Administrative decision expected soon

City may handle the USDA cheese handout

Wayne County residents soon may get a chance to have their cheese and eat it, too. That's the upshot of reports from City Hall, where the U.S. Department of Agriculture's cheese giveaway program is being considered for sponsorship.

Rejected only two months ago by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the welfare program may get a go-ahead from city administrator Phil Kloster.

"I CAN TELL you, I'm leaning that way right now...unless something changes in the next day or so," Kloster told The Wayne Herald Tuesday.

Kloster, who is expected to discuss the program Wednesday with a representative of the Nebraska State Welfare Department, said that if the city decides to handle the cheese, distribution will be put in the hands of the Wayne Senior Citizens organization.

According to Kloster, Georgia Janssen, Senior Citizen Center director, would be placed in charge of the cheese giveaway program with volunteer help from the organization.

"I'M EXPLORING the possibility of the senior citizens being involved in the distribution of the cheese," Kloster said, noting that he planned to discuss the program with the Iowa State Welfare Department before making a final decision.

have some help from the local ministerial association" when distribution time comes.

"I expect to make a decision by Friday," the city administrator added.

Kloster said he did not know what the schedule for distribution would be, or how soon the cheese could be ordered.

"THAT IS going to have to be coordinated with the state after we find out what's perceived to be our basic need in the county," Kloster explained.

to seek state approval to reopen the taxpayer-subsidized giveaway to rid the courthouse's basement vault of the cheese.

This year, when the December order time arrived, the county commissioners unanimously rejected the program.

COMMISSIONERS not only noted last year's low participation, but also cited cases where the program was being abused by cheese recipients in area counties, including Wayne.

The commissioners also opposed the USDA's promotion of the program as "free cheese" for the needy, noting that the processed dairy product was and is being bought at taxpayer expense.

In addition, the commissioners challenged the income formula and guidelines being used to determine eligibility of recipients.

Commissioners said that since no enforcement procedures exist, the program was prone to income statement fraud.

THE FORMULA used in the federal cheese handout is based on an income level per size of household, but the program has no means of verifying the eligibility statements, the commissioners insist.

Household size and maximum gross income for eligibility to receive the cheese, which comes in five-pound bricks, is: 1 — $7,970; 2 — 10,530; 3 — $13,080; 4 — $15,630; 5 — $18,190; 6 — $20,740;

7 — $23,290; 8 — $25,840; 9 — $28,390; and 10 — $30,940.

For households with more than 10 members, the formula adds $250 per member to reach the eligibility mark.

Commissioners contend that the income guideline means little more than that — an unenforceable guideline that needy are too proud to take advantage of and the would-be cheaters welcome.

ACCORDING TO the commissioners, anyone who can hide income, or isn't afraid to lie about it qualifies while the taxpayer foots the bill.

'83 cooking school set for Wayne auditorium

Free cookbooks, coupons, brochures, samples and numerous door prizes await Northeast Nebraskans at the 1983 Homemakers School.

Co-sponsored by The Wayne Herald and area merchants, the event will be held Monday evening, Feb. 7 in the Wayne city auditorium. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

Admission is free and everyone is invited.

CONDUCTING THE 2½ hour cooking and appliance demonstration program will be Crisli Cooper, who will use both microwave oven and conventional ranges.

Cooper, who will demonstrate different recipes from breads and main dishes to desserts, is a home economist for Homemakers Schools, Inc., Madison, Wis.

Cooper drives 40 to 50,000 miles annually presenting programs in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, North and South Dakota and Nebraska.

She is a graduate of the University of Wyoming with a bachelor of science degree in home economics education.

ALL OF THE recipes prepared during the show will be included in the "Come Share More of the Good Life at Homemakers School 1983" cookbook, which will be presented free of charge to all those attending the program.

All food prepared on stage will be awarded as door prizes, along with numerous other prizes from local merchants, including 20 bags of groceries.

MEN AND women are invited to attend the program, which will be one of more than 300 conducted across the 48 states this year by Homemakers School professionals.

The event is the largest homemaker-oriented program in North America.

Council supports proposal to open cable-TV systems

Don't touch that dial. Wayne's City Council is supporting legislation that could change the programming.

During Tuesday night's City Council meeting, the city went on record in support of a bill before the Unicameral that would, if passed and signed by the governor, allow municipalities and public power districts to own and operate cable television systems.

THE ENABLING legislation, which has backing from the Nebraska League of Municipalities and several public power districts in the state, could open a new era of cable television programming selection throughout the state, according to proponents.

The legislation would give power districts and municipalities the right to own and operate (cable television) franchises," explained Phil Kloster, city administrator.

After brief debate, Council passed the resolution 6-2, with Councilmen Gary Vopalensky and Larry Johnson opposed.

Kloster, in explaining the proposed legislation, said that it had come about for a number of reasons, among them the "generally poor service" provided by private cable television franchises throughout the state.

THE COMPANIES have been generally "unresponsive to the communities they serve, particularly in western Nebraska," Kloster told the Council.

"They just don't have the service the state of the art dictates today," he continued.

"Though there have been some strides locally to improve the service, I don't think Wayne Cablevision has been any different," Kloster added.

"They have fallen behind in the programming they provide," the city administrator said, noting that the industry has been swamped by a rapid change in technology that makes a number of things — from burglar alarm systems to meter reading — cost-effective for smaller towns.

"WHAT THIS resolution is for is to show support toward passing the legislation in the Unicameral," Kloster told the Council.

"It does not mean we would enter into a (municipal) system, but the way the law reads now, we cannot operate a cable system," he continued.

Kloster said that since his tenure as city administrator, he's been aware of some customer displeasure with Wayne's cable television programming.

"We would at least like that option (of operating a franchise), whether we ever exercised it or not," Kloster explained.

Area farmer on task force for Ag 2001

A Wayne County farmer has been appointed to the Livestock Task Force of the Agriculture 2001 Committee.

Dick Sorenson, who operates an SPP Duroc swine farm just northwest of Wayne, was appointed to the task force during the committee's organizational meeting in Lincoln earlier this month.

Sorenson joins 150 farmers, ranchers and agribusiness leaders — including 20 University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty members — on the Ag 2001 Committee.

The Livestock Task Force, like the committee's five other task forces, is expected to meet several times this year.

Ag 2001 was created by the UNL regents to study Nebraska's agricultural needs into the next century.

The committee is chaired by Jim Roberts, Lincoln and Lexington area commodity broker and cattle feeder.

'The Hard Times' special

Sure, times are hard... But, you don't have to talk to too many oldtimers to find out that times have been harder.

And, even some some not-so-oldtimers, remember when times were harder. Of course, most youngsters and oldsters also will tell you that when those times got that tough, the tough got going.

THEY SURVIVED the droughts, the low farm prices, family and personal crises, depressions, recessions, insect plagues, dust bowls, bankruptcies, business reversals, foreclosures and a host of other family-farm and small-town disasters.

With a faith in God, a willingness to work and the instinct for survival, they pulled through it all with a next-year spirit that is unique to rural America.

The stories about those hard times and the spirit that brought the survivors through them contain valuable lessons about farm folks and small-town residents in northeast Nebraska.

SO, IN KEEPING with that undaunted spirit found right here at home, The Wayne Herald would like to share your hardship stories with our readers.

That's why we need your help. On Thursday, Feb. 24, The Wayne Herald will publish a special section called "The Hard Times."

It will be your special section, containing stories and photographs that recall the hard times you or your family have experienced over the years in northeastern Nebraska.

We are asking your help, but we will help, too, by collecting the stories and photographs, and publishing them at no charge in a special edition for "our" readers.

THERE'S NOT MUCH time to start digging into the family photo album, reviewing your family's hard-times history.

Paper drive scheduled

A Boy Scout paper drive has been scheduled for Saturday in Wayne. Wayne residents are asked to place their papers at curbside by 8:30 a.m. Saturday. If the paper is not picked up by the Boy Scouts, residents are asked to call Leroy Simpson at 375-3560.

Physician recruitment meeting

A presentation on efforts to recruit physicians into rural Nebraska communities will be held in Norfolk on Wednesday, Feb. 2 at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the Community Mental Health Center, 218 Braasch Ave.

The session is sponsored by the Northern Area Health Advisory Council. Speakers will be Dr. Robert Bass, chairman of the Family Practice Department, and John Aronson, Director of Special Programs, from the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Anyone interested in physician recruitment is welcome to attend the session. For further information contact the State Health Planning and Development Agency, 402-471-2337.

NRD directors meeting

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Wayne City Auditorium.

Among items on the Thursday meeting agenda include election of officers and presentation of NRD conservation awards.

Awards will be presented to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Polt of Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reppert of West Point and Neal H. Burmester of Pender.

Warmer and wetter

The winter of 1982-83 is shaping up to be warmer and wetter than normal.

A report from the Center for Agricultural Meteorology and Climatology, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, shows northeast Nebraska show a warmer and wetter than normal December for area residents.

The center's weather reporting stations at Wakefield and Norfolk indicate that precipitation ranged from 1.62 inches to 2.30 inches above normal for the month.

And, temperatures for December ranged from 3.4 to 4.1 degrees above normal.

Bloomfield reported the highest snowfall for the northeast reporting region with 24 inches in December.

Application made

Eastern Nebraska Telephone Co. has applied to the Nebraska Public Service Commission for authority to sell telephone terminal equipment and restructure rates and charges for local exchange service.

Protests to the application must be filed with the PSC on or before Jan. 31.

The company services customers in this area that include Belden, Carroll, Pender and parts of Cedar County.

Elderly property tax relief

State Treasurer Kay Orr recently certified to the Department of Administrative Services that funds are available for distribution of $4,994,428 to counties for homestead exemptions for senior citizens.

Wayne County is slated to receive $30,384.

The state levies no property taxes but has enacted a homestead exemption law which exempts a portion of residential property taxes for qualified claimants as certified by the local county assessor to the state. Included are persons 65 or older who meet certain income guidelines, elderly veterans, and certain disabled individuals.

The legislature provided for the state homestead payments as a means of reimbursing counties for taxes not collected on homes owned by low income senior citizens and others.

Conducting siren tests

The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of civil defense sirens at 1 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28.

Sirens will be allowed to run only one minute with a three minute pause between each siren test.

Residents living near a siren who fail to hear the test are asked to contact the Police Department so the siren can be checked for malfunction.

police report

Icy streets continue to keep Wayne police busy investigating fender-bender motor vehicle accidents.

On Tuesday, police investigated two fender-benders — one in the 1300 block of Main Street north and one in the 400 block of Seventh Street west.

According to police, a 1979 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Willits of Wayne, was making a left turn onto 1300 Main Street when it was struck by a 1989 Ford, driven by Kathy Bourek of Wakefield.

AND, on Seventh Street west, police investigated an accident involving a 1974 Oldsmobile, driven by Dale Kellogg of Wayne, and a 1976 Ford, driven by William Woehler of Wayne.

According to police, the Kellogg car was backing from a parking stall when it struck the Woehler car, which was westbound in the 400 block of Seventh Street west.

On Friday, police investigated a hit-and-run accident in the 100 block of First Street west, where an unknown vehicle struck a parked 1978 Chrysler, owned by Kevin Gade of Wayne.

POLICE ALSO investigated a two-vehicle accident last Wednesday near the intersection of Second Street west and Main Street.

According to police, a 1974 GMC pickup, driven by Judy Kruger of Wayne, was backing out of a parking stall when it struck the right side of a 1978 Dodge, driven by Lorraine Woodward of Wayne.

On Sunday, police investigated the theft of a globe from a light fixture above the front door at a home on Sherman Street north.

And, on Saturday, police tracked down a report on a possible stolen vehicle. The vehicle was found at The Windmill Restaurant.

Cheese whiz

Cheese whiz. Perhaps that best describes the city's forthcoming decision on handling the cheese handout. No matter what the decision, it appears to be whizzing by without public debate by elected city officials. And, that's more discouraging than any outcome could possibly be. That the elected Wayne County Board of Commissioners, in rejecting the U.S. Department of Agriculture's latest giveaway gimmick, had the courtesy to discuss the matter and vote in a public meeting is testimony the way the government should do the public's business. However, that kind of public process does not appear to be on the agenda for the city.

There is little doubt that the city administrator is doing some research on the question before making a decision. However, not one word about the program has been uttered by elected city officials, or taxpayers, during any public City Council meeting since the matter reached City Hall.

Difficult as the issue seems to be, perhaps arriving at the cheese handout decision will be far easier than getting duly elected city officials to engage in public debate.

The silence is a sad commentary on our tough times, and an equally sad commentary on the elected leadership entrusted to steer us through them. In that silence, the forces of special-interest politics, and pressure politics are free to operate.

