Farm Ladies Luncheon attracts almost 600

"Small minds talk about people. Average minds talk about things. Great minds talk about ideas." While the Chamber of Commerce sponsored the lunch, Ray Maselli of Sioux City provided food for thought Thursday afternoon for the nearly 600 women attending the annual Farm Women's Appreciation Luncheon in Wayne.

Sponsored the past eight years by the Chamber, the luncheon is designed to show the business community's appreciation for rural contributions to the city. Theme was "The Art of Being a Woman."

"FROM YOUR neck on down you are only worth about $70, but from the neck up you're priceless," said Maselli, vice president and general sales manager at KTIV Channel 4 in Sioux City.

"That's because of your mind," Maselli, who spoke on the topic "The Fine Art of Living," amused and motivated the women for nearly an hour Thursday afternoon.

"What does the art of being a woman mean to you?" asked Maselli, who also is a Dale Carnegie course instructor. "Being a woman really means being a special part of the human race."

"God never made any junk. He made man and then said, 'Hey look, I can do better than that.'"

"WHETHER WE talk about the art of being a woman or the art of being a man, we are really talking about the art of being a human being," said Maselli, adding that both need to be flexible, share equal responsibility, develop skills, have a purpose in life, live to their potential, and practice communication.

"Have you ever experienced the feeling of unimportance?" asked Maselli. "Studies show that it would cost over $17,000 to replace the average homemaker. Although it is impossible to place a monetary value on human life, that figure gives you a good idea of how important you are."

"Money can only replace the jobs you perform. It cannot replace the love only you can give."

MASELLI, IN emphasizing the importance of believing that a single life can make a difference, said everyone should have a purpose greater than themselves.

"You've all seen people who are wrapped up in themselves. They make a very small package," he told the women. "If we look long enough we all can find a purpose. We all have unique talents that we are able to share with others."

Maselli warned the women against comparing themselves to their peers. "It's ourselves we must compete with," he said. "Once you learn that you will be able to develop your own potential."

MASELLI ALSO stressed the importance of a positive attitude. "We're all going to make mistakes, that's part of life, but what's important is how we handle them."

"If we have developed a positive attitude, dealing with a crisis will turn from reaction to action."

"If you should fail," added Maselli, "remember it's only a temporary change in direction to set you straight for your next success."

MASELLI POINTED out to the women that a good attitude and living to their potential are hard to achieve without good communication.

"Developing communication skills is simply good human relations," he said, adding that everyone needs to learn to communicate in terms of the other person's interests.

"Don't arouse resentment. Remember that when you start throwing dirt you're only losing ground."

"Listen," urged Maselli. "You've got two ears and one mouth, so you should listen twice as much as you talk."

DEFINING A successful woman as one who loves life and lives it to the fullest, Maselli said she must also find peace within herself.

"In a lot of ways," he concluded, "the art of being a woman is the art of being a human being."

WELCOMING THE farm women to the luncheon was chairman Joanie Burst. "Thank you for giving us the pleasure of doing this for you. It was sheer joy," Burst told the group.

Assisting her with luncheon arrangements were Sue Jammer, Meg Lodes, Marie Mohr, Ardath Otte, Norma Stollenberg and Sheryl Summerville.

Also extending greetings to the women were Anne Svoboda, executive vice president of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Wayne businessman Randy Pedersen, and

Wakefield man discovers remnant of ancient mammoth

Someday, Sandy Otte may be able to start his own museum.

On his farm south and east of Wakefield, he has compiled a collection of Indian artifacts, buffalo skulls and other interesting finds. His most recent addition to the collection is a mammoth tooth which weighs nearly eight pounds.

Sandy discovered the tooth about two weeks ago on a Logan Creek bank near his home. It measures 10 inches by six inches by three inches.

HIS DISCOVERY prompted a telephone call to the University of Nebraska Geology Department. Sandy described what he had found to Dr. Robert Hunt.

Dr. Hunt asked Otte several questions and then informed him that he is 95 percent sure his find is a mammoth's tooth. Sandy plans to send photos of the tooth to the geology department.

The rural Wakefield resident discovered the tooth when he went to Logan Creek to retrieve one of the traps he left behind last winter. Water apparently had washed the banks and caused a portion to collapse. His find was laying on a mud bank.

By asking Otte about the composition of the creek and the condition of the tooth, Hunt estimated that the rock-hard tooth probably didn't travel more than half a mile down the creek.

THE GEOLOGIST informed Sandy that his find is at least 10,000 years old and could be as old as 1 1/2 million years.

