Vanishing breed

ALTHOUGH THE YOUNGER SET may have enjoyed the results of Tuesday's storm by making snowmen, most adults were happy to see warmer temperatures return on Wednesday, melting the white blanket and turning such creatures as above, for the time being, into a vanishing breed.

Wayne, Winside, Allen receive special state recognition Friday

Wayne, and its neighboring communities of Winside and Allen, were honored Friday night in Lincoln at the 19th annual Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) banquet.

Gov. Charles Thone presented a total of 111 awards to Nebraska communities and neighborhoods during ceremonies in Lincoln's Pershing auditorium.

The ceremony was broadcast live by the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Winside topped five other Nebraska communities to take first place honors in its Class II population category (349-370 population).

Also competing in Class II was the community of Allen, which received honorable mention.

Second place in Class II was awarded to McCool Junction, and third place honors went to the town of Brady. Receiving Class II honorable mentions in addition to Allen were the communities of Meadow Grove and Glenview.

In addition to Winside, other first place winners in their population categories were Farnam, Scribner, Geneva and Scottsbluff/Gering.

Wayne was among 30 communities across the state to receive the All-Nebraska Community Award for providing a high level of municipal services to its citizens.

About 700 persons were in Lincoln Friday to participate in the annual Recognition Day activities.

In addition to the evening award ceremony, other activities included educational workshops, scrapbook display, and a Governor's Luncheon, with Gov. Thone on hand to present certificates of completion to chairpersons of local NCIP committees.

The Nebraska Community Improvement Program is administered by the Department of Economic Development's community affairs division and the Community Resource and Research Center of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Payments; nominations announced

Raymond Butts, Executive Director of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) Office, said Wayne County farmers will receive all of their wheat and barley deficiency payments and 70 percent of their corn and grain sorghum payments in December.

Corn and grain sorghum farmers will get their final check in April, according to Butts. The payments will go to farmers who participated in the 1982 acreage reduction programs.

"We are currently conducting a sign-up for the 1983 feed grain and wheat programs," he said. "Farmers who participate will be eligible to receive target price protection, price support loans, deficiency and diversion payments. When farmers come to the office to sign up, they may request an advance payment equal to half of their 1982 estimated deficiency and diversion payments."

are 21 cents per bushel for corn, 20 cents for sorghum, 13 cents for barley and 65 cents per bushel for wheat. Land diversion payment rates have been established at $1.50 per bushel for corn and sorghum, $1 for barley, 75 cents for oats and $2.70 per bushel for wheat.

The ASCS official said farmers who accept advance payments and later decide not to participate in the program will be required to refund the amount of the payment plus interest.

The 1983 programs contain acreage reduction requirements and paid land diversion provisions. A combined 10 percent acreage reduction and a 10 percent paid land diversion is in effect for feed grains. The wheat program also provides for a combination 15 percent acreage reduction and a 5 percent paid land diversion.

COMMITTEE NOMINEES

Farmers are reminded that the county ASCS office is now receiving nominations for ASCS community committee election candidates. Butts asks farmers to take this opportunity to nominate their farm neighbors as candidates in the ASC committee election.

Butts said the ASC committee provides the important service of administering government farm programs in the local community. The election will be conducted by mail from Nov. 26 to Dec. 6. Eligible farm voters will be provided with instructions for filling out the secret ballot and returning it to the county ASCS office.

Most resident farmers are eligible to hold office as ASC committee members. If a farmer would like detailed information concerning eligibility requirements, he or she should contact either a present committee member or the county ASCS office.

In filling out a petition, farmers should be careful to include the name of only one nominee, the signatures of at least three eligible ASC voters who support the nominee, and certification that the nominee is willing to serve if elected. Petitions must contain this information to be accepted. The completed petition should be dated and mailed or hand-delivered to the county ASCS office no later than Nov. 1.

ASC committee elections are open to all eligible ASC voters. Butts explained that any concerned farmer with an interest in serving fellow producers would be an asset to the ASC committee. For this reason, farmers are urged to petition for the farmers of their choice. The individual producer will benefit in the long run from a responsible, concerned team of ASC committee members in the local administration of U.S. government farm programs, he said.

Wayne county has four ASC communities. The names of the communities are: A — Deer Creek, Sherman, Wilbur; B — Hunter, Leslie, Logan, Plum Creek; C — Chapin, Garfield, Strahan; and D — Brenna, Hancock, Hoskins.

Auditors are ready for action

"You and I have no control over the increasing costs of home energy, but as individuals and families, we can control how much of these utilities we use in our homes," said Roger Boyce, a member of the Wayne Energy Task Force.

That's the attitude the task force has taken in beginning a new program for Wayne homeowners who wish to begin controlling the amount of energy they use.

The past few weeks, members of the task force have signed up several volunteers for auditing homes with the intent of helping them control the cost of home energy.

The volunteers are Deb Poehling, Clyde Flowers, Rob Mitchell, Randy Shaw, Marcia Pankaskie, Don Sherman, John Anderson, Rick Robins and Ron Brown.

These volunteers have gone through a training program, presented by the task force, to look for areas in a home that could use improvement, and to suggest low cost measures for correcting the problems.

"The program is very basic in nature," Boyce said. "It's not scientific nor technical. In most cases the remedies will cost well under $100."

When one of the volunteer auditors arrives at the home, they begin looking for problem areas using a sheet listing the common problem areas.

The sheet has ratings of good, fair, another look, help — and includes such areas as windows, storm doors, exterior doors, drafts, crawl spaces, roof and eaves, attic, furnace and main living areas.

"Some of the volunteers have more expertise than others simply because they may be involved in construction or related areas," Boyce said, "but they all have been trained in a common sense approach to saving energy dollars."

Boyce said one of the big pluses of the program is that it is free.

"These people are freely giving their time to the community in hopes of helping homeowners. They're volunteers in the true sense of the word," he said.

In addition to going over a list of problem areas with the homeowners, the auditors will be handing out a more extensive five page list.

"We hope that people will sit down with the spouses and family members and go over the list. It includes questions that should be answered honestly and can lead to some good savings," he explained.

The questions range from checking windows for caulking and covering fireplaces to insulation, hotwater heating, major appliances and lighting in the home.

For people wishing to do more extensive work, but are unable to come up with the cash, a list of possible funding areas has been developed by the task force.

The funding areas include commercial lenders that have various loan programs available; People's Natural Gas Company's loan program; Farmers Home Administration's home improvement loans and the Goldenrod Hills Agency at Walthill for low income and retired people.

With the rise in energy costs however, task force members are also concerned that people make the correct decisions before making major investments.

Many companies now offer products aimed at saving energy, however for every legitimate product on the market, there are dozens of bogus items.

Boyce said the best thing homeowners can do before making major changes or purchases is to talk with local contractors.

"We have several in the area along with our hardware stores, appliance dealers and others who are knowledgeable about major investment items," Boyce said.

In a letter provided by the task force, stories are told about people who wanted to save money but ended up with such things as blocks of wood to put under a car's accelerator in order to save gasoline. The letter ends with "remember, a passive, solar-linear fabric dehydrator is just a clothesline" — in other words, buyer beware. Know who you are dealing with and, in some cases, get a second opinion.

There are dollars to be saved on energy costs and the free home audit is the beginning of the process.

