Administrator's contract extended

ESU board seats three new members

Educational Service Unit One board members voted unanimously this month to extend the contract of administrator Harry Mills for one year.

Postponed for action in February was discussion of the administrator's salary and benefits.

Meeting in Laurel Thursday night, the board also seated three new members and elected officers for the coming year.

ELECTED TO THE BOARD in the November general election were Dr. Robert Jacobs, Superintendent at Verdigris, Marvin Borg, who farms near Concord, and Deryl Lawrence, director of logistics at Wayne State College.

They replace at-large members Ken Olds of Wayne, Bill Weise of Wausa and Bill Norvell of Laurel, whose terms expired.

Claire-Hansen-of-Coleridge was elected president of the board to replace Bill Weise.

Darrell Merry, a board member from Thurston, was elected vice president, and Randy Shaw of Wayne was elected secretary.

John Portwood of the Wakefield National Bank was named depository. Portwood is not a member of the board.

BEFORE SEATING new members, the board was presented with a grievance from several nurses of Educational Service Unit One.

The grievance appears to stem from unequal treatment of nurses within the service unit.

In a report of a formal grievance meeting held in November, the nurses condemn the board for allowing the present placement of one of the service unit's nurses on the salary schedule with previous non-school nursing experience.

According to the grievance report, Mrs. LuAnne Ellington received the allowance during 1980-81 and 1981-82 under a contractual agreement with the Wayne Schools.

During that time the costs of Mrs. Ellington's services were shared equally by the service unit and Wayne Schools.

The report states that in October 1982, when Mrs. Ellington became a full-time employee of the Educational Service Unit, she requested and was granted allowance of non-school nursing experience on the salary schedule.

All other nurses employed by Educational Service Unit One are allowed only school nursing experience.

SPEAKING ON behalf of the grievance committee, Kim Calvillo told board members Thursday night that the nurses' grievance is not against one nurse in particular.

"Our grievance is against the terms and conditions of which nurses are hired by Educational Service Unit One," said Calvillo.

"Non-school nursing experience is valuable," Calvillo added, "and the diversity of other experience is valuable."

"However, it is not fair for the board to grant non-school experience to one person and not to all."

Calvillo asked the board how they could single out one nurse's experience and position.

RESPONDING to the nurses present at Thursday night's meeting, Mills said Mrs. Ellington was hired as a nurse for the Wayne Schools three years ago.

At the time, according to Mills, the Educational Service Unit agreed to pay half of the cost of the salary placed on the ESU schedule with three years experience, which Mrs. Ellington would be allowed if she worked full-time with Wayne Schools.

"She received experience through Wayne," added Mills.

In a letter to the grievance committee last month, Mills said he had discussed the nurses' grievance with the service unit's attorney.

"The attorney did not believe we could or should cut Mrs. Ellington's salary because of her coming to work with the service unit full-time," Mills stated in the letter.

MILLS ALSO stated in his letter to the grievance committee that the board policy says nothing about previous experience.

"This will have to be corrected," Mills writes in the letter. "Our rule of thumb policy has been in the past to recognize only school experience within the previous five years."

"With our levy coming under the 7 percent lid, which supports our nursing service, it would be impossible to assume the additional burden of allowing the cost of experience for the previous five years on the salary schedule for the nurses."

Mills told the nurses Thursday night that Mrs. Ellington was put on the schedule three years ago when she was hired part time until this year.

"Until this year, Wayne Schools paid half the cost and the service unit the other," said Mills. "It was always a full-time position."

"You don't feel you're setting a precedent?" questioned Calvillo.

BOARD MEMBERS later met in executive session to discuss the nurses' grievance and to hear reports on negotiations.

Upon reconvening, board members voted unanimously on a motion by Bill Norvell to disallow the grievance by the nurses.

Norvell also stated in his motion that the board make a further study into the matter.

BOARD MEMBERS also discussed at length a request by Wakefield-based ESU supervisor Duane Tappe that he be allowed one hour of regular ESU time per week to perform the duties of Dixon County Superintendent.

Tappe was elected to the office in November following a write-in campaign.

Tappe was not present at Thursday night's meeting and was represented by Darrell Gubbels, an attorney from Laurel.

In a letter prepared to Mills, Tappe states that the office would require very little of his time.

"The majority of the paper work will be

Mileage publicity causes staff outrage

Employees of Educational Service Unit One upset over recent publicity regarding the unit's employee mileage tab appeared before the board of directors Thursday night to voice their concern.

"I didn't know anything about this until I read in The Wayne Herald that 'several' ESU board members questioned the amount of mileage paid to employees," said staff member Carol Clark of Wakefield.

Clark, who said she also represented ESU employees Kay Calite of Wayne and Georgia McQuistan of Pender, told the board they were present at the meeting to answer whatever questions the board has.

"We have a lot of trouble with the statements that appeared in the newspaper," said Clark, "and we feel they reflect on the honesty and integrity of the staffers."

"I THINK WHEN the mileage bill gets that high we are all concerned," said board member Dave Hay of Belden.

"I think the concern is the need to look at the delivery system," added board member Randy Shaw of Wayne.

The board's speculations as they appeared in the newspaper offended us and made us the butt of jokes in the community and schools we serve," responded Clark.

"People in the community read this stuff and see us. We're the ones who suffer from these statements," she added.

"I hate to drive. I'm not looking to drive," said Clark.

"I'M GETTING THE impression that you are challenging our right to ask how this money is spent," board member Bill Norvell of Laurel told Clark.

"We (the board) are not responsible for what the newspaper prints," Norvell added.

"The board asks questions because this is a very high expense," said Hay.

"But I want to know that my board backs me up," responded Clark.

"I think the concern of the board is that we have to take a hard look at how to get the people to where they're going," said board chairman Bill Weise, adding that the concern was no reflection on the integrity and honesty of the staff.

CLARK POINTED out to the board that she often misses lunch so that she has time to drive to and from the schools she serves.

