Wayne agrees to go it again

Second cheese handout set

It's the second time around for Wayne's cheese handout.

Despite the fact that the February handout was touted by Wayne city officials as a one-time distribution of surplus cheese, the program is back again.

And, again, the Wayne Senior Citizens Center will distribute the U.S. Department of Agriculture cheese.

ACCORDING TO Georgia Janssen, center director, the cheese will be handed out from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 6.

The last handout was handed at the center on Feb. 4, after the city volunteered to take on the federal welfare program which was rejected by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"Apparently, it is on a when-available basis," explained Phil Kloster, city administrative director, whose January administrative decision, granted the senior citizens permission to handle the handout program at the request of Janssen.

"As soon as they have it, they ship it," added Kloster, who said that the May shipment had already arrived in Wayne.

"THE SENIOR citizens decided to go ahead and hand it out as soon as they could, rather than store it until May," Kloster added.

Kloster said the county board again rejected the state Department of Welfare's request to have the Wayne County Welfare Department handle the handout.

"They (state welfare officials) contacted the senior citizens again on the handout," Kloster said. "And, they (senior citizens) agreed to do it again."

The center has 1,020 pounds, or 204 5-lb. bricks, of "free cheese," according to Janssen.

"If there is any remaining, it will be given out on Thursday, April 7," Janssen said.

INCOME GUIDELINES will again be followed, according to Janssen.

Also, proof of residence, such as a drivers license or light bill receipt will be needed with Social Security cards, Janssen said.

"Those who cannot pick up the cheese themselves may send the necessary documents authorizing an individual to pick up the cheese," Janssen said.

Income guidelines are based on a formula reflecting members per household.

Household size and annual income levels are: 1—$7,970; 2—$10,530; 3—$13,080;

4—$15,630; 5—$18,190; 6—$20,740; 7—$23,290; 8—$25,840; and 9—$28,390.

THE SECOND 1983 handout comes on the heels of USDA Secretary John Block's announcement earlier this week that the government will soon donate surplus corn meal, rice and non-fat dry milk to states for the welfare program.

Surplus butter and cheese already are available through the program. Only cheese has been handed out in Wayne.

Non-fat dry milk is currently available in a few areas, including Washington, Minnesota, Florida and, ironically, Wayne County, Mich.

According to Block's announcement, the first shipments of corn meal, rice and powdered milk could be delivered to the states in May.

CHUCK KREYMBORG of Producers Livestock Marketing Cooperative.

Hog marketing group buys Wayne salebarn

Farmers Livestock Auction Inc. of Wayne has exchanged hands.

Producers Livestock Marketing Cooperative of Sioux City has leased the facility located on South Logan Street and will use it as a hog marketing association.

"The purpose of our association is to take individual farmers' hogs and put them together so we have a pot load to sell to packers," said livestock salesman Chuck Kreymborg, who plans to move with his family from Ida Grove to Wayne in late May.

THE HOG MARKETING association may be able to offer between 400 and 600 hogs to a packer at one time. The idea is that farmers with small quantities of hogs won't have to try to deal with packers.

Hogs will be received Monday through Friday from 6:30 to 9 a.m. Farmers Auction will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Kreymborg said the early delivery time is because the association is sending hogs hundreds of miles. Last year, Producers Livestock Marketing Cooperative sold hogs to more than 30 packers, he said. They sold to packers in Nebraska, Iowa, Detroit, Mississippi, Texas and Colorado.

"We have many outlets for hogs," said Kreymborg.

HOGS CAN be sold any of these three ways: grade and yield, live Wayne weights and plant delivered weights.

Hogs are sold at Wayne's Farmers Livestock Auction the day before delivery. That way the shipper is given a firm price before he delivers the hogs.

Kreymborg said the business is trying to reserve Wednesdays for sows, boars and call hogs. One person in the area will be hired to help Kreymborg.

Producers Livestock Marketing Cooperative has two similar associations in Nebraska and two in Iowa in conjunction with the Farm Bureau. The group, which sells hogs for commission, took over the Wayne business on March 14.

Kreymborg plans to move to Wayne with his wife Donna and daughter Mary following the school year. Mary will be a senior at Wayne-Carroll High School. Chuck and Donna also have four children who are out of school.

The right chemistry

1980 WHS grad appears in UNL recruitment booklet

By Randall Howell

The right kind of chemistry can make things happen.

And, at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the right kind of chemistry has made things happen for a 1980 Wayne High School graduate.

It has thrust 21-year-old Marvin Hansen, a Wayne County native, into the limelight on the pages of a just-published UNL chemistry recruitment brochure.

THE MIDDLE son of Donna and Lester Hansen, rural Wayne, Marvin appears in three photographs accompanied by a story on his UNL Chemistry Department experiences.

The testimonial interview with Wayne County farmer's son also offers glimpses into his college preparation courses at Wayne High School.

The 24-page UNL recruitment brochure, which features both color and black-and-white photography, focuses on the UNL chemistry education pursuits of seven students, introduces the curriculum and profiles the Chemistry Department faculty.

HANSEN, WHO is planning for a chemistry teaching career at the college level, is profiled on pages 4 and 5 of the booklet with a black-and-white photograph, plus two color photographs showing him working in a UNL chemistry laboratory.

"He kept it kind of quiet," explained his mother, who works at State National Bank & Trust Co. of Wayne. "But we were just down there yesterday (Thursday) and found out about it."

The chemistry major, Hansen grew up on his parents' family farm, which is about 7 miles northwest of Wayne.

