that property," Burden pointed out.

"That is how Nebraska treats women."

Before closing, Burden suggested that a workshop be held in the area on property rights and the legality of them.

Also speaking at Tuesday's forum was Jean O'Hara, NCSW executive director.

"We all support equal pay for equal work," said O'Hara, adding that the average annual salary for a female in Nebraska with a bachelor's degree is $11,400, compared to $19,300 earned by a male with the equivalent education.

O'Hara said women earn less than men in every major category of occupation and are the principal income earners in 30 percent of the households in Nebraska.

"An earning gap exists between men and women working full-time in Nebraska, a woman with a college degree can expect to earn approximately as much as a man with less than a high school diploma," O'Hara pointed out.

O'Hara also stressed the need for education in preparing women for a future of paid work.

According to a report issued by the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women, nine out of 10 women born after 1952 will be paid, full time members of the working force for 25 years.

O'Hara told the women that one of the most constructive actions to come out of the legislature regarding women and education is the Nebraska Equal Education Opportunity Act.

"This is most visible in the number of girls now involved in sports programs," said O'Hara.

Speaking on home, community and personal crisis was Mary Kay Evans of Albion, NCSW vice chair.

Evans said that a survey conducted three years ago in Nebraska asked women to name the top 10 problems they face.

"Incest," said Evans, "rated in the top 10."

"We do have a problem regarding incest and young people in this state," said Evans, adding that incest is a crime that is just beginning to receive attention.

Evans said the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women is working to make the public aware of this crime and is in the process of forming a state-wide network for families experiencing the problem of incest.

Evans said the commission continually seeks ways to promote better support services for women in crisis, and is attuned to the needs of women in transition, rape/spouse abuse victims, female offenders, women with chemical dependency as well as older women, minority women and rural women.

Bringing the group up-to-date on legislative issues was Rose Meile, NCSW assistant director of administration.

Meile said the commission, along with other women's organizations in the state, monitors and promotes legislation on issues affecting women in such areas as property rights, employment, social security benefits, estate and inheritance taxes, child care, credit rights and personal crisis.

Meile said the Open Adoption Act is being looked at carefully in response to persons who work with abused children.

This year, the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women will be providing women's legislative forums across the state to discuss the legislative process, how it works, and what bills affect women.

The Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women is a state advocacy agency governed by a 30 member commission, with five members representing each of the six Supreme Court Districts.

The five working committees which carry out the NCSW goals are: home, community and personal crisis; women under the law; talent file; education and employment; and public relations.

Persons seeking help from the commission may write, Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women, P.O. Box 94985, Lincoln, Neb. 68509, or telephone (402) 471-2039.

Explosive first half leads hot-and-cold Wayne

Wayne's offense put three touchdowns on the scoreboard and the defense did the rest as the Blue Devils racked up a 28-6 homecoming victory over West Point CC Friday night.

west
husker

The West Husker Conference matchup was played on a soggy, muddy Wayne State College field.

Kurt Janke was as slippery as the turf as he carried the ball 16 times for 105 yards. The 135-pound senior halfback scored Wayne's first three touchdowns. The longest was a 53-yard run on the third play from scrimmage. The final TD was scored when a West Point CC player touched a Wayne punt and Jim Poehlman dove on the ball in the end zone.

Janke's first TD run set the pace for the first two quarters of play. Jeff McCright added a two-point conversion to give Wayne an 8-0 lead with only 1:29 gone in the game.

The Blue Devils got another break just a couple of plays later. A West Point CC fumble was recovered by McCright at the Central Catholic 35-yard line.

Wayne moved the ball deep into West Point territory before running into a fourth and two situation at the four yard line. McCright moved it down to the two for a first down. Two penalties pushed the ball back and the Devils faced third and goal at the 10.

Starting quarterback Shaun Niemann completed a pass to Terry Gilliland at the two-yard line. On fourth down, Janke swept the ball around the left side to score. McCright's two-point conversion gave the hosts a 16-0 advantage.

West Point CC turned the ball over on downs at mid-field and the Blue Devils' offense took over. Key plays were a pass from Niemann to McCright and a 10-yard quarterback keeper by Niemann.

