Teacher contract increase at 1.6%

The beginning salary of teachers in the Wayne-Carroll School system will increase by 1.6 percent for the 1983-84 school year. That is part of a salary and fringe benefit package ratified by the Wayne-Carroll Board of Education at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

The Wayne Education Association (WEA) voted earlier to accept the salary package. The present salary for a beginning teacher is $12,300 per school year. The beginning salary for the 1983-84 school year will be $12,500.

SUPERINTENDENT Francis Haun said teachers salaries are based on what is termed an index schedule which allows for a 4 percent increase in the base for a limited number of years of experience and a 5 percent increase in the base for each nine hours of approved graduate credit.

Haun said the total salary package for teachers will result in an average budget increase of 3.58 percent over the 1982-83 school year.

IN ADDITION to increasing the beginning salary by $200, the board approved the addition of one step in the BA columns to include BA, BA plus 9, BA plus 18, and BA plus 27.

The board also approved a 1 percent increase in lane A of the extra-duty schedule, which includes head football, head basketball, head volleyball, head wrestling, athletic director and varsity band.

Certain changes in the columns of extra-duty assignments also were approved.

THE BOARD voted to continue full payment of health, disability and $15,000 life insurance.

Haun said premiums for health insurance have not been set by the insurance carrier for 1983-84, but are estimated to escalate by at least 18 percent, for an $11,000 increase.

Present monthly insurance premiums are $42.87 for single health insurance, $121.27 for family health insurance, $27.85 for single medicare health insurance, $55.69 for family medicare health insurance, $5.10 for $15,000 life insurance, and $7.85 for disability insurance.

Haun said income disability and life insurance premiums are not expected to increase.

Spring's the thing

WINTER WEARY Wayne area residents were just about ready to give up on spring this week until the April showers pushed up some early-season flowers. The crocus flower is in bloom and the tree buds are ready to burst any month now, according to local weather watchers. So, take a fling into your own spring thing.

Lueders Inc. to start May 1

Wayne gets new garbage firm

Wayne has a new Class A garbage hauler. Lueders Inc. has obtained a license to do business in Wayne as a Class A garbage hauler, according to Phil Kloster, city administrator.

Tuesday night, Bill Lueders of Bill's GW told the City Council that the new garbage service should be "ready to go" on May 1.

LUEDERS INC. obtained the license last week, according to Kloster, who introduced the Wayne grocery store owner to the City Council.

Lueders said the service would operate under Lueders Inc., and that the trucks would carry the "C&D Garbage" name.

"We'll be charging $7.50 per residential customer," Lueders told the Council.

"And, that means no limit...plus it includes Muhs Acres and College Row," he said.

Lueders said the new company's advertising campaign would start next week.

"THE MAIN thing we are going to stress is service to the customer," Lueders told the Council.

"You know our operation over at the store (Bill's GW), that's what we try to do there and that's what we're going to try to do with this," he said.

Lueders said the new Class A hauling operation will be offering Wayne customers twice-a-week pick up.

He also noted that the company would be focusing on special cases where residents were unable to have garbage at the curbside.

"We'll do what we have to do to pick up those customers," he added.

Election Tuesday Council sets meeting on lottery vote

Wayne's City Council will meet in special session Wednesday morning to evaluate the results of Tuesday's municipal lottery referendum.

"We want to immediately evaluate the election results and hopefully move ahead for a May 1 start on the lottery," Wayne's city administrator, Phil Kloster, told the Council Tuesday night.

"We have scheduled a 7 a.m. breakfast meeting on Wednesday, April 20, for that purpose," Kloster said.

KLOSTER INFORMED the Council of the special session during a Tuesday night update on the proposed lottery election. Polls will be open citywide from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday for registered voters to cast ballots in the municipal lottery election.

Poling places for the city's four wards are: First Ward, Villa Wayne; Second Ward, National Guard Armory; Third Ward, Methodist Fellowship Hall, Fourth Ward, City Auditorium.

Kloster told the Council that the city was working to "incorporate a very identifiable program" into the proposed lottery.

"We want to be sure that regardless of where you run into it down the road, you'll know it is Wayne's (lottery)," he said.

KLOSTER SAID the proposed lottery program includes strong promotion of Wayne.

"It will advertise Wayne, Nebraska, and that will help since we hope to grow industrially and businesswise," Kloster said.

"That name (Wayne's proposed lottery logo — Lotto-Luck) has to be very household," he continued.

City planning to seek hike on rec fees

Wayne's winter basketball and volleyball players face a hike in fees for use of the City Auditorium next season.

That's the word from Phil Kloster, city administrator.

Tuesday night, Kloster told the City Council that participants in the city Recreation Department's programs at the auditorium would be asked to pay a user-type fee.

"We need to get a better handle on the utilities over there (at the auditorium)," Kloster said, noting that participants now pay $5 per person per season.

"That's far below the value returned," he added. "Next season, the proposal is to charge the utilities directly to them to recover the cost."

Kloster disclosed the expected hike while presenting the Council with the Recreation Department's annual report.

City goes to bid on CD sirens

Wayne residents will be protected by a citywide electronic Civil Defense warning system by July if the City Council has its way.

Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to approve plans and specifications for a proposed electronic warning system to replace the city's obsolete sirens.

"We hope to have installation 60 days from the awarding of the bid," Phil Kloster, city administrator, told the Council.

COUNCIL SET bid openings on the proposed electronic siren system for 7:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 10.

1983 patient load pushing PMC to capacity

The first three months of 1983 have been busy ones for the staff at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

In January, February and March the hospital averaged 75 percent occupancy, according to Marci Thomas, hospital administrator. That means that on the average, 23 of the hospital's 30 beds were occupied each day.

During one stretch in January, Providence Medical Center actually was filled beyond capacity. Beds were set up in the halls, the solarium and the Chapin Room. The peak was 37 patients at one time. That

FOR THE MONTH of January, PMC operated at 87 percent capacity, Thomas said.

An epidemic of flu and other illnesses contributed to the overflow of patients at the hospital. Thomas also pointed out that additional physicians at satellite clinics in neighboring towns resulted in more patients.

Caring for the high number of patients in January made operation of the hospital somewhat hectic but Thomas said the staff got by. Part-time employees filled in as full-timers to help out.

"It hit us at a bad time. There were a few days where some of the girls were run ragged," said Thomas. "Our part-timers helped us over the hump."

THOMAS SAID the hospital had sufficient space for the large number of patients but just not enough beds. She said a system is followed when capacity is reached. The solarium is the first area used when all of the regular patients rooms are filled.

Then an area near the kitchen is blocked off to house patients. The nurse in charge usually decides where the overflow of patients will be placed. Hospital rooms are generally distributed on a first-come-first-served basis.

Thomas points out that an occupancy increase helps the hospital financially, especially financially. Utility costs basically don't change whether the hospital has 10 patients or 37, she said.

ACCORDING TO THOMAS, Providence Medical Center is operating efficiently. The hospital operates to break even, not make a profit, she emphasized. When there is a profit it goes back to funding the hospital and maintaining equipment, she added.

police report

Friday was for the birds at the Wayne Police Department.

It all started when police were called to the Chi Omega sorority house near Wayne State College at 4:42 p.m.

According to police, unknown subjects had broken a basement window in the sorority house.

responded to a pickup fire at the intersection of Eighth and Windom Streets at 2:25 p.m. Thursday.

No injuries were reported, but the pickup sustained about $800 in damages, according to Fire Chief Dick Korn.

Firefighters also responded to a false alarm at the Wayne Care Centre Tuesday morning.

WHEN POLICE arrived, sorority house residents explained that several teamed up to go outside to investigate the basement window incident and "to locate any subjects in the area."

Police were told that when the sorority team opened the back door, they found a carcass of a large bird sitting on the floor of the back porch.

And, according to police, a typewritten "love note" was on the porch floor next to the bird carcass.

Damage to the window was estimated at $15.

POLICE HAVE investigated three motor vehicle accidents since last week.

According to police, a 1970 Chevrolet pickup, owned by Vanda Morris of Wayne, struck a parked 1977 Datsun, owned by Randall Smalley of Wayne, on Monday.

Police said the Morris pickup was parked in front of Hometown IGA while the owner shopped. And, according to police, when the owner returned to the pickup, it had rolled across the parking lot and struck the Smalley vehicle.

Also on Monday, police investigated a two-car accident in the 100 block of Ninth Street east.

IN OTHER action, police also investigated a broken-window incident at George's Big Apple on Main Street south Monday morning.

POLICE SAID that a 1972 Chevrolet, driven by Larry Jensen of Wayne, collided with a 1974 Chevrolet, driven by Douglas Emanuel of North Bend, NE.

Police were called to the bar at 12:02 a.m., where a window had been broken during an altercation in front of the building.

On Sunday, police intervened in a disturbance at a private home in the 700 block of Logan Street, where two subjects were involved in a fight.

And, on Sunday, police removed a person from the property of the First National Bank branch office at Main and Seventh streets.

Also on Sunday, police investigated a complaint on trash dumped on a city street. Subject agreed to clean up the trash, according to police.

According to police, the Jensen car was southbound in the alley and did not see the Emanuel vehicle because parked cars blocked the view as it entered Ninth Street east.

The collision occurred when the Jensen car made a left turn and struck the westbound Emanuel car, police said.

LAST Wednesday, police investigated the theft of a compound bow from a car parked in the Wayne High School parking lot.

According to police, the bow was later returned.

And, on Thursday, police reports indicate a blue sunde billboard containing $1 was found. Wayne's volunteer firefighters

ON FRIDAY, police investigated an accident in the parking lot of Wayne's 7-Eleven store.

According to police, a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Suzanne Hintz of Dixon, struck a parked 1970 Ford pickup, owned by Neil Blohm of Allen.

