St. Mary's students learning French language, culture

By LaVon Anderson

Bonjour!
You don't understand? Well, that's understandable.
That word, however, can frequently be heard echoing throughout the halls of St. Mary's School in Wayne as students greet each other before the start of morning classes.
The word is a French greeting which translated into English means, "Good day."
WHILE LAST year the word Bonjour wouldn't have meant anymore to a student of St. Mary's than to anyone else not fluent in French, this year is a different story altogether.
Because of the persistence of one Wayne woman, students of the school are being exposed not only to another language, but to a different culture.
"I would like to see programs like this in schools everywhere," said Janet Schmitz, assistant professor of French at Wayne State College, who also is responsible for implementing a French program at St. Mary's.

SCHMITZ SAID although she approached the school a couple of years ago about a class in French, it was impossible at that time to work it into the school's schedule.
This year, Schmitz presented her idea to Principal Pat Ruther and a group of parents during a meeting with teachers preceding the start of the school year.
"They (the parents) were very enthusiastic," said Schmitz, adding that after the meeting she sent letters to parents asking for their response.
"They responded, and we got started," she smiles.
SCHMITZ ADMITS that her desire to begin a program of French at St. Mary's was brought about mainly because of her daughter Jennifer, a third grader at the school.

"Before, my daughter was the only child in school who knew a little French," smiles Schmitz.
"Now, when her friends come over to the house, they're all speaking French. It's wonderful to hear."
STRESSING THAT the French program at St. Mary's is not a part of the school's regular curriculum, Schmitz said students are enrolled voluntarily and meet each Friday for one-half hour, 8:30 to 9 a.m., preceding the start of the regular school day.
"Because the class is held before school, it does not interfere with the regular class schedule," Schmitz pointed out.
Because the program is voluntary, Schmitz said there are no grades and students do not feel pressured.

She is proud of the fact that of the approximately 40 students in the school, an estimated 30 are enrolled in the French program.
ALTHOUGH SCHMITZ supervises the French program, she does not actually teach the students.
The instructors, Michele Flowers and Steve Pierce, are both Wayne State College students and receive one hour credit in French for teaching students of St. Mary's.
Flowers, a native of Brussels, Belgium, is a part-time student at Wayne State and is enrolled in advanced French literature courses.
Pierce, an interim instructor of Spanish at Wayne State, is also a student of French.
"I picked the two best people to teach this program," said Schmitz, adding "they are both experts in their areas already."
Schmitz said although Flowers and Pierce plan their own programs, she does make suggestions and visits their classrooms about every other week.

Flowers teaches students in kindergarten through second grade, while Pierce teaches third through sixth graders. For both, it is their first experience at teaching children.
"THE YOUNGER children are when they learn a foreign language, the better," said Schmitz.
"When they get older they seem to have a much greater fear of learning a different language. There is no fear at this age."
Both Flowers and Pierce agree that elementary age youngsters have no inhibitions when it comes to learning something new.
"It's fun, and at this age they pick it up so quickly," said Flowers.
"I wish I had a 10th of the enthusiasm in my college students," added Pierce, "especially when you consider that the students enrolled in the French program at St. Mary's could be spending their free time before school playing outside."

SCHMITZ SAID students enrolled in the French program at St. Mary's are learning to read as well as speak the language.
In addition to the use of hand puppets, flash cards and other audio visuals, youngsters also view short cartoon-type teaching films and are taught songs in French.
SCHMITZ SAID the French program will continue next semester at St. Mary's although a replacement will be needed for Pierce, who will begin student teaching in Norfolk.
Response to the program has been very good, the parents are enthusiastic, and the students have learned a lot.
"It's good for our future and it's good for our children's futures," she added.

Christmas season here $7,000 in gifts will be given out

Wayne merchants will kick off the Christmas shopping season the day after Thanksgiving again this year.
Thanksgiving Day will give merchants a break before beginning the hectic Christmas season. Most businesses will be open until 9 p.m. Friday on the first day of extended shopping hours.
More than $1,000 in bonus bucks will be up for grabs at the weekly Grand Giveaway, which will be held on Friday night this week in stead of Thursday.
STORES WILL be open on all but one of the next 30 days before Christmas. The only day the stores will not be open is this Sunday (Nov. 27).
Businesses will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, Dec. 4, 11 and 18. Beginning Dec. 15, stores will be open until 9 p.m. every week night through Dec. 23. On Dec. 24, stores will be open until 4 p.m. for last minute shoppers.
Another special treat of the Christmas season is the scheduled arrival of Santa Claus on Dec. 1. He will stay at People's Natural Gas Company through extended shopping hours and on Saturdays throughout much of the shopping season.
This Friday's Grand Giveaway is just a drop in the bucket compared to what merchants have planned.
At the present time, plans call for more than $7,000 in merchandise, cash, gift certificates and shopping sprees to be given away. More merchants are expected to join the "Holiday Magic in Wayne" promotion.
Drawings will be held on Friday, Dec. 23.
CUSTOMERS CAN register for prizes at any of these participating businesses:
Anchor National Financial Services, Bill's GW, The Black Knight, Carhart Lumber Company, Charlie's Refrigeration, Coast to Coast, The Computer Farm, Corvett Derby, Country Nursery, Daylight Donuts

Wayne shows its appreciation

Cars and pickups lined the campus streets and filled the parking lots as an estimated crowd of 600 attended the 12th annual Farmers Appreciation Banquet at the Wayne State College Student Union, Saturday.
After the social hour and meal, storyteller Duane Hutchinson entertained the crowd with jokes and stories.
Hutchinson, who grew up in Antelope County, spoke about the strong winds in the western part of Nebraska. He said he asked a farmer in that area, "Does the wind blow this way all the time?"
"No," the farmer replied, "It blows the other way part of the time."

THE STORYTELLER said the wind was so bad that all the barbs on the fence lines were blown to one end of the wire.
It was so windy that they filled hens with buck shot to keep them from getting blown away, he said.
Hutchinson said it was so cold that the farmers out west found frozen rattlesnakes and used them as fence posts. The sun came out one day and the snakes crawled off with a mile of fence, he said.
He then told the story of a duck hunter who wasn't having much luck. Each time the hunter fired, the duck dove under water. After several misses, the hunter sat down and lighted his pipe to have a smoke.
HE NOTICED that when he did that the duck dove back under water. The hunter then realized that the duck had been diving when he saw the smoke from the hunter's gun.
Hutchinson said the hunter finally got the duck. He took three puffs of the pipe "and drowned the son-of-a-gun," he said.
The storyteller, who attended Wayne State College his freshman year, said he once had a dog that was fast and obedient but had some bad luck and almost lost his life.
He told of the time he was sitting on a blade up in the front lawn and he took off after a jack rabbit. The dog made a left turn, hit the scythe and was split in two, Hutchinson said.

HUTCHINSON USED his shirt as a bandage, poured turpentine on the dog and put him back together. After a couple of weeks, he took the bandage off and noticed he had put the dog together wrong. It had two legs up and two legs down.
"When he would get tired of running one way, he would turn over and run on his other legs," he said. Hutchinson said that was the only dog he knew that could bark and point in the same direction at the same time.
Master of ceremonies Kenneth Lisak, Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Anne Svoboda and Agribusness Committee Chairman Dale Stollenberg gave short addresses, thanking the farmers for turning to the community for their needs.
The dinner and social hour were sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Many Wayne businesses contributed to the event. Rev. Doniver Peterson gave the invocation and benediction.

State Patrol hopes to reduce accidents

Motorists may see more "flashing cherries" in the near future on a 10-mile stretch east of Wayne.
A 10-mile stretch of State Highway 35 east of Wayne is one of five accident areas targeted under the Policing By Objective (PBO) program in Wayne, Cedar, Pierce and Antelope counties. The program is initiated by the Nebraska State Patrol.
A reduction of motor vehicle accidents is the goal of the PBO program, with troopers concentrating on several factors that cause accidents, the State Patrol office reported.
According to State Patrol statistics, the stretch of Highway 35 causing concern carries a high volume of traffic between Wayne and Wakefield.
The patrol office indicated that motorist confusion or driver confusion is a major factor on the highway. Nine accidents were reported between Wayne and Wakefield in 1982.
State patrol statistics show that most of the accidents during the first eight months of 1982 occurred in February and March, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays accounted for the most accidents.
State patrolmen said 20 percent of the accidents were caused by motorists driving too fast for the highway conditions (ice and snow). Following too close to vehicles accounted for 13.3 percent of the accidents.
Another 6.67 percent each was the result of backing unsafely, alcohol or drugs, stop sign violations and failure to yield right of way.

Wayne High back 'in court'

Wayne High will find itself back in court again next week.
A team composed of high school government students will face a team from Wisner-Pilger in the third round of the State Mock Trial Project on Tuesday (Nov. 29).
The trial is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne County Courtroom. The meeting is the final round of the West Section of competition.
The winner of Tuesday's trial is scheduled to compete against a team from the 13th Judicial District at 2 p.m. on Dec. 6 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Law College in Lincoln.
The trials will be held Dec. 7 at the Supreme Courtroom of the State Capitol Building in Lincoln.

Workshop will be held

"What's New in Pharmacology," a workshop designed for nurses that will focus on some of the new trends in medication therapy and examine new antibiotics, cardiac, and anti-depressant preparations, will be held at the Marina Inn in South Sioux City, Nebraska on Dec. 1 from 8:30 a.m. until 4:15 p.m.

James Dickerson, B.S., R.P.H., director of Pharmacy Services at Huntington Park Care Center in Papillion and a staff pharmacist at Methodist Hospital in Omaha, Nebraska will present the workshop.

The registration fee, which includes instructional costs, educational materials, recording of Continuing Education Units, and luncheon is $40. Advance registration may be made by sending program's name, date and location along with your name and payment to: Continuing Education Center, 8501 W. Dodge Rd., Omaha, 68114. For more information call (402) 390-4168.

Ballet planned in Sioux City

The Christmas Ballet "The Nutcracker" will be presented by the Siouxland Civic Dance Association, Dec. 3 and 4. Performances will be held at North High School at 3 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Dancers from Ballet Sioux, Sioux City's civic dance company, will be performing the ballet. Also featured will be dancers from Westport Ballet from Kansas City, who will be dancing roles of the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Nutcracker Prince.

Tickets are $5.50 for adults and $3 for students. They may be purchased at the door or at Siouxland Movement Arts Center or at Sandy Keane's School of Dance.

March of Dimes drive set

Governor Bob Kerrey has accepted the position of honorary state chairman for the 1984 Mothers' March on Birth Defects which will be held in Nebraska during January to continue efforts to eliminate birth defects.

Governor Kerrey cited programs sponsored by the March of Dimes in Nebraska with funds collected during the campaign. Among them are a grant to Children's Memorial Hospital in Omaha to provide services in genetic disorders, a grant to the University of Nebraska Medical Center to help support genetic counseling clinics throughout the state, support of the Great Plains Perinatal Organization which works to improve perinatal health and health care, grants to hospitals for perinatal equipment, and grants to professional personnel for continuing education courses.

