POLLING PLACES FOR Wayne County voters open at 8 a.m. Tuesday for the 1982 general election.

Election '82 polling places open Tuesday

Polls open at 8 a.m. Tuesday for Wayne area voters casting ballots in the 1982 general election.

While local, state and national candidates stumped down to the wire, the poll watchers and workers geared for what is expected to be a tight mid-term election turnout Tuesday.

Wayne County Clerk Greg Morris reports that "everything is in place" for the election, which gives the electorate a 12-hour opportunity to vote before the polls close at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

"WE'RE CONCERNED that there's going to be a very tight turnout," Morris said. "I really wish people would take the opportunity to get out and vote."

Workers at the polls throughout the county are expecting a "smooth election," said that unofficial results will be posted in the courthouse's main floor lobby Tuesday night.

Workers at the polling places throughout the county will tally unofficial results after the polls close Tuesday, according to Morris.

She said the unofficial tally and the locked ballot boxes will be delivered to the courthouse Tuesday.

On Thursday, Nov. 11, the official vote canvass will begin to certify the unofficial results, she said.

MORRIS REMINDED voters that some of the polling places have changed.

For instance, 4th Ward voters in Wayne will cast ballots at the city auditorium. The old polling place was the city firehall.

"That confuses people because the city auditorium isn't in the 4th Ward," Morris continued. "The reason we had to change it is that the law requires polling places to provide access for the physically handicapped."

Morris explained that if a voting precinct does not have a facility that provides access for the physically handicapped, a polling place outside the district must be provided.

IN WAYNE, the situation occurs for both the 4th Ward and the 3rd Ward.

Voters in the 3rd Ward will cast ballots at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, which is not in that precinct.

The 3rd Ward polling place was moved this year from the Wayne County Courthouse, which does not provide access for the physically handicapped, according to Morris.

Morris also reminded residents of Berry Hall and Terrace Hall on the Wayne State College campus that redistricting of the city has placed them in the 3rd Ward.

The remainder of the college campus residents are in the 2nd Ward, according to Morris.

UNDER LAW, only registered voters are allowed to cast ballots in Tuesday's general election.

Wayne County voter registration closed on Oct. 29.

Designated polling places for Wayne city voters include: 1st Ward, Villa Wayne; 2nd Ward, National Guard Armory; 3rd Ward, Methodist Fellowship Hall; and 4th Ward, city auditorium.

Other Wayne County polling places include: Brenna, School District No. 57; Strahan, School District No. 51; Hunter, School District No. 47; Hoskins precinct and village, Hoskins Fire Hall; Garfield, School District No. 77.

ALSO, SHERMAN precinct and Sholes, School District No. 76; Hancock, Winside auditorium; Chapin, Winside Legion Hall, Winside, Winside auditorium; Wilbur, School District No. 15; Plum Creek, First Trinity Lutheran School and Leslie, School District No. 25; Logan, Wakefield Schoolhouse; and Deer Creek and Carroll, Carroll auditorium.

In Wayne, political party volunteers are offering rides to the polls for voters unable to make their own arrangements.

Wayne County Republican Party volunteers will respond to voter requests for rides — call 375-1229.

Wayne County Democratic Party volunteers will respond to voter requests for rides — call 375-2200 ext. 329.

Plump pumpkins aplenty

KATHY DALTON, daughter of Ron and Mavis Dalton of Wayne, has a big toothless grin as she shows off some of the giant pumpkins she helped raise this summer. The two pumpkins in front of Kathy weighed 105 pounds and 100 pounds each. She had some of the largest jack-o-lanterns in town and plenty of pumpkin pies. So, anyone who is hungry for roasted, salted pumpkin knows where to look.

The legend of...

...Allen's Sleepy Hollow lives on in Dixon County

by Randall Howell

As the magic of moonbeams creeps full force into Sleepy Hollow this All-Hallowed Eve, the local legend stirs ghouls and ghosties and long-legged beasties...and things that go bump in the night.

And, if you are among the firm-hearted few...the Icabods who timidly tiptoe into the shadows of this last October night, your nerves will be anything but sleepy on a Halloween trip through this hollow.

For, near (very near) the village of Allen winds a bridge-broken road that cuts through the damp vales and thicket covered hillocks like a side-winding snake.

TWISTING AND turning, the serpentine path wriggles in agony across a thick-treed hollow that's haunted by silence, save the tales whispered by those who have slipped through its shivering grasp.

Creatures scamper silently through the tall twisted grass and knarled tree stumps that form a cobweb of camouflage for the beasties that frod the tortured ground.

And, the terrestrials living nearby (very nearby) trade knowing glances about the spell that lingers there.

Like legged bolts of earth lightning, the splintered limbs and trunks of trees bear testimony to the horrors of the hollow come Halloween.

THERE, IN THE tension of the unexplainable, lives the legend unfold by any would-be Washington Irving.

In headless pursuit of the nocturnal supernatural, Halloween visitors could be lured beyond the barrier between beauty and beast.

As the trees creak and groan a shy welcome to travelers, rabbits and squirrels scurry into hovels to watch the Icabods, necks craned to pick up the shrieking disharmony of Halloween.

Just over the rise, visitors drop out of sight into a world where life loses itself in the corner of inexplicity.

Charred stumps cry out to a smirking sky as the contortions of death form a rag-toothed silhouette against the lushness of autumn-fired foliage.

THE ECHO of an aimlessly kicked stone ricochets across the deep canyons cut by a creek that chases itself under the bulwark of a quivering plank bridge. Bubbling with colorless blood for the land, the creek bed gurgles into stagnant clear-water pools that mirror the maniacal magic of a jack-o-lantern moon.

SLEEPY HOLLOW'S haunted barn.

Shadows dance on the floor of the canyons and slither up the moss-blanketed banks where unfriendly tree skeletons reach out for the horror of an unexpected handshake.

The hastily abandoned personal property of previous travelers breaks from beneath branches ripped loose to the ground in the rampage of restless spirits.

UNDER A CANOPY of leaves that laugh hysterically from the constant flickle of a cold breeze, the mud-muddled Sleepy Hollow road corkscrews its way southward.

Arching, curving and flicking like the tale of a nervous black cat, the road curls around weather-worried buildings.

Long abandoned, the structures sag beneath the weight of overgrown vines. Windless and sullen, the structures trap the darkness that sifts into each room.

BUT JUST BEYOND the grasp of the sinister structures, where silent crows circle in endless flight, the path slips quietly into a tree-lined tunnel that closes off any hope of escape.

And, the clip-clop of a galloping heart deep within the chest of a terrorized modern-day Icabod breaks the silence.

Just as the sound plunges its lance of uncontrolled terror into the mindless malarkey of the wanderer, the race beyond the reach of Sleepy Hollow is won. A breathless break into open country puts out the raging fire of fear for another year.

Turn back the hands of time

If this is Monday and you haven't set your clock back, you're going to be an hour early for work.

No doubt the boss would love it, but it could turn out to be a blue Monday for you, particularly when the whole family discovers your mistake.

So, do yourself a big favor, set your clock back an hour on Saturday night before you go to bed.

That way, you'll be in step with everyone else who is marking the end of Daylight Savings Time at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 31.

It's fall, so back go the hands of time.

country boy. . .

..by randall howell

Howdy.
My agricultural sabbatical is over. And, as you may have guessed, old CB is back. I'm back at the computer keyboard with a mind as barren as the drought-stricken South Dakota soil I worked this summer. It was soooooo dry.
How dry was it?
It was so dry that I had to look up the word rain in the office dictionary before I shared these words with you.
It was so dry that when the local grocery store offered rain-checks on out-of-stock food items, the darn things bounced.
It was so dry that those things most agricultural persons dew were already done.