"I don't want a pat on the back," said Clark. "But I don't want a kick in the pants either."

"I think it is important for you (the board) to know how the community sees us," said McQuistan.

McQuistan told the board that their comments in the newspaper eroded the credibility and effectiveness of the staff.

"I would like to have the public see the good things we do in the schools," said Clark.

BOARD MEMBER Claire Hansen of Coleridge told Clark he too would like the newspaper to look at the positive aspects of the Educational Service Unit.

"Perhaps the newspaper should run a series of articles on the accomplishments of the service unit," said Hansen. "Perhaps we should ask them (the newspaper) to ride with the staff for a day to see firsthand the amount of miles they drive and the road conditions they must put up with."

"I had bitter feelings when I read the comments in The Wayne Herald," said administrator Harry Mills.

Mills added that although he did not respond to the comments in the newspaper, someone else from the service unit did and he thought she responded very well.

"I WAS APPARENTLY quoted most often in The Wayne Herald," said Hay.

"Generally speaking," added Hay, "the quotes were as I stated. It also said I would submit a report, and I will do so."

"I said without question there was something wrong and I still feel that way."

"We're not making money," emphasized Clark.

"It would still be nice to see some favorable comments in the paper," said board member Berneal Gustafson of Wakefield.

MILLS POINTED out to the board Thursday night that although the mileage tab appears high, it only represents about 6 1/2 percent of the ESU budget.

The December mileage bill submitted at Thursday night's meeting totaled $6,246.76. That figure represented $5,795.39 in actual mileage, $90.13 for telephone, $34.13 for postage, and various expenses amounting to $327.11.

Janssen takes over sheriff's role

Four-year term begins for former Wayne County deputy and his new staff

One of the youngest sheriffs in the state took over his duties Thursday afternoon when LeRoy Janssen was sworn in as Wayne County sheriff.

Janssen, 28, won the sheriff's race over Bill Watson in November's general election. His four-year term of office began officially Thursday afternoon.

The new sheriff replaces Scotty Thompson, 62, who retired after serving 17 years with the sheriff's office. Most of that term was served as chief deputy. Thompson stepped in to fill the sheriff's post in October of 1981 when Butch Weible resigned. Thompson also worked many years for the Wayne Police Department.

JANSSEN is a Randolph native and graduate of Randolph High School. He earned his Associates Degree in law enforcement and criminal justice from Northeast Technical Community College of Norfolk.

LeRoy worked approximately one year as a University of Nebraska-Omaha campus security officer and then moved to Wayne where he spent a year on the police force. He has been with the Wayne County Sheriff's office since July of 1976. Janssen spent five years as deputy and a little more than a year as chief deputy under Thompson.

The new sheriff said he has been interested in law enforcement since his high school guidance counselor convinced him to go to college. After receiving his two-year degree, LeRoy enrolled at a law enforcement training center in Grand Island.

"If (law enforcement) has treated me real well. It's a real interesting field and I recommend young persons to get into it if they're interested. The opportunities are really limitless, depending on where you want to go," Janssen said.

THE RANDOLPH native said he tried various types of law enforcement work and said the Wayne County Sheriff's office suits him best.

LeRoy was the first deputy appointed in Wayne County through a law enforcement program which was designed by the federal government to help small communities.

Among Janssen's many duties are keeping peace, preventing crime and protecting property of citizens in the county. He will serve as chief investigative officer, chief corrections officer, officer of the courts and acting coroner in Wayne County.

The sheriff said he plans for things at the sheriff's office to continue as normal. Someone will be on call 24 hours a day he said.

LeRoy and his deputies will alternate shifts and maintain jail surveillance all hours when prisoners are in the jail. A 24-hour phone service is available when no prisoners are being held.

In the Wayne telephone area, the 911 emergency number will ring at the sheriff's office in conjunction with the police department.

LEROY'S WIFE, Jane, will cook meals for the prisoners. The couple will be reimbursed for the cost of the meals.

Janssen's staff will consist of three certified deputies, Doug Muhs, Rick Reed, and Stan Herrick. Muhs will serve as chief deputy.

Muhs, 30, has been working in the Saunders County Sheriff's office. The Norfolk native has 10 years of law enforcement experience.

Reed, 25, was first appointed deputy under Thompson about a year and a half ago. The Wayne native served as dispatcher for the Wayne Police Department many years.

Herrick, 26, was chief deputy at Stanton County for three years. He is a graduate of Norfolk High School and served as a reserve on the Norfolk Police Department.

Janssen said he accepted applications for the deputies' positions until Dec. 1 and added that there were a lot of applicants. One deputy position opened up when Eric Glassmeyer resigned to enter the military service and another opened up when LeRoy stepped up to take over as sheriff. Reed continues in his position as deputy.

LEROY JANSSEN was sworn in Thursday and began serving his four-year term as Wayne County Sheriff.

Realtors say now is the time to buy

With declining interest rates and stable house prices, Wayne real estate dealers agree that now is a good time to buy a home.

"It is definitely a buyers' market," said Joe Lowe of Joe Lowe Realty. "If the interest rate continues to drop it will help the people who are still scared to buy."

"There is still a great surplus of houses and it's a good time to buy," Darrell Fuelberth of ERA Property Exchange said.

"It's a buyers' market. House prices are probably depressed and interest rates have gone down."

"People are getting more confidence. They have a little faith again," said Felix Dorcey of Century 21 State-National.

"There is a backlog of owners. I think it's a real buyers' market."

"People are back in the mood to buy. Interest rates have backed off a little and house prices haven't responded yet," Dale Stollenberg of Stollenberg Partners said.

"People recognize there are good buys now and they can take advantage before interest rates or prices go up."

NATION-WIDE, RESALES of existing single-family houses have risen 8.8 percent since October according to the National Association of Realtors.

Sales of newly built single-family homes rose 38 percent from July to October, the report said. Government officials and hous-

Petition filed

Weible seeks prison release

Charles Weible, a former Winside tavern owner convicted in June 1981 in Ninth District Court on Nebraska drug charges, has gone to federal court to try to win release from a five- to 13 year prison sentence.

