Crop losses at $19.2 million as farmers face worst year

By Randy Hascall

Natural disasters and low crop prices made this year one of the worst in history for Wayne County farmers. Perhaps the worst.

Crop loss in the county was estimated at $19.2 million, according to Ray Butts, director of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Most of the county's crop loss was caused by two major hail storms, one on July 19 and the other on Oct. 1. Hard rains washed out crops in the spring and an early freeze prevented some crops from maturing this fall. A wet, heavy snow and strong winds were other significant factors in the extensive crop losses.

TEN FARMERS in Wayne County suffered 100 percent production loss according to disaster assessment reports made in mid-November. Another 40 farmers had production losses ranging from 90 to 99 percent. Crop losses ranged from 70 to 90 percent for some 140 farmers.

Approximately 56 percent of Wayne County's farmers suffered losses totaling at least 50 percent.

Corn yields in Wayne County averaged 57 bushels per acre this year. That's down from an average of 77.6 bushels per acre last year. Corn losses were estimated at $10,098,000, Butts said. Omaha corn prices on Nov. 11 of 1982 were reported at $2.38 a bushel while a year ago they were $2.37.

Last year, soybeans averaged 28.8 bushels per acre. This year, they averaged 13 bushels an acre, a loss of about $6,237,000. Last year's November price for beans was $6.30 per bushel. This year's November price was $5.62.

ALFALFA HAY averaged two tons per acre for a loss of $506,200. Oats averaged 37.6 bushels, a loss of $333,000. Corn silage averaged six tons per acre for a loss of $1,400,000 and damage to other minor crops was estimated at $572,260.

"There was more of a loss this year than there was from the drought in 1974," Butts said. The 1982 losses were the worst since records have been kept by the ASCS office. Butts said it was the worst crop loss he could recall. The 1974 crop averaged a yield of 57.7 bushels per acre.

The 1982 crop damage is severe enough to prompt U.S. Senator Ed Zorinsky to push for a declaration of the county as a national disaster area. Zorinsky's office collected statistics over the telephone, several days ago, Butts said.

All that a disaster declaration would probably do, Butts said, is make farmers eligible for low interest disaster loans.

ACCORDING TO Butts, the two hailstorms hit nearly 60 percent of Wayne County. Whole sections of crops were wiped out and many farmers had to replant. The hail actually hit too late for corn and soybeans to be replanted and still mature.

Only about 25 percent of the farmers hit by hail had crop insurance according to Butts. Many farmers planted for feed, but following the second hailstorm, needed five acres of corn to get as much silage as is usually raised on one acre, Butts said. The early freeze hit the low areas of the county the worst and the wet snowfall was widespread.

The crop loss was nothing but bad news for Wayne County farmers who had already suffered through some hard times. The long range effect of the crop loss can't be figured but could result in bankruptcies.

He pointed out that farmers are coping with the struggling economy and crop loss by finding part-time or even full-time jobs. Many wives are working too, he added.

CROP LOSS in Wayne County may be the worst in the state. When contacted, the State ASCS office reported that no statistics are available to compare Wayne's County's losses with those of other states. All of the county reports were forwarded to the National FHA office in Washington.

Dixon woman flies public information for state CAP Wing

By LaVon Anderson

"Too many women think it's for men, too many young women think it's for older women, and too many older women think it's for women in their 20's."

"It's for both men and women, young and old," says Helen Dalton, public affairs officer for the Nebraska Wing of the Civil Air Patrol.

Dalton, who joined the Civil Air Patrol in August, is noticeably excited about her new task as a liaison between the public and Civil Air Patrol.

LEANING FORWARD in her chair, her eyes glistening, the Dixon woman recounts the events last summer that led to her involvement in the Civil Air Patrol — nearly 40 years after she first dreamed of joining the organization.

"I've wanted to be involved in the Civil Air Patrol from the time it was organized in 1941."

"I was too young then," says Dalton, who admits to being in her 50's.

"And as the years went on I got busy with school, then college, then marriage. Besides, women back then didn't do such things."

It wasn't until this summer Dalton found out she had been misinformed all those years.

"The Civil Air Patrol is for everyone and anyone interested in its humanitarian services," she has since learned.

FOR DALTON, her involvement in the Civil Air Patrol began last July while attending an air show at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha.

"There was this woman in a Civil Air Patrol uniform," smiles Dalton.

"Now I'm not the kind of person who would normally run after someone in a crowd — but I just had to find out what she was doing in that uniform."

After visiting a short time, Dalton learned that the woman, Sister Anna-Maria Coverdell, is not only a lieutenant colonel in the Civil Air Patrol, she also is a member of the Order of Mercy.

Dalton also was introduced to Colonel William Woodruff, commander of the Nebraska Wing.

WITHIN A month, Dalton was a lieutenant in the Civil Air Patrol.

"I found out it wasn't too late for me," she smiles, "and I had a lot of time to make up for."

"All those years I had the idea that the Civil Air Patrol was only for young persons in their 20's, when actually many members are much older."

It had been many years since Dalton, a little girl in Omaha, had dreamed of becoming a member of the Civil Air Patrol "because it had something to do with flying."

Now, as public affairs officer for the Civil Air Patrol, Dalton is bound and determined that no one else is misinformed.

"THERE IS AN enormous lack of public understanding about the Civil Air

City targets Roosevelt Park projects for 1983

Seventh Street reconstruction returns to state list

Seventh Street reconstruction is back on the state Road Department's list of priorities.

That's the word from Vern Schulz, city public works superintendent.

Schulz revealed the state's relisting of the proposed street reconstruction project during his annual One & Six-Year Street Improvement report to the City Planning Commission Tuesday night.

THE PROJECT, which never was scratched from the city's street program priority list, was pulled from the Road Department's agenda last year — apparently the result of organized opposition in past years.

Schulz told the planners that the city's delegation at a recent Roads Department hearing in Columbus resurrected the project at the state level.

The proposed project, which is tentatively targeted for consideration in 1984 or 1985, involves the reconstruction, and possible widening, of Seventh Street (state Highway 351) for a 14-block east-west stretch with a full-depth asphalt overlay.

Estimated city costs for the million-dollar-plus project, based on current construction figures, would be about $250,000, according to Schulz.

AND, IF the city can coordinate the proposed project with the state, Schulz said he hopes the reconstruction of Main Street north, from Highway 35 to the northern city limits, could be combined with the Seventh Street work.

That project, which involves state Highway 15 in the city, includes seven blocks targeted for a full-depth overlay at an estimated municipal cost share of $125,000, Schulz said.

In addition, Schulz said he would like to see the Pearl Street intersection improvement project added to the proposal for a city cost share of about $10,000.

The project involves Pearl Street's intersection with Seventh Street.

SCHULZ, WHO explained the city's One & Six-Year plan priority system to the planners, said that presentation of the projects was a prerequisite for state matching funds for street work.

He told planners that the allocation of street improvement funds was based on a formula that used population as a 50 percent base.

Vehicle registrations figure for 30 percent of the funding allocation formula, he said. And, lane miles (street miles) within the city represent 20 percent of the formula for matching dollars.

