Central office, services center to consolidate Region IV buys closed Wayne roller rink

Region IV is skating toward consolidation in Wayne.

The 20-county handicapped-services organization, which is headquartered in Wayne, has purchased the closed Wayne Skate & Recreation for $167,500, according to Craig Tiedtke, Region IV's director of fiscal management.

According to Tiedtke, the purchase is the first step toward consolidating Wayne area services and Region IV headquarters under one roof.

PURCHASE OF the roller rink property was approved Wednesday, during a Region IV meeting in Norfolk.

Possession is expected to occur by Feb. 15, according to Tiedtke, who said the mechanics of the purchase agreement are being worked out now.

"That's a ballpark date for possession, though," Tiedtke told The Wayne Herald.

"We're trying to do at least three or four things," Tiedtke explained, noting that the long-range plan is to house the 20-county headquarters, currently on Third Street west, and the Wayne area services center, currently at the corner of Second and Logan streets, under one roof.

"THE PURCHASE offers Region IV a lot more flexibility," Tiedtke told The Wayne Herald.

"It's a cost effective move that projects a cost to Region IV that is minimal if any," the fiscal management director said. "I don't think it will cost Region IV anything [beyond what it is paying now]," Tiedtke continued.

Region IV currently leases two buildings in Wayne at an annual rental fee of about $1,300 per month.

"For little or no more money, we'll have the advantages of owning instead of renting, plus the efficiencies and flexibilities the current facilities don't have," Tiedtke explained.

"WE'RE CURRENTLY paying about $25,000 per year for the facilities we have," he said, noting that the lease on the Region IV headquarters has expired and occupancy is currently on a month-to-month basis.

The lease on the Wayne area services center expires in August of 1984, according to Tiedtke.

"Fiscally, if (the purchase) definitely was the thing to do," Tiedtke said, explaining that the $25,000 per year lease cost in Wayne does not include such things as repairs.

According to Tiedtke, plans are to renovate about 5,000 square feet of the roller rink at an estimated cost of between $12 to $14 per square foot.

"WE'RE TALKING about a project that comes in at less than $30 per square foot, when you combine the purchase and renovation costs," Tiedtke explained.

The move eventually will relocate about 30 Region IV clients and 14 staffers from the services center, and 10 office staffers from the headquarters office.

According to Tiedtke, the relocation priority is on the headquarters staff due to the lease situation there. The services center clients and staff are expected to be in the newly purchased Region IV building turned into a skating rink and recreation center by Wayne farmer and businessman Herman Luschen last year — on Main Street south by August of 1984 or sooner, he said.

PURCHASE OF the Luschen property, formerly a Wayne farm implement dealer ship, includes parking area and expansion space, according to Tiedtke.

"Arrangements inside the building will feature as few permanent walls as possible," said Tiedtke, who emphasized the flexibility of the facility.

"We are going to serve our clients with what they need — no more and no less," he continued.

Tiedtke also noted that some staff training costs now incurred at Wayne State College facilities also will be eliminated when the program is shifted to the newly purchased center.

TIEDTKE SAID the new center features accessibility that Region IV clients do not have.

And, he said the newly purchased facility "could serve up to 40 or 45 clients" without difficulty.

Additional land space at the new center will be used for parking and a planned truck gardening project for Region IV clients, according to Tiedtke, who noted the potential for expansion should the need arise in the coming years.

"We'll have to do a minimum amount of work to make the building accessible to the handicapped, because it is wide open inside," he continued.

"It will be redesigned to be a modular

Bouncers & bakers & fun(d) makers...

Volunteer cake bakers have put their heart into a February fund-raiser.

The Wayne County Heart Association fundraiser, which is set for Thursday, Feb. 10, at the Wayne City Auditorium, will feature a bake-and-bounce tournament.

"Bake and Bounce for Stronger Hearts" is the theme that has helped the association organize a cake baking and basketball bouncing business district fund drive.

ACCORDING TO Gary West, publicity chairman for the association's event, a list of nine Wayne businessmen have made the cake-baking team roster, with room for at least seven more signups.

Also, eight Wayne-Carroll School District faculty men and eight Wayne State College faculty men have made the 16-member baking squad.

Though the businessmen's squad is short on team players, Paul Peterson of Kuhn's Department Store, a member of the association's Bake and Bounce Committee, expects the lineup to be complete soon.