Sirens will be tested Friday

The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of the Civil Defense outdoor warning sirens at 1 p.m. Friday.

All siren signals will be tested in the silent mode, with the exception of public address. A short public address message will actually be given to test the effectiveness of the system.

If any resident living near a siren location should fail to hear the public address, please contact the Police Department promptly, so that the siren can be checked for malfunction.

Consumer information available

Whether you're making a monumental decision like a career change, or a more routine one like an oil change, the free Consumer Information Catalog can make it easier.

The catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration to inform people of the latest on government programs and other information.

To order one of the free catalogs, send your name and address on a postcard to: Consumer Information Center, Department MR, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Miss National Teen-Ager program set

Nearly $3 million in cash and tuition scholarships will be available through the Miss National Teen Ager program for 1984 according to its national director.

Program arrangements are now being made on regional and state levels. Girls, ages 13 through 18, can contact the Miss National Teen Ager program, which has offices at 215 Piedmont Avenue N.E. in Atlanta, Geo. 30308.

Judging is based on scholastic achievement and leadership, poise and personality, and appearance.

Chicken Show meeting is Monday

An organizational meeting for the Wayne Chicken Show is scheduled at 8 p.m. Monday (Nov. 28) at the Black Knight.

The meeting is open to anyone who is interested in helping organize the annual event.

Winside plans recognition night

The Winside Community Improvement Program will sponsor a "Recognition Night" in the city auditorium on Tuesday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m.

Honored during the evening will be residents who assisted with projects throughout the year to earn the community an honorable mention as one of the six state finalists in the NCIP contest.

New families in the community, business people and area farmers also will be recognized during the evening.

The Winside scrapbook will be on display, and the public is invited.

Appropriations Committee studies

The State Appropriations Committee visited the Wayne State College campus Nov. 14 and 15 to assess the college's budget and capital construction needs.

The committee includes State Senator Merle Von Minden of Allen and six other Nebraska senators.

The proposed budget increase includes added faculty and staff positions, increases in salaries and construction for the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building and Rice Auditorium.

Students attend Bereuter institute

Students from Wayne, Wakefield, Winside and Laurel high schools were among nearly 300 delegates attending the third annual Bereuter Youth Institute at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln recently.

Wayne was represented by Sharon McClain, David Melton and instructor Becky Kelley.

Wakefield was represented by Keita Lund, Michelle Rischmuller, Lori Anderson, Julie Wageman and instructor Lyle Trullinger.

Winside was represented by Tammy Brudigan, Dan Mundt and instructor Jim Halferty.

Laurel was represented by Lisa Dietze, Derek Lineberry, Wendy Robson, Troy Heitman and instructor Jim Clark.

Students and teachers attended five sessions, including one with Congressman Doug Bereuter.

Board takes a vote

Sales and income tax rates stay same

By Melvin Paul
Nebraska Press Association

At its semiannual meeting last week, the state Board of Equalization voted to maintain state sales and income tax rates at their current levels for 1984.

On separate 3-1 votes, the board decided to retain the state individual income tax at 20 percent of federal liability and the state sales tax at 4 percent. The sales tax figure includes a 0.5 percent rate which is scheduled by law to expire on March 31.

The rate-setting board, which is chaired by the governor and includes the tax commissioner, the state auditor, the state treasurer and the secretary of state, made its decision on the basis of newly revised projections provided by the state revenue department.

The revised projections foresee a $43 million state general fund balance next June 30, the last day of the state fiscal year. The figure is $27 million higher than the year-end balance envisioned by revenue department forecasters last spring.

State officials say they are encouraged by what appears to be a modest recovery in the Nebraska economy. For the first four months of this fiscal year, actual tax collections have outpaced revenue projections by 2.3 percent.

The meeting marked the last time the state tax rates will be set by the Board of Equalization. Under terms of a 1983 law, the Legislature will assume rate setting responsibilities beginning next year.

THE INSOLVENCY of Commonwealth Savings Co. of Lincoln has claimed its first political casualty.

Gov. Bob Kerrey has replaced former state banking director Paul Amen with Omaha attorney John P. Miller.

Miller has agreed to hold the top job in the banking department for two of three months while state officials attempt to sort out the messy Commonwealth situation. Depositors' losses haven't been precisely calculated, but they're likely to be in the millions of dollars.

Amen worked quietly with Commonwealth for nearly three years before the Nov. 1 takeover by the state in an effort to restore financial health.

In replacing him, Kerrey said Amen had been stilted in his job after the takeover by questions about how the situation could have been avoided. As a fresh face, Miller is expected to be able to concentrate on cleaning up the Commonwealth mess.

THE STATE Department of Social Services is attempting to implement changes in the Medicaid program which they believe will save taxpayers $1.9 million next year.

The cost saving proposal, which was announced recently by Social Services Director Gina Dunning, would alter the complex reimbursement formula for the estimated 225 nursing homes in the state which offer care to Medicaid patients.

Nursing home reimbursements are the largest component of the Medicaid program, and are expected this year to account for half of the $149.7 million cost of the program.

The most significant change in the proposed formula would reduce the number of categories used in calculating nursing home reimbursement, eliminating a separate classification for those which operate in conjunction with a hospital.

Dunning said the new classification system should eliminate reimbursement for nursing home costs which actually should be attributed to the hospital.

Nursing home operators and others will have an opportunity this week to express their opposition to the proposed changes, which ultimately need the approval of Gov. Bob Kerrey.

Let's be thankful

Most of us have plenty for which to be thankful. Thanksgiving is a time for each of us to remember a few of those things for which we are thankful.

In a time of an ailing economy, many of us can just be thankful we have jobs.

In a time of turmoil in many parts of the world, we can be thankful that we are not engaged in war.

In a time that millions of the world's people go hungry, we can be thankful for the fine food we enjoy.

In a time when many people's rights and freedoms are limited and abused, we can be thankful we have so much freedom.

We can be thankful for the basic necessities of life: food, shelter and clothing.

There is much more for which we are thankful. We will still take many of those things for granted. That is simply human nature.

But, on Thanksgiving, let each of us remember just a few of the things for which we are thankful.

Not a cheap thrill

If you think shoplifting is a cheap thrill, you'd better think again. Shoplifting can give you a criminal record that may never be erased.

A record that can haunt you the rest of your life. Keep you from getting jobs. Stop you from winning a scholarship. Or even prevent you from borrowing money.

That's a high price to pay for a cheap thrill.

When you decide to shoplift, you're gambling with your future. It's your decision. And it's you, who will have to suffer the consequences.

Tighter security and more sophisticated detection devices have greatly increased the odds of getting caught. The stores, law enforcement and the courts are getting tough. And shoplifters aren't getting off light.

The merchants are taking actions against shoplifting, no matter what the size or price of the item stolen.

And regardless of the race, color, creed, sex, age or social standing of the offender.

No one has special immunity. Not you, your friends, the football star or the local bum. Shoplifting isn't kid-stuff anymore. It's not a game. Or even a cheap thrill.

Before you trade your future for a piece of merchandise, just remember that shoplifting has serious consequences that can mark the rest of your life.

Apology is extended

To the editor

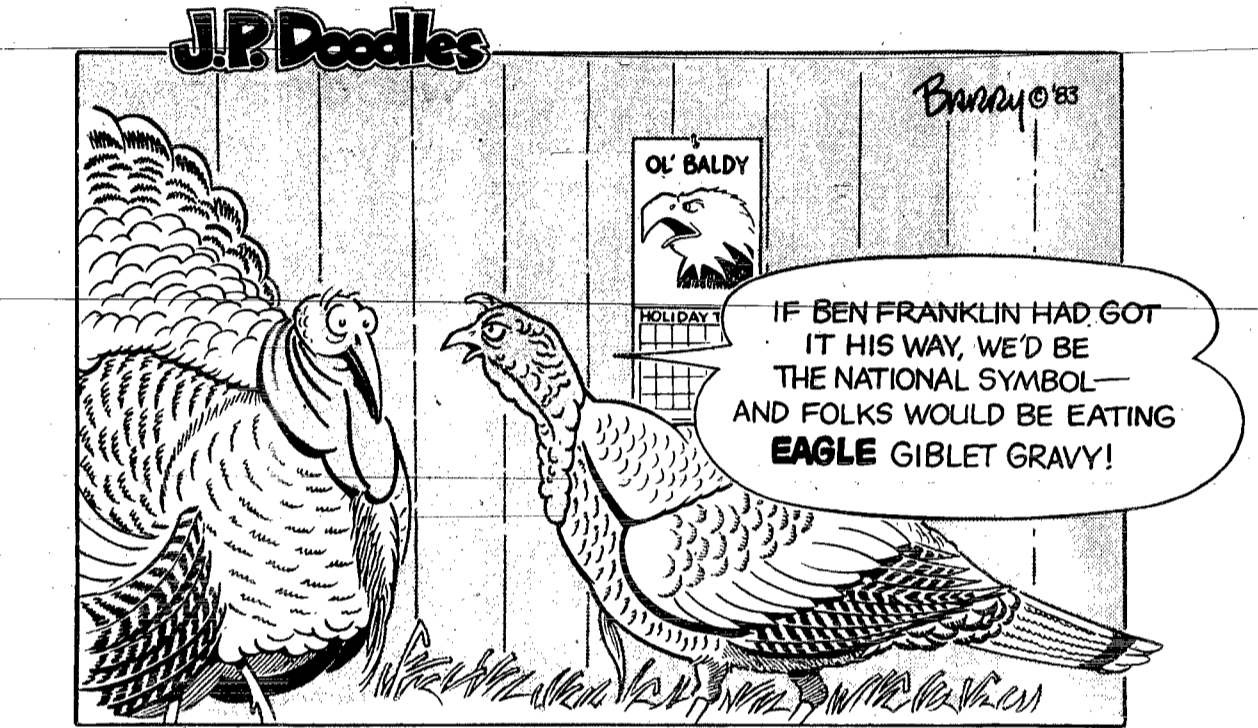

I would like to reply to the editorial and letters to the editor concerning the flags on Veterans Day that appeared in the Nov. 17 edition of The Wayne Herald. Those responsible for the inexcusable mistake are the Circle K Chapter at Wayne State College.

We deeply regret our forgetfulness and are taking measures to eliminate this from happening again. I agree that there are no excuses and I will not give any. I assume all responsibilities for the actions of my group. I know that apologies will not correct the matter or diminish the bitterness toward us.

However, I do sincerely apologize for the unforgivable error and the hurt or embarrassment caused by our mistake.

Courage, conviction, commitment Everybody makes sacrifices in war

By Dennis A. Joyner
National Commander
Disabled American Veterans
November 11, 1983
Arlington National Cemetery

I was in Vietnam only 32 days when I was wounded. On Veterans Day, 1969, I found myself in an Army hospital, struggling to heal and pull my life back together after losing both legs and an arm.

There, in that hospital ward, I learned that everybody makes sacrifices in war. Some sacrifices are just greater than others.

I was surrounded by so many young Americans who had made great sacrifices, whose bodies or minds had been torn by war. Some, like me, would never walk again. Others were blind or deaf.