According to Schulz, that the city's One & Six-Year plan must be filed with the Department of Roads for any given project that qualifies for partial state funding.

UNDER THE matching-funds program, according to Schulz, there is no match on the first third of funds earmarked for a project. But, he said, the state matches the second third dollar for dollar. And, he added, the state contributes $2 to every city $1 for the final third of project costs incurred.

Wayne has had a City Council approved One & Six-Year plan since 1969-70, according to Schulz, who was seeking Planning Commission backing on the program.

Commissioners unanimously approved the proposed One & Six-Year plan for the city, which places the final approval in the hands of the City Council.

"IT ONLY serves as a guideline for what we intend to do," Schulz told the planners.

"Nothing is listed in order of priority after the 1983 project year," he cautioned the commission.

Under the commission-approved plan, Schulz has targeted three projects — two of them in the Roosevelt Park area — for 1983.

They include street improvements on Fairgrounds Avenue from Nebraska Street south to Windom Street; Third Street west from Oak Drive to the County Fairgrounds; and 600 feet of Nebraska Street south from Fairgrounds Avenue, 600 feet of Windom Street south from Fairgrounds Avenue and 300 feet of Folk Street from Nebraska Street south to Windom Street south.

THE THIRD Street west project, with an estimated cost of $35,000, would involve concrete 60 feet of paving, plus curb and gutter.

The first Roosevelt Park project, which has top 1983 priority, would involve 540 feet of concrete paving, plus curb and gutter, at an estimated cost of $40,000.

The second Roosevelt Park project, which involves three streets — Nebraska, Windom and Folk, has an estimated cost of $83,000. Schulz explained that both Roosevelt Park projects probably would be subject to resolution of sewer and water problems in that area.

"They (the residents) want the sewer and water problems corrected before the paving is done," Schulz explained. "And, I guess I'd have to go along with them on that."

SCHULZ HAS placed the Seventh Street reconstruction project, and its three companion projects, in the 1984 bracket for a total estimated price tag to the city of $205,000.

Another project, tentatively targeted for 1984, involves a portion of Windom Street south from Fairgrounds Avenue northward 750 feet.

The concrete paving, with curb and gutter, has a $45,000 price tag.

Schulz reminded commissioners that project priorities were subject to change.

On the 1985 list is widening Logan Street from Fourth to Seventh streets at an estimated cost of $40,000. Also in 1985, the proposed widening of Pearl Street from Fifth to Seventh over Courthouse Hill at an estimated cost of $40,000.

School Christmas concert set

"O Come All Ye Children" is the theme for this year's Christmas concert presented by the Wayne High School and Middle School choirs.

The public is invited to attend the concert free of charge tonight (Monday) at 8 o'clock in the high school lecture hall. Rob Stuber, choir director, said each choir, including a caroling choir, will sing songs and carols alone and with all choirs combined.

"We attempt to give the audience something to look at and something to hear, as well as something to think about," said Stuber, adding "visual effects play an important role in setting the mood in a concert of this nature."
Assisting Stuber will be Amy Lempke, student teacher, and Doyle Anderson, narrator.

City Council meets Tuesday

Mayor Wayne Marsh and four City Council members will be sworn into office at the start of Tuesday's meeting at City Hall. AN INVESTIGATION is continuing into an early morning break-in at Heller's IGA in Pilger, according to the Stanton County Sheriff's office. Around $15 in change and a few miscellaneous grocery items were taken in the incident Dec. 1. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass out of the front door.

IN A SAMPLING of 25 Nebraska towns and cities by the Omaha World-Herald, published last Sunday, Wakefield was listed as having a 30.3 percent German population and 21.6 Swedish. This was shown by the 1980 census.

Country boy...

Howdy. Happiness is... Most of us have filled in the blank a dozen times or more. Sometimes, I've filled in the blank with silly little things...things that ignore the larger thought. And, sometimes I've filled in the blank with larger thoughts...thoughts that ignore the silly little things.

BUT, I'VE never been at a loss when it comes to filling in the blank. In fact, I don't recall ever meeting someone, until this week, who was at a loss for filling in the blank. "I have never been happy...never in my lifetime...I have nothing to be happy about."

That's what the stranger said to me. It came so hard that my pen stopped midnote. I looked at him. Sitting there on the motel bed, an overnight home in Wayne for this thin and haggard 55-year-old traveler, was a man who meant what he said.

He said it matter-of-factly, and without emotion. I ASKED again, my disbelief showing. "I really don't know...I've never been...so I don't know what it would be," he said, his face remaining motionless except for the slight movement of his thin lips behind a salt-and-pepper goatee.

"I gave up on it (happiness)," he added. Inhaling smoke from a Winston 100 while gray wisps that never reached his lungs curled across his sunken face.

"I don't like thinking about it," the edge in the traveler's steel voice cut the silence of the curling smoke. "Why?" I asked, feeling anger swell in my chest at his persistent pessimism, the cold and calculated cynicism he held during this Christmas season.

"I DON'T blame anyone," he continued, the smelt of his wet socks sweating on the heater, while the toes on his bare feet curled and uncurled in the warmth and freedom.

"Nobody held a gun against my head to do the things I've done...to do anything...it is just self-inflicted punishment, I guess," he continued, his eyes staring blankly ahead through equally empty glasses.

"I'm incapable of showing love or emotion," the traveler said between long draughts on the filter cigarette. "It cannot come out of me...you have to learn that kind of thing and it wasn't a part of my childhood."

Silence again filled the room. IN THE SILENCE, interrupted only by the rattle of the traveler's rib cage as he consumed his cigarette, a line from a song ricocheted through my head.

"I've been down so...damn long, it all looks up to me..." echoed Jim Morrison's pejorative lyrics in The Doors 1960s protest poetry.

This traveler...this embittered vagabond...this wanderer was in the grips of his own poetic justice and he knew it. Wanting nothing and seeking nothing, this wanderer, born an orthodox Jew, was nonetheless down on his luck...and had been for 20 years...maybe a lifetime.

Carrying his Masada Complex as his heavy baggage, the wanderer otherwise traveled lightly. WITH HOLES in the toes of his slipper-like shoes, and his pants all but worn out from the inside, the wanderer spoke — but only when spoken to — about his unhappiness.

Born into an "unloving family" in Portland, Maine, he found no room for emotion to roam in the orthodox Jewishness of his parents.

His formal education officially and emotionally ended at the masters degree level in mathematics, though this Jewish wanderer had earned a near doctorate in analytical math.

Soon, in pursuit of the American Dream, the young Jew entered the business world as an accountant. He figured he couldn't lose with a Social Security number that starts with the digits 007.

BURN-OUT CAME soon from the overloaded schedule of the workaholic accountant. And, on doctor's advice he took a vacation. That was in 1957, more than 20 years ago.

This wanderer hasn't held a permanent job since. "For more than 2 years I hung paper (wrote bad checks) all over the country," he said. "I call it excessive penmanship...that sounds better."