Police said the Hintz car backed away from a parking stall in the store's parking lot, striking the Blohm pickup.

Business as usual

Aldous Huxley once said that facts do not cease to exist because they are ignored. In light of that, the recent Wayne State College Small Business Institute survey deserves some examination. That study, which was commissioned by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, revealed — among other things — that there may be room for improvement in the relationship between city merchants and WSC students. The survey also suggested that the Wayne business community may be ignoring the college target market. Furthermore, it noted that WSC students are basically neutral in their opinions of the city's business community. More than a few merchants decided to take the survey results as a slap in the face, rather than exploring the significance of the data. Some preferred to blame the newspaper for destroying the relationship between the college and the business community, rather than re-examining their own role in the marketplace. Still others, the nonreaders perhaps, recited a litany of "good deeds" done by local businesses for the college, rather than analyzing the marketing thrust of the survey. In short, those reacting in any of those three ways, simply chose to ignore the facts of the survey. But, ignoring the facts does not make them go away. The relationship that exists between the college and the business community is multi-faceted and incredibly complex. That students are neutral in the opinions about the business community strikes at the heart of only one aspect in the relationship. Hopefully, somewhere in the business community, there are merchants who see the survey for what it is — an important marketing tool reflecting a single aspect of the college-business community relationship. However, there are merchants in Wayne who don't even see those kinds of problems. And, there are merchants in Wayne who see those kinds of problems, but would rather blame them on someone else. But, fortunately, there are merchants in Wayne who see those kinds of problems as opportunities for solutions.

Volunteerism vital

For the past seven years, National Volunteer Recognition Week (April 17-23) has been observed throughout Nebraska to help raise public awareness of the important roles that volunteers play in their community, roles such as providing emergency services, helping older Americans lead independent lives, fighting drug and alcohol abuse, and counseling troubled youths. We at ACTION, the national volunteer agency, would like to express our appreciation to the people who serve in ACTION programs such as foster grandparents, retired senior volunteers, senior companions, young volunteers in ACTION, and the Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program. Like other volunteers, they contribute their time and effort to help make their community a better place to live; and, like other volunteers, they go about their activities quietly, with little fanfare. Volunteer Recognition Week comes only once a year, but a community relies on its volunteers 365 days a year. So, I ask that your readers take this opportunity to look around their community, to see the many ways that volunteers help us all; then I'm sure they'll join me in saying, "Nebraska volunteers are great people!"

line with his recommendation. Kerrey didn't specify which appropriations he expects to veto. He said the logical place to begin his search is those programs which he stated for reduction or elimination, but which the Legislature restored. Among those is a $1.2 million state aid program for drivers education, and less expensive programs for foster care review and tuition credits for national guard members.

THE BUDGET deliberations should come into sharper focus in the next few weeks when the state Revenue Department is scheduled to issue revised revenue projections.

Legislative and executive branch officials will have a better idea then about just how much money they'll be budgeting with for next year.

Kerrey seems to have reached accommodation with key legislators over one of the major issues of the session: delay of the scheduled takeover by the state of the county share of the Medicaid program.

Upon entering office, Kerrey was faced with implementation of a bill passed last year calling for the state to pick up the $22 million county Medicaid tab on July 1. The program, which is financed in cooperation with the federal government, provides medical care to the needy.

Kerrey said that the state couldn't afford to take over the county share on schedule, and began looking for points of compromise with county officials and legislators who had pushed for the takeover.

Kerrey and Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha, a Revenue Committee member, agreed after negotiations to a three year phase-in of the state takeover.

THE FULL REVENUE Committee later endorsed the compromise by sending to the floor on a 6-1 vote an amended version of LB 604, Kerrey's bill to delay the takeover for one year.

The compromise amendment, which also was adopted by the committee on a 6-1 vote, calls for the state to assume one-third of the county Medicaid costs — approximately $6 million — on July 1, 1984. The state would assume an additional one-third of the cost in each of the two succeeding fiscal years.

Although they weren't party to the deal, county officials and their lobbyists say they expect to support the proposed compromise, under which the state would resume full funding of the Medicaid program by July 1, 1986.

The full Legislature must now act on the compromise proposal.

WHEN MOST appointed senators join the Legislature, they have the luxury of showing up on the morning of their first day and blending unobtrusively into the marble and woodwork of the legislative chamber.

Not so with the Legislature's newest member, Sen. Ron Withem of Papillion. He was sworn in on March 30 to fill the vacancy created 28 hours earlier by the resignation of Sen. Tom Doyle of Sarpy County, who left the Legislature after only 54 days to accept an appointment as Douglas County surveyor-engineer.

Minutes after the ceremony, Withem walked down the center aisle of the legislative chamber in the middle of one of the most animated debates of the session.

LAWMAKERS were arguing LB 565, the bill which allows them to keep telephone records confidential.

Withem, appearing slightly bewildered, collected the handshakes and congratulations of several of his new colleagues.

He took Doyle's old seat, and listened to the remainder of the first-round debate on LB 565.

Withem cast his first recorded vote Thursday morning, supporting Neleigh Sen. John DeCamp's unsuccessful motion to introduce a bill after the deadline set in legislative rules.

To the editor:

I questioned the accuracy of the recently-completed Wayne Chamber of Commerce survey after reading the April 7 edition of your newspaper.

I attended Wayne State College for five years, and during that time, was employed at several Wayne businesses. According to the survey findings, Wayne State students rank lowest among Wayne businessmen's priorities.

That's difficult for me to believe. If it weren't for my employment at Derby Station, Gerald's Paint & Decorating, Wayne Greenhouse and at other odd jobs, I could not have attended college in your community.

Each of these businesses tailored their employment around my needs, expecting me only after I'd finished classes for the day. I remember my experiences at each, and I'm thankful for the experience each job afforded.

Today, I'm a newspaperman in Sidney, NE, thanks to the training I received at Wayne State. Incidentally, it was through several articles published in your paper during my college days that I received the encouragement to seek a journalism career. While college students might not afford the spending power most businessmen might hope for, students (and people like myself) certainly appreciate the kind of support businesses like the ones I've listed above have, and continue to extend.

To the editor:

I wonder why there is such a fuss about Cable TV?

I am satisfied with the program which I have been getting lately.

For instance, I viewed the Lawrence Walk show Saturday at 1 p.m. on Channel 10 and then the other half of the show on Easter morning at 7:30 a.m. on Channel 7.

These were both on cable. I also get Channel 6. There are many wonderful shows besides sports and "rock music."

I don't care for "rock music," and don't care to watch it as I am afraid some of the dresses that these gals wear will shake off with their high-rise hair styles.

But changing the subject, have you ever listened to these concerts and operas that were shown on the networks the last couple of weeks?

If you didn't you missed some wonderful music.

One concert lasted three hours and was worth sitting up for. The audience kept calling the Italian tenor back for more.

I am satisfied with cable the way it is.

Development bill passes

I hope everyone had a pleasant Easter vacation. The Legislature began work again last Tuesday after taking a four-day Easter break.

As of last Monday, we had only 30 legislative days remaining to finish our work for this Session.

As the session progresses, more and more bills are coming up on Final Reading. One such bill, LB 125, was passed on a vote of 42-0 last Wednesday.

I INTRODUCED LB 125 to allow a city council to exercise discretion in granting or denying requests for improvements in new development area within the city limits.

Previous law required the city to provide the improvements upon request and had resulted in situations where the city expended the money for the improvements, but was unable to collect on its assessments after the developer failed to find buyers for the development project.

The discretion of the city council would only apply to requests from new development projects.

It would not apply to request from landowners in areas with existing improvements who only desire additional improvement.

THE LEGISLATURE advanced LB 533 to Select File on Tuesday. This bill, which authorizes the University of Nebraska to spend state funds to establish a regional veterinary college, has had more than its share of controversy.

After much deliberation, I have decided to support the bill. I think there is merit in the argument that a veterinary school will bring industry and jobs into the state.

Other livestock producing states are suffering from increased water shortages and other problems. With Nebraska's abundance of water and productive cropland, the state is likely to attract additional livestock feeders as more of them realize that Nebraska is capable of supporting a growing livestock industry.

An ample supply of locally trained veterinarians can only add to the advantages of moving livestock operations and related industries into the area.

ALSO PASSED Wednesday was LB 78 which requires county attorneys to notify crime victims of any recommendation they plan to make in a felony prosecution as a result of plea bargaining negotiations with the defendant.

They will then have the opportunity to make their views known and considered in the disposition of the crime. I think this is a positive step toward aiding crime victims.

LB 142, the controversial chiropractor bill, advanced to Select File on Tuesday. It has been many years since the laws regulating the chiropractic profession have been changed by the Legislature.

Proponents argue that the profession has been changed significantly over the years and that the law should be altered to reflect the changing responsibilities and practices of a modern chiropractor.

OPONENTS QUESTION the advisability of allowing chiropractors to take blood samples, prescribe drugs and perform certain other medical services.

A compromise, which in general eliminated the objectionable sections, was worked out between opposing factions, allowing the bill to advance.

A bill which will allow sheriffs to form work details for prisoners in their jails also advanced to Select File. County boards in counties with a population under 150,000 could determine public projects within the county which prisoners could be assigned to.

The sheriff would determine which prisoners would be allowed to work. Prisoners would receive a half day off of their sentences for every day they worked, provided there were no disciplinary problems.

I'm in favor of the bill because I think it has the potential of benefiting the community, reducing the county's cost of maintaining prisoners, and providing productive work for prisoners.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL attempt was made to kill LB 571 on Wednesday. This bill will change the amount of reimbursement retailers are allowed for collecting the sales tax.

Retailers who collect more than $5,000 per month would have their reimbursement reduced from 3 percent to 1 percent of the excess over $5,000.

This is really just another form of taxation because the consumer is going to end up paying any excess cost to the retailer.

