Council approves paving project

Fairground Avenue may soon have a new look.

The Wayne City Council gave its approval at a regular meeting Tuesday night for the paving of Fairground Avenue from South Nebraska Street to South Windsor.

The paving will be paid for by a grant through the Nebraska Department of Roads. The state recently informed the city of Wayne that Fairground Avenue will be included as part of its plan. The project could be completed at no cost from Wayne's general fund. A storm sewer and widening of the street are included in the plan.

VERN SCHULZ, Street Department manager, said the grant is a pleasant surprise. He said the city will now apply for a grant to pave the street running north from Fairground along Feeders Elevator.

The Council gave the go-ahead for a preliminary design to be drawn for the project. The project will be opened up to bids and if the bidder can start the project this summer, the street may be paved before fall. If not, it will be started next spring. The evening's lengthiest discussion involved the awarding of a bid on the proposed wastewater treatment plant. Seven bids on the project were opened and all were well under the estimated cost of $1,756,000.

McHan Construction Company of St. Louis City submitted the low bid of $1,292,430 but discovered a major mathematical error after the bid was sealed. The company requested to City Administrator Phil Kloster prior to Tuesday's meeting that its bid be withdrawn and the bid security returned.

KLOSTER RECOMMENDED that the Council allow the bid withdrawal, agree to return the bid bond and award the project to the second low bidder, Spencer Construction Company of Spencer, Iowa.

Spencer's bid for the project is $1,367,100. Councilman Keith Mosley expressed concern about the brand of equipment that would be used. He said he would like to see Walker equipment used, stating, "I feel it is far superior."

Mosley's concern raised discussion among the Council about the brand of equip-

Lottery ordinance approved

Dig out that old rabbit's foot and shine up that lucky coin because the Wayne lottery is about to begin.

The Wayne City Council, meeting in regular session Tuesday night, unanimously passed an ordinance establishing a city lottery and a resolution to set up guidelines for the lottery.

The move was a formality to adopt what Wayne voters decided in last Tuesday's election. With Councilman Gary Vopalensky absent, the Council voted unanimously to give its approval.

However, approval of a marketing proposal has been delayed until after the May 1 starting date for the lottery. City Administrator Phil Kloster said a marketing proposal would be impractical to enter before the fast approaching May 1 starting date of the lottery.

"We should try to get things going the best we can and get the mechanics worked out," Kloster said. When asked by Councilman Jim Craun if local businesses had approached him about being lottery dealers, Kloster acknowledged that some have.

The lottery will start Sunday, May 1 but according to Mayor Wayne Marsh will not begin on as big of a scale as first expected. Because of a lack of time, the lottery will begin on a more local level.

It will take time to get the larger scale plan in order and get the marketing plan finalized, the mayor explained.

Three firsts Herald tops division at state press contest

The Wayne Herald is the winningest newspaper in its circulation class for the third consecutive year in the Nebraska Press Association "Better Newspaper Contest."

Awards were presented Friday night in the annual NPA banquet at Lincoln. Competing against the state's weekly newspapers with circulations of at least 2,500, The Herald nabbed three first place awards, three seconds and three thirds.

Weekly newspapers were judged in 17 categories with first, second and third place awards given in each category. All entries had to have a 1982 publishing date.

FIRST PLACE awards earned by The Herald were best personal column, best feature photo and best sports pages.

Associate editor Randall Howell's column "country boy" was judged as the best column in its class. Selected as best feature photo was a picture, taken from Wayne State's Memorial Stadium, of cars at a Rizzard parking lot buried in snow after a blizzard in late January 1982. Photographer was Randy Hascall.

The Herald's sports section also earned a first place award in its circulation class. A fall sports guide took second place in the category of best special edition or section. Randy's Recap, a column by Hascall, also netted a second place award. The other second place award came in the category of best front page.

Picture pages that were submitted were done by LaVon Anderson, Howell and Hascall. The third place feature photo was a closeup of a milkweed that was taken by Hascall.

