The public is invited to attend the ceremonies and recognize the graduating seniors for their accomplishments.

Langston given probation

A 45-year-old Wayne man has been sentenced to five years probation on charges of taking property from Nebraskaland Petroleum Co., owners of the M & H Apco Station in Wayne.

Jerry Langston, who was sentenced Wednesday morning in Ninth District Court, Wayne County, also was ordered to spend 45 days in the Wayne County Jail, with that time to be served on 15 consecutive weekends commencing May 6.

In addition, Judge Merrill Warren ordered Langston to make restitution to Nebraskaland Petroleum Co.

LANGSTON PLED guilty last month to taking property in an amount exceeding $1,000 from M & H Apco on or about Aug. 23, 1982, at which time he terminated his employment with the company.

Langston, who was represented by court-appointed attorney Duane Schroeder of Wayne, turned himself in to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department on Feb. 21 after spending some time in Canada.

He had been wanted by law enforcement officials since last September.

LANGSTON, WHO remained free on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond, originally was accused of allegedly taking property in excess of $1,000 on two occasions from Nebraskaland Petroleum Company.

Count 1, which charged him of allegedly taking property in an amount exceeding $1,000 from M & H Apco when he was employed there in January of 1980, was deleted in an amended complaint filed March 3 by Wayne County Attorney Robert Ensz.

Non-certified ESU staff gets raise

Members of the Educational Service Unit One board of directors Tuesday night voted to increase the salaries of non-certified staff members by approximately six percent for the 1983-84 year.

Non-certified staff members, including secretaries, media personnel and teacher aides, had been working the current year without a salary adjustment.

Members of the board's negotiating team will meet prior to next September to discuss non-certified salary adjustments for the 1983-84 year.

MEETING AT ESU headquarters in Wakefield Tuesday, the board also voted to accept the resignations of Solveig Korte, Janet Placek and DeLaine Bowe.

Korte and Bowe are resigning as speech and language clinicians. Placek is a resource teacher.

Board members also voted to reduce the ESU force by two staff persons — Daniel Smith, a full-time audiologist from Sioux City, and Elaine Wiese, a half-time resource teacher from Yankton.

Harry Mills, ESU administrator, said Smith's position is being eliminated because of his lack of certification and because the ESU only needs a half time audiologist.

"He (Smith) has done a tremendous job," said Mills, "but he has had trouble getting certification."

Mills said Wiese's position as resource teacher, for the Ponca, St. Helena and Menominee schools is being eliminated because of a reduction in the number of students served in those areas.

"There is a chance we might have to hire her back again," Mills informed the board.

BOARD MEMBERS also learned Tuesday night that the ESU advisory committee, comprised of three board members and six area school superintendents, will meet in Wakefield on May 6 at 11 a.m.

Discussion will include improving communication between ESU One and local school districts, and improving relations with county boards.

The advisory committee also will discuss services, coop purchases, special education contracts, and the job description of the newly hired assistant administrator, Rodney Garwood of Elgin, in relation to schools.

ADMINISTRATOR Mills also informed board members that special education contracts have been returned by 28 schools served by ESU One.

Mills said the rest of the contracts are expected to be returned in the near future.

Last month, board members agreed to certain revisions in the special education contracts to allow for more individual school district planning.

MILLS ALSO reminded the board of a workshop presentation by the Nebraska Association of School Boards to be held in the ESU conference room at Wakefield on May 11 from 4 to 8 p.m.

Although the workshop is primarily designed for newly elected school board members, all board members and superintendents are invited to attend.

Presenting the workshop will be Justin King, executive secretary, Nebraska State School Boards Association and his staff.

The agenda includes the roles and responsibilities of school boards, relations between board and superintendent, communication and liability.

MILLS ALSO announced that the Department of Education will be in the ESU office on June 1 and 2 to audit books on bills to the schools for the past year, case load of staff, certification of staff, mileage reports, staff contracts and school on-line contracts.

Mills also reported on the National School Board Convention he and board members Marvin Borg and Darrel Merry attended April 22-27 in San Francisco.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, the board met in executive session to discuss negotiations and personnel.

Next meeting of the ESU board will be June 7 at the Paddock in South Sioux City.

Eighth graders who were given awards were: Crystal Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Green; Monica Metz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Metz; Brian Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schmidt; Jeff Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Simpson.

Lottery tickets on sale

Feel lucky? Wayne lottery tickets are now available. For $1, you could become the first winner in the Lotta Luck lottery which began May 1. Ticket sales will be stopped on the last Monday of each month and a drawing will be held on the following Thursday.

THE FIRST DRAWING will be held on Thursday, June 2 in the City Hall. The first place winner will be awarded 40 percent of the total prize money. In addition, 12 second place winners will receive five percent of the total prize money. The total amount will vary each month depending on the number of tickets sold.

The Wayne City Clerk's office reports that 27 businesses have been approved as vendors of the tickets.

"Our vendor operation will be starting at home and going out from there," City Administrator Phil Kloster said. A couple of weeks ago, the city set a 12-month goal of 50,000 tickets per month.

The administrator said month-to-month fine tuning will involve ideas to make the lottery more creative. The award structure can be changed each month if the city desires.

TICKETS CAN be purchased from the following Wayne businesses: Mike Perry Chevrolet-Olds, Surber's, Diamond Center, City of Wayne, El Toro, Casey's General Store, Black Knight, Rain Tree Drive Inn, Bill's GW, Alice's Country Tavern, Gless Rexall, Mine's Jewelry, Merchant Oil Company, Western Auto, Eldon's Standard Service, the Windmill, the Joynit, Wayne Vel's Club, Prenger's, Daylight Donuts, Pizza Hut and Hometown IGA.

Tickets also can be purchased in Carroll at Ron's Bar and in Wakefield at Benne's Package Store, Lounge Bar and Grill, Barrel Inn and True Value Home Center. Mayor Wayne Marsh said that any businesses which are interested in becoming vendors should contact the Wayne City Clerk's office.

Memorial fund drive underway in Belden

Several Belden organizations are seeking contributions for a memorial fund honoring Arnold Hansen.

Hansen was an active Belden community leader and businessman until the time of his death several months ago.

He lost his life while fighting a fire with the Belden Fire Department.

THE BELDEN Commercial Club, Volunteer Fire Department and other organizations have selected several persons to head the committee in charge of the fund drive.

A project will depend on the amount of funds received.

Persons, clubs or businesses that wish to donate to the Hansen Memorial Fund may do so by leaving contributions at any business in Belden.

Questions regarding the fund drive or the use of the funds may be directed to Darrel Neese in Belden.

Annual arts festival

MANJIT JOHAR DEMONSTRATES the art of Indian cooking during the annual Spring Arts Festival held Saturday in the Wayne city auditorium. Sponsored by the Wayne Regional Arts Council, the festival featured a variety of arts and crafts by area residents, along with performances by several musicians, dancers, whistlers and poetry readers. This is the fifth year the Arts Council has sponsored the event.

Chicken Show plans balloon

Plans are ballooning for Wayne's third annual Chicken Show. On Thursday, May 12, hundreds of colorful balloons will be released in downtown Wayne to travel throughout the country with messages proclaiming July 8 and 9 as Chicken Days in Wayne, Nebraska.

A spokesman for the Wayne Regional Arts Council and Wayne Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Chicken Show, said the balloons will be released in the alley between Second and Third Sts. at approximately 7 p.m.

RESIDENTS MAY purchase balloons from many downtown Chamber merchants prior to next Thursday night for $1 each.

The balloon will have a message inside telling the owner's name. The message also will ask for the finder's name and address, how and where the balloon was found, and how the finder feels about honoring chickens.

The owner of each balloon released will be eligible to receive a $100 gift certificate redeemable at participating Chamber stores if their balloon travels the greatest distance from Wayne.

The person finding the balloon that traveled the furthest distance from Wayne will win a "chicken shirt."

A SPOKESMAN for the Arts Council said the Chicken Show is a light-hearted project held to give long-overdue recognition and respect to the chicken. "No yolk."

Activities this year will include a chicken theme parade, a chicken arts and crafts fair, a chickens hit talent show, contests such as cluck-cluck golf and a cluck-off, a free omelet feed, a chicken feed, the National Omelet Cook-Off, a celebrity chicken item auction, and many other "fowl" activities.

Library meeting planned

Interested residents of Dixon and Wayne Counties are invited to a free, public meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 11 at the Graves Public Library in Wakefield. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss library service in Dixon and Wayne Counties, to provide information about the Northeast Library System (formerly the Northern Library Network), and to elect a two-year term system board member (a library user or interested person who is not a librarian or a library trustee).

The person elected will represent the two counties on the System Board; he or she must be present at the May 11 meeting. Each person at the meeting will have one vote. The total system board will consist of ten such elected representatives and two ex officio members.

The Northeast Library System is a non-profit corporation for the promotion of quality library service in Northeast Nebraska. The region encompasses twenty counties and includes both Dixon and Wayne Counties.

Moderator for the meeting will be Karen Warner, librarian, Northeast Technical Community College, Norfolk. Questions about the meeting should be directed to her (telephone 371-2020) or to Dick Allen, library service coordinator, Columbus Public Library, Columbus, (telephone 563-1016).

Service academy applications

Senator Edward Zorinsky (D. Neb.) has announced that applications are available from his Omaha office for nominations to the U.S. service academies for the classes entering in 1984.

Those students (age 17-21, unmarried and U.S. citizens) who are interested should send a letter requesting a nomination to the senator. An application and additional forms will then be sent to the individual. All material must be returned by November 15, 1983.

Senator Zorinsky has one vacancy available for each academy: Air Force, Naval and Military. Ten nominees will be chosen by the senator's screening committee during the first week of December for each available vacancy.

Those interested should write Senator Zorinsky's Omaha office at 8311 Federal Building, 215 N. 17th Street, Omaha, Nebraska 68102.

Kansas firm recalls salami

OHSE Meal Products Inc., Topeka, Kan. is recalling 123,000 pounds of cooked salami in a 12-state area because of minute glass fragments found in samples of unopened bags of the spice mixture used in the product. U.S. Department of Agriculture officials said today.

The firm recalled about 18,000 pounds of cooked salami in nine states in March after finding glass fragments in the product, according to Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

OHSE began a voluntary recall April 15 of all 6-ounce, 12-ounce, 1-pound and 3-pound sliced cooked salami marketed under the OHSE, Brookshire, County Fair, Good Value, IGA and Shurfresh brands. The product can be identified by the brand names, the "sell by" dates of June 15 or earlier and the processing plant identification number "EST. 5539," according to Houston.

The product has been distributed in Arkansas, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming.