Allen faculty and staff performing 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs'

Several residents of the Allen area will make their stage debut this weekend in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Performances for the original play, written and directed by Allen School Superintendent Robert Heckathorn, are scheduled Friday and Saturday evening at 7:30 in the school gymnasium.

A matinee for school students will be held Friday at 1 p.m.

ALTHOUGH THE cast is billed as faculty and staff, Heckathorn said the play involves more husbands and wives of staff members, the board of education, other community residents who enjoy singing, and "a whole bunch of skeptical well-wishers who think we are absolutely crazy for attempting this."

Heckathorn added that the play is a joint effort, a great deal of work (and fun), and for a good cause.

Cast as Snow White is Mrs. Jean Carlson. Playing the seven dwarfs are Dean Chase as Doc, Truman Fahrenholz as Grumpy, Jim Warner as Sneezy, Dale Furness as Sleepy, Glenn Kumm as Happy, Harlen Mattes as Dopey, and Chris Crosgrove as Bashful.

THE PRINCE is played by Dave Uldrich, and the role of the queen is performed by Mrs. Barbara Heckathorn.

Other members of the cast are Gary Troth as Hodel, Rod Bubke as the soldier, Mrs. Marcia Rastede as the witch, Connie Roberts as Sister Heinrich, and Mrs. Patti Mattes as the ghost of Snow White's mother.

The maids are played by Mrs. Deb Snyder, Mrs. Celeste Torczon, Mrs. Kathy Boswell, Mrs. Sandy Chase and Mrs. Diane Blohm. Pianist is Mrs. Nancy Bubke, and members of the chorus are Phyllis Swanson, director, Carol Chase, Marilyn Creamer, Glenda Beck, Paulette Kumm, Merna Jones, Norma Warner and Darlene Roberts.

HECKATHORN said "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is a story of love, fear, evil, greed, and lust for power.

"The humor," he added, "lies in the incongruity of the dwarfs, who are strong, gentle and beautiful."

Tickets for the two-hour performance are $2 for adults and $1 for students and will be available at the door.

Proceeds from the play will go toward summer activity camp scholarships for Allen students.

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Alice Froeschle

To most of us, a meal would not be complete without red meat. We live in a society that has abundant quantities and varieties of meats. Americans now eat record amounts of red meats in their diets. Unfortunately, along with meat comes large amounts of hidden animal fats that contain more calories per gram and ounce than any other food. Did you know that 80 percent of the calories in a hot dog can be attributed to fats or 64 percent of the calories in a hamburger? A combination of saturated animal and vegetable fats comprise nearly half of the calories in an average American's diet.
For example, a 16-ounce broiled sirloin steak yields 1,316 calories, 71 grams protein and 112 grams of saturated and unsaturated fats. Diet Center suggests frequent use of fish or chicken as an alternative meat entree. The same 16 ounces of halibut have approximately 1,000 less calories, 60 percent more protein (55.9 grams), and two-thirds less total fats (only 3.2 grams)! To lower consumption of animal fats, Diet Center recommends switching to lean sources of protein such as fish, chicken breasts and tofu.

Freshman and four seniors compose all-star team

By Randy Hascall
The four seniors and freshman who make up this year's Wayne Herald All-Area boys basketball team excel not only in basketball but in two or three sports. In addition to their roundball abilities, they are some of the finest all-around athletes in the area.

This year's All-Area team isn't the tallest in history but the five first teamers show consistent height, ranging from 6-0 to 6-4. The Wayne Herald's sports coverage area includes Wayne, Allen, Wakefield, Winside and Laurel.

The "dream team" has the ability to run a fastbreak offense or set up the ball and work for a good shot. There is plenty of offensive punch on the squad but defense was an important part of basketball for each individual.

Members of this year's first team, listed alphabetically, are Mike Clay of Wakefield, Troy Harder of Allen, Don Larsen of Wayne, Jon Meierhenry of Winside and Kelly Robson of Laurel. Larsen, a freshman, is the only non-senior on the team. There are no repeaters from last year's All-Area squad.

Area coaches nominated players off of their own squads for the All-Area team. Northeast Nebraska coaches were asked to vote for the best players they faced during the season and The Wayne Herald used the nominations and votes to select the team.

MIKE CLAY, the son of Larry and Bonnie Clay, is a 6-1 senior at Wakefield High School where he played guard, forward and center positions. He was named to the first team of the Clark Division all-conference basketball team.

Clay scored 269 points, grabbed 139 rebounds, made 23 assists and had 22 steals for the Trojans. He hit 47 percent from the floor and 61 percent from the free throw line.

He says his most memorable season experience was beating Hartington in double overtime. Looking back on the past season, Clay said, "We played well at times and bad at times. We have a lot of young talent coming back next year and I think they'll do fine."

Mike said he hopes to play college football at a nice, small school. He plans to go into the field of biology.

TROY HARDER, the son of Lee and Audrey Harder, is a 6-0 senior at Allen High School where he played guard and forward on the basketball team.

He scored 177 points and pulled down 119 rebounds for the Eagles. Troy averaged 11.06 points a game, made many assists and made 26 steals as a fine defensive player.

Harder said his most memorable season experience was when his team picked up its first win of the season over Bancroft. His preseason goals were to average 10 points and 8 rebounds a game and have a winning season. "I wish we could have fulfilled our goal of having a .500 season," he said.

Following graduation, Troy plans to at-Wayne Western Iowa Tech. He hopes to become a mechanic after he graduates from college.

DON LARSEN, a 6-4 freshman center for Wayne High School, is believed to be the only freshman to ever be named to The Wayne Herald's All-Area team.

The son of Don and Sue Larsen hit 52 percent of his shots from the field and 62 percent from the free throw line. Don scored 283 points, pulled down 179 rebounds, made 20 recoveries and forced 56 held balls. He averaged 14.8 points and 9.4 rebounds a game.

The West Husker All-Conference player said his most memorable season experience was beating Blair in the first game of the year. His past season goal was to make the varsity team.

Looking back at the past season, Don said, "We had a better team than our season record showed. We'd play well with a good team and they would pull away in the last five minutes. We either won big or lost big." Larsen has three years of high school remaining but his future goal is to someday play college ball.

JON MEIERHENRY, son of Mike and Pat Meierhenry, is a 6-2 senior forward at Winside High School.

The Clark Division all-conference second teamer made 55.7 percent of his shots and 70.4 percent of his free throws while scoring 72.0 points. He had 117 rebounds and 40 blocked shots while averaging 18 points and 6.9 rebounds a game.

Meierhenry said his most memorable season experience was a disappointing loss to Snyder in the first round of districts. "We lost a lot of close ball games that we should have won. But, we played as a team and had a lot of fun," he said.

Among Jon's preseason goals were to have a .500 season, win some games at districts and earn all-conference and all-area honors.

Meierhenry said he plans to attend college and would like to play basketball. He hopes to someday get into coaching.

KELLY ROBSON, son of Tom and Elaine Robson of Laurel, is a 6-1 senior forward at Laurel-Concord High School.

He hit 43 percent of his field goal attempts and 60 percent of his free throws. Robson scored 225 points, hauled in 109 rebounds, made 43 assists and made 58 steals despite suffering a bout of mononucleosis during the season.

The Clark Division all-conference first team selection said his most memorable season experience was making a fast second shot to beat Osmond. His past season goals were to average 15 points a game, make the all-conference team, do well in districts and win the Lewis & Clark Conference title.

"I had fun and coach Hrabik did a good job in his first season," Robson said about the past season. "I wish I hadn't been sick towards tournament time and the end of the season."

After graduation, Kelly plans to attend college. He hopes to play basketball and baseball at the collegiate level.

FIRST TEAM: Mike Clay, Wakefield; Troy Harder, Allen; Don Larsen, Wayne; Jon Meierhenry, Winside; Kelly Robson, Laurel.

SECOND TEAM: John Hawkins, Winside; Jerry Kastrop, Laurel; Shaun Niemann, Wayne; Derwin Roberts, Allen; Todd Schwartz, Wayne; Brian Soderberg, Wakefield.

HONORABLE MENTION: Mike Jonas, Laurel; Jay Jones, Allen; Jeff Jorgensen, Wayne; Paul Lofquist, Laurel; Ron Prince, Winside; Gary Tullberg, Wakefield.

Saturday's Special Olympics expected to attract more than 80 participants

More than 80 athletes from seven northeast Nebraska communities will participate in the Special Olympics track and field meet, scheduled for Saturday (April 16) at Wayne State College, according to Herbert Roof, assistant professor of education and faculty coordinator.

The event will begin at 7 a.m. at WSC's Memorial Field Regular track and field events, as well as a softball throw and frisbee toss, will be featured at the meet.

Teams from Region IV in Wayne, South Sioux City, Orchard, Wynot, Madison, Randolph and Wakefield will compete, Roof said. Events will be run in heats of eight contestants, and all participants will receive a ribbon, as well as a hug, T-shirts, printed by the WSC applied science department, and lunch will be provided by the Wayne Kiwanis Club.

The event is "almost entirely reliant on volunteer help." Roof noted, and is being sponsored largely in part by the Kiwanis Club. Other organizations offering their assistance include the WSC Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Wayne Student Education Association of Nebraska, Circle K and the WSC Panhellenic Council. Individuals from the Wayne Public Schools, WSC Education Division, WSC College Relations Office and countless other volunteers have contributed to the Special Olympics meet.

The ultimate goal of the Special Olympics program is to create opportunities for sports training and athletic competition for all retarded children. Special Olympics contributes to the physical, social and psychological development of mentally retarded participants through successful experiences in sports. The program began in 1968, and is internationally sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation. It is operated by Special Olympics, Inc., a non-profit, charitable organization in Washington, D.C. and is administered by state and national organizations.

