School district gets high grade

By LaVon Anderson
Residents of the Wayne-Carroll school district can be proud of an excellent school system.

That was the upshot of an "exit" report presented Thursday afternoon by members of an external visitation team which spent two days evaluating the school system.

The team's visit on Wednesday and Thursday culminated self evaluation of the school which is conducted every seven years.

During their two-day stay, team members, comprised of about 30 persons outside the school district, spent time in the classrooms and reviewed elementary and secondary curriculums, student services, facilities, board policies, staff and community philosophies, etc.

"OUR GOAL IS to make an excellent school system a little better," said Dr. Don Niemann of the State Department of Education.

Niemann, who served as chairman of the visitation team, said there was a common consensus among members of the team that Wayne-Carroll is an excellent school system.

"That was a unanimous opinion of the team," Niemann said, adding that although the "exit" report contains areas of concern, residents of the district, along with the administration and staff, should keep in mind that the concerns in no way equal the commendations.

NIEMANN, speaking in the high school lecture hall before a small crowd comprised mostly of school administration, staff and board members, said time did not allow a complete listing of all the commendations.

Niemann emphasized that Thursday's "exit" report was just a "rough outline" of observations made during the team's visit.

He said observations made by each team member will be compiled in a comprehensive written report and returned to the district in approximately four to six weeks.

FOUR REPRESENTATIVES of the team were present for Thursday's "exit" report and gave their observations in the areas of elementary education, secondary education, student services, and administrative, staff and community philosophies, etc.

Addressing the audience in the area of elementary education was Linn Everett of Milliken Park Elementary School in Fremont.

"You're going to be really proud that in the area of elementary education we have four positive statements and only two that may not be," said Everett.

Everett commended the administration and staff of elementary schools in both Wayne and Carroll and said team members found them open and caring. "They have created an excellent educational climate," said Everett.

Everett also recognized the excellence of the media library and said students appeared to be very responsive. "Students were obviously enjoying the facilities and learning from them," he said, adding "that's a very good plus."

Everett also commended the elementary enrichment program, including the use of Junior Great Books, and the Chapter I program, which offers both remedial reading and math.

AREAS OF concern outlined by Everett included use of the Wayne elementary lunchroom for purposes not related to elementary education, including its use as a lunchroom for senior high school students.

"We feel that perhaps the lunchroom could be released more for other purposes related to the education of the elementary students," said Everett.

Everett also recommended that the district establish a K-12 computer screening committee as soon as possible and have the elementary schools represented on the committee.

ADDRESSING THE audience in the area of secondary education was Jerry Neely of Norfolk Public Schools.

"I must commend you for a superb variety of course offerings at the secondary level," began Neely, adding that the course offering surpasses those of many other schools in the state and provides students the opportunity for choice.

Neely also praised the preparation of staff members and said he was impressed with the enthusiasm and the teachers' abilities to motivate students.

"I got the feeling you really care," he said.

Neely said other areas in which he was impressed included the "excellent" rapport among staff and administration, the student-teacher ratio, upkeep of the school, media and resource materials, the school board, and Wayne Community Advisory Council.

SUGGESTIONS made by Neely included taking a look at the school schedule, including the seven period day, and forming a curriculum committee.

"I openly suggest that you take a long, hard look at your schedule," said Neely, adding, "we are not necessarily making any recommendations for change."

Neely said that while there appeared to be excellent transition between fourth- and fifth-grade from elementary to middle school, it seemed to be lacking between the eighth and ninth grade from middle school to high school.

In addition, Neely recommended that the administration and school board study the present system of evaluation of teachers and use the evaluations to help teachers motivate students.

IN THE AREA of student services, Dr. Edward Klima of Burke High School in Omaha said very fine organization persists particularly in the areas of counseling and guidance.

"This is very important and certainly does exist here," he said, pointing out the flexibility of services provided.

Klima also commended the school's special education program, highly qualified staff, and use of outside agencies in implementing the program.

In addition, Klima praised the library media and said there is a long history of excellence in that area.

He said he also was impressed with a study being conducted of use of micro-computers in the library.

"IF YOU HAVE a few thousand dollars you might consider placing carpeting in the elementary library," suggested Klima, adding that it would help to create a better atmosphere of learning.

He also suggested that elementary teachers accompany their students when they visit the library.

In addition, Klima suggested changing the schedule of days Carroll youngsters visit the elementary library in Wayne to the middle of the week because of the many holidays and vacations which fall at the beginning or end of the school week.

Klima also recommended that the librarian serve on a curriculum textbook committee to give her better insight of what books to place in the library.

"ONE OF THE greatest assets of the school system is the happy, articulate student body," Klima said.

Klima said he was particularly impressed with student feedback he and other members of the team received.

"The students are well informed and they are proud of their school," said Klima, adding "that's a great strength and a quality to maintain."

Klima said he also was impressed by the number of teachers, particularly at the high school level, who serve as coaches or sponsors in addition to their teaching duties.

Klima suggested that the school make a survey of students to see what interests they might have in the formation of new clubs within the school.

"The students can benefit by seeing

7 music students chosen for state clinic

Seven students from Wayne High School have been selected to participate in the annual State Music Clinic/In-service Conference Thursday, Friday and Saturday (Nov. 17-19) at Kearney High School.

One student, junior Becky Schmidt, was chosen first chair clarinet for the band.

Wayne High Band Director Ron Dalton said approximately 40 clarinets are usually selected and Becky was selected number one in that group from auditions which included hundreds.

JOINING BECKY in the band is senior Julie Anderson as bass clarinet.

Selected to participate in orchestra were sophomores Kurt Runestad for violin and David Zahnisser for cello.

Chosen to participate in the chorus were junior Mary Sieler (soprano), junior Chris Hillier (tenor) and senior David Remer (tenor).

Students were selected by individual audition to participate in the honor groups. Some 700 music students and approximately 1,200 teachers will attend the annual clinic and conference.

