Wayne County voters stay course with Thone

Bereuter, Keck post area wins

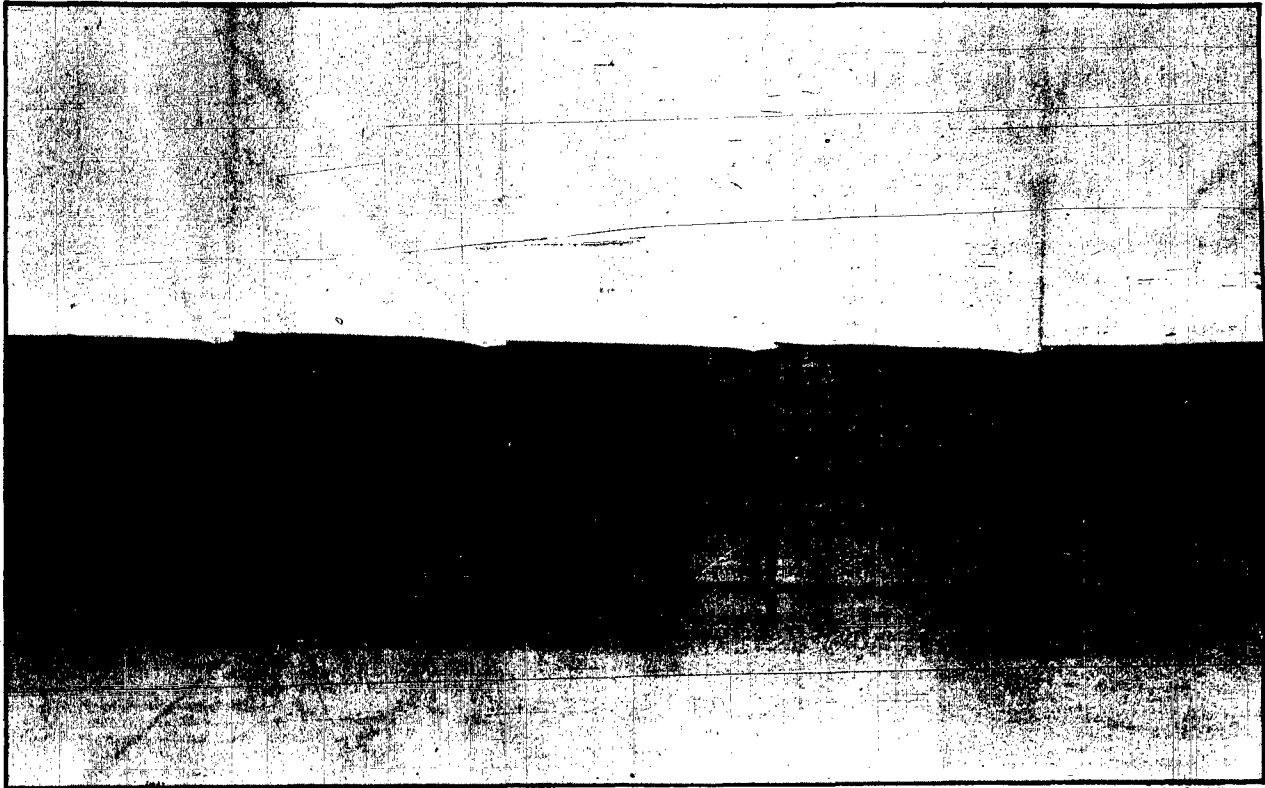

Though Nebraskans statewide appear to have changed the course of the statehouse, Wayne County voters stood solidly behind Republican Party incumbent Gov. Charles Thone.

Thone beat his Democratic Party challenger, Bob Kerrey in Wayne County by nearly 700 votes, according to unofficial returns at the Wayne County Clerk's office.

AND, THOUGH one-term Sen Edward Zorinsky, an Omaha Democrat, has won re-election statewide, Wayne County voters supported Omaha Republican challenger Jim Keck with a 1,778 to 1,446 tally.

Pondering at the polls

FOUR 2ND WARD voters ponder election decision in the voting booths at the National Guard Armory Tuesday afternoon. Voting was heavy throughout the county with nearly a 60 percent turnout for the mid-term election.

Wayne city voters stayed the course Tuesday, re-electing a full slate of City Council incumbents.

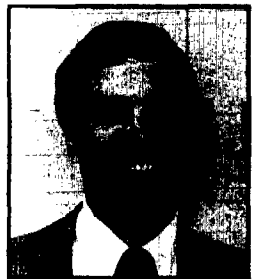

RIGHT ON OWENS' heels was candidate Arnold Emry of Wayne in a six-vote battle for the third seat.

INCOMPLETE RETURNS show the 4th Ward challenger garnered 95 votes in three of the four city wards.

IN WINSIDE, voters elected Ray Roberts, Melvin Meierhenry and Lynn H. Lessmann to three seats on the Winside School Board in an uncontested race.

LeRoy Janssen

Bob Ensz

Janssen, Ensz win county's top races

Wayne County voters elected a Republican sheriff and a Democrat for county attorney Tuesday in the only two contested races.

UNOFFICIAL returns in the race for third district regent of the University of Nebraska shows Norfolk businesswoman Margaret Robinson with a commanding 2,110 victory over Don Dwork.

MAYOR MARSH'S opponent, City Councilman Gary Vopalensky, staged an 11th-hour withdrawal from the city-wide election — a maneuver that came too late to keep his name off the general election ballot.

Lame-duck budget-cutting session begins Friday

by Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association

The special budget-cutting session of the Nebraska Legislature is scheduled to begin Friday.

How factions will line up during the lame-duck meeting is impossible to predict.

Perhaps the pivotal budget issue during the session is whether or not to reduce the amount of aid which the state gives to local governments, including school districts, counties, cities, community technical college districts and natural resources districts.

GOV. CHARLES Thone has said reductions in local aid will be needed to effect the kinds of budget cuts which will be needed to bring state spending obligations within the range of expected revenues from the state sales and income tax.

Thone's opponents, including Sen. Dave Newell of Omaha, say they'll oppose reductions in local aid programs.

The effect of such reductions would be simply to force up what Nebraskans must pay to their local governments.

Nebraskans are unwilling to avoid a sales and income tax rate increase at the expense of higher property taxes, Newell and other opponents say.

THE POLITICS of the special session became slightly more complicated last week when Omaha City lobbyist Jerry Prazan, whose job it is to resist a reduction in aid to municipalities, pointed out that the Legislature would have to amend LB 816A if it is to reduce aid to cities, counties and NRDs.

The problem with that action is that it could make moot the pending lawsuit against the state aid formula enacted in the 1982 regular session. The suit, currently awaiting consideration before the Nebraska Supreme Court, was filed by Antelope and York counties at the urging of Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh.

DeCamp claims the aid formula unfairly takes aid from rural areas and gives it to urban areas.

THE MAIN point raised in the lawsuit is that the formula wasn't legally passed. It received 29 votes, and DeCamp and the attorneys for the two counties argue it needed 30 votes to be properly enacted under the state Constitution.

Prazan says that if the special session reconsiders the appropriations in LB 816A, and replaces them with lower figures through passage of a special session bill with at least 30 votes, LB 816A ceases to exist. That would make the legal challenge moot, Prazan says. DeCamp had declined to say as of last week whether he agrees with Prazan's logic.

If Prazan is correct, it would leave the influential DeCamp in a position of fighting state aid cuts simply to keep his lawsuit alive.

DeCamp was utterly accomodating to Thone in 1981 when the governor sought mid-year cuts in special session. This year, the Neligh senator could be opposite side from the governor on the key question of reducing state aid to local governments.

AS OF THIS writing, the issue of unapproved Christian schools hadn't been added to the special session agenda.

Supporters of the Rev. Everett Silven of Louisville, administrator of Faith Christian School, had been hoping to add the question to the special session agenda.

Silven, who had been in the Cass County jail for ignoring an order to close the school, is free until the end of the special session.

If no action is taken to grant a waiver to Faith Christian and similar unapproved schools, he'll be back in jail.

THE LEGISLATIVE agenda, under the Constitution, could be expanded beyond budget matters in two ways only: Thone could issue a revised call for the session listing Christian schools as a permissible topic for lawmakers, or 33 lawmakers could petition to call their own special session to deal with the topic.

State officials in the executive and legislative branch have expressed little enthusiasm for either option, which could mean that Silven could end up back in jail in a few weeks.

The issue is likely to spill over into the regular 1983 session, which is scheduled to begin in January. It promises to be — for the third year in a row — one of the hottest items that lawmakers will have to deal with.

Promises, promises

The electorate has spoken.

And, as the tears of victory and defeat clear over the next few days, the country will begin turning to it's newly elected and re-elected officials for leadership.

At the local level, where the politics of accountability is a day-to-day affair, leaders face the challenge of keeping campaign promises.

Unfortunately, the keeping of campaign promises seems to diminish in direct proportion to the distance between the level of government and the governed.

That, somehow, keeps local officials under promising and over-delivering. But, it also allows state and national leaders to over-promise with an under-delivery.

Today, however, the mood of the country is such that the newly elected or re-elected state or national leaders would do well to follow the example set by local officials.

Marathon campaigns tend to raise the expectations of voters. Furthermore, both state and national office-seekers tend to play to those rising expectations — often riding them into office.

Once in office, however, elected leaders often begin a new campaign... a campaign to begin lowering the expectations of the voters.

It's a time-worn manipulation that, given the disappointments already found in a prolonged recessionary economy, makes a mockery out of the election process.

All too soon voters are unable to distinguish between the rascals thrown in and the rascals thrown out.

Again, it seems to happen more frequently in direct proportion to the distance between the level of government and the governed.

Tuesday's state and national general election winners need to do more than recognize the problem, they need to begin doing something about it.

But then, the danger is that they'll promise to do just that and then fail to deliver.

On the farm

Nebraska farmers and ranchers should become familiar with the new federal tax provisions affecting their operations.

Many provisions of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 will take effect this year. The 1982 tax rate reduction has been increased to 10 percent, and the highest marginal tax rates reduced from 70 percent to 50 percent.