A product of the Wayne-Carroll School System, Hansen "took all the available mathematics courses through pre-calculus, completed a year and a half of chemistry, and one year each of biology and physics" at Wayne High School, according to the recruitment booklet.

AMONG HIS teachers in the Wayne-Carroll system were Duane Blomenkamp, Robert Porter and Beulah Bornhoff, who has retired.

Hansen, who also was active in football and track at Wayne High School, participated in the system's speech program, including several one-act plays.

"I think it is tremendous...we're really proud of him, as we are of all our children," Hansen's mother told The Wayne Herald Friday.

Hansen, who was valedictorian of his class, also took three years of German at Wayne High School.

"He polished off his university foreign language requirement in a single semester at UNL," the booklet states.

Crediting Wayne High School with his "solid preparation," Hansen says this: "I could have learned more in my high school courses if I'd really applied myself, but at least I had some initial exposure to topics which I've encountered at the university. English classes in high school were a big help in providing practice in writing."

ACCORDING TO the recruitment booklet, Hansen supplemented his first-year chemistry and calculus courses with classes in speech, psychology and sociology.

His sophomore year included organic chemistry courses, two semesters of physics, more mathematics and classes in composition and Greek mythology, according to the UNL booklet, which is titled "Experience Chemistry at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln."

Hansen, who began his undergraduate chemistry research in his sophomore year, is now taking physical chemistry, analytical chemistry, biology, physics and short-story courses, according to the brochure.

A REGENTS scholar, Hansen also has earned a Lorch Scholarship to help defray UNL education costs.

He also works part time as a teaching assistant and a research assistant in chemistry.

According to the booklet, last summer

MARVIN HANSEN works in a chemistry laboratory at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The photographs are from a UNL recruitment bulletin that profiles Hansen.

Headed for graduate school, Hansen says: "I enjoy helping other people learn and it keeps me brushed up on what I learned a few semesters ago."

HANSEN, WHOSE grandmother, Anne Lage, lives in Wayne, has two older brothers — Kevin, 25, who farms with his parents, and David, 23, a 1982 Wayne State College graduate working in Wayne.

His only sister, Connie, 18, is a freshman at Wayne State College. And, his younger brother, Dale, 15, is a freshman at Wayne High School.

A National Honor Society student at Wayne High School, Hansen was active in 4-H as a youngster.

He and his bride-to-be, Rhonda Wilson of rural Pender, have plans to be married on July 2.

She is the daughter of Melvin and Betty Wilson, Pender area farmers. Rhonda is in nursing training at Bryan Memorial Hospital, Lincoln.

Hansen worked with Dr. Raymond Funk as a laboratory research assistant, where he learned specialized techniques for studying natural product chemistry.

Hansen's undergraduate research project, which is expected to be published soon, involves a study of nitro-oxymethylene reactions, the brochure explains.

country boy. . .

Howdy.
 Stop this winter... I wanna get off.
 Enough, already.
 And, that comes from a country boy who likes winters.
 It's not the cold, because it's been quite mild, really. But it is the duration.

I CAN'T stand it anymore. The monotony of a single-season climate is killing me.
 I've become obsessed. Even the falling snowflake has begun to crash around my ears.
 The stubbornness of my thermometer sends me into an exasperated temper tantrum.
 And, I'm really getting frosted about the possibility of having to buy another windshield scraper before spring.
 The periodic drone of the furnace in the basement of my home has driven me to distraction.
 And, I'm about to take some unconscionable action against the gardening catalog industry for maliciously sewing the seeds of spring in a mind frozen with fixation on an endless winter.

WHO MAKES the decisions about these things anyway?
 I've written my congressmen, my senators and the National Weather Service with no measurable success.
 No one seems to know who made the decision to prolong the pain by delaying the onset of spring.
 I'm about half convinced there's a lobbyist in Washington DC who has somehow slipped an amendment onto another bill that passed and got signed into law before anyone knew what it was about.
 You and I know that happens all the time.

IF THAT'S the case, I'm convinced someone ought to get a spring lobby effort going to counter the effects of the underhanded winter lobby.
 I don't know about you, but I'm about half convinced that this endless winter is just another example of bureaucratic bumbulding.
 I've known for years that the government, sooner or later, would screw up everything, including the weather.
 Now it has happened...and we continue to put up with it.
 Why do you think Ronald Reagan wants to sell the government owned weather satellites and services to private business?

RALPH NADER thinks he's doing it just to irritate consumers.
 But, it's not so. Reagan knows that the business track record in this country is far better than that of the bureaucrats.
 And, if you ask me, it's starting to look like it's going to take the resources of private business to bring spring to northeast Nebraska.
 As far as I'm concerned, that's a good enough reason to support Reagan in 1984.
 Everybody talks about the weather, but Reagan is going to do something about it.

And, I really don't know why Nader is so angry about it anyway.
 It gives him a ready-made subject for his next book: 'Unsafe at Any Season.'

I TALKED to a fella the other day who is convinced that this endless winter thing is nothing but a pinko, commie plot to destroy the minds of Americans.
 He swore he had hard evidence that the pinko, commie freaks have finally and successfully infiltrated the National Weather Service.
 And, he made some long-winded arguments for accurate, on schedule, private sector weather forecasts.
 He's had it with the commie crap (government guesswork) that keeps putting 3 feet of partly cloudy on his sidewalk.
 "That's how those commies work," he said. "Sure as shootin', they tell you one thing and do another."