IT WAS SO dry that it gave a whole new meaning to the term "no sweat!"
It was so dry that the gophers took turns showering in the spittle from cud-chewing farmers.
It was so dry that the frogs carried water jugs as they hopped from slough to slough.
It was so dry that water rolling off the back of a duck was considered a downpour.
It was so dry that partly sunny meant someone saw both clouds within a day's drive of the state border.
It was so dry that...well, it was drier than a well-digger's flask.

NOT SO HERE, I understand. Northeastern Nebraska farmers had their problems this summer, but drought wasn't one of them. The beans were taller here this year than the corn was in northeastern South Dakota. And, Nebraska corn is still wet behind ears set higher than the drought-stricken South Dakota tassels. The last serious rain I experienced in South Dakota came on Memorial Day. It didn't start again until I had the horse trailer loaded and was headed south to Wayne for the winter.

I got here in time to see a preview of winter pound my trees into pulp before the weather calmed down for a flirt with Indian Summer.

LAST WEEK, it looked like the god of winter storms sat down right in my yard. Like most of you, there was nothing we could do but watch it happen. It broke my heart to see the old, gnarled trees — trees that have already survived years of weather and man — snap like toothpicks under the weight of the wet snow. There's little I love more than a tree. I would have rather had the windows in my house broken. I can fix them in a reasonable amount of time. Replacing a tree takes a lifetime. . . and half of mine's over already. I'm not the only one out on that limb, though. As I poked about town last week, I soon found I had plenty of company. It was a heyday for free-firewood collectors, but Wayne tree-lovers paid a painful price.

DESPITE THE tree-trashing episode, it's great to be back home in Wayne. I missed you. I hope each and every one of you had a good summer. I'm looking forward to getting back in the country-boy saddle again. As we ride through the coming winter months together, maybe we can find the time to share some experiences. It could be fun. Maybe my country boy ramblings will jar the dust off some of the cobwebs wrapped around your experiences. If that happens, I hope you will share your stories with me. I'd like that. It's always been my contention that everyone has a story to tell.

The only difference between you and me is that I don't know how to do anything else and you do.

NOW THAT OLD CB is back, you'll notice some changes in The Wayne Herald. The editorship of your community newspaper will be in the capable hands of two professional journalists. Veteran sports editor Randy Mascoll and veteran people editor LaVon Anderson have been appointed co-editors of The Wayne Herald. Both have worked tirelessly for years to bring you a community newspaper you can and should be proud of each and every week. Along with the promotions comes an increase in responsibilities. Both are well-prepared for and eager to take on the new challenges. The combining of their skills and talents into a co-editorship signals the start of exciting things to come for readers of The Wayne Herald.

I'M EXCITED about working with them as an associate. I know I'll be newspapering in good company and you, dear readers, will be reaping the rewards in the reading. Join me, won't you, in congratulating them for a job well done and with solid support for their future endeavors as they bring The Wayne Herald to your doorstep twice a week. I know they join me in asking you for your suggestions and ideas as we work together toward a still-better community newspaper. Both Randy and LaVon have some exciting ideas about community newspapering. I feel sure they are going to do some things that will make your eyes pop. Don't be afraid to keep them honest...and don't be afraid to offer them your supportive suggestions.

BEFORE I sign off for this week, I'd like to make a few comments about the state of affairs in this country.

Normally, I keep my opinions on national issues to myself. However, never before in our history has national policy so affected the lives of each and every one of us. You and I hear a great deal of belly-aching out there about the state of domestic affairs. You and I know the economic recession is real and it hurts. The bigger problem, however, is that we've allowed it to bring about an attitudinal recession that is going to have to be changed before anything else can be accomplished. The politics of negativism is rampant even in our own state. Something has happened to the constructive concept of voting for someone based on positive persuasion and appeal.

INSTEAD ALL too many of us are coney by the destructive caterwauling of candidates that have absolutely nothing to offer except the discordant sound of their own belly growling. Somehow, I still prefer the politician who runs for something instead of against something. I still prefer the presentation of a positive program to the caustic cut-down of another candidate. I am unabashedly stuck on statesmanship and committed in steel-jawed opposition to the cry-baby candidates — all masters of the cut-down. I often feel that I'm in the minority. I hope that I am not.

I SEE NOTHING in the single-mindedness of those cut-down con-artist candidates that smacks of leadership. In fact, I often wonder if they would treat me, or any other taxpayer, with the same contempt they display during a campaign of cutting down the opposition. And, I always feel that a candidate who preaches the positive and practices statesmanship would be a more constructive leader... a leader who would be more apt to rise above the guttering and get on with the governing. Thanks for bearing with me. I just had to get that off my chest. Catch you next week...

Ballots & bellyaches

Tuesday is voter's day. It is your day. It is my day. After all the days dedicated to the whims and fancies of political candidates, it's about time. It's about time we said something. Unfortunately, history holds that most of us will remain silent on the day set aside for us to speak out. Then, if history holds, many of us will begin speaking out on Wednesday — the day after election. I submit that if you don't speak out Tuesday, you've got no business speaking out on Wednesday. Certainly, we have the right to speak out anytime, but that's not the real spirit of the issue. We expect — in fact, demand — a great deal of our public servants. Many measure up. Many do not. Our system also demands a great deal of voters. Many measure up. Many do not. The real scoundrel of the system, however, is the citizen who shirks the responsibility of voting, yet cries for months thereafter about the public servant shirking responsibility. Where in the world did we get the idea that we have the right to complain about public servants not doing their job while, in the same breath, excusing ourselves from doing our job — voting. That kind of American attitude gives citizenship a bad name. We are the government in a representative democracy. Some wag once said that Americans deserve the kind of government they get. No matter what happens Tuesday, the citizen who doesn't vote will get a better government than he or she deserves.

Halloween is probably America's most mixed-up holiday. It is generally assumed to be a children's festival—except by a few teenagers seeking an excuse for a little vandalism and freeloading. The official date is Oct. 31, but the festivities may begin two or three days before that, depending upon the customs of any given locale. No one seems to attach any ritual significance to the festival, that is, it has no meaning, no point. Every year, the traditions weaken. Today, most children have no idea, when they go "trick or treating," that they are supposed to have a trick up their sleeves for those who refuse to treat. Tell them, "I'll take the trick," and they will stare at you from behind their false faces with blank and uncomfortable astonishment. The word "Halloween" comes from "Hallows Evening," the night before "All Hallows Day," The English label for the Christian holiday, All Saints' Day, Nov. 1. The early Christians usually managed to subsume pagan rites into a Christian context. They "converted" them, so to speak. But in the case of Halloween, the old Celtic customs connected with the harvest and the onset of winter seem to have been left untouched, untransformed—and badly remembered.