Those silent forces operate while the taxpayer holds on faithfully...only to find out, too late, that the decision has been made and nothing can be done about it. Maybe we are starting to see why government is a problem, not a solution. Maybe we are starting to see why we get the kind of government we deserve.

Education high

In his inaugural address, Gov. Bob Kerrey cited the critical value of education in the future of Nebraska. We applaud this commitment to education.

In recent years the quality of higher education in the state has eroded. Continually declining budgets have resulted in overcrowded classrooms, reductions of class availability, reductions in academic program services, faculty and staff positions being left unfilled, surcharges added to tuition midyear on many campuses, to name a few.

In these times of economic uncertainty the government and the citizens must work together to meet the challenges we all face. Indeed, the recognition of our investment in education, is an affirmation of our commitment to the future of Nebraska.

Today, students throughout the state are preparing themselves for that future. Utilizing the system of higher education in Nebraska to reach their maximum potential as individuals, and as citizens. Through the continued support for this system of higher education the people of Nebraska can be assured that the pride and commitment, the skill and expertise, that has built this state will continue to carry it forward.

It is clear that to ask that higher education survive these troubled times is not enough. We, as Nebraskan's must strive to enhance this vital resource to meet the challenges of the new and changing world in which we live.

USDA program warns Europe to rethink export subsidies

Last year Congress authorized a $1.5 billion blended credit program to be used by the Department of Agriculture to promote farm exports through loan and subsidies.

The recently announced U.S. subsidy of the sale of 1 million metric tons of wheat flour to Egypt illustrates the potential impact of this program.

Egypt has been a major market for subsidized flour exports from the Common Market, especially France. This action is designed to demonstrate American opposition to European farm-export subsidies. We've authorized a shot-across-the-bow to the French and the Soviet Union by that we're serious about their export subsidies.

PRIVATE EXPORTERS recently reported to the Department of Agriculture the sale of 425,000 metric tons of hard red winter wheat for delivery to the Soviet Union during the 1982-1983 marketing year. This is the seventh year of the long term grain supply agreement, which commits the USSR to buy at least 6 million tons of wheat and corn each year, with an option of 2 million additional tons.

The Soviets must consult the United States if they want more than 8 million tons. Sales for delivery during the seventh agreement year, which began Oct. 1, 1982, ends Sept. 30, 1983, now total 5,949,500 tons. Purchases under the sixth agreement year totaled 13,869,000 tons of wheat and 7,772,400 tons of corn.

BECAUSE OF the provision in the new federal tax law, beginning July 1, every financial institution will automatically withhold 10 percent of interest and dividend earnings as federal taxes. A nationwide movement to have that portion of the law repealed has resulted in thousands of letters and post cards coming to my office. Many of these writers are not aware that I share their objections to this withholding process. For that reason, I joined more than 150 of my colleagues in requesting a separate vote on this proposal when it originally came before the House in 1982. When the House leadership failed to grant that request, I supported a parliamentary effort to force a separate vote on this proposal. That effort failed and the amendment act containing the withholding provision subsequently became law. I believe that the House leadership will be a nightmare for all of us.

by Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association
State lawmakers have introduced 600 bills for consideration this session, and three of them which deal with revenue matters seem to be getting the most attention. Two would impose a sales tax on service, and another would restore livestock, farm machinery and business inventories to local property tax rolls. Faced with a potential state budget deficit in fiscal year 1983-84 which is pegged by various sources between $100 million and $140 million, senators have introduced two legislative bills this session to extend state and local sales taxes to service fees. Currently, the 3.5 percent state sales tax plus local option sales taxes, are levied on the sale of tangible goods.

LB 12, INTRODUCED by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh would apply the sales tax to all services except those with specific exemptions, such as medical fees.

The DeCamp bill also includes political sweeteners such as the repeal of the sales tax on food and residential utilities, which is expected to appeal to a block of urban lawmakers who have attempted to repeal those taxes in recent years. Seven lawmakers, including Sens. Howard Peterson of Grand Island and Carl Carsten of Avoca and have introduced LB 47, a measure which would extend the sales tax to services with no exemptions. The bill to restore livestock, farm equipment and business inventories to local property tax rolls, LB 597, reopens for the 1983 session one of the most bitter and longest-running taxation battles of recent years.

THE BILL WOULD repeal the 1977 law, (LB 518) that phased in exemptions for the three classes of farm and business property. A coalition of urban and rural interest groups applied heavy lobbying pressure that year to exempt the property.

The 1977 Legislature established a $70 million bid fund to distribute state sales and income tax revenues to local governments in order to reimburse them for the loss in taxes from the exemptions. The distribution formula has been filed up in court almost constantly ever since. It was challenged at first by urban interests who claimed that the formula favored rural areas. Urban senators in 1982 finally enacted a formula that they claimed created equity between urban and rural areas. Rural senators, however, objected to the formula because local governments in their areas lost a portion of state aid. Two rural counties — York and Antelope — have challenged the 1982 formula, and the matter is before the Nebraska Supreme Court.

LB 597 WOULD eliminate the state aid fund and, beginning later this year, reimpose the personal property tax on the actual value of livestock, business inventories and farm equipment. Sponsors of the bill, which includes an unlikely coalition of nine urban and rural lawmakers, acknowledge that it is unlikely to pass in its original form. If nothing else, the bill will bring back the attention and influence of the 1977 farm-business coalition to the Legislature to help deal with state revenue problems. Many suggest the bills are linked. Service industries in the state have lined up in nearly unanimous opposition to the service tax bills. SOME AROUND the Legislature suggest that the cosponsors of the LB 597 have no intention of passing the bill. Instead, it is intended to serve as a lever with the business community to keep its opposition to the sales tax on services at a minimum. Whether that is truly the case is likely to become apparent with time.

Unicameral not quiet behind the bill scenes

On the surface the Legislature appeared rather calm last week, but behind the scenes, senators were scurrying to get all their bills introduced. By Jan. 17, 399 bills had been introduced along with 14 resolutions calling for constitutional amendments. The only excitement of the week came when a motion was made to suspend the rules to allow one more day for the introduction of bills.

SUPPORTERS OF the motion argued that the bill drafters were overworked and needed more time to draft bills already requested by legislators. However, most senators saw it as an attempt to gain more time for the introduction of additional bills. During a spirited debate, so much opposition was raised against the motion that eventually it was withdrawn. Among the many bills introduced are two which would establish a sales tax on services. LB 12 would levy the tax on all services with limited exceptions. For example, medical or para-medical services and hospital and nursing home care would not be subject to the tax. Neither would services by an employee for an employer for wages or other compensation.

LB 47 WOULD extend the tax to all profession, business or technical services except those rendered by an employee to an employer for wages. Both bills are an attempt to expand the tax base. By making more things subject to the sales tax, more money can be raised by the state without having to increase the tax rate. I am against a sales tax on services because it amounts to another tax on the individual taxpayer. Car and machinery repairs, attorneys' fees, plumber and electrician costs, etc., are all expensive enough now without adding a sales tax to the bill. One segment of society, the farmer, would be especially hard hit by the sales tax on services. He already pays a disproportionately large amount of sales tax because of the amount of machinery and other items he must buy.

THE SALES tax on a new combine or tractor may be more than the average urban taxpayer pays in six months or a year. Furthermore, the growing practice of contracting with others to apply fertilizers and pesticides, put up alfalfa, and harvest crops, will come under the definition of services subject to the new tax.

With the size of many of today's farming operations, a farmer isn't able to do all these things himself. He has to hire others to do it for him. I just don't feel it is fair to impose this additional tax burden on the farmer under these circumstances. Approval of LB 12 or LB 47 will just provide the state with another means to collect taxes which, although it appears as a means to hold down tax rates for the present, will be used in the future to exact more and more tax revenue for government spending.

PUBLIC HEARINGS will begin Jan. 24 and continue for the entire week as the committees struggle to get a good start on reviewing the bills assigned to them. With so many bills being introduced this session, the hearing process promises to be lengthy. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have questions about any pending legislation or just wish to make a comment.

97th Congress was confusing Up and down the tax ladder

When Congress lowers taxes one year and raises taxes the next year, the right to tax is more readily seen in a different light: The power to confuse. Taxpayers beware: The 97th Congress, which has eased into history, devoted more time to revising tax laws than any Congress in memory. Barely a year after enacting the largest tax cut in history, Congress passed a bill that many call the largest income tax increase in history. Dr. Richard W. Rahn, chief economist of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, notes in the forward of a new tax booklet published by the chamber.

BESIDES RAISING and lowering taxes by record-setting amounts, Congress also made countless changes in rules that will affect individual taxpayers. As might be expected, the changes will help some taxpayers and hurt others. Taxpayers will learn how they fared when they compute the final tax bill for 1982 and future years. Between now and April 15, when 1982 tax returns are due, both business executives and ordinary taxpayers face a learning process. To help its members cope with the changes, the Tax Policy Center of the chamber has published a 43-page booklet, "The 1982 Tax Law: What It Does to You and Your Business." Not surprisingly, it is a sequel to a booklet published after the 1981 tax law, entitled "The New Tax Law: What's In It for You and Your Business." The publications deal not only with corporate and business taxes but also with numerous changes affecting individual taxpayers. Why? Over 90 percent of the chamber's members employ fewer than 100 persons, and most owners of businesses of that size file returns and pay taxes as individuals, rather than as corporate entities. THE 1982 booklet, which deals with the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 and the Subchapter S Revision Act, which concerns some small businesses, also summarizes key changes of both the 1981 and 1982 laws. Some major revisions applicable to 1982 returns (effective Jan. 1, 1982, unless otherwise indicated): Individual income tax rates are lowered by 10 percent. Taxpayers saw the difference in tax withheld from their paychecks, starting last July 1. The top tax rate for investment income — such as dividends and interest — is lowered from 70 to 50 percent. The so-called marriage "penalty" tax is reduced for working couples. Five percent (up to $1,500) of the first $30,000 of income of the lesser-earning spouse is tax free. In 1983, this exclusion rises to 10 percent. Americans working abroad may earn $75,000 and a housing allowance tax free. The exclusion jumps by $5,000 a year until 1986. Taxpayers who do not itemize deductions may deduct charitable contributions up to $25. Credits for child and dependent care are increased. Amounts spent up to $2,400 for one child or dependent and $4,800 for two or more are eligible for credit, computed at 20 percent for those with adjusted gross income above $28,000 and 30 percent for those with $10,000 or less. The first $100 ($200 on a joint return) of income from dividends is tax free but all interest income — even amounts below $100 — is taxable.

Individuals covered by employer pension programs for the first time may set up their own IRAs — Individual Retirement Accounts. Up to $2,000 ($2,250 on a joint return) may be invested tax free in a future investment. Money invested through April 15, 1983, may be deducted for 1982 income. Self-employed taxpayers may put aside up to $2,000 in an IRA, in addition to their Keogh fund. Self-employed may double the amount — to a maximum of $15,000 a year — they can invest tax free in their Keogh or other retirement fund.

THE NEW YEAR also features important adjustments effective Jan. 1, 1983 (unless noted otherwise): Individual tax rates are reduced 10 percent effective July 1, 1983. Banks, savings and loans and other payers must start withholding 10 percent on tax on dividend and interest payments of over $150 a year, effective July 1, 1983. Pension, profit-sharing and annuity plan managers must withhold 10 percent tax on pension checks and annuities, unless recipients elect against it. Only medical expenses over 5 percent of adjusted gross income are eligible for deduction, compared with expenses of over 3 percent in the past. Casualty loss may be deducted only for amounts exceeding 10 percent of adjusted gross income. Telephone tax is raised from 1 to 3 percent. Cigarette tax is raised from 8 to 16 cents a pack. How did you fare? And don't forget, the gasoline tax is raised from 4 to 9 cents a gallon, starting April 1.

Burnout

Workshop promotes understanding, awareness of professional burnout

Virtually everyone encounters burnout in themselves, their family, their peers, their co-workers.

It affects all occupations — accountants, lawyers, secretaries, teachers, administrators, physicians, construction workers and others.

A professional burnout workshop will be held Wednesday, Feb. 9, from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. in the Nebraska Room of the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus.

SIGNS AND symptoms of burnout include exhaustion and fatigue, physically run down, frequent headaches, sleeplessness, insomnia, emotional changes, quickness to anger, time wasted and emotional distance from others.

The workshop is designed to facilitate understanding and awareness of professional burnout as well as corrective and preventative measures for self and others.

Conducting the program will be Jean Beyer and Dennis Joslin of Omaha.

BEYER IS A member of numerous professional organizations, including the Nebraska League of Nursing, Nebraska Personnel and Guidance Association, and the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

She has served as a consultant to various schools of nursing.

