Wastewater setback

Council request is turned down

The Wayne City Council learned Tuesday night that it has suffered a setback in the city's wastewater treatment plant.

The council was informed Tuesday night that its request to use Walker brand equipment in place of Envirex equipment was turned down by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The council had requested Walker equipment after several councilmen and city representatives toured various wastewater treatment plants and said they found Walker equipment superior.

CITY ADMINISTRATOR Phil Kloster told the council that EPA overturned the council's decision. "We will install Envirex equipment at their directive," he said.

Councilman Keith Mosley, who had expressed his dissatisfaction with Envirex equipment when the decision was made in June, was disappointed with the EPA notification.

"It's a shame we don't have a little more control over what type of equipment we want to use," he said during Tuesday's meeting.

"It is disappointing that we're not allowed to make the decision at a local level," Kloster replied.

A question was raised concerning a possible appeal by the City of Wayne but council attorney Kern Swartz said it would be fruitless to appeal.

SPENCER CONSTRUCTION of Spencer, Iowa had submitted low bid on the treatment plant project in May and was awarded the contract. The bid included use of Envirex equipment.

In June, the council made a decision to request the use of Walker equipment instead of Envirex. In turn, issued a protest to the Environmental Protection Agency.

In other action, the council passed a resolution paving the way for the proposed paving project on Fairground Avenue and Windom Street. Federal and state monies will cover about 75 percent of the project cost.

The action gives the final go-ahead from the city. Windom was added to the original plan for paving Fairground Avenue.

AN APPLICATION by the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department for a one-day liquor license was formally approved Tuesday night.

In response to a fire department request for per diem payments to firemen who attend fire school, recommendations will be drawn up and the council will act on the matter at its next meeting.

"These people contribute a considerable amount of time and energy and I feel pretty strongly about them getting some type of pay for missing work and attending school," Mosley said.

Councilman Gary Van Meter also said he is now in favor of per diem payments. From speaking to veteran fireman Norb Brugger, Van Meter said he changed his mind on the department's request.

ANOTHER MAJOR topic of discussion by the council was a review of the city's water resources.

Ralph Russell, representing the Howard R. Greene Company, reviewed the city's water resources and made some possible recommendations.

The council voted to go ahead with a plan to project the life of the city's existing wells, determine the flow of the aquifer, find out the city's firm pumping capacity and learn the direction of the ground water movement.

The preliminary step is expected to cost between $4,000 and $5,000 and should be completed by Jan. 1, Russell said. Mayor Wayne Marsh said funds for the work were already budgeted.

RUSSELL REVIEWED three areas of water resources: supply, water quality, and storage and distribution.

He said Wayne's supply is generally adequate for its short term needs but questionable in terms of firm capacity (the ability to supply water with the largest producing well out of service).

He said water quality is acceptable if the hardness of the water is not too harsh.

Storage is generally inadequate, he said. Distribution is adequate for peak daily demand but may have inadequacies in fire fighting.

Financing alternatives include FHA loans, revenue bonds or community development block grants, Russell said. FHA loans are not too viable in Wayne's case, he pointed out.

IN OTHER ACTION the council:

—Received word that the city jail, located in the police station, is officially closed. Prisoners will be kept overnight in the county facility.

—Okayed a request by Region IV to canvas the community, painting house numbers on curbs of the homeowners who want them.

—Listened to an auditor's report for Fiscal Year 82-83.

—Agreed on a lot split at 520 West 5th Street in Wayne. The Wayne Planning Commission recommended the split at its Monday's meeting. The lot was split so six feet can be sold from owner to a neighbor.

—Decided to construct a storm sewer on east Emerald Drive in Western Heights Sub division.

More to come

DON KOLL scoops off the sidewalk in front of the Carhart Lumber Company. The Wayne area received its first snowfall early Wednesday morning — a sample of what's in store.

Wayne band first alternate to national band concert

The Wayne-Carroll High School marching band just missed out on an opportunity to attend the National Band Concert in Nashville, Tenn.

Wayne was selected first alternate in all class competition at the Pershing Marching Contest held recently in Lincoln. Papillion was chosen as the number one band in the competition.

The superior award earned by the Wayne-Carroll High School marching band is the 12th consecutive superior received at the Pershing Marching Contest in Lincoln.

Band director Ron Dalton said the Wayne band has now won superior awards at Pershing the last 12 years and 13 of the last 14 years. In the last 30 years, Wayne has failed to win a superior only about six times, Dalton said.

"Tradition carries over from parents to children," he said.

Team is evaluating Wayne school district

An external visitation team is expected to conclude its visit to the Wayne-Carroll school district today (Thursday).

The team's visit, which began Wednesday morning, culminates self-evaluation of the school which is conducted every seven years.

During their two-day stay, team members have spent time in the classrooms and reviewed school curriculum, facilities, board policies, etc.

The team, which is comprised of about 30 members outside the school district, will present an "exit" report today at 2 p.m. in the high school lecture hall. The public is invited.

A special invitation to the Wayne-Carroll Board of Education to visit with team members and attend the "exit" report was extended by Superintendent Francis Haun during the board's regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Haun said a written report by the team is expected to be returned to the district in about three weeks.

WAYNE HIGH School Guidance Counselor Curt Frye was present at Tuesday's school board meeting and presented a report on a drug and alcohol training workshop he and four other representatives of the Wayne-Carroll district attended Oct. 31 through Nov. 5 in Lake Geneva, Wis.

Attending the workshop with Frye were Superintendent Haun, middle school guidance counselor Ted Blenderman, middle school media center director Faunell Bennett, and Elaine Rump.

Also attending the workshop from this area were representatives of the Randolph school system.

Cost of the drug/alcohol workshop and subsequent programs to be developed by each district is being supported by a federal grant amounting to $12,832. The grant was written last spring by Larry Clay, psychologist for Educational Service Unit 1 in Wakarusa.

IN HIS REPORT Tuesday afternoon to the board of education, Frye outlined several steps which will be followed in implementing programs to prevent and reduce alcohol/drug abuse and other disruptive behaviors in the school community.

Although the initial program is being funded for two years, Frye said hopefully the program will carry on for many years.

Steps which Frye outlined to the board of education in implementing the program include pre and post-testing of students in the school community; developing staff inservice pertaining to chemical abuse/use by students; developing community involvement pertaining to chemical abuse/use in the school community; encouraging the development of a parent support group to reduce chemical abuse/use in the school community.

Also, reviewing school policy concerning chemical abuse/use and related disruptive behavior in the school by the students, incorporating into the curriculum cognitive information concerning chemical abuse/use, developing peer support groups to enhance positive student behaviors at the middle and high schools; and developing a public relations program to encourage support for and involvement in a chemical abuse/use prevention program in the school and community.

FRYE TOLD THE board of education that the Lake Geneva conference was one of the most beneficial conferences he had the benefit to attend.

"We felt there were some incidences in our community where young people could get involved in drugs, and we think we were successful in finding some positive ways to effect this problem.

"I learned it doesn't take drugs or alcohol to get high," Frye said, adding "we're interested in helping provide opportunities for kids to 'get high' on themselves and feel good about themselves."

Members of the board of education commended the program outlined by Frye and other team members and gave their support for its implementation in the district.

IN OTHER business Tuesday afternoon, Haun reported to the board of education on the repair of windows at the Carroll elementary school.

Haun said the repair work is expected to be completed this week by Schluns Construction Co. of Carroll at an estimated cost of $2,777. Haun said there will be some additional costs for paint.

HAUN ALSO presented the board with reports on attendance at parent-teacher conferences Nov. 3 and 4.

Attendance in two instances hit 100 percent. The 100 percent marks were recorded at Carroll Elementary School, where 38 students are enrolled, and at the second grade level at Wayne Elementary School, where 42 students are enrolled.

Total attendance at Wayne Elementary School hit 97 percent. Attendance in a class-by-class breakdown hit 97.91 percent at the kindergarten level; 92.30 percent at first grade, 100 percent at second grade, 93.75 percent at third grade, and 98.03 percent at fourth grade.

AT WAYNE Middle School, fifth grade attendance was at 81 percent, sixth grade at 72 percent, seventh grade at 67 percent, and eighth grade at 67 percent.

Parents attending conferences at the high school reached 67.8 percent, slightly higher than the 62.2 percent recorded the previous year.

Ninth grade attendance was 72 percent, 10th grade at 74.4 percent.

Wayne vs. Wakefield

Area schools wage mock court trial

By Randy Hascall

Students from Wayne and Wakefield high schools staged a battle in Wayne County Court Monday afternoon.

According to attorneys for both sides, each school came out a winner.

The battle was part of the Nebraska Mock Trial Project, involving high schools from across the state.

EACH TEAM had three high school student attorneys and three witnesses. The students were given a specific case, stipulated facts, affidavits, and some rules of procedure.

The mock trial case was based on a two-car automobile accident in Lincoln. Terry Vickers, the driver of one car, was hospitalized for treatment of a broken leg, bruised ribs and lacerations to the upper torso, neck and face. The driver of the second car, Dana Ivy, was not injured.

Before the accident occurred, Ivy had attended a pre-Christmas party hosted by Sandy Hearst two miles from the scene of the accident.

Ivy also pleaded guilty to running a stop sign and driving under the influence of alcohol. Vickers reached an out-of-court settlement with Ivy for any claims that Vickers might have arising from the accident.

BECAUSE THE settlement only covered the cost of repairing the car, Vickers filed suit against Sandy Hearst.

In the suit, Vickers alleges that Hearst negligently served alcoholic beverages to Dana Ivy in violation of Nebraska Statute 46-117.

Vickers' suit further alleges that his injuries in the accident resulted from Hearst's negligence. In the suit, Vickers wants $18,400 in compensatory damages which include $8,400 in medical bills and lost wages and $10,000 for pain and suffering.