A visit that's lasted 20 years

Originally, when J. S. Johar and his family came to the United States, they intended to go back to their native country of India "fairly soon," he said. But the Johars have been in the U.S. for 20 years. 15 of them in Wayne. Johar earned his bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and physics and his master's degree in chemistry from Panjab University in India. He also taught for five years in India at a college "similar to Wayne State," he said. After earning his Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Florida in 1966, he was doing post-doctorate work at the University of Idaho. In search of a job, he applied for an opening at Wayne State, and then president Dr. Lyle Seymour came to interview him in Idaho. Johar came to WSC as an associate professor of chemistry in 1968. He is now a full professor, and a member of the American Chemical Society. He is also president and chief negotiator for the State College Education Association, the national treasurer for Lambda Delta Lambda physical science honorary, chairman of the medical technology committee, and first vice president of the Wayne Lion's Club. Johar has also taught at Cleveland State Community College in Cleveland, TN, where he was a chairman of the division of science and math. "I like to travel if I can find the time. Photography goes along with that," Johar said. Other hobbies include gardening, and "these days, politics is also a hobby," he added. Johar and his wife, Manjit, have three children: Ravi, 23; Jassi, 15; and Vini, 13. "I like Wayne State very much," Johar said. "I'm very much impressed with Wayne State as a college. I've visited a lot of places, and met a lot of people, and from what I've seen, Wayne State has a very good system."

way back when

30 YEARS AGO
October 23, 1952: Ray Finn, Wilbur Precinct, reports a hybrid yield test on his farm hit over 106 bushels per acre. The loan rate in Wayne County is $1.54 a bushel through May 31. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Victor will leave Nov. 3 from Sioux City by train for New York, where they will board a plane for Germany. They will visit Mr. Victor's mother and sisters. . . . Five weeks have passed with not a rain cloud to be seen. Firemen extinguished two stubble fires during the week. They went to the Henry Wacker Jr. farm Saturday and to the Leo Hansen farm Sunday morning. Hunters are warned to be careful of cigaretttes and matches.

afternoon when cars driven by Mrs. Dolph and Richard Temme, Wayne, collided at Fourth and Douglas Streets. Four Wayne County farmers will be among a group honored at the annual Sioux City soil conservation day Wednesday at the Sioux City auditorium. They are Martin Holmberg, Wakefield; Werrier Mann and Herbert Holtz, Winslow; and Harry Hofeldt, Carroll. Wayne's fifth annual Community Chest went over the top this week, hitting its quota of $7,265 after a week of concentrated effort by Wayne Chest workers.

15 YEARS AGO
October 26, 1967: The State Aeronautics Commission Friday authorized construction of 12 hangars valued at $18,000 at the Wayne Municipal Airport. Five other cities in the state were awarded funds, the allotment to Wayne being double that awarded anywhere else.

Conference on exports good sign

Growth of exports is vital to all the people of Nebraska. This fact places added importance on the decision of the New York City-based Agribusiness Council, Inc. to hold a conference on international agribusiness in Omaha, Oct. 27-29.

governor charley thone

Of course, Nebraska is dependent upon exporting grain. About a third of our state's crops are shipped abroad, and the chief hope for immediate improvement in the completely unsatisfactory prices for farmers is more foreign sales. But other types of Nebraska businesses depend heavily on exports also. In 1980 nearly 10 percent of production by Nebraska manufacturers went overseas, according to U.S. Department of Commerce figures. That represented a work force of 9.1 percent of all employees in Nebraska manufacturing plants. As an example of the importance of exporting to Nebraska-based firms, Jubilee Manufacturing Co., which manufactures in Omaha the world's most complete line of marine, automobiles and truck horns and burglar alarms, sells 35-40 percent of its output abroad. The Omaha conference on international agribusiness will provide first-hand information on how to sell agriculture-related equipment to other nations. Speakers will include persons from Australia, Brazil, England, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Thailand and the United Arab Emirates. The University of Nebraska at Omaha is working with the Fund for Multinational Management Education and the Agribusiness Council in organizing the Omaha conference. Local sponsors will include ConAgri, Inc., First National Bank of Omaha, InterNorth Inc., Omaha National Bank and Valmont Industries. My hope is that this conference will be held in Nebraska annually.

Middle schoolers learn on computers

The computer age has reached the Wayne Middle School. Students accustomed to playing Donkey Kong, Tron, Pac Man and other video games are now learning to operate a computer.

This past summer the school purchased an Apple II computer, a color TV monitor, a disk drive and some computer disks from the Computer Farm in Wayne.

Wayne Middle School Principal Dick Metteer is now coordinating a computer class for all interested students in grades five through eight. He is instructing a literacy class in the basics of computer use.

Students learn terminology, graphics, basic programming and typewriting skills. Terminology includes: catalog, controls S & C, cursor, escape key, go to, graphics (low and high), home, high resolution color and plotting, horizontal line, illegal quantity, list, loop, new, paired numbers, print, programming, quote, reset, return, syntax error, tab, text, variable, vertical line.

In each learning session, Metteer shows three students the basics of the computer and each student has a chance to help operate it. Metteer and the math teachers have been teaching students to work with paired numbers.

Students have been making graphs for math class and then transferring the graphs from graph paper to the computer and color monitor. Metteer said the goal of the class simply is to teach computer literacy to the students.

Additional programming can be done by students on their own time. The computer is also used by members of a Wayne 4-H computer club who are Middle School students. Metteer opens the office on some weekends and had it open over teachers convention so students could practice on the Apple II.

Two fifth graders, Martin Rump and Eric Rasmussen, are now developing programs for their science class which is studying constellations. The two boys have charted 10 constellations on the computer so the class can study them.

By punching a few keys, students can see color monitor graphs of Orion the Hunter, Leo, the "Big Dipper" or another constellation.

Martin said he became interested in computers when his dad, Wayne State science instructor Carl Rump, was involved in an aerospace class at WSC. Martin told his friend Eric about the computer and he became interested.

The two boys have been using computers and learning about their use since then. They credit Wayne State College math and computer instructor Hilbert Johs for getting them interested in computers and teaching them.

Two seventh grade math students, Gary Foote and Kurt Rump, have been busy using their math skills on the computer. They are learning how to do graphics and find extra time to do various programming. The two boys said they have learned plenty since enrolling in the computer class.

In addition to programable disks, several commercially prepared disks cover such subjects as math, science, English, social studies and health.

British college president visits Wayne State College

Dr. Kenneth Swinhoe, president of the Slough College of Higher Education in England, was a recent visitor to Wayne State College, according to Dr. Bartholomew Brady Ciampa, dean of graduate studies at Wayne State.

Swinhoe's visit came in conjunction with his United States tour of selected higher education institutions as a traveling fellow of the English Speaking Union.

His visit included a study of the relationship between colleges and the industries for which they are preparing students.

Slough College, with approximately 8,000 students, specializes in vocational, industrial and commercial areas with special emphasis on engineering, computing, science, management, and business studies.

While at Wayne State, Swinhoe met with representatives from the Business and Applied Sciences divisions. He also met with representatives from other facets of Wayne State's administrative and curricular areas. Dr. Brady Ciampa said:

In addition, Swinhoe visited Wayne State College master's degree student Nancy Schwede at Northeast Technical Community College in Norfolk, where they discussed procedures in vocational assessment and career evaluation and exploration.

Swinhoe made a special point to visit Wayne State College because of his familiarity with the institution as a result of continuing correspondence with Dr. Brady Ciampa, who in 1975 served as visiting American lecturer at the Doncaster College of Education of the University of Sheffield in England.

Swinhoe was serving as vice president of that institution at that time.

All-State Honors Choir includes Wayne Staters

Seven singers from Wayne State College choral organizations have been named members of the second annual College University All-State Honors Choir, said Dr. Cornell Runestad, Wayne State director of choral activities and professor of music.

The Honors Choir will be convened in connection with the Nebraska Choral Director's Association state convention in Kearney today (Thursday) and Friday.

The Honors Choir will be under the direction of Dr. James Fritschel of Wartburg (Iowa) College. The group will present the final concert of the state convention.

The seven Wayne State singers named to the prestigious group include Kathy Oines, a junior from Albion, Steve Linn, a senior from Laurel and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Linn; Connie Linder, a senior, and Cindy Linder, a junior from Onawa, Iowa; Luann Jary, a senior from Onawa, Iowa; Tim Ganseborn, a junior from Osmond; and Gene Bechen, a sophomore from Schleswig, Iowa.

