The regular self-service connection

RANDY ANDERSON, an employee of Plumbing and Electric Service, Harfington, wires electrical connections in self-service gas pumps in front of Casey's General Store. Store owner Gary Donner, Harfington, said he hopes to open for business by mid month. The new convenience store, on Seventh Street east, will be stocked next week, Donner said.

Planners postpone approval

Rich's seeking gas-pump permit

Despite the recent opening of a family food-n-run center at Rich's Super Foods, no one can accuse the owner of puffering around too long.

Rich Anderson, who has spent some time with customers on the greens of his new Family Fun Center's 9-hole miniature golf, is teeing up for a swing at self-service gas pumps.

The grocery store owner is seeking City Planning Commission approval of a conditional-use permit to install five self-service gas pumps in front of Rich's Super Foods.

CITY PLANNERS, however, have tabled action on the request while Anderson and city staffers survey property lines to determine compliance with state fire regulations and city zoning ordinances. Commissioners, meeting Monday night at City Hall, postponed action on Anderson's request for the conditional-use permit, following a public hearing that saw no opposition to the proposed commercial venture.

Anderson's proposal is to install self-service gasoline pumps between the Rich's Super Foods building, on the west side of Main Street north, and the state Highway 15 property right-of-way.

ACCORDING TO Marcia Pankaskie, city planner, the state fire marshal requires gasoline pumps to be positioned "at least 5 feet from the building" and "at least 10 feet back of the business property line."

Unofficial measurements of the distance between the Rich's Super Foods storefront and the sidewalk running along the west side of Main Street north show "just under" 15 feet available, according to Pankaskie. Pankaskie told the commissioners that property pins for Rich's Super Foods were not located in the unofficial measurement, but that the space available from building to sidewalk was "a few inches" shy of 15 feet.

"It cannot be 10 feet from the property line and 5 feet from the building (under those conditions)," explained Phil Kloster, city administrator.

ESTIMATES WERE that the self-service pumps would be at least 2 feet wide, which would indicate that Anderson needs some 17 feet of space between the storefront and the eastern property line of the building to comply with the state fire marshal's regulations.

"It's short of 15 feet by a few inches," continued Kloster. "We'll have to survey to find the property line."

Pankaskie said that property lines in Wayne often fall at the edge of the sidewalk.

November bill nearly $7,500

ESU board to review employees' mileage

It may be a long, long way to Tipperary, particularly if you're riding with an employee of Educational Service Unit One.

During a routine monthly review of payroll bills Tuesday night, several ESU board members questioned the amount of mileage being paid to employees of the service unit.

The November mileage bills were submitted by Wakefield based ESU administrator Harry Mills during the board's regular monthly meeting in Laurel.

"THERE'S SOMETHING wrong," said board member Dave Hay of Belden after looking over the mileage bills.

Mileage bills submitted by Mills on behalf of 50 employees of the unit during the month of November totaled $7,409.62.

Hay particularly questioned the mileage of one employee of the unit which totaled $411.84 for the month.

Other mileage bills submitted ran as high as $399 and $333 during the month.

HAY SUGGESTED that some employees may be charging the ESU for the number of miles they drive from their home to their place of work and back.

"We're making some pretty good-sized car payments," teased one member of the board.

"I suggest this is the administrator's problem, not mine," said Hay, adding that the administrator should be able to tell board members how the money is being spent.

Hay, with approval of board chairman Bill Weise of Wausa, volunteered to look into the mileage matter and report back to the board.

"I think this may require a change in board policy and cooperation from the administration and staff," Hay said.

"I think we all agree there needs to be some change," echoed Weise.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, Mills reported to the board on a grievance which has been filed by nurses employed by the service unit.

It appears the grievance involves a complaint by the nurses that they are not allowed to use their hospital experience to step up on the ESU salary schedule.

Only school experience counts toward the nurses advancing on the salary schedule.

Mills said he has met with the nurses regarding their grievance and will take the District Court judge sets sentencing for Jan. 5

Woman pleads guilty in welfare fraud

A Wayne woman has been ordered to appear in Ninth District Court, Wayne County, Wednesday, Jan. 5, for sentencing in connection with a welfare fraud case.

Marilyn Liedorff, 35, has pleaded guilty to three counts of welfare fraud, two felony charges and one misdemeanor charge — the result of a plea bargaining agreement arranged by the Wayne County attorney and the defendant's court-appointed counsel.

Liedorff entered the guilty plea to all three counts before District Court Judge Merritt C. Warren last week.

JUDGE WARREN ordered a presentence investigation and requested a report on Liedorff from the district probation officer.

Sentencing has been set for 10:30 a.m. that day in the second floor courtroom of the Wayne County Courthouse.

Warren remains free on her own recognizance, but has guaranteed her appearance before the court with a $5,000 personal bond.

The case was remanded to District Court after Liedorff was arraigned before Wayne County Court Judge James Duggan on Nov. 17.

LIEDORFF WAIVED a preliminary hearing in County Court, and because of the two felony counts, was bound over to District Court for the Dec. 1 appearance.

The arraignment involved an amended complaint filed on Nov. 23 by County Attorney Budd Bornhoff that reduced the first charge from a Class IV felony to a Class III misdemeanor.

Originally, Liedorff had been charged with three Class IV felony counts in connection with obtaining welfare and food-stamp benefits beyond entitlement in aggregate amounts exceeding $500.

The amended complaint indicates, after further investigation, that the welfare benefits allegedly received by Liedorff were "less than $500."

JUDGE WARREN accepted the amended complaint, which left Liedorff facing a misdemeanor and two felony counts in the case.

Court-appointed attorney Duane Schroeder of Wayne and Liedorff appeared before Judge Warren last Wednesday to answer the charges. Bornhoff appeared for the prosecution.

This reporter's dreaded assignment—do a story on the Mineshaft Creamery, Wayne's new ice cream parlor.

There was only one place to begin—rating the 24 flavors of ice cream. This was the kind of job every reporter dreads.

"Hi, here's my press pass. I'm from The Wayne Herald and would like to taste your 24 flavors. What's that you say? You would gladly let me taste all 24 flavors. Wow!"

RATING ALL 24 flavors of ice cream is next to impossible. Even a professional taste tester may have to sample several varieties of ice cream a minimum of three or four times. And this reporter is certainly no professional.

The sampling began in style. First came tin roof sundae, an excellent mixture of ice cream and nuts. The second sample was the most unusual—bubble gum. Bubble gum is a good tasting ice cream that actually contains bits of frozen bubble gum. It's especially liked by younger customers who enjoy chewing a wad of gum as a dessert.

Next on the list was smooth, creamy French vanilla. Additional vanilla and strawberry. All were good.

One of this reporter's favorites was chocolate nut. It offers enough chocolate to satisfy any chocolate lover and plenty of

Thone giveth, Kerrey taketh away

viewpoint

By Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association

Five weeks before the end of this term, Gov. Charles Thone announced 37 new appointments and 36 reappointments to dozens of state boards and commissions.

But those Nebraskans appointed by Thone on Nov. 30 to the state panels, which range in prominence from the Game and Parks Commission to the Board of Examiners in Massage, run the risk of never having the opportunity to serve.

A 16-year-old attorney general's opinion suggests that Gov. elect Bob Kerrey has the prerogative, following his Jan. 6 inauguration, of withdrawing those Thone appointments which will require legislative approval, as most do, and submitting his own nominations.

THE OPINION was sought in 1967 by incoming Gov. Norbert Tiemann, who asked the Legislature to allow him to reconsider some 11th hour appointments made by his predecessor, Gov. Frank Morrison.

Gov. J.J. Egan, when he was in Kerrey's position, substituted a few of his own appointments for those which Tiemann had made. Thone did not exercise his power to change appointments when he took office.

Kerrey has been noncommittal about what he'll do.

None of Thone's appointments appeared to be particularly controversial. But some involved significant slots in the state government scheme, and Kerrey may decide that he wants to be the one to make the appointments.

AMONG THE more prominent Thone appointments were Neal Keller of Brewster to the Game and Parks Commission, Miles Johnston, Jr., of Lincoln to the Nebraska Accountability and Disclosure Commission and Brent Stevenson of Omaha to the state Board of Educational Lands and Funds.

The status of dozens of other appointments made by Thone between the end of the regular legislative session last spring and the November special session is unclear.

Lawmakers didn't make the effort to confirm any of those appointments during the special session, and some state officials say the status of those appointees is unclear.

The 28-year legislative career of Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings came to an end on Nov. 29 during a brief ceremony at the state Capitol.

MARVEL, 64, was among a crowd of a few dozen who watched as his successor, Clarence Jacobson of Hastings, was sworn in by Secretary of State Allen Beermann.

Jacobson, 70, was appointed by Gov. Thone to fill the two years remaining in Marvel's term as the senator from the 33rd District.

Marvel, who has been ailing since last spring, resigned from the Legislature just 43 days short of becoming the longest-serving legislator in Nebraska history. The late Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha served longer than any other legislator.