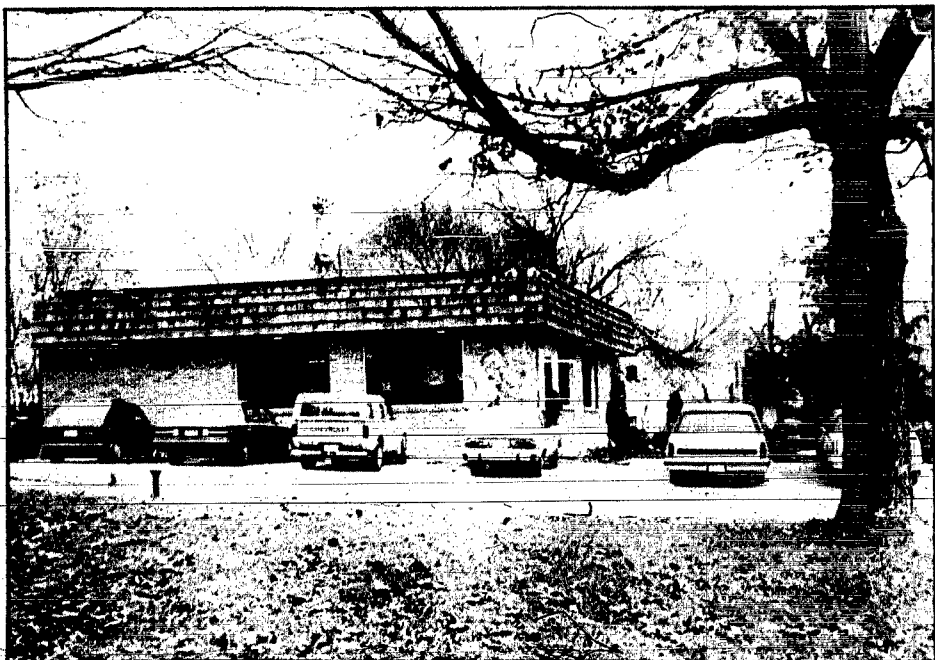

WAYNE HIGH music instructors Ron Dalton and Rob Stuberger both said selection to the elite group is really an honor for the students.

The students will rehearse on Thursday, Friday and Saturday for a final concert planned at 7:30 p.m. Saturday (Nov. 19) in Kearney State's Cushing Coliseum. While the students rehearse, teachers will attend workshops and meetings.

According to Dalton and Stuberger, the band will be made up of about 150 students, the choir of about 415 and the orchestra of about 100.

The students will be housed in homes at Kearney. Nationally known conductors will conduct the main concert.

Old-fashioned malt glasses, sundae dishes and banana split bowls are making a comeback in Wayne. Those are just some of the things in store for customers at Popos II, a restaurant located at 705 Logan Street. Jim and Marci Thomas recently purchased the business which was formerly The Tractor.

Popos II opened Sunday and manager Jim Thomas said the business has been real busy. He and Marci also own the original Popos, which is located in Pender.

ONE OF THE selling points of Popos II is a special menu for children under 10 and senior citizens 65 and older. Those customers can purchase their meals for nearly half the cost of the regular menu.

Free mini ice cream cones also are included in the special menus.

Customers are invited to call in orders. They can then come to the drive up window and pick up the orders without leaving their cars. The telephone number is 375-4472.

The Popos menu includes many of its own special recipes. On the lunch menu are burgers, various types of hot dogs, and sandwiches which include roast beef, hot ham, fish, chicken fillet and bacon, lettuce and tomato, French fries, gems, homemade onion rings, chili and soup.

THE DINNER menu includes spaghetti with homemade sauce, shrimp, chicken, chicken strips and other items. Thomas said a taco salad with a pita shell also will be offered.

On the list of desserts are homemade pie, homemade brownies and various ice cream desserts including Ruffnecks and Snow Whites, which are fancy sundaes. Popos II seats between 65 and 70 customers and will feature photos of food items, Thomas said. A new Popos sign should be arriving soon.

Thomas said the business will employ about 18 workers. Many new workers have been hired, he said. At the present time, Popos II is opening just after 7 a.m. and serving breakfast. Business hours are not yet definite.

Governor meets press

The governor's task forces were successful in gathering information but their findings are only as successful as the state's politicians allow them to be, Nebraska Governor Bob Kerrey said Thursday afternoon.

Addressing representatives of 22 newspapers and radio stations in northeast and north central Nebraska, Kerrey discussed his feelings and philosophies on various subjects.

Members of the media were on the telephone with the governor during a 30 minute tele conference.

The Wayne Herald and KTCH Radio of Wayne were among the participants. The conference was an effort to uphold Kerrey's philosophy to remain accessible to the media.

The governor said he hopes to put the task force recommendations into effect.

Kerrey spoke about the budget, studies done by his task forces, education, industry and other subjects.

He said he will propose formation of the Small Business Equity Capital Corporation when the Legislature convenes.

That was one of the recommendations of a state task force.

Record total collected in Honey Sunday drive

A record $1,017.30 was collected during the annual Honey Sunday drive held Nov. 6 by the Wayne County Association for Retarded Citizens.

According to Chris Gentrup, ARC Wayne County chapter president, the drive was a coordinated effort of both ARC members and community volunteers.

"We had tremendous support from the Wayne community and Wayne State students," Gentrup said. Boy Scouts, Delta Sigma Pi fraternity, and Kappa Delta Gamma sorority provided much of the leg work, going door-to-door throughout Wayne and surrounding areas.

Wayne's Honey Sunday drive was part of a state-wide effort to raise funds for the Nebraska ARC. All money collected in the drive is used to fund local programming for persons with mental retardation.

Projects include citizen advocacy, respite care and a variety of other activities. In addition, funds help coordinate legislative activities that affect the lives of Nebraska's 45,000 mentally retarded children and adults.

Anyone still interested in purchasing the eight-ounce jars of honey should call 375-4969.