WHEN I REMINDED him that the weather is usually considered an act of God, he went into another long-winded tale.
 He reminded me that the Lord talks to the pope and "those commies already tried to kill him." I must admit, he had me for a few moments.
 But, you've gotta understand that I'm ripe for any reasonable argument about who is responsible for this endless winter.
 Just to show you how gullible I am, I signed up as a charter member in this guy's newly formed organization — the Society for the Prevention of Recurring Incompetence in National Government (SPRING).
 One of the main thrusts, of course, is to get the weather back off course, and then, of course, to stay the course.

I CAN HEAR you laughing at me.
 Stop it. What are you doing to get spring sprung, anyway?
 It's guys like me and organizations like SPRING that give you the opportunity to get on the golf course in April instead of July.
 I don't laugh at your membership in the country club. So, don't laugh at my membership in SPRING.
 You're too busy slicing balls into the underbrush to see the pinko commies for the greens.
 Someone has to take on those commie freaks or the weather will never be the same again.
 Do you want that? Well, do you?

I'VE NEVER played pasture pool, but I know how important it is when it comes to keeping America strong.
 As the weather goes, so goes the golfing. And, as golfing goes, so goes America. The links are there, it's that simple.
 And, that's just one example — perhaps, the best one — of how important it is for freedom loving, red-blooded, patriotic Americans to rally 'round the flag for SPRING.
 Individual lifetime membership costs less than the price of a good golf ball. And, it stays on the course.

For the low, low price of $1, you can become a life member in SPRING, with full voting rights and privileges.

MEMBERS MEET twice a year, wherever they can. The first meeting is on Feb. 2 (traditional Groundhog's Day) each year, and the second meeting is on March 21, (traditional First Day of SPRING).
 During the first meeting, members set goals for the year. And, during the second meeting, members assess the accomplishments of the organization, including officers, in meeting those goals.
 That's it, your free to fight commies for the rest of the year. To encourage lifetime memberships, those who are unable to commit themselves to long range causes are offered associate memberships (renewable annually by authorization of a card carrying SPRINGER) for $5.

ASSOCIATE members have all the privileges afforded by the organization, but are barred from voting at the meetings.
 Family lifetime memberships ($2) are available in special cases. For the purposes of clarity, families are defined as living groups, or arrangements, involving more than one person.
 When it comes to membership requirements, it makes no difference whether or not you are a golfer. But, it helps to know one, or know someone who knows one.
 Wallet size membership cards, handsomely printed in black and white, are issued to all members in good standing.

THE CARDS are emblazoned with the name of the organization. Unsigned cards are invalid and jeopardize the membership standing the holder.
 Duplicate cards will be issued — at an additional cost of $1 — for split personalities and moonlighters.
 Children under 12 are not eligible for individual membership unless they make a fuss about it.
 And, children over 12 are not eligible if they know the full 9 digit zip code for their hometown.
 SPRING bylaws prohibit the harassment of members with organizational magazines, special insurance programs, dinner time telephone calls, and promotional paraphernalia on personal improvement.

IN SHORT, SPRING is a low profile organization with a little clout.
 For instance, a membership card and about 30 cents will get you a cup of coffee almost anywhere in town.
 There are exceptions to that, such as hardware stores and jewelry stores.
 Once SPRING arrives at a solution to the endless winter, other projects will get some priority.
 One of the organizations goals is to mount an all out campaign to find out why a country that can produce personal computers cannot make a ball point pen that doesn't leak.
 Preliminary evidence, also indicates that the pinko, commie freaks are behind the ball point pen conspiracy.

A NATION of people who cannot write without getting ink stained, will soon stop writing and start thinking.
 Or worse, yet, will start delegating the writing to those revolutionaries who relish the idea of capturing your mind in a personal computer and stealing what little you know.
 It's clear to the commies that patriotic Americans who are afraid to sign their name will stop writing checks to support the bureaucracy that made this country great.
 That means bankruptcy...and that makes us another easy target for the commies. You can't fight commie infiltrators with Mastercharge or Visa.

STEALING YOUR mind is strictly a cash-and-carry business with those commies.
 That's what your SPRING card is all about. You just don't leave home without it.
 Another long range project, in case your interested, is to get those commies out of the breakfast cereal box business.
 It's high time America's breakfast eaters were able to get a cereal box open and closed without destroying the contents and the package.
 Pinko, commie freak infiltration has weakened the soldiers in the war against communism by creating a nation of breakfast skippers.
 You can't move an army on an empty stomach, and the commie's know that.

IF YOU DOUBT that conspiracy, try to remember the last time you saw a communist skip breakfast.
 It just doesn't happen.
 SPRING is aware of how big this threat is and how humbling it is for the head of the household to fail at simple "lift here" and "insert here" instructions.
 It's demoralizing an entire nation of adults, while the kids eat sugar coated, pink commie corn pellets for breakfast, and still government bureaucrats do nothing.
 Those, and several more examples of recurring incompetency in national government, will be on the agenda for next year's first meeting.

BY THE WAY, members are encouraged to send their suggestions for the 1984 SPRING agenda.
 Nonmembers are to be discouraged from suggesting anything.
 As a charter member, I've been asked to handle membership. So, if you want to join, spring for the membership fee, which covers the cost of getting the organization's printer off his duff.
 Be sure to include your name and address, so that when SPRING has sprung we'll know who is responsible.
 In addition, it'll help us get the card to you, unless those commies are the guys behind postage stamps that won't stick to envelopes.
 Catch you in the country.