Thone said Marvel has left "a legacy that will be of enduring benefit to the people of this state."

Hundreds of past and present colleagues, friends, lobbyists and staff members attended a reception at Lincoln's University Club in Marvel's honor on the evening his resignation took effect.

THE STATE Board of Canvassers met recently to certify the results of the Nov. 2 election. The results contained some electoral firsts:

- Attorney General Paul Douglas, in his re-election race against Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, received the highest number of votes ever recorded in an attorney general's race, 424,521.
- Secretary of State Allen Beermann, who was unopposed, received the highest number of votes ever cast for a state candidate, 435,387.
- State Treasurer Kay Orr became the first woman to be elected to a statewide constitutional office. Nancy Hoch of Nebraska City and Margaret Robinson of Norfolk became the first women ever elected to the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.
- Turnout was strong for an off year, 559,422 voters or 67 percent of all the Nebraskans who were registered. The lively race for governor and the corporate farming amendment are generally credited for boosting participation this year.

Welcome mat

The age of the service-station convenience store is upon Wayne. Already, the vanguard of these commercial ventures has strained the city's planning and zoning ordinances.

Each-time city planners face a new proposal for a convenience store, with self-service gas pumps, the codes and regulations are somewhat silent.

City officials are left with questions of interpretation that, inevitably, find their way onto the desk of the municipality's legal counsel.

The process is certainly a safe, but nonetheless cumbersome, approach to placing the Wayne welcome mat out for new business ventures in this city.

Though only about four years old, the city's master planning and zoning regulations leave more unsaid than said with regard to the convenience store, gas-pumping type businesses that have taken over the country.

In Wayne alone, there are at least five such operations. The older established businesses, such as Derby (Seventh Street east) and Apco (Main Street north), face new competition with the recent opening of the 7-Eleven (Seventh & Main streets junction) and the upcoming opening of Casey's General Store (Seventh Street east).

Now, Rich's Super Foods has redesigned its operations to include, among other things, convenience-store type merchandizing.

Much the same struggle that has faced commissioners on similar ventures in the past, confronts city planners today as Rich's Super Foods/Family Fun Center seeks to add self-service gasoline pumps.

According to Phil Kloster, city administrator, the municipal zoning regs are likely to get a going over when consultants marry proposed trailer-court guidelines to the master plan.

In this age of convenience and changing lifestyles, it may be wise to consider further updating the regs to embrace futuristic business ventures.

That type of update could go a long way toward keeping the Wayne welcome mat out in the decades to come.

Grain elevator ups and downs

Bankruptcy bill bottleneck

By Cheryl Westcott
Nebraska Farm Bureau

The U.S. Senate is once again waiting for the House of Representatives to do its part so farmers will be protected if the elevator storing their grain goes bankrupt.

S. 3037, passed in early October, is the fourth such Senate bill aiming to define the farmer's right to his stored property in the event the elevator enters bankruptcy proceedings.

The House has repeatedly failed to act, primarily because Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter Rodino of New Jersey has failed to recognize the importance of the issue and has kept it in committee.

RODINO ALSO will probably try to block the latest attempt — an end run by Rep. Caldwell Butler of Virginia which attached the elevator bankruptcy issue to a comprehensive reform bill for the federal courts.

This bill includes changes in federal bankruptcy proceedings, as well as some consumer credit provisions. Action on the reform bill is required by Dec. 24 to restore the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1978 to constitutionality.

The House approach isn't ideal, but it will give the House-Senate conference committee something to work with. Sen. Bob Dole's S. 3037 is not as strong as previous Senate bills, but it's preferable to the House proposal.

Dole's bill provides that a warehouse receipt or a scale ticket is sufficient proof of ownership. If the receipt or ticket is used as collateral on a loan, an affidavit from the lender verifying the ownership of the receipt is proof of ownership.

UNDER THE BILL, farmers who have sold produce to a bankrupt elevator are in a fifth priority position in selling the assets of the bankrupt elevator. A producer who has sold but not received payment may demand reclamation of his grain for 20 days after bankruptcy is declared.

Other provisions require that the court involved establish a timetable governing distribution of grain, with such distribution occurring within 120 days except in extenuating circumstances, as defined in the bill. Further, stored grain can't be used to pay the bankrupt elevator's secured creditors.

Two problems are apparent in S. 3037. The first relates to the producer's right to demand reclamation of his grain for 20 days after bankruptcy is declared.

This could be interpreted in one of three ways. Producers who have delivered grain but not received payment could demand payment at the expense of those with storage obligations. Or, producers who have not received payment would share the grain on a pro rata basis with holders of storage obligations. Or, those with storage obligations would be paid first and those who had not received payment would be paid from remaining company assets.

A SECOND problem could occur because the bill no longer requires that the grain be sold and the proceeds — rather than the grain itself — be distributed to producers.

Sale of grain was specified in a previous Senate bill because it would speed up distribution to warehouse receipt holders and would be less costly.

Assuming the House bill makes it through the Judiciary Committee and the full House, the conference committee could begin its work early next year. Producers will want to keep an eye on this issue — to make sure none of the essential points remaining in the proposed legislation are lost.

Falling off the economic ladder

Richard L. Leshar
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Swimming against the tide of conventional wisdom is nothing new for Walter Williams, the gifted black economist and professor.

Time and time again, he has raised the ire of self-styled black leaders by daring to suggest that advancement for minorities does not depend on, and in fact may be hindered by, massive increases in social welfare spending, quotas and government intervention in the economy.

In his latest book, "The State Against Blacks," Professor Williams argues that racial bigotry and discrimination, while still problems in many areas, do not provide a satisfactory explanation for the current condition of many blacks.

WHO OR what, then, is to blame for the lack of substantial economic progress?

Dr. Williams' answer may surprise you: There is not enough capitalism in the country and therefore not nearly enough economic growth to allow those at the bottom of the ladder to grab hold of the first rung.

Williams presents a number of examples of how intervention in the free market economy by government at all levels has squeezed out many economic opportunities for blacks.

One example is the much debated federal minimum wage law.

Williams points out that in 1960, teenage unemployment was roughly the same for whites as it was for blacks. Today, black youth unemployment is more than twice that for white youth, an astounding 48 percent.

DR. WILLIAMS argues that the minimum wage must take a large part of the blame — not because the law is explicitly anti-black, but because a steadily rising minimum wage strangles low-skilled, entry level jobs right out of existence, and the economic fact of life today is that black youths depend on those jobs to a disproportionate degree.

Another example in which government regulations close doors rather than open them can be seen in the taxicab industry.

In New York City, the supply of cabs is limited by a prohibitive $40,000 license fee that is required to own and operate a taxi. The result is fewer opportunities for aspiring entrepreneurs, and higher prices and poorer service for consumers.

Compare this with the relatively open system in Washington, D.C. In that nation's capital, the fee to put your own cab on the road is $25.

As a result, 90 percent of the taxis in Washington are owner-operated and the majority of those owners are black. Moreover, there are 12 cabs per thousand people in Washington, but just 1.6 cabs per thousand in New York.

WILLIAMS does not suggest that an open market in taxicabs is a panacea for the economic doldrums confronting the black community.

But it is an all too typical example of how government intervention in the marketplace has had the effect of denying blacks the same avenues of progress that enabled other minorities to advance even before the last vestiges of discrimination had been shed.

"A poor illiterate Italian," Williams writes, "arriving in our cities in 1925 or 1930 could, if he had the ambition and industry, go out and buy a car and write TAXI on it."

"Today, a poor person of any race would find that industry and ambition are not enough, if he sought the same path to upward mobility. He would find the path barricaded by a license costing $20, $30 or $60 thousand—a considerable barrier."

NEITHER Walter Williams nor I am suggesting that government does not have a responsibility to protect the basic civil rights of all Americans—at the point of a bayonet if necessary.

But it is equally clear that government's effort to legislate permanent economic advancement for blacks through increased regulations, bureaucracy and federal largesse has failed.

While it may not be as rhetorically satisfying for the media "stars" of the black community, Professor Williams' answer hits the mark: A free and growing economy, unshackled by government intervention to the greatest degree possible offers the most opportunity and best hope for black Americans at all levels.

Stamp stomp

Food stamp fraud indictments resulting from U.S. Department of Agriculture investigations totaled 1,170 in fiscal year 1982, a 46 percent increase over the previous year's 799, and nearly three times the 402 obtained in 1980.

The gain in indictments is attributed to stepped up activity by the office of the Inspector General and to the higher priority given food stamp cases by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Cooperation between the department represents a major effort by the administration to make sure that welfare benefits go to those who need them, not to crooks.

Every time a pusher takes food stamps for a fix, stamps that probably were stolen, it amounts to a blow to those who really need stamps.

Most of those indicted were hardened criminals, not mothers on welfare.

Many were dealers caught illegally exchanging drugs, guns, luxury consumer items and cash for food stamps. Traffickers typically given 10 to 50 cents on the dollar for food stamps that are then redeemed at full value through dishonest grocery retailers or phantom stores created for that purpose.

