Area schools open soon

Students, teachers and school employees are asking the annual question, "Where has the summer gone?"

It's all ready Aug. 18 and school is about to crank up for another year.

The first day of classes at all Wayne schools is scheduled Monday, Aug. 29. Many area schools open their doors before then.

Allen school and Hoskins Trinity Lutheran will open next Monday, Aug. 22. Winside school will open Tuesday, Aug. 23. Wakefield will open Wednesday, Aug. 24. Laurel-Concord will open Friday, Aug. 26, and Carroll, Dixon and Hoskins public schools will open on Monday, Aug. 29.

FRANCIS HAUN, superintendent of Wayne Community Schools, said regular classes for students in the Wayne Carroll School district will commence at 8:40 a.m. on Aug. 29.

Buses will run regular routes on that day. Students riding the buses will be mailed a bus route prior to opening day and will be able to anticipate the approximate time of the bus arriving at their residence. Buses will leave the Wayne schools at approximately 4 p.m. the first day of school.

Most new students have registered but any who have not are asked to do so as soon as possible, Haun said. School offices are open daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Wayne will have two sections of kindergarten with the morning session running from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and the afternoon session running from 12:30 to 3 p.m. All other grades will begin classes at 8:40, with first grade dismissing at 3:15, second grade at 3:20, third grade at 3:25 and fourth grade at 3:30. Middle school will dismiss at 3:45 and high school at 3:50.

ON THE FIRST day of school, seventh and eighth grade students are asked to pick up their class schedules in the gymnasium at 8:30. Fifth and sixth graders will find their room assignments posted outside their classrooms.

Ninth grade students should report to the lecture hall for orientation at 8:40 Aug. 29. Students in grades 10, 11 and 12 should report to the gym at 8:15 to pick up their class schedule cards. Teachers will report at 8:15 on Wednesday.

Thursday and Friday, Aug. 24, 25 and 26 for workshop activities.

The price of Wayne school lunches for year will be: $1.05 daily or $5 weekly for high school and middle school students, 95 cents daily or $4.50 weekly for elementary school students, and $1.25 daily or $6.25 weekly for adults.

WSC enrollment stable

Dorms near-capacity at state colleges

By Randy Hascall

Resident directors at Nebraska's four state colleges will have their hands—and rooms—full this fall. There aren't many rooms left in dormitories at the four sites.

Of the state colleges, Kearney State's dormitories are filled to capacity, dorms at Wayne State and Peru State are near capacity and Chadron State's on-campus enrollment is above normal. Full dorms and freshman classes have prompted Kearney State to announce early this week that it will accept no more freshmen.

AT WAYNE STATE College, enrollment is estimated to be about even with last year, according to Registrar Virginia Wright. In the last few years, enrollment has increased.

But Wayne State's on-campus population is on the rise. Housing Director Bob Lohrborg said there are still rooms for some women and a few men.

He expects about 85 percent occupancy in the dorms for the upcoming school year, compared to approximately 74 percent last year. In July, dormitory figures were 10 to 15 students below last year but Lohrborg said a large number were added since then. The deadline for receipt of dormitory deposits has passed.

Lohrborg said he expects about 1,150 students to live on campus. Last year's figure was approximately 1,100 students. Since last year, several sorority and fraternity houses have closed down and some of those students have moved on campus. "We'll get everyone in but we'll be nice and full," said Lohrborg.

KEARNEY STATE has been drawing attention this week for its announcement that it will accept no more applications from new full-time freshmen.

Wayne Samuelson, admissions director at KSC, said the announcement is not a recruiting gimmick or an attempt to dramatize the school's financial situation.

The announcement followed one which was made last week by Doane College, a private school, to accept no more applications from full time resident students.

Kearney's enrollment reached a record 7,267 last fall.

CHADRON STATE'S enrollment is expected to be up slightly. Applications are up two or three percent from a year ago and approximately 7,000 students are expected, according to Con Marshall, Chadron public information director. Last year's enrollment was 1,977.

Marshall said dormitory applications are up this year but added that dorm figures vary every year.

PERU STATE College is looking at its second consecutive year for high enrollment. Kent Propst, director of college advancement at Peru, said the smallest state college anticipates between 1,100 and 1,200 students. Dormitories are almost at capacity with rooms available for two males and 11 females, Propst said. In the past, there have been more dorm rooms than people, he said. "Students are finding there is more limited housing off campus and it is more economical on campus."