Seeking homes for the needy

While many people take living at home with their families for granted, there are many individuals who are not able to live at home for some reason. Often, persons with developmental disabilities must move from their homes to obtain appropriate education or other necessary services. Rather than having these individuals live in an institution or placing them on a lengthy waiting list for a group home in the community, the preferred option is to find families with whom to place them. These families receive training and support to assist them and financial benefits to offset expenses. For more information, contact Joni Langemeier or Betty Dahlquist by calling 375-4884.

eddie's brother

by randy hascall

Nothing quite matches the presence of autumn in the country. As you are snuggled in a blanket, rays of sunshine peak in the bedroom window and then dance a jig across the room. Down the wall, across the blanket and onto your face they creep. A new day has begun. From the kitchen, the welcome smell of frying bacon and brewing coffee wind their way to your room, bringing your taste buds to life. The distant crowing of a proud rooster can be heard in the barnyard as the farm animals begin their day.

In the large garden patch are spray-painted with a thin, sparkling layer of frost. As you open the weathered, rough barn door, the rusted hinges creak to warn the pigeons that you approach. A familiar purr comes forth from the pile of loose, golden straw and a bright-eyed, young, yellow tom cat playfully pounces from the straw, attacking your shoe laces.

You pour a glassful of warm milk in to a cold, tin sardine can and the cat laps it up, wetting its face with small drops of the creamy liquid.

Around the barn, darkness is still in control with unsettled dust highlighted by the few rays of sunlight that sneak in through small holes in the walls.

In the small cattle lot, a handful of heifers gather around the ice-covered water tank, waiting for a drink.

Grabbing a crow bar from the garage, you become their hero, coming to their rescue to break a large hole in the thick layer of ice. The heifers push and shove, fighting for the water rights.

All of the farm animals impatiently await their turn for your attention. It's feeding time for many. Chores have just begun.

Later that day, you walk to the hen house to gather eggs. As you near, one set of nests, a fluffed-up hen shoots from her nest, leaving behind a warm, fresh egg.

She is later rewarded when you fill the feeder with cracked corn. In the nearby pasture, a jackrabbit jumps up out of the grass and darts across the hillside.

Brothers and sisters, dressed in nylon jackets and hooded sweatshirts, play catch with a football in the yard.

Sometimes a "game saving" tackle is made in a pile of leaves and the crispy ones are stuffed down the back of the ball carrier.

Occasionally someone ventures near the apple tree and flings a semi-rotten apple at a brother or sister.

The short day passes quickly and shadows once again become long, ugly creatures lurking near the trees and buildings.

The sun falls toward the western horizon, leaving behind a bright orange cast.

Soon darkness invades and smolders the countryside.

A large, bright ball rises in the sky, sending moon beams to break the solid blackness of the night.

Sparrows take shelter under the eaves of the barn. A flashlight detects the glowing eyes of a possum sneaking around near the hen house.

The country is filled with quiet after a hectic day on the farm.

Perched high in a large hackberry tree, an old, wise hoot owl tells all creatures that he now rules the farm. Another autumn day has passed.

Not much choice

A day without free enterprise

What would a day in your life be like without the Free Enterprise System?

7 a.m.—Time to start the day with a glass of orange juice or a cup of coffee. Sometimes not "top notch" but you won't know that, since you've never had the opportunity to select from different brands competing for your preference.

8 a.m.—Off to work. Many of the jobs you perform today won't exist for there is no opportunity for growth or profit and no incentive to create jobs.

10 a.m.—You have an appointment with the doctor. You may not need to bring money—however you probably won't have much choice in who treats you or in the quality of treatment you receive.

12 noon—Lunch time. There's a restaurant just down the street. Food's not particularly good and the menu has been the same for the past eight months—but since there are few choices it doesn't really make much difference.

3 p.m.—Time to pick up the kids. You are the only one on the block with a vehicle. Oh, the Jones ordered one 12 months ago and they'll help out when it comes in, meanwhile.

7 p.m.—TV time. No advertising to interrupt your favorite show. In fact, there won't be too many favorite shows. Tonight there is a report on the classless society.

11 p.m.—Bedtime, and you can't understand why you're always so bored, no rest for life, never anything challenging to look forward to.

Is this an over-simplified version of life without the Free Enterprise System? Too dramatic? Too pessimistic?

Perhaps, but before you answer, think about it for a while. Is the competitive system, free choice, your right to decide what quality of life you wish for yourself and your family, how you will live, what you will buy and what you will pay—is freedom itself important to you?

ask a lawyer

a public service of the nebraska state bar association

Q: Is joint tenancy the same as tenants-in-common? If not, which is the better way to own property?

A: No, they are not the same. Both joint tenancy and tenancy in common are methods by which two or more persons can own property together, but each method establishes different rights for the owners.

Owning property in joint tenancy with another person establishes a "right of survivorship" interest in that property.

In other words, when one joint tenant dies, his or her share of the property passes directly to the other joint tenant(s) rather than being passed on according to his or her will, or according to state law.

Joint tenancy is frequently used by a husband and wife owning property together, so that when one dies the property passes immediately to the other.

Owning property with another person as "tenants in common" does not establish a survivorship interest. Each is the sole owner of his or her share of the property, and upon one owner's death, that share passes on according to the deceased's will or according to state law if there is no will.

For example, if a brother and sister own land as tenants in common and the brother dies, his share would not go directly to the sister but would be passed on according to his will, or according to state law if there is no will.

As to which is the "better" way to own property, that depends upon how you want your property distributed in the event of your death.

There are certain tax considerations with each method of ownership, and you may want to talk to your attorney about which method would be most advantageous based upon your own needs and wishes.

For a more detailed explanation of joint tenancy and other survivorship, write "Ask a Lawyer," P.O. Box 7579, Lincoln 68502, and request a free single copy of the new "Joint Tenancy" pamphlet recently published by the Nebraska State Bar Association.

Turkey talk

It's that time of year again when the talk turns to turkey. As the holidays approach you may be counting family members and debating whether you need a 10 or 15 pound bird.

A nice alternative to the whole turkey is to buy turkey parts. Whole turkey is still the all time favorite, but, surprisingly, over half of the turkey consumed in the United States is in some form other than whole turkey.