All of us were examples of war's terrifying consequences—of the sacrifices so many were duty-bound to make for our country.

I was in a hospital ward that contained pain and suffering, but that same ward was full of overflowing with courage, conviction and commitment.

YES, VETERANS means much more than just another holiday. It gives me a chance to retrace such of courage and sacrifice I recall how glad I was to make it back home alive. And I remember the awesome courage of so many who didn't.

I remember other scenes, though—scenes I couldn't understand when I left the hospital and went back to civilian life and college. They were the scenes of a society that had been ripped down the middle by the controversy of the Vietnam War.

I saw the hostility generated by that war spill over into hostility toward the veterans who had fought that war. Veterans, more than any other group of people, have earned the right to call themselves Americans. Yet they were branded as traitors. Veterans spilled their blood in defense of the values that made this nation great. Yet they were accused of forsaking those values.

In the process of heaping scorn on Vietnam veterans, the prestige of all of America's veterans suffered. It didn't matter whether a man or woman served in World War I, II, Korea or Vietnam. Veterans... all veterans... were systematically denied the right to their pride.

For me, the courage I'd seen on the battlefield and in the military hospital stood in painful contrast to the scorn thrown at America's veterans on the street.

that, never again, would this nation send its young into a war it did not intend to win.

Many of us present during that week long celebration felt we were witnessing a rebirth of national spirit. And in the process, we witnessed a return of pride, pride not just in being a Vietnam veteran, but a veteran, as well, of any of America's wars.

PEOPLE TODAY still question America's involvement in Vietnam. And until we're sure we have the answers, that questioning is good. People today still ask me questions, questions that tell me they are still confused about that war, still confused about our national policies back then.

Was I bitter about losing three of my limbs during the war? Did I think it was worth the sacrifice in a war the United States didn't win? Did I feel guilt or shame about my service in Vietnam?

Would I do it all over again?

My answers to these questions, I have no doubt, are much the same as the answers given by the majority of this nation's veterans.

No, I'm not bitter about any sacrifices I made to serve my country. You serve, you sacrifice and you thank God you're a citizen of the greatest nation the world has ever seen.

freedom and justice, here and throughout the world, are most certainly worth it.

But we are particularly reminded on this November eleventh that our fellow veterans are worth every bit of our loyalty and support. My fellow veterans—of all this nation's wars—are the strongest reason why I can say, "I'm proud I served my country. I'm proud to call myself a veteran."

TO THE MAN who lost his sight in the explosion of an artillery shell in the trenches of World War I, I say, "Be proud too!" To the nurse who continued to give medical aid to the wounded after she was captured at Bataan, I say, "Be proud!"

To those of us who came home from the wars in Korea and Vietnam to a society bent on stripping away that pride, I say, "That pride is not theirs to take. It's yours. You bought it with blood and pain and sacrifice. Be proud!"

In recent years, considerable attention has been given to the readjustment problems experienced by many Vietnam veterans. There's nothing wrong with this.

In fact, the Disabled American Veterans is proud of the role it played in bringing these problems to light. We're proud that we helped develop and refine the methods that are proving successful in dealing with these problems.

THE SAME courage my fellow veterans showed on the battlefield was everywhere on the ward. It was the courage to pick up the pieces of physically broken lives and start anew.

You could look at the face of each patient in that ward and see the conviction that each brought to his personal struggle. It was that overpowering belief that "I will survive. I will heal. I will persevere."

And you saw through the pain and past the suffering that these young veterans had not lost their commitment to this nation and the values we cherish. If anything, for many, that commitment was made stronger by the battlefield they'd survived. They had seen, up close, what happens to a nation when its will is weakened. They had seen...and fought...the enemies of democracy and freedom.

These are some of memories that come back to me every year on November eleventh. Memories of the kid down the hall screaming out his pain in the middle of the night. Memories of the sweat that poured from a friend's face as he learned to walk on a plastic leg. Memories of the grins and cheers that accompanied the news that a patient had healed and would be discharged from the hospital.

WHEN I SAW what was happening, I feared for the future of America. For when you ridicule the defenders of a nation's values, you ridicule that nation.

My fears for America, however, were eased. They were tempered by the realization that no nation, anywhere in the world, can match the United States in its collective resiliency of spirit. We resolve our philosophical differences, heal our spiritual wounds, better than any group of people in the world. Our notion of freedom and democracy demand it of us. We are quick to defend those notions, quick to recognize our errors, and quick to seek compassionate solutions to our problems.

One year ago today, on this very spot, I saw what was, for many of us, the beginning of that healing process. During the National Salute to Vietnam Veterans, I saw a nation struggling mightily, to bind the wounds that the Vietnam War had opened. I heard Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger say

THE PRINCIPLES that make us serve our country affect millions of lives, not only in the United States, but around the world.

Those principles don't make us want to die in a war. But they make us proud to offer our life, if it will keep this country and its people free. Our willingness to fight to the death in defense of the precious freedoms we cherish is not an unusual American trait.

If you think only a few feel that way, look around you. Look here at Arlington National Cemetery and the row after row of brave Americans who fell. Freedom was worth fighting and dying for. Look to the countless military cemeteries across this nation and around the world. Look to America's history, a litany of people who said, time after time, "What I've got here is too good, too dear to risk losing. I must fight—and fight to death if need be—to defend this wonderful land called America."

Oh yes, I would do it all over again. America is worth it. The ideals for which our country stand are worth it. The American people—with their dedication to

BUT IN FOCUSING on these and other problems that veterans face, we must never forget to give a full measure of credit to those who gave greatly to their country when they were young and in uniform, and continue to contribute to our society today in civilian life.

When we were in uniform, we learned about things like discipline and dedication. As young soldiers, sailors, airmen or Marines we found true meaning for words like loyalty and duty. They were lessons etched on our souls by the realities of combat.

For most of America's veterans, those lessons are the foundation of our lives. Those same lessons are the reasons why America has no finer citizens than veterans. Dedication to our homes, our families, our communities, our nation. Loyalty. To all these things and the values that made this nation great. Duty to God and the principles of democracy and freedom. And the discipline...to never let the needs of our fellow veterans, to never let the needs of those for which we fought so dearly and for which we are proud to be a veteran...

briefly speaking

Historical Society plans party

The Wayne County Historical Society will hold its annual Christmas tree decorating party on Sunday, Nov. 27 at 7 p.m. The museum will be open each Sunday during the month of December from 2 to 4 p.m.

Lutheran Churchwomen meet

St. Paul's Lutheran Churchwomen held a general meeting Nov. 16 with 20 members. Hostesses were Mrs. Otto Baier, Mrs. Thelma Bradford and Mrs. August Franzen. President Mrs. Robert Carhart conducted the business meeting.

The church will participate in the "Fantasy of Trees" display on Dec. 10 and 11 in the Wayne city auditorium in conjunction with the city's upcoming centennial celebration.

A thank offering service was conducted by the executive committee, followed with a report by Mrs. Walter Jager on the Nebraska Synodical Unit Convention which she attended at Hastings.

There will be no circle meetings in December.

Next general meeting will be the annual covered dish Christmas luncheon on Dec. 14 at 1 p.m. Women are reminded to bring a plate of cookies to be packed and delivered to shut-ins.

Prince home from hospital

Cecil Prince of Winside returned home this Tuesday from the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Omaha. He entered the hospital Nov. 13 and underwent surgery.

Pink and blue shower given

Mrs. Clayton Hartman of Dixon was honored at a pink and blue shower Nov. 16 in the home of Mrs. Bill Johnson, Laurel. Fifteen women attended. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Dick Grosvenor of Ponca and Mrs. Dave Bloom of Laurel.

Acme Club postpones meeting

The Acme Club guest day meeting scheduled Monday, Nov. 21, has been postponed until Monday, Nov. 28. The club will meet at 12:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

Kops members graduate

Kops members graduated in a ceremony during last week's meeting of Tops 782. Diane Miller was the best weekly loser and received a fresh floral centerpiece.

It was announced that Helen Tiedtke was the winner of a crocheted Christmas tree skirt in a drawing held during the group's recent bake and craft sale.

Winside's Tops group recently challenged the Wayne group to a four week contest for the most weight loss. Wayne Tops 782 won the challenge.

Discussion was held on a Christmas party and soup supper which will be held after the new year.

Christian men meeting

The Northeast Nebraska Mens Christian Fellowship will meet Friday, Nov. 25 at 8 p.m. at the Logan Center, United Methodist Church, rural Laurel. There will be election of officers.

Immanuel Ladies Aid plans Christmas luncheon

The Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet Dec. 15 for a 12:30 p.m. Christmas carry-in luncheon with guests.

Mrs. Elray Hank and Mrs. Dale Lessmann are in charge of the program. Mrs. Lloyd Roebber and Mrs. Laverne Wischoff are on the coffee committee, and Mrs. Elmer Schrieber and Mrs. Merle Roebber are in charge of tables.

THE LADIES AID met Nov. 17 with hostesses Mrs. Helen Echtenkamp and Mrs. Marvin Rewinkel.

Members sang "Rock of Ages," and the Rev. Steven Kramer led the topic study entitled "Concept on Fellowship."

Mrs. Gilbert Rauss opened the business meeting with a reading, "Food for Thought," and welcomed guests Mrs. Erna Saks, Mrs. Rose Fredrickson, Mrs. Irene Geewe, Mrs. Clara Echtenkamp and Mrs. Bob Weiershauser.

Twenty-two members answered roll call.

PRESENTING the visitation report were Mrs. Ben Hollman and Mrs. Gilbert Rauss.

Members voted to remember the Dakota Boys Ranch, Bethesda and the Lutheran Home for the Aged with Christmas donations.

Election of officers was held. They are Mrs. Gilbert Rauss, president; Mrs. Marlin Schuttler, vice president; Mrs. Lloyd Roebber, secretary; and Mrs. Merle Roebber, treasurer.

The birthday song honored Mrs. Lawrence Ruwe, Mrs. Reuben Meyer and Mrs. Marvin Rewinkel.

Mrs. Elmer Schrieber and Mrs. Gary Nelson will serve on the visiting committee in December, and Mrs. Kurt Rewinkel, Mrs. Byron Roebber, Mrs. Marlin Schuttler and Mrs. Keith Schuttler will clean.

The group plans to visit the Wakefield Health Care Center on Dec. 12.

Homemakers and guests design Christmas crafts

Ten members of the Happy Homemakers Home Extension Club entertained guests at their November meeting in the Wayne Woman's Club room.

Guests were Agnes Gilliland, Diane Zach, Melvyn Meyer, Carol Bauermeister, Beverly Dangberg, Janet Reeg and Esther Heinemann.

Hostess for the guest day meeting was Pearl Glassmeyer.

DURING the business meeting, Kathy Ruteneck, health leader, showed a film on physical fitness.

Various committee reports were given and roll call was answered with thanksgiving poems. Dorothy Grone was elected president to replace Eileen Mohlfeld, who is moving out of state.

Shirley Pospishil and Elaine Biermann were craft leaders and assisted members and guests in making Christmas decorations.