THE SHERIFF'S JOB

Now this Sheriff's job is a curious one;
Like the housewife's work, it's never done.
Calls come by night and come by day,
They may be near, or miles away.
Do hurry up, says the voice of the caller;
You're badly needed in Possum Holler.
Paw's on a rampage; he's got a gun;
Been looking for Maw since halfpast one.
So we jump in our flivver and hit the trail;
And drive like a streamliner carrying the mail.
Our only hope and all we can figure,
Is to be on hand before Paw pulls the trigger.
We finally arrive and amid confusion —
We learn the affair was a simple delusion.
Paw with his gun was just hunting squirrels.
Maw had gone to school with the two oldest girls.
Next day we're hunting a mottled-faced cow;
That night we referee a nice family row.
Now, that's just a sample of what we do;
And endless variety of the old and the new.
It may be a prowler, a burglar, a drunk;
He may steal your billfold, your watch or your trunk.
We set out to catch him, and we do our best;
We catch our percentage and lose the rest;
We can't catch them all, for some leave no clue —
They don't leave their cards, like the candidates do.
Sometimes they plead guilty, and the judge will pardon.
Then half the country will want them paroled.
They blame the depression, the new deal, the tariff —
But most of the folks put the blame on the Sheriff.
So, it's quite a game, if you stay right in —
You'll get a pat on the back, and a sock in the chin.
But, I like it, and I'm shedding no tears —
And I'd like to be your Sheriff for the next four years.

Stories of ghosts and goblins

Boys and girls, dressed as ghosts, goblins and E.T.s, made their annual rounds Sunday night collecting candy on Halloween. No Halloween is complete without treats, tricks and some scary stories.

Each year, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students at Wayne County School District 51 contribute their prize stories to The Wayne Herald.

As usual, the stories show plenty of imagination and ingenuity. Morris Jacobsen, teacher at District 51 submitted the stories so they may be shared with our readers.

Read on, but if you get scared just keep repeating, "It's only a story... it's only a story..."

An opened door (This is a story about George)

He recalled on Oct. 31, that he had been guarding his property against trespassers. He had just gone around his property and had sat down on a fence post. He glanced around and saw a light in an abandoned house across a field.

He walked quietly toward the house. He stepped on the old rotted steps. Quietly, he opened the old, rusty hinged door. He approached the stairway and looking around, saw a shape of a candle stick. He felt his pockets for a match and found only one. He struck the match. It flickered but stayed lit so he lit the candle. A soft, eerie glow was on everything.

He reached for the rail of the steps, and softly walked up them. He entered a room but couldn't figure out what a strange figure was. He approached it and then saw it was a body with teeth marks in it. It was done within the last hour.

He ran out of the room, raced down the steps. He approached the door and pushed but it was locked. He heard something coming down the steps. He sprinted into the kitchen looking for a back door, but there was none.

He saw a window over the sink. Grabbing a chair he threw it against the window. The window broke, the footsteps came closer. He leaped out the window landing in a pumpkin patch. The thing came out the window. He got up and ran.

He was never seen again. Some say he was devoured by Dracula but I don't think so. What do you think?

The noise

One dark gloomy night as was getting into my costume for trick or treating, I heard a screech and a smash. I looked out the window and I saw nothing. Then I yelled for dad. He came running. I told him what I heard. He said I was imagining things.

Later that night instead trick or treating I looked for clues about what I heard. First I looked in the alley. I saw a figure in the alley. It was a very tall figure. I turned on my flashlight, but the figure was gone.

Then I saw the figure again running down the alley. I ran after him. The figure ran through the wall. I stopped and examined the wall for a door. There wasn't one.

I got scared when I heard that same screech crash. Then I saw what it was. It was a cat knocking over garbage cans. Then I thought maybe I was imagining things.

The robbers' hideout

One night I had some friends over for Halloween night. We were getting our sleeping bags ready in the graveyard next to our house. Near the graveyard there was this big house. Some people think it's haunted so nobody wants to go in it.

Later that night everybody was in their sleeping bags but everybody got out and decided to go in the house and see if it was really haunted. When we were walking up the lane, we saw some tracks of a pick up.

We were up by the door now. It opened. We looked inside, then we walked in. It looked like a nice house, it was all fixed up inside, but out side it looked haunted.

We went in a room it had a T.V., radio, jewelry, and alot of other things. And then it just popped in my mind that those things were robbed. We didn't want to find the robbers so we ran to town and told the police.

They went out and found and arrested them. When they were arresting them, we got a reward for finding the robbers. After they took the robbers away, we went back to our sleeping bags. We picked them up and decided to sleep in the house because after all the excitement, we were scared.

The graveyard

There once was a graveyard and it was a spooky one Halloween night. One night when I went trick or treating I went there and all of a sudden a cat meowed.

I looked at it and it was black. I walked a little farther and an owl went whoo whoo. I looked again and it was brown with black eyes. Then my cousin Lee Pilger came and wanted to know how much candy I had.

Then when he left, I heard a pool and I looked up and saw smoke. I followed it and there was somebody alive that had been buried. While I was running it said, "Boo and Happy Halloween."

By Junior Paustian

P.S. I never went back there again.

The graveyard spook

There was once an old man in the graveyard. I was told that he was to kill a child or he will die that Halloween Night. I was not to go near the graveyard gates.

He went and grabbed two trick or treaters and dragged them to Drackula's grave. He took out a knife and held it to their throat. The children were so scared they could hardly speak.

Drackula suddenly rose from his grave and save the kids. He reached to the man and grabbed the knife and kids from this area. Then the man turned and started to run. Drackula raced after him and jabbed it in to his back. From then on noone was afraid of the graveyard spook.

The killer scotch tape

One day while I was walking along, I saw something land in the street. It looked like a big roll of scotch tape. Out of the scotch tape ship jumped hundreds of 10 foot pieces of scotch tape.

The tape attacked everything in its way. If there was a person in the way, the tape would just stick the person to the ground. Everything was stuck to the ground. The people, cars, and even dogs were stuck to the ground.

Before I knew what was going on, the whole town of Galamagoo was overrun by tape. You could say we were in a sticky situation.

The tape people took everyone into their ship and took us to some faraway planet. When we got to the planet, the tape people stuck us to the walls in a chamber until their leader had time to come and see us.

While we were waiting, I thought up a plan. I slowly reached into my pocket and pulled out a match. I lit it and the smoke set off the fire alarm which in turn set off the sprinkler system which got everything wet.

When the tape got wet, it shrank down to regular tape size and it also lost its stickiness. We all ran to the ship and headed for the exit. We found out when we got back that all the tape in the spaceship was gone and we ended up with a 10 year supply of tape.

13th, Street

There is one night I will never forget in my whole entire life. It all started when I was walking home from a babysitting job at about mid night on the thirteenth day of October.

Our house was just three blocks away from where I babysat, but it seemed like the longest three blocks I have ever walked. I had to go on 13th street which was full of old condemned houses, all but one anyway.

I don't know what seemed to make me so curious as to what the house was like but I soon found myself in the entry way of the big, eerie house. It almost seemed as if the house itself was watching all the other houses on the block. I noticed a shadow moving slowly across the creaking floor as if to say, "Good evening."

The figure appeared from behind a long black curtain. Its face was like a blank piece of paper with red ink running all over it. I screamed and tried to run, but my feet wouldn't move.

The figure came closer and finally I headed for the door, out and on to the street, where I almost got hit by a car. I ran the rest of the way home and have never returned to 13th street.

The witch invasion

Once upon a time there was a town of Perciville. Perciville was near Mt. Tealon, where all the witches lived. One night everyone woke up to hear some kind of laughing. Then all of a sudden witches came out of nowhere. Everywhere there were witches, witches, witches.

There was a small voice from the crowd that was gathering. It said, (in an angry voice): "Let's give the witches a taste of their own medicine." So they did.

Of course they didn't get a wink of sleep that night. But the next all the town people gathered around the mountain. Then they made all the racket they could.