Business manager Jim Marsh and Publisher J. Alan Cramer were present at Friday's banquet and accepted the awards. Entries were judged by 32 newspaper publishers, editors and staff specialists from Wisconsin, with three points for first place, two for second and one for third. The judges gathered in Madison, Wisc. during the first week of March to handle the judging.

The Wayne Herald scored 18 total points to edge the Seward County Independent with 16 in the largest weekly circulation division.

Other first place winners were the Goshenburgh Times and Millard Times in the smaller weekly circulation divisions, and the Grand Island Independent in the daily division.

HOWELL AND Paul Farmer shared duties as managing editor of The Wayne Herald in 1982 before Anderson and Hascall were appointed co-editors. Judi Topp was composition foreman and Ray Murray was press foreman during the year.

WSC varsity dumps alumni 26-8

By Kent Prepost
Wayne State SID

New faces combined with returning regulars to life the Wayne State varsity football team to a 26-8 win over the alumni in the annual Spring Football Game on Saturday. Wildcat Coach Pete Chapman, himself a "new face" on the Wayne State sideline, watched a pair of sophomore quarterbacks, Tom Leitschuck and Ed Jochum, turn in good performances to lead the varsity effort.

The alumni reached a goal themselves—they scored for the first time in three years, though the alumni defense put the points on the board.

THE WILDCAT VARSITY posted two first-quarter scores to take command early. Leitschuck, a transfer from Augustana (S.D.) who earned the starting nod for the varsity, hooked up with former South Sioux City teammate Larry Voss on a 15-yard score with 6:25 in the quarter. A bad snap spoiled the extra point try.

Another South Sioux City product, junior tailback Mike Schmidt, registered the next touchdown on a three-yard run. Tom Wingert kicked the extra point and the varsity maintained its 13-0 lead at halftime.

Early in the third period the varsity struck again when Leitschuck laid a perfect bomb down the left sideline that Jeff Dostal grabbed for a 70-yard score. The PAT kick failed.

The alumni got on the scoreboard early in the fourth quarter when Mike Meistrick intercepted a Leitschuck pass and ran it back 57 yards for the touchdown. The alumni got the two-point conversion on a Mike Warren to Maurie Minken pass.

VARSITY QUARTERBACK Ed Jochum notched the day's final score when he tallied on a six-yard keeper late in the game. Wingert added the PAT for the final 26-8 margin.

Leitschuck completed four of 13 passes for 112 yards and two touchdowns, with three interceptions. Jochum was a perfect four-of-four for 43 yards in addition to his touchdown run.

VARSITY-ALUMNI action.

Voss caught three passes for 49 yards for the varsity. Split end Scott Hallstrom of Wakefield was the only other receiver to catch more than one pass, grabbing two for 16 yards.

Fullback Bob Norris led the varsity ball carriers with 34 yards on just five carries, while tailback Dave Nissen carried five times for 33 yards.

DEFENSIVELY, yet another South Sioux City grad, defensive back Rob Colwell had two interceptions. Linebacker Kevin McArdie had five tackles and a fumble recovery.

For the alumni, tailback Bob Barry carried six times for 17 yards. Quarterback Kelly Neustron completed three of nine passes for 42 yards with three intercepted, while Dave Miller hit on four of seven for 26 yards with two intercepted.

Pat Maxwell caught three alumni passes for 33 yards and Minken grabbed two for 25, while Scribner's Tim Dahl grabbed two for 13.

In addition to Meistrick's 57-yard interception return, grad Ray Wagner ran an interception back 51 yards. Omahan Tim Hurley topped the alumni tackle chart with nine, while Greg Welch had seven stops and Mike Riedmann and Steve Afamian had six tackles each.

Transfer to play at WSC

Locating a playmaking guard has been one of Coach Rick Weaver's goals for the Wayne State basketball program, and he thinks he may have found one.

Weaver has announced the intention of Jimmy Gooch to transfer to Wayne State and participate in Wildcat basketball.