THE ADVANTAGES of using turkey parts are many. Small families can have their turkey and not be eating leftovers for the next week. You can also purchase the type of meat family members prefer.

It also can solve the old problem of only having two drumsticks or one wishbone to fight over.

Turkey parts will generally take less time and space to roast than will the whole bird.

Whatever form of turkey you choose, keep in mind that turkey is a tender, delicate cut of meat. It should not be overcooked. Most cookbooks have a roasting chart based on pounds of meat that you can consult.

Or, you can roast the turkey until a meat thermometer registers 170 degrees to 175 degrees Fahrenheit. Slow roasting in a 325 degree Fahrenheit oven until the meat is just done will help to prevent drying of the white meat.

AN IMPORTANT part of your holiday meal is cooking the food safely.

Each year you hear the same warnings about food safety and preventing food poisoning. There's good reason for these repeated warnings. Each year people become ill because they did not heed the warnings.

Thaw your turkey in the refrigerator for maximum safety. It may take up a lot of space for several days if the bird is large, but it is worth the bother.

You can also thaw the meat in an airtight wrapper by immersing in cold water. The water must be changed frequently to insure that it remains cold.

The average temperature in your home is not only comfortable to you, it is very hospitable to bacteria and they grow quickly in partially thawed meat.

You may have followed other practices for years and had no ill effects. Remember that it is your choice and there is a safer way.

YOU CAN STUFF your turkey if you choose. Do not use any utensil that has contacted the raw bird in other food preparation without washing the utensil in hot, soapy water.

Clean the turkey cavity, stuff and begin roasting the bird immediately. Do not stuff the turkey the night before.

Remember that the stuffing must also reach an internal temperature of 170 to 175 degrees Fahrenheit.

Because the stuffing is dense you may risk overcooking the turkey to get the stuffing completely done. You might season the turkey cavity with herbs instead of using stuffing for a better flavor.

AFTER YOUR family has savored the delicious meal, you have one more task. Refrigerate all leftovers as soon as possible.

Work off some of the heavy meal and keep your food safe. The upset stomach you blamed on eating too much last year may have been a mild case of food poisoning.

The old cliché of better safe than sorry is never more true.

For answers to your turkey or food preparation questions, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office at No. 75-3310 in the courthouse basement.

Wakefield's state bid cut short by St. Pat's

One team had the luck of the Irish during the battle between the Wakefield and North Platte St. Pat's in opening round action of the State Class C-1 Volleyball tournament Thursday night at Lincoln High School — and it wasn't the Trojans.

In fact, Wakefield seemed hexed. After jumping out to a commanding 12-4 lead, the Trojans gave up an unbelievable 15 straight unanswered points to the Irish Lassies and went on to lose the first set 15-13. The Irish rolled after that and took the second set 15-11 to advance to the semi-finals.

Wakefield coach Mary Schroeder was as stunned after the loss as the scores of Trojan followers who traveled to Lincoln for Wakefield's first appearance in the tourney since 1975.

"We just didn't pass very well (after jumping ahead 12-4)," Schroeder said. "We had seven or eight bad passes in a row without the pass, you can't hit the ball."

A spike attempt by senior Shelley Krusemark went into the net to give St. Pat's the serve while trailing 12-4.

The Irish then caught fire and Wakefield turned to ice.

Nothing seemed to go right for the Wakefield as several Trojan hits were ruled out of bounds on judgement calls.

The Irish, on the other hand, led by the heady play of junior Kelly Rousee, countered with precision hits each time Wakefield was ruled out of bounds.

St. Pat's continued to live on the fault line and tied the score at 12 as a Chata Repetto serve was just inches inside the line.

The Trojans called a time out, but the momentum shift by that time was too strong in St. Pat's favor and the Irish sealed the win as a Wakefield dink went out of bounds.

The second set saw the Trojans with first serve, but they seemed stunned by the developments of the first set and never returned to their flawless form they exhibited in the early moments of the first set — the same form that saw them bowl over Tekamah in the regional playoffs.

Wakefield managed to stay in the game and the score stood at 5-4 in St. Pat's favor at one point. But the Trojans were off balance and couldn't seem to get on the right track.

Methodically, the Irish pulled away to a 14-4 lead before a spark ignited a furious Wakefield rally that saw the Trojans pull to 14-11.

It was apparent that a minor miracle would be needed to snag a win at that point, however St. Pat's lashed back and patiently withstood Wakefield's onslaught.

The teams staged one of the best volleys of the night before St. Pat's Chris Bennett bashed a spike over center net to give the Irish the serve.

Bennett wasn't through. She dinked the ball over a minute later to give the Irish the 15-11 win. The St. Pat's faithful erupted in a celebration that turned ancient Johnson Gym into an echo chamber. Wakefield's fans, on the other hand, had to swallow the defeat after coming so close to a state title.

Statistically, Wakefield was led in the serving department by Krusemark, who went 8 for 8, and Lana Erb, who made good on all 12 of her attempts.

Michele Meyer (6 for 7), Julie Oswald (4 for 6) and Brenda Jones (6 for 6) also paced the Trojans.

The spiking department was paced by Kelly Greve's 10 for 10, two ace performance. Erb went 5 for 8 with one ace while Krusemark was 15 for 20 with seven aces. Heidi Schopke was perfect on three at temps.

Erb did all of Wakefield's setting, and was 47 for 49 on the night. Schroeder was quick to praise St. Pat's

"They were a scrappy bunch," she said. "They have a lot of talent."

She was quicker with praise for her team. "The girls made a good showing — they worked super hard. Those girls deserve it," Schroeder said.

"We were just as good as they were," she added. "If a few of the breaks would have gone the other way, we'd have been right in there."

Schroeder also expressed gratitude to Wakefield's fans.

"The fans and the enthusiasm at the school was just super," she said. "The girls really appreciated that."

"We must have outnumbered St. Pat's three to one in the stands tonight."