Depreciation has been replaced by the Accelerated Cost Recovery System (ACRS). This allows full three-year recovery of assets such as automobiles and light trucks. However, a longer life may still continue to be used for recovery of capital investment through depreciation.

The ACRS also allows faster depreciation write-offs for assets with a useful life of five years. Costs of most tractors, machinery and equipment can be recovered in five years.

A provision being implemented for the first time is the expense provision, which allows taxpayers to deduct a maximum of $5,000 of the cost of depreciable assets put into use during the year. This amount must be subtracted from total cost before investment credit or ACRS deductions are calculated.

It is important to remember that this provision reduces investment credits. Investment credit is more liberal, allowing six percent investment credit on three-year assets and 10 percent of five-year assets.

Farm and ranch managers should be well enough informed to recognize how various management decisions can affect taxes. An internal Revenue Service publication, "Farmers Tax Guide," will be available free of charge from Cooperative Extension Service offices by mid-November.

way back when

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 30, 1952: The Wayne County extension board met Tuesday evening and hired Myrtle Andersen, Albion, as county agent to succeed Mrs. Robert Reynolds who resigned recently. Seven-hundred students from city schools, campus schools and the college attended the concert Monday given by Rubinfo and his violin. Neighbors and friends picked 85 acres of corn Wednesday for Edward Linn, Concord. Mr. Linn is recovering from an attack of polio.

25 YEARS AGO

Nov. 7, 1967: Wayne Ministerial Association held a fellowship supper at Redeemer Lutheran Church last Monday welcoming Rev. and Mrs. William Miller and family. Rev. Miller is the new Wesleyan Methodist Church pastor. Three Wayne youths were among the WSTC students named to "Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities" this week. They are Jack Backer, Cathy Nuernberger, and Bill Wollenhaupt. Wayne was one of only 38 U.S. cities to top 1957 campaign goals, United Community Funds and Councils of America, Inc. announced Thursday.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 1, 1962: Lynda May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur May, Wayne, and Rosemary Gilliland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gilliland, of Wayne, have been named on the mid-quarterly Honor Roll of the CE School of Commerce, Omaha. Dave Hamer, son of Judge and Mrs. David Hamer, Wayne, will be the featured speaker in a special program Nov. 9, sponsored by the Wayne Woman's Club. Alan Cramer, Wayne Herald publisher, was named director of the Interstate Editorial Association, at the association's convention in Sioux City last week.

15 YEARS AGO

Nov. 2, 1967: Karmitt Sluve, son of Mrs. Herman Sluve, Wayne, has been appointed assistant state guidance director for New Mexico. World Community Day is scheduled Friday, Nov. 3, at 2 p.m. in the United Presbyterian Church, Wayne. Sponsoring group is the United Church Women of the city. Don Schumacher, instrumental music teacher at Wayne High School, was elected to represent the district at the Assembly of the Nebraska School Activities Association.

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 2, 1972: The first of a series of classes in computer programming, set up exclusively for area high school students and instructors, will be held Monday night at Wayne State College. Norvin Hansen has been named editor of the Wayne Herald, replacing Claire Hurlbert. The "Trick of Treat for UNICEF" netted the Wayne Carroll High School FHA members $147.85 Tuesday night during their campaign in Wayne.

Politics of fear is unfortunate

Now that the election is over, I feel free to say something in a stance that won't be as likely judged partisan about the unfortunate fallout that occurs in the heat of political debate.

We have recently seen two situations in which misleading information ends up scaring and hurling people who should be helped.

Many of our older Nebraskans who are currently receiving Social Security retirement benefits have been frightened into thinking that the retirement benefits they receive have been cut. This is not the case!

IT IS TRUE that there are some problems facing the Social Security system. The President's National Commission on the Social Security Reform is preparing recommendations that should be ready by the end of the year. Congress will have to take action to correct the problems, and some of the options will require that difficult decisions be made.

Retirement benefits have not been cut and there really is no clear evidence that current retirees will ever see their retirement benefits cut. Let's see what will happen.

I have assured Nebraskans that I did not believe Social Security retiree beneficiaries should have their retirement benefits cut since many could not cope with such a change.

Necessary changes should be prospective for new retirees and phased in after notice of eight or more years. Furthermore, it seems clear that most Members of Congress are reluctant to cut the retirement benefits of those now receiving them.

ANY MAJOR changes in Social Security retirement insurance should be phased in gradually and should not reduce the benefits of current retirees. The only changes that have taken place in the past year have affecting student benefits and death benefits not retirees! How many times does that have to be emphasized?

Apparently, the answer is a great many times to correct the misinformation that has been intentionally spread during an election year.

There have been changes in the benefit replacement ratio and there will be changes in the spouse offset, but in both situations the changes are not retroactive. They do not reduce the benefits of people receiving them before the changes were implemented.

I am very concerned about the misleading information that has been circulated. It is especially cruel and unusual punishment for any individual or organization to use these tactics on older Nebraskans who are likely to be quite worried about such changes.

ANOTHER GROUP of Nebraskans has been left with the impression that they have lost some financial assistance. Earlier this year, significant reductions in the Pell Grant student aid program were proposed. Certainly, the education community cannot be criticized for bringing the effects of this sort of cut to the attention of the public. But again there has been some unfortunate fallout.

The cuts were proposed, but Congress did not go along with the proposal. Legislation cleared by Congress at the end of September specified the rules governing distribution of grants during the 1983-84 school year. It overturned Department of Education rules aimed at achieving a deep cut. This means that the funds are available.

Because of the early information they received, many students became alarmed and prematurely revised their education plans. Now some of these students are not in the colleges they wanted to attend or they are not in school at all—and there is student aid available.

FOR EXAMPLE, according to a recent account in the "Fremont Tribune," Midland Lutheran College recently announced that while it is receiving about 95 percent of the federal aid it received last year, applications for that aid are down 12 percent.

In the process of making their best case against the cuts, the education lobbies may have hurt some of the private colleges they wanted to protect by unintentionally discouraging enrollment at those institutions.

Again, too often wrought election year charges by politicians caused harm to both students and educational institutions. It's really too bad important subjects like these can't be discussed in the election season more realistically and with greater honesty and discretion.

The American people are too often the losers in these rhetorical and lobbying battles.

To the editor:

On Oct. 20, the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was called to another house fire. Luckily, the fire was discovered in its early stages.

The fire department was notified and was able to extinguish the blaze before much structural damage occurred. There was, however, considerable smoke and heat damage. The occupants thought they should have smoke alarms but they never got around to getting them.

If this fire had progressed another 15 minutes, 10 minutes, or even 5 minutes, they could have been another Cal Ward fire or another Dale Gutsall fire. And, there could have been one or more victims of smoke inhalation or death. When there is a fire in the house, minutes count.

Of all the early morning fires that the Fire Department has responded to in which there was extensive damage, not one of the homes were protected by smoke alarms.

The fire department would like never again to have a "bad" fire. But we need the help of early detection. If every home in the Wayne area were protected by smoke detectors, the possibilities of this happening would shrink drastically.

For as little as $10-$15 you can purchase a smoke alarm. It's a small price for peace of mind. It could save your life.

Not only are smoke alarms a good idea, they are also mandated by state law. As of Jan. 1, 1982, all new construction and remodeled homes are required to have smoke alarm protection. Any residence sold after Jan. 1, 1982, must be provided with smoke detection prior to the sale.

We recommend that smoke detectors be installed on each living level of the home. Some of the best places to place them are near sleeping quarters and near stairways.

If you have any questions pertaining to what type of smoke detectors to purchase or where they should be placed, feel free to contact me and I will be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Can Surmount meeting set

Mrs. Beth Russell, an oncology nurse, will speak at the next CanSurmount meeting in Wayne, scheduled Monday, Nov. 8, at 7 p.m. in the dining room at Providence Medical Center.

Mrs. Russell will talk about the different aspects of chemotherapy.

All interested persons, especially victims of cancer and their families, are invited to attend.

Persons who wish additional information about the CanSurmount meeting are asked to contact Mrs. Don Kubik, Mrs. Jack Middendorf or Mrs. Ralph Barclay.

Newlyweds honored

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thompson of Grand Island were honored at a reception Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold George, Dixon.

Attending were 30 friends and relatives from Laurel, Dixon, Concord, Allen and Lincoln.

The program included scripture and devotional comments by Morris Kvois, and two readings by Mrs. Paul Huddleston. Don Oxley played harmonica, and Wayne Dempster played accordion.

The couple opened gifts following a cooperative lunch. Thompsons were married Aug. 28 in Jackson, Minn.

85th year observed

Friends and relatives gathered in the home of Mrs. Myrtle Jacobsen of Winside Sunday to help her celebrate her 85th birthday.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jacobsen and Robbie, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Jacobsen and family and Mrs. Lenora Davis, all of Winside, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Manske of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Holloway and Mr. and Mrs. Goner Roberts, all of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Redel and family of Columbus.

Mrs. Randy Jacobsen baked and decorated a birthday cake for the cooperative lunch.

Acme plans Guest Day

Acme Club will hold its Guest Day meeting on Nov. 15, with a 1 o'clock luncheon served by United Methodist Women. Reservations are due by Nov. 12.

Fourteen clubwomen met Monday afternoon in the home of Camilla Liedtke. Zita Jenkins was welcomed as a new member. Bonnell Koch had the thought for the day, and roll call was "Hints from Heloise." The group made tray favors for Providence Medical Center.

A $20 contribution was sent to the Nebraska Children's Home in Omaha.

Toastmasters plan meeting

Toastmasters will meet at the Corner Cafe in Laurel on Monday, Nov. 8, at 6:45 a.m. All interested persons are invited.

Toastmaster will be the Rev. Art Swarthout. Stan Starling and Anita Gade will present their speech, entitled "Organize Your Speech." Marley Stewart will be in charge of table topics, and Harold George will serve as jokemaster. Ed Fahrenholz will introduce a new word.

Grammarian will be Abe Lineberry, and evaluators will be Mary Ann Christensen, Lyla Swanson and Marie George.