Gooch is a 5-11, 165-pound point guard. He has been a two-year starter for Coach Russ Gilmore at Cowley County Community College in Arkansas City, Kan.

"Jimmy is a good ballhandler and an unselfish player, and we expect him to contribute immediately at the point guard spot," Weaver said.

Gooch is the son of Margaret Gooch of Leavenworth, Kan.—

Randy's Recap

By Randy Hascall

No chance at NU

Wayne State's Wildcats won't be playing the nationally ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers this year.

The two teams were scheduled to meet on the Husker baseball diamond Tuesday but that double header had to be cancelled. The reason for the cancellation was so WSC could play Kearney State instead.

Wayne and Kearney split their two double headers on Saturday and Monday to force a predicament. A playoff game had to be scheduled to determine Nebraska's representative in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference playoffs.

The playoff game had to be set up as soon as possible so Tuesday afternoon was picked as the date. The game was played in Columbus. So long Huskers.

Mac bags an eagle

When Wayne High golf coach Harold Maciejewski reported last Wednesday's golf results from the O'Neill Invitational, he didn't say anything about his golf game.

As it turns out, Mac started his round off in style as he eagled the first hole, a 280-yard, par four hole.

Bound for Israel

Former Wayne State College athletic trainer, Regg Swanson, is on the road again. Regg has been athletic trainer for the AAU swim team for several years and will this year be travelling to Israel with the team. He leaves today (Thursday) on the 10-day journey.

Season on downhill run

Now that the weather has finally warmed up enough to give spring sports a chance, the season is winding down to a close.

Barely more than three weeks remain until the state tournaments bring the school year athletics to a close. If the darned wind ever dies down, the weather just may be ideal for track, golf, baseball and football.

Card fan predicts Major League baseball predictions arrived from Rick Heffner of Sloan, Iowa last week and will put a close to the publishing of baseball predictions in this column for another year.

The St. Louis Cardinal fan thinks his team is going to reach the World Series again and once again lose to the Brewers. His predictions:

NL East: 1. St. Louis, 2. Montreal, 3. Pittsburgh, 4. Philadelphia, 5. New York, 6. Chicago.

NL West: 1. Los Angeles, 2. San Diego, 3. Atlanta, 4. San Francisco, 5. Cincinnati, 6. Houston.

AL East: 1. Milwaukee, 2. Baltimore, 3. Boston, 4. Detroit, 5. New York, 6. Cleveland, 7. Toronto.

AL West: 1. Kansas City, 2. Chicago, 3. California, 4. Oakland, 5. Texas, 6. Minnesota, 7. Seattle. World Series: Milwaukee over St. Louis.

NFL official speaks at athletic dinner

Officialing is the only profession in which the employees are expected to start perfect says National Football League field judge Pat Mallette.

Mallette spoke to Wayne State College athletes and Second Guessers Sunday night at a sports appreciation dinner in the WSC north dining room. The event was sponsored by Wayne's Second Guessers.

"It is a sound a little bit pro athletics, I am. All of you are lucky you had a chance to compete in athletics at the high school and collegiate levels," said Mallette. "Some say athletics is not enough like real life. I say real life is not enough like athletics."

MALLETTE, BROTHER of Wayne High baseball coach Mike Mallette, played one year of professional baseball. He said the batters hit "everything harder and farther than he threw it."

The official from Blair is most well known as an NFL field judge. He has never worked a Super Bowl game in his 14 years as a ref but last year worked a playoff championship game.

NFL officials are ranked 1 through 15 at their positions and Mallette earned the playoff championship job because he was rated second third.

Mallette told his audience that NFL games are geared toward television. Televised games include 20 television timeouts—live per quarter.

TO CONCLUDE his talk, the official recited the following poem which he wrote years ago:

I think that I shall never see a satisfactory referee

Around whose head a halo shines
Whose judgment calls are just like mine
Who blows his whistle as I would
And as his flag goes I say good
Poems are made by fools like me
But only God could referee

'Teacher Selection Day'

Teaching candidates from Wayne State College will participate in "Teacher Selection Day" on Saturday, April 30, at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln.