For a free home energy audit, contact one of the auditors and set up a convenient time for both parties — you'll be losing energy dollars if you don't.

Popcorn sale is rescheduled

Due to the unexpected winter storm which moved through the area on Tuesday, members of the Wayne Kiwanis Club have rescheduled the days they will be selling popcorn in the city.

The club members will be calling door-to-door in Wayne on Oct. 27-28 in the evenings. Proceeds of the annual sale are used, in part, to fund the many public service programs of the club.

This year's major emphasis project, "Share Good Health With Children" is an extension of last year's theme of "Share Good Health". This is in keeping with the Kiwanis International theme of "Making Every Child Special".

Special award

Invite a bit of the World into your home this fall. Families are needed for students arriving from South America this January for a six-month stay. Youth for Understanding, a non-profit student exchange organization, has brought the experience of International friendship to students and families for over 30 years. Students are between the ages of 14 and 18 and will study at high schools throughout the state. Host families provide room and board, and the same guidance and love they would give to their own children. The personal attachments that are formed between students and families often develop in lifelong friendships. The students are required to have conversational ability in English, and are responsible for their own personal expenses and spending money. Youth for Understanding is currently looking for responsible families who feel they would enjoy and benefit from the experience of hosting a young student from another country. For more information on the program and on becoming a host family, please contact: Youth for Understanding, 3450 Hickman Road - Suite C, Des Moines, Iowa 50322, (515) 276-6301.

State rate is low

Nebraska's unemployment rate is the third lowest in the nation, according to the latest Bureau of Labor Statistics. Comparison figures for all states for the month of August show the state's unemployment rate is 5.5 percent, behind South Dakota with 4.2 percent and North Dakota with 4.2 percent. Midwestern states are generally better off during this recession, according to Nebraska Labor Commissioner John Hanson, who released the figures. "Oklahoma is fourth lowest in unemployment with 5.4 percent, Mississippi is fifth with 5.8 percent, Kansas is tenth with 7.3 percent. Colorado eleventh with 7.3 percent, Iowa twelfth with 7.3 percent and Missouri is twenty-seventh with 9 percent. The national average for August was 9.8 percent. Industrial states are hardest hit with Michigan again leading the unemployment rate at 14.5 percent with one out of every seven persons looking for work. September figures edged slightly higher with the national average three-tenths higher than August and Nebraska's figures up one-tenth. "Midwest records generally reflect the stabilizing influence of agriculture as opposed to the industrial states which are hard hit by the production cut back of manufacturers," Hanson said. "The work ethic of Nebraskans is another factor that must be considered."

viewpoint

Hunter polution

In this day and age when we are forced to try and maintain our waterfowl resource on an ever decreasing habitat base, we must attempt to maintain that remaining habitat at the highest level of quality possible.

Each year in Nebraska alone we may deposit as much as forty tons of toxic lead shot in and near wetlands and fields which then becomes available to waterfowl. This is the worst form of pollution because it is not necessary. There is an adequate alternative to lead available in the form of steel shot and those of us who care about waterfowl hunting and waterfowl should take advantage of this alternative.

During the first few years of development, steel shot had some serious short comings. These have been corrected with product development and improvement. The questions of gun damage and crippling loss have been addressed and resolved to a great degree.

A recent study conducted at Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge in Louisiana recalled the concern over crippling loss with steel shot compared to lead. The facts reported in that study show that 19 cripples were "avoided" by the hunters shooting lead when compared to those shooting steel.

In the process of avoiding the 19 cripples they deposited approximately 626 pounds of lead or 2,238,417 toxic lead pellets in the marsh. The most conservative estimate made in a review of several studies that tested the effectiveness of steel vs. lead shot for hunting of waterfowl was that 250 ducks would potentially be poisoned from this amount of lead shot.

It remains for waterfowl hunters to improve and demonstrate the responsibility and leadership in conservation of our own resource that has been a tradition of the sport for many years.

Many of the problems facing wildlife in general and waterfowl in particular are the result of the actions of others that we have little or no influence with, or over which we have little or no control.

The conversion to steel shot for waterfowl hunting will only be successful if hunters choose to make it so. Lead pollution and the resulting lead poisoning of waterfowl will only cease if waterfowl hunters want it to.

I skipped out of town for a couple of days on business this week to the Lincoln-Omaha area. They don't have snow down there. It's the middle of October and I've already been in one blizzard. Yuck!

Tuesday, working, I got stuck, was run off the road by a wayward (I understand honey, no problem) driver and a tree limb dropped on my car (no damage...whew).

I lived in Miami for a time. I hated the summer weather but loved the winters. It's time to go back. Storms like Tuesday's are utter nonsense.

Let me dust off the old crystal here for a minute and make a few calls. These are not endorsements by me nor the newspaper, rather predictions of what's going to happen next month in the elections.

There's going to get reelected. I don't think there is any doubt of that. Kerrey will do well in the urban areas but Thone will carry most of the state.

Jim Keck will follow in Kerrey's footsteps, doing well in the urban areas, but Zorinsky's going back to Washington.

Doug Bereuter, of course, will be reelected. I'm not really sure if there is anyone running against him — at least no one can seem to remember his name. All we know is that he's one heck of a carpenter or bread baker...something like that.

Locally the old crystal starts getting a little fuzzy and I'm not all that sure I want to stick my neck out anyway — good way to lose it. I'll just say that I think the old guard will do well and the status quo will be maintained. That doesn't mean we won't get some new blood into the system, but all in all, there won't be a lot of changes.

C'est la vie, mon amigios and catch 'y'all on the flip-flop. I'm off to trip the light fantastic, mind you...whatever that means...pif.

Auto legislation is poor

Richard L. Leshner U.S. Chamber of Commerce Congress may be on the verge of killing the auto industry with kindness

I'm referring to proposed legislation requiring that motor vehicles sold in the United States contain a specific percentage of American-made parts.

On the surface, this "domestic content" legislation appears to make sense, especially with the economy in a recession and the American auto industry in a virtual depression. The bill, according to its sponsors, would stimulate imports, encourage greater production and sale of our own automotive products and put unemployed workers back on payrolls.

Unfortunately, this measure would produce none of those results. It would make things worse — for the auto worker, the auto company and the economy as a whole.

Examining the effects of this form of protectionism offers some instructive lessons about the American economy. You can look at the small picture, as the bill's advocates do, and claim that it would increase the sale of U.S. autos by 1.4 million per year. If history is any guide, this would translate in to approximately 46,000 new jobs.

Or, we can take off the economic blinders and look at the big picture. Here is what we see.

First, those 46,000 jobs, even if they did materialize, would be more than offset by the 65,000 jobs that would be lost, according to some estimates, as a result of the closing of some 2,000 dealerships dependent on import sales.

Second, jobs in other sectors of our economy would be jeopardized when our trading partners retaliate against us with additional protectionist measures of their own. Our high technology export markets, which provide enormous numbers of jobs and the promise of future jobs, would be particularly vulnerable.

Third, this legislation would add to inflation — and that means higher interest rates. The Congressional Budget Office and others estimate it would add 10 percent to prices consumers pay for cars. Higher prices and interest rates will further depress auto sales, not increase them.