A partial list of business team bakers includes Gary Van Meter, Tom Jones, Randy Hascall, Galen Wiser, Ken Burglund, John Dorcsey, Doniver Peterson, Al Shufelt and Glen Ellingson.

WITH THE faculty roster already filled, the businessmen already appear behind before the basketballs get bounced, according to Ron Jones, WSC athletic director and a member of the Bake and Bounce Committee.

"If they (the businessmen) can't get a team together to bake a cake, how do they ever expect to win a basketball game," Jones told The Wayne Herald.

The faculty baking team roster, which is complete, includes Rick Weaver, Curt Czupryn, Francis Praher, Jim Paige, Randy Cattle, Max Lundstrom, Deryl Lawrence and Randy Shaw. all from WSC.

ALSO ON the faculty cake baking team are Darrell Heier, Curt Frye, Richard Meltzer, Keith Kopperud, Harold Blendenman, Francis Haun, Duane Blomenkamp and Harold Maciejewski, all of the Wayne-Carroll School District.

Jones and Lonnie Erhardt, WHS football coach, have organized the cake-baking team and are at work drafting the basketball squad, which will take on the businessmen Feb. 10. Peterson and Phil Kloster, city administrator, are still trying to fill the businessmen's cake-baking roster, according to West.

Each team is expected to field 16 cake bakers and a basketball squad for fun and fundraising.

The cakes, which will be baked and decorated at Peoples Natural Gas Co., will be on display at the city auditorium and judged by a panel of women.

DURING HALFTIME of the basketball game, the cakes will be auctioned to the highest bidders.

Cake bakers are seeking pledges of support, prior to the auction, to guarantee a good price for their handiwork.

In addition, prizes will be awarded at the discretion of the cake judges.

The public is invited to attend the Bake-and-Bounce tournament. Game time is 7 p.m.

Barbed-wire barrier

THERE'S NOTHING between Wayne and the Arctic to block the winter winds except these three strands of barbed wire and a fence post that caught one wandering pioneer's wagon wheel. That's what the oldtimer's will tell you about the bleakness of prairie winters around these parts, anyway.

'The Hard Times' special

Sure, times are hard. But, you don't have to talk to too many oldtimers to find out that times have been harder.

And, even some some not-so-oldtimers, remember when times were harder. Of course, most youngsters and oldsters also will tell you that when those times got that tough, the tough got going.

THEY SURVIVED the droughts, the low farm prices, family and personal crises, depressions, recessions, insect plagues, dust bowls, bankruptcies, business reversals, foreclosures and a host of other family farm and small-town disasters.

With a faith in God, a willingness to work and the instinct for survival, they pulled through it all with a next-year spirit that is unique to rural America.

The stories about those hard times and the spirit that brought the survivors through them contain valuable lessons about farm folks and small town residents in northeast Nebraska.

SO, IN KEEPING with that undaunted spirit found right here at home, The Wayne Herald would like to share your hardship stories with our readers. That's why we need your help.

On Thursday, Feb. 24, The Wayne Herald will publish a special section called "The Hard Times."

It will be your special section, containing stories and photographs that recall the hard times you or your family have experienced over the years in northeastern Nebraska.

We are asking your help, but we will help, too, by collecting the stories and photographs and publishing them at no charge in a keepsake edition for all our readers.

THERE'S NOT MUCH time, so start digging into the family photo album and start reviewing your family's hard times history.

Then, tell us about your hard times experiences in a story written by you, or someone in your family, for publication in your special edition. Don't forget to tell us how you made it through the hardships and hard times. Perhaps the wisdom you, or your family gained, will serve as an inspiration to all of us in these hard times.

Stories can be typed or handwritten. All photographs will be returned. Be sure to include your name, address and telephone number on anything submitted to The Wayne Herald for the hard times special section.

The Wayne Herald had planned to award a $50 first prize, a $25 second prize and a $15 third prize.

But, since times are so hard, first prize will be $43.83, second prize will be $19.83, and third prize will be $11.83.

DEADLINE FOR stories and photographs, which will appear under your name, is 5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 21.

By the way, we'll increase The Wayne Herald press run for your hard-times special section.

That way, you can pick up a few extra copies to send to friends and relatives who will, no doubt, remember the hard times you survived together.

We'll even drop the price of the extra copies from 25 cents to 15 cents, to help you through "The Hard Times."