"Anyone who has the suspect salami should return the product to the store where it was purchased," Houston said.

Property taxes up

State subsidy program is cut

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska homeowners next year will lose a $17 state subsidy which they now receive on their local property tax bills following passage last week of a bill repealing the general homestead exemption.

Lawmakers voted 26-23 to enact LB 396, a Revenue Committee bill which eliminates the subsidy program which costs the state $4.5 million annually.

The existing homestead exemption programs for veterans, the elderly and the handicapped are not affected by the legislative action. Those programs will continue to provide an estimated $26 million in property tax subsidies to the groups which qualify.

element of his budget package.

The $739.1 million revised general fund spending plan recommended by Kerrey presumes the general fund saving effected by repeal of the program. Lawmakers declined to repeal the general homestead exemption when former Gov. Charles Thone recommended the action as a state budget cutting measure in 1982.

Supporters of the bill argued that the general homestead exemption provides only token relief to local property taxpayers, and is therefore not worth the expense to state government.

Opponents argued that the program should be kept alive and as a vehicle for significant property tax relief.

senators who voted for advancement of the lottery bill from first round debate, said he would withdraw his support for the lottery if revenues are distributed through a program like the general homestead exemption. Cullan said the program favors urban homeowners over farmers and ranchers.

State lawmakers this week were scheduled to reconsider Gov. Kerrey's main economic development bill following their recent refusal to grant it first round approval.

On a 21-24 vote which generally followed party lines, the Legislature last week refused to advance LB 426, Kerrey's bill to consolidate and expand three existing state revenue bond authorities.

Nebraska Development Finance Fund into a single entity which would be known as the Nebraska Investment Finance Authority.

Rather than issuing revenue bonds for the three specific purposes which state law now allows, NIFA would have the authority to provide bond financing for virtually any type of commercial venture.

Although partisanship was a factor in the vote to advance the bill, it appeared that several other factors combined to thwart the progress of the bill. Some senators simply don't believe in using the bond authority of the state to provide financing to private developers, and consistently vote against such proposals.

Other lawmakers expressed reservations about the treatment of the agriculture in the current version of the bill. Among other concerns, some rural senators said they want stronger guarantees of agricultural representation into the bill so that the NIFA board doesn't become preoccupied with proposed commercial developments in Omaha and Lincoln.

THE GENERAL homestead exemption appears as a credit on homeowners' local property tax bills, and averages about $17 per taxpayer.

In repealing the program, lawmakers gave Democratic Gov. Bob Kerrey a major

DURING FLOOR debate on the measure, Sen. Vard Johnson of Omaha said he plans to offer an amendment to LB 336, the state lottery bill, to recreate the equivalent of the general homestead exemption program as a vehicle for distribution of lottery revenue.

Steadily growing

Giant corporations are the most important factor in the nation's economy, right?

Not exactly, even though most Americans would think so at first thought. The fact is, there are 13.3 million small businesses in this country and their number has been growing steadily for decades.

Consider: Small businesses employ more than half the work force, create most new jobs, are responsible for most new products and most new technologies. They bring new products to market faster than large corporations. During the 1981-82 recession, they laid off fewer workers than did their big brothers.

Small business' accomplishments and contributions will get special recognition during National Small Business Week, May 8-14. Outstanding small business men and women from around the country will be honored at a White House ceremony and in every state.

Small business deserves a big pat on the back from all of us. As President Reagan noted this spring, when he signed his second annual Report on the State of Small Business, "As business and civic leaders in their states and towns, small business men and women improve the quality of life to all Americans."

So we say: Thank you Small Business.

Efficient week in legislature

It was an unusually efficient week for the Legislature as we were able to consider and act upon a number of assorted bills and resolutions. Still, with only 17 legislative days left in this Session, a lot of important bills remain on the agenda.

The Legislature began the week by advancing LB 336, the Lottery bill, to Select File. As amended, the bill would create a state-wide lottery. Cities and towns which have lotteries of their own would be allowed to keep operating them; however, a 5% tax on the prizes awarded by all local lotteries, including those run by charitable organizations, would be imposed.

senator merle von minden

I DO NOT especially like the precedent we are setting by raising money for the state through a lottery, but I have decided reluctantly to support the bill in its present form. The use of lotteries to raise government revenues is spreading throughout the country.

I think Nebraska should seriously consider a lottery because of the potential it has as a revenue source. Other states have recognized this and decided to try a lottery. I think we must also.

LB 344, considered Tuesday, calls for the issuance of $100 million in bonds to provide funds for improving, repairing and constructing Nebraska roads. Although we all know there is a serious need for road repair, I oppose the bill because I don't favor putting that great a tax burden on our future taxpayers.

It may be a little slower to pay as we go, but the state will be better off financially if we do. After debating a kill motion on the bill, it was agreed to hold the bill for further consideration next year.

crease. Whenever you raise the benefit, the cost to the employer is also going to increase.

Nebraska is trying to attract new industry into the state to help improve our economy. Increasing industry's operating costs will only discourage the movement of industry into the state. At the same time, I realize that the current amount is barely adequate for the many unemployed in the state and a raise was needed.

LB 273 probably generated the most debate during the week. Advanced to Final Reading on Wednesday, the bill will establish minimum training requirements for nurse's aides, care staff members, and orderlies in nursing homes.

TWENTY HOURS, including 15 hours of basic personal care training and five hours of basic therapeutic and emergency procedure training, would be required at a minimum. A nursing home which failed to employ properly trained employees would be subject to denial, suspension, restriction or revocation of its license to operate.

The motion to reconsider LR 57, the nuclear freeze resolution, was withdrawn. Supporters were convinced that the reconsideration would be unsuccessful.

A slide presentation was provided for legislators interested in LR 72, a resolution which I introduced last week. The resolution asks the Legislature to endorse the President's Beam-Weapon Missile Defense Development proposal. I support this proposal primarily because of the positive implications it has for the civilian economy.

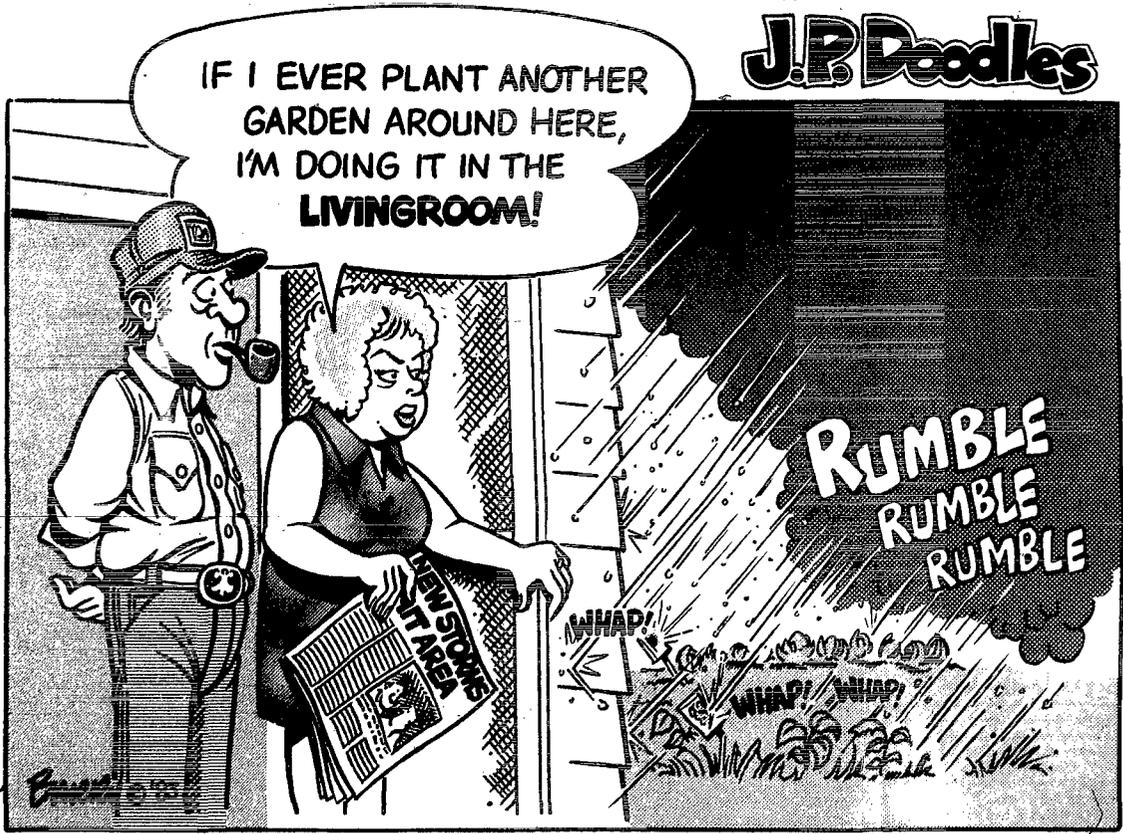

The development of nuclear fusion and more sophisticated technology are just two examples of the positive benefits such a program would provide. I believe implementation of this proposal will move us closer to real peace and also help to rebuild the nation's economy.

A BILL which eliminates the homestead exemption, LB 396, passed against my wishes, on Tuesday. One of the predominant issues this year has been the need to grant Nebraskans significant property tax relief. It then seems irrational to eliminate a provision which provided $4,700,000 in property tax relief last year.

Also on Tuesday, the Legislature advanced LB 524 to Select File. If passed, it will raise the maximum weekly unemployment benefit from $106 to $120. The bill originally increased the amount to $132. A compromise of $120 was reached which I supported, but I still have some reservations about the in-advertisers, because the general public thinks little about them. If you didn't know foods are made of chemicals, would you want added chemicals in them? Probably not. And you'd also probably prefer that your foods be all natural or as close to nature as possible if you didn't know that additives made our food safer, more nutritious, longer keeping, better tasting and more versatile as Marshall has explained. Lacking other product attributes to extoll, advertisers have sought to make a virtue out of "naturalness."

With this wholesome food supply, Americans can ask not, "What's safe to eat?" but "What's best to eat?" As do most nutritionists, Food Scientist Marshall recommends a little of a lot of things. "Variety is not only the spice of life. It's generally the most healthful. That variety contributes to life's enjoyment. And a good diet should contain some eating pleasure as well as nutrition."

Just what is safe to eat?

By Cheryl Westcott
Nebraska Farm Bureau

One of America's longest-standing jokes says that anything tasty or fun must necessarily be cancer-causing. Foods are constantly being added to the list of suspected carcinogens, the result being that one wonders, what, exactly, is safe to eat.