World Community Day set

World Community Day services in Wayne, sponsored by Wayne Church Women United, will be held this Friday at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

All Wayne area women are invited to attend, and babysitting will be provided.

Delivering the message will be the Rev. A. R. Weiss of Christian Life Assembly Church. Music will include a solo by Grace Melton.

Local participating churches include St. Mary's Catholic, United Presbyterian, Redeemer Lutheran, First Baptist, St. Paul's Lutheran, and First United Methodist.

Annual bazaar in Laurel

United Presbyterian Women of Laurel will hold their annual bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 6, in the Laurel city auditorium.

The bazaar, which begins at 9:30 a.m., will feature crafts, Christmas decorations, children's toys and gift items, along with a bake sale and lunch.

The lunch menu includes ham and cheese sandwiches, taverns, beef vegetable soup, pie, rolls and coffee. Serving will be until 2 p.m.

'Deathtrap' opens at WSC

THE WAYNE STATE COLLEGE theatre department will present Ira Levin's "Death Trap" in the newly renovated Ley Theatre on Nov. 7, 8 and 9. The play opens Sunday with a 2 p.m. matinee. Curtain time Monday and Tuesday is 8 p.m. Pictured rehearsing a scene from the play are, from left, Michelle Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Brockmoller of Winside, Andrew Harris, and David Blenderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blenderman of Wayne. General admission to the play is $3, and tickets may be purchased at the door. Group rates are available by contacting the theatre department. Wayne State students will be admitted free with identification. Ley Theatre is located in the education building.

Grants available to teacher candidates

Young women who are residents of Nebraska, students at Wayne State College, and going into teaching, are encouraged to apply for the grant in aid provided by Psi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma.

Application forms may be obtained from the Financial Aids Office, Hahn Building, on the Wayne State campus.

The application forms and the accompanying letters are due in the Financial Aids Office before Dec. 1, 1982.

The grant will pay part of the tuition and fees for the January 1983 semester.

Preference in selecting the recipient will be given to juniors and first term seniors who are residents of Cedar, Dixon, Knox and Wayne counties.

Wakefield hosting youth evangelists

The Rev. Willard Grant and his wife Margaret will present a nightly Christian program for children next week at Wakefield.

The Grants, who have been youth evangelists since 1955, will appear Sunday through Thursday, Nov. 7-11, from 7 to 8:15 p.m. at the Wakefield Covenant Church, Eighth and Winter Sts.

Pastor Grant will don a sailor's hat and become skipper of the clipper ship "Star of the East," sailing to five different ports — from New York to Mexico, San Diego, the Sandwich Islands, China and Alaska.

per ship journey of 140 years ago will be 22 marionettes, 30-inches tall, carved by Pastor Grant.

In addition to the marionette performances, there will be visualized songs and chalk talks.

The Grants will appear in costumes such as those worn by a clipper ship captain and his wife. Authentic ship artifacts also will be used throughout the week.

HELPING re-create the clip-

ALL AREA parents are invited to attend any or all of the nightly programs with their children.

Since 1955, the Grants have traveled 45,000 miles a year to minister to over 70,000 children.

Laurel Honor Society tapping new members

The National Honor Society (NHS) at Laurel-Concord High School will be tapping new members during a ceremony today (Thursday).

The public is invited to attend the ceremony at 8:30 a.m. in the school's old gymnasium.

A spokesman for NHS said 28 juniors and seniors are eligible for membership, having maintained a 3.0 cumulative grade point average.

Candidates also are rated by faculty members on a point system in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service and character.

Also on the program this year will be the tapping of an honorary NHS member from the Laurel community. Each year another honorary member will be selected.

Current members of NHS are Jana Cunningham, Kelly Robson, Tim Lineberry, Colleen Mackey, Renee Gadeken and Kami Helgren.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Thomsen

Open house scheduled for 60th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Thomsen of Wayne will be honored for their 60th wedding anniversary at an open house reception on Sunday, Nov. 14. All friends and relatives are invited to attend the event from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the basement of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Fifth and Lincoln Sts., Wayne. The couple requests no gifts. Hosts will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Esther) Baker of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph (Irene) Jones of Auburn.

Korn-Edmonds repeat wedding vows in Wayne

Jodene Korn became the bride of Steven Edmonds in Oct. 23 rites at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. The Rev. Jim Buschelmann officiated at the 1 o'clock double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Korn of Wayne. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Edmonds of Omaha. The newlyweds are making their home at 4905 South 14th, Omaha.

MUSIC AT the couple's wedding ceremony included "May the Lord Bless You," "Charity," "My Sweet Lady," and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Tom Fletcher and Deena Share, of Wayne. Organist was Rae Kugler of Wayne.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride appeared in a long, white taffeta gown. She carried a cascade of dusty rose roses and blue carnations.

Her honor attendant was Judy Korn of Omaha, and bridesmaid was Lori Mikkelsen of Sioux Falls, S. D. Their Copenhagen blue gowns were in floor length, and each carried dusty rose carnations. FLOWER GIRL and ring bearer were Sara Kivohlavak and Matthew Schreck, both of Omaha. Candles were lighted by Kristi Albert of Axtell and Trisha Lutt of Wayne. Serving as best man was Mike Gellatey of Omaha. Groomsman was Tim Edmonds, also of Omaha. They were attired in gray suit coats with pin-stripe pants. Guests, registered by Lucretia and Shella Edmonds of Omaha, were ushered into the church by Greg Chapp and Bob Maglic, also of Omaha.

A RECEPTION was held at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne following the ceremony. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Weak of Malvern, Iowa. The wedding cake was cut and served by Mary McKillip of Neligh and Esther Gathje of Laurel. Edna Korn of Wayne poured, and Mary Edmonds of Kansas City served punch. Waitresses were Michelle Lutt and Joan Daum, both of Wayne. Marcia Nelson of Wakefield, and Peggy Weak of Malvern, Iowa.

Ak-Sar-Ben scholarship recipients

FOUR WAYNE STATE COLLEGE students were recently named recipients of Ak-Sar-Ben scholarships for the 1982-83 academic year. Ak-Sar-Ben distributes nearly 400 scholarships each year to 26 area colleges, according to John D. Woods, chairman of Ak-Sar-Ben's scholarship committee. Wayne State College recipients of the $575 scholarships, with parents' names in parenthesis, are Grady Hansen (Rod) of Omaha, a senior majoring in health, physical education and recreation; Mark Hummel (Jim) of Wayne, a freshman business major; Kevin Kraemer (Fritz) of Allen, a senior majoring in business administration; and Julie Livingston (Lester) of Ames, a senior interior design major. Winside ghosts, ghouls appear for annual party Cowboys, witches, devils, mummies and princesses all made their way to the Winside city auditorium Sunday for a Hallo week party sponsored by the Winside Federated Woman's Club. Fifty-five youngsters, along with many parents and grandparents, attended the annual event.

Judging of costumes began at 7 p.m., with three prizes awarded in each division.

COSTUME winners in the pre-school division were Edward Hafemann, cowboy, first place; Andrew Jensen, pumpkin, second place; and Gabriel Lyle, Boss Hogg, third place.

In the kindergarten and first grade division, winners were Kent Damme, witch, first place; Shannon Holtgrew, princess, second place; and Matthew Jensen, Darth Vader, third place. Winners in the second and third grade division were Chad Evans, devil, first place; Chris Mann, Star Wars, second place; and Jenny Kelly, witch, third place.

In the fourth, fifth and sixth grade division, winners were Shawnette Janke, Hunchback of Notre Dame, first place; Chad Carlson, mummy, second place; and Craig Evans, Miss Piggy, third place.

CARVED and painted pumpkins also were judged, with three prizes awarded in each division.

Mark Timm received first place for his carved pumpkin. Other winners were Doug Cherry, second place, and Darrin Wacker, third place.

First place winner with his painted pumpkin was Chris Mann. Second place went to Jessica Janke, and third place was won by Bobby Holtgrew. Judges for the event were Mrs.

Amanda Dimmel, Mrs. Lydia Witte and Mrs. Elia Miller.

CONDUCTING games were Mrs. Marvin Cherry, Mrs. David Warnemunde, Mrs. Patrick Dougherty, Mrs. Curt Jeffries, Mrs. Robert Wacker, Julia Hirsch and Julie Warnemunde. Youngsters were served treats at the close of the evening.

Damaging 1st half assault leads Gorillas to win over Wildcats

By Kent Probst
Wayne State SID

Pittsburg State showed why it is seventh ranked in NAIA Division I by powering past Wayne State 28-7 in Wayne last Saturday. Wayne State saw its losing string hit five in a 17 season. The Wildcats, 0-5 in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference, visit Emporia State (KS) this Saturday before ending the 1982 season at Missouri Southern on Nov. 11.

Pittsburg State's Gorillas moved their record to 6-1 including a league leading 5-0 conference mark. Not normally a passing team, the Gorillas showed their balance by going to the air for 269 yards when Wayne State shut down their strong ground attack.

THE YOUTHFUL WILDCATS played relatively error free football, being whistled for just two penalties and losing a fumble and interception. But clean play was not enough against the Gorillas, who scored on four of their first six possessions and flexed an equal amount of defensive muscle.

Gorillas quarterback Nick Motosko was the main culprit, hitting 11 of 18 passes for 224 yards and three touchdowns. Nine PSU players caught passes on the day. Meanwhile, Pittsburg's defense sacked Wayne quarterback 10 times and held the cats to minus 29 rushing.

Pittsburg gained its first offensive possession on the Wayne 23 following a 27 yard punt return. Their threat was foiled when Wildcat safety Ken Kohlhof made a leaping interception in the end zone. Kohlhof had an outstanding day, registering 15 tackles as well.

The visitors took their second possession in Wildcat territory as well starting on the Wayne 41 after a punt. On third down, Pittsburg's Rodney Lewallen circled his left side on a 40 yard fourth down run that accounted for nearly half of the Gorilla rushing total.

Midway through the first quarter the Gorillas scored on a fourth down pass from Motosko to Kris Kehl from seven yards out. The play capped a 57 yard drive.