The vagabond paperhanger traveled by bus ("I don't drive.") until authorities caught him in Kansas. That got him "1 to 5 in the slammer" at Lansing, Kans., where he "flattened it to 37 months" to get out in May of 1962.

"I'VE BEEN on the road since doing odd jobs here and there," his voice rasped, but his face still showed no emotion. "Mostly, I stay alone. I avoid people. I don't like them," the tortured Jew jabbed with uncharacteristic vehemence.

"I want it that way," he continued, his eyes staring blankly at the wall. "A great majority of the people aren't worth the powder it would take to blow them to hell," he said, his unemotional monotone making me mad.

"I have the Peanuts' philosophy: 'Mankind I love, it's people I can't stand,'" the traveler said, pausing to tuck in a threadbare shirt that hung on his limp, undernourished frame.

"PEOPLE ARE too complacent and too quick to judge...they judge me as an alcoholic, or a doper or a wino," he said. "I'm a loner, that's all...I prefer it that way and I don't know why you're here...I've got nothing to say," intoned the ex-con without a smile.

"I'm stuck here for the night...a job I had lined up with a trucker fell through...I'm going to Sioux City tomorrow," he added, puffing cigarettes as the bedside ashtray began to fill with his discards.

"If you are that unhappy, what keeps you from checking out (and, I didn't mean from the motel) and getting it over with," I asked.

"THAT'S THE coward's way out," he said, obviously insulted by the question. "I do have a basic faith in God...it's people I don't like...with them it's get out of my face; I have enough problems," the man without an address said.

"I'm willing to settle down someplace, but I haven't found anyone willing to help me," he said, shifting his blank stare from the bare wall to the bare ceiling. "Would you help yourself?" I asked.

"Well, I know I didn't come from the city dump," he responded, catching my eyes for a split second. "I have a minute amount of hope left to better myself...this transitory existence is no good...it's like killing yourself mentally, physically and spiritually every day."

"WHY DO YOU continue to wander?" I asked. "Why?" he threw it back at me. "That three-letter question will drive you up the wall."

He talked about little kids. His manner changed for just a fleeting moment. "I often think of little kids...little ones who have never done anything...they die, but here I am completely useless and nothing happens..." he was lost in his own thought.

"Do you like kids?" I asked, searching for a love, a secret passion. "I don't like kids...I just don't like them," he retorted. "They're all spoiled rotten...parents bring them up by the book when they ought to use it on their rear ends."

THE JEWISH wanderer paused to turn his hearily dry socks "before they burned" on the heater. "The whole country has gone to hell and we can't blame anyone but ourselves for allowing it to happen," his measured words came from the other room.

"It's like that old cliché...you know the one: 'In God we trust, all others pay cash'...well, now they want God to pay cash," he said, not a hint of a smile on his unhappy face.

"Do you have any philosophy of life other than pessimistic cynicism?" I asked. "No...not really," he said, not bothering to return my increasingly unhappy gaze. "I live by two basic rules: If at first you don't succeed, to hell with it; and, Do unto others as you would have them do unto you, but do it first."

HAPPINESS IS... love, I muttered to myself. But, love was not in his heart. "Love?" he said. "Love has to be experienced...to be able to feel it...and to be able to give it."

There it was. There he was. There was me. And, no extra-terrestrial was he... Catch you next week...

To the editor: Young men are being required by the government to register for the draft, a draft which may or may not occur. Most have chosen to comply with the order. Many have not — 500,000 by some estimates. These young people are being forced to make very difficult decisions concerning war, the military, and registration at an already sufficiently difficult age. In an effort to provide help in making such decisions, the Wayne State College draft counseling service was formed. The counselor seeks to encourage draft age persons to make their decisions based on accurate and complete information and a careful reflection on conscience. This is done in a non-directive manner, and is meant to assist the counsellee in making a decision, not to coerce him into accepting any particular position. The service is open to area high school students as well as students of Wayne State. Appointments can be made by calling 375-2559. There is no charge. Mike Patecek

To the editor: I'd like to express my opinion concerning the streets in Wayne after our recent snowfall. I don't know if a person should even call them streets; after all, they're not safe to drive on. Why the city bothered to put the sleigh-riding barricades up, I'll never know. A car, even moving at a very slow speed, couldn't possibly stop in time if there happened to be a child entering an intersection on a sled. And, many of the stop signs are impossible to stop at, which could be quite dangerous. All the streets are one big sheet of ice, until the sun melts them clean! Why can't the city spread more sand or salt over the dangerous areas? This would surely lower the chances of someone getting hurt or even killed. I feel that it is a responsibility that should be fulfilled by our city. If they won't do it, who will? I know I'm not the only one who is concerned. Name withheld by request

To the editor: Can anyone tell me why the steps and walks in front of the post office were not scooped after the last two snows? I thought Wayne had a city ordinance that says walks must be cleaned 24 hours after it stops snowing. That way the mailmen have a place to walk. How about the mailmen giving the patrons a place to walk? If the personnel can't scoop the walks for their high wages, maybe you can hire someone on welfare. They would probably appreciate the extra money anytime, especially at Christmas! Name withheld by request

To the editor: We want to thank all who helped make our Poppy Day such a great success. To The Wayne Herald and KTCB radio for their advertising; to the merchants and the public who bought poppies; to the ladies of the VFW and the Poppy Girl who sold them. Thanks again. VFW Auxiliary Post 5291

Fighting for a fair deal

Ag exports top trade talks

I spent most of Thanksgiving week at the GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) conference in Geneva, Switzerland, as part of the official U.S. delegation. At that conference, representatives from 88 nations discussed trade policies. While much of the news from the GATT conference is being cast in a discouraging light, I think it is very important to look at some of the positive accomplishments of this meeting. I am neither surprised nor terribly discouraged by the outcome of the conference.

FIRST, IT is important to remember that the European economic community did not even want this meeting. And the Europeans certainly did not want to open the matter of agriculture subsidies after the lack of attention paid to agriculture three years ago in the Tokyo round of trade negotiations.

The fact of the matter is that the United States was less than effective in making its point about agriculture subsidies under the leadership of the Carter Administration and its special trade representative, Ambassador Robert Strauss.

We did not insist on specifically prohibiting or even limiting those subsidies in the Tokyo trade negotiations of 1979, and the European community saw no reason for reopening the matter in Geneva.

Yet, when the U.S. delegation on which I participated arrived at the GATT conference, we, for the first time, succeeded in making agricultural exports the number one item on the agenda. I regard that as a very positive change.

THE ROLE of our nine-person congressional delegation was to try to convince the Europeans and the Japanese that the new Congress is likely to be even more protectionist in mood than that if members of the European community continue to expand agricultural export subsidies and other trade barriers.

For better or worse, the U.S. Congress is in a mood to counter with trade barriers of its own. While we got no relief on European community agricultural export subsidies at GATT, we got across a very clear message that something will have to be done and that those subsidies and non-tariff barriers cannot be increased without evoking a similar response from the United States.