Joslin, who is active in the National League for Nursing, currently chairs the Omaha chapter. He is a member of the Board of Directors for the Nebraska League for Nursing and holds a membership in Sigma Theta Tau, the national honor society for nursing.

THE PROFESSIONAL burnout workshop is sponsored by Providence Medical Center in cooperation with the Wayne Ministerial Association and the Wayne Mental Health Association.

Cost of the workshop is $20, including break refreshments and handout materials.

Pre-registration is due by Feb. 5. Interested persons are asked to send their pre-registration to Providence Medical Center, Attention Burnout Workshop, 1200 Providence Rd., Wayne, Neb., 68787.

Checks should be made payable to Providence Medical Center.

101st birthday observed

A FORMER LONGTIME RESIDENT of the Winside community, Mafida Nelson, observed her 101st birthday last Thursday at the Wakefield Health Care Center, where she has resided the past three years. Mrs. Nelson was born Jan. 20, 1882 in Orsja, Sweden. Her children, who treated residents of the care center to birthday cake last Thursday, are Lloyd and Alice Surber of Ponca, Raymond and Marilyn Nelson and Robert and Eva Nelson, all of Wayne, Leonard and Peggy Nelson of Tucson, Ariz., and Gustave Nelson of Norfolk. There are 21 grandchildren, 55 great grandchildren, and six great great grandchildren.

Wayne State rehearses for O'Neill play

Castling has been completed and rehearsals begun for the Wayne State College theatre department's production of Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

The play is scheduled to open at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 20 at Ley Theatre in the Brandenburg Education Building on the Wayne State campus.

The play also will be staged on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 21 and 22, at 8 p.m. in Ley Theatre. General admission is $3 and group rates are available.

BASED ON O'Neill's own experiences and true-life family problems, "Long Day's Journey Into Night" deals with his father's and brother's alcohol attractions and his mother's addiction to the drug morphine.

Written in 1940, the play was not released until 1956 after O'Neill's death.

"LONG DAY'S Journey Into Night" was originally scheduled to run from Feb. 13-15 at Wayne State College.

Theatre-goers should note the change of date on their WSC Fine Arts schedules.

For further information regarding the production or ticket information, contact the WSC Theatre Department by calling (402) 375-2200, ext. 422, or by writing to Theatre Department, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

'Blithe Spirit' auditions set

Auditions for the Wayne Community Theatre's spring play, "Blithe Spirit," will be held this Sunday and Monday in Ley Theatre, located on the second floor of the Education Building on the Wayne State College campus. Auditions are scheduled from 7 to 5 p.m. on Sunday and from 7 to 10 p.m. on Monday.

PERSONS interested in participating in the production, either acting or working on the technical staff, are encouraged to attend one of the auditions.

"Blithe Spirit," written by Noel Coward, will be directed by Juli Burrey and will be staged March 26 and 27 in Ley Theatre. There are parts for two men and five women in the play, ranging in age from the early twenties to 65.

CREW HEADS for the play, were selected during the Jan. 20 meeting of Wayne Community Theatre.

A nominating committee was appointed to submit names for three board members to be elected at the general meeting in April.

Choices for this year's fall musical have been narrowed to "Hello Dolly" or "South Pacific."

Final selection of the fall musical will be made at the next board meeting, scheduled at 8 p.m. Feb. 24 at 720 Pearl St.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Wayne State College and is employed by the Omaha World-Herald.

PEO Chapter AZ honors founders

Wayne PEO Chapter AZ met with 27 members Jan. 18 for a Founders Day observance. Hostess was Jean Benihack. Margaret Lundstrom conducted the observance, during which a candle was lighted and a tribute read for each of the seven founders of PEO.

Others taking part in the ceremony were Marilyn Lohrborg, Sheryl Jordan, Debbie Bonds, Kathryn Mankske, Ruth Hawn, Jean Griess and Sheryl Lindau.

JANUARY is the month in which PEO chapters everywhere honor the memory of the young women students of Iowa Wesleyan University who founded the organization in 1869. Since then, the philanthropic and educational society has become widespread and has given thousands of women financial and moral support.

DURING the business meeting, members voted to set the time of future meetings at 1 p.m. and to serve refreshments at the close of the meeting. Bylaws of the local chapter will be amended in accordance with that decision. Also during the meeting, a survey for the coming year allowed each member to state her preference for acting as hostess or presenting a program.

NEXT MEETING of Chapter AZ will be at 1 p.m. Feb. 1 in the home of Virginia Seymour.

Jan Liska and Marilyn Lohrborg will assist the hostess; and Bonnie Lund will present a program on special children.

WSC's Wildcats take the long way home

Missouri Southern and Pittsburg State helped make the longest road trip of the year by the Wayne State Wildcats seem even longer as the Cats dropped two contests last weekend.

Southern downed the Wildcats 66-72 in Joplin on Friday, while Pittsburg took a 65-51 win on Saturday. The losses moved the WSC losing string to five in a 10-13 season, and forced the WSC conference mark to 1-5. Southern is now 14-3 and stands a good chance of moving back into the NATA national rankings, while Pittsburg improved to 5-12.

The Cats must hit the road for three more games. Briar Cliff will be seeking revenge in Sioux City on Wednesday, as WSC scored an 80-74 win over the Chargers last year in Wayne. On Friday, the Cats face powerful Washburn in Topeka. Saturday night finds WSC in Emporia to face the Emporia State Hornets. WSC returns home on Tuesday, Feb. 1 to host Chadron State.

MISSOURI SOUTHERN, the pre-season favorite to win the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC), pulled away from a 31-26 halftime lead to take a 86-72 win in Joplin Friday. Conference scoring leader Carl Tyler scored 21 of his game-high 29 points in the second half to fuel the Lions. WSC shot just 37 percent from the floor compared to 52 percent for MSSC.

- Tuesday — Kearney at Wayne State

Grady Hansen (senior, Omaha) still showing effects of a bout with the flu, had 14 points off the bench for WSC. Rene Taylor (junior, South Bend, Ind.) and Calvin Sprew (freshman, Omaha) had 10 points each.

WAYNE STATE scored just 21 second-half points as Pittsburg State notched a 65-51 CSIC win in Pittsburg, Kan. Saturday night. The scoring output was WSC's lowest this season except for the 49-point effort against NCAA Div. 1 University of Northern Iowa. Wayne State got just 29 points from its starting five, equal to what PSU's top two scorers combined for. The Gorillas held a convincing 41-28 rebounding edge as well.

Senior forward Grady Hansen came off the bench to score 11 for WSC, while freshman forward Calvin Sprew had 11 points and seven rebounds, Kevin Ludwig had 15 and Barry O'Brien 14 for PSU.

2-game tour trips Lady Cats

The Lady Wildcat basketball team at Wayne State College (WSC) was plagued by inconsistent efforts as they dropped a pair of Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) basketball decisions last weekend.

Missouri Southern claimed a 90-65 win in Joplin on Friday, while Pittsburg State won 65-51 Saturday night. Wayne State fell to 10-9 and 2-4 in the CSIC.

WSC is idle until Friday night's game with a fine Washburn club in Topeka, Kan. Saturday night WSC takes on Emporia State in Emporia, Kan. A home date with Chadron State is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 1.

MISSOURI SOUTHERN raced to a 50-28 halftime advantage and coasted to a 90-65 win over Wayne State in Joplin.

The Lady Lion offensive fireworks were simply too much for the outgunned Lady Wildcats. Of Wayne's five starters, one was held scoreless, another tallied two, and another just four.

Freshman guard Donetta Schultz (Grand Island) was a bright spot for WSC. Shultz pumped in 17 points for her career best. Another freshman guard, Sheri Campbell (Wymore), added 12 points off the bench. Janet Lee (Albion) tallied 10.

Freshman forward Deb Nygren (Mead) was held to eight points, but she grabbed 12 rebounds. Leading rebounder and second-leading scorer Robbie Lehr (Sioux City, Iowa) was held scoreless before fouling out in the first minute of the second half.

Linda Castillon led MSSC with 28 points.

FOR THE second night in a row a reserve led Wayne State scoring as Pittsburg State took a 65-51 win over the Lady Wildcats in Pittsburg, Kan.

The PSU Gussies moved to a 32-21 halftime advantage and maintained that cushion throughout the second half.

Junior center Robbie Lehr came off the bench to hit five of six shots to finish with 12 points and nine rebounds. No other Lady Cat managed double figures.

WSC scored just 16 field goals on the night, but 19 of 28 free throws aided the scoring effort. Janet Clasen had 18 points to pace PSU.

WSC trainer worked bill

A bill currently before the Nebraska State Legislature which would require the licensing of athletic trainers is the result of work done by a state-wide group of trainers, including Wayne State's Kurt Czupryn.

The bill, LB51, was introduced by Senator Sam Cullin of Hemingford on the first day of the 1983 legislative session and is aimed at safeguarding the legal rights of the public and the athletic trainers themselves, Czupryn said.

LB 51 WOULD require that anyone calling themselves an athletic trainer be licensed as one, thus setting minimum standards for the profession in the state.

If passed, the bill would require the licensing of athletic trainers within the state but would not require that institutions hire or retain licensed trainers, he noted.

According to Czupryn, the bill will simply provide trainers with legal protection in the event of a lawsuit. "It also will allow trainers to go out and do the specific job that they have been trained to do," said Czupryn.

He said the licensing bill would have little effect on the futures of the training staff and students at WSC. Instead of taking an accreditation exam at the end of their studies, the students will take a licensing exam, which will be quite similar to the accreditation exam already given by the Nebraska Athletic Trainers Association (NATA).

THE STATE licensing also would make it easier for those athletic trainers moving to other states, as it would be possible in some cases for them to simply pay a licensing fee and not retake the exam in order to meet each state's qualifications.

Concerning the high school level, Czupryn stated that the major effect will be felt in the advertising for trainers. Schools can advertise for a licensed trainer and be assured of hiring an individual who meets minimum standards.

A COMMITTEE was established last March at a meeting of the Nebraska State Athletic Trainers Association to research and draw up the bill.

Czupryn, along with seven other trainers from around the state, compared similar bills already ratified in other states and combined ideas to come up with one which best suited the needs of the state of Nebraska.

Czupryn also said that the bill is intended to fill a void in the legal aspect of athletic training, which is especially important due to the increasing number of individuals in the athletic training field and the frequency of lawsuits filed.

Area players plan basketball benefit

A group of area basketball players will challenge a group of University of Nebraska football players in a benefit basketball game at Wayne State College on Wednesday, Feb. 9.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Wayne State letterman's organization, the W Club.

Tipoff time is 7:30 p.m. in WSC's Rice Auditorium. Ticket prices are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

NEBRASKA Cornhuskers slated to play include Steve Damkroger, Brad Johnson, Kevin Sibel, Brent Evans, Mike Mandelko, Tom Gdowski, Randy Thiess, Jamie Williams, Allen Lyday, Pat Larsen, Kurt Glalher, Toby Williams, Mark Moravec and Bruce Mathison.

They will be available for an autograph and photo session with fans after the game.

The NU gridgers will face a group of area jocks and ex-jocks coached by Wayne State's Dr. Ralph Barclay. Wayne State staff members on the team include Rick Weaver, Ernie Kovar, Ray Wagner, Doug Hutchinson and Kurt Czupryn. Wayne State student John Clark, a 7-0 center, also will participate. Clark is ineligible for varsity action after transferring to WSC at the semester.

JOINING THAT squad will be several area high school coaches. A partial listing includes Steve Zediker of Coleridge, Scott Miller of Wakefield, Mark Freiburg of Winstate, Mark Hrabik of Laurel, Dwight Iverson of Laurel, Duane Blumenkamp of Wayne, Dale Jackson of Beemer, and Marly Hansen of Emerson-Hubbard.

Squad record at 3-2

WHS frosh whip Homer

Wayne High School's freshmen whipped Homer 53-33 Tuesday night with Shannon Dorcey spearheading the winning effort for 19 points.

The Blue Devil freshmen squad handled Homer to build a 27-14 halftime lead, before sending them home with the 53-33 loss.

Scott Baker, hot on Dorcey's heels, pumped in 17 points for the win in a team performance that saw the young squad substantially improved from its previous two outings.

With Dorcey and Baker combining for 36 points, the freshmen basketball players pushed the squad record to 3-2.

Other Blue Devil freshmen finding the hoop were Tom Perry with 5, Casey Nichols with 4, Dan Gross with 4 and Brent Pick with 4.

The squad faces West Point on the Blue Devil court at 5 p.m. Friday.

Allen girls late rally too much for Walthill

Allen girls staged a late fourth-quarter rally to edge Walthill 45-42 in Friday night home court basketball action.

Jeanne Warner popped 12 points to pace the Allen pack as Deanna Hansen and Machelie Pettit contributed scoring efforts of 8 points apiece.