Likewise, aspersions are frequently cast upon food additives. But while the joke about suspected cancer causers is meant to make us laugh, attacks upon food additives are more serious. It is, for example, virtually impossible to watch an evening's TV without being told that advertised products are "all natural" or free from additives and therefore by implication, better.

It is especially irritating to hear that advertised foods are free of added chemicals, as if all chemicals additives are bad. Foods are 100 percent chemicals. And most of the so-called "chemical additives" are derived from nature or they are made to be exactly the same as those nature-products. Further, the Food and Drug Administration requires that the manufacturer of an additive prove that it's safe.

MANY OF the health claims made for "natural" foods are preposterous. A recent "study" said food additives cause hyperactivity and other problems among children, and it said that eating a diet of foods free of food dyes and chemical flavors would enable affected children to "shed their demanding, irritable, disruptive behavior and poor self-image."

University of Missouri Food Scientist Robert Marshall points out that only a small number of hyperactive children benefit from restricted diets. Instead, he suggests "Placing children on such diets (without food colors or other additives) requires a high degree of commitment by the entire family, and such commitment will change family members' attitudes and activities so the child perceives they have greater interest in his or her well being. This in itself may produce favorable changes in the child."

Marshall adds another interesting point, that some people "fall to recognize that Americans have the safest, most nutritious, least perishable, most tasty and most versatile food supply of all time and in all the world. One the reasons is that food scientists have been able to use 'chemicals' as additives in foods."

He points out, too, that those who think only natural foods are good for their health should remember that even products such as milk and homemade bread present health problems to a small percentage of population. Unfortunately, it's often not possible to identify ahead of time whether a certain food or food additive will cause an allergy or other health problem in a given individual.

FOOD ADDITIVES are an easy target for

Omahacouple repeat vows in ceremony at Wakefield

The First United Presbyterian Church in Wakefield was the setting April 23 for the marriage of Lisa Paul and Kevin Cuvelier, both of Omaha.

The 7 o'clock candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dana White.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paul of Wakefield and Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Cuvelier of Aplington, Iowa.

DECORATIONS for the ceremony included aisle candelabras surrounded with greenery and pale pink ribbons. Decorated tree candelabras and floral arrangements of dusty pink carnations and baby's breath adorned the chancel, and a unity candle centered the communion table.

Wedding music included "It's Time to Say I Love You," "The Wedding Song," and "One Hand, One Heart," sung by Mrs. Sharon Cuvelier and Greg Cuvelier, both of Aplington, Iowa.

Organist was Mrs. Margaret Paulson of Wakefield.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, appeared in a floor-length gown of ivory chiffon featuring a high neckline and pleated full bishop sleeves.

A schiffli yoke accented the bodice that was completed with a natural waistline encircled with satin ribbons.

The full skirt, with rows of schiffli lace tiers, flowed gently into a chapel-length train bordered with a deep pleated ruffle.

Her waist-length veil of sheer illusion was attached to a wreath of miniature ivory silk flowers and pearls with ivory satin streamers, and she carried a cascade of candlelight roses, dusty pink roses, pink spirea and baby's breath with candlelight lace streamers.

THE BRIDE'S honor attendant was Cindy Cuvelier of Marshalltown, Iowa, sister of the bridegroom.

Shelley Paul of Kearney served her sister as maid of honor. Joni Pfeifer of Phoenix, Ariz., sister of the bride, and Lorri Cuvelier of Waterloo, Iowa, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore Nordic rose chiffon gowns featuring full sheer sleeves.

The brides were accented with a row of ruffling on the yokes, and the full skirts were complemented with a ribbon-tie sashes at the natural waistlines.

They wore hair pieces of tiny roses and streamers to match their gowns, and carried small clusters of dusty pink roses, pink spirea and baby's breath tied with candlelight lace ribbon.

BRYAN CUEVIER of Omaha, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jono Kline of Omaha and Alan Paul of Beardstown, Ill., brother of the bride.

Ushers, who also lighted candles, were Dean Sharp of Omaha and Jeff Cuvelier of Aplington, Iowa.

The bridegroom was attired in an ivory full dress tuxedo with a dusty pink rose boutonniere.

The attendants wore gray devon luxedos with dusty pink rose boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Paul selected a soft shell bodice that was completed with a natural waistline encircled with satin ribbons.

Both mothers wore corsages of dusty pink roses with candlelight spirea and baby's breath.

Flower girl and ring bearer were Mary Torczon of Wakefield and Jeremy Peters of Shell Rock, Iowa.

MR. AND Mrs. Clifford Baker of Wakefield and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wubben of Shell Rock, Iowa, hosted a reception for the couple at the Wakefield Legion Hall following the ceremony.

Patsy Murphy of Wakefield registered the guests. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Helen Barner and Mrs. Bonna Barner of Wooden baskets with lavender geraniums decorated the Wayne State College Chapel for the April 29 ceremony uniting in marriage Brenda Gaunt and Kevin McDaniel of Omaha.

The bride is the daughter of William Howard and Doris Gaunt of Wayne.

Parents of the bridegroom are Joan and Jacques Carter of El Cajon, Calif. and Pat and Jan McDaniel of Newport Beach, Calif.

WAYNE COUNTY Associate Judge Luverna Hilton officiated at the 6 o'clock double ring rites.

Organist Shelley Emry of Wayne played "The Wedding Song."

Honor attendants for the couple were Trish Emry McPherson of Lincoln and Jim McPherson of Lincoln.

THE BRIDE appeared at her father's side in a ballerina-length silk dress in beige with mauve and turquoise flowers.

The two-piece dress was fashioned with a sash, shirred shoulders, elbow-length full sleeves, a jewel neckline and full skirt.

She wore a halo of beige and mauve roses and baby's breath, and carried a nosegay of beige and mauve roses, baby's breath and turquoise straw flowers.

Her attendant wore a street-length, off-white linen suit with a turquoise polyester blouse. The suit was designed with a dirndl skirt and ruffled jacket.

Ruffle also adorned the front and collar of the blouse.

She carried a nosegay similar to the bride's.

The men in the wedding party were attired in cocoa brown three-piece corduroy suits with beige shirts and brown, rust and beige ties.

Mrs. Gaunt selected a light mauve linen suit for her daughter's wedding.

A BUFFET supper was served at the Black Knight in Wayne, followed with a reception in the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Nicholson of Wakefield.

The newlyweds traveled to Las Vegas and southern California following their wedding.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School and a 1977 graduate of Wayne State College, is a medical technologist at Bishop Clarkson Hospital in Omaha.

The bridegroom was graduated from Granite Hills High School in El Cajon, Calif. in 1971 and from the University of New Mexico in 1980.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Cuvelier

Wayne, and Peg Barner of Lincoln.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. LaVon Moes of Osmond and Mrs. Peggy Litterer of Clarksville, Iowa.

Mrs. Bonnie Paul of Wakefield poured, and Joni Erb of Omaha served punch.

Waitresses and gift carriers were Stephanie Torczon of Wakefield, Tresha Barner of Wayne and Jenny Wubben of Shell Rock, Iowa.

Assisting with serving were Anne Kline, Phyllis Salmon, Mary Lou Erb and Doris Backstrom, all of Wakefield.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Wakefield High School and the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

The bridegroom was graduated from Oakland-Craig High School and attended Wayne State College.

The couple is residing in Omaha.

Wayne High German students among 14 honored in Nebraska

Wayne High School German students Aaron Butler, Becky Schmidt and Lori Baker were among the top 14 students in Nebraska to be honored during the 1983 Awards Program April 30 in Omaha.

All three students scored 92 or above to become eligible for a month-long trip to Germany.

The trip is awarded annually by the West German government to 75 outstanding German students throughout America.

OF THE 14 Nebraska students who scored above 90, five were foreign exchange students or had spent extended periods of time in Germany.

Miss Schmidt of Wayne, who competed on the two-year level and scored 94, was selected runner-up for the trip which was won by a Lincoln High German III student.

SINCE 1973, 34 Wayne High students have been eligible to compete for the study trip.

Students from Wayne who have been selected for the award are Lisa Lesh (1973), Mike Schmoldt (1975) and Randy Fleer (1979).

Another Wayne High student, Phil Koeber, was selected from among 70 competitors for the National Schiller Scholarship award which granted him seven weeks of university study in Heidelberg in 1976.

The bride is the daughter of Duane Greunke and Berlene Kinslow of Wayne. A 1978 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School and a 1980 graduate of Lincoln School of Commerce, she is employed in the County Attorney's office in Lincoln.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Vernon and Darlene Russell of Wayne, was graduated from Wayne-Carroll High School in 1976. He is employed at Wheeler's in Lincoln, where the newlyweds are making their home.

GUESTS ATTENDING the ceremony were registered by Karen Russell of Wayne, sister of the bridegroom, and were ushered into the church by Todd Greunke of Winside and Marlen Hruza of Emporia, Kan.

Doug and Mary Temme of Wayne sang "Time in a Bottle," "You and I," and "Wedding Song," accompanied by Connie Webber of Wayne.

The Rev. Kenneth Edmonds of Wayne officiated at the double ring rites. Decorations included blue and white gailolus and daisies.

Flower girl was Liz Thompson of Wayne, and ring bearer was Justin Thompson of Wayne. Candles were lighted by the bridegroom's sisters, Susan Thompson and Karen Russell of Wayne.

LORI DUFFEK of Lincoln served as her sister's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Mary Douglas of Lincoln and Julie Sprouls of Wayne.

Best man was Bob Coan of Omaha; and groomsmen were Bob Addison of Wayne and Gary Habrock of Emerson.

The bride appeared at her father's side in a floor-length gown she fashioned of white polyester crepe. The gown was designed with lace sleeves and bodice, a Queen Anne neckline, ruffles at the hemline of the skirt, and train.

The bride also made her fingertip veil which was attached to a crown of yellow silk roses and baby's breath.

She carried yellow roses and white daisies.

THE MATRON of honor was dressed in a yellow street-length dress of polyester crepe designed with a high lace collar, lace V yoke, three-quarter length sleeves, and ruffle at the yoke and hemline.

The bridesmaids wore matching gowns in blue.

Each carried a single yellow rose with baby's breath.

The men in the wedding party were attired in light blue tux coats trimmed in dark blue.

Both mothers of the couple selected rose polyester dresses.

FRITZ AND Joann Temme of Wayne greeted the 120 guests who attended a reception in the church fellowship hall. Gifts were arranged by Paul Hughes of Lincoln and Della Holtgrew of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Russell

The wedding cake was cut and served by Judy Greunke of Winside and Coreen Bruggeman of Lincoln. Brenda Burgner of Lincoln and Diane Coan of Omaha poured, and Patri Hughes of Lincoln and Judy Temme of Wayne served punch.