The Trojans lose nine seniors to graduation: Karla Stelling, Michele Meyer, Shelley Krusemark, Kiela Lund, Lana Erb, Kelly

Greve, Heidi Schopke, Cari Johnson and Brenda Jones. That group of athletes graduates without a state title, but knowing that they were one of the eight best teams in the state — that's a good memory.

Wildcat men and women roundballers set to open

Concordia is first foe

Coach Rick Weaver's fourth edition of the Wildcats will open the 1983-84 season this Thursday at the NAIA District 11 Basketball Classic. The tourney includes 10 teams and will be played at two sites.

The teams will each play one game at Kearney State on Thursday and one on Friday and then travel to Kearney State for one game on Saturday.

The Wildcats (12-23 last season) open against Concordia College on Thursday in a 5 p.m. contest, while they are slated to meet Hastings College on Friday at 3 p.m.

Saturday will see the Cats in action at Kearney against Doane College in a 5 p.m. game.

The Concordia Bulldogs split with the Cats last year, winning 71-67 in overtime in the first meeting but bowing to Wayne

State 91-77 the second time around.

Friday's contest will pit the Cats against a veteran Hastings team. The Broncos return a host of players, including 6'7 center Jeff Hayes and 6'5 forward Dave Fletcher.

Doane College boasts 6'8 forward center Steve Barbeck, a pre season All America prospect. Barbeck averaged 23.8 points and 11 rebounds per outing last season and is one of seven returning Tiger lettermen.

Wayne State plays its first six games on the road. The Cats are at Peru State on Nov. 22 and travel to meet the University of Northern Iowa, an NCAA Division One school, on Nov. 26. The Wildcats play Dana College on Nov. 29 at Borup Coliseum in Blair.

The home opener is Dec. 1 against Concordia.

Lady Cats open in Fremont

Coach Jan Jursak will begin her third season as mentor of the Lady Wildcats as Wayne State opens the 1983-84 season Nov. 18 in the NAIA Pre Season Classic, hosted by Midland Lutheran College in Fremont.

The Cats, who posted a 15-19 mark last season, start this year with a 6 p.m. contest against the Lady Broncos of Hastings College on Nov. 18. The Wildcats will play the Bulldogs of Concordia College the following day at 8 p.m.

Wayne State split its games with the two schools last year, falling to Hastings (71-70) early in the season while downing Concordia 57-52 in the District 11 playoffs held at Wayne State's Rice Auditorium.

Much like their male counterparts, the Lady Wildcats will remain on the road for all of November. After the District 11 Classic, the Cats travel to Crete for a Nov. 22 contest against Doane College.

November 29 will find the Wildcats, in St. Joseph, Mo. to open CSIC action against the Lady Griffons of Missouri Western.

Wayne State is then scheduled to play Midland College last year's District 11 champs in Fremont on Dec. 1.

The Wildcat's finally open at home on Saturday, Dec. 3 against Peru State College in a 7:30 contest at Rice Auditorium.

Limit on deer permits

Some deer hunters have apparently misunderstood a new, liberalized deer permit policy and have applied for more permits than the law allows, according to Ken Johnson, chief of the Game and Parks Commission's Wildlife Division.

"A hunter is still limited to two deer permits per year, just like past years," Johnson said. "That's the key to the whole thing. This year, the Commission allowed the option of either two deer permits or two archery permits."

He said some hunters have apparently misunderstood the new regulations, and have applied for a pair of archery permits after they had received a firearm license.

"If they already have a firearm permit, then they're entitled to just one archery permit," Johnson concluded.

Wildcat netters finish season

The Wayne State Wildcats volleyball team wrapped up the 1983 season with a 21-19 record under the direction of first-year head coach Marilyn Strale.

The Cats topped off the season with a 15-5, 15-2, 15-13 drubbing of Northeast Technical Community College of Norfolk on Nov. 4.

It was the last collegiate appearance for the four graduating seniors on the squad: Ann Montag, Diane Wachholtz, Becky Frahm and Bobbi Gierman.

The Cats finished with a 5.9 mark in the Central States Intercollegiate Conference, giving them a fifth place finish behind Missouri Western, Missouri Southern, Kearney State and Pittsburg State.

Fort Hays State, Emporia State and Washburn University rounded out the standings.

Sophomore Pam Gogan finished seventh in the CSIC in blocking, followed by teammate Diana Asay (10th).

Wayne native Jill Zeiss was the only other Wildcat to finish in the conference standings, with a ninth place ranking in assists.

Overall team leaders in the Wildcats' statistics included Bobbi Gierman, who led the team in spiking with 109 downed spikes and tied junior Beth Erickson for the lead in blocks, with 62.

Erickson was the team's second best spiker, with 105 downed spikes.

Zeiss topped the charts in both service points and assists with 201 points and 408 assists for the year.

Frahm finished the season with 311 assists and 172 points.

Asay finished her first year with the Cats near the top in several categories. She was second in scoring with 197 points, third in blocks with 56 and tied for fourth in spiking with 98.

Pam Gogan came off a knee injury to finish third in spiking (102 ace spikes) and fourth in blocking (47).

Season highlights included a first place finish in the Briar Cliff Invitational Tournament in Sept. and a third place spot in the state school division of the NAIA District 11 volleyball playoffs held at Wayne State Nov. 1.

Overin gives rec roundball schedule

Wayne city recreation director Hank Overin has announced the schedule for this year's Men's City Rec. Basketball League, which will begin practice next Monday, Nov. 21.

The program will be divided into three divisions. A League — players 19 to 26 years old. B League — players 27 to 34 years old. C League — players 35 and over.

All new players in the program and all those players not notified by Overin through the mail should sign up at the City Auditorium at the first practice sessions listed below:

A League — Monday, Nov. 21 at 7 p.m.
 B League — Tuesday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m.
 C League — Wednesday, Nov. 23 at 7 p.m.

Overin said the first two weeks of the program will be strictly for practice, with league play starting on Monday, Dec. 5.

Overin said faculty members at Wayne State College are eligible to join the league. Wayne State students are not eligible to participate because they have access to the college's intramural program. Overin added that Wayne High School grads and former league players are eligible to play in the rec program, however.