If Peru should ever run into housing space problems, there exists a possible solution on campus. Majors Hall, which connects to the school's sports complex, has been empty for many years. Because of the lack of housing in Peru, it is used to house guests and for other purposes.

Propst, a former Wayne State public information director, said Peru State reached its peak enrollment of 1,264 in 1969. "We won't set a record but we will nudge it," said Propst.

PSC PRESIDENT Jerry Gallentine has made a commitment to reach an enrollment of 1,500 by 1987 and the school is running ahead of projections.

Propst said Peru State is expecting a 20 percent increase in enrollment for the second consecutive year.

Reduced meal plans set at Wayne, Hoskins

Wayne Public Schools and Hoskins Public Schools have now announced their policies for free and reduced price meals.

The meals will be available for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch or School Breakfast Programs.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with letters to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, a household should fill out an application and return it to the school.

ADDITIONAL COPIES are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used to determine eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year.

Each household must provide the names of all household members, social security numbers of all adult household members, total household income, and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Households are required to report increases in household income of more than $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

The following policies will be followed by both schools.

Roles to be assessed

State colleges will be studied by the Nebraska Legislature

By Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association

State lawmakers have begun what they hope will be an exhaustive study of higher education issues prior to their reconvening next January.

Lawmakers have four resolutions passed by the 1983 Legislature which authorize interim studies relating to the University of Nebraska, the four state colleges and the six community technical college districts.

The studies deal with financing, administration, curriculum and the overall coordination of postsecondary education programs in the state.

HIGHER EDUCATION this year will consume 26 percent of the state general fund budget. NU alone will spend 20 percent.

In their study, lawmakers face difficult issues which arise from increasing costs, tight government revenue and projected declines in enrollment.

During one recent meeting, members of the Appropriations and Education Committee were briefed by legislative staff members about development in the mid 1970s of the current role and mission statement for the University of Nebraska, the four state colleges and the six community technical college districts.

The 1978 Legislature enacted the current statutory role and mission statement over the veto of former Gov. J.J. Exon. At the same time, lawmakers authorized a uniform system for gathering data from the institutions to assist lawmakers in their budgeting and oversight roles.

LAWMAKERS HAVE decided tentatively to hold a public hearing before both committees on postsecondary education issues on Oct. 14 in Lincoln. The Education Committee is also expected to schedule a series of hearings across the state this fall in which they'll take testimony on higher education issues.

Most lawmakers involved in the studies agree that the Legislature must take the lead in determining the direction of higher education, and that members must be prepared to take the subsequent political heat when programs are reduced or eliminated.

"We can't always be pointing our fingers at the (NU) Board of Regents and the (state college) board of trustees," said Education Committee Chairman Tom Vickers of Farmington. "We need to give them direction and then support them financially."

Vickers said the 1978 role and mission statement may no longer be suitable. At that time, the statement was devised to provide guidelines for growth. It's now time for cutbacks, Vickers said, and the statement may have to be amended accordingly by the 1984 session.

ONLY SEVEN months into office, Gov. Kerrey has already appointed two new members of the seven-judge Nebraska Supreme Court.

Earlier this year, Kerrey appointed Judge Thomas Shanahan of Ogallala to fill the vacancy on the high court created by the death of Judge Lawrence Clinton.

On July 26, Kerrey appointed Douglas County District Court Judge John T. Grant. He replaces Judge Hale McCown who is retiring Aug. 31 after 18 years as a member of the court.

Grant, 62, was named by former Gov. Exon to the district court bench in 1974. He is a Creighton University law school graduate, and a former member of the state Commission on Industrial Relations.

THE PRIMARY election is still more than eight months away, but some incumbent legislators have already filed for reelection.

The senators say they want to leave no doubt about their intentions with potential challengers.

The first to file was Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who has served longer than any other current lawmaker. Warner, who represents the 25th District, was first elected in 1962.

Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln has filed for a fourth term from the 29th District.

Sen. Clarence Jacobson of Hastings has filed for reelection to his 33rd District seat.

Jacobson was appointed to the Legislature last November by former Gov. Thone. He filled a vacancy created by the resignation of former Sen. Richard Marvell of Hastings.

Things are being done to prevent soil erosion

By Cheryl Stubbendiek
Nebraska Farm Bureau

There was good news for farmers in the five-year soil inventory report released by the Soil Conservation Service on Aug. 3: average soil erosion per cropland acre last year was 4.92 tons, down from 5.07 tons per acre in 1977. At the same time, total U.S. cropland has increased two million acres since 1977 and cultivated cropland has increased by 18 million acres.