Wayne was plaintiff for the case and Wakefield was defendant. After considerable classroom practice and a postponement because of Wayne's involvement in the state football playoffs, the two teams finally went head-to-head Monday.

THE MOCK TRIAL lasted about 40 minutes with each team taking its turn on the witness stand and during questioning.

Attorney-coach for Wayne was Bob Ensz of Wayne and teacher-coach was Becky Kelley.

For Wakefield, Duane Schroeder was attorney-coach and Lyle Trullinger was teacher-coach. Judge for the mock trial was Philip Riley.

"I thought each side did a real fine job.

There were few points separating the teams on the scoring sheet. It was a close case," Judge Riley said.

"The students were enthusiastic, worked hard and prepared well for the case. I think it was a good learning experience—it gives them an awareness of what goes on in a courtroom," the judge added. "We took high school students, put them in an area totally foreign to them and they did well."

WAYNE NOW advances to the second round of competition in the mock trial project—this time as defendant. Two performance judges and the presiding judge gave Wayne a slight nod over Wakefield in courtroom performance.

The trial outcome had no bearing on judging the courtroom performance. Wakefield successfully defended in the trial.

The teachers and attorneys involved with the trial had praise for the project and for the students involved.

"This is a real good learning experience. It's good for the kids to find out how a courtroom operates," said Lyle Trullinger, instructor of Wakefield's American Government class.

"Our whole class learned from it. The students were enthusiastic. We're thankful to the judges and lawyers for taking their time to work with us."

WAYNE'S TEACHER was equally as pleased with the trial. "It was a great experience for the students. Most people have never seen an actual court case. This gives them a better idea of how it works," Becky Kelley said.

"Our student attorneys are real interested in law and some plan to pursue a legal profession. This gives them an idea of what a lawyer has to do," she added. "The witnesses see that they must stick to the facts and be consistent. Bob (attorney Ensz) did a good job of showing the students what to look for. It took a lot of his time.

The attorney-coaches for both sides, Ensz and Schroeder, were pleased with the job the students did. They agreed both teams did well.

Wayne's team was made up of student-attorneys Rod Porter, Sarah Bliven and Dave Melton, student-witnesses Don Whisenant, Jassi Johar and Michelle Brodsky, and alternates Scott Brown, Paula McCright and Pete March.

Wakefield's team consisted of student-attorneys Kiela Lund, Michelle Rischmuller and Michele Meyer, student-witnesses Harlan Ulrich, Wes Greve and Trisha Willers, and alternate Jeff Coble.

Services held Wednesday for town's oldest resident

Wayne's oldest resident died Monday (Nov. 7) at age 104.

Maude Auker was the oldest resident of Wayne and the second oldest resident of the county. Her 105th birthday would have been on Nov. 22.

In 1978, the Wayne City Council set aside Nov. 22 as "Maude Auker Day" in Wayne.

MRS. AUKER taught two years at a rural school near Carroll, one year at a Dixon County rural school and five years at District 57 in Wayne County.

In honor of the 80th anniversary of her high school graduation, she was presented a "Distinguished Citizens" award in spring of 1977.

In a 1978 Wayne Herald story, Mrs. Auker credited her long life to keeping busy, never eating between meals and not drinking coffee.

Services were held yesterday (Wednesday) at the United Presbyterian Church in Wayne. The Rev. Robert Haas officiated.

ELLA MAUDE AUKER, the daughter of William and Louisa Cooper Benschopf, was born Nov. 22, 1878 at Red Oak, Iowa.

She moved to Wayne County with her parents when she was four years old and graduated from Wayne High School in 1896. She attended Pile's Normal and rural schools several years.

Maude married Arthur Auker on Jan. 1, 1907. The couple farmed in Wayne County and ranched near O'Neill, later retiring to Wayne. She was a reporter for a number of newspapers including The Wayne Herald for 14 years. She was a member of the United Presbyterian Church and very active in many clubs.

SURVIVORS INCLUDE many nieces and nephews.

She is preceded in death by her husband, one infant daughter, her parents, three brothers and one sister.

Palbearers were Kermit, Wilbur and George Benschopf and Robert Merchant. Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne with Hiscox-Schumacher Funeral Homes in charge of arrangements.

Trees transplanted

STREET DEPARTMENT workers Howard Stokes and Gerald Otte plant a tree in the new Sunnyview park, located on the east edge of Wayne. The Wayne Kiwanis Club donated 70 trees for the park. The club has raised the ash, maple and locust trees for nearly five years. The street department moved and planted them and the Kiwanis Club will prune and water them.

Wayne and Dixon counties planning 4-H recognition

Four-H clubs, members and leaders in Wayne and Dixon Counties will receive awards at their annual achievement programs scheduled this month. Wayne County 4-Hers will be recognized Monday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne city auditorium. County awards in a variety of project areas will be announced. Highlighting the evening will be an announcement of the Outstanding Boy and Girl and Ak-Sar-Ben service awards. These awards are given to 4-H members who have demonstrated leadership, service and a high level of achievement throughout their 4-H careers. Clubs also will be presented awards for their participation in the club improvement and seal program. Four-H families are asked to bring one dozen cookies or bars. The 4-H Council provides the beverage. SPECIAL recognition to Dixon County 4-H members and leaders will be given on Saturday, Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Allen High School auditorium. The public is invited. Among those to be recognized are leaders receiving two, five and 10-year service certificates and pins. Also recognized will be 4-H members receiving county medals for beef, bicycle, bread, clothing, dairy foods, food and nutrition, food preservation, dairy goat, home environment, horse, junior leader, poultry, rabbit, sheep, swine and veterinary science. Most Projects Completed also will be announced. Special "fun awards" will be given again this year. Four-H members in each club have prepared to recognize special "bloopers" their members or leaders have made. ENTERTAINMENT at the Dixon County program will be provided by Junior song groups, including Pop's Partners, Country Style and Wranglers. Refreshments will be potluck "finger foods." Beverages will be provided by members of the planning committee, including Mrs. Harlan Ruwe, Mrs. Ken Pettit and Mrs. Dean Rickelt.

Vehicle number two was driven by Shell Meyer of Wakefield. The police report states that vehicle number one was northbound on Main Street. The driver tried to stop but the brakes failed and vehicle number one struck the rear end of vehicle number two.

sheriff's log

The Wayne County Sheriff's Office received two reports of possible thefts and is investigating another. A report was made of rear wheel covers being taken from a car belonging to George T. Johnson of rural Winside. The wheel covers were taken either late last Tuesday night or early last Wednesday morning. Estimated loss is $172.

A steer belonging to Larry Neitzke of Hoskins was reported as missing. Estimated weight of the steer is 750 to 800 pounds and estimated worth is $400. The possible theft occurred sometime in the last three weeks. The sheriff's office and Wayne State College campus police are investigating the possible theft of between $100 and $150 contained in a money bag of a vending machine truck.

House burns in Dixon

Firemen from Dixon, Concord and Laurel volunteer fire departments responded to a house fire on the highway in Dixon early Thursday morning. Dixon Fire Chief John Young said a call was received at approximately 4:30 a.m. Thursday. The house is owned by Dave Johnson who now resides in California. The inside of the house was badly damaged by the blaze while the outside was about half burned, Young said. State Fire Marshall LuVerte "Curly" McDonald said cause of the fire is under investigation.

Leaf compost pile an option

When fall leaves finally have to be raked up, why not try a compost pile instead of letting the garbage man have them? Composted leaves and other yard wastes can enrich lawns, flower beds, gardens, and trees, the Small Farms Action Group said. The SFAG, in cooperation with the Nebraska State Recycling Association, is encouraging the composting of yard wastes, not only does composting provide a rich, earthy humus to enrich the soil and decrease soil erosion, but also can reduce the costs to taxpayers for landfill burial, they said. A free pamphlet is available from Small Farms Action Group, describing the benefits as well as the methods for building and maintaining a backyard compost pile. In addition, the Nebraska State Recycling Association has a free informative brochure detailing simple ways to recycle in the home. For more information about composting and recycling, contact: Small Farms Action Group, P.O. Box 90729, Lincoln, 68501 (402) 475-5424.

Bowl-For-Life planned in Wayne

The midwest regional office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital recently announced that Val Kienast of Wayne has agreed to be chairman of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bowl-For-Life in Wayne. The funds raised in this event will go to support the hospital's programs of research, patient care and education. St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, provides total medical care to more than 4,200 patients. All findings and information gained at St. Jude are shared with doctors and hospitals the world over. Children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live. The funds raised by the many Bowl-For-Lives being held throughout the midwest this fall will assure the continuation of the life giving work at the hospital. A Bowl-For-Life will be held at Melodee Lanes, Wayne.

Diabetes warning signs

This is the second article on diabetes provided by the Wayne Lions Club as a public service for Wayne area citizens. November is National Diabetes Month. About 10 percent of diabetics are Type I (insulin dependent), and are usually children or young adults. Warning signs appear quickly and include abnormal thirst; unusual hunger; frequent urination; irritability; weakness and fatigue; nausea and vomiting; and weight loss. The remaining 90 percent of diabetics are Type II and are usually adults over 40 years of age. Symptoms include drowsiness, blurred vision, tingling and/or numbness in the hands and feet, excessive weight, itching, slow healing cuts (especially on the feet), and skin infections. Statistics show that women may be more likely than men to develop diabetes. People who are overweight are more likely to get diabetes, and people who are over the age of 40 and have diabetic relatives are more likely to get diabetes.

School board

at 56.3 percent, and 12th grade at 63.4 percent. High School Principal Donald Zeiss reported a substantial increase in attendance by parents of sophomores and seniors.