When they went back home everything was fine. Then the witches did it again. But the town's people decided to sign the Treaty of Witches. After that they never ever had another trouble.

Halloween

It all happened one Halloween Day. It was the day all the pumpkins came to life. When pumpkins came to life the people of Dist 51 were scared because the pumpkins ate some of the people.

That same day when we came to school, the pumpkins were in the building sitting on a desk. Everybody turned around and ran. The pumpkins ate some more people.

That night when we went to school building for a party. We all had a sharp knife and cut up the pumpkins.

Chicken heart

One Halloween in a dismal graveyard, there was a group of boys by the names of Mark, Bob, and Roy. They were walking through the graveyard when a large heart jumped out at them. It was a chicken heart, and it was still living.

The heart was six foot tall, and all bloody. The heart was making a thumping sound, thump thump, thump thump, thump thump. When the boys saw that, they screamed and ran. When the boys turned around, there was another chicken heart.

They looked in all directions for an escape route, but they were surrounded by four chicken hearts. The only thing that could stop the hearts was a giant tarantula. They were in luck. The chicken hearts saw the giant tarantula, and they fled for their lives. The boys, Mark, Bob, and Roy, got eaten by the giant tarantula instead of the chicken hearts.

The night the witches get back

The night of October 30 all the witches got together and had a meeting about getting back at the people who tell all their children not to believe in witches. They had a big plan, and they were going to put it in progress on the night of October. They had it all planned out.

On the night of October 31, the witches decided to convince the trick-or-treaters that there really are witches. So they hopped on their brooms and flew around the trick-or-treaters, and when they left the children were screaming and yelling.

Then they went to all the houses around the world where the parents were. And when they were through with the last house, all the parents of the world thought they were insane. When the witches were finished with scaring all the people on earth, they went back to their homes.

Ever since this night everyone believed in witches but nobody would admit it.

Breaks go Emerson's way in title game

By Randy Hascall
Hurt by a couple of bad breaks, the seventh-ranked Wakefield Trojans were knocked off 29-15 by Emerson-Hubbard Wednesday night in Wakefield.

The matchup was for the East Division championship of the Lewis & Clark Conference and both teams entered the game with slight chances of qualifying for state playoffs. Neither team did. Wakefield finishes the season with a 7-2 record while Emerson finishes at 4-7.

The final score wasn't indicative of the kind of ball game that was played. It could have easily been a one or two point difference between two fine ball clubs which seemed equally matched.

The two key plays that led to Emerson's 14-point win were an interception late in the first half and a turnover on a punt late in the third quarter.

The Pirates held the upper hand in the first half and were leading 7-0 with less than a minute to play in the second quarter. That's when things fell apart for Wakefield. With less than 30 seconds remaining, the Trojans put the ball in the air on a sideline pattern.

Emerson's Bill Paulsen stepped in front of the intended receiver, intercepted the pass and returned it 35 yards for a touchdown. The Pirates laced a kick for the extra point and Steve Larson passed to Jerry Mackling for two points with 23 seconds left in the half.

That 15-point deficit put the Trojans in a tough situation opening the second half. But Wakefield drove the ball 84 yards for a touchdown on its first possession.

After Mike Clay and Rod Nixon ground out a first down, Mike Clay broke free on a wide dive play for a 62-yard jump, moving the ball from the Trojan 31-yard line down to inside the Emerson eight. On the following play, Nixon took a pitch from Brian Soderberg on an option play and swept eight yards for the TD.

Soderberg passed to Nixon on an option play to give Wakefield a two-point conversion and pulling the Trojans back within eight points with 7:53 left in the third quarter.

Wakefield shut down impressive running back Dean Fuchser and the Pirate offense on the next series. On fourth and 22, Emerson punted and got the break it needed.

Jeff Coble awaited the punt and apparently debated whether to field the ball or let it roll. He decided to let it go but the ball took a big bounce as Coble tried to get out of the way. An Emerson player, unsure of whether the ball touched Coble, wisely picked up the loose ball and carried the ball into the endzone.

Two referees watching the play said the ball touched his jersey and awarded the Pirates the ball. But because Coble never had possession, it was not a fumble and, according to the rule book, could not be advanced. However, Emerson did gain possession inside the nine-yard line.

Two plays later, Emerson caught Wakefield off guard when sophomore quarterback Bob Utemark threw a screen pass to Fuchser and the junior rolled 10 yards to the touchdown with 3:02 left in the third quarter. The point after failed but the touchdown blow hurt Wakefield's momentum.

The Trojans wasted no time putting together another threat and got themselves back in the ball game. Soderberg threaded the needle to tight end Gary Tullberg on the first play of the fourth quarter. Tullberg was dragged down at the Emerson three-yard line. The picture-perfect play covered 37 yards up the middle of Emerson's defense.

Two runs moved the ball to within one foot of the goal line and Clay took it in from there. Nixon's point after kick made the score 21-15 with 10:35 left in the game.

Wakefield put an immediate stop to Emerson's next possession. The Pirates faced third down and five but Gary Tullberg dropped Fuchser for a five-yard loss. Emerson punted and the Trojans took over at their own 37.

Three plays later, Wakefield faced fourth down and about 1 1/2 yards to go. Nixon ran the ball outside but was stopped short of the first down on one of the most important plays of the game.

The Pirate defense again held Emerson and forced the Trojans to punt. The kick carried into the endzone and Wakefield had one final opportunity beginning at its own 20 with 5:21 left in the game.

The hosts gained six yards on the first two plays from scrimmage. On third down, a pass to Tullberg up the middle was overthrown. On fourth down, Soderberg rolled right with a tremendous Emerson rush. The pass fell incomplete and the Pirates took over at the Wakefield 27.

Emerson was on the move and Fuchser capped the short drive with a three-yard touchdown run with 1:18 remaining. He also added the two-point conversion for a 29-15 lead which held up until the final gun.

Fuchser had also scored Emerson's first TD on a 21-yard run midway through the second quarter. He finished with 159 yards on 31 carries. Paulsen added 83 yards for the Pirates.

However, the game's leading rusher was Wakefield's Mike Clay. Clay ended his high school football career with 26 carries for 169 yards. Nixon added 25 yards for the Trojans.

Statistically, the ball game was pretty even. Wakefield had 199 yards rushing and 37 passing yards for a total of 236. Emerson rushed for 202 yards and passed for 30, making a total of 232. But, Wakefield had three turnovers on an interception, a fumble and a touched punt. Emerson didn't commit any turnovers in the game.

Although the Trojans were penalized only five times for 35 yards, several of the penalties came in key situations and were costly.

Defensive leaders for Wakefield were Wayne Guy with three solo tackles and 15 assists, Clay with one solo and 13 assists, Soderberg with 10 assists, Coble with a solo and six assists, Nixon with two solos and nine assists, Jon Stelling with two solos and seven assists, Paul Schopke with one solo and nine assists, Ted Tullberg with one solo and five assists, Troy Greve with one solo and five assists and Gary Tullberg with one solo and four assists.

Seniors listed on the Wakefield team are: Mike Clay, Rod Nixon, Jon Stelling, Mark Borg, Mike Muller, Paul Schopke, Ted Tullberg, Brent Vander Veen and Gary Tullberg.

O'Neill steamrolls Blue Devils

Brutising O'Neill, unranked in the Associated Top Ten ratings, issued a challenge to the rest of the Class B state playoff field Wednesday night with an impressive 48-8 drubbing of Wayne.

A "Parents' Night" crowd watched the Blue Devils give up more than twice as many points as they had given up to any team all season. Wayne, which finished its season with a 4-5 record, had suffered its four losses by a total of 28 points. The Eagles became the first team to have real success moving the ball against the Blue Devil defense.

O'Neill just missed a top ten rating but will have a chance to prove itself Wednesday when the Eagles open play in the Class B playoffs.