New course
"Como se llama usted?" If you are having some trouble figuring out what this question is asking then you are probably not one of the 27 students enrolled in Wayne High's newest course, Spanish. The class is taught by Mrs. Marta Victor of rural Wayne.

Mrs. Victor graduated from Wayne State College in December of 1981 with a double major in English and Spanish. She student taught in the Randolph schools.

During the first quarter of the school year the students began by learning the basics. This was done by repeating dialogues aloud and deciphering simple paragraphs. At the end of the quarter the students had a vocabulary of about 750 Spanish words.

During the second quarter there will be more emphasis on grammar and usage. Spanish speaking countries will also be studied by students' individuality, and reported on to the rest of the class. Pen pals are being contacted in these countries.

Mrs. Victor is planning a Spanish club second semester. In the club, Spanish culture and traditions will be explored. There is also hope for second year Spanish next year.

Senior government trip

Sixty-eight Wayne High seniors attended the informative trip to Lincoln organized as part of their government class, on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

First, the students met with Chief Justice Norman Krivosha in the Nebraska Supreme Court chambers located at the capital. Chief Justice Krivosha informed the seniors about the court proceedings. He also spoke about law and determining the law, saying, "Law is not a science — it is an art." He then freely answered questions by the students.

Next, the students learned about the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature in the legislative chambers with Senator Don Wesley from Lincoln. He explained the system of our legislature and encouraged citizen participation.

In the afternoon, the seniors toured the Diagnostic and Evaluation Center in Lincoln. This is a center where all males found guilty of a crime in Nebraska are sent to be evaluated before being sentenced.

All-State musicians

On Saturday, Oct. 8, 13 Wayne High School students representing band, choir, and orchestra tried out for the annual Nebraska Music Educators Association Conference Clinic — know to the students as All-State.

The music students competed at Creighton for positions in the clinic. The tryouts are open to junior and senior students in high school band or choir and may start on the sophomore level in orchestra.

The results were received eagerly by the participants. For the choir, the results came a week after tryouts; for the band and orchestra, just recently. The students who were accepted for choir are Mary Sieler, junior soprano, Chris Hillier, junior first tenor, and Dave Remer, senior first tenor.

David Melton, senior second tenor, and Rod Porter, senior baritone, were named alternates. For the band, Julie Anderson, senior bass clarinet, fifth chair, and Becky Schmidt, junior clarinet first chair were accepted. Named as alternates were Gregg Elliott, junior saxophone, and Karl Mann, senior French horn.

The orchestra had Kurt Runestad, sophomore violin, and David Zahniser, sophomore cello, both accepted.

Those who represent Wayne at All-State will go to Kearney to practice on Thursday, Nov. 17, and will perform there on Saturday, Nov. 19.

Student Librarians

This year, Mrs. Karen Hansen of the Wayne-Carroll High School Library has five student librarians assist her throughout the day. She appreciates their help immensely.

Deb Lutt, senior, helps during first period. Nancy Bahns, sophomore, assists during third period. Mary Beth Glinnsman, junior, helps during fourth period. Lynell Billeheimer, junior, works fifth period. Brenda Glinnsman, a sophomore, assists during seventh period which also happens to be the busiest period in the library.

Student librarians are to assist students and faculty besides Mrs. Hansen. Mrs. Hansen stated that her philosophy is "The students should have at least one place of quiet, study and research. The library should be this one place."

The duties of the student librarian are to check material in and out of the library, shelve new and incoming books, process new books, staple bibliographies for the faculty, assist students with general reference work, and check in magazines and newspapers.

A record of material circulation is kept in the library by the student librarian. The oddest job is general housekeeping. The very most important duty is upholding library policies. The last duty of the student librarian is to post bulletin boards and displays.

Benefits are received by both the librarian and her aides. A few of the benefits of having a student librarian are that it frees the librarian to do reference work for students and the faculty, order audio-visual materials and books, repair equipment, and books, record video tapes and play them back, check circulation of audio-visual equipment, make bibliographies for the faculty and give individual and group library instruction.

Some of the benefits for the student librarian are to get acquainted with most students, learn procedures and operations of the library, and learn to make loan and card for books and equipment. Library duty gives the student librarian study time when it is desired, and it also familiarizes the student librarian with most materials.

Curfew logic
Laurel-Concord High School students know when curfew takes effect — 12 a.m. until 5 a.m. on Sunday through Thursday and 1 a.m. until 5 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

When a sophomore girl from Laurel-Concord High School was asked "Why do you think we have a curfew?" she replied, "To keep the kids off the streets at a certain time, less chance of getting in trouble and quieter for people who live in the city." A junior girl added "Some kids are really rowdy and like to party. Curfew is to stop some of the noise around town."

When asked if curfew kept them in after hours, a freshman stated, "No, I usually sneak around town or go somewhere else, where there isn't a curfew." A junior girl replied "Sometimes I go somewhere else but I very seldom stay in town after curfew." A senior answered, "No, I drive around."

When asked if he liked having a curfew a student replied "No, I don't. Nobody does any damage anymore, so why do they have to take things out on us. Some people just have to ruin it for everyone." A sophomore girl said "I guess it's okay because it makes one watch the time and learn to respect the law." A senior replied "No, it should be for kids under 16, and it should be the parents' decision."

Only one of the four interviewed had been warned by the law concerning curfew, but a freshman said the curfew law is "Three strikes and you're out."

A couple of students felt they had a way to improve the curfew law. A junior commented "The parents should be the boss, if the minor has the parent's permission they should be able to be out." A senior remarked "The age limit should be 16 rather than 18."

Pride in Laurel High "A strong sense of pride, cooperation, and teamwork" is how one student at Laurel-Concord High School defined school spirit. Another student felt that school spirit means, "Being at the games to cheer on the team, and show them I'm supporting them."

By Mark Penrick
Weekends are made for... Teachers at Laurel-Concord High School enjoy their weekends. Kathy Hamilton states

School spirit is apparent at sports activities. Students, parents, faculty, and fans go to the games to cheer on the team and to boost the team's confidence. Team members feel there can never be too much spirit at the games.