Domestic content legislation has failed miserably in other nations such as Australia, where cars cost $3000 more than they do elsewhere. It will fail here, too, because nothing to address the real crisis facing our automakers: weak consumer demand. Americans bought only 8.5 million cars in 1981, down sharply from 11.3 million sold in 1978. The positive side of that story is that there now exists a tremendous backlog of demand for cars, estimated at some nine million units—and that dam will soon burst as interest rates continue to drop, tax cut benefits pile up and consumer confidence returns.

Moreover, the American auto industry is making a yeoman effort to increase its international competitiveness through a $65 billion investment program. This bill would sell that effort short.

Domestic content legislation may be an emotionally satisfying action for many Americans frustrated by the slow pace of recovery and fierce competition from overseas trading partners. In reality, however, it would do little to alleviate the plight of unemployed auto workers in the short run and hurt the employment prospects of a great many other Americans in the long run. It would increase prices and interest rates, the twin evils that bumped Detroit off the road in the first place.

The key is cities

There's a lot more to persuading existing industry to expand or new industry to locate in Nebraska than promotion and salesmanship.

To be successful we must demonstrate to industrial prospects that our state has superior communities in which to do business and in which to have employees live.

That's why my wife Ruth and I look forward to October 22, when we will participate in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) awards presentation to the fourth consecutive year.

governor charley thone

A day-long workshop will help both volunteers and municipal officials learn ways to improve their communities. At an evening banquet, broadcast on the Nebraska Educational Television Network, 69 communities and six neighborhoods will compete for awards in 15 areas of public facilities and community services.

Already, much work has been done to make the 1983 NCIP competition even better than that of this year.

Nebraska does have a superior work force. Our laws and our taxes help Nebraska attract additional employment. We've increased our advertising and our sales trips to sell business leaders on creating more and better paying jobs in Nebraska.

But ultimately, we must have communities that offer attractive places to live and raise families. NCIP is an extremely effective tool in making Nebraska neighborhoods, cities and villages better places for the good life.

To the editor:

For several years the people of Wayne have been getting ripped-off by Cable Television.

Here is a company generating in our city under a franchise granted by the City Council of our city.

This is a company supposedly offering a service to their customers. At best, it is lousy service, sometimes off for hours at a time and many times, days at a time.

When we call the campaign its pay or get shut off.

It is common knowledge that they are operating with obsolete equipment. The owners do not live in Wayne and they could care less if we get service.

We are paying for a service here and we are not getting our money's worth. Therefore the franchise is granted by the city. So next time your cable is off, call your councilmen and your mayor.

When our city officials get enough calls, maybe they will realize that the citizens are tired of getting ripped off.

Yours for better city government Don Boyco

ASK A LAWYER A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEBRASKA STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Q. My husband and I owned a small business which went bankrupt. We ended up having to file personal bankruptcy too in order to pay off some of the debts. We are at a loss to know where we stand in terms of ever getting credit again. How long does this stay on our record? We would like to pay off the remainder of our debts from this bankruptcy even though we are no longer legally obligated to do so. If we did, would this help our credit rating? People have told us to just forget these debts that were discharged, but we feel we have a moral obligation to pay them off as best we can.

A. Most credit reporting agencies maintain records and provide information concerning bankruptcies for the ten-year period allowed by law.

Credit reporting agencies must furnish credit reports that are accurate. Therefore, any payments you make on your outstanding debts, even those previously discharged in your bankruptcy proceeding, should be reflected in any report obtained from such an agency. Just how this information would affect the attitude of someone who was considering extending credit to you would, of course, depend on the individual and on the amount of credit being requested.

A report containing information that you are paying debts that you are no longer legally obligated to pay may very well have a favorable impact on a person reviewing the report. As you are trying to re-establish credit, many people recommend making a series of small credit purchases which you pay off promptly, thereby demonstrating your willingness and ability to responsibly handle credit which is extended to you. You may wish to ask your credit bureau or credit reporting agency for any additional information they may have to help you re-establish credit in your own name.

Q. If a lawyer takes your case on a contingency agreement, how much of a percentage does he usually get?

A. In a contingent fee arrangement, the lawyer receives no fee unless money is recovered for the client. If money is recovered, the lawyer receives an agreed-upon percentage of the recovery, which in Nebraska usually is between 25 and 50 percent, depending upon the agreement made between you and the lawyer.

Contingent fee arrangements should be put in writing at the beginning of the case. The Code of Professional Responsibility, which governs the behavior of attorneys, prohibits contingent fee arrangements in criminal cases and states that because of the human relationships involved and the unique character of the proceedings, contingent fees are rarely justified in domestic relations cases.

In a contingent fee arrangement, the client is still responsible for paying court costs such as filing fees and subpoena fees, and for reimbursing the attorneys for out-of-pocket expenses such as long distance calls, medical reports and depositions. The client should expect to pay these costs even if no recovery is made.

If you have a legal question, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 2279, Lincoln 68502. This column is intended to provide general legal information, not specific legal advice. "Ask a Lawyer" is a public service of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

Faculty profile

Antony Garlick came to the United States and Wayne State College in 1960 as a "freshman professor who knew very little about teaching," he said.

He's learned a "tremendous amount" during those 22 years, when he taught practically everything from chorus conducting to madrigal singing to choir. "Students give it to you if you really don't know what you're talking about. But that's the good, because it taught me a great deal," he added.

The WSC professor of music has earned his music degrees in England, Italy, and Canada. He has a maestrordi musica degree from Rome, which is a 13-year course equal to a Ph.D., and a master of music in musicology from Toronto.

Garlick has taught at "many, many places" besides Wayne State. These include the Polytechnic Institute in London, the College of San Gabriell in Rome, and several spots in Canada.

Garlick was born in Sheffield, in Yorkshire, England. He and his wife,

Antony Garlick

Fiorella, have two children: Marco, 23, and David, 16.

"I wish I could start again with what I know—it would be an absolutely interesting experience," he said.

Members of Klick and Klatter Home Extension Club traveled to the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge last Tuesday for a fall foliage tour. After stopping at the Visitor's Center, which was constructed in July 1981, the club toured the refuge which includes approximately 3,000 acres of farmland. The refuge's share of the acreage, 40 percent, is farmed biologically without the use of inorganic nitrogen fertilizer or insecticides. The fields, which include milo, winter wheat and sweet clover, are left standing to supplement the natural foods and cover for wildlife such as migratory water fowl, deer and pheasant. Wayne High musician is 'all-American'

Local girl member of select 104-piece All-American Band

Wayne can now lay claim to an all-American. She is 17-year-old Dawn Droscher, who has been selected to play French horn in McDonald's All-American High School Band. Dawn, a senior at Wayne-Carroll High School, was notified this month that she is one of two Nebraska high school students, selected from thousands of nominees across the country, to participate in the band.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Droscher, she will march with the select 104-piece band in New York's nationally televised Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade and in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif. All travel, accommodations, expenses and special tours for band members are paid by McDonald's Corporation. Organized in 1967, McDonald's All-American High School Band recognizes accomplished high school musicians and awards "all-American" status for their achievements. Each year, two students from each state and the District of Columbia, plus one member each from the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, are chosen to participate in the band.

Students are nominated by their band director. Nominations are reviewed by a Selection Committee of top musical educators.