Wayne okays cheese handout

Cheese, anyone? Wayne's senior citizens may soon be handing it out as part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's surplus commodities program.

Phil Kloster, city administrator, has granted Wayne Senior Citizens permission to coordinate the government giveaway.

IN A MEMO to Senior Citizen Center coordinator Georgia Janssen Friday, Kloster gave the cheese giveaway the go-ahead.

But the green light was accompanied by a statement from the city administrator that took the USDA program to task.

"This memo will serve as my official response to the senior citizens' request to provide the necessary volunteer manpower to administrate the local USDA cheese distribution program," Kloster stated.

"Having reviewed all the aspects of this program and having been assured by you (Janssen) that the senior citizens organization will donate their time as the actual facilitators of this program and that we will spend no additional city funds on this program, I hereby give my approval."

KLOSTER REQUESTED that Janssen keep him informed in writing as to the timetable, work schedules and ordering involved in the program.

"In addition, I want a follow-up report after the distribution is complete, covering the details of the distribution and any pros or cons as to our involvement," Kloster's memo to Janssen stated.

"From what has been reported on the county's action towards this program, I cannot fully disagree," Kloster continued.

"The perspective of added costs is deploring," he added.

"Once again we are faced, as taxpayers and as a local government entity, with having to deal with a misconceived and mismanaged federal program — that of oversupport in a farm program," Kloster said.

"NOT ONLY have we been victimized by spiraling costs of paying for this over production, we now are being hit a second time by storage costs for that over production to the tune of $1 million per day," the memo continued.

"To put the problem in perspective, for every 5 pounds of commodities removed from federal storage, 3 to 4 pounds are returned," Kloster explained.

"What compounds the problem for Nebraskans is that we as an agricultural state are one of the top benefactors of support programs," Kloster said. "And, we have to care for the welfare of our agribusiness during the time when we have a slumping farm economy."

KLOSTER WENT on to say that "we have guideline-eligible residents in our locale who have a right to and should receive their allotment" of USDA cheese.

"I would not want to put myself in a position to deny them that right," Kloster added.

"If we can provide this distribution at no additional cost, then we should," he said.

Kloster gave approval, through Janssen, to the senior citizens "to place this program into operation at their earliest convenience."

Janssen received the two-page memo late Friday afternoon.

Country boy...

Howdy. They say a dog is man's best friend. The family farm dog is no exception. In fact, stories about the heroics and antics of family farm dogs are endless.

Oldtimers will tell you that a good farm dog will easily take the place of a hired hand — often eating less and doing more than paid help around the place.

THOUGH MANY oldtimers recall having a number of different mutts in the course of a lifetime on the farm, usually their fondest memories are of just one special dog — a dog that could do no wrong.

My father used to tell me that about all a man could expect was to have one good dog in a lifetime.

That special dog usually stood hands above the rest in intelligence, performance and loyalty. And, all others were judged by that high-water mark.

Unfortunately, if you take the time to listen to the stories oldtimers tell about their special dog, you will find that they often have tragic endings.

THEY SAY the good die young.

And, it seems to apply to good farm dogs. The bad one live forever.

Of course, if you add to that fact that most oldtimers really believed Old Shep would live forever, you begin to realize how distraught they were when the dog died — accidentally or from natural causes.

The point is there is no such thing as a timely death for a good farm dog.

Those special dogs might stop barking, but they live forever in the hearts and minds of country boys and country girls who grow old remembering the days when Old Shep ran the farm.

OFTEN THOSE work-hardened, weather-beaten, tough-as-nails oldtimers had a soft spot for Old Shep that was not seen by the rest of the world.

It was built around a special relationship that grew out of working together, talking together, walking together and eventually, thinking together.

It was a relationship built on mutual respect, love and loyalty. No matter how bad things got, Old Shep would always listen. No matter how unfriendly things got, Old Shep would always be loyal.

And, no matter how behind things got, Old Shep would always go to work.

MANY A YOUNG country boy learned valuable lessons about life just watching his father work with that special dog.

And, those country boys grew up looking for that one special dog — that once-in-a-lifetime dog.

I've spent years looking for a dog that measures up to Old Sandy — a dog I grew up with on the Howell farmstead. And, though I'm not exactly an oldtimer, I can tell you that none can compare.

I was a young pup when Old Sandy was a young pup. I could tell you countless stories about that dog and how he ran the Howell farm. But, the most important thing about it all is the relationship Old Sandy had with my father.