The Blue Devils saw more than they wanted of 185-pound Mike Hedlund. The senior tailback scored four touchdowns and carried the ball 26 times for 139 yards.

"O'Neill is by far the best team we've faced this year. We didn't do much in the first half," said Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt.

While the Eagles rushed for 255 yards, the Devils had only 51 yards in 33 carries. Wayne passed for 118 yards with eight completions in 23 attempts. However, O'Neill intercepted three passes.

Kevin Koenig was leading rusher for Wayne with six carries for 25 yards. Dan Frevert scored the Blue Devils' only touchdown on a two-yard run in the third quarter. Kurt Janke added the two-point conversion.

Shaun Niemann started the game at quarterback and completed two of nine passes with one interception. Steve Overlin came off the bench and completed five of 13 passes with two interceptions. Brad Moore completed the only pass he threw.

Terry Gilliland made three receptions for 46 yards. Janke had two catches for 44 yards. Pete Warne had a reception for 15 yards and Layne Lueders had Wayne's other catch of six yards.

Wayne's only touchdown came early in the third quarter. Jeff McCright recovered Wayne's on-side kick to open the second half and advanced it 16 yards to the O'Neill 29-yard line. A pass from Overlin to Gilliland put the ball on the two and Frevert capped the drive with a TD.

The Devils again tried an on-side kick and Bob Liska recovered this time. However, the drive stalled and O'Neill regained control.

Wayne was forced to punt and the kick was partially blocked. Chris Wieseler grabbed the ball in the air and carried it into the endzone as two officials signaled a touchdown. But, the ball was brought back one yard short of a first down and O'Neill took possession.

Eagles finish with loss

A tough schedule took its toll on the Allen football team as the Eagles lost their fourth consecutive game Wednesday night 7-41 to fifth-rated Coleridge. The Bulldogs will now compete in the Class C-2 state playoffs Wednesday.

Allen ended its year with a 2-7 record playing five teams which were rated at one time during the football season. Those five teams are Coleridge, Ponca, Walthill, Wakefield and Newcastle.

The Coleridge offense was just too much for the Eagles to handle in their season finale. Russ Miller scored two touchdowns and Mike Hottart passed to Kris Olesen for two others. Hottart and Bruce Norbury scored Coleridge's other two TDs.

The Eagles' only score came on a 25-yard run by Jeff Chase. Jody Mahler kicked the extra point.

Coleridge scored one touchdown in the first quarter, two in the second, two in the third and one in the fourth. The win gave the Bulldogs the runner-up spot in the Central Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference. Coleridge's only loss was to champion Walthill.

"Our final record was kind of disappointing but we could have won some more of those games. Ponca and Coleridge were the only two teams who really dominated us," Allen coach Rod Bubke said. "We accomplished some things this season if just seemed we had a little letdown after the Walthill game. Coleridge is a quick, well-coached, excellent team."

Defensively, Keith Karlberg made nine solo tackles and nine assists, Robby Ridgeway had eight solos and nine assists, Chase made six tackles and nine assists, Derwin Roberts had five solos and 10 assists, Jody Mahler made four solos and 11 assists and Joe Ellis had four solos and 10 assists.

Shawn Mahler and Troy Harder each made one interception in the game. Leading rusher was Chase with 24 carries for 79 yards. Kirk Hansen carried nine times for 31 yards.

Seniors listed on the Allen roster are: Todd Jewell, Jeff Chase, Jody Mahler, Dan Nice, Terry Kellogg, Robby Ridgeway, Mike Rhodman, Troy Harder and Joe Ellis.

7-1 Osmond blasts Bears

Osmond, a Class C-1 power in northeast Nebraska, handed the Laurel Bears their fifth shutout loss Wednesday, 49-0 at Laurel.

Mark Scott, Jeff Gast and Carl Fuelleber did most of the damage for the winners, who finished the year at 7-1.

The Bears played five teams who were rated at one time or another this season. No statistics or information on the game were available. Laurel ended its year with a 1-8 record.

Seniors listed on the Laurel roster are: Mike Dietrich, Dennis Martinson, Scot Curry, Dennis Hart, Scott Kardell, Ron Hirschman, Lathan Asbra, Harlan Urwiler, Roger Jensen, Shane Heydon, Mike Jonas and Tim Lineberry.

"We have a tough ball club and we were really successful this season. This is by far the best ball club Wayne has had since 1978 or earlier," Ehrhardt said. "We said before the season started that this was potentially one of Wayne's best football teams and the kids proved it."

Ehrhardt said he will continue to put his returners through workouts in the weight room in preparation for next year. "We must work hard to maintain our winning ways," he said. Ehrhardt should have some quality athletes moving up to varsity from the unbeaten reserve team and successful freshman squad.

Tackle leaders were Jim Poshman with six tackles and nine assists, Kevin Koenig with four solos and 10 assists, Tim Haier with five solos and eight assists, Gerald Monk with three solos and nine assists, Bob Liska with four solos and five assists, Jeff McCright with two solos and seven assists, Darrin Billheimer with four solos and four assists, Kurt Janke with two solos and five assists, Mark Kubik with one solo and six assists, Dennis Lebosck with a solo and three assists, John Carhart with four assists and Brian Loberg with one solo and two assists.

Seniors listed on the Wayne team are: Shaun Niemann, Jon Jacobmeier, John Warne, Terry Gilliland, Jeff McCright, Kurt Janke, Dan Frevert, John Carhart, Tim

Improved Ponca shuts out Cats

Ponca may be the best 6-3 football team in Class C-2. The Indians collected their fourth consecutive win Wednesday with a 35-0 thrashing of Winside. The game was played at Newcastle since Ponca's football field is under repair.

"They played well and we could have played better," said Winside coach Mark Freburg. "They're a good ball club."

Ponca, which lost its second and third ball games of the year to Emerson-Hubbard and Wakefield, was led by two fine rushing performances. Blake Bostwick paced the attack with 143 yards on 22 carries and Bobby Backman carried 11 times for 127 yards. Each back rushed for more than 1,000 yards this season.

The Indians scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, two in the third and one in the fourth while running for 214 yards. The Wildcats had 24 carries for only 84 yards and added only five yards passing.

Winside committed six turnovers for three fumbles and three interceptions.

Improved Ponca shuts out Cats

Defensively, Dan Broekemeier made 11 tackles and Brian Bowers had 10.

The Wildcats finished the year with a 4-5 record.

Seniors listed on the Winside team are: Jon Meierhenry, John Thies, Jeff Behmer, Brian Bowers, Dan Broekemeier and Tony Woerdemann.

Lady Cats win a pair

Parents night brought a happy finish to Wayne State's volleyball regular season. The Lady Wildcats drilled Northwestern College of Orange City, Iowa 15-3, 15-10 Wednesday night in Rice Auditorium. WSC used a balanced attack to turn back its foe. A strong net game, consistent serving and diving saves gave the fans an exciting match to watch.

Beth Erickson led the winners with seven points and hit six downed spikes. Jill Zells and Annette Reiman dished out six assists each and Diane Wachholz netted five-downed spikes.

The Lady Wildcats, who are now 11-19-1 for the season, played in a four-team round robin tournament Friday and Saturday at Pittsburg, Kan.

Wayne State also won Wednesday's junior varsity match 16-14, 15-1 over Northwestern. Colleen Neuhaus of Wakefield paced the Lady Cats with 13 points. Sue Walter made nine assists and scored five points.

Coach Ernie Kovar was pleased with the performance of both of the squads and the fact that all members were able to see considerable playing time. "We have progressed all season long and have come to rely on off speed spikes and dinks as the key to our offense. Brute strength isn't as important; our goal isn't to blow our opponents away with power," Kovar said.