Selection is based on the band director's recommendation, the student's musical honors and achievements, the 104-piece All-American Band's instrumentation, and the two-per state representation requirements. Nominees must also display positive attitude, regard for authority, team spirit, and be representative of high school musicians throughout the country. Dawn, who was nominated by Wayne High instrumental director Ron Dalton, was also required to submit an audition tape as part of the selection process.

As a member of the band, Dawn is now eligible to audition for scholarships to the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

Directing the all-American band will be Dr. William Foster, nationally acclaimed director of bands and chairman of the music department at Florida A&M University in Tallahassee. Foster is President of the College Band Directors Association and has directed 33 performances for network television.

DAWN DROESCHER will play French horn in McDonald's All-American High School Band.

Long, long hours of practice pay off for Wayne High senior

By LaVon Anderson

For 17 year old Dawn Droscher, a senior at Wayne High School, the hours — and hours — of practicing her French horn have paid off. Dawn was notified this month that she has been selected to participate in the prestigious McDonald's All-American High School Band. That began her piano lessons as a kindergartener and is a former student of Arne Sorenson. Dawn performs in all of the music organizations at Wayne High, including band, jazz band, choir, and swing choir. In addition, she serves as principal French horn player with the Wayne State College Orchestra. "My horn goes everywhere with me," smiles Dawn, who practices an average of three hours each day. Even on vacation Dawn finds room in the car for her French horn — and a mule, "so nobody else in the hotel can hear me." Last summer, Dawn participated in the America's Youth In Concert European tour as first chair French horn. "Dawn is most deserving. She is the finest musician I have ever had in any organization at this school," Dalton added. "It couldn't have happened to a nicer girl, or a more deserving girl." Although Dawn's major instrument is French horn, which she'll play as a member of McDonald's All-American Band, she also is proficient on piano and baritone saxophone. She began her piano lessons as a kindergartener and is a former student of Arne Sorenson. Dawn performs in all of the music organizations at Wayne High, including band, jazz band, choir, and swing choir. In addition, she serves as principal French horn player with the Wayne State College Orchestra. "My horn goes everywhere with me," smiles Dawn, who practices an average of three hours each day. Even on vacation Dawn finds room in the car for her French horn — and a mule, "so nobody else in the hotel can hear me." Last summer, Dawn participated in the America's Youth In Concert European tour as first chair French horn. This chamber orchestra, under the direction of

Dr. William Jones, gave concerts at Carnegie Hall and St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City, Watersweet Hall in London, Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, and the Cathedral of Strasbourg. She was second chair first horn at the Nebraska Music Education Association's (MNEA) clinic band last fall, and participated in the MNEA orchestra two years ago. She has received all superior ratings on every solo and small ensemble entered at district music contests the past three years. Dawn has won various local contests and competitions, including the Lion's Club talent contest in 1979, 1980 and 1981, and the Federated Woman's Club music contest in 1979, 1980 and 1981. She also has received full tuition scholarships through competition to attend summer camps at Wayne State College and the University of Nebraska All-State Fine Arts Course. Dawn's present instructor of French horn is Dr. Michael Berger, professor of music at Morris College in Sioux City, and principal French horn player with the Sioux City Symphony.

Dawn is principal French horn player with the Sioux City Youth Symphony. An honor roll student at Wayne High, Dawn has been honored in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." She is a three-year German Club member, and served as news reporter during the 1981-82 school year. In addition, she is a Sunday school teacher at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne and serves as president of the Church Youth Group. Following her graduation this year from Wayne High, Dawn looks forward to attending the University of Southern California as a French horn performance major. Dawn is quick to credit her family and friends for their support through all her musical endeavors. "She's especially grateful to director Dalton. "He's been the dominating force, always pushing me towards continuing my efforts," says Dawn. "He was so demanding that he made me angry, he made me cry, and he made me all the more determined to prove myself. "I'm eternally thankful."

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area. We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication. Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all wedding and photograph articles for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. SORTING THROUGH USED BOOKS for the annual fall bazaar, sponsored by the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary, are Peg Gormley, at left, and Wilma Moore. The used book table will be a new feature at this year's bazaar, which is scheduled to be held Saturday, Nov. 13, in the city auditorium. Mrs.

Moore said more books are needed for the table and residents who would like to donate their used paperback or hard cover books should contact her. Books may also be taken to the auditorium after 10 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 12, when Auxiliary members will be setting up for the bazaar.

Date nears for annual bazaar

The annual fall bazaar sponsored by the Wayne Community Hospital Auxiliary is less than three weeks away.

Auxiliary President Cheryl Marra said this year's bazaar scheduled Saturday, Nov. 13 in the city auditorium will once again feature homemade gifts, candy and other baked goods, a white elephant table and special drawings for dolls, two afghans, a table runner and a latch hook rug.

An added feature this year will be a used book table. Residents who have paperback or hard cover books they would like to donate are asked to contact chairman Wilma Moore.

The bazaar also will feature a lunch of homemade soup, sandwiches, dessert and beverage.

Proceeds from this year's bazaar will go towards the payment of two new heart monitors, a central station, and two portable telemetry units at Providence Medical Center.

The heart monitors and central station are replacing old equipment at the hospital. The telemetry units, which are a new feature at the hospital, allow the monitoring of heart patients to the central station as they move about the hospital.

A special table will be set up during the bazaar with information on the new equipment which costs $22,241.93.

Plans for the bazaar were made when the Hospital Auxiliary met Friday, Oct. 15, in the Woman's Club room.

Nineteen members attended and President Marra had the thought for the day. She played a tape recorded by Lee Terry on the apathy of American voters. Julia Haas reported sending six baby cards during the past month, and Jean Benback announced that items are still needed for the fall bazaar and for the gift shop at Providence Medical Center.

Members of the auxiliary will be setting up for the bazaar on Friday, Nov. 12, at 10 a.m.

The meeting adjourned with coffee and dessert served by Luella Marra and Donna Schumacher. Next meeting of the auxiliary will be Friday, Nov. 19.

West Husker title slips away from Blue Devils

The West Husker title slipped away from the Blue Devils but slipped away from Hartington Cedar Catholic on Friday night on a 31-yard field goal.

Wayne's defense did a superb job in the Blue Devils' defensive battle of the season. The game came into the game giving up 9.25 points per game and held that to less than one third of that average.

However, after an opening quarter in the Wayne offense was shut down, the far below its game plan and average points.

The contest was such a defensive struggle that there were more punts (13) than first downs (11).

Both teams relied heavily on the run. Of Wayne's 53 offensive plays, 47 were runs. CC executed 42 plays and 35 were runs.

The game's deciding plays came in the final minutes of the winning field goal was set by a Blue Devil turnover. Wayne's defense pinned Hartington's Pat Nungesser out at the Wayne 17 yard line.

The Devils held Cedar short of a first down but Jay Weaver booted a 31 yard field goal for a 3-0 lead with 1:02 left in the first half.

Wayne's best scoring opportunity came in the first quarter of the game. The Blue Devils got the ball at their own 35 yard line and drove downfield with a consistent rushing attack, mostly in the middle.

Wayne's first pass was a completion from Steve Overin to Dennis Lebsack at the Hartington 18 yard line. Pass interference was also called on the play and gave the Devils a first down at CC 12.

Games became tougher to get and Wayne failed to punch the ball in. The Blue Devils faced fourth and six and turned the ball over on an incomplete pass.