PITTSBURG STATE struck in the final seconds of the opening period when Motosko lofted a 68 yard touchdown strike to Steve Dickey to give the visitors a 21-0 lead.

The Gorilla defense set up their final score when cornerback John Pringle returned a pass interception 35 yards to the WSC 33. It took Motosko four plays to find G.C. Naloms open on a 26 yard touchdown pass for a 28-0 lead early in the second quarter.

Wayne State quarterback Ed Jochum, in relief of injured starter Mike Warren, took the Cats on a 61 yard drive that carried to the PSU one yard line early in the second half, but a fourth down pass fell incomplete.

The Wildcat defense provided for Wayne State's touchdown early in the fourth quarter when end Kirk Schroeder fell on a Pittsburg fumble at the Gorilla six yard line.

TAILBACK RANDY FRINK scored his first touchdown of the season on a one yard dive. Carlos Lagunilla kicked the extra point.

Jochum threw for 125 yards on eight completions in 23 attempts. Junior wingback Tom Wingert led the receiving corps with three catches for 83 yards. Frink was the top ground gainer with 34 yards on nine tries.

Top defenders in addition to Kohlhof included linebackers Steve Besch with 14 stops including two quarterback sacks, and Ron Gilbert with 15 tackles.

Schroeder, inactive for several weeks with injuries, had 11 tackles including a sack plus a fumble recovery. Safety Jay Sandy and noseguard Troy Thiem were in on 10 tackles each.

Saturday's foe, the Emporia State Hornets, are 3-5 and 1-4 in CSIC play after Saturday's 28-0 loss at Kearney State.

THIS MAP shows the route for Saturday's Turkey Trot.

Runners ready for Turkey Trot

On Saturday morning, runners will pack Main Street of Wayne as the sixth annual Turkey Trot begins at 10:30 a.m. The race will cover five miles and a two-mile fun run also will be included. Entry fee is $5 in advance or $7 the day of the race. T-shirts will be given to all participants. Prizes include turkeys, trophies, medals, fruit baskets and gift certificates.

Age divisions for the five-mile run are: male—16 and under, 17-24, 25-32, 33-39, 40-49, 50 and over; female—19 and under, 20-27, 28-35, 36 and over. Fun-run divisions: male—12 and under, 13-17, 18-29, 30 and over; female—15 and under, 16-24, 25-35, 36 and over.

Top male and female finishers in the two-mile race will be awarded fruit baskets. Medals will also be given to first and second place finishers in each age group. In the five-mile race, frozen turkeys will be the top prizes.

Kohlhof player of week

Ken Kohlhof, a free safety on the Wayne State College football team, was named the NAIA District III defensive Player of the Week for his efforts in WSC's 28-7 loss to Pittsburg State last Saturday.

Kohlhof, a 6-1, 190 pound junior, stopped nationally ranked Pittsburg's first scoring threat with a leaping interception in the end zone early in the first quarter.

On the day, Kohlhof had six solo tackles and 19 assists to finish with 15 stops. He is Wayne State's second leading tackler this season with a total of 76 stops. His five pass interceptions are tied for second best in Nebraska, and he returned one for a touchdown.

Ken is the son of Nick and Norma Kohlhof of Climbing Hill, Iowa. He is a 1980 graduate of Woodbury Central High School.

Trap shoot planned near Wayne

A trap shoot is being planned by Wayne State College fraternity Tau Kappa Epsilon. The shoot is scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday (Nov. 7) at the Wayne trap shoot range located at the fairgrounds.

Trophies will be awarded to the top two finishers in each division. Entry fee is $4 per person and pre-registration will be held today (Thursday) in the Wayne State Student Union. Anyone interested may also register by calling 375-9903 or can register the day of the shoot.

A college division for college students will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday. An open class will then follow at 4 p.m. Participants must supply their own guns and shells. Blue rocks are furnished and shells will be sold at the shoot. The trophies will be awarded by Miller High Life.

Cage classic pairings made

Pairings for the annual Nebraska NAIA Cage Classic have been drawn with the affair scheduled Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at Kearney State's Cushing Coliseum.

The Wayne State Wildcats will play Doane College at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17. Dana College at 3 p.m. Thursday and Midland College at 7 p.m. Friday.

Other teams competing are Kearney State, Hastings College, Chadron State, Peru State, Concordia College and Bellevue College.

Pairings: Wednesday—Dana vs. Chadron at 1 p.m., Midland vs. Peru at 3 p.m., Doane vs. Wayne State at 5 p.m., Hastings vs. Bellevue at 7 p.m., Concordia vs. Kearney at 9 p.m. Thursday—Bellevue vs. Midland at 1 p.m., Wayne State vs. Dana at 3 p.m., Peru vs. Concordia at 5 p.m., Chadron vs. Hastings at 7 p.m., Kearney vs. Doane at 9 p.m.; Friday—Concordia vs. Chadron at 1 p.m., Dana vs. Peru at 3 p.m.; Doane vs. Bellevue at 5 p.m., Midland vs. Wayne State at 7 p.m., Hastings vs. Kearney at 9 p.m.

Looking for CSIC win

Cats travel to Emporia

The Wayne State College Wildcats will have the chance to play the role of the spoiler as they meet up with the Hornets of Emporia State on their homcoming in Emporia, Kan. This Saturday in conference football action.

The game is set to begin at 2 p.m. at Welch Stadium in Emporia.

The 3-5 Hornets will be coming off a 23-0 shutout by the Antelopes of Kearney State last weekend, which left them with a 1-4 mark in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference. Other scores include season opening wins over Northwestern Oklahoma 14-6 and Baker College 24-14, losses to Northwest Missouri State 14-7 and Northwest Missouri State 14-7. Emporia then posted a 20-13 win over Washburn University before falling to Missouri Southern 24-23 and Missouri Western 22-14.

THE HORNET who might prove to give the Wildcat defense a difficult time is quarterback Pat Clisner, who has passed for 785 yards and five touchdowns. Clisner is also a threat on the ground, rushing for 277 yards and four touchdowns.

Backing up the second game will be running back Mark Poe with 67 carries for 277 yards and two touchdowns.

On receiving end, Monty Smith has caught the ball 11 times for 164 yards, averaging just over 13 yards per catch. Teammate Berburg State 14-7. Emporia then posted a 20-13 win over

The Wildcats will be looking for their first conference win after being defeated by Pittsburg State 23-7 in Wayne last Saturday. The loss put Wayne's record at 1-7, 0-5 in the CSIC.

Freshman quarterback Ed Jochum and junior wingback Tom Wingert were the offensive bright spots in the loss. Jochum passed the ball 23 times for 125 yards. Wingert was on the receiving end of three losses for 83 yards.

It was senior co-captain Ron Gilbert and junior defensive back Ken Kohlhof leading the way on defense for the Cats. Gilbert posted a total of 16 tackles for the day, and teammate Kohlhof notched 15 tackles and a pass interception in his own end zone.

Clisner's running ability gives them the advantage of having a fourth back in the backfield and opens up a lot of options on offense for them. Defensively, we'll have to be looking for that," he said.

'Deathtrap' set Sunday

The Wayne State College Theatre Department will open a new season in an old setting when Ira Levin's "Deathtrap" hits the stage on Sunday, Nov. 7.

"Deathtrap" will open on Sunday, Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. in WSC's Ley Theatre. The theatre, located in the Brandenburg Education Building, was built in 1915 and was recently reopened after a major renovation project was completed.

The mystery thriller will be offered at 8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 8-9 as well. Ticket price is $3, with group rates available. Wayne State students will be admitted free with college identification.

THE PRODUCTION, under the direction of Dr. Helen Russell, "is like a ride on a good roller-coaster when screams and laughs mingle to form an enjoyable hysteria," one reviewer wrote.

The set director and technical supervisor for "Deathtrap" is Julie Burney, an instructor in the theatre department. Cast members include David Blenderman, a freshman from

Finnish girl assists international program

by Theresa Wolf WSC Student Intern

When Diana Waris decided she wanted to come to Wayne State College, she called then vice president Dr. Ed Elliott from her home in Helsinki, Finland, and told him.

And, she said she'd like to come right away, Elliott said. But since it was already mid-September, and classes had begun, Elliott suggested she wait until January, 1980, when the spring semester started.

SO DIANA waited. But while she waited, that enthusiasm didn't wane.

And it still hasn't. Now a junior majoring in business administration and minoring in French, Diana has a 3.14 overall grade point average on a 4.0 scale. For her academic excellence as a foreign student at WSC, she has been awarded an Arlene Jones Scholarship of $1,000, according to Charles Kay, director of financial aids.

Diana met Dr. Elliott, now president of WSC, through her father, Olli Waris. Waris is the general director of the Hotel Katajatorppe in Helsinki, the same one that lodges the participants in the Wayne State "Capitals of the North" tour, part of WSC's International Studies program. Waris and Elliott met when he was setting up the trip three years ago, Diana said.

Before Waris met Elliott, he simply arranged hotel accommodations for the group. But now, he arranges all of their sightseeing excursions, as well as the train tickets for the group's journey in to and out of Russia, Diana added.

SINCE SHE started going to Wayne State, Diana has taken time out during her summer vacation to help the group when they stay in Helsinki. "I have helped them two times now. The previous summer I was their guide in the town and I showed everybody around the city. I was with them almost all the time when they were in Finland and helped my father make the arrangements," she said.

Elliott said Diana tries to orient the group to signs, trolleys, and the money system, so they can find their way around.

Diana said her Finnish friends think her experiences at Wayne State are "really neat. They wish they could do the same thing," she said.

But Diana usually doesn't start talking about her experiences unless someone asks her about them first. "I suppose in every country if you say that another country is better, they don't like it. But if they are interested, and usually they are, then I start telling about it. They are very interested in hearing what I have done," she added.

THAT INTEREST is heightened when Diana returns home at Christmas or for the summer. "When I stay here for four months, they are glad to get me here. And then we go out and celebrate that I'm back," she said.

She added that her friends "always want me to bring some souvenirs. I send them jeans because they are really cheap here ($20-$40). They are about $70 in Finland."