Waitresses were Joannie Coan of Wayne, Sandy Habrock of Emerson, Terry Hruza of Lincoln, and Marietta Hruza of Emporia, Kan.

Marie Malmberg-Robert Janke home near Wayne following rites

Marie Malmberg of South Sioux City became the bride of Robert Janke of Wayne in 7:30 p.m. rites April 16 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Malmberg of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Janke of Wayne.

The newlyweds are at home on a farm near Wayne.

OFFICIATING at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. John Hafemann of Winside.

Wedding music included "God, a Woman and a Man," "Wedding Prayer," and "Wedding Song," sung by Mrs. Chris Isom of Allen and accompanied by Mrs. Bonnie Hansen of Carroll.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a white polyorganza gown in floor length, with a chapel-length train.

The gown was fashioned with puffed sleeves and a high ring neckline and bodice of Chantilly lace with pearl accents.

She wore a brimmed hat with an attached shoulder-length veil, and carried a cascade of lavender orchids, sterling roses and white silk baby's breath.

MAID OF HONOR was Leslie Eiberbeck of Sergeant Bluff, and bridesmaids were Jeann Roberts of Norfolk and Barb Sitzman of Lincoln.

Phil Janke of Wayne served as best man. Groomsmen were Jamey Gunter and John Malmberg, both of Norfolk.

Ushers, who also lighted candles, were Bryan Backstrom of Hoskins, Dennis Janke of Wayne, Perry Hoemann of Norfolk and Mr. and Mrs. Rod Gnrk of Haxtun, Colo.

The bride's attendants wore violet lusterlgo gowns in floor length, styled with spaghetti straps, regular waistlines and sunburst pleated skirts.

They wore white hats trimmed with violet French netting, and carried bouquets of pink and orchid roses with spring flower accents.

The men in the wedding party were attired in silver tuxedos with lavender trimmed ruffled shirts and bow ties.

The bride's mother selected a lilac polyester two-piece suit, and the bridegroom's mother chose a mint green dress.

A RECEPTION for 200 guests was held in the church basement following the ceremony. The guests were registered by Mary File of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Gifts were arranged by Ava Carlson of Des Moines, Iowa and Ann Kratz of Iowa City, Iowa.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Carlson of Des Moines and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Johnson of Wakefield.

Cutting and serving the wedding cake were Mrs. Pat Ellis of Cherokee, Iowa, Mrs. Marjorie Carpenter of Hawarden, Iowa, and Mrs. Linda Janke of Wayne.

Mrs. Donella Johnson of Dixon and Mrs. Marcella Marotz of Hoskins poured, and Jane Hassler of Norfolk served punch. Waitresses were Jenny and

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Janke

Terril Gries of Lawton, Iowa and Shelly and Shannon Janke of Wayne.

THE NEWLYWEDS traveled to Orlando and Tampa, Fla. following their wedding. The bride, a 1975 graduate of

A wet track

DIANE MAGNUSON of Allen makes a handoff in a relay race on the Wayne State College track. The Eagles placed third in the Laurel-Concord Relays. Raincoats were more popular than sweats at the meet. Despite the weather, field events and running events were held. Several unusual relays highlighted the annual affair. The Lewis & Clark Conference team will involve many of the same teams today (Thursday). Girls team standings: 1. Battle Creek 83, 2. Crofton 56, 3. Allen 49, 4. Ponca 38, 5. Wakefield 36, 6. Hartington CC 26, 7. (tie) Emerson-Hubbard and Winside 25, 9. Coleridge 14, 10. Laurel 12, 11. Wausa 8.

Body building

By Randy Hascall

A weight room is his playground and barbells are his toys. Wayne State College junior Steve Hawkins enjoys working out with weights so much that he practically has to be drug away from the WSC weight room in the basement of Rice Auditorium. Steve's love for weight lifting paid off a few weeks ago when he won the novice division of the Nebraska Body Building Championship at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln.

Hawkins' long-range goal is to someday win the Mr. America title. Before that, he hopes to become Mr. Nebraska—a title given to the open class winner in the state body building championships.

His successful showing in the novice division at this year's state contest was his first appearance in body building competition. Now, he will step up into open class competition.

The Wayne State football letterman will pass up his final year of eligibility for the Wildcats to concentrate on body building and weight lifting. He says the decision was the most important one in his life and one of the toughest he has ever made.

"I built a lot of character and discipline in football. I'm not walking away from it. I think the program is headed in a real good direction," said Hawkins. "I just want to do what's the best for me. I think football is the best for some people. I have a lot of respect for the football players and I hope they don't lose respect for me. This is a more important thing in my life."

The business administration major, who plans to graduate from college in May of 1984, underwent grueling workouts and a tortuous diet to prepare for the body building contest.

The 21-year-old Hawkins is 5-10 and weighs about 200 pounds now. For the competition, he weighed 170 pounds. He has been lifting weights for four years. Hawkins, who prefers to lift weights from 6 to 8:30 a.m. with friend and lifting partner Jim Larsen, says diet is 90 percent of the training for body building.

Twelve weeks before the competition, Steve cut out all fattening foods. He ate fruits and vegetables and went on a high protein, low carbohydrate diet.

With six weeks left before the meet, he dropped down to a salad a day, meat and multi-vitamin and multi-mineral supplements.

Hawkins' training, 12 weeks before the meet, consisted of 2 1/2 hour sessions, six days a week. When he hit the three week mark, he switched to double split training with sessions from 6 to 8:30 a.m. and from 3 to 5:30 p.m. every day. Training stopped two days before the competition.

In addition to his weight training and strict diet, Steve practiced posing each day. About a week before the meet, Larsen helped him with his poses and helped him do it to music—a requirement of body building contests.

Three days before the competition, he had his whole body shaved. The meet lasted from 10 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. in the morning, prejudging was held with the body builders striking natural poses under bright lights.

"When Hawk went up, the judges noticed him immediately. He was dominant in his class, especially his legs and upper body," said Larsen, who accompanied him to the contest.

After prejudging, competitors were asked to hold poses selected by the judges. The judges were then able to compare the best individuals in 12 mandatory poses. A 90-second routine to music followed.

A crowd of 2,000 watched the evening show and contestants repeated their morning routine. The only difference was that each individual was on stage by himself. "The crowd helped as we went through poses. It was awesome," Hawkins said.

Contestants are judged on three main elements: symmetry, which is viewed in relaxed form; muscularity, which is judged during compulsory poses; and presentation, during which individuals display muscle groups in creative routines.

Hawkins and 15 other contestants were entered in the novice division. Most of the competitors were from Lincoln and Omaha gyms, he said. Steve learned about the Nebraska championship from Wayne State student trainer LaDonna Robinson.

Hawk said if he had his choice he would train twice a day. Early morning workouts are definitely his preference.

"I feel so good after a workout and I have the rest of the day ahead of me," he said. "Concentration is the key to developing one's self. The body and mind are developed at one time. Character, discipline, strength and confidence are developed in the weight room. These traits apply to other situations in life."

Steve said Larsen has made "tremendous gains in the weight room" while working out with him. Intensity is high as each tries to outdo the other. Hawkins stresses that the amount of weight lifted is not important to body building. Technique is the important thing and he adds that 25 to 30 reps with the weights have helped him build muscle.

The Godfrey, Ill. native is hoping to enter body building competitions near his home town this summer. Larsen also will contact him if he hears of any meets around Nebraska. Hawkins points out that it takes a full 12 weeks of preparation for a contest.

If Steve's future goes as he would like it to, he'll follow in the footsteps of his idol—Arnold Schwarzenegger.

WSC is eliminated from tourney

After play was suspended a day due to rain and wet grounds, the Wayne State College Lady Wildcats lost their opening pair of games in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference tournament and were eliminated from action on Saturday in Joplin, Mo.

A make-up doubleheader with St. Mary's of Omaha scheduled for Monday was cancelled due to rain.

Wayne State lost to Pittsburg State University 7-4 in their opening game of the double-elimination tourney, and dropped a 3-0 decision to Washburn University in their second contest. Wayne's record fell to 12-13 with the losses.

A COMBINATION of Wayne State errors and Pittsburg hits gave the Lady Gussies a five-run bottom of the sixth inning to rally for the lead and go on to win the first game 7-4.

Dee Dee Reic was the top hitter for the Lady Cats, going 2-4 at the plate with a pair of singles and two RBIs. Sherry Telschaw pitched in the loss for Wayne and evened her record at 7-7 on the season.

Professional education fraternity

Phi Delta Kappa chapter formed

Educators in northeast Nebraska met to form a local chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, professional education fraternity, and held their first meeting in Wayne April 13.

Dr. Joseph Fleck, head of the division of education at Wayne State College (WSC) was elected president of the group.

PHI DELTA Kappa is a professional education fraternity dedicated to the promotion of quality education as essential to the development and maintenance of a democratic way of life.

The fraternity accomplishes its purpose through programs which inspire research, teaching and other professional services directed toward the improvement of education.

More than 550 chapters throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico are administered from the International headquarters in Bloomington, Ind.

Persons nominated for membership must be actively engaged in education, hold a baccalaureate degree, and meet the criteria for admittance to candidacy for an advanced degree.

ACCORDING to Fleck, the club will spend the next few months exploring the steps to gain chapter status. Twenty active Phi Delta Kappa members and 10 candidates for initiation are needed for the group to be recognized as an independent chapter.

The group is now open to active Phi Delta Kappa members, and interested members should contact Dr. Francis Haun, vice president/membership for the club and superintendent of Wayne-Carroll Schools.

Former Phi Delta Kappa members also are invited to reactivate, according to Fleck.

The closest chapters of Phi Delta Kappa now active are in Omaha, Lincoln, and Sioux City.

The group wants to establish itself, according to Fleck, "to discuss educational concerns. We want to provide PDK members with an organization and opportunity to meet and discuss educational concerns. We want to provide fellowship between and among various segments of education."

FLECK SAID that once the chapter is firmly established it intends to explore educational issues of interest to the people of Nebraska.

Phi Delta Kappa also has a national and international concern in promoting research and the northeast Nebraska group hopes to be involved in these activities.

Phi Delta Kappa members present at the organizational meeting included Fleck and Haun; Louise Torkelson and Pamela Peterson, Norfolk teachers; James Lofquist, superintendent at Laurel Public Schools; Lanny Gleason, Stanton, Educational Service Unit 8; Gerry Sughroue, Lincoln, area Phi Delta Kappa coordinator and assistant state commissioner of education; and WSC faculty and administration members Dr. Max Lundstrum, Dr. Steven Dinsmore, Dr. Arnold Emry, Dr. Robert Lohrberg, Dr. Bob Bower, and Gerald Conway.