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday also learned from Haun that 24 teachers have registered to attend a Junior Great Books training session to be held Nov. 28-29 at Wayne Middle School.

Among the 26 registered are 12 teachers from the Wayne school system.

Haun also reported that an audit of the school has been completed by Max Kathol, CPA. The audit of the school records is required by state law.

Board members discussed several resolutions to be presented during a convention of the Nebraska School Boards Association on Nov. 17 and 18 in Omaha.

The board also gave its permission for Haun to participate in a National Forum on Excellence in Education on Dec. 6-8 in Indianapolis if his schedule permits.

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday afternoon voted unanimously to enter into a contracted agreement with the Minnesota Educational Computing Consortium (MECC) for economical access to a wide range of computer software, for a one-time licensing fee of $300.

Haun said that by entering into the agreement, all computer software purchased by the school will first be screened by the consortium.

"There is so much software on the market that there is no way we can possibly screen it all ourselves," Haun told the board.

In other action, board members officially adopted a policy for selection and review of library and media materials, which includes procedures for objection to such materials on the part of school district residents.

BEFORE ADJOURNING, board member Joyce Reeg volunteered to attend a School Board Negotiations Conference on Dec. 12 in Kearney.

Board members also gave their approval to the newly created Pick's Subdivision located east of Wayne.

The board was given a walk through tour of the high school's newly completed vocational shop addition.

The board also approved letters of congratulations drafted by board president Becky Keidel to the football team and marching band.

Next meeting of the board of education will be Dec. 13 at 3 p.m.

Air National Guard Airman Deven L. Nice, son of Daniel L. Nice of rural Allen, and Marlene J. Bell of Lincoln, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Nice will now receive specialized instruction in the fire protection field. He is a 1982 graduate of Allen High School.

Looking back at ag from the year 2003

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Everyone agrees that agriculture is in for some big changes in the next couple decades, and it's easy to point to the importance of the computer and to speculate about specific small areas of change. But it's more difficult to consider the total picture.

America's Production Credit Associations have taken a shot at that big picture in a study called Ag 2000. Working with the Battelle Institute, 14 ag economists spent a year looking at specifics.

Their findings are contained in a book called Ag 2000 which sounds like fascinating reading. But already there's a move based on the book, which was recently shown to the Nebraska Council on Public Relations for Agriculture.

NEBRASKA RANCHER Charles Oldfather plays a grandfatherly type, looking back from the year 2003, chuckling about how things were done in the old days in the 1980s. Granddad's recollections about how hard it was to farm then irritate grandson Kev, who does most of his farming via computer. Ag in the year 2003 reflects more vertical integration and more contractual arrangements between farmers and processors. As a consequence, Granddad says, there's a better correlation between supply and demand.

Automatic guidance systems came in in the 1990s, propelling very large "crop frames" which perform every kind of field operation. The frames increased yields by 20 percent, reduced fuel use by 50 percent and caused less soil compaction. As soon as crops are harvested by the frames, processing of the raw products begins immediately within the same machine.

Granddad recalls changes in crops at the cellular level, when substitution of genes made possible new plant varieties and improvements on the old ones, such as built-in resistance to pests, disease and drought. Manipulation of one-celled animals yielded vaccines for hoof and mouth disease and embryo transfers became common. In the plant area, cloning was no longer unusual and wheat was manipulated so that it could fix nitrogen as legumes have always done.

THE INCREASED use of computers was in fact the biggest change, as Granddad recalls. It seems they came into their own when manufacturers got smart and started giving the computers away when you bought their software.

In the film, grandson Kev spends most of his time at the computer terminal in the farm's spacious, modular, solar-heated office. An actual trip to the field is a rarity, what with constant monitoring and correction by computer.

True weather forecasts have replaced the "weather guesses" of the '80s and remote sensing by satellites takes care of finding insects in the field. All this results in corn yields of 400 to 500 bushels an acre.

Of course, market information is instantly available and Granddad is a bit incredulous when he points out that livestock producers used to put stress on their animals by actually taking them to market before that practice was totally replaced by video sales.

These changes in agriculture produced two classes of farmers, Granddad notes. The full-timer is a production specialist and a money manager, while the part-timer has a job in town and farms for a hobby. In the early 21st century, 90 percent of farmers depend on non-farm income.

THE FARMER of the future has more neighbors, the PCA film says. There's a lot more small farms than in the 1980s and this has led to a rebirth of the small town, although everyone does their shopping via TV.

On-farm processing has helped small town businesses, computers have made rural schools better (and anyone can go to college via computer-TV hook-up) and health care in rural areas is on a par with anywhere. Granddad says there are few differences between living on a farm and living in town "cept it's nicer here" on the farm.

Not everyone will agree with everything in the PCA's vision of the future. Members of a panel reacting to the film took exceptions: ag engineer Bill Splinter said we'll pass up the film's predictions within 10 years, while plant geneticist Francis Haskins said the biotechnology ideas in the film are still very far in the future.

Changes in one-celled animals are already occurring, but a crop plant is a much more complex organism and such fantastic developments as nitrogen fixation by wheat are unlikely to happen very soon.

Be that as it may — and who can say? — it's comforting to note that the PCA study thinks there will still be farmers in the 21st century. They may not get to set irrigation pipe or pull calves or haul cattle to market, but they're still going to be the most important part of agriculture.

The tree vandals

The tree vandals have struck again. Once again, one of the trees planted as part of Wayne's downtown improvement project has been destroyed.

It's happened time and time again. And it will continue to happen. It doesn't do any good to complain.

And it doesn't do any good to editorialize in the newspaper. As long as new trees are planted to replace the destroyed ones, someone will sure as heck come along and break off the new ones. After many years of trying to get the trees off to a good start in downtown Wayne, the project has prospered. When trees were destroyed, the city fought back by planting new ones.

The result is that many of the trees remain today and some are doing quite well. Just when it appears that things are getting better, along comes some no-mind to break off another tree.

To destroy a young tree that is beautifying downtown Wayne makes no sense to the sane people in this community.

The vandals must surely get some type of enjoyment out of the act. Or maybe they relieve their frustrations. Maybe there is some type of challenge to be met in destroying a small tree.

Who knows?

If it is any consolation, at least it is somewhat reassuring to know that the foolish, mixed-up people roaming the streets of this country are an incredibly small minority.

We'll always have to put up with them.

Heroics of veterans will be remembered

None among us deserve more respect than the millions of patriotic men and women who have worn our Nation's uniform to preserve America's freedom and world peace.

Our Armed Forces veterans have earned a special day in which you and I may focus on their heroic accomplishments. For their unselfish devotion to duty, Congress established Veterans Day as a national expression of gratitude. On this historic occasion, our hearts and minds should be with our living veterans and their deceased comrades who have contributed so much to the defense of our country's ideals.

From Valley Forge when our Nation was in its infancy, to the Vietnam conflict where our men and women in uniform served and died for the human rights of others, through war and peace, these valiant citizens have answered the call to service with honor and dignity. They are indeed worthy of a formal tribute from a grateful Nation. Special consideration is due to those veterans who are sick and disabled. There is no better tangible expression of our affection than by remembering to visit them at home or in our hospitals.

In order that we pay meaningful tribute to those men and women who proudly served in our Armed Forces, Congress has provided (5 U.S.C. 6103(a)) that November 11 shall be set aside each year as a legal public holiday to honor America's veterans.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, president of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Friday, November 11, 1983, as Veterans Day. In recognition of their valor, I urge all Americans to join with me in a fitting salute to our veterans, and I call upon Federal, State, and local government officials as well as private citizens to mark Veterans Day by displaying the flag of the United States, and I ask those Government officials to support fully and personally its observance by appropriate ceremonies throughout the country.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this nineteenth day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and eighth.

Two years after

Experiment was a smashing success

By Richard Leshar

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

It has now been two years since the Economic Recovery Tax Act (ERTA) began to take effect and perhaps it is appropriate to take stock of its effect on our economic well-being.

Did the 25 percent across-the-board cut in marginal tax rates work? Was supply-side economics everything it was cracked up to be? Or, as its critics predicted, did it make us all worse off than we were before?

Now, some might argue that it is unfair to judge the 1981 tax cut so soon. After all, the 25 percent cut in rates was spread out over three years. The first cut was only five percent in October, 1981 and was overwhelmed by increases in the Social Security tax enacted by the previous administration.

The second cut of 10 percent was July 1, 1982 and only a few months ago, on July 1, 1983, did American taxpayers finally receive another 10 percent cut for a total of 25 percent.

THIS, OF COURSE, is a fair argument. President Reagan had originally asked for a 30 percent cut in rates to begin Jan. 1, 1981. Congress watered down the proposed tax cut and delayed its implementation. Yet, keeping this in mind, I believe we can begin to draw some conclusions about the effectiveness of tax cuts — supply-side economics.

During the 1980 presidential debate, former President Jimmy Carter predicted that the "Reagan-Kemp-Roth" proposal to cut taxes was the "most highly inflationary proposal that has been presented to the American people."

Two years after its partial enactment we find that inflation is down from its levels of 13.3 percent in 1979 and 12.4 percent in 1980 to an 18-year low of 2.6 percent for the past 12 months.

The prime interest rate has fallen from 21.5 percent — its highest level since the Civil War — to 11 percent and is expected to fall further.

On the employment front, there are now 101.9 million Americans at work — more Americans with jobs than at any time in our history, wartime or peacetime. Since December, the economic recovery has created 2.9 million new jobs and continues to increase employment at the rate of 300,000 each month. (Not bad for the first two years of a tax cut that was supposed to cause a depression.)

FOR THE MEDIAN income family, this combination of lower inflation, lower taxes and more jobs means $3,200 more in purchasing power per family in 1983 than would be the case if past economic policies had continued. ($2,500 due to lower inflation and $700 due to lower federal taxes.)