Diana said she likes the people at Wayne State. "In Finland they are really shy, and they don't say anything to you. And here it seems like every time you meet somebody they can start talking to you and asking questions very easily," she said.

The relatively small size of the school—about 2,400 students—is another WSC strong point. "You're not just a number among students. There's always a friend around," she said.

BUT SOMETIMES Diana feels the smallness of Wayne is too confining. So during vacations, Diana will go to Omaha, Norfolk, or Sioux City. "And it's good, too, that I can go home for summer and Christmas, which most foreign students can't do," she said.

Diana considered going to college in Finland, "but they have only one business university or school and you've got to be a straight A student. There are so many students who go to school that sometimes there is not enough jobs for them. My education (in the United States) would be something special over there," she said.

One difference between college life in Finland and in the United States is classroom time. "You have to stay in class only three or four hours of the day (at WSC), but in Finland it's eight hours a day, plus your homework," she said.

Even though it may be different scholastically here, Diana had to make some adjustments that the average American college student does not. One of her biggest problems was the language.

"AT FIRST I couldn't say too many words, and I didn't really understand anybody during the first month. So it took awhile to adjust, and I was getting pretty desperate. Then, after a month, I got kind of used to it, and after half a year I didn't really have that many problems at all. I still have to use a dictionary once in a while, but that's not a major problem," Diana said.

The switch from a big home to a small dorm room was also difficult. Elliott said that Diana was put in a private unfurnished room in Anderson Hall (an all-women dorm), when she first came to WSC. After a short time in that situation, "she was just about ready to go back," he said.

Now, she said, "it's really good. Now I'm more independent than before."

Diana expects to graduate in December, 1983. After that, she may tour the states for a few months. But other than that, she said she doesn't have any plans to stay on in America.

When she returns to Finland, she said she might have a chance to get a job at IBM, where she has been working during her summer vacations. "When I get enough experience, I'd like to get my own business. That's my dream," she said.

Aristocats plan season

The Aristocats, Wayne State College's drill team, are preparing for another season of performances, according to sponsor Mary Halverstad.

The 16 women in the group will kick up their heels during halftime performances at the WSC men's basketball games. They may also perform at special events such as parades. Halverstad said.

Tomi Buschkamp, a junior from Harlan, Ia., and Chris Jackson, a junior from South Sioux City, are co-captains for the group. Lynn Morey, a junior from Springfield, Mo., is music coordinator. Treasurer is Roxanne McDonald, a freshman from Waterloo, Ia., and secretary

Jacobson, a freshman from Lyons.

Chapter ranks among leaders

The Board of Trustees of Pi Gamma Mu, International honor society in social science, have chosen Wayne State College's Delta chapter to appear on their National Roll of Merit, according to Dr. Jean Karlen, assistant professor of social sciences and group sponsor.

The honor is the second-highest ranking a local chapter can achieve, Karlen said. This is the third year in a row that the WSC chapter has been ranked among the nation's top Pi Gamma Mu chapters.

Last year, the group was included in the Honor Society's Roll of Distinction and was previously on the Roll of Merits.

ACHIEVEMENT of these honors is based on a chapters activities during the previous school year. Emphasized criteria include chapter organization and participation, local initiative in developing new activities and programs, effectiveness of the chapter on its campus in promoting scholarship, initiation of members, and financial responsibility.

The chapter officers for last year were Lynne Young of Oakland, Ia., president, and Deb Gulnan of Omaha, vice president.

This year's officers are Beth Alpaugh of Plainview, president, and Wendy Hanson of Anthon, Ia., vice president.

Faculty advisors are Karlen and Doug Taber, associate professor of social sciences.

Cattle market to mid $60s

Cattle feeders may see lower prices for awhile before they rebound by late 1982, reports a University of Nebraska economist, but he adds that the outlook for the first half of 1983 appears a bit brighter.

At Wellman, NU extension marketing specialist, sees Omaha choice steers increasing to the low to mid $60s in early 1983.

Wellman predicts Omaha average choice steer prices of $60 to $63 in November and $62 to $66 for December.

During the next few months, Wellman sees the prices for feeder cattle and calves increasing compared to slaughter cattle prices. He attributes this to the reduced cost of feed and forage and the slightly smaller total surplus of feeder cattle.

Wellman said the yearling feeder cattle prices for the remainder of 1982 should be somewhat higher than during the same period in 1981. The interest rate will support stronger calf prices, he said.

Feeder cattle prices for 600- to 700-pound yearlings are expected to be $64 to $66 for November and December, while Wellman sees 400- to 500-pound calves receiving a $2 to $4 premium over the yearlings.

Wellman urges producers to develop a strong marketing plan for optimum price benefits.

"This is the time for sound decision making," he said. "Producers should utilize forward pricing for a percentage of their production whenever prices hit the price targets producers have set."

4-H Council officers elected

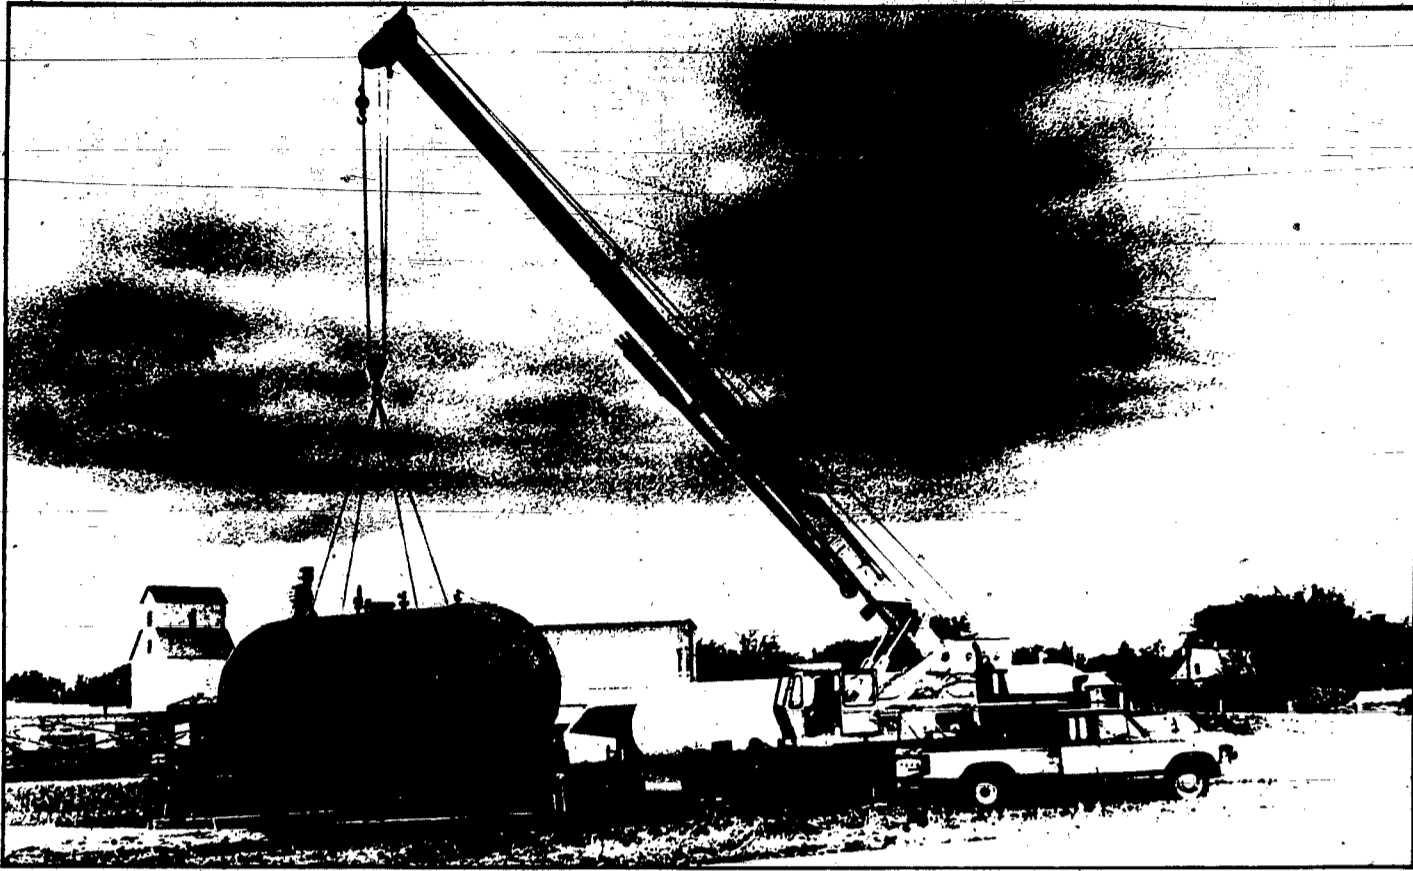

New officers for the 1983 year were elected at the October meeting of the Wayne County 4-H Council. The officers are: president - Chad Janke, vice president - LeAnn Janke, secretary - Valerie Bush, extension representative - George Biermann.

Other members of the council are Julie Grone, Karma Magnuson, Harold Wittler and Kenny Kramer.

The Wayne County 4-H Council is the governing board of the county 4-H program. They set up rules and regulations regarding 4-H events and budget the profits earned through the 4-H Food Stand at the fair.

WINTER MULCH FOR STRAWBERRIES

Growing strawberries need a winter mulch. Extremes and fluctuations in winter temperatures may kill fruit buds, injure roots and cause crown damage of strawberry plants. Strawberry plants should be mulched after the plants have been exposed to several light frosts and growth has ceased. Plants should be mulched before a heavy freeze is expected.

Straw free of weed seeds makes a good mulch and is generally available. Baled straw should be thoroughly torn apart and scattered to a depth of three inches, forming a blanket across the field.

The primary benefit of this mulch is to aid in winter protection. Next spring this mulch can also provide protection against late spring frosts, improve picking conditions, control weeds and improve plant vigor. Next spring this winter mulch should be removed from around the plants as they begin growth.