Wayne boys win 10 events

Led by six first place finishes, the Wayne boys track squad fared pretty well in a dual meet with Wisner-Pilger Monday afternoon.

The host Gators, champions of last week's Wayne State Invitational, won the dual 83-58 Battle Creek originally was scheduled to compete, making the meet a triangular but dropped out of the event.

Girls win three firsts

Participation in the Scotus Relays Saturday netted the Wayne girls three first place finishes.

Coach Darrel Heier said his team didn't know the meet was starting at an earlier time and missed the field events and 6,400-meter relay.

The Blue Devils placed first in the 250-meter hurdles relay, the 400-meter relay and the 800-meter relay.

The 250 hurdles team consisted of Missy Stollenberg, Lisa Jacobsen, Lori Jacobsen

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

Water polo anyone?
I get mighty tired of griping about the weather all the time but it seems to be the talk of the town.

I've been writing up a proposal this week suggesting that Nebraska drop baseball, track, softball and golf as spring sports. In place of those sports would be water polo, swimming, skiing and paddleball.

Is this weather ridiculous or what? The spring sports season is off to a slow start—an unusually slow start—and may not ever get caught up. The season is getting pretty short to reschedule events that were postponed.

It would be good of Mother Nature to cooperate for awhile.

Orioles vs. L.A.
This week, Barry Dahlkoetter sends in his Major League Baseball predictions and as usual he picks the Baltimore Orioles to go all the way.

"If the Orioles are faltering in late-July, don't be surprised if Weaver comes out of retirement," he adds.

Dahlkoetter's predictions:

American League East—1. Baltimore, 2 Milwaukee, 3. Detroit, 4. New York, 5 Boston, 6. Toronto, 7. Cleveland.

American League West—1. Kansas City, 2. California, 3. Chicago, 4. Oakland, 5. Minnesota, 6. Texas, 7. Seattle.

National League East—1. St. Louis, 2. Philadelphia, 3. Montreal, 4. Pittsburgh, 5. New York, 6. Chicago.

National League West—1. Los Angeles, 2 San Francisco, 3. Atlanta, 4. Houston, 5. San Diego, 6. Cincinnati.

World Series—If Earl is back, Baltimore over Los Angeles.

Big track meet planned
A big track meet is scheduled Saturday at the Wayne State College Track and I guarantee it will be worth watching.

The special event is a Special Olympics track and field meet which is expected to attract more than 80 participants from Wayne, South Sioux City, Orchard, Wynot, Madison, Randolph and Wakefield.

The competitors in Saturday's track meet can't be found at most track meets. They are mentally retarded individuals who are out to have a good time.

You won't find any lazy athletes who are entered in the meet just to give them something to do. The competition means a lot to every participant. It is an opportunity to exercise, compete and excel. Competitors' faces will beam with excitement and the feeling of accomplishment.

And nothing is more welcome than encouragement from spectators and fans. Win or lose in the actual track and field events, each participant is a winner.

Stargell coming to town
Just a reminder for pro baseball fans: Willie Stargell is scheduled to be in town Monday night.

He originally was scheduled to speak at Wayne State College on Feb. 10 but postponed when dense fog stranded him at the Sioux Falls airport.

The baseball great will be in Rice Auditorium Monday and begin his talk at 8 p.m. with a question-and-answer period to follow. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for high school and grade school students.

Good outside shooters highlight All-Area team

By Randy Hascall

The 1982-83 All-Area girls basketball team is a zone killer. The squad is stacked with good outside shooters but can also penetrate the inside.

The three seniors and two juniors on the first team possess quickness, agility, good ballhandling skills and a soft shooting touch.

The All-Area team is average height with players ranging from 5-6 to 5-10. The five first teamers are talented athletes in several sports. Most excel in volleyball, track and/or softball.

The three seniors all hope to continue their athletic careers in college while the two juniors have one year of high school athletics remaining.

Area coaches nominated their own players for All-Area honors. Coaches were asked to vote for players on teams they faced throughout the season and The Wayne Herald made final selections from those ballots.

This year's All-Area top five consists of juniors Michelle Harder of Allen and Brenda Jones of Wakefield, and seniors Kim Sherry of Laurel, Patsy Thompson of Laurel and Missy Stoltenberg of Wayne.

MICHELLE HARDER, daughter of Duane and Edith Harder, is a 5-8 junior forward at Allen High School.

Harder made 44 percent of her field goals and 57 percent at the free throw line while racking up 192 points. She had 25 steals, 23 assists and 126 rebounds while averaging 11.3 points and 7.4 rebounds per game.

The Clark Division all-conference first teamer said her most memorable season experiences include scoring either 14 or 6 points in nearly each game, a visit from Santa Claus during a Christmas vacation practice and the basketball party at the end of the season.

Looking back at the basketball season, Michelle had these comments: "There were bad times and good times. But the good ones outnumbered the bad one by far. I hope I enjoy my last season as well as I enjoyed this one."

Future plans include studying physical education and possibly becoming a dietitian one day. One of her future goals is to become an Olympic volleyball player.

BRENDA JONES, daughter of Robert and Karen Jones, is the only repeat selection on the All-Area team. She played forward and center for Wakefield High School.

The 5-8 junior hit 37 percent from the field and 80 percent from the line this past season. She scored 249 points, grabbed 142 rebounds and made 58 steals in 17 games for an average of 14.6 points and 8.4 rebounds a game.

Brenda's most memorable season experience was scoring 26 points and making 8 of 10 free throws against Hartington. Her preseason goals were to win more games than the year before. The Clark Division all-conference first teamer said her team tied the school's best win-loss record of 6-10 and should have broken it but lost a couple close games.

"We were a young team and showed much improvement as the year progressed," Jones said.

With one year of high school ahead, Brenda said her future plans are not yet definite. She said she is thinking about attending Lamar Community College in Colorado to study horse training and management. She would hope to participate in their basketball, volleyball and softball programs.

Next season, Jones hopes her team will have a winning season and break the school's win-loss record. She would like to improve her rebounding average and field goal percentage she said.

KIM SHERRY, daughter of Don and Carolyn Sherry, is a 5-9 senior forward at Laurel-Concord High School. She is one of two Laurel players to be named to the All-Area team.

Sherry hit 30 percent from the field and 62.5 percent from the free throw line. She scored 197 points, made 153 rebounds, had 31 steals and made 49 assists. Kim averaged 8.95 points and 6.95 rebounds per game.

The Clark Division all-conference first teamer said her most memorable season experience was winning the Lewis & Clark Conference championship in overtime against Emerson-Hubbard.

Her preseason goals were to win the conference title, to defeat rival Randolph and to play to her full potential every game. "I felt it was a very rewarding season. I thought that because we played as such a team and not just individuals we were able to do as well as we did," Kim said. "Winning three championships in one week had to be the greatest and I will never forget my high school basketball years."

Kim plans to attend Wayne State College and would like to play varsity basketball there.

MISSY STOLTENBERG, daughter of Del and Dee Stoltenberg, is a 5-10 senior forward at Wayne-Carroll High School.

She scored 116 points, grabbed 104 rebounds and made 25 steals in the season while averaging 7.3 points and 6.5 rebounds a game.

Stoltenberg said her most memorable season experience was recording a season high 16 points and 10 rebounds against South Sioux City. Her preseason goals were to better her basketball abilities and have a winning season.

Looking back on the season Missy said, "I had an enjoyable season even though our record doesn't show how well we played. I had a good time with all the girls on the team."

Following graduation Missy plans to attend college. She hopes to compete in volleyball and track but doesn't plan to play competitive basketball in college. The West Husker all-conference first teamer said she would like to excel in the other two sports.

PATSY THOMPSON, daughter of Harold Jr. (Zeb) and Joyce Thompson, is a 5-6 senior guard at Laurel-Concord High School.

The Clark Division all-conference second teamer hit 36 percent from the field and 52.4 percent from the line while scoring 169 points and pulling down 72 rebounds. She had 48 steals and 17 assists and averaged 7.68 points and 3.27 rebounds a game.

Thompson said her most memorable season experiences were winning the Lewis & Clark Conference championship and making the winning free throw in the title game.

Her preseason goals were to give 150 percent in every game, to play as a team, to win the conference championship, to be leading scorer in at least one game, to be named to all-conference and all-area teams and to qualify for state.

"It was a very rewarding and memorable season. I'll never forget the championship game against Emerson. I still see all the important plays when I walk across the gym," Patsy said. "We accomplished some goals that I never thought we would. We won three championships in one week and that was the best week of my life."

Following graduation, Patsy plans to attend Wayne State College where she hopes to play basketball and/or softball. Her goals are to make the WSC basketball and softball teams and to perform as best she can in whatever she does.

Beat 12 teams

Blue Devil golfers second

Only defending Class C state champion Oakland-Craig stood in the way of a Wayne High championship in Saturday's Plainview Invitational golf meet.

The Blue Devils grabbed second place in the 14-team field by recording a four-man score of 336. Oakland won the meet with a score of 310 and host Plainview finished third at 343.

Rain and wind hampered play in the invitational but some good scores were turned in. Wayne's Cole Froeschle fired a 77 to earn third place in the individual competition. Oakland golfers nabbed first, second, fifth and seventh positions. Finishing ahead of Froeschle were Paul Gahan with a 74 and Mike Peterson with a 75.

THREE OTHER scores in the 80s rounded out Wayne's team total. Brad Moore shot an 84, Tom Perry shot an 86 and Perry Benschopf carded an 89. Because only the top four scores of each team's five players were used, John Carhart's 95 did not count in the team scoring.

The Blue Devils are scheduled to host Norfolk Catholic, Wausa and Emerson-Hubbard at 4 p.m. today (Thursday) and then host Plainview and West Point at 4 p.m. tomorrow (Friday). Wayne also is scheduled to be at home Monday against West Point.