During the last six months of the fiscal year, the USDA inspector general's office completed 1,261 investigations and obtained 1,020 indictments involving USDA programs. Ordinarily, the office has a conviction rate of more than 90 percent of those indicted.

Fines, recoveries, collections, claims and savings from the USDA investigations totaled $13.4 million for the six-month period. There were 574 resolved audits resulting in $39 million in disallowances and claims referred for recovery, and an estimated $296 million in cost avoidances and savings that should result when audit recommendations are implemented.

Lady Cats lose pair of games

It was a start on the wrong foot for the Wayne State College Lady Wildcat team as they suffered losses in the opening games of conference and district play on Dec. 3-4.

The Lady Cats and Coach Jan Jirsak were slated to play the women of Hastings College in Hastings. They will then continue their road trip schedule in Chadron on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10-11 for games with Chadron State and South Dakota Tech.

The 4-3 Lady Wildcats learned a hard lesson on losing when they fell to the scoring power of the Missouri Western Lady Griffons 85-51 on Friday, a game that was the Central States Intercollegiate Conference opener for Wayne. They were unable to bounce back into the win column on Saturday night against the Lady Bobcats of Peru State, losing a 74-61 decision in NAIA District 11 play.

Western 84, WSC 51

Cold shooting in the first period and turnovers proved to be the downfall of the Lady Cats in their 84-51 loss to the Lady Griffons. Missouri Western held the lead from the opening buzzer, and took a 38-16 lead into the locker room at the half. The second half saw more of the same for Wayne, as they were never able to mount a scoring attack.

Junior, Robbie Lehr and freshman Deb Nygren combined to lead Wayne's scoring and rebounding, Lehr putting in 12 points and hauling down nine rebounds and Nygren adding 11 points and pulling in 13 caroms.

Janet Lee nabbed four steals and made three assists and Donetta Shultz turned in seven assists and two steals to continue their strong back-up play on the court. Sandy Stevens topped the Lady Griffons scoring with 17 points.

Peru 74, Wayne State 61

The Lady Cats were again unable to pull the scoring plus on their opponent as they fell to the Lady Bobcats 74-61 in Peru. Wayne State trailed at the half 43-31.

Freshmen provided the scoring in the losing effort for Wayne, with the starting three all hitting double figures. Deb Nygren led the way with 17 points, followed by Sheri Campbell and Donetta Shultz with 10 each.

Linda Shephard paced the Lady Bobcats with a game-high 32 points.

Midland roundballers rule game of streaks

Tuesday's Midland Wayne State basketball contest was a game of streaks. Most of those streaks seemed to go in Midland's favor as the hosts defeated the Wildcats 74-63.

Wayne State led by eight points twice in the first half including a 36-28 edge. A 12-1 scoring edge gave Midland a 40-37 lead at the half.

Both teams hit cold streaks in the second half but WSC was hurt the most. The Cats had closed within four points at 62-58 on a John Thompson tip-in with 8:15 to go. A 7-minute, 15-second stretch with no scoring killed that rally. Grady Hansen broke that streak with a basket at the one minute mark.

MIDLAND ALSO went scoreless from the field from 9:47 remaining until the final 11 seconds. But 10 free throws gave the hosts all they scoring they needed.

WSC hit 17 of 27 shots from the floor in the first half and finished with 18 of 54 for the game. Midland shot twice as many free throws as the Cats and hit 22.

Hansen led Wayne with 16 points and Brad Edwards had his finest game of the year, hitting his first six shots and finishing with 13 points. Ron Taylor scored 10 points and John Reed added eight. Leading rebounders were Reed with seven and Taylor with six.

Wayne State will take a 4-6 record into action tonight (Thursday) at Seward Concordia and will host Dana College Saturday night.

Experience rules as Laurel girls win

The hot hand of senior guard Kim Sherry led the Laurel Bears to a 43-21 win over Winside Tuesday night in Winside.

Sherry hit 8 field goals in 21 attempts for 38.1 percent shooting and 16 points. Team mates Kelli Johnson and Renee Gadeken each scored eight points and Patsy Thompson added seven. All are seniors.

Young Winside placed only one senior on the floor. Karlene Benshoof, a 5-2 guard and the only senior on the team, hit one basket. Junior Shelli Topp led the hosts with six points. Pam Peter scored five and sophomores Leah Jensen and Trisha Topp each added four points.

"OUR GUARDS did an excellent job of applying pressure out front. In the second half Gadeken took control of the middle," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "I was pleased with our rebounding but not too pleased with our ballhandling."

Winside coach Don Leighton said he was pleased with his team's season opening performance even though the Wildcats lost. "The hustle and attitude were tremendous. We're just young," said Leighton.

The Wildcats turned the ball over 22 times while the Bears committed only 13 turnovers. For Laurel, Thompson made seven steals and Wendy Robson had six. Leading rebounders were Gadeken with 11 and Sherry with nine. Trisha Topp led Winside with nine rebounds. Peter had seven and Shelli Topp added four.

The win was the second for Laurel which opened its season with a victory over Coleridge last week. The Bears are scheduled to play at Allen tonight (Thursday). Winside's second game is scheduled tonight at home against Newcastle.

In junior varsity action Tuesday, Laurel stopped Winside 22-1. Renee Vanderheiden scored eight points to lead the Bears.

Missouri tourney

Free throws prove a key for WSC

The free throw line proved friendly one night and not so friendly the next as Wayne State's Wildcats claimed a win and a loss in the American Classic in St. Joseph, Mo. last weekend.

Wayne State took advantage of numerous free throw chances Saturday in a 77-69 win over Benedictine (Kan.), but host team Missouri Western enjoyed the same advantage Sunday evening enroute to a 74-68 decision that opened the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) season for both schools.

The Wildcats, 4-5, traveled to Fremont for a Tuesday night tilt with the Midland Warriors. Tonight (Thursday) finds the Cats in Seward challenging the Concordia Bulldogs before Coach Rick Weaver and crew return home for a Saturday game with Dana College. Tipoff time is 7:30 p.m. in Rice Auditorium.

Wayne State 77, Benedictine 69

Up until Saturday night, Wayne State had been shooting a mere 60 percent from the free throw line. That average went up as the Cats cashed in on 33 of 42 charity shots in a 77-69 win over Benedictine in St. Joseph.

WSC actually outscored by 12 points from the floor, but cool shooting at the line more than made up for it. It was senior forward Grady Hansen who benefited the most, hitting on 11 of 12 free tosses on his way to a 23-point outing.

Midway through the second half, Hansen hit a driving layup that gave him the school career scoring record. Hansen surpassed Dennis Siefkes, who scored 1,576 during his career that ended in 1973.

Hansen also led in rebounding with 10. Russ Uhing chipped in 16 points, while John Reed came off the bench to score 13.

Wayne State 40 37-77
Benedictine 29 40-69

WSC: Hansen 23, Uhing 16, Reed 13, Marshall 8, Sprew 6, Ro. Taylor 4, Re. Fryer 3, Edwards 2, Thomsen 2, Emanuel 0, Lottman 0.

Benedictine: Reese 22, Bates 16, Koller 12, Isley 8, Marlin 4, Braun 4, Robertson 3, Jarzemkoski 0, King D, Schuster 0.

Western 74, Wayne State 68

It was Wayne State's turn to win the game from the floor but lose it from the line, and most importantly, in the scorebook as Missouri Western held on for a 74-68 CSIC win Sunday night.

The Griffons cashed in on 20 of 29 free tosses compared to WSC's 12 for 15. Arthur Cooks led the hosts with 25 points including 9 for 10 from the line.

Cooks, a freshman from Omaha, and another Nebraska native—Lincolnite Lonnie Ashley inflicted the most damage. Ashley had 14 points and nine rebounds.

WSC's Grady Hansen had his best night of the season offensively, pouring in a game-high 29 points along with five rebounds and three assists. Ron Taylor had a good game with 16 points and nine rebounds, while John Reed contributed 10 points.

Wayne State 31 37-68
Western 34 40-74

WSC: Hansen 29, Ro. Taylor 16, Reed 10, Edwards 6, Uhing 4, Re. Taylor 3, Marshall 0, Sprew 0, Emanuel 0, Thomsen 0.
Western: Cooks 25, Holmes 10, Ashley 14, Finley 6, Wheeler 4, Fabrizio 3, McCaffrey 2, Collins 0.

Hansen sets Wayne State College scoring record

One of the most coveted milestones a basketball player can attain—that of his school's career scoring record—became the property of Wayne State's Grady Hansen over the weekend.

Hansen is the 6-6 senior forward and captain of the Wildcats. He moved by former record holder Dennis Siefkes when he tallied 23 points in Wayne's 77-69 victory over Benedictine in the American Classic in St. Joseph, Mo. last Saturday.

Hansen added 29 more in WSC's 75-68 loss to host Missouri Western on Sunday night. He now has poured in 1,614 points as a Wildcat, bettering Siefkes' total of 1,576 set back in 1973. Hansen has averaged 15.7 points every time he has put on a Wildcat uniform—a total of 103 games to date.