Remember George McGovern's promise to give every American $1,000? Well, supply-side economics, a combination of low-inflation, low tax policies, has already put $3,200 in the pockets of the average family this year — and will continue to do so every year in the future.

Other trends: More than 1.2 million new businesses incorporated over the past two years and research and development spending, a key factor in keeping American workers competitive in the world economy, jumped 16 percent in 1981 and 17 percent in 1982.

Looking at the big picture, the Gross National Product, the sum total of all goods and services produced, surged ahead 9.7 percent in the second quarter of 1983 and jumped 7.9 percent in the third quarter. And the stock market has weighed in with a strong vote of confidence climbing from 777 last August to over 1,200 hitting historic highs on a daily basis.

ECONOMISTS LIKE to look at a whole host of numbers in discussing the economy: the index of leading indicators, productivity, industrial production, etc. All those vital signs look good and are getting better.

The number that impresses me the most is the fact that the median income family is $3,200 richer this year than it would have been without our "experiment" in supply-side economics. Based on that evidence, I'd say the experiment was a smashing success.

Now, some may still call tax cuts "voodoo economics." Maybe, if so. But I like it.

Called for unsportsmanlike conduct

To the editor: Unsportsmanlike conduct by some Winside football players on Halloween evening may have come close to costing a man his life (he is in the hospital). Even after they had been warned, they continued to carry out a criminal act.

After parents were notified, the boys, in fear of prosecution, made amends by cleaning up their mess.

Pranks be hanged! Each year we hear of a little more damage done. I question the parents' discipline and own intelligence and also the coaches' teaching of what a "true athlete or sport" does on or off the field.

Could it be when all teaching of the young falls on deaf ears, a "Higher Being" brings things home for fans and families alike — as in Central City Nov. 2?

As a parent, I'm outraged, but can forgive. Just please, learn from your mistakes and grow to make our town proud — not ashamed.

Mary Channer-Dennis Paul repeat vows at Belgrade

Candlelight rites Oct. 29 at the United Methodist Church in Belgrade, united in marriage Mary Channer and Dennis Paul, both of Cedar Rapids.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Channer of Cedar Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paul of Wakefield.

The Rev. Charles Graff officiated at the 6 o'clock, double ring ceremony. Decorations included an altar bouquet of peach gladioli and carnations and a spiral candelabra with greenery and peach-colored flowers and candles.

VOCALISTS WERE Mrs. Carolyn Russell of Palmer, Mrs. Gwen Pothast of Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Gail Sorensen of Columbus and Beverly Channer of Kearney, sisters of the bride, and Kim Channer of Belgrade.

Mary Knapp of Loup City was organist, and Mrs. Marilyn McIntyre of Fullerton was accompanist.

Candles were lighted by Barbara Cornwell of Belgrade and Jyl Cornwell of Albion.

Seating the guests were Kim Channer of Belgrade, and Rick Peters, Mike Morgan and Jim Matya, all of Cedar Rapids.

Flower girls were Angela

Russell of Palmer and Lisa Pothast of Memphis, Tenn., and ring bearer was Ryan Cornwell of Albion.

THE BRIDE, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Quinceanera gown of dotted nylon lined in acetate taffeta.

The bodice featured illusion front and back net yokes, with schiffli embroidery accenting the front yoke. The gown also featured a stand-up Venice lace collar, and lace flounce at the yoke and on the skirt. Satin ribbon trimmed the waistline and cuffs.

She carried a bouquet of sonia roses, snowflake mums and carnations. Crescents of carnations and baby's breath adorned her hair, and she wore a heart necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

SERVING HER sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Gail Sorensen of Columbus. Maid of honor was Beverly Channer of Kearney, also a sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carolyn Russell of Palmer and Mrs. Gwen Pothast of Memphis, Tenn., sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Sandy Leimer of Fullerton.

They wore matching gowns of peach print designed with square necklines and gored skirts gathered above the natural waistlines. Lace and ribbon trimmed the bodices, elbow-length cuffs and lower ruffles.

They wore carnations in their hair and carried bouquets of carnations.

ATTENDING HIS brother as best man was Bruce Paul of Norfolk.

Groomsman were Doug Sturm of Wayne and Len Homan, Jim Landwehr and Steve Swerczek, all of Cedar Rapids.

The men were attired in dark brown tuxedos with brown-trimmed ruffled shirts.

THE NEWLYWEDS were escorted from the church to a reception in the Belgrade Fire Hall in an old-fashioned surrey with a fringe on top, pulled by a team of black horses and provided by Roy Fritsges of St. Edward.

Hosts at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Channer of St. Edward and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Tegler of Cedar Rapids. Guests were registered by Mrs. Rose Cunningham of Palmer.

Mrs. Carol Cornwell of Phillips and Mrs. Pat Cornwell of Belgrade cut and served the wedding cake, and Mrs. Kay Cornwell of Belgrade cut the bridegroom's cake. Mrs. Edith Knutson of Papillion poured, and Mrs. Connie Cornwell of Albion served punch.

IN CHARGE of gifts were Leslie Cornwell of Belgrade and Sue Knutson of Papillion.

Other reception assistants were Jeff Cornwell of Albion, Darrin Cornwell and Tim Cornwell of Belgrade, and K. C. McIntyre of Fullerton.

Pinning flowers were Mrs. Kandi Sharp of Genoa and Dawn Channer of St. Edward.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Fullerton High School and has been employed by Cargill, Inc. at Fullerton. She attended square dance callers college at Fremont and is a professional square dance caller.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wakefield High School and Wayne State College, is a teacher in the Cedar Rapids School.

The newlyweds are making their home at Cedar Rapids.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Oct. 28 at the Bel-Horst Inn in Belgrade.

"ENCOUNTERS" IS THE title of this stained glass work by Wayne artist Marie Hagemann. The piece received honorable mention recently at an international convention of stained glass artists in Toronto, Canada. The award-winning piece is on display at the Black Knight in Wayne.

Glass art Wayne artist receives award in international competition

By LaVon Anderson

A Wayne artist has received international recognition for her stained glass art work.

Marie Hagemann, owner of Marie's Art Studio, was among 10 individuals awarded honorable mention during a Port-Con Convention last month in Toronto, Canada.

Port-Con is an international convention and competition sponsored by Glass Studio, a national glass art magazine. Hagemann said an estimated 150 stained glass pieces were entered in the competition.

"I FEEL REALLY good about receiving the award because I was up against international professionals," said Hagemann, adding that this is the first time she has competed outside of the local area.

"It seems that locally my stained glass work is pretty much ignored," Hagemann said, pointing out that because stained glass is a fairly new art form, there is no category and many galleries don't know how to exhibit it.

Hagemann explained that it has only been in the last 10 years that stained glass has been regarded as an art media.

HAGEMANN'S international award-winning piece is entitled "Encounters" and depicts a small boy walking along the beach. He finds a bottle, picks it up, and releases a unicorn.

"I've always been interested in the sea and in fantasy," said Hagemann, adding that "Encounters" is the third piece she has completed on such a theme.

HAGEMANN SAID she worked on "Encounters" for approximately six weeks and completed it just two days before the international competition began.

"I did it over about three times," she smiles, adding that each stained glass piece is very personal and may take her anywhere from two days to six months to complete.

"I wanted 'Encounters' to be something the viewer could look at and see something different everytime," said Hagemann, adding that in the piece she has tried to bring through feelings, smells and texture.

"It's very personal, which art is anyway," Hagemann said, "but I also want other people to enjoy and understand it. It's a very complex composition with a lot of texture."

Hagemann's award-winning "Encounters" is on display at the Black Knight in Wayne and is being offered for sale for $600.

HAGEMANN, the mother of six children, was born in Wakefield and grew up on a farm near Laurel. Her art studio is located four miles south and a quarter mile west of Wayne on the farm where she and her husband, Erv, reside.

A graduate of Famous Artist School of Commercial Art, Hagemann has studied art in Europe and the Orient. She presently is a senior at Wayne State College.

"I ALWAYS KNEW" that I had to be an artist," said Hagemann, adding that although she has tried all media and leaned toward pencil and pastel, it wasn't until a few years ago that she discovered glass.

"Every day I make a new discovery about a media that is so alive," she said, adding that the complexities of glass account for its fascination as well as its counter attraction.

"Stained glass is a delight for the eye, and for the touch as well. The more senses one can add to interpreting and appreciating stained glass, the closer we are to total communication.

HAGEMANN SAID that for her the fabrication process of glass art is as important as the design process.

"I can never relate to a window if I have to let someone else do the fabricating. It hasn't come out of their soul so there isn't any way for them to understand what I want. If a work is truly mine, I must see it through to the final clean up."

Hagemann said that while she does "lots and lots" of sketches beforehand, she still makes a lot of changes while in the actual construction process.

ALTHOUGH HAGEMANN works in a variety of media, gives classes and sells a full line of glass, books, supplies and tools, she says that right now she is working almost exclusively in stained glass.

"What I primarily do is draw, and with stained glass, I discovered I can work my drawings into the glass."

Extension board plans '84 program for Wayne County

Dates and topics for 1984 leader training lessons were announced during a recent planning meeting of the Wayne County Home Extension Council board.

Leader training lessons will include "When is a Bargain Really a Bargain?" on Jan. 13 in Wayne; "Low Sugar and Salt Cooking" on Feb. 10 in Wayne; "Be a Wall Wizard: How to Arrange Wall Groupings" on March 5 in Hoskins; "Salads With an International Flavor" on April 6 in Carroll; "Fire Safety in the Home and on the Farm" on Sept. 14 in Winslow; and "Flower Arranging" on Oct. 4 in Carroll.