That drive ended at the eight yard line after 11 plays and 57 yards. Wayne didn't get another good scoring opportunity for the rest of the game.

The game became a kicking contest with the teams running three plays and punting on each of the next five series. Wayne kept Cedar pinned in deep in its own territory, but being unable to get a fourth down play.

The Blue Devils needed three yards on fourth down to give them a first down inside the Hartington 30 yard line. Instead the run was stopped short and Cedar took over.

The Trojans couldn't put together a drive. The 43 yard punt with no return pushed Wayne back to the 10 yard line with less than a minute in the half. The Blue Devils managed to get down and that led to Hartington's only score.

The second half following the defensive pattern that was set in the first two quarters. But this time, Wayne didn't have Hartington's good field position.

For the first time since the first drive, the Blue Devils got together more than one first down. Steve and Dan Frevert were the key to the first down and Overin scrambled for another.

That drive ended with a punt but Wayne gradually improved its field position. The key play of the second half proved to be a fourth down run by the Devils. Wayne faced fourth and one inside the Cedar Catholic 41 yard line but came up inches short on the play.

The hosts took over with less than nine minutes in the game and ate up some valuable time. Wayne got the ball back with 5:48 remaining but was forced to punt as Cedar's big defensive line stopped the Wayne attack.

The Trojans took over the ball at the Wayne 41 and seemed to have things under control when Jim Poehlman gave Wayne new life. The junior intercepted a pass at the Wayne 23 yard line and returned to the 29 yard line.

The Blue Devils' hopes were picked off when Mark Schieffer intercepted a bomb at the Cedar 25 yard line with one minute left. The Trojans ran out the clock to preserve the win.

A victory Wednesday over West Point CC would give Cedar Catholic the West Husker title. A West Point CC win in that game would force a three-way tie between, Wayne, Hartington CC and West Point CC.

"It was just a tremendous effort by both teams. It was a tough, tough ball game. The big difference was fumbles," said Lonnie Ehrhardt whose team turned the ball over three times compared to one turnover for Hartington CC.

The game's leading rusher was Schieffer with 17 carries for 51 yards. Wayne was led by Kurt Janke with 14 carries for 35 yards. Jeff McCright with eight carries for 25 yards and Kevin Koenig with seven carries for 21 yards.

The Blue Devils held Hartington CC to only 85 total yards but managed only 144 themselves. Poehlman had an interception for Cedar's only turnover and Tim Book recovered a Wayne fumble.

"It was a tremendous football game. They took advantage of our mistake," Ehrhardt said. "We've got to gather our forces and get ready for O'Neill."

Tackling leaders were Koenig with three solos and 14 assists, Tim Heier with six solos and 10 assists, McCright with five solos and 10 assists, Bob Liska with four solos and seven assists, Terry Gilliland with one solo and nine assists, Gerald Monk with two solos and seven assists and Dan Frevert with three solos and five assists.

Other tackling totals included: Mark Kubik with one solo and six assists, Poehlman with one solo and four assists, Chris Wieseler with one solo and four assists, Janke with two solos and two assists and Tim Corbit and Tim Book with two assists each.

The Blue Devils will try to put together their first winning football season since a 5-3-1 record in 1978. Wayne will entertain O'Neill Wednesday night in the final game of the season. Kickoff time for the Parents Night game is scheduled at 7:30 at Wayne State's Memorial Field.

Banged-up Trojans now prepare to defend title

Winston Bancroft-Rosalie played more like a winning football team than an 8-6 team but the Wakefield Trojans withstood the challenge and posted a 21-6 win Friday night in Bancroft.

lewis & clark

The win was necessary to keep alive Wakefield's slim hopes of a Class C-2 playoff berth. The Trojans now must defeat Emerson-Hubbard at home Wednesday and then hope that things fall in to place. Wakefield's fate will also be determined by several other factors such as win-loss records of other teams.

Friday's matchup looked like a mismatch in the early going. The Trojans struck for touchdowns on their first two possessions while dominating the first quarter.

Jon Stelling scored on a six-yard run to cap a six-play, 58-yard drive. Rod Nixon, seeing limited action after injuring a knee three weeks ago, added the point after for a 7-0 lead. Jeff Coble scored Wakefield's next TD on a six-yard run for a 13-0 lead. That drive covered 39 yards in six plays.

"At that point, it kind of looked like we would run away with the game. Then, fumbles and penalties took their toll," Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur said.

That was the extent of the scoring until the fourth quarter. Bancroft pulled within seven points on a four yard TD run by Doug Reil. The PAT was blocked by Stelling. Finally, the Trojans put the game out of reach with a 62 yard drive that took 12 plays. Stelling scored from one yard out and Coble added the two point conversion.

The Trojan offense, which is yielding only 5.75 points a game, held Bancroft-Rosalie to 91 yards rushing and 57 yards passing. Wakefield mixed its offense with 229 yards on the ground and 114 yards through the air. Coble carried the ball 24 times for 111 yards and Stelling had 15 carries for 75 yards. Quarterback Brian Soderberg carried 11 times for 43 yards. Leading receivers were Troy Greve with three receptions for 42 yards, Rod Nixon with one catch for 37 yards and Coble with two catches for 35 yards.

Although Nixon saw limited action and Mike Clay played only on defense, Wilbur said both regular running backs will be back for Wednesday's defense of the Clark Division title. Wilbur says that game will be a barnburner.

The Trojans, who have been hit hard by injuries this season, suited up only 21 players for Friday's game and five of those were injured. Mark Kubik may have a broken collarbone and probably will miss Wednesday's game. Several other injuries were reported.

Wilbur said he has been especially pleased with the performances of some individuals this season. He said Stelling and Coble have come through in the clutch both offensively and defensively.

Defensive leaders for Wakefield were Gary Tullberg with one solo tackle, four assists, a fumble recovery, two blocked passes and a blocked kick. Mark Borg with two solos, three assists, a fumble recovery and a blocked pass. Brent VanderVeen with a solo, three assists and a blocked pass and Stelling with seven assists and a blocked extra point. Kraig Dolph had the only pass interception.

Other tacklers were Soderberg with four assists, Paul Schopke with two solos and two assists, Coble with two solos, and three assists, Troy Greve with three solos and two assists, Nixon with three solos, Mike Muller with one solo and Kirt Roberts and Ted Tullberg with one assist each. Brian Obermeyer blocked a pass.

Ponca is final foe

Wildcat defense shines as Winside evens record

The Winside defense stopped Hartington's rushing attack and then baffled its passing game to take a 26-6 triumph Friday night in Winside.

lewis & clark

The third consecutive victory has evened Winside's record at 4-4 for the year. The Wildcats will play Ponca Wednesday night at Newcastle. Ponca plays all of its home games on a neutral field because the Ponca field was not suitable for play this fall.

Hartington has relied on its ground game most of the season but had to turn to a passing attack when Winside held the visitors to only 46 yards in 31 carries. The passing game also failed with Hartington completing only 8 of 29 passes. John Hawkins carried the ball only nine times for Winside but averaged better than 13 yards a carry. He gained 120 yards for the night. Dan Mundil rushed for 51 yards and Chris Jorgensen gained 41 yards.

All four Winside touchdowns came on running plays and one was scored in each of the four quarters. Hawkins scored the game's first TD on a 19-yard run in the first quarter. Dan Broekemeler booted the extra point for a 7-0 edge.