Remove the mulch gradually, exposing leaves before they turn yellow and eventually expose the crown for spring growth and berry production. A mulch can be left around the plant for summer weed control, moisture conservation and cleaner berries.

DIVIDING PEONIES

Peonies have fleshy roots rather than bulbs so you don't have to cure them as with tulips or daffodils. But it is time to lift and divide roots as soon as the tops have frozen.

To grow well, peonies need good surface drainage, full sun—or at least 4—sunlight and a site with good air circulation. If you've been having flowering problems with your peonies lately, there are reasons.

Think about this. You may have owned your place for 10 years. Maybe the peonies did well for seven or eight years but lately have flizzed. Trees and shrubs included in your landscape planning have a way of growing and shading peonies. Such plantings also cut down on air movement around peonies.

Botrytis blight is always worse where little air movement exists. House lots in town as well as shrubbery that cuts air movement mean the peony leaves remain moist, setting up ideal conditions for the blight.

If you suspect blight, remove the tops when the peony plant has frozen back. Don't compost the refuse if you have a blight problem.

As for planting depth, the uppermost bud or eye should not be more than one inch below the surface. After planting and watering, mulch the root with a weed-free material.

Grain storage, interest costs weighed

by
Leslie F. Sheffield
Extension Farm
Management Specialist
University of Nebraska

In view of the currently depressed prices being offered to farmers for 1982 crop fall harvested grains at most country elevators in Nebraska, most farmers either are planning to dry and store grains in on-farm grain storage facilities or deliver their grain to commercial elevators for contract storage. Prices being offered in mid-October for 1982 crop corn for October-November-December delivery at most country elevators in Nebraska are ranging from $1.85 to $2.15 per bushel.

Cost of production budget estimates compiled for 1982 crop corn by farm management specialists in the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Economics indicate the break-even price to produce a bushel of corn ranged from $2.60 per bushel for eco-fallow non-irrigated corn in southwest Nebraska to $3.25 per bushel for center-pivot irrigated corn in southwest Nebraska.

Since current market prices for 1982 crop corn for fall delivery range from 45 cents to as much as $1.40 per bushel below these cost of production estimates, most farmers will elect to store their 1982 crop corn either in on-farm grain storage facilities or in commercial elevators where space is available.

Those farmers who complied with the 1982 Feed Grain Reduced Acres Program (RAP) have the option of entering their 1982 crop corn in the USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation loan program at the national average loan price of $2.55 per bushel or immediate entry into the CCC Farmer-Owned 3-year Reserve Program at the national average reserve loan price of $2.90 per bushel.

Since Nebraska had the highest participation in the 1982 Feed Grain Program with approximately 56 percent of the 1982 corn acreage planted in compliance, those farmers in the program can generate cash-flow to pay toward their 1982 production costs or on operating loans, as the case may be. Farmers in compliance with the 1982 Feed Grain Program also will be eligible for the maximum 15 cent per bushel deficiency payment for corn, providing the national average prices paid to farmers during the first five months of the marketing year starting Oct. 1, 1982 are below $2.55 per bushel, since the target price established for 1982 crop corn was set at $2.70 per bushel.

Those farmers in compliance with the 1982 Feed Grain Program who enter their grain in the 3-year Grain Reserve Program will receive an advance storage payment of 26 1/2 cents per bushel for storing the grain either on their farms or in commercial elevators. For the 1982 crop corn, if the national average price does not reach the $3.25 per bushel release price, the farmer will be paid an additional 26 1/2 cents per bushel per year for the second and third year of storage for corn in the 3-year Grain Reserve Program.

In evaluating the costs to store grain either on the farm or in a commercial elevator, the two principal cost factors involved are the storage costs and the interest cost of holding grain. While commercial grain storage costs vary from one elevator to another, storage charges generally range from the 26 1/2 cents per bushel per year to 36 cents per bushel per year.

On-farm grain storage costs will vary widely depending upon the age, size of grain bin or multi-purpose building such as a farm implement building which will affect the fixed costs such as depreciation, interest on the facility and taxes. Variable costs for on-farm grain storage also will vary widely depending upon the type of building involved, what kind of grain drying and/or aeration facilities are available, the moisture content of the grain when placed in storage and how much the aeration fans are operated during the storage period.

Grain stored on the farm needs to be checked and probed at regular intervals to make certain the grain does not go out of condition as a result of heating from too-high a moisture content or spoilage by molds and fungus diseases or damage from stored grain insect pests. Thus, some allowance needs to be made for labor costs involved in placing the grain in farm bins or buildings and for periodic probing and checking of the grain at the end of the storage period.

Interest costs for holding the grain in storage either on the farm or in commercial elevators are not frequently calculated by one of two methods.

The first method is if the farmer has an operating loan at say 15 percent interest and if we assume he could realize $2.00 net price per bushel by selling his 1982 crop corn at harvest time, then the interest cost to store this corn would be 2 1/2 cents per bushel per month.

A second method of calculating interest cost to store grain would be if the farmer did not have any outstanding loan he could pay off with the proceeds from the sale of his corn to stop interest costs, he could invest the proceeds from the sale of the 1982 crop corn at a net price of $2.00 per bushel in some type of interest earning financial instrument as say 10 1/2 percent interest which would produce a return of 1 1/4 cents per bushel per month.

As a result of the delayed planting of much of the corn and grain sorghum crops in Nebraska this year, these crops are slow in drying down to desirable levels for fall harvest. Generally, it is best to have the moisture content of corn below 22 percent at harvest to minimize damage to the kernels during harvest and to avoid excessive drying and shrinkage costs incurred when harvesting corn above 22 percent moisture.

For those farmers who depend solely on natural air drying without use of heated air, the moisture content at harvest for corn should not exceed 20 percent to avoid heating and possible storage losses. Farmers with either continuous flow or batch dryers using either natural gas or propane to heat the air which is forced through the grain often will begin harvesting corn at about 25 percent and then reduce the moisture content to 17-18 percent before transferring the corn over to a cooling and storage bin equipped with aeration fans where the moisture content will be reduced to 14-15 percent for storage into the spring.

Corn which is to be entered in the 3-year Grain Reserve Program and is to be stored in farm bins or multi-purpose buildings should be dried down to no more than 13-14 percent moisture for safe storage over the summer months.

If we assume on-farm drying cost of 8 cents per bushel to remove an average of 5 percent of moisture (22 percent at harvest down to 17 percent in a drying bin or batch dryer) and 6 cents per bushel for maintenance and electricity to operate the grain dryer fans and the aeration fans to cool the grain and pull the moisture down to 14-15 percent, and 3 cents per bushel per year for labor costs to get the grain in storage, check it periodically during the year, and to load out the grain at the end of the storage period, these variable costs would amount to 17 cents per bushel per year.

In addition to these variable costs there would be the fixed costs for the on-farm grain drying and storage facilities including augers, spreaders, grain stirrers which would consist of depreciation allowances, interest on the investment in these facilities, and taxes which will vary considerably depending upon the age, size and type of facilities involved. If we assume an average fixed cost of 11 cents per bushel, then the total annual cost for this particular example would be 23 cents per bushel.

One very important fact for farmers who will be storing 1982 grain crops on their farms to remember is that they are responsible for the condition of the grain whether they own it outright or whether it is entered in the CCC loan or 3-year Grain Reserve Program. Any deterioration which occurs in the quality of grain in storage will result in losses in quality and grade of the grain which will be reflected in price discounts when the grain is delivered to an elevator.

One further precaution that farmers need to keep in mind with the 1982 crop, which encountered adverse weather conditions during the growing season, is that if the crop did not mature properly prior to the first killing frost or freeze, the resulting grain crop may be difficult and slow to dry down properly. This in turn can cause serious storage problems in terms of the keeping quality of the grain.

Bad Winter Ahead? Here's Safe Advice

Sudden winter storms can be a major cause of broken power lines. If you encounter a broken line this winter, here are good rules to follow: (1) Report the location to your power supplier immediately. (2) Never touch the broken wire or anything that is in contact with it. (3) Make sure other people and livestock stay away. Above all, don't take chances. Assuming that a broken power line is "dead" can be a fatal mistake.

Corn price recovery dampened

The combination of a larger than expected volume of old crop corn carried over into 1983, coupled with a record forecast 1982 crop of 8.31 billion bushels, is dampening optimism toward a hoped-for recovery in corn prices next spring.

That's the opinion of University of Nebraska extension economist Lynn Lutgen, in analyzing the impact of the grain stocks report released a few days ago by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The report revealed that about 200 million bushels of corn were fed last summer in the United States than had been predicted earlier, Lutgen said. U.S. stocks of old-crop corn on Oct. 1 stood at a record 2.37 billion bushels — more than double last year's level.

CASH MARKET prices for corn in Nebraska could sag to $1.90 per bushel, or even as low as $1.65 or $1.70 a bushel during harvest, the economist stated, depending on how grain moves and the area of the state involved. While the short-term dip in the price of corn on the cash market is not too surprising, substantial improving in corn prices this winter and on into late spring and summer of 1983 is clouded by several factors, Lutgen said.

Prices early this winter may rise only slightly above the current depressed level unless unfavorable weather and severe field losses reduce the amount of corn actually harvested.

A sharp decline in hog numbers this summer and fall has cut into the domestic demand for corn and will continue to exert influence on prices early next year.

Any significant improving in corn prices in the second quarter of 1983 will depend on heavy sign-up and compliance in the 1983 Acreage Reduction Program, plus early prospects for unfavorable corn yields in 1983.

THE MOST disturbing development affecting prices during the first half of next year is the prospect of 800 to 850 million bushels of corn in "free stocks" next spring, Lutgen explained. Free stocks, CCC stocks or other earmarked programs, were at the 500 million bushel level on Oct. 1, Lutgen said. However, 300 to 400 million more bushels are expected to be on the market after harvest, lessening chances for corn prices to recover to the loan levels next spring.

The higher than expected corn inventory is offsetting the holding action by farmers in not selling corn at harvest time, Lutgen said.