Mammoths, which stood 14 feet tall at the shoulders when full grown, became extinct approximately 10,000 years ago. An encyclopedia reports that the mammals had only four teeth.

Otte asked Hunt if there is a chance he may discover some mammoth bones near the site he found the tooth. The professor replied that if Sandy finds any bones he won't have to wonder what they are. Their size will give them away.

Sandy, 43, said he will return to the creek and look for some more remains.

THE MAMMOTH tooth is not the first discovery made by Otte. He found a moose horn more than 10 years ago and said he has found three or four buffalo skulls.

While looking for arrowheads he also found old pottery. "I've always been interested in that kind of thing," he said. Although Sandy has never found any whole arrowheads he has found many chips of arrowheads and a stone ax.

The creek area on Otte's farm once was a lake bed. With his recent findings, Sandy wonders just what he may dig up in the future.

Our friend Bugs died this week. Bugs was our son Scooter's pet rabbit but even I had fun with the black and white bunny. He'll be missed.

We gave the bunny to Scooter (sometimes known as Jason) for an Easter present. We couldn't decide what to get him but knew he would like a pet. Dogs were out since we didn't want a house pet and since dogs often are either yappy or obnoxious. We didn't really want a cat either.

Bugs turned out to be an ideal Easter gift. He was quiet, soft and cuddly and easy to take care of. He even put up with Scooter's attempts to pull his ears or clip his hair with a play scissors.

We put a collar around his neck, kept him on a leash during the day and penned him up at night. He loved to jump up and down and graze in our back yard.

The leash was long enough to allow Bugs to chase pedestrians. Many times people would walk by our house and Bugs could be seen chasing after them.

Usually the pedestrians would stop and pet him. Or just stare back and chuckle.

The rabbit gave our meter reader a scare the other day. He said he walked into our back yard to read our meter and nearly jumped out of his sneakers when his peripheral vision spotted a creature springing out of the flowers toward him.

Seeking protection from the creature, he made a mad dash behind a tree and turned to defend himself. Starting him face-to-face was the killer rabbit.

The meter reader's next move was to look all around the neighborhood to make sure no one had seen him.

The next day I put up a sign that said, "Beware of rabbit."

With Scooter out helping his grand father, grandmother and uncles drive tractors, feed cattle and collect eggs on the farm near O'Neill this week, he doesn't know his bunny is dead. And I'm not sure a two year old could understand.

When he comes back home I think we'll just tell him Bugs ran away and let him pick out another young bunny. Hopefully, it too will be a good pet.

Because I grew up on the farm I had plenty of pets when I was young. Pets are made for farms. We had cats and dogs and even considered bottle-fed lambs and calves as our pets.

It was always fun to try to find newborn kittens in our barn.

I found over the years that pigeons make pretty unusual pets when obtained while they are young. My sister raised a pigeon and named it so well that all she had to do was walk out of the house and either whistle or call its name and it would land on her shoulder.

I never was quite that successful but did have fun raising a homing pigeon I got from an uncle when the bird was only a few days old. Named Barney, he was my favorite pet of all time.

When he was young I fed him by forcing crumbs of bread (soaked in water or milk) into his bill. After he grew older, I fed grains of milo into his beak until his crop was full. As he aged he learned to feed himself.

I raised that bird—against college regulations—in my dormitory room at Wayne State College. After he was old enough to fly I built him a small wooden house and placed it above the entrance to Morey Hall.

Some of the girls in the dorm were scared of Barney but to most residents he was the dormitory pigeon. He usually sat in front of a sign I made which said simply, "Barney the Pigeon."

That bird liked to have his fun and the girls who were scared of him were usually the victims of his pranks. On their way to class, Barney usually swooped down at them or even tried to land on their heads or shoulders. It was all in fun and he never did hurt anyone.

Like all good pets, Barney disappeared one day. I don't know whether he died or met a girl pigeon or what. Either way, he was never seen again. To this day my former roommate still kids me that that pigeon stew sure was good.

So it goes.

Q: I was divorced six years ago, and our decree stated that my husband was to pay a certain amount of alimony each month until I remarry, or for the rest of my life if I do not remarry. He died recently, and I want to know if I have a claim against his estate for continuation of alimony?

A: Nebraska law specifically provides that alimony orders shall terminate upon the death of either party, unless otherwise provided in the divorce decree or property settlement.

If your decree does not state that your right to alimony will continue after your husband's death, his death would automatically terminate your right to further alimony and you would not have a claim against his estate.

If you have a question about whether your decree or property settlement agreement contains any provision which might serve as an exception to this law, talk to your attorney and ask him or her to review these documents and advise you.