Interested Phi Delta Kappa members are invited to the meeting, slated for 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 8 at the Black Knight in Wayne.

Students recognized

The Wayne State College social science division has announced the names of students in that division who have received scholarships or outstanding student awards.

Scholarship recipients for the 1983-84 academic year include: Barbara Helgeson, Norfolk — W. A. Brandenburg Memorial Scholarship; Mary Punt, Maurice, Iowa — John F. Kennedy Peace Scholarship; Catherine Cameron, Blair, and Bryce Lambly, North Bend — Val and Elizabeth Peterson, J.G.W. Lewis Award.

Named "Outstanding Students" within their specific disciplines in the social science division are:

Teresa Janssen, Columbus, criminal justice; Keith Diederich, Omaha, economics; Dona Brockman, Norfolk, geography; Kent Fairbairn, Treynor, Iowa, political science; Beth Alpaugh, Plainview, and Wendy Hansen, Anthon, Iowa, public administration; Lori McClain, Wayne, pre-law; Kirk Kain, Fenton, Iowa, sociology; and Larry Emanuel, North Bend, anthropology.

Student presents paper

Wayne State College senior Kelli Goodner recently presented a paper at the national Kappa Mu Epsilon convention, according to Dr. James Paige, professor of math and sponsor for the WSC chapter of the math honorary.

Goodner's paper discussed a number theory about perfect numbers. It was submitted to a panel of referees earlier this year, who screened the entries and chose 20 students to present their papers at the convention.

Goodner, a native of Broken Bow, is majoring in math and elementary education.

The convention was held during the April 22 weekend at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, Ky.

Honorary initiates members

Seven Wayne State College (WSC) students recently were initiated into Pi Omega Pi Honorary Society, according to Patricia Arneson, instructor of business at WSC.

Pi Omega Pi honors future business teachers with high academic achievement.

New officers also were elected. They include senior Cheryl Roeber of Wayne, president; Teut, vice president; senior Jill Studnicka of Wayne, secretary, and Wilken, treasurer.

Organization sponsors are Arneson and Kathy Leathers, also an instructor of business.

Assistant professor of art Marlene Mueller has chosen 36 pieces for display in Lincoln May 9 to June 3.

Students whose work was selected include Patricia Connelly, a senior history and art major, Omaha; Beth Czupryn, a senior art major, Wayne; Jackie Heimes, a senior art major, O'Neill; Christy Kaar, a senior industrial art/art major, Omaha.

Also, Ellie McBride, a freshman art major, Laurel; Virginia Smith, a sophomore art major, South Sioux City; Sheri Tacner, a senior art/education major, Fremont; and Cinda Willers, a senior art major, Wayne.

Some work by faculty members Wayne Andersen, Pearl Hansen, Marlene Mueller and Ray Repligte also will be included. The works include prints, drawings, watercolors, paintings, and weavings.

WSC freshman selected 'Outstanding College Man'

A Wayne State College (WSC) freshman, Eric Anderson, was recently named by the Nebraska Federation of Young Republicans (NFYR) as Nebraska's "Outstanding College Man" for 1983.

Anderson received the award during the NFYR state convention held in Omaha in early April. Anderson has been an associate member of the WSC chapter of Young Republicans during the 1982-83 year.

As a member of the group, he has been active in helping sponsor Nebraska Congressman Doug Bereuter's visit to the Wayne State campus last fall, has been involved in door-to-door campaigning for Republican candidates, and was also top salesman for the club's raffie and raiser.

Eric is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Anderson of Hebron and is a freshman international affairs and political science major at Wayne State. He is a 1982 graduate of Freeport Senior High School, Freeport, Ill.

Faculty profile

Dr. Donald Hickey thinks the types of students at Wayne State College "vary considerably."

"But one thing they have in common is that they're all well-mannered."

DR. HICKEY, associate professor of history, joined the Wayne State faculty in 1978.

Previously, he had temporary appointments at the University of Illinois in Urbana, the University of Colorado at Boulder, the University of California at Santa Barbara, and Texas Tech University.

A native of La Grange, Ill., Hickey earned his bachelor's degree in 1966, his master's degree in 1968, and his Ph.D. in 1972 from the University of Illinois.

He specialized in the Age of Jefferson, 1800-1815, and has published 15 to 20 articles, mostly about the military and political situations of that period.

HICKEY BELONGS to several professional organizations, and is a Phi Beta Kappa. He is an avid baseball fan and likes to swim.

He and his wife, Connie Clark, also enjoy traveling the United States during their vacations.

Members initiated into Pi Gamma Mu

The Wayne State (WSC) chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, social sciences honorary, recently initiated several new members in a ceremony at the WSC Student Center.

Initiates included Brenda Gutz, a junior from Osmond majoring in human resources management; Randy Doerneman, a junior from Howells majoring in history and physical education; Lee Kurgewit, a senior from Leigh with a social science education major; and Jan Rolfe, a senior from Sioux City, majoring in economics.

Bob Chamberlain, a junior political science major from Pierce; and Lisa Hoebelheirich, a senior community service counseling and sociology major from Fordyce.

To qualify for membership in Pi Gamma Mu, students must have a minimum of 60 credit hours and completion of at least 20 social science credit hours in at least four core subject areas including history, political science, sociology, or anthropology, and economics or geography.

They must have a minimum grade point average of 3.9 in the 20 hours of social science.

Advisors for the group at WSC are Dr. Jean Karlen and Doug Taber, assistant professors of social sciences.

Cardinal Key officers named at Wayne State

Three of the nine Wayne State College (WSC) women recently elected into Cardinal Key national honorary sorority have also been chosen as officers.

New member Chris Jackson, a junior from South Sioux City, will be president. Deb Allington, a junior from Columbus, will step in as treasurer, and Carmen Ekdehl, a junior from Ralston, will be the new sunshine person.

Other new members include juniors Sue Kohno of Japan, Lori Larson of O'Neill, Kathy Lemple of Wayne, Sandy Havlovec of North Bend, and Diane Lindsay of Wayne.

Other members who will hold offices for next year include senior Patty Carney of Norfolk, first vice president; junior Julie Janecik of Dodge, second vice president; junior Michele Higgins of Central City, recording secretary; junior Donna Emanuel of North Bend, corresponding secretary; and junior Carra Toben of Akron, Iowa, editor and historian.

KWSC-TV executive staff announced for next fall

The executive staff of KWSC-TV serving Wayne State College (WSC) and the Wayne community has been announced by station advisor Herb Meinerl.

The new management staff will assume their responsibilities when classes resume in the fall.

Dan Wordekemper, a junior from Beemer, has been named general manager. He will be aided by assistant general manager Craig Ladwig, a sophomore from Omaha.

Program director will be Darla Dagle, a sophomore living in Wayne, and Keith Terry, a senior from Cassville, Mo., will serve as engineering assistant.

Omaha junior Terry Gilbert will fulfill the responsibilities of news director.

KWSC TV's new sports director will be Rob Tiedgen, a sophomore from Nortolk.

May Day clowns

Students of School District 57 weren't clowning around last Friday as they celebrated May Day by sharing a little bit of themselves.

Kindergarten, first and second graders, along with teacher Patricia Jenkins, came dressed as clowns that day.

In the afternoon, youngsters visited residents of Wayne Care Centre and members of the Wayne Senior Citizens Center, where they presented skills and musical selections, accompanied by District 57 music teacher Deb Dickey.

PICTURED getting ready for the trip to Wayne are, clockwise from upper left, kindergartener Kenneth Westerhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Westerhaus, who receives a clown face from Wayne State College student Corinne Morris; Troy Bruns, first grade son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Bruns, who waits patiently for his clown face; teacher Patricia Jenkins and first grader Tina Lull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verdel Lull; second grader Mark Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Meyer, who also sits quietly as his clown face is applied; second grader Samantha Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thompson; and first grader John Kay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kay.

MRS. JENKINS said Clown Day was prompted by a trip this year to the Shrine Circus in Sioux City.

School District 57 is located four miles south of Wayne on Highway 15.

Openings on board listed

Notice is hereby given that candidates for appointment are being accepted by the Nebraska Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing Board for District 1 which includes the counties of: Cedar, Knox, Pierce, Wayne, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston. Any person desiring to be a candidate for appointment may place his name on the candidacy list by filing a petition signed by at least 50 resident growers of the District in which the candidate resides. Qualified candidates include those who are citizens of Nebraska, are at least 21 years of age, have been actually engaged in growing soybeans in Nebraska for a period of at least five years, and derive a substantial portion of their income from growing soybeans.

All petitions must be received by the Board not later than June 23. Petitions may be obtained from the Board at P. O. Box 94947, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509, or by calling David Bohling, telephone (402) 471-2341.

State 4-H photography set

Four-H boys or girls ages 13 through 17 can "put themselves in the picture" at the first statewide photography camp to be offered to teenage 4-H members. The camp is scheduled in two sessions — June 6-10 and June 13-17 — at the State 4-H Camp in the Nebraska National Forest near Halsey.

Louie Rudman, extension 4-H youth specialist, said 4-Hers should be aware that the camp "is designed to let you see the world your way. Whether you're recording a moment in time or a series of events, you can go from just taking a picture to making a picture."

Scotts Bluff County 4-H leaders Yutaka and Rose Yamanmoto will lead the photography workshop, to be held in conjunction with the annual 4-H leadership and Environment Camp. The photography experience is designed to help members understand photography techniques, photography composition, use of adjustable cameras and darkroom techniques.

Interested youth should act immediately, however, because enrollment is limited to 30 persons at each of the two camp sessions. Cost of a five-day camp is $65 and campers must bring their own camera and film. Rudman stated. Extension offices around Nebraska have more information on the Photography Camp.

Programs added to tractor day

A number of new programs, designed to meet current needs, have been added to the 1983 Tractor Power and Safety Day scheduled for July 28 at UNL's Mead Field Laboratory, according to Rolling Schneider, extension safety specialist and program chairman.

Farm accidents involving three-wheelers have prompted program planners to include a safe-use demonstration of the increasingly popular "vehicles."

With the theme "Engineering — High Technology Agriculture," the morning program also includes presentations on soybean processing for on-farm production of protein supplement, simulating rainfall for erosion studies, and aerial spray pattern analysis by computer.

Afternoon demonstrations will include a methane digester, soybean oil expeller, soybean cooker, ethanol still and mini tractors.

Mineral operation produce

Mineral operations on federally owned lands within Nebraska produced a total of $368,069 in revenue for the state government during the fiscal 1981 and 1982, according to the Nebraska Petroleum Council.