Experienced and inexperienced candidates will attend the event, which will bring school administrators and teacher candidates together for interviews.

Schools from Nebraska and several surrounding states will participate in "Teacher Selection Day," sponsored by the Nebraska Association for School, College, and University Staffing.

Nebraska State Poet reading works at WSC

William Kloefkorn, the State Poet of Nebraska, is the last poet in the Plains Writers' Series to appear at Wayne State College (WSC) for this year, according to Jim Brummels, assistant professor of English.

Kloefkorn will present a reading of his works today (Thursday) at 7 p.m. The reading will be held in the commons area on the second floor of the humanities building on the Wayne State campus, and is free and open to the public.

Faculty profile

Robert Foote feels that Wayne State College offers "the best education you can get for your money."

He also likes the congenial atmosphere of the school.

Foote, associate professor of geography at Wayne State, is in his 13th year here. Previously, he taught elementary school in Michigan and one year at Allegheny County Community College in Pennsylvania.

He has bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Illinois, and has completed 30 hours of work towards his Ph.D. at Michigan State.

Foote is a member of the National Council for Geographic Education and the Prairie Club, and has published some articles and reviews.

His hobbies are summer sports — sailing, surfing and swimming.

He and his wife Marsha have three children, Garrett, 13, Sharon, 11, and David, 7.

Seniors presenting projects

Four Wayne State College (WSC) seniors will present their honors colloquium projects today (Thursday), according to Dr. Brady-Ciampa, dean of graduate services.

The presentations will begin at 3 p.m. in the Board of Trustees Room, located on the second floor of Hahn Administration building on the college campus.

These presentations are the culmination of the students' work for the Honors Program, and these students will graduate with special honors in their major fields, Brady-Ciampa said.

THE FIRST part of the Honors Program, an Independent Study, is usually done during the student's junior year, he explained.

The honors colloquium is completed during the senior year, and is usually an extension of the Independent Study, or an expansion or focus on a segment of that study.

At the end of the semester, the project is presented as a paper, research report or audio-visual presentation to administration and faculty.

Students in the Honors Program must have a 3.3 overall grade point average and a 3.5 GPA in their major, and are recommended for the program by their academic divisions, Brady-Ciampa said.

SENIORS presenting their projects include home economics major Kathy Hladky of Tekamah, who will talk about "Mathematics of Home Economics"; elementary education major Sandra Luebke of Beemer, who will discuss "Measurement and Generalization of Creative Behavior in Preschoolers"; business major Steve Oetken of LeMars, Iowa; whose project is entitled "General Systems Theory: A Non-Computer Illustration"; and journalism/broadcasting major Theresa Wulf of Fremont, who will present her project entitled "On Trial: Television Cameras in the Courtroom."

Industrial education students will compete

Area junior and senior high school students will demonstrate their industrial skills and scholarship at the first Wayne State College (WSC) Industrial Education Competition Day today (Thursday) on the college campus.

Top industrial education students will compete in skills tests in the areas of woods, drafting, metal, electricity and power mechanics.

Student projects also will be judged for design, quality and craftsmanship. The projects will be on display for the public from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the North Dining Room.

Participants include Beemer, Newcastle, Allen, Tilden, Madison, West Point, Wausa, Niobrara, Norfolk, and Missouri Valley, Iowa.

Coordinating the competition is WSC graduate assistant Frank Johnson, who said the industrial education department intends to make the contests an annual event.

Fraternity members bicycling to Omaha

Members of the Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) fraternity at Wayne State College (WSC) will ride bicycles from Wayne to Omaha to raise money for St. Jude's Hospital, according to TKE President Jeff Richardson, a senior from Bellevue.

The ride will take place on Saturday, April 30, and will begin at 9 a.m. at the TKE house, located at 814 Nebraska St. in Wayne.