Jorgensen added the second quarter touchdown on a four-yard run. In the third period, Mundil scored from one yard out. Hawkins saved his best run for the last when he scampered 67 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter. Broekemeler also added that PAT.

The Wildcats also passed for 147 yards with 8 completions in 16 attempts. Mundil threw all 16 passes. Hawkins caught two passes for 57 yards and Brian Bowers made four receptions for 61 yards. The only thing that stopped Winside was turnovers. The ball was lost twice on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

"We kept trying to give them the ball," said Winside coach Mark Freburg whose team was penalized twice for roughing the kicker and twice for offensive pass interference.

The offensive line did a real good job most of the game. They did a heck of a job," said Freburg. Offensive linemen who played a part in Winside's rushing success were Broekemeler, Tony Woerdemann, Kyle Miller and Jeff Thies.

Defensively, Bowers made 12 total tackles, Miller had seven, Broekemeler had six, Mundil and Thies each had five and Woerdemann had four. John Thies had a key pass interception.

Duck hunting now open

Duck hunting season got underway in Nebraska's low plains unit duck zones 1 and 2 Saturday (Oct. 23). Reports indicate waterfowl hunting in early opening zones has been spotty, with isolated areas recording good success on a number of duck species. The approach of more winter-like weather should improve waterfowl hunting across the state. Duck limits for the 1982 hunting season will again be calculated by the point system which allows the hunter to take 100-plus points per day. The hunter must stop hunting when the last duck taken puts the point total at or over 100 points. The possession limit is two legal daily bags. Duck point values: 100 points — canvasback; 70 points — hen mallard, wood duck, redhead, hooded merganser, Mexican-like ducks; 10 points — blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, cinnamon teal, scaup, pintail, gadwall, shoveler, wigeon, and all other mergansers; 20 points — all other species and sexes of ducks, including drake mallard.

Fur harvester permit needed

Recent changes in regulations pertaining to the taking of raccoon and opossum have been made by the Game and Parks Commission, according to Ted Blume, assistant chief of the Commission's Law Enforcement Division. He said any resident 16 years or older and all non-residents wishing to take either species by any means must have a fur harvester permit and a habitat stamp. Both the raccoon and opossum have been classified as furbearers and are subject to all regulations pertaining to species under that classification. The methods which may be used to take raccoon and opossum have been clearly defined, Blume said, and limit the fur harvester to taking them only with a snare, a box trap, a .22 caliber rifle or handgun. The regulation change prohibits taking raccoon and opossum by any other means, including the use of a club. Blume said it is also illegal to spotlight raccoon from a motor vehicle while the occupants of the vehicle are in possession of any firearm or bow and arrow. Raccoon and opossum may be taken by trapping or by .22 caliber firearm Nov. 5 through Jan. 7.

Crow declared a nuisance

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission has declared the crow to be a nuisance and a health hazard in Phelps and Kearney Counties and has modified the 1982-83 crow hunting season in those areas to help control large concentrations of crow in those areas. To combat large concentrations, the Commission is allowing crow hunting beginning Oct. 20 and continuing through April 8 in those counties. The season on crow in the rest of the state will remain Dec. 2 through 31 and Jan. 21 through April 8. Shooting hours will be in accordance with other upland game season regulations, one-half hour before sunrise to sunset until Jan. 1 when shooting through the remainder of the season must terminate at 4 p.m. each day. The Commission stipulates that none of the birds killed during the control effort, or their plumage, may be sold or offered for sale.

Turkey season is here

Saturday (Oct. 23) marked the opening day of Nebraska's 1982 fall shotgun turkey season in all but the late season units, and Game and Parks Commission biologists are predicting an enjoyable season for hunters. This year's turkey population is estimated at being at least as high as last year's when 2,199 turkeys were harvested by 4,298 permit holders, for a success rate of 51 percent.

Wiseman reminds senior citizens that they can join the Providence Fitness Center at a 50 percent discount, which amounts to $75 for one year.

Passing is on mark but Wausa tops Bears

Total yardage figures were about even but Wausa won the scoring battle, thumping Laurel 36-12 in Lewis & Clark Conference football action Friday. Brian Hetsch for a four-yard TD and then hit Shane Heydon on a 15-yard scoring strike for the other score. No other statistics were available. Laurel coach Kurt Buckwalter said Jonas turned in a fine performance, playing football like he is capable. He said Jonas covered Wausa's leading receiver one-on-one and stopped him as a threat. According to Buckwalter, Laurel moved the ball well from its own 20-yard line to Wausa's 20 but had trouble getting it across the goal line. "We showed we can take the ball from the 20 to the 20 but something would always happen once we got that far," Buckwalter said. "Out of offense we did a good job of protecting our quarterback and a lot of time to throw and protect them, especially the tight end situation." "The Bears were not content until the end of the game," he said. "I think the kids are going to have a great season." Buckwalter said.

Eagles' lead disappears

Late Bluejay TD kills upset bid

By Kent Probst
Wayne State College SID
The Allen Eagles lost a "Parent's Night" heartbreaker Friday when a Walthill touchdown with 1:30 remaining gave the visiting Bluejays an 18-13 win. The victory gave Walthill the Central Division title in the Lewis and Clark Conference and upped its record to 5-2. Allen slipped to 2-6 and 1-2 in conference play. The Eagles wrap up their season Wednesday at powerful Coleridge.

"The kids played their hearts out," Allen Coach Rod Bubke said. "I'm proud of the way we played, though we are disappointed with the loss." Allen shocked their visitors by taking a 13-0 lead late in the second period. The fire-up Eagle defense was largely responsible, pounding Walthill's running backs and forcing numerous fumbles in the first half. Walthill seemed to gain its composure in the second half. "They really hurt us with the counter play," Bubke noted. Another factor was the time Allen's defense spent in the game. "The defense played a tremendous ballgame," Bubke said, "but we left them on the field too long."

The Eagle defense helped set up the first score when lackle Derwin Roberts pounced on a Walthill fumble. Senior halfback Jeff Chase wasted little time in moving the ball downfield to the Bluejay three, where Jody Mahler carried it in for the score with 6:50 to play in the first quarter. Walthill blocked the point after kick. Allen dodged one bullet late in the period when a 31-yard touchdown run by Bluejay Paul Connealy was nullified by a clipping penalty. It seemed one of the few times on the evening that the yellow flag fell in favor of the Eagles.

The hard-hitting Eagles provided for the next score when they pressured Walthill quarterback Ron Moeller into making a bad pitchout that Eagle Jody Mahler scooped up and carried to the Bluejay 16. Facing a third and 13 situation, Shawn Mahler, the scrappy Allen quarterback, swept his left side for the touchdown. Jody Mahler's extra point kick made it 13-0 Allen with less than three minutes remaining in the half.

It appeared Allen would take that advantage into the halftime break when they held on the next Bluejay possession. But Allen, hoping for another score, stopped the clock on passes that carried them to Walthill 34. Following an intentional grounding call against Allen, the Eagles faced fourth and long from their own 45. Allen elected to try a fake punt, but Walthill was not fooled and stopped Chase at the line of scrimmage. Still, the Bluejays were 45 yards from the endzone and just one minute remained in the half.