THEY THOUGHT alike, those two.

And, there was nothing that dog wouldn't do for my father. Old Sandy had no special breeding, but displayed uncommon intelligence, loyalty and love over the years...and, an instinct for survival that was uncanny.

That dog saved my life more than once, and gave each of my brothers and sisters equal treatment.

Rarely fed properly, and most often the last to be cared for, Old Sandy stood by us through thick and thin.

About all that dog ever asked for was a scratch behind the ears now and then.

NEVERTHELESS, Old Sandy remained attentive and active until the very end...always waiting for a command to perform some task, or permission to just come along.

I used to think that dog lived to hear the words "sic 'em," which was shouted permission to chase, sort or otherwise control the movement of livestock.

I've worked with a lot of other farm dogs in my life, but most of them didn't know "sic 'em" from "come 'ere."

Old Sandy knew, and responded like a lightning bolt headed for the right cow or hog every time.

Just watching my father talk to that dog while sorting hogs or cattle was an experience in mental telepathy.

IN FACT, you just knew that dog understood English...sometimes much better than I did.

Somehow, Old Sandy never got chewed out half as bad as I did when it came to sorting hogs or cattle.

I was always on the wrong end of the gate, or chasing the wrong one. But, Old Sandy knew what was ready for market and what wasn't.

That dog knew a lot of things, including what calf belonged to that cow, what pen the hogs belonged in, and which way a colt-fall would run on the way back to the brush pile.

OLD SANDY got into a lot of scrapes over the years — some for being a bit too eager, and some for just being in the wrong place at the wrong time.

That dog survived more than nine lives, dancing with danger time and time again.

Now, my father kept a pretty tight reign on his emotions while I was growing up.

That is to say that I was very familiar with the angry side of his emotional makeup, but rarely glimpsed the more vulnerable side of his personality.

He put on a tough face, even if his heart was crying inside.

FOR INSTANCE, I can count on one hand — with fingers left over — the times I saw him cry.

Those rare times are some of the most vivid and cherished boyhood memories I have of him.

Now, understand, it wasn't that he didn't care...just that men aren't supposed to do those things and tough country boys don't cry on outside even when their hearts break inside.

Well, Old Sandy triggered a tear in my father's eye over the years.

As that loyal friend struggled to recover from bone-crushing collisions with motor vehicles, tangles with unfriendly neighbor's dogs, and a number of other farm-related injuries, the agony of it touched my father more than once.

IT WAS HE...and no one else...who would nurse Old Sandy back to health.

And, Old Sandy lived for my father. No one will ever convince me otherwise.

For years, I witnessed the magic work for years between master and minion.

But, there came a day when Old Sandy bought the farm. That dog had gotten quite old and crippled, despite the fact that inside was the heart of a loyal puppy.

And, though my father had warned everyone to exercise caution when it came to working Old Sandy, the old farm friend's pride and loyalty often got in the way.

THE LIFETIME loyalty in Old Sandy killed that dog.

I was no longer on the family farm at the time, but my brother's tell the story with tears in their eyes.

One hot day, they headed for the field to bring in a flatbed load of hay.

And, Old Sandy was determined to go along. No amount of persuasion would convince that old dog to stay home in the patch of shade beneath the farmhouse porch.

Old Sandy was smart enough to scheme some. And, knowing there was little use in trying to trot along beside the tractor drawn flatbed, that old dog waited until the boys were well down the road.

THEN, in a burst of aging energy, Old Sandy followed, running well behind but nonetheless accompanying the hayhaulers.

As the story was told to me, Old Sandy made it to the field — tongue dragging on the ground and immediately crawled under the flatbed for shade and rest.

That old loyal friend almost died there. The forewarned hayhaulers, my brothers, headed for home with Old Sandy. But, that dog never saw another dawn on the Howell farmstead.

Though I was not there, I know my father wept. And, so it is was...the good dogs die young, no matter how old they have become.

THE AGONY came to me in a flashback a few weeks ago when a friend called to tell me that her husband's dog — a loyal family farm dog — was dead.

The dog was shot to death while following his master down a country road.

The dog — a bright, loyal, loving silver German Shepard that rarely left his master's side — had delayed what was to be his final run until the farmer was out of sight.

When they found the loyal companion two days later, he was buried on the farmstead by the man he knew as master.

His wife had seen the tears...tears from a man who rarely cried.