Fraternity members will take turns riding the bike down Highway 15 to Highway 275 to Omaha, Richardson said.

estimated that it would take about five hours to cover the 120-mile route.

Fraternity members will follow the rider in a van provided by Jim Pile and Sons of Norfolk, who is co-sponsoring the bike-a-thon. The company is also providing a driver for the van and t-shirts for the participants.

DONATIONS, which will be collected through door-to-door contributions, will be given to St. Jude's Childrens Hospital in Tennessee.

The hospital is run strictly on donations from the public, Richardson said, and children with cancer and other diseases are admitted to and treated there free of charge.

Telephone information offered

Beginning April 29, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will operate a new telephone call-in service, AGLINE, to help those in agriculture keep posted on current economic and production information, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture William Leshler.

Leshler said AGLINE — available only to callers in the Central Time Zone — will operate from midnight Central Time Thursday until midnight Friday once each week. The AGLINE phone number is (900) 410-FARM.

AGLINE callers will receive a 3-minute news summary covering U.S. crop and livestock estimates and commodity prices, weather, trade and exports and other important agricultural information reported by USDA's Economic Research Service and Statistical Reporting Service, Leshler said.

The cost will be approximately $1.20 charged on the caller's local telephone bill, Leshler said.

Allen students in ag contest

Brad Stewart of Allen won a red ribbon in the individual Agricultural Electric Power and Processing competition Friday, April 15.

The 21 vocational agriculture judging contests held April 16 during the Nebraska Future Farmers of America annual conference, consisted of three divisions: Agricultural Electric Power & Processing, Agricultural Power & Machinery and Agricultural Mechanics-Skills.

Nebraska cattle on feed up

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1,640,000 cattle on feed on April 1. This was four percent above last year and 13 percent above April 1, 1981.

During the January-March quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 1,240,000 fed cattle, three percent above the corresponding period last year. Placements during the quarter totaled 1,070,000 head, down 10 percent from 1982.

The April 1 weight breakdown showed steers and heifers on feed weighing 900 pounds or more totaled 733,000, up 18 percent from April 1, 1982. Those in the 700-899 pound group numbered 584,000, one percent below last year. The under 700 pound category totaled 318,000, down 10 percent from a year ago.

Nebraska feeders intend to market 1,200,000 head of cattle for slaughter during the April-June 1983 quarter. This would be 11 percent above the same quarter in 1982.

Allen ag students place

Allen vocational agriculture students picked up a red and four white ribbons as they competed in three of the 21 vocational agriculture judging contests in Lincoln at the state convention held April 14-16.

Teams ranging from one to four members each were ranked in the various contests, along with individual competition. In nine contest areas, students had to survive district eliminations to be eligible to compete in the state contests, which were held on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus and hosted by the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Approximately 7,000 vocational agriculture are enrolled in Nebraska high schools, and about 26 percent completed 21 contests at the state level. Of those competing, about half received ribbons for their efforts, in an approximate proportion of 1/6 purple, 1/3 blue, 1/3 red and 1/3 white.

Contests in which the local students participated and their respective placings: ag mechanics of Brad Stewart, Mike Gensler and Stuart Lubberstedt, a white; Brad placed red in individual and Mike white in individual. The welding team of Jay Jones and Chad Hings earned a white and Jay had a white in individual. The dairy selection team of Mitch Peif, Kevin Malcom and Brian Hansen had not yet received results.

Feed grain stocks hit record

Nebraska feed grain stocks (corn, grain sorghum, oats and barley) in all positions on April 1 totaled 26.6 million tons. This is 43 percent above last year and the highest April 1 feed grain stocks on record.

Cornstocked in all locations in Nebraska totaled a record 805.6 million bushels on April 1, 47 percent higher than last year. Corn on farms was a record 523.8 million bushels, up 38 percent. Off-farm stocks totaled a record 281.8 million, up 66 percent from last year.

Grain sorghum stocks equaled 134.1 million bushels, 23 percent above April 1, 1982. Sorghum stored on farms totaled 52.4 million bushels, 27 percent higher than last year, and off-farm stocks of 81.6 million bushels were 20 percent higher.