On third and goal, Janke took the ball in from one yard out with 7:31 remaining in the first half. The second quarter ended with Wayne leading 22-0.

The Blue Devils blew three other scoring opportunities in the second quarter. Kevin Koenig's deep kickoff was dropped and recovered by West Point at the Bluejays' own three yard line. Wayne's defense held and forced a wobbly punt.

The Devils took over at the 33 yard line but a scoring opportunity was killed when Todd Kreikemeier picked off a pass for West Point CC in the end zone.

Wayne's Gilliland paid the Bluejays back when he picked off a pass and returned it 19 yards. Wayne's chance to score failed when Kreikemeier again intercepted a pass.

The Blue Devils got one final chance when Bob Luska and Dennis Lebsack forced a fumble. Tim Heier recovered at the West Point 25 yard line with less than a minute left in the first half. Wayne ran out of downs and the first half ran out of time.

First half statistics showed Wayne outgaining West Point CC 192 to 44.

Central Catholic tried to take the momentum away from Wayne in the second half and did a fair job. The Bluejays were successful on a fourth and one play at their own 30 yard line but had to punt on the next series of downs.

West Point CC's best offense was Wayne's attempted pitch plays. Pitches by two Wayne quarterbacks fell in the Bluejays' favor and one led to their only touchdown.

The first came after a ball was dropped and then picked up behind the line of scrimmage. A West Point CC defender snatched the pitchout in mid air and returned the ball to the Blue Devils' 14-yard line. A pass moved it within one foot of the goal.

An outstanding defensive stand stopped West Point CC short of the goal in four plays. An offside penalty moved the ball to within six inches of a touchdown but West Point made no gain on the next two plays.

On third down, Wayne's defense forced a loss of a yard. The fourth down attempt was stopped for no gain and the Devils took over on downs.

Another bad pitchout by Wayne ended up in the end zone and Ron Prinz recovered for a Bluejay touchdown. The two-point lead failed but Wayne's lead had been cut to 22-6 with 3:39 left in the third period.

Things continued to go West Point's way when a planned punt turned into a 15-yard loss as the snap was fumbled. Central Catholic took over at the Wayne 28 and put the ball in the air.

Mark Kubik came through in the clutch with his first two interceptions. He picked off the ball inside Wayne's 10 yard line and returned it to the 30. However, a clipping penalty moved it back to the five.

The Blue Devils had to punt but booted the ball out to the 43. Again, Kubik intercepted when West Point CC tried to drive. McCright added an interception on the next series as Wayne's pass defense buckled up.

The game's final TD was the result of a Wayne punt. The punt touched a West Point CC player and rolled in the end zone. With 1:14 remaining, Jim Poehlman dove on the ball for a touchdown and a 28-6 victory.

Janke finished with 105 yards and McCright had 77 carries for 35 yards. The Blue Devils had 94 yards rushing and 30 passing. Wayne's defense held the Jays to 107 total yards for the game.

"The only yardage we really gave up was passing yardage in the second half," said Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt.

Leading tacklers were: Tim Heier, 5 solos, 5 assists; McCright, 4 solos, 5 assists; Gerald Monk, 1 solo, 7 assists; Kubik, 2 solos, 4 assists; Luska, 2 solos, 4 assists; Janke, 5 solos, 1 assist; Koenig, 4 solos, 1 assist; Chris Wieseler, 2 solos, 3 assists; Poehlman, 2 solos, 2 assists; Gilliland, 2 solos, 2 assists.

The Blue Devils are now 3-3 overall and 2-0 in the four team West Husker Conference. Wayne is scheduled to host Emerson-Hubbard Friday. West Husker rival Hartington CC will host the Devils next week to decide the conference title. The final game of the year will be at home against O'Neill.

Ehrhardt said he feels his team has a good chance against all three remaining opponents. He added that the players will go all out to win the West Husker title.

Clark Division showdown

Laurel prevails over Wakefield in exciting matchup

Renee Wenstrand and Shelly Krusemark.

