Wayne Middle School plans encounter of learning kind

With a little bit of help, students in this part of the state will soon be able to take a tour through Nebraska history just by visiting the Wayne Middle School.

Plans call for a series of encounter centers to be established in the middle school. An encounter center is an area that is created for the purpose of providing visitors with personal experience with the items displayed.

Visitors could touch and feel most of the displays. For example, viewers could feel a buffalo hide or pick up and examine fossils.

THE FIRST SUCH encounter center, tentatively planned in late January or early February, will deal with Nebraska's natural history. Items from Nebraska's past—including fossils, rocks, birds, fish, flowers, trees, animals, grasses and plants—will be displayed in a Middle School room which is presently vacant.

The idea for the encounter center is patterned after Morrill Hall in Lincoln. A group of Wayne fourth grade students toured the hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus last fall.

Richard Metteer, principal at Wayne Middle School, and Dave Lutt, principal at Wayne's West Elementary School, said they feel an encounter center can be successfully developed in the Wayne community.

In addition to Nebraska's natural history, other possible themes for future use include health, oceanography, Indians and pioneers, and perception, Metteer said. Themes will be set up on a rotating basis.

THE SCHOOL is now seeking the aid of community residents and college students in developing the center and donating or lending items for its use.

"We feel that in our community a number of people are willing to help set up an encounter room. Citizens would participate in developing and manning the room," Metteer said. "This most certainly is going to be a large undertaking for the school district and we are looking for some help."

For the first encounter theme of Nebraska's natural history, Metteer and Lutt are seeking examples of native grasses, trees, rocks, fossils and animals. They are looking for any area taxidermists to let the center use prepared and preserved animals as exhibits.

A committee will be placed in charge of the encounter center. Metteer is looking for persons who are interested in joining the committee. They may be students, parents of students, members of the Wayne State College faculty or anyone who is interested in Nebraska history.

METTEER SAID information is being sought in search of a fossil site near Wayne where students can take a field trip and look for fossils. It is hoped that the encounter center will stimulate interest and improve inquiry skills of students.

Any information that may be helpful in developing the center is welcome. Researchers are also needed to find and develop data for the display.

Once established, the encounter center will be open to all Wayne-Carroll residents and students from any area schools. Anyone who is interested in helping with the center or learning more about is invited to contact Metteer at the middle school.

A walk-in safe at the middle school will be used for any items which owners request to have locked up when not on display. Special instructions against handling of items also will be followed.

Metteer said he would appreciate any feedback on the proposed encounter center.

Smokeout countdown begins

Hide the ashtrays!
Throw away the lighters!

The Great American Smokeout has begun. Beginning at midnight Wednesday, the American Cancer Society is asking smokers across the nation to lay aside their cigarettes for a 24-hour period.

ROGER NELSON, local chairman for the nationwide smokeout, said smokers are being asked to put out their cigarettes at midnight Wednesday, Nov. 17, and keep them snuffed until midnight Thursday, Nov. 18.

Nelson, owner of The Rusty Nail and a former cigarette smoker who kicked the habit several years ago, said theme for this year's sixth annual smokeout is "Take a Day Off" — from smoking of course.

Honorary national chairman for the second year in a row is Lorry Hagman of "Dallas" fame.

THREE RESIDENTS of Wayne who are smokers have agreed to serve as examples during the day-long event.

Ann Barclay, wife of Wayne State College defensive football coach Ralph Barclay, Tom Jones, Wayne's new postmaster, and Doc Pflanz, owner and operator of the El Toro, will try to refrain from taking a puff the day of the smokeout.

They will be closely monitored during the 24-hour period.

Nelson said Wayne radio KTCB will do remote spots on an hourly basis to check on their progress.

In addition, said Nelson, they may receive a call from representatives of the national smokeout headquarters who also will be monitoring volunteers across the nation.

FOR OTHER smokers of the community, Nelson said local smokeout headquarters will be set up at both the First and State National Banks, at The Rusty Nail, and at Wayne State College.

In charge of college smokeout activities is Ken Soden of Professional Food Management.

At each of the headquarters residents can pick up a "Larry Hagman Special Stop Smokin' Wrist Snappin' Red Rubber Band."

Smokers are asked to wear the band around their wrist and snap it everytime they feel the urge to smoke.

NELSON SAID the smokeout is not designed to insult anyone, but rather as an incentive for cigarette smokers to kick the habit for at least 24 hours and, hopefully, permanently.

Nelson said the goal is for one in five smokers to give up smoking.

As part of the local effort to encourage residents to stop smoking, Nelson said a telephone survey will again be conducted this year by members of coach Jan Jirsek's girls basketball team at Wayne State College.

Team members will make the telephone calls between 7 and 9 a.m. on Thursday.