These figures fly in the face of those who claim our soil resources are disappearing at an alarming rate. Instead, we are holding the line, even making a little progress. The news is welcome because farmers — most of whom are good stewards of the land — are tired of hearing scare stories about soil erosion, with the accompanying implication that the farmer is some kind of villain.

SOIL EROSION is a problem, and it will continue to be one that needs to be watched. But there are a number of positive trends:

- About two-thirds of America's cropland is naturally rebuilding itself at rates that will maintain its long range productivity.
- Nearly 70 percent of wind and water erosion rated to be beyond tolerable limits is concentrated on only 8.6 percent of the tilled land. So the problem is not acute erosion over a widespread area — the worst of it is confined to localized areas.
- Since 1977, use of conservation tillage has increased by 60 percent, while use of erosion promoting moldboard plowing is down 11 percent.

PART OF the confusion about soil erosion can be traced to definitions. Soil "loss," for example, is often largely soil "displacement." Only 20 to 30 percent of eroded soil enters streams and rivers and is lost to the sea. The other 70 to 80 percent is simply displaced and it settles out at the base of the hill, in fence lines or in wet spots — often in the same field.

Much of the media attention given to the soil erosion problem tends toward overkill. Huge gullies and erosion washes — which are the exception rather than the rule — make better pictures than the far more pervasive but almost imperceptible sheet and rill erosion. Farmers are turned off by the extremes which they know are not present on their land and some may not pay sufficient attention to the sheet and rill which they do have.

None of the good news from the soil inventory should suggest that farmers can be less vigilant than they have been. But perhaps farmers and U.S. as a whole should be less concerned with a unit count of erosion and much more concerned with long-term damage to productive capacity caused by soil erosion.

There is a difference between the two concepts and here it is apparent that our government has been working at cross purposes in regard to soil erosion: on one hand, the Soil Conservation Service and the Cooperative Extension Service are major sources of education about erosion and assistance in correcting it.

But on the other hand, government farm programs stimulate farm production, often at the expense of such other considerations as the soil. When government programs induce farmers to put fragile grasslands into crop production, wind and water erosion can cause serious damage.

IN ADDITION, inflation and government monetary irresponsibility have caused some farmers to view increased production as the only means to meet increased costs.

So the problem of soil erosion really needs to be attacked on two fronts. First, farmers must intensify their move toward conservation tillage. Indications are that about one-third of all U.S. cropland is under reduced tillage — a vast increase over the past five years, to be sure, but with plenty of room for expansion.

Second, the government must get its fiscal policy and farm programs in order. Freezing federal farm program expenditure and working to reduce them would temper artificial incentives for farmers to pour on the production and risk problems of soil erosion.

letters

To the editor:

Say it isn't so! Rumor has it that in the midst of this heat wave, and one full week before the end of summer vacation, the local municipal swimming pool is scheduled to close for the season. Are we hearing correctly that the "plug will be pulled" on Sunday, Aug. 21?

It would seem that it would be in the best interest of the local taxpayers and pool users to at least keep it in operation this year until Aug. 28, or better still, until Labor Day weekend as it was originally done.

If hours need to be shortened to daytime only, if it is understandable but total inoperation seems unjustified, if the excuse is that the pool is operated by students then it would seem feasible to make the dates understood before hiring employees in the spring.

Each year the season becomes shorter and shorter for our youth and adult swimmers until we might expect that soon it will only be in operation for the month of July! What a shame that it was necessary to open a week late this year, and then to be denied pool use for the final week of August.

If you are someone who feels as though the pool should be kept open beyond this coming Sunday PLEASE make your feelings heard by calling our local city administrator, mayor and your council members. A simple phone call may do the trick for the youth of our community!

The revival of entrepreneurship

Richard L. Lesh
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

In 1981, 16,794 businesses went bankrupt. In 1982, that figure grew to 25,346. Taking those numbers by themselves, the nightly news portrayed a gloomy picture of the American economy: dying small businesses, closing their doors and disappearing. The death of entrepreneurship.

But the bankruptcies did not occur in a vacuum. There are two other numbers you may not have seen reported — the number of new business incorporations. In 1981, 581,242 new businesses incorporated. In 1982, 566,942 new companies sprang to life.