The Lewis & Clark Conference match of the week had plenty of action for everyone. When Laurel and Wakefield met head to head for the Clark Division lead Thursday night, the match started out looking like a mismatch.

Instead it turned out to be the even, exciting shootout it was expected to be. Laurel won the match 13-15, 15-9, 15-11.

The Bears are now 10-3 overall and 4-1 in divisional play with Clark Division matches remaining against Wynot and Winside. Wynot still has a shot at the title. Wakefield drops to 6-3 overall and 3-2 in divisional play.

Laurel jumped out to an astonishing 11-0 lead in the first game as the host Trojans were mistake prone. Jean Lute scored the first four services and Carol Osborne recovered the next six in that set.

The Trojans made a miraculous recovery, and rallied to win that first set. Lana Erb served for three points and Shelly Krusemark used hard, spinning serves to score the next seven points, cutting Laurel's lead to two.

The host team took the lead at 14-13 on the serving of Brenda Jones. Laurel's Patsy Thompson and Wakefield's Kelly Greve each made an ace spike to steal control of the serve from the opposition. The winning point came on Cristy Hings's ace serve.

Wakefield held onto the momentum to open the second set and took leads of 3-0 and 7-3. An ace hit by Jana Cunningham gave the Bears the serve back and on Laurel's next two possessions, the score was tied at 7-all.

The Bears took the lead on an ace spike by Renee Gaden and extended their edge to 11-7 on some hard, spinning serves by Thompson. Some excellent exchanges followed in the next few points.

Sherry had two ace spikes for Laurel and Krusemark had one for Wakefield. The Bears pushed their lead to 14-7 but possession of the serve alternated at that point. Some more excellent exchanges took place at the net.

Laurel had two good sets and Gaden made two good spikes. But, Krusemark made two good blocks and one dropped in for an ace. The Trojans pulled back within five points as Michele Meyer hit two serves for a 9-14 margin.

The Bears got the serve back and Thompson scored the final service point for a 15-9 win.

Laurel started the third and deciding game with a bang and an 8-0 lead. Gaden hit some good serves and Cam Crookshank had a key ace spike for the Bears. Finally, a free ball dropped in for an ace and gave the Trojans the serve. Renee Wenstrand served up an ace for Wakefield's first point.

The Bears got the serve back and Osborne hit two aces for a 13-11 advantage. An ace spike by Jones gave Wakefield the ball and the Trojans fought for their lives.

Erb served three consecutive aces before Laurel got the ball back with a 13-4 lead. Lute blocked a Krusemark spike for an ace and set up match point at 14-4.

The Trojans refused to give up. Hings, Meyer, Erb and Krusemark accounted for seven unanswered points to pull within 11-14. After going through a whole serve rotation, Laurel scored the winning point when a Trojan shot fell out of bounds.

Neither Laurel coach Dwight Iverson or Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder was pleased with the officiating. Both coaches questioned several calls throughout the match.

The Bears were led in serving by Carol Osborne with 19 of 19 serves for 13 points. Patsy Thompson scored 11 points and Laurel hit 68 of 75 serves for 91 percent. Carol Osborne had 20 good sets in 21 attempts and Cam Crookshank had 17 of 19. Renee Gaden was 18-for-19 in spiking.

"Different individuals came through at different times. Wakefield has improved an awful lot and we're playing just good enough to win," said Iverson. "Give Wakefield credit."

For Wakefield, Shelly Krusemark was 16-for-18 and Lana Erb was 14-for-15. Brenda Jones and Michele Meyer each hit 10 of 10 serves. Renee Wenstrand was 8-for-10 and Hings made 6 of 8. The Trojans hit 64 of 71 serves for 90 percent.

At the net, Wenstrand made 12 of 13 spikes for three aces. Krusemark hit 21 of 26 for six aces. Greve hit 13 of 18 for four and Jones made 14 of 17 and made four aces. The hosts made 62 of 76 spikes. Erb was leading setter with 38 of 41 sets for six aces and Hings hit 18 of 19 for six aces. Krusemark made eight good blocks in eight tries and scored four aces.