Regular season over

The regular season ended on a sour note Wednesday night as the Winside Wildcats lost a volleyball match 7-15, 12-15 to Ponca.

Winside coach Marie Dougherty said her team got off to a slow start and added that the Wildcats need to get going for districts which open Monday. Winside is scheduled to play Decatur at 8:30 p.m. in the D-7 district at Laurel.

Dougherty said her team hopes to put its offense together and play well against the Class D competition.

In Wednesday's loss, Lori Schrant scored seven service points and Missy Jensen scored six. Jensen was good on nine of 10 serves and added four ace spikes. Schrant hit nine good serves in nine attemps and had two aces. The Wildcats hit 32 of 40 serves for 80 percent while ending the regular season with a 2-10 record.

The junior varsity match was won 12-15, 15-7, 15-6 by Ponca. Winside was led by Julie Bruggemann with nine points and Julie Warnemunde with six.

C-5 district

Laurel, runnerup in last year's district tournament, is the top-seeded team in this year's field when the Class C-5 district tournament opens Monday at South Sioux City.

The Bears will play Ponca at 6 p.m. Monday in the South Sioux City gym. At 5 p.m. Emerson Hubbard and Homer will clash. Second-seeded Wakefield will meet Walhill at 7 p.m. and third-seeded Winnebago faces Allen at 8 p.m.

Semifinals are scheduled Tuesday with the Laurel Ponca winner meeting the Homer Emerson winner at 7 p.m. At 8 p.m. the Wakefield-Walhill winner takes on the Winnebago-Allen winner.

The district championship will be played at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (Nov. 4).

B-3 district

Omaha Roncalli moves into the Class B-3 volleyball district this year and the Omahans will be top-seeded when the tournament opens Monday (Nov. 1) at West Point High School. Wayne High is seeded fifth in the eight-team field.

Wayne will meet old nemesis Hartington CC for the fourth time this year at 6:15. Roncalli and Blair will play at 5 p.m. third-seeded Waverly-Pilger will face South Sioux City at 7:30 and second-seeded Logan View will play host West Point at 8:45.

The Wayne-Hartington CC winner will meet the Roncalli-Blair winner at 6:30 Thursday (Nov. 4) and the Waverly-South Sioux winner will face the Logan View-West Point winner at 7:45 Thursday. The championship match is scheduled at 7:30 next Friday.

D-7 district

Winside is scheduled to open district volleyball action Monday against Decatur in the Class D-7 district tournament at Laurel-Concord High School.

The Wildcats will meet Decatur at 8:30 p.m. in Monday's final first round match.

At 4:30 Newcaste plays Santee in a preliminary match. The winner of that match meets Snyder at 6:30. The 5:30 match pits Niobrara against Coleridge. Hartington and Verdigrè will clash at 7:30 with the Winside-Decatur match set to follow.

If Winside wins, the Wildcats will play the Verdigrè Hartington winner at 8 p.m. Tuesday (Nov. 2). The other semifinal round match is planned at 7 p.m. The district championship will be played at 7:30 Thursday (Nov. 4) in the Laurel-Concord gym.

Randy's Recap
By Randy MacCall

A quiet exit... The high school football season came to a quiet and peaceful end Wednesday night for all of the teams in The Wayne Herald coverage area. Only football playoffs are left and no teams in the immediate area have qualified this year.

Unfortunately, all five high school teams in our coverage area finished the year with losses.

Pairings for the playoffs were not yet drawn up at the time this article was written but most of the qualifying positions had been decided.

In Class A, Omaha Westside and Omaha Northwest are ranked first and second respectively. I believe the prep raters are correct this time and I feel those two teams will vie for the title.

A northeast Nebraska power, Norfolk lost its final two games of the year. At this time, I believe the Panthers gained a wildcard berth. Unfortunately, the odds are stacked against them in the playoffs.

Although Superior is rated first in Class B, I think that Elkhorn Mount Michael might be the cream of the crop. And as a longshot, I'll predict that unrated (also underrated) O'Neill will make the finals.

In Class C-1, I'm guessing that Crofton can edge Gibbon for the state title. Class C-2 should be an exciting one with Humphrey St. Francis topping first-rated Henderson.

I haven't followed Class D football at all this season so I'll just make a wild guess. In D-1, Lawrence and Ansley will battle for the top trophy. In D-2, Hordville will surprise Odell and Loomis.

Winside grad coaches champs
Scribner High School's volleyball team won the East Husker Conference title this year. Coaching the champions is LaNelle Zofka, a 1977 graduate of Winside High School and 1981 grad of Wayne State.

Scribner defeated North Bend, Logan View and Pender a couple of weeks ago to win the conference title.

Five TDs on seven plays
Dennis Paul, more commonly known in these areas as "Beefy," earned some ink in the Omaha World-Herald about two weeks ago.

The Cedar Rapids Tigers, coached by Paul, ran seven plays from scrimmage in the first quarter of their game against Central City Nebraska Christian and scored five touchdowns.

The final TD came with 6:02 left in the first quarter. One of Paul's players rushed for 243 yards and four TDs on 14 carries. The other 3 1/2 quarters was much calmer with the Tigers only adding one more touchdown for a 39-13 win.

Marathon runner
Cathryn Cook, a 1973 graduate of Wayne High School and 1977 graduate of Wayne State, participated in this past weekend in the Riverfront Marathon at Omaha.

Cathryn has run in several marathons and would like to someday qualify for the Boston Marathon. The Riverfront Marathon, like most major marathons, will cover 26 miles.

Sleepy Hollow haunted by things that go bump in the night...

Dixon County's little Sleepy Hollow may not match the hallowed mystery of Washington Irving's legendary tale, but that doesn't haunt the folks in and around Allen.

Generations of villagers and area farmers have grown up telling and retelling tales of Halloween horror hidden in that prairie hollow.

Most agree it's one of the "prettiest places around these parts," but few express any interest in an after-dark visit.

SLEEPY HOLLOW is not Sleepy Hollow to everyone.

In fact, it's just a stretch of unfarmed rolling prairie to some. To others, it is a hunter's dream. And, to a few, it is a nightmare.

Long ago, trees took over the banks of the creek that cuts through the hollow, which is less than 3 miles southwest of Allen.

Gravel strewn county roads wander through the prairie garden spot, which has also gained a reputation as a local "Lover's Lane."

Deer, racoon, rabbit and squirrel live and play there, protected by a screen of tall, dense grass and trees, studded by a tightly woven network of dead limbs and stumps.

THE HOLLOW IS, indeed, something of a summer paradise for birds and beasts.

But, the hollow also has all the stuff from which Halloween tales are made: abandoned farm buildings, hoot owls, gnarled trees, a meandering creekbed, rustic bridges and a topography that isolates it from the surrounding countryside.

And, if you stop at the Farmer's Cafe in Allen for directions to the hollow you may hear a tricky tale or two that treats your hunger for Halloween horror.

Some nearby farmers claim a little green man lives in the hollow. And, stories abound about how one young fellow found out the hard way a few years ago.

AS THE STORY goes, he wandered into the area and was badly beaten by the little monster.

Some of the skeptical villagers are still convinced that strong drink and an nocturnal encounter with a barbed wire fence gave the young fellow his scars.

Perhaps the little green man was dropped off by a UFO (unidentified flying object). There are those in Allen who claim that Sleepy Hollow is a haven for UFOs.

More than one witness subscribes to the UFO theory. And, it's not unusual to hear the stories of several sightings.

While just how the little green man got there is subject to much debate, most agree he lives in an abandoned house in the hollow.

SIGHTINGS OF a little white furry monster also keep the Sleepy Hollow stories alive in and around Allen.

No one seems to know if the little white furry monster is the little green man's pet.