Ron Moeller guided the Bluejays down the field with some nifty passing and running. The Jays were aided by a pass interference penalty on third and 10 that gave them a first down at the Allen 30. Two days later, Moeller hit Lee Montanye on a 14-yard scoring strike and visitors had closed the gap to 13-6 with just :20 remaining in the half. A run on the two-point conversion was stopped short by the Eagles.

Early in the third quarter, Moeller went back to pass but was swarmed by several Eagles and coughed the ball up. Mike Rhodman recovered and Allen had a first down at the Walthill 17. Walthill stiffened, and a 34-yard field goal try by Jody Mahler was short. The highly-regarded Walthill offense came right back with its only sustained drive of the evening, taking the ball 80 yards to paydirt. The tough running of Paul Connealy and Ron Moeller began to wear the Eagle defense down.

Finally it seemed as if the Eagles had the Bluejays halted when Walthill faced third-and-three at the Allen 31. Everyone was expected either Moeller or Connealy to run, but instead they hooked up on a 31-yard scoring pass right over the middle of the field to cut the Eagle lead to 13-12. Allen's hopes were still high when the two-point conversion pass was overthrown and the Eagles maintained their lead. But the momentum had changed hands.

Allen took the ensuing kickoff and drove to the Walthill 36 where the drive bogged down. On fourth down, Jody Mahler's punt was partially blocked by Walthill's Kendall Anderson, but the Eagle defense once again rose to the occasion and halted the Bluejays.

Following a Walthill punt, Allen had the ball on its own 29 with 10:36 to play. On first down, Ron Moeller intercepted Shawn Mahler's pass and Walthill had the ball on the Allen 34. Allen once again seemed to have thwarted Walthill when a Moeller run on fourth down was stopped short at the Eagle 14. But an Allen penalty on the play gave the Bluejays another chance.

That opportunity drew a blank as well when, on fourth down, Troy Harder intercepted a Moeller pass at his own one. Allen went nowhere on offense and elected to punt on third down from their own one foot line. The short punt carried only to the 17, and Walthill took over with four minutes remaining.

An extremely questionable late hit call on Allen provided a first down at the five yard line for Walthill. Two carries by Connealy netted three yards, when Moeller was stopped for no gain and Walthill faced fourth and one.

Another Eagle penalty moved the ball to the one-half yard line. Connealy drew the call and just crossed the goal line for the ahead score with 1:30 to play. The run failed on the PAT.

Allen's hopes all but died following the kickoff when Shawn Mahler was badly shaken up on a pass attempt. Kirk Hansen was called on to quarterback the team, but the Walthill defenders were expecting the pass and picked off Hansen's aerial at their own 47 to seal the win. It was Connealy who got the interception, capping off a fine day for him on both sides of the line.

Chase led the Eagle offense with 85 yards on 17 carries, and he notched 17 tackles as well. Derwin Roberts had 18 stops and fumble recovery, while Mike Rhodman had seven tackles and a pair of fumble recoveries.

Robby Ridgeway had 17 tackles, while Joe Ellis added 16 and Jay Jones 15. Dan Nice and Jody Mahler had fumble recoveries and Troy Harder a pass interception. Preparing for the Coleridge wishbone is Bubke's top priority. The Wednesday game leaves the Eagles little time to get ready. The game will mark the last one for seniors Jeff Chase, Jody Mahler, Terry Kellogg, Mike Rhodman, Robby Ridgeway, Todd Jewell, Troy Harder and Joe Ellis.

Eagles even their record

The Allen Eagles evened their record at 4-6 with a Lewis Division victory over Homer 15-17, 15-5, 15-7 Wednesday night at Allen. Allen coach Gary Troth termed his team's serving in the first set as "pathetic." One server got the ball in play during the entire first rotation as the Eagles got off to a slow start. Underhand servers Kelly Kraemer and Julee Book came to the rescue and got the Eagles back on track. Kraemer connected on all 13 attempted serves and Book hit all nine of her serves. Allen rallied from a first set loss to win the next two. Michelle Harder was 12 for 15 in spiking and made two ace blocks. Jeanne Warner was 7 for 9 with one ace block. Leading setters were Machele Pettit who was 13 of 15 and Pam Kavanaugh who went 8 for 10. Allen hit only 81 percent of its serves into play after serving well all year. Troth did say that his team's floor play is improving. The Eagles won the B match 11-4, 11-0 as the Allen reserves regained their form. Troth said everyone played well and cited Mary Oswald and Lisa McDonald for their play. The C match was won 11-7, 11-9 by Homer. Troth said his team played well at times but was inconsistent. Two junior high matches also were played. Allen won both the seventh and the eighth grade matches in two sets. The Eagles are scheduled to host Coleridge Tuesday in their regular season finale.

Laurel wins showdown in Clark Division

The Clark Division volleyball championship was up for grabs Thursday night and the Laurel Bears grabbed at least a share of the title with a convincing 15-2, 15-8 win over Wynot. "We were as ready to play as we had been all year and we played about as well as we can," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "They're a good team and we had to be on offense. We served and spiked the ball hard." The win means that Laurel will represent the Clark Division tonight (Monday) in a Lewis & Clark Conference playoff against Lewis champion Emerson-Hubbard. That game is scheduled at 7:30 in Laurel. Carol Osborne set the pace for the match when she scored 10 consecutive service points to lead Laurel from a 5-2 lead to a 15-2 win in the first set. She was perfect in 14 sets and 14 serves and finished the match with 12 points. Patsy Thompson hit 12 of 12 serves and scored nine points. Renee Gadeken was 10-for-10 in serving for nine points. As a team, the Bears were successful on 38 of 40 serves for 95 percent. Cammie Crookshank was 7-for-7 in setting. At the net, Gadeken made six good spikes for five aces and Jean Lute had six good spikes for three aces. The win improved Laurel's conference record to 6-1 and dropped Wynot to 5-1. If Wynot defeated Osmond on Friday, Laurel (13-3 overall) and Wynot tied for the conference title. A Wynot loss would give Laurel sole possession of the championship. In addition to tonight's game with Emerson, the Bears are scheduled to play at Emerson tomorrow (Tuesday) in the final regular season match for both teams. Laurel lost the junior varsity game to Wynot 16-18, 8-15 Friday. Renee Vanderheiden hit 18 good serves in 18 tries for 14 points. The Bears made 40 of 42 serves against what Iverson termed "a very good team." The C match also was won by Wynot 4-11, 11-8, 11-6. Lynn Malchow led the Bears with nine points and Danae Rohde scored seven. It was only the second loss of the year for Laurel's C team.

Winside nipped in three

After winning the first set with a solid performance, the Winside Wildcats could muster up only nine points in the next two sets and lost a Clark Division volleyball match 15-12, 8-15, 1-15 to Hartington Friday night. Missy Jensen hit 14 good serves in 14 attempts and scored 10 points to lead the Wildcats. Patti Langenberg scored four points. Lori Schrant was 8 for 8 in serves and Pam Peter was 6 for 6. Judy Bauermeister made four good spikes in five opportunities. Winside coach Marie Dougherty was pleased with her team's improved serving (45 of 50 for 90 percent) but not with the overall play in the second and third sets. The loss dropped her Wildcats' record to 2-9. "The two days off hurt us again. We moved slow and didn't play consistently enough. The first set went real well. We hustled and set the ball well," Dougherty said. "But our net play was pretty weak for the night." Dougherty was referring to two days of practice which were cancelled. Tuesday's snowstorm forced cancellation of practice on Tuesday and Winside had no classes on Wednesday because of furlance and electrical problems. Hartington won the junior varsity match 3-11, 11-8, 11-3. Kerri Leighton scored 11 points and Julie Bruggeman added five for Winside. The Wildcats will complete their regular season Wednesday at Ponca in a volleyball/football double header. The football game between Ponca and Winside will follow in Newcastle because Ponca's field is not playable.