Eileen Mohlfeld displayed beaded Christmas decorations she has made.

A SALAD luncheon was served at the close of the meeting.

Next meeting will be a Christmas dinner Dec. 15 in the home of Dorothy Grone. There will be a grab bag gift exchange.

December performances

WSC students directing one-acts in 'Tonight at Eight' presentation

The Wayne State College theatre department will bring the 1983-84 fall semester to a close on Dec. 4, 5, 6 and 7 when it presents "Tonight at Eight."

The program will consist of four student-directed one-acts performed at 8 o'clock each evening in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Theatre Professor Dr. Helen Russell said because of the length of the plays and differences in set design, only two plays will be performed each evening.

PLAYS to be staged Sunday, Dec. 4 and Tuesday, Dec. 6 are "Murder at Moorstone Manor," written by Michael Palin and Terry Gilliam, and "The Golden Fleece," written by A. R. Gurney Jr.

James Foulk of Sioux City is directing "Murder at Moorstone Manor," and David Blendenman of Wayne is directing "The Golden Fleece."

"The Patient," written by Agatha Christie and directed by Corinne Morris of Carroll, will be performed Monday, Dec. 5 and Wednesday, Dec. 7.

"Death" also will be presented those two nights under the direction of Michele Johnson of Wayne. "Death" was written by Woody Allen.

MEMBERS OF the cast for "Murder at Moorstone Manor" are Mark Schwedhelm of Hoskins as Hugo; Sydney McManigal of Creighton as Dora; Marita Morris of McCook as Lady Chiddingfold; Tore Nelson of Emerson as Clive Chiddingfold; Tracy Teeters of Wallhill as Manors; Mark Shufelt of Wayne as Charles; Michelle Becher of Columbus as Ruth; and Mitch Schulte of Emerson as Dr. Farson. Assistant director/stage manager is Karleen Benschhof of Carroll.

Cast members for "The Golden Fleece" are Mindee Zimmerman of Norfolk as Betty; and Trevor Koch of Norfolk as Bill. Ron Borek of Wayne is assistant director/stage manager.

CAST in "The Patient" are Darrel Fickbohnm of Sioux City as Dr. Ginsberg; Anne Marie Steh-wien of Stanton as Wansien; Dana Reil of Rosalie as Nurse; Tim Ryan of Omaha as Inspector; Todd McDonald of Oto, Iowa as Bryan Wingfield; Laura Vonbergen of Moviila, Iowa as Emmeline; Keth Christi of Schleswig, Iowa as William Ross; Kim Barth of Stanton as Brenda Jackson; and Shirley Riedmann of Omaha as Patient. Daniell Kraemer of Yutan is the assistant director.

Cast members for "Death" are Byron Bonsall of Burwell as Kleinman; Gwen Conklin of Grand Island as Anna; Jeff Sorensen of South Sioux City as Al; Zita Alexander of Omaha as Sam; Don Kneiff of Ponca as Hacker/Policeman; Dianne Tempel of Seward as Gina; Marty Howard of Wallhill as Bill; Rod Grove of South Sioux City as Frank; Cindy Gessman of Denison, Iowa as Woman; Linda Tiensvold of Rushville as Spiro; Tom Fletcher of Wayne as Maniac; Ron Burek of Wayne as Maniac; and Maria Anderson of Hoskins as Assistant. Rod Grove of South Sioux City is the assistant director.

ACCORDING to Dr. Russell, who is supervising the plays, the one-acts are the final projects this semester for the student directors, who are all in the advanced directing class.

"This double bill of one-acts is probably the most entertaining we've had in a long time," commented Russell.

Tickets will be available at the door and are $3 for adults. Wayne State College students, faculty and staff will be admitted free with identification.

NORMA CARR OF WAYNE, at right, poses beside the afghan she made to be given away this year during the annual Christmas Fun Fair sponsored by United Methodist Women. Also being given away is an oil painting by Nicki Tiedtke, at left. The afghan and painting will be awarded to the highest bidders in a silent auction to be held the day of the fair, Saturday, Dec. 3. Winners will be announced at 3 p.m.

Methodist Women announce date for Christmas Fun Fair

Plans are well underway for this year's Christmas Fun Fair sponsored by women of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

The event, which annually attracts hundreds of holiday gift buyers, will be held Saturday, Dec. 3 in the church fellowship room.

Doors will open at 10 a.m. and will remain open until 3 p.m. according to chairman Martha Brodersen, who added that the fair is the major fund raising project for United Methodist Women.

Shoppers are asked to use the north door of the church.

SERVING as co-chairman for this year's event is Nan Peterson Advisor is Norma Carr.

As in past years, homemade pie and coffee will be served throughout the day and United Methodist Women will serve a dinner of hot turkey sandwiches, pie and coffee from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Jerry Sharpe and Maxine Robins are in charge of kitchen arrangements.

Working persons who would like to eat at the fair may phone ahead to the church office so their lunch will be ready to pick up when they arrive at the church.

Mrs. Brodersen emphasized that shut-ins may also phone the church office ahead of time, preferably one day ahead of the fair, and have their meals delivered to their homes.

THIS YEAR'S fair will feature six specialty booths, including Country Store, Stitches and Crafts, Kids Corner, The Nook, Cookie Booth and Mission Table.

Chairman of the Country Store is Marj Porter, assisted by Linda Gamble.

At the Stitches and Crafts booth, chairman is Yteen Johnson, assisted by Connie Merchant and Esther Hughes.

Kaki Ley is chairman of Kids Corner, assisted by Lynette Eifson, and Evelyn Hamley is chairman of The Nook, assisted by Sue Wert and Donna Shufelt.

Mary Cherry is chairman of the Cookie booth, popular with youngsters, and co-chairman is Diana Bruggeman.

Gerelda Lipp is chairman of the Mission table.

OTHER FAIR chairmen are Pat Prather, luncheon, assisted by Connie Hall, Nancy Ahlvers, pies, assisted by Mildred Gamble, Donna Liska, decorations, assisted by Kay Marsh, and Deb Enz, publicity, assisted by Claudia Roebber.

Cashiers will be Norma Carr, Becky Wilson, Nicki Tiedtke and Sharon Corbit, and hostesses will be Jan Kohl, Esther Hughes and Vida Sutherland.

A special fair attraction this year will be a silent auction for an afghan made by Norma Carr, and an oil painting completed by Nicki Tiedtke.

Winners of the highest bids will be announced at 3 p.m.

Cook-Sok repeat wedding vows in Wayne church

Kimberly Sue Cook of Norfolk became the bride of Paul Allen Sok of Winside in a double ring ceremony Nov. 12 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. Officiating at 2 p.m. was the Rev. Jim Buschelman of Wayne.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Sharon Cook of Norfolk, and Henry and Darlene Sok of Oakland.

The newlyweds traveled to the Ozarks following their ceremony and are making their home at Winside.

The bride, a 1981 graduate of Norfolk Senior High School, is employed at Hungry's.

The bridegroom graduated from Oakland Craig High School in 1973 and from Wayne State College in 1977. He is employed at Winside Public School.

GUESTS attending the couple's ceremony were registered by Mary Sok of Omaha, and ushered into the church by Mark Cook and Vaughn Cook, both of Norfolk. Don Collison of Norfolk sang

"The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Vona Sharer of Wayne.

The couple was given in marriage by their parents. Honor attendants were Rexann Wallace of Norfolk and Jerry Hankins of Lyons.

Bridesmaids were Penny Cook of Lincoln and Jan McDonald of Stanton, and groomsmen were Randy Schmidt of Waterloo, Iowa and Mark Nelson of Davenport, Iowa.

Flower girl was Bobbie Lynn Cook of Norfolk, and ring bearer was Adam Haecke of Fremont.

A RECEPTION for 250 guests was held at 6 p.m. at the Eagles Club in Norfolk. Hosts were Stan and Margaret Hanier of Wayne, and Bill and Judy Bishop of Lyons.

Gifts were arranged by Laurie Cook and Jodi Cook of Norfolk. The wedding cake was cut and served by Deb Tech of Lincoln and Penny Nichols of Wayne. Jo Collison of Norfolk served punch.

Grace Ladies Aid elects new officers

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid elected new officers when it met Nov. 9 with 41 members and guests Helen Echtenkamp and Verna Mae Longe.

Joann Temme will serve as president of the organization. Other newly elected officers are Irene Victor, first vice president; Sally Lubberstedt, second vice president; Maria Ritze, secretary; and Elaine Vahlkamp, treasurer.

Hostesses for the November meeting were Clara Echtenkamp, Dora Echtenkamp and Lillian Berres.

THE REV. Jonathan Vogel had opening devotions and showed a filmstrip, entitled "The Story of Martin Luther."

Members sang "A Mighty Fortress is Our Lord."

Joann Temme gave the visiting report and Sally Lubberstedt gave the funeral report. New on the funeral committee are Florence Retwisch and Maria Ritze.

Millie Thomsen reported on the LWML Fall Rally which 12 women attended, and Irene Victor read a letter from Vicar Jauss. Susan Vogel will write next month's letter.

ON DISPLAY during the after noon was the Wayne centennial quilt block, made by Millie Thomsen and Susan Vogel.

World Relief Sewing met recently and tied 10 quilts, bringing in a total 26 quilts made by the group.

It was announced the birthday fund will be sent to Lutheran Family and Social Services. Shut-ins will be remembered with cookies at Christmastime.

Seated at the birthday table were Cleo Reuter, Leona Janke and Bonnardel Koch.

THE NEXT meeting will be a 12:30 p.m. carry-in dinner on Dec. 14. Hostesses will be Esther Ekberg, Rose Fredrickson, Dorothy Grone, Linda Grubb, Elsie Hailey and LaVerne Heilhold.

The offering that day will be given to Lutheran Bible Translators.

baptisms

Ashley Elizabeth Daniels

Ashley Elizabeth Daniels, daughter of Kenneth and Stephanie Daniels of Wayne, was baptized Sunday, Nov. 13 at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne.

The Rev. Daniel Munson officiated. Sponsors were Joanne and Wayne Manning of Grand Island, and Barb and Scott Nease of Omaha.

Dinner guests afterward in the home of Ashley's parents included her grandparents, Doreen and Jerry Daniels of Wayne, and Harold and Virginia McLeilan of Omaha. Also her great grandparents, Mrs. Helen Gray of Grand Island, and Roy and Adele Daniels and Mrs. Florence Meyer, all of Wayne.

Other guests were Ashley's eight-year-old brother, Jason Daniels, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Nease of Omaha. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Manning and family of Grand Island, and Flora Berg of Wayne.

Dustin Joseph Nelson

Baptismal services for Dustin Joseph Nelson were conducted during morning worship services Nov. 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Winside, with the Rev. John Halermann officiating.

Dustin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nelson of Winside. His godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Terry Nelson and Dave Mann, all of Winside.

Dinner guests in the Nelson home following the baptism included Mr. and Mrs. Werner Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Nelson and family, David Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mann and family, the Rev. and Mrs. John Halermann and family, and the Rev. and Mrs. Emil Nelson and family of Norfolk.