School spirit cannot be limited strictly to sports events though. It also includes the spirit shown in school, in class, in organizations, and other activities. The close, friendly relationships between students and teachers exemplifies this spirit.

Student Teacher at LCHS
Paul Sobanski student teacher at Laurel-Concord High School under Lyle Van Cleave in the Vocational Education department. Mr. Sobanski recently took over some of Mr. Van Cleave's classes, including electricity-ful time.

He believes teaching under Mr. Van Cleave and getting some actual classroom situation experience will help him in future teaching because it has opened his eyes to the kind of pressures that a teacher must face day in and day out.

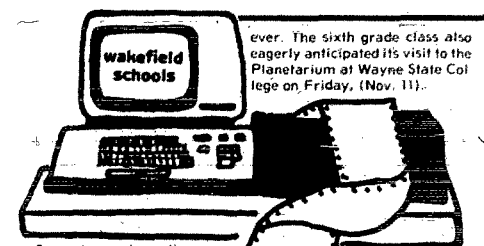

Mr. Sobanski and his wife, Robin, serve as dorm directors at Wayne State College in Wayne, Ne., where they attend college.

Upon graduation, Mr. Sobanski would like to teach woodworking and drafting to younger people because he enjoys sharing the knowledge he has attained in college. He said, "Every student should have the experience of college," because it makes a person more mature and knowledgeable.

While still attending Oklahoma State University, Mr. Sobanski stood out in East Husker Conference football. He played guard and defensive tackle where he received all-state honorable mention and was named to the all-area and all-conference teams. He also played nose guard for the Wayne State Wildcats for four years.

ever. The sixth grade class also eagerly anticipated its visit to the Planetarium at Wayne State College on Friday, (Nov. 11).

Computermania continues
The students at Wakefield continue to race for time at the computer as yet another set of classes enters the contest.

Those taking business courses are now experimenting with word processing, which is a fancy name for writing with computers. The classes have been trying their skills at word processing using the Apple II computer and a new program called the Bank Street Writer.

Students have been gaining practice writing and editing free lance letters and articles on the computer. This type of education is especially useful in that recent market studies have shown that word processing is the leading non-game use of personal computers today and an introduction to the processes involved is important to everyone in today's world.

Elementary activities
The Wakefield elementary students have been involved in many activities in the past two weeks. During Fire Prevention Week, the first graders visited the Wakefield Fire Department and were given a four page booklet on fire safety and prevention and made fireman puppets. In conjunction with this, the fifth graders started Fire Patrol, which will meet on the first Tuesday of every month and is sponsored by Wakefield's Fire Department.

An educational exhibit was set up in the elementary library by the fifth grade, who were studying early American Indian tribes in what is now the United States. Groups were chosen, and each given a tribe to report on. Some of the groups made model scale of their given tribes type of lodging. These models were displayed during Parent-Teacher conferences.

The students, faculty and community members are proud of the team and its coaches, and all are wishing them the best of luck during state competition. In other sports news, four Trojan football players were named for the Clark Division All Conference Eight Football Team.

On the defensive team were Bob Coble and Wayne Guy, while on the offensive team were Brian Soderberg and Jason Erb. In "Weekends are a good time to relax." She uses her free time to broaden her perspectives of the world. Through travel she grows in her field, art and dancing.

This weekend she plans to attend an Art Workshop in Kearney. She also says "I don't spend too much time watching TV. If I do stay in Laurel, I clean my house and do laundry."

John Jonas, prefers spending his weekends in Laurel. On Fridays he goes to Laurel's football games. Occasionally, he stays home and fixes things around the house. Normally, he works on his hobby, which is cars. His school interest reflect what he does on weekends.

The second grade teacher, Eva Dendiger, feels her weekends are pretty much a set pattern. On Fridays, she usually goes out for supper, after her usual hair appointment. Eva loves spending time with her family. On Saturdays, she goes to Sioux City and visits with her daughter. She also goes shopping. After a day in the city, she comes home to attend church. Eva likes the freedom of sleeping late on Sundays.

Janet Johnson, one who also loves sleeping late, spends her weekends with her family in O'Neill. She says "There isn't much for me to do in Laurel." Visiting and helping her family reveals her consideration of others. She helps with chores and enjoys riding horses while back at home.

Overall teachers spend their weekends just as any other normal person would.

Triple Trio
Nine enthusiastic, hard working, challenge seeking girls, sing for the Laurel-Concord High Triple Trio. Three girls represent each singing section, alto, second soprano, and first soprano.

Plans for the 83-84 school year range from a Christmas concert in December, to a concert in May. District competition will challenge the Triple Trio this spring. At the district competition, the Laurel-Concord Triple Trio performs once and receives a 1.2,3 or 4 rating.

Modern jazz of the 80's rules over the classical 70's in Triple Trio music. Mrs. Dvorak stated,

"The girls can handle the modern music of the 80's."

The Triple Trio's first performance was held in the Laurel-Concord High gym Oct. 31. Mrs. Van Cleave, a business teacher at Laurel-Concord High said, "The Triple Trio blended beautifully."

Career education
On Oct. 12, Al Gusner, who served 27 years in the Army National Guard, visited Laurel-Concord Public School's senior class. Mr. Gusner spoke about colleges in Nebraska, scholarships and other types of financial aid. He also explained the importance of career choice and of filling out job applications correctly.

According to Mr. Gusner, the four state colleges — Chadron State, Wayne State, Peru State, and Kearney State charge $3,794.25 on the average.

Laurel-Concord students heard Mr. Gusner speak about 10 major sources of scholarship aid. The Pell Grant, a federal student aid program awards financial aid to any student attending any college in the U.S. The amount of the award varies depending upon the need of the student.

Other types of aid include the Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG), National Direct Student Loan (NDAL), Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL), Plus Loan, College Work Study (CWS), Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP), National Guard Bonus Program (NGB), National Guard Educational Assistance Program (NGEAP), and the National Guard School Loan Repayment Program (NGSLRP). Grants depend upon the student need; or student ability or some upon both need and ability.