The board, which met Monday afternoon in the Wayne County courthouse, also set dates for 1984 council meetings.

During 1984, the council will meet on Jan. 5, April 5, June 28 and Oct. 5.

ATTENDING the planning meeting were Mrs. Milton

Owens, past chairman; Mrs. Alex Liska, 1984 chairman; Mrs. Steve Glassmeyer, chairman elect; Mrs. Gerald Pospisil, vice chairman; Mrs. Arland Aurlich, secretary; Mrs. Verdel Lutt, past treasurer; Mrs. Darrell Rahn, 1984 treasurer; and Mrs. Doug Temme, Wayne County extension agent-home economics.

It was announced that the 1984 Spring Tea will be held Monday, May 7 in Hoskins. Achievement Day will be Oct. 16 or 23 in Wayne.

GOALS suggested by the 1983 goals committee were discussed and prepared for presentation at the January council meeting.

A budget also was prepared for presentation.

Mrs. Temme reported that the 1984 NCHCE convention will be held June 5-7 in Ogallala, and dates for the 1984 Wayne County Fair are Aug. 9-12.

Allen school names honor roll students

Southern's 4th-quarter blast too much for Cats

By Kevin O'Hanlon

Two plays. Two big plays. That's what proved to be the back-breakers for Wayne State as the Wildcats succumbed to sixth-ranked (NAIA Division I) Missouri Southern Tigers 34-19 at Memorial Field last Saturday.

The Cats, now 1-8, trailed the Tigers just 21-19 going into the fourth quarter after Cat quarterback Tom Leitschuck kept the ball from less than a yard out to score and Dan Mitchell added a PAT kick.

Wayne State head coach Pete Chapman was optimistic about the Cats' chances for pulling the upset at that point.

"The way we were moving the ball, I felt we had a good chance to win the ballgame," Chapman said. "We knew at halftime that we were going to have a hell of a time holding them."

CHAPMAN WAS right. Southern took the ensuing kickoff out to the 20-yard line and marched down the field to score on a 35-yard aerial from Rich Williams to Bruce Long to put the tally at 27-19. The PAT kick made it 28-19.

The final score came later in the quarter, as Tom Laughlin broke open on a 97-yard scoring blast after defensive end Keith Turner had sacked Williams for an eight-yard loss on the play before.

Wayne State defensive coordinator Mike Breske recounted the play.

"We were in pretty good shape (defensively)," Breske said. "We just had a couple of kids overpursue and our backside people didn't have the correct pursuit angles... the kid (Laughlin) just broke through."

THE DAY started out much better for the Wildcats than it ended.

On their second possession of the game, the Cats jumped out to a 6-0 lead on a 26-yard Leitschuck to Darin Blackburn pass to cap a 12-play, 96-yard drive set up after the Cats stopped the Tigers on fourth down at the four-yard line.

Chapman was quick to praise Blackburn's effort on the play.

"He had to go behind him to catch the ball, then he ran over two defensive backs and ran around another one before sprinting into the end zone," he said.

Chapman said Blackburn's eight catches for 136 yards "don't even scratch the surface" in telling what kind of day he had against Missouri Southern.

The PAT was no good, but the Cats were out in front 6-0.

THE LEAD was short-lived however, as Southern took the ensuing kickoff after a return to the 21 and mounted an eight-play scoring march, capped by Williams' 34-yard TD strike to Kelly Young. The PAT made it 7-6 in favor of MSU.

Freshman Sonny Jones took the kickoff in the end zone and scooted to the 25-yard line to give the Cats good field position, but Wayne State stalled on the MSU 35 after completions to Wingert and Blackburn.

The teams exchanged possessions twice before MSU jumped ahead 13-6 on four-yard loss from Williams to Darin McClure. The PAT made it 14-6 going into the intermission.

The Cats held the Tigers on their first two possessions of the second half, and pulled within two, at 14-12 on their second possession as fullback turned I-back Mike Schmiedt bulled over from one-yard out. The score capped an 82-yard drive that was kept alive by a 27-yard completion from reserve quarterback Ed Jochum to Blackburn from punt formation on fourth down.

The PAT pass from Leitschuck to Wingert was incomplete.

NOT TO be outdone, Southern responded with a six-play scoring drive, highlighted by Noirfalle runs of 11 and 38 yards and capped by a third-down pass from Williams to Dan McCreey. The PAT kick by Dobbs was good to give the Tigers a 21-12 advantage.

Wildcat quarterback Tom Leitschuck set the Cats on fire on their next possession, completing passes of 36, 13, 3, and 24 yards and sneaking over for a touchdown just seconds into the fourth period. Mitchell's PAT was good and the Cats had pulled to 21-19.

The roof caved in on the Cats after that, as Southern tallied its two long scores of the day and registered the 34-19 victory.

LEITSCHUCK FINISHED the day with 22 completions on 44 attempts for 269 yards and one touchdown.

"I was pleased with his (Leitschuck's) performance," said Chapman.

In addition to Blackburn's 136 yards in receptions, senior Tom Wingert added six catches for 71 yards while Scott Wilson added six snags for 32 yards. Jeff Dostal had a pair of catches for 48 yards.

The Cats leading rusher was Leitschuck, who kept the ball 16 times against the Tigers and racked up 34 yards. Schmiedt had 31 yards on nine totes.

FOR SOUTHERN, Noirfalle slashed through the Cats defense for 158 yards on 27 rushes while teammate Tom Laughlin added 126 yards on just eight totes.

"They handled our defensive line — which we expected," said Breske. "But we tried to arm-tackle him (Noirfalle) too often — you just can't do that."

"We did the same thing to their fullback (Laughlin)."

Tiger quarterback Williams finished the day completing 14-of-23 attempts for 242 yards and four TD's.

WAYNE STATE'S defensive effort was once again spearheaded by linebackers Kevin McArdle (13 stops, two solo) and Steve Besch (16 tackles, five solo).

The Wildcat's will travel to Kearney this Saturday to take on arch-rival Kearney State.

"What can you say?" said Chapman. "It's the school's big game of the year — I hate them with a passion already — you have to do that."

Offensively, coach Breske said the Antelopes are "impressive."

"THEIR OFFENSIVE linemen have a little bit more mobility than Southern's," Breske said. "Their tight end is not a real big kid (6-3, 205 pounds) but he gets open and makes the catches — we'll have to do a good job on him."

Breske said the Cats will have to eliminate their mental mistakes if they hope to stay in the contest against Kearney State.

"Defensively, right now, we're our own worst enemy," he said.

Chapman said he thought emotion could help the Cats against Kearney, but they will need a good effort to win the game.

"If (emotion) will carry us — until right after kickoff," he said.

Lopers last foe

WHEN & WHERE: Nov. 12, 1983, 1:30 p.m. at Charlie Foster Field, Kearney

THE COACHES: WSC — Pete Chapman 1-8-0 (at Wayne State; 13-16 overall); Kearney State: Claire Boroff; (12th year, 83-28-3 at KSU)

THE SERIES: Missouri Southern has dominated the series with its sister school and CSIC foe. The Lopers now lead 36-14-5 in the series which first matched the two on the gridiron in 1924. Kearney State has won the last 11 straight, including a 28-16 triumph last season and a 23-0 shellacking in 1981. The last Wayne State victory came in 1971, 28-0. The Cats have won just twice in the last 17 games. A scoreless tie resulted in 1969.

LAST WEEK: The Cats trailed sixth-ranked Missouri Southern 21-19 late in the game before the Lions exploded for two fourth-quarter TD's on a 35-yard pass and a 97-yard run.

Wayne State QB Tom Leitschuck had his best day as a Wildcat, hitting on 22-of-44 passes for 269 yards and a touchdown. Freshman tight end Darin Blackburn snagged eight passes for 136 yards.

Kearney State lost a heartbreaker to Washburn, 7-0. Running back Roger Suelter had 102 yards on 28 carries.

GAME NOTES: The Wildcats utilized a double-tight end formation against MSU last Saturday and will probably do so against Kearney State.

Fullback-turned I-back Mike Schmiedt is the lone running back in the formation. Starting I-Back Rodney McClain has his leg in a cast after straining a knee against Emporia State.

Senior wide receiver Tom Wingert needs just two catches to become Wayne State's all-time leader for single-season pass receptions. The current record is 44, logged by Jeff Ingram in 1978.

Leitschuck needs just 20 pass attempts to set a Cat record for most aerials attempted in a season. The record (241) was set by Rick Lade in 1978.

Kearney State's top rusher is Roger Suelter, with 884 yards on 182 carries thus far in 1983. QB Bret Kuhn has thrown for 1,237 yards and 10 TD's on 90 completions (out of 170 attempts.)

The Lopers' first win this season came over the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Southern sets CSIC pace

The Tigers of Missouri Southern continue to set the CSIC pace in total offense this week, with an average offensive output of 416.1 yards per game. Wayne State is last with a 255.9 average.

MSU also leads in rushing offense (221.9 yards) while the Cats bring up the rear with a meager 73.2 yards per game average.

The Cats fare somewhat better in passing offense and are ranked sixth with a 182.7 yards average.

On the defensive side of the ball, the linebackers of Washburn University have the stingiest stop troops and are giving up an average of just 254.3 yards per game.

Tough slate

Wayne State has indeed played a tough NAIA football schedule this season. Of the Wildcats' 10 foes, seven have been rated in either the Division I or Division II national top twenties and an additional opponent received votes.

The Wildcats' foes and their highest rankings follow: Chadron State, 9th Sept. 21; Hastings College, 14th (Division II) Sept. 14; Midland Lutheran, 9th (Division II) Oct. 26; Missouri Western, not ranked; Fort Hays State, 4th Oct. 12; Washburn, 18th Nov. 2; Pittsburg State, 8th Sept. 14; Emporia State, not rated; Missouri Southern, 2nd, Oct. 5; 12, 19; Kearney State, received votes.