Mrs. Larry Larson of Grand Island and decorated the baptismal cake.

policy on weddings

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Because our readers are interested in current news, we ask that all weddings and photographs offered for publication be in our office within 10 days after the date of the ceremony. Information submitted with a picture after that deadline will not be carried as a story but will be used in a cutline underneath the picture. Wedding pictures submitted after the story appears in the paper must be in our office within three weeks after the ceremony.

engagements

Strato-Fiddes

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strato of Hoskins, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Kaye Strato of Thornton, Colo., to David William Fiddes of Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fiddes of Goshen, Conn.

Plans are underway for a May 26 wedding in Denver, Colo. A wedding reception and dance will be held June 8 in Norfolk.

Miss Strato graduated from Norfolk Senior High School in 1974 and received her BA degree in biology from Mt. Marry College in Yankton, S. D. in 1979. She is employed at Benedict Nuclear Pharmaceuticals in Golden, Colo.

Her fiance is a 1975 graduate of New Millford High School in New Millford, Conn., and a 1979 graduate of Arizona State University in Tempe, where he received his BS degree in manufacturing engineering. He is employed at the Samsonite Corp. in Denver.

bridal showers

Mrs. Douglas Jaeger

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Mrs. Douglas Jaeger of Winside was held Nov. 16 in the home of Mrs. Robert Koll Winside.

Mrs. Jaeger, the former Shelly Granfield, was married Nov. 5 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Granfield of Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jaeger of Winside.

The 18 guests attending the bridal fête came from Winside, Carroll and Hoskins. Decorations included white wedding bells, rose tapers, and a burgundy and rose floral arrangement.

Pencil games furnished entertainment, with prizes forwarded to the honoree. Mrs. Eddie Luemmann assisted with gifts.

Members of Neighboring Circle were hostesses for the shower and presented the honoree with a corsage. Serving on the committee in charge were Mrs. Robert Koll, Mrs. Wayne Denklauf, Mrs. Henry Langenberg Jr. and Loretta Voss.

Area players tabbed

State net teams picked

Several area volleyball players have been tabbed for post-season honors by the state's two largest newspapers: The Omaha World Herald and The Lincoln Journal-Star. Michelle Harder of Allen was named to the World Herald's Class C-2 First team. Harder was named to the Lincoln Journal-Star Second Team. Teammate Tami Jewell received honorable mention. The Wakefield Trojans are represented by Shelley Krusemark and Lana Erb in the Class C-2 Honorable Mention category of the Lincoln newspaper. Trojan Lana Erb received the same honor in the Omaha publication. Jean Lute of Laurel received Honorable Mention in Class C-1 in the Journal Star.

Humanities division showing film

The humanities division at Wayne State College will show a 1973 color German film, entitled "Bremer Freiheit," on Friday, Dec. 2 at 2 p.m. in room 319 of the Humanities building. It is free and open to the public.

Directed by Rainer Werner Fassbinder and starring Margit Carstensen, Wolfgang Kieling and Ulli Lommel, this relatively unfamiliar Fassbinder work is based on a famous 19th century criminal case.

Gaesche Gottfried, for the sake of love and wealth, san- cimoniously eliminates two husbands and a pack of relatives.

'Star of Christmas' showing

What was that bright light that led the Magi to the place where Jesus was born over 2,000 years ago?

Wayne State College's "Star of Christmas" program will explore both the skies of that night long ago and the Christmas skies of today, beginning Sunday, Dec. 4 at 3:30 p.m. in the Fred G. Dale Planetarium.

The show will run every Sunday, Dec. 4-18, beginning at 3:30. The planetarium is located in Carhart Science Hall on the col- lege campus.

The program is free and open to the public. Those who wish to schedule shows for special groups are asked to contact Mr. Rump at Wayne State College, Wa- ne, Neb., 68787, or telephone (402) 375-2200.

Elizabethan dinners scheduled

Tickets are now on sale for the 12th annual Elizabethan Christmas Dinners scheduled Dec. 15-18 at Wayne State College. The Wayne State Madrigal Singers are once again providing music and entertainment in this annual spectacle, with setting and costumes from Olde England.

Doors open 30 minutes before each performance begins at 7 p.m. promptly each night in the north dining room of the Student Center on the college campus.

Tickets for the event may be ordered by mail or purchased on campus in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center, room 109. Ticket prices are $10.50 each with group rates available.

Students displaying artwork

Wayne State College students Candra Guenther of Wisner and Lanch Hankins of South Sioux City will be displaying their art work in the Nordstrand Gallery in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building on the college campus.

The exhibition will run from Nov. 28 to Dec. 9 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and is open to the public free of charge.

There will be an artists' reception on Nov. 28 from 7 to 9 p.m. The showing includes textiles, pottery, drawings, paintings and prints.

PGM chapter ranks among nation's best

The Board of Trustees of Pi Gamma Mu (PGM), international social science honorary, has selected Wayne State College's Delta Chapter to appear on its national roll of merit.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the Wayne State chapter has ranked among the nation's top PGM chapters.

The name of Nebraska Delta will be included on the back cover of Social Science, a PGM publication, for one year.

THE HONOR is the second highest rating a local chapter can achieve.

Achievement of the honor is based on a chapter's activities during the previous school year.

Emphasized criteria include chapter organization and participation, local initiative in developing new activities and programs, effectiveness of the chapter on its campus in promoting scholarship, initiation of members, and financial responsibility.

BETH ALPAUGH of Plainview and Wendy Hanson of Anthon, Iowa served as last year's president and vice-president respectively.

This year's officers are Kathy Lempe, Wakefield, president, and Brian Holcomb, Coleridge, vice president.

Sociology professor Dr. Jean Karlen and history professor Doug Taber are advisers of the honorary.

PGM sponsored activities this semester include a pizza party, a book sale, and a graduate school seminar.

Initiation of new members was held Friday, Nov. 19 in the Nebraska room of the Student Center.

Faculty profile

"Students here are generally as nice as you'll find any place," JoAnn Bondhus, assistant professor of business, said in reference to Wayne State College.

Bondhus has been teaching at Wayne State for four years. She teaches business law and real estate law as well as some other business courses.

She is a 1971 graduate of Colorado State University, where she received her bachelor of arts degree in English. In 1974, she earned a jurist doctor degree from the University of Colorado. She earned her MBA degree from Colorado State University in 1979, and a master of law degree in 1983 from the University of Denver.

BONDHUS BELONGS to several business and law professional organizations, including the American Bar Association, the Midwest Business Administration Association, the American Business Law Association, the Midwest Business Law Association, and the Colorado Bar Association.

"I think Wayne State is a good institution, and our division in particular has a lot of potential for growth and development," said Bondhus.

FHA students recognized at Wayne State event

Future Homemakers of America students from six area high schools received superior ratings for their presentations during the FHA SEARCH District 5 event on Nov. 2 at Wayne State College, according to Dr. LaVera Roemhildt, associate professor of home economics.

Presentations receiving superior ratings advance to the State SEARCH (Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer Homemaking) Event.

FOUR presentations received superior ratings in the "General Chapter Division."

Bobbette Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harrington of West Point, received a superior rating for her solo, "Promoting Future Homemakers of America" display.

Theresa Pallas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pallas, will represent Emerson Hubbard High School at the State Event for her superior individual presentation in "Creed Speaking and Interpretation."

The "Informative Speech" superior rating was achieved by a Wisner Pilger High School student, Beckie Rathke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvern Rathke.

The team presentation from West Point High School on "Parliamentary Procedure" received the top rating.

Team members were Bobbette Harrington, who also received a superior in the display category.

Joyce Denton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Denton; Kim Loggren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Loggren; Marcie Boling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boling; and Tami Slagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Slagle.

THREE TEAM presentations advanced to the State Event in the "National Projects" division.

Pender High School students earned a superior rating for their presentation on "Healthy Babies/Families and Futures."

Members of the team, with parents' names in parenthesis, were Kris Munderloh (Dennis), Shari Burmester (Warren), Christy Johnson (Dennis), and Sally McQuistin (Gale).

A junior high and a senior high group will move on to the State Event for their superior presentations in the "Student Body."

Representing Stanton in the senior high division are Tracy Hansen (Howard), and Cindy Hitz (Rod).

Wakefield representatives in the junior high division are Brenda Metter (Harold), and Lynn Anderson (Larry).

ALL SIX categories in the "Consumer Homemaking" division will be represented by District 5 students at the State Event.

Cindy Frerichs (Milan), Teresa Brazda (Robert Jr.), and Anne Hunter (Lowell) will represent Wisner Pilger for the Consumer Education/Home Management event.

Sarah Clatanoff (Bernard) will represent Wisner Pilger for the Food and Nutrition event.

The top rating from the Family Living/Parent Education presentations was earned by Pender team members, including Chelle Ostrand (Lauren), Teresa Riemer (Ronald), Pam Dahlman (Vern), and Jill Clausen (Jerry).

A JUNIOR high and a senior high group will move on to the State Event for their superior presentations in "Child Development, Care and Guidance."

Representing Wisner Pilger in the junior high division are Holly Aiters (Herb Jr.) and Cindy Marx (Clifford).

Joyce Denton (Roger) will represent the senior high division in this category for West Point.

THE SUPERIOR rating for clothing and textiles presentations in the consumer-homemaking category was achieved by a Pender High School student, Kris Munderloh. Kris also was a member of the "Healthy Babies/Families and Futures" team which received a superior rating.

A team of students from Emerson Hubbard received the superior rating for the Housing/Home Furnishings/Equipment presentations.

Team members were Krist Kubik (Donald), Kay Messerschmidt (Raymond), Kathy Pallas (Marvin), and Kris Steinman (Gene).

Potential of sweet sorghum as alcohol fuel studied

About 50 years ago, sweet sorghum was a popular crop for molasses production because of its high sugar content. It's because of that high sugar content that University of Nebraska researchers are once again interested in the possibilities of growing sweet sorghum a crop not now commonly grown. Their purpose is not to revive the crop for molasses production, but rather to utilize the crop for alcohol fuel production.

ON THAT POINT, they have already been successful, said Bradley Rein, NU research project engineer.

The NU scientists are in their second year of research that grew out of a demonstration project, according to Rein. The research, supported by the U.S. Department of Energy, is being conducted at the Energy Farm site at the NU Field Laboratory near Mead.

One reason sweet sorghum was chosen for the research is because it has been determined to have a higher potential yield of ethanol per unit land area than most crops that can be grown in the Midwest," Rein said.

In addition, sweet sorghum is a low energy crop which keeps production costs down, Rein added.

"THE RESEARCH is limited because of the short harvest season," Rein said. Both full-scale field studies and laboratory studies can be conducted only during the harvest season which runs from about the end of August to the end of October.

In 1981, the first year of the research project, the NU scientists succeeded in distilling alcohol from fermented sweet sorghum juice. And, according to Energy Project Coordinator Dennis Schulte, it was the first known time that alcohol had been produced from sweet sorghum for use as fuel in the United States.

The alcohol was used primarily to fuel irrigation engines at the farm, one of eight similar demonstration projects nationwide designed to be energy-independent.