IRAs open to nearly everyone

In the past, individual retirement accounts were only available to those who were not covered by a qualified pension plan.
 But since the beginning of 1982, they have been available to almost everyone who works for a salary.
 The new law allows anyone who earns a salary, whether earned in a part-time or full-time job, to invest up to $2,000 a year in an IRA. If both husband and wife are employed, they may each invest $2,000.

THAT MONEY is deducted from your taxable income and will not be taxed until you start withdrawing it after age 59 and one half. Interest and dividends are not taxable, either, until you start withdrawing with money.
 Although $2,000 is the maximum you can contribute to a plan, there is no minimum.
 And it doesn't matter whether you contribute in small amounts over the course of the year or deposit one lump sum by the due date for your income tax return for the previous year.
 The U.S. Department of Agriculture has recently approved several blended credit packages for the sale of agricultural commodities to foreign countries.

UNDER THE Commodity Credit Corporation blended credit program, interest-free direct credits are blended with government-guaranteed credits under the export credit guarantee program.
 A package of $230 million was approved for Iraq, including purchases of $80 in wheat, $5 million in seed corn, $10 million in soybean meal, and $10 million in protein concentrates for animal feed.
 IF YOU ARE involved with a business that is planning to produce booklets explaining a product or service or just educating consumers in marketplace skills, check with the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals in Business.
 They have produced standards for consumer education programs in conjunction with the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs.
 If you would like a free copy of these voluntary standards, send your name and address to SOCAP, 4900 Leesburg Pike, Alexandria, Virginia 22304.

Media moaners should mind store

By Frank J. Fahrenkopf
 Republican National Committee

In an old fable, an Eastern prince tours his jail and listens to the occupants protesting their innocence.
 When he finally comes across a self-confessed pickpocket, he releases him from prison, wryly saying: "I'm only doing this so that you don't corrupt all these innocent people."
 There is no shortage of people who argue their innocence and moan about receiving unfair treatment at the hands of the media.
 MANY CONSERVATIVES howl at being skewered by a predominantly liberal press. They lament that today's journalists are simply not as objective as yesterday's.
 "Not so!" cry just as many liberals, bleating out complaints of an insensitively and increasingly establishment press corps.
 The journalists add to the cacophony, this time protesting their innocence and objectivity. As it happens, all three positions are partially wrong.
 The notion of a totally objective press is a laudable goal, but effectively unobtainable. Like other goals — finding fresh vegetables in restaurants, or marrying perfect spouses — they are things we hope for but never really achieve.

From the broadsheets and "penny dreadfuls" of the 18th century, through the abolitionist and anti-abolitionist press of the Civil War period, and into modern times, papers have had points of view.
 IT IS NOT ALL that surprising since papers are written by people, and people, whether we agree or disagree, have opinions which can color their judgment, subliminally or otherwise.
 What is important is that the American media is comprised of tens of thousands of people with as many different viewpoints, that their customers demand honest and straight-forward news, and that the competitive market for news, in print, in radio or in television, provides real incentives for journalists to do their jobs as well as they can.
 With few exceptions, the biggest moaners about media bias are the people who have not been doing their own jobs so well. Capturing the public's attention is not much different from capturing a reporter's attention.
 You must say something worthwhile, say it honestly and clearly, and make certain that it means something to people. The best written speech on the buggy whip industry will attract little attention, as will an important, but marble-mouthed utterance on the U.S. economy.

 AS A REPUBLICAN, I feel strongly about President Reagan's economic successes, yet polls show that most Americans are unaware that inflation is less than it was two years ago, having fallen from 13.2 percent to less than 3.9 percent.
 Some moaners shouted "Aha!" and pointed to media bias, yet since economic recovery has begun to take off, and since we Republicans have begun talking about our successes, there has been no shortage of comprehensive and reasonably fair media coverage.
 The comic songwriter, Tom Lehrer, once said that "If people complain about not being able to communicate, the very least they should do is shut up."
 Perhaps it is too strongly said, but politicians of either camp should think about spending more time doing their own jobs and less time complaining about the press.

August augury

Inauguration.
 It's a word that has come to connote officiousness and rhetorical ritual. However, that is not what it means.
 And, last Saturday's inauguration of Dr. Ed Elliott as the seventh president of Wayne State College was more in keeping with the meaning than the connotation.
 Inauguration, of course, is the noun form of the verb inaugurate. Inaugurate means to begin formally, to initiate, or to commence.
 The word was formed from the Latin inaugurari and has its origins in the Latin inaugurare, which means to take auguries — the plural form of augury.
 Augury is the art or practice of an augur. And, that goes way back to ancient Rome. An augur was a member of a body of ancient Roman officials charged with observing and interpreting omens (signs and signals) for guidance in public affairs.
 Unfortunately today, the pomp and circumstance of the institutionalized ceremony often has carried beyond the meaning of the mission, usually marked by an inaugural address.
 Not at Wayne State College, however.
 If you listened carefully to Dr. Elliott last Saturday, the message came through loud and clear in the best sense of the word inaugurate.
 The WSC president demonstrated — beyond the pageantry — a clarity of vision that would have been applauded, and heeded, by the ancient Romans.
 In a very few, exacting words, Elliott was able to put the mission of modern higher education where it should be, acknowledge where it is, and offer guidelines to close the gap.
 It was an extraordinary presentation, presented by an extraordinary college and community leader.
 And, those who lost themselves in inaugural ritual may have missed the meaning of the moment.
 It was an important moment...a moment that formally and publicly marked the beginning of a new era in higher education for Wayne State College and the world well beyond it.
 Indeed, that inaugural moment also marked the beginning of a new era for all of us.
 Thank you, president and prognosticator Elliott, for an august augury.

news and notes

mary temme extension agent-home economics

Is there a home computer in your future? Home computers can be used for an amazing variety of tasks. The possible benefits may be out of this world. How do you decide?