Blue Devils finish 3rd

The Wayne Blue Devils wrapped up third place in the West Husker Conference Tournament Wednesday with a 15-0, 15-6 win over West Point CC at Hartington. Hartington CC won the title 7-15, 15-12, 16-14 over Wisner Pilger. Missy Stoltenberg and Deb Prenger were named to the all-tournament team, which was selected by the votes of coaches. In the win, Pam Nissen was perfect in 12 serves and scored 12 points with three aces. Stoltenberg hit eight spikes with five for aces and Prenger made five spikes with two for aces. Tami Murray had 15 assists. The Blue Devils will complete their regular season on Tuesday when they host South Sioux City. Wayne's record is now 11-7.

Wildcat netters post win over Dordt College

The Wayne State College Lady Wildcat volleyball team picked up a win on the road Wednesday night against Dordt College in Sioux Center, Iowa. The WSC junior varsity, in its first match of the season, came away a winner in a win over Sioux Empire Junior College of Hawarden. Emporia was the scheduled destination for coach Ernie Kovar and the Lady Cats' Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22-23, as they planned to compete in a Central States Intercollegiate Conference quadrangular. Other teams competing were host school Emporia, Missouri; Southern and Fort Hays State. The Lady Wildcats won a hard fought match in three sets over Dordt, losing the first game 9-15, and coming back to win the next two 15-6, 15-9. The win moved their record to 8-16 overall. For the Lady Cats' varsity, sophomore Beth Erickson led the way in scoring with 13 points, including six aces. She also tallied five downed spikes on the night. Annette Reiman topped assists with 10 and had four downed spikes. Wayne native Jill Zestis added eight assists. Balanced play along the net was led by Bobbie Gierman with six downed spikes and three blocks. Andrea Jensen and Mary Becker each had five downed spikes. In junior varsity action, the Lady Wildcats won easily in two sets over Sioux Empire Junior College 15-4, 15-1. Sand Hilbers turned in a strong serving performance, totaling 17 points including 14 straight in the second set. Freshmen Sue Walter and Rita Wilson tied in assists with six. Wilson and Theresa Brown each downed three spikes. Wayne State will wrap up the home portion of their 1992 schedule on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 26-27. Northeast Trail, Norfolk and Westmar will visit on Tuesday night at 6 p.m. Wednesday has been designated as Parents' Night, with action starting at 6 p.m.

Cats lose on road

Serving hurt the Winside Wildcats Thursday night in a 6-15, 4-15 loss at Norfolk Catholic. Missy Jensen was Winside's leading scorer with three points. The Wildcats hit only 22 of 33 attempted serves in the loss. Winside coach Marie Dougherty said two days without practice hurt her team. Dougherty said she was pleased with the play of her substitutes who "did a good job." "We were slow and we didn't have much of an offense," said Dougherty. Winside's schedule is 2-8 for the season. The Wildcats were scheduled to host Hartington Friday and will finish their regular season at Ponca Wednesday. The junior varsity match was won by Norfolk Catholic 15-7, 11-8, 8-15. Kerri Leighton and Leah Jensen each scored 12 points to lead the Wildcats.

Are you planning to build a dam?

If so, you should check with the Nebraska Department of Water Resources for water rights and you may need dam design approval.

According to State Law, any dam which impounds more than 15.0 acre-feet of water or is more than 30' in height must have approval from DWR prior to construction. If the structure is located on a flowing stream, any size of dam is required to have DWR's approval. These laws were originally implemented in 1919 to insure that adequately designed and safe structures would be built.

State Law also requires that DWR must regularly inspect any dam which impounds over 10 acre-feet of water to insure that the dam is in a safe condition and that the structure has been properly maintained since constructed. In Northeast Nebraska DWR is required to inspect 181 dams. High hazard dams are inspected annually, moderate hazard bi-annually, and low hazard are inspected every four years.

If any deficiencies are found during inspection, the Department notifies the owner so the problem can be corrected. Department of Water Resources may order landowners to correct serious deficiencies. If the Department cannot obtain compliance, the Director of Nebraska Department of Water Resources may then order the dam to be breached.

Department of Water Resources inspections routinely reveal that many dams have considerable upstream face shoreline erosion, outlet works obstructions, rodent holes on the dam face, and tree growth on the structures. Also, many dams have inadequate vegetation cover. Many of these minor problems left unattended can convert into a major problem with time.

The dam inspection program not only insures proper maintenance of existing dams, but also gives DWR additional information on the safety of different designs. If you have questions about the dam inspection program, call the Norfolk Department of Water Resources office at 379-2750.

Trees in short supply

This year, even more than other years, it is important to order your trees early. Poor germination and damage to nursery beds has substantially reduced the inventory of trees available to landowners through the Clarke-McNary Program. The reductions are mainly in the evergreen species, which are the most important windbreak trees.

The Clarke-McNary Program has been providing low cost seedlings to Nebraska landowners for many years. The seedlings are produced at Bessey Nursery in Halsey Forest, and may be used for windbreaks, wildlife, or general forestry purposes. Cost of the seedlings is $28 per hundred delivered to you. The Department of Forestry, Fisheries, and Wildlife will begin accepting tree orders November 1, on a first come-first served basis.

Several things should be done before you order your trees. As soon as possible, you should contact your local Soil Conservation Service office. SCS Technicians can answer your questions on tree species and help you select the right species to fill your needs. They can design a planting, calculate the number of trees you need and help you order. They can also arrange to have them planted if you wish.

Lower Elkhorn NRD provides a tree planting service to landowners who do not wish to plant their own. Planting is done in the spring at a cost of 16¢ per tree and for 11¢ each the trees may be sprayed for weed control. The minimum charge for planting and spraying is $50. Weed control spraying may also be done the following two years to help the seedlings become well established and improve the growth rate.

Local ASCS (Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service) offices in several counties provide cost-share assistance to landowners for establishing windbreaks and other tree planting. Order forms may be obtained from local offices of the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Lower Elkhorn NRD, and Cooperative Extension Service. For the best selections, start now.

Fall tree care

Each year millions of tree and shrub seedlings are planted in Nebraska. Considering the time, effort and expense in planting, some minimal care should be justified to help insure good survival and growth. The following are a few tree care recommendations to keep in mind this fall:

1. Remove rank weeds/grass from tree plantings. Tall weeds and grass provide excellent winter cover for rodents. Rabbits, mice or other rodents can severely damage young tree plantings.
2. If herbicides are used to control weeds in the young tree planting, apply pre-emergent herbicide (Pincap) directly over the tree row in a 4-foot band for next season's weed control. Apply after mid-October.

3. Check tree plantings before the leaves drop to determine replacement needs. After the leaves are gone, most people have trouble distinguishing between live and dead "sticks." Order replants in the fall to avoid "sell-outs."