The past two years have not seen the death or decay of American entrepreneurship, but rather a vigorous revival — thanks in large part to the reductions in the capital gains tax of 1978 and the cuts in personal income taxes in 1981.

STARTING A NEW business is hard work and risky. The marketplace is a strict taskmaster. Consumers are fickle. Many new firms fail. Indeed, surveys of successful entrepreneurs show that they have often failed more than once before they found the right good or service at the right price.

The genius of America is not that we are all guaranteed to succeed at whatever we undertake — for we have no such promise. There is no midas touch. The genius of America, of the free market, is that we are all free. Free to make our own choices. Free to succeed. Free to fail. Free to try again.

With that freedom comes the responsibility for our decisions... and the risk of making mistakes. Such risks can be frightening. In our personal lives we make decisions with great consequences. Where to live. Who to marry. Wrong decisions can be costly.

In business, entrepreneurs must decide where to locate. What product or service to provide. At what cost. Employees face the choice of what business to work with. There are more than 11 million businesses in America to choose from.

ALL THESE decisions carry with them the risks of choosing incorrectly. And governments around the world have grown large and powerful by offering to reduce those risks at the cost of human freedom. Oh, it would be possible to have prevented the 25,000 bankruptcies in 1982. All the government would have to do is tax the successful new firms enough to subsidize the losses and presto — no bankruptcies. (But who then would spend the time and effort to start a new shop or factory?)

In France, the nationalized industries are free from risk. They will never go bankrupt!

The taxpayers of France are shelling out almost $8 billion this year to eliminate this risk. Nor do industries go belly up in the Soviet Union. But on the other hand, when was the last time you heard about a technological breakthrough or new product from behind the Iron Curtain?

Certainly we can reduce — and sometimes eliminate — risk, but always at the cost of freedom and innovation. (One can always protect oneself against an automobile accident by staying in bed.)

SCIENCE HAS learned to cure diseases, create energy from the atom, and splice genes through trial and error. The American economy has become the greatest in the world — producing one quarter of the goods and services in the entire world — by allowing individual Americans the freedom to try and make their dreams a reality. Sometimes succeeding, sometimes failing, but on balance, moving us forward by creating new jobs and wealth.

Yes, there are risks as well as rewards in the vibrant and dynamic free market system. Not every wildcatter strikes oil. But as we look at the nations around the globe, and peek behind the Iron Curtain, we must remember that the path of trading away our freedoms for the promise of security entails great risks of its own.

Trying to settle its claims

The Comptroller of the Currency has published a list of some 23,000 individuals throughout the country who, at the time of bank failure during the Depression, had property in a safe deposit box. The complete list, separated by states, was published in the June 29 Federal Register.

The government is trying to settle individual claims for such items as jewelry, oriental rugs, stock certificates, antique firearms and even a set of false teeth. Unclaimed items may eventually go to the Smithsonian Institute or be sold at public auction.

Depositors and their heirs may file claims for the items by filling out the appropriate claim form, available by contacting: Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Claims Processing Unit, 490 L'Entant Plaza, N.W., Washington D.C., 20219.

Coaches tap Wayne State last

Missouri Southern is the team to beat in the Central States Inter-collegiate Conference this season, according to a preseason poll of conference football coaches. The Lions, who finished third in the conference last season with a record of 5-1-1 and an overall mark of 7-2-1, were the top choice of four of the eight coaches and received 57 points in the 8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 scoring system. Last season's co-champions are picked for second and third, with Kearney State gathering 53 points and two first place votes and Pittsburg State gaining 51 points and one vote for the top spot. Missouri Western was awarded the other first place vote and finished fourth with 46 points, followed by Fort Hays State (29), Washburn (25), Emporia State (19) and Wayne State (8).

The conference begins its eighth season of action with five players returning from the honorable mention All-American list. Kearney State offensive linemen Tim Rettele (SR) and Don Wheeler (JR), Missouri Southern running back Harold Noirfalise (JR), Missouri Western defensive tackle Steve Marlay (SR) and Pittsburg State defensive back Alvin Robertson (JR) were among 15 CSIC players named to the All-American teams last season.

Three new coaches are on the scene with Larry Kramer replacing Bob Seaman at Emporia State, George Tardiff following Glenn Jagodzinski at Washburn and Pete Chapman taking over for 14 year veteran Del Stoltenberg at Wayne State.