Home computers aren't for everybody. You must have a need and the inclination to learn to use your new tool. Possibly the most important thing to remember is the fact that a computer won't bring you many benefits unless you use the programs.

HOME BUSINESS operators might easily benefit from a home computer. Family farm operations are natural as are real estate or insurance businesses.

A home day-care provider might use the computer to keep financial records and enrollment data. Other home businesses might keep inventories or customer mailing lists on their computer. What about the daily, family-oriented household tasks? Will a computer be a benefit to the homemaker?

STORING HOUSEHOLD financial records and holiday mailing lists is fast and neat. But, if you weren't the type to "get organized" before, a computer probably won't change you. A few file folders, pencil and paper may do the job just as well.

Writing and calculating can be simplified by using a computer. Decide how much you would use these functions. An electronic typewriter or hand-held calculator might meet your needs just as well. A home computer also can be fun and educational. Computer-assisted instruction can tutor family members in foreign languages, math or other subjects.

A computer in the home also gives your children more opportunity to become accustomed to an electronic world.

IF A NEED for a home computer exists, you must decide if you have the time and energy to learn how it works.

It takes time to learn the skills that will make the computer work for you.

Now that you've decided the needs justify the cost, you may need a few guides to help you through the computer shopping maze.

Begin by reading computer-salesman terminology so you can ask the following questions.

- Where can I turn if there are problems? Is service available locally?
- What's included in the warranty?
- What's the total cost, including software you may want?
- What software is available to fit your needs? Will you want to pay extra for specially written programs?
- What capabilities does the computer have? Will it fit your future needs?
- Will you be notified if the company produces new software or finds problems with software currently on the market?

ONCE YOU'VE answered these questions to your satisfaction you're ready to make the big purchase. For some families, the time and price is right to own a home computer. Others may feel the computer age is still far in the future.

laurel-concord schools

Our Town
The "Claremont Junction" Bears? — It doesn't sound right does it? Yet, had history taken a different course, Laurel would not be "Laurel" but "Claremont Junction" or "Hartington Crossing" as the town was first called.

Claremont was located northwest of the present town of Laurel. The Northwestern Railroad, stopped in Claremont. Claremont had a depot, post office, store, and a few homes.

In 1891, another settlement, Laurel, began to spring up at the Northwestern and Shore Line Railroads crossing. W. M. Martin, Laurel's first promoter, bought land at Laurel's present site. Laurel was named for Martin's daughter, Laura.

For many years the Northwestern Railroad refused to recognize Laurel and would not stop its trains in the young town. Yet, the young town continued to grow. The Claremont store closed and moved to Laurel. Soon, the Claremont Post Office also closed, and a new post office was built in Laurel. By 1892, over 30 substantial buildings had been completed in Laurel.

In 1893, the railroad commissioners were called to Laurel. After much bickering, the commissioners were convinced to build a new depot and stop trains in Laurel. Thus came the end of Claremont, and Laurel was firmly established.

Farms in the Laurel area were well established, and the two railroads gave Laurel a definite advantage. Therefore, the little town grew, reaching a population of 514 in 1901.

Despite hardships such as a 1900 fire that caused $20,000 worth of damage to the town, Laurel has grown to a small, thriving city.

Teacher Hobbies
It is surprising that the teachers at Laurel-Concord chose the careers they did. Their interests seem to revolve around the outdoor life. Many have filled up their spare time with hunting, fishing, backpacking, and canoeing. Why do teachers enjoy the outdoors? John Jonas responded that it's family involvement and good outdoor experience.

Athletic hobbies came in second for popularity. Golfing, skiing, racquetball, swimming, and tennis are among the tops. When asked why he took up physical activities, Craig Rostad said, "I love skiing! And I'm trapped out here without my mountain."

Many others responded alike, saying that their sport was fun and relaxing.

What sort of hobbies did the Laurel-Concord teachers have as children? This question raised many answers. Some collected stuffed animals, bugs, bees, bottle caps, and paper dolls. Others started an wars, played "bully," and cops and robbers. Others made mud pies, ate hotdogs, ate apple pie, and bought chevys.

Teachers had strange hobbies as children, but they seemed to have straightened out in the end.

Easter
Easter, a holiday that celebrates the resurrection of Jesus Christ, falls between March 22 and April 25 each year. This year it falls on April 3.

Some say the word Easter, originates from the name of an Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, but some feel it is derived from the Old High German eastarum meaning plural of dawn.

Easter is also related to the Ascension and the sending of the Holy Spirit to the church.

Easter is not merely a memory of past events, but also of new life shared by those believing in Jesus Christ.

In the early churches, Easter was thought to be the appropriate time for the administration of baptism. Many customs are associated with Easter at different times and places.

In some places it is customary to reenact events such as the crucifixion, the burial, and the visitation of the tomb.

Eggs have become a symbol of life and creation at Easter. At one time eggs were forbidden to be eaten during Lent, but then allowed to be eaten at Easter. The decorating of eggs symbolizes the end of the penitential season and the start of a joyful celebration.