On Wednesday, the Devils will set their sights on a championship in the annual O'Neill Invitational. Schools can compete in two-man, three-man or four-man divisions in that meet.

Saturday's team standings: 1. Oakland-Craig 310; 2. Wayne 336; 3. Plainview 343; 4. Neligh 350; 5. Hartington CC 365; 6. O'Neill 373; 7. Stanton 377; 8. Plainview B 401; 9. Eighty-four students from nine area junior and senior high schools competed in the Northeast Nebraska History Day, held March 25 on the Wayne State College campus, according to Dr. Kent Blaser, assistant professor of social sciences.

The event, sponsored by the WSC social sciences division, was divided into senior (grades 10-12) and junior (grades 9-11) competition.

Blaser noted that the schools with the best and most entries in the senior division were Stuart Public School, sponsored by Carol King, and Allen Junior-Senior High, sponsored by Marcia Rastede.

TOP SCHOOLS in the junior division were Atkinson Junior High, sponsored by Joyce Boeckman, and St. Rose of Lima in Crofton, sponsored by Cella Lukens.

The top two entries from the WSC district contest will go on to the state contest in Lincoln on April 16, and the winners there will compete in the national contest in Washington, D. C. at a later date, Blaser said.

Team brings home trophies

The interesting thing about forensics, according to Ron Whitt, is that "students in this activity respect and admire others in competition for their talents."

Whitt, instructor of humanities and forensics coach at Wayne State College, explained that contestants often applaud each others' work, and that the atmosphere at contests is not only of competition, but of comradery.

"They just say, 'You do your best and we'll do our best and we'll let the judge decide the winner,'" Whitt said.

THIS YEAR'S WSC forensics team is made up of eight people. They include Deb Kinnison, a senior from Orchard; Karen Lepler, a senior from Norfolk; David Blenderman, a freshman from Wayne; Tore Nelson, a sophomore from Emerson; Gary Hartsock, a sophomore from Rising City; Corrine Morris, a junior from Carroll; Kevin Marik, a junior from Howells; and Linda Tiensvold, a freshman from Rushville.

Kennison is currently the top speaker in Nebraska intercollegiate forensics, according to Dr. Ed Elliott, WSC president. She has brought home 16 trophies and four championships this year, he noted.

which she interpreted the seven types of starting, Whitt said.

Whitt said that the team begins practicing and searching for materials at the beginning of the second semester.

These materials include information files for persuasive, informative and extemporaneous speaking; and selections from poetry, prose and drama for interpretive reading and duet acting.

After putting their presentations together, the students go through a constant revision and upgrading of their materials and performances. Whitt said, "It takes a tremendous amount of time to do," he added.

HOWEVER, in the extemporaneous and impromptu speaking categories, students don't know what they will be speaking about until they get to the contest. Some of the topics they are given "would blow your socks off," Whitt said.

In impromptu speaking, students have seven minutes to draw their topics, prepare and give a speech.

"They usually use 1.2 minutes to prepare and give a 5.6 minute speech," Whitt said.

In extemporaneous speaking, students are given "any topic in the world" and have a half-hour to prepare a seven minute speech that is given "virtually without notes," he added.

Students get information for these contests from files they have put together. These files usually include clippings from the New York Times, Time, Newsweek, U.S. News and World Report, and the Wall Street Journal.

"Some kids will have two or three briefcases full of files," Whitt noted.

WHITT SAID he is in the process of rebuilding the program. When he started coaching the team last year, there were only four students competing.

"They did very well in competition," he said, "especially in the National Novice Forensics tournament in Omaha. All of them broke into the final round of competition."

The number one reward from forensics competition is the learning atmosphere and the competitiveness to maintain the highest standard of excellence, Whitt said.

"Everything has to come from within," he noted. "It's a case of pitting the student's research, analysis, speaking skills, poise and presentation against others with similar aspirations."

TEAM MEMBER Tiensvold said one of the greatest rewards from forensics competition, for her, was seeing all the different teams. She said that the competition she saw at the team's last meet was the best she'd ever seen.

She added that the constant speaking practice helps the team members in their ability to meet people, and with day-to-day speaking.

"It's great practice for things you do in everyday life," she said.

Faculty profile

Dr. Steven Dinsmore has found Wayne State College to be "a challenging experience which lends itself to professional growth and development."

He also said that WSC has been reasonably flexible in its approach to academic problems.

"Students are academically responsible and socially enjoyable, although they tend to disappear on weekends."

DR. DINSMORE, associate professor of education counseling, has been at Wayne State since December of 1977.

Previously, he was assistant professor of counseling psychology at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. for three years.

After earning his bachelor's degree from Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C. in 1966, he earned his master's and doctorate from Ball State in 1972 and 1974.

He is a member of the American Psychological Association, the American Personnel and Guidance Association, Phi Delta Kappa, and the Nebraska State Education Association.

Steve Dinsmore

WITHIN THE education division, he is the coordinator of the undergraduate counseling and psychology program, and of the graduate program of counselor education school and agency.

A native of Easton, Maine, he and his wife, Janice, enjoy traveling and have traveled throughout many countries in Europe. They are the parents of one son, Steven II, who is nine years old.

KINISON accompanied Dr. Elliott to the Northeast Nebraska School Superintendents Association meeting earlier this week. She gave an after-dinner speech on non-verbal communication in

Wayne youngster takes grain marketing tour

Steve Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Anderson of Wayne, participated in a Scoular study tour in grain marketing last month, sponsored by Scoular-Bishop Grain Co. of Omaha.

Anderson was one of seven University of Nebraska-Lincoln students selected to take part in the tour.
Selection was based on the students' interest in international grain trade and domestic grain trade in the United States.

THE STUDY tour was a traveling seminar in which students talked to grain merchandisers, river terminal managers, export terminal managers and personnel at main offices.

Steps included the Scoular-Bishop Grain Company's main office in Omaha, Agri Industries main office in Des Moines, Iowa, the Kansas City Board of Trade, and the Far-Marco River Terminal in Kansas City, Kan.

THE COUNTY OF WAYNE WAYNE, NEBRASKA 68787

The following instructions and/or information is to be adhered to by all agents and companies who are bidding on insurance for the County of Wayne.

All bids must be submitted in accordance with the amounts of insurance, payrolls, limits of liability, etc. as called for in the specifications. Alternate bids will be welcome, but must be presented separately.

Bids submitted must be underwritten by an insurance company with at least a rating of A as listed in the latest issue of "Best's Rating Guide." Bids on accessible policies or "divided plans" will not be considered.

Only sealed bids which arrive at the office of the County Clerk, County of Wayne, on or before June 3, 1983 will be considered. Bids must be enclosed in envelopes marked "Sealed Insurance Bid" and addressed: Board of Commissioners, County of Wayne, Nebraska 68787. Bids will be opened at 2:00 p.m. on June 7, 1983. Any interested party may be present at the opening of the bids. The decision as to whom the bid will be awarded may be postponed until June 7, 1983 if deemed advisable by the Commissioners. The successful bidder will be notified as soon as possible thereafter. The County of Wayne reserves the right to reject all bids.

The bid should contain a signed statement by a representative of the company which shall guarantee policy issuance in accordance with the bids with any period of up to 30 days after the letting date.

The writing company must agree to make a complete appraisal of all county buildings. This should be submitted along with their recommendations for insurance values to the Commissioners within 90 days after the effective date of the policy.

The effective date of all policies shall be July 1, 1983. It is in the interest of the County of Wayne that the insurance be written on a special Multiple Peril policy, it's equivalent or better, and as few policies as possible. The package policy should be written for a period of three years with annual installments. The County of Wayne understands that the rates and premiums shown may possibly change on an annual basis due to the basic rate changes made by various insurance bureaus and beyond the control of the writing company; however, the writing company must at the request of the Commissioners explain any substantial increases in the premiums charged.

Coverages and available limits for Errors and Omissions policies vary considerably since there are no standard forms, therefore sample policies must be included with your bid.

Each agency and/or agent shall furnish the County of Wayne with a certificate of insurance showing evidence of an Errors and Omissions policy issued to such agency or agent with liability limits of not less than $1,000,000. Said certificate of insurance shall be submitted with the bid on or before May 16, 1983 and a policy shall be continuously in effect during the term of the insurance relationship with the County.

A general information sheet is attached containing pertinent reading and dates such as number of employees, receipts, etc. which should be used if needed. Any additional information not contained therein, may be obtained by contacting the County Clerk, County of Wayne, Nebraska 68787.

Please show separate premiums for each type of coverage described in the specifications. (Publ. April 14)

Bus drivers will receive an extra $20 a month in their base salary, going from $400 to $420 a month.

In addition, bus drivers will receive a 4 percent increase in their compensation for additional school activities.

The board also gave the superintendent the option of increasing the mileage paid to some bus drivers from 14 cents to 15 cents per mile.

The salary for substitute teachers jumps from $43 to $45 a day for the 1983-84 school year.

THE SALARIES for administrators and other employees not involved in negotiations will be set during a special meeting of the board of education on Thursday, April 21, at 3 p.m.

Those include Superintendent Haun, Donald Zeiss, high school principal, Richard Mettler, middle school principal, David Luft, elementary school principal, Richard Powers, superintendent of buildings and grounds, Marjorie Summers, head cook, and Doris Daniels, secretary to the board.

IN OTHER business, board members accepted the resignation of Inge Atkins, Wayne High School German teacher for the past 12 years, and approved the appointment of Patricia Jenkins to serve as kindergarten through second grade teacher at the Carroll Elementary School.

Mrs. Jenkins replaces Ruth Kerstine who resigned in December after teaching 20 years in the Wayne-Carroll School system.

After announcing Mrs. Atkins' resignation, Haun told board members that now is the time to look at any proposed changes in the foreign language curriculum.

"We need to determine if we want to proceed with German as a foreign language or if we want to change the curriculum and how we will go about it," said board president Becky Keldel.