According to an article last week in the Lincoln Journal, Weible, 29-year-old son of former Wayne County Sheriff Don "Butch" Weible, has filed a petition in U.S. District Court in Lincoln, seeking a writ of habeas corpus.

Weible was previously unsuccessful in a Nebraska Supreme Court appeal of his jury conviction on charges of possessing cocaine and possessing cocaine and marijuana with intent to deliver.

THE STATE'S high court rejected Weible's claim that a warrantless search of his home after his arrest in December 1980 violated his constitutional rights.

Weible said some drug-use paraphernalia found in that search shouldn't have been used as evidence at his trial.

However, the Supreme Court said the admission of those items into evidence was "harmless error," and that they "pale into insignificance" when weighed against other evidence that was seized properly at the time of his arrest at another residence.

IN HIS federal court petition, Weible again complains about the evidentiary use of items taken from his dwelling, and what he alleges was "misconduct" on the part of the prosecution.

Weible alleges that the prosecutor agreed to dismiss or reduce drug charges against a 25 year old Winside woman who also was a defendant in the case if she refused to testify in Weible's behalf.

Weible says his constitutional rights were abridged as a result.

country boy...

Howdy.
Got to chattin' with an agricultural-type person of the horsewoman variety — good friend Kathy Lutt — the other evening...
Well, that Wyoming transplant and this South Dakota transplant got to swappin' stories about being scared of the dark.
Now, everyone knows that country boys and country girls just ain't supposed to be scared of nothin', especially the dark...and, if you are, then it just ain't right to admit it.

BUT, WHEN your with friends of the agricultural-type, one thing leads to another...and pretty darn soon a country boy can't help but talk about it.
Seems like the more that ranch-raised cowgirl coughed up about her childhood confrontations with a number of mysterious Wyoming bogeymen, the more I remembered about my own childhood fears on a South Dakota farm.
Of course, neither of us could decide whether Nebraska country boys and country girls grew up the same way.
But, we had a hunch that the Nebraska bogeyman is alive and well, too.

THAT WYOMING wonderwoman remembered having an unusual girlhood fear that someone was lurking in the shadows around the outdoor biffy after dark.
She insisted that the trip to the biffy before bedtime didn't bother her a bit. But the trip back to the ranch house...now that was a different story.
Once she closed that biffy door behind her and headed back, she said she always knew she was in a footrace with the Wyoming bogeyman.
Always starting out calmly walking and convincing herself at every step that no one was there, she admitted breaking through the front door of the ranch house on a dead run, heart pounding in her throat, tongue extended and eyes big as cue balls.

"HE NEVER did get me," she laughed. (Now, she laughs...but then, it wasn't funny...it was stark terror.)
"I never did get over that," she admitted, acknowledging that she was glad that her husband, Delmar, an agricultural-type person of the rowcrop variety, provides her with an indoor biffy.
Anyone who knows that modern-day Calamity Jane, who runs quite a dog-and-pony show just southwest of Wayne, also knows there just isn't much she is afraid of before or after dark.
So, the inside story she told on herself sketched a whole new dimension to the kind of character she is...

THAT RUN for the ranch house, reminded me of the bogeyman that lived in our barn's hayloft back home.
He never got me either. But I always knew if I made one mistake, like turning my back at the wrong time or being a little too slow on the way down the loft ladder, I'd be a gonner.
Now, that South Dakota bogeyman lived up there for years without anyone I know every catchin' sight of him. But, that doesn't mean he wasn't there.
The hayloft light always seemed like a good protection plan, but the darn thing was burned out more often than not.
And, my father never let a burned out light stand in the way of haying the stock.
Even when the light worked, it was off until you got up there and had to be turned off again before you hit the ladder.
THE BUDDY system also helped crank up my courage to climb that stud-board ladder.
But, somehow — probably because I was the oldest — I always had to go up first and come down last.
That always left me a bit insecure...something I had to mask for the sake of easily frightened younger brothers.
Now, I told you that the old bogeyman never got me. Well, he got real close a couple of times.
Once, after flipping off the light switch, which was frightfully far from the hayloft ladder hole, I knew he was on my tail.
I could feel his hot breath on the back of my neck and I could hear the crunch of hay beneath his monster feet.

BELIEVE YOU me, I hit that hole and shot through the bottom side like a champagne bottle cork.
I remember bumping my head on the timbers of a feeding stall on the way down. My father said I came through the hayloft hole head first.
About all I remember, after the thump on the noggin, was looking up into the eyes of some thoroughly disgusted cows and the worried face of my father.
I don't remember what I told him when he asked me why I didn't bother to use the ladder. But, I'm sure I didn't say a thing about the bogeyman breathing down my back.
I probably made some excuse about slipping on the manure-stained ladder.

AFTER THAT I remember adopting a self-protection plan that meant flipping off the light switch and backing quickly to the hayloft hole with the pitchfork still in my hand.
No fool was I...but, it's hard to fight off a bogeyman with a pitchfork and remember where the hayloft hole is at the same time.
So, you guessed it, I managed — more than once — to come shooting down the hayloft ladder backwards.
At least that way I usually landed in the manger feet first.

heart pounding, tongue extended and eyes big a cue balls.
That less-than-heroic Superman-style landing still didn't impress the cows much.
And, it always made enough noise to get my father to look up from the cow he was milking and shake his head questioningly.
IT GOT SO he wouldn't even ask anymore.
And, I, feeling some boyhood obligation to explain it all somehow, soon learned that my sheepish grin and quick shoulder shrug was all that was required...as long as I got back to work and hadn't broken the pitchfork.
That hayloft hobgoblin wasn't the only bogeyman on our family farm, though. Not by a long shot.
At different stages of my country boy development, I remember being sure one lived in the dirt-floor, cave-like cellar beneath our farmhouse, and at least another one lurked inside the empty bins of the granary.
I was always quite relieved that my father made most of the necessary trips to the cellar.