A driving layup with 14:13 to play against Benedictine is the shot that gave Hansen the record. He grabbed 10 rebounds, as well to pace the Cats in that category.

Grady, a two-time selection to both the Central States Intercollegiate Conference and NAIA District 11 All-Star teams, is averaging 17.1 points per game thus far this year. He has twice claimed the CSIC scoring title, averaging nearly 20 points per game each of the past two seasons.

The son of Rod and Martha Hansen of Omaha, Grady is a 1979 graduate of Central High School.

First, second and third place finishes led the Winside Wildcats in the Randolph Tournament Saturday. The Wildcats finished seventh with 56 points.

Brian Bowers was the only individual champion on Winside's team. The 155-pound senior received a first round bye, pinned Kramer of Wisner-Pilger and defeated Young of Creighton 18.5 in the final. Young placed in last year's Class C meet.

"Brian did an outstanding job. He's shown a lot of poise," Winside coach Paul Sok said.

John Thies earned Winside's only silver medal with a second place finish at 112 pounds. He pinned Phillips of Norfolk Catholic, defeated Dsmer of Plainview 9-3, and lost 4-2 in the championship match to arch rival Paul Peterson of Osmond.

Peterson won the match in the final seconds.

"John did an outstanding job there," said Sok. Thies, a Class D state qualifier, and Peterson, a Class C state qualifier, wrestled each other six times last year.

At 167 pounds, Jeff Thies took third place. He pinned Widhalm of Norfolk Catholic, was pinned by Scott of Osmond, defeated Hanna of Randolph 6-3 and defeated Wagner of Creighton 8-7 for third place.

"Jeff looked a lot better. Strength is his big asset and he's picking up on the moves. He'll surprise some people," Sok said.

Other Winside wrestlers who won matches at the meet are Mike Woerdemann, Kyle Miller and Curt Rohde. Sok said his team showed a lot of improvement from Thursday's season opening dual and added that things are looking up for the future. The Wildcats are scheduled to compete in a dual at Pender tonight (Thursday) and then participate in Saturday's North Bend Invitational.

Blue Devils use pins to rack up dual win

The Wayne Blue Devils won seven matches with pins to pound Randolph 46-24 Tuesday night in a wrestling match at Randolph. Four pins were recorded in the first period, two were in the second period and the other came in the third.

Wayne's Chad Janke, at 105 pounds, was the match's only winner by decision. He downed Steve Loberg 9-1.

Randolph scored the first six points with a pin in the 98 pound class but the Blue Devils won the next five matches. Following Janke's major decision, Terry Schulz, Rod Lutt, Jon Jacobmeier and Rod Bennett pinned their foes to give Wayne a 28-6 lead.

Chris Wieseler were winners for the Blue Devils. Wieseler registered a pin while Neisius and Grashorn won by superior decision. Grashorn outscored his opponent 33-4.

In last week's article on Wayne's wrestling team, Neisius was credited with a pin over Tim Dvorak of Schuyler in the reserve match. Fleming actually scored the pin over Dvorak.

Wayne is scheduled to compete in the West Point Invitational Saturday and will travel to South Sioux City for a dual next Thursday. A freshman sophomore dual with Norfolk is planned at Wayne, Tuesday (Dec. 14).

Cats lose opening dual

There's no rougher way to start a wrestling season than to open against a state power. That's what happened to Winside Thursday night as the Wildcats ran head on into an Osmond squad with a full head of steam.

Osmond rolled to a 45-12 win over the Wildcats in their season opening showdown. The Wildcats scored half of their points with a pin and the other half on a forfeit.

Mike Jaeger boosted Winside by pinning Joe Thompson in 4:30 at 145 pounds. At 155, Brian Bowers won by forfeit.

"Osmond is a tough team to start with. They'll probably finish high in Class C this year," said Winside coach Paul Sok.

The Wildcats were open at four weights and had to forfeit at three of those. Both teams were open in the heavyweight class.

Two of Winside's leading wrestlers, Class D state qualifiers John Thies and Curt Rohde, lost to Class C state qualifiers from Osmond at 112 pounds and 119 pounds respectively. Thies lost to Torry Dennis and Rohde lost to Kent Brunchhorst.

Winside grad wrestles for UNO

Brian Foote, a 1981 graduate of Winside High School, has compiled a 5-4 record for the University of Nebraska-Omaha so far this season.

The 126-pound sophomore placed sixth in the University of Northern Iowa open tournament last week with 22 wrestlers in his weight class. The UNO wrestling coach reported that Foote is a top challenger for a varsity position but was hampered by injuries in the first series of wrestle-offs.

He added that Brian is doing "a real good job and is developing into a fine wrestler." Eleven UNO wrestlers placed in the UNI meet and although no team scores were kept, the Omaha school tied for third place in number of place winners.

Trojans put their losing streak behind

A two-year losing streak was laid to rest Tuesday night as the Wakefield Trojans opened the girls basketball season with a convincing 51-34 triumph over Homer.

The victory broke a 32-game losing streak which accumulated over the past two basketball seasons.

Wakefield coach had said before the season that the Trojans needed to win an early game to build up confidence. "I think the win will make a big difference in our season. The girls showed poise throughout the game and didn't panic. It was a confidence booster," Schroeder said.

BRENDA JONES was the big gun for the Trojans. She ripped the nets for 23 points and hauled in 17 rebounds. Kelly Greve scored 30 points and made eight rebounds. Renee Wenstrand scored six points and had six rebounds and Michele Meyer had five points and six rebounds.

Schroeder said her team's offense played well but pointed out that the defense was a "little lazy."

Wakefield held a slim 9-8 lead after one quarter and hung on to a 23-19 half-time edge. In the third quarter, the Trojans began their offensive assault. Meyer and Hingst both played the guard position well, Schroeder added.

Defense played a key in the win as Wakefield collected 20 steals. Jones recorded nine steals and Cristy Hingst made five.

The Trojans are scheduled to play at Wausa tonight (Thursday) and at Emerson-Hubbard Monday. In junior varsity action Monday, Wakefield lost 18-16.

Allen's season opens with loss

The Allen Eagles opened their basketball season with a loss Tuesday night but coach Gary Troth said he was "fairly happy with their play for the first game."

Ponca built up a 13-point lead through three quarters and then held on for a 44-35 win over Allen Tuesday in Ponca.

The Eagles shot 31.5 percent from the field but Troth said his team should have taken more shots. "We turned down some shots we should have taken," he said.

MICHELLE HARDER finished the game with 10 points, 13 rebounds and three assists. Jeanne Warner scored seven points, made two steals and added three assists. The second leading rebounder was Tami Jewell with 11. Shelly Williams led the team in steals with two.

Allen committed 14 turnovers in the game—a figure that Troth felt was respectable. "I think Ponca has a real good team and they played us well," said Troth. "Maybe we had some first game jitters."

The Eagles, who trailed throughout the game, got as close as seven points with 2½ minutes remaining but Ponca shut down the possible rally. The winners were led by Trisha Armstrong with 13 points.

Allen won the junior varsity game 22-12 with Pam Heckathorn scoring six points. Troth said Denise Magnuson played well and led the JV in offensive rebounding. Mary Oswald had a good defensive game, he added.

Next action for Allen is scheduled tonight (Thursday) against Laurel. The Eagles will also play at home next Thursday against Newcastle.

Lady Wildcats edged by Hastings

Four players scored in double figures but the Wayne State Lady Wildcats were edged 74-70 by Hastings College Tuesday night in basketball action at Hastings.

Robbie Lehr led the scoring with 16 points and freshmen Sheri Campbell and Deb Nygren each hit 14. However, it was the play of junior Janet Lee that stood out and sparked the Lady Cats

Lee scored 12 points but more importantly made 11 steals. Four came in the final four minutes of the game.

Hastings led 40-37 at the half and opened up a bigger lead in the second half. Then, WSC fought back and pulled within one point at 66-65 with less than four minutes remaining. The hosts held on for the win.

Wayne will take a 4-4 record into action tomorrow (Friday) at Chadron. The Lady Wildcats play Chadron tomorrow and then face South Dakota Tech on Saturday in Chadron.

Board of Trustees meeting

The Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges will meet at the Hilton Hotel in Lincoln on Friday, Dec. 10, at 9 a.m. The agenda will include consideration of the reports of the presidents of the four state colleges, the executive officer and secretary, and subcommittees.

Awarded scholarship

Kathy Ann Kay of Wayne was recently awarded the annual Wayne Woman's Club scholarship for the fall semester, 1982, at Wayne State College. The scholarship, established through the Wayne State Foundation by the Wayne Woman's Club, is awarded to an outstanding female high school graduate from Wayne County. Miss Kay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Kay of Wayne and is a 1982 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Beta Lambda at Wayne State.