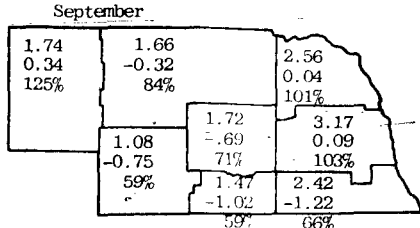

The industry can handle about 500 million bushels of corn in free stocks, or 450 million if pressed, Lutgen said. However, the extra 300 million bushels or so is the back-breaker.

Corn carry-over stocks next fall, projected at about 3.3 billion bushels, would be 46 percent of total annual utilization, Lutgen said. Just a year ago, the old-crop carry-over stocks stood at only 14 percent of annual utilization.

IT IS DOUBTFUL that President Reagan's export promotion program will make much of a dent in the corn glut, Lutgen stated. The program makes available $100 million in interest-free loans to foreign buyers each year over the next three years, and an additional $400 million per year in loan guarantees from the federal government for farm product exports during the same period. However, the funds will be spread over several major farm commodities, not just corn.

World population rising

The current world population of 4.6 billion persons is expected to reach the 7.7 billion mark by 2020, reports a University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff member.

Paul Gassaman, NU extension economist natural resources, says the expected 67.5 percent rise in world population levels would mean five persons living in 2020 for every three persons living today.

Information compiled by the Population Reference Bureau, Inc., indicates that 95 percent of the increase will occur in the less developed countries, Gassaman said.

INCREASES in the more developed regions that include Europe, North America, Australia, Japan, New Zealand and the USSR will be gradual, he added.

During 1981, the largest population growth in the more developed countries occurred in the United States, the 23 million person increase, to total 232 million people, resulted from a rising birth rate combined with the increased number of women of childbearing age.

The economist said an important factor in determining population growth is the total fertility rate (TFR). Gassaman explained the TFR as the average number of children born to each woman of childbearing age if she survived through childbearing years and gave birth at current birth rates.

Gassaman said the minimum 2.1 TFR for sustaining population levels is not met by a number of European countries. Those countries currently having no growth in population include Austria, Denmark, East Germany, Luxembourg, Hungary and West Germany.

CESSAMAN'S comparison of fertility rates for three continents indicated that Africa's TFR of 6.5 is more than three times that of North America and Europe.

Many African countries with high population increases already are experiencing malnutrition problems. Gassaman warned that they will continue to have food supply shortfalls in addition to noted high fertility rates.

Gassaman stressed that the projections indicate many countries will not have resources adequate to meet their increasing food supply needs. Although most Americans won't feel the pinch, he added, the productivity of natural resources will need to increase.

While today's world food supplies are estimated to be adequate to meet their increasing food supply needs, although most Americans won't feel the pinch, he added, the productivity of natural resources will need to increase.

Specialist says water law vague

A University of Nebraska extension water law specialist has called Nebraska's ground water export statute "vague" and recommended new legislation that would help block massive out of state diversions of ground water.

NU's J. David Aiken also said that in its present form, the export statute gives Nebraska "little to hang its hat on" in litigation involving groundwater exports.

The U.S. Supreme Court weakened the export law last June in its highly publicized Sporhase vs. Nebraska decision, Aiken added. The ruling gutted the reciprocity section from the statute, leaving a "poorly defined" clause as the primary protection from large-scale exports of groundwater out of Nebraska, he said.

THE SECTION that remains in the statute gives the Nebraska Department of Water Resources (DWR) authority to deny a permit for exporting groundwater if the use of the water is inconsistent with groundwater conservation and use, and the "public interest" in Nebraska.

"We need to spell out the criteria in this clause," Aiken said. "What is consistent with the conservation and use of groundwater in Nebraska? What exactly is the public interest?"

Aiken explained that the Supreme Court rejected Nebraska's reciprocity clause because it violated interstate commerce provisions in the U.S. Constitution. However, the court determined that Nebraska could deny the export of water for conservation purposes if conservation measures were applied equally to both Nebraskans and non-Nebraskans, he added.

EXCEPT FOR perhaps the protection of domestic water uses, Aiken believed that Nebraska would have to legally justify any discriminatory measures that would protect agriculture and other water users from groundwater exports.

The NU water law specialist suggested three non-discriminatory legal alternatives that would "spell out" Nebraska's criteria for ground water conservation and use as well as probably satisfy the U.S. Supreme Court.

Aiken explained that each alternative would require the DWR director to grant a permit for any use of water that exceeded a specified limit. He used as an example an annual limit of 3,000 acre-feet or more, which is large enough to exclude most agricultural uses but small enough to include massive groundwater exports.

The first alternative would require the DWR to deny any permit for uses of 3,000 acre-feet or more of groundwater if the use lowers the water table below historic levels, Aiken said. This alternative is the most restrictive and probably would not be acceptable to Nebraska legislators because it could significantly restrict irrigation development, he added.

THE SECOND alternative, which is similar to the first, would deny a permit if the use of the water lowered the water table below a "reasonable" level. This approach, Aiken said, would not significantly restrict irrigation development in Nebraska. "I think they (legislators) ought to do something like this. This approach is common in other states and is used even in Nebraska for large, industrial groundwater uses," Aiken said.

The third alternative would allow a groundwater user to lower groundwater levels below historic or reasonable levels if the user "buys the right to interfere with other groundwater users," Aiken said. The purchaser would have to secure the consent of the sellers and compensate them for lowering the water table.

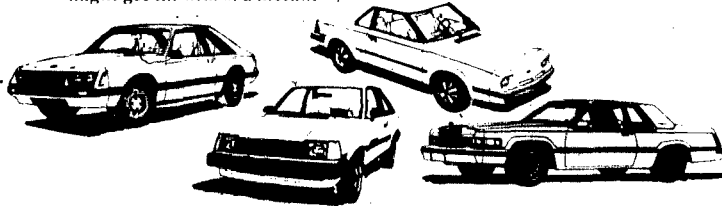

The water law specialist said that without the enactment of legislation that clearly defines groundwater use, conservation and public interest, the existing export statute eventually will be subjected to a court test.

"BECAUSE THE law is so vague, each interest supporting and opposing the export will try to get the court to define it in a way to benefit them. The court could interpret the clause in a manner that is unfavorable to Nebraska interests and allow large scale exports of groundwater out of the state," he said.

Chilly fall weather reminds us that the heating season is approaching. Most of us keep the thermostat setting at 65 degrees-68 degrees to save energy and to save money. If some rooms seem cool for quiet activities at these temperatures, consider supplemental heat—an energy efficient portable electric heater.

Take heating comfort with you to the family room sewing room or wherever you need additional heat. Portable electric heaters allow you to be comfortable without turning up the thermostat.

Any electric heater is 100 percent efficient at point of use. That means the energy you pay to operate the heater is all going into your room, not up the chimney. "Too expensive to operate," you say? Consider this: a 1,000 watt heater, operating for one hour, uses one kilowatt hour. Many typical Nebraska Public Power District customers would pay only a nickel for that hour of comfort. If your household uses 750 kWh/month during these winter months, the cost to operate that 1,000 watt heater would be 2.6¢ per hour. Check your electric bill or with your local electric utility for rates in your area.

Electric heaters are clean. There is no fuel to carry, pour, spill, or store. Just plug the convenient electric heater into the nearest outlet.

Electric heaters are safe. Flame-type heaters require air for combustion. Opening windows even a "crack," allows cold air to enter your home, increasing heating costs. You can keep windows and storm windows closed when using an electric heater. Electric heaters are available in sizes and shapes for any use. Some have fans and all are thermostatically controlled.

To save energy, save money, and be comfortable this winter, consider portable electric heaters all around the house.

Ever been tantalized by the beautiful comforters found in waterbed store showcases? You can save energy this winter with old-fashioned comforters; now they are so decorative you can stay warm in style. Comforters serve three purposes: attractive bedcovering, warmth for sleeping, and insulates the warm water in the waterbed.

If you are not a waterbed owner, you may have overlooked this energy saver. Comforters provide warmth for sleeping for conventional beds too, and allow the thermostat to be set back at night.

Comforters have more stuffing than quilts and are available as natural filled or fiber filled.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MEET

United Presbyterian Women met Oct. 27 in the church fellowship hall. The meeting had been postponed from Oct. 20 due to bad weather.

Mrs. Etta Fisher conducted the meeting, which opened with a thought for the day, scripture and prayer. A thank you was received from the family of Lawrence Barg.

The afternoon was spent quilting, and a cooperative lunch was served.

AAL DINNER

The Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Branch 3019 sponsored a noon cooperative dinner Sunday following worship services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Donald Sonntag of Brazil conducted the worship service. In the afternoon he showed slides and told about his native land. Special music for the service was provided by Mrs. Arthur Cook and Mrs. Kevin Johnson, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Edward Fork.

Following Sonntag's slide presentation, AAL members held their annual meeting.

Jim Schroeder of Laurel, district representative, told about the fraternal insurance and how communities can be helped by the company.

Members voted for national directors and re-elected Arnold Hansen president of the local branch. Other local officers are Murray Leicy, vice president; Mark Tletz, secretary; and Edward Fork, treasurer.

The local AAL will conduct a brief business meeting the first Sunday of each month following worship services.

The group made plans for a supper in early December. Tentative plans were made to go Christmas caroling afterward. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

HALLOWEEN DANCE

The Carroll Business Club sponsored a Halloween dance Saturday evening in the Carroll auditorium. A large crowd attended.

Providing music was The Step and A-Half Band. Richard Hitchcock of Carroll is a member of the band.

Drawings were held during the dance, and costumes were judged with Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Fork of Carroll as winners.

Winner of a $100 cash prize was Don Volwiler of Carroll. Robert Rieger of Norfolk won $50 of groceries, and Don Harmer of Norfolk won $50 of meat.

Other prize winners and sponsors were Mrs. John Paulsen, Ambroz Trucking; Mary Bowers of Norfolk, Carroll Feed and Grain; Ed Schmale of Hoskins, Carroll Fertilizer; Chelle Bize of Norfolk, Carroll Cultures; Mary Kay Lange of Hoskins, Don's Shelling; Lowell Olson, Farmers State Bank; Brad Roberts, Carroll Farmers State Insurance Agency; John Sandahl of Wakefield, Hallett's Barber and Beauty Shops.