The girls will be asking residents how many persons in their household smoke, and how many male and female smokers there are.

Results of the telephone survey will be turned into the American Cancer Society's Nebraska division, and from there fed into a national statistic analysis.

STATISTICS by the American Cancer Society show that 6.07 percent of those who took part in the 1981 Great American Smokeout are not smoking 11 months later.

"Any progress is better than none," Nelson pointed out.

Nelson said statistics also show that smokers of low tar and low nicotine brands find it easier to quit than smokers of high tar and high nicotine brands, and that 70 percent of the population believes that smoking should be restricted to fewer places.

The American Cancer Society also says that the

Wayne State figures add up

President proud of high retention record

Often, college student enrollment figures just don't add up. But at Wayne State College, they do. And, the reason they do can be summed up in a word or two — student retention.

THOUGH THE college has an aggressive and multi-faceted student recruitment program, it is only the tip of the statistical iceberg.

WSC President Ed Elliott, though proud of the higher education institution's ability to attract students, is quick to point to the college's retention record.

In short, WSC's student retention program is working. It's working well enough to give the college's 1982 5.5 percent full-time-equivalency (FTE) enrollment increase a dimensional challenge for the remainder of the decade.

"So many colleges paid little heed to demographic data gathered in the 1970s that was prophesying what would happen in the 1980s and 1990s," Elliott told The Wayne Herald.

WSC DID NOT ignore the data, according to Elliott.

In fact, the data was studied in unending detail as the college undertook an extensive mission to strengthen WSC and help stabilize the student body count. "Those efforts are paying off in the salvaging of human potentiality," explained Elliott.

"Over the years we have lost first-time, full-time enrollees at WSC," he continued. "In those losses was a large number of first-generation college students."

The ongoing student retention program involves a heavy dose of institutional upgrading, according to Elliott.

"WE PURPOSELY decided to capitalize on kids having difficulty and to focus on retaining them," Elliott added.

The focus is complex, including personal-touch services such as special counseling and academic program counseling.

This year, WSC experienced the 5.5 FTE increase at a time when private-college enrollments are in a slump.

In addition, WSC — the third largest of the state's four state colleges — was far out in front of Kearney State, Chadron State and Peru State with the increase.

WSC'S FTE enrollment is at 2,048. Chadron posted no change, Kearney's FTE figure jumped 2.7 percent. And, Peru's FTE figure jumped 3.1 percent.

Furthermore, according to Elliott, WSC has experienced more than a 6 percent increase in full-time students.

"The institution is on the right track," Elliott said. "Those figures mean a lot here and they mean a lot to the community of Wayne."

Elliott feels WSC eventually will fall back to the 1976-77 enrollment level "unless we have some extra success" in the areas of student retention and recruitment.

HOWEVER, THE college president expresses a determined unwillingness to sit back and let that happen.

Not only is the student retention mission, with all its institutional enrichment programs, continuing, but faculty and administrators are at work in a concentrated effort to upgrade the tools of the mission.

"You cannot be an anachronism in a dynamic society," explained Elliott. "People are more satisfied in age with an institution if they know it is moving aggressively."

Elliott said he would like to see WSC "stabilize the enrollment at about this level."

POINTING TO some of the dangers of too much growth too fast, Elliott said the staff/enrollment ratio is at an optimum.

In fact, with staffing and funding level pinched by continued budget cuts and no inflation adjustment, the ratio is at the reasonable limit, according to Elliott.

With a commitment to keeping "a quality focus on the mission of the institution," Elliott said he feels "we are doing something right at WSC."

He reiterated that WSC is functioning well in an environment where available students are on the decline, users are highly critical of college services and funding pressure is relentless.

DESPITE THAT, the college's three-pronged mission continues to feature student retention, program review and recruitment.

"The program review process helps us insure that students get what the college says they are going to get," explained Elliott.

He described the WSC program for institutional advancement as "very aggressive."

Marketing studies have given college faculty members and administrators "a sense of user perception," Elliott continued.

"We are changing to meet society's needs," he added.

Galen Wiser, 33-year-old vice president of the State National Bank and Trust Co., has been named president-elect of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Wiser was elected to the position during a meeting of the Chamber board Wednesday. He will begin his term in January 1984.

A NATIVE of Central City, Wiser was graduated from Osceola High School. He attended the University of Nebraska Lincoln and Wayne State College, where he received his degree in 1975.

He also is a graduate of the Colorado School of Banking and is past president of the Northeast Nebraska chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

He has been employed at the State National Bank and Trust Co. the past six years.

He is a member of Wayne Jaycees, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion.

RANDY PEDERSEN, owner of the Diamond Center, will serve as Chamber of Commerce president in 1983.

Pedersen replaces Bob Esnz, whose term expires this year.