In Russia, the nobility exchanged egg-shaped curios decorated with jewels. The action of the rolling and hunting for eggs has become a tradition in some places.

Lillies are symbols of spring, rabbits are symbols of fertility, chickens, eggs, and lambs are associated with Easter.

Easter is a time to mark the beginning of spring and to reaffirm a basic faith in Christ.

Miss Photogenic
On Feb. 18, Kelli Johnson was named Laurel-Concord High School Miss Photogenic for 1983.

The school's annual staff sponsored the event. Some students decided not to enter the Miss Photogenic event, but when Kelli was asked if she thought about not turning her picture in to the annual staff, she replied, "No. You never know who is going to get picked, and it doesn't hurt to turn your picture in."

Kelli didn't think she was very photogenic, but she said that her eyes were the biggest part about getting Miss Photogenic.

When Kelli was asked how she thought the judges chose among the many candidates, she thought the girls were judged on the basis of the face, how natural they look in the picture, and on how the light hits the person in the picture.

Sophomore History Project
Federalist or Republican? Which party would you choose if you lived in 1792? Students of the sophomore history class got a chance to make this decision when they recreated the election of 1796.

Five days were spent on the project designed to show students how political parties emerged.

History teacher, Mark Hrabik, hoped the project would get the students interested in the election process and political parties.

Mr. Hrabik got the idea for the project from the student's history book and then worked out the details himself.

After studying about the Federalist and Democratic-Republican parties and their platforms, students chose which party they would like to belong to. These parties then chose candidates to represent them. The parties made campaign posters for their candidates to be displayed in the history room.

Chosen as candidates were Wendy Robson (third period Democratic-Republican candidate) with Kathy Rhodes as her running mate; Scott Rath (third period Federalist candidate) with Tom Roeder as his running mate; David Kardell (fourth period Democratic-Republican candidate) with Ron Hirschman as his running mate; and Troy Heitman (fourth period Federalist candidate) with Mike Granquist as his running mate.

The Democratic-Republican candidates stressed belief in the common people and favored a strict interpretation of the constitution. The Federalist favored a strong central government, loose interpretation of the constitution, and government by the wealthy.

On Wednesday, the candidates presented their platforms before the senior government classes. The seniors then voted for the best candidate.

Winners of the election were Wendy Robson and Kathy Rhodes (third hour) and Troy Heitman and Mike Granquist (fourth hour). The winners and their parties will receive bonus points.

Seniors state that they voted as they did because they agreed with candidates views and felt that their candidate best presented the issues.

Candidates stated that they learned how much time and work is involved in a political election. They also learned about the 1796 election, its issues, and campaigning and debating. All of the students said they enjoyed the project. As Wendy Robson put it, "It was different from the day to day grind of taking notes." Candidates felt the project was fun and worthwhile.

Mr. Hrabik also felt the project was successful. He was impressed at how involved the seniors became and their ability to ask good questions. He also felt the sophomores did a good job of presenting their party's platform. Hrabik plans to repeat the project in the future years.

Elkhorn Band Olympics
The Elkhorn Band Olympics is a solo and ensemble contest for ninth and tenth grade intramural music students. The contest was held at Elkhorn, Nebraska, Saturday, Feb. 19.

The Band Olympics gives the students a chance to compete without juniors and seniors. Band director, Craig Rostad stated "It gives the students a chance to hear what other students their age are doing." The contest helps the students in many ways. The student gets the opinion of the judge in the form of a written critique. Students are judged on a point system ranging from one to five with one being the best.

Nine freshmen and sophomores attended. They were Troy Heitman, Wendy Robson, Denise Burman, Jim Pehrson, Lori Lindsay, Renee Vanderheid, Shelly Buss, Kyle Daberkow, and Chad Blatchford.

Junior High Tournament
The Laurel-Concord junior high boys and girls basketball teams competed Tuesday, Feb. 15 and Saturday, Feb. 19 in the Hartington Invitational Tournament. The boys team brought back a second place trophy. The girls took home third place.

The girls started the tournament with a loss to the host team, Hartington, 29 to 16. Donna Herrmann and Tracey Posey both had four points to lead the team.

On Saturday, the girls defeated Wynot in a tight game, 25 to 24.

with Lori Jensen scoring two very important points in the final quarter. Gail Twiford had 13 points to pace the girls.

In Tuesday action, the boys blew by Hargington, 41 to 22. Joedy Cunningham and Brent Haisch each contributed 12 points to the win. On Saturday, the boys lost the championship game to Coleridge in a tight contest 19 to 17. High scorer again was Joedy Cunningham with 9 points while Scott Lindsay also pumped in 5 points.

Most of the team members asked, felt the tournament was the highlight of the season. For Rick Kruid, the "highlight" was, "Winning against Hartington because winning makes it a little funner." Gail Twiford summed it up as "Winning."

The worst part of the tournament was losing or having to wait to play on Saturday.

Mr. Don Helgren, coach of the girls team, felt that, "Beating Wynot by one point made the tournament a successful way to finish the season."

Mr. Jim Clark when asked about whether his team improved this year answered, "Absolutely. We began to rely on more than one player towards the end which showed teamwork."

Both coaches are looking forward to next year's team.

Student Teaching
Paul Roberts, originally from rural Winside, is student teaching in the vocational education department. A student of Wayne State College, Paul is required to do some student teaching.

Paul decided he wanted to become a teacher when he was a junior in high school. He replied, "I like to help the kids."