Planetarium showing 'Star of Christmas'

What was that bright light that led the Magi to the place where Jesus was born over 2,000 years ago? Wayne State College's "Star of Christmas" program will explore both the skies of that night long ago and the Christmas skies of today. The program runs every Sunday, through Dec. 19, beginning at 3:30 p.m. in the Fred G. Dale Planetarium, located in Carhart Science Hall on the Wayne State College campus.

ACCORDING to Carl Rump, planetarium director, the program begins with a view of the evening skies of December, containing some of the brightest stars of any season.

After a tour of the modern sky, the planetarium is used as a time machine to travel back 2,000 years and explore the astronomical and historical events relating to the "Star of Christmas."

Was this "star" a comet, a nova, a conjunction of planets, or simply a miracle?

Faculty profile

Lyle Skov began his teaching job at Wayne State the same day he graduated from college in 1953. At that time, he was the youngest person on the faculty. Now in his 27th year at Wayne State, there is only one faculty member who has been here longer, he said.

DR. SKOV, professor of education and psychology, also is the coordinator for certification and accreditation, as well as the coordinator for elementary and special education.

He also has been the division chairman for the English faculty, the director of Hahn campus school, the department head for elementary education, and the division head for education and psychology.

The Blair native was graduated with a bachelor of science in education degree from Dana College in 1953. He earned his master's degree from the University of Omaha in 1955, and his doctor of education degree from the University of Arkansas in 1962.

SKOV noted that he has taught all grades from kindergarten to graduate school—except eleventh. He also has served as a consultant for building new schools, and he usually serves on an accreditation team each year.

His memberships in organizations include Kappa Delta Pi education honorary, Phi Delta Kappa honorary for men in education, the National Council of Teachers of English, the National Education Association, the

Dr. Lyle Skov
Nebraska Schoolmasters Club, the International Reading Association, and the Association for Childhood International.

SKOV SAID one of his hobbies "must be teaching off-campus classes." He also likes raising flowers and traveling.

He and his wife, Priscilla, have two grown children, Diane and Rod.

His feelings about Wayne State are very good. "I've had the opportunity several times to move, and didn't."

matter before the board if it is not settled.

Several ESU nurses were present at Tuesday night's meeting.

BOARD MEMBERS also discussed a contract dispute with Region IV regarding the lease of their facility in Wayne for providing day services for children.

At last month's meeting, board members voted unanimously to offer Region IV $700 per month rent for use of the building for the next year.

Mills, in a report prepared for the board Tuesday night, said Region IV has turned down the offer of $700 per month for the lease of space in their facility.

Mills said Region IV is asking for $748.74 per month, or $4.23 per square foot.

In the report, Mills said ESU is presently paying $2.33 per square foot for the lease of Bryan School in South Sioux City, "a far better building."

Mills said Region IV also seeks an open end contract where they can make adjustments at the end of the school year.

IN A LETTER last month to Mills, Region IV Executive Director John Corcoran said Region IV is unable to subsidize the costs of ESU 1 in providing day services for children.

"The contract which was sent to you is one based on our expenses, and as an added safeguard to insure equitability," said Corcoran.

"If the ESU 1 does not find our proposal acceptable, it might be more advantageous for the ESU to locate a separate facility for its day program," Corcoran stated in the letter.

ESU BOARD member Claire Hansen of Coleridge told the board Tuesday night he had visited with a Region IV board member who was unaware of the contract problem.

Hansen said the Region IV board member agreed to bring the matter up at their next meeting.

Members of the ESU board agreed to table any action until after the Region IV board of directors meets this month.

The existing contract expired Sept. 1.

PRESENT AT Tuesday night's meeting was Duane Tappe of Wakefield, who was elected last month to the office of Dixon County School Superintendent following a write-in campaign.

Tappe, an employee of ESU, told the board his newly elected position is effective Jan. 6, 1983.

Tappe said he sought the office for professional growth reasons.

"To be quite frank, I wanted it on my resume," said Tappe, adding he sees no conflict of interest in regards to his position with the ESU.

TAPPE SAID he has no idea how much time will be involved in carrying out the duties of county school superintendent.

"I'm hoping to do the bulk of the paperwork on Saturdays and during the summer months," said Tappe, adding there are four Class I schools in Dixon County.

"The problem is if we go along with this, then what's the next thing," said board member Hansen, adding "I think we're opening ourselves up to a lot of problems."

"I have and will continue to work for the ESU the number of hours it takes to get the job done," said Tappe.

"Mr. Mills can testify that I have gone above and beyond the call many times," he added.

hions as county superintendent.

"As far as board policy, I don't see any legal conflict of interest for ESU," said board member Kenneth Olds of Wayne.

The board agreed to seek the legal advice of their attorney and place the item on next month's agenda for consideration.

"It will give you (Tappe) a fair shake and it will give the board the time it needs," said chairman Weise.

IN OTHER action Tuesday night it was agreed that new board members will take office on the first Thursday in January.

Elected to the board last month were Marvin Borg of Wakefield, Deryl Lawrence of Wayne, and Bob Jacobs of Verdigr.

Going off the board next month are Bill Weise, Bill Norvell of Laurel, and Ken Olds of Wayne.

A workshop for board members will be held at the conference room in Wakefield on Feb. 16.

THE BOARD also agreed to wait before making any changes in board policy regarding sick leave, professional leave, personal leave, and emergency leave, until negotiations are settled.

Randy Shaw of Wayne is chairman of the board policy committee.

The board also discussed sending members to the National School Board Convention in San Francisco on April 22-26.

"I don't think we should go to the school board convention," said Hay. "We are not a school board, and maybe someday we'll figure that out."

Hay also cited cost as a reason not to attend.

"I think it's an excellent in-service," said board member Shaw.

"The convention gives us some direction as to what school needs are," said chairman Weise, "and that is what we have to fill."

Following discussion, the board voted five to three, with two abstentions, to participate in the national convention.

THE BOARD went into executive session at 10 p.m. for a report by the negotiations committee.

nuts in every bite. There is also basic chocolate for anyone who doesn't enjoy a nutty snack.

ON THE LIST of the best tasting ice cream are heavenly hash, black walnut, rocky road and chocolate chip. Butter brickle, cherry nut, fudge marble, butter pecan and strawberry shortcake all rated right behind.

Strawberry shortcake is currently the biggest seller at the parlor with bubble gum and the various chocolate varieties next on the best selling list.

This taste tester gave pistachio nut his vote as best flavor among the 24 available. But not by much. Five or six other flavors were judged as toss ups. The worst flavor—in this reporter's opinion—is coffee. But coffee lovers in the area are going wild over the flavor. Now they can sit down after a meal and enjoy a dish of cold coffee instead of a cup of hot coffee.

Other flavors sold at the Mineshaft Creamery are orange, pineapple and rainbow sherbet, peppermint, mint chip and chocolate marshmallow.

The only thing this reporter has to add after topping off the sampling by snarfing down a hot fudge sundae is, "Pass the sodium bicarbonate."

MINESHAFT CREAMERY opened more than two weeks ago and is located adjacent to Taco del Sol in the Mineshaft Mall. The business, which is owned by Gary and Colleen Hohn of Norfolk, is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week. Manager is Kathi Loeffler.

She said business has been "really good so far." The creamery serves cones, sugar cones and dishes of ice cream, seven flavors of sundaes, banana splits and six flavors of malts and shakes.

There is seating for 30 customers including a children's table.

But, she said, sometimes property boundaries in the city fall "a foot short" of the sidewalk line.

Glen Ellingson, commission chairman, said the matter would have to be tabled until the property line was established.

KLOSTER SAID the city would be willing to work with Anderson to help establish the property boundary.

"My guess is that the property pins are under concrete," he said. Kloster said the city probably would have to "shoot a survey line south" from property pins north of Rich's Super Foods to establish the boundary.

Vern Schulz, public works superintendent, said that it may be easier to establish the boundary by shooting a line north from pins marking property to the south of the store.

Dick Keldel of next-door Savor Drugs, a commission member, said that the position of property pins on his lot may have been marked in the concrete sidewalk.

MEANWHILE, Anderson agreed to get the line established and provide the commissioners with the information.

The commissioners also asked Anderson and Pankaskie to obtain information on a proposed underground supply pipe that would run from buried gasoline storage tanks to be installed beneath the store's garage at the rear of the property.

"In support of Rich, I hope we can find it (the property line)," said Paul Peterson, a commissioner. "We need all the businesses we can get in Wayne."

BOARD MEMBER Hay suggested that the board's attorney be contacted to determine if there is a potential statutory problem.

Hay scolded administrator Mills for not making clear why the Dixon County School Superintendent was placed on the December agenda.

"I didn't even know Duane (Tappe) was elected to this position until today," Hay said.

"You're (Mills) again forcing us to make a decision without adequate knowledge," Hay said, adding "I'm not about to make a decision about this tonight."

Board members, pointing out that Tappe is contracted full time to work for ESU, questioned when he will fulfill his obligations as county superintendent.

The plea-bargain agreement was accepted by Judge Warren and Liederff entered the guilty pleas to all three counts involving obtaining welfare benefits by false statement.