BUT, SOMEHOW I never got out of choretime trips to the granary.
There was more uncertainty to whereabouts of the grain bin bogeyman than the hayloft hobgoblin.
The old family farm granaries always had a number of bins — some full, some half full and some empty. Ours was no exception.
It always struck me funny (Now it's funny...but then it was nothing but stark terror) that the feed bin was at the back of that old lightbulbless granary.
That meant I had to walk past a couple of empty bins where you know who was lurking.

GOING IN wasn't bad. Let's face it, two empty 5-gallon metal buckets have protected more than one threatened country boy over the years.
An adrenal-powered bash in the head from a bucket would have given any bogeyman in his right mind something to think about for awhile.
Going out was bad. I'm still convinced it is easier to run flat out with a 5-gallon bucket of corn in each hand than it is to swing two 50-pound clubs with flexible handles.
More than once I shot clean past a bewildered, if not bemused, younger brother waiting at the granary door to get a lesson in courage and speed.
Heart pounding, tongue extended, eyes big as cue balls and mouth muttering "feet don't fail me now," I'd get half way to the hoghouse before my overalls would catch up with me.
AND, ON MY way out, the grain shifting in the bin I'd filled my buckets from worked like a whip on my back.

Like a drafthorse gone thoroughbred for the final stretch, I'd kick through the open granary door burning up the barnyard in a hell-bent-for-election bid to outrun that grain-bin bogeyman.
He never got me either. But, he got close a couple of times.
Once, I felt him tug at the rim of the bucket and I knew he was right behind me that time.
Another time, he tripped over a bin board that fell to the floor with a clatter that gave me all the warning I needed to smoke the road.

CERTAINLY, dropping the buckets and bailing out was no solution.
That only meant that you'd have to return to the granary to scoop up the scattered corn.
No fool am I. I still can't comprehend the circumstances that would have forced me to drop those buckets.
I did learn to run flat out for the granary door while looking over my shoulder. And, I recall running over a couple of brothers that way.
And, I also recall one mean tangle with what I thought was a bogeyman coming from the other way.

BUT, ONCE the dust had settled and the screams of terror had faded, I remember being relieved to discover that I had bashed the bejabbers out of a granary door blown shut by the wind.

A feller had to learn to dust himself off with dignity and answer his watching brother's unasked questions with a sheepish grin and a shrug of the shoulders.
A stern comment about getting back to work always seemed to put an end to any obligatory, if not embarrassing, explanation.
Country boys and country girls just don't talk about being scared.
One day, though, as I was truckin' — buckets of corn in hand — toward the hoghouse, a younger brother — buckets of water in hand and coming from behind — burned bootleather on his way by.
WHEN I got to the hoghouse, he was unusually busy watering the old sows.
As I huffed and puffed over to him, he looked up to see the understandingly silent, but nonetheless questioning, look on my face.
He grinned sheepishly and shrugged his shoulders.
"Let's get to work," he said.
And, I did, but not before casting a cautious glance over my shoulder toward the pumphouse.
Catch you next week...

Freezing economy

The early January thaw doesn't seem to be warming up the local economy.
Nor does it appear to be boosting the attitudes of most Wayne merchants, despite the fact that the holiday shopping season turned out to be better than expected.
Rather than using that as a silver-lined springboard into the new year, many local merchants apparently prefer to see it as a budget-busting backslide.
One of the significant signals includes the recent decision to discontinue any form of organized, citywide Thursday night shopping promotion.
Certainly, that signal says a number of things.
First, it is a warning sign to shoppers that many Wayne merchants may be growing indifferent to the increasing demands of the retail marketplace.
Second, it is a warning sign to the promotion-minded merchants that they may soon be standing alone in their determined effort to attract area shoppers.
And third, it is a warning sign to out-of-town merchants that many Wayne retailers may no longer be willing to work at the business of hometown shopping.
The fact that Bonus Bucks was discontinued is not alarming. Alarming, however, is that the idea of a citywide promotion to keep and build shop-at-home customer traffic was discarded in the context of the decision.
That subtle, but significant, fact flies in the face of the shop-at-home faith built into the Wayne area market over the years.
And, common sense would seem to indicate that if that hometown shopping faith fades too far, rebuilding it will much more costly than maintaining it.
It has been said that bad things happen when good men do nothing. Let's see to it that the bad things don't happen.
Let's see to it that the good men get together and do something.

Drive safely

Winter in the midwest is a treacherous time for drivers. Streets, highways and country roads are often slippery or show covered. Anyone can make a split second mistake which can cause an accident or even lead to the loss of a life.
Drivers are often in a rush to get some place. Remember that being a few minutes late is much better than not arriving at all. It doesn't take much effort to scrape the ice off a windshield before driving. Take a little extra time and make a little extra effort to make this winter a safe and happy one for everyone.

To the editor:
I must, let you know how much I appreciated your compassionate article about Paul Jorde. His mother did the right thing, though I know it must have been difficult at times.
We need to remember, as another mother of a child with cancer told me, "it's not the length of life that counts, but the quality."
I'd like to refer you, Carol Jorde, and your readers to the book, "A Parling Gift," by Frances Sharkey, M.D. It's the very moving story of a pediatrician and a boy much like Paul.
Thank you, Carol, for sharing Paul's story with all of us. You are in our thoughts and prayers.

There are a lot of miles in ESU 1, and not all of them are on highway. In weather like this month's, 22 cents does not begin to compensate for snow tires, wear and tear, and 4-wheel drive vehicles.
I have wondered, too, why ESU 1 seems to be fair game for the Herald, no matter who the editor happens to be.
The board seems to have some members who feel that the administrator and/or other employees are trying to "pull the wool over their eyes." I found Mr. Mills and others involved in the administration of ESU 1 to be honest, dedicated, and as fair as possible.
I learned what it is like to work for a tax-supported organization. We were constantly scrutinized and open to criticism.
I have much more sympathy for teachers — it really is impossible to please everyone! I give credit to everyone involved in education today — it's tough! And, to quote a bumper sticker, "If you think education is expensive, try ignorance!"