"It was a good match but we play differently when we're behind than when we're ahead. We got conservative. We have to learn to play the same when we're behind as when we're ahead," said Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder. "We need to play consistently. It is virtually impossible to win when the other team has 14 points and you have four or five."

"Laurel played really well. They have a scrappy team and if you don't hit the ball hard, it comes back at you. You need to put the ball away," Schroeder said. "The most aggressive team at the net will win when you get two good teams together."

Laurel won the B team match 10-12, 11-4, 11-5. Lori Lindsay scored 12 points and Cara Dahlquist and Lynn Malchow each scored eight. Wakefield was led by Heidi Schopke and Katie Lund. The C match also was won by the Bears 11-0, 11-1.

Wakefield is scheduled to play at Walthill Tuesday and Laurel will host Winside Tuesday.

Eagles can't overcome poor field position in setback

Hampered by poor field position most of the night, the Allen Eagles had trouble mounting drives and lost a Central Division game to Newcastle 25-12.

Lewis & Clark

Heavy rain postpones several Friday games

Many football games in northeast Nebraska were postponed Friday due to heavy rains most of the day and part of the night. Among them were three area games.

Newcastle took advantage of an early Allen fumble to score its first touchdown in the first quarter. The Raiders added two safeties in the second period for a 10-0 half-time lead.

All but one play in the first half was played in Allen territory. Eagle coach Rod Bubke said his defense "played fantastic" and pointed out that the Eagles were lucky to be within 10 points at the half.

Allen drove the ball downfield for its first touchdown in the third quarter. Mike Hingst scored from two yards out as the Eagles closed within four points.

According to Bubke the turning point of the game came on the next drive. Just when Allen started to gain momentum, Newcastle marched downfield for a touchdown and an 18-6 lead early in the fourth quarter.

Hingst added Allen's final TD in the fourth quarter on a five-yard run. For the game, Hingst had eight carries for 42 yards.

Newcastle keyed on Jeff Chase who entered the contest averaging more than 100 yards a game. He was injured early in the second half and the Raiders held him to minus yardage.

Steve Schramm, who scored two Newcastle touchdowns, carried the ball 26 times for 122 yards.

"It was a disappointing loss. Newcastle outplayed us. They're big and physical. We had some injuries but I don't know how serious they were," Bubke said. "We had the momentum but they took it away when they drove the length of the field. That was the turning point."

Leading receiver for the Eagles was Troy Greve with three receptions for 33 yards. Mike Rhodman recovered Newcastle's only lost fumble.

Leading tacklers for Allen were: Robby Ridgeway with 7 solos, 14 assists; Jay Jones—7 solos, 7 assists; Rhodman, 5 solos, 8 assists; Derwin Roberts, 6 solos, 7 assists; Chase, 6 solos, 6 assists; Kirk Hansen, 6 solos, 6 assists; Harder, 5 solos, 7 assists; Dan Nice, 5 solos, 7 assists.

The Eagles are scheduled to play at Winside Friday in an 8 p.m. game that will follow a volleyball match between the two schools. Allen's record is now 2-4 overall and 1-1 in the Central Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference.

Basketball season will open today for Wayne State College squads

Basketball practice at Wayne State College opens on Monday (Oct. 11) with both the men's and women's squads hoping that the combination of youth and experience will allow them to better their 13-victory season last winter.

The Lady Wildcats will open their season on Nov. 18-19 in the NAIA District II Classic at Fremont. The Wildcats will participate in the men's division of the classic at Kearney on Nov. 18-20.

Rick Weaver's Wildcats are coming off a 13-22 campaign in 1981-82, but the six returning lettermen and crop of newcomers have high hopes for an improved year. This season's Cats will be "shorter and quicker," according to Weaver, as well as being stronger at the guard position. Top returners for the Wildcats include all-conference forward Grady Hansen (Senior, Omaha), who led the Central States Intercollegiate Conference in scoring the past two years and averaged 19.2 points per game last year. Senior guard Brad Edwards (Carroll, Iowa) who averaged 12.4 points per game last year will also be a key to the scoring attack.