Q: I believe there is a way to have a juvenile court record (shoplifting) erased. Please explain how this is done.

A: According to Nebraska law, after the juvenile has satisfactorily completed his probation and supervision, or the treatment program of his commitment, any interested person may ask to have juvenile court records sealed.

First, you must make an application to the Court to set aside the "adjudication," which is the Court's finding of guilt in the matter. If the Court grants this request, all records relevant to the adjudication are sealed and are no longer available to any person, except upon the Order of the Court for good cause.

To the editor:

In response to your viewpoint entitled "Will Wayne be ready?" in the June 23 edition of The Wayne Herald, I most certainly agree with part of your reasoning.

This year, Wayne will be hosting district tournaments for Class A, B and C men's softball.

A conservative bid was submitted to District Commissioner Roger Frank by the Wayne County Jaycees, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and the Umpires Association. A great deal of thought and planning occurred before a decision was reached to submit a bid to have district tournaments held in Wayne.

The site was selected for obvious reasons such as size and convenience. Other reasoning indicated that by having Class A, B and C tournaments combined this year, even greater exposure could be gained by Wayne businesses. Overall, an event of this size could easily promote various levels of prosperity for all facets of the Wayne community.

Our bid was selected and work is now being done to provide the best possible facilities for such an event.

The facility, namely the Wayne Jaycee Softball Complex has progressed quite rapidly since a lease agreement was made between the Jaycees and the City of Wayne in February of last year. Since then a great deal of time, money and liffage equipment donated by individuals and local businesses has helped to produce a respectable softball complex for the Wayne community. Wayne is very fortunate to have individuals who are willing to support this type of community development.

Finally, we encourage any constructive comments you may have concerning the softball complex and ask that you drop us a line at P.O. Box 146.

Also, to alleviate any questions as to whether or not the softball complex will be ready for district — it will be ready.

Del Penlerick, chairman
Softball Complex Committee

To the editor:

On behalf of the Wayne varsity cheerleaders, we would like to publicly thank all the people and businesses of our community that supported us throughout the past year and in our most recent fundraising projects. Without your help we would have very little to cheer about in our efforts to pay for our 1983-84 uniforms.

We would especially like to give a special thank you to First National, State National, Blake Studio, and Bill's GW for the merchandise they have given us to use at games and pre-season football practice.

Also, thanks to Bob's Derby for allowing us to use their facilities for our car wash. It's a great feeling to know that we live in a town that backs its athletes and school representatives to the "MAX!"

Bullets that armored vests can't stop

By N.T. "Pete" Shields
Handgun Control, Inc.

Nine years ago, my wife and I lost a son to the American Handgun War. Since then, I've been fighting for a federal law controlling handguns, and I've seen a lot of hostility, anger and even ugliness from the other side. But recently, I've seen the worst yet. I've seen the National Rifle Association (NRA) come out in opposition to a ban on a type of ammunition; a bullet that has only one real use—to kill police officers.

Technically, these bullets are known as armor-piercing ammunition; realistically, they are cop-killers.

Developed 12 years ago, these Teflon-coated bullets were originally intended to help police stop criminals fleeing in cars. But they proved too powerful. They went right through the cars, endangering bystanders. Soon, the police stopped using them. The manufacturers kept making them, and they were discovered by the most vicious element of the criminal class, especially the drug dealers.

THE CRIMINALS needed something to counter the effectiveness of the vests that police officers have been wearing in increasing numbers since the mid-1970s (and which saved over 400 lives from 1976 to 1981). The vests proved so effective against conventional ammunition that spouses and children gave them as Christmas presents. Even President Reagan wears one, ever since he was shot by John Hinckley.

The President's vest would have done him no good against a cop-killer vest. In a recent police test, a vest was folded over twice and then shot with an armor-piercing .38. The bullet pierced the vest—and two and a half big city phone books!

We at Handgun Control, Inc., join the police chiefs of America and all other law enforcement officials whose troops stand in the front line against these bullets, in calling for a ban on armor-piercing handgun bullets. And the responsible manufacturers are with us: they have stopped making the bullets.

But KTW, which make the most popular version, thinks it is enough to stamp the boxes: "For Police Use Only." And when DuPont refused to sell them any more Teflon, a company spokesman said, "We can be devious and get it from another source."

I THINK that's reprehensible. But I think the stand of the NRA is even worse. Despite its oh so cosmetic national advertising campaign designed to show its members as "just plain folks," behind the scenes, the NRA, under its militant leaders, is surpassing its old tricks. It opposes a ban on these bullets.