Also Mrs. Harry Nelson of Carroll, Hansen's Grocery; Verlin Stollenberg of Carroll, McLain Oil; Jamie Meyer of Randolph, Kavanaugh Trucking; Mrs. Dean Junck of Carroll, Rhode Body Shop; Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Fork of Carroll, Ron's Steakhouse; Darrel Rahn of Wayne, Sandahl Repair; Kristi Peterson of Wayne, Simpson Electric; Pat Morris, TWJ Farms; and Rod Varilek of Wayne, The Flying D Stables.

President of the Carroll Business Club is Gordon Davis. Secretary is Nina Clauson.

WOMENS FELLOWSHIP

A covered dish dinner preceded the Oct. 27 meeting of the Congregational Womens Fellowship, held in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Ruth Jones conducted the business meeting, and Mrs. T. P. Roberts was acting secretary. Mrs. Harold Morris had devotions.

The afternoon was spent quilting. Next meeting will be Nov. 10 when a no-host dinner will be held for members and their families.

Wayne Vet's Club mortgage is burned at weekend banquet

Saturday was a big day for area veterans and an even bigger day for the Wayne Vet's Club.

Nearly 200 persons watched as Roy Somerfeld, Vernie Brockman and Erving Doring burned the mortgage on the Vet's Club at a Saturday evening ceremony in the Wayne State College Student Union.

The building, located at 220 Main Street, was purchased in July of 1969. Final payment on the building was made in June of 1982.

SATURDAY'S BANQUET drew veterans, department officers, district officers, post officers, department auxiliary officers, district auxiliary officers and post auxiliary officers.

Vernie Brockman, quartermaster of Post 5291, presented a brief history of the post and the Vet's Club.

L.B. Whitmore Post 5291 was chartered on Jan. 4, 1946. Thirty-nine members paid dues within 90 days of the chartering and an additional 41 members paid dues to bring total membership to 80 charter members. An auxiliary was formed on July 22, 1946.

Today, the post has a membership of 230 with 95 life members. It received its perpetual charter in 1974.

BEFORE PURCHASING the Vet's Club building, post meetings were held in various locations such as the second floor of the fire hall. An auction was held in April of 1974 to raise money for a building and equipment.

The auction included such items as two automobiles, a jeep, two trucks, a tractor, a corn picker, a refrigerator, a washing machine and four radios. Nearly $8,000 was raised.

At that point, the post began renting the second floor of the Feiber Drug Store building.

Finally in July of 1968, a meeting was held to discuss buying a post home. Several other meetings dealt with the topic before a building was purchased.

A July 22, 1969 vote gave Roy Somerfeld and Vernie Brockman the authority to sign a purchase agreement to buy a building from Russell Tiedtke. Work began immediately with voluntary labor.

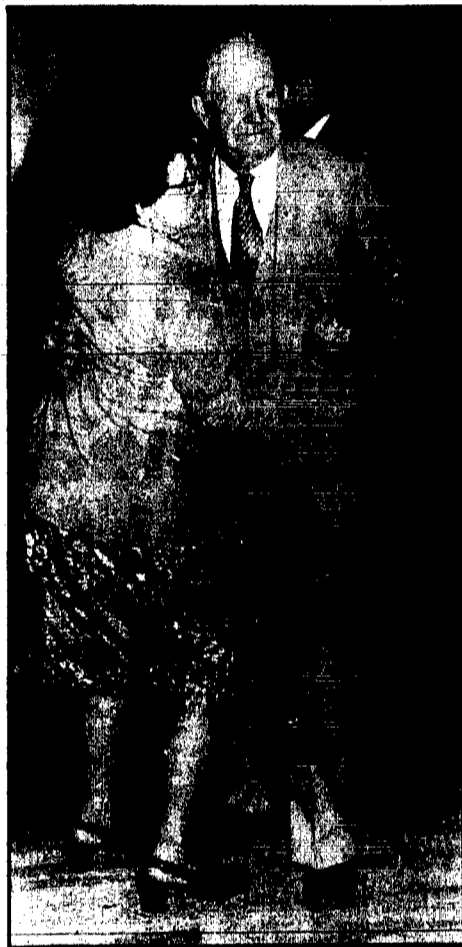

THE CLUB opened on Oct. 17, 1969. Members decided the building was too small so in 1971 an addition was built on with voluntary help.

Clete Sharer served as master of ceremonies at Saturday's ceremony. The community of Wayne was represented by Mayor Wayne Marsh and Chamber of Commerce President Bob Enz.

Department officers are: Vernon Flesman, commander; Bob Wagner, senior vice commander; Dwaine Wilson, junior vice commander; LeRoy Wilson, Adjutant/quartermaster; Jack Armagost, judge advocate; Conliff Blankenship, surgeon; Darrell Thibault, chaplain; Ralph McMullen, past state commander.

District 3 officers: Daral Heppner, commander; Ed Wagner, senior vice commander; Cecil Casselman, junior vice commander; John Fehrs, quartermaster; LeRoy Ristow, judge advocate; Ed Ferguson, surgeon; Willis McDonald, chaplain; Eldon Colson, adjutant; Wayne Denkiau, service officer.

Post 5291 officers: Erving Doring, commander; Eddie Baler, senior vice commander; Delmer Helthold, junior vice commander; Vernie Brockman, quartermaster; Edward Grone, judge advocate; Morris Backstrom, surgeon; William "Ted" Reed, adjutant; Frank Noelle, service officer.

THE VET'S Club mortgage is burned by Roy Somerfeld, Vernie Brockman and Erving Doring. Saturday's banquet was followed by a dance at the Vet's Club.

Wayne Vet's Club mortgage is burned at weekend banquet

Saturday was a big day for area veterans and an even bigger day for the Wayne Vet's Club.

Nearly 200 persons watched as Roy Somerfeld, Vernie Brockman and Erving Doring burned the mortgage on the Vet's Club at a Saturday evening ceremony in the Wayne State College Student Union.

The building, located at 220 Main Street, was purchased in July of 1969. Final payment on the building was made in June of 1962.

SATURDAY'S BANQUET drew veterans, department officers, district officers, post officers, department auxiliary officers, district auxiliary officers and post auxiliary officers.

Vernie Brockman, quartermaster of Post 5291, presented a brief history of the post and the Vet's Club.

L.B. Whitmore Post 5291 was chartered on Jan. 4, 1946. Thirty-nine members paid dues within 90 days of the chartering and an additional 41 members paid dues to bring total membership to 80 charter members. An auxiliary was formed on July 22, 1946.

Today, the post has a membership of 230 with 95 life members. It received its perpetual charter in 1974.

BEFORE PURCHASING the Vet's Club building, post meetings were held in various locations such as the second floor of the fire hall. An auction was held in April of 1947 to raise money for a building and equipment.

The auction included such items as two automobiles, a jeep, two trucks, a tractor, a corn picker, a refrigerator, a washing machine and four radios. Nearly $8,000 was raised.

At that point, the post began renting the second floor of the Felber Drug Store building.

Finally in July of 1968, a meeting was held to discuss buying a post home. Several other meetings dealt with the topic before a building was purchased.

A July 22, 1969 vote gave Roy Somerfeld and Vernie Brockman the authority to sign a purchase agreement to buy a building from Russell Tiedtke. Work began immediately with voluntary labor.

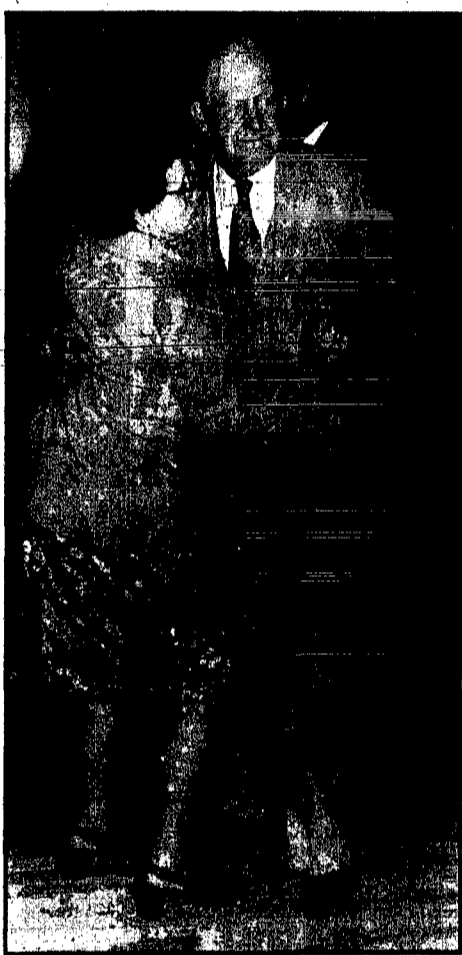

THE CLUB opened on Oct. 17, 1969. Members decided the building was too small so in 1971 an addition was built on with voluntary help.

Clete Sharer served as master of ceremonies at Saturday's ceremony. The community of Wayne was represented by Mayor Wayne Marsh and Chamber of Commerce President Bob Enz.

Department officers are: Vernon Freshman, commander; Bob Wagner, senior vice commander; Dwaine Wilson, junior vice commander; LeRoy Wilson, Adjutant/Quartermaster; Jack Armstrong, judge advocate; Conliff Blankenship, surgeon; Darrell Thibault, chaplain; Ralph McMullen, past state commander.

District 3 officers: Darel Heppner, commander; Ed Wagner, senior vice commander; Cecil Casselman, junior vice commander; John Fehrs, quartermaster; LeRoy Rislow, judge advocate; Ed Ferguson, surgeon; Willis McDonald, chaplain; Eldon Colson, adjutant; Wayne Denkiau, service officer.

Post 5291 officers: Erving Doring, commander; Eddie Baier, senior vice commander; Delmar Heithold, junior vice commander; Vernie Brockman, quartermaster; Edward Grone, judge advocate; Morris Backstrom, surgeon; William "Ted" Reed, adjutant; Frank Noelle, service officer.