Paul got interested in the area of vocational education in high school. "The woods department is my favorite."

He said that woods is where he has the "most experience." "I like to do it."

He feels that Mr. Van Cleave and Mr. Jonas helped him the most. "They showed me their methods to help me get started." Paul stated, "They have been real helpful."

He commented that they really try to help me and realize I'm just getting started. Paul farms when he is not teaching. He has 40 head of cows that are about to calve. He likes the Laurel atmosphere because "Everyone is so friendly" and "The students are great."

Student teaching at Laurel
Miss Janet Johnson, student at Wayne State College, is doing her student teaching at Laurel-Concord this quarter. Miss Johnson's major in college is vocational home economics. At Laurel she's instructing the child development and adult living classes. Miss Jodi Williams, the home ec teacher at Laurel, has techniques of teaching that have helped Miss Johnson.

Janet didn't decide to become a teacher until college. She decided on home economics because she enjoyed it.

When I asked her what she thought of teaching after experiencing it, she replied, "Hard work!" In one week Miss Johnson has learned that everybody is different and there's good in everyone.

Miss Johnson enjoys teaching nutrition and foods the most.

After student teaching for nine weeks, Miss Johnson will graduate from Wayne State College in May. Miss Johnson is from the small town of Page and hopes in the future to find a teaching position somewhere in the Midwest.

Who's your sponsor?
In a recent survey, 27 students out of 30 knew who their class sponsors were. Five students randomly selected from the 7th-12th grades were chosen from each class.

Those students were also asked what their sponsors did and what their sponsors don't do but should. Thirteen of the thirty felt their sponsors chief purpose was to organize class parties while 12 felt their chief purpose was to hold class meetings. Eighteen of the students thought their sponsors should call more meetings in response to the question-what their sponsors don't do but should.

It's worth it
What do a book case, magazine rack, tool box, tea cart, cedar chest, and stool have in common? These were projects constructed by Laurel-Concord Industrial Arts students under the direction of Mr. Lyle Van Cleave. When asked why students made what they did, many replied that they needed the project at home.

Woodworking students in 8th grade had their choice of projects. Students built gun racks, shelves, clocks, a flower pot stand, and speaker cases. One student commented that some parts of her project were hard to do but felt it turned out pretty good. Mike Jusell noted that he liked woodworking and planned to take shop in the future.

Freshman students have been hard at work on sheet metal boxes. They learned spot welding and will now work on small engines the rest of the year, according to Mr. Van Cleave. Randy Prescott felt he would use his project as a tackle box in the future, while Jeff Curry said he would give his to his dad.

Woodworking projects let sophomores Mike Forsberg, Dave Kardell, and Marty Jonas learn what industrial arts is about. Dave said his project was challenging to do and he learned how to cut fancy curves with a router. Marty commented that Mr. Van Cleave and student teacher Mr. Roberts taught him a lot.

Behind the desks with fine tipped pencils are the Advanced Drafting class. Paul Lofquist commented that drafting is interesting and a challenge. Cam Berteloth said, "It (drafting) drafts thought." The students are drafting parts of John Deer machines. Don Helms replied about drafting, "It's worth it."

Musical Set
On Tuesday, April 5, and Thursday, April 7, Wayne High's music and drama department will present "Annie Get Your Gun," a musical written by Irving Berlin.

It will be performed in the Wayne High lecture hall. Tickets will soon be sold by members of the cast.

The main characters of the play are Beth Schafer as Annie Oakley, John Warner as Frank Butler, Michelle Sherlock as Dolly Tate, Glenn Elliott as Charlie Davenport, and Bryan Schmidt as Silting Bull.

The plot of "Annie Get Your Gun" concerns the fabulous career of sharpshooter Annie Oakley and her love for Frank Butler, whom she outstays as the star of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show.

"Annie Get Your Gun," written in 1946, is considered Irving Berlin's best score. The play, which was opened in New York on May 16, 1946, has had extensive road tours and numerous revivals.

The score includes old favorites such as "The Girl That I Marry," "You Can't Get a Man With A Gun," "They Say It's Wonderful," "I Got The Sun In The Morning," "Anything You Can Do," and "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Students Attend Theater Production
On Friday, March 18, 43 juniors and seniors and three advisors from Wayne High School attended a special matinee presentation of "Talley's Folly," a Pulitzer Prize-winning play performed by the Minneapolis-based Guthrie Theater.

The play, recently performed by the repertory theater in Omaha and later in Lincoln, was presented on the Morningstar College campus in St. Louis City.

"Talley's Folly," billed as a "no-holds-barred romance," deals with the courting of Sally Talley by Matt Friedmazz in a bathhouse on Sally's farm, near Lebanon, Missouri, July 4, 1921.

Both are protective of their parts — Matt's, dealing with a terrible experience with a Jewish family in Nazi Europe; and Sally's, dealing with an ended love affair.

Beside receiving the Pulitzer Prize for drama in 1980, the writer of "Folly," Missouri-born and raised Lanford Wilson, also was awarded the New York Drama Critics' Award for his play.

Wilson also achieved success and acclaim with "The Fifth of July," a play set 33 years after "Folly," and with "The Hot L Baltimore," a record-breaking Broadway play which later spawned a successful and very controversial television series.

Wildcats sweep home openers from Yankton

In a week that displayed anything but baseball like weather, the Wayne State College Wildcat baseball squad split a pair of double headers and picked up its first wins at home in games played on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Cats doubleheader with St. John's of Minnesota scheduled for Friday was cancelled due to poor weather conditions. The Tigers of Doane College in Crete will be the Wildcats' next opponent in a doubleheader set for Wednesday (March 30) at 1:30 p.m.