Eight states now have laws against these bullets and at least seven more are working on them.

The Law Enforcement Officers Protection Act (S 555 & H R 953) would outlaw armor-piercing handgun bullets. Already, 13 Senators and 146 Representatives are cosponsoring the Moynihan-Biaggi bill.

Soft body armor cannot stop these bullets. But our elected representatives can. It remains to be seen whether they will listen to the pleas of our police or to the extremists at the National Rifle Association.

Budweiser Rocket on display

The Budweiser Rocket, the first manned vehicle to break the speed of sound on land, is scheduled for public viewing in Norfolk July 8 and 9.

The vehicle will be on display at the Ford/AMC dealership at Fifth and Madison Avenues in Norfolk from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday and Saturday, July 8 and 9.

The needle-shaped Budweiser Rocket cracked the sound barrier at 739.666 mph on a dry lake surface at Edwards Air Force Base in California on Dec. 17, 1979. It was piloted by Stan Barrett, a Hollywood stuntman, when it made history at Mach One — the speed of sound. It's 48,000 horsepower rocket engine provided enough thrust to accelerate the Budweiser Rocket to 143 mph in just one second.

WSC football schedule announced

The schedule for the 1983 Wayne State College Wildcat football season has been finalized, according to Ron Jones, athletic director and head football coach Pete Chapman.

In the only major schedule change, the Cats will match talents with the Broncos of Hastings College in the second game of the season at Hastings. It will not be the first meeting for the two schools, as they met in competition as members of the former Nebraska College Conference.

The annual Wildcat Days and homecoming activities are slated for the weekend of the Fort Hays State game on Saturday, Oct. 8.

Hall of Fame Day will be held on Oct. 1 when the match up with the Griffons of Missouri Western come to town. WSC's annual high school Band Day will be held on Sept. 24 for the game with Midland College.

Parent's Day has been set for Saturday, Oct. 29 when the Wildcats meet the Emporia State Hornets.

Coach Chapman described the schedule as "a good blend of Nebraska small colleges and the highly competitive Central States Intercollegiate Conference."

The schedule is September: 10, at Chadron State, 1:30 p.m.; 17, at Hastings College, 1:30 p.m.; 24, Midland Lutheran, 1:30 p.m. October: 1, Missouri Western, 1:30 p.m.; 8, Fort Hays State, 2 p.m.; 15, at Washburn University, 1:30 p.m.; 22, at Pittsburg State, 1:30 p.m.; 29, Emporia State, 1:30 p.m. November: 5, Missouri Southern, 1:30 p.m.; 12, at Kearney State, 1:30 p.m.

Wayne awarded districts

Wayne has been selected as one of four sites which will host the northeast Nebraska state district softball playoffs July 29 and 30. Norfolk, Crofton and Neligh were also picked as playing sites.

The Wayne districts will feature teams from classes A, B and C. Last year's districts were also held in Wayne, but only featured class B teams. The event will be tri-sponsored by the Wayne Umpire's Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne Jaycees.

Last year's tournament director Denny Robinson said that Wayne should expect "at least 29 or 30 teams" to play in Wayne's tournament. Robinson stressed that that number may vary as the exact number of teams participating will not be known until after the July 1 registration deadline.

Charles Curnyn has been named director of this year's tournament. Lyle Droscher has been named chief umpire.

The tournament is scheduled to be played at the new Jaycee Complex on the east edge of Wayne.

State playoffs

Golfers qualify

Two Oakland golfers took first place honors in the Junior State Golf qualifying meet held at the Wayne Country Club last Friday, June 24.

Mike Peterson fired a 73 to take first in the 16 to 17 year old's division while Jason Petersen's 78 was good enough for first in the 15-and-under division.

The state finals will be played at the Wayne Country Club on July 12 and 13.

Golf Pro Rudy Froeschle said that it is not known how many of the boys from last week's district meets will qualify for state.

"We expect at least 4 or 5 from each division, though," Froeschle said.

The top five finishers in each division were:

15-and-under: 1. Jason Peterson, Oakland, 39-39 78; 2. Clay Gibb, Oakland, 42-37 79; 3. Kevin Griess, Wayne, 39-41 80; 4. Tom Perry, Wayne, 40-42 82; 5. David Ellis, Wayne, 41-43 84.

16 and 17 year olds: 1. Mike Peterson, Oakland, 36-37 73; 2. Cole Froeschle, Wayne, 36-38 74; 3. David Doerr, Plainview, 37-38 75; 4. Kelly Danielson, Oakland, 39-37 76; 5. Shawn Riedmuller, Albion, 41-37 78.