Pat Melarhenry Hoskins

To the editor:
I just want you to know that I appreciated the letter from Educational Service Unit One's bookkeeper about the issue of mileage.
As a former employee of ESU 1, I know first-hand how fast the miles can go on.
I don't think anyone would try to argue that the service unit concept is completely efficient. But the law mandates that these services be supplied to each student, and the service units were established to provide them.
Most of the people who work for the service unit have the best interests of the students at heart, and I refuse to believe that mileage claims are padded.

Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

news and notes

extension agent-home economics

As Americans, we're all a pretty independent lot. We all cherish the right to privacy, freedom and autonomy. But we also belong to more organizations and groups than most other nations. When we join a group, those ideals we hold so dear often are forfeited for the benefit of all in the organization. Yet we still have our particular independent natures and these personalities may clash with others in the group. When this happens, the old team approach often fails. Progress comes to a screeching halt.

TO ADDRESS these problems in group leadership, the Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne County is sponsoring a leader training lesson called "Leadership Roles Group Members Play." The course is designed for Home Extension Club members, but is open to all interested persons in the community.

Other groups are asked to contact the extension office to insure that enough materials will be available. Participants in the leader training course will learn how all members of a group provide leadership. Understanding differences in leadership styles can help a group work more smoothly and be successful. The leader training course on group leadership will be offered Jan. 13 at 9:30 a.m. at Villa Wayne. For more information, contact the Cooperative Extension Service office at 375-3310.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS
 Christmas brought exciting activities to the elementary students of Laurel-Concord School. The children got to decorate their rooms and exchange gifts with classmates.
 On Dec. 22, each class had a party in the afternoon. Gifts were exchanged and the children played games. Fifth and sixth grades each year research two or three foreign countries' Christmas customs. Each student composed a booklet from the information they found. Mrs. Munter conducts the research and asks the children to make a poster saying Merry Christmas in a foreign language.

VICTORIAN CHRISTMAS PARTY
 Freshmen students of Laurel-Concord High celebrated Christmas in a different way this year. The students participated in a Victorian Christmas celebration.
 Students dressed in Victorian style clothes and gave reports on English Christmases and English Christmas customs. Some of Charles Dickens' writings were read by the students.
 Miss Hochstein, English teacher, organized the party. Her students have been studying Charles Dickens' writings. Miss Hochstein thought it would be educational for the students to learn more about English Christmas customs in Dickens' day.
 An old-fashioned Christmas dinner was served. The dinner consisted of roast turkey, potatoes, yams, fresh fruit, and wassail bowl.

 Miss Harons, the vocal music teacher, organized the concert. She expressed her thanks to the elementary teachers for their help with the students during rehearsals.
 When asked if Miss Harons enjoyed teaching the elementary students she replied, "Yes, kids are special and easy to work with."

Late lead lost

Bobcats escape catch

Winside basketball coach Mark Freburg must have felt like a fisherman who watched the big one get away Thursday night. His team was on its way to snagging Beemer but the Bobcats got off the hook and reeled in a 41-37 win over the Wildcats.

What appeared to have been the play of the game took shape with just more than two minutes to go. Trailing 30-32, the Wildcats worked the ball to leading scorer Jon Meierhenry and Meierhenry was fouled in the act of shooting.

The 6-3 senior made the first free throw but missed the second. Ronnie Prince, a 6-6 senior center, grabbed the rebound but missed the shot. Meierhenry rebounded Prince's shot and banked the ball in. Again he was fouled. He hit the free shot to complete the three-point play and give Winside a 34-32 lead.

AFTER BEEMER tied the game at 34-34. Meierhenry gave the Wildcats their final lead by hitting a turnaround jumper for a 36-34 edge.

The Bobcats tied the score and then took the lead at 38-36 with a stolen pass and easy layup. A free throw put Winside back within one point but another bad pass by the hosts led to another Beemer score and a 40-37 edge.

A missed one-and-one by Meierhenry with 1:10 to play forced Winside to foul. The Bobcats missed a one-and-one with 30 seconds left but got the rebound and were again fouled. One free throw gave Beemer a 41-37 lead and another bad pass by Winside ended its hopes.

"We were sluggish on offense. We kept missing such easy shots—that's the most frustrating part of the game. When we got the lead with the three-point lead I thought we would get them," Freburg said. "Beemer isn't bad but I don't think they played their best game either. Bad passes have been a problem all year. And we're just not quite as smooth without Scott Janke."

Janke, a 6-3 junior, broke his arm in three places more than a week before Thursday's game.

THE WINSIDE-BEEMER game was close all the way. The Bobcats led 14-10 after one quarter but Winside tied the score at 22-21 by the half.

The Wildcats nearly let the game get out of hand in the third period when they fell behind 22-28. A banks shot by Prince gave Winside its first basket of the quarter with 38 seconds remaining. Two free throws by Meierhenry in the final two seconds brought Winside back within two points.