Oats on farms totaled 14.7 million bushels, up 81 percent from the record low set last year. Oats on farms totaled 11.8 million bushels, up 83 percent, while off-farm stocks totaled 2.8 million bushels, 73 percent above last year.

Soybean stocks of 42.9 million bushels were six percent above last year's record. Soybeans stored on farms totaled a record 25.7 million bushels, 31 percent higher than a year ago. Off-farm stocks at 17.2 million bushels were 18 percent lower than last year.

Wheat stocks in Nebraska amounted to 90.2 million bushels, 13 percent above last year. Wheat stored on farms at 35.5 million bushels were up 26 percent. Off-farm stocks of 54.7 million bushels were six percent higher than a year ago.

Barley stocks in Nebraska totaled 729 thousand bushels, 13 percent above last year. Rye stocks at 139 thousand bushels were up 9 percent from April 1, 1982.

Nebraska 2nd in cattle industry

Nebraska is among nine states which contributed two-thirds of the $30.5 billion in gross income from cattle and calves in 1982, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Nebraska, in second place among the nine states, accounted for $3.28 billion, behind Texas with $4.16 billion. Other states, in descending order, were Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma, Colorado, California, South Dakota and Minnesota.

Nebraska also was among the five states that accounted for two-thirds of the gross income from hogs and pigs last year. Iowa contributed $2.88 billion of the national total of $10.8 billion, followed by Illinois with $1.28 billion. Next were Minnesota and Indiana, Nebraska was fifth, with $738 million.

LEAD looking for a few good men

The Nebraska Agricultural Leadership Council recently awarded certificates of achievement to 29 LEAD "fellows" who celebrated completion of the initial two-year program of intensive leadership development for young agriculturalists.

The council, a tax-exempt, non-profit corporation, comprises of recognized agricultural business, education, and financial leaders, directs the program. The primary mission of the council is to enhance the quality of agriculture and rural life through the development of leadership potential of 60 young agriculturalists in Nebraska (25-40 years of age) each year.

The LEAD I program included 14 three-day resident seminars at a dozen different colleges and ag businesses, a two-week U.S. study travel seminar and a three-week study travel seminar in Japan and China. The educational thrust is communications and relationships, economics, government, international trade, and social/cultural understandings, and develops leadership skills while allowing participants to continue to manage their farms and/or ag businesses.

LEAD IS SUPPORTED by numerous agencies, individuals, businesses and industries in Nebraska, as well as institutions of higher education, both public and private. More than a hundred such donors have contributed to LEAD. One of the major costs is the 75-80 days of participants' time over the 2-year period, in addition to the time and expense of getting to and from the seminar.

Disease prevention better than cure

You're better off preventing plant diseases before they occur than trying to cure affected plants in your garden, according to a University of Nebraska extension plant pathologist.

John Watkins says all plants are subject to diseases caused by a variety of pesky microorganisms — from fungi and viruses to bacteria and nematodes.

Plant diseases are complex, he explains, involving interactions between pathogen, host and environment. Seasonal fluctuations in disease incidence and severity often can trick gardeners about the need for control measures.

SOMETIMES YOU have to spray chemicals to protect your garden, he says. However, some diseases can be controlled by non-chemical means.

Watkins suggests using disease-resistant plant varieties whenever they're available, as well as choosing varieties suited to local growing conditions.

It's best to select garden locations with good soil drainage, adequate sunlight exposure and fertile soil, he says, adding that soil can be improved with organic matter and fertilizers.

Don't over-fertilize with nitrogen, though, he warns. That results in lush growth which makes plants more disease susceptible. And putting fresh manure on potatoes increases the incidence of common scab, he adds.

If you can't rotate the garden bed, he says, then rotate crop locations within the garden. Plant the same crop in the same place no more than twice in a sites. This they view as their investment in improving agriculture and their own continuing education.