Vincent D. Brown, Executive Director said Nebraska was one of the 23 states that shared a total of more than $927 million from that source during the two-year period.

Oil and natural gas operations accounted for the bulk of the receipts, but the total also included revenues from the leasing and production of coal, geothermal power, phosphate, potash, sodium, sulfur and other minerals.

Farm workshop safety set

Dr. Rollin Schneider, University of Nebraska, extension safety specialist will present a three-hour farm safety workshop at the Laurel City Auditorium on Tuesday, (May 10), from 7 to 10 p.m.

The workshop is designed for farmers and their families, fire departments, rescue squads, ambulance and medical clinic personnel, and first responders. The session meets the EMT A continued education requirements for three contact hours.

Participants will gain an overview of safe farm equipment usage and precautions, accidental injuries from frequently used farm equipment and extrication and emergency treatment for such injuries. Emphasis will also be placed on accidents resulting from electrical contact, pesticides and chemical burns. Applicable State Laws on use of equipment will be discussed.

For more information contact Sara Adkins, Laurel (256-3581) or Miron Jenness, EMT Instructor, Wayne, (375-2668).

China swine team visits U.S.

In the past, China has had little success with cross-breeding native hogs with modern American breeds, "but we'll be successful someday," said Cheng Peiliu, director of the Institute of Animal Husbandry, Beijing, China.

Cheng was part of a three-member Chinese team on swine genetic resources who spent five days in Nebraska recently. Zhao Shilong, deputy director of the Institute of Animal Husbandry in Shanghai, and Fang Zhangming, swine breeding specialist at the Chinese Academy of Agricultural Science in Beijing, were also part of the delegation.

The purpose of their trip to Nebraska as well as other parts of the United States was two-fold, according to Margaret Haynes, U.S. Department of Agriculture escort. "They are interested in two things: our methods of breeding lower fat pigs in the United States and meat evaluation processes in relation to breeding programs," she said.

ACCORDING TO Cheng, the two most important differences in the Chinese lines of pigs as compared to U.S. lines are reproductive and productivity.

"We have highly prolific breeds in China. They are early maturing, and some breeds can have up to 15 pigs per litter," Cheng said. One of China's most prolific breeds is the Erhualian. The animal reaches sexual maturity by four months, having a first service conception rate of 90 to 95 percent, and giving birth to 13 to 15 piglets or more per litter.

Breeds like the Erhualian are distinctly different from the average U.S. variety which reaches maturity in six to seven months, has a first service conception rate of 75 to 80 percent, and averages 9 to 10 pigs per litter.

In addition, the Chinese breeds "also grow slowly and are smaller in size," Cheng said. In China most pigs reach weight of less than 200 pounds whereas the average American pig ranges from 230 to 240 pounds.

Cheng, who received his master's degree from Cornell University in Ithaca, New York and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1948, said U.S. breeds have been imported from China three times.

"THE FIRST two times haven't been successful because the herds were inspected and the existence of disease was found."

But last year, China received a shipment of American Durocs, most of which came from Nebraska, and the success rate was much better. "Right now these pigs are still in quarantine, but only 38 percent have had to be killed," Cheng said. In the previous attempts in 1978 and in 1980, Cheng noted, all of the imported pigs had to be destroyed.

One reason the Chinese are interested in cross-breeding and producing lower-fat pigs is because pork accounts for about 90 percent of the red meat consumed by the Chinese. In addition, by 1985 China's goal is to boost consumption to 34 pounds per capita. That's about half the current U.S. level of 65 pounds per person.

While in Nebraska, the Chinese team spent more time touring the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory at Mead, the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center, the NU animal science department and several pork-producing farms.

CARROLLINERS

Eleven members, six mothers and leader Mrs. Cyril Hansen attended the April 18 meeting of the Carrolliners Girls 4-H Club at the Carroll school.

Acting president was Karen Longe. Kara Janke reported on the last meeting and was in charge of roll call, and Beth Janke read the treasurer's report.

Members voted to have a roller skating party April 22 at the Wakefield roller rink. Plans also were made to sponsor a food stand at the Carroll Horse Play Day on Sunday, June 12.

Tami Jenkins gave a demonstration on ceramics. Leshia Grone showed how to make pizza, and Edith Janke demonstrated making minis.

Kara and Edith Janke and Leshia Grone served.

Next meeting will be May 9 at the Carroll school when Jenny Topp, Beth, Leann and Brenda Janke will serve.

Tami Jenkins, news reporter.

Discussion included cleaning up Bressler Park. Members also discussed Fun Day, held April 30 in Winslow.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Next meeting will be May 11 at 7 p.m. in the home of Michelle Fuent.

Brenda Test, news reporter.

LESLIE LIVEWIRES

The Leslie LiveWires 4-H Club met April 18 in the Robert Hansen home. Eleven members were present.

Members discussed the hog weigh in on May 7. Cory Thomsen and Kenneth Svoboda showed a film on beef grooming.

The club will meet at 8 p.m. during the summer months. Kay Hansen was in charge of recreation.

Next meeting is May 16 in the Howard Greve home. Kay Hansen, news reporter.

FUTURE FEEDERS

The Future Feeders 4-H Club held its monthly meeting April 19 at the Northeast Station, Concord.

Following the business meeting, a film on rabbit breeding and showing was presented. Refreshments were served by the Ron Smiths.

Next meeting will be May 12 at 8 p.m. at the Northeast Station. Suzy Hintz, news reporter.

LOYAL LASSIES AND LAD

The Loyal Lassies and Lad 4-H Club held its monthly meeting April 25 in the home of Brenda Test, who presented a demonstration on brownies.

Seven members and five mothers answered roll call with a favorite bird and why they like it.

Swine housing expert is honored

A former state senator and a University of Nebraska extension swine specialist were among those honored at the NU chapter of Alpha Zeta awards banquet April 24. The banquet, held at the Nebraska East Union, featured an address by former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, in addition to the presentations of awards and honors.

The undergraduate agricultural honorary organization named Maurice A. Kremer of Aurora and Robert D. Fritschen of Lincoln honorary members of Alpha Zeta at the Sunday night program. Associate members are recognized for outstanding service to the university, as determined by the members of the honorary.

Retired State Sen. Kremer has been a longtime champion of water use and development. As former chairman of the legislature's Public Works Committee, he was instrumental in securing passage of many water-related bills during his 20 year tenure in the unicameral, ending in 1982.

Elected to the State Legislature in 1962, Kremer played a key role in initiating the water planning process in Nebraska, the Groundwater Management Act, LB 577, and in creation of the Natural Resources Districts. His longstanding support of education is evident by his role in promoting the bills which created the Area Community Colleges and the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Earlier this year, IANR developed a new water resources lecture series in honor of Kremer. The series, called the Maurice A. Kremer Lecture Series on Water Resources, is designed to provide a forum to increase awareness of current and future water issues.

Fritschen, who is also a professor of animal science at NU, was instrumental in the development of the swine housing research facilities at the NU Northeast Station. As a leader in swine housing research, his work focused on differences in types of swine housing related to environment and swine performance under seasonal conditions.

The modified open-front swine unit for growing-finishing pigs, designed and researched by Fritschen, has been widely adopted around the United States, and is now found in Canada and Japan.

Fritschen has won a number of awards, including the USDA Superior Service Awards, the American Society of Animal Science Extension Award for Distinguished Service to the nation's livestock industry, the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service Award for Excellence in Programming and the W.R. Grace Co. award for Outstanding Contributions to the Livestock Industry.

In addition to naming honorary members, several scholarship and student awards were also presented.

the farmer's wife

The minute it warms up there are full-grown flies everywhere. Where do they go during blizzards to stay so healthy? A house across the yard from a feed lot doesn't help matters.

Also in the spring, and again in the fall, the mice try to move in. I am completely calm around snakes and spiders, but mice give me cold chills. They can squeeze through the smallest places, and being nocturnal creatures, I hear them scurrying in the walls at night when I'm trying to sleep.

Once, I opened my oven door and looked right into the beady eyes of one of the little beasts. My usual reaction is to scream, which brings the whole household running. Then I stand on a chair while giving commands to my rescuers. Sometimes we chase with a broom; sometimes we bring the cat in.

Several years ago, someone gave Sue a hamster for her birthday. They had a pair, and wanted to get rid of the male because the female was pregnant. Hamsters have a peculiar habit of eating their offspring if not separated before the birth. This can be a very upsetting experience for the child who owns the pet.

I AGREED to the gift because I thought I could get over my mouse phobia by having a rodent around. I got so I could tolerate Fred, but I'm still afraid of mice.

Fred had nine lives and was a genius at getting out of his cage. Of course he prowled at night. Once, he crawled in bed with us and on to the Big Farmer's chest. It's a good thing it wasn't mine — I can't imagine what I might have done. He might even disappear for two or three days, but would show up when he got thirsty.

One time, when Fred had been missing for a couple of days, we took a couch and chair on the back of the pickup to my aunt's home 100 miles away. She was going to recover them for me, so we put them in her basement.

Two days later, my cousin went to the basement to take a shower. You guessed it — Fred appeared. He had tucked himself in to the furniture and rode in the back of the pickup on a very warm day to a farm at Waco. Since they didn't know that he owned a hamster, they could not imagine where it had come from.

A few days later, my cousin came to stay with us and he was to sleep in the basement bedroom. To warn him, I said, "If something small and furry and warm crawls in bed with you, don't squash it. Our hamster is missing." His eyes widened as he yelled, "You have a hamster! I know where it is: It was in our basement!"

THEY HAD taken Fred to school for a few days, where he performed for all the kids; and then gave him to a family with several children. One night, he found a seed picture under someone's bed and ate some seeds. They had been varnished, and apparently, they did him in.

So that was the end of our experiment in hamster raising. And as I said, mice still make the hairs on the back of my neck stand up. I've ordered a device that is plugged into an outlet and produces a high-frequency sound that is supposed to drive rodents and roaches all away. I'll let you know if it works. Meanwhile, I have faithful traps set.

Plowless farming anchors soil during rain storms

Artificial rainfalls are helping researchers find ways to save croplands from losing soil to erosion, even in rainstorms so severe they come only once every 50 years.

A research team in Nebraska, Iowa and Colorado is using a rainfall simulator mounted on a rotating boom to unleash downpours on miniature "wheatfields" here to see which tillage methods can thwart soil losses to storms and water runoff, a U.S. Department of Agriculture researcher said.

The rainfall simulator can duplicate severe-to-light natural rainfalls as well as produce droplets of different sizes and velocities, said agricultural engineer John M. Laflen of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. Laflen is based in Ames, Iowa.