Chamber board members Wednesday re-elected Ron Sladek, manager of First Savings Co., to serve as treasurer during 1983.

Pedersen and Sladek will begin their terms in January.

Galen Wiser

MEMBERS OF the Wayne Chamber of Commerce have also elected new members of the board of directors.

Grant Ellingson, of Ellingson Motors, Dale Stoltenberg, of Stoltenberg Partners, and Lois Hall, of Wayne Greenhouse, will begin their three-year terms in January.

Hall was re-elected to the board after filling an unexpired term. Ellingson and Stoltenberg replace Paul Peterson and Bob Esnz.

Carroll parents rate highest for conference attendance

Attendance in one instance hit 100 percent during the recent two-day parent-teacher conferences in the Wayne-Carroll schools.

The 100 percent mark was recorded by officials at the Carroll Elementary School, where 37 students are enrolled.

A report on the parent-teacher conferences was presented to board of education members by Superintendent Francis Haun during a meeting last Monday night.

TOTAL ATTENDANCE at Wayne Elementary School hit 95.46 percent.

Attendance in a class-by-class breakdown hit 93.02 percent at the kindergarten level; 97.72 percent at first grade, 92.45 percent at second grade, 94.29 percent at third grade, and 97.82 percent at fourth grade.

At Wayne Middle School, fifth grade attendance was at 83 percent, sixth grade at 70 percent, seventh grade at 78 percent, and eighth grade at 54 percent.

PARENTS ATTENDING conferences at the high school reached 42.2 percent, slightly lower than the 67.3 percent recorded the previous year.

Ninth grade attendance was at 74.4 percent, 10th grade at 57.3 percent, 11th grade at 44.8 percent, and 12th grade at 51.8 percent.

According to Principal Donald Zeiss, there were some significant decreases in attendance as classes moved up a year.

Smokeout

percentage of smokers continues to drop. In 1978, 33.07 percent of the population, age 17 and older, were smoking. In 1980, that figure fell to 32.4 percent.

During 1981 there was a noted decrease in the number of women smoking, although those that continue to smoke are smoking more heavily.

It also has been determined, according to the Cancer Society, that nicotine in smoking women is transferred to breast milk and therefore passed on to children.

NELSON SAID although the Great American Smokeout encourages smokers to quit for just 24 hours, it is hoped that those who accept the 24 hour challenge will have longer term goals in mind.

Nelson said the American Cancer Society has offered several tips for Smokeout Day. They include:

—When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath. Hold it for 10 seconds, then release it slowly.

—Exercise to help relieve tension. Climb stairs rather than take the elevator, practice touching your toes, jog in place, do jumping jacks.

—Wrap your cigarettes in a sheet of paper, then rubberband. If you must reach for a cigarette, you'll have more difficulty getting to one and may change your mind.

—Cleanse your body of nicotine. Drink lots of liquids, including water, herbal teas, fruit juices and caffeine-free soft drinks. Pass on coffee, caffeinated soft drinks and alcohol as they can increase your urge to smoke.

—Eat rather than smoke, but stick to low calorie, high nutritional foods.

—Change your habits connected with smoking. Leave the dinner table soon after eating, or when answering the phone reach for gum rather than a cigarette.

—Spend your day with friends who don't smoke. Visit places where smoking is prohibited, a library, theater, department store, or museum.

—Get rid of smoker's breath by brushing your teeth several times.

—Use money you save from a day of not smoking: make a three-minute, long distance phone call, play three games of Pac Man, or play three favorite songs on a jukebox.

—Go public with your plans to quit by telling all your friends.

—Pat yourself on the back. Quitting smoking is hard and you deserve credit.

potential for other problems. Meanwhile, institutional advancement is permanently etched on Elliott's day-to-day agenda. And, the college will continue to focus on the non-traditional student.

"WE ARE, first and foremost, members of the Wayne community," he said.

The Great American Smokeout

American Cancer Society

...by randall howell

country boy...

Howdy.
I cannot resist saying something about the coming retirement of Mel and Ruth Elofson.
First, let me tell you I wish them well.
They know that. And now, you know that.
But, what am I going to do?

I'M A SELF-CONFESSED hardware store junkie.
I can't resist saying something about that, too. Somehow, you knew I would.

But, you haven't answered my question: What am I going to do?

I can't remember ever going into a hardware store without buying something.
Let's face it...it's a compulsion with me. Whenever I need a fix, the hardware store has the goods.

AND, I EVEN find an excuse to buy something when I'm still high on the hardware gadgetry I purchased only days before.
My compulsion drives me through the doors of any and all hardware stores, but my real weakness is the small, mom-and-pop variety.

Mel... Ruth... How could you do this to me?
I may have to seek some kind of counseling.
I'd be willing to bet that I'm not the only one facing the problem.