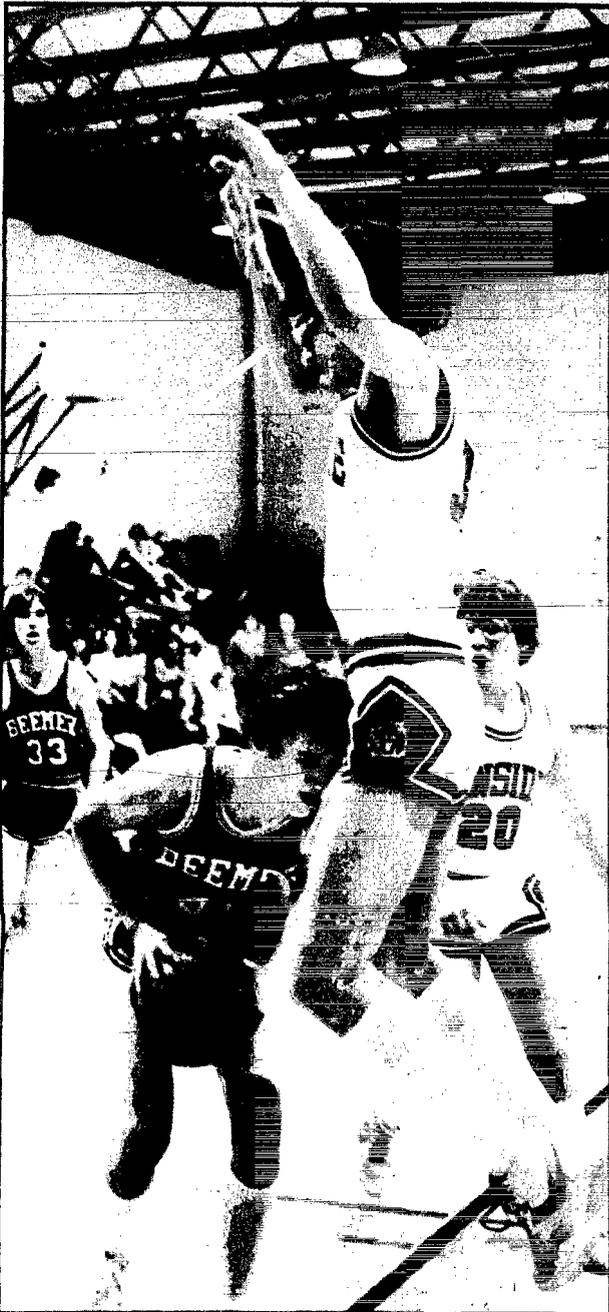

Meierhenry finished the game with 17 points, John Hawkins scored 10 and Prince scored eight. Prince and Meierhenry each netted nine rebounds and their team had 32.

Winside's junior varsity team picked up its first win of the year 22-19 over Beemer's JV. Jim Roberts and Kevin Falk each scored seven points to lead the Wildcats. Joel Carstens and Chris Jorgensen had four points apiece.

Winside will host Snyder's boys and girls in a double-header Tuesday and on Friday the Winside boys are scheduled to play at Wakefield.

Free throw margin again costs Wayne State men

For the second consecutive year, free throws were the deciding factor in the Bellevue-Wayne State basketball game played at Bellevue. Bellevue picked up its first win of the year 74-69 Friday night.

The Wildcats shot five more free throws than they did in last year's game at Bellevue—five total. Wayne outscored the Bruins 66-58 from the field but the hosts hit 16 of 21 free throws while WSC made three of five.

Ron Taylor and John Reed, who have been playing well in recent games, were both held scoreless against Bellevue. Only the offensive showing of Wayne's guards kept the Cats in the game.

RENE TAYLOR had his best game of the year, hitting 16 points to lead Wayne's effort. Brad Edwards scored 10 points and Russ Uhing had six points, all in the first half.

Those three guards were helped out by Grady Hansen who scored 15 points, Calvin Sprew with 10 and Lonell Greene with eight. Bellevue was led by Ted Bruner and Gary Blum with 22 and 21 points respectively.

The Wildcats trailed throughout the first half and were behind 47-58 with 10 minutes to play in the game. Wayne State outscored Bellevue 10-0 in the next two minutes to pull within one point.

WSC grabbed its first lead at 61-60 with about 6 1/2 minutes to go. The lead was passed back and forth with the Cats holding their final edge at 69-68 with 2:09 in the game. Bellevue made four free throws in the last minute to win the game.

LEADING REBOUNDERS for Wayne State were Greene with nine and Hansen with eight. WSC hit 39 percent of its shots compared to 55 percent for the winners. The loss dropped Wayne to 1-1 in the Nebraska Athletic Conference and 9-7 overall. Bellevue is now 1-7 and 1-0 in the conference.

Winside loses in land of giants

For the Winside Wildcats, playing basketball against Beemer's girls was like facing the land of giants. Height prevailed as Beemer racked up a 41-21 win over Winside Friday night.

The Bobcats' tallest girls measured 6-0, 6-0, 5-11, 5-9 and 5-8. Winside's tallest player is 5-9.

The hosts grabbed a seven-point lead in the first quarter and held on through the second period to take a 24-17 lead into the locker.

THE SECOND half was disastrous for the Wildcats who managed only two points in each of the final two quarters and fell another 13 points behind.

For the game, Winside coach Don Leighton was disappointed with some aspects but pleased with other areas. He was especially happy with Trisha Topp who led the team in scoring with 10 points and also grabbed six rebounds. She hit four of five shots from the field.

Three other statistics pleased Leighton. Karlene Benschoot made five of Winside's 11 steals and 5-6 Shelli Topp pulled down 10 rebounds against taller foes. The Wildcats had 35 total rebounds against Beemer.

Other leading rebounders were Pam Peter with six, Leah Jensen with five and Missy Jensen with five.

"WE WERE stale after the 16-day layoff. But, the girls showed good hustle and teamwork. We played real well in the first half," Leighton said. "I guess we left the game in the locker at half-time. Bad passes killed us. Beemer was more aggressive than any foe we've faced."

The Wildcats were plagued by 35 turnovers and also took only 18 shots. The locals hit four of eight shots in the first half but only one of 10 in the second half.

The winners were led by Denise Hassenkamp and Shelly Melthey with 10 points each.

The junior varsity game was won 33-28 by Beemer. Tammy Brudigan, Missy Jensen and Julie Brockman each scored six points. Kay Meierhenry and Rhonda Severson had four points apiece.

Next on the agenda for the Wildcats (1-4) is a game tonight (Monday) at Wakefield. Winside's boys and girls will host Snyder tomorrow (Tuesday) in a double-header.

Wakefield girls take third place

The Wakefield Trojans didn't get their game going until the second half but repeated a previous season victory by fopping Homer 39-19 Friday. The win gave Wakefield third place in its own Post Holiday Tournament.