Warner also lead her squad in the rebounding department with 8.

Teammate Tami Jewell had 5 steals and 6 assists for the evening.

Allen shot 33 percent at from the floor with 1 free throw in 5 attempts.

Allen's junior high squads take twin win at Wakefield

Allen junior high boys and girls traveled to Wakefield Saturday afternoon.

Allen seventh and eighth grade girls took a pair of victories from the Wakefield teams.

Allen won the seventh grade game 23-10 and the eighth grade game 23-7.

In the seventh grade contest, Dana Kluber scored eight points, Lana Erwin scored seven, Liz Hanson scored four and Tami Noe and Lisa Boyle scored two each.

Lana and Liz were the leading rebounders.

Allen's eighth grade team was led by Barb Hanson and Nikki Oleson with six points each, Tiffany Harder and Chris Hanson with four points each and Kris Blohm with three points. Tiffany led in rebounding.

Allen seventh grade boys lost 40 to 20, with Travis Schroeder scoring 10 points and Jim Kroll scoring seven points.

Allen's eighth grade boys team won 35 to 25, with Max Oswald scoring 15 points and Joey Kwankin scoring 12 points.

'83 hunting dates set

The opening dates for 1983 hunting seasons for non-migratory game species were set by the Game and Parks Commission at their meeting in Lincoln, January 7.

The Commissioners approved a staff recommendation that pheasant, quail and Hungarian partridge season be opened a week later than during 1981 and 1982 due to conflicts between the earlier opening dates and the recent late crop harvests. This year's opening date will be Nov. 5.

This later opener will allow landowners additional time to harvest their crops and will benefit the hunter by eliminating standing crops that provide dense cover for the birds and it is felt landowners will be more agreeable to allowing hunters on to their land once the crops have been removed.

1983 opening hunting season dates for non-migratory game species are:

Squirrel — Aug. 1.
Antelope (archery) — Aug. 20.
Cottontail rabbit — Sept. 1.
Deer (archery) — Sept. 15.
Grouse — Sept. 17.
Antelope (firearm) — Sept. 24.
Turkey (fall archery) — Oct. 1.
Turkey (fall shotgun) — Oct. 22 & 29.
Pheasant — Nov. 5.
Quail — Nov. 5.
Hungarian partridge — Nov. 5.
Deer (firearm) — Nov. 12.

Winside's girls cold in Osmond

Ice-cold shooting stalled Winside girls Tuesday night as Osmond girls warmed their hometown court with a 35-21 Clark Division basketball victory.

"The girls played well in the second half...but they missed a lot of shots," Coach Don Leighton said as the Wildcats face Thursday, one more test — Hartington — before Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament play begins.

Winside braved icy roads and a snowstorm Tuesday night for the on-the-road defeat. Thursday night, the Wildcats will be home against Hartington.

Cousins Trisha and Shell Topp led the Wildcats rebounding with 4 apiece Tuesday night, as the Winside girls fought into the second quarter before getting on the board.

Osmond burned the court with a hot 18-point first-quarter performance that built the bulk of the team's 35-21 win.

After scoring more than half their total points in the first stanza, the Osmond girls cooled to add another 17 points over the next three quarters.

In a game that saw 32 turnovers, Winside searched unsuccessfully for the hoop throughout the first quarter, but popped 5 points in the second quarter to test the range.

With 9 Winside team steals — 6 of them belonging to Karlene Benshoof, the Wildcats notched 6 points in the third quarter and bounced to a 10-point final quarter before the ordeal was done. Pam Peters and Benshoof paced the scoring effort with 8 and 7, respectively.

Osmond's hot opening round cooled to 9 points in the second stanza and the temperature dropped to a single point for the third quarter. A 7-point fourth quarter gave Osmond the 14-point victory margin.

Osmond's Buchholz paced the scoring, mustering 18 points — a contribution matching the entire team effort in the game's first quarter.

Winside was whipped 26-20 in the reserve game and Julie Brockman and Rhonda Severson popped 6 apiece for the Wildcat effort.

Osmond's Hoffmann tossed in 8 points for the winning effort.

Winside reserves started slow with a 2-point first quarter — 6 points off the Osmond pace.

With an 11-point second quarter, Osmond took control. Winside doubled its first-quarter effort for a 4-point second quarter — 7 behind Osmond's effort.

Winside's hottest quarter came after halftime with 8 points in the third stanza. The scoring effort dropped to 6 in the final quarter, as Osmond protected its 6-point victory margin.

Winside frosh girls drop 2 in area play

The Winside freshman girls lost a pair of basketball games Thursday and Monday as Hartington topped Winside 23-13 and Norfolk CC edged the Winside team 15-12.

In Monday's game between Winside and Hartington, high scorers for Winside were Julie Brockman with six points and Kay Meierhenry with five points.

Top scorers from Hartington were Teresa Promes, Patty Hochstein and Susan Bargstadt with six points each.

Leading rebounders for Winside were Teresa Brudigan with 10 and Jill Boldt with seven.

JULIE BROCKMAN was Winside's high scorer in last Thursday night's battle with Norfolk CC.

Leading the Norfolk CC team were Lisa Meistrick with six points and Barb Pierce with four points.

Laurel starter out with flu

Randolph rips Lady Bears

With starter Wendy Robson out of the game because of the flu, the Lady Bears were at a disadvantage going against the Randolph girls Monday night.

Randolph beat the Laurel girls 58-39. Action in the first half was fast-paced. The Cardettes went on a shooting streak in spite of the foul trouble they ran into.

THE LADY Bears fell behind even though they hit most of their free throws.

Randolph led at halftime 34-14. Scoring was even in the second half as the Lady Bears edged in scoring with 25 points, while Randolph made 24 points.

However, the edge wasn't enough as the Randolph girls won 58-39 at the final buzzer.

The Lady Bears shot 50 percent at the free-throw line and 35 percent from the floor.

FOR THE game, Randolph outshot Laurel in field goals 26-13. Laurel outscored Randolph at the free-throw lines 13-6.

The Laurel girls had balanced scoring as each player contributed to the final tally.

Laurel had two starters score in double figures. Patsy Thompson led her team with 11 points.

Jean Lute came in second with 10 points. Reriee Gadeken made 8 points. Kim Sherry had 7 points. And, Kelli Johnson had 3 points.

Lute also grabbed 10 rebounds for the Lady Bears.

TOP SCORER for the Randolph girls was Sindee Breeding with 23 points. Top rebounder was Mari Phlanz with 7.

Teresa Thies had 11 assists for the Cardettes.

Laurel Coach Dwight Iverson said his team missed starter Wendy Robson.

The Laurel girls also took a loss to Randolph in a low-scoring junior varsity game. Randolph won 25-13.

Cara Dahlquist was top scorer for Laurel with 3 points.

Hot shots sizzle in 1st quarter

Laurel five run over Randolph

Laurel developed a quick pace early in the game and the Bears took a 60-53 win over Randolph Tuesday night on Randolph's court.

Laurel, hot from the field, built up a 12 point lead at the end of the first quarter and managed to hold that lead by 10 points at halftime.

Randolph responded in the third quarter by outscoring Laurel 19 to 10 and pulling the game within one point.

At one point in the fourth quarter Laurel coach Mark Hrabik said Randolph went ahead by one point.

Laurel boys then scored two baskets in a row to take the lead and hold it for the final seven point margin.

Hrabik SAID Laurel's Mark Penlerick "probably played his best ballgame of the year" with 12 rebounds and 12 total points.

Kelly Robson, who Hrabik credited with playing a good game at both ends of the floor, was Laurel's leading scorer with 16 points. Robson also made six steals and four assists.

Laurel's Mike Jonas also had four assists. Top scorers for the Randolph team were Dave Korh with 19 points and Ed Tharnish with 12 points.

Laurel's win over Randolph Tuesday night puts their season record at 7 wins and six losses.

A first encounter of the natural kind

Middle School project offers hands-on history

A learning experience of a different nature is being "encountered" at Wayne Middle School.

After months of planning and preparation, middle school students this week began the first in a series of planned encounter centers with a display of Nebraska natural history.

At the encounter center, located in room 211 at the middle school, visitors are offered a unique opportunity to experience Nebraska's natural history by actually feeling and touching many items which are displayed throughout the room.

MIDDLE SCHOOL Principal Richard Metteer said the Nebraska natural history display, which is only one of many themes to be used in future encounter centers, opened Monday and will run for approximately two weeks.

Touring the center Monday evening were members of Wayne Community Council, an organization which forms a link between the school, parents and community.

Metteer said elementary and middle school students will visit the display with their teachers at scheduled times during the next two weeks.

FOR THE PUBLIC, Metteer said Wednesday, Feb. 2, has been set aside as a night for parents and other interested persons to visit the encounter center, where items displayed include animal skulls, buffalo hides, rocks, fossils, grasses and taxidermic birds and fish found in Nebraska.

The center will be open to the public Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., when students will be available to explain the various displays.

Metteer said individuals, clubs or organizations unable to visit the encounter center during that time can call him or West Elementary School Principal David Lutt to arrange for a special tour.

Area school students also are welcome to make an appointment to see the center, according to Metteer.

THE IDEA FOR the encounter center is patterned after Morrill Hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

After touring the encounter center on the Lincoln campus last fall, Metteer and Lutt felt a similar program could be successfully developed in the Wayne community.

Metteer said the idea of the encounter center is to provide students and visitors with a personal experience of the items displayed.

"Hopefully," said Metteer, "persons visiting the Nebraska natural history display will have a better appreciation of natural history and develop more interest in preserving it."

METTEER SAID the encounter center will deal with various themes throughout the year and will be set up on a rotating basis.

Following Nebraska natural history, will be an encounter center dealing with alcohol, drug and tobacco abuse.

Metteer said 18 students have signed up to develop that display, which is scheduled to begin in approximately six weeks. Working with the students will be middle school guidance counselor and art instructor Ted Blenderman and school nurse Lu Ellingson. Oceanography has been selected as the theme to follow alcohol, drug and tobacco abuse.

METTEER STRESSED that community residents and college students are needed to help develop the center by donating or lending items for its use.

The Nebraska natural history display includes 10 items from the taxidermic collection of Wayne resident Jerry Daniels.

Among the items displayed are an antelope head, prairie chicken, pheasant, quail, wood duck, mallard duck and largemouth bass.

Dr. Jewell Schock and Dr. R. L. Rasmussen from the science department at Wayne State College have donated a skull board, where visitors can try to match animals with the skulls displayed.

The Wayne State College collection also includes snakes preserved in formaldehyde and stuffed animals, among them a porcupine, spotted skunk and various birds.

IN ADDITION, the Nebraska natural history encounter center includes the butterfly and insect collection of Vini and Jassi Johar, a buffalo coat donated by Herbert H.

Hansen, and a deer skin provided by Dennis Spangler, all of Wayne.

There also is a display of dinosaur teeth found in a gravel pit near Pierce by Al Ahlman of Wayne, and a display of native soils and grasses provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

On display from Wakefield is a rattlesnake fossil belonging to Duane Tappe, along with slides of Nebraska natural history donated by Educational Service Unit One.

The center also includes two buffalo hides on loan from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

METTEER SAID middle school students also have been instrumental in developing the first encounter center.

Fossils found by students during a field trip last fall to Schram Park near Gretna are on display, along with a rock collection furnished by seventh grader Kurt Rump and his father Carl.

There also is a slide presentation of native Nebraska flowers, furnished by seventh grader Bethany Keidel and her family.

METTEER SAID there is still room in the Nebraska natural history display for other items residents would like to donate.

"Participation from the community is certainly needed and encouraged," said Metteer, adding that everyone needs to try and preserve the past.

"By preserving the past we may not destroy what we have today," Metteer stated.

"Hopefully," added Metteer, "persons visiting the Nebraska natural history encounter center will come away with a better appreciation of natural history and will be more concerned about preserving it."

METTEER'S THOUGHTS on the Nebraska natural history encounter center may best be summed up in the words he has posted on the school bulletin board.

"If we are to preserve the things that have made Nebraska the choice place to live that it is today, we must first be aware of what has made it great.

"We cannot see the pure air, but our lungs tell us it is there. The pure water quenches our thirst. The rich soil brings forth a bountiful harvest. The hills and valleys beautify our world. The wild animals enrich our lives with their songs and their graceful beauty.

"Each of us must work to preserve the quality of life that is our legacy here in Nebraska — or we may lose it forever."

WAYNE MIDDLE SCHOOL Principal Richard Metteer takes a closer look at a garter snake preserved in formaldehyde. The snake is part of the Nebraska natural history encounter center which opened this week at the middle school. Seventh grader Bethany Keidel, above, examines a display of native Nebraska grasses. The public is invited to visit the encounter center during open house Wednesday, Feb. 2 from 7 to 9 p.m.