SOME OTHER mom-and-pop hardware store junkies I know already have experienced the first stages of withdrawal over the Elofson's decision.

At least Mel and Ruth are going out of business gradually.
That's better for me, because I wouldn't survive a cold-turkey closing.

I need a few weeks, at least, to browse around just one more time...to get high on hardware here, hardware there and hardware everywhere.

They've got things that do things that I didn't even know people wanted done.

THERE'S SO MANY thingamajigs that help hardware.

junkies like me connect whatchamacallits to dealyboppers.
And, I'm not sure you can get them just any old place. I'm checking around in a quiet panic.

But, just in case, I'm quietly buying up all the thingamajigs I can find at Coast to Coast — under Mel's watchful eye, of course.

I can't deal with the thought of being out of them and having no place to go for a fix.

The other hardware store owners in town have assured me they've got them. But, I'm just not all that sure about it.

I MEAN, I trust the other guys too, but you just can't be too careful when it comes to having thingamajigs — and plenty of them — on hand.

I can't get anything done without them.
I'm stocking up on whatchamacallits and dealyboppers, too, just in case I break the ones I have and can't get them replaced.

I'm your basic dingaling do-it-yourselfer and that means I break a lot of things that no one else ever breaks.

What I don't break, I lose.
Either way, I keep the hardware store in business.

AND, YOU KNOW, Mel or Ruth always know what I want when I say: "Gimme another thingamajig, will ya?"

Anyone who has done any do-it-yourself projects knows that thingamajigs aren't all alike.

No sir.
Furthermore, any hardware store owner would be out of business in a minute if he didn't have a full line of thingamajigs.

Ask Mel. Ask Ruth. They'll tell you there's no two thingamajigs exactly alike.

The differences may be subtle to a do-it-yourselfer like you and me, but to a guy like Mel, or a gal like Ruth, the difference is glaring.

IN FACT, it's a matter of life or death when it comes to getting whatchamacallits and dealyboppers to work right.
So, again I ask: Mel... Ruth... What am I gonna do?

Thingajigs, whatchamacallits and dealyboppers are only part of my dilemma.

Where in the world am I going to go when I've got time to kill?

Where else can I stare — for endless ecstatic minutes — at the gleaming handle and shiny blade of a brand new screwdriver, trying to imagine how it would look in my toolbox?

Where else can I throw a gun to my shoulder, give a clobber the proper lead and blow it off the wall?

I CAN'T DO those things just anywhere, you know.
You can't do those things at the library.

Not without getting arrested for loitering or hunting out of season, anyway.

And how would that look in the local newspaper?
I can see the headline: Police arrest hardware junkie in library clock shooting.

It would be over for me.
No longer could I lead my secret country-boy life in the heart of the city.

Mel... Ruth... I don't know how else to tell you of my plight

PERHAPS Minnesota's country poet Bob Dylan said it best in one of his ballads.

Finally, I was able to play again after picking up a thingamajig at the hardware store the other day.

Through the nasal noise and hardware high of the album, I heard him say quite simply: "I'm sure gonna miss ya when yer gone."

Mel, that's former Minnesotan talking right to former Minnesotan...right? Ruth, even a former Iowan should understand that, right?

Sorry, I didn't mean to pick on you. I always use the term "former Iowan" as a compliment.

It is... isn't it?

Anyway, I'm glad your Nebraskans and that Wayne is — and will continue to be — your home.

BUT, THAT doesn't get to the heart of the problem.
Just when I think some nice turn of phrase will make it easier for me to cope, I fall off the wagon and into the hardware habit again.

It's not your fault though. Don't, please don't, feel the least bit guilty.

It's my problem, right?

After all, you didn't ask me to get hooked on your wares — the hard stuff.

But, wait a minute...

...You did set it right out there.

Not only that, but you stacked it on self-service shelves. In fact, you stacked it to the ceiling in some places.

YOU MADE it so easy for me to get.

And, when I couldn't find the kind of stuff I wanted, you didn't send me packing.

Oh, no. Instead, you smiled and searched until you made sure I had whatever it was I was after.

You even had the audacity to "special order" some "special stuff" if I could just hang on for a few days.

Somehow, I always made it. But, that didn't help my habit and you know it.

To make matters worse, you did it knowing full well that I'm a hardware junkie.

It's people like you who contribute to the delight of do-it-yourselfers without thinking about personal consequences.

REALLY, THERE ought to be a law...to keep people like you from going out of business.

Well, if your mind is made up, maybe just a City Council resolution...encouraging you to take your time closing those doors.

Would you settle for a Chamber of Commerce salute...thanking you for your years of service?

How about a tear-stained thingamajig...written by a country boy turned hardware store junkie?

It ain't much. It's all I got...just some whatchamacallits and dealyboppers — junk from a junkie.