LEAD is essentially a non-tax funded educational program. It supports no party, person or proposition of a political nature. Experience with the first and second LEAD groups indicates that the program is successful and effective in developing leadership.

"After two years of operation, I'm even more enthusiastic about LEAD, if that is possible," said Jim Horner, director of the council. It is a most exciting group of fellows. We are very pleased about the joint efforts that we are receiving from hundreds of people across the state and around the world.

"Since agriculture is so very important in Nebraska and impacts every facet of our lives, we believe that LEAD is mutually beneficial to all," he added.

LEAD II, a second group of 30 agriculturalists, just completed its first year, which included seven resident seminars and study in Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit and Washington, D.C.

Applications for LEAD III are now being received, with a June 30 deadline. For further information contact: Jim Horner, executive vice president/director, Nebraska Agricultural Leadership Council; 302 Agricultural Hall; University of Nebraska-Lincoln; Lincoln, Nebraska 68583-0709; (402) 472-6810.

Jim Lipp of Laurel is a member of the LEAD II group. Gerald Muller of Concord is a participant in LEAD I.

JIM LIPP of Laurel (right) meets with LEAD Director Jim Horner. The two individuals were in Wayne Thursday to discuss the LEAD program.

Lipp and Horner said Thursday that anyone interested in becoming a more effective leader is invited to join the group. Lipp said he or Muller would be glad to answer anyone's questions about the program. Men and women are welcome. Horner said northeast Nebraska has been a little slow getting involved in the non-political, non-tax supporting organization.

the farmer's wife

What a difference the sun makes! Attitudes are improving, feed lots are drying, fertilizer spreaders are venturing out into fields. We set our clocks forward to try to "save" the sun, an invention the Big Farmer says is an exercise in futility.

If there is one thing better than watching your kids participate in athletic events, it's watching them perform in music events. I just spent two days watching and listening to a lot of Northeast Nebraska high school students "do their thing" in mixed chorus, singing choirs, bands, stage bands, small groups and solos. It's the best show around, and has no admission. Wayne College provides some mighty fine facilities.

Now that there is no longer any danger of drowning in mud, I'd like to ask: "Are any of you drowning in paper?" I cannot believe that the stuff has gotten so high priced — we get so much of it in the mail box!

We subscribe to one daily paper and The Wayne Herald. We also receive a weekly paper, the Sundowner, a couple of shoppers, and the Sunday World Herald.

Then there are the magazines — Farm Journal, Successful Farming, Nebraska Farmer, Best, Big Farmer, and various news letter types.

I can't be without good Housekeeping (I'm not a good housekeeper, I just like to read it) and there are two religious publications we like. The ever-faithful Reader's Digest is to keep in the bathroom. Plus, a couple of professional publications I get. I refuse to subscribe to Farm Wife News — I enjoy reading it, but those women are all super-women. They get up at 4 a.m., milk 20 cows, fix a giant breakfast, raise huge gardens, paint all the outbuildings, sew their own clothes, and always look great!

Then there are the full-color ads, the catalogs, and the sale flyers — stacks of them. Our high-school senior receives enticing letters from every college in the area; plus the army, the navy, and the air force. They all want a few good men!

The Big Farmer is on the NRD (the Nerd board) and they send him a big envelope of stuff every week. The County Extension office tries to keep us posted on 4-H happenings. We could paper our kitchen with these and probably should because we can't find them when we need them. The other thing we can be counted on to lose are all the notes from school: field trips, parent-teacher conferences, and what time the concert starts!

Then there are the solicitations. The sweepstakes promise wonderful things. I went to a Christian Anti Communism Crusade rally in Omaha 20 years ago and still get mail from all kinds of right-wing groups. I subscribed to Mother Jones magazine out of curiosity and get on all the liberal mailing lists.

The ones I have the toughest time with are the appeals on behalf of refugees and hungry children, especially when I think of what we put on our tables.

It's a good thing we have the Earth Stove log roller — and kids with strong arms! Now if I can just get the stacks of stuff off the kitchen counter.....