She felt his agony but could do little to ease it.

SHE KNEW the relationship went beyond the bounds of barking dogs and boyhood.

She knew this man had lost a once-in-a-lifetime companion — a good dog that all others would be judged against.

And, she knew the frustration of not knowing who killed the joy in her husband's heavy heart.

When she saw her husband's tears drop on an empty leather collar — the only thing left except the memories of a man's best friend — she, too, wept.

She told me she didn't know what to do.

I listened with tears in my eyes, knowing that the blessing of those two — the dog and his master — being together for such a short while was hard to see.

WE TALKED about the special relationship her husband had with the dog and I saw, once again, my father's face — the strong face of a farmer scratched by sadness.

We both knew the dog could be replaced, but had our doubts about the return of that special relationship.

We both wondered whether a good man would be lucky enough to have more than one good dog in a lifetime.

I've seen it happen.

Though, it is uncommon.

But then, sometimes uncommon things do happen to uncommon men.

Catch you in the country...

Skate fate

First the bad news: Wayne Skate & Recreation is no more. Now the good news: The building has been purchased by Region IV. No doubt, a number of area skaters will find little comfort in the fact that the closed roller rink will not reopen.

That is not only discouraging for the skating enthusiasts, particularly the youngsters of the Wayne area, but also disappointing from the standpoint of the lost business.

However, what's closed is closed.

Dwelling on the negative aspects of that diminish the positive aspects of the recent Region IV purchase of the roller rink.

Region IV, with long-range efficiency and cost savings in mind, has purchased the building in an effort to centralize its Wayne area services.

The purchase of the facility on Main Street south, not only represents a significant cost-benefit decision in terms of services centralization, but also signals a commitment by Region IV to remain in Wayne.

One of the largest employers in the city, if not the area, Region IV represents an impact on the economy of the community that cannot be overlooked.

The shift from ongoing rent receipts to permanent property ownership is a responsible fiscal decision that deserves applause.

And, though the skaters will mourn for the lost rink, the use of the Main Street facility by a centralized Region IV venture is a gain for Wayne.

There is no doubt that some will look at that gain as a lost business. However, roller rink business had been closed. It was no more.

That is, for all practical purposes, a separate question that needs addressing by Wayne's business and community leaders, but not at the expense of the welcome Region IV venture.

So if it is then...a sad goodbye to the roller rink and a hearty hello to Region IV.

Now, where do we skate?

USDA PIKs one pocket to pay another

The Payment-In-Kind (PIK) program is a land diversion program designed to bring agricultural commodity supplies more in line with demand.

Through PIK, the government will offer farmers an amount of commodity for reducing storage by a larger amount than called for under previously announced programs. PIK is basically simple.

A FARMER who takes out of production additional acres over what he agrees to take out under the current program will receive as payment a certain amount of the commodity he would have grown on these acres.

The commodity is his to do with as he wishes. Commodities for the PIK program will come from farmer-owned reserve, regular loan, or CCC-owned stocks.

In the past two years, U.S. and world grain production has reached record levels. At the same time, the sources of strength in the demand for U.S. agricultural products have been eroded by a variety of factors: weak economic conditions in the United States and throughout the rest of the world, financial instability in a number of countries, the strong U.S. dollar, losses related to the Soviet embargo, continued East-West tensions, unfair trade practices by some of our export competitors, and restrictive market actions by some foreign buyers.

Rising world production in the face of weakened demand has led to a sharp accumulation in world stocks.

BY THE END of 1982/83, world grain stocks will likely reach a record 260 million tons, nearly double the level of two years ago. This would be equal to two months' supply of grain, the highest global stocks-to-use ratio in more than a decade—and nearly 60 per cent of the stocks are in the United States.

U.S. stocks of nearly all major commodities have increased dramatically. By the end of the current 1982/83 crop year, compared with two years earlier, our ending stocks of rice and feed grains will have tripled.

The farmer-owned reserve for corn will have increased 12-fold approaching 2.5 billion bushels. The wheat reserve will have more than doubled and reached nearly one billion bushels.

Under the PIK program, total harvested acreage for the five crops included (wheat, corn, sorghum, cotton, and rice) is expected to be reduced by 23 million acres relative to previously announced programs. Total wheat, corn, and sorghum production will be reduced by over one billion bushels (10 per cent).