Maybe it'll mean more if I tell you what friend of mine once told me: "God don't make no junk."

Godspeed to you both.

Catch you next week...

A real jungle

The humanitarian side of government is often lost in a jungle of facts and figures, rules and regulations — cold statistics and colder laws.

That combination often does more to turn people off than to turn them on to the things that can be done to improve our quality of life.

And, though the farther you climb the ladder of government the colder it seems to get, the local level can often appear, at least to the man on the street, to be indifferent.

Even if it isn't so, it often appears that way to the governed. Sometimes they just don't get the right glimpse of what goes on inside City Hall.

Tuesday night's City Council meeting is a case in point — a case in which concerned citizens touched the humanitarian side of local government.

Without grandstanding, the Disabled American Veterans presented a sincere, straightforward request for a centrally located handicapped unloading zone in Wayne's downtown business district.

In a few short, but direct, words the DAV's August Lorenzen outlined the need, touching on some of the difficulties that senior citizens and disabled residents have in downtown Wayne.

He quickly focused Council attention on real, rather than hypothetical, examples by explaining that a downtown errand that would normally take a few minutes often turns into hours for seniors and the handicapped.

With a clear understanding of the problem, thanks to an uncluttered DAV presentation, the Council went to work at once.

And, only minutes after the request, the Council directed that a search begin for an appropriate handicapped zone.

The dynamics of the citizen request and government response will not make headlines in Washington D.C., but that does not mean it isn't important.

Some of the most important things in the world are done right here at home with a quiet determination to make life better.

Whether they are private citizens or local government officials, the people who work together to get good things done are the unsung heroes of America.

Their song can and does rise above the dirge of discord.

Safe hunting

Each year thousands of hunting accidents occur across the United States. Most of those accidents are the result of carelessness and could be avoided.

November is one of the busiest hunting seasons in Nebraska. In this part of the state, many hunters are out searching for pheasants and deer. Seasons on quail, geese, ducks, snipe, squirrels and rabbits are also in session.

So be careful. Many corn fields are left standing and brush is still heavy in some places. Beware of cattle and most of all keep an eye out for other hunters.

Keep hunting near the top of the list of successful and enjoyable sports in this country. At the same time keep it safe.

To the editor:
It is impossible to personally thank all the volunteers who helped make the Turkey Trot a success so we would like to use this means to express our sincere appreciation to all of you.

A special thanks has to go to Dale Gutshall for his efforts as well as the people who worked the finish chute and registration. Thanks to Randy Hascall for the pre-race publicity. The Turkey Trot is just another example of the great attitude and spirit which makes Wayne a fine community in which to live.

Thirty-two communities were represented by the 129 registrants from as far away as Hawarden, Iowa and Harvard, Neb. Forty-nine locals broke out their running shoes and made it either two or five miles. All the blisters will soon heal and we already look forward to next year.

To the editor:
I want to thank Wayne for putting on such a well organized run as the Turkey Trot. Even we stragglers knew exactly where to go because the route was so well manned and marked.

A special thanks to Pat Gross. My son Scott says "thanks" to The Daylight Doughnut Shop for the free dozen. The drawing was fun and a creative added attraction.

On Nov. 15, 1982, Future Business Leaders of America and Phi Beta Lambda, a business organization of over 220,000 students who promote business, do community service projects, and help make America a better place to live, along with the American public is proud to celebrate Free Enterprise Day.

This day is set aside to recognize the accomplishments of the American public and the American business community.

Our free enterprise system is geared to improving the quality of our economic life. Productivity is the basic ingredient which makes it all possible. In the past 200 years this incentive has developed to the extent that people in other countries see us as innovators, which has resulted in our high standards of living.

American free enterprise is the best economic system that has come along. Just look what it has done for our nation in the short span of 200 years; we are the world's leading nation in industrialization and technology; we can produce more goods than any nation on earth.

Please help Future Business Leaders of America and Phi Beta Lambda and the business community support Free Enterprise Day.

It is you who makes it work for all of us.

Energy supply in good shape

The U.S. Department of Energy noted there has been little drain on the nation's proved reserves of oil and natural gas during the past year. Proved reserves of dry natural gas were up 1.4 percent. Those of natural gas liquids were up 5.1 percent.

While proved domestic reserves of crude oil were down 1.3 percent, the level of crude oil discoveries in 1981 was the highest since 1965.

With a high rate of exploration and discovery, continued conservation by Americans and the steady filling-up of the National Petroleum Reserve as an insurance policy against any future cutoff of foreign oil, or energy picture appears to be in good shape.

DESPITE THE hard economic times, new businesses are starting up at a near record rate. Estimates based on the latest figures released by Dun and Bradstreet show that over 500,000 new businesses will open their doors to the public during 1982.

This is only a slight decrease from the number of businesses started during 1981, a record-setting year.