2. WHO was scheduled to present a workshop/seminar on personal self growth and value clarification Dec. 3 and 4 at Wayne State College?
3. WHAT 24-year-old graduate of Nebraska Christian College in Norfolk is the new minister of First Church of Christ in Wayne?
4. WHAT two Wayne State College Lady Wildcat basketball players earned first team honors at the Thanksgiving Tournament held Nov. 26-27 at Rice Auditorium in Wayne?
5. WHO received a Distinguished Extension Specialist Award from Phil Cole, extension dairyman at the University of Nebraska?

We got an agreement that agricultural subsidies will be studied. We also got an agreement that barriers against services, exports such as technical or engineering services (an important area for the United States), will be studied for future inclusion under GATT.

AND, I WAS personally heavily involved in delivering a strong message to the Japanese that they cannot continue to maintain low quotas on imports of red meat and citrus fruits.

I expect progress with the Japanese on increasing our beef sales in Japan at least within the next four to six months.

This is the first time that GATT itself has explicitly recognized that agricultural export subsidies are disruptive of trade and do have a prejudicial effect on other parties. That is an important step forward.

Now we have to keep legitimate pressure on the European community and Japan for a fair deal in trade. It will be a personal priority for me.

Smoking tires

The search for the smoking tires is on in Educational Service Unit One. And, it's not a mile too soon.

The ESU board-approved review — an examination suggested by Belden banker Dave Hay — of the unit's employee mileage tab is not only welcome, it's necessary and long overdue.

Often approved by the board as routine business, the monthly mileage report put nearly $7,500 worth of fire tracks through the unit's November budget.

The November mileage bill ($7,409.62) for 50 ESU employees averaged nearly $150 per staffer. At 22 cents per mile, that also means the staff traveled more than 33,600 miles during the month, or more than 1,100 miles logged per day, including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Furthermore, since some employees turned in mileage tabs for less than $20, the high end of the report shows some employees had precious little time for any flat tires.

Understanding that the six-county — Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne — ESU district is large, at least one employee had to have traveled over 1,800 miles, or some 75 miles per day with time off for Sundays and Thanksgiving Day.

ESU's three Wakefield-based supervisors who work directly under administrator Harry Mills, averaged $277.42 in mileage reimbursement for the month.

Supervisor Duane Tappe's mileage bill was $245.08 for the month. Supervisor Larry Clay's month-long tab was $309.76. And, coincidentally, supervisor Gary Vopalensky's mileage figure was $277.42 — not a penny higher or lower than the exact average of the three.

Hopefully, the Belden banker, who is no stranger to a sharp pencil, can find the smoking tires before the ESU mileage budget has a blowout.

Sobriety test

Alcohol-related vehicle fatalities in Nebraska through the month of October were 71 compared to 167 for the same period a year ago.

The reduction of alcohol involvement in fatal traffic crashes continues to be the largest contributor to Nebraska's dramatic reduction in traffic fatalities.

This is a clear indication that all of the attention and efforts by law enforcement, citizens, media, legislature, and governmental officials in reducing school involvement in traffic crashes has been effective. Through the process of increasing public awareness and education, we can realize changes in driving behavior particularly in the alcohol area.

Citizen concern and involvement has been apparent through the state's REDDI (Report Every Drunk Driver Immediately) program.

Since its inception in June of 1981, citizens have reported to law enforcement agencies throughout the state 3,284 suspected drunk drivers resulting in 1,601 arrests.

Nebraska will join in the nationwide effort to continue the awareness by participating in "National Drunk and Drugged Driver Awareness Week" Dec. 12-18. President Reagan has signed a Joint Resolution of Congress proclaiming Awareness Week.

news and notes

extension agent-home economics

There's no question that the next two weeks could be hazardous for your waistline.

An abundance of high calorie snacks exists throughout the holiday season.

A positive attitude and a little planning can help you avoid greeting 1983 with five or 10 extra pounds.

CONCENTRATE on the positive side of eating sensibly during the holidays. You should feel terrific if you don't overstuff yourself or drink too much.

Don't groan about your diet that deprives you of sampling holiday treats. If you slip at one party and go on a binge, concentrate on the other occasions when you stayed with your diet.

All is not lost, or should I say gained, by making one mistake.

ON THOSE occasions when you may have slipped, try to increase you activity or exercise.

No matter how busy you are, don't skip your daily exercise. If possible, do more than usual.

Try a winter sport to add some variety and get some fresh air.

Get your family involved in your exercise program. Go sledding, ice skating, or take a walk before the family sits down to a holiday meal.

THERE ARE ways to get through holiday get-togethers without going on a binge.

Don't go to a party hungry. Eat slightly smaller meals during the day and have a low calorie snack before the party.

You'll feel more able to control your eating after you've taken the edge off your appetite.

WATCH WHERE you are during the party. Sit or stand as far away from the food as you can.

Out of sight, out of mind is one adage that definitely applies to this situation.

If you go through a buffet line, fill your plate and move away from the table. When your plate is empty, dispose of it. You can more easily resist temptation that way.

Or visit with someone. You can't talk with your mouth full.

Domestic violence disrupts holiday happiness

While the holiday season for most persons is a time of family togetherness, for others it is a time of increased violence.

"Domestic violence escalates during the holiday season, ironic as that may seem," says Hallie Sherry, coordinator of Haven House Family Services Center in Wayne.

Violence today in the United States is a way of life for many families, according to a "Problem Statement" issued by the Center for Women Policy Studies in Washington, D. C.

The study says that while child abuse has been recognized as a problem of startling proportions, abuse of the elderly has also begun to receive attention.

WIFE ABUSE is a major social problem, and a recent national survey established that at least two million women are beaten each year by their husbands.

Researchers conducting the survey speculate that even these figures underestimate the extent of family violence.

According to the Center for Women Policy Studies, domestic violence can result in severe injury to the victim and even death.

Women who are abused are generally beaten repeatedly and suffer injuries serious enough to require emergency medical attention.

One study of hospital emergency room services found that almost half of the 1,400 women treated in the emergency room had injuries resulting from being beaten, though this was not always reflected in their records.

It was estimated that battering occurred approximately 10 times more frequently than physicians usually identified.

WHILE ALL of the causes of wife beating are not known, some characteristics of this type of family violence have been identified.

Any woman could be the target of abuse, says the Center for Women Policy Studies, adding that family violence is not confined to a single group.

It occurs in families of every economic, racial, religious and educational group.

IN THE report issued by the Center for Women Policy Studies, recognizing that wife abuse exists and condemning it as wrong is the first step in addressing the problem.

The report says battered women often are ashamed to admit being beaten. They fear being blamed or rejected by their friends and families or being subjected to retaliatory attacks from their partner.

The report goes on to say that many people prefer to think this kind of violence does not happen because they do not know how to respond.

ONE OF the first questions usually asked is, "Why don't they leave?"

The Center for Women Policy Studies says that while some wives do leave, many others do not.

The center cites many reasons why some wives choose to stay with their partners, including cultural norms and religious beliefs that often reinforce a woman's perception that she is guilty and that she has failed.

It is difficult for any person to leave a marriage relationship and to begin again a life of her own, according to the report, which adds that for women generally it is a step for which they have little preparation.