Guessers tab Cats

Linebacker Steve Besch and freshman tight end Darin Blackburn have been tabbed for "Player of the Week" honors by the Second Guessers booster organization on the heels of their outstanding performances in the Wildcats' 36-19 loss to Missouri Southern.

Besch, a junior from Belmond, Iowa, logged a team-high 16 tackles (five solo) against the Tigers last Saturday.

Blackburn, a Malvern, Iowa native, snagged eight catches for 136 yards and one touchdown.

Several Wildcats still in races

Several Wayne State gridderers are still in the hunt for statistical honors as the season winds to a close this weekend, according to NAIA District 11 and CSIC data released this week.

Senior wide receiver Tom Wingert is third in the NAIA District 11 in receiving with an average of 13.2 yards per catch.

The CSIC figures things a little differently, though, by total reception yards per game, and has Wingert listed fifth with a 65.4 yards per game average.

Wingert is also sixth in District 11 and second in the CSIC in punt returns, with an 8.4 yards average.

Punter Ted Ragone is fifth in the CSIC in punting with a 37 yard average while he holds down the sixth spot in District 11.

Wildcat quarterback Tom Leitschuck is averaging 130.1 yards per outing in passing and is ranked fourth in the District 11 standings and sixth in the conference. He is fifth in the CSIC in total offense, accounting for 131.4 yards each game.

Injured (knee sprain) freshman I-back Rodney McClain is tenth in District 11 in rushing with a 34.3 yards per game average.

Sonny Jones took over the CSIC lead in kickoff returns from Missouri Western's Jeff Holland this week. Jones is carrying a 33.2 yards-per return average while Holland is averaging 32.2. Jones would lead the nation in the category, but he doesn't have enough returns to qualify for the 1.2 returns per game in order to be considered.

Holland is listed first in the nation (Division II) while Jones leads the district.

Mike Schmiedt is sixth in District 11 in kickoff returns with a 19.2 average.

Wildcat Keith Turner is second in District 11 in quarterback sacks with seven.

Turkey Trot sign-up

Registration for this Saturday's seventh annual Wayne Turkey Trot road race is running ahead of schedule, but there are still slots open, according to race director Pat Gross.

Sixty-three runners have signed up for the Turkey Trot's two events and 20 categories.

Gross said he expects more than 130 runners to compete this year. Late registration ($7 fee) will be held the day of the race at the Minschall Mall in downtown Wayne from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m.

For additional information, contact Pat Gross at 375-1132

Hoopsters in cellar?

Wayne State's men's and women's basketball teams are both pegged for last place finishes in the CSIC according to a poll of conference coaches and media representatives.

The media reps were asked to pick the order of finish for the men's teams, and defending champion Fort Hays State came out on top, garnering 11 of 12 first-place votes. The Ichabods of Washburn received the only other first place vote.

In a poll of CSIC women's basketball coaches, the Emporia State Hornets are picked to win the conference, narrowly edging Missouri Southern for the top slot.

Results of the voting, based on a 12-11-10-9 etc. scoring system for the men and an 8-7-6-5 etc. system for the women are listed below.

Wayne State choir agenda includes European tour

The Wayne State College choir will be participating in many significant activities this year, according to Dr. Cornell Runestad, Wayne State music professor.

The choir will perform at the 1983 State Convention of the Nebraska Music Educators Association on Saturday, Nov. 19 at Kearney State College.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln choir and Wayne State College choir were the only two choirs chosen to participate. Each school will give a 60-minute concert.

THE WSC choir also will be on tour the week of Nov. 13-19. They will perform at Wayne-Carroll High School, Lincoln Southeast High School, Columbus High School and Seward High School.

On Dec. 11, the choir will present its annual Christmas concert in Ramsey Theatre, located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. The concert is free and open to the public at 3 p.m.

The choir also will perform at the 12th annual Elizabethan Christmas Dinners, which will be held Dec. 15-18 in the north dining room in the WSC Student Center.

Tickets are $10.50 and are available at the Fine Arts Center Office or by writing WSC Christmas Dinner, Fine Arts Center, Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb., 68787.

THE CHOIR will wrap up its activities with its second European Concert Tour, tentatively set for May 15-30, 1984.

Runestad said 60 choir members will take part on the tour and perform in France, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

Area students who are members of the Wayne State choir include Maria Anderson of Hoskins; Lillian Winkel, Deena Sharer, Nick Steller, Tom Fletcher, Michelle Sherlock, Lisa Remer and Tim Thomas, all of Wayne; Steve Linn of Laurel; and Mark Creamer and Layne Johnson, both of Concord.

—DR. DONALD Whisenhunt, vice president at Wayne State College, has been notified by Garland Publishing, Inc. of New York that his new book, "The Depression in Texas: The Hoover Years," has just been published. The book is a completely revised version of his doctoral dissertation completed at Texas Tech University. It covers the history of Texas from the Stock Market Crash of 1929 until the inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in March 1933. The focus of the book is how the Great Depression affected Texas and how Texans reacted to the Depression. Whisenhunt also has been asked to serve on the Chamberlain Award Committee of the East Texas Historical Association for 1983-84.

—DR. JOHN Merriman, associate professor of health, physical education and recreation, was elected to the position of vice president elect of the Nebraska Alliance of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance at the state convention of the alliance in Omaha on Oct. 27. Merriman presented a paper on "The Lombardian Ethic" to the North American Society for the Sociology of Sport national convention in St. Louis, Mo. on Oct. 28.

"My colleagues at Wayne State College are very capable people and are good to work with," says Wayne Anderson, assistant professor of art.

He added that "the small size of the college allows one to get to know many students, including students outside of our own discipline."

Anderson, a print maker who has specialized in etching, is in his fourth year of teaching at Wayne State.

He earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of South Dakota in 1974, and a master's degree of fine arts from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1979.

THE SIOUX Falls, S. D. native has exhibited his art work throughout the United States, and has received awards in national and regional competitive exhibits.

His work also is represented in various public and private collections.

Anderson is a member of the College Art Association and the Mid-America College Art Association.

He combines his art work with his hobbies through photography, refinishing antiques, and building furniture.

He and his wife Linda have a 15-year-old daughter, Lori.

Brown bag lunch for non-traditional students

Non-traditional students at Wayne State College may bring their own lunch to the Senate room in the lower level of the Student Center on Tuesday, Nov. 15, and enjoy an informal hour with selected speakers.

The luncheon starts at noon. The fourth in a series of programs is entitled "Advising Tips for Non-Traditional Students," and the speaker will be Lin Brummels, director of academic counseling.

PURPOSE OF the program is to familiarize non-traditional students with the college.

Non-traditional students are defined as students over the age of 23, particularly married students, commuters, veterans, single parents, elderly students/senior citizens, adults exploring career changes, extended campus students, and women beginning college after raising families.

For more information about the program, contact Dr. Lupack or Donna Bliss at Wayne State, (402) 375-2200.

Wayne State College offering CLEP examination on Nov. 16

A program that enables persons to earn college credits by examination will be offered Nov. 16 at Wayne State College.

The College Level Examination Program (CLEP) provides students the option of earning college credit without enrolling in college courses. CLEP provides an opportunity to save both time and money in earning a college education.

Students wishing to participate must register on or before Nov. 14.

ANYONE CAN take CLEP exams and submit scores to one or more of 2,500 participating institutions.

To receive college credit at Wayne State, students must either be currently enrolled or have met WSC admission requirements.

Students can get a good overview of the areas they select to take a CLEP exam by obtaining a booklet titled "Guide to the CLEP Examinations" from the Student Services Office at the college.

The booklet can usually help decide if enough knowledge has been gained about particular academic areas to attempt the related CLEP examinations.

The booklet may be borrowed on an overnight basis or purchased for $5.

CREDIT received for CLEP is entered on a student's record without a grade, thereby not affecting grade point averages.

There is no official record entered if the CLEP exam is failed, and students can re-take the same exam again provided appropriate fees are paid.

Wayne State places no limit on the maximum number of credit hours earned through CLEP and taken before the senior year.

Each CLEP exam usually takes about 90 minutes to complete. (The fee for General and Subject Examinations is $28 per exam.)

Scores are reported to the student and the college within one week.

For more information contact the WSC Student Services Office-CLEP, (402) 375-2200, ext. 212.

Fall Care of Asparagus and Rhubarb

How well your perennial garden crops produce each spring depends to a large extent on the care they received the previous fall.

ASPARGUS — Apply a mulch, using grass clippings or materials from a compost. Place the clippings between, not directly on the plants.

RHUBARB — This perennial crop is easier to care for in fall. It should be fertilized with fresh manure, or commercial fertilizer.

Four Rules For Houseplants

Four basic houseplant rules involve water, light, fertilizer and soil mix.

1. Most vigorously growing plants will need repotting every year or two. Check the plant by gently rapping the pot on a table's edge.

2. Water thoroughly until water drains out the pot's bottom. Then allow the plant to dry out again before watering.

3. Proper fertilization is important. During winter plants are working less and need less food, so fertilize once every two months.

4. Plants need sufficient light. Although some plants enjoy or tolerate low light levels, most plants need all the light they can get during our short autumn and winter days.

Stock feeder show, sale set

The eighth annual stocker feeder show and sale will be held on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 25 and 26 at the Norfolk Live Stock Market in Norfolk.

The show and sale will feature a 4 H and FFA stocker feeder which they own. It doesn't have to be raised by the exhibitor but may be a calf which has been purchased this fall.

Animals will be shown in two classes: British breeds, crossbred and others. No calf shown in the 4 H or FFA division will be eligible to be shown in the open class "Pen of Three" show.