The first count, a misdemeanor, charged Liederff with receiving payments beyond entitlement (aggregate value less than $500) from September 1980 through February 1981 based on a statement filed with the Wayne County Welfare Department on or about July 31, 1980.

And the third count, also a felony, charged that the defendant, who has three dependent children, obtained food stamps beyond entitlement (aggregate value exceeded $500) from January 1981 to June 1981 based on a statement made on or about Jan. 4, 1981.

THE SECOND count, a felony, charged that Liederff obtained food stamps beyond entitlement (aggregate value exceeded $500) from July 1980 through December 1980 on the basis of a statement filed on or about July 7, 1980.

And the third count, also a felony, charged that the defendant, who has three dependent children, obtained food stamps beyond entitlement (aggregate value exceeded $500) from January 1981 to June 1981 based on a statement made on or about Jan. 4, 1981.

you have to meet the building and zoning codes."

Discussion ensued about whether the pumps represented a continuation of what was already in place, or whether the pumps constituted a new usage.

Kloster said the city would have to get legal advice on that question and asked Pankaskie to submit the question to counsel.

"The city attorney will have to decide," Kloster said.

Permit

Rich's Super Foods is zoned B3 — neighborhood business. Under that zone, a conditional-use permit is required for the self-service gas pumps, according to Pankaskie.

PANKASKIE pointed out that the building is zoned for Class B, Division 2, use now.

She said the installation of the pumps would place the building in a Class B, Division 1, use.

"We need to decide, at some point, whether the addition of the pumps changes the use or adds to the use of the building," Pankaskie explained.

Anderson, who told the commissioners he was approached by a vendor out of Atkinson with the proposal, said: "I was just looking into it."

He said, under the proposal, the self-service pumps "would have to be visible from the check-out area" of the store, which is in the interior southeast corner near the doors and storefront windows.

IN A LETTER to the commission, Anderson said the addition of pumps would make his operation more competitive with the kind of grocery business he is doing, which is of a convenience-store nature.

The self-service gasoline pumps, if approved and installed, would be one of a series of changes that have taken place at the supermarket during the past few months.

Anderson has redesigned the entire operation to include a convenience-store type grocery operation, a cafeteria, a party room, a video-game room, a book nook, a 9-hole miniature golf course and computer golf.

The self-service pumps, if added, would be computerized, according to Anderson.

DURING MONDAY night's discussion, some commissioners expressed concern over adequate space for parking at the gas pumps without blocking the sidewalk.

"I don't feel a car occupying a sidewalk (at a self-service gas pump) is a real problem," said

Kent Hall, a commissioner.

"We have a lot of situations in town where businesses have sidewalks running through their property and people park on it," he said.

"Any time you have a sidewalk, you have that," he added. "I don't see any real problem."

Highway 15 allows access to Rich's Super Foods storefront parking and the parking lot along the south side of the building.

CHAIRMAN ELLINGSON expressed concern over the potential for problems in determining responsibility in the event of a motor vehicle accident.

"That's the same way it is now," Ron Stadek, a commissioner, said. "I don't see that that's going to make any difference."

Stadek was referring to the customer parking situation at Rich's, and indicated that since the sidewalk blends into the parking lot, patrons often inadvertently park on it.

FFA crop judging set

About 250 Future Farmers of America (FFA) members from across Nebraska are expected to participate in the 1982 district Crops Judging Contest Dec. 14-16.

Duane Foote, Nebraska Grain Improvement Association executive secretary and University of Nebraska extension grain specialist, said the contest will be held at three locations in the state instead of the four locations in previous years.

The contest consists of three parts, according to Foote. The FFA members will identify crop and weed seed, analyze seed and grade grain for quality.

"The participants will be competing on an area basis at the three locations," Foote said. "On the district level, we'll be selecting the top three teams and the top five to 10 individuals depending on the number of participants for area awards."

THE CONTEST SCHEDULE: Dec. 14 — Gateway Auditorium, Lincoln; 15 — 4-H Building, Fairgrounds, Aurora; 16 — North Platte Station, North Platte.

The contests are held in conjunction with the Nebraska Grain Show, sponsored by the Grain Improvement Association. Samples of corn, sorghum, soybeans, barley and oats, produced and entered by FFA members and 4-H'ers, will be on display at each location.

Livestock judging planned

Eight vocational agriculture district livestock judging contests for high school students will be at four sites in Nebraska, beginning Dec. 16 and continuing into early January.

Winners in district contests qualify for competition in the state vocational agriculture livestock judging contest to be held in April. Officials expect 800 individuals to compete on 200 teams from different vocational agriculture departments in the district contest series.

The contests are co-sponsored by the departments of animal science and agricultural education in the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Contestants, competing at the junior and senior levels, will be required to visually appraise livestock, use production records available on animals and defend judging decisions by developing and delivering oral reasons. Participants must estimate the quality and yield grade of a beef steer and the average backfat and USDA grade of a market swine.

Eight district contests will be conducted at four sites. The schedule: Dec. 16 — UNL East Campus judging pavilion, Lincoln; 18 — Fonner Park, Grand Island; Jan. 3 — Keith County Fairgrounds, Ogallala; 5 — Howard Pitzer Ranch, Ericson.

Irrigation short course set

The nationally known Irrigation Short Course sponsored annually by the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Engineering will be held Jan. 24-25 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln.

Paul Fischbach, NU extension irrigator and short course coordinator, said the short course, which attracts registrants from around the country, will feature updates on insecticides and herbicides, in addition to the newest in irrigation technology.

Topics on irrigation the first day include nitrogen management and irrigation management, nitrates in groundwater, electric load management, irrigation scheduling and efficient surface irrigation. The second day's agenda will lead off with water planning and a legislative update. Considerations in groundwater recharge, sprinkler application depth and yield, evaporation pan scheduling, automatic weather stations and crop water use and a rundown on irrigation scheduling associations will round out the morning.

Information on registration and other final details will be included in brochures available through Cooperative Extension Service offices around Nebraska about Dec. 10, Fischbach stated.

Dixon Co. feed lot is sold

The Dixon County Feed Lot has been purchased by the Grain Belt Feed Lot Inc. owned by Dan Winkler of Pierson, Iowa, Fred Weber of Taylor, S.D. and the Katz Brothers.

The operation opened last week with 4,500 head of cattle expected by the end of the week. Some of the same personnel have been hired back. The business will be doing some custom feeding of cattle and will be buying hay and corn. The feed lot is located north of Allen along Highway 20.

Dairy meeting in Columbus

The Nebraska Dairy Herd Improvement Association will hold its annual meeting Tuesday, Dec. 14 beginning at 10 a.m. at the Holiday Inn in Columbus.

Featured speaker will be George E. Gramling, director of field services of the National DHIA. At 11 a.m., he will discuss the implications of quality certification of the Nebraska DHIA. The association members will elect new officers and the board will discuss the possibility of somatic cell testing in Nebraska. Somatic cells are an indicator of the presence of mastitis in milk cows.

Double jeopardy proposal made

Farmers and other buyers of agriculture products face the risk of paying twice for what they buy. They face this double jeopardy because under the current law buyers are responsible for assuring that lenders who hold mortgages on the products they buy get paid by the seller.

The Nebraska Cooperative Council, working with several farm and trade organizations, has drafted legislation to change the Uniform Commercial Code.

The Cooperative Council has scheduled six backgrounding sessions for the farm media. It will explain the impact of the current law, and its legislative proposal.

The one-hour background sessions for the farm media are scheduled on Thursday, Dec. 16, as follows: Lincoln — 8 a.m., Airport Holiday Inn; Grand Island — 9 a.m., Midtown Holiday Inn; Omaha 10:30 a.m., Sheraton Inn; North Platte — 11:15 a.m., Holiday Inn; Norfolk — 2 p.m., Villa Inn; Scottsbluff — 2 p.m., Scottsbluff Inn.

Milk payment procedure set

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced the procedures the U.S. Department of Agriculture will use to collect the 50 cents per hundredweight from the proceeds of milk marketed by the nation's dairy farmers beginning Dec. 1.

In fulfilling the intent of Congress expressed in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982, this money will go to the Commodity Credit Corporation to offset part of the cost of dairy product purchases CCC makes under the dairy support program.

BLOCK SAID the procedures, which will be administered by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, are:

— Those who pay the dairy farmers for their milk — in most cases milk handlers and dairy cooperative associations — will make the deductions and pay the CCC. Dairy farmers who sell their milk directly to consumers will be responsible for making their own payments to the CCC.

— Payments are due on the date final payment is made to the dairy farmer. The first deductions will apply to milk marketed in December and payments will be due during January 1983.

— Those responsible for making payments will be required to file a brief report to USDA on the milk volumes for which they have made deductions.

THE OMNIBUS Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982 is designed to reduce the cost of the dairy program which has exceeded $2 billion each year for the last two years. Under the Act, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to collect 50 cents per hundred weight of milk marketed if CCC dairy surplus purchases are expected to be above $1 billion pounds milk equivalent for the marketing year. Since purchases are expected to be well above this level, the Secretary is implementing the first phase of this program Dec. 1.