Five CSIC teams will begin play on Sept. 3. Wayne State opens at Chadron State on Sept. 10. The conference state opens on Oct. 1 and runs through Nov. 12.

Wayne tennis player places

Tom Roberts of Wayne teamed up with Ben Rader of Lincoln to place second in the 45 doubles of the Nebraska Closed Adult Tennis Tournament held this past weekend at Dewey Park in Omaha.

The second-seeded team opened the tourney with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over the team of Bob Wobken and Neil Schlike. In the second round, Roberts and Rader advanced to the finals with a 6-7(2-7), 6-3, 6-2 win over Denny Andrew and Vic Kassell of Omaha.

Rader later suffered a case of heat exhaustion in singles competition, forcing the team to default from the championship doubles game. Roberts and Rader were scheduled to meet Rich Alpine and Gene Campbell of Grand Island in the finals.

I'VE LOST OVER 100 POUNDS AT DIET CENTER!!

"And I'm coming back this September to continue the program to lose twenty or so more pounds and reach my goal. When I started on the program in September of 1982, I knew I had to lose weight for the sake of my health."

September 14, 1982

June 2, 1983

"We're very proud of and very happy for Arlis. She is one terrific lady. The program worked for her because she cared enough about herself to make it work. If you care about yourself, you can make it work for you too!"

Alice Froeschle
Diet Center Counselor

I consulted with my doctor who told me to give Diet Center a try. He wanted me to go on a diet program that would be natural and safe and carry over to maintenance. The Diet Center program seemed ideal. I started on Sept. 14 and began to feel better almost right away. Although I could not come in daily since I had to drive from Beemer, I made it faithfully at least once a week through the winter. Coming to the classes regularly helped a lot but the most important factor for me was the individual counseling -- being able to talk to someone who understood and who cared. I've never felt better than I do now. And with the help of Diet Center, I know I'll be able to keep this weight off permanently.

Thank you Diet Center -- Thank you Alice and Darlene!!

Senators call for passage of natural gas intervenor act

State Senators John DeCamp of Neligh and Don Wesely of Lincoln have called for the passage of LB 122, the natural gas intervenor act.

The senators cited the recent decision by the Nebraska Energy

Office to use $50,000 allocated to help municipalities cope with natural gas rates to educate city officials, rather than to help cities determine whether the proposed People's Natural Gas rate increases are justified, as one more reason LB 122 is needed.

DeCamp said "this bill would be ideal for cities who feel helpless because they must approve gas rate or get sued. Many communities feel they have no choice but to approve rate increases because of the cost of litigation."

It would still cost YOU money to shop AWAY from home!

Most people never stop to think about what happens to a dollar spent away from home. Part of it goes to support schools, churches, services and public projects in THAT town.

But what about the schools, churches, etc. in OUR town?

Don't short-change our hometown, and yourself, by scattering your hard-earned dollars elsewhere. Keep them working right here for you and yours!

Shop here at home. Spending your money to fatten some other community's economy costs you.

SCHOOL BOARD
The Wakefield School Board held its annual budget hearing and regular meeting on Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. There were no visitors present at the hearing. The board discussed the budget for the 1983-84 year and adopted it.

Superintendent Derwood Hartman reported that the school now has a new copier purchased on a three year lease-purchase agreement. Hartman also gave a report on the vocational evaluation meeting he attended in Omaha on Aug. 8.

The board discussed the possibility of pursuing an energy grant in the near future. Hartman was asked to look into it.

Hartman also reported that the shortage of Wayne County non-resident tuition funds in the amount of $2,800 will be received by the school during the next fiscal year.

The board approved the purchase of a washer and dryer from a Sioux City firm. The appliances will be installed before school starts. The board also discussed the single bid received on the 1981 deep freeze which has been advertised for sale by bids. It was decided to reject the bid and place the freezer in the home ec. room and sell the older deep freeze currently being used.

Hartman told the board that the work scheduled on the elementary roof has been completed. Repair on the elementary building roof is a three year project. Last summer approximately a third of the roof was resurfaced, more was done this summer with the final work scheduled to be done next summer.

The school lunch program was discussed and it was decided to leave the prices the same as the past two years. Cost of the lunches for K-6 grade is 70 cents and junior high and high school cost is 80 cent per lunch. The adult price will be $1. The cost of two percent white milk will remain the same at 10 cents a carton and the price of chocolate milk will be 15 cents.

The board voted to participate in the federal and state lunch program for the coming year.