It's easy for cynics to scoff at those stories as close encounters of a weird kind.

After all, little green men and little white monsters have been in the minds and imaginations of mankind for eons.

But, listen here. How about that green light that recently appeared in the cornfield and killed the engine on a local farmer's combine.

When it disappeared, the engine came back to life and the harvest continued.

AND, THE HUNTERS will tell you that the yowling coon dogs running the creek bed fall silent along a spot near the middle of the hollow.

The dogs always emerge quite happy to take up the baying, but they run without sound through that mysterious thicket.

That's hard to dismiss over a cup of 30-cent coffee at the Farmer's Cafe. It's even harder to dismiss if you stay long enough to get your second cup of coffee (for free).

Besides, who'd challenge anyone's story in a cafe where Camel straights anchor the cigarette shelf behind the coffee counter.

OVER THE YEARS, a number of other strange incidents have taken place in or near the hollow.

There's no doubt that a local man hanged himself near the hollow. That's absolute fact.

And, then there was this "crazy guy" who spent years jumping out in front of cars traveling the muddy, winding road that cuts through the hollow.

Though no one owned up to actually seeing this fellow, most insisted that his nocturnal trick was to wait in the bushes at the side of the road until an automobile approached.

Then, naked from the waist down, the trickster would pounce into the lighted road way for a few moments before disappearing into the underbrush.

And, so the story goes.

MORE THAN ONE villager retold a story about a couple of young fellows who, traveling through the hollow one night, spotted a light in an old abandoned house that is hidden deep in the heart of the area.

Since there has been no electricity to the abandoned house for years, the daring duo decided to investigate.

As they pushed their way toward the vacant house, they saw lights going on and off in the rooms.

Once inside, one of the young men was grabbed from behind and "roughed up a bit," while the other fled in terror.

The darkness prevented any identification and the "roughed up" explorer soon caught up with his partner pounding the road toward home.

TWO YOUNG ALLEN men who once lived in an old farmhouse at the north end of the hollow remember a number of incidents that encouraged them to respect the mystery of Sleepy Hollow.

"As soon as it gets dark, it gets spooky in there," explained Kevin Hill of Allen.

He and Gary Troth laugh about the night a racoon walked into their home through the front door while they were watching the World Series.

But, the laughter fades a bit when they recall getting their car stuck in the mud near the north end of the hollow late one night.

"We had to walk south through the entire hollow and on to a neighbor's house along the paved highway," Hill said, shivering at the retelling of the incident.

TROTH REMEMBERS the day he was in the hollow shooting his bow and arrow.

"I was standing there and this huge cat, like a mountain lion, came walking down the fence line," he said. "It was tall and had a long tail and got pretty close before it saw me and disappeared."

Troth also recalled traveling through the hollow one night with friends in two cars. The cars were a few hundred feet apart as the first one crossed the old bridge.

"The second car never made it across the bridge," Troth said. "It collapsed when the car was on it and the kids ended up at the bottom of the creek."

Hill and Troth shook their heads in unison.

"I ALWAYS LOCKED the doors on the house when it got dark up there," Hill said. "It's a basic hoot owl place," Troth added.

"We always look our girls up there because the magic of the place seemed to make them more submissive," Troth continued, acknowledging that he always locked the car doors.

Troth and Hill were brave enough to hold a Halloween party in Sleepy Hollow one year.

"We put up some special props," he said grinning. "But, you didn't really have to do that. It's scary enough the way it is."

Neither expressed an interest in visiting Sleepy Hollow on this Halloween.

FOR WAYNE-CARROLL SCHOOL BOARD

Voters of School District 17

On November 2, I am seeking a spot on the Board of Education of School District No. 17. I am a mother of three school age children with a sincere interest in the future course of the educational system in Wayne. As a lifelong resident of Wayne and a graduate of Wayne-Carroll School system, I am familiar with this system and some of the existing and potential problems that face us. As a taxpayer, I share the concerns of other taxpayers in making sure every dollar spent by the board is justified and I pledge my efforts to eliminate excess spending.

I am not seeking this office in order to represent any special interest groups nor am I seeking to make any radical changes in our present school system. Thanks to the dedicated efforts of past and present school board members, school administrators, and faculty and staff of District No. 17, we are blessed with an excellent system that functions very efficiently. I pledge my full ability to continue their efforts and to further improve our school system.

Your vote on November 2nd would be appreciated.

A confused voter

THE ELECTION ISSUES have been confusing to some voters throughout the campaign. One confused voter finally gave up in exasperation Friday morning. He placed Charley Thone signs on his Bob Kerrey pickup and parked against traffic on Main Street. He was last seen muttering his way to the Wayne State Campus.

Business and Professional DIRECTORY

Vote For Experience And Commitment To Efficient And Effective City Government

RE-ELECT

DARREL D. HEIER

First Ward
Wayne City Council

Paid for by Darrel Heier

THONE
Resolute Stands

You may not agree with every belief of Governor Charles Thone, but you know where he stands.

KERREY
Flip-Flopping Positions

Bob Kerrey has been on both sides of most major issues.

EXAMPLES

Death Penalty

Governor Thone believes that some violent crimes are prevented by criminals' fear of the death penalty. Therefore, in 1980, the Governor vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature that would have repealed the death penalty.

↑ The Flip: Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star, May 2, 1982; Concerning the death penalty, "He said he supports its abolition."

↓ The Flip: On August 12, 1982, Kerrey told the Greta Optimist Club he favored keeping the death penalty.

Special Rights to Homosexuals and Lesbians

Governor Thone was on record in opposition to the proposed "gay rights" Lincoln Ordinance, and like about 75 percent of the citizens of Lincoln voted against it in the May 11, 1982 primary. The Lincoln Star, May 7, 1982, quoted Kerrey's opponent in the Democratic primary, State Sen. George "Bill" Burrows: "If he were a Lincoln voter, Burrows said he would oppose the ordinance 'because it gives homosexuals housing discrimination privileges in preference to families with children.'"

↑ The Flip: Minutes, Lincoln Commission on Human Rights, December 1, 1981; Mr. Kerrey: "...move that we recommend to the City Council to include affectional or sexual orientation as a member of protected class, and that we define affectional or sexual orientation as being male or female homosexuality, heterosexuality, and bisexuality by orientation or practice, by and between consenting adults... a businessman who was concerned about being able to hire whom-ever he wanted, and was also concerned about being able to put together a good group of employees that he felt were compatible and would be able to work together as a team. And we clearly see in this instance that there were certain things that people do not have a right to do. In this instance it's clear to me one of the things an employer should not have a right to do is to either deny employment or to fire someone because of a preference, because of particular sexual preference."

↓ The Flip: Lincoln Journal, August 21, 1982: "That (GAY RIGHTS) is not an issue of mine."

Compulsory Unionism

Governor Thone supports Nebraska's Constitution which contains a right-to-work provision prohibiting forcing a person to join a union against his or her will. Since 1949, this Constitutional guarantee has worked well for both labor and management. A governor can't veto a proposed Constitutional amendment passed by the Legislature, but Governor Thone has said he would lead a public campaign to defeat a proposed amendment that would take away the freedom of Nebraskans to join or not to join a union.

↑ The Flip: Omaha World-Herald, June 29, 1982: "Bob Kerrey, Democratic candidate for governor, said he told a session of Omaha labor union leaders that he would sign a repeal of the state right-to-work law if it were passed by the Legislature....The current issue of the Omaha Labor Chronicle said Kerrey made the remark at a recent 'off-the-record' session with area union leaders."

↓ The Flip: Lincoln Star, August 19, 1982: "Democratic gubernatorial candidate Bob Kerrey says he 'would vote no on the question of repealing the right-to-work section of the Nebraska Constitution.'"