The law also provides for a second phase of this program, Block said. It could go into effect April 1, 1983 — the earliest date authorized by Congress — if estimated CCC purchases are at least 7.5 billion pounds milk equivalent during the marketing year. This phase provides for deducting an additional 50 cents per hundred weight from dairy farmers' proceeds but calls for a refund to dairy farmers who have reduced their milk marketings by a specified amount, Block said.

No decision has been made concerning the second phase of the plan, but USDA currently anticipates CCC purchases will exceed 7.5 billion pounds.

Block said that while he offered a completely different, simpler and effective solution to the dairy surplus problem for the last two years, Congress and the dairy leadership have refused to accept his proposal and Congress has instead adopted the current program.

BLOCK SAID while he strongly prefers another approach, he feels he must act responsibly and administer this program to fulfill the spirit and intent of Congress.

Payment procedure regulations for the first phase will be published in the Nov. 30 Federal Register. Copies also are available from: Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

USDA officials are sending copy of the regulations, a letter explaining the plan, a sample report form and instructions on completing it to the people who will be making the deductions.

Crop insurance to be extended

Crop insurance offered farmers by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will be extended to more crops in more counties for the 1983 crop year.

Merritt W. Sprague, manager of the USDA crop insurance agency, said today the corporation board of directors has approved 823 additional county programs for 1983 crops. A county program is the authority to sell crop insurance for one crop in one county.

"Our agency currently insures

28 crops in 14,498 county programs across the nation," Sprague said. "The additional county programs announced today are part of our continuing expansion program."

CROPS INCLUDED in the additional county programs for 1982 are soybeans in 285 counties, oats in 384, potatoes in 44, peanuts in 33, tobacco in 70, peaches in 4 and grapes in 3.

Sprague also announced that the USDA agency will prepare regulations for covering hybrid seed crops in the 1983 crop year.

He said the plan will insure seed for producers who are under contract to processors. The new rules will be published in the Federal Register for public comment and review before going into effect.

"These seeded program will allow producers to obtain the risk management protection necessary in today's economic situation. Ultimately, insurance protection against unavoidable loss will be available to nearly every crop producer in the nation," said Sprague.

More soil nitrogen in no-till system

The amount of soil nitrogen found in a wheat-fallow rotation study was four to six times as great in no-till systems as that found in conventional plow-mulch systems, a researcher told participants at the 75th annual American Society of Agronomy meetings in California.

At a seminar Wednesday (Dec. 1), University of Nebraska agronomy graduate student John A. Lamb presented results of an 11-year study done at research plots in Sidney, Neb.

Lamb and NU agronomists Gary Peterson and Charles Fenster compiled data from the wheat-fallow plots that were cultivated with no-till, stubble-mulch and plow-tillage systems.

LAMB SAID the reduced soil disturbance of the no-till method produced a positive nitrogen budget due to higher nitrogen-fixation by microorganisms.

The study accounted for nitrogen removed in the grain and for that leached below the root zone at 30- to 50-foot depths, Lamb said.

1981 results showed a nitrogen loss from total nitrogen in the original sod measurements at three percent in the no-till system, nine percent for stubble-mulch and 17 percent in the plow-tilled system.

Seed growers directory now available on request

The new 1982 Seed Book, formerly called the Growers Directory, for 1983 planting is now available from Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service offices and the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, said Roger Hammons, NCIA associate manager.

The Seed Book is a handy reference of certified seed sources for spring-planted crops, Hammons said. Issued since 1921, the Seed Book includes names and addresses of Nebraska certified seed growers who have certified seed to sell. Data in the Seed Book are based on acreages for which certification was sought, Hammons said.

NCIA, THE STATE'S official seed certifying body, is very pleased with the variety and quality offered in the new directory, Hammons commented. "It's been another excellent quality year — it's the highest quality seed we've had for many years in all crops."

According to Hammons, "Nebraska is one of the most diversified states in regard to the seed industry," the NCIA distributes 10,000 copies of the Seed Book in Nebraska as well as all areas of the United States, Hammons said.

creasing in Nebraska. "We have three companies interested in making Nebraska a producing state for alfalfa seed," Hammons said.

—Acreages of cool season grasses are stable but warm season grass acreage is increasing. A wider selection of varieties for both warm and cool season species is apparent in the directory.

—Oats acreage increased about 33 percent this year. "It's the first increase we've seen for years," Hammons said. The most popular variety is Ogle, developed by the University of Illinois, Hammons also said there is an increased interest in the late-maturing varieties.

—Offerings of certified turfgrass sod are remaining strong, despite the housing slump. An increasing number of producers are growing certified sod.

—It's been "another disappointing year for field beans" because of a late blight, Hammons said. "There's been a bulk of Great Northern variety seed for years," but he noted, "there's been an increased interest in Pinto Beans lately."

—Seed corn acreage and number of varieties are increasing.

OTHER OFFERINGS in the directory are wildflowers and alternate crops for Nebraska, including spring barley, spring wheat, millet and crown vetch, Hammons said. Varieties of Foundations seed available to certified seed producers are listed, along with a map of the locations of approved seed conditions.

The Seed Book is available free from extension offices and the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, 266 Plant Science Bldg., UNL East Campus, Lincoln, Neb. 68583-0911. Hammons said to contact the NCIA about questions or to get on the mailing list.

USDA to allow support

Farmers who participate in the government's acreage reduction program now will be able to take out government price support loans on grain and soybeans substituted for crops produced on their farms, a high ranking U.S. Department of Agriculture official said.

Previously, only grain physically grown on a producer's farm was eligible for price support.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the change was made to allow farmers who participate in acreage reduction programs to take advantage of government price supports without having to transport their grain to areas where grain elevators will accept the grain for storage.

RANK SAID the change will permit eligible producers to feed or sell grain produced on their farms and place under loan an equivalent quantity of acquired grain stored in an approved warehouse.

Commodities that may be substituted include wheat, feed grains, rice and soybeans.

Rank also announced that: —Loans will be based on the rate applicable for the county where the loan grain is stored.

—Producers must obtain approval to place under loan any grain which they acquire before an equivalent quantity they produced is sold or otherwise disposed of.

—Warehouse receipts covering the acquired grain must be submitted to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office as security for the loan within 15 days after the producer's grain is sold or traded.

Rank said, "The farmer-elected county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee has the responsibility to protect the interest of both the producer and CCC in approving the substitution of grain for loan purposes. Producers who wish to take advantage of this change should contact their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office."

Nebraskans play key role in ag organizations

this and that don c. spitzer
wayne county extension agent

On the surface the annual meetings of the American Society of Agronomy (ASA), the Crop Science Society of America (CSSA) and the Soil Science Society of America (SSSA) look impressive. Why?

Well, for starters, in recognition of the meetings, California Governor Jerry Brown proclaimed the meeting dates as "Agronomy Week" throughout the state.

Add to that President Ronald Reagan's and Anaheim Mayor Don R. Roth's letters to the organizations expressing their desire for a rewarding week of activities.

And then the 1982 meetings in Anaheim mark the 75th anniversary for the society.

WHILE THESE items hold a certain amount of significance in themselves, for Nebraskans the significance goes even deeper.

First, the University of Nebraska has two professors presiding as president of two of the three professional organizations.

Second, more than half of the awards presented by the societies are going to NU faculty members.

Next, of the 29 out of 11,800 members receiving the highest honor of fellowship, two are NU professors.

And finally, approximately 50 Nebraskans will be presenting papers at the society's meetings.

CHARLES O. GARDNER, NU

foundation professor of agronomy, is current president of ASA. According to him, the major purpose of the meetings is to afford members the opportunity to present research results and to exchange ideas.

According to Gardner, the theme for Agronomy's Diamond Jubilee, as the meetings are titled, is "75 Years of Progress in Integrating the Soil-Water-Air-Plant System for Mankind." The theme will be featured in special session addresses by Nyle C. Brady, AID representative from Washington D.C., and David W. Dibb, industrial agronomist with the Polish and Phosphate Institute in Atlanta, Ga.

The meeting program for the societies' 23 subject matter divisions will include a record 1,600 research papers involving some 2,715 authors, Gardner said. The papers will be presented in more than 200 traditional sessions, special programs, poster sessions and food functions.

"The programs will involve a lot of volunteer papers as well as the invited papers," said Robert Gast, NU agronomy department head and president of SSSA. "It's a record number of papers for the three societies." He said 48 people from Nebraska will present papers.

AND ALONG with the presentation of research papers comes the recognition of award recipients.

"To have two of the three top officers is very unusual," Gardner said, "but then to have so many award winners — that's remarkable."

According to Gast, "More than one half of the awards are coming to Nebraska this year. It's a real reflection on the quality of the staff here to have seven national awards. It reflects the fact that we have good people, and we nominate them."

And just who are these award recipients? The list is long.