AN EXPERIMENTAL storm delivering rainfall at the rate of 3 inches in about an hour — a storm of once in every 50 years intensity — washed away a scant 20 pounds of topsoil per acre annually from a wheatfield protected by "plowless farming" technology, Laflen said.

Soil in that field was protected by a no-tillage system, with the wheat planted directly into crop residue left on unplowed ground. "A soil loss rate of 20 pounds per acre annually is 'incredibly low,' Laflen said. "In fact, it would take almost 15,000 years to erode a one-inch layer of soil."

Another way to view that low rate of soil erosion is to compare it with "T Level," the soil conservationist's shorthand for tolerable soil loss level.

At T level, the natural rebuilding of soil equals losses to erosion, thereby permitting production of crops indefinitely.

A TOLERABLE LEVEL of soil loss for most wheat-growing areas of the Great Plains, where this research is underway, is three tons per acre annually. No-till is one of the alternate tillage methods Laflen and his colleagues are testing to find the best ways of reducing the nation's soil losses.

Cooperating with Laflen in this research are soil conservation engineer Elbert C. Dickey and agronomist C. R. Fenster of the University of Nebraska and agricultural engineer Rome H. Mickelson of USDA's Central Great Plains Research Station, Akron, Colo.

Contour plowing and stubble-mulch tillage also reduced soil losses in the experiments, but not as effectively as the no-till system.

The researcher found that plots plowed on the contour lost about 3,100 pounds of soil per acre, compared with 300 pounds on plots that were stubble-mulch filled. Plots plowed up and down the slope, on the other hand, lost 13,600 pounds or 6.8 tons of soil per acre.

THE TESTS were made on wheatland with a slope of 4 percent. Water was applied four times during the course of the growing and fallow seasons and both soil and water losses were measured.

"Water-catching differences were striking," Dickey said. "Nearly twice as much water was lost as runoff from plowing up and down the slope as from any tillage method we tested. In fact, over half the water applied ran off the test plots that were plowed up and down the slope."

No-till, however, effectively captured water for crop use, regardless of whether the field was flat or sloped. For example, of the total 12 inches of water applied in the four treatments, runoff from up-and-down slope plowing was 6.3 inches, but only 1.0 inch from up-and-down slope no-till.

"Results of this study clearly show that no-till controls erosion and saves water, even on the long slopes so common to wheat producing areas of the Great Plains," Laflen said.

Dori Allvin

Wayne girl candidate for truckers' queen

Dori Allvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allvin of rural Wayne, is one of 13 candidates competing for the title of 1983 Truckers' Queen.

The coronation will take place during the 37th annual Farm-to-Market Truckers' Day on Friday, May 12, at the Marina Inn, South Sioux City, Neb. Dori's sponsor is L & L Trucking of Pilger.

A senior at Wayne High School, Dori enjoys the outdoors and spends her leisure time riding and working with horses and swimming. She also likes to sew, lift weights and enjoys music and dancing.

She attends St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wayne.

Dori's future plans are in definite, but she is considering attending Wayne State College.

Plant free seeds to help wildlife

You can give wildlife a helping hand this spring by planting some free seeds in a food patch for wildlife.

Under a cooperative program, the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission provides the seeds to participating county extension offices throughout Nebraska.

THE SEEDS you plant this spring will give wildlife a lift next winter by providing a source of food and some shelter from the weather.

For best results, plant the seeds fairly close to woody shelter areas such as woodlands, shelterbelts, or shrubby or brushy areas. Wildlife often go to these areas in winter to find protection from the wind and cold.

Your food patch will be there to help wildlife such as pheasants, quail, and songbirds when they need it most.

Each bag contains about five pounds of seeds, which is enough to plant about 1/4 acre. The mixture is adapted to fit four different areas of the state. The mixture includes milo, millet and giant grey sunflower, a hybrid cultivated variety. Seeds from the bag must be used only for planting and not for direct feeding, because the seed may have been treated with chemicals such as insecticides.

Planting a wildlife food patch makes an excellent school or youth group project, and can be a family fun activity. You can photograph or sketch the planting process, observe the wildlife that use it, or make posters for fair projects. You might include a food patch as part of the 4-H Bird Behavior Project.

Planting a wildlife food patch will give wildlife a lift and it will make you feel good, too. Something special and friendly happens when you grow something to help out wild creatures on planet Earth.

You can obtain a free bag of seeds while supplies last by requesting one at the Wayne County Extension Office.

Thistles a problem

Apply weed control now

Now is the time for farmers to prepare and act on weeds, according to John Furrer, University of Nebraska extension weeds specialist. Excellent fall, winter and spring moisture has brought on a bumper crop of musk thistle. "The time is right for musk thistle control," he said.

In eastern and southern Nebraska make herbicide treatment in early May. Northward effective controls can be applied 10 to two weeks later," Furrer said.

Most of the herbicides used to treat musk thistle are harmful to trees, shrubs, windbreaks, gardens, ornamentals, alfalfa and other broadleaf crops. "Make applications when there is little or no wind movement. Air movement at the time of application should be away from sensitive plants," Furrer cautioned.

WEED CONTROL, an experiment dealing with sugar beets and other crops will be discussed in detail on the Nebraska Educational Television Network series, "Farm and Ranch Report," to be aired today (Thursday) at 12:30 p.m., repeating at 9:30 p.m. "Uniform distribution is required with any herbicide. Including double-pass or single-pass incorporated. The amount of tillage required to obtain adequate distribution varies with the herbicide," he said.

Unnecessary tillage prior to applying preplant incorporated herbicides is being performed by some farmers. If these herbicides are to be applied to last year's soybean ground, no tillage is necessary prior to application. "There isn't enough crop residue remaining from soybean crop to interfere with incorporation. The herbicide can be sprayed on the soybean ground and then incorporated," Furrer explained.

Where heavy crop residue remains following a corn or sorghum crop, one disking prior to herbicide application is a good idea, he said.

"The key to good performance of the preplant incorporated herbicide is through incorporation. Good incorporation is dependent on soil condition, equipment and the tillage operation itself," Furrer said.

AN EXPERIMENT dealing with transplanting sugar beets at the University of Nebraska Panhandle Station has the potential to cut costs and raise yields 20 percent to 30 percent, according to John Smith, NU extension machinery systems engineer. "Sugar beets are very expensive to raise and we feel this new technology has a lot of potential," Smith said.

The transplanting experiment, which is in its second year, can lower costs by eliminating thinning, easier weed control and better use of chemicals, he explained.

Thinning is the process that needs to be done by hand each year and is very time consuming. "Two to three times as many seeds are planted than are really needed because the crop is fragile," Smith said. These extra plants need to be thinned out.

"Weed control is made easier because before the sugar beets are transplanted you use different herbicides that are better and less expensive. This then eliminates handweeding later on in the field," he said.

BETTER USE of chemicals can also be made before transplanting. Chemicals can be added to the paper pots instead of fumigating the whole field later. "These chemicals help control disease and nematodes," Smith added.

Right now, the whole thing is in the experimental stage, but "we feel this will bring about a more hearty plant," he said.

Four different experiments are being conducted at the Panhandle Station covering two to three acres, Smith said.

USDA acquires grain for PIK needs

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today announced it has arranged to acquire approximately 735 million bushels of corn, 145 million bushels (81 million hundredweight) of sorghum and 210 million bushels of wheat to satisfy payment-in-kind (PIK) program needs.

On March 29, USDA invited farmers with these commodities under Commodity Credit Corporation loan to submit bids during the period April 4-15.

IN ADDITION, he said, for 1981 and older crops of wheat, bids between 20 and 25 percent were accepted to help meet program needs. Since reserve entry price levels for these crops of wheat are significantly lower than the current level, the higher percent of compensation paid of cost-effective, Lyng said.

Farmers offered approximately 1 billion bushels of corn, 205 million bushels (115 million hundred weight) of sorghum and 340 million bushels of wheat, Lyng said.

"We accepted sufficient quantities of corn and sorghum to meet our expected needs," Lyng said, "but an insufficient amount of wheat."

USDA will exercise its previously announced option of requiring some wheat producers to obtain CCC loans on their 1983-crop wheat to satisfy the remainder of its PIK program needs.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng said USDA accepted all bids which did not request more than 20 percent of compensation in like grain.

Economist forecasts

Ag economy near recovery

The agricultural economy is on the verge of recovery, according to Marvin Duncan, vice president and economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Mo.

Duncan told the Nebraska Council on Public Relations for Agriculture in Lincoln Thursday that this year will provide a good start toward recovery because of the Payment in Kind program (PIK), but added that some specific things will have to occur before farm profitability will return.

He said that PIK is a "short-term window of opportunity for farmers," and will improve farm cash flow. But, he added, the problem with PIK is that it is too favorable to agriculture, too costly in a time of federal and state budget problems.

OVER THE long run, he said, agriculture must "get its ducks in a row" and set priorities of policy options. He urged farmers to set production goals based on open market price signals. The American taxpayer, he said, is about the end of his willingness to pay for price support programs.

And there is always a risk when we produce for government price signals that "the body politic may decide it can no longer afford price supports, target prices and guaranteed loan rates. We need a better relationship with open market signals," he said.

Duncan reminded the group that agriculture has become a "high-tech" industry, is inextricably linked to the rest of the U.S. economy and in the last decade has become integrated into the world economy.

Production based on government price signals rather than on open market price signals may have the effect of pricing ourselves out of the export market, he said.

ANOTHER CLOUD on the economic recovery horizon, Duncan said, is the prospect of large public credit demands in the next year or so as the economy begins to improve. That could lead to a clash in the private credit market.

"Our economic recovery is as yet somewhat fragile," he said, "and it will be a long process, and an inter-linked process between the domestic and world economies."

Duncan pointed out that agriculture will not lead the U.S. economy back to prosperity as some have claimed. Rather, he said, the reverse is true. "The national economy will have to improve before there is an appropriate return on investment for farmers."

SENIOR CITIZENS

The three day trip to Pella, Iowa has been cut to two days (13-14) because of the many people wanting to attend Wakefield's graduation. If you'd like to take the trip, please call Connie for details, 287-2149.

On April 26, 16 seniors took advantage of the free Legal Aid services. Next Legal Aid day will be on May 24 at 12:45 p.m.

Seventy-nine people attended the monthly birthday party April 27. Partner bingo was played afterwards with 34 participating. Small plants were used as prizes. Jewel Killian also entertained the group with several jokes.

On Thursday, 27 seniors used the free blood pressure clinic conducted by Carol Nixon. Also on that day, several seniors started the job of cleaning the center, inside and out. Many raked the lawn while others trimmed trees and washed windows.