And, the commissioners agree that the program is "ill-conceived" by a federal government that is "creating welfare and welfare fraud" through a handout philosophy at the expense of taxpayers.

Furthermore, the commissioners, who have jurisdiction over welfare programs within the county, insist their decision to block the handout program level has not been met by any significant challenge.

A group of Wayne area ministers recently approached the commissioners for more information regarding the program. The Wayne Herald has learned.

TO DATE, HOWEVER no clergy-organized effort to distribute the cheese has surfaced.

City Hall reports indicate that pressure on Kloster to handle the cheese handout program has come from senior citizens' organizational officers and the Senior Citizens Center director.

"I don't disagree with the commissioners," Kloster told The Wayne Herald. "They (the commissioners) did what they thought they should do."

Kloster said he felt the city had a "moral and ethical responsibility" to the poor people of Wayne County.

The commissioners, however, contend that no one in Wayne County is going to be denied assistance if they need it.

"I KNOW I'm being accused of saying there are no poor people in Wayne County," said Merlin Beiermann, chairman of the county board. "But, that's not what I've said."

Noting that the county board's vote to reject the program is being misconstrued and twisted, Beiermann contends the commissioners' point is being lost.

"Where is it going to stop?" he said. "I know the cheese is a two-bit deal and $10 isn't going to hurt anyone, but it's the principle of the thing...someone has to say 'no' somewhere and that's what we did."

THE COMMISSIONERS, all elected officials, debated the issue and rejected the program in a public meeting.

Despite the fact that Kloster, an appointed municipal employee, expects to make the decision by Friday, no mention of the program was made at Tuesday night's public meeting of the City Council.

"There's no need for City Council action on the matter," Kloster told The Wayne Herald. "It's an administrative decision and I may be leaning the other way by Friday."

One county commissioner, when questioned about the city's possible takeover of the cheese handout, suggested that "they (the city) take over the rest of the welfare programs, too."

cable franchises, city attorney Kem Swarts said "a lot of litigation is going on with cables...the exclusivity of cable franchises."

ACCORDING TO Swarts, some courts have been ruling that the exclusive franchises are illegal for anti-trust reasons. He cited a recent case in Colorado.

Swarts indicated that while the issue is being litigated, no one is sure of the eventual outcome.

Kloster said that South Sioux City, which is served by the same company that has cable television in Wayne, has hired a consultant to review the city's cable franchise.

Some concern was expressed about the city getting involved in private business, but Swarts indicated that Wayne, without an exclusive franchise, would be large enough to make the market inviting to a competitor.

HE EXPLAINED, however, that some of the smaller cities in Nebraska might not be as attractive to private franchise competition.

The proposed enabling legislation would give them leverage against an unsatisfactory or exclusive franchise, he explained.

Vopalsensky suggested that, rather than calling the question for a Council vote, the councilmen express their opinions to their state legislators.

Moments later, the motion was introduced, moved and seconded. It mustered six of eight votes to back the proposed enabling legislation.

IN OTHER action, the Council received a briefing from First Mid America of Omaha vice president, Phil Lorenzen regarding the financing of city water/sewer projects.

Lorenzen, who was accompanied by assistant John Kuehl, updated the Council on funding already in place for the city's planned sewage treatment plant.

The ongoing project, which started in 1981, is nearing a bid letting for contracts to complete the plant, according to Lorenzen.

The city's financial consultant told the Council that the city needs to "make some decisions in about a month" regarding the financing for the building of the treatment plant.

that the remaining financing plan could involve any one of at least four options.

He told the Council that, though he had narrowed his recommendations down to two out of the four, he was undecided between the final two — issuing bonds or seeking permanent financing.

Lorenzen, noting that money rates are trending downward, pledged to return by the end of February or the first part of March with a final recommendation.

LORENZEN ALSO reviewed the city's water and sewer rate structure, indicating that the municipality's early planning and adjustment had put Wayne in a solid cash flow position to cover the costs of funding the project.

He told the Council that the city's earnings, at this point, would show every $1 of project debt covered by $1.60 in earnings.

Noting that twice the coverage ($2 earnings for every $1 of debt) was best, but that the city was in line at the 1.6 figure.

"Things are tracking on target," the financial consultant said, noting that bid letting is expected toward the end of March.

LORENZEN ALSO noted that the city needed to monitor the water/sewer earning flow and that the financing ordinance needed care in preparation because "you're going to have to live with it a long time."

He said the ordinance must offer the city "flexibility for financing in future years."

A discussion ensued about increased water/sewer rates being dampened by conservation.

Lorenzen told the Council it was a universal problem and that the city had to walk a tightrope between service and rates.

"The wet weather has reduced water/sewer earnings, too," he noted, explaining that ample moisture meant water customers cut back on such things as lawn watering.

IN ADDITION, the Council approved the signing of a contract with the state Department of Roads for maintenance of state highways through the city.

Kloster noted that the rates had not increased over last year's contract. Council also approved contracting with I.C. Systems Inc., an international debt collection service, at an upfront cost of $250.

Then, tell us about your hard-times experiences in a story written by you, or someone in your family, for publication in your special edition. Don't forget to tell us how you made it through the hardships and hard times. Perhaps the wisdom you, or your family gained, will serve as an inspiration to all of us in these hard times.

Stories can be typed or handwritten. All photographs will be returned. Be sure to include your name, address and telephone number on anything submitted to The Wayne Herald for the hard-times special section.

The Wayne Herald had planned to award a $50 first prize, a $25 second prize and a $15 third prize.

But, since times are so hard, first prize will be $43.83, second prize will be $19.83, and third prize will be $11.83.

DEADLINE FOR stories and photographs, which will appear under your name, is 3 p.m. Monday, Feb. 21.

By the way, we'll increase The Wayne Herald press run for your hard-times special section.

That way, you can pick up a few extra copies to send to friends and relatives who will, no doubt, remember the hard times you survived together. We'll even drop the price of the extra copies from 25 cents to 15 cents, to help you through "The Hard Times."

Resident assistants named Faculty profile

Thirty-four Wayne State College students will serve as resident assistants during the Spring 1983 semester, according to Robert Lohrborg, director of student housing and placement service.

Resident assistants must be upperclassmen, and have a 2.2 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, Lohrborg said. In addition, they must have demonstrated strong leadership skills, emotional maturity, high personal standards, and strong interpersonal skills.

THE PRIMARY function of these students is to assist residents in obtaining a broader and more significant learning experience through the many facilities of Wayne State College, Lohrborg added.

Anderson Hall resident assistants include Connie Star-man, a senior from Norfolk, and Joyce Strizek, a senior from Valparaiso.

Assisting in Berry Hall will be junior Shelli Carter of Springfield; junior Larry Hinman of Sacramento, Calif.; junior Laura Kealy of Ralston; junior Dave Schock of Wayne; junior Jana Sneller of Carlisle, Iowa; senior Lee Stegemann of Fairbury; senior Pam Svendsen of Lyons; and senior Thomas Todd of Bridgeton, N.J.

Morey Hall resident assistants include senior Mark Bowder of Emerson, senior Dale Hensley of Shenandoah, Iowa, junior Nancy Kirschbaum of Grand Island, senior Sue Plumb of Kirkman, Iowa, senior Steven Swanson of Oakland, junior Tim Uber of Sioux City, and senior Connie Wendland of Columbus.

SENIOR Joanne Muff of Crete, junior Karen Nixon of Cherokee, Iowa, and senior Sharon Starman of Wisner are the resident assistants for Nelhardt Hall.

Pile Hall resident assistants are senior Gwen Conklin of Grand Island; senior Doug Svalos of Pierce, and junior Mark Walker of Moline, Iowa.

Terrace Hall resident assistants are junior Mark Bishop of Bellevue; junior Tomi Buschkamp of Harlan, Iowa; and senior Dave Hamm of Wayne.

Dr. Helen Russell thinks the main reason she has stayed at Wayne State College for so long is because she has the freedom to do what she wants.

"Nobody dictates what production to do, or how to handle my classes. Wayne is a great place to work, expand, and grow—there are a lot of opportunities to develop," she said.

DR. RUSSELL, professor of theatre, came to Wayne State 24 years ago, planning to stay for one year. During that time, she has also served as director of theatre and interim head of speech and theatre.

For six years prior to coming to Wayne State, she was an actress and director for a stock company that performed in Florida during the winters and New England in the summers.

She also taught drama for three years in Idaho Falls, Idaho, High School, and was an instructor of acting at the Goodman Memorial Theatre of Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Russell earned her bachelor and master of fine arts degree from the Goodman Theatre, and Ph.D. in theatre from the University of Denver in 1958. She has also written several plays that have been produced.

SEWING, puppetry, and crossword puzzles occupy her time when she's out of the theatre.

She is a member of the American Theatre Association, the American Children's Theatre Association, the American Speech and Hearing Association, and is currently on the board of directors of the Wayne Community Theatre, of which she is a charter member.

Dr. Russell has one son, John, 34.

International programs offered through Wayne State College

Several overseas summer programs will be offered in 1983 by the International Programs department at Wayne State College.

Study and travel are planned in Scandinavia and Russia, England and Scotland; Germany and Spain.

Open to adults, college students and high school seniors, the four programs offer an opportunity to blend international travel and study.

THE PROGRAMS may be taken for college credit or may be audited. They are designed to create a total learning situation, and coordinate tours with classroom presentations.

The Scandinavia/Russia trip ($1595) departs June 7 and is scheduled to return June 20. The trips to Germany and Spain ($1495 each) both leave June 7 and return July 1, and the England/Scotland trip ($1595) is scheduled from July 1 to July 25.

TOTAL PRICE of the programs include tuition for 3-6 undergraduate credit hours or 3 graduate credit hours; round trip air travel from Chicago to Europe on scheduled airlines; domestic travel accommodations; and one to three meals per day depending upon the program in which the participant is enrolled.

The enrollment deadline for all programs is May 1.

For more information or to enroll, contact the Director of International Programs, Wayne State College, Wayne, NE 68787, or telephone (402) 375-2200, ext. 230.

'Great Plains Experience' in planning stage at WSC

A community outreach program which will interpret the history of the Great Plains is now in the planning stages at Wayne State College.

A four-month planning grant has been received from the National Endowment for the Humanities to develop "The Great Plains Experience in Northeast Nebraska."

ACCORDING TO project co-director and WSC Vice President Mrs. Ruby Pedersen, the original idea of the project was "libraries tied with humanities and communities."

Pedersen said the advisory committee for the project will meet later this month and make recommendations to herself and co-director Dr. Jack Middendorf. Middendorf is director of information services at WSC.

"The Great Plains Experience in Northeast Nebraska" will use as its core a series of films developed by the University of Mid-America entitled "The Great Plains Experience." The film series will then be localized for Northeast Nebraskans through presentations, discussions, displays and readings.

FOUR COMMUNITIES have been tentatively identified as sites for the seminars and other activities. They include South Sioux City, O'Neill, Norfolk and Columbus.

Once planning for the project has been completed, another application will be submitted to the National Endowment for the Humanities for an implementation grant.

Both Middendorf and Pedersen are optimistic such a grant will be approved, and Pedersen said the project can probably start by fall.

One-act competition

Wayne High takes first place

The Wayne-Carroll High School theatre department took first place in Class B at the District One-Act Play Competition held Jan. 17 in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College campus.

Students presented the play "Adaptation" by Elaine May. Members of the cast were Pete March, Kim Weander, Bryan Schmidt, Pam Meier and David Mellon. Director is Ted Blendenman.

"Adaptation" is a parody on life as it might be played in a television game show.

WAYNE NOW moves on to state competition Jan. 28 to compete against eight other district winners in Class B.

The play "Adaptation" also won the West Husker One-Act Play Competition on Jan. 15, hosted by Wayne-Carroll High School.

Selected as best actor in the Husker competition was Wayne's Bryan Schmidt.

RECEIVING second place in the district Class B competition was Hartington Cedar Catholic High School with the play "Number 9." Director is Mary Elizabeth Comax, and members of the cast were Joseph Lange, Jill Pinkelman and Elaine Hoelsing. BLAIR HIGH School won third place.

Joseph Anderson directed the play "Tartuffe," and members of the cast were Lisa Johnson, Julie Jorgensen, Michelle Anderson, Mark Olsen, Maggie Marsh, Jon Warman, Nathan Hunt, Travis Jensen, Scott O'Hanton, Paul Taylor and Larry Scarpino.

Other schools competing in Class B were Logan View, Wisner and West Point.

TAKING FIRST place in Class C at the district one-act competition Jan. 20 at Wayne State was Ponca Public School, under the direction of Mary Persinger.