Computer workshop will be held

Is there a micro computer in your future? This is a question farmers are starting to ask themselves according to Don C. Spitzke, Wayne County extension agent.

Any farmer who is seriously interested in micro computer soon runs into the availability of software programs that are useful on Nebraska farms.

The Nebraska Microcomputer Association is sponsoring a users conference on Microcomputers in Agriculture at Kearney, Nov. 21 and 22. The two day conference is cram-full of information on computer programs that work on Nebraska farms.

If you are interested in attending this conference, contact The Wayne Extension Service for details.

Potential milk suppliers

Dairy goat popularity increasing

By Lauri Lynch

NU Ag Communications About 425 Nebraskans are keeping their kids in the barn. Kid goats, that is. Not to mention full grown nannies and billies, more properly called does and bucks.

Dairy goats appear to be increasing in popularity, and not just as pets, said Phil Cole, University of Nebraska extension dairyman.

Goats "are becoming a big industry nationwide," Cole said. "Although many people still keep goats strictly as pets," the specialist indicated, many Nebraskans are now considering the animals as a cross "between a working animal and a companion animal."

According to Cole, there are about 2,000 dairy goats in Nebraska today, making five the average herd size. And the industry will continue to grow, Cole anticipated, "but it won't take the place of anything — goats will move from companion to companion-plus items."

The reasons many, including the newly formed Nebraska Dairy Goat Association, are looking into ways to market dairy goats are numerous. Dairy goats are becoming increasingly popular as the "subcompact" of milk producing animals.

using their products," said Jamie Vogel of Gothenburg in a letter published in the Nebraska Dairy Goat Association newsletter. "And the demand for utilizing goats' milk in cheese processing is also growing, according to the specialist. The Ord Cheese Plant in Ord uses goat's milk," Cole said, "but they can't get quite enough yet." Producers are taking a serious look at using the milk for cheese, both publicly and privately, Cole said.

And although the public demand for dairy goat meat is relatively low now, Cole said, there is an indication that "some meat is being consumed at home." And there is a market for the goats' meat among the Nebraskan foreign population, he added.

"THE CONCERN of marketing the goats' milk and meat is relatively new," Cole said. "There is a steady demand for goats' milk in hospitals and for people who can't use cow's milk, for instance," Cole added.

Indeed, this is one reason many Nebraskans began raising dairy goats in the first place. "Our interest in goats started with a child that didn't tolerate cow's milk... (It) has grown because we like the animals and feel we are

PIK goals achieved, says ag economist

Even though the biggest problem was administering the Payment-in-Kind program, most of the original goals were achieved.

That is the opinion of Floyd Gaebler, agricultural economist and confidential assistant to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture William Leshner, author of the PIK program.

"Even though the program was quite difficult to administer," Gaebler said, "it was, in fact, the largest acreage diversion program in the history of this country."

Gaebler, in a recent appearance in Lincoln, said more than 197 million of the 231 million eligible base acres were taken out of production, and more than 80 million acres were put in conservation uses, "which is the most that farmers have put under conservation usage in one year."

THE PIK PROGRAM has helped the farm economy in two ways, according to Gaebler.

"It has offered the increased net income prospects for farmers because it has reduced the amount of planting and other costs they would have incurred otherwise," he said.

In addition, Gaebler said, "farm prices have gone up, along with the drought." And in some cases, he added, some values of commodities have gone up as much as 30 percent.

"I believe now with farmers receiving the equivalent of more than 8.5 billion dollars worth of commodities valued at the loan rate, they have in fact received the best form of insurance that you could ever have in terms of drought assistance."

In fact, he added, it will be more valuable "because the market value of that commodity has increased and farmers will be the recipient of that increased price."

ACCORDING TO Gaebler, the farmers of the PIK program fared in the possibility of a drought, but they didn't anticipate it. "That's one of those things agriculture is subject to. And that's why we were very careful in devising the program so we didn't cut too deep and short the market."

The idea, according to Gaebler, is to fry and get some form of a balance between supply and demand. And with the exception of wheat, "we've accomplished that." The carryover of wheat is 1.5 billion bushels, which is "well over the normal, necessary needs. That's why we do have a smaller, reduced PIK program for the 1984 wheat crop," he said.

There are sufficient levels of grain to meet needs, Gaebler said.

"Our stock carryovers are going to be lower at the end of this next crop year," Gaebler noted.

"But you have to realize that we did bring in record beginning stocks at 3.4 billion bushels. In addition, world supplies of corn and feed grains and other coarse grains are up above lower levels of previous years," Gaebler said he believes that there is enough grain to meet needs and, in the end, prices will ration usage.

As for the future of the PIK program or similar programs, Gaebler said three approaches can be taken.

"WE CAN continue to go on as we have with our current farm program where we implement acreage reduction or paid diversion programs," he said. According to Gaebler, this type of program has been somewhat successful when supply has been marginally out of balance with demand.

"However," he noted, "it's been obvious that they are not going to do the job when we had the serious surplus problem in 1982. And given the escalating costs of farm programs that now are going to approach $20 billion this year (fiscal year 1983), I think it's imperative that we look ahead at some different options."

Another avenue to take is a more mandatory approach, according to Gaebler. "We could implement mandatory farm control programs, or we could go with minimum price support approach," he said.

But, Gaebler said, "we don't believe that is the way to go." In the short run, he said, mandatory prices will benefit the agricultural sector. But in the long run, they will not.

"We will close ourselves off from the world markets because our market prices will be above the prevailing market levels. With that happening we will induce higher land prices, more input uses and surplus would be worse."

Another option, and the best, according to Gaebler, is a more market-oriented approach.

"We think there has to be more flexibility in farm policy so we can adjust target prices and loan rates that are in relation to the economic conditions. There's going to have to be more of a movement along that way if we intend to remain to be full-trading partners in the international sector," he said.

Condemned crib

THE LONG years and harsh weather have taken their toll on this old corn crib located west and south of Wayne. The weathered, rotting wood and rusty nails is what's left of what was once probably a well-constructed, useful corn crib.

A variety of species

Now's the time to buy shelterbelt trees

Nov. 1 was the kick off date for the annual Clarke-McNary Tree Distribution Program in Nebraska. Persons interested in purchasing trees for windbreaks, woodlots, Christmas trees, or wildlife habitats should be thinking about preparing for spring planting.

Now is the time to start planning and buying trees for the 1984 season. It is important to decide where to plant, what species to plant and to prepare the ground for planting.

Full planting is best for heavy soils with a sod cover. Next spring the plowed area should be divided. Six species of evergreens, nine species of broadleaf, seven species of shrubs and one pack of wildlife shrubs are available this year.

Now this year is the wildlife packet which contains 50 seedlings. The packet contains five species with 10 seedlings of each species. The species are: red cedar, green ash, skunk bush, mahaleb cherry and sand cherry. Mahaleb cherry and sand cherry are two new species.

Mahaleb cherry is a small to medium size tree growing to 15 to 20 feet tall. The cherries are small and ripen during July. They are edible but very tart.

Sand cherry is native to Nebraska. It is a small shrub growing to two to four feet tall. The cherries ripen between July and September and are edible.

Supplies of the wildlife packet are limited so order early. Price for the packet is the same as for 100 trees or shrubs.

All trees, shrubs and wildlife packets are available from Extension Service or Soil Conservation Service at a cost of $28 per hundred for trees or shrubs or one wildlife packet. Trees and shrubs must be ordered in multiples of 100. Telephone orders cannot be accepted, since a check and signature of buyer are required.

Order now because some species are extremely short (including the popular red cedar and the new wildlife packet.)

LEAD seminar set at Wayne State campus

The Wayne State College Public Affairs Institute will present a LEAD Seminar for the Nebraska Agricultural Leadership Council on the WSC campus from Nov. 20-22.

In addition to lectures and discussions by WSC professors in areas of geography, economics, and anthropology, there will be special presentations by U.S. Congressman Doug Bereuter of Nebraska, Bob Chitcoat of Stanton, and Gerald Muller of Concord, on the People's Republic of China, and Dr. Jim Horner who is the council executive vice president and executive director of the LEAD Program at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

THE LEAD Program (Leadership, Education, Action, Development) was developed by the Nebraska Agricultural Leadership Council. It is partially funded by the Kellogg Foundation and relies for additional support on other groups and foundations, such as the WSC Public Affairs Institute.

LEAD offers a two-year program of study and travel to assist future leaders of farming, ranching, and agribusiness to understand and deal with issues and policies that affect U.S. agriculture.

The LEAD program is a vehicle for LEAD fellows to gain knowledge of government of Nebraska at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on "Agriculture, Politics, and Economics." The second day's activities will close with a dinner presentation on "China" by Bob Chitcoat and Gerald Muller, local farmers and former LEAD fellows who have visited the People's Republic of China.

THE LEAD program is a vehicle for LEAD fellows to gain knowledge of government of Nebraska at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on "Agriculture, Politics, and Economics." The second day's activities will close with a dinner presentation on "China" by Bob Chitcoat and Gerald Muller, local farmers and former LEAD fellows who have visited the People's Republic of China.

The LEAD seminar will start on Sunday, Nov. 20 with registration at 1 p.m. and a welcome by WSC Vice President Dr. Don Whisenant.

Dr. Whisenant has a Ph.D. degree from Texas Tech University, and is professor of history. Other opening remarks will be presented by Dr. Jim Horner of LEAD, and Allen O'Donnell.

THE FIRST discussion will start at 2 p.m. led by Bob Foote, WSC associate professor of geography. Foote has an A.B. degree in history and an M.A.

degree in geography from the University of Illinois.

He has undertaken advanced studies at Michigan State University and his area of specialization includes Latin America, the Soviet Union, and historical geography. The first day's events will close at 6 p.m. with a dinner and an address by Congressman Doug Bereuter.