The Trojans opened the basketball season with a 17-point win over Homer a month ago. This time, Wakefield held a slim lead at the half but rolled in the second half to pull away.

The winners applied a press in the second half to create steals and force turnovers. "We played a lot better than we did Thursday (against Emerson Hubbard). We were more aggressive," Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder said.

ON OFFENSE the Trojans had a pretty balanced attack. Brenda Jones topped the list with 15 points and Kelly Greve scored 10. Michele Meyer added six points. Jones had eight rebounds and six steals. Greve made seven rebounds and Renee Wenstrand grabbed six. The Trojans had 35 total rebounds and turned the ball over 15 times. The leader in steals was Kristal Clay with three. "We rebounded a lot better. We were a lot more aggressive with the boards—we have to be," said Schroeder.

Wakefield (3-5) is scheduled to host Winside tonight (Monday) and play at Panca next Monday.

Emerson dumps Trojans

According to the final score, the Wakefield girls came a long way since their first meeting with Emerson Hubbard. Nonetheless, the Pirates ruled again in a 48-39 decision Thursday in the first round of the Wakefield Post Season Tournament.

In the second game of the season, the Pirates dealt Wakefield a 35-point loss. Trojan coach Mary Schroeder wasn't happy with her team's performance and said the girls weren't aggressive enough.

The play of Michele Meyer was one of the highlights of the Trojan effort. She scored a career high 13 points and had four rebounds. Brenda Jones hit a dozen.

SCHROEDER SAID Emerson led by 21 points entering the final period. The Trojans cut the margin with most of the points coming against Emerson's second team.

The winners were led by Tonja Braveak with 11 points and Mary Walsh with 10.

Schroeder said Emerson is the best team Wakefield has faced this season. "Braveak had a real life game," she added.

The Pirates dominated the boards and had a final rebounding margin of 37 to 16. For Wakefield, Kristal Clay and Meyer each had four rebounds to lead that department. The Trojans turned the ball over 25 times.

Thursday's loss dropped the hosts into the consolation round of their tournament. Wakefield is scheduled to host Winside tonight (Monday).

Holiday break takes effect on college

The Wayne State College women's basketball team felt the effects of an extended holiday break as the Lady Wildcats fell to the Red Raiders of Northwestern College 75-71 in overtime on Wednesday, in Orange City, Iowa.

The squad was scheduled to defend its five-game home win streak on Saturday, when second-ranked (NAIA) Midland Lutheran College invaded Rice Auditorium for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

WSC opens the Central States Intercollegiate Conference schedule on Tuesday, when Missouri Western visits for a 6 p.m. tilt.

Turnovers and inconsistent shooting marred the contests against Northwestern. The loss dropped the Lady Cats' record to 8-5 overall.

WAYNE JUMPED to an early 6-0 lead before poor ball handling gave the Red Raiders the opportunity to come back and take the lead midway through the first half of play. The lead changed hands twice before intermissions, with the Lady Wildcats giving up a 27-20 lead to trail 35-31 at the half.

In the second period, Wayne fell behind by as many as 10 points before converting several Janet Lee steals into baskets and outscoring Northwestern 10-0 to tie the score at 49-49 at halfway point. The lead bounced back and forth throughout the final moments and a trade of baskets in the final minute left the score tied at 63-63 at the end of regulation play.

The score remained close during the first three minutes of the overtime period but a bucket and pair of free throws by Northwestern put the game out of reach at 75-71 as time ran out.

Three players posted double figure scoring performances for Wayne State, with freshman Deb Nygren leading the way with a career high 24 points. Janet Lee totaled 18 points on the day, followed by Robbie Lehr with 17 points. Lee also sparked Wayne's defensive attack with nine steals. Lehr combined with Nygren to provide rebounding power for the Lady Cats, with Lehr collecting 18 boards and Nygren plying in a total of 14.

Northwestern balanced its scoring as four players ended in double digits. Patty Olson led with 17 points, followed by Sherri Robinson with 15 points, Jill Anderson with 13 points and Deb Kulper with 12 points.

Madison success against Blue Devils continues

A fine one-man performance was overshadowed Friday night as Madison continued its "jinx" over the Wayne Blue Devils with an 81-57 win in Madison.

Coach Bill Sharpe said Madison has a better winning percentage against Wayne than any other team on the Blue Devils' schedule.

The brilliant individual performance was turned in by 6-4 freshman Don Larsen. Larsen burned Madison's defense for 24 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. No other Wayne player scored in double figures.

MADISON HAD its own star. Kevin Hofbart pumped in 26 points to lead the Dragons. Kurt McCallum scored 16. John Wolfram scored 12 and Tom Worth had 11. "Don Larsen really played well. That was probably his best game," Sharpe said.

The Blue Devils struggled at the free throw line and also dropped below their average shooting percentage from the field. The locals hit only 9 of 25 free throw attempts for 36 percent and made 37 percent from the floor. Madison hit 55 percent of its field goal attempts.

That was about as low a mark as we've ever had for a varsity team. We got beat bad on free throws and our shooting percentage wasn't real good," said Sharpe. "The kids hustled well and made a good comeback in the second half. We pressed after the first quarter and it worked. Then, we got a poor start again in the third period."

WAYNE FELL 12 points behind at the end of the first quarter. Behind their pressure defense, the Devils pulled back within six points at one time in the second period. Wayne missed 12 free throws in that quarter and still stayed within nine points at the half.

Rebounding and turnover statistics were in Wayne's favor. The Blue Devils had 41 rebounds compared to 34 for Madison and held a 23-12 advantage on the offensive board. In addition to Larsen's 11 rebounds, Steve Overin had 8 and Shaun Niemann had 6. Wayne had 21 turnovers to Madison's 26.

Sharpe said his team has lacked consistency and leadership throughout the season. Wayne will take a 4-5 record into action Friday when it hosts undefeated Stanton.

In Friday's junior varsity contest, Jim Poehlman hit two free throws in the final seconds to ice a 44-43 win for Wayne. Poehlman's free throws gave the Devils a three-point lead and Madison scored a final bucket.