Haun pointed out that although the number of German students has declined in the past few years, that is mainly due to declining school enrollment.

BOARD MEMBER Hummel questioned whether the board could hire an interim German teacher for one year while a thorough study is made of the foreign language curriculum.

Keldel questioned whether the board, in that case, would offer German I to incoming freshmen.

"I don't feel we can tell incoming freshmen they have no elective," said Keldel.

"I don't feel I'm ready tonight to suggest we drop German and offer another foreign language such as Spanish," added Hummel.

"I agree," said Keldel, "there is a lot of groundwork and a lot of study to be done before we make a decision."

Board members plan to discuss the foreign language curriculum during next week's special meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL principal Zeiss appeared before the board Tuesday night to explain procedures for this year's teacher evaluation in the high school.

"There is a lot more to evaluation than just visiting the classroom," Zeiss told the board.

Zeiss said following the evaluation process he meets with each teacher to discuss any deficiencies they may have.

He added that the evaluation forms are kept in his office and are open for each teacher to look at.

ZEISS SAID he often encourages student evaluation of teachers who are "having problems."

"In many instances," he added, "the teacher takes the student evaluation more to heart."

Zeiss said teachers who are having difficulty in a specific area are given three weeks to improve before they are re-evaluated.

"Probably the most interesting and enjoyable part of this job is to go into the classroom and watch the teachers and students," said Zeiss.

"Unfortunately we don't have enough time to do this as often as we would like," Zeiss explained that tenured teachers are visited a minimum of twice each year, while probationary teachers are visited at least three times a year.

Reports of middle school and elementary teacher evaluation procedures will be given at future board meetings.

ALSO APPEARING before the board to discuss the school's new professional growth policy was High School guidance counselor Curt Frye.

Frye said a law passed last September mandates that teachers and administrators give evidence of professional growth.

The law states that certificated employees give evidence every six years of professional growth.

Six semester hours of college credit will be accepted as evidence, or, in the alternative, other activities approved by the school board which may include, but are not limited to, educational travel, professional publications, or work on educational committees.

Frye was head of a committee to develop a professional-growth policy for the Wayne-Carroll School system based on a point system.

Frye pointed out that teachers who do not comply with the point system within a six-year period will automatically be terminated.

"That's how the law reads," he said. Board members agreed to study the policy during the next month.

BOARD MEMBERS also approved the proposed budget for summer school this year submitted by Richard Mettler, director. Classes will be offered to SLD (Specific Learning Disabilities) students in grades 1-6 for a three week period beginning June 13 and ending July 1 at the Wayne elementary school.

All teaching materials will be supplied by "Project Success" funds, with the total amount of funds needed from the Dorothy Ley Trust account amounting to $3,750. The trust fund of not less than $50,000 and not more than $64,000, was established following the death of Dorothy Ley.

Mrs. Ley's will stipulates that activities of the committee in charge of administering the trust fund be audited every three years.

The board appointed Joyce Reep and Haun, along with one other lay person yet to be named, to serve on an advisory council to administer the trust funds.

A formal presentation of the Ley Trust fund is scheduled next month by Tom McLain of the State National Bank and Trust Co.

IN OTHER action Tuesday night, the board:

*Learned from Haun that old lockers from the boy's locker room will be transferred to the new vocational shop addition, saving the district $3,400.

*Approved a request from Bill Liska to place cement mile markers along the school's new cross-country track and paint playground equipment at the elementary school. Liska, who will be assisted by other members of Boy Scout Troop 174, is working toward his rank of Eagle Scout. Board members also agreed to fund the estimated $78 project.

*Approved the list of graduating seniors subject to the students meeting all of the school's graduation requirements. Senior board member Neil Sandahl will confer the diplomas on May 22.

*Approved special education contracts with Educational Service Unit One for the 1983-84 school year.

*Approved the appointment of Sally McNeill as Special Education Director. She replaces Dick Mettler, who resigned.

Garbage

LUEDERS ALSO emphasized that commercial garbage hauling service will be available.

"We're ready to sit down with any commercial operation...with anyone...and talk about it," he said.

"All they have to do is give us a call," he continued.

In other action, the Council also weighed a report from the city administrator regarding the on-site inspection of Wayne's proposed $1.8 million wastewater treatment plant.

According to Kloster, the city had requested a presentation from Bruce Gilmore & Associates, city engineering consultants, on a project inspection team "some six to nine months ago."

KLOSTER INDICATED that Monday, Dennis Hirschbruner of Gilmore & Associates had presented the city with the proposed inspection team, but only after prodding by the city administrator.

"We asked for an inspection team before the city went into this wastewater treatment plant because this is the largest project the city has undertaken outside of the electrical department," Kloster explained.

"We just felt it was good management and wanted to know who was going to represent the design firm and who was going to represent the city's interests," Kloster told the Council.

"Hirschbruner has now made that presentation," Kloster added.

KLOSTER SUGGESTED that the Council recess Tuesday night's meeting and reconvene on Thursday afternoon and on Monday afternoon to review on-site inspection team proposals from two other companies.

"That inspection team is going to be the key on this plant," he said, noting that the consulting engineer's proposed team could end up with the job.

"The resident inspector is going to be the key individual for Wayne," Kloster explained.

"When we entered into this proposal (with Bruce Gilmore & Associates) the engineers were told that the project would be built with the very highest standards possible," the city administrator continued.

"NOW COMES an even more critical stage...supervision of the building of that plant in the way it was designed," he added.

Kloster said Council had decided that the city should receive presentations from other companies for the resident inspector — the city's man on the job site.

"If Hirschbruner could be on the job site eight to 10 hours a day, there would be no problem," explained Kloster, noting that that was impossible for the city's consulting engineer.

"This is a very large project and they are a very small firm...they just don't have the day-to-day expertise that some other firms do in resident inspection," Kloster added.

"ONCE WE hear from other companies, then we can collectively make a better decision on what organization or who we want on the inspection team," Kloster explained.

Kloster suggested that the Council's eventual selection as resident inspector work with the city's consulting engineers as a subcontractor.

"We will still expect a day-by-day update on how things are going and we have to have the finest inspection job ever had in the City of Wayne," Kloster insisted.

Council voted unanimously to reconvene at 4:30 p.m. Thursday for a presentation from DeWild, Grant and Reckert of Rock Rapids, Iowa.

After that presentation, Council is expected to recess until 4:30 p.m. Monday for a presentation from Howard G. Green Inc. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Lottery

And, he reviewed last Friday's chamber coffee meeting that took city businessmen and businesswomen through a mock lottery to show them the procedures.

The city administrator also said that the monthly lottery drawing probably would be held in a downtown area "on the last Thursday night of the month, or the first Thursday night of the next month" following ticket sales.

ACCORDING TO Kloster, Council will have full authority to decide on how the lottery will be set up and operated, including the awarding of prizes.

Under state law 65 percent of the lottery money must be awarded as prizes.

However, Kloster noted that the Council could use any number of combinations, including one winner, several winners, winners on odd numbers, winners on even numbers.

"The variety available is unlimited," he said.

He also reminded the Council that any unclaimed prize must be rolled over and awarded at the next drawing.

Kloster said that, traditionally, lottery winners have about 30 days to claim their prize.

"WE ARE thinking about having the winners pick up their money at the place where they bought their winning ticket," Kloster said, noting that ticket vendors must be bonded.

Mosley noted that awarding the prize at the vendor's place of business "would be an incentive for ticket sales."

Kloster said that the city is awaiting "some rulings" on U.S. Postal Service regulations from the Nebraska League of Municipalities.

"Those rulings may dictate one approach against another in setting up the lottery," he explained.

"We're going to operate in a little different way than the others...and maybe in a way that will make it more acceptable to the federal government," Kloster added.

Sirens

with a list of operational installations so that, if we have any questions about the system, Council members or city staffers can make an on-site inspection before we award the bid," he continued.

THE CITY is seeking a six-siren system that is fully electronic for remote activation.

Financing for the system would be split, with about 50 percent coming from the city budget and the other 50 percent coming through the municipal power operation under an energy conservation program.

Under the city's agreement with the Western Area Power Administration (WAPA) for low-cost hydroelectric power, Wayne is also committed to an energy conservation program.

During the Council's final March meeting, Kloster said that the proposed Civil Defense warning system meets the terms of the WAPA mandated energy conservation plan, allowing the electrical department to underwrite half the cost of the system.

THE CITY has budgeted $25,000 for the system, which is about half the estimated cost of the electronic sirens, according to Kloster.

At the last March meeting, Council gave Kloster the go ahead on the preparation of plans and specifications for the proposed electronic siren system.

During that meeting, Kloster responded to the Council's year-ago request for a proposal to upgrade the city's Civil Defense system.

Kloster's report, prepared in conjunction with Police Chief Vern Fairchild, who is city and Wayne County Civil Defense director, recommended the installation of the electronic warning system citywide.

11 states and lower than all six states with rate setting.

Nebraska's rate increased 3.6 percent from January to July of 1982 while the national rate increased 7.5 percent. The state's hospital average was $139.31 for a semi-private room charge.

THE ADMINISTRATOR said diagnosis relating groupings (DRG) may force the hospital to add a computer to keep pace. She said Providence Medical Center tries to keep expenses down. In the case of Medicare patients, the hospital receives only a percentage of what it charges.

A cost report shows that PMC receives $10.01 less than the maximum amount that could be paid by Medicare a day as a reimbursement.

Considerable donations to the hospital have helped keep it operating efficiently, Thomas said. "Donations increased our total worth and help us maintain quality and keep our costs down," she said.

Some of the major donations included an ambulance from the city of Wayne and coronary care equipment from the auxiliary as well as life line equipment and physical fitness equipment for the physical fitness center.