— Gary Peterson, NU professor of agronomy. Award: Fellow.

— James Power, NU professor of agronomy and USDA research soil scientist. Award: Fellow.

— John Schmidt, George Holmes professor of agronomy. Award: DeKalb-Pfizer Crop Science Distinguished Career Award.

— Charles R. Fenster, NU extension crops specialist and professor of agronomy. Award: Agronomic Extension Education Award.

— Robert Olson, NU professor of agronomy. Two awards: Agronomic Research Award and Agronomic Achievement Award.

— Don Hanway, NU extension crops specialist and professor of agronomy. Award: Agronomic Service Award.

ACCORDING TO GARDNER, fellows are active members of the society who have been nominated to receive the honor of fellowship by other active members, recommended by the fellows committee and elected by the ASA executive committee.

"It's the highest honor in the society," Gardner said. "The number of fellows is limited to three-tenths of one percent each year."

The DeKalb-Pfizer Crop Science Distinguished Career Award is a CSSA award for the crop scientist who has had an outstanding record of service over a long period of time, Gast said.

The other awards are given to recognize outstanding contributions in eight specific areas.

In addition to the professional meetings, Gardner said there will also be a student section and awards program. "A few years ago the NU student chapter won the Best Student Chapter Award for at least five years in a row," he said. "We won't know how they do this year until we get there."

More than 4,000 members are expected to attend the annual meetings, according to Gardner.

THE MAKE-UP of the professional societies is complex.

"The three are independent societies, but we work jointly with each other," Gast said. Each organization has its own membership and its own board of directors, but the presidents, presidents-elect and immediate past presidents of all three societies sit on the ASA board of directors.

And just what is the purpose of the societies?

"Our main function is to provide an annual meeting to exchange ideas," Gardner said. But that's not all.

In addition, the organizations also run a "very large publishing business," according to Gardner. "We develop and publish a large number of specialized publications including the Monograph, a series of books used as reference and text books, and four scientific journals, the newest of which is Environmental Quality," he said.

The societies also help sponsor certification agency called the American Registry of Certified Professionals in Agronomy, Crops and Soils (ARCPACS). According to Gast, "ARCPACS attempts to bring professionalism especially to those in the non-academic areas. Those who are certified must meet certain minimum standards." Martin Massengale, NU chancellor and professor of agronomy, is past chairman and currently a member of the ARCPACS board of directors, Gast said.

"Probably the most significant thing we've done this past year is to hire a new executive vice president," according to Gast. Rodney Briggs, former president of Eastern Oregon State College, will head up the headquarter operations in Madison, Wis.

AND WHAT about the future of the professional societies?

"The major emphasis in the past was to provide annual meetings and to share scientific results and publications," Gast said. "As a result we've largely served those who are on a professional level."

But the societies are starting to look in new directions.

"The questions we've been asking ourselves are how can we serve those on the Bachelor and Masters levels, what can we do to help solve the problems of agriculture and what can we do to enhance the image of crops and soils sciences while maintaining services that are already here?" Gast said.

Gardner, a 40-year member, sees "placing emphasis on the environment" a part of ASA's future. "For example, we will concentrate on ways to keep nitrates out of groundwater and to make use of sewage plant wastes," he said.

Research funding cuts will be a problem, Gardner said. "The underfunding of research will have an impact on the crop yields in this country. Research is really an investment. History has proven it yields great dividends to society," he said.

Even so, with members and leaders like those from Nebraska, the future of these professional societies looks promising. "We are sound financially and have good leadership," Gast said. "We've been very successful."

FEEDING SWINE LIGHT WEIGHT CORN
Some of the corn in this area was harvested as immature, light test-weight corn. Here are some guidelines for feeding this type of corn to swine.

1. Because the test weight may be reduced use a scale or calibrated metering device to measure the corn. Mixing swine rations by volume with light test-weight corn will result in overuse of concentrates and higher than necessary costs of gain.
2. Since the gross energy of the immature corn is similar to that of mature corn, little or no difference in pig performance is expected when diets are properly mixed.
3. Have the corn analyzed for crude protein content. Immature corn is highly variable in protein content depending on the stage of development.
4. Carefully observe the stored corn for mold and/or insect damage. Because of difficulties in harvesting and shelling of the immature corn, more kernel damage is likely, increasing the potential for molds in improperly stored grain. Avoid feeding moldy grain to the breeding herd.

BLACK COVERED CORN STALKS
Black color on the stalks is the result of weather conditions that contributed to the growth of two fungi which are apparently not toxic to cattle, thus we would expect the quality of the dark colored stalks to be unharmed by the fungus.

There seems to be a reduction in palatability of these stalks which we suspect is the result of the fungi. Just how serious this is as far as affecting consumption of harvested corn stover is not known at this time. In most cases the cattle will adjust to the affected stover and that it can be fed as a major part of the wintering ration of bred cow.

FEEDING RAW SOYBEANS TO BEEF CATTLE

You can feed raw soybeans in place of processed soybean meal to beef. Feeding the split beans which usually are sold at a considerable discount is likely to be good enough to command the regular market price seldom can be justified in competition with soybean meal. Their value is about equal to soybean meal pound for pound. The high fat content of soybeans causes them to become rancid quickly after grinding, especially in warm weather. Frequent grinding is needed to maintain palatability every 10 to 14 days during the winter or more often during the summer.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED
The Veterans of Foreign Wars held a money making project recently and four winners won one-fourth of a hog each. The drawing was held Nov. 30 at the Wakefield Locker who had donated the processing.
Winners were Angela Blatter, Elvera Borg, The Fair Store and Weldon Schwartz.

SAVING LABELS
Students in the Wakefield Community school elementary grades are saving labels for an education program. The program will allow the school to obtain much needed audio-visual and athletic equipment, reference books and teaching aids.

The program is sponsored by Campbell Soup Company and the labels will be collected from now until the end of February 1983. Labels to be saved include Campbell's condensed soups, Soup for One Soups, V-8 Cocktail Vegetable Juice, Prego Spaghetti Sauce, Chunky Soups, Campbell's Bean Products, Campbell's Tomato Juice, Franco-American products, Recipe dog food and Swanson frozen foods.

The school's aim is to collect 8,000 labels during the collector drive. This year the school would like to collect enough labels to receive a tape recorder, other audio-visual equipment and playground equipment.

Labels may be given to any sixth grade student, Mrs. Alice Johnson or left at the elementary school office.

COMMUNITY CLUB CHRISTMAS GIFTS

The Wakefield Community Club has several Christmas gifts to be given away this year. Included is a 13-inch General Electric Porta Color television set and two ten-speed bikes. Nearly $900.00 of merchandise will be given in a drawing to be held on Thurs., Dec. 23 and you do not need to be present to win.

In addition to the Community Club sponsored drawing many of the merchants will also be giving away Christmas gifts. For example, Wakefield Rexall Drug is offering a quarter of beef to some lucky person.

This year's Community Club drawing will be divided into two categories, adults and youth under the age of 18. In addition to the colored TV, the adults will be eligible to win a Kodak 4000 Disc camera outfit, a General Electric AM/FM Clock Radio, plus there will be a prize of 50 Wakefield Dollars and three winners will each receive 25 Wakefield dollars.

In the youth drawing, two ten-speed bikes will be given away. One to a girl and one to a young man. Plus some lucky youngster will receive an AM/FM stereo radio with headset.

The rules are simple, all moms, dads, the kids, grandparents, aunts or uncles must do, is shop in Wakefield and with each visit to a participating merchant, register for the Christmas gift.

For the younger set the True Value Home Center is conducting a coloring contest with two radios as prizes.

Now Midwest Federal will pay you Money Market Rates on your checking account

MARKET RATE CHECKING

- BACKED BY U.S. GOVERNMENT SECURITIES
- UNLIMITED CHECKING
- $1,000 LINE OF CREDIT

It's an account that does it all. Pays high Money Market Rates. Better than Money Market Funds because you have the convenience of unlimited checking and the option of Telephone Bill Paying. That means you have instant access to your money. And, your money deposit stays right here at home where it works for you and your community.

INSURED-SAFE

Unlike the Money Market Funds, your money is insured-safe by the FSUC or backed by U.S. Government securities.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

Simply deposit any amount in the Market Rate Checking Account. Every dollar over $1,500 automatically earns the current Money Market rate, compounded daily. The remaining balance of $1,500 or less earns 5 1/4%. Treat it like regular checking.

Write as many checks as you need... or, use handy telephone bill paying and save time and postage. Each month you'll receive an itemized statement of transactions. You have a choice of having your cancelled checks returned or held by us for safekeeping. And there's no service charge if your balance is $500 or more.

$1,000 LINE OF CREDIT

Your Market Rate Checking Account gives you flexibility. A $1,000 line of credit allows you to use it as an automatic loan. Use it, if needed—when you are away from home on a vacation or business trip or if unforeseen obligations or emergencies arise.

Stop in now and open your Market Rate Checking Account or just come in and ask questions. We want to help you make your money work harder for you.

Thank You