Students presenting the play "The Infamous Soothing System of Professor Maillard," were Lanette Curry, Barb Anderson, Ginny Kayl, Brenda Curry, Trudy Walsh, Lora Schweers, Melva Nelson, Holly Taylor, Waneffa Curry, Karen Osada, Therese Suttli, Jackie Morris and Angie Beacom.

SECOND PLACE in Class C went to Laurel-Concord Public School, under the direction of Judy Hansen, and third place went to Homer Community School, under the direction of Jacquelyn Pigg.

Laurel students who presented the play "The Tale That Wagged the Dog," were Mike Dietrich, Brenda Jussel, Sarah Swarthout, RoJane Bowman and Sandy McCorkindale.

Homer students presenting "The Bridge" were, Angie Schwieger, Joe Pigg, Joy Hoed, Cindy Riley, Bryson Bartels and Ann Beardshear.

College taking part in model

United Nations

Fifteen students from Wayne State College will have the opportunity to represent Denmark in the "National Model United Nations" program in New York City, according to sponsor Allen O'Donnell, associate professor of political science at WSC.

The students will leave Wayne on March 27 for New York, and return on April 3.

This year marks the 11 year of participation by WSC in this program, which attracts colleges from across the country plus Canada and Mexico. Each college is assigned a country to represent. Last year, Wayne State represented the Soviet Union.

THE STUDENTS will "play" at being professional diplomats at an international conference dealing with problems actually faced by the world organization. During their sojourn in the "Big Apple," participants will stay at the Grand Hyatt Hotel which is situated above Grand Central Station in mid-town Manhattan. The hotel is within walking distance of Madison Square Gardens, Broadway, the United Nations, Macy's and Central Park.

ANYONE interested in taking part in the 1983 political science eight-day program should contact Allen O'Donnell, Connell Hall 102, 402-375-2200, ext. 296, or the Wayne State College Extended Campus office.

Total cost, including round-trip transportation, hotel and tuition, is approximately $370.

NACEB to meet in Lincoln

The Nebraska Association of County Extension Boards will meet Feb. 21-22 at the East Union on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Richard Wiese of Papillion, NACEB president, said a board meeting would be held Feb. 21, with a general meeting and luncheon the next day. The agenda will include a business meeting and awards presentation.

Test your seed now

"Even though planting season is months away, now is the time to get your seed tested," said David Svik of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

The State's Seed Laboratory tests approximately 4,000 samples per year for farmers and seed companies on a service basis. The cost of the test is based on the kind of seed tested. "Mid-February through April is traditionally the busiest time for the Lab," noted Svik. To avoid delays in testing results, we suggest people send their seed samples in as soon as possible.

Service price lists are available at county extension agent office or by contacting the State Seed Laboratory at 3703 South 14th Street, Lincoln 68502, telephone: (402) 471-2174.

Sorghum producers to meet Feb. 9

The feed value of sorghum vs. corn will be one of the focus topics at the third annual Nebraska Grain Sorghum Producers Association, to be held at the Northeast Holiday Inn, in Lincoln on Feb. 9.

Speakers will include representatives of the U.S. Feed Grains Council, National Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the Nebraska ASCS Office.

Directors will be elected for three state sorghum districts and the Association board will then elect officers for 1983. Current president is Dave Anderson, Odell. Registration begins at 8 a.m.

Temperature experiment held

Are young nursery pigs adversely affected when room temperatures are lowered at night to help save energy? Apparently not, according to University of Nebraska researchers David Shelton and Michael Brumm.

In a late-fall experiment funded by the Nebraska Pork Producers Association, these researchers at the NU Northeast Station employed a technique often used in residences to save energy or heating. For 12 hours at night, nursery room temperatures were reduced by approximately 15 degrees Fahrenheit from what would normally be recommended.

Electricity savings were 15 percent and propane savings nearly 30 percent. Overall, energy savings amounted to approximately 50 cents per pig during the five-week trial. Animal growth and feed conversion were at least as good with the lowered nighttime temperature as for constant temperatures.

"We feel that this technique may help swine producers combat rising utility costs," Shelton said. "However, further investigations are needed."

Leader training sessions set

Sessions on the teen council concept, a new junior leader project and "Big Three for Leaders" — project selection guide, audiovisual catalog and member project list — will feature a series of 10 statewide 4-H leader training sessions which began Jan. 18 at Beatrice.

The programs, which run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., also will include a series of workshops.

The remainder of the schedule: Jan. 27 — North Platte; 28 — Broken Bow; 31 — Plainview; Feb. 1 — Wisner.

4-F meeting will be held

A 4-F meeting (fairly tales, fallacies, and facts about fertilizer) will be held at the USDA Service Center in Wayne Monday, Jan. 31, starting at 1 p.m.

George Rehm, Extension Agronomist, will be discussing the 4 F's of non-conventional/non-traditional products, fertilizer recommendations and some new ideas for application of needed nutrients. Rehm will allow time for questions on how to cut fertilizer costs.

Educational meetings in February

Production topics with the goal of decreasing costs and increasing profits of soybean producers will feature a series of educational meetings to be held in February at several Nebraska locations.

The Soy Profit session are co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service and the Nebraska Soybean Association. Each program will be adapted to relevant topics in that geographic area.

In addition to information presented on soybean production by NU Institute of Agricultural and Natural Resources staff members, directors will be elected to the Nebraska Soybean Association and the Nebraska Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing Board will provide a report.

Each meeting begins at 9 a.m. except the session at Howells which starts at 6 p.m.

The schedule: Feb. 2—City Auditorium, Tekamah; 3—Community Building, Coleridge; 4—Paddock Restaurant, South Sioux City; 8—Legion Club, Gretna; 10—United Methodist Church, Elmwood; 15—Eagles Club, Blair; 17—Knights of Columbus Hall, Albion; St. John's Catholic Church, Howells; 21—Stockman's Club, Fairmont; 22—4-H Building, Central City; 23—Fairgrounds, Hastings; Community Building, Tecumseh; 24—Cornhusker Club, Oxford; Presbyterian Church, Hickman.

4-H speech contests set

Entries are now being accepted for 1983 Timely Topics 4-H Speech Contest competition, according to John Orr, extension 4-H specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The speech contest is an annual 4-H event; Orr said. Members compete at the county level for ribbons and trophies, and each county can send its top two senior division speakers to district competition. The eight winners of the district contests will then receive all-expense paid trips to the Nebraska State 4-H Conference at Lincoln where they will participate in the state contest June 21, Orr added.

"Contest participation is growing steadily," Orr said. "Last year more than 2,200 4-H'ers competed in county contests."

According to Orr, each contest entrant gets more than a ribbon. "Each contestant carries home a valuable speaking experience. One of the life skills 4-H helps members develop is the ability to communicate. Studies show people think it is important to have a first speaking experience before a friendly audience," he said.

Radio station KFAB in Omaha has sponsored the speech contest for the past 40 years. KFAB also provides $250 college scholarships for the two winners of the state contest, according to Orr.

"To enter the speech contest or to be part of the audience, contact your extension agent," Orr advised 4-H members.

Nitrogen use may be excessive

Most corn growers are aware of the economical and ecological reasons for applying the proper rates of nitrogen fertilizer. But they might not be aware of more nitrogen than needed.

A University of Nebraska research team has been studying ways to improve the accuracy of nitrogen recommendations, and they are now in the process of summarizing the data.

According to Edwin Penas, NU extension soils specialist at the Southeast Extension and Research Center, the researchers are in their third year of a three-year study. "The field work is done. We hope to summarize the data this spring and have it ready for publication this summer."

THE RESEARCH, according to Penas, is important for several reasons. "Nebraska farmers spend the greatest percentage of their fertilizer dollars on nitrogen. Data show that 96 percent of the corn acreage in Nebraska receives some nitrogen fertilizer. Thus, the proper rate of applied nitrogen is critical for most profitable corn production," Penas said.

Proper application rate is also important in terms of energy conservation, Penas added, since the primary source of energy to produce anhydrous ammonia is natural gas.

"An increase in the cost of natural gas has a direct effect on the cost of nitrogen fertilizers," he said.

Data from recent experiments indicate that many growers are using more nitrogen than is needed, Penas said. "The data we use now for recommendations is based on old experiments conducted back in the 50s and 60s," he said. "Now we're in the process of updating our recommendations and adjusting them with the newest data."

The amount of nitrogen needed for corn is based on the amount of soil residual nitrate nitrogen (NO₃-N) and on yield goal. The yield goal is a reasonable potential of what an individual grower can produce on a given field.

According to Penas, the nitrogen fertilizer recommendation for the middle range yield goal (120-160 bushels per acre) "is pretty good." But for the lower range yield goal (60-100 bushels per acre), their data show the recommendations are high. And for the high range yield goal (180-240 bushels per acre) their data indicate the earlier recommendations may be too low.

INSUFFICIENT NITROGEN fertilizer results in reduced yields and lower profits; however, excessive rates can result in pollution in underground water. We are trying to avoid both. Thus, in terms of maximum profit, energy conservation and environmental quality, it is important that nitrogen be applied at proper rates," Penas said.

In addition to improving the accuracy of nitrogen recommendations, the researchers are studying two other areas:

—Relating grain yield increase from applied nitrogen to soil organic matter, residual soil mineral nitrogen, nitrates in irrigation water and other selected soil parameters.

—The relationship of nitrogen concentration in leaves of silking time to the rate of nitrogen fertilizer applied in an attempt to define a critical level of nitrogen in leaf tissue.

"The entire state has been represented in terms of soil types — this has been our attempt," Penas said.

FUNDING FOR the three-year project has been provided by the Nebraska Corn Development, Utilization and Marketing Board.

In addition to Penas, other principal investigators include: George Rehm, NU extension soils specialist, Northeast Station, Concord; Kenneth Frank, NU extension soils specialist, South Central Station, Clay Center; Gary Hergert, NU extension soils specialist, North Platte Station, North Platte; and Richard A. Wiese, NU extension agronomist, Lincoln.

GROWING AVOCADOS

The avocado is an attractive houseplant with bright, shiny and attractive leaves.

The plant can be started by selecting a fruit which is soft when squeezed, and then extracting the pit (or seed) from it. The seed is the size of a golf ball. The seed should not be allowed to dry out.

To plant the seed, use a 4 to 8-inch clay or plastic flower pot, and use a well-drained potting mixture. To speed germination, remove the top fourth of the seed with a razor blade.

PLANT the seed so that the tip is covered with about a quarter inch of soil, then water thoroughly.

The avocado plant requires exposure to a south or east window with full sun and a temperature of 65 to 80 degrees. The plant should be allowed to dry out between waterings, and may be placed outdoors during the summer. The plant may be pruned to shape it.

If the avocado plant has problems, the trouble may be too-frequent watering or insufficient light. Browning on leaf edges is caused by low humidity; yellow speckling of leaves indicates spider mites and general yellowing of leaves indicates a fertilizer deficiency.

HOUSEPLANT WATERING
One of the most critical aspects of houseplants is proper watering. First, let's examine the type of water available. Perhaps the type of water appreciated most by houseplants is rainwater or melted snow. Distilled water is also great.

If you use distilled water, remember to stir it to mix in air. Water from a dehumidifier works just as well.

If it isn't convenient to collect fresh water, you can also grow lush plants using well water or city tap water.

TWO CHEMICALS commonly found in city water are chlorine and fluorides. Chlorine does not usually harm indoor plants but as a precaution you can allow the water to stand for 24 hours in an open container to allow most of the gas to escape.

Fluoride can cause leaf-tip burn on certain plants such as spider plants. An occasional flushing of the soils of these plants may help eliminate buildup of fluorides and other salts.

It is ideal when 10 percent of the water added at a watering comes out of the bottom of the container into the catch basin. This achieves a desirable flushing through the soil. Do not let the water stand empty if you or you will be defeating the purpose.

Avoid water from a water softener. Chemical water softeners replace calcium with sodium, which may produce dangerous accumulations of soil salt.

HOMES HAVING a water softener should run off plant water from a faucet located ahead of the place where the waterpipe enters the softer unit.

The frequency of watering depends on many factors such as room temperature, light, plant size, humidity, time of year, etc. In winter, many thin-leaved plants require watering only once or twice a week.

Thick-leaved plants and plants having large pots are satisfied with a once-a-week or a every-other-week drink. Use room temperature water.

Beware of overwatering. More houseplants are killed by too much water than by too little. The main rule of watering is to wet the entire soil ball everytime you water, and then allow the soil to dry before watering again.

Hoskins cattle Denver winners

GRAND CHAMPION load of feeder cattle at the recent 1983 National Western Stock Show in Denver were these entries of Stardom Enterprises, Hoskins. The Angus-Chianina cross steers weighed 629 pounds and sold in the auction of champions for an average of $3,658.33 each. Owners are Jerome Settles, left, and Bill Willers. The high-selling steer brought $6,000.