Computer-related firms, consulting outfits, and service-oriented companies account for many of the new entrants. In fact, the number of new service-oriented businesses is up seven percent over last year. Part of the increase in new businesses this year has been attributed to the reductions in the capital gains tax made by the Administration's 1981 tax cut.

CONGRATULATIONS to Richard A. Robinson, Executive Vice President of Norfolk Iron and Metal Company, on his recent appointment to the Industry Sector Advisory Committee on Ferrrous Ores and Metal for Trade Policy Matters. This committee functions under the auspices of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

I have been designated by the House leadership as an official member of the U.S. Delegation to the GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) ministerial Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, later this month.

I am particularly gratified to have this opportunity to represent Nebraska's agricultural interests at such a significant meeting.

congressman doug bereuter

portunity to represent Nebraska's agricultural interests at such a significant meeting.

This will be the first meeting of the trade ministers of GATT member nations since the trade ministers of 87 nations met in 1973. The U.S. is going to this meeting with hope that participants can fashion a trade agenda for the 1980's.

WHILE OUR European trading partners are currently upset over our technology embargo, the United States hopes to expand GATT's rules to reduce trade barriers and reach some agreement on the vital issue of eliminating Japanese barriers against our beef and citrus products and reducing European agricultural subsidies.

Agricultural exports are one important element in finding solutions to our economic difficulties. We simply must do a better job negotiating with our trading partners to resolve unfair trade subsidies and barriers which put the American farmer at a disadvantage in competing for world markets.

The experience which can be gained by attending these important trade negotiations will be useful in my continuing goal to become the House expert on farm exports and trade policies.

DIFFICULTIES exist between the United States and the European Community over U.S. policy regarding the Soviet natural gas pipeline and expressed hope that progress could be made in resolving those disagreements.

Because of the natural gas pipeline sanctions, these sessions will be difficult and meaningful progress may prove to be illusive, but we must work toward establishing a foundation of trust and cooperation upon which expanded trade can be based.

Increased trade will benefit all of us. Importing as well as exporting nations, and I am extremely pleased to have this opportunity to be an active part of the process.

This is a much sought-after appointment and one usually not available to members unless they serve on the Trade Subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee. I am quite pleased to be included in the U.S. delegation, especially since I am the junior member in the congressional delegation to GATT.

Other members of Congress delegated to attend the GATT Conference include Sam Gibbons, Fla.; Dan Rostenkowski, Ill.; James R. Jones, Okla.; Guy Vander Jagt, Mich.; Bill Frenzel, Minn.; Thomas Downey, N.Y.; Donald J. Pease, Ohio; Ed Jenkins, Ga.; Bill Alexander, Ark.; Don Bonker, Wash.; and James T. Broyhill, N.C.

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

Sports still top priority

I think I should clear up a couple of points to readers of The Wayne Herald. First of all, although I now hold the title of co-editor, sports coverage will still be my top priority. And as long as I'm here, sports coverage will not decline.

At the same time, co-editor LaVon Anderson will spend a majority of her time handling the people pages as she has done in the past. The only real change is that both of us will spend a greater deal of time working on general stories and pictures.

Our appointment as co-editors is on a six-month trial basis. After that period of time we may continue to operate as co-editors or we may return to our original positions on the newspaper staff.

Paul Farmer, managing editor of The Wayne Herald the past five months, received another job offer in Iowa and resigned as managing editor of our newspaper about three weeks ago. He is now employed as managing editor at the Sac City Sun in Sac City, Iowa.

Paul, a native Iowan, was a fun and understanding editor to work for and got along well with our staff. I wish him well in his latest endeavor in the field of journalism. He promised to keep in touch from time to time.

Break between seasons

Getting back to business, the next few weeks provides a break between sports season for fans of high school athletics. Coaches and athletes are still hard at it, working out for basketball and wrestling, but fans now have a short wait before getting back into the swing of things.

The winter sports season will be here before you know it, so hang tight and enjoy the free time. Meanwhile college teams are getting warmed up to open their seasons.

Locally, Wayne State College will be in action this week. The Wildcats will participate in the NAIA District 11 Cage Classic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Kearney. The Lady Cats will compete Thursday and Friday at Fremont. Go Cats. The Wayne Herald is planning to publish its annual winter sports guide just before the high school season opens.

Attracting college recruiters

Prior to his team's final football game, Mike Kennon of Stanton, Iowa had been contacted by only one college about continuing his football career.

Then, Kennon booted a 62 yard field goal.

The kick came on first down with his team leading 60-0. In fact, his team declined a 15-yard penalty in order to keep its distance from the goal-line.

The successful field goal set a new Iowa state record and was within two yards of the national record set earlier this past season in California.