"Some relate back directly to the patients and others don't," said Thomas. "The ambulance was very needed. Without the donations the equipment would have to be paid for elsewhere."

LAWN PREEMERGENCE HERBICIDES

Although there has been a lot of advertising to apply lawn preemergence now it's about a month too early. The first week in May would be about right for this area.

Lawn preemergence herbicides should be applied as close as possible to the germination time of crabgrass, foxtail, goosegrass, and spurge for maximum value. Applying the materials far in advance of seed germination decreases their concentration and effectiveness in late July and August when they are needed most.

If prostrate knotweed is a problem in turf, forget about preemergence herbicides. In some places knotweed has already germinated and was already making visible growth. In addition, most available turf preemergence herbicides provide only mediocre control of knotweed.

HARD MAPLE TREES

Either Norway or Sugar Maple would make an excellent shade tree. Hard Maple, requires a fertile soil and more moisture than some other shade tree species to keep them in vigorous growing condition.

One can't put too much emphasis on keeping any tree in good growing condition, insects and disease are far less of a problem to thrifty trees. Keeping the bark in good condition is important to the health of a tree.

Sunscald is a problem with maple, which should be watched closely during the first several years after it is planted. The bark is thin and when the tree is planted in a location where the trunk is exposed to sun for long periods of the day, bark can be seriously damaged.

Protection from sunscald can be given by wrapping the trunk to protect it. After several years the crown will develop enough to provide shade for the trunk and wrapping is no longer necessary.

Hard maples have a very attractive form, symmetrical, dense, and compact as they develop, their crown will grow to a width of approximately 30 feet and the tree will reach 40 feet in height at maturity. In autumn their leaves change from green to brilliant reds and yellows.

WEED SEEDS

Seeds are only means of reproduction for annual weeds and it's the way many perennials spread to new areas. If you thought your field was clean last year you may still be in for problems this year.

Some weeds produce thousands of seeds but that's not all the problems. Additionally, weeds have built-in dormancy and longevity mechanisms. Wild buckwheat can produce nearly 12,000 seeds from a single plant; green foxtail, 24,000; lambsquarters, 72,000; and pigweed, 117,000. Some very large pigweed plants may produce over 2 million of those shiny little black seeds.

Shattercane seed may remain alive in the soil for 12 years. Field bindweed has been stored in the soil for 50 years and some seeds were still alive. Pigweed has a tough seed coat, it will withstand equivalents of 1,000 per square inch pressure.

A hundred percent prevention in the field is pretty idealistic, so cultivation and chemicals are needed each year to prevent crop losses due to competition from annual weeds.

Recertification training set

A recertification training session for all farmers whose restricted pesticide certification will expire in 1983 will be held at the ASCS meeting room in Wayne Friday (April 15) starting at 1 p.m. The meeting will last about 1 1/2 hours.

Milkweed infestation is slowed

Research developed at the University of Nebraska has shown that the number of years of continuous winter wheat production to eradicate common milkweed infestations can be cut from five to two if glyphosate treatments are applied during the non-cropped period.

The research was conducted by Kenneth Carlson, NU graduate student in weed science, and Orvin Burnside, NU professor of agronomy.

In the field experiments, common milkweed, a difficult weed pest, was allowed to grow undisturbed during the non-cropped period from July to September at which time glyphosate treatments were applied, according to Carlson. All glyphosate applications were applied when the common milkweed regrowth was in the late bud to early bloom stage of growth in early September prior to seeding of winter wheat.

Stem counts were then taken in each plot just prior to glyphosate applications, and annually thereafter for two years to determine the effectiveness of the various glyphosate treatments, Carlson said. "Common milkweed infestation was reduced an average of 80 percent in the untreated check due to continuous winter wheat competition two years after treatments," he said.

Glyphosate applied treatments reduced the common milkweed infestation an average of 90 percent two years after applications, he added.

Loan grain decision needed soon

Nebraska grain producers with corn, sorghum and wheat now under regular or reserve price support loan have a very short time to decide whether to forfeit all or a major portion of their loan grain. This action would allow loan cancellation, and consideration of an option featuring additional economic incentives.

On Jan. 31, Nebraska producers had 603.6 million bushels of corn, 59.1 million bushels of wheat and 70.3 million hundredweight (cwt.) of sorghum in government loan programs. University of Nebraska extension economists Larry Bitney and Roy Frederick said producers have until Friday (April 15) to agree to turn over any of the three grains under loan programs to the government, and have their loans cancelled.

THE USDA offer is being made because the Commodity Credit Corporation does not own adequate stocks to serve as Payment in Kind, and is an attempt by CCC to avoid activating a provision in the PIK contract that permits CCC to require farmers to put enough of their 1983 production under loan to serve as their PIK compensation, the economists stated.

In addition to loan cancellation, producers also may bid to keep a portion of their loan grain — including reserve. For example, a producer with 5,000 bushels under loan could bid 10 percent that means he would keep 500 bushels, but still have the 5,000-bushel loan commitment cancelled.

A producer with several loans can elect to turn any or all grain covered over to the government as long as he maintains enough to meet his own PIK entitlement.

Storage payments by CCC to the producer will stop when the loan is cancelled and the grain is turned over to the government. For grain in commercial facilities, this would be almost immediately. There will be a short delivery period allowed for farm-stored grain.

Unearned advance storage payments must be repaid to the ASCS, Bitney and Frederick pointed out.

WHILE A producer is assured that a zero bid — relinquishing all grain under loan — will be accepted, he has no such assurance on a higher bid.

A NUMBER of factors need to be considered by a producer in making a decision. Some are common to many producers, and are listed as follows: individual producers may have others to add. Some factors can be quantified; others can't, which adds to the difficulty of decision-making, the economists stressed.

1. On what year's crops do you have to reserve loans? The loan rate, interest rate and maturity dates are different for each year's crop. Also, do you have any 1982 crop under the regular (9-month) loan program?

2. Where is the grain located and what is its condition? Is it on the farm, in a country elevator or terminal elevator? Will it have to be moved? Will there be a cost in keeping it under loan, such as further drying, cleaning or moving?

3. Do you think that the market price will reach or exceed the trigger level during the term of the loan? If so, how soon? Obviously, if you turn the grain over to the government now, you forego the potential gain from further increases in grain prices.

4. Did you use the advance storage payments to make bin payments? Are you planning on using future government storage payments to make big payments? Leaving grain in the reserve would assure continuation of storage payments if the trigger level is not reached. The loss of potential storage payments should be taken into account in calculating your bid, Bitney and Frederick advised.

ON THE OTHER hand, you may be paying more for commercial storage than the 25.5 cents per bushel per year that the government is paying you. In this case, there may be an advantage in discontinuing the arrangement, they pointed out.

5. Do you need additional storage space for your 1983 crop? How much is it worth to you to get some of our bins cleaned out?

6. How much do you need to meet your needs for PIK grain? Do you want to save enough for a possible 1984 PIK?

7. How much of an effort is it for you to maintain the quality of reserve grain? Much concern is being expressed around Nebraska about some grain placed in storage at high moisture at the 1982 harvest, with a threat of quality deterioration going into the spring and summer this year, unless stringent stored grain management is exercised.

8. "USDA's attitude is to be generous, but not grant a blank check on the U.S. Treasury. Remember they always can fall back on a plant-for-PIK option.

That's when PIK participants get the loan rate on their 1983 production, but then have the loan forgiven in the lieu of receiving grain for PIK," the economists reminded.

AGAIN, PRODUCERS who offer grain to CCC at the ASCS office for which the loan was obtained will have their loan forgiven and sign a sales contract with CCC. All such offers will be accepted, according to CCC.

Producers who believe they "need additional compensation" have until April 15 to submit competitive bids on the amount of "Compensation" needed. The bids will indicate the quantity of loan grain the producer offers to CCC, and the percentage of that quantity to be paid as in-kind compensation for liquidating the loan. This compensation — a given number of bushels of grain — would be available immediately, and could be marketed by producers. CCC plans to notify by April 28 those producers whose bids are accepted.

"Producers normally would not turn grain over to the government if returns could be expected to increase by continuing to hold it," Bitney and Frederick reasoned. "Our analysis indicates," they said, "that producers would be more likely to relinquish if they could retain enough bushels out of a loan to pay off unearned storage costs and potential price increases. Considering the many variable and assumptions that individual producers must make, bids could range from 1 to 20 percent," they concluded.

Rain and snow threatens to delay year's crop plantings

Rain and unseasonal snow threaten to delay 1983 crop plantings, a repeat of last year's woes — if fields remain muddy beyond mid-April.

This word comes from Don Hanway, University of Nebraska extension agronomist, who said, "April 15 wouldn't be considered unusually late, but delays beyond that time become more critical day by day."

Late planting is most likely to cause yield losses on grain crops, such as cool-season oats and barley, Hanway said. "These crops need time to mature before July in order to avoid heat damage and weed competition," he noted. Legumes, important in PIK-related plans, also benefit from early planting.

HANWAY WILL discuss late planting on the Nebraska Education Television Network series, Farm and Ranch Report, to be aired April 14 at 12:30 p.m., repeating at 9:30 p.m.

In contrast, early planting is not critical for many of the crops allowed under the PIK program, Hanway said. "Maturity is unimportant with small grains for grazing and ground cover for land protection," he said.

Fields with poor crop residue, such as soybeans, need to be planted as early as possible to prevent erosion, Hanway said. Those with good residue, such as corn and milo fields, need not be planted as soon for this reason alone.

Hanway advises conservation tillage practices and the use of preemergence herbicide on PIK acres. Delays in planting should give farmers a chance to calibrate their spraying equipment, an often-neglected task, according to Leonard Bashford, NU extension agricultural engineer.

"A lot of farmers need to calibrate their equipment," Bashford said. "A survey several years ago found that two out of three farmers were either over-applying or under-applying chemicals. I doubt that things are much better now," he said.