For those women who have been beaten repeatedly as well as subjected to cruel verbal abuse, it is substantially more difficult.

THE OPTIONS abused women face are limited.

Abused women are likely to be financially dependent upon their husbands, with little work experience or job opportunities.

Since they frequently have young children, child care must be provided as well.

Some battered women, according to the report, do not want to separate because they may love their husbands and want to maintain the relationship, but want the beatings to stop.

For others, even leaving the violent relationship does not always end the problem. Abusive husbands may pursue wives who leave.

THE CENTER for Women Policy Studies says battered women, whether they choose to stay or to leave, must have a range of services available to them.

An aware community with trained and sensitive service providers is needed to support and assist battered women and their children.

Social supports, sanctions and resources also are necessary to ensure that violence by one person against another is not acceptable, either at home or in the street.

"WHEN BLEEDING, bruises and other injuries require medical attention, victims of domestic violence should never lie about how the injuries are obtained," said Mrs. Sherry.

"Tell the truth to the attending physicians and nurses," said Mrs. Sherry, adding "It is not necessary for physicians to report domestic violence injuries to anyone."

Mrs. Sherry said her advice from Haven House comes from experience.

"Telling the truth about your injuries to medical professionals is important, for the simple reason you may need the medical record in the future, especially if litigation becomes an issue."

Mrs. Sherry said unlike child abuse which Nebraska law mandates must be reported, domestic violence need not be.

"It is a matter of confidence between the victim and medical professionals."

Blue Devils collapse in cold second half

Free throws and turnovers tell much of the story of Wayne's 80-60 loss administered by South Sioux City Friday night in the Wayne High gym.

The Blue Devils, coming off of a win over Blair last Friday, turned the ball over 24 times and hit only 6 of 18 free throws for a 33 percent mark. It was a physical ball game with 44 personal fouls called.

Wayne looked like the better team in the first half but South Sioux dominated the final two quarters. The Cardinals scored 17 straight points during one third quarter stretch to break the game open.

THE BLUE DEVILS led throughout most of the first half. Don Larsen, a 6-4 freshman, hit eight points in the first quarter and Jeff Jorgensen added four as the hosts went in front 17-13.

They let their lead slip away in the second quarter. With Larsen on the bench, the Cardinals scored 10 consecutive points to take a 23-17 edge. Wayne coach Bill Sharpe called a timeout and got his players regrouped.

Larsen returned to the lineup but Shaun Niemann ran the offense as the Devils regained the lead. Niemann scored the first bucket, Todd Schwartz canned an outside jumper and Larsen got inside for the tying basket as Wayne came back.

Niemann made two nice drives for baskets and added a pair of free throws to pace the hosts, as they built a 31-27 lead. Steve Overin added Wayne's final first half points for a 33-31 lead.

A BASKET by Jorgensen early in the third period gave Wayne its final lead at 41-39. The Cards scored the next 17 points to take control with a 56-41 lead.

An 18-foot shot by Schwartz broke the South Sioux string of points but Wayne still trailed 43-58 at the end of the third period. The Cardinals outscored the hosts 49 to 27 in the second half.

"We played well in the first half and the start of the second half. Then it seemed like we got a little tired. They had the intensity and we went flat," Sharpe said. "It was the same problem we had against Blair; we were inconsistent with our offense. We would work a pattern and look good one time and then another time we would pull up and shoot a long jumper. We don't need that. We're passing when we should be dribbling and dribbling when we should be passing."

The Blue Devils hit 47 percent of their shots in the game and the Cardinals hit 45 percent. At the free throw line, Wayne made only 33 percent of its charity shots while South Sioux connected on 73 percent.

THE LOCALS committed 24 turnovers and South Sioux turned the ball over 16 times. The Cards won the rebounding battle 35 to 31.

"Turnovers and free throws tell the difference in the ball game. We hit a pretty good percentage of our shots in the first half but our free throw shooting was notoriously bad," said Sharpe. "We did a good job on our man-to-man defense and that was encouraging. I thought we gave a pretty good effort."

Larsen, who fouled out with 4:19 left to play, was the game's leading scorer with 19 points. Niemann was right on his heels with

WSC snaps 'jinx,' win streak

Any victory is sweet, but this one was particularly so for Wayne State as the Wildcats ended the Concordia "jinx" in a 91-77 win ateward Thursday.

The Wildcat win ended WSC's four-game losing string to Concordia that included one, two, three and four (in overtime) point losses to the Bulldogs. (I marked Wayne's first road win in five tries, and ended a 16-game home win streak for Concordia.)

Help came from relatively unexpected sources against Concordia. Junior guard Rene Taylor made his first varsity start a huge success as he tallied 13 points in the closing moments. Taylor added five assists to his total. Freshman forward Calvin Sprew came off the bench to lead all scorers with 23 points and grab a game-high 13 rebounds. Sprew dished out four assists in the best showing of his brief career.

Not so unexpectedly, senior forward Grady Hansen ripped the nets for 20 points and pulled in 11 rebounds. Bill Marshall scored 10 points and had five assists in a reserve role.

Grand Schmidt paced Concordia with 19, and his second-half play kept the Dogs in the contest until the very end. It was Concordia's third loss in nine games.

Laurel neutralizes Cats' height to claim four-point victory

By Kent Propst
Wayne State College

The Laurel Bears did what they had to do — hit from the outside and the free throw line and neutralize Winside's height advantage — as they claimed a 42-38 Lewis and Clark Conference victory in Winside Friday night.

In a game that was close throughout, Winside "had opportunities to get the lead" late in the contest, Laurel Coach Mark Hrabik said. A Laurel trademark, strong defensive play, "might have played a part" in turning back the Wildcats, the rookie coach said after his first career win in two games.

The game got off to a running start but slowed considerably in the second half. In fact, both squads scored more in the first quarter than they managed in the final two periods.

LAUREL WENT into what Wildcat Coach Mark Freburg termed "the next thing to a stall" in the final period. Still, "we got the ball back but couldn't convert," Freburg said.

Winside rallied to a 7-1 lead four and a half minutes into the contest as Laurel's shooters struggled to find the range. The Bears quickly warmed up, however, and four points by Jerry Kastrop in the last 13 seconds of the period left the score at 15-all going into the second quarter.

The first two of Kelly Robson's 11 second-quarter points gave Laurel its first lead of the game, a lead Winside was never quite able to regain. Robson popped in eight points in the first three and a half minutes of the period as the Bears charged to a 23-17 lead.

Jon Meierhenry's play helped to keep Winside within striking distance. The Wildcats rattled to within 26-24 before a pair of Mark Penrick free throws with three seconds in the half staked Laurel to a 28-24 halftime lead.

At the halftime break, both Robson and Meierhenry had over half of their team's points, including Robson's 15 and Meierhenry's 13. A second-half scoring duel between the two never came about as the tempo took a change for the slower.

THE TWO TEAMS traded points until midway through the third period. Winside guard Jeff Behmer scored on a fast break layup and followed it with a steal and a layup to knot the score at 32-32. Laurel quickly recovered to take a 36-32 lead going into the final eight minutes.