Now, the high school senior has Iowa and Nebraska on his door step with probable scholarship offers. Iowa State, which wanted Kennon to become a walk-on, is now planning to offer him a scholarship.

Kennon attempted only four field goals all season but hit all four from more than 30 yards out. That's not a bad percentage.

All-area selections near

Work has begun on selection of the annual Wayne Herald All-area football and volleyball squads. Those announcements will be published in future editions of the newspaper.

Coaches of the year

Congratulations to Wayne coaches Mavis Dalton and Lonnie Ehrhardt who were honored as West Husker Conference coaches of the year at a conference meeting Wednesday night.

8 locals named to team; Ehrhardt coach of year

Lonnie Ehrhardt, who coached the Wayne Blue Devils to a 4-5 record, was named coach of the year and eight Wayne players were named to the West Husker all-conference football team at a conference meeting Wednesday night.

Conference champion Harlington CC placed seven players on the all-conference squad. West Point CC had five players on the team and Wisner-Pilger put four players on the squad.

Representing Wayne are offensive linemen Mark Kubik, offensive end Jim Poehlman, offensive backs Kurt Janke and Dan Frevort, defensive linemen Tim Heier, linebackers Kevin Koenig and Jeff McCright and defensive back Terry Gilliland.

Poehlman is a junior. Koenig is a sophomore and the other Wayne players are all seniors. With the West Husker Conference disbanding after the 1982-83 school year, this will be the final all-conference football team.

Lady Cats open season Thursday

By Bruce Viergutz
Wayne State College

The Wayne State Lady Wildcat basketball squad opens the 1982 season with three returning starters and a basket full of hope and optimism as the Lady Cats journey to the NAIA District 11 pre-season classic at Midland College Nov. 18-19.

The Lady Wildcats return Robbie Lehr, a 6-1 junior from Sioux City, Maggie Alberts, a 5-5 junior from Denison, Iowa and Janet Lee, a 5-7 junior from Albion. That plus spicing in three talented freshmen should help improve WSC's 13-17 record of last year.

COACH JAN JIRSAK, in her second year at Wayne State College, will depend on 5-11 freshman Deb Nygren and Donna Schultz, along with Alberts and Lehr, to lead a potent Wayne State last break that will leave WSC opponents in their tracks.

Good team player

"We like to fast break and try to get up and down the court as much as we can," said Jirsak. "We don't have anyone outstanding in a particular area, but we have good all-round team players. Alberts, Lehr and Schultz lead the break very well."

With the three experienced starters returning Jirsak feels her club should improve from last year in a season that some people felt eight wins would suffice as a good year.

"We hope our experience will make us a better ball club," said Jirsak. "Our conference is always up. A good example of that is Missouri Southern who was fourth in our conference last year and ended up runner-up in the National Tournament. We know every game in our conference we have to go in and play well to win. If you let down against any of our opponents you'll get beat."

ALTHOUGH WAYNE STATE is curiously picked to finish last in the CSIC, Jirsak feels the Lady Cats can finish somewhere in the middle though she says Emporia State and Pittsburg State will be the co-favorites.

Could be a surprise

"I voted for Emporia," stated Jirsak. "They and Pitt will be Number 1 and Number 2 and Missouri Western will be tough, but after that we could be very much of a surprise. If we can play well and be competitive we should end in the middle some place and maybe pull off a couple of upsets."

"Our Number 1 goal is to do well in districts and qualify for the play-offs," continued Jirsak. "That's the road to the national tournament. After that, in no real particular order we'd like to have a record over 500, do well in our conference and do well against the teams in our area."

Good impressions

The Lady Wildcats will take on Midland on Nov. 18 and Dana College on Nov. 19 with both slated for an 8 p.m. start. Jirsak is looking for good impressions in WSC's initial opener.

"We want to look at our team in a constructive manner," concluded Jirsak. "We want to see what we have to do on the whole yet. We want to win but the scoreboard isn't our main concern. The pre-season classic is a chance to look at your team and see what happens. It's sort of like a glorious scrimmage."

Jirsak and her squad of 13 will hope to make the 1982-83 season a glorious one as well. Home opener for the Lady Cats will be Nov. 23 against Doane.

Wayne breaks six records

Class B's top-rated team, Omaha Roncalli, brought Wayne's volleyball season to an end in the semifinal round of districts. The Blue Devils finished the year with a 13-8 record.

Wayne played in four tournaments, placing second in the North Bend Tourney, third in the West Husker Conference Tourney, and taking fourth in both the Beemer Invitational and South Sioux Classic.

This year's team broke six of the nine school records established for volleyball. Tammie Murray, Deb Prenger, Karen Longe and Missy Stoltenberg etched their names in the record book this past year.