A SIMPLE, cheap, quick job — calibration — can save from $2 to $12 per acre in chemical costs during spraying, Bashford said. He will discuss the procedure on the April 14 Farm & Ranch Report show.

There are two steps in calibration: one is done in the shop — making sure all nozzles are delivering the same amount of spray, and the other is done in the field.

Farmers need to do a little calculating, Bashford said. A formula will be presented on the show to help farmers figure gallons per acre of solution or pounds per acre.

Calibrating in the field is done by spraying a measured area, then coming back in and measuring how much liquid has been used. If the measurement is within plus or minus five percent, it is fine, he said. If not, increasing or decreasing the pressure or changing the speed of the tractor can correct the problem. "All of this is to be done using water in lieu of mixed solution," according to Bashford.

The pressure gauge "is the Bible of the sprayer," an indication of how that sprayer is working, Bashford said. "Money is well spent buying a good pressure gauge, preferably a fluid-filled one."

"Read the manual," he said. "Be aware of what is happening and be observant of the equipment."

"The adjustment should be made after 50 hours of use," Bashford said.

In Our 75th Year

the farmer's wife

by pat meierhenry

In life, as in physics, "opposites attract." Why do they also marry? It has been my observations that they do, and that the Big Farmer and I are not the only pair trying to live together with entirely different priorities.

I want to make it clear that we both squeeze the toothpaste from the bottom of the tube. So our marriage does not have to cope with that strain. But that is where our compatibility ends.

He watches TV for relaxation — I read. He hates broccoli — I love it. He likes sports — I prefer music for entertainment (unless our kids are participating in the athletic event — that makes it a lot more interesting!). He's quiet — I like to talk (every Meierhenry male is married to a verbal female — that has to tell you something!).

He was born in the bedroom we sleep in, and will probably die there. I believe the world is there for me to see, and I crave to see it all. Travelers always marry non-travelers.

He liked to make money — I like to spend it. And there lies the biggest area of disagreement — the way we manage our check books. I should have known what was coming when I found his green-stamp book — every stamp was lined up evenly. His check book must balance — to the penny. I did keep a check book balanced for an entire year once. I did not spend more than I earned. When my monthly check arrived, I paid my share of the rent and groceries.

I even had enough to loan some to the Big Farmer, who had been taught in Ag Econ classes that interest was simply an expense, and it was smart to borrow operating capital. Then, I typed his master's thesis and there was no way he could repay me, so he married me. I have not balanced a check book since — and I've learned a lot about "operating on borrowed money."

Money spent on the farming operation supposedly makes money, so money spent for land, machinery, or livestock is okay. Farm houses do not appreciate the value of the farm; therefore, money spent on the house does not make money, and is not okay. When you operate on borrowed money, you do not borrow the money until the bill is due, because you pay interest for every day you have the money borrowed.

At first, we had a joint account; the stub book was on his desk. At the end of every month, when the statements came, there would be half a dozen checks I had forgotten to record. Besides messing up his book, they accounted for a couple of the overdrafts we had received.

Our bank knows we will be in to borrow money when our account is dry, so they protect our credit and pay any checks we write.

But they charge us for each check — once it was 25 cents — now it's $3. And the notice arrives in the mail in an envelope stamped "let us help you!"

After trying in vain to balance his check book with checks missing, we established separate accounts: one farm and one household. It saved our marriage! Of course, my check doesn't cover all household expenses, so I have to deposit from the farm account periodically, and since I don't always subtract as I write checks, I still get those yellow slips in the mail periodically.

Since interest has become a major expense, we wait longer yet to borrow money. And it makes even less sense to borrow money to live on. Financial experts tell farmers they have "cash flow" problems. This means they have very little flowing in and lots flowing out.

And when they do sell beans, or corn, or fat cattle, or hogs, they go immediately to the friendly banker and make a payment so they can borrow again to buy fertilizer, seed, or feed, or make a land payment. Often, they are borrowing on the value of the land on which they are making the payment, thus decreasing any equity they may have.

One can readily see how tough it is for a farm wife to decide if she can afford a dress on sale for $20 when friend husband just spent $5,000 at the local Coop!

Watch for stored grain insects

Many kinds of insects "are out there somewhere — just waiting for grain in storage to warm up so they can feed and reproduce," a University of Nebraska extension entomologist warned last week.

Robert E. Roselle said activity of grain-damaging insects is slow, as long as grain temperature is lower than the 50 to 60 degrees F range. "Freezing will kill many, but cannot be relied upon to clean up infested grain," Roselle cautioned.

He urged farmers to examine grain as it warms up for primary pests such as weevils and grain borers, and secondary insects such as flour beetles and saw-toothed grain beetles. The former group reduce whole kernels to hollow shells and dust; the latter feed on broken kernels and grain debris, and may cause grain to be lowered in grade.

"If insects 'get away,' the grain loss by late summer and fall may be serious," the NU insect specialist pointed out. "It pays to catch them early and dispatch them to prevent significant dollar losses."

The only way to catch these "robbers" is to watch carefully for evidence of activity from now through the summer and fall, Roselle advised grain producers. Farmers should probe every week or two grain that will remain in storage. The grain samples from the probe should be screened over grain grading sieves or window screens. Most live insects will fall through and can be observed, he explained. Several samples also should be taken from the surface of the grain and from any hot spots that are detected.

"If one or more weevils or grain borers — or five or more secondary insects — are found, and grain temperature is rising, consider some action," he recommended.

Infestations can be controlled only by moving the grain into other sites and treating it with premium-grade malathion as if it augered into another bin, or fumigating, Roselle said. If grain is to be fed, it would not be necessary to treat, he added.

Malathion is available for mixing with water and spraying onto the grain stream, or as a dust that can be metered into the moving grain. Either should protect grain with moisture content of 13 percent or lower for 9 to 12 months — shorter periods of time at higher moisture content. Malathion treatment is low cost, Roselle stated.

FUMIGATION COSTS will vary from about 3 to 5 cents per bushel depending upon the kind of fumigant, amount of grain and type of structure.

For storage facilities containing more than 5,000 bushels, it may cost less to hire commercial fumigation companies than to use on-farm type of heavier-than-air fumigants, Roselle said. "Most storage sites with 10,000 or more bushels probably could be treated by a commercial company at a significantly lower cost than the farmer could do it with materials available for farm use," he noted.

"It is advisable to inquire about costs before making a decision. Commercial concerns have the know-how and safety equipment that is essential for success and safe fumigation of stored grain. A few telephone calls are low-cost compared to the money that could be saved," he concluded.

Take precautions

Spring brings rash of anhydrous burns

Farm operators should take precautions this spring to avoid injuries — especially injuries caused by burns from anhydrous ammonia. A University of Nebraska extension safety specialist warned.

Rollin Schneider said he has received many reports of burns stemming from anhydrous ammonia applications. Some have been on the farm, and some have been at the ammonia plant, he added.

The anhydrous ammonia manufacturers respect their product and generally have few problems, Schneider pointed out. However, those who don't work with the product every day get careless, creating the potential for injuries, he said.

THE SPECIALIST said he lauded the ammonia industry for implementing good training programs for dealers. But not all dealers attend these meetings, nor do all hear what they are told, he said.

"Training is so important — from the manufacturers down through the dealers and their employees, and finally to the farmers," Schneider said.

Anhydrous ammonia causes a caustic burn or a progressive burn. It's a product just like lye, he said. "When it comes to first aid," he added, "there is only one recognized treatment. And that is water, water, water. And plenty of it."

Schneider recommended at least 5 gallons of water on the tank and another 5 gallons on the tractor. "Make sure that the water container on the applicator tank is full. It may be the difference between blindness and continued good vision in a case of anhydrous getting into the eyes," Schneider warned.

Other safety precautions include personal protective equipment, Schneider said. Neoprene gloves and a good pair of goggles are very important protection, he said.

Pulling a number of loaded tanks behind a pickup truck is just courting disaster, Schneider cautioned. The brakes on a pickup are not designed to stop the loads they are asked to halt, he explained. Nebraska does not require brakes on the nurse tanks as some other states do, he said.

THERE HAVE also been some indications of the check-valve not working properly, thus causing some burn injuries, Schneider said. "It would be good to check these valves before starting the application," he added.

Because school will be out soon, and more youths will be working at farm jobs, training is especially important for youths who don't have continuous experience at their jobs, Schneider said.

An example of a good youth training program is the tractor training program, he said. As a result, machinery fatality and injury accidents to youth decreased considerably in the last 10 years, he added.

The Banvel® herbicide advantage: More grass for your cattle, without musk thistle.

Control more broadleaf weeds with Banvel® herbicide.

If your grass pasture is overrun by broadleaf weeds, its carrying capacity is below where it should be. So, your cattle don't gain efficiently. Production drops.

Because cattle don't get the nutrition they need from weeds, they are low in TDN. Some are poisonous. And some cause illness. Even death. They're tough on your pasture too. Weeds take up space and sunlight. Rob valuable moisture and nutrients from forage grasses and can even crowd them out.

That's where a Banvel herbicide/2,4-D tank-mix comes in. You knock out a wide spectrum of weeds in pastures. Banvel herbicide penetrates weed leaves. Is absorbed by the roots. Moves throughout the entire plant for better weed kill... leaf-tip to root-tip.

This spring is the ideal time to stop weeds before they can become well established and spread throughout your pasture. Banvel herbicide tackles many of your toughest broadleaf problems, including stubborn biennial weeds like musk thistle and even tough perennials like Canada thistle and leafy spurge.

With weeds out of the way, forage grasses are allowed to flourish, and the carrying capacity of your pasture can increase. That could mean more beef from every acre.

Ask your ag chem dealer for weed control that increases the carrying capacity of your pasture. Ask for Banvel herbicide.