The Bears stayed in what Wildcat Coach Freburg called "a very, very controlled game" throughout the fourth quarter, and it proved effective.

"For the most part, we made them play our game," Hrabik agreed. But the outcome was still very much in doubt when Wildcat Ronnie Prince banked in a short jumper with 30 seconds remaining to cut Laurel's lead to 39-38.

Jerry Kastrop got Laurel's lead back to two when he hit one of two free throws with 21 seconds left. Winside's hopes rose, then ended when Prince mistimed on the front end of a one-and-one free throw opportunity with just nine seconds remaining.

KELLY ROBSON sealed Laurel's win by grabbing the missed free throw and drawing a foul with four seconds left. Robson hit both free shots to push the final tally to 42-38.

Free throws played a decisive part in the game. Laurel shot 74 percent from the line on 14 of 19, while Winside, despite holding a 15-14 edge in field goals, managed just eight of 15 charity shots for 53 percent.

Robson had 19 points to pace Laurel, while Kastrop chipped in 11 including seven of 10 free throws. Meierhenry had 15 to lead the Wildcats.

Despite his team's first loss in two outings, Freburg said, "I was real happy with our kids. They gave all they had, and I was very proud of them."

Laurel, 1-1, faced their third game away from home Saturday night at Hartington Cedar Catholic. They take on Wayne in their home opener Tuesday evening. Winside hosts a tough Coleridge team next Friday evening.

In the junior varsity game, Laurel got 10 points each from Mike Saturday and Dave Kardell to take a 37-19 win over Winside. Chris Jorgensen had seven for the Wildcats.

Lady Cats rally for win

It took a big second half rally for the Wayne State women to nip Chadron State 63-62 Friday night in Chadron.

The Lady Wildcats trailed 26-40 at the half but outscored Chadron 37-22 in the second half, and pulled in 11 rebounds. They hauled in 14 rebounds.

Talented junior Janet Lee pumped in 18 points and junior Robbie Lehr scored 10 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Sheri Campbell was next on the list with seven points.

OTHER THAN the very early going,

Wayne State held the lead only once but that was enough. The Cats were down by 16 points with 10 minutes left in the game but fought back.

Nygren hit both ends of a one-and-one situation with 30 seconds left in the game to tie the score at 42-all. She added another free throw with 16 seconds remaining to give Wayne's its one and only lead at 43-42.

A Chadron player missed two free throw attempts with two seconds left and WSC rebounded to wrap up the win. The Lady Wildcats shot only 26.4 percent from the field but had more success at the charity stripe, hitting 71 percent there.

Ponca beats Allen at line

A poor performance at the free throw line didn't help matters any as the Allen Eagles lost to Ponca 49-37 Friday night in Ponca.

The Eagles shot a better percentage from the field than they did from the line. They hit only 27 percent from the floor in the first half but made a respectable 36 percent in the second half to finish with a mark of 34 percent. At the line, the Eagles hit 3 of 11 shots for 27 percent.

Allen coach Dave Uldrich said he thought his team played well defensively but "couldn't put the ball in the hoop."

18-6 to open up a big lead. The Eagles got back within 11 points but had fallen too far behind to stage a successful rally. "We finally started playing in the second half. It felt good to see us get going," Uldrich said. "But our free throw shooting was terrible."

Allen was led by Derwin Roberts with eight points and 10 rebounds. Troy Harder with eight points and five rebounds, Kevin Chase with seven points, Jay Jones with six points and Shawn Mahler with four points and six rebounds.

For the game, the Eagles outrebounded Ponca 34 to 29. Allen turned the ball over 19 times. Ponca was led by Bobby Backman with 16 points and Keith Curry with 12.

The junior varsity game was won 35-22 by Ponca. Next action for Allen is scheduled at home against Newcastle Friday.

Leighton said his B team played a lot better but said there were a lot of turnovers in the game.

Winside stopped 3 points short

Some shuffling around of wrestlers paid off for the Winside Wildcats Thursday night but not quite enough to give them a dual victory.

down from a 112-pound reserve role to a 105-pound varsity slot. He won by forfeit.

At 119 pounds, Curt Rohde gave the Cats six quick points with a first period pin. Kyle Miller added three more points with an 11-6 decision in the 132-pound class.

The other six points came at 112 pounds where John Thies won by forfeit.

The dual victory may have been decided at 126 pounds where Chris Olsen lost to Pender's Larry Ballinger. Olsen had a lead when he made a costly mistake and was pinned.

WINSIDE COACH Paul Sok said Olsen was wrestling "extremely well" before he made a mistake. He added that Kyle Miller showed a "lot of poise" while wrestling his own kind of match.

"The matches by the experienced kids were pretty good. Curt Rohde was very aggressive," Sok said. "This dual was a lot better than our last one."

The Wildcats competed in Saturday's North Bend Invitational and will compete in next Saturday's Osmond Invitational.

laurel-concord schools

Laurel's Lady in White

"To help people," "to make them feel better," and "the curiosity of why people feel the way they feel," are just a few reasons why Lynette Joslin became a nurse.

Mrs. Joslin made her decision in her senior year of high school. She went to school at the Methodist School of Nursing in St. Louis, Mo., which is now called St. Lukes. Now 19 years later she is the school nurse at Laurel-Concord. Mrs. Joslin has worked at the school four and a half years.

When asked why she became a school nurse, she replied, "I like being around kids and the hours are good."

Before working as our school nurse, Mrs. Joslin worked in the Methodist Hospital and also in the Educational Service Unit #1 in Cedar County where she traveled from school to school.

"When you know you help make life easier for someone and they show their appreciation" is just one of the many rewards she gets from nursing.

Some of Mrs. Joslin's duties as our school nurse are record keeping which includes a complete immunization record and health record of everyone in school; yearly screenings of eyes, throat, ears, weight, and height; and encouraging people to take better care of themselves.

Her advice to anyone wishing to enter nursing is to go and visit some hospitals and talk to nurses and others who work there, develop good study habits, and take science subjects in high school.

Mrs. Joslin is married to Jim Joslin. They have two children, a son Kevin, and a daughter Michelle.

Committees of FBLA

The Laurel-Concord Future Business Leaders of America Chapter has many committees.

The social committee headed by Tina Daberkow met and brought ideas to present to the chapter. A dance was suggested but will be looked into further. The public relations committee is headed by Monica Hanson, who is also news reporter. The committee is in charge of advertising and informing the community of upcoming events.

For all the community projects done this year the civic committee will be in charge. Cammie Crookshank is the chairman. The program committee plans events for the chapter to participate in and promotes business in the community.

The financial committee has not met this year. Its first meeting will be after the needed finances have been planned. By belonging to committees, members receive points for the work they do. The points determine who attends State Leadership Conference in the spring. Jana Cunningham, president, meets with each committee. If she is unable to meet with them, the sponsor, Mrs. Sharon Van Cleave, does.