Up-Coming Events

Thursday, May 5: Trip to Norfolk Senior Center, leave 10 a.m.
Friday, May 6: Calorie count-down, 12:45 p.m.

Monday-Tuesday, May 9-10: Governor Conference, Lincoln.

Wednesday, May 11: Board meeting, 1 p.m.; host care center bingo, 3:30 p.m.; night bingo changed to Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, May 12: Film, 12:45 p.m.

Congregate Meal Menu

Monday, May 9: Hamburger steak with mushroom gravy, mashed potatoes, asparagus, mixed fruit, muffin, butter, cookie.

Tuesday, May 10: Baked ham, potato salad, creamed peas, tomato juice, whole wheat roll, butter, pears.

Wednesday, May 11: Porcupine meatballs, rice au gratin, California mix, apple salad, black bread, butter, peach.

Thursday, May 12: Oven chicken, dressing, spinach souffile, orange juice, whole wheat roll, butter, fresh fruit.

Friday, May 13: Salmon loaf, potato rounds, cooked cabbage, fresh fruit, tea roll, butter, custard.

Milk, coffee or tea served with each meal

LUTHERAN CHURCHWOMEN

The Lutheran Churchwomen met Thursday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Paul Fischer welcomed everyone and read a poem, "Sharing." The hymn "You Servant of God" was sung. Mrs. Clarence Lühr read devotions from Matthew 13 and Psalms 13:3. They sang "Lord Take My Hand and Led Me."

Mrs. Robert Johnson gave a book review on Giants in the Earth by Ole Rolvaag. It was about the centennial theme of how the church came to the prairie a century ago.

Minutes of the last meeting and the executive meeting was read and approved. Thank you were read from Bethpage, the Care Center and Wilma Steinman, district assembly chairman. The treasurer report was given.

It was voted on and approved to give $200 towards the new drapes and upholstery. It was voted on and approved to pay Mrs. Ron Harding for the material she had purchased for three tablecloths. Mr. Harding made the tablecloths. They voted on and approved for the kitchen committee to purchase more knives.

They discussed their annual Christmas luncheon and decided that the outreach and fellowship committee compose a letter concerning all possibilities of changing or making it better. The letter will be distributed to all Lutheran Churchwomen members.

Twenty-four ladies went to the District Assembly on April 11. A special thank you was given to Emma Brown for taking notes of the meeting.

May 1 was education Sunday and the students took part in the Sunday morning worship service. May 7 is an all-day work day.

Hostesses were Mrs. Marvin Muller, Ruth Boeckenhauer, Mrs. Ron Harding and Mrs. Eldon Nixon.

The next meeting will be Thursday, May 26 at 1 p.m. It will be a salad luncheon and the program will be given by daughters of Salem. They are May Belle Lundahl, Esther Oberg and Mary Beth (Longe) Malloy.

The meeting closed with a tribute to mothers, the benediction and the table prayer.

PARK FUND

The Pop's Partners 4-H Club recently made a $25 contribution to the park fund. Michele Meyer and Debi Meyer, club president and treasurer, presented a check to the park improvement committee chairman, Pat Murphy.

The park improvement fund currently stands at $15,013 which includes interest the fund has drawn.

One of the more frequently mentioned items for improvement at the park in the recently conducted community attitude survey was the need for better shelter house facilities. According to the park board, this summer the large enclosed shelter house at the east side of the picnic area will be refurbished and plans also call for building a new open shelter near the tennis court area.

The park improvements which include the new softball field and concession and restroom building are being financed with a grant that is 50 percent federal funds, 25 percent each from state and local funds.

Local funds have come from donations and fundraisers rather than tax dollars. The fund is very close to its goal and anyone wishing to help reach this goal may make a contribution by contacting Pat Murphy or committee treasurer Duane Tappe.

CANDYSTRIPEES

Four candystripers at the Wakefield Health Care Center were honored April 25. They received certificates for their many hours of service at the center.

Honored were Jennifer Lunz, Sheryl Piper, Jennifer Gustafson and Buffany Blecke. Martha Svoboda is the candystriper coordinator.

Jennifer Lunz has 99 hours of volunteer service; Sheryl, 141; Jennifer, 146 and Buffany, the newest candystriper, has 19 hours. The girls assist in feeding residents, distributing fresh towels and supplies to the residents' rooms and visit and play games with them.

Each girl has about four residents as their special grandparents and remember each on their birthday. The girls also learn about elderly people and some of the nursing care the residents receive.

The candystriper program was started at the local center in December, 1978 and so far has had 29 different girls in the volunteer program. In the past four years the girls have served about 6,000 hours.

SPRING BANQUET

Sixty-six members and visitors attended the Northeast Nebraska International Reading Association spring banquet on April 14. The event was held in the Nebraska Room at Wayne State College and co-sponsored by Educational Service Units 1 and 8.

Attending from Wakefield were Mildred Brownell, Janette Eaton, Jerry Sharpe, Terri Samuelson, Alice Johnson and Lois Schilnes.

Students from the Wakefield Community School sixth grade made the table favors.

STUDENTS CONFIRMED

Confirmation ceremonies were held at the Salem Lutheran Church on April 10 with Pastor Robert V. Johnson conducting the services.

Confirmands were Edward Haglund, Beth Engstedt, Kristal Clay, Susan Thompson, Bryon Kubik, Scott Salmon, Perry Miller, Mark Lundahl. Parents of the students are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haglund, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Engstedt, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Clay, Mr. and Mrs. B.C. Thompson, Peggy Kubik, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Salmon, Eileen Miller and Mr. and Mrs. LeVern Lundahl.

JUNIOR OLYMPICS

Mike Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Larson, scored high at the Junior Olympics at Wayne State College on April 16. He received a first place in the 50 meter dash and in the standing long jump events. He also placed second in the 200 meter dash.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Dallas Roberts was re-elected president of the Wakefield Fire Department at the regular meeting on April 4 at the fire hall. Other officers include Art Doeschler, secretary; Short Kay, fire chief; Kenneth Salmon, assistant fire chief; Lyle Ekberg, country captain; Henry Greve, inspector and reporter; Merle Kay, treasurer; Lyle Ekberg, vice president; Erwin Siebrandt, assistant country chief; Gene Kratke, city captain; and Ray Lund, assistant city captain. Drill captains will be the fire chief and assistant chief.

GIRL SCOUTS

Girls from Junior Girl Scout Troop 73 attended a junior event day at Harrington on April 16. Attending were Nicole French, Cristy Oite, Wendy Kratke, Melinda Rischmuelter, Renee Nixon and leader Chris Salmon.

The girls attended different activities of various times during the day including Chinese paper folding (Origami), bowling, skating and aerobic dancing.

On April 21, third graders from Troops 68-69 visited the junior school meeting at Salem Lutheran Church to learn about patrol systems and share ideas for badges.

POPPY DAYS

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its Poppy Day on Friday and Saturday, May 13 and 14. Mrs. Eugene Swanson is in charge, assisted by Mrs. Marie Bellows, Mrs. Mike Looft and Mrs. Ed Doeschler.

The house-to-house campaign will be made on Friday evening and the ladies will be selling on Main Street on Saturday.

A bake sale will be held in conjunction with Poppy Days in the Legion Hall beginning at 9 a.m. Coffee will also be served.

Rev. Ronald Holling, host church pastor, opened the meeting with devotions. Guest speaker, Rev. Bob McCleery spoke on "You Shall Have Life and Have it More Abundantly."

Nancy Baker, social worker, explained workshops for high school students, "Practice Lifestyle Approach to Preventive Ministry." Lloyd Probasco gave information on the home offices at Omaha, Rev. Holling closed with prayer. The Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord will host the fall 1983 meeting.

CONFIRMED
Jennifer Johnson was one of the 23 confirmed by Bishop Anthony Milone at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Dixon on Friday afternoon at 4 p.m. Guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Johnson, in honor of Jennifer's confirmation were 52 relatives and friends from Omaha, South Sioux City, Allen, Concord, Wakefield, Wayne, Laurel and Coleridge.

Mrs. Joe Nanfito of Omaha was Jennifer's confirmation sponsor. Mrs. Jim Nelson baked the cake which was served with ice cream. The Joe Nanfitos and children of Omaha were overnight and Saturday guests of the Dwight Johnsons.

OPEN HOUSE
An open house was held Friday evening in the Norman Anderson home honoring the retirement of postmaster Clarence Stapelman of Belden and Norman Anderson of Concord. About 60 postal friends from northeast Nebraska attended. Distant friends came from Nemaha, Cook and Brock, Tobias.

LADIES AID
The St. Paul Lutheran Ladies Aid met Thursday afternoon at the church with 10 members and Pastor Ronald Holling. Mrs. Cliff Stalling gave the lesson, "Sing a Song of Praise" from the Gospel of Luke. An invitation was extended to the ladies to attend guest day at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne on May 11. Sweaters for Lutheran World Relief had been gathered. Ms. Leroy Koch served refreshments.

card of thanks

OUR MOST SINCERE thank you to all of our friends and relatives who so graciously contributed to the Fire Fund for us. To the Julius Eckarts, the Winside State Bank, and all their employees for doing it for us, we say thank you. For all the help and food that was brought when we had our farm sale. To Julius, Darline, and Peggy for letting us have the lunch at their home and for all the meals that they had for us we say thank you. Also, we want to thank all the members of Trinity Lutheran Church and the AAL Branch who donated food and worked many hours to have the lovely soup and pie supper for the Leonard Andersens and us. One thing for sure, the community we live in has shown us so very much love and concern that it is truly heartwarming. For all your thoughts and prayers may all of you be richly blessed for remembering us at this time. Stanley and Mary Ann Soden. m5

WE WISH TO EXPRESS our thankfulness to friends, relatives and neighbors for their prayers, flowers, food, memorials and cards of sympathy sent at the loss of our loved one, Fred Brumets, Llamaye, Norris, Roger and Bill Langenberg. m5

I WANT TO THANK all my relatives and friends for cards, visits, telephone calls, flowers, gifts, food and prayers. A special thank you to Pastor Hafermann, Pastor Gottberg and Pastor Boljen for their prayers and visits. Also, to my brother and his wife for coming to be with me and my family while I was in the Lutheran hospital and since returning home. It was deeply appreciated. May God bless you all. Mrs. Richard Miller. m5

OUR HEARTS ARE filled with gratitude to the good people of this community. Thank you to everyone who helped in any way with the benefit supper given in our behalf. Thank you for your attendance, for your monetary gifts and for your love and concern. Special thanks to friends of Trinity Church for their time and effort in getting the benefit organized and to Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch 1960, for matching funds. We will always remember your kindness and ask God to bless each of you. Leonard and Dorothy Andersen. m5