TOTAL ENDING stocks of wheat, corn, and sorghum for 1983/84 are expected to be reduced by over one billion bushels from levels expected under the previously announced 1983/84 programs and around 600 million bushels below 1982/83 levels.

congressman doug bereuter

Although production will be reduced, total supplies of grains and cotton will be ample to meet both foreign and domestic needs and ensure our role as a reliable supplier.

Sound conservation practices would be applied to 23 million acres more land than under previously announced 1983 programs.

Farmers can expect to receive the same or greater net returns while the stock adjustments are occurring. Commodity prices may not increase significantly in the near term, though they should firm as storage payments permit greater marketing flexibility and buyers realize that stocks are being reduced. Once stocks are reduced significantly through the PIK program, then substantial opportunities for price increases will exist.

COMMODITY CREDIT Corporation outlays, which totaled around $12 billion in fiscal year 1982, are expected to be reduced by over $3 billion during the two fiscal years, 1983 and 1984 relative to previously announced programs.

Signup for PIK began on Jan. 24 and ends on March 11. To participate in the program, farm operators must enroll in the previously announced acreage reduction and required land diversion program.

An operator may sign up for a 10 to 30 per cent reduction of his acreage base and, beyond that, may submit a bid for taking out more than 30 per cent — up to 100 per cent. However, the amount diverted may not exceed 50 per cent of the total base in any particular county.

Operators sign up in the county ASCS office. U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have set up a toll-free line for producers and others who are interested in details on the program. The number is (800) 368-5942. Calls can be made between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. daily.

OF COURSE, I recognize that this approach to reducing economic problems on the farm may have short-term adverse effects upon the agri-business sector. An implement dealer in Tecumseh or Hartington may very well see some short-term difference in his business.

My family business in Ufaia that sells fuel to farmers will see a drop in business. We must realize, however, that the economic health of our rural areas ultimately depends on the farmers' income.

Once a climate of prosperity is restored to the farm family, all of our business will benefit.

To the editor:

This is in regard to the cheese handout issue.

Hooray to Wayne City Administrator Phil Kloster and the people wishing to promote the cheese handout.

At least they are showing some common sense on this issue. Our commissioners certainly are not.

Our taxpayer money has already been spent on this program. The federal government is trying to reduce storage costs and our commissioners turn it down.

In other words, my tax money will benefit people outside this county. Whose interests are the commissioners looking after anyway? Certainly not the taxpayers of this county.

On a recent WJAG Radio "Voice of the People" program it was stated that South Dakota's cheese program was open to the general public. If that was the case here the commissioners wouldn't have to worry about eligibility requirements.

In conclusion, I have always believed, that in any controversial issue, common sense should be the rule. It is about time our commissioners used some on this issue.

Name withheld on request.

To the editor:

Cheese whiz, Randy Howell and Wayne County Commissioners you are my kind of people!

If only there were more around like you in the city of Wayne and Wayne County would be a better place.

SOS leaders trained at Concord

Behavior change to promote weight control was the topic for the "Save Our Shapes" (SOS) workshop held Friday, Jan. 21 at the Northeast Station, Concord.

Sessions were conducted by Katherine Riddle, Ph.D., extension food and nutrition specialist, and Leon Rottmann, Ph.D., extension human development specialist, both from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Thirty-eight persons from six counties were in attendance.

BEHAVIOR change is an inexpensive manner for controlling weight. In addition, there is a low risk factor.

Behavior change basically involves analyzing present behavior and eating habits, then choosing diet changes and activity changes that will result in lower calorie intake and a greater energy input.

Setting weight goals and changing food habits are not easy activities.

Riddle and Rottmann recommended setting easy-to-reach short term goals so that gradual progress and change become recognizable soon after a weight control program is started.

PERSONS attending the workshop were encouraged to become SOS leaders for weight control groups in their locality.

Attending were Carol Beans and Phyllis Chamber, Dakota City; Ruth Volk and Dorothy Unkel, Battle Creek; Nile Buck, Helen Schweers, Sherry Peterson and Phyllis Lahrs, all of Ponca; Kathy Young, Carolyn Jones, Phyllis Ruback and Violet Tompkins, all of South Sioux City; Gloria Oberg, Allen; Vivian Muller, Crystal Carlson, Mary Downey, Virginia Gustafson and LaVerne Helthold, all of Wakefield; Marci Rohrberg, Lyla Swanson, Susan Siefken, Beverly Ruwe and Melinda Lutt, While fashion may dictate what colors are in season, the visual illusions colors create never change.