Veterans' Day Program

The veterans of Laurel were honored at a program at the Laurel-Concord School on Nov. 11, at 9:30 a.m. The program started with the Laurel-Concord High School band playing "This is My Country." Tim Lineberry, the Student Council president, welcomed everyone to the program. The Laurel VFW and American Legion presented the colors during a drum roll which led into the National Anthem by the Laurel-Concord High School Band.

Allen O'Donnell, director of Wayne State College Public Affairs Institute, was the guest speaker. The Laurel-Concord Singing Choir sang "Sing Out America." Ralph Glock, principal, gave the closing comments and was quickly followed by the Laurel-Concord Band playing "America the Beautiful."

The men who were honored at this program sat on the chairs. The men honored were Gene Twilford, Eugene Jussel, Dwayne Freeman, Wayne Vogle, Jerome Donner, Jim Kvois, Glenn Anderson, Leon Johnson, Elden Haisch, Roland Granquist, Regg Ward, and Wayne Newton.

Elementary Government

Positive and negative forms of discipline are exercised by the elementary. Miss Logue feels that it's important for the students to realize that they really are "neat people." She believes that in order for a person to do good things, they have to feel good about themselves first. Kids especially need confidence and understanding. Most of them have only been living for 6 to 8 years and they don't understand the rules.

In some cases though, punishment is necessary. The teacher deals with minor problems in whatever way the teacher sees fit. If a major problem occurs, Miss Logue will deal with the situation in her own way.

The teachers and Miss Logue usually make their decisions based upon the severity of the infraction and how often it has occurred.

Miss Logue says that she doesn't believe in having a lot of specific policies for the students. It is different and usually calls for a different punishment.

Hillcrest Mural

Fourteen Laurel-Concord students helped brighten up the Hillcrest Care Center in Laurel with four murals. As a service project, the students painted three murals in the halls and one in the living room.

The hall murals depict cartoon characters, a rainbow of clouds, and a sun with butterflies in flight around it. The mural in the living room will be of different figures. Students working on the cartoon characters mural were Janell Anderson and Michelle Loberg. The rainbow of clouds was painted by Scott Martinson, Nancy Christensen, Shelly Buss, Monica Nelson, and Carolyn George. The sun mural was painted by Deb White, Carla Stage, and Carol Osborne. Students now working on the mural in the living room include Cindy Loberg, Teresa Johnson, and Jeri Hopskins.

Weather Policy

The present weather policy at Laurel-Concord, Nebraska Department of Education Rule 14, was adopted in December of 1969. This policy states when school will be held, when school will be dismissed, preparations parents and students should make in case the students cannot make it home, conditions that buses will run under, and how students riding buses should dress in cold weather.

School is held everyday unless visibility is bad according to the policy. "Buses will run only on open roads. However, if roads are not open but visibility is good.

rural families are asked to bring their children to the nearest school stop."

If a storm develops during the school day and buses are not able to complete their run. "Students that cannot be taken home will be brought back to Laurel." In a case such as this, parents are asked to make previous arrangements for the students to spend the night in Laurel or Concord. These arrangements are to be made as soon as school starts in the fall.

If the bus driver feels that any road on the bus route is unsafe to travel, "Students will be left off the bus at a home as near as possible to their own home." Under these conditions, parents are expected to bring the students to a road on the bus route which can be safely traveled. The parents should also let the bus driver know where the students will meet the bus.

Mr. Loquist makes the decision to dismiss school early because of bad weather. His decision is based on many things. He drives out and checks the road conditions, calls the weather bureau for weather reports, and talks to bus drivers to get their opinions on road conditions and visibility. If Mr. Loquist decides not to dismiss school early, parents can still come get their children from school.

"Rock Hop"

Some of Cathy Hamilton's Art II Class at Laurel-Concord High School are helping with the musical "Rock Hop." The musical is set in the 50's and will be put on by students from Laurel-Concord School.

Miss Hamilton's students are having a contest to see whose design will be on the advertising posters. Then some students will design and paint the flats. (Flats are large boards for background.)

The students working on the flats will first make a rough sketch of the scene. Then they will paint the scenes on the flats. The scenes will be from the 50's like the old soda glasses, saddle shoes, a leather jacket, and a car from that time period.

Woman

Patrol," says Dalton.
 "People do not know that thousands of women across the country are active in the organization, whether or not they are pilots.
 "It's very important to me that the public become aware that the Civil Air Patrol is available for both men and women, young and old."
 In addition to the senior division of the Civil Air Patrol, there is a cadet program which helps motivate young men and women toward careers in the aviation or space science fields, in addition to teaching them leadership.

AS PUBLIC affairs officer, Dalton spends Tuesday and Wednesday of each week in her office at Wing headquarters in Omaha — a 130-mile one-way trip from the home she shares northeast of Dixon with her husband Bob.

Dalton explains that her job is to serve as a liaison between the public and the Civil Air Patrol.

"When we have a search and rescue mission, I'm the officer who keeps in direct touch with the mission coordinator and informs the news media — including radio, television and newspapers — of the mission's progress.

Since taking over her position in August, Dalton says she has been on radio stations from Denver to Sioux City and Omaha, and all those in between.

Last October, when a plane from Brighton, Colo. went down, Dalton received word at 3 a.m. and immediately set about gathering information for nine radio stations and the news wire services.

ALTHOUGH SHE has no background in public affairs work, Dalton says she wasn't at all apprehensive when the job was offered to her.

"Apparently they had a lot of faith in me," she smiles, adding that all of her time, along with every other member of the Civil Air Patrol, is volunteer.

Dalton said initially the job took much of her time because of all of the reading and studying she had to do.

"Other than that, it's the amount of time you want to put into it. For me, that's whatever is necessary to get the message across.

"I've got both feet in now," she laughs.

THE CIVIL AIR Patrol, organized in 1941 as part of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense, is a non-profit organization.

As the volunteer, civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force, the patrol has three principal missions.
 Emergency services, the most publicized activity of the Civil Air Patrol, involves air and ground search and rescue, local disaster relief, as well as cooperation with and assistance to civil defense agencies.
 In the last five years, Civil Air Patrol crews have been involved in nearly 5,000 search and rescue or other emergency service missions. During this time, volunteers were credited with saving the lives of approximately 400 persons.

AEROSPACE Education programs, another activity of the Civil Air Patrol, are designed to help inform the public about air and space matters.

Over the past 30 years, the Civil Air Patrol has supported about 4,000 aerospace education workshops for teachers and education officials at more than 250 colleges and universities across the country.

The patrol also sponsors a cadet program for young men and women between the ages of 13 and 18, designed to promote an interest in flying in young persons.

DALTON EMPHASIZES that persons need not be pilots to volunteer for the Civil Air Patrol.

"There are many important services which must be performed that do not require a pilot's license," she explains.

These include communications officers who maintain a nationwide network of shortwave radio stations which provide a backup to state and local civil defense communications.

In addition, there are administrative officers, personnel officers, plans and programs officers, and on-ground rescue teams which are comprised of men and women who have emergency medical aid training.

"You need never set foot inside a plane to become a member of the Civil Air Patrol," emphasizes Dalton.

DALTON IS especially excited of the possibility of forming a Civil Air Patrol squadron in Wayne, the 15th in the state.