The Cats were able to notch two marks in the win column on Thursday after winning both games of their home opener against Yankton College, 10-0 and 10-0. The week's action set Wayne's record at 4-8.

COLD AND WINDY weather greeted the Wildcats as they opened their home schedule and picked up the first game of a pair with Yankton College 10-0. It was the season opener for Yankton.

Pitcher Dan Hilgenkamp set the pace for the hosts as he posted nine strikeouts and no walks on his way to pitching a one-hitter. The win was the first this season for Hilgenkamp and moved his record to 1-2.

Wayne's bats were alive as they rapped out nine hits in the game. Sophomore Gregg Cruickshank came up with a triple and two RBIs in the bottom of the first and a double and one RBI in the second inning to lead the way.

Jeff Clark also had a good game at the plate, knocking in three RBIs, along with Rich Murcek who had two RBIs.

Five lettermen to lead golfers in their opener

Although the weather doesn't seem appropriate, the Wayne High School golf team is scheduled to open its season Wednesday (March 30) at Beemer in a triangular against defending state champion Oakland-Craig and West Point.

Coach Harold Maciejewski has only two seniors on his squad but has five returning lettermen. Last year's leading golfer, junior Cole Froeschle, returns to fill one varsity spot. Other lettermen are sophomores Brad Moore, juniors Perry Benshoof and Layne Marsh and senior John Carhart. Moore is expected to earn another starting position.

The young Blue Devils also have three returning B team players in juniors Dave Remer and Leif Olson and sophomore Cory Leseburg. The rest of the team is made up of newcomers.

Eight lettermen are named on WSC women's squad

A group of eight Wayne State College Lady Wildcats have been announced as letter winners for the 1982-83 season by women's head basketball coach Jan Jirsak.

The squad, made up of juniors and freshmen, featured a trio of players who earned their third letter in as many years as WSC. Sue Juhlin picked up her third letter, coming off the bench at the center position. She is the daughter of Russ and Gladys Juhlin of Battle Creek.

Jackie Schimmitz, daughter of John and Marjorie Schimmitz of 1930 Silver Street in Ashland, and Carol Durkee, daughter of Col. Gary Durkee of Goldsborough, N.C., and Thomasina Higgins of Dallas, Tex., each were awarded a third varsity letter.

Center Robbie Lehr received her second basketball letter at WSC after transferring from Iowa State and led the team and the Central States conference in rebounding. Robbie is the daughter of Robert and Frieda Lehr of Sioux City.

Albion native Janet Lee also earned her second letter in a Lady Wildcat uniform after transferring from Platte College in Columbus, and wound up the season third in the scoring column. She is the daughter of Kenneth and Geraldine Lee of Albion.

Deb Nygren led the three freshmen Lady Wildcats who picked up their first varsity monograms, as she finished the year as the top scorer and second in the rebounding statistics on the team. Deb is the daughter of Richard and Audrey Nygren of Mead.

Spring football season open

Fifty years ago, Wayne State football Coach Ray Hickman instituted a program new to the college—spring football.

Half a century later, new Wildcat mentor Pete Chapman is expecting 70 prospective gridirers to participate, including 34 lettermen. Wayne State opens spring camp today (Monday) in WSC's Memorial Stadium, with all practice sessions at 7 p.m. under the lights and open to the public.

Chapman may be hoping for the same success Hickman enjoyed in 1933. That ball club lost just one game during a 5-1-2 campaign. During the first week the Cats will work out four times, missing only a Friday session. The first week will be spent installing WSC's new offense and defense.

After that the squad will work out every Monday, Wednesday and Friday under the lights. Scrimmages are scheduled for Saturday, April 9 at 2:30 p.m. and Saturday, April 16 at 9 a.m. and are free and open to the public.

Spring workouts will culminate in the annual Alumni-Varsity Spring Game, this year scheduled for Saturday, April 23 at 2:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

Blaze damages farm home

Woman, 2 children hurt in fire

A woman and two children were hospitalized Wednesday as a result of a house fire which damaged a farm home between Winside and Hoskins.

Barbara Kollath was outside doing chores early Wednesday morning when she noticed smoke coming from her home. She dashed into the burning house and carried out her two sons who were in the kitchen area. Hoskins Fire Department Chief Arvon Kruger said.

Mrs. Kollath, wife of Kenneth Kollath, reported the fire from neighbor Mike Deck's farm. She and sons Michael, 4, and Jeff, 1, were admitted to Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk.

THE THREE were transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Omaha Wednesday night. A hospital spokesman told The Wayne Herald that Barbara was listed in good condition, Michael in fair condition and Jeff in critical condition Friday afternoon. Barbara was expected to be released later Friday.

The three suffered no burns but were hospitalized for toxic poisoning (smoke inhalation) according to Kruger.

The fire chief said the Hoskins Fire Department received a report on the fire at approximately 8:45 Wednesday morning. Firetrucks and an ambulance responded to the call.

Kruger said the boys were lucky to be rescued from the fire. The Kollath house, which is located where Highway 35 curves west toward Hoskins and north toward Winside, received heavy smoke and water damage but Kruger said the blaze didn't reach the upstairs. He added that a lot of items were salvageable including valuable papers.

THE STATE FIRE marshal report states that the fire was started at an electric wall heater located in the bathroom and near the kitchen.