10-year field study

State's soil has staying power

A 10-year field investigation on the rate at which soil phosphorus and potassium build up or decline under intensive cropping of four major Nebraska soils reveals a remarkably strong "staying power" of these soils, an NU agronomist told those attending the 75th annual American Society of Agronomy meeting.

Robert A. Olson said Nov. 30 that none of these soils showed any yield response to applied fertilizer and only one showed any decline in soil test potassium where no potassium fertilizer was applied during the period. "The rate at which available potassium is released from native mineral reserves is clearly very rapid, and with the limited removal of potassium that occurs with grain farming there is likely to be little need for supplemental potassium for many years to come on these loess-derived soils of high inherent potassium level," Olson stated.

Yield increases of corn and wheat to phosphorus fertilization were measured in this study where soil tested in the low to low-medium ranges. A most economic rate of around 9 pounds per acre (21 lbs phosphate P₂O₅) was also more than adequate for maintaining the initial soil test level, 18 lbs. Phosphorus approximately doubled, and 27 lbs. Phosphorus tripled the original test value during the 10 years.

"The findings confirm earlier observations that fertilization according to a 'sufficiency' concept will actually build up soil Phosphorus reserves at the same time," he said.

Other researchers involved in the study were George W. Rehm, an agronomist at NU's Northeast Station at Concord, Frank N. Anderson, an agronomist at the Panhandle Station, Scottsbluff, and Edward G. Galliff, and NU agronomy graduate student.

Their paper is entitled, "Rate of Soil Phosphorus and Potassium Buildup/Decline with Intensive Crop Production on Nebraska Mollisols." Farm Herbicide Placement by Subsurface

Feed grain stocks set record

Nebraska feed grain stocks (corn, grain sorghum, oats, and barley) in all positions on Jan. 1, totaled a record 34.5 million tons. This was also 36 percent above last year and 27 percent above the previous record set in 1980.

Corn on farms totaled 77.3 million bushels, up 39 percent, while off-farm stocks totaled 284.7 million bushels, up 50 percent from last year.

Grain sorghum stocks totaled a record 164.2 million bushels, up 8 percent from Jan. 1, 1982 and 3 percent above the previous record set in 1980. Sorghum stored on farms totaled 73.1 bushels, 14 percent above last year and the highest since 1969, while off-farm stocks of 91.1 million bushels were 4 percent higher than last year and the highest since 1970.

OAT STOCKS totaled 20.2 million bushels, up 74 percent from the previous year. Oats on farm totaled 15.3 million bushels, up 64 percent, while off-farm stocks totaled 4.9 million bushels, 115 percent higher than last year.

Wheat stocks totaled 114.2 million bushels, up 7 percent from a year ago. Wheat stored on farms totaled 45.7 million bushels, up 18 percent, while off-farm stocks of 68.5 million bushels were about the same as last year.

Soybean stocks totaled a record 79.8 million bushels, 9 percent above the Jan. 1, 1982 record. Soybeans stored on farms totaled 49.7 million bushels, 32 percent above the record set a year earlier; however, off-farm stocks of 30.1 million bushels were 15 below last year. Barley stocks totaled 955 thousand bushels, up 19 percent from a year ago, and rye stocks totaled 265 thousand bushels, down 17 percent from last year.

There were 713 commercial off-farm grain storage facilities in Nebraska as of Jan. 1, a decline of 7 from last year. However, storage capacity for these commercial facilities increased 118.4 million bushels, or 22 percent, during 1982 to total 666.1 million bushels. Many elevators added new or expanded existing facilities to account for this sharp increase.

Agriculture is still the backbone of this country. Some people have forgotten that. But more and more of them are finding it out again.

They may never realize the toil, the frustrations, the grief and sometimes the disappointments that go into making sure our citizens stay well-fed. But then, few of them will ever know the pride in a row of corn breaking through the soil, the pleasure in watching a new calf nurse for the first time. Or the satisfaction in seeing a youngster take the wheel of a tractor by himself.

Despite today's trials, let us not forget the heritage that is American agriculture.

Increased terracing

WITH THE HEAVY rainfall and severe soil erosion in Wayne County during the 1982 crop season, the demand for terracing has increased, according to the Wayne County Soil Conservation Service. Some 56,200 feet of terraces were built, but several jobs were left incomplete due to the wet fall and the increased demand on contractors. Farmers wanting additional terracing are urged to consider the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District plan, which pays $40 per acre for seeding oats. Oats may be chopped or harvested early, so that the terracing can be done during the summer months, according to the county Soil Conservation Service. Contact the SCS for more information.

LOYAL LASSIES AND LADS

The Loyal Lassies and Lads 4-H Club held its monthly meeting Jan. 12 in the home of Wendy Korh.

Eight members and four mothers answered roll call with their favorite Christmas gift.

Members decided when they were to give demonstrations during the year. Ron Wriedt, first aid leader, introduced the group to Resuscitation Annie and gave a demonstration on the basics of proper breathing.

It was decided to bring a Valentine for each member to the next meeting, scheduled Feb. 9 at 7 p.m. in the home of Matthew and Monica Metz.

Brenda Test, news reporter.

JUNIOR LEADERS

Dixon County Junior Leaders met Jan. 23 at the Northeast Station, Concord. There were 10 members, seven sponsors and five visitors present.

New members are Suzanne Stelling, Craig Hoffman and Donna Rahn.

Election of officers was held. New officers are Derwin Roberts, president; Michelle Meyer, vice president; Julie Book, secretary; Jeanne Warner, treasurer; and Sheila Koch, news reporter.

New sponsors who will join the Jim Warners and the Gary Hoffmans are the Bruck Books and the Darrel Harders.

Members voted to meet every other month on the second Sunday. Next meeting will be March 13 at 2 p.m. Jeanne Warner and Julie Book will serve lunch. Sheila Koch, news reporter.

The Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club met with six members Jan. 19 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bowers of Winside.

Jennifer Jacobsen, and Becky and Mark Janssen were welcomed as new members.

Newly elected officers are Brian Bowers, president; Jim Roberts, vice president; Becky

Janssen, secretary-treasurer; and Jenny Topp, news reporter. Certificates of achievement were handed out, and plans for the coming year were discussed. Mrs. Bowers served lunch.

Next meeting will be Feb. 23 with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roberts of Carroll.

Jenny Topp, news reporter.

HELPING HANDS

The Helping Hands 4-H Club met Jan. 15 in the Robert Wacker home with 15 members and leaders, four mothers and one guest, Angie Schueter, attending.

Co-hosts were Rhonda Suehl, and Darrin and Jenny Wacker. Members answered roll call with what they received for Christmas.

Posters were made to put in store windows for a cake auction held Jan. 21 in the high school gymnasium.

A corsage was sent to the club's adopted grandmother, Mrs. Virginia McCain, for Valentine's Day.

Jenny Wacker demonstrated how to make a bed, and Darrin Wacker showed the different parts of a camera.

Next meeting will be Feb. 19 at 2 p.m. in the Don Leighton home, with Kathy Leighton and Brian Morse as co-hosts. For roll call, members will name their favorite president.

Brian Morse, news reporter.

GINGHAM GALS

The Gingham Gals 4-H Club met Jan. 17 at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

The evening began with installation of 1983 officers, including Lori Sorensen, president; Christine Heinemann, vice president; Tonya Erxleben, secretary; Margo Sandahl, treasurer; and Marta Sandahl, news reporter.

Installation was conducted by last year's officers.

NEW MEMBERS initiated into the club include Lynn Von Seggern, Teresa Prokop, Brielle Jones, and Lana and Lisa Casey. All members joined links to form a circle of strength.

The new president called the meeting to order. Roll call was answered with a personal 4-H goal.

Yearbooks were distributed and the club discussed goals for the year. As a community service project, members voted to make Easter favors for Wayne Care Centre. The group also discussed helping with the special olympics next spring.

Members also decided to assist with the county 4-H officers workshop to be held next month.

LUNCH WAS served by Lynn and Marsha Von Seggern, Marta Sandahl, news reporter.

Catfish catching on

Sales up 60 percent from previous year

Wander down to the pond and they'll let you in on a little secret. The catfish. They're not just for the South anymore. Pass the word to a soybean farmer.

More and more people are eating catfish outside of the South and lower Midwest areas where the catfish is known and loved. Sales are up 60 percent over last year, say catfish industry sources. What's spawning this growth? Word of mouth mostly, the mouth being most intimately involved in the enjoyment of the dish.

"If we ever get you to eat it one time, you'll eat it again," says Mississippi catfish farmer Lester Myers.

IN THIS CASE, what's good for the catfish farmer is also good for the soybean farmer. That's because soybeans constitute a big portion of the catfish diet. Catfish farmers in Mississippi, where roughly 90 percent of all catfish is produced, feed their fish more than 2.3 million bushels of soybeans a year, or about one-fifth of one percent of the total 1982 U.S. crop of 2.299 billion bushels.

Soybean farmers realize the catfish industry represents a huge market for soybean meal," says Ken Bader of the American Soybean Association. "Through the soybean checkoff program, Mississippi farmers have funded a research project on catfish feed processing at Mississippi State University. This is just one of several checkoff-funded soybean-fish promotion programs around the world."

In the pond, these bewhiskered fish are virtual meat machines. It takes from 1.5 to 1.7 pounds of feed to make one pound of catfish. But until five or six years ago, no one knew the exact nutritional requirements of the fish. Feeds were formulated on a trial-and-error basis.

Researchers now know what a catfish needs to eat. Roughly half the ration is soybean meal, one-third corn meal, and the rest wheat, fish meal, vitamins and minerals. The question now is how to come up with the most economical formulas, based on feed prices, and still meet the nutritional needs of the fish.

"Feed cost is about 50 percent of the cost of producing catfish, so anything we can do to make feed production more efficient brings the cost down," says Dr. Robert Wilson, head of the Department of Biochemistry at Mississippi State University. Wilson and Dr. John Waldrop, MSU agricultural economist, will be working on the project funded by the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board. The Catfish farmers of America and two catfish feed mills in Mississippi also support the project.

THE SCIENTISTS will be putting their work through the mill, literally. They will substitute mechanically processed soybean meal for solvent extracted soybean meal and see if it can be used to make catfish feed.

"If this won't go through the mill, none of the rest of our testing will matter," says Waldrop. "We'll first look at the physical characteristics of the feed."

According to Meyers, who is president of the Catfish Farmers of America, a catfish farmer needs to see his fish only three times: when he puts them in the pond, when he feeds them and when he takes them out. "The feed has float so you can see your fish eating," he says. "In processing, the feed is cooked so the corn particles puff like popcorn."

Once the researchers are sure the mechanically processed meal can be used and is nutritious to the fish, they will estimate the costs of producing the meal. "It's possible the processing could be done locally using locally grown soybeans," Waldrop says. "This could result in even more soybean meal being used, but we don't know this for sure. We need to answer these questions."

LOCAL QUALITY control is one of the big pluses of the catfish industry in Mississippi, according to Seymour Johnson, who raises both soybeans and catfish in Indianola, Miss. "We control everything from feed to water. In the supermarket, our frozen fish is fresher than fresh fish. They go from live to frozen in 25 minutes. The bacteria count is then extremely low. Because of this low count, fish can be super-chilled to 28 degrees without freezing. Chill-pack fish have 20-day shelf life."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture routinely samples food products for bacteria count. "I've been told our catfish has the lowest bacteria count of any product USDA samples," Johnson says.

These factors are important in the production and processing of catfish, but, says Johnson, when someone sits down to a catfish dinner the important thing is taste.

"It's a bland, white meat that will absorb the flavors of food and spices it's cooked with," Myers says. "It's not fishy. And catfish can be prepared any way that fish can be served—poached, broiled, charcoal, in gumbo, even in pizza."

CATFISH IS catching on, but, Myers says, the market potential in the United States and in Europe is great. The average American consumes 13 pounds of fish a year and only one-half pound of that is catfish. In Europe, however, the average consumption of fish is 70 pounds a year per person.

"The European community could consume our entire market in two days," Myers says.

The catfish is luring a school of pretty fancy followers. Both Myers and Johnson recently returned from one of the world's largest seafood fairs in Paris where a cordon bleu chef hired to work at the show prepared catfish dishes.

Identifying hybrids main objective

Yield testing is of prime importance in developing new crop hybrids. One of the main objectives in crop breeding programs is to identify hybrids that produce consistently high yields over a range of environments. One factor which determines this response to environments is duration of plant growth.

With such concepts in mind, a graduate student and a professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska undertook a study to evaluate yield stability in relation to maturity of grain sorghum hybrids across diverse environments in Nebraska and Kansas.