Research this year, according to Rein, was conducted to determine the effects of cooking on sweet sorghum juice fermentation.

"IT HAS GENERALLY been assumed that cooking sugar feedstocks is not required for alcohol production," Rein said. "However, freshly expressed sweet sorghum juice contains many microorganisms that can either inhibit conversion of fermentable sugar to alcohol by yeasts, or directly utilize the sugars themselves to produce undesirable end products such as organic acids."

According to Rein, the most common method of controlling these organisms before ethanol production is by heating.

In the laboratory studies, the NU researchers found that cooking the sweet sorghum juice at temperatures of 60 F to 85 F showed conversion efficiencies consistently greater than 70 percent while most of the no cook treatments had conversion efficiencies of less than 40 percent.

The overall conversion efficiencies indicating close attention must be paid to microbial conditions," Rein said.

Rein also noted that not cooking sweet sorghum could still be possible under the right conditions. "However, a substantial amount of research is still needed before production of ethanol from sweet sorghum can be accomplished consistently without cooking."

ONE PHASE of this research is planned for next year, Rein said. "This coming year we plan to start fermentation in the field by inoculating the juice with yeast immediately after pressing."

The researcher will press the juice, using a forage harvester with a modified roller mill designed by Leonard Bashford, NU associate professor of agricultural engineering. The harvester presses the juice from the stalks and puts the juice in a tank behind the press.

Even though the sweet sorghum will be inoculated with yeast directly in the field, "we might have to have some heating anyway," Rein said.

The major drawback for growing sweet sorghum for alcohol fuel production, according to Rein, is the short growing season. "Sweet sorghum is used extensively in the Brazil for multiple cropping. This is not true for Nebraska," Rein said.

"The cost is $3 to $4 per gallon right now, but if the plant could be utilized a larger portion of the year, the cost would go down. This is the major drawback with sugar crops in general."

Refinancing good or bad?

Refinancing may bail a farm operation out of a financial pinch, but it also may be only a stay of execution, according to Ron Hanson, University of Nebraska agricultural economist.

Sometimes restructuring farm debt can relieve stress on cash flow. If a business is healthy enough to continue long-term operation under that new-found relief, refinancing is a wise move, he said. However, if the business itself is weak, then the best refinancing offers is a slight plateau on a downhill slide, he explained.

HANSON SAID refinancing normally involves moving short- and intermediate term debt over to a long-term mortgage. Its key benefit is that it spreads debt retirement out over a longer period, decreasing annual debt-service payments.

The relief comes not only from lower principal payments, but also from lower interest rates normally carried by long-term debt, he explained. The refinanced debt is most often secured by real property.

The cost of the cash flow improvement comes later with higher total interest paid over a longer loan life, he added.

HANSON OUTLINED four conditions necessary to make refinancing work.

- Farm operators must be able to live within their cash flow budget projections. If refinancing drops annual debt to a level that cash flow can handle, it's likely a good business move. But, if the cash flow isn't adequate to relieve the stress, the move at best has bought some short-term relief.
- Present debt levels are reduced or repaid from improved farm earnings. Cash freed through refinancing should be capable of producing additional income or improving productivity.
- Increases in farm size are kept within the limits of the farm's debt servicing capacity. Expansion beyond cash flow capacity brings only short-lived relief.
- The farm business must be capable of repaying all expenses and debts coming due during the year.

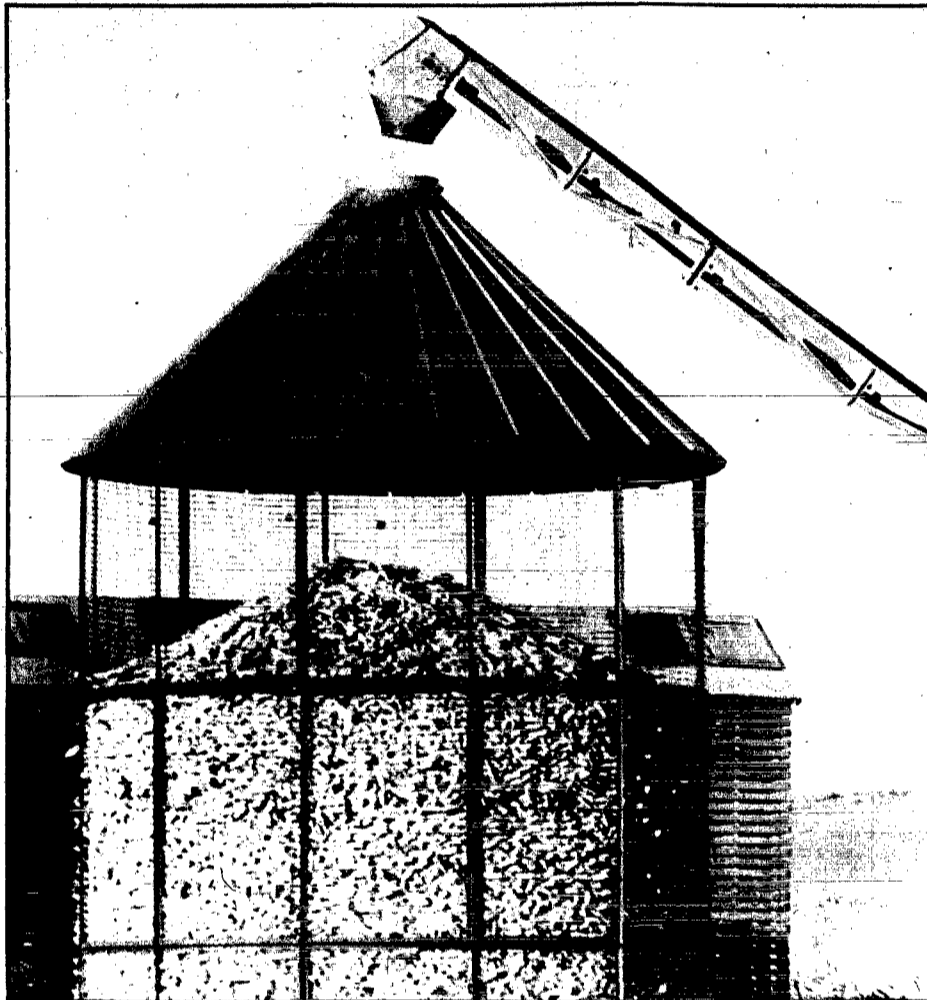

IF THE FARM can meet the four conditions, then it has earned a "pardon" through debt restructuring. If cash flow is inadequate, then the best fate earned is a "stay of execution."

The latter situation has grown more common, Hanson said. In the past, many farmers found they could easily refinance on the strength of inflated property values. But, he said, the improvement in productivity and cash flow could still be lacking.

Long-term lenders — insurance companies, Federal Land Banks, Farmers Home Administration and others — were for years considered "security lenders." Hanson said. If a farmer had enough real property for collateral, they'd make the loan.

Today, he said, they too are becoming "cash flow" lenders. They want not only adequate security, but also a realistic cash flow projection showing the debt can be repaid schedule.

"Base payment on returns, not appreciation," he said, because what worked in the 1970's may not work during the '80's. "The only way you can use appreciation to pay debt is to sell," he concluded.

Letter from Germany International experience is nearing its completion

By Anita Sandahl

Over the past six months, I've frequently been asked to explain the IFYE program. For starters, it's the International 4-H Youth Exchange. This is, "an educational program developed to promote world understanding."

I could go on to explain how every year four American youth and four Germans spend six months in each others' homeland. We have this same exchange with over thirty countries throughout the world.

Or, I could mention the multitude of things I've learned about agriculture and home-making by staying with seven farm families. Working side by side with people of another culture, doing a wide variety of activities, is a great way to, "learn by experience." Still, being an IFYE is more than a work exchange.

OR, I COULD consider the German language I've learned and how much I've learned about another culture. Visiting several of their schools has taught me a lot. Still, being an IFYE is more than an educational exchange.

Or, I can stop to remember the beautiful castles, rivers, museums, mountains, and other scenery I've had the opportunity to see as an IFYE here in Germany. Still, being an IFYE is more than a sight-seeing tour.

For me, being an IFYE is people. I've learned to be much more accepting. Maybe other people do things differently, but that doesn't necessarily imply that it's better, or worse, than our way.

Having a new family every three weeks teaches one to live one day at a time. Yet, it's amazing how in that short time you become part of the family. When it comes time to move on you realize you've left part of yourself behind, but you've also gained another family.

LIVING IN Germany has made me much more aware of the world political situation. Hearing planes overhead and seeing freedom demonstrations makes me realize how real the threat of war is. It's hard to explain the fears people have when they feel their homeland is being set up as the battlefield for yet another potential war, when they still have scars from the last.

I don't claim to be an expert on world affairs, but I do see the importance of world peace even more clearly now. Having brothers and sisters in another land helps one to see how love really is an international language. That's the message we want to spread.

People are people throughout the world. The IFYE program helps us to understand the differences and similarities. We see that fighting isn't the answer.

Through my IFYE experience, I've developed a home in Germany. I've also gained a greater appreciation for what I have at home in America.

OBVIOUSLY, I've learned a lot through this experience. I'll be returning home in December and will be glad to share my experience with you. That's another part of being an IFYE — it seems we never get tired of talking about it!

Danke (Thank you) for letting me share this experience with you through these news letters. So I will say, "Auf Wiedersehen" from Germany until we meet again.

This experience is made possible by the National 4-H Council in support of the 4-H program of the Cooperative Extension Service. Friends of 4-H in Nebraska, the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs and the UNL Collegiate 4-H Organization. To them I say Danke many many times.

the farmer's wife by pat meierhenry

In the fall, all the mice in the area try to move in. Since the black box with high frequency sounds is completely worthless, I had to use the traps again. And I've come a long way: I can even empty the trap myself.

Then, the flies begin. In Oct., they are slow and stuporous and they cling everywhere. I have to keep a swatter in one hand at all times.

When they finally disappear, the boxelder bugs start. Since they especially like sunny days, they haven't been as bad as usual. The Big Farmer's uncle says there will be precipitation 90 days after fog — I hate to see what February is going to bring.

WHEN THE INSECTS subside, I wash windows and do a little house cleaning. I must have the world's largest collection of brown grocery bags, twist ties, and bread wrappers.

I don't save string, however. But the Big Farmer saves baler twine. One friend told me she gets rid of stuff like this by saying, "If the Russians were coming, would I need this?"

That doesn't work for me; I say if the Russians were here, we wouldn't be able to buy anything!

Pheasant hunters have had success; and we hear stories of many deer being brought home. We appreciate deer sausage and dried deer, but I'll never understand how anyone can shoot one.

OUR CANADIAN friends came to see us Sunday. This guy once shared an apartment with the Big Farmer when both were in graduate school. They also had a roommate from the Philippines, who ate Tabasco on everything, and one from Denmark. It was a great education in international relations.

We love the way the guy from Winnipeg says "Ay?" and "about?" for "about." The inflation rate there is much higher than in the States.

Since many communities already have Christmas decorations up, and merchants have been pushing the season, it's important to stop and remember Thanksgiving Day. I've had a clipping from Ann Landers on my refrigerator.