When selecting clothes or fabric the consumer needs to be aware of the effects of color.

In general, warm colors such as red, orange and yellow are considered advancing, stimulating and exciting. They make objects or shapes appear large or more important.

COOL COLORS, such as blue, green and violet are considered receding, quieting and reserved. These colors make shapes and areas appear smaller and less important.

When any color is darkened or grayed, black is added to the color, the area appears smaller and less well defined. The opposite is true if the color is lightened or brightened by adding white.

If you want to minimize a large body build, then cool colors that have been grayed are most effective. Bright reds and yellows will help a person with a small body build appear larger.

SOMETIMES YOUR favorite color is not flattering to your figure. In that case try wearing the color in a small amount as a belt, scarf, or other accessory.

Your wardrobe colors also need to be selected with hair color, eyes and skin tone in consideration.

For example, your skin has undertones of rose, pink or brown with a reddish hue and your hair has gold undertones such as platinum or ashblond, auburn red, black or snow white. Your personal coloring is considered cool, and cool colors or those with red or blue undertones will be most flattering.

MAYBE YOUR skin has undertones of peach-pink or yellow to golden and your hair has gold undertones such as honey or strawberry-blond, rust red, brown or brownish black and creamy white.

With this coloring your most flattering colors are warm or those with an orange or yellow undertone.

It is important to look for the undertones that are flattering and avoid those which drain color from your skin or make it appear too ruddy or sallow.

THE BEST way to decide if a color is flattering is still the mirror test. Hold the fabric or garment in front of you and consider how the color works with your skin, hair, eyes and figure.

Choosing the right color can make a major difference in how you appear to others and yourself.

Consider color carefully next time you buy a garment or fabric.

Emerson whips Allen Eagles

Allen's two-game basketball comeback snapped Friday night as Emerson-Hubbard dashed the Eagles victory hopes by a dozen points.

The Eagles lost to Emerson-Hubbard 67-55 before a hometown crowd after winning the last two Allen outings — one against Bancroft-Rosalie and the other against Decatur.

Derwin Roberts led the Eagles' losing effort with 12 points. And, teammate Troy Harder was on Roberts' heels with 11 points.

ALLEN-OUTSHOT Emerson-Hubbard at the free-throw lines, connecting with 60 percent of the attempts.

Emerson-Hubbard managed a 50 percent hit from the lines, but Jerry Mackling popped 17 points as top scorer. Bill Paulsen was two off the pace with 15 points for the night.

Dean Fuchser and Steve Larsen also got into the double-digit column with 13 and 10 points, respectively, for the Emerson-Hubbard victory.

The score didn't tell the whole story, as the Eagles soared in the rebounding category with a 33 to 26 edge on Emerson-Hubbard.

ROBERTS AND HARDER also led the rebounding effort with 13 and 7, respectively.

"It was a good, aggressive first half by both teams," said Allen coach Dave Uldrich. "We played really well, but we had some lapses."

Uldrich said his squad started a run on the Emerson-Hubbard players in the fourth quarter, but couldn't overcome the lead.

Allen outscored the Emerson-Hubbard squad 23 to 22 in the final quarter, but the third quarter scoring margin put the game out of reach.

After playing even ball for the first and second quarters, Emerson-Hubbard grabbed 19 points in the third quarter to Allen's 10.

SHAWN MAHLER led his Eagle teammates in steals, taking the ball from Emerson-Hubbard three times.

The Eagles headed for the lockers at halftime trailing by only 4 points, but Emerson-Hubbard put on a scoring spurt in the third quarter to set it at 45-32.

Allen pumped 23 points through the hoop during the final quarter, but Emerson-Hubbard held on with 22 to hand the Eagles the loss.

Allen plays Ponca Monday.

Wayne sharpshooting on target

Blue Devils stop Cadets

Area fans saw an action-packed performance Friday night as the Wayne Blue Devils clobbered the West Point Cadets 78-65 in boys basketball.

The Blue Devils controlled the game from the start as the Cadets opened with weak shooting.

Wayne's sharpshooting Blue Devils grabbed the advantage and nailed it to the boards with rebounding.

BY THE END of the first quarter, the Blue Devils had a 24-12 lead.

The pressure was on in the second quarter as the teams traded baskets.

And, though the Blue Devils had two back-to-back turnovers near the end of the quarter, the squad never lost its poise.