Charles A. Francis, NU professor of agronomy, statistical analyses showed that differences in relative performance of hybrids across environments was largely due to differences in maturity.

THEIR RESEARCH also showed that the later a hybrid matured, the higher the yield it produced in favorable environments. There was also more time in the field for the late hybrid to experience stress.

"When varieties under test show a wide range of maturity, we recommend evaluation for yield stability in groups of varieties with minimal differences in maturity," Saeed and Francis said.

The yield produced by a plant is the net contribution of various yield components; including plant number, head number, seed number and seed weight. Therefore, the researchers added, stability of these components would in turn contribute to the stability of yield.

"In this study yield stability of medium maturing varieties appeared dependent on stability of seed number while stability of early and late maturing varieties was due to stability of both seed number and seed weight," they said.

According to researchers stability of yield components should be considered when breeding for yield stability in grain sorghum. Saeed and Francis also reported that multiple locations for testing were more effective than several years of testing to determine which hybrids are more stable.

According to Mohammad Saeed, NU graduate student, and

Wayne County families among top Norfolk swine show winners

Two Wayne County families were among the top winners at the 18th annual Norfolk Swine Show held Monday, Jan. 17, at the Norfolk Livestock Market, Inc.

Pat Finn, Carroll, exhibited the reserve grand champion purebred—a Hampshireshire gilt. Finn had also exhibited the reserve purebred entry in 1982 and had topped the purebred competition in 1981. The Finns also walked away with several other wins in the purebred competition with their Hampshires. Annette Finn ranked fourth in the lightweight division. Joe Finn's entry was second in the medium weight class, with Mike Finn's gilt topping the heavyweight division. Mrs. Pat Finn ranked fifth in the lightweight class.

Gene and Marcheta Lull of Wayne, in their first appearance at the Norfolk show, earned two wins in the purebred competition.

Lula's Chester White entry topped the mediumweight division, with Mrs. Lull's entry, also a Chester White, taking fifth in the heavyweight division.

The show attracted 25 purebred and 36 crossbred entries which were automatically entered in the show's carcass competition.

Among the top ten winners in the purebred division of the Wednesday's carcass show were: Annette Finn, Carroll, fifth; Gene Lull, sixth; and Mike Finn, ninth.

IF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS ITS WAY, 10% OF YOUR INTEREST AND DIVIDEND INCOME WILL BE WITHHELD FROM YOU NEXT YEAR!

Look at the 1099 forms you received recently showing the amount of interest you earned in 1982. Move the decimal point to the left one place — that's the amount that the IRS wants to withhold from your earnings each year in the future for income taxes. You already have to pay income taxes on your interest earnings — but now the IRS wants to take 10% of your total interest in advance.

This rule is wrong for the following reasons:

1. Withholding will cut the amount of cash you have available during the year from your interest income.
2. The amount withheld may not be correct for your tax bracket. If overwithholding occurs, you will have to file for a tax refund to get back your own money.
3. Your total interest earnings will be reduced because of less income from reinvestment and compounding.
4. Elderly persons and low income individuals (including children) will have to file an exemption certificate for each and every account they have in order to avoid withholding. If the exemption is not filed in time, a tax return must be filed the next year — or the withheld money will be forfeited to the government.

Unless Congress acts to stop the withholding rule, it will go into effect on July 1, 1983. Our institutions are working to do away with the rule, but we need your help. IT'S YOUR MONEY.

Please detach the message that follows, and mail it to your Congressman. Send a copy to your U.S. Senators. Give us a call if you have any questions or need information. Let's put a stop to withholding BEFORE it begins.

Congressman Douglas Boreator
Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
1334 Longworth House Office Bldg.,
Washington, D.C. 20515

Please support legislation to repeal withholding on interest and dividends! It's harmful because it takes away from the income that I count on during the year; it's unfair to those of us who have always paid our share of taxes on interest; and, it's a burden to the elderly and low income persons, including children. It will discourage savings in this country, and that's bad news for the economy.

May I count on your support to repeal this rule before it goes into effect on July 1, 1983?

NOTICE

Our line crews will be in your area soon!

As the weather and necessary work-load allows, we use this time of year to read all electric meters, patrol all of our lines, and perform maintenance on the automatic circuit reclosers. This work is done annually so that you can have the use of electrical energy as continuously as possible.

If you have questions or concerns about your electric service — stop and discuss them with the linemen when they get to your neighborhood.

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR LOCAL IDS REPRESENTATIVE.

"IS YOUR IRA DOING ALL IT SHOULD BE DOING FOR YOU?"

All IRAs are not alike. In fact, there are as many different Individual Retirement Accounts as there are ways to invest your money in them. Maybe your IRA isn't yielding its full earning potential. Or perhaps it should be providing you with stronger capital growth opportunities.

We can make sure your IDS investment is geared to your specific needs. You see, at IDS we offer a wider range of funding vehicles than you can get from a bank, a savings and loan association or an insurance company. We'll help you choose from an extensive list of mutual and money-market funds, annuities, and investment certificates.

Now is the time to make sure your IRA investment pays off. And IDS is the place. Call or send in our coupon today for more information.

YES, I'd like more information about alternative IRA plans.

IF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS ITS WAY, 10% OF YOUR INTEREST AND DIVIDEND INCOME WILL BE WITHHELD FROM YOU NEXT YEAR!

Look at the 1099 forms you received recently showing the amount of interest you earned in 1982. Move the decimal point to the left one place — that's the amount that the IRS wants to withhold from your earnings each year in the future for income taxes. You already have to pay income taxes on your interest earnings — but now the IRS wants to take 10% of your total interest in advance.

This rule is wrong for the following reasons:

1. Withholding will cut the amount of cash you have available during the year from your interest income.
2. The amount withheld may not be correct for your tax bracket. If overwithholding occurs, you will have to file for a tax refund to get back your own money.
3. Your total interest earnings will be reduced because of less income from reinvestment and compounding.
4. Elderly persons and low income individuals (including children) will have to file an exemption certificate for each and every account they have in order to avoid withholding. If the exemption is not filed in time, a tax return must be filed the next year — or the withheld money will be forfeited to the government.

Unless Congress acts to stop the withholding rule, it will go into effect on July 1, 1983. Our institutions are working to do away with the rule, but we need your help. IT'S YOUR MONEY.

Please detach the message that follows, and mail it to your Congressman. Send a copy to your U.S. Senators. Give us a call if you have any questions or need information. Let's put a stop to withholding BEFORE it begins.

CENTER CIRCLE

The Center Circle met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Karl Frederick with nine members present. Roll call was answered by paying a penny for each year they were a member of the club. The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. The officers for 1982 and 1983 met in January at a special meeting to make plans for the 50th anniversary of the club. It was decided to have the celebration in the Winside American Legion Hall on April 17 at 2 p.m. A get well card was sent to Mrs. Maude Auker of Wayne, a former member, who is a patient in the hospital. The birthday song was sung for Mrs. George Jaeger. Ten point pitch was played for entertainment. Mrs. Bernie Bowers won high, Mrs. George Jaeger, low and Mrs. James Jensen, traveling prize. Mrs. Frederick served lunch. The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 17 with Mrs. William Holtgrew as hostess.

SOS CLUB

The SOS Club met Friday in the home of Mrs. Freida Pfeiffer with all members and one guest, Mrs. Norris Weible of Wayne, present. Mrs. Rose Thies, president, conducted the meeting. Roll call was answered with your favorite January pastime. In order to gain new members it was decided that the hostess of the month would invite a guest to the meeting for that month. A discussion was held on the "Care and Watering of Plants." Ten point pitch was played for entertainment. Mrs. Lena Jensen won high. Mrs. Ella Damme, low and Mrs. Edna Kramer received the plate prize. The birthday song was sung for Mrs. Thies. The next meeting will be Friday, Feb. 18 with Mrs. Jo Thompson as hostess. Roll call will be to bring a homemade Valentine. The topic will be "Your Favorite Fruit, Why and Where it is Grown."

GT PINOCCHLE CLUB

Mrs. Ella Wittler entertained GT Pinocchle Club in her home Friday. Mrs. Albert Jaeger was a guest. Prizes were received by Mrs. Howard Iversen and Mrs. Herman Jaeger. The next meeting will be Friday, Feb. 4 with Mrs. Ida Fenske as hostess. A dessert luncheon was served by the hostess. THEOPILUS LADIES AID The Theophilus Ladies Aid met Thursday for a no-host dinner in the home of Mrs. Herman Reeg of Wayne. Mrs. Mathilda Reeg, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Duane Thompson presented the program. The group read responsively, "A New Year" based on Psalm 102. She read a meditation, "The Inevitable God." The group sang three hymns. Mrs. Reeg conducted the business meeting. The next meeting will be a 1:30 potluck luncheon Thursday, Feb. 17 in the home of Mrs. Mathilda Reeg. Mrs. Frances Axen will have the lesson. COTERIE Mrs. Ruby Sweigard entertained Coterie at a luncheon in Will's Cafe Thursday. Mrs. N.L. Ditman and Mrs. Wayne Imel received the prizes. The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 3 with Mrs. Irene Warnemunde as hostess. CORRECTION There are some corrections on the article about the Winside Community Improvement Program that appeared in a recent issue. They are: a discussion was held on incorporating the WCIP, not the WICP and the Community Club; the entry fee for the men's basketball tournament to be held in Winside on March 4-5-6 is $60 per team not $16 per team; and the next meeting will be Feb. 9 in the Auditorium instead of at the Stop Inn.

ATTITUDE SURVEY

Residents of Allen will soon have an opportunity to tell what they think is right or wrong with the community through a "Community Attitude Survey," according to an announcement recently from the Allen Community Club. Cyndi Snyder said a questionnaire covering nearly every phase of the community, including the business and residential areas, recreation and community services will be circulated soon. "The primary purpose for conducting the survey," Mrs. Snyder, survey chairman said, "is to find out where the community is doing a good job and where it needs to improve. With this information we can proceed to develop a community development action program. We want to know how Allen measures up as a place to live and the only way we can be sure we are getting a complete picture is by asking the people who really know, the people that live here. This survey is important because it will tell us where we are now and will indicate what has to be done to make Allen a well rounded community and a place where our young people will want to grow up and raise their families." The surveys will be mailed out Jan. 31 and are to be returned during the week of Feb. 7-12 at either the Cash Store or to Mrs. Snyder. TNT EXTENSION CLUB The TNT Extension Club met at the Allen fire hall on Thursday evening. Newly elected president Doris Carr presided at the meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance repeated by all. Roll call was answered by telling what you do when snowed in. Sarah Haglund, safety chairman, reported on carbon monox ide in the home. Norma Warner reported on the LAMP project. Program books were filled out for the year. The February hostess will be Emma Shortt. Kathy Wilmes will present the lesson on carpet and floor care. Sarah Haglund served as hostess. VFW AUXILIARY The VFW Gasser Post No. 5435 Auxiliary met at the Marlinsburg school on Thursday at 8 p.m. Linda McKousky, president, presided with 13 members present. Membership committee reported 100 percent membership for 1982. The midwinter conference will be held in Norfolk on Feb. 5 and 6. This will be the time of the National President's visit and the announcing of the VOD state winner with all district winners being honored. The February meeting will be held at the fire hall on the 17th at 8 p.m. After the meeting, cards will be played with the VFW Post. Louis Johnson and Lucille and Sally Anderson will serve. Ruth Golden, news reporter. CPR CLASSES Twenty-one persons registered for the first CPR class of the three week course at the first session on Sunday. Two more classes will be held on Sundays, Jan. 30 and Feb. 6. card of thanks

WE WISH TO THANK all of those who helped to make our cake auction for the Special Olympics such a great success. A special thanks to the auctioneer, Orville Lage, the Winside Public School; those who purchased cakes; and our Mothers, The Helping Hands 4-H Club [27]

I WOULD LIKE TO TAKE this means to thank my relatives and friends for all the phone calls, visits, cards and flowers I received while at Providence Medical Center. Special thanks to Dr. Lindau, Dr. Dahlheim and Sister Gertrude for her prayers. Natalie Skeahan [27]

WE WOULD LIKE TO THANK everyone who remembered us with cards, gifts and visits during our stay at the hospital, and since our return home. A special thanks to Dr. Bob, Gary West, Sister Gertrude and Mrs. Jenness for all your help and support and the staff at the hospital for making our stay a pleasant one. Mrs. Mike Beermann and Jason [27]

THANK YOU to everyone for the kindness shown us while Leonard was in the hospital in Norfolk and Lincoln. And for the Christmas cards and gifts. Your concern and words of encouragement mean so much to both of us. Leonard and Dorothy Andersen [27]