IT'S A PRAYER by the Senate Chaplain, and it bears repeating: "Father, God, how do we thank Thee as we ought to? Thy goodness to us?"

"We slept in comfortable beds last night between clean sheets. Millions of people in our cities and in other parts of the world slept on the streets."

"We awakened to a good breakfast this morning, with promise of more than enough to eat for lunch and dinner. Millions had no breakfast this morning, nor yesterday, nor the day before, and they have no prospect of lunch or dinner in the foreseeable future."

"We live in comfortable homes while millions are homeless in refugee camps or worse."

"Dear God, forgive us for complaining, for never thanking Thee, for behaving as though we deserve these benefits in contrast to those who are without."

"Don't let us have to lose these blessings to appreciate them. We pray in the name of Him whose heart was with the hungry, the homeless, the naked and the oppressed. Amen." And Amen.

Rural symposium is planned

Man's role and responsibility in altering the genetic structure in plants and animals will be the theme of Mount Marty College's (MMC) third annual Rural Symposium Tuesday, Dec. 6. The free day long agricultural forum entitled "Genetic Engineering Impact on Rural Life: Its Effects on Crop Production and Animals" will be conducted in MMC's Roncalli Center. This year's program will open with registration at 8:30 a.m. followed by the morning session starting at 9 a.m. The afternoon session will start at 1:15 p.m.

Keynote speaker for this year's Rural Symposium will be Jeremy Rifkin, nationally known author and socio-economist from Takoma Park, Md. Rifkin presented the first briefing on genetic engineering to the leaders of the U.S. House of Representatives and has written two books, "Algeny" and "Who Should Play God?" which address the moral question of genetic engineering.

Pre-registration for this year's program should be made before Monday, (Nov. 28) by contacting MMC's Office of Continuing Education at (605) 688-1584. The day's agricultural program is free to the public but a small lunch and refreshment fee will be charged.

Bowers' steer fares well

Brian Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bowers of Winside, entered his 1,189 pound steer, "Amos," in the American Royal in Kansas City.

Amos and Brian were in the final running in the top weight champions for the overall grand champion 4-H steer. The three eighths Chianina, five eighths Angus finished in the top eight out of the 147 steers shown in the 4-H division.

Brian had shown Amos at one other show, the Wayne County Fair, in August where Amos stood first in his class. Amos was purchased from Stardom Enterprises of Hoskins last December.

As one of the weight champion exhibitors, Brian participated in the parade of 4-H and FFA champions, Saturday night. At the Sunday night sale Amos sold for $190 a pound.

This was Brian's first time for American Royal exhibition. He has exhibited at the Nebraska State Fair, three years.

Brian is a 1983 graduate of Winside High School, is currently assisting with his family farm operation before making a decision about college.

Windbreaks are cheap investment

What does it cost to plant a 400 foot long, three row windbreak — $28, $128 or $258? Amazingly, the cost of seedlings to plant a three row, 400 foot windbreak is only $28. That's the cost of 100 seedlings through the Clarke-McNary Tree Distribution Program.

Landowners can select from 24 species, including 6 coniferous trees, (red cedar, rocky mountain juniper, ponderosa pine, Austrian pine, Scotch pine and jack pine), 10 deciduous trees (Siberian elm, hackberry, cottonwood, silver maple, black walnut, green ash, Russian olive, bur oak and red oak) and 8 shrubs (colonaster, lilac, honeysuckle, chokecherry, nanking cherry, American plum, autumn olive and skunkbush sumac).

What could a landowner possible buy for $28 that would be more valuable than a windbreak? That's less money than is needed to take the family out for one evening at a restaurant, plus the benefits a windbreak buys the family for many years.

Trees and shrub seedlings for conservation purposes are available from the Wayne County Extension Service or Soil Conservation Service.

There is a shortage of some species this year, so place your orders now.

Don C. Spitzer, Wayne county extension agent

Transporting plants in the cold

It's the season for holiday plants. It's also the season for frozen holiday plants. When buying a plant, the challenge is to get it from the store to your home without getting nipped.

Most holiday gift plants and houseplants are natives of the tropics and can't stand cold weather.

Exposure to cold air can cause drooping and injured leaves to plants that aren't accustomed to cool temperatures, so it usually isn't good enough to grab the plant and run for the car. Those few minutes are all it takes for plant injury.

To get your plant to its destination safely, move quickly. First pre-warm the car if it's cold. This single most important precaution is to fully cover the plant before transporting. Store personnel usually will help.

Here's how to cover the plant. Plastic generally works best. After enclosing the plant in the bag, blow warm air and secure the top with a twist tie or rubber band. This creates a bubble of warm air around the plant and will insulate the plant during its ride home.

this and that

Paper sacks are not as effective, although they'll do in a pinch. Set the plant inside one sack, then invert another sack and cover the top opening.

On the journey home let the plant set in the passenger area. Never put a plant in an unheated trunk. At home, allow the plant to remain under its covering for a few minutes so it becomes adjusted to room temperatures, then remove the covering. Keep the plant away from drafts and heat sources. With all this attention your plant should be as happy as possible.

Durable house plants

Although all house plants grow best with good care, some will stand abuse more than others. Some of the most durable house plants are smoke plant, heart leaf philodendron, devil's ivy, zebra plant, peperomia, cast iron plant, dwarf palm, Chinese evergreen and spider plant.

Ag society honors locals

Wayne County extension agent, Don Spitzer, received an award and a student from the Wayne area, Lon Swanson, was initiated into Gamma Sigma Delta agricultural honorary at its annual awards and initiation banquet at the Nebraska East Union Sunday.

Spitzer was presented the Extension Award of Merit for his ability to identify significant needs for improvement, creating interest among the public, and supplying information on how to improve the situation.

He worked with a group of Wayne County corn producers in keeping records on practices and costs, with a goal of reducing the number of field tillage operations.

He conducted a major thrust on beef cattle production testing and shifted emphasis on demonstration farms to irrigation scheduling. His work with the Wayne County ASCS Office in selling up a special payment to assist irrigators in purchasing irrigation scheduling equipment has been adopted by other county ASCS offices.

Lon Swanson of Wayne was one of 45 undergraduate students to be initiated into Gamma Sigma Delta based on high scholastic attainment.

SCHOOL BOARD
The Wakefield Board of Education met Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. Lyle Trullinger and John Torczon met with the board to discuss junior high football equipment needs for the 1984-85 school year. During the meeting the board approved the needs as a major athletic purchase for the next year.

Also discussed was the use of the school faculty on Sunday afternoons by students and their supervisors. The board will study the matter further.

The board approved an elementary basketball program on Saturday mornings for Miss Schroeder and Mr. Kovar. The program will commence after Christmas vacation.

Rules were set for the adult recreation program which will run from Nov. 15 to March 14.

Mr. Hartman discussed the results of the SRA class scores and indicated that the Wakefield students scored from 11 to 24 points above the national norm.

It was announced that Wakefield will host the Class C-1 boys and girls district basketball tournament on Feb. 20, 21 and 23.

The need for a motor for a bus was discussed and the board approved the purchase of a complete rebuilt motor from Lyle Ekberg. Mr. Hartman also reported that Gaylen Rasmussen has been hired to drive the evening south route.

Mike Leonard has requested for a land transfer into the Wakefield school district.

LEGION AUXILIARY
The American Legion Auxiliary met Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall. Plans were made for a Christmas party and supper to be held at the Legion Hall on Saturday, Dec. 3 at 6:30 p.m. The American Legion will be guests.

Lois Hillman, president, presided. She announced that a leadership school was to be held in South Sioux City at the Legion Hall on Nov. 19.

County government day was to be held in Ponca Nov. 22 at the courthouse.

Tickets for the Dixon County Banquet are on sale and Lois will be available for tickets until 3 p.m. Friday.

The Auxiliary is conducting a fund raising project and a drawing will be held New Year's Eve at the Legion Hall. Members of the auxiliary have tickets.

Edith Hanson, Kathy Looft and Sharon Salmon served lunch.

BOOK WEEK
"Get into Books" is the 1983 theme of Children's Book Week observed last week. Students and teachers at Wakefield Elementary School participated.

The entire elementary school was quiet for 15 minutes each morning while SQUIRT time was observed. SQUIRT was super, quiet, uninterrupted individual reading time.

Students covered the walls outside each room with paper footprints which told the title and author of books which they had read during the week.

Mrs. Jackie Ditman, art teacher, helped the students illustrate the completed books in a variety of ways including placemats to posters, to mobiles, and also the biggest project of all, quilt blocks. The youngsters put designs on the blocks which were then all put together. Later the students will be able to take home the block they had made.

FHA AWARDS
Brenda Meier and Lynn Anderson of Wakefield, representatives in the junior high division, received a superior rating at a Future Homemakers of America Search District V event held in Wayne Nov. 2.

Presentations receiving superior ratings advance to the state SEARCH (Student Events for Achievement and Recognition in Consumer Homemaking) event.

The object of the SEARCH program is to assist students in developing personal leadership, citizenship and occupational knowledge and skills for personal, family and community living through vocational home economics education.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meier and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Anderson.

NEW BOOKS
Graves Public Library has received several new books, ac-ording to librarian Mrs. Pat Berry. Included in the list are "The Passionate Rebel" by Frank Slaughter, "The Freshman" by Velda Johnston, "My Sweet Audrina" by V.C. Andrews, "Doldeneve" by Malcolm MacDonald, "Free Fall in Crimson" by John D. MacDonald, "Grave Mistake," "The Ravensley Touch" and "An Arrangement for Life."

SEASON TICKETS
Season tickets for winter Wakefield Community School sports are now available at the high school office. Season tickets for each sport may purchased in any combination.

Individual season ticket prices for adults are boys basketball, $12 and girls basketball, $10.

Student tickets for those outside the school district are boys basketball, $6 and girls basketball, $5. Students who are attending a rural school and who will be attending Wakefield 60R may buy a student ticket.

Season tickets are good only for regularly scheduled games. This does not include conference and district tournaments.

Von Minden will visit area towns

State Senator Merle Von Minden is planning to meet with his constituents in a series of meetings throughout his legislative district during the week of Nov. 28 through Dec. 1. Wayne, Hoskins and Wakefield are among the communities in which the senator has scheduled meetings. He plans to be at Daylight Donuts in Wayne from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 29. He will be at the fire hall in Hoskins from 1 to 2 p.m. that day. Von Minden's appearance in Wakefield is scheduled from 1 to 2 p.m. at the city council chambers on Thursday, Dec. 1. From 8:30 to 9:30 that morning, the senator will be at Diane's Cafe in Emerson. On Monday, Nov. 28, the senator will be at the Village Cafe in Newcastle from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and at the Dixon County Courthouse in Ponca from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. Von Minden will be at Knight's Stop in Homer from 9 to 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 30 and at the South Sioux City council chambers from 1 to 2 p.m. that day. Von Minden said he encourages everyone to stop in and visit with him about concerns and upcoming activities in the Legislature. The senator will be accompanied by his legislative aide, Leland Miner.