Key players lost to graduation include 8-6 center and captain Al Jones (Sioux City) and 6-2 guard Jay Bellar (Walthill). Second year coach Jan Jirsak will again have a "senior-less" squad, which gained a great deal of experience during its 13-17 season last year. A successful recruiting year will give the Lady Cats added strength and depth. Leading the Lady Wildcat's attack on the boards will be returning letterwinner Robbie Lehr (Junior, Sioux City) who led the CSIC in rebounds last year, averaging 13 per game. Lehr will also be important in the scoring department, averaging 9.7 points per game last winter, as well as veteran Maggie Alberts (Junior, Denison, Iowa) who turned in an average of 8.4 points per game.

Starters lost include Tammy Blackburn, the Lady Cats leading scorer with 13.2 points per game, and Patty Carney, who averaged seven points per contest.

The men's squad opens their home campaign on Nov. 22 against Nebraska College Conference foe Peru State. The Lady Wildcats host Doane the following night, followed by a men's tilt with Concordia.

Season tickets are being offered for just $15, good for all home regular-season men's and women's games. Single-game admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for high school and under.

The season tickets can be purchased at the WSC business office or at the main offices of the State National Bank in Wayne. They can also be ordered via mail by sending a check for $15 per season pass to: Season Tickets, Business Office, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Journalism: A new course

Laurel-Concord High School offers a new journalism course taught by Alan Lemke. Student editors, Sara Swarinout and Mike Jonas direct their classmates in research and writing. The results will appear in The Wayne Herald and The Laurel Advocate.

To improve their skills with pen and typewriter, the Laurel-Concord students study local and regional newspapers, write lead sentences for their articles and read their drafts aloud in class.

Future assignments call for interviewing, proofreading, and community contact skills. Class members select their editors, choose their own topics, and disseminate their articles to get their first articles in on time.

It's that time of year

The annual homecoming week took place once again at LCHS this year. This custom of showing spirit each day of the week by dressing for the special homecoming week code has become very popular.

The cheerleaders were in charge of this and were asked to assign each day a special dress code. Monday, Oct. 4, was "Hat and Sunglasses Day." Each student was to wear a favorite hat and sunglasses. Tuesday the football fans really got going by wearing a football jersey that day. "Punk Rock Day" was Wednesday. Students dressed like their favorite punk rock star. Thursday was "E.T. Day." Homecoming day (Friday) was set aside for "Orange and Black Day."

The homecoming coronation, Friday night after the football game, topped off the week's activities. Student Council members were in charge of decorating for the coronation.

A homecoming dance followed the coronation.

Robson selected

Kelly Robson, a senior at Laurel High School, has been selected to compete in the Omaha World Herald Honors Scholarship Program. Kelly is the son of Raymond and Mrs. Thomas Robson. The scholarship he is competing for is a cash, four-year

Collect information
 People in the Northeast Nebraska area who are planning to apply for Social Security retirement benefits soon can help speed the application process if they get some information together first. Dale Branch, Social Security district manager in Norfolk, said
 A person will need proof of his or her age. The best evidence is a public or church record of birth recorded before age 5. If this cannot be submitted, other evidence may be used. The best if often the oldest Branch said.
 Other records that might be used include school, church, state or federal census, insurance policies, marriage, passports, employment, military service, children's birth certificate, union, immigration and naturalization. There are other records as well that may prove acceptable.
 A person needs his or her Social Security card or a record of the number.
 Also request are W-2 forms for the past 2 years, or, if self-employed, copies of self-employment tax returns and proof of filing for the past 2 years.
 If the worker's wife or husband is also going to apply, she or he will need the same documents. Branch said it would be a good idea to have the marriage certificate available. Birth certificates should be available for any eligible, unmarried children as well as their Social Security numbers.
 Other documents may be needed, in some situations, but these will be enough in most cases, Branch said. Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable.
 For more information about applying for Social Security benefits, contact the Norfolk Social Security office, located at 1310 Norfolk Avenue, Norfolk, NE. The telephone number is 1-800-642-9310.