The 6-1 Blue Devils were led by Lelf Olson with 11 points, Carl Urwiler with 10, Kevin Maly with 10, Poehlman with 7, Pete Warno with 4 and Brad Moore with 2. Wayne had a 13-point lead at one time.

Free throws lead Allen

Machelle Pell hit two free throws with 13 seconds in the game to give the Allen girls a 40-39 win over Laurel Thursday in the opening round of the Ponca Tournament.

Allen advanced into Saturday's championship game against Ponca while Laurel dropped into Friday's consolation game against Newcastle.

The Bears held a lead with 15 seconds remaining. Pell was fouled and hit two shots to give the Eagles a slim 40-39 edge. Laurel had a chance to win the game but missed three shots, which coach Dwight Iverson said rolled around the rim and fell out.

THE EAGLES will host Bancroft Tuesday in a girls and boys double-header and then travel to Winnebago on Thursday. Laurel will play at Harrington CC Tuesday and host Wynol Thursday.

ALLEN COACH Gary Troth was pleased that his team avenged an earlier loss and reached the championship game. Michelle Harder led the winners with 14 points. Tami Jewell, Jeanne Warner and Deanna Hansen each added six points.

Iverson was also pleased with his team's effort. With Renee Gadeken on a trip and Wendy Robson out with mono-nucleosis, the Bears were short two starters.

Laurel found its sixth leading scorer of the season in Jean Lute. Lute scored 14 points to lead the Bears. Five other players have held scoring honors for Laurel in previous games this season.

Lute and Renee Vanderhelden stepped in to replace Gadeken and Robson. Iverson said he was "very pleased with their play" and added that it was encouraging. Vanderhelden led the rebounding with 10. Patsy Thompson had four steals and Kim Sherry made three assists. No other Allen statistics were available.

Defense leads Laurel

A devastating defense held 4-3 Newcastle to only 10 points in four quarters as the Laurel girls bombed the Raiders 45-10 in the consolation game of the Ponca Tournament Friday night.

The Bears held Newcastle scoreless in the first quarter and to only two points in the second. Laurel had 21 points in the first half. Kim Sherry led all scorers with 20 points—twice the points scored by Newcastle's entire team. She hit 9 of 14 shots, mostly from the outside.

"WE'RE CLICKING together as a team. We didn't press, we just shot the ball in the hole," Laurel coach Dwight Iverson said. "We completely shut them down."

Jean Lute pulled down 12 rebounds and Renee Vanderhelden made five steals. Iverson said he was pleased with those players. The Bears were 21 for 57 from the field.

Next action for Laurel is scheduled tonight (Monday) at Harrington CC and Thursday on the court against Wynol.

Ponca inside game beats Bears

A tough inside game got the best of the Laurel Bears in the second half as host Ponca defeated Laurel's boys 55-42 in the first round of the Ponca Tournament Friday night.

The Bears played Ponca an even ball game for two quarters but fell behind with an 18-9 Ponca scoring advantage in the third quarter. Keith Curry hurt the Bears with 29 points, most coming from the inside.

"We played them tough in the first half but Curry penetrated and got wide open. He played the boards tough and got second and third shots. Most of his points came on layups and shots inside the lane," Laurel coach Mark Hrabik said.

Hrabik SAID Ponca used a box-and-one defense to shut down the Bears' leading scorer, Kelly Robson. Robson hit four quick points midway through the first half and Ponca then applied the defense. He didn't get open again and that was the end of his offense.

Mike Jonas, Jerry Kastrop and Paul Lofquist hit from the outside but couldn't bring Ponca out of the box-and-one. Jonas finished with 14 points and Kastrop scored 11 but that wasn't enough to offset Curry's scoring.

The Bears had 20 rebounds compared to 23 for Ponca. Kastrop, Robson and Mark Penlerick each grabbed six rebounds. Jonas and Lofquist dished out three assists apiece.

The loss dropped Laurel into Saturday's consolation game against Allen. The Bears are scheduled to host Homer Tuesday and Wynol Friday.

Allen upset bid slips away

The first time Allen and Newcastle met in boys basketball action, Newcastle dominated the game. The second meeting between the two teams was quite a change.

Allen dominated the second quarter and held a lead until the final six minutes of the game when Newcastle staged a rally to pick up a 51-40 win over the Bears in the first round of the Ponca Tournament.

Eagle coach David Uldrich credited a successful pressure defense for the turnaround. "We pressed them the whole game and it was really effective," Uldrich said. "I was so happy that first half. We came into the game 0-6 and we decided to take it and run and see what we could do."

NEWCASTLE HELD a four-point lead after one quarter of action but Allen completely controlled the second period, outscoring the Raiders 17-2 for a half-time lead of 26-15. The winners called four timeouts in the first half trying to kill Allen's momentum. By the end of the third quarter, Newcastle was back within five points at 32-27.

"We outplayed them for three quarters I thought. Then, they stuck it down our throats in the fourth quarter," said Uldrich said. "The guys gave a real good effort and the fans went crazy. If we keep playing like that we'll win."

Allen received balanced scoring from four starters. Troy Harder and Jay Jones topped the charts with nine points each while Derwin Roberts and Kevin Chase each hit eight.

Roberts grabbed 12 rebounds and made five steals. Jones had eight rebounds and two steals. Shawn Mahler made four rebounds and four steals and Harder had four rebounds. The Eagles totaled 36 rebounds but committed 22 turnovers.

THE FOURTH quarter rally for Newcastle was paced by a strong inside game. The Raiders penetrated Allen's zone for a 24-8 scoring advantage. "The bad fourth quarter hurt. But, we're going to win," Uldrich said.

"At half-time they adjusted and we made some turnovers in the second half," he added.

Newcastle was led by Bill Dougherty with 14 points, Mitchell Conrad with 12 and Kelly Knell with 10. Conrad scored 10 in the fourth quarter.

The Bears were scheduled to host Bancroft Tuesday.