Wayne led at halftime 41-30.

In the third quarter, sharpshooter Don Larsen pumped them in on target as he and his Blue Devils teammates worked even harder for the win.

WAYNE OUTSCORED the Cadets with 28 points. Foul trouble capped West Point's scoring at 15.

The Blue Devils has a 69-45 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

In the last quarter, the action slowed but the scoring continued. Wayne worked to a 77-55 lead with 2 minutes to go.

Coach Bill Sharpe went to the reserves, but the defense couldn't hold the Cadets.

Despite that, the West Point score wasn't enough when the clock ran out.

The Blue Devils won 78-64.

THE WAYNE Junior Varsity had a tougher time in its close-scoring game with West Point.

West Point nipped the Blue Devils 53-47.

Allen girls outgunned by Emerson

The Allen Eagles, pitted Thursday night against a tough Emerson team, lost their battle with a final 39-34 score.

The host Eagles managed to tie the Emerson team at the end of the first quarter, but trailed by two points at halftime.

The Eagles, behind by eight points at the end of the third quarter, managed to put their game back together in the fourth quarter when they scored 18 points.

In the end, however, Emerson went on to win the game by a five point margin.

Allen's leading rebounder was Tamj Jewell with five.

"WE LOOKED forward to a good game. We knew Emerson had a good team," said Allen coach Gary Troth.

Troth said the Eagles were hurt most at the end of the second quarter and into the third quarter when the team shot 3 for 23.

"I was real pleased the way the offense worked the ball, and defensively I thought we did a real good job," said Troth.

Troth was pleased his team was able to hold Emerson's high scoring Mary Walsh to just nine points.

ALTHOUGH ALLEN was behind as much as eight points in the third quarter, the Eagles managed to pull ahead at one time by two points in the final quarter of the game.

"I thought we had turned the momentum a little bit," said Allen's coach, "but we made a couple of mental mistakes that cost us seven points.

Emerson went on to pull ahead by five points, the final game margin.

structure inside, with such things as moveable walls," he added.

WITH REGARD to the additional space available, Tiedtke said "It's hard to determine what and how the clientele will be using it 10 years down the road."

He said the Region IV board surveyed other recently built facilities and found that, when all was said and done, the price was more like $47 to $55 per square foot.

"In addition to the cost-benefit factor, it represents a definite commitment on the part of Region IV...that Region IV is going to stay in Wayne," Tiedtke added.

The local headquarters office serves some 350 clients in 20 counties with seven services centers, including the one in Wayne.

OTHER SERVICES centers include Bloomfield, Columbus, Lyons, O'Neill, Norfolk and South Sioux City.

Region IV has a staff of 230 full-time-equivalent positions, which translates into a personnel headcount of some 330.

The current budget, about $3.9 million, is under the jurisdiction of a Region IV board. One county commissioner from each of the 20 counties involved serves on the board.

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR LOCAL IDS REPRESENTATIVE.

"IS YOUR IRA DOING ALL IT SHOULD BE DOING FOR YOU?"

All IRAs are not alike. In fact, there are as many different Individual Retirement Accounts as there are ways to invest your money in them.

Maybe your IRA isn't yielding its full earning potential. Or perhaps it should be providing you with stronger capital growth opportunities.

We can make sure your IDS investment is geared to your specific needs. You see, at IDS we offer a wider range of funding vehicles than you can get from a bank, a savings and loan association or an insurance company. We'll help you choose from an extensive list of mutual and money market funds, annuities, and investment certificates.

Now is the time to make sure your IRA investment pays off. And IDS is the place. Call or send in our coupon today for more information.

YES, I'd like more information about alternative IRA plans.

card of thanks

I WOULD LIKE to thank those of you that remembered me with cards, letters, gifts, flowers and visits while I was in the hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Bob and Walter Benthack and Gary West. Also, to Sister Gertrude who is always there with a prayer when you need them the most. Thanks also to the staff at Providence Medical Center. God bless you all. Allene Sievers. [31]

A VERY HUMBLE thank you once again to our family for being there when needed, and to two very special people for all the trips made to Omaha while Chris was in the hospital. It is indeed appreciated when they can find time in this busy old world of ours to help others. Thank you to Pastor Hanson for his visit and prayers and to everyone for all the cards and phone calls showing their concern. Chris and Verona Bargholz. [31]