Bad Winter Ahead? Here's Safe Advice

Sudden winter storms can be a major cause of broken power lines. If you encounter a broken line this winter, here are good rules to follow: (1) Report the location to your power supplier immediately. (2) Never touch the broken wire or anything that is in contact with it. (3) Make sure other people and livestock stay away. Above all, don't take chances. Assuming that a broken power line is "dead" can be a fatal mistake.

A Page Out Of The Past

Wayne On Parade

The second mid-week holiday, New Year's, will be observed in Wayne much as was Christmas minus the gifts and Santa Claus. In other words, it will be a day of rest and visiting with relatives and friends with the New Year's football classic the number one radio treat of the day due to the fact that Nebraska's own Cornhuskers will be battling in the Rose Bowl. It is one of the regular closing days of the year for Wayne stores. Speaking of the Rose Bowl fray, Wayne will be well represented in the cheering section by the Brown-Stirts-Kirkman trio and others, who will wager will make up in noise what they lack in numbers.

Rural roads have been almost uniformly bad the past few weeks with most farmers taking advantage of the hours on which they were frozen solidly enough to permit travel. While the warm days the last of the week subtracted somewhat from the mud, it is doubtful that the roads will be at their best until spring unless the winter reverses itself on the weather proposition soon.

Wayne men, who registered expecting to start their military training soon, seem destined for a long wait. Wayne county is not among those in Nebraska which have been designated to supply men under the call for early January. This county still has some who have volunteered to answer the next call before it will be necessary to select from the group drawn by lottery who have not volunteered. It is expected that there will be another call for men to report later in January, which may include this county.

Interesting trends in the agricultural picture in Wayne county are revealed by the statistics prepared by the state statistician and published in another column on this page. Given ample moisture the next few years and the picture will assume brighter colors.

New Year's Day calls for both reviews of the past year's progress and predictions of the future holds. If we include the entire world in our annual inspection, the view is sad indeed regardless of whether we look forward or backward. Confined to Wayne county, the picture is bright. The past year has been one of the most prosperous since the first of the drought invasion and prospects for the future are equally optimistic. However, the world picture may either ease or multiply both this year's past and future gains so that those who venture to predict what 1944 will hold for any section of the globe are crawling out upon a very slim and feeble limb. So many and so varied will be the predictions, however, that doubtless one or more will be correct and hailed temporarily as a prophet of ability while scores equally intelligent but less fortunate will find their pictures greatly distorted by the facts.

Excellent prizes were awarded the winners in the Christmas home lighting contest this year. They were awarded by the winners. The many other residents who decorated their homes like many of the winners slightly to add to the beauty of Wayne during the Yuletide season are due a vote of thanks from the community. The committee in charge received excellent co-operation which its members appreciate.

Wayne may soon have traffic lights on the principal corners of the business district. It is reported. However, if they are installed they will be used only when there is sufficient traffic to warrant their use, which we hope will be often even though like all motorists we respect but do not particularly enjoy observing their commands. Any device which would make walking and driving in Wayne's business district a little less hazardous should be welcomed by most pedestrians and motorists who are a bit weary of dodging.

No Mail Deliveries On Wednesday

The local postoffice employees will have an all day holiday Wednesday, New Year's Day, and no deliveries will be made, according to J. M. Strahan, postmaster. However, persons having boxes may obtain their mail as usual.

Don McIntire returned to Wayne Friday evening after spending the Christmas holidays at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. Clark in Wellington, Kan.

Cows, Hogs And Sheep In County Gain

But Decline In All Cattle, Horses Recorded

Contrary to the belief of many, Wayne county farmers have more milk cows, hogs and sheep on their farms this year than six years ago, according to figures compiled by Nebraska's state statisticians and received recently by Chester Walters, extension agent.

On the other hand, a sharp decrease is shown in the total number of horses and mules on county farms and a slight decline in the all cattle total. However, the all cattle total for this year is only an even thousand under the number in 1939 and considerably larger than in 1937 and 1938.

The following figures tell the livestock story of Wayne county during the past six years:

Horses, mules	1895	1896
Milk Cows	6082	7123
All Cattle	3777	4580
Hogs	40116	53090
Sheep	1227	4405
	1939	1940
Horses, mules	6720	6380
Milk Cows	8970	8270
All Cattle	24560	28480
Hogs	34910	42440
Sheep	3310	2900

Wayne Fire Loss Is $305.

Damage Is Small As 14 Alarms Answered

Good luck in fire prevention measures practiced by residents of Wayne, plus efficiency of Wayne's volunteer fire department, are responsible for an exceedingly small property loss caused by Wayne's 1940 fires. The largest loss of the year was caused by fire in the H. W. Barrett residence on Jan. 18.

An average of 22 fires answered during the year. Nine of these fires were in the City of Wayne and five were in the county.

The complete record of calls answered follows: Dwellings, five; autos, three; mercantile buildings, two; straw piles, one; grain fields, one; grain bins, two.

Wayne's fire department has up-to-date equipment. However, according to Fire Chief Martin Ringer, a second pumper is needed for county work.

Fitch, Corzine Barber Shops Merge

The Fitch Barber Shop, which occupied a portion of the building which has been leased by Carl Nitz, has merged with the Basement Barber Shop, located under the First National Bank building. The merger was effective Monday and Arlen Fitch and Kermit Corzine will operate the shop as a partnership in the future.

The merger cleared the way for the remodeling of the building adjoining the Nuss store on the north prior to the expansion program planned by J. C. Nuss. Work will be started soon.

Rainfall Here This Year Is Greatest Since 1929

Wayne received between 23.67 and 25.12 inches of moisture during the past year, a check of the two standard rain gauges in the business district revealed Monday. The gauge at the State National bank, which does not include the moisture content of the snow, recorded a total of 23.67 inches and the one at the Carhart Lumber company, which included a part of the snow's moisture but not all of it due to the fact that in heavy snows, it piles up on the top of the gauge and falls off before melting, recorded 25.12 inches.

At any rate even the smaller figure, which does not include the snow, shows that Wayne has made a valuable contribution to the crop, is the largest total rainfall recorded here since 1929, when the figure was 24.69 inches. To reach a total larger than that recorded by the Carhart gauge, it is necessary to turn back the calendar 17 years to 1923 when the record rainfall of 30.16 inches was recorded.

Win Prizes In Lighting

First prize, choice of the special prizes offered by the City of Wayne in the Christmas lighting contest, was awarded to George Berres, Jr., by the secret committee of judges. Many homes were beautifully decorated so that selection of the prize winners was a difficult task, in fact two tied for fourth and fifth prizes.

Second prize went to William Beckenhauer and third prize was won by W. C. Swanson. All three of the first prize winners attended the nativity theme.

Mrs. A. B. Davin and Walden Polky tied for the fourth and fifth award and sixth place went to Mrs. C. C. Peterson. A radio, two toasters, a coffee maker, bed lamp and floor lamp were awarded the winner with those placing first being allowed to select their prize in the order of their award.

Many other homes in the city were also beautifully decorated for the Christmas season and scores of motorists toured the residential district to view the homes.

Between 150 And 175 Aliens Registered Here

C. E. Pickett, B. W. Wright and J. J. Beck formed the Kiwanis committee which was in charge of the successful contest, which has been held annually for several years and is attracting increasing interest each year. Unfavorable weather forced many to delay plans for decorating their homes and led some to abandon them.

Martin Humberger entered a local hospital Friday as a medical patient.

Between 150 And 175 Aliens Registered Here

Between 150 and 175 aliens were registered at the Wayne postoffice during the nationwide count which ended last Thursday, according to Postmaster J. H. Strahan. Mr. Strahan said that an exact count was not kept here.

A large percentage of those registering here are aliens who do not reside in Wayne county. Many are from neighboring counties, who found it more convenient to sign up here. One of the number reside in Montana.

Business To Halt On New Year's

Good Christmas. Business Reported By Most Local Firms

Business will halt again in Wayne tomorrow, New Year's Day, another of the regular all-day closing dates on the merchant's calendar. The day will be observed by most families here much as was Christmas by visiting or entertaining relatives and close friends.

The old year will be ushered out and the infant 1941 welcomed at a dance at the Municipal Auditorium on New Year's eve, sponsored by the local post of the American Legion. A midnight show at the Gay is also a special feature. Principal radio attraction New Year's Day will be the broadcast of the Rose Bowl game late in the afternoon. It will be carried on national hookups and by virtually all Nebraska stations.

Schools Close

Wayne City schools, which closed their Christmas holiday by reopening Monday, will close for the day Wednesday. The Wayne Prep and the college continue their holiday until Jan. 6, when both resume regular sessions.

Wayne residents observed Christmas Day in traditional fashion with business taking a holiday and most residents either entertaining relatives and close friends or driving elsewhere for the holiday.

Skies were cloudy much of the day and a heavy fog in the evening made driving hazardous. However, a check of local officials and hospitals failed to reveal any serious accidents in the vicinity despite a heavy holiday toll throughout the county.

Church Services

Special services were held at several churches on Tuesday and Wednesday but there was no special community observance Christmas Day. An elaborate and successful program was concluded on the Saturday prior to Christmas when Santa Claus made his last visit to Wayne.

Holiday business met expectations in Wayne in most cases despite the fact that many rural roads were virtually impassable much of the season due to the heavy snow and alternate periods of freezing and thawing. An increase in the purchase of practical gifts was reported by some firms while others reported the usual brisk demand for toys.

East Mississ Bash

Despite the early date on which the shopping season was launched this year, there was the usual last minute rush due in part, of course, to the condition of the roads which caused some to postpone their shopping until the last day or two.

Sherry's Buy Johnson Produce Station In Wayne

Dan and Orville Sherry, who recently purchased a service station on Highway 16, just south of Wayne, bought the Johnson Brothers produce station here last week and will continue to operate it at its present location.

Orville Sherry, who is experienced in the produce business and is well known throughout this area, is in charge of the produce business while Dan Sherry is conducting the oil business.

Kenneth and Wallace Johnson and their families left Thursday for Alhambra, Cal., where they will locate.

Buffalo Banquet To Be Held At Wakefield

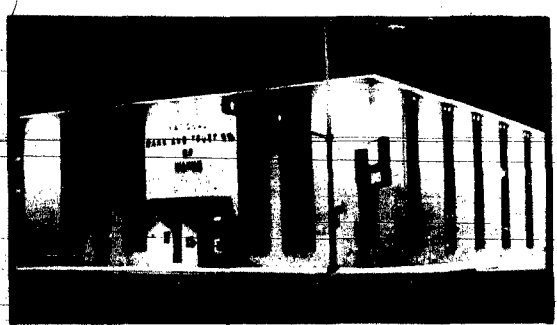

The Lions club of Wakefield is making plans for early January for a Wildlife Rally and Buffalo banquet, according to Dr. Evers and Dr. Kilian of Wakefield.

This is to be a five county affair and sportsmen in every town of northeast Nebraska are invited to have an auto load present to discuss some pertinent facts about wildlife.

There will be talk and movies furnished by the Nebraska Fish and Game commission.