Starting at 8 a.m. on Monday, Nov. 21, Dr. Mohammad Massoudnia, assistant professor of economics at WSC, will lead a discussion on "Implications of the International Debt Problem."

Dr. Massoudnia has a Ph.D. degree from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. He is originally from Iran and specializes in International Economics and Economics of the Third World Countries.

The Monday afternoon discussion at 1 p.m. will be led by Dr. Bert Evans, professor of economics at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on "Agriculture, Politics, and Economics." The second day's activities will close with a dinner presentation on "China" by Bob Chitcoat and Gerald Muller, local farmers and former LEAD fellows who have visited the People's Republic of China.

THE FINAL day of the seminar will start with discussion at 8 a.m. on "East European collectivization" led by Dr. All Eminov, WSC associate professor of anthropology. Dr. Eminov has a Ph.D. degree from Indiana University and is originally from Bulgaria.

His primary interests include a focus on Eastern Europe and the Middle East, with emphasis on peasant society and culture, and cross-cultural ethnicity. The final discussion of the seminar "Sub-Saharan Africa" will be led by Dr. George Ajiloye, WSC assistant professor of Economics.

Dr. Ajiloye has a Ph.D. degree from the University of Manitoba, Canada, and is originally from Ghana, West Africa. He has served with the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank), and with the US AID Mission. Dr. Jim Horner of LEAD will give a "wrap-up" of the seminar at 1 p.m.

All events will take place in the north dining room of the student union. The seminar is closed to the general public.

the farmer's wife by pat melerhenry

One of the things I remember about my college days is how long some of my classes seemed to get, especially toward the end of the semester.

No matter how good the instructor was, or how interesting the subject, we simply got tired of the same person. Some of the instructors apparently sensed this monotony problem, and would occasionally have a "guest lecturer."

The guest was not always as proficient as the instructor, but it was refreshing to have a different style — a change of pace.

THEREFORE, AS a means of maintaining the interest of her readers, I have suggested to The Farmer's Wife that she have a guest writer. Where would she find someone who knows more about the things she writes about than the farmer himself?

First, I'd like to say that I'm really proud of her. I think a lot of people would like to be, and be capable of, writing a weekly column for about one year. It's a pretty big commitment and it's something that's hard to do.

I think that takes a special talent. Those of you who know Pat probably figure if she can write down half the things she finds to talk about, filling a weekly column is a breeze.

If I had a dollar for every time I've come into the house to make a quick phone call and found it in use or still warm I could pay off the national debt — or at least a big chunk of ours! I've already arranged with the undertaker to bury her with a book in one hand and a phone in the other.

I also enjoy writing. I was probably the only Ag College student who looked forward to the English course which developed writing skills. We had to write a theme or article every week.

Only problem was the teacher gave the driest, most-uninteresting lectures I'd ever heard. Never a guest speaker!

AT THE END of the semester she wrote a comment with my course grade saying I had the best average in the class but had skipped about my classes to get an A.

Like many others, I've always wanted to write a book. But to author one, you need a subject you know a lot about. Most of the books on the market today are about sex or violence, and I don't know much about either.

I could probably write "How to Get a Million Dollars in Debt." I would have to market it in an urban area though; every farmer already knows how to accomplish that.

The only help he needs is a banker who is impressed with his potential or lots of equity to go along with a little potential. If you don't know what equity is, take my advice and never get involved in farming.

I remember the tale of the old rancher who operated a fairly large spread saying, "It took me 30 years to acquire a million dollar debt; my son did it in seven."

I HAVEN'T actually achieved that level of distinction. It just seems that way when I pay the interest. Occasionally, when visiting with non-farm friends, the subject of income tax comes up.

If both are working, or one is in a field that commands a high salary, a complaint about the huge tax bite surfaces.

My standard answer is for offer to trade my annual interest bill for their tax bill. To date, I've had no takers.

Don't misunderstand, I enjoy farming. I believe it's the only place to raise a family. Farm kids seldom get into trouble for lack of something to do.

If I could only figure a way to make a living at it!

DIXON SCHOOL NOTES

A Halloween party was held at the Dixon school on Oct. 31. All the students came dressed in various costumes. Room mothers helping with the games and serving lunch which was provided by the students were Mrs. Lee Johnson, Mrs. Bob Dempster, Mrs. Charles Peters and Mrs. Kenny Strivens.

Parent-teacher conferences will be held today and tomorrow (Thursday and Friday). There will be no school those days.

Plans have been started to organize boys and girls basketball teams.

BEST EVER CLUB

Mrs. Regg Lubberstedt of Dixon hosted the Best Ever Club at her home the afternoon of Nov. 2. Eleven members were present. Mrs. Don Peters was the recipient of the door prize. The afternoon was spent visiting and playing cards. Plans were made for the annual Christmas potluck supper to be held at the Dixon St. Anne's Parish Hall on Sunday, Dec. 4 at 6 p.m. for all members and their families.

The first meeting in the new year will be Jan. 4 in the home of Mrs. Norman Lubberstedt.

RECOGNITION DAY

The Nebraska Community Improvement 20th annual Recognition Day was held Friday in Lincoln. Those from Dixon attending the workshops held throughout the day were Mrs. Norman Lubberstedt, Mrs. Jeff Hartung and Velma Dennis. Mrs. Dennis led the panel for youth development. The 6 p.m. banquet with 750 in attendance was held at Pershing Municipal Auditorium. John Young and Jeff Hartung of Dixon joined the ladies there.

Dixon received honorable mention in the five finalist towns of their size. They were presented a plaque and a monetary gift.

BIBLE STUDY

Those attending the Bible study the morning of Nov. 2 in the Garold Jewell home were Mrs. Wilmer Herfel, Martha Walton, Bessie Sherman, Mrs. Lawrence Fox, Rev. and Mrs. Anderson Kwankin, Mrs. K. R. Mitchell and Mrs. Leslie Noe. Mrs. Noe was the lesson leader.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

If you're 60 or over, you can help make America strong again.

Not so long ago, Americans were asked to pull together in a common effort. Everyone pitched in... bought liberty bonds, planted victory gardens, lived in a rationed world, and more. America survived. Our nation was strong and proud.

Today, America's strength is being sapped by foreign oil... barrel by barrel, dollar by dollar. And with our money goes our strength—forever.

We in the Nebraska Energy Office are asking Nebraskans 60 and over to come to the nation's aid once again. For America to win the energy war, we must reduce the amount of energy we use to heat and cool our homes. And you can help.

As many as one in three Nebraskans 60 and over can receive free weatherization of their homes because they meet the income requirements of the United States Department of Energy. We'd like to help you find out whether you qualify. Just take a few minutes to write or phone the Nebraska Energy Office. You can be a hero again.

First down, Army!

AN ARMY UH1H transport helicopter "lines up" on the Winside High School football field last Friday morning. The chopper, one of the Army's "medium lift" workhorses, was flown to Winside and Pierce high schools from Fort Riley, Kan. as part of a recruiting promotion to demonstrate various educational and technical career opportunities in the Army.

A towering experience

TOWERING ABOVE the community of Allen are these workers as they work Monday afternoon to remove the original wooden roof on the community's water tower. The roof, which residents estimate was constructed around 1906, will be replaced with a new metal roof.

WAYNE COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska
November 1, 1983
The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, November 1, 1983 in the Commissioners Room of the Wayne County Courthouse. Roll call showed Board Members Pospisil, Beiermann and Nissen and Clerk Morris present. Advance notice of this meeting was published in The Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper on October 27, 1983.

Motion by Nissen and seconded by Beiermann that whereas the Clerk has prepared copies of the minutes of the last regular meeting for each Commissioner and that each Commissioner has had an opportunity to read and study same that the reading of the minutes be dispensed with and declared approved. Roll call vote: Beiermann Aye, Nissen Aye, Pospisil Aye, No Nays.

The following officers reports of fees collected during the month of October and remitted to State and County Treasurers were approved as follows:

County Road Superintendent, Sidney Saunders, meet with the Board to discuss road work record books.

All bills that had been received on a 1984 Police Cruiser were approved. Bills were as follows: Mike Perry Chev. CRIS 32777.00 with trade in and Ellington Motors, Inc. $2400.00 with trade in. On motion by Beiermann, seconded by Nissen, the bid of Mike Perry Chev. Olds was accepted, for the reason that the bid of Ellington Motors, Inc. did not meet specifications. Roll call vote: Beiermann Aye, Nissen Aye, Pospisil Aye, No Nays.

LeRoy Janssen, County Sheriff, came before the Board to report that the State Department of Corrections has directed that the Wayne County Sheriff's Department provide an exercise area for prisoners confined to the Wayne County Jail. This matter was tabled at the present time.

A representative of the State Fire Marshall's Office reported to the Board from that office on matters pertinent to the order sent to Wayne County to comply with regulations of the State Fire Marshall on the condition of the Courthouse. County Attorney Robert Enns, informed the Board that, by statute, he will have to represent the State Fire Marshall in this action.

On motion by Beiermann and seconded by Nissen, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that State National Bank & Trust Co., Wayne, Nebraska, be permitted to withdraw the following securities, held in escrow by Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, Omaha, Neb. (Trustee) to secure deposits in this County in said bank, to wit: LAUREL, NE SD BIDS # 15 76 due 11 18 82 #2731 at $M. Bad Winter Ahead? Here's Safe Advice

Sudden winter storms can be a major cause of broken power lines. If you encounter a broken line this winter, here are good rules to follow: (1) Report the location to your power supplier immediately. (2) Never touch the broken wire or anything that is in contact with it. (3) Make sure other people and livestock stay away. Above all, don't take chances. Assuming that a broken power line is "dead" can be a fatal mistake.