Organizational efforts to charter a Wayne squadron have been spearheaded by a number of area pilots.

"The Civil Air Patrol is so terribly important that I don't want another man or woman to miss out," said Dalton.

"I found out it wasn't too late for me, and I'm going to make sure that no other man or woman thinks it's too late for them.
 "Because it's not."

HELEN DALTON chats with Wayne Airport manager Orin Zach.

Street

WALNUT STREET paving with curb and gutter, between 12th and 14th streets, is scheduled for 1986.

Schulz explained that the completion of that project, and another slated for 1986, depends on a Wayne State College allocation from the Unicameral.

The other project involves 12th Street east from Walnut Street to Schriener Drive, also on the WSC campus.

"They're dirt streets and I feel sorry for the property owners there, but we cannot handle the project without the state funds, which have not been available," Schulz said.

SCHULZ SAID that the construction of a storm sewer to close the open ditch from the National Guard Armory to the state Department of Roads yard on Highway 35 east was targeted for 1987.

And, Grainland Road, from Sherman Street to Blaine Street, has been scheduled for paving, curb and gutter in 1988, he said.

Schulz encouraged the commissioners to suggest other street improvement projects that may need city attention.

NTCC president says community college has diverse mission

Vocational/technical education, Northeast Technical Community College-style, has come a long way.

Even so, "there's still not all that much status in vo-tech education," according to Dr. Robert Cox, NTCC president.

Cox, who was in Wayne Monday to deliver NTCC's vo-tech message to Kiwanis Club members, said that the college's mission has become so diverse "that it is difficult sometimes to get an identity that the state can respond to."

SPEAKING TO more than 70 Kiwanians, Cox explained what he called "the linkage" between Wayne State College and NTCC.

With visual-aid charts and maps, Cox traced the history of the community college, touching on early efforts to get the institution located in Wayne alongside the WSC campus.

Insisting that community colleges, such as NTCC, and state colleges, such as WSC, "can and do" get along, Cox explored "linkages" with Wayne State dating back to the location address of former WSC president Lyle Seymour, which traced the development of higher education in Nebraska.

Cox became president of NTCC in 1972.

"WE LIKE working with Wayne... what we call writing contracts with Wayne State," he told Kiwanians.

Cox said he has one of NTCC's strengths involves the central-campus concept. The Norfolk NTCC main campus occupies 205 acres, plus 506 leased acres referred to as the College Farm.

On the main campus are 11 permanent and two temporary buildings offering 248,596 square feet of space with no bonded indebtedness, according to statistics provided by Cox.

Cox described the NTCC mission as vocational/technical education, liberal arts for college transfer and adult and continuing education.

THE COLLEGE boasts 1,882.79 full-time equivalent (FTE) students with 1,866.86 eligible for state aid, according to Cox figures.

NTCC's headcount in credit programs is 1,686 with 963 men and 723 women. That headcount represents more than 1,100 full-time students and 554 part-time students, according to Cox.

And, 13,000 students are enrolled in the NTCC non-credit adult and continuing education program, Cox said.

NTCC, which serves a 20-county area (estimated population 169,164) in northeast Nebraska, also boasts 97 percent of its 1981 graduates employed or continuing their education, according to Cox.

The president's statistics indicated 89 percent of these graduates who are employed, are working in Nebraska and 75 percent of them are in the 20-county area served by NTCC.

ACCORDING TO Cox, of those graduates continuing their education, some 89 percent are doing so in Nebraska colleges.

The institution graduated 350 students in 1981.

State aid and property taxes account for just over 75 percent of NTCC budget, according to Cox. Tuition and fees represent just under 13 percent of the revenue.

The college spends just over 50 percent of the budget on instruction, according to Cox.

For some, dreams just never die.

As a young girl, Helen Dalton dreamed of becoming a member of the Civil Air Patrol.

Today — over 40 years later — Helen is a lieutenant in the Civil Air Patrol.

As a little girl, Helen dreamed of piloting an airplane.

Today — over 40 years later — Helen is taking flying lessons and expects to receive her pilot's license very soon.

"I'VE ALWAYS been interested in anything that has to do with aviation," smiles Helen.

In August, Helen became a member of the Civil Air Patrol in Omaha, after learning that "women over the age of 30" are very much needed in the volunteer organization.

Less than a month later, Helen was seated in a Cessna 150 student training plane at the Wayne Municipal Airport.

"The Civil Air Patrol was my mentor," she smiles. "I had always dreamed of learning to fly, but I just never pursued that dream until after joining the patrol."

HELEN, WHO has been taking flying lessons since last September from Wayne airport manager Orin Zach, plans to solo very soon.

"When the weather clears up, and when I'm ready — that's when I'll solo," she says. Before receiving her pilot's license she must also pass the Federal Aviation Administration Test.

HELEN SAYS she has received enormous support from her family in pursuing her aviation dreams at this time in her life.

Son Tom, a junior at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is a pilot and was one of the first to encourage his mother to learn to fly.

Helen and her husband Bob, owner of Dalton Land Co., reside on a farm northeast of Dixon and are the parents of three other children.

HELEN GREW up in Omaha and Kansas City, and met her husband while attending the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. They were married in 1951.

Dalton's resided in Colorado and Nebraska, and in 1962 formed Dalton Land Co., specializing in professional farm management and land sales in Nebraska and Iowa.

They have been residents of Dixon the past five years.

18-year-olds reminded to register for draft

Young men, born in 1964, are reminded of their need to comply with the draft registration law, by registering in 1982, said Col. Malcolm D. Hardin, Director of Selective Service for Nebraska. The law states that "all males must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday."

Also included are men who are physically handicapped, and aliens intending to become permanent residents of the U.S. Excluded from the law are females, and males on full-time active duty in the armed forces.

LATE REGISTRATION is being accepted, said Hardin. Those individuals are encouraged to register before Dec. 30.

In order to register, a man needs to stop by his nearest post office and fill out a simple registration card.

The cards are collected by the postmaster and forwarded to the Selective Service Computer Center periodically.

The maximum penalty for failure to register is a $10,000 fine, and/or five years in prison.

business opportunity

WOULD YOU LIKE TO OWN THE MOST COMPLETE STORE IN TOWN?

Get in touch with us, and become the owner of a Montgomery Ward Sales Agency with a line of over 100,000 items to sell.

We're looking for Sales Agents — ambitious husband/wife teams with an urge to break out on their own. And, we may have just what you're looking for in Wayne.

Our unique Sales Agency Store program offers an exciting opportunity to operate a business of your own with a small investment, and also gives you the opportunity to take advantage of the investment we've already made, as well as over a century of Catalog business experience. Once you become a Sales Agent, you can use Ward's name, catalogs and credit. Sell our branded merchandise and have access to the same systems, concepts and materials we use to operate our company-owned stores. Best of all, your investment will probably be considerably less than would be required for a regular retail business with similar sales volume.

If you are willing to accept responsibility, in return for a future in your own business, we'd like to talk about your personal qualifications, and give you more details about our plan. Write or phone today.