Mr. Gusner showed the senior class how to complete a job application correctly. He said, "Job applications are to find out who not to hire, not who to hire."

Mr. Gusner also told the seniors to use the ability that they have. He said, "If your mind can conceive it, and your heart can believe it, you can achieve it." About futures he said, "If you don't know where you're going, you might end up somewhere else."

volleyball, Lana Erb and Shelley Krusemark were named to the first team Clark Division All-Conference. Volleyball Team. Receiving honorable mention were Brenda Jones and Karla Stelling.

In Junior High sports, the Junior High Volleyball team finished their season on Oct. 25 against Allen. The seventh grade lost in two sets, the scores being 3-15 and 2-15. Credited with points were: Karen Witt, four points; and Sharon Wenstrand, one point.

This brings the seventh grade record to 1 win and 6 losses. The eighth grade also lost in sets of 7-15, 15-12 and 5-15. The points were as follows: Mollie Graves, 15 points; Raquel Lueth and Lana Ekberg both had four points; Karen Hallstrom, two points; and Tricia Schwarzen and Brenda Meier one point each. Coach Cheryl Puggel would like to thank the parents and friends who came to support the girls during the season.

In other news, the juniors were a busy class the last two weeks. On Oct. 18, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test was given to any interested Juniors. The results should be back the first part of December, and the results are eagerly awaited.

The first semester junior speech class, under the guidance of Mrs. Val Bard the teacher, took a survey of students, faculty, and randomly selected community members as to the education level of Americans today. The project was in response to an article stating that, as a whole, American students were ignorant about many important historical facts.

The results showed that many of the faculty and community members, as well as the juniors and seniors, were able to answer most of the questions. The questions came from all departments, and the results were given out, the teachers could better understand what wasn't being covered and comprehended in their classes.

In organizational news, the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) participated in the SEARCH activities this year. SEARCH is a newly implemented program in Nebraska and stands for Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer and Homemaking.

This year's events were hosted by Wayne State College on Nov.

11. Several Wakefield FHA members participated in the SEARCH events. Brenda Meier and Lynn Anderson received the top superior rating in the Junior High level and will give their "Healthy Student Bodies" presentation at the State Leadership Conference in April.

An excellent rating was given to Lori Anderson, Teresa Roberts and Bonnie Harrison for their "Child Care and Development" presentation. Kris Carson and Julie Wageman were also given an excellent rating for their FHA display. Those receiving good ratings were Tonia Clement in Informative Speech and Amy Peters along with Tammy Nicholson for their "Families and Futures" presentation.

In addition to this, the FHA prepared and served coffee and rolls, and sandwich lunch at the annual Christmas Fair. The chapter is also busy preparing for the District 5 FHA Convention to be held in Wakefield on Nov. 16. This year's theme is "Take My Hand."

The Future Business Leaders of America's faunted house held on Oct. 28 was a howling success, as was the band's bake sale at the Christmas Fair. Also showing a profit was the National Honor Society which made and donated $188 on candy at the Hospital Bazaar. Another busy organization was the annual staff; which had a photographer from Bobber's Studio come to take various pictures for the 1983-84 annual.

VFW tea
On Oct. 19, the VFW members of the Wakefield Auxiliary hosted an Appreciation Tea for all faculty and staff of the Wakefield Community Schools in the multipurpose room. Fall colors were used in decorations and table settings.

VFW President Mary Sievers welcomed the guests, and on behalf of the VFW, President Mildred Brownell thanked the Auxiliary for hosting the event for the faculty and staff. The centerpieces were won by Betty Wittson and Cheryl Puggel.

teachers in an informal climate; and teachers may benefit by recognizing hidden talents in the students," he said.

KLIMA SAID he feels parent support in the school system is extremely strong and is evidenced by the recent formation of the Blue Devil Booster Club and by response to the new Spanish program.

"Klima also recognized the city's recreational program as "a great resource for the school and one not to be overlooked."

"THE FOURTH member of the team to speak at Thursday's "exit" report was Dr. Ralph Weaver of South Sioux City Public School.

"I have long had a lot of respect for the achievement of students in your school," said Weaver, adding that he comes away with the feeling that the administration and staff is well prepared, competent and stable.

Weaver said the superintendent provides good leadership and is communicative with the board and staff.

He also praised the "pleasant, helpful and courteous" support staff, including cooks, janitors, secretaries, etc.

AREAS OF concern expressed by Weaver included the amount of in service offered to staff members.

"There are a variety of ways in which you might improve in this area," said Weaver, adding that one possibility might include asking for suggestions from staff members themselves.

Weaver echoed the concern for better evaluation of staff members and said if the national issue of merit pay is considered it will require more precise evaluation techniques.

"It is very important that we recognize that the primary purpose of evaluation is the improvement of instruction," he stressed.

WEAVER also commended the school board and superintendent for "managing through some pretty difficult economic times" due to clerical errors made by county government officials.

Weaver recommended that the board of education review its present policies to ensure that present laws are incorporated.

In addition, he recommended that the present five-year plan be reorganized to include a new roof on the Wayne elementary school, re-wiring of the middle school, and energy projects.

Weaver said he leaves with mixed feelings concerning the use of the elementary lunchroom by senior high students. "Another hour could be provided for use by elementary students if the lunchroom was not used by senior high youths."

WEAVER ESPECIALLY commended the board of education for the quality education provided at the elementary school in Carroll.

"I'm not sure that every district would make the effort to provide the library and physical education facilities that you provide these students," he said.

Weaver was making reference to the fact that students in Carroll are bussed to Wayne each week for physical education classes and to use elementary library facilities.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT Francis Haun said the district benefited greatly from the team's expertise.

"We really enjoyed having them here," said Haun, adding "they were interesting people to talk with."

Haun said a great deal of time will be spent setting up short- and long-range goals and prioritizing those goals when the comprehensive written report is returned in four to six weeks.