MURRAY AND PRENGER each set two new records. Murray made most sets in a season with 763 and scored most service points with 127. Prenger had 283 spikes for most in a season and 117 were aces for most aces. Longe has the best serving percentage for a season with a mark of 97 percent. Stoltenberg had 102 tips to establish a record for most tips in a season. The three records, which were not broken were most blocks—34 by LuVonna Sharpe in 1979-80, most bumps—599 by Peg Pinkelman in '79-80, and ace serves—41 by Jill Zeiss in '80-81.

Coach Mavis Dalton awarded letters to six seniors, one junior and four sophomores. Senior lettermen are Prenger, Stoltenberg, Murray, Pam Nissen, Jill Mosley and Shelley Emry. Fran Gross was the only junior to letter. Sophomores who were awarded letters were Lisa Jacobsen, Karen Longe, Paula Koplin and Sarah Lebeck. Managers were Tena Bergholz, Cindy Filter and Jody Allen.

Wayne's eight losses were to quality opponents Harlington CC defeated the Blue Devils twice. Sioux City North, Omaha Roncalli, Norfolk, Columbus Scotus, Beemer and Dodge also topped the locals. North won the Iowa state tour-ament. Scotus and Roncalli were seeded number one and two in the Nebraska Class B tourney, and Beemer was seeded second in Class C.

PRENGER WAS leading spiker for the Blue Devils with 283 good spikes in 337 attempts for 84 percent. She had 117 ace spikes, 78 good tips and 24 blocks. Prenger also made 179 good serves with 37 aces and 110 points. Her total of 503 good bumps was second on the team.

Stoltenberg was right behind Prenger in net play with 258 good spikes in 323 attempts and 113 ace spikes. She led the team with 102 good tips and was second with 28 blocks. Stoltenberg also hit 175 good serves for 103 points and led the team with 539 good bumps.

Murray scored 127 points with 146 good serves, hit 429 good bumps and was the team's primary setter with 763 good sets in 795 attempts. She also made 87 good tips. Longe specialized in serving and missed only three serves in 102 attempts to lead the team with a 97 percent mark. She scored 56 points and also made 87 bumps.

NISSEN, WHO specialized in floor play, was the team's second leading scorer with 122 service points in 178 serves. She also led the Blue Devils with 38 ace serves and made 390 good bumps.

The right front row spot was shared by Mosley and Gross. Mosley made 11 tips and 19 blocks. Gross had 22 blocks and five tips.

Emry shared floor duties and made 83 good bumps this past season. Jacobsen was brought in for serving and hit 128 good serves for 86 points. She also made 151 bumps. The Blue Devils hit an outstanding mark of 94 percent serving with 1,729 good serves in 1,838 attempts. The locals had 2,337 good bumps, made 911 good sets and 590 spikes with 235-ace spikes. Wayne also had 292 good tips and 132 blocks.

Fossil finders

A GROUP of Wayne students toured Schram park near Gretna last week and spent several hours searching for fossils. The students and their sponsors, Dick Metteer and Dave Luff, brought back a collection of fossils which will be placed on display when the Wayne Middle School encounter center opens in January. The center will give students an opportunity to experience Nebraska's natural history by examining items which will be on display. Metteer said items, assistance and information from area residents will help make the center successful. The middle school encounter center will be patterned after Morrill Hall in Lincoln.

Wayne students attend Bereuter Youth Institute

Students from Wayne High School were among approximately 250 delegates to the second annual Bereuter Youth Institute at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln on Monday, Nov. 8.

Attending the Institute from Wayne were Beth Schafer and John Warne as well as instructor Becky Kelley.

The all-day Institute was sponsored by Congressman Doug Bereuter and 80 schools from the First Congressional District participated.

DURING THE day, students and teachers alike attended five sessions including two with Bereuter. The other three were one-hour mini-sessions featuring a pair of speakers discussing a national issue in a pro-con format for half of the time and then participating with the students for the remainder of the session.

Mini session topics were: Should American young people be asked to give one or more years to a public service commitment? Are environmental regulations harming American economic growth? Should America freeze the production of nuclear weapons? Should Congress propose another equal rights amendment to the Constitution? Should the federal government play a smaller or larger role in financing student loan/grant programs? Should the United States stop the imports of those countries who stop American exports?

Bereuter said "The purpose of the mini sessions was not to direct the students toward a point of view, but to demonstrate how complex questions facing this nation can be. By taking part in several of these sessions, I hope students begin formulating their own points of view and by doing so, become an active part of the citizenry."

BEFORE THE students attended the Institute, they received informational packets on the questions they would be studying. The packets were prepared by the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress.

Speakers for the Institute came from the business community, academic personnel, and government. All of the speakers donated their time and travel expenses to spend a day with First District students. Bereuter said other than travel expenses to the Institute, there was no cost to the students and teachers. It was the second year that Nebraska Wesleyan University has hosted the event.
